Chelsea Wins Last Game.

The Chelsea high school met the Dexter high school in a basketball contest on the home floor last Friday evening. The game was not very sensational but a rather tame affair. The Dexter boys were unable to score a field basket during the entire game. Their only scores were obtained on tree throws. Final score was 29 to 3.

This closed the basketball season for 1917. The local high school was defeated but twice in the fourteen games played. They have scored 375 points to their opponents 249. Brooks was the most consistent point getter, scoring 133 points, with Kalmbach a coming next with 85 although being out of the game for about three

If the boys could have had a larger floor to work on they would have been able to develop more of a passing game and made an even better showing at the tournament, where they had a large floor to play on. As it was they were able to cop second place. It is to be hoped that a larger floor will be found for next year's

On Friday afternoon Superintendent Walling and Claire Rowe will epresent the Chelsea high school at a meeting of the Tri-County Athletic Association to be held in Tappan Hall, Ann Arbor, to make arrangements for the annual field meet. To The Citizens of Washtenaw County:

The election to be held on Monday, April 2nd, is one of immense importance to the people of this county, because the office of Circuit Judge is to be filled.

In a county like ours, where the courts are the chief guardians of law and order, no local office compares in power and influence with the office of Circuit Judge. There is not a man, woman or child in the county whose security and protection are not dependent on the integrity and fearlessness of the judge who sits in the Circuit Court. The selection of such an officer is a matter of such serious concern that political partisanship should have nothing to do with it.

The Circuit Judge should be a good lawyer, but he must be much more than that. He must be a man of high character, a man of broad public spirit, and a man who is fair-minded and free from prejudices. Many a good lawyer is a bad judge, for a strong partisan is not fitted for the delicate and difficult task of doing exact justice between parties.

George W. Sample is an attorney of excellent training and ripe experience. He is a graduate of the Law Department of our own University, and has successfully practiced his profession in this county for fifteen years. He is respected and trusted by all who know him as a man of solid character and high ideals. He already has a notable record in the public service, for his work as a member and president of the Ann Arbor School Board has shown his capacity and faithfulness as a trustee of the people. While he is a man of convictions, he has never been a narrow partisan, but has always maintained a fair and open-minded attitude toward those who did not agree with him. He has never been associated with persons or interests hostile to the welfare of the public, and as a judge he would be free from entangling alliances affecting his attitude toward public questions brought before his court. He would be a judge to whom anyone could freely go for help and counsel, and from whom everyone in the county, whether high or low, would obtain a sympathetic hearing and full and equal justice.

We therefore ask you to support Mr. Sample, not as a favor to him, but as an act of service to the community in which we live. We do this in the interest of no party, but because of our strong personal belief that he is the candidate best fitted for the office

Pierpont Stafford, with his daughter Gloria, is wintering at Palm Beach. Gloria is a vivacious but willful young lady who chafes under the restraining hand of a governess from whom she rehand of a governess from whom she repeatedly escapes. Her childish capers cause young Doctor Royce to fall in love with her. Becoming lost in the everglades she falls into the hands of the Seminole Indians. Gloria falls in love with her rescuer, Freneau. Five years later she leaves school and meets Freneau at the theater; he has forgotten Gloria. Later Freneau persuades her to forgive him. Gloria's sister-in-law, Lois, becomes intensely jealous. Freneau goes sleighing with Gloria. It results in pneumonia for Gloria, whose family bemonia for Gloria, whose family be-comes incensed at Freneau. Royce is summoned. Preneau's finances being low, he approaches Pierpont Stafford. Lois threatens him with dire punishment. Her husband, Gloria's brother David, becomes suspicious. Freneau plans to have Muiry send Gloria a bunch of telegrams. Gloria sees from her window an attack made upon Freneau. Doctor Royce convinces her it is delirium. Later, a telegram, followed by a letter, comes from Freneau. She reby a letter, comes from Freneau. She replies, but her telegrams are returned. She sees the supposed suicide of Freneau reported in the paper. Gloria swears to find the murderer of her lover. Royce tells what he knows of Freneau to Mr. Stafford. Together they seek to prevent scandal from enveloping Gloria. She accuses them in her mind of conspiracy against her. Gloria goes to David's country home. She meets Mulry, who flees at once. Gloria insists on going to Palm Beach. Again she sees Mulry there. He leaves for the North. She is recognized by her one-time captor, the young Indian chief. He tells her that Royce and not Freneau was her rescuer at that time. THIRTEENTH EPISODE

The Midnight Riot.

To be miles from home without street car fare is a luxury for the daughters of millionaires. Gloria Stafford would have taken her first experience as a great joke if she had not been devoted to so important an errand. The footpad who stole her pursuing the taxicab. It was an aphandbag stole also her transportation. propriate place for an ambulance. It She felt that she might as well have been lost in Florida everglades again.

Of course, she would have had protection by appealing to almost any of the wayfarers. But, after her encounter with the pickpurse, she looked on everybody with suspicion. "She slipped through the crowded streets and flitted along the deserted byways on the hunt for the murderer of her lover. She was afraid of everybody and everything, but most afraid of losing that man.

At last she saw him again ahead of her. He was wandering rather aimlessly. He had apparently dropped in at one or more of the little swinging doors that flapped on every corner. Gloria hastened after him, but before she could quite catch up he clambered on a surface car. The conductor had to help him aboard. He was so busy at that task that he did not see Gloria's wildly waved hands or hear her command, "Stop that car!"

If Gloria had caught the car she could not have paid the fare, though she might have given the conductor a nickel's worth of flirtation. At any rate, she missed the car. Several other cars came near not missing her as she stood irresolute in the middle of the street.

Then a taxicab bustled along. Gloria felt more at home. She did not have

'What's the game, miss. Are you a lady detackatuff?" Gloria looked wise and said nothing.

As she hopped in, Doctor Royce caught sight of her from a distance. A taxicab was rather conspicuous down there. He wished for another, or a pair of wings.

Then a motor ambulance came along, banging its bell. Dr. Royce had a wide acquaintance in ambulances. He dared to stop this one and ask the interne for a ride.

And so they went-the taxicab pursuing the street car; the ambulance was quite likely to be needed. Bu the ambulance had to turn into a side street before it overtook Gloria, and Royce was compelled to drop off, and pursue afoot.

Then the street car that carried Trask stopped so abruptly that Gloria's taxicab shot past it, almost annihilating Trask as it whizzed by.

Gloria caught a glimpse of Trask eaving the car, grazing the taxicab and reeling down a dark street. She pounded on the glass and put her head out to check the driver. She ordered him to back up. He backed into the very street car that Trask had just eft. There was a crash, a tinkle of brokes glass, and Gloria was evicted hrough the broken door.

The chauffeur got down and began the usual wrangle with the motorman and the conductor of the street car; the passengers piled out: a crowd gathered. Two policemen ran up and began to make notes. Gloria tugged at the coat of the chauffeur, but he was too busy to pay any attention and she had no money to pay him. So she left him and ran for Trask, not entirely sorry that she had saved her

The delay had enabled Doctor Royce to gain some ground, but he lost it again trying to ask the excited chauffeur where his passenger was.

He laughed: the crowd laughed. She struck up at the villain's face, but he held his head too high for her to reach and, laughing, whirled her round and round through the crowd. About this time Doctor Royce was in hot pursuit of Gloria. He had caught a glimpse of her hat, and he thought he saw it turn in at a door. He was almost more angry than anxious. He tried all the doors. At length he reached the dance hall. He glanced at the crowd and felt sure that Gloria could not be there. He was about to retreat when Choey's late companion, Moli, admired him and danced up to him, daring him to invite her to a spiel. And then he saw Gloria-a most astonishing Gloria. She had been so enraged by her captor's insistence that she seized him by the neck scarf and, leaping up, caught him by the hair and dragging his head down slapped

He fell against a table, upsetting the occupants, who rose and struck at him, then at one another. Choey leaped at Royce. The zest of battle filled the air. Royce put Gloria back of him and met Choey half way. Royce was a college boxer and Choey had a schooling in the east side rings. It was a pretty exhibition of two schools of science. The spectators were of divided opinions and began to take sides.

Men and women quarreled and smote. The whole place fell into uproar. Royce was attacked on all sides. He seized a chair and cleared a space for Gloria. It was wrenched from him. Bottles were thrown. Royce went to his knees and rose with a gash on his head.

Gloria did her best to protect him till he got up, but she was a novice in such scenes. Through a terrific melee Royce slowly fought backward to the door. Even the musicians entered the fight. Gideon Trask, never dreaming that he was the cause of it all, watched the battle from the barroom door, through which the aproped barkeepers entered the fray.

Choey's neglected lady friend began to fear for him. She forgave him the slight he had put on her, and when she saw him slip on the wet floor and go skidding under the feet of the trampling herd she was alarmed for She ran up to them, yelling:

"What do you know about poor Mr. Freneau's death that you are afraid to tell me?" Mulry could not escape. She would not relent. "Why did he deceive me as to where he was going? Where was he actually going?"

Then, in that strange place, inspiration came to Mulry, and he spoke the beautiful lie he had not been able to think of before. He said:

"Miss Stafford, poor Dick had nothing dishonorable to conceal from you. He was ill. His doctor told him he must have an operation for appendicitis. Gloria almost swooned with joy. The explanation was so like what the Dick she loved would have done that she could not doubt it. It was too beautiful not to be believed. It lighted the whole dingy cell with its radiance. Her love for Freneau came back in a blaze of splendor. She seized Mulry's hand and wrung it. Arrange the spinach around a platter, inside the ring place the beets and in the middle the peas, keeping the line as straight as possible between the colors. Sprinkle the whole with finely minced parsley and send hot to the table.

Spinach Salad .- Wash and cook a half peck of spinach, if young and tender it will cook in its own juices and the water that clings to the leaves. Heat it very gradually and watch it to prevent burning. When tender, drain and chop it with six hard-cooked eggs. Add a cupful of toasted, buttered crumbs and a half cupful of minced cooked ham. Pack in small molds and chill on ice. Serve with olives and any desired salad dressing.

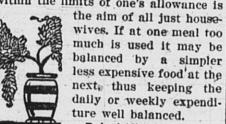

Radish Salad .- Slice as many radishes as are needed, lay them in overlapping slices around a bed of lettuce. Place on the lettuce a mixture of green vegetables mixed with salad dressing that are at hand.

Canada Offers 160 Acres Free to Farm Hands

Bonus of Western Canada Land to Men Assisting in Maintaining Needed Grain Production

The demand for farm labor in Canada is great. As an inducement to secure the necessary help at once, Canada will give and allow the time of the farm laborer, who has filed on the land, to apply as residence duties, the same as if he actually had lived on it. Another special concession is the reduction of one year in the time to complete duties. Two years instead of three as heretofore, but only to men working on the farms for at least six months in 1917. This appeal for farm help is in no way connected with enlistment for military service but solely to increase agricultural output. A wonderful opportunity to secure a farm and draw good wages at the same time. Canadian Government will pay all tare over one cent per mile from St. Paul or Duluth to Canadian destination. "The white feather," murmured Clio, and her face was troubled. Her girl friends had rushed off to another part of the garden to greet some young men who had come to play tennis. Clio drew to the shelter of a leafy arbor and sat down to think.

She uttered a deep sigh as she slipped the letter that had just been handed to her into the pocket of the light jacket she wore. Then she went over the events of the past half hour gravely, considerately, dubiously, Brampton was a college town and the students and their friends formed the main social element. There was Vote for John P. Kirk for Circuit the inevitable jealousy, popularity, criticism, leadership_attending such/a condition. The students of the two rival colleges were divided into cliques. Neil Osborne was the captain of one of the athletic teams, a and he was involved in the event of enhanced her prejudice. She had joined her friends in the Barry garden that day with a vivid story to relate.

Neil, with several of his team, had been passing a billiard room in the town, a favorite resort with the fast college set, at dusk the evening previous, when there sallied forth from it a body of rivals. They had uproarously pitched upon their enemies, had wrestled several to the ground, had delivered a black eye or two, yah-yahed them derisively and hastened to cover again.

The suddenness of the attack fairly took away the breath of the assaulted ones. Then a mighty roar went up.

"Satisfaction!" "Revenge!"

"Clean them out!" Amid indignant yells the coterie looked to Neil Osborne, the leader, to instantly give the order to vigorously resent the dastardly attack. To their infinite surprise, to their disgust, he calmly ordered all hands to proceed on their way. As captain, his mandate was imperative. He was pale and disturbed, it was described later. And later, too, the word went around that the crack athlete of the team had been daunted, scared by his enemies, had not the grit to fight them, in fact, had shown "the white feather." "And they are thinking of electing a new captain," declared the glibtongued Elsa. "And he's just a fraud, for he has no courage. He was afraid, don't you see it-a coward. And I've fixed up a present for him. It's in this envelope. See," and ere she had sealed the receptacle Elsa showed glued across a sheet of note paper-white feather. And Clio Barry, the accommodating, always the gentle burden-bearer, had been given the humiliating missive to mail. And now she was thinking it all over. She had liked Neil, always. If the quiet young student showed a preference for any particular young lady it had been herself, and she had been rather pleased and proud of it. She be on the list next Monday for Cir- had viewed him as a natural knight of

"He wouldn't flunk!" uttered Clio. "There is a mistake, or spitework, as she had expected. She took a roundabout and lonely course homeward bound. It was by way of the college campus. Clie would have indignantly resented a charge that she hoped to meet Neil, still, he was on her mind.

There was a barren stretch to cover the half-mile distance to home. She hurried her steps as she passed a wagon with a canvas top. Then, she shrank back and uttered a faint scream as a man jumped from its side. He grasped her, looked keenly into her face and placed a rough hand over her

A new sensation greeted Brampton the next morning. Its suspense and terror lasted through the day ensuing. Miss Barry had disappeared. Had she eloped, committed suicide, for been kidnaped? Mr. Barry was telegraphed for. Ned Barry in a frenzy led the town officers in a vain search for his missing sister.

Then strange, mysterious rumors spread about. Neil Osborne was also missing. All kinds of theories were exploited. And the third morning an automobile drove into town, delivering Miss Barry at her home and Neil at the college.

"Then it was no elopement, after all?" fluttered Elsa Danvers breathlessly as she dashed in upon Clio. "Oh, tell us all about it, dear!"

"It was gypsies," pronounced Clio-"gypsies who carried me away to later seek a ransom from dear papa. They kept me in a horrid wagon, gagged and bound. I dropped my jacket out of the wagon when they let me eat. Mr. Osborne, trying to find me, picked up the clew. And that letter was in

"With the white feather?" "Of course. And it was directed to him, and he read it-poor fellow. Brave fellow, though!" enthused Cliq, "for he kept on and on, girls. When he found me in the gypsy camp, if you could have seen him fight in turn six great wicked gypsies! I'm safe back home only because 'a coward' risked his life for me!" And Clio's eyes glowed with fervor.

MICHIGAN STARTS WAR PREPARATION

CLASSES FROM U. OF M. READY TO OFFER THEIR SERVICES WHEN NEEDED.

STATE AIMS TO BE READY

M. A. C. Starts Survey of Farms On Request of War Department in Effort to Increase Crops.

Lansing-Michigan is striving to prepare for war.

Already activities have been started with the aim of making Michigan among the first states to offer practical service to the United States.

Entire classes from the University of Michigan will offer their services, according to announcement made Tuesday, and they will serve in departments for which their college training fits them.

Pontiac has started the organization of a company for whatever duty they may be called, whether it be at home cr overseas. It will be attached to the "Roosevelt army division." A motorcycle corps is being organized in Muskegon. The Michigan Agricultural college has started a survey of the farms of Michigan on a request from the United States war department in an effort to increase crop production.

According to Professor J. C. Parker, of the engineering college, of the U. of M., the whole college is "imbued with a spirit of sane enthusism." The entire senior marine engineering class will offer its services. The teaching staff of the chemical engineering department will go into the officers' reserve corps.

WOMEN OF STATE ORGANIZE

Begin "Preparainess" Campaign to Meet Possible War Conditions.

Lansing-One-quarter of a million Michigan women are to be enlisted in a movement for "preparedness" against the changed economic and social conditions that may prevail during a possible war that now faces the United States.

The initial call for an organization to be known as the "Michigan Women's Committee for Patriotic Service" has been issued by Mrs. O. H. Clark, of Kalamazoo, president of the Mich-including the chiefs of several wom-Equal Suffrage organization and other bodies, was held here and a state committee formed.

The Michigan women's committee for patriotic service contemplates the application of some of the economic lessons learned by the women of the nations now at war in Europe.

It will seek, first of all, to aid women who may be deprived of support by the enlistment of husbands, fathers, or brothers, by a state-wide system of registration of such women and the listing of all employment open to them.

Departments to protect women against exploitation, such as has been met with in European countries will ing works will probably be pro-

The increase of the food supply, which might be diminished by a long or general war, through the withdrawal of labor, will be promoted through the garden cultivation plan.

The elimination of waste in food and other necessities will be taught as a further method of protection against want where dependents are deprived of support.

MORE GUARDS ARE CALLED

Makes a Total of Over 45,000 Men Available for Police Duty.

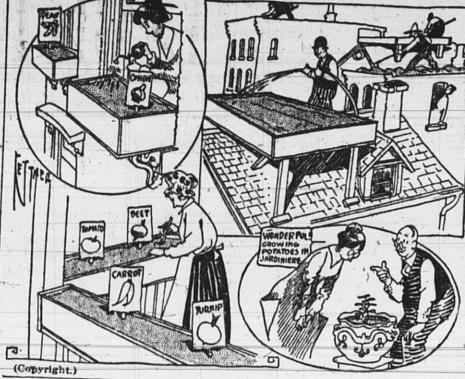

Washington-Nearly 15,000 men were added Tuesday to the national guard force available for federal police duty by a war department order suspending the muster out of all guard organizations still in the federal service. With the men called out during the past few days this gives the government upwards of 45,000 guardsmen for employment in their home states to protect industries and other prop-

Most of the men affected by Tuesday's order were at their home mobilization camps preparing to return to civilian life after long stays on the Mexican border. They now will be held at their camps or armories for assignment as conditions require.

ADD 19,000 TO NAVAL FORCES.

Brings Authorized Enlistments in Fleet Up to 87,000 Men.

Washington-The need of men and more men to man the navy, which forms the nation's first line of defense, was emphasized when President Wilson, by executive orders, increased the authorized enlisted strength of the fleet to 87,000 men.

The order, issued under authority of the naval appropriation act of the present year, would add 19,000 bluejackets to the enlisted personnel. Every man will be needed for the new ships being rushed to completion, the reserve fleet ordered into commission and the mosquito fleet of "submarine chasers," which have been ordered constructed in record time. It is probable that a further increase in the legal limit will be asked when congress convenes.

Meantime the navy department will continue its orders to rush construction. Secretary Daniels and his aides are conferring daily with the shipbuilders and with the manufacturers of material for the building of the enormous naval program now contracted for.

AN ASHINGTON.-Who remembers the time when the house of representatives treated the senate with respect? In those days_it was courtesy never to mention the senate by name in house debates. When necessary they used the vague term, "another body," and sometimes went as far as making a wavelike motion to the north, indicating the direction in which "the other body" could be found. But, like the English soldier's plaint in "Mandalay," all that is "shoved behind me, long ago and far away." Today the house actually rips the senate up the back, right out in meeting. Witness the sarcastic comment between Representative Mann and Representative Fitzgerald only a few days ago. Representative Mann was raising a rumpus because the senate had done something or other, and Representative Fitzgerald pleaded the excuse that the senate had to take such and such action and was asking the house for help. "That's a good excuse," retorted Representative Mann, "but if the senate needs the help of the gentleman from New York it should elect him ap

"Well, it probably wouldn't do the senate any harm."

American People Treat the White House Roughly

THAT in this grand and glorious republic the White House is really the people's house was brought out rather vividly in the hearings before the house appropriations subcommittee on the sundry civil bill. Col. W. W. Harts, who has charge of public buildings and grounds, appeared before the subcommittee and asked for an appropriation of $60,000 "for extraordinary repairs and refurnishing of the executive mansion." He made such a showing of public desecration of the White House-unintentional but nevertheless destructive -that the committee did not hesitate to grant what he asked. Members of the subcommittee sat up and took notice when Colonel Harts told how roughly the White House is treated by the visiting public and how the furniture is demolished. "The repairs," said he, "are required more and more as time goes on and are made necessary largely because of injuries inflicted upon the property "There are between 1,000 and 2,000 people who go through the White House every day except Sundays, and the lower floor and the main floor of the White House have been very badly used. We have not been able, with the $35,000 annually appropriated, to keep it up, so that many of the furnishings have not been restored or repaired that were put in there 15 years ago when the White House was rebuilt by President Roosevelt. People who go in the White House grab at the curtains in order to look out, and as high as the people can reach the curtains are worn to tatters, often completely worn through. On the furniture the edges have worn through and the plush seats are worn off by people constantly sitting on them. It is mainly for the use of the public that these repairs are necessary."

MRS. AUSTIN IS ACCUSED BY HER DRUNKEN HUS-BAND OF BEING TOO FRIENDLY WITH THE STATE RANGER.

Mrs. Alaire Austin, a handsome young matron, mistress of Las Palmas ranch, gets lost in the Texas desert and after an all-day struggle wanders into the little camp of David Law, a range officer hunting a Mexican murderer. Circumstances force her to stay there overnight and all the next day. Law catches his man and kills another, then escorts her home.

At Las Palmas.

Although the lower counties of southwest Texas are flat and badly watered, they possess a rich soil. They are favored, too, by a kindly climate, subtropic in its mildness. The Rio ner. Grande, jaundiced, erratic as an invalid, wrings its saffron blood from the clay bluffs and gravel canyons of the hill country, but near its estuary winds quietly through a low coastal plain which the very impurities of that blood have richened. citizenship is mostly a matter of form. The stockmen, pushing ahead of the nesters and the tillers of the soil, were the first to invade the lower Rio Grande, and among these "Old Ed" Austin was a pioneer. Like the other cattle barons, he was hungry for land and took it where or how he could. Those were crude old days; the ploneers who pushed their herds into the far pastures were lawless fellows, ruthless, acquisitive, mastered by the em-

"Four days," Alaire told him, realizing with a little inward start how very far apart she and Ed had drifted. She looked at him curiously for an instant, wondering if he really could be her husband, or-if he were not some peculiarly disagreeable stranger.

Ed had been a handsome boy, but he was growing fat from drink and soft from idleness; his face was too full, his eyes too sluggish; there was an unhealthy redness in his cheeks. In contrast to his wife's semi-formal dress, he was unkempt-unshaven and soiled. His preparations for dinner this evening had been characteristically simple; he had drunk three dry cocktails and flung his sombrero into a cor-

. Ed's marriage to Alaire had been inevitable. They had been playmates, and their parents had considered the union a consummation of their own lifelong friendship. Upon her mother's death Alaire had been sent abroad, and there she femained while "Young Ed" attended an eastern college. MILK AND BUTTERFAT FEEDS

Utilize Every Possible Morsel of Food -Teeth and Stomach Wear Out First in Cow.

Every possible morsel of food fed to dairy cows should be utilized for the production of milk and butterfat. The teeth and the stomach are the two organs of a cow which wear out first. especially the former. This is caused in great part by the cow having to eat hard dry unground grain. There is an old saying, "No chain is stronger than its weakest link." With the dairy cow also this holds true. When one organ of digestion wears out, then the whole cow is useless.

A good dairy cow should be kept as long as possible, and if she is properly fed and cared for, she will be useful for about lifteen years. Some give a
