Found Dead in Bed.

James McLaren, sr., of Lima, was found dead in bed at his home early Wednesday morning, December 6, for several years. He has been slightly ill for a few days, but was not considered to be in a serious condition and when he retired Tuesday right in the morning.

Mr. McLaren was born in Lima, August 9, 1835, and his life has been spent in that township. He was an enterprising and progressive farmer, and in connection with his farming operations for several years he was an extensive cheese manufacturer. He was united in marriage with Miss Virginia Duncan May 2, 1855. Mrs. McLaren died a few years ago. He was a member of Olive Lodge, No. 156, F. & A. A GREAT SUCCESS.

The Thanksgiving Banquet Was Well Attended—Good Program.

The attendance at the annual Thanksgiving banquet given in St. Mary's hall Wednesday evening of last week, for the benefit of St. Mary's school, was a large one and it was a great success both socially and financially. The banquet was served in the school rooms on the first floor and the program was carried out in the hall on the second floor.

Rev. J. Richard Command, of Trenton, toastmaster of the evening, called the assembly to order and the audience was entertained by one of the best rendered programs that has been a conspicious part of the annua! banquets for several years. JEWS ARE LONGEST LIVED

Their Average Age is Nearly Twelve Years Greater Than That of Christians.

Superficial scrutiny of the vital statistics yields the Jew a prominent position in the sanitary world, if longeyfity serves as any index of hygienic living. With the average length of life for all Christian people placed at thirty-six years eleven months (1900) the Jew may hope to reach forty-eight years nine months.

Neufville (1855), inquiring into the comparative duration of life and causes of deaths of Jews and Christians in Frankfort, learned that one-fourth of the Jewish population was living beyond seventy-one years, while only one fourth of their neighbors were liv- duties. ing beyond the age of fifty-nine years ten months. Abbott claims that "they (i. e., Jews) are much less frequently the subjects of tubercular and acute epidemic diseases than any other race of mankind."

Why should this seeming vitat superiority exist? According to Richardson, "the causes are simply summed up in the term 'soberness of life.' The Jew drinks less than his 'even Christian;' he takes, as a rule, better food; he marries earlier; he rears the children he has brought into the world with greater personal care; he tends the aged more thoughtfully; he takes better care of his poor and he takes better care of himself." To this might have been added that through religious customs hygienic tendencies became an inheritance.-Dietetic and Hygienic Gazette.

Would Be There for Lilfe. An old negro was brought to trial in a southern town for stealing a yourself?" "Good Gawd, boss!" exclaimed the old man. "Two months! For stealing -one hen!" "Have you anything to say?" repeated the judge sternly. "All I got to say is, boss," declared the negro, "'tain no use to sen' me to no jail for two months for stealin' one chicken, 'cause ef I spent two months in jail fer ev'y chicken I done stole I mought as well done been bawn in jail."-Human Life.

Brooms With Bamboo Handles.

The broom long familiar is made with a handle of turned wood, but now there are made also brooms with handles of bamboo.

The bamboo handled broom is a little more ornamental, its joints may perhaps give a little better grip, and it is a little lighter, and it costs a little more than the broom with a handle of turned wood; it has sometimes been called the lady's broom. It is made in medium sizes, designed for household use.

Peculiarity of Twining Plants.

of plants is the fact that with very lew exceptions all the individuals of one species always twine in the same direction. Most plants twine in the opposite course to the movement of the sun or the hands of a watch. Such twiners are the morning glory, wisteria, wax plant, trumpet creeper and many others. Among those which twine in the opposite direction the hop and wild bindweed, or climbing polygonum, are familiar examples.-Harper's Weekly.

Led into court by sheriffs, the two men waited while a clerk was sent scurrying out to get chairs for them. The prison pallor on the face of the younger man had been displaced by a nervous flush. Nervously chewing the gum between his teeth he looked Harriman, one of the lawyers for the around the court room with quick catlike glanges, his head drooping forward. Outside the nervous toying with his hands at a watch chain that dangled from his waistcoat, he displayed no sign of nervousness.

A striking figure was John Joseph McNamara, the elder brother, big. strong and distinguished, as he stood waiting for the day's events. Both men were dressed with extreme care. Both wore black. J. closing scene of the great drama. The sentence was passed in a small court room, near the jail, so that the men could be brought across a "Bridge of Sighs," and not have to be escorted through the streets. There were over a hundred deputies, bailiffs and policemen guarding the room and the corridors. At one time the room was cleared, and all who afterwards entered it, who might in any way be suspected, were searched. A heavy bar was laid across the door, so that there might be no "rushing" of the guards there.

CONGRESS IN SESSION

A Long Drawn-Out Session is Look

The most striking feature in cor. nection with the opening of the second session of the sixty-second congress was the extreme views taken by the leaders of both parties in regard to the probable length of the legislative period.

Leader Underwood declared the present meeting of congress will be one of the longest on record, notwithstanding the fact that the national conventions of both parties that words cannot tell how I felt. These predictions are, of course, based on the ambitious plan of legislation that the president is said, to have in mind, notably tariff revision, and legislation supplementing the Sherman anti-trust law. Nothwithstanding the doleful views in regard to the length of the session, however, the impression is general that it will be barren of legislative results, and that it will be one long game of politics from the beginning Prove What Swamp-Root Will Do For You to the end.

Dan Blair, the 22-year-old son of the looking about at a table near. It was advice just to do what the fellow tells fifty-million-dollar copper king of Blairtown, Mont., is a guest at the English home of Lady Galorey. Dan's father had been courteous to Lord Galorey during his visit to the United States and the courtesy is now being returned to the young man. The youth has an ideal girl in his mind. He meets Lily, Duchess of followed by three men, the first of to the rich enjoyment of the Western-Breakwater, a beautiful widow, who is them the Prince Poniotowsky, indo- er. Her dress was a at first, and after the third night slept are born simple, in the sweet sense of the word, and they go down to old age never of the world, although in a sense wordly. If Dan Blair's eyes were somewhat opened at twenty-two, he had yet the bloom on his soul. He was no fool, but his ideals stood up each on its pedestal and ready to appear one by one to him as the scenes of his life shifted and the different curtains rose. He had been trained in finance from his boyhood and he was a born financier. Money was his natural element; he could go far in it. But woman! He was one of those manly creatures-a knight-to whom each woman is a sacred thing: a dove, a crystal-clear soul, made to cherish and to protect, made to be And in Dan were all the qualities that go to make up the unselfish, tender, foolish, and often unhappy American husband. These were some of the other things he had inherited from his father. Blair, senior, had married his first love, and whereas his boy had been trained to know money and its value, how to keep it and spend it, to save it and to make it, he had been taught nothing at all about woman. He had never been taught to distrust women, never been warned against them; he had been taught nothing but his father's memory of his mother, and the result was that he worshiped the sex and wondered at the mystery. With Gordon Galorey and the others he had ridden, shot better than they, and had played, but with Lady Galorey and the Duchess of Breakwater he was nothing but a child. As far as his hostess was concerned, on several occasions she had put to him certain states of affairs, well, touchingly. Dan had been moved by the stories of sore need among the tenants, had been impressed by the necessity of reforms and rebuildings and on each occasion had given his hostess a check. She had asked him to say nothing about it to Gordon, and he had kept his silence. Dan liked Lady Galorey extremely: she was jolly, witty and friendly. She treated him as a member of the family and made no demands on him, save the Message to Congress Devoted to This One Matter.

DECISIONS ARE DEFENDED

Dissolution Plans of Standard Oil and Tobacco Explained-Federal Incorporation and Commission Recommended,

Washington.-President Taft's annua message, which was read in both houses of congress Tuesday, deals exclusively with the anti-trust statute. The message in part is as follows:

To the Senate and House of Represent atives: This mesage is the first of several which I shall send to congress during interval between the opening of its regular session and its adjournment for the Christmas holidays, The amount of information to be communicated as to the operations of the government, the number of important subjects calling for comment by the executive, and the transmission to congress of exhaustive reports by special commissions, make it imto include in one message of reasonable length a discussion of the topes that ought to be brought to the attention of the national legislature at its first regular session. Decisions of Supreme Court.

In May last the Supreme court handed down decisions in the suits in equity brought by the United States to enjoin the further maintenance of the Standard Oil trust and of the American Tobacco trust, and to secure their dissolution. The decisions are epoch-making and serve to advise the business world authoritatively of the scope and operation of the anti-trust law of 1890. The decisions do not depart in any substantial way from the previous decisions of the court in constru-ing and applying this important statute, but they clarify those important decisions by further defining the already admitted exceptions to the literal construction of the act. By the decrees, they furnish a useful precedent as to the proper method of dealing with the capital and property of illegal trusts. These decisions sug-gest the need and wisdom of additional or supplemental legislation to make it easier for the entire business community to square with the rule of action and legality thus finally established and to preserve the benefit, freedom and spur of reasonable competition without loss of real efficiency or progress.

It has been said that the court, by introducing into the construction of the statute common law distinctions, has emasculated it. This is obviously untrue. By its judgment every contract and com-bination in restraint of interstate trade made with the purpose, or necessary effect of controlling prices by stifling competition, or of establishing in whole or in part a monopoly of such trade, is condemned by the statute. The most extreme critics cannot instance a case that ought to be condemned under the statute which is not brought within its terms as thus construed.

The sugestion is also made that the Supreme court by its decisions in the last two cases has committed to the court the undefined and unlimited discretion to determine whether a case of restraint of trade is within the terms of the statute. This is wholly untrue. A reasonable restraint of trade at common law is well understood and is clearly defined. It does not rest in the discretion of the court. It must be limited to acomplish the purpose of a lawful main contract to which, in order that it shall be enforceable at all, it must be incidental. If it exceeds the needs of that contract it is void.

Methods of Dissolution. In the Standard Oil case the Supreme and circuit courts found the combination to be a monopoly of the interstate busito be a monopoly of the interstate business of refining, transporting, and marketing petroleum and its products, effected and maintained through thirty-seven different corporations, the stock of which was held by a New Jersey company. It in effect commanded the dissolution of this combination, directed the transfer and pro-rata distribution by the New Jersey company of the stock held by it in the thirty-seven corporations to and the thirty-seven corporations to and among its stockholders, and the corpora-tions and individual defendants were enjoined from conspiring or combining to joined from conspiring or combining to restore such monopoly; and all agreements betwen the subsidiary corporations tending to produce or bring about further violations of the act were enjoined.

In the Tobacco case, the court found that the individual defendants, twentynine in number, had been engaged in a successful effort to acquire complete dominion over the manufacture, sale, and distribution of tobacco in this country and abroad, and that this had been done by combinations made with a purpose by combinations made with a purpose and effect to stiffe competition, control prices, and establish a monopoly, not only in the manufacture of tobacco, but also of tin-foil and licorice, used in its manufacture and of its products of cigars, cigarettes and snuffs. The tobacco suit presentend a far more complicated and difficult case than the Standard Oil suit for a decree which would effectuate the will of the court and end the violation of the statute. There was here no single holding company as in the case of the Standard Oil trust. The main company was the American Tobacco com-pany, a manufacturing, selling and hold-ing company. The plan adopted to de-stroy the combination and restore competition involved the redivision of the capi-tal and plants of the whole trust between some of the companies constituting the trust and new companies organized for the purposes of the decree and made parties to it, and numbering, new and old, fourteen.

thus to be granted shall be voluntary, at least until experience justifies mandatory provisions. The benefit to be derived from the operation of great businesses under the protection of such a charter would attract all who are anxious to keep within the lines of the law. Other large combinations that fail to take advantage of the federal incorporation will not have a right to complain if their failure is ascribed to unwillingness to submit their transactions to the careful scrutiny, competent supervision and publicity attendant upon the enjoyment of such a charter. Purpose Not Confiscation. Purpose Not Confiscation.

It is not the purpose of the statute to confiscate the property and capital of the offending trusts. Methods of punishment by fine or imprisonment of the individual offenders, by fine of the corporation, or by forfeiture of its goods in transportation, are provided, but the proceeding in equity is a specific remedy to stop the operation of the trust by injunction and prevent the future use of the plant and capital in violation of the statute.

All Records Likely to Be Broken Before End of Congress. Before the coming session of congress ends President Taft we have probably broken of records of lessages. He has seven of them in mind, and there may be even more. This is the result of cabinet sua-

In addition to its other internal troubles the Madero administration has a small uprising of Yaqui Indians on its hands, according to dispatches from points in Sonora.

In the town of Rosario, Sinaloa, a plot for the counter revolution organized by the Revistas was discovered. It appears that the plot was to take in the entire state, for documents were found giving all details of the movement. Several armed men were captured and placed under arrest pending the investigations that are being carried out to ascertain if they are the organizers of the uprising.

Oil Trust Breaks Up.

The career of the "oil trust" officially came to an end November 30. The Standard Oil company of New Jersey, sometimes called the father of trusts and perhaps the most celebrated corporation in the world, will no longer control the affairs, as the holding company, of more than 30 corporations in various branches of the oil business. Beginning December 1, these subsidiaries, which under the decree of the United States supreme court must conduct independently the various enteracter, organization and extent of their prises, assumed enti-business into one within the lines of of their own affairs. prises, assumed entire management pervision, securing compliance with the anti-trust statute.

While eign commerce the products of useful manufacture under such limitations as the acreage increased 40.2 per cent will secure a compliance with the anti-trust law. It is possible so to frame a statute that while it offers protecgetting on an average less bushels tion to a federal company against harmful, vexatious and unnecessary invasion by the states, it shall subject per acre than 10 years ago. However, the increased price per bushel that Michigan farmers get for their oats more than offsets the falling off in bushels per acre. The 1899 Michigan ly local business.

Easy After You Start

Saving money is very much like getting married, easier after you have made the start than you thought it would be. Many men hesitate to marry because they fear their ability to live up to the expectations of some good woman, and in many cases their fears are well grounded. So, too, many men and women earning fair incomes delay starting a savings account, fearing they may not be able to keep it up regularly, when the very truth is, that the start is the very strongest possible incentive to continue and once the account is opened, it is surprising how it grows, and how much joy there is in going without many things you formerly thought you really must have in order to see that bank account grow. You have an incentive which was heretofore absent. Of course we are in excellent shape to take care of your account. This bank meets every needed require ment. Money on deposit here draws 3 per cent interest, is always ready for you when you want it, absolutely safe. A whole lot of mighty folks have accounts with us. Shall be glad to add your name to the list.

is being the transfer of the art and a property a training the

the constitutional party in almost complete control of the country. In a frantic effort to save some remnant of its tottering power the throne issued edict after edict abjectly acceding to the various demands of the revolutionists. But Manchu rule in China is ended forever.

Wu Ting Fang, twice ambassador of his country to Washington, and one of the most farnous and distinguished statesmen in China, has declared himself in favor of a republican form of government and has taken a leading place in the counsels of the constitutional party. A republic, founded upon lines similar to. the government of the United States is to be the future of China. What influence this awakened giant of Asia may exert in world politics is a question that is causing no end of anxsety in the capitals of the various powers and is one which only the future can answer.

Twice during the three century history of the Manchu domination of the Chinese race has the cry been heard: "Down with the Manchus." The first attempt made by patriotic Chinese to rid themselves of the tyrannical and oppressive yoke of their Tartar conquerods, the sweeping abolition of their ancient and useless "halls of learning," the establishment of foreign schools, modern factories and the construction of extensive railroads have all combined to awaken the younger generation of Chinese to the fact that they were not as they supposed, the superior of all other races, but a century behind the least progressive nation. And, that there might be no doubt about it,

Japan administered an effective lesson, and with eyes wide open, the supercilious Celestial realized that his national existence was in peril, Aroused from his long lethargy the ponderous Chinese giant turned about and clamored for the education of the west, and no scholar on these two national upheavals were in progress at the same time and both inspired by the came sentiment, love of country; while in a still more striking manner did this mighty Chimese protest become a counterpart of the American revolution in its avowed purpose to claim its country for itself and banish forever beyond the confines of the empire the hated Manchu usurper.

That the victory of Washington and his loyal hosts was not duplicated by the Chinese revoactionists at that time was due to the fact that their efforts were impeded, interfered with and finally successfully resisted by that same mower whose unjust domination, of these American States eventually resulted in the Supportal Declaration of Independence. And yet bow much is known of the history of the "Tai Ping Kwok," the Tai Ping Rebellion, or "The Great Kingdom of Peace?"

The cable and the wireless have so brought the ends of the earth together that today, we read in the morning paper what has transpired In the evening on the other side of the earth. But in those days, Chirth was a land buried in mystery, practically unknown and unexplored and whose political and economic conditions attracted but little attention from the outside world, and so far as we are concerned we were too deeply engrossed in our own gigantic struggle to maintain the unity of our own states, to give a thought to what was transpiring across the Pacific.

The history of the Tai Ping rebellion is one of intense interest and full of tragedy, pathos, and romance, but is merely referred to here as being the first cohesive effort made by the Chinese to regain the government of their own land and free themselves from the thraldom of a foreign rule.

Their efforts were unsuccessful. The movetriotism but it ended in total riot and demorali-

Its leader, Hung Hsley Chuen, first raised the cry, "Down with the Manchus" and his enthusiasm was infectious. The Chinese turned to him as a divinely appointed saviour of their land, and he, being more or less of a visionary type, believed himself to be inspired and commissioned by Heaven to accomplish this herculean task. He had received a certain amout of Christien training and it is an astonishing fact that the whole movement was primarily based on Christian principles. But that his religious ed his good judgment and sound reais indicated by the fact that while he reterred to Christ as the Elder Brother, he im-

UNDERWOOD & UNDERWOOD, N.Y

Success was almost within their grasp when the Peking government became alarmed and frantically appealed to the British government to send a soldier who could train an imperial army to meet and quell the Tai Ping rebels.

Gen. Charles Gordon was commissioned for this purpose, and in co-operation with Li Hung Chang he succeeded in putting into the field an efficient and well disciplined army which was afterwards known as the "ever victorious army" for they never lost an engagement with the enemy, and in six months he had completely exterminated the insurrectionists.

Defeated and discouraged, the rebel leader, Hung Hsieu Chuen, retreated to Nanking and there committed suicide.

The Manchu government was saved to continue its dominating oppressive sway and the distinguished Englishman who came to the rescue has ever since been known as "Chinese Gordon."

Note the difference between the attitude of the powers towards the Peking government in the recent rebellion and that of England towards the Manchu despot nearly fifty years

The powers refused to aid or respond to the Peking government's appeal for assistance, finarcially or physically, apparently recognizing that the Chinese have a just grievance and a perfect right to adjust it in the only way pos-

During the past few weeks Tai Ping history has been duplicated, but with a higher purpose and more intelligent direction. The battle cry was the same and "Down with the Manchu" found an echo throughout the length of the Yang Tse valley, in hamlet, town and city, aboard ungainly junks and northward along the shimmering lines of the new railroad until it was heard within the crenelated walls of the Forbidden City and the son of heaven abjectly apologized for past neglect and mistakes of the throne and granted every demand of

There was nothing vague or visionary in the minds or plans of the leaders of this new movement, during the past decade young China has been at school. Bright and intelligent oblique-eyed youths from the Dragon land have traveled beyond the seas and in this and other lands have learned that the preparation for future accomplishment is more to be desired than the slavish devotion of the worship of ancestors and a complacent contemplation of hoary ages past.

Chinese graduates of American and European universities have imbibed with the various feature: of their scholastic curriculum a spirit of independence, and hence the new nationalism in China which has succeded in breaking the bonds of ancient tradition and humiliating serv-

The startling sucessive incidents which focussed the eye of the world on central China were not the result of any local anti-foreign prejudice but the culmination of a carefully prepared plan which occupied the earnest and serious thought of the Young China party for a number of years.

A movement of such stupendous proportions demanded leaders of exceptional ability, and that these were found and proved their fitness has been demonstrated to the world by their deliberate thoroughly organized methods and their avowed determination to not permit their zeal or success to betray them into any act which might be offensive to any foreign power.

Pre-eminent among the leaders of the revolutionary party, or the "Constitutional party," as they prefer to be termed, is Dr. Sun Yat Sen, whose whole life has practically been devoted to the task of bringing about the present crisis. His career has been both thrilling and pic-

The lot of the reformer in China is not a happy one, and the persistent agitation of Dr. Sen soon evoked the wrath of the authorities with the result that it was officially decided that his head would be worth fifty thousand dollars. The fearless young reformer, however, believed it was worth a good deal more to him and so for its preservation he became an exile from his native land,

The organization which he and his colleagues led in creating waxed mighty in numbers and influence. In constant and close touch with developments in China and the progress of the reform party, he was able to direct, at long distance, its various movements until the psychological moment arrived when, confident of their

I pire, with world-old superstitions, was still refusing to admit the blessings of modern prog- no matter how expensive a soap I ress. We believed that it was untouched by the revolutionary fire which in twenty-five a soap that will clean my face and years has changed the Japanese nation, miraculously, so that it has shuffled off its old faith, and its old moralities, adopted the shoddy clothes of Europe, darkened its cities by the black smoke of busy factories, made slums of its flower-gardens, established a great army and a great navy to fight a war which has brought it to the verge of bankfuptcy, adopted the philosophy of greed and grab, and generally learnt the beauties and joys of western civilization. China still seemed to be sleeping in the sun, or dreaming away its life in the old faith of smiling contempt for the rush and roar of western progress.

All travelers from China bear witness to the temperate, contented, cheerful, laughing character of the Chinese peasant, and to the intelligence, the courtesy, the equanimity, the kindliness, the calm philosophy of the Chinese gentleman. When England was a tangled forest inhabited by naked savages, China was the home of literature and the arts. For two thousand years it has had its poets and its great teachers and its men of science. Many of our modern inventions were discovered by Chinese sages a thousand years ago, and abandoned as foolish or dangerous toys which would not add to the happiness of the human race. When their passions are aroused the Chinese people have certainly revealed a savage cruelty equal. but not surpassing, perhaps, the cruelty of the western world in the middle ages. But if all things are measured up it seems that they have much to lose, as well as much to gain, in virtue and in happiness, if they adopt the standards of European civilization. For, after all, our western system of society has not, in spite of all our "progress," given a great measure of happiness or material comfort to the average laborer.

CUTICURA OINTMENT HEALED BAD SORE ON LIMB

"Some time ago I was coming up some steps when the board crushed under me like an egg shell, and my right limb went through to the knee, and scraped he flesh off the bone just inside and below the knee. I neglected it for a day or two, then it began to hurt me pretty badly. I put balsam fir on to draw out the poison, but when I had used it a week, it hurt so badly that I changed to _____ ointment. That made it smart and burn so badly that I couldn't use it any more, and that was the fourth week after I was hurt.

"Then I began to use Cuticura Ointment for the sore. It stopped hurting immediately and began healing right away. It was a bad-looking sore before Cuticura Ointment healed it, and I suffered so I couldn't sleep from two days after I fell until I began using Cuticura Ointment.

"Cuticura Soap is the best soap I ever saw. I have used all kinds of soap for washing my face, and always had to keep a lotion to stop the smart, used. I find at last in Cuticura Soap leave no smarting, and I do not have to use any lotion or anything else to ease it. I believe Cuticura Soap is the "The Nightingale" best soap made." (Signed) Mrs. M. Since Bishop Hendrix Would Drive Him From the Church Whither Will He Flee?

Bishop E. R. Hendrix, in a church council at Kansas City, asked whythe church was not reaching more men. "Is it because we are adapting our work more to the women?" he de-

Another prominent clergyman, Rev. M. Neel, M. D., opined that was somewhere near the reason. "We want no more sissy men in the pulpit," he declared. A "sissy" man, in this definition, is one who adapts his preaching and his teaching and his general conduct of parish affairs more to the women-bless them-than to the men.

Dr. Neel is heartily applauded by a large number of his pulpit brethren and the spirit of the times in the church, as manifested in such enter prises as the "Men and Religion Forward Movement" seems to emphasize what he says—the call and need for the strong, virile man in the pulpit who appeals to the man in the pew and in the street, for making the gospel a man's appeal, not, of course, depreciating the indispensable value of the women.

That is all very well, but where, may we ask, is the typically "sissy" man wanted? What calling or bush ness needs him? Business and other professions besides the ministry can use him no better than can the church.—Omaha Bee.

Many a man doesn't realize that he might have made good as a fiction writer until he hears some of his love letters read in court.

A high grade fertilizer is one which contains the plant food in a fairly concentrated and readily available form. Nitrate of soda, bone meal, muriate and sulfate of potash may be mentioned as examples of high grade fertilizing materials.

A low grade fertilizer is one which contains the plant food in small amounts or in slowly or difficulty available forms. As examples of this class, the following may be mentioned: Garbage, tankage, ground leather, dried peat, untreated phosphate rock, etc.

When these materials are sold separately it is not a dimcult matter to determine what they are nor how much and how available is the plant rood. for they are usually known and sold under, distinctive names.

Exhaustive experiments have been made as to availability of the planttood in practically all of the pertilizing materials found on the market today, and such information will be zladly furnished by the state experiment station, East Lansing, Mich.

When these materials are mixed together to form the mixed fertilizer of commerce it becomes a much more difficult matter to decide as to the availability of the plant-food for most of them completely lose their identity. In such cases it is impossible for the ordinary person to tell with the eve what materials were used in

In respect to the phosphoric acid and potash, however, we may have no misgivings, for almost invariably the phosphoric acid is obtained from acidulated rock phosphate or bone meal, and in either case is readily available. Practically all of the potash used in the two was the better. commercial fertilizers is in the form of muriate or sulphate of potash, and as both these compounds are soluble in water there need be no fear of obtaining unavailable potash.

high percentage of plant food, and low grate materials, on the other hand usually have a low percentage of plant food. Thus, nitrate of soda contains 15.5 per cent. nitrogen; dried blood, 12-14 per cent. nitrogen; high grade tankage, 10 per cent., while garnage tankage contains only 3 per cent. nitrogen and mora meal 2.69 per cent. nitrogen. When the high grade nitrogen compounds are mixed with acid phosphate and muriate of potash, the resulting mixture must necessarily be one of high grade; for example:

300 lbs. dried blood containing 14 per cent. nitrogen. lbs. acid phosphate containing

14 per cent phos. acid. 300 lbs. muriate potash containing 50 per cent. potash.

2,000 The mixture would have the following analysis:

2.10 per cent. nitrogen. 9.80 per cent. phosphoric acid. 7.50 per cent. potash.

The proportion in which the ma terials are mixed may be varied, but so long as no inert material (filler) is added the mixture will be a high grade fertilizer.

If, for example, the low grade materials are used, we may have a mixture like the following: 300 lbs. garbage tankage containing

3 per cent, nitrogen. 200 lbs, dried peat containing 2.50 per cent. nitrogên. 1,200 lbs. acid phosphate containing

14 per cent. phos. acid. 300 ibs. kainit containing 12 per cent. potash.

This mixture would have the following analysis: 0.70 per cent. nitrogen.

8.40 per cent. phosphoric acid. 1.80 per cent. potash.

If samples of these two mixtures were placed side by side it would be impossible for the ordinary person to tell from their appearance which of

However, the analysis would give some guide, as the total percentage of plant food in the first case is 10.40 and in the second case 10.90. For a few trees in the garden and about the home grounds this watering can easily be done and will pay well in quick and good results. A good balance should be maintained between the branches and roots of a tree, and this must be carefully looked after where transplanting is done. The branches and leaves of a tree give off water from their surface, and this water must be supplied by the roots. Enough of the branches must be cut off to balance the roots removed. If this is not done the demands of the branches will be greater than the roots can supply. Evaporation from the surface of the branches takes place in winter as well as in summer, hence trees transplanted in the fall should be cut back at the time of root pruning. It is always better to cut back a little too much than not enough. Mulching the soil about the base of the tree will help to conserve moisture and enable the tree to get through successfully the first year.

W. L. DOUGLAS' TRUST PLAN!

Manufacturer Thinks Government Should Obtain Publicity by a License System.

Large business organizations have come to stay. We cannot go back to old conditions. We must meet world competition. Large concerns can produce goods at lower cost than small ones. Germany favors large corporations. The method of the present national administration is to dissolve the great organizations and make them smaller, which is a backward step. There should be no limit to a corporation doing a large and legitimate business, such as would be possible under the licensing plan which I favor, writes W. L. Douglas, former governor of Massachusetts, in the Boston Herald. Prejudices against corporations merely because they are big, perhaps, must be done away with. They give labor better returns. They cheapen product and thus benefit the consumer. They give opportunities to small investors who get returns otherwise unattainable. They employ able young men who have no capital at all, but who receive handsome salaries for their ability and service. In place of the Sherman law it is my opinion there should be a department at Washington to grant licenses to all manufacturers and corporations in this country who do an interstate commerce business. The law should be made so clear. plain and definite that it could not be misunderstood. It should require all capital to be paid in full. Semi-yearly statements should be given to the public and certified by a public accountant. There should be a board of examiners in each state to look after these corporations just as our national banks are watched by the national government. They should have the right to enter the offices and examine the records of all the directorates of these companies.

Naive Optimists.

"Six months ago there was another outburst of optimism as naive as though the world were still living in the sentimental era of glass exhibitions. Since then there has opened another era of political earthquakes and conflagrations, and the area of disturbance continues to extend. Before the Tripoli problem has been safely liquidated or the peace of the Balkans is assured, we have the outburst in China of an insurrection which may change the face of the far east and give an incalculable increase of force to all the impulses set moving by the triumph of Japan. All we can be certain of in the region of world politics is that nothing is certain. Do we need further lessons to convince us that the peace of civilization is founded upon the crust of a volcano?" asks the London Observer.
