Manufacture of Balls Has Begun By The Grant & Wood Mfg. Co.

The ball department of the Grant & Wood Manufacturing Company has commenced operations this week to a limited extent, occupying the old building, No. 3, corner of Main and North streets also No. 12 and the new building recently erected.

The first operation is to catch your hare, in other words, purchase first-class steel, which is now coming in in car load lots in the shape of long steel bars. The steel is first forged in bars, then pressed in the shape of balls taking the form of heading. In the next operation this heading is cut and falls in rough balls. These balls are tumbled and dry ground and then gauged, after which they are hardened, drawn, and again tumbled, dry ground again, oil ground, tumbled in oil and polished in tumblers. They then go to the inspecting department, where the work is done by high class female labor, in which department they are gauged to size and also boxed and labelled. The balls are made in thirty-four different sizes, ranging from one-sixteenth to six inches in diameter and have to be gauged to within one thousandth of an inch.

The first carload of a special alloy of ball steel for a particularly high grade of balls has just been received from Germany. The wholesale value of this carload is $6,000.

A reporter for The Standard was shown through the department by Mr. C. E. Clayton, foreman thereof, to whom we are indebted for the foregoing information.

Charity Stamps Not Taken.

The first official note of the approach of Christmas occurred Tuesday when the postoffice department issued a warning to all postmasters that Portugal, Guatemala and Uruguay refuse to admit to their mails articles bearing nonpostage "Christmas" stamps or other adhesive charity stamps or labels. Portugal's objection is limited to such stamps as resemble regular postage stamps.

Other countries, such as Great Britain, Germany, British East Africa and a host of British dependencies, will admit articles bearing such stamps when the stamps are affixed to the reverse and not to the addressed side. The postal officials announce that articles liable to be refused admittance to the countries mentioned will not be forwarded from the United States, but will be returned to the persons mailing them.

R. M. Brownson President.

The first of the week, Mr. Robert M. Brownson of Detroit, who recently resigned as secretary of the E. M. F. Co., was elected president and general manager of The Grant & Wood Manufacturing Co. of this place, and Mr. Max Wollering of Detroit was appointed production manager of the same company. This action is along lines mapped out at the time of the organization of the company, these gentlemen occupying the same positions in all of the six companies of which the Chelsea company is a part. Mr. Boyce as here before is retained as head of the sales department and Mr. Wood retains the position he has always had as factory manager here.

A Joyous Occasion.

The L. O. T. M. M. were very delightfully entertained at the beautiful home of Mrs. Ella Babcock at Grass Lake on Friday afternoon, October 21st. At 5:30 the ladies were escorted to the banquet table under the electric lighted tent on the lawn which was draped in the colors of the order, the place cards being views of Grass Lake tied with black, red and white ribbon. The time was spent in partaking of chicken pies prepared by the hostess and other delicacies too numerous to mention. Toasts and Maccabee cheers finished the day and all returned home voting Lady Babcock a royal entertainer.

Want the Police.

The case of the Surety Trust Company, trustee of the Glazier estate, against Mrs. Emily J. Glazier, mother of Frank P. Glazier, was begun before Judge Kinne in the circuit Wednesday morning.

The suit is being handled by the firm of Keena, Lightner & Oxtoby and B. B. Selling for the complainants, and A. J. Sawyer & Son for the defendant. The suit was instituted to have the transfer of certain insurance policies set aside. It is alleged that Glazier transferred these policies during a time that he is averred to have been in financial straits, and that the alleged transference was made in order to defraud his creditors.

The defense claims that the transference was made in good faith and as a legitimate proposition some time prior to the date as set forth in the allegations. The Glazier estate, it was said by Mr. Sawyer, had depreciated in value considerably, and was said to be valued at about $500,000 at this time.

The policies amounted to about $10,000 it was said.

The case was adjourned at noon until Friday when it will again be taken up.

Claim Drain Is Not Completed.

Ann Arbor Times-News: A petition from citizens in Lima township was presented to the county supervisors Friday morning, asking that the special tax for the Palmer and Baldwin drain be taken from the assessment rolls, it being alleged that the drain was not completed and was not according to contract.

Drain Commissioner Jarvis appeared before the board and explained that he had followed the original plans in constructing the drain, and that the reason it was not completed was because of crops upon land adjoining, which Mr. Jarvis said he did not care to ruin by putting men to work to finish the drain, preferring to wait until the crops had been harvested.

The supervisors after listening to the matter preferred to hold it over, and voted to lay the petition on the table.

It is probable that Mr. Jarvis will be allowed to follow his own course in the matter, this much being intimated during the meeting.

Endorses Osborn and Townsend.

Theodore Roosevelt's influence was thrown into the political campaign in Michigan Wednesday through the publication by the republican state committee of a telegram from the former president to former governor Curtis Guild, of Massachusetts, who made several addresses in Michigan last week.

Colonel Roosevelt's telegram says he understands that in Michigan the progressives won a clear-cut victory, and he endorses the candidacy of Chase S. Osborn for governor and Charles E. Townsend for United States senator. Mr. Osborn is characterized in the telegram as a progressive and a singularly able and honest man, and Mr. Townsend having done excellent work for railway rate legislation when he became joint author with Mr. Esch of the first railroad rate bill while Colonel Roosevelt was in the White house.

Colonel Roosevelt expresses regret that he is unable to take part in the Michigan campaign for the entire republican ticket.

Cost Of Sheriff's Office.

The cost of running the county sheriff's office for the last year amounted to $9,716.30 minus a collection in fees of $417.89, an expense of exactly $9,298.41.

This amount includes boarding prisoners, fees to the deputy sheriff and salaries for sheriff and three deputies, $7,875.00. Total, $9,716.30. Fees collected, $417.89. Total expenditures, $9,298.41.

This report was presented to the county board of supervisors at the meeting last week.

Mrs. Carl H. Schwickerath.

Miss Lillian Rose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Woodzelle, was born at Millboro, Virginia, December 22, 1887, and died at the Homeopathic hospital in Ann Arbor, Wednesday morning, October 26, 1910 of peritonitis after an illness of thirteen days.

She learned telegraphy and was for a time an operator for the Western Union Telegraph Co., at Mt. Auburn station, Cincinnati. At an early age she became a member of "Windy Cove" Presbyterian church, of Millboro. She was united in marriage with Carl H. Schwickerath at Waxahatchie, Texas, February 17, 1908, and resided in Houston, Texas, until June of this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Schwickerath came to Chelsea September 15th and had fitted up a home on Taylor street, and expected to move into it the day she was taken to the hospital.

Mrs. Schwickerath is survived by her husband, a ten months old son, her father, mother, two sisters, Mrs. C. W. Hodge and Mrs. J. Shanks, and two brothers, Charles and William Woodzelle, all residents of Millboro.

The funeral will be held from the home of Mrs. Mary Schwickerath, on Congdon street, at 2 o'clock, Friday afternoon, Rev. F. I. Blanchard officiating. Interment Mt. Olivet cemetery Chelsea.

Old People's Home Notes.

During the week we have entertained several delegates to the district convention of the W. F. M. S. and have been much benefited by the association of our friends.

All the churches in the Detroit Conference are interested in "The Home" and when ever the members have an opportunity of visiting Chelsea they make it the occasion to acquaint themselves with our circumstances and report to their home societies our needs and our supplies. Some could spare only a few hours from their other duties, some remained over night, while two stayed over Sunday with us and cheered us with friendly talks.

Mrs. H. C. Rosenberg, of Bay City, conference secretary, in the discharge of her duties has occasion to visit most of the larger cities of Michigan and has traveled extensively in foreign lands. She gave us interesting talks of her visit to Rome, Glasgow and London.

On Sunday we had a large gathering at our usual chapel exercises. Fred K. McDowney is training a young choir for Sunday school service and in the afternoon brought some of his pupils up to the Home to give the old people the pleasure of listening to young voices in their songs of praise.

The Misses Grace Fletcher, Esther Riemenschneider and Dorothy McDowney make a good trio for Sunday school work and many of our friends in town joined with them in making our devotions unusually interesting and profitable.

Miss Maude Chase and several others from Morenci were in attendance at the convention as delegates and enjoyed a visit with Rev. J. W. Campbell and family, who have just been sent by the action of the Detroit conference from that field of labor to this, and concluded that their loss will result in our gain.

Rev. Hancock is our regular chaplain and gives a good sermon each Sunday at 3 p. m. and on his invitation others ministers occasionally officiating; we have the promise of soon hearing Reverends Beal, Caster and Blanchard.

At The Sylvan.

"The Lost Trail" is one of the most popular plays in the West—a recommendation of its faithfulness to the character of the country it depicts. The dramatist shows an excellent understanding of western types and has written a play that is replete with humor, character-drawing and adventure. It is a rare story of the queer working of conscience and the inner soul, told in an interest-absorbing manner with the numerous counter-plots cleverly brought out. Bud Larabee, the handsome Westerner, who is brought back to the right trail through the efforts of Edith Faulkner, the General's daughter, is one of the most strikingly original characters on the American stage. A pretty story of love and devotion runs throughout, the theme is entirely new and the ultimate outcome cannot be foretold until after the exciting scene of the last act. It will be given an elaborate production at the Sylvan theatre on Monday evening, October 31.

There will be a democratic meeting at the town hall Saturday evening, October 29th.

MARRIED MEN MOST PLEASING

Bachelors, in comparison, are declared to be chicks not yet out of the shell.

The interesting and delightful men are all married. I found that out years ago, about the same time I discovered that none of the eligible men of my acquaintance would ever do as husbands.

It has made me wonder if good husbands are born and not made, or whether it is the refining influence of the "other women" in their lives that has made them so adorable. Very likely that is it—or else they had good mothers who began their education before they were born. Or is it—shrink from saying—is it that two women have become imbued with that same thirst for the unattainable that from time immemorial has been the undoing of men? Are the good old days when a husband and wife had no thought for anyone on earth but one another really gone, and is every one discontented and groaning under his matrimonial chains and fetters.

Is the real reason why we attract for are attracted by other women's husbands that we are unattainable or forbidden? It cannot be true! There must be something less petty than the crying of the child for the moon behind it all.

There are bachelors downtown, too, many of them. But somehow, those whom I meet seem crude and unrefined in comparison with the "other women's husbands," immature and untactful. Back in my little country village I used to assist the Plymouth Rock men with the hatching of her chicks, picking off the little bits of shell from the round balls of feathers and helping in my clumsy way that the chick might get its bearings. I am always wanting, figuratively, to poke off a bit of shell here and there from the bachelors of my acquaintance and watch them get their eyes open—the poor things are so blind where women are concerned.—Philip Lyman in Smart Set.

When Edwin Forrest Worked in Shop.

It has been said that the King of Prussia Inn was a landmark, and so it was. Opposite to it was the first Monrovia church, another guide post in its time. From both of these structures strangers in the neighborhood were guided. We learn, for instance, that the shop in which Edwin Forrest as a boy worked was next to the King of Prussia. The number, at that time, was 71, and the embryonic tragedian's employers were Baker & Son. The bakers were importers of German goods, and the elder member of the firm sadly shook his head at his young clerk, who was accustomed to pass more time in the company of a play book than he was in his duties. It is related that Mr. Baker, who is described as a very worthy and pious man, remarked one day to Forrest, in his own peculiar style and manner: "Edwin, my boy, this theatrical infatuation will be your ruin." The worthy man, of course, intended his remarks to apply to his apprentice's infatuation for theatricals.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Good Use for Castle.

It is possible for the question is being discussed—that the French state will buy Kerjean, the finest of Breton castles, lying on the road between Landivisiau and Plouescat and in the neighborhood of Morlaix, to make use of it as a museum of the arts and industries of Brittany and planned on the same principle as the Maison d'Arles. A museum worthy of Brittany does not exist and such a one should be constituted before certain features characteristic of the country are lost sight of in the modern leveling tide which is sweeping over it. Kerjean is large enough to hold all these and combine with collections of mere objects an "academy" of the literature, language, legends, folk-lore and the history of the race. It is also a suitable locality for festivities, exhibitions, competitions and other ceremonies for the revival or preservation of the interesting traditions of Brittany.

A Sneeze.

Judge Ben B. Lindsay, the father of children's courts, said in an address in Denver, apropos of criminal corporations:

"Why, even the thieves in the prisons have their shot at these malefactors. A Denver man, visiting one of our jails, said to a prisoner:

"Well, my friend, what brought you to this?"

"Poverty, boss," the prisoner answered with a sneer. "I didn't have enough money to turn myself into a corporation and hire a corporation lawyer to learn me how to steal legally."

SAGINAW TO MAKE AEROPLANES

SAGINAW COMPANY FIRST IN STATE TO START NEW INDUSTRY IN COMMERCIAL WAY.

SALE AND DISCONTINUANCE OF RAILROAD SERVICE WILL BE BLOW TO GRAND MARAIS.

Six Stores Burn in Petoskey; Loss Near $20,000; Two Brothers Leap From Window.

Six Stores Burn in Petoskey. Fire broke out in Petoskey and burned six frame buildings, including a bowling alley, empty store, restaurant and other places, entailing a total loss of nearly $20,000. None of the burned buildings was insured but Boyajian brothers, who operated a candy store and ice-cream parlor in one of them, carried $2,500 insurance on their stock, which was about half of its valuation.

Armon and Lewis Boyajian were sleeping above the store when the fire broke out and the flames gained such headway that they were forced to leap from a window to save their lives.

Saginaw To Make Aeroplanes.

The Brooks Boat Co. of Saginaw will start the manufacture of aeroplanes, and so far as can be ascertained, this is the first factory in the state to take up this work in a commercial way. The aeroplanes will be sold "knocked down." The plant has been equipped to take care of the new industry.

Mr. Armstrong, of St. Louis, Mo., who has been connected with Curtis and the Wrights, will superintend the work. Although the biplane and monoplane will be manufactured, preference will be given the latter. It is not expected the machines will be marketed before March.

A Deserted Village.

Present prospects are that the village of Grand Marais practically will go out of existence as a result of the recent foreclosure sale of the Manistique railway to the Manistique Lumbering Co., holder of the bonds, and the decision of the latter to abandon and dismantle the property. Only a partial train service is being maintained at present, and it is stated that even this will be discontinued at the end of the month. Attempts to induce capital to take over the property have failed, it is said. As Grand Marais is largely dependent upon the railroad for its supplies and for the shipment of lumber and other products, it is considered to have received its death blow.

Alderman Hits Attorney.

Battle Creek's council chamber became the scene of a fistic and verbal encounter such as even "Militant Mayor" Bailey has not experienced in addition to hearing nice epithets from the mayor, such as "liar," and "pup." City Attorney Ware took a fine smash on the jaw from the ready fist of Ald. Ralph Erskine. In speaking of Erskine, Ware referred to him as "a bright and shining example of honesty and integrity." Erskine didn't object to the compliment, but he did to the sneering way in which it was put. He jumped up and soaked the attorney in the eye. Superintendent of Public Works Bridgen separated them.

Man Smothers in Refrigerator Car.

Paul Rhynard, whose residence is unknown, was found dead in a freight car in a remote part of the Ann Arbor railroad yards at Owosso at midnight Saturday. The police are unable to determine whether he was a victim of an accident or foul play. Rhynard's body, still warm, was found in a refrigerator car, the doors of which had been tightly closed, so that it was impossible to open them from inside. He had suffocated.

Justice North Returns to Pontiac.

Justice William F. North walked into Pontiac from Detroit after disappearing following the discovery that he owed the county $800.

Justice North told Deputy Sheriff Judd Furman, who was sent to take him to his home, that he had been in Detroit since his disappearance was noted. He would make no further statement, saying that he had nothing to say regardless of the charges that would be preferred against him.

Against "Higher Criticism."

Without a dissenting voice, the Michigan State Baptist convention, in session in Detroit, put itself squarely on the "old-line" conception of deity: the inspiring of the scriptures and regeneration by grace. In view of the potential growth of "higher criticism" in Michigan and the militant attitude it has assumed at this convention, the declaration is regarded as significant and of nation-wide interest.

Michigan Baptists formally closed their seventy-fifth annual convention at the North Baptist church, Detroit, with a banquet in the church hall attended by some 200 guests.

The Rev. Carlos H. Hanks, pastor of the Congregational church of Owosso, has been appointed a member of the industrial life committee of the church. This is considered one of the highest honors in the church.

Declaring that he had grown tired of flaring men for being drunk and having them brought into court on the same charge again, Justice Friege, of the Owosso police court, sentenced Walter Elderidge, aged 22 and married, to six days in the county jail without the alternative of a fine for being drunk. Elderidge became heavily drunk on alcohol. He refused to say where he got it.

TYPHOID CASES NOT CAUSED BY MILK

Conclude Investigations in Fever Epidemic.

THIRTY CASES IN THE CITY

State Bacteriologist Dr. M. L. Holm Believes More Rigid Laws Ought to Govern Milk Supply.

Lansing.—State Analyst Floyd W. Robison and Dairy and Food Inspector Howe have concluded an investigation into the causes of the typhoid epidemic in the city, in an effort to ascertain if possible, just how far it is attributable to the milk supply.

No evidence was found to indicate that the milk supply as now furnished by milkmen is in any way contaminated. Conditions at the Downer farm have been rectified. All the cows have been sold and no milk has been supplied from that source for over a week. The cause of the epidemic, it is said, is not traceable to any one source of milk or food supply. Several cases have been brought to the city by men who have been employed in other places.

Mr. Robison stated that he had not accused local physicians of being dilatory in reporting cases of typhoid or placarding houses where the disease exists. So far as the department knows all cases have been properly reported by the physicians and the department does not feel like assuming the responsibility of unnecessarily arousing the public on the subject. According to the best information available there are about 30 cases all told in the city. One-quarter of these are in the families of people who had used the Downer milk, but that source of contagion is now entirely eliminated.

Dr. M. L. Holm, state bacteriologist, in an interview, expresses some very decided views on the milk supply as a source of disease. Doctor Holm quotes Dr. J. W. Trask of the United States Health and Marine hospital service in saying that 179 epidemics of typhoid fever, 51 epidemics of scarlet fever and 23 epidemics of diphtheria have been definitely traced to public milk supplies. In addition, three-fourths of the cases of fatal diarrhoea in children and at least 20 per cent of the deaths from tuberculosis occurring before the age of ten may be attributed to milk infection. These are gruesome charges against that article of diet which has been considered an ideal feed and they indicate the absolute inadequacy of the measures generally in vogue for the protection of public health.

Insanity Trebled in Last 18 Years.

Statistics compiled by Auditor General Fuller show that there has been a startling increase of insanity in Michigan since 1892, the total number of inmates in the five asylums and the Home for the Feeble Minded at the present time being 7,751 as compared with 2,169 18 years ago.

Each year since 1892 there has been a steady increase of insanity and the asylums are overcrowded in many instances at the present time. Since the last report was issued in 1909 there has been a decided increase. When Auditor General Fuller prepared his last statement there were 5,763 inmates in the various Michigan institutions, and last year 1,988 more were added to the list.

With this increase in the number of inmates, the cost of maintenance has increased. In 1892 the five asylums and the Home for the Feeble Minded cost the state $394,862.21, but the total cost for 1910 will be slightly over $1,302,251.14.

Auditor General Fuller states, however, that the state will receive about $180,000 from the various counties from which insane persons have been committed. An act passed at the last session of the legislature requires county clerks to file with the auditor general the names of persons committed to insane asylums, the names of their nearest relatives and the amount of property they own. In this way the state gets considerable money that it would otherwise lose.

More Births Than Deaths.

According to the mortality report issued by the secretary of state, there were 3,412 deaths reported to that department during the month of September. This number corresponds to the annual death rate of 15.2 per 1,000 estimated population. For the state as a whole the mortality for September was more favorable than for the month of August, there being 175 fewer deaths.

As usual, tuberculosis was one of the principal destroyers, the great white plague having cost lives of 212 persons last month.

Lumbermen's Bureau Incorporated.

The Detroit Lumbermen's Credit Bureau filed articles of incorporation with the secretary of state in the sum of $10,000. The articles of association state that the object of the new firm is collecting, compiling and preserving reports and information concerning the financial standing.

Also the furnishing and selling of such reports to members or subscribers of the corporation and to other persons, firms or corporations if the Lumbermen's Credit Bureau shall so determine.

Favor Study of Nude in Art.

While the W. C. T. U. in a strict convention at Washington, D. C., was condemning Mrs. Albert C. Barney's nude but famous statue of "Deserted Ariadne" and opposing the modeling of such statues at all, the Michigan Federation of Women's club at Battle Creek was loudly applauding the suggestion of Mrs. John B. Sherwood of Chicago, that the study of the nude human form be encouraged and children taught that the human body is pure and beautiful.

When Mrs. Sherwood held a nude picture (a copy of a William Morris Hunt painting) before the somewhat surprised gathering of club women, there was no expression of horror. On the contrary, when she advocated the nude in art, she was cheered and asked to continue speaking, though she had already exceeded the time limit.

"There is no more noble or pure set of men than the artists as a whole," said Mrs. Sherwood, who, before ending her address, prophesied that the middle west, with Chicago as the center, would soon be the art center of America.

"The art of the twentieth century will be American," she concluded. "Already American landscape artists are the greatest in the world."

Mrs. Minnie Dixon McIntosh of Allegan gave a stirring plea for domestic science in the public schools. "Most girls are entirely unprepared for the duties of housewife," she declared. "Much good food is spoiled by poor cooking. Domestic science is the most important subject that could be taught to school girls."

Mrs. McIntosh expressed keen regret that out of 845 schools in Michigan, only 44 teach domestic science. But in the past year 96 women's clubs have taken up the matter and an improvement may be looked for by 1911.

Mrs. Jordan, dean of the University of Michigan, reporting on the Lucinda Hinsdale Memorial scholarship for girls, said that 17 co-eds have taken advantage of it and gone through college, while seven have already paid back every cent borrowed from the fund.

Clubwomen Vote to Favor Ballot.

Without any discussion whatever, the question of whether the Michigan Federation of Women's Clubs should support woman suffrage was put to the convention and carried, two to one, by a standing vote. This vote was on a resolution favoring "votes for women," introduced a year ago and each delegate came instructed by her club to vote for or against the "suffragette" movement. The president reminding the convention of this fact, there was no open debate as had been anticipated.

Women's clubs are doing a great work as outlined by Miss Clara Bates of Traverse City before the Michigan Federation. Starting out with the "Culture and uplift of the community," as an aim and object, they have developed into a general benefit to the communities in which they exist. Among recent achievements in Michigan they have done away largely with the slung shot in favor of the bird house, have developed a plan for home and school gardening, have established scholarships and started remedial legislation in industrial and child labor matters, have raised the standard of literary work among women and have taken up other practical work.

New Michigan Corporations.

The following companies have filed articles of incorporation with the secretary of state: The William Tait Realty company, Detroit, $35,000, principal stockholders William Tait, Charles E. Beymer, Dudley W. Abbott; Breeze Detroit Carbuett company, Detroit, $50,000, principal stockholders, George A. Breeze, M. L. Railback, L. C. Battelle; Wright & Wesley Woodmenway company, Fort Huron, name changed to Wright & Wesley, with offices at Detroit and capital increased from $15,000 to $50,000; The Auto Equipment company, Detroit, increased from $50,000 to $75,000; principal stockholders, William J. Palmer, F. S. Evans, R. C. Hawley; Gyroscope Electric company, Bay City, $50,000.

Loan Associations Enjoy Prosperity.

The annual report of the building and loan associations of Michigan for the year ending June 30, 1910, issued by Secretary of State Martindale, shows an increase in the gross assets of $1,820,348.06, which is the largest gain ever shown in one year in this state.

The number of shares in force at the conclusion of the fiscal year amounted to 485,812, and the capital stock totaled $47,024,293.67. The operating expenses for the year amounted to $204,757.69 or 1.7 per cent of the gross receipts. The total membership was 14,994. During the past year there was a gain in the gross assets of $1,820,348.06. The total number of shares in force June 30, 1910, was $1,820,348.06.

D. U. R. Has Big Lead in Accidents.

Of 201 accidents on electric lines in the state in August, 192 occurred on the D. U. R., according to a report just issued by the state railway commission. Seven deaths were reported, of which five were credited to the D. U. R. Reports for the year ending June 30, for three of the largest steam roads show that 148 persons were killed and 715 injured on the three roads in Michigan, divided as follows: Michigan Central, 84 killed and 170 injured; Pere Marquette, 45 killed and 314 injured.

IMMENSE LOSS IN QUEER DISASTER

CYCLONE, CLOUDBURSTS, TIDAL WAVE AND MOUNT VESUVIUS COMBINATION OF ELEMENTS.

FOURTEEN CITIES AND NUMEROUS ISLANDS LAID WASTE; LOSS RUNS INTO MILLIONS.

About 100 Bodies Buried in a Stream of Lava From the Burning Volcanoes.

One of the oddest disasters which ever has afflicted a nation has laid waste the beautiful coasts of Italy, the bay of Naples and the Gulf of Salerno with the adjoining islands.

Overwhelmed at the same moment by a cyclone, a cloudburst, a tidal wave, a volcanic eruption and landslides, the inhabitants of the islands of Ischia, Procida and others, with 14 towns and cities in the neighborhood, feel themselves especially singled out as the objects of nature's wrath.

Although the number of the killed does not exceed 100, the monetary loss is immense, a vast tract of fertile and smiling country having been devastated.

The disaster appears to have started in the form of a cyclone having three centers, the first over the island of Ischia, the second over the town of Terre del Greco on the east coast of the Bay of Naples, and the third sweeping the gulf of Salerno.

Accompanying the cyclone were a cloudburst, a tidal wave and violent eruptions from Mount Vesuvius and from a crater suddenly opened on the summit of the long extinct Mount Epomeo, on the island of Ischia.

Ischia and the adjacent islands suffered most. No Americans are reported in the troubled zone, foreigners having recently given that section a wide berth because of the cholera epidemic.

Confessed Killing Seven Women.

Frederick Gebhardt, of Astoria, L. I., who confessed to killing seven women in a "marriage and murder" scheme to get money, was found guilty at Riverhead, L. I., of the murder in April of last year of Anna Luther, a young woman whom he had duped into marrying him.

The case of Anna Luther was selected by the police as the best one on which to arraign the prisoner, as they had clear evidence of one of the most atrocious crimes in criminal annals.

Having married Miss Luther and got her money, Gebhardt lured her to a woods near Islip. Gebhardt told her he was a married man with a family. The girl implored him not to desert her, but Gebhardt whipped out a revolver and, while the girl's arms were still about his neck and her lips pressed to his, shot her head and then left the body where it had fallen.

China's Senate Turns on Throne.

A surprising revolt has taken place in China against the government. The imperial senate, not yet three weeks old, has voted to memorialize the throne for the arly opening of a general parliament. This action appears to indicate that the new senate will not be a submissive or mock institution, but one with which the grand council must reckon.

The imperial senate no sooner assembled on October 3 than the provincial delegates formed an opposition party and arrayed themselves against the throne. The campaign culminated when impassioned speeches were made, in which it was pointed out that a change was imperative for the salvation of the country. This plea won over a large majority.

Ten Aeroplanes in a Flock.

Ten aeroplanes in the air all at once—a record flock for American atmosphere—was the sky view offered to the Belmont park grandstands the third day of the International aviation tournament at New York. Following close upon this spectacle, J. Armstrong Drexel climbed in his Bleriot until his barograph registered 7,100 feet, which establishes a new American altitude record.

Miss Leneve Not Guilty.

Finding that Ethel Clare Leneve had no guilty knowledge of the murder of Belle Elmore, the actress wife of L. Hawley Harvey Crippen, formerly of Detroit, and that she acted throughout under the baleful influence of the condemned murderer, a New Bailey jury at London acquitted the girl of the charge of being an accessory after the fact.

Sanford L. Robinson who, as attorney for Arthur P. Heinze, b other of F. Augustus Heinze, was charged in the United States circuit court of New York with resisting and opposing a United States marshal in attempting to serve a subpoena, for which he was sentenced to pay a fine of $500, has been ordered to be suspended from the practice of law for one year by the appellate division of the supreme court.

The damage to the Carolina rice crop as a result of the storm tides, last week will amount to at least 50 per cent, according to Capt. Samuel G. Stoney, one of the best posted men on the rice situation, after a thorough investigation of conditions in the rice growing sections.

The report of the college entrance examination board, just received at Yale, showed that for the present year 7,371 candidates took the examinations, an increase of nearly 300 over 1909. The board expended $23,231.15 and read a total of 22,189 papers. Examinations were held at 168 places covered by 45 examiners.

THE WORLD'S SERIES.

Gennie Mack's Youngsters Win Four Out of Five Games.

After three successive years of defeats and humiliation the American league came into its own at Chicago Sunday. Again it boasts the champion team of the world title that has been vested in the older organization since 1906, when the White Sox whipped the Cubs and thereby surprised themselves and everybody else.

Before the largest crowd that ever saw a world's series battle in Chicago, 27,374 paid, and the saddest that ever saw a game of ball anywhere, Connie Mack's Athletics smashed the Cubs machine to bits and scattered the wreckage to the four winds. Reluctantly the score-board boy hung up 7 runs for Mack; joyfully he displayed 2 for Chance. For seven innings it was a close game. Then those gentlemen who represent the City of Brotherly Love in the American league, but not in their methods, passed the word to give no quarters. Three doubles, a single and a base on balls were collected in that strenuous eighth and out of the smoke of the battle five Athletic runners wended their way to the final haven.

King of Siam Is Dead.

The death of King Chulalongkorn of Siam, which occurred at Bangkok, was due to ursemia poisoning. The king had suffered for years from nephritis. Uraemia developed and the king lapsed into unconsciousness, dying a few hours later.

The crown prince Chompha Mah Vajiravudh was immediately proclaimed king.

Lisbon Soldiers Cause Worry.

The Portuguese government is somewhat uneasy over the attitude of the regiments which made the revolution possible. Although not openly in subordinate, the soldiers, flushed with victory, are showing extreme independence and are championing the maintenance of strong power in the hands of the military.

U. S. Forest Fires Cost $15,000,000.

Six billion feet of lumber, valued at about $15,000,000, were destroyed in the recent forest fires on the national forests in Montana and northern Idaho. The total area burned over in this one district was put at 1,250,000 acres.

SYNOPSIS.

Archibald Terhune, a popular young bachelor of London, is suddenly aroused from the aimless and indolent life he leads by the startling news from the law firm of Barnes, Wiloughby & Son, that he is the heir to a sheep farm in Australia bringing in an income of $20,000 a year. The bequest comes from an aunt, Mrs. Georgiana James of Essex. She makes him her heir on condition that he marry within ten days or forfeit the legacy to a third cousin living in America. The story opens at Castle Wyckoff, where Lord Vincent and the Vincents discuss his prospects in all their varied bearings. He listens to their descriptions of the two Agathas and decides that the sixth shall be his choice. Agatha first and Agatha sixth arrive at the castle. Agatha the Sixth strikes Archie as a hand-painted beauty. Agatha first is a breezy American girl. Only eight days remain for Archie to secure a bride. Lady Vincent tells her husband that Agatha the Sixth already has accepted Archie. The plot starts working with both girls unaware of the urgency of the situation. Archie gains from Agatha Sixth the admission that she cares for him, but will require a month's time fully to make up her mind.

CHAPTER IV.—Continued.

"And I see that you aren't on my side any more, Mrs. Wilfred," said Terhune bitterly. "I thought you wanted to help me!"

"I do," she answered, turning on him earnestly; "that's just what I want to do most in the world! Only you don't understand how I want to help you!"

"And I don't care!" he replied eagerly. "If only you'll use your influence with Agatha Sixth to make her cut short the period of my probation and make it only as long as the remaining days of this week! Ah, do, Mrs. Wilfred! Dear Lady Vincent, do! I know you can!" and he caught her hand entreatingly.

"But I shan't—anything of the sort!" she said, putting it away again; "you're too much in need of a lesson! Believe me, it's for your own good. Besides," she added, "it wouldn't do a bit of good if I were to speak to her! I couldn't give her any reason for trying to hurry her decision. I can't tell her about your Aunt Georgy and the property in Australia, can I?"

"Thunder, no!" I answered for Terhune; "that would never do! She wouldn't like that part of it at all!"

"Naturally not. She wouldn't like to think you only wanted to marry her for a reason as mercenary as that! I don't wonder you wish to keep your real motive from her!" As she said this my wife favored Terhune with a scornful and penetrating glance.

He hung his head, and I confess I felt a bit dashed myself. Women always have the most intensely romantic notions of honor and that sort of thing, and it makes a fellow feel awkward. You can't explain to 'em, you know.

"But that isn't the only reason," he began, and put his hand to his short mustache nervously, as he does when he's genuinely moved.

"Very well, then," quoth my wife cheerily, "if that's the case you're sure to come out all right in the end! You've only to prove your other reason to Agatha Sixth, that's all!"

"Do you mean because you think she'll change her mind and give Archie his answer in time?" I shouted after her, for she had already started back toward the house, I knew instinctively to find Agatha Sixth.

"No," she called back over her shoulder for our further comfort, "because I think Archie will be man enough to change it for her!" And we had to be content with that.

CHAPTER V.

The Castle Wyckoff house-party were assembled on the east terrace, and it was the fourth day of the ten which were to decide Archie's fate. Archie himself, with a countenance as anxious and troubled as if he had not already obtained a guarantee of good faith from Agatha Sixth which was in all probability to insure his inheritance for him, was leaning gloomily against the broad stone railing of the porch and gazing somberly at the close-cut lawn. Agatha Sixth, who should undoubtedly have been at his side, considering that there was between them something in the nature of an engagement understood, was seated as far away from him as possible in a low rocker at my wife's feet, across the terrace from him.

As for Agatha First, she was knocking a golf ball around on the velvet lawn and absolutely ignoring the humble attentions of young Leslie Freer, the rector's son, whom we had at length succeeded in foisting upon her as cavalier.

I thought the party was too dull for ten o'clock in the morning of a rippling June day, and I threw the cigarette I'd been smoking over the railing and set myself to rousing them all to a more becoming state of jollity.

"I say, you people!" I cried cheerily, "what do you want to do today? It couldn't be finer weather. What do you say to a drive over to Northbury to see the cricket? Northbury and Lowshire are going to play."

These were two crack teams and I expected to extract enthusiasm from Archie if not from the girls, because I but he only made me the most indifferent kind of assent while none of the others took up the idea at all.

I looked rather reproachfully at Dearest. She usually backs up any propositions of mine, but I saw that she was busy explaining the intricacies of some stitch or other to Agatha Sixth and forgave her.

"Don't you think it would be sport?" I asked, walking over to her and putting my hand on her shoulder. "It's such a bully day for a drive!"

"Yes!" she cried, turning to me at once, all animation. "I do think it would be sport! Come, let's all get ready and go. When's the match played?"

"Eleven thirty," I told her, "and shall we motor or take the drag?"

"Oh, motor!" she said, "by all means! Driving's too slow!" But just as we had succeeded in fetching Agatha First and Freer from the lawn and had won a lukewarm assent

"I don't think it would be sport!" I asked, walking over to her and putting my hand on her shoulder. "It's such a bully day for a drive!"

I had advanced this idea she had withered me with a look and had declared it to be her opinion that an attachment that couldn't stand the fire of a little conventional coquetry, which she thought one of the most inalienable of women's rights, was not worth having, and that I could not excuse or explain Arch's conduct in that way.

However that may be, when Agatha First and young Freer had romped out of sight in the direction of the garage for the fun of telling the men themselves to send the electric runabout around, Agatha Sixth rose slowly from the little rocker where she had sat through all the talk as if she were not at all concerned in it, and clenching her sewing in one small hand, walked past us in silence toward the house.

"Are you going to get ready, dear?" ventured my wife to the small rigid back. "We start right away, you know."

There was a moment's silence, and then at the door she turned the bravest little face toward us you ever saw.

"Yes," she said sweetly. "I'm going to get ready. You needn't think I shall stay at home just because he's not going." The "he's" was emphasized. "I'd rather go without him anyway!" And she vanished into the house.

My wife and I stared at each other. "Well, what do you think of that?" I exclaimed.

"I think she's a little heroine!" the secretary—I mean Dearest—answered. "As for that man!" she stopped, but her expression was such that I was glad Terhune wasn't there to see it.

"Well, it is a shame!" I conceded. "He ought not to treat the poor little girl so! What can he be about, any way? If he doesn't take care he'll jolly well fall between two stools!"

"Yes, if you mean the girls by 'stools,'" agreed Dearest, "and serve him right, too—the old flit! But Wilfred, and she fixed me with a look that I secretly trembled before because it means an unpleasant duty to be performed by me, 'you must find out what he's up to!' But before I could reply we were in the midst of hurried farewells to Terhune, who if he were in disgrace, was also our guest, and we had packed him off in the little runabout to catch his train, without a word of rebuke.

Not half an hour later we were standing on the steps of the side entrance to the castle in our automobile togs, with Agatha Sixth and Leslie Freer, waiting for Agatha First, or Miss Endicott—to use her proper name once in a while—to join us before starting on our trip to see the cricket. Freer, a pale-eyed, sandy-haired young chap, was enveloped in one of the coats that go with the machine for the convenience of chance guests, and was promising us that he would be quite comfortable, though no one seemed particularly solicitous.

"I wonder why Miss Endicott doesn't come—she's so slow," he remarked for the twentieth time, at least.

But it wasn't until I had quite finished fussing with the machine, a six-cylindered touring car, having gone over every part of her with the chauffeur, and was beginning to get a bit impatient, that the young lady who was responsible for the delay appeared in the hall entrance.

But to our astonishment she did not wear so much as a linen duster over the white frock she had worn that morning to indicate that she intended to motor with us that day.

"Good gracious, Aggie, dear!" expostulated Dearest from the tonneau where she and Agatha Sixth were already ensconced, "aren't you going to wear anything warmer than that? It's cold motoring, you know, even in June."

"But I'm not going, Agatha," replied the girl pleasantly. "I've decided not to!"

"Decided not to!" echoed her hostess, a little taken aback, "and why, please?" While Freer added a drawing. "O, I say, Miss Endicott, that's a shame! We can't go without you, you know!" to her expostulation.

"No, I can't go," explained Agatha First, coming down a step or two. "You see—you see—" she passed a strong brown hand across a fine, sun-burnt forehead, "I don't feel very well. I've the worst headache! Knocking that ball around in the sun so long this morning, I guess," she added, looking severely at the young man from the village, much as if it were his fault.

SOUL RESEMBLES EASTER EGG

Man Leaves Body in St. Louis Boarding House and Goes Traveling With Spirits.

A gentleman who in his mundane existence goes under the name of Hermaeus Ruebenguhl left his body in a St. Louis boarding house, he says, and went traveling in his unclad soul. He reports an enjoyable trip and a very sociable time with kindred spirits with whom he hobnobbed while on his journey.

All the souls he met were about the size and shape of goose eggs, but colored according to their characters. Blue souls, for example, were superstitious; red, bloodthirsty; white, uncluttered; high silver had pink bands or dots on the soul eggshell; humorists were green, and "brown" souls were deceptive and not to be trusted.

A mass meeting of assorted souls must look like a collection of Easter eggs if Mrs. Ruebenguhl's facts are reliable. He is relating his experience in a lecture tour of the middle west, and apparently is expecting to keep soul and body together with the proper means.

But not so Dearest! When

He Was Too Kind to Kill Wife.

Dr. Hawley Harvey Crippen, formerly of Detroit, Coldwater and Ann Arbor, Mich., was convicted by an Old Bailey jury, in London, Eng., of the murder of his London wife, Belle Elmore.

It was announced that the cold-blooded physician who poisoned his wife, cut the flesh from her body, buried it in his cellar and immediately installed Ethel Clare Leneve, his pretty typist, as mistress of his home, will be hanged on Tuesday, Nov. 8.

The jury made short shrift of Crippen. They got the case at 2:17 and in half an hour their verdict had been rendered.

There is no doubt that Crippen's failure to name the patients for whom he had prescribed hypocin—the poison of which signs were found in his wife's body and which he admitted having bought for use in his profession—contributed powerfully to convince the jury of Crippen's guilt.

The trial of Ethel Clare Leneve as an accessory after the fact in the murder of Mrs. Crippen will begin next week.

A deathlike silence prevailed in the court room, which was crowded to suffocation, as the foreman of the jury, in answer to the formal question of Lord Chief Justice Alverstone, uttered the words, "Guilty, my lord."

Crippen, over whose face a ghastly pallor spread as soon as the fatal words were spoken, supported himself by leaning against the side of the dock, and awaited the next step in the trial.

It came quickly. Lord Chief Justice Alverstone asked the physician if he had anything to say. Crippen replied in a low voice: "I still protest my innocence."

Donning the black cap, while all present held their breath in a moment of tenseness seldom equalled in court annals, Lord Alverstone said: "Hawley Harvey Crippen, you have been found guilty of the murder of your wife. It is my duty to pass upon you the sentence of death. I order that you be hanged by the neck at the expiration of the statutory time."

"You have been convicted on evidence which can leave no doubt in the minds of any reasonable man that you cruelly murdered your wife and then mutilated her body. I advise you to entertain no hope that you will escape the consequences of your crime. I implore you to make your peace with Almighty God."

Potatoes Are Plentiful.

Potatoes, which are the principal crop in Wexford county, seem bound to bring but a small price again this year. At present only 25 cents is offered in this market. A representative of one of the biggest farm papers in the country who in the last two weeks has sized up the situation from Maine to Wisconsin says of the price outlook:

"Maine has 70 per cent of an average crop. New York has a crop of 100 per cent. Michigan will run 90 per cent of an average crop and Wisconsin will probably dig an average crop. You can see from that that potatoes will be abundant this fall over the north. There will be floods of spuds and the price cannot be expected to be satisfactory. The southwest is doing quite well and it does not look to me that there will be any demand to speak of from there. I can not see how northern Michigan can get more than 30 cents any time during the fall or winter."

Trolley Accidents in the State.

There was reported to the state railway commission for the month of August, 1910, a total of 201 accidents on electric lines in the state. Of this number 192 were reported on the lines of the D. U. R. Some of the roads did not have a single accident on their lines, while the remaining nine accidents were divided as follows: Benton Harbor and St. Joe, 1; M. U. R., 7; Grand Rapids, Grand Haven &amp; Muskegon, 1. Out of this total of 201 accidents seven deaths were reported, for which the D. U. R. is credited with 5, and the M. U. R. and Grand Rapids, Grand Haven &amp; Muskegon roads, one each.

NEWS OF MICHIGAN.

James Kesler, of Dargat, has applied for a patent on a sugar beet lifter. The inventor will start the manufacture of the machine as soon as he receives his patents.

Finding that the summer cottages of Detroiters and others in Leelanau township, Leelanau county, on Grand Traverse bay, are being markedly under-assessed for state taxation purposes, the state tax board has raised the taxable valuation in that county from $321,000 to $1,024,000.

During the testimony in the divorce case begun by Mrs. Alice B. Lovelless, at Flint, aged 56, against her husband, Charles R. Lovelless, aged 76, a Vienna township farmer, the plaintiff offered the fact that her spouse had purchased her only one dress during their 35 years of wedded life and "it wasn't a hobbie, either."

Had Been Ill But a Few Days With a Bilious Attack.

David B. Hill, ex-United States senator and former governor of New York, died suddenly at Wolfert's Roost, his country home.

About two weeks ago Mr. Hill was seized with a bilious attack while at his law office in New York, and although his condition was not considered serious at the time his physician advised him to remain at home for a few days until he recovered.

A cold developed and a few days later alarming reports of his condition were circulated. These reports, however, were denied by friends; in fact, the senator appeared to be on the road to recovery when he suffered a sinking spell, which resulted in his death.

David Bennett Hill was one of the most picturesque and, for a large portion of his life, one of the most influential figures in American politics. Nearly a third of his years were spent in public office, and throughout several administrations he occupied a position in the national councils of the Democratic party very similar to that held by Tom Platt in the Republican household, except that Hill was less a boss than a leader and trusted adviser.

Wife to Testify to Save Green.

J. Howard Green, Battle Creek lawyer, club man and philanthropist, will have to stay in jail at Los Angeles until he is tried in the superior court for the murder of Prof. Thomas D. Skidmore, of Rio Grande City.

Green was bound over by Police Judge Williams and held without bail. Mrs. Green was present, but no words or glances were exchanged between husband and wife. However, Mrs. Green announced that she would be a witness in her husband's defense, though the man he killed had wooed her for 30 years, having been a school-teacher sweetheart whom marriage did not discourage.

The defense was not outlined, but Skidmore's love letter, addressed to Mrs. Green as "the light of my life and wife of my heart," was put in mute evidence. It is said the defense will probably back its trump card, which will hold back a confession by Mrs. Green of illicit relations with Skidmore.

French Strike Is Over.

2,500 Acres Taken From Reserve.

The public domain commission, at a meeting held at Lansing, decided to withdraw from the state forest reserve in Wexford county 2,500 acres of land, which will be placed on the market and sold to homesteaders. The reason for the move is that the land has proven of more value for agriculture than for experimental purposes.

Teach Forestry in All Schools.

The Michigan Federation of Women's clubs is for conservation of natural resources, first and last, according to the evidence introduced at the session held in Battle Creek. So high did enthusiasm run that Prof. Filbert Roth, the University of Michigan forestry expert, was inveigled into the manless convention for a brief address and positively lionized.

TO SERVE BANANAS

MANY WAYS OF COOKING THE
LUSCIOUS FRUIT.Baked Bananas With Raisin Sauce
Dish That Is Hard to Resist—
Other Ways of Baking the Fruit.

Baked Bananas with Raisin Sauce.—Four bananas, one-half cupful of seeded raisins, one-half cupful of sugar, one teaspoonful of cornstarch, one tablespoonful of butter, one-third of a lemon, one and a half cupfuls of boiling water. Pull down a section of the skin of each banana, loosen pulp, and remove coarse threads that adhere to the skin. Return pulp to skin in original position. Lay in agate pan and bake in medium hot oven till skin is black and pulp soft. To serve, remove each banana from skin and arrange on serving dish. Pour over them raisin sauce made as follows:

Cook the one-half cupful of seeded raisins in one and one-half cupfuls of boiling water. Add water while cooking if needed. When soft add one-half cupful of sugar and one teaspoonful of cornstarch diluted in two tablespoonfuls of cold water, and let simmer ten minutes. Add one-half tablespoonful of butter and juice of a third of a lemon.

Baked Bananas I.—Remove skin from six bananas and place in shallow pan with two tablespoonfuls of melted butter. Dredge with granulated sugar and add juice of a lemon. Bake about one-half hour and serve hot with meat.

Baked Bananas II.—Take four bananas from the peels, leaving the latter as whole as possible. Halve the bananas and place in baking dish. Pour over them the following sauce: Two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, and a third of a cupful of sugar. Bake 15 minutes, then place the bananas in skins and pour the sauce over them. Serve on lettuce leaf.

Baked Bananas III.—Peel the bananas and scrape off all the fiber. Place them in a baking pan, sprinkle over a very little sugar, cover the bottom of the pan with water, and bake in a quick oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) 30 minutes, basting once or twice. Dish, add to the pan the juice of an orange or a lemon, or, if you wish it, four tablespoonfuls of port or sherry. Stir it around and baste it over the bananas. Serve at once.

Banana Pie.—One cupful of flour, one-third cupful of butterine, four bananas, one-half cupful of sugar, one-half teaspoonful of salt. Mix salt and flour, work in butterine with fork, moisten dough with cold water, toss on board dredged sparingly with flour, pat, and roll out. Line pie pan with paste, place in hot oven, and brown slightly. Remove skins from bananas and cut in halves lengthwise. Place in crust, sprinkle with sugar, return to oven and bake until bananas become tender.

Peach Cobbler.

Take a deep pudding dish, place a cup upside down in center of dish; better if it has a nick in it so juice will collect in it. Line sides or dish part way down with rich pie crust; pare the peaches and put in whole, filling dish with them; sprinkle sugar over top and dot here and there with butter. Cover the top of dish with pie crust; put in oven and bake about one hour or until peaches are done. When you serve cut the crust and lift up cup and you will have plenty of juice. This has been used in the family for years, and everybody who eats it pronounces it the best they ever ate. The stones flavor the pie.

Chutney.

Chop coarsely 12 sour apples after paring and coring. Seed one cup of raisins and two green peppers, add four medium sized onions and six green tomatoes and chop very fine. Put four cups of vinegar, two cups of brown sugar, two tablespoonfuls each of mustard seed and salt in a preserving kettle and bring to the boiling point. Add the chopped mixture and simmer one hour. Now add the chopped apple and cook slowly until soft. Seal in pint jars.

Green Tomato Sauce.

Cut up two gallons of green tomatoes (for winter), take three gills black mustard seed, three tablespoonfuls of dry mustard, 2½ of black pepper, 1½ allspice, four of salt, two of celery seed, one quart each of chopped onions and sugar and 2½ quarts of good vinegar, a little red pepper to taste. Beat the spices and boll all together until well done.

Cookies.

In making very soft cookies, which cannot be rolled, form dough into small balls and arrange in greased pan, then flour the bottom of a tumbler and flatten them out into cookies. They will look as well as if cut out and with far less trouble.

Beverage for Invalids.

Mix one-half ounce cocoa with two teaspoonfuls malted milk, fill slowly with hot milk, stirring briskly all the time so as to thoroughly dissolve. Serve with graham wafers.

To Clean a White Fur Boa.

Put some ground rice into a large bowl, then put in your boa, and gently rub all over with ground rice till clean. Then shake well to free the fur from powder.

THINK IT OVER AGAIN.

If there are any Michigan republicans who have it now in mind to desert their party candidates and their party principles through voting for democratic candidates at the coming election there are some questions they should seriously consider before carrying out that intention.

Would a democratic victory in 1910 increase the wages of any worker in the country?

Would it start a single wheel in operation which is idle now?

Would it broaden the market for any fabric which any American mill produces?

Would it sell an additional bushel of corn or wheat, bale of cotton, pound of meat or anything else which the farmer or the planter produces? No sane person among the 90,000,000 people of the country will answer any of these queries in the affirmative.

Complaint is made that the cost of living is too high. Would the election of a democratic congress this year or a democratic president and congress two years hence lower the cost?

Would it reduce the rent of a tenant anywhere?

Would it cut the price of a yard of cloth, a pair of shoes, a barrel of flour or anything whatever which anybody wears or eats?

Any person who answers yes to any of these latter queries will do so upon the assumption that a democratic victory would close factories and shops, throw hundreds of thousands out of employment, and, by reducing the purchasing power of everybody, compel producers to lower their prices in order to be able to sell anything at all.

This result has accompanied democratic victories of other years. Not in the memory of men and women living today has the democratic party given to this country conditions which added to work or to the wages or to prosperity in any section of the union or to any single line of national development or individual prosperity.

The democratic party in this campaign stands for the very same policies which have always in the past proven so disastrous.

Think it over again, you voter of Michigan, who have had it in mind to experiment again in a direction that always in the past has brought regret and retribution.

MR. TOWNSEND'S STATEMENT.

In many quarters there has been misapprehension on the part of the people over the senatorial situation. Many have believed that because Charles E. Townsend won in the recent primary he was sure of election as United States senator. This is not the case. Mr. Townsend won the republican nomination but in order that he be elected the next legislature must be republican. If the legislature should be democratic a democrat would be chosen as senator.

To make this clear to the people of the state Mr. Townsend has issued a statement in which he says:

"I have no hope of becoming senator unless the next legislature is republican and the only way my friends can assist me now is to vote for the republican candidates for state representative and state senator in their respective districts. The great benefit which the voters expect and have a right to demand out of this state primary law is that members of the legislature will observe the choice of the people and vote to elect the man for senator who was endorsed by their party at the September primaries.

"In many legislative districts throughout the state democratic candidates for state legislature have expressed a determination to vote for me if they are elected. I am profoundly sensible of their good will thus expressed, but it is well to understand that they are morally and politically bound to support their party candidate if the legislature is democratic and I have no doubt they would support him. I should certainly advise them to do so, for the maintenance of the principle involved in the primary for senator is of infinitely more importance than the success of any individual man."

It Always Pays to be Polite.

"It always pays to be polite," said George R. Gunn, the democratic candidate for County Clerk to a gathering of young friends the other day.

"It not only pays in the satisfaction you get out of it, but it also pays in the satisfaction you get out of it but it also pays in actual cash. The first political appointment I received came in part as a result of a little act of politeness. It was at the first county convention as a spectator was a lady. I saw her standing, and slipped out of the room, found a chair and gave it to her. She inquired my name and asked what candidates I was interested in and I found she was interested in my friend's opponent. Her candidate was successful both in the convention and election, and I was mentioned for an appointive office. Learning it was within the power of her candidates to make the appointment the lady set about in my behalf, and I was subsequently given the office. Just what part that little act of politeness played in securing that appointment, I cannot tell, but I venture to say it was considerable." There are no game laws against hunting a vote for George R. Gunn democrat nominee for County Clerk.

The possibilities of Michigan as a fruit-growing state are surpassed by no other state in the union, the fruit business only needing proper attention, like other business to make it very remunerative. But the price of a good crop is skill and care.

Why We Should Fertilize the Soil

by BURT E. POWELL

MOTHER'S best friend is his mother—the earth. All she asks is the opportunity and she will yield him the wealth of an account that has been growing for ages. And he has treated her as he usually treats his best friends. He has taken all she had to give, bought an automobile and a house in town, and then hid his address from his relatives of the soil for fear they would bring their earthy smell into his new residence.

With quiet indifference old Mother Earth endures this ingratitude, but the time comes when she has nothing for his greed. What happens then? Look to India for one answer. Ten million of our own Aryan blood starve there in a single famine year—starve upon a soil that once was, and still could be, almost inconceivably fertile.

Russia offers another reply, where with stomachs empty men enter a world that never fills them. Yet another answer, centuries old, may be found in the Tigris-Euphrates valley, which, once marvelously fertile, now scorches uselessly in the tropic sun. The necessity of man forged a weapon that brought him plenty; but the greed of man forged a weapon that brought him penury. For do you think there can be prosperity when the earth no longer yields? Do not forget that the shame of Rome was coincident with the time when one bushel of seed returned but four in the harvest. When the soil, exploited, that is when it is so farmed that the essential elements are taken out in crops and nothing returned to build it up, the result is exactly the same as when men are exploited in workshops and nothing returned to build up their bodies. You cannot haul phosphorus and nitrogen in oats and wheat and corn from your farms year after year and maintain the fertility of the soil, if you give back no phosphorus and nitrogen in return. Twelve thousand abandoned farms in the state of New York alone testify to this. After sixty years of cultivation the lands of the corn belt are beginning to hint at the same thing.

TWO FIELDS OF CLOVER IN SOUTHERN ILLINOIS SHOWING EFFECT OF USING LIME STONE, ROCK PHOSPHATE IN ADDITION TO MANURE

We all feel the results; and it is not the man with the hayseed in his hair who feels it first but the man with the pen behind his ear. Month by month the price of each separate commodity puts a little large puncture in his salary, until by the end of the year his savings, which began hopefully, as an un-known quantity, have ended as "X=nothing." He it is who knows the cold dread of middle age; for unless the land can be induced to yield abundantly prices will not settle down to the point where the man on a moderate salary can live free from fear. Farmer and clerk alike, we are all vitally concerned in this problem of maintaining and increasing the fertility of the soil that is fertile, and of restoring soils that have been cruelly exploited.

Fortunately they can be restored. Intelligence is more potent than avarice and can undo the evil it has wrought. Even those soils that have been exploited to the point of apparent ruin can be nursed back to health. Dr. Cyril Hopkins, head of the agronomy department of the University of Illinois, a soil specialist of national reputation and the author of numerous pamphlets and a book entitled "Soil Fertility and Permanent Agriculture," is one of the most enthusiastic workers along this line. He is a man of hard facts and loves pretty theories even as the devil loves holy water. Every fact that he gives out must prove itself over and over again in tests upon his own farms, or those belonging to the university or upon one of the various experimental plots. There are about thirty of these plots scattered through the state of Illinois, where the soils are carefully examined and then cropped according to their needs. I could tell you tales of what Mother Earth has done in the way of corn, wheat, oats, or clover when she has received proper treatment that would set you to building castles in the air upon an earthly foundation. The corn yield upon one of the university farms in 1909 was 87 bushels to the acre, due to treatments with limestone and phosphorus. But before we go further let us consider a few fundamentals of crop growing.

First, there are six positive, absolutely essential factors. They are: (1) the seed, (2) the plant home, (3) the food of which the plant is made, (4) moisture, (5) heat, (6) light. Now, except in the case of the seed and plant food these factors are largely beyond the farmer's control. Dame Nature can, however, be trusted to attend to them satisfactorily. How, then, has the farmer made use of his ability to control the two factors? By exercising judgment and care in the selection of seed and by ignoring the matter of plant food entirely. The result? When the land was worn out and had no plant food to give the good seed the agriculturist arose irately in farmers' institute and told what he thought of the seed seller. The trouble all the time was not with the seed but with the soil, which had had the elements of plant food removed in previous crops, and as a consequence could not respond to the call of the seed.

What are these elements? There are ten in the list, but eight are provided abundantly. Three—oxygen, hydrogen and carbon—come directly from the air and water. Most normal soils contain enough potassium, magnesium, iron, calcium and sulphur, although sometimes the first must be supplied. The problem of plant food, therefore, narrows itself, in most cases, to maintaining and increasing the phosphorus and nitrogen.

Now nitrogen is as easy to catch as the measles if one knows how. The air contains it in inconceivable amounts. Dr. Hopkins has estimated that the air above an acre of ground contains about $10,000,000 worth, if sold over the counter at ordinary commercial rates. In order to induce this nitrogen to enter the earth, where it may reappear as food for man, all that is necessary is to plant clover, alfalfa, peas or any legume. By means of the bacteria upon the roots these legumes draw the nitrogen into the soil. How necessary the element of nitrogen is may be seen from the fact that a 100-bushel crop of corn takes from the soil about 100 pounds of nitrogen in the corn and about 48 pounds in the stalks. Rich, well-balanced land in the corn belt contains about 8,000 pounds of nitrogen. Therefore, if the process of subtraction of nitrogen goes on year after year with never an addition, it can be seen clearly that the farmer's finances cannot multiply. Rotation plans for grain farmers always should include a crop of legumes. Wheat, corn, oats and clover is a satisfactory rotation; also wheat, corn and cow peas; also cotton, corn and cow peas. The first of these rotations should include a catch crop of clover seeded the first year and plowed under for corn as late as practicable the second year. The other two should include catch crops of legumes whenever possible. Legumes besides supplying the soil with nitrogen—as they decay they supply organic matter to the soil which helps other elements of plant food to free themselves from the earth and into the farmer's bank account.

Now that the question of nitrogen has been outlined, suppose we turn to the problem of phosphorus, the only element of plant food we ever shall have to buy. As to the importance of the use of phosphorus upon the common soils of the United States, Dr. Hopkins has this to say:

"Phosphorus is the key to permanent agriculture on these lands. To maintain or increase the amount of phosphorus in the soil makes possible the growth of clover or other legumes and the consequent addition of nitrogen from the inexhaustible supply in the air; and with the addition of decaying organic matter in the residues of clover and other crops and in manure, made in large part from crops of hay and pasture, and from the larger crops of corn and other grains which clover helps to produce comes the possibility of liberating from the immense supplies in the soil sufficient potassium, magnesium and other essential abundant elements supplemented by the amounts returned in manure and crop residues for the production of large crops at least for thousands of years; whereas if the supply of phosphorus in the soil is steadily decreased in the future in accordance with the past and present most common farm practice, then poverty is the only future for the people who till the common agricultural lands of the United States."

Phosphorus may be applied in liberal amounts—as much as 1,000 pounds to the acre every three or four years—and it costs about $7 a ton.

After the problem of returning the elements to the soil has been solved the farmer may find another condition of the soil which must be corrected before his farm will produce as it should. This is the tendency of certain soils to acidity. Clover, alfalfa and other valuable legumes cannot thrive upon soil that is sour. Sometimes on acid soils when applications of farm manure are made, the legumes will seem to grow well, but examination reveals the fact that the nitrogen gathering bacteria fail to develop properly. Hence the most valuable contribution the legumes have to make to the soil is largely lost. Upon certain fields belonging to one of the most famous agricultural stations in the world, that of Rothamstead, England, applications of natural limestone were made a century ago. They are still moderately productive, although other fields near by, which have never received the application, are extremely unproductive.

Care should be taken that limestone is used for the one and only purpose of correcting soil acidity.

And while we are upon this subject of soil stimulation, have you ever thought that most of our improvements have that in view and that only? Improved seed, improved machinery, irrigation, even crop rotation, all are means for extracting from the soil the richness that is in it, not for returning any of the food elements of grain building. All of these methods of soil stimulation are excellent in their way, if used in connection with methods of returning the elements of plant food; but if used without them they are means of hastening the impoverishment of the soil.

To return to the question of limestone, one ton to the acre finely ground will correct the acid condition of most soils. It is, however, in the end cheaper and easier to apply more and to apply it less often. As much as ten tons to the acre was applied to the soil of one of the experimental fields in southern Illinois and the crop yields there have been greater than upon any other fields in that district.

A question that has been given much attention lately is the question of crop rotation. Undoubtedly it is absolutely essential for successful grain farming, but it is not the universal panacea some would have us believe.

For instance, a group of theorists have declared that fertilization is unnecessary, that crop rotation will keep the soils in perfect condition. The idea is that plants do not injure the soil because they use its plant food elements but because they throw off poisonous excreta as animals do. Therefore a so-called worn-out soil simply has become saturated with this excreta. Plant a crop which will neutralize the poison of the last crop and the soil will be sweetened and the breasts of Mother Earth kept dripping with plenty forever. This is very attractive—as a theory. It has, however, no foundation in fact. As Dr. Hopkins has said, the rotation of crops has just the same effect upon wealth in the soil as the rotation of the check book among the members of the family has upon the wealth in the bank. Plant food elements cannot be used up and not returned without resulting in impoverishment of the soil.

TO WASH ECRU CURTAINS

First Lay in Cold Water, Then Pass to Bath of Warm Water and Borax.

First shake free from dust and, if possible, hang up out of doors to dislodge as much more of the dust as possible, as this will save labor when it comes to washing. Next lay in cold water until it looks dark and brown looking; then wring and pass into a bath, which you have prepared of warm water, soap and a little borax. The quantity of the latter will depend upon the degree of hardness of the water. Lift the curtains up and down in this bath and squeeze through the hands. Use only a good white soap and do not rub it directly on the curtains. If you do the result will be white patches, because the soap will probably take out a little of the color.

When the curtains are clean rinse first in warm water and then in cold. If the shade has become lighter the curtains may be put through a last rinsing water, to which strong tea has been added. An objection to the tea tint is that the sun is apt to fade the color when the curtains are hung at the windows, creating ugly streaks, as curtains do not fade all over alike.

Bolled or raw starch may be used when the curtains are ready for the stretchers or for pinning to the line. Take care to see that all edges are perfectly straight and even.

Some persons sew a pair of curtains together before washing, and unless they are very heavy it would seem to be a good plan, because then they will hang exactly the same when taken apart and placed at the windows.

STAND FOR A WASH BOILER

Convenient Article That Is Easily Made and Well Worth the Trouble.

To make a stand for an iron wash boiler when wishing to heat water out of doors, take an old wagon tire or other similar pieces of iron and bend as shown in the accompanying illustration.

The legs can be made of any desired length so the wood can be placed underneath. The square on top should just fit the bottom of the boiler. The two cross bars are riveted or bolted. For a round kettle the top of the stand should be round and just large enough to hold the kettle securely.

The stand is a most convenient article in preparing meals when camping out, as skillets and pots can be placed upon it.

Fried Rye Muffins.

Serve these muffins with some kind of acid or sharply flavored jelly. Sift together three-quarters cup of rye meal, that was sifted before measuring, three-quarters cup of flour, two level teaspoons of baking powder and a saltspoon of salt. Beat one egg, add half a cup of milk and turn on to the dry materials. Drop in small spoonfuls in hot fat and fry like doughnuts. Do not make the cakes too large, as they will be liable to fry brown on the outside before the centers are heated through.

Sparerib Pie.

Take two pounds of spareribs, have them cut small, wash, and place them over the fire with water enough to cover. Should be skinned, then add one onion, salt and pepper. Cook 15 minutes, then add six potatoes sliced, more water if needed. Let cook until all is tender, thicken with a little flour. Place in a pan and cover with plain pie crust. Bake in a pan and cover with plain pie crust. Bake in quick oven.

To Cook Corn.

With a sharp knife cut the corn from the cob. Don't cut it to the cob, but about three-quarters, then scrape with the knife the one-quarter remaining on the cob into the same dish. Plenty of butter, salt and pepper. Add no water, just the liquor from the scraped corn, and moisten. Put it in double boiler and cook 20 minutes. You get the fine flavor of the corn cooked without water.

Lemon Sauce.

Boll together for five minutes one-half of a cupful of sugar and one cupful of water, add one tablespoonful of cornstarch and cook for five minutes longer. Take from the fire, add the juice of one lemon and two tablespoonfuls of butter and stir until thoroughly blended.

Caper Butter.

Chop one tablespoon of capers very fine, rub through a sieve with a wooden spoon and mix them with a saltspoon of pepper and one ounce (or more) of cold butter. Put a layer of this butter on a dish and serve fish on it.

Apple Butter.

Apple butter made from apple pulp. Run the apple pulp through a sieve and add sugar and spices to taste. Boll 30 minutes slowly.

For Halloween.

From the voluminous correspondence which has poured into the office regarding "Halloween" it would seem that every reader, old and young, rich or poor, intended to celebrate on this most fascinating festival day. Madame Merril sincerely hopes that there has been something in the departments to suit the needs of all.

Here is a very simple method of determining one's future partner in life. It is called the "yarn" test:

At the stroke of midnight the girls must all go upstairs, the men remaining in the hall below. Then each maid in turn drops a ball of light yarn over the banisters. Of course, she must hold tightly to one end of the yarn and remain unseen when she throws it down.

The men scramble for the ball, and the one who gets it, when the yarn is drawn taut by the girl above, must reply by giving his true name when the unseen holder says "who holds?"

If he recognizes her voice, so much in their favor; if the girl drops the end she holds, she will remain unmarried; if the yarn breaks she will not marry any of the men present on this occasion.

This test is always sure to provide a happy ending to the party, and it is also a means of pairing the guests for refreshments or for any game where it is necessary to choose partners.

Quotations for Halloween.

In the way of quotations for place cards the hostess has a store of riches from which to draw by consulting Shakespeare or Burns. A few apt sentiments are given:

Fortune is merry,
And in this mood will give us anything.
This day we fashion destiny, our web of fate we spin.

There swims no goose so gray
But soon or late
She finds some honest gander
For her mate.

The iron tongue of midnight hath told twelve.

When the stars shoot,
And the owls hoot,
And bats fly in and out,
When the fire burns blue,
And the candle, too,
Witches are about.

Double, double, toil and trouble;
Fire-burn and caldron bubble.

Fresh dawning Hallow Eve!
Sweet, new-old Hallow Eve!
For what thou wert, for what thou art,
Thrice welcome, Hallow Eve!

A Superstition Party.

A ladder was put up on the front porch so all would have to pass under it to enter the house. All the black cats in the neighborhood were borrowed for the occasion and salt was spilled in front of each plate at the table. The party was on Friday, on the thirteenth day of the month, and each guest was asked to tell his favorite superstition. The favors were scissors, knives and tiny purses without the proverbial "lucky cent." The result of this party was that no one died within the year, all remained good friends, and, in spite of the looking glass which the hostess shattered just before going in the dining room, none had bad luck.

This affair could be combined with Halloween stunts and make a jolly time for tomorrow night or during the week, when fads and fancies pertaining to the mystical day are in order.

Telling Fortunes.

Fortunes may be told by the traditional "three bowls." Place three bowls, or saucers (as they are more convenient), on a table, one filled with water, one with milk and the other empty. Each maiden is then blindfolded, turned around three times and started in the direction of the bowls. If she dips her finger in the water, she will marry a bachelor, if in the milk her husband will be a widower, while if her finger touches the empty dish she is fated to remain single. After each one makes the test the order of the bowls must be changed so as to prevent those who watch from knowing which is which.

The Egg Fortune.

The correspondent who asks for a new Halloween fortune test may find the following suitable for her purpose: For this potent formula for peering into the future an absolutely new laid egg is necessary. Drop the white only into a glass of cold water. A clever seer will then foretell the future from the queer shapes which the albumen assumes.

MADAME MERRIL.

Jabot From Handkerchief.

The jabot made of half a handkerchief is a sensible and inexpensive solution of the necktie problem for the business woman.

Cut diagonally in half, the handkerchief, if a plain one, will admit of extra trimming along its already hemstitched edges.

Part of the finish being provided, there but remains to be added the narrowest of Irish lace edges on one jabot and a jabot and a delicate clasp on the other.

Pressed into shape, the jabot is mounted along its diagonal raw edges upon a small band stitched by machine, and by this it is secured beneath the turnover collar.

Old Fashion Revived.

The quaint, old-time handkerchief or glove boxes made of glass and bound with ribbon, by which the sides and top and bottom were held in place, are being revived and make acceptable gifts for almost any anniversary. The glass can be easily cut into any size and shape and the boxes have a certain advantage over others in that they can be easily cleaned.

Two Dainty Gowns

The gown at the left is of black chintilly lace and liberty. The skirt is of liberty covered with a tulle of chintilly which is finished with a wide sash of liberty crossed in the back.

The other gown is of pale green liberty and mouseline de soie of the same shade. The skirt is of liberty with draped tulle of mouseline de soie, caught at the side by roses. The corsage is also of liberty covered with a sort of plaited pelerine of the mouseline de soie. The chemise is of white lace; the girdle, as designed, is of liberty, with knot of roses at the side.

During July and August the mushrooms in the fields are apt to be wormy. As the cooler nights come they begin again to be safe to eat and are good until the frost kills them. Nothing can be more delicious than a dish of fresh mushrooms served on toast. Peel the caps and saute in a little butter for five minutes, remove the mushrooms and add a tablespoonful of flour and a cupful of good cream. Serve hot with the mushrooms added to the last. Large mushrooms are a choice dish when broiled, serve with butter and salt.

TOR other's sake to make life sweet,
Though thorns may pierce into your feet,
For other's sake to walk each day,
As if joy helped you all the way,
While in your heart may be a grave,
That makes it hard to be so brave—
Herein is love.

What to Do With Honey.

Honey is such a wholesome sweet that it may be used freely with the little people. Here is one to delight the palate of a child:

Honey Popcorn Balls.—Heat slowly one cupful of strained honey and boil until it will crack when dropped in water. Pour it at once over a quart of freshly popped corn and shape into balls, greasing the hands a little with butter to prevent sticking.

Honey Nougat.—Put three-quarters of a pound each of granulated sugar and strained honey in a saucepan and boil until a little dropped in cold water becomes brittle. Add the well-beaten whites of two eggs and three-quarters of a pound of blanched almonds cut in strips. Turn into a buttered pan, press down as smooth as possible, cover with a waxed paper and a weight. When cold and firm, cut in squares.

Helpful Hints.

Don't fail to have a soap shaker in which to use all small scraps of laundry soap.

A few grains of rice put into the salt-shaker will keep the salt from hardening.

Clean white paint with a dish of hot water, a cloth and a dish of bran, the bran removes dirt.

Fresh fish may be kept for several days by covering with salt and putting in a cold place.

A good silence cloth may be made from a discarded bed spread of the old-fashioned weave.

When washing lace, rinse it in milk, which gives it the creamy tone and stiffness it at the same time.

Wipe hard wood floors with a cloth moistened in kerosene, which will keep them clean with little work.

When it is unavoidable (the setting of a dish or sauce pan directly over the fire, grease the dish well on the bottom and any smut that forms can be easily wiped off.

An easy way to clean a cereal cooker is to turn it upside down in a dish of boiling water and let it steam until the sticky mass is soft and loosened from the side of the pan.

To turn the hem in napkins, put on the narrow hammer and run the napkins through without using any thread. This makes an even and narrow hem that can be turned by hand.

Before making over a garment, wash in soapuds and a little ammonia water and press well on the wrong side, then make up and it will often be hard to tell from new goods.

PRACTICAL PRESS FOR NAILING APPLE BOXES

Illustration of Almost Indispensable Device for Orchardist and Minute Details for Its Erection at a Small Cost.

The illustration shown herewith is that of a practical press for nailing apple boxes, and a convenient device for any orchardist. The details of the plan are as follows:

1. Cover boards to table, extending about half over cross pieces (20) on each side. Length of table, 64 inches.
2. Side board to table. The part between the cross pieces (20) is cut down to allow a box with bulged bottom to slide off the press.
3. Uprights for attachment of levers (5 and 9).
4. Legs of table, 28 1/4 inches long, 1 1/2 inches square. (All the arms, legs and levers of the press may be made of 1 1/2 x 1 1/2-inch stuff.)
5. Levers, 24 inches long.
6. Upright arms, 30 inches long.
7. Steel springs, 3/4 inch inside diameter. The two attached to the levers (5) are fastened at the upper end to spanner (19). The center attached to arms (6). Center pulley is attached to center spring (7). The other two pulleys are attached to Spanner (19).

18. Strong 3/4-inch cord that will not stretch. Runs across from arm to arm (6), passing through the three pulleys (17).

19. Spanner running parallel with side, back about 10 inches from front side and directly under center of box.

20. Cross pieces (end view), providing support for box. Attached to it is spanner (19).

21. Grooves for holding box in place. They are a trifle over 18 inches apart. To accommodate the special box, which is 20 inches long, strips may be nailed to the table top one inch back from the opening on either side.

The top of the table must have slots cut in it to allow working of arms. Tables may be of any width spring is attached to the foot lever (9) and a pulley (17). All springs are shown relaxed.

8. Spring attached to upright arm (6) and support (3). These springs should be long and light, such as are often used on screen doors.

9. Foot lever, bolted to uprights (3) at back, and working with catch plate and ratchet in front. It is fastened to plate (13).

10. Brace for legs and lower support for uprights. Three inches from ground.

11. Horseshoe plate for gripping box cleats and cover. It is attached to arm (6) with flat-headed stove bolts, and must be made very true.

12. Iron plates bolted to levers (5), with large holes in projecting ends, allowing the bolts (16) to slide freely.

13. Lower plate under lever (9), to which it is bolted loosely, with large holes in each end for free play of bolts (16).

14. Side plate joining lever (5) and arm (6). Two bolts to arm, and one, fitted loosely, to lever.

15. Iron ratchet to engage plate on the front lever (9).

16. Half-inch bolts, 2 1/2 inches long, working loosely in the holes in the plates (12 and 13).

17. Three small pulleys for rope desired, but arms should be conveniently near the front.

GETTING EGGS DURING WINTER

Good Laying Hens Are Strong, Large-Bodied, Vigorous Birds—Early Molting Is Necessary.

Where eggs are desired in the winter it is important that the layers shed their feathers early so that the new plumage will be grown before cold weather begins. Some birds, however, begin to molt late, others early, this depending on the time when they are hatched, and as a result they are not in condition or seem disinclined to lay eggs when the highest prices are obtainable. It is possible to cause a flock of fowls to pass through the molting period early and uniformly. This method consists in withholding part of the feed for about two weeks, which stops egg production and reduces the weight of the fowls, and then feeding heavily on a ration suitable for the formation of feathers and the general building up of the system.

ECONOMIC VALUE OF GUINEAS

The Guinea fowls are natives of Africa. In color of plumage there is more or less variation; their peculiar beauty, with a rich blue tinge in every feather, has a fascination for the fancier. In growing them care must be exercised with the young, as they are tender, and even slight neglect may carry off a whole brood.

Outside of their beauty of feather and grotesque appearance, the guinea also possesses economic values. Game breeders claim for them a use as watch dogs in the poultry yards when with other fowl. They are very alert, and on the slightest approach of danger, be it from hawks or quadruped enemies, they at once issue their shrill and piercing cry, which can be heard at a considerable distance. The carcass also presents a palatable meat, being of a delicate wild flavor suggestive of pheasant. The eggs also are a good eating. Birds for the table should be fattened before killing by placing several together in a pen for a couple of weeks, feeding liberally when they will be ready for the block

NEEDFUL KNOWLEDGE

Chelsea People Should Learn to Detect the Approach of Kidney Disease.

The symptoms of kidney trouble are so unmistakable that they leave no ground for doubt. Sick kidneys excrete a thick, cloudy, offensive urine, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalping. The back aches constantly, headaches and dizzy spells may occur and the victim is often weighed down by a feeling of languor and fatigue. Neglect these warnings and there is danger of dropsy, Bright's disease, or diabetes. Any one of the symptoms is warning enough to begin treating the kidneys at once. Delay often proves fatal.

You can use no better remedy than Doan's Kidney Pills. Here's Chelsea proof:

Mrs. William Taylor, northeastern part of town, Chelsea, Mich., says: "I know Doan's Kidney Pills are a good kidney remedy, as they have been used with great benefit in my family. A member of the family was troubled by kidney complaint and suffered severely from backache. The contents of one box of Doan's Kidney Pills brought entire relief."

It is the first wreck in the vicinity in which there were no wooden cars involved, all of the cars wrecked being of the steel hopper class. Nine cars in all were wrecked, but instead of being all broken up, as is the case with wooden cars, these steel ones played leap frog with each other, until one had mounted high enough to go over the telegraph wires. Two more fell into Plum creek, but beyond breaking the center pins and bolster bolts no great damage was done, and the cars will soon be in commission. The wreck was caused by a collision on a siding between north and a south bound freight train.

JACKSON—In Prof. Norton's office Tuesday was a specimen of work done by Raymond Tetens, a member of the manual training class of the ninth grade. It is a model of an ocean steamship, and in the construction the builder has shown a knowledge of several lines of work which makes the production all the more creditable. The propellers are driven by electricity from batteries in the hull, the ventilators, port holes, promenade decks, anchor and even the name of the craft, are all represented with a commendable fidelity to picture or from memory of an actual vessel. The manual training class of sixty-five is composed of ninth grade students, and all show the greatest interest in the construction of the work which they make from plans of their own drawing. The articles made by the student is his property after it is completed, and the work is such that he need not apologize for it.—Patriot.

"The people of this vicinity doubtless remember that I was a candidate for this nomination at the primary two years ago and was defeated by Mr. Storm by one vote. He did not care for a re-nomination this year. I then became a candidate and along with the other aspirants we had a fair and friendly contest at the primary. Three good reasons why he should be re-elected:
FIRST—Entitled to a second term.
SECOND—He has done more work than any other drain commissioner in the same length of time.
THIRD—He has at the present time under construction the largest piece of work ever contemplated in Washtenaw county. He has the work well in hand, and it would be poor policy to change at the present time.
