THE CHELSEA SCHOOLS

WILL OPEN SEPTEMBER 4.

A Full Corps of Teachers Has Been Engaged—The School Buildings Are Being Repainted.

The Chelsea board of education has secured a full corps of teachers and put a force of painters at work redecorating the buildings.

The schools will open for the year on Tuesday, September 4th. There are several new instructors this year who come highly recommended.

The following is a list of the teachers: Superintendent—E. E. Gallup. Preceptress—Edith E. Shaw. Science—Florence Hagel. English—Mary L. Hudnutt. History and 8th Grade—Lou L. Wilson. Seventh Grade—Elizabeth Depew. Sixth Grade—Miss Theo J. Wilson. Fifth Grade—Maude E. Haines. Fourth Grade—Mrs. Florence Howlett. Third Grade—Helen Eder. Second Grade—Agnes Ross. First Grade—Mabel Lowbury. Music and Drawing—Mrs. Mary Depew.

RURAL MAIL CARRIERS.

Held Meeting in Ann Arbor, Sunday—Delegates to the State Convention Made Reports.

The Washtenaw Rural Mail Carriers association held a meeting in Maccabee hall, Ann Arbor, Sunday, with between thirty and forty carriers in attendance. A number of the Ann Arbor postoffice force were also in attendance.

The delegates to the recent state convention of carriers reported on that convention and its work.

Talks for the good of the order were made by members. Carriers Kraft and Clark, of Ann Arbor, were among the speakers. A musical program was carried out under the direction of Carrier A. W. Sherwood, of Ypsilanti. Postmaster Prettyman and Superintendent of Carriers G. R. Kelly, of Ann Arbor, were called on for speeches and responded happily.

After the exercises at the hall were concluded, all adjourned to Woodward Brothers' restaurant, where a banquet was served.

Ed. Weiss, rural carrier No. 2 from the Chelsea postoffice, was present and made his report as one of the delegates to the recent state convention held in Battle Creek.

Successful Institute.

The institute that has been held at Ypsilanti for the last few weeks for the benefit of the country teachers of Washtenaw and surrounding counties was closed last Friday. The authorities are greatly pleased with the results of the institute, and the teachers are certainly improved by the training. They had all the benefits of the rest of the Normal students, including the excellent course of special lectures that were given during the summer.

On August 9, 10 and 11 the county examinations for teachers will be held. The second and third grade certificates will be granted to those passing the examinations the first two days, and the first grade certificates given to those taking the examination the last day.

It is expected that a large number of would-be teachers will take the examinations, as the law now requires that they take work in the summer Normal, and this is the first chance they will have to take the examinations after completing their work.

Fraud Order.

A fraud order has been issued by the P. O. Department against the Vineless Potato Company of Pullman, Ill., organized by a man named Darst. It appears that Darst advertised in a farm paper to sell for $25.00 a license to grow his vineless potatoes, and for $100.00 he would sell a "hull darn country." He claimed that a bin 10x5x100 feet would produce from 300 to 350 bushels of potatoes in 60 days. The Department experts say a vineless potato can be produced from a seed potato, but it fed only on the seed potato and would develop only while the supply of starch in the seed lasted. Hence it was small and commercially worthless. The fraud order prevents Darst from receiving or sending any mail, and will save many a farmer from being victimized.

School Children.

Truant Officer Seymour has been busy the past two months comparing the ages of the school children of Washtenaw county and preparing the statistics to be used in apportioning the primary school money. This is a lot of work and the job is nowhere near completed.

The figures of the last five years are compared with those turned in this year and it is surprising how many mistakes are made in the ages of the children. Formerly the parents of the children attempted to make their children as old as possible in order to evade the compulsory school law.

Now matters are different. The more children a district has of the school age the more money will it get from the state department. This year it is wonderful how the school children have stopped growing old. By checking up the past records a great many of these mistakes are eliminated.

PIONEER RESIDENT.

Mrs. Harriet Van Orden Had Been a Resident of Chelsea for Fifty Years—She Died Last Thursday.

Mrs. Harriet Van Orden died at her home on North street, Chelsea, Thursday, August 2, 1906. The deceased was born February, 1835, and was united in marriage with Charles Van Orden in 1850. Mrs. Van Orden has been a resident of Chelsea for 50 years. She is survived by three sons and three daughters, four of whom are residents of this community, Charles and James Van Orden and Mesdames E. A. Williams and C. Foster. One son and one daughter reside at Webberville.

The funeral was held from her late home last Friday afternoon, Rev. Thos. Holmes, D.D., officiating. The remains were taken to Webberville, Saturday, for interment.

Treating Seed Wheat for Smut.

There is no smut in the wheat harvested on the College plots this year. As a rule the wheat throughout the state is fairly free from smut. Because of this fact farmers are tempted to neglect to treat their seed this fall. This will be a mistake. A pound of formalin costs little. Buy it and mix with thirty-five to forty gallons of water. Spread part of the seed on a clean barn floor, sprinkle the formalin mixture over it and shovel until each kernel is wet on every side with the formalin solution. After twenty-four hours dry and sow when needed. If more convenient, treat just before sowing and omit the drying. This method is past the experimental stage; it is a recognized success.

Miss Nancy Hughes.

Nancy Hughes was born in Benton, Yates county, N. Y., August 21, 1819, and after an illness of four months died at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. Babcock, Monday, August 6, 1906. She came to Michigan in 1856, settling in Mason, residing later in Chesaning, and coming to Chelsea in 1888, since which time she has made her home with her niece, Mrs. L. Babcock. She became a member of the M. E. Church 56 years ago. The funeral was held from the late home Wednesday forenoon, Rev. Joseph Rye-son officiating. Interment in Oak Grove cemetery, Chelsea.

Notice.

The undersigned officers of school district No. 4, Sylvan will meet at the school house, Sylvan Center, on Saturday, August 11, 1906, at one o'clock, for the purpose of receiving bids for re-shingling the said school building. The officers reserve the right to reject any and all bids.

Galveston's Sea Wall

Makes life now as safe in that city as on the higher uplands. E. W. Goodloe, who resides on Dutton St., in Waco, Tex., needs no sea wall for safety. He writes: "I have used Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption the past five years and it keeps me well and safe. Before that time I had a cough which for years had been growing worse. Now it's gone." Cures chronic coughs, la-grippe, croup, whooping cough and prevents pneumonia. Pleasant to take. Every bottle guaranteed at the Bank Drug Store. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Baby won't suffer five minutes with croup if you apply Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil at once. It acts like magic.

SUED FOR $5,000.

Peter Galligan, of Whitmore Lake, Is the Plaintiff—The Accident of Which He Complains Happened Last Year.

Peter Galligan, of Whitmore Lake, has commenced suit for $5,000 damages against the township of Ann Arbor.

On October 13, 1905, he was driving home, when a hole in the road at Loomis' crossing, on the Whitmore Lake road, caused the overturn of his buggy. He was severely injured about the spine and shoulders. It is understood that the township has offered to settle for $1,000, but nothing like this can be done until a judgment is rendered without a special election. The case must go to trial.

M. J. Cavanaugh and T. D. Kearney are attorneys for the plaintiff and A. J. Sawyer & Son for the township.

Simple Amusement.

Amusement in the capital of Oudh, in India, is not particularly strenuous. For an eastern crowd the bazar is the inevitable center of attraction, "a free lounging place or club, where you may meet your fellows and exchange any ideas you may have and any compliments you may think fit to bestow." Bazar gossip takes the place of newspapers, and if there are no billiard saloons at Lucknow, "at any shop you are allowed to play skittles with your neighbor's character."

Sorry He Couldn't Read.

A merry party being gathered in a city flat made such a racket that the occupant of a neighboring apartment sent his servant down with a polite message, asking if it would be possible for the party to make less noise, since, as the servant announced, "Mr. Smith says that he cannot read." "I am very sorry for Mr. Smith," replied the host. "Please present my compliments to your master, say that I am sorry he cannot read and tell him I could when I was four years old!"

Nationalities in Mexico.

In Mexico the number of foreigners is steadily increasing, but they are quickly absorbed by the process of marrying Mexican wives and rearing families in which are merged the types of many races. The foreigner is lost in his business and social affiliations, and especially in the children he rears, who are patriotic Mexicans, regardless of the nationality brought by the father to the already common stock.

Unresting Machinery.

A day consists of only 24 hours; and it might be fully occupied by three relays of workers, each doing eight hours, the machinery being on the stretch all the time. Rest does machinery no good; it tends to wear it out. The best thing for a machine is always to be going at a steady speed. It does no good to a watch to let it run down; it is important to keep it always going.

Will Never Be Popular.

After the doctors have proved that white bread will not sustain life and that milk is full of disease germs, Mrs. Mary Fay, of New York, lives for 30 years on bread and milk and dies at the age of 105, dying at last with a physical development like that of a young woman. But no bread and milk had resulted; it's too inexpensive.

The annual report of Jas. E. Roderick, chief of the state department of mines, for the year 1905 shows that Pennsylvania continues to lead the mining industry of the country, producing practically all of the anthracite and 30 per cent. of the bituminous coal.

JOHN FARRELL, Treasurer.
Chelsea, July 23, 1906.

Auk's Egg Cracked.

The enormous value attached to the eggs of birds which have become extinct has been recalled by the accident that has befallen the specimen of the great auk, which constitutes one of the treasures of the Scarborough museum. Kept securely guarded in the safe, it was recently placed on public exhibition. By some means or other it has become cracked, and its value has been depreciated by more than £60.

Origin of Common Phrase.

In time when deer were common in England deer "scrapes" were sharply marked hollows between trees which had been worn down by the feet of many stags and does. Sometimes these much-depressed paths made by deer were not easy to step out of, or pleasant to slip into unawares. Hence it is thought the common phrase "get into a scrape."

Another Charge Against Motor Cars.
Mid-Sussex farmers have added another count to the indictment of motorists, with regard to the dust nuisance. They say that owing to the dust raised by motor cars it now takes a man two days to cut an acre of grass, as the scythe has to be sharpened more frequently. Before motor traffic was general, it is stated, this work was done in one day.

Hon. Frank P. Glazier has awarded the contract for tearing down the buildings on the corner of Main and Huron streets, Ann Arbor, to Koch Bros. of that city, who will also do the excavating and build the foundation walls for the seven-story office building Mr. Glazier will have erected on the site of the present structures. The work will be commenced at once.

The 17th Michigan Infantry will hold their 27th annual reunion in Jackson, September 13, 1906. This is known as the Stone Wall Regiment, and during the Civil War the members of the 17th did good service for their country. The headquarters during the reunion will be in the Blackman house. Theo. E. Wood, cashier of the Chelsea Savings Bank, is secretary of the organization.

Wm. Rademacher, a grandson of Mrs. George Barthel, of Garfield street, met with a rather painful accident last Saturday night. The young man and his mother paid a short visit to their Detroit home and were on their way to Chelsea via the D. Y. A. A. & J. When near the County Club, between Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti, he had one of his hands out of the window, it being struck by a post and the knuckle driven back into his hand. The boy pulled the dislocated joint into place and, after his arrival in Chelsea, he visited Dr. Bush and had the injury properly attended to.

The Diligent Student.

The son of a wealthy London merchant was sent to Edinburgh to study medicine. After an absence of some time, pater went to the Scottish capital to see his son. While out "doing the sights" pater, pointing to a large colonnaded building, asked his son what it was. He replied: "Well, pater, I really do not know. I have such little time for sight-seeing." On meeting a policeman and asking the question, they were told: "That building, sir, is the School of Medicine."

WORK WEAKENS THE KIDNEYS.

Doan's Kidney Pills Have Done Great Service For People Who Work.

Most people work every day in some strained, unnatural position bending constantly over a desk riding on jolting wagons or cars doing laborious housework; lifting, reaching or pulling, or trying the back in a hundred and one other ways. All these strains tend to wear, weaken and injure the kidneys until they fall behind in their work of filtering the poisons from the blood. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys, put new strength in bad backs.

G. B. Porter, of South Sprague street, Coldwater, Mich., says: "For three years I was annoyed by the action of the kidney secretions and suffered from a severe pain in the small of my back. After a hard day's work or a long drive which I often had to do, the pain in my back was very severe. At night it was painful to turn or to move and the secretions were dark and unnatural in color. When I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills I got a box and I was pleased with their prompt beneficial effect. That was some time ago and I have not had a pain in my back during the intervals and the kidney secretions are normal. I have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to others who in turn have been greatly benefited by them."

THROUGH JUNGLE FROM OCEAN TO OCEAN

Since the discovery of the Isthmus of Panama, or Darien, as it was at first called, there is hardly a spot on earth that has attracted so much attention. Balboa, the Spanish navigator, was the first to cross the divide and saw the Pacific on September 25, 1513. Its history during the nearly 400 years that have since elapsed is filled with stories of bloodshed and cruelty. The Spaniards slaughtered the Indians as they did the inoffensive Caribs. The buccaneers under such monsters as Hawkins and Morgan committed crimes against the Spaniards that appear almost incredible. The sack of the old City of Panama is one of the darkest pages in the history of nations. It is a relief to turn from these subjects to a history of suffering supported by the dictates of duty and patriotism as enrolled in the archives of the United States naval department at Washington.

From Tehuantepec to New Granada every effort had been made fifty years ago to find a suitable route for a ship canal through the Cordilleras. An Irish romancer wrote a book describing such a route, and English capitalists sent out an engineer named Gisborne to make a survey. He returned with maps and figures and wrote a book describing an alleged practicable route. All were false and it is doubtful if he ever penetrated the isthmus at all. On his statement that there was a gap of only 150 feet in height above sea level, a company was formed with a capital of $75,000,000 to construct a canal. Gisborne's falsehoods were speedily discovered, but an English party sent up the Savana river in 1853, after penetrating a few miles, returned in despair, minus four men killed by the Chuquanaqua Indians, a fierce tribe of the interior.

Sought Through Route.

The idea at the time was to discover a route from Caledonia bay, on the Atlantic, to Darien harbor, on the Pacific. To this end the United States steamship Cyane was sent with an exploring party to Caledonia bay, while a British ship, the Virago, went to Darien harbor to give assistance if needed. The Cyane's party consisted of Lieutenant Isaac C. Strain, in command; Passed Midshipmen Charles Latimer and William T. Truxton, First Assistant Engineer J. M. Maury, Midshipman H. M. Garland, a volunteer from the Cyane; A. T. Boggs, S. H. Kettiewell, J. Sterritt Hollins, who were assistant engineers, and Dr. J. C. Bird, surgeon. Mr. Maury was astronomer and secretary. Senors Castilla and Polanco went along as representatives of New Granada, in which state the proposed route lay. The balance of the party of twenty-seven consisted of tried seamen of the navy.

Misled by Gisborne's maps and statements, the party took only ten days' provisions, but was amply supplied with arms and ammunition. Of that party of twenty-seven men that left the Cyane, on January 17, 1854, only eighteen ever saw the ship again, the other third having perished miserably in the depths of the tropical forests, or after the rescue of the party.

Advancing up the bed of the Caledonia river, they were soon forced to take to the land, where progress could only be made by hewing a path through the dense foliage. The Indians fled before them, first burning their tents and canoes. The explorers were speedily immersed in the appalling difficulties of a tropical country, aggravated by steep precipices and deep canyons. Holcomb, Winthrop, Hollins, Dr. Bird and Roscoe strayed from the column on January 20 and were never heard of again. Deeply as Strain felt for them, he was obliged to push on after firing repeated signals for them to return. They found an Indian guide, who appeared to be honest at that time and said he would guide them to the Savana, one and a half days' march. He later encountered a band of Chuquanaqua Indians and abandoned the explorers. They finally reached the Sucuteti river, a tributary to the Chuquanaqua, which runs into the Tutyra, and the latter into Darien harbor by a most circuitous route. Chuquanaqua is said to be the most tortuous stream known to geographers, as the unfortunate explorers were soon destined to learn. It is said to take a course double its own direct length.

On Wearisome Journey.

The party struggled along the rock-strewn bed of the Sucuteti, believing it to be the Savana, which would lead them to relief and safety. Worn out by incessant toil, Polanco and Kettiewell gave out, the latter begging to be left behind. The men did not take care of their rations, the Grenadians had thrown away theirs and there was but one day's supply remaining. The officers had some food left, and this was divided among the party. Once more the march was resumed, the men struggling wearily through the hills and dense forests.

Reluctantly Strain gave the order to return to the river he had left and there the first and last council of the party was held. The conclusion was reached that they were on the Iguasia, set down by Gisborne as a branch of the Savana. There was no trail through the wilderness; three of the men and one of the Grenadians were utterly worn out. A few plantains were found and divided. Eight birds were shot, among them an owl and a woodpecker, and some small fish were caught by Mr. Truxton. An iguana was shot and, in vainly trying to recover it from the river, Holmes lost his boot, which later on caused his death.

On the thirteenth day the New Grenadians gave up in despair, although the work had all been done by the Americans. Lombard, the boatswain of the party, became very ill. The clothes and boots of the men were torn to shreds and at night nothing was heard but agonized groans. Bolls began to appear on the men and each was found to contain a "worm of the woods," some of them an inch in length. On the sixteenth day an acid nut was discovered, but it destroyed the enamel of the teeth and the digestive powers as well. Some turkeys were shot and the stage was reached where even the buzzards and cranes were welcomed as food.

On the eighteenth day they had a great misfortune. Truxton only was entrusted with the sole fishhook. He gave it to Castilla, who turned it over to one of the men, who broke it. Strain said nothing beyond pointing out the probable result. It cost many lives, as the Chuquanaqua, when the march was resumed. The Grenadians rejoined the next day; they had built a small craft, but it was soon wrecked. The day after Strain took three men to push their way rapidly down the river and secure aid for the rest of the party, leaving Mr. Truxton in command. Avery, a volunteer, and Golden and Wilson of the Cyane, volunteered to accompany him.

After many parting councils Strain sadly left the main body on February 13. Occasionally a bird or an iguana was shot and furnished a modicum of food for the famished men. Lombard, Harrison and Castilla failed entirely on the twenty-eighth day. Holmes, who had lost his boot, had a wounded foot that was becoming gangrenous. Some buzzards, a turkey and a peccary were shot, but there was no marching until the thirty-seventh day and then only for half a mile.

Lombard, Parks and Johnson left the camp and hid. In their terrible sufferings they had matured a plan to hide until Holmes died, exhume the body and subsist upon the flesh until they reached the Atlantic coast. On the thirty-eighth day Holmes breathed his last and his emaciated body, with his musket alongside, was laid to rest on the banks of the river in a grave hollowed out with knives and an ax.

Decided to Go Back.

Lieutenant Strain was now twenty-one days gone, and it was evident that the sixteen survivors would not live for his return. They believed he was dead and a council of the officers decided to countermand and try to regain Caledonia bay. It cost a severe struggle to reach this conclusion, but it seemed the only hope. Truxton, seated by Holmes' grave, sadly penned a letter of explanation to Strain, should the latter ever regain the place, and in it he begged him to push on after the party. Then Parks was missing and on March 6 a start was made on the march to Caledonia bay, the former being abandoned to his fate. Both Grenadians were very ill, but some of the seamen threw away their arms to assist them along. All reached, was full of fish, but there were no means of catching any.

Small Craft Soon Wrecked.

On the twentieth day the Grenadians asked permission to return and take a man with them. This was granted and they were furnished with good arms. Their idea was to reach some New Grenadian settlement and procure aid there. The party was now reduced to nineteen persons and the work was now being done by the officers. The following day Castilla lay down to rise no more and his body was interred by the river. The party strayed from the dark stream and was soon lost in the jungle. Despair settled upon all. Polanco could go no farther, and, with streaming tears, the ragged, torn, starving men were forced to abandon him to his fate. He screamed in anguish, but there was no resource and the unfortunate Grenadian was left alone. Later it was discovered that he had crawled back to his compatriot's grave and died upon it. His remains were later found in that position by Lieutenant Strain. The following day Lombard asked to be left behind, as it was clear he could go no farther. They shared their remnants of food with him and left him to his fate. What this may have been was never discovered. At his earnest request his boatswain's whistle was left with him. The next day a terrapin somewhat revived the thirteen miserable men. Miller became delirious and Harwood the weakest, where all were weak. So dragged on the weary days and nights until March 22, when Mr. Boggs agreed that he should be abandoned, although he still hoped for succor. Mr. Truxton became very ill and the emaciated band was forced to halt. It was evident that four or five men would have to be abandoned the next day and that not more than two or three could hope to reach Caledonia bay, if any one ever did.

Knew Fate Was Sealed.

Truxton, Boggs and Harwood, all young men, knew that their fate was sealed. Hunger and toil had reduced them to mere bundles of rags and bones. Harrison and Vermilyea were little better; that evening Maury stood by the gloomy river. All were wrapped in the darkest despair. Suddenly Maury shouted, "Truxton, I hear a gun; I see white men; I see Strain." No words can describe the delirious excitement that brought the despairing, dying men to their feet as deliverance appeared at hand.

Day after day the lion-hearted Strain and his comrades had pushed their way through fearful obstacles, much of the path being cut by himself. Reduced to skeletons, they at last reached the village of Yavisa, to find natives as venal as cowardly. He managed to reach the ranch of an Irishman named Bennet, on the Savana, who gave to him the warmest aid. The Virago returned from Panama and boats laden with provisions were soon on their way up Chuquanaqua river and the rescued men were brought back. They found Parks still alive, but covered with wood ticks, and he died a little later. Polanco's body was found, as described, on Castilla's grave. Through all McGinness had clung to the American flag, wrapped around his body. Later it was wrapped around the coffin of Vermilyea, who died at Yavisa. The others reached Panama, where Mr. Boggs died. The survivors crossed the isthmus to Aspinwall, all that were left of the twenty-seven stalwart young men who started up the Caledonia river on January 17, 1854. One-third of the entire expeditionary party perished from hunger, or its effects, and extreme toil on that dreadful march that began at the Atlantic and ended at the Pacific ocean.

VIENNA'S RICH CHOIR COMING.

Chorus of Wealthy Men to Sing for American Charities.

New York.—New York next spring is to hear for the first time the Vienna Male Chorus society, composed of well-to-do or wealthy men, who are coming all the way from Europe at their own expense to give here two or more concerts for charitable institutions. The chorus consists of 300 voices, and the members are prominent in the social life of the Austrian capital. On their American tour they will pay their own expenses, said Felix Kramer. Mr. Kramer is here to make arrangements for the concerts and to confer with the leaders of various musical organizations. The society gave several concerts about six weeks ago in London and sung before King Edward in Buckingham palace. On their visit to New York next April they will be accompanied by several of the leading soloists of the Royal opera house in Vienna, by special permission of the emperor.

BARS GAUZY BATHING SUITS.

Filmy Clinging Material Will Not Be Allowed on Beaches at Cleveland.

Cleveland, O.—Joe Goldsoll, chief of the park police, has drawn the line on peek-a-boo bathing suits, as well as those constructed of gauzy, clinging stuff and white muslin.

Open work surf costumes don't go with him. Diaphanous duds for the depths make no strike with him, and he will not allow them at the public bathing beaches. The chief recently issued notice to this effect upon the bathing public.

"No gauzy, clinging stuff for bathing suits will go at the public beaches," he said with firmness. "It is indecent. White muslin is no good for bathing suits, and neither is this thin brilliantine. These suits have to be substantial, with some thickness to them."

Goldsoll added that he would make daily trips of inspection to the beaches in autoboot and otherwise, and with field glasses in search for infraction of his rule.

WHEN BUD DID DO HIS WORK

"Bud Sammons, who flagged for Charlie Corey, was a good fellow," said the fat engineer, "but the work germ didn't seem to get set right in his breast and Bud was always shirkin' little odd chores, which was continually gettin' him in trouble."

"One night when Charlie's fast freight was runnin' ahead of No. 12 they had to stop up on the curve by Joy's woods to cool some hotboxes. Accordin' to the rules 'n' ethics of the railroad game it was up to Bud to take his red lanterns, walk back 37 telegraph poles 'n' protect his train."

"I guess Bud thought they would get goin' again in a minute. At any rate, he didn't take the trouble to go back, 'n' with a rush 'n' a roar No. 12 came flyin' along 'n' made a noise like 'a bad accident against the rear end of Corey's train."

"When they got things straightened out a bit they found Bud Sammons layin' in a heap under the platform of the caboose, dead. His indifference to a little bit of work had cost him his life."

"A few nights after that I was comin' east with No. 12, makin' the fast time for which I am noted, when on the track ahead of me, up by Joy's woods, I saw a little yellow circle of light, 'n' in the center of this circle a man was wavin' his arms over his head, all possessed. Rememberin' the accident to No. 12, I immediately gave two answerin' toots on the whistle, shut off steam 'n' slowed up preparatory to stoppin'."

"I declare to man, when we got down near to the circle it faded 'n' disappeared. I couldn't see any trace of the man who was signalin' me to stop. I felt as foolish as a hen when she finds out she's been settin' on white doorknobs."

"When I got 'em goin' again, Murphy stepped over to my elbow 'n' said, in an awed voice:

"Did you see it?"

"Sure, I says. 'What was it?'"

"Why," he says, "that's Bud Sammons' sperrit as sure as I ever put a scoopful of coal on a fire. I suppose Bud's sperrit got to worryin' over the accident caused by his carelessness 'n' just can't keep away from the railroad track."

"A brace of poohs for yours," says L. "Who ever heard tell of such a thing?"

"The thing appeared to more than one crew, nevertheless, 'n' little knots of the boys whenever they got together in the bunkrooms 'n' roundhouses would get to discussin' it. One of 'em would say:

"Sure enough I saw it with my two eyes 'n' I just passed the color blind examination, too."

"An' the word was passed around that strange noises could be heard emanatin' from Joy's woods by anyone who had sand enough to stop 'n' listen."

"Well, sir, the boys were gettin' all wrought up 'n' it was sure up to somebody to get adjacent to what was goin' on there in the vicinity of Joy's woods."

"On my next trip comin' through on No. 12 I was just hittin' up there for all I was worth by Joy's woods but just as we came around the curve there was Bud's shadow on the jog goin' through his callisthenics. I looked at my watch to see if my position as to the time card would admit of me stoppin' for a spiritual seance 'n' settle the thing then 'n' there."

"With a sigh, perhaps of regret, or I suppose some knockers would call it a sigh of relief, I saw that we were ten minutes late 'n' couldn't stand any tamperin' with shades. I had just made this decision, put on more steam, not to hurry by the haunted spot, oh, no, just merely to make up time, when z-z-p, the air brakes were set from some cause 'n' we came to a stop in a circle of such bright light that it blinded me."

"When I got so I could see I burst right out laughin'. The mystery of Bud Sammons' ghost was solved."

"What I saw in front of me through an openin' in the trees was a negro camp meetin' with the leader standin' up on a platform in front of a big row of bright lights, the colored brethren in the congregation a-groanin' 'n' goin' on accordin' to the extent they were moved by the spirit. When the wind was in the right direction it would blow the limbs of the trees apart 'n' the bright lights behind the leader of the camp meetin' threw his shadow out over the track."

"Of course as he warmed up in the workout he threw his arms up 'n' down over his head, makin' many fancy shadows out on the railroad track. When the wind died down 'n' the limbs stopped movin' the shadow would be shut out. Altogether it had a will-o'-the-wisp effect."

"An air brake hose had burst, causin' our train to stop, but we soon got things straightened out 'n' were away from the camp meetin' grounds. The ghost was settled, however, 'n' I hope it will be a spell before we have another scare, as it's rackin' on my nerves."—N. Y. Sun.

Whitewashed by Motor Car.

The Central London railway has adopted an ingenious method of whitewashing and cleansing its tunnels. They have fitted a motor car with a tank of about 600 gallons' capacity from which whitewash is forced by a electrically driven pump through a series of pipes arranged upon a frame at the end of the car. As the car travels along the tunnel a spray of whitewash is driven upon the roof and sides.

Sargent's Pictures Rare. Only three pictures by John S. Sargent have been offered at auction in recent years. A head of a girl wearing a red shawl brought $750 at Christie's. A portrait of Ellen Terry, which fetched $6,000 and was sold subsequently for $15,000, and a half-length portrait of a lady sold in 1903 for $685.

Foremost of French Veterans. The French government has just pensioned off Francois Geromini, the guardian of the Bastille column. Geromini was a character. He left Corsica 60 years ago to serve in the grenadiers of the imperial guard. He fought in the campaigns of Algiers and of Rome, and also in 1870 with Bourbaki. He was made a prisoner and taken to Darmstadt and at the fall of the empire became conclave of the Bastille.

New Depot at Battle Creek. The Grand Trunk Railway System has just completed and opened a new passenger station at Battle Creek. The station occupies the entire block fronting on east Hall street, between east Main and Beach streets. Special station tracks accommodate waiting trains independent of the regular main line tracks, and the approaches to the building, together with ample platforms, are so designed as to handle the greatest number of passengers with ease. Neither pains nor expense has been spared in erecting a station which not only meets every need of the traveling public, but is also a delight to the lover of the beautiful. The general design of the building is a modified mission style. The construction is of Maine granite and paving blocks laid in Flemish bond. The roofs consist of semi-glazed red Spanish tile. The first story contains an entering lobby, general waiting room, ladies' parlor, smoking room and lavatories; in the southeast corner of the main building a lunch room has been provided, and the northeast corner is occupied by the baggage room. A wide veranda connects the main building with the express building. The second story contains offices, etc. The building is perfectly heated, ventilated and lighted. It is one of the finest depots of its size in the country.

DAZED WITH PAIN.

The Sufferings of a Citizen of Olympia, Wash.

L. S. Gorham, of 516 East 4th St., Olympia, Wash., says: "Six years ago I got wet and took cold, and was soon flat in bed, suffering tortures with my back. Every movement caused an agonizing pain, and the persistence of it exhausted me, so that for a time I was dazed and stupid. On the advice of a friend I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, and soon noticed a change for the better. The kidney secretions had been disordered and irregular, and contained a heavy sediment, but in a week's time the urine was clear and natural again and the passages regular. Gradually the aching and soreness left my back and then the lameness. I used six boxes to make sure of a cure, and the trouble has never returned."

BOOKS FOR GREAT COMMANDER.

Library Napoleon Ordered Comprised Many Subjects.

In 1808 Napoleon formed the idea of having a traveling library in order to make his hours of intellectual recreation independent of the exigencies of a campaign or the delays of a courier.

The proposed library was to form about a thousand volumes. The books were to be of small duodecimo size, printed in good type, and without margins in order to save space. They were to be bound in morocco, with flexible covers and limp backs. The boxes for their conveyance were to be covered with leather and lined with green velvet, and were to average 60 volumes apiece, in two rows like the shelves in a library. A catalogue was to accompany them, so arranged that the emperor could readily find any desired volume. The distribution of subjects was as follows: Forty volumes on religion, 40 of epic poetry, 40 of the drama, 60 volumes of other poetry, 60 volumes of history and 100 novels. "In order to complete the quota," ran the instructions, "the balance shall be made up of historical memoirs."—James Westfall Thompson, in the Atlantic.

ITS MERIT IS PROVED RECORD OF A GREAT MEDICINE

A Prominent Cincinnati Woman Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Completely Cured Her.

The great good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is doing among the women of America is attracting the attention of many of our leading scientists, and thinking people generally.

The following letter is only one of many thousands which are on file in the Pinkham office, and go to prove beyond question that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound must be a remedy of great merit, otherwise it could not produce such marvelous results among sick and ailing women.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— "About nine months ago I was a great sufferer with female trouble, which caused me severe pain, extreme nervousness and frequent headaches, from which the doctor failed to relieve me. I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and within a short time felt better, and after taking five bottles of it I was entirely cured. I therefore heartily recommend your Compound as a splendid female tonic. It makes the monthly periods regular and without pain; and what a blessing it is to find such a remedy after so many doctors fail to help you. I am pleased to recommend it to all suffering women."

Mrs. Sara Wilson, 31 East 3d Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

If you have suppressed or painful periods, weakness of the stomach, indigestion, bloating, pelvic catarrh, nervous prostration, dizziness, faintness, "don't-care" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feeling, excitability, backache or the blues, these are sure indications of female weakness, or some derangement of the organs. In such cases there is one tried and true remedy—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

English the World Language.

The new world language, Esperanto, seems to have already won more advocates than the older Volapuk. No manufactured language, however, seems to have much chance in competition with English, which long ago displaced French as the most useful and widely spoken language and which is gaining faster than ever in all parts of the world. Quite recently the German government has ordered that all railway officials and employees must learn to speak English. In Antwerp also the authorities are urging all classes to study English and are providing special facilities in the public schools; the city has become "almost an English-speaking port." In Japan all school children are now obliged to learn our language. A few years hence tourists from this country will be able to get along there as easily as on a trip at home. With Great Britain, India, Australia, Canada, the United States and large sections of Africa using English, what hope is there for any other language?

BIBLICAL BASEBALL.

A Canton (O.) theological student interested in baseball wrote a thesis on "Baseball Among the Ancients," from which are gleaned the following facts: Abraham made a sacrifice. The Prodigal Son made a home run. Cain made a base hit when he killed Abel. David was a great long-distance thrower. Moses shut out the Egyptians at the Red sea. Moses made his first run when he slew the Egyptian. The devil was the first coacher. Eve stole first—Adam stole second. When Isaac met Rebecca at the well she was walking with a pitcher. Samson struck out a great many times when he beat the Philistines.

Hon. W. H. Kelbaugh, Ex-Member W. Va. Legislature, 304 9th street, N. E., Washington, D. C., writes:

"You can use my name and word at all times for Per-ru-na as a medicine and tonic unequalled. I have tried it for a stubborn cold and badly run down system. I tried all sorts of other medicines and paid several expensive doctor bills. Per-ru-na cured me, strengthened me more than ever, and saved me money."

Mrs. Clara Litterst, Seaford, Ind., says: "Last fall I took a severe cold. I took Per-ru-na, began to improve and kept on so until I was able to do my work."

PHILOSOPHICAL POINTS.

The fattest calf never loves the prodigal son.

Truth never runs around asking people to believe it.

Alas, that fools are prosperous. Is it their penalty or reward?

How many of us in listening to the tomtoms forget the violins?

To think an original thought is to take a step nearer the divine.

People who need to be continually propped up are not worth the prop.

When men become suddenly good they should be executed immediately.

It is easier for some people to believe the impossible than the possible.

Before it was thrown down, the Golden Calf had a son, and it is still moaning around the world.

It is self-evident that to successfully fathom the motives of men one must be a man himself. To an idiot—to a lunatic—all men are either idiots or lunatics.

MEANING OF MOLES.

On the right side of the upper lip a mole promises great good fortune to both sexes.

A mole on the neck, in man or woman, promises a long and happy life, wealth and fame.

A science, or pseudo-science, of moles has existed among the Pennsylvania Dutch for many years.

A man with a mole in the middle of his forehead has a cruel mind; a woman with such a mole is foolish, idle and envious.

A man with a mole on the left side of the upper lip rarely marries, and such a mole in the case of a woman denotes suffering.

A mole on the right side of a man's forehead denotes wonderful luck; on the right side of a woman's forehead, gifts from the dead.

On the left side of a man's forehead a mole denotes a long term in prison; on the left side of a woman's forehead, two husbands, and a life of exile.

According to this science, no one is without a mole or two, and these are some of the prognostications that mole-wearers may draw from their brown ornaments.

"NO TROUBLE"

To Change from Coffee to Postum.

"Postum has done a world of good for me," writes an Ills. man.

"I've had indigestion nearly all my life but never dreamed coffee was the cause of my trouble until last Spring. I got so bad I was in misery all the time."

"A coffee drinker for 30 years, it irritated my stomach and nerves, yet I was just crazy for it. After drinking it with my meals, I would leave the table, go out and lose my meal and the coffee too. Then I'd be as hungry as ever."

"A friend advised me to quit coffee and use Postum—said it cured him. Since taking his advice I retain my food and get all the good out of it, and don't have those awful hungry spells."

"I changed from coffee to Postum without any trouble whatever, felt better from the first day I drank it. I am well now and give the credit to Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in package. "There's a reason."

"You have escaped from the officers, my friend," he said.

"Yes," laughed Gideon, "but the officers have not escaped me."

"Again Valdemere smiled. 'And work—The Invisible Hand'—and Corwhere are they?"

"Who?"

"The two officers who took you prisoner?" said Valdemere, who had now painfully assumed a sitting posture, and sat staring at the dead faces about him, and Pengully, where he is?

"Oh, he is safe enough—ah, he is coming now."

"But the officers, where are they?"

"You can find them variously situated between this pallet and that stone. Oh, there is the ear of one of them hanging there now—and at the foot of the stone—what is that?—ah, I see—a tuft of hair—ugh!—it looks like the devil's hair," then he grinned.

"Even Valdemere shuddered at such talk, but a moment later Gideon was lifting him tenderly into the saddle of the best horse. The fugitives had supplied them with the arms and ammunition of the dead soldiers, and were soon on their journey across the frontier."

Here the old man paused.

"Ugh," I cried, "this is horrible."

"True, my dear Rodin, but Gideon would otherwise have been shot down like a dog. It was simply the strategy of war—the strength of Hercules—the just anger of a persecuted soul, whose back had felt the scorpion—whose great physical being was beyond his mental control—who could love—who could hate. I deplore his manner of fighting, but I cannot find it in me to question his motive. It cannot be said that the victory of these half-starved and desperate men over a dozen well-fed brutes was unjust."

Here my host paused and sat silent for many moments. I did not wish to disturb his thoughts, for my heart was too full—full of my love for Marie—full of pity for the noble old man, who sat by me—full of admiration for the heroes, whose deeds he had described.

"And the three fugitives finally crossed the border?"

"Oh, yes," he replied, "they possessed themselves of the dead men's horses, as well as such arms and ammunition as they required, and soon were beyond the reach of the Czar's minions—freemen. But, alas—Valdemere's young wife had died from grief, having lived but a year after he was exiled, and leaving an infant of two months in the hands of a friend."

Here the old man paused, and I saw his eyes moisten and his head fall forward to conceal his tears. I marveled at such tender emotions in a man whose gaily and cheerful temperament had impressed me. I was yet to learn the secret of his grief.

"And the child," I said, "what became of it?"

"The poor little thing—a tiny girl baby, with soft loving eyes—was taken in charge by a dear friend of the family, and was reared under an adopted name—to spare painful explanations, Rodin—do you understand?—to spare her the grief and the shame of her poor mother's fate."

"And does Valdemere know that his child lived?"

"Rodin," he said, ignoring my question, "some day, I fear, you will hear things that will sound unpleasant to your English ears."

"Unpleasant, indeed," I said, "can it be unpleasant to hear of such outrages against innocent men and women—even against noblemen, as you have just told me. It drives all pity from my heart, and turns my blood to acid, and I thank God that the day is near at hand when these human slaughter pens of Siberia will be obliterated forever."

I held his hand in mine, and our eyes met. I fancied he was studying my face, and an uneasy feeling crept over me.

"You will some day understand why I have been at such pains to defend the good name of Valdemere," he said. "Again, good-night," and he was gone, his last vague words clinging to my mind.

CHAPTER XV.

Victor Deneau left the station at Pine Bluff, in a great dilemma. His artificial hump and his assumed age had deceived all who saw him, save Valdemere. He was at a loss how to act. He had undoubtedly seen us leave the cavern—for that shadow was no fancy—and had followed our every step until we separated at the station. He now had established a fact—formerly only a theory—that Dead Man's Cave was but an entrance to a large series of caverns, and that these latter were accessible only to Valdemere and his associates by means of some mechanical device, some hidden ingenious machinery, known only to its inventors; but he would yet discover it, for he knew something of safe combinations, he had studied the ingenious method of locks, secret springs, and a thousand cunning devices used by criminals and against criminals.

His eyes blazed with a living fire as he gazed upon those great stone walls that shut out the world from that hidden treasure, and he found himself trying vainly to figure out the amount of valuables that he would probably find when he entered the unknown realms of the subterranean chambers beyond that frowning barrier. His brows met, his eyes were fierce, he stood as if transfixed.

"What devilish magic holds these stones together," he wondered, "and shall I ever discover the secret, or am I to stand helpless, with my foot on the threshold, my eye almost upon the treasure, and let them escape? No by all the gods of fortune, I will find that pass—I will yet discover the key to that accursed lions' den."

He again entered a small tunnel, the same he had traversed a hundred times before. Here he found foot-prints in the soft soil. These he followed until they led him back to the very spot where he had started, baffled, enraged, and even hopeless.

At a distance of some ten feet from this was a pool of dark water, extending in a triangular shape from the stone wall. He dipped his hand into the water—then, stooping, he plunged his arm along the edge of the pool, feeling blindly, madly, along the stones, until his hand touched the wall.

"Ah, what is this," he cried, plunging into the cold, silent water, and seizing frantically some object which protruded from the solid masonry. "Ah, it is a lever, it is iron, it is—"

he tugged fiercely, his eyes afire, his frame trembling—pushing downward—there in the silence of that lonely cavern, he heard a noise as of chains— a grating, as of timber—he sprang backward, his beady eyes staring fixedly in the semi-darkness beyond.

One of the great stones was slowly descending, and his heart stood still, as he peered into the dark chamber beyond, gapping with tunnels, which seemed to lead in every direction, black and frowning, like the very gates of an Inferno.

His face was cold with sweat, his limbs numb with terror—he felt shocked, he who had never met fear was face to face with some terrible phantom beyond, and thus he stood until the great stone had ceased to move—until his lamp had gone out, gazing into the mysterious darkness beyond, afraid to move lest he should be swallowed up. He dared not enter that place alone.

A draught of cold air came from the gap in the wall. It awoke him to his surroundings. He laughed, and a horrible chorus of echoes caused him to flee. He again returned, however, and plunged into the pool of black water tugging at the lever, until he heard the chains rattle, the grating of the stone, and when with a trembling hand he had lighted his lamp he saw naught save the black frowning walls and the barrier was again closed.

He crept from the cavern—it was night, and without, the wind sighed among the trees and the sky was clear and cloudless.

When he crossed the river he paused and looked back across the muddy waters in the direction of Dead Man's Cave. His evil face lighted, his thin lips parted in a sinister smile. The wind moaned in the forest of trees between the bank of the river and the base of the great bridge, to the side of which hung the hut of the old Indian.

He laughed, he drove his fists into the air; he talked to himself; to his imaginary foes. "Spirits, are they? Not now, but they will be. Ha! ha!" Then turning suddenly about he halted—then stumbled into the arms of a short stout man, whose outlines he could scarcely distinguish in the darkness of the night.

"Who the devil are you?" cried he, drawing a revolver and stepping backward. The only answer was a loud laugh—a jeering, mocking laugh, which seemed to convulse the stout man.

Deneau stood peering into the darkness, his pistol fallen at his side, his face betraying an expression of wonder and surprise.

"You would shoot your old comrade, would you?" and another burst of laughter accompanied the words, for La Prade, besides being a shrewd detective, was a great jester.

"How did you get here?" said Deneau, seizing the hand of his old comrade in a manner that bespoke his extreme satisfaction.

"First by steamer, second by rail, and third by foot. I reached a devil of a tavern, the 'Bald Eagle,' and finding your room empty, I enquired for your route."

"And was directed here?" said Deneau.

"Not exactly, I was told that Mr.

Deneau.

He sprang backward.

Deneau—"he smiled, 'had gone toward the river, and following the path pointed out to me I came upon several large dogs and a small hut."

"Ah, the hut of Uga!"

"I knocked on the door of this hut and the devil came out."

"The devil! what do you mean?"

"Well, if he was not the devil, he had the devil's guise, and spoke a tongue—well, damn his language!"

"Still you are here, and that is the most important part of your itinerary," the laughing remarked Deneau.

The shadow of the forest had deepened. They returned to the "Bald Eagle," and as they drew nearer and entered the tavern the town clock was on the stroke of twelve.

"Quaint looking tavern," said La Prade, looking carefully about him. "Smells like a brewery."

"Silence," said Deneau, as he saw the tall form of the tavern-keeper coming their way.

The host gave La Prade a searching look and, bowing, passed on to the bar-room.

"Looks like a murderer," said La Prade.

"Worse than a murderer," answered Deneau. "He is the keeper of the 'Bald Eagle'—good work here for a smart beginner," he laughed.

They ascended to the room of Deneau, third floor—dingy, unkept—the poorest in the "Bald Eagle."

"I see you still affect poverty," laughed La Prade, as he hung his hat on a tall post of an old-time bed—"what kind of a kennel is this?" and he examined the narrow windows, the lead-colored mantle-shelf, the coarse carpet, and the rough chairs surrounding a table which seemed to have outlived its usefulness.

"Poverty has been my safeguard hereabouts," replied Deneau, "for the denizens of that bar below would soon find a means to relieve me of any appearance of luxury or comfort. Room No. 23—the one over the hall has furnished the morgue with three corpses since I came—I do not care to display any extravagance."

La Prade stood near the mantle-piece, short, stout, and ruddy, a bright merry look, a certain boldness of manner, grey eyes, bald head, fringed with a wreath of sandy hair, extending about an inch above the ears, and describing a semicircle toward the nape of his thick short neck. His head was fat and oily, but in his bold gaze there was a mixture of humor and cunning, a man who could say to a culprit about to be hanged: "A pleasant journey," and yet he could be serious—he could be studious, and only stood second to Deneau himself in the daring and ingenuity of his plans.

Deneau opened a small iron box which he took from an old hair trunk, the contents consisting of papers with which the reader is already familiar. La Prade sat on the opposite side of the table, his face betraying a mixture of curiosity and surprise. He looked curiously at the papers. He looked curiously upon his old colleague, surprised, amazed, at the phenomenal patience and cunning. Then he examined some papers more minutely. One of these, a Russian sheet, seemed to possess an unusual interest for him.

"The strange fate of Isaac Hershburg, a member of the most dangerous of nihilists, plot, etc., etc.," such were the headlines.

"This Hershburg was the man from whom you obtained the first clue?" asked La Prade, examining the date of the paper.

"The first clue, yes," said Deneau, "for it was from his betrayal that I was enabled to identify Valdemere and Langdon as one, and yet—"

"And yet," said La Prade. (TO BE CONTINUED.)

What Joy They Bring To Every Home

as with joyous hearts and smiling faces they romp and play—when in health—and how conducive to health the games in which they indulge, the outdoor life they enjoy, the cleanly, regular habits they should be taught to form and the wholesome diet of which they should partake. How tenderly their health should be preserved, not by constant medication, but by careful avoidance of every medicine of an injurious or objectionable nature, and if at any time a remedial agent is required, to assist nature, only those of known excellence should be used; remedies which are pure and wholesome and truly beneficial in effect, like the pleasant laxative remedy, Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. Syrup of Figs has come into general favor in many millions of well informed families, whose estimate of its quality and excellence is based upon personal knowledge and use.

Syrup of Figs has also met with the approval of physicians generally, because they know it is wholesome, simple and gentle in its action. We inform all reputable physicians as to the medicinal principles of Syrup of Figs, obtained, by an original method, from certain plants known to them to act most beneficially and presented in an agreeable syrup in which the wholesome Californian blue figs are used to promote the pleasant taste; therefore it is not a secret remedy and hence we are free to refer to all well informed physicians, who do not approve of patent medicines and never favor indiscriminate self-medication.

Please to remember and teach your children also that the genuine Syrup of Figs always has the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package and that it is for sale in bottles of one size only. If any dealer offers any other than the regular Fifty cent size, or having printed thereon the name of any other company, do not accept it. If you fail to get the genuine you will not get its beneficial effects. Every family should always have a bottle on hand, as it is equally beneficial for the parents and the children, whenever a laxative remedy is required.

SANE SENTIMENTS.

Close Second to American Tramp.

The American tramp must look out for his laurels in the matter of stealing rides. A Roumanian recently succeeded in lodging himself on the pipes underneath a dining-car of the Orient express at Costanza, on the Black sea, these pipes affording a sort of shelf about 20 inches wide. He left his bed in Paris 53 hours later. It is remarked that at the end of the journey he was very dusty, hungry and thirsty, and possessed a capital amounting to five cents.

India's Cotton Crop.

The cotton crop of India was larger last year, 1905, than the general average. About 20,000,000 acres were planted in cotton and the yield was about 3,500,000 bales. During the year there were exported from India to other countries over 2,125,000 bales of raw cotton at a value of over $81,000,000, the four countries, Japan, Germany, Belgium and Italy, in the order named, being the largest purchasers, they together buying nearly 1,500,000 bales of Indian cotton, while Japan alone took nearly 500,000 bales.

TO HOLDERS OF U.S. 4s of 1907

Your bonds will be paid off by the Government at par on July 1, 1907, or less than one year from now.

Owing to the demand for Government bonds, due to the appointment at the present time of a large number of temporary public depositaries, we are in position to pay you for your bonds almost as much as you will receive from the Government in principal and interest, even though you should hold them to maturity.

We can pay 103 3/4, or at the rate of $1,032.50, for a $1,000 bond. To retain your bonds when you can sell them at this price is equivalent to your investing your funds at the rate of less than 3/4 of 1% per annum.

Conditions are unusually favorable to the reinvestment of your funds. Railroad bonds of the highest type are much lower than they have ruled for several years.

If you are interested in taking advantage of the peculiarly favorable opportunity to sell your maturing Government bonds, we shall be pleased to have you write us. In case you have $5,000 or more of bonds, we shall be glad to have you wire us at our expense.

Crowds Going to the Circus.

Intense interest has been aroused in this community by the announcement that Ringling Brothers' immense circus is to exhibit in Ann Arbor, Tuesday, August 14th. Several big excursions will go from this vicinity and local people will be well represented at the big show. Those who go from here should make every effort to arrive in time to see the magnificent new free street parade, which is given in the morning preceding the opening performance. Three miles of parade glories are divided into thirty sections, and each section is a show in itself—a parade such as the world has never seen before. In this wonderful display are shown 100 beautiful dogs, hairs and cages of rare wild animals, a herd of forty big and little elephants, 650 horses, and 1280 people. One section of the procession is devoted to magnificent and costly floats, representing Germany, Russia, England, France, India, Persia, Scotland, the United States, and other countries. The performance that follows, and which includes the superb spectacular production of "The Field of the Cloth of Gold," is the most magnificent display of arenic wonders ever presented by any amusement enterprise in America. The menagerie is filled to overflowing with rare beasts and birds, including the only baby elephant bred and successfully raised in the United States, the only rhinoceros in captivity and the last living pair of giraffes.

BEEF EXPORTS FALL SHORT.

June, 1906, Shows $300,000 Decrease
From June Year Ago.

Washington.—Completed figures of the exports of American canned meats for the past fiscal year are shown in a statement issued by the department of commerce and labor. The value of canned meats exported from the United States in June, 1906, was $461,000, against $797,127 in June, 1905, and in the fiscal year 1906, $9,233,410, against $9,577,045 in 1905. The figures for the fiscal year 1906 include canned beef, $6,430,446; canned pork, $1,215,857; other canned meats, $1,587,107.

The quantity of canned beef exported in the fiscal year was 64,523,359 pounds, as against 66,688,568 pounds in 1905.

The reduction in exports occurred almost exclusively in the shipments to Japan, which country took largely of American canned beef during the war, but greatly reduced her importation on the disbanding of the army. The exports of canned beef to Japan in the fiscal year 1906 were 2,306,583 pounds, against 14,687,165 pounds in 1905, and in the month of June, 1906, were 34,412 pounds, against 3,611,388 in June, 1905.

Great Britain was the greatest buyer of canned beef, exports to that country increasing 4,578,185 pounds for the fiscal year, but decreasing for the month of June, 1906.

Of the exports of canned beef for the fiscal year the United Kingdom took 9,939,254 pounds and Belgium 968,972 pounds.

CUTS TIME OF SEA TRIPS.

Scientific Discovery Will Shorten
Ocean Voyages.

Washington.—One day will be cut off between New York and Europe and three days between San Francisco and Japan by scientific discoveries made by an expedition sent out by the Carnegie Institute of Washington. Other very important developments are expected to spring from these discoveries, which may have a far-reaching effect on all sea navigation. The reduction in transatlantic time will, it is said, be made within one year.

These developments arise from the uncompleted cruise of the Galilee, a sailing ship outfitted two years ago for the purpose of making a magnetic survey around the globe. The work of the surveyors has progressed far enough to determine that all the existing charts of lines of equal magnetic variation are incorrect, especially those of the Pacific ocean. From San Francisco to Honolulu they are systematically off from one to two degrees. The scientists are also determining the influence of steel construction on the variations of the compass. By means of the table of variations which is being prepared, and the new and correct charts which will be issued, mariners will be able to steer an absolute course during rains and fogs when no observation can be taken. This absolute course will enable the cutting off of 24 hours between New York and Europe.

GOOD AIR KILLS NEGROES.

West Indian Blacks Cannot Stand
Panama Sanitation Rules.

Washington.—Perfect sanitation and cleanliness are proving fatal to the West Indian negroes employed on the Panama canal. Although C. Corgas and his assistants have banished yellow fever and other tropical fevers, which made the canal zone one large burying ground for the French canal builders, they have found that sanitary precautions taken in the quarters occupied by workmen make the Jamaican negroes especially susceptible to pneumonia and other throat and lung troubles.

West Indians are not accustomed to an abundance of fresh air and well-ventilated, cleanly quarters. Living for generations in small huts, where large families crowded into rooms tightly closed against the night air, the negroes from Jamaica and other tropical islands have developed lungs with cramped capacity and especially susceptible to changes and temperature. West Indian laborers cannot be induced to eat sufficient wholesome food to keep them in good health, even when supplies are furnished to them at cost price and meals are made attractive at great expense to the canal commission.

Buy More French Goods.
Paris.—Statistics collected by the United States consulates throughout France and tabulated by Consul General Mason show that exports from France to the United States for the year ending June 30 reached the record-breaking total of $107,240,547, an increase of $18,523,472, or 17 per cent over the previous year. All the great commercial centers except Lyons, Havre and Calais increased their shipments to the United States. The decrease at Lyons is chiefly due to the development of the silk industry in the United States and a corresponding reduction in the demand for French silk.

Kaiser's Son to Study in United States.
Berlin.—The Kaiser's fourth son, Prince August William, will complete his educational training at American institutions. Harvard, Yale, and Cornell are mentioned by those who are laying out his course. After his American course the prince will pass a term at either Oxford or Cambridge, in England. He is to be made particularly proficient in political history, political economy and constitutional and international law.

COUNTY EVENTS.

Stockbridge will have a carnival week beginning August 20.

The church at Gregory has recently been redecorated and painted.

The Bridgewater Lutheran church held their annual mission festival last Sunday. George A. Schmidt, of Bridgewater, placed a carload of feeding cattle on his farm recently.

The Stimpson scale factory at Milan will leave that village and locate in Northville in the near future.

He who thinks marriage is only a lottery will have a few more thoughts coming when he gives it a test.

The Webster Farmers' Club will meet with Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Koby at Koby's Hall, Hamburg Village, Saturday, August 11, 1906.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Green of near Manchester have issued invitations for their sixtieth wedding anniversary to be held at Maple Grove farm Saturday, August 18th.

A fine artesian well was struck on the site of the new state tuberculosis hospital at Howell, recently. The well is 25 feet deep and flows one and one-half feet above the surface.

Geo. Devine of Webster has purchased Chris. Loeffler's stock and fixtures and opened a saloon at Loeffler's old stand. Mr. Devine will move to the village this fall.—Dexter Leader.

The committee from the big Farmer's Picnic association have fixed the date of the big affair at Devil's lake for Thursday, August 30, the last Thursday in this month.—Adrian Telegram.

A petition has been filed with the judge of probate for the appointment of commissioners to condemn the land in Augusta on the Buck Creek drain. The hearing will occur August 28th.

Jackson parties are buying up live foxes for a hunt this winter. Perhaps if they would do as they conduct their bear hunt in Mason—shoot at a target instead of a fox, the sport might be prolonged indefinitely.—Albion Leader.

The 89th reunion and business meeting of the Society of the 18th Michigan Volunteer Infantry will be held at Jonesville, Thursday, August 23, and all are requested to stay over the 24th, making a two days' reunion. Arrangements are perfected for a good time.

An exchange says:—One way of ridding the house of flies is to put into an atomizer five cents worth of the oil of lavender slightly diluted with hot water. Spray it freely into the air and not a fly will remain on the premises. It also leaves a delicate violet fragrance that is delightful.

The saloonkeepers will be able to enjoy a good holiday the first few days of next month. September 2 falls on Sunday; the next day Monday, September 3, is Labor day, and a legal holiday, and Tuesday, September 4, is primary election day, therefore, another day on which they must keep their places of business closed.

A branch of the Detroit postoffice is to be established at the state fair grounds for the week the big exposition will be in progress. Mail will be carried to the branch office from down town office four times a day. Postmaster Warren is advertising for bids on the work of carrying the mail. A man will be at the state branch constantly.

The Adrian Press passed into the mechanical and business management of new hands last week. Mr. Grimes, the editor and publisher, having associated with him C. E. Loomis and E. G. Myers, two practical printers, the former from Fostoria, and the latter from Tiffin, Ohio, who will take the active management and publication of the paper. Mr. Grimes will continue as proprietor and editor, but proposes to devote more of his time to the real estate business, in which he has a large experience.

If all would tender the piddler grout—the kind of reception that a south-of-town farmer did one the other day, that class of hucksters would soon go out of business. He told him in polite but forcible language that he could not afford to patronize him. He said that every man who did was depreciating the value of his farm; that the value of his farm was proportionate to the prosperity of the village near which he lived. He said that he was not so short sighted that he could see that by taking the trade away from his home merchants he was throwing away dollars to save cents; that there may be plenty to bite the cheap sugar bait but none for him, so please pass on. Think it over and see if this farmer wasn't about right.

Natural Indignation.
Count Legorini, having met a pretty housemaid on a friend's doorstep, profited by the occasion to steal a kiss, but was surprised in the act by the butler. Furious at being found out, he shouted: "You unmanly rascal! Why did you not knock before—before coming out!"—Strenna.

The Fight Against Consumption.
Great comfort is to be derived from the census figures relative to the mortality rates for the last few years. It appears from these statistics that tuberculosis is causing a markedly smaller percentage of deaths at present than formerly, indicating a certain degree of success in the fight against the "great white plague" which is being waged in all parts of this country. The statistics unfortunately cover only ten of the states and 334 cities, owing to the lack of organized systems of recording and reporting in all parts of the United States. These states are Connecticut, Indiana, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Rhode Island, and Vermont, and these, together with the cities in other states which carefully preserve death records constitute a population of 34,000,000, or two-fifths of that of the United States. According to the returns from these sources the latest calculable rate of mortality from consumption was 172.6 per 100,000 of population. In 1890 the rate was 245.4. This diminution, says the Washington Star, is likely to progress more rapidly in the future, for most of the work of public education in combating the disease has been done during the last decade, and is largely fundamental. The good result of the local propaganda in behalf of clean living, good, fresh air, thorough sanitation, and, to a certain extent, segregation of consumptives, is just beginning to be felt. The warfare against consumption is proceeding along two broad lines, prevention and cure. The former is being waged by both physicians and laymen, and is an educational work. The latter is strictly scientific and the results are less distinct, because they are observable chiefly by the members of the medical profession. The real problem of today lies in teaching the people two prime facts—that consumption is communicable and that its communication can be prevented by the observance of certain simple rules of hygiene and cleanliness.

Dyed Food and Clothing.

While the use of coal tar chemicals in our food is being gradually suppressed, they are playing a more conspicuous role in the manufacture of our apparel. It was toward the end of the last decade that the Germans began to make the artificial indigo which has almost driven the natural product from the market. A more recent discovery is that of red indigo, made by Prof. Friedlander in Vienna. Chemically, this new substance is almost identical with blue indigo; the firm that manufactures it has given it the name of theolindigot (theol being the Greek name for sulphur, one of the ingredients). The most interesting fact relating to it is that it has been found to be identical with the Tyrian purple of the ancients, which, according to Pliny, the Phoenicians made out of a sea shell. This was so expensive that it cost $300 in modern money to color one kilogram of wool. To-day, the garments once monopolized by Roman emperors are worn by Austrian cavaliers, and the German army is preparing to make use of the theolindigot in order to deepen the color of certain uniforms. Women, also, are already benefiting by the rediscovery of "Tyrian purple." The red indigo is made in various shades, from deep pomegranate to the most delicate colors to garments of diverse material, including even calico.

Proof Against Burglars.

Ninety-three million years is the time given to unlock a safe which is fastened with the wonderful new lock invented in Jamaica. The combination consists of four sets of 24 letters of the alphabet which can be set to a sentence in most modern languages. When one letter is used in one alphabet and another in a second set and so on, it becomes a most complicated matter. Then there is the initial problem of which language it has been keyed in, to be solved by the man that attempts to open the safe. Furthermore, instead of letters the inventor, one Neuman Tobias, has employed four sets of numerals. Assuming that the lock has been set to a figure in the number of 3,030,303, 030,303,030, it would take anyone who undertook to unlock the safe 96,090,378 years, 269 days, 30 minutes and 10 seconds working at the rate of 60 numbers a minute to arrive at the proper combination. During this time he would have no time for food or sleep.

Some people are making a great deal out of the vandalism of a Pennsylvania farmer who blew up with dynamite an ancient stone altar erected by the Indians before the white man came to this section of the country. But, exclaims the New York Times, these same people view with comparative equanimity the vandalism at Niagara falls and along the shores of the Hudson.

The "curse of fortune" would seem to be a part of us.

THE DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION.

NOMINATIONS MADE, THE PLATFORM AND OTHER MATTERS.

NOTES ON THE PROCEEDINGS.

The Democrats of Michigan held their state convention in the Light Guard Armory, Detroit, on Thursday for the nomination of a state ticket, adoption of a platform and other business. The forenoon session was devoted to the appointment of committees and preliminary business, an adjournment being taken till 2 p. m., when things became animated.

At the afternoon session the getting together began for the selection of candidates, the formulation of a platform, etc. There was enthusiasm for Bryan that broke out at numerous times, showing that he has the hearts of Michigan's Democrats.

The Nominations.

Governor—Charles H. Kimmerle, Cassopolis.
Lieutenant-Governor—Rush Culver, Marquette.
Secretary of State—P. J. DeVine, Stanton.
State Treasurer—Charles Wellman, Port Huron.
Attorney-General—Emmanuel J. Doyle, Grand Rapids.
Auditor-General—John Yuell, Vanderbilt.
Superintendent of Public Instruction—Elmer R. Webster, Pontiac.
Land Commissioner—Clarence L. Sheldon.

Member of State Board of Education—James E. Sullivan, Muskegon.
Chairman State Central Committee—John T. Winship, Saginaw.

State Central Committee.

The new state central committee shows a large number of changes, only eleven of the old members remaining on it. The list is as follows:
First District—Edwin Henderson and George F. Monaghan, Detroit.
Second District—Dr. D. L. Treat, Adrian; A. J. Weiler, Monroe.
Third District—Dr. R. B. Hoyt, Detroit; Edward Austin, Battle Creek.
Fourth District—Thos. M. Cook, Allegan; Thos. J. Cavanaugh, Paw Paw.
Fifth District—Thomas A. Carten, Ionia; Geo. P. Hummer, Grand Rapids.
Sixth District—Dr. R. B. Hoyt, Detroit; A. M. Cummings, Lansing.
Seventh District—Dr. J. P. Eggleston, Imlay City; Henry F. Marx, Port Huron.
Eighth District—J. E. Brown, St. Johns; John T. Winship, Saginaw.
Ninth District—Herman O'Connor, Holton; C. A. Waal, Manistee.
Tenth District—J. E. Kinnane, Bay City; Sigmund Wilharts, Cheboygan.
Eleventh District—John T. Matthews, Ithaca; D. Scott, Partridge, Ely.

Twelfth District—Wm. P. Preston, Mackinac Island; Edward P. Ryan, Calumet.

The Platform.

The report of the committee on resolutions, which follows, is the party platform for the campaign:

The Democracy of Michigan in convention assembled firmly reasserts its allegiance to the principles of majority rule and pure Democracy, wherein laws are proposed, enacted and executed for the sole purpose of protecting the interests of all the people without favor or special privilege to any class or individual.

One: Evils under the form of combinations and trusts, which have so shocked the moral conscience of the nation in the last few years are a direct outcome of class legislation by the Republican party conferring privileges upon corporations at the expense of the common people. A continuance of such legislation is now threatened by the many bills of like tenor. In instance the ship subsidy bill, and inadequate remedial laws enacted by the recent congress, showing that there is no honest purpose on the part of the Republican party to relieve the people from the evils thus cast upon them by this unjust class legislation. Their affiliations with the classes thus favored make it absolutely impossible to obtain relief from Republican sources. In proof of this uncertainty of the Republican party not affording any relief from these national evils, we have but to refer to their action in rejecting the William F. Hurlbutt, of Buchanan, is another of the 14-year-olds who shouldered muskets in defense of their country in the dark days of '61 and fought side by side with their older comrades to save the union and keep the Stars and Stripes waving over an undivided country.

He enlisted as a private in Company B, Ninth Michigan Infantry, on August 12, 1861, while he still lacked over forty days of being 15 years old. He was with his regiment from that time until he was discharged January 13, 1864, at Chattanooga, Tenn.

proposition of Senator La Follette, regarding railroad rate legislation, which, if adopted, would have brought certain relief, and was in perfect accord with the declarations on that subject in the Democratic platform of 1896.

Fully believing in the honesty, integrity and wisdom of William Jennings Bryan, and that under his leadership the people would receive relief from the many ills above referred to, we commend him to the people of the United States as candidate for president in 1908.

Two: We favor the nomination of all candidates for office by direct vote of the people and will do everything in our power to secure legislation directly to that end. We favor the adoption of such legislation or constitutional amendments as shall provide, viz.:

(a) For the election of railroad and tax commissioners by direct vote of the people.

(b) We favor home rule, giving to any city, village, county or township the right to decide for itself, subject to the referendum all matters of purely local interest, regarding local taxes and the question of owning and operating any given public utility, requiring franchise rights, or granting of franchise for such ownership to a private company.

(c) We are in favor of the nomination and election of United States senators by direct vote of the people.

(d) We favor the repeal of the so-called indeterminate sentence law, and restoring to the judges discretion in the punishment of persons convicted of crime.

(e) We are opposed to a political pardon board and in favor of its abolition.

(f) We reaffirm our faith in popular government by majority vote and pledge ourselves to enact the same by the adoption of that principle of pure Democracy, the initiative and referendum and popular recall.

Three: We are in favor of a passenger rate on railroads not exceeding two cents per mile in the southern peninsula of this state and not exceeding three cents per mile in the northern peninsula.

Four: We most emphatically declare for the election of delegates to the forthcoming constitutional convention by non-partisan method and that any candidate for delegate may have his name as such candidate placed on the official ballot, if a petition by a reasonable number of voters is filed in his behalf. The names on the official ballot should be without party or other designation. We demand an amendment to the election law by eliminating the cross at the head of the ticket, and in place thereof require placing a cross before the name of each candidate for whom the voter desires to vote.

Five: We condemn in the most unmistakable terms, the action of the last legislature in passing the change of venue law, which makes it possible for a litigant upon making a prescribed affidavit without any investigation, as to the truth of the statements therein made, to have his case transferred to another circuit, thus placing a premium upon perjury and discommodating litigants and making the trial of causes a farce.

Six: We believe that laws should be enacted making it a criminal offense for any member of the state legislature, or a state officer, to accept or use free transportation from any railroad or transportation company.

Seven: We denounce the present primary election law as a fraud and sham, and pledge ourselves to enact a primary law simple and workable and that will not, in its operation deprive any voter of his franchise.

Eight: Our state government needs readjustment upon the lines of greater economy and better business methods. We urge the voters of Michigan to lay aside party prejudices, to elect members of the legislature who are in sympathy with honest primary reform, and the other principles herein enunciated, and to unite with us in electing the state officers nominated at this convention who are pledged to the earnest support of those principles.

Killed the Conductor.

Conductor "Bud" Stone, aged 21, of Saginaw, was killed by a stab in the leg which severed an artery, the deed being done by Tony Bartello, aged 45, an Italian who sought revenge for a practical joke played on him which he attributed to his victim. Stone was conductor of a Pere Marquette work train operating near Lowell on which are quartered about 40 Italians, mostly from Detroit, and Bartello was one of these. He became intoxicated, and went to the caboose, where Stone was about to retire, and attacked him. Stone, after receiving the wound in his leg, leaped from the car, calling for help, but fell before going far and died in a few moments.

No one can understand why men show so much anxiety regarding a woman's age.

Members of the board of trade of Pontiac have started a movement to have all of the factories and the schools operate by standard time. At present the reform is but partially in vogue.

A special train on the D. & M. railroad ran down a handcar with Albert Stewart and John Mulholland aboard. Both Stewart's legs were broken and he was otherwise badly bruised, but Mulholland was scarcely scratched.

ROADS MUST SHOW BOOKS

MINNESOTA COMMISSION ISSUES SWEEPING ORDER.

Earnings of Roads to Be Investigated—Charges by Attorney for Shippers.

St. Paul, Minn.—The state railroad and warehouse commission Thursday entered an order compelling the railroads whose officials have given testimony in the merchandise rate hearing, which has been in progress during the present year and which was lately resumed, to produce at the office of the commission all records on which their statistics have been based.

This order is the most sweeping one of the kind ever made by the commission, and if the commission is inclined to enforce it, in detail, it would mean the bringing of the record of all railroads doing business in Minnesota to the state capitol.

Attorney Severance, representing the railroads, said to Commissioner Staples: "Why, if this order is enforced it would mean the removal of the offices of all the railroads to the state capitol." Mr. Staples replied by saying it would not do that if the railroads would permit the examination of the records in their own offices.

This order of the commission is the result of a request made by Attorney Manahan, representing the shippers of Hastings, Minn., made at the hearing Wednesday, after the auditor of the Northern Pacific railroad had given a lot of statistics showing how the earnings of railroads had decreased in Minnesota while they had increased in Iowa and Illinois. Mr. Manahan claimed that the statistics did not show actual facts.

The order of the commission is directed at the Great Northern railroad, but may be made applicable to any road on request of the shippers' attorney.

The hearing was replete with somewhat sensational features, the climax being reached when James Manahan, attorney for the Minnesota Shippers' association, attacked the character of the law firm of the attorney present for the railroads.

NEED WORKMEN IN NORTHWEST

Labor Situation in Minnesota Causes Worry Among the Farmers.

Minneapolis, Minn.—A bumper crop in the northwest and no men to harvest it.

The farm labor situation in Minnesota to-day is the worst in the history of the state.

Fifteen thousand men are needed in Minnesota, Iowa and the two Dakotas and about a thousand are available. The wages offered by the farmers range from $1.75 to $3 a day and board, but the jobs go begging.

A thousand men are needed in Minneapolis at as high wages as are paid in the country, but the available men refuse to work.

Slayer Captured.

Grand Rapids, Mich.—Tony Bartello was caught near Elm Dale Thursday. Bartello stabbed to death "Bud" Stone at Lowell, Mich. Stone was a conductor and Bartello head of a gang of laborers.

French General Near Death.

Paris.—Gen. Brugere, former commander-in-chief of the French army, is in a dangerous condition as the result of an operation for appendicitis. There is little hope of the general's recovery.

FORMER MAYOR IS SENTENCED

Embezzling Executive of Paterson, N. J., Given Prison Sentence.

Paterson, N. J.—William H. Belcher, who while mayor of this city, absconded a year ago, and who surrendered himself on Monday last, was sentenced Friday to 12 years' imprisonment in the state prison at Trenton on a charge of embezzlement. Belcher disappeared from this city about a year ago while he was mayor. He was alleged to have embezzled from $100,000 to $150,000 from personal friends and from the Manchester Building and Loan association, which was forced to suspend business. No trace of the missing man was discovered by the authorities until he appeared at the county jail Monday night and voluntarily surrendered. He had only $17 in his possession, and declared that he had suffered great hardships during his absence. He said that he had traveled about the country until his funds were exhausted. He found himself penniless in St. Paul after losing the last remaining $200, and then secured work digging ditches for $1.25 a day. His health broke down and he was compelled to seek other employment and resume his wanderings. He finally found himself in New York, Ill. and without funds. After giving himself up he expressed regret and said he was prepared to suffer the consequences of his embezzlement.

The courtroom in which Belcher was sentenced was crowded with his former friends and political associates, some of whom had suffered by his embezzlements. There was no taking of evidence. Six indictments, each alleging embezzlement, were read and counsel for Belcher entered a plea to the court for clemency and declared that Belcher's surrender and failure to contest the case were mitigating circumstances.

Justice Scott in his review of the said that Belcher's pecuniaries had left some of his victims penniless and that he saw no reason for exercising clemency. Sentence was then imposed.

HOLDS WULFF FEES ILLEGAL.

Ex-State Treasurer Loses Suit Heard in Springfield, Ill.

Springfield, Ill.—The state of Illinois Thursday secured judgment against former State Treasurer Henry Wulff and Floyd W. Whittemore, his bondsman, for $6,532.40 before Judge Creighton in the Sangamon circuit court. The judgment was excepted to by the defendants and an appeal was taken to the state supreme court.

The suit was filed by the state of Illinois to recover fees held by former State Treasurer Wulff, prohibited by a special act of the legislature. These fees were collected for the registration of county, township and municipal bonds. It is probable that the case will be heard at the December term of the supreme court, as the attorneys may not agree to a hearing at the October term.

Collier May Be Saved.

Washington.—A report was received at the navy department Friday from Admiral Evans, commanding the Atlantic fleet, that there were some chances of saving the collier Nero aground on Block island.

Lithographers Quit Work.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Seventy-five lithographers employed in four printing houses in Minneapolis walked out Friday on a strike in response to the general strike order issued from the national headquarters.

TO REVIEW WARSHIPS

PRESIDENT TO WITNESS NAVAL PARADE OFF OYSTER BAY.

NEW CRAFT IN THE LINE.

Atlantic Fleet, Reinforced by Armored Cruisers for Asiatic Waters, and Torpedo Boats to Participate.

New York.—The largest fleet of battleships, armored cruisers and torpedo craft ever assembled under the American flag will pass in review before President Roosevelt in the waters off Oyster Bay, September 3. In addition to all the battleships in the Atlantic fleet, under Rear Admiral Evans, four of the new ships, all of them larger and more powerful than any in Admiral Evans' fleet, will be in line. The four armored cruisers now being made ready for the Asiatic service will be reinforced by the cruisers Washington and Tennessee. The Tennessee was put in commission last week. The Washington will be commissioned this week.

The navy department has been at work for weeks perfecting the plans for the review. Admiral Evans will be in command, his flag flying from the Maine. As it passes in review the Maine will be followed by the Missouri, Kentucky, Kearsarge, Indiana and Iowa in the order named. The last four ships comprise the second squadron of the battleship division of the Atlantic fleet.

Louisiana May Head Division.

The order in which the four new battleships will pass in review has not been announced. It is probable that this division will be headed by the Louisiana, which will be followed by the Rhode Island, Virginia and New Jersey. These four ships are the finest in offensive and defensive strength ever commissioned for the United States navy. Their appearance at Oyster Bay will be the beginning of their services as ships of the fighting line.

All of the armored cruisers, with the exception of the Brooklyn and the New York, now in Asiatic waters, probably will participate. The four sister ships, the West Virginia, Colorado, Pennsylvania and Maryland, which are under orders to proceed to Asiatic waters to relieve the Ohio and Wisconsin, will make their last appearance in home waters for several years to come. Immediately after the review these ships, with Rear Admiral Brownson in command, will start for the far east.

To Review Torpedo Vessels.

The torpedo vessels that will be reviewed by the President are those in the second and third flotillas of the Atlantic fleet, the former under command of Lieutenant Commander Edwin A. Anderson and the second commanded by Lieut. Willis McDowell. The vessels are the Hopkins, Lawrence, Macdonough, Whipple, Truxtun and Worden, comprising the second flotilla, and the Wilkes, Blakesley, De Long, Rodgers and Stockton, which make up the third flotilla.

The president probably will review the ships from the deck of the dispatch boat Dolphin. With him will be Secretary of the Navy Bonaparte, Assistant Secretary Newberry, and probably other officers of the navy, including Admiral Dewey.

MICHIGAN INDORSES W. J. BRYAN

Democrats Favor Nebraskan for President and Nominate State Ticket.

Detroit, Mich.—Indorsement of William J. Bryan for president in 1908, the defeat of a resolution calling upon the national Democratic committee to investigate the charges made against Chairman Thomas E. Taggart and demand his resignation if they were proven, and the nomination of Charles H. Kimmerle, of Cassopolis, for governor over Stanley D. Parkhill, of Owosso, the only other candidate, after a spirited ballot were the features of the Democratic state convention held here Thursday.

Safety Appliance Suits.

Washington.—Attorney General Moody, in accordance with the policy heretofore determined on, has directed further prosecutions of a number of railroads for violations of the federal safety appliance acts.

The United States attorneys for the various districts wherein the violations were committed will be directed to file and vigorously prosecute suits for the recovery of the statutory penalty.

Final Bigelow Dividend.

Milwaukee.—The final account of the trustee of the bankrupt estate of Frank G. Bigelow, the defaulting bank president, who is now serving a sentence in Fort Leavenworth, was filed Wednesday. The trustee says that there is sufficient money on hand to pay a final dividend of 11.22 per cent. on approved claims, aggregating $3,242,255.

Two Lieutenants Resign.

Washington.—The resignation of Second Lieut. Clarence A. Eustaphie, twenty-third infantry, has been accepted for the good of the service. The resignation of Lieut. Albert S. Odell, Eleventh cavalry, has been accepted.

Capt. Merriman Dead.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Capt. O. C. Merriman, former referee in bankruptcy in the United States court, one of the best-known citizens of Minneapolis, is dead at his home in this city. He was 72 years old.

CUMMINS IS RENOMINATED

IOWA REPUBLICANS PICK PRESIDENT GOVERNOR TO LEAD.

May Succeed Senator Allison—Platform Favoring Revision of the Tariff is Adopted.

Des Moines, Ia.—Albert B. Cummins has been renominated for governor by the Republican state convention upon a platform which firmly opposes corporate influence in public affairs, upholding the theory of protection and favoring revision of tariff schedules to keep in harmony with the commercial conditions of the country and favoring a wide primary law looking to the election of United States senators by direct vote of the people.

Warren Garst, for whom Cummins has held out from the first, was nominated for lieutenant-governor, and the remainder of the ticket nominated was as follows:

Secretary of state, W. C. Hayward.
Auditor of state, B. F. Carroll.
Treasurer of state, W. W. Morrow.
Attorney general, H. W. Byers.
Supreme judges, E. McLean, John C. Sherwin.

Superintendent of public instruction, John F. Riggs.
Clerk of supreme court, John C. Crockett.

Reporter of court, W. W. Cornwall.
Railroad commissioners, W. L. Eaton, David J. Palmer.

Gov. Cummins practically had everything his own way, dictating the platform and routing completely the hosts of George D. Perkins, his opponent, and relegating Leslie M. Shaw, secretary of the treasury, to the rear, at least temporarily. In fact, Shaw's name was hissed by a factional set during the proceedings of the convention. Cummins' friends now are urging his name as a presidential possibility. All party machinery is now in control of Cummins, and there is a strong probability that he will succeed Senator Allison in 1908.

The vote on the governorship stood 933 for Cummins, 603 for Perkins and 104 for Rathbun. Gov. Cummins addressed the delegates, and said that it was economic ideas and not his personality that won him a renomination.

WILL INVESTIGATE DIETZ CASE

Gen. Davidson Will Act with Caution Regarding Sending of Troops.

Madison, Wis.—Gov. Davidson will appoint a commission to investigate the Dietz situation at Cameron dam.

For the present, at least, there is no intention on the part of the executive to send troops to capture Dietz. Whether troops will be sent later will depend on the report of the investigating commission.

Several posess have attempted to serve Dietz with legal papers in a civil process within the past two years, but each time failed.

Raddisison, Wis.—After crawling on hands and knees for a great distance through the forest, Duyo Rogich, of Milwaukee, wounded in three places by Clarence Dietz, reached the homestead of Charles Johnson, and was later carried into Winsters, where he secured medical attention. Slight hope is entertained for his recovery. He had been terribly exposed when he reached the Johnson place, and his wounds had become filled with dirt.

HEARST TO BE THE CANDIDATE

Independent League to Nominate Full State Ticket in New York.

New York.—William R. Hearst has decided to run for governor as an independent candidate. The state committee of the Independent league, a Hearst organization, met yesterday at the Gilsey house and decided the league shall hold a state convention in this city Sept. 11 to nominate Hearst for governor and put a full state and judiciary ticket in the field.

It was announced that the league will seek no affiliation with the regular democratic party—that it will go ahead as an independent movement. If the democrats see fit to indorse Hearst and the league ticket, well and good, but no favors will be sought from the heads of the democratic machine.

Ice Dealers Defeated.

Toledo, O.—Judge Rabcock, in common pleas court, Friday handed down his decision in the ice cases, sustaining Judge Kinkade in every particular and exonerating him of having made any promise or suggestion of leniency as claimed by the attorneys for the ice trust. The judge declared the contentions of the attorneys for the trust to be ridiculous and should never have been brought into court.

Rear Admiral Dead.

Chefoo.—Rear Admiral Charles J. Train, commander-in-chief of the United States Asiatic fleet, died at 16 minutes past nine Saturday morning of uraemia.

Fatal Fire in Texas.

Houston, Tex.—W. I. Fletcher was instantly killed, Lee Brooks, a negro, received fatal burns and the entire building was gutted as a result of an explosion in the wholesale liquor house of Joppet & Co.

Fatal Explosion in Mine.

Scranton, Pa.—Jere Wilson was killed and Charles Parrish fatally injured in the North End Coal colliery. They had prepared a blast and started to retreat. They ran into a blast in an adjoining chamber.

CONGRESSMAN TOWNSEND.

Will be in attendance at the picnic in Smith's Grove, Thursday, August 23 and deliver an address.

The Maccabees of Jackson will hold their annual picnic at Wolf Lake, Wednesday, August 22.

Dexter village has paid out $900 for cement sidewalks so far this season. Fred Wyman did the work.

The war between Prosecuting Attorney Sawyer and Justice George Gunn of Ypsilanti, seems to be on in earnest, and both officials are manifesting a disposition to stand pat on their positions. The justice is undertaking to hear police cases against the positive refusal of Prosecuting Attorney Sawyer to audit the expense bills. A test case has been made and the outcome will be watched with considerable interest.

A matter of some interest to local merchants is the action of the supreme court in wiping off the statute books Act 214, which provides for the licensing of transient merchants. For some time past there have been frequent complaints of "flying-by-night" concerns, which come into the city with a cargo of goods and undersell merchants who are paying taxes and distributing their profits in every legitimate manner. Now the whole business is declared illegal, and any parties who attempt to carry on such business are subject to prosecution.

Jay Burch, 28 years old, of 65 Elizabeth street west, Detroit, was crushed to death by an elevator in the new plant of the Morgan & Wright Rubber Co. at the foot of Bellevue avenue about 10 o'clock Wednesday morning. No one saw the accident. Judging from the position of the body, however, it is supposed that Burch, who was running the elevator, tried to step aboard or off the car while it was moving upward. His body was wedged against the third floor of the building so securely that the elevator was brought to a stop. The mother of the young man is a resident of Colon. The young man was a former resident of Chelsea and for a time had charge of the Post Works.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure it, science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Between the grasshoppers and the dry weather the last springs clover seeding is pretty thoroughly destroyed on most farms in this vicinity and it is a serious loss.

NEVER SAW A RAILROAD.

Virginia Youth Ventures Forth on First Tour and Sleeps in Jail as a Result.

Cleveland, O.—Oelrid Troy, 18 years of age, Carroll county, Virginia, long and lean and as innocent as tall, spent the other night at the Central police station.

Until a recent morning Oelrid had never seen a railroad train. All of the 18 years of his life had been spent on a farm in the back part of Carroll county; but after Oelrid's father died and his mother became ill, four years ago, things began to break bad at the farm and soon there was a heavy mortgage in sight.

A chance seemed to offer itself in the way of a job proffered to Oelrid by his cousin in Ohio, and it was then that Oelrid made the long journey from his home to the nearest railroad station, and started on his still longer journey to his cousin's home in Ohio.

As near as Oelrid could remember, that cousin lived in a place called Rich Hill, somewhere in Ohio; but he lost the card bearing the address, and is not now sure where his cousin lives. The police gave Oelrid a bed at the station. Oelrid had spent his last cent on street car fare, and was wandering aimlessly about the streets, his baggage under his arm, when a kind-hearted citizen's attention was attracted to his forlorn appearance.

The man brought the boy to the station, and Oelrid was glad to stay there all night.

DOG KEEPS SMILING NOW.

Scranton Beagle Has a Gold Tooth, and is Proud of It.

Wilkesbarre, Pa.—Dr. Fred S. Birchard, of Scranton, has a dog with a solid gold tooth. The dog is proud of it. The animal is a valuable English beagle. A few days ago, noticing that one of its front teeth was very much decayed, Dr. Birchard took the dog to a dentist friend.

The dentist suggested that the best thing to do was to insert a gold tooth.

"I'll do it now," said the dentist, who is a great lover of animals. The operation took a little more than half an hour. All that time the intelligent animal laid back in his master's arms, submitting with an occasional whine of pain.

Now it sports about with its fine gold tooth, a curiosity for all the small boys of the community.

Old Coach a Colonial Relic.

Antrim, N. H.—Melvin D. Poore is the owner of a private coach which was built more than a century and a quarter ago in Philadelphia, and was in use during the administration of President Washington. It has been in Mr. Poore's family for more than 75 years and is in an excellent state of preservation.

Chief Cause of Suicide.

The old school of neuropathologists maintained that every case of suicide was a case of insanity, but that theory has been abandoned because of the preponderance of testimony against it. Acute mania sometimes causes suicide, but in the large majority of cases sheer laziness and poltroonery furnish the plain evidence of motive. The lazy theory is, therefore, approximately correct, even though it is improperly restricted to hot weather suicides. It really applies to all.

World's Consumption of Rubber.

Some idea of the enormous quantity of rubber used every year can be obtained from the following necessarily rough estimate of French statistical experts. They calculate that the present total annual production of rubber is not less than 57,000,000 pounds. Of this total about 55 per cent. comes from South America and Africa, and considerably over 45 per cent. of the finished product is consumed in the United States. Germany is the second largest user of rubber.

A Courtship of 25 Years.

The recent wedding of Miss Margaret McCough, of New Derry, and Oscar Crissinger, of Derry, was the culmination of a courtship which had extended over a quarter of a century. There had been no lovers' quarrels, but Miss McCough would not set the day, and the event was delayed from year to year until now the bride is 65—60 years old and the bridegroom is 65.

THIS AUTOMOBILE SAWS WOOD.

Owner Says the Machine Combines Business and Pleasure.

Indian Orchard, Mass.—Andre Larocche has shown inventive genius by devising a means whereby he can use his automobile both for travel and for a wood-sawing machine. Larocche recently obtained a second-hand ten-horsepower automobile in a trade.

His financial position not being such that he could afford to maintain the automobile for pleasure purposes alone, he attached a circular saw to the rear of the body in such a manner that he can connect it with the engine. He now goes about the town sawing wood by the cord, and in the evening detaches the saw and rides for pleasure.

Formerly he used a horse in sawing wood, but he says the automobile is far better. He can cut a cord of wood, he says, in less than half an hour.

Telephones Installed at Play.

London.—To enable young married women, if they become anxious, to telephone home and inquire as to the condition of their children, telephones are fitted in every private box at the Coliseum. It is a common thing at the opera and many West End theaters to see a group of women awaiting their turn at the telephone between acts, says London Opinion, just "to have a word with nurse."

CHINA READY FOR WAR

ATTEMPT TO OVERTHROW EMPEROR EXPECTED SOON.

Reign of Terror Predicted for Celestial Empire—Only One Good Army in Country—Serious Flaws of Soldiers.

Peking.—China is a volcano. Close observers not in Peking, because Peking is not the place to get the real news concerning China, but foreigners long resident in the interior, in Shantung and Chihli, put the explosion nine years hence. Educated Chinese bring it nearer. For the present, however, the American in China is as secure as he would be in his home in the United States.

It is well understood in official and other circles that it is useless to kill foreigners. There is a general running after foreign things and foreign ways. Men having foreign training are in demand. The same men had to run for their lives in "Boxer" times. At the same time there is anxiety to shake off foreign control of everything—partly from a new feeling of national pride and partly from a desire to keep the good things for the Chinese.

Misgivings for the future are based on fear of an antidynastic rising, probably on the part of the radicals. This would become partly anti-foreign and in any case would mean anarchy.

There are a great many "armies" in China, but the only one that counts is Yuan Shi Kai's "northern army." The Chinese are raising big horses somewhere in Mongolia for the ultimate use of the army, and hope to remount their cavalry in about four years. Of the other arms the men are smart and the recent spring maneuvers were most creditable.

There are serious flaws in the army. The Chinese soldiers will blaze away blank cartridges in fine style, but they are not trained to shoot. Target practice is rare. It is doubtful if the men would follow their officers except to the rear, and it is doubtful if the officers would go anywhere else.

The "American boycott" never seriously affected the interior. A few items of United States imports came into the interior in smaller quantities than before. It was a question for the ports, particularly those in the south. The Shanghai riots were purely local and magnified by Shanghai hysteria. A serious question is the educational one, which gives rise to the "young China" movement. This is founded on conceit, the basis of Chinese student character. They are about one-quarter educated and think their education is complete.

Pan-American Conference, at Rio Janeiro, Brazil

The third session of the Pan-American conference, at which Secretary Root is representing this country, met at Rio Janeiro, Brazil. The sessions are held in the Brazilian pavilion at the St. Louis exposition which was removed to Brazil after the close of the great fair. Aside from Secretary Root the members of the delegation from this country are Edmund J. James, president of the University of Illinois; Leo S. Rowe, professor of political economy in the University of Pennsylvania; Julio Larrinaga, resident commissioner of Porto Rico to the United States, and James S. Harlan, a lawyer, of Chicago, and son of Associate Justice John M. Harlan, of the United States supreme court. They were officially received on their arrival.

NICKNAME FOR OKLAHOMA.

Papoose, Indian, Lobo, Mistletoe, Squaw Men, Eagle and Twin State Are Suggestions.

Guthrie, Okla.—In a sense Oklahoma and Indian territory can be likened to a couple engaged to be married, with the wedding date set for July 4, 1907. For then, and not till then, will they become one state, the forty-sixth of the union. Meanwhile the people collectively are thinking up suggestions as to a fitting nickname for the new state. Although numerous catchy names have been mentioned, yet the prevailing opinion seems to be that it should in some manner refer to the Indian, as this will be the last state carved out of the old Indian country.

Among the suggestions are "Papoose," "Indian," "Eagle," "Mistletoe," "Lobo," "Squaw-men" and Oklahoma.

According to Green M'Curtain, the Indian governor of the Choctaw Indian nation, "Oklahoma is a Choctaw word, meaning red people; okla for people, and homma for red." It was suggested by Allen Wright, a fullblood Choctaw Indian, one of the framers of the treaty with the United States in 1866. The proper pronunciation of "Oklahoma" is "Owe-klah-homa." Three recognized dictionaries differ as to the pronunciation of the word, but as it is an Indian word, the people of Oklahoma prefer the Indian pronunciation, which is above given.

JACKSON'S HEAD STOLEN.

Part of Historic Statue Formerly Figurehead of Constitution Gone.

Lowell, Mass.—Who stole Andrew Jackson's head? This is what perplexes the Lowell police and the members of the Bowers family, who occupy the handsome estate of Willow Dale. The statue of "Old Hickory" has a fine historic record, which was little thought of by the vandals, who thought it a joke to make away with the head.

The great statue of Gen. Jackson, which stood nearly 50 years at the entrance of the Dale, was originally the figurehead on the famous old frigate Constitution, "Old Ironsides." Way back on July 2, 1834, the head was removed from the figure while it was yet on the Constitution, and for 27 years it remained headless.

In the early sixties it was purchased with a lot of other relics from the back room of the establishment of a wood carver in Boston, where it had lain for years after being removed from the war vessel by the late Jonathan Bowers. On July 2, 1861, Mr. Bowers had another head placed on it, and it was set up in the grave.

Uses Sea Water; Faces Fine.

Boulogne.—A woman who took two buckets of water from the sea to bathe her child, in accordance with the doctors' orders, was astonished to receive an official warning from the customs officers threatening to fine her for breach of the law. There has been discovered an unrecalled law of Louis XIV. forbidding the taking of sea water lest those taking it extract the salt, and thus defraud the government of the salt tax. The woman has written a declaration of the purpose for which the water was obtained in order to secure an official permit to use sea water.

Gold Found at Lowest Depth.

Melbourne, Australia.—A specimen of gold bearing quartz mined from the lowest depth on record is to be seen at the mines department here. It was obtained from the new Chino railway mine at Bendigo at a depth of 423 feet. It is an excellent sample of auriferous stone, and 27 loads taken from the same depth were crushed for a yield of 21 ounces 14 pennyweights gold. This is a record not only for Australia, but for the world.

JAPAN TO TRY EXPERIMENT.

Country Will Nationalize All Lines of Business—Manchurian Trade to Be Captured.

Washington.—That Japan is preparing to nationalize all the industries of the country is indicated by advices received by the bureau of manufactures. This move, which is one of the greatest experiments in the world's history, includes the protection, supervision and development of the various lines of business, all under the direct charge of the government. The provision for the nationalization of the railways is only a single step in the great plan.

The question of Manchurian development has received careful attention, and now it is proposed that a company shall be formed by the government and private capitalists jointly for operating the railways, mines and forests there. Americans who are striving for the trade of the orient will discover that they are in commercial conflict with the Japanese nation itself.

A great guild of cotton manufacturing companies has been formed to capture the Manchurian trade. The government will make the loan through the Yokohama Specie bank, without limitations as to the amount, not only on cotton textiles, but on matches, cement, beer, marine products, lumber and other goods to be exported to Manchuria at the rate of four and one-half per cent. The government will pursue a similar policy with regard to Korea.

TOWN IS TAKING TO BEER.

Water Supply Blamed for Increase of Appendicitis and Paralysis.

Corning, N. Y.—"This city's water supply is responsible for much of the appendicitis prevalent here," is the declaration of Dr. F. S. Swain, secretary of the City Medical society. "Not only does it cause appendicitis but it is also responsible for nine-tenths of the paralysis cases as well as heart disease and gall stones."

This indictment of the drinking water of Corning is concurred in by other members of the medical association. It is explained that the percentage of alkali in the water is high and when it gets into the human system causes a scale formation in the arteries. The scale becomes brittle, breaks off and the little particles are carried in the blood to the brain, causing paralysis; to the liver, causing gall stones, and to the appendix.

A water commission will spend several hundred thousand dollars, if necessary, on a new supply. Temperance advocates are aghast at the way beer drinking has increased for "hygienic" reasons.

Decline in Exports of Oil.

Washington.—A large decrease in the exports of petroleum during May is shown in the government reports. This follows a large decrease in April, and the decline is explained as due in part to heavy shipments in preceding months. The falling off has been most marked in the shipments to the far east, where the American oil has to meet the competition of the Sumatra product. The exports during the first five months of the present calendar year were 483,898,710 gallons, an increase of more than 32,000,000 gallons over those of the corresponding period of the previous year. More than half the increase was in illuminating oil.

New Fruit Shows Fright.

London.—A Philippine newspaper announces the discovery of an extraordinary fruit which has grown on a native tree known as the carouder. When squeezed it utters a sort of articulate cry; when scratched it shudders. It is about the size of a peach, and the paper from which the description is taken suggests that it is part animal and part vegetable.

TO TEACH THE POOR

INDIANA MISSIONARIES WILL ORGANIZE SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

Convention Planned by Field Workers at Winona Lake for Purpose of Spreading the Gospel in Rural Districts.

Winona Lake, Ind.—One of the most peculiar and interesting conventions of the year will be held here in August, when the Indiana field workers of the American Sunday School union, and perhaps a number from other states, will hold the first conference the Indiana workers have ever held. It will bring together nine men from this state, who are seldom seen and heard by the people of cities and larger towns, but they are men who, in the sparsely settled regions of the state, are better known than the carriers on the rural mail routes. It is the business of these field workers to go among a class of people that would not otherwise hear of the Bible and quicken their interest in the book. The chief purpose of the Sunday School union is to get copies of the Bible in these homes, and with this purpose is closely linked that of organizing Sunday schools at points convenient for the poor of the rural districts.

The American Sunday School union, with headquarters in Philadelphia, was organized in 1824, and it has spent $10,000,000 for Bibles and other religious literature, all of which has been distributed free in the remote regions of American civilization.

It pays no salaries to its field men, who live as best they can from free will offerings of the people among whom they work, and their lot is harder than that of the old-time circuit rider, who rode his horse from settlement to settlement when Indiana was young. The field men seek the crossroads points, and there open the Sunday schools, using blacksmith shops, granaries or any kind of building that will offer shelter from the weather, and in these Sunday schools are gathered the men, women and children of the neighborhood, regardless of religious beliefs.

Of the men at work in this state, J. M. Cares, of New Albany, goes through the hill country of southern Indiana. J. A. Carter has Brown county in his district, and he has organized a number of Sunday schools for the neglected poor in the hills of that and Morgan county.

W. H. Hess, who is organizing the August conference, makes his home at Winona Lake throughout the year and the ten northern Indiana counties over which he travels are one of the largest districts that the Sunday School union has in the middle west. The methods followed by Mr. Hess are typical of those of all the missionaries. He has a wagon similar to that of the rural mail carrier, only it is not brilliant with red paint and it is covered with religious inscriptions.

Mr. Hess went into this Sunday school work six years ago, with his pockets empty, but he was fired with the hope that seems to fill every kind of mission worker. E. A. K. Hackett, of Fort Wayne, started a movement which resulted in a good outfit for Mr. Hess—a strong horse, a good set of harness and a substantial, comfortable wagon, which can be driven in all kinds of weather and over all kinds of country roads. Mr. Hackett also keeps this "gospel wagon" supplied with song books, which the missionary uses in his Sunday schools.

A variety of literature is stacked up in shelves in the Hess wagon, but the chief stock is Bibles. The Bibles are substantially bound in cloth, printed in minion type and the covers are of dark red, that the book may be more attractive to children. In six years Mr. Hess has found 500 families in the ten counties of his district who had no Bible. He had found boys 15 years old who had never been inside of a Sunday school.

"It is surprising to see," he said, "what destitution there is in the way of knowledge of the Bible in this old-settled region of the state. But there has been mission work done among the poor and ignorant in this part of Indiana, for in Wabash county I have found tracts which were distributed to the humble homes 50 years ago."

Mr. Hess has started a Sunday school in an abandoned country church, which during its palmy days sent out eight ministers of the gospel. Five years ago he opened a school in one neighborhood, and a girl of 14 years old immediately became its mainstay. She is now the efficient superintendent of the school.

In one little town of his territory Mr. Hess found a church that had been abandoned. He obtained permission to use the structure, spent two days in driving to the homes of 41 families, and on the next Sabbath opened a school. When the missionary first entered this town the word spread among the people that he was a state fish warden. One woman buried her husband's fish nets in the ground. Mr. Hess, a few months ago, held a series of meetings in this place and converted 49.

The conference of the missionaries will be held at Winona lake during the Bible conference, when some of the best religious orators who speak the English tongue will be here.

Great U. S. Naval Show Planned. Washington.—Plans have been perfected for the grand naval pageant which Acting Secretary of the Navy Newberry has announced will occur in the sound off Oyster Bay September 3. The president will receive the Atlantic fleet.

LIVES ALONE IN HOUSE IN TREE.

Novel Means of Man to Get Rid of Hay Fever.

Sydney, Cape Breton.—Warren Carrol, a coal prospector, who has been operating in the vicinity of the Cheticamp river, south of Grande Etang, tells of meeting a man in the barren lands who has been living in a tree for three summers because he believes it will cure his hay fever.

Carrol says that the man, who claimed that his name was Strong, and that he came from St. John N. B., "had built himself a comfortable cabin of one room in the branches of a giant hemlock and was thoroughly enjoying life. The house was set about 40 feet from the ground and was reached by several ladders, which were spiked against the sides of the tree trunk."

In the cabin was a bed made of boughs, a stove, constructed out of sheet iron, three looking-glasses, a lamp, three rustic chairs and 36 cushions stuffed with balsam needles. The place was as neat as though kept by a woman and was built so that there would be no waste space.

Strong was rather reticent, but Carrol learned enough to convince him that the man was in his right mind and that he really believed the "tree cure" was doing him good. He said he couldn't explain why the hay fever would not attack him as long as he lived in a tree, but that it was a fact and he took advantage of it. He lived mostly on fish and game, but he had some vegetables stowed away in hollow tree trunks near by.

BRUINS TAKE TO THE HIGHWAY.

She Bear, Two Cubs and Umbrella Give Workmen a Scare.

Stroudsburg, Pa.—"Look!" There comes a woman under an umbrella, with two kids, moseying down the track!" exclaimed Wilson Ellenberger, who was helping some other men load cars on the railroad near here.

"Well, that's a funny looking woman, then!" retorted his nearest companion, shading his eyes as he scrutinized the distant but approaching trio. The "woman and kids" turned out to be a she bear and her two cubs, which approached near enough to the workmen to be scared, then took to the woods.

Just over the divide, in Luzerne county, the other day a big black bear appeared in the middle of the highway as Charles Maurer and family were driving over the mountains. Their horses balked and snorted, whereupon Maurer, his wife and children jumped out, frightened, with the exception of seven-year-old Margaret, who, before her parents knew what she was doing, ran down the road toward the bear and approached to within ten or fifteen feet of it, when it turned and ran.

PORTRAIT OF "DAVY" CROCKETT.

Bought of John S. Wise and Hung in the Historic Alamo.

Austin, Tex.—It was recently ascertained by the officers of the Daughters of the Republic of Texas that John S. Wise, Jr., a native of Virginia, now living in New York, was the owner of an original portrait of David Crockett, who was prominent in the early history of Texas. An investigation on the part of the Daughters of the Republic established the authenticity of the picture and it was found that it was painted from life in 1832, when Crockett was a member of congress from Tennessee, by John G. Chapman, a noted American artist. There are only two original pictures of Crockett in existence. The other, by Daramb, is in the national capitol at Washington. The portrait which Chapman painted was purchased by Mr. Wise many years ago. As a result of negotiations entered into by representatives of the Daughters of the Republic of Texas and Mr. Wise, the portrait was recently purchased from him for $1,000. It arrived in Texas a few days ago and has been hung in the historic Alamo at San Antonio.

Great Remnant and Notion Sale!

Final clean up after the season's business. Cost cuts no figure.

Just read this advertisement. Sale commences

Saturday, Aug. 11, ending Tuesday Night, Aug. 21.

We have had Remnant and Notion sales before, but our sale this time will be different from any that has ever been held in this section. We could make a long story of it, but we don't believe you'd be as interested in a long explanation as in price quotations. Therefore we will make it brief. While our sales this spring and summer were much larger than any previous season, we had bought more goods to sell. The result is an accumulation of odds and ends, greater than ever. Don't get the impression that the goods we shall offer during this sale are second or shopworn. They are not. Every item is as good as anything we have sold this season. But we have made our profits on the early selling and are now satisfied to clean up the balance of this seasons goods at prices that will sell them quick.

THIS IS IN LINE WITH OUR POLICY TO DISPOSE OF ALL GOODS DURING THE SEASON.

Where this sale differs from other is in the GREATER number of GOOD VALUES offered. At these prices we can not guarantee every item to last during the sale. There is a positive saving to you in every item. We shall be disappointed if YOU do not come to this sale.

Cotton Goods Remnants.

We have not had time to give any attention to Remnants of any kind this summer, and now we are going to make this our business for the next 10 days. They must be sold and will if price will do the business.

Remnants of Gingham.

FASHIONS AT THE SEASHORE AND WATERING PLACES

The fashions of the town are really of very little importance in July. As early as May 1st the fashionables begin to leave the city and by June 15th their usual haunts know them not, and a seeker for the latest "what's what" in feminine apparel must hie herself to the fashionable seaside or mountain resorts, or better still, to the exclusive colonies where styles far foreign to early spring vogues are oftenest born. There remains little to be seen that's new in the city unless one frequent certain favored luncheon places where congregate the women in for a day's shopping or passing through town on the way from one summer resort to another. But the apparel at such places is apt to be only a smart walking or traveling suit.

This may be truly called the year of the coat. Never before has it occupied so prominent a place in the wardrobe of all women, not only the wealthy, but the moderate circumstanced as well. It is not so very long ago since two coats sufficed the average woman for a season. Today she must have a coat for every costume almost. This is a most extravagant fashion, since the fashionable dressmakers are asking for the tiniest and most abbreviated silk boleros, scarcely big enough to cover a woman's heart, and surely no protection whatever to her lungs, from $100 up. These little silken coats have a very definite purpose, being intended more particularly for wear with the lingerie frocks. Green is the favorite color, though just now in midseason with browns very strong, the brown coat is having some attention.

Tiny little boleros, short caracos, and loose affairs that have the fullness in the back, caught well above the ordinary waistline in Empire effect, and that frequently dip into long points in front, are among the best shapes.

The lace trimmings that we have accepted for so long as the proper thing on dressy coats are being replaced by elaborate designs in fine braids combined with hand-embroideries, the only bit of lace appearing in a scant collar and perhaps cuffs.

There are some fascinating long lace coats seen at evening functions, the lace of a heavy variety placed over the chiffon lining and the coat extensively trimmed with broadcloth or silk, so that it really has more body than one would expect to find in a lace garment. A very Frenchy effect is given by building these lace coats over black chiffon. In many instances the lace is posed over a cordian-plaited chiffon. A thin, gauzy haircloth is often used in the fronts, bands, collars and cuffs of these lace coats, this tending to keep them in shape without any noticeable stiffness. There are many long and short coats of decidedly simple outline that are considered exceedingly smart for evening wear over dressy summer costumes. These may be in silk, either taffeta or raw silks, in fine broadcloth unlined, in mohair, or even in some of the fine serges. They are usually white, though just now we see a tendency toward a charming buff shade that is pronounced quite the fashion in Paris.

PLAIN COATS WITH PLAID SKIRTS.

Novelty suits rarely become fashionable fixtures, yet this illustration proves an exception to this ruling most agreeably. The skirt is of handsome black and white plaided silk, is made in circular style, with broad stitched bands and button trimmings. The coat of black taffeta, and tight-fitting, is strapped with its own material and trimmed with black satin-covered buttons. A black satin collar piped with a bit of the black and white silk is well adjusted.

INDICATIONS OF THE REDINGOTE EFFECT IN THIS.

A very dressy toilette is achieved by the use of an overdress of buff taffeta over a gown of cream allover lace. The silk is in open coat and skirt effect, suggestive of the redingote that is promised us this fall. The lace waist blouses softly, while the silk portion is slashed front and back, quite cut away in the neck and waistline to disclose the blouse beneath. The skirt buttons in front and is cut to show the lace petticoat beneath.

CHIC STYLES IN PICTURE FRAMES, ARTISTIC BRONZE NOW THE FAD

The old-fashioned woman who has not had occasion to order a few pictures framed in recent years would receive a shock were she to attempt to buy a molding of the style in vogue even as late as five years ago. Styles in picture framing have been revolutionized, and for the better. There is an artistic harmony between picture and frame chosen according to modern methods that was absolutely wanting under the old order. Formerly the frame was chosen for its own beauty or, as was more often the case, for the brightness of the child—rather than because of its suitability to the subject.

But this has been changed, however. No molding board is now complete unless it carries almost every color and tone of color known. The mat is no longer needed to gain harmony and the relief the picture demands is secured by the width of the frame, instead of width of mat. At present there is no style so popular nor one that gives such satisfaction as the closely framed picture in a wood frame that harmonizes.

Some "Best Ways."

The "very best" way to launder fine handkerchiefs, laces and chiffons—Wash (but do not rub) in white soapuds; add a very little starch to rinsing water for handkerchiefs and laces. Polish a large window pane—or a mirror will do as well—and then smooth the article washed on to the glass, so there will be no wrinkle in it. I find a small, soft brush is best to smooth out laces, particularly the lace border on handkerchiefs. Let remain on the glass until thoroughly dry; remove carefully and see the result. After once treating in this way you would never care to put a warm iron on your laces, chiffons and handkerchiefs, again.

HOW TO SWEEP A CARPET.

It is an easy matter to sweep well, at any rate, if we may judge by experience; for when a broom is put into the hands of the uninitiated, more harm than good generally results from the use of it. Without the greatest care and some little knowledge, furniture and paint, by being knocked about with the broom, may soon receive an irreparable amount of damage. Before sweeping rooms the floors should be strewn with a good amount of dry tea leaves, which should be saved for the purpose; these will attract the dust and save much harm to other furniture, which, as far as possible, should be covered up during the process. Tea leaves also may be used with advantage upon druggist and short-piled carpets. Light sweeping and soft brooms are here desirable. Many a carpet is prematurely worn out by injudicious sweeping. In sweeping thick-piled carpets, such as Axminster and Turkey carpets, care should be taken to brush always the way of the pile; by so doing they may be kept clean for years; but if the broom is used in a different way all the dust will enter the carpet and soon spoil it.

NOVELTIES IN HAT PINS

Just a few years ago the hat pin was an inconspicuous little thing with a black or white head, which was used solely for the practical purpose of fastening on a hat. Here and there handsome hat pins appeared and were looked upon as articles of needless extravagance. The decorative hat pin of today is considered an absolute necessity and women possess an abundance of them sufficient to meet every need of the modern hat. The smart hat pin serves three purposes. It holds the hat in place, adorns it with sparks of light and color in jeweled heads, and also gives individual shape to the hat. Soft hats particularly are shaped with hat pins, which are stuck through the hat in such a manner as to produce smart curves and angles, folds in the straw and tilts to the brim. That hat pin in the hands of a clever woman can give a cachet and individuality to the shape and appearance of a hat which is the last touch in the art of millinery perfection. The well-gowned woman stands before her glass and—if she is gowned in blue—will lay before her an assortment of turquoise and rhinestone hat pins. With hand glass in hand she will turn and twist, giving a jab here and another there till the hat is firmly held at the right angle and its brim dipped and turned up in the most becoming fashion. She will try and get this arrangement the first time she wears the hat so that it may not be stuck full of holes every time she puts it on. Another important consideration in the fastening in of hat pins is the arrangement of the hair. Of course, the hair is fluffed around and out from the head and smart little bunches of curls are stuck into the coiffure in the most becoming places. The hat pin catches to the brim of the hat portions of the pompadour and always the upper part of these bunches of curls. This holding of curls to the hat by means of hat pins must be very deftly and carefully done, for any carelessness might result in the pulling out of the curls—they do not grow upon the head, but on a hairpin—and their disarrangement. Besides hat pins, jeweled pins are worn to fasten in these curls instead of combs, which women have been wearing for a long time past. In most cases pearls and diamonds are used for the fancy hair pins, which are either very simple, when of inexpensive stones or gold, and very elaborate when of precious stones of value. It is considered correct to have these hair pins as expensive and the hat pins should match them. Pearls and rhinestones give a wonderfully attractive effect to a hat, and when six or eight rhinestone pins glitter among the trimmings of a hat it is lent a dainty air of delight and sparkle that is wonderfully fetching. The fad of the season is either pins of this character or for the which match the color of a gown. Emeralds would be used with a green or gray gown and, at times, with white one. Rubies accompany gowns that harmonize with them; topazes with the numberless smart yellow and tan gowns which are in vogue this spring; turquoises with blue, gray or white gowns; amethysts with mauve, violet and gray gowns; and diamonds and pearls with all tints of gowns. Opals blend exquisitely with many colors of gowns, as well as with white ones, and nearly all jeweled hat pins are set in rhinestones or diamonds, which bring out the light and color in the stones employed. Very charming hat pins are made of colored glass. The simpler these are the better, but they may be very effectively used in a hat, as may simple flower pins in enamels. Large, heavily wrought pins of metal are seldom smart or decorative. It takes a certain style of hat to make them possible. To Dust Polished Floors and Oilcloth Carpets. Make a white cotton flannel bag and have a string case in the top. Tie this on the sweeping broom, and it is ready for use. This bag can be easily washed and dried and is ready for use again.
