KIWANIANS HEAR LAW ENFORCEMENT ADDRESS

Professor Trumbull, of Jackson High School, delivered an enlightening talk on Purpose and Methods of Law Enforcement.

Taking for his subject "Law Enforcement," Prof. Trumbull, of the History department, Jackson High School, entertained Kiwanians on Monday evening, with a highly instructive and pleasing address on the origin of present day democratic forms of government, purposes of such government, necessity of its laws, spirit of the law and reason for its flagrant violation during the past few years.

Touching upon a subject which is frequently being voiced through the news columns but which is not heard so often from the platform, Prof. Trumbull took up the matter of immigration from the standpoint of one hundred per cent Americanism and heartily condemned the promiscuous acceptance of undesirable aliens in such quantities that America is unable to assimilate them and make of them desirable citizens. That the criminal element so much in evidence today is largely made up of this class of foreigners was the contention of the speaker. To support his statements with regard to the existence of an almost uncontrollable criminal element, the professor read from a number of newspaper clippings extending over a limited period in which revolting incidents relative to law violation were given account. That the run-running and bootlegging were largely responsible for this criminal condition was the opinion of the speaker.

Following the address of the evening action was taken by the club in which endorsement was given to the professor's bill now pending before congress in which the number of immigrants entering this country yearly would be limited to two per cent of the number resident here in 1890 instead of the law now in force which allows three per cent of the number resident here in 1910 to enter annually. That the bulk of foreign immigration, and especially the undesirable element, has been since 1890 is given as the reason for setting the date at that time. This would admit approximately 120,000 per year instead of nearly half a million under present conditions. The present law expires in June.

COUNTRY HOME SCENE OF PRETTY WEDDING

Alice Caroline Baldwin, becomes bride of Harry Ray Knickerbocker on Friday afternoon.

Miss Alice Caroline Baldwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Baldwin of Lima, and Harry Ray Knickerbocker, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Knickerbocker of Ann Arbor, were quietly married at the home of the bride's parents Friday afternoon at two o'clock, Rev. P. W. Dierberger of South Haven, performing the ceremony. Immediate families of the young couple witnessed the event. The young couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kalm-Jach.

The Baldwin home, decorated with daffodils and hyacinths presented a beautiful background for the wedding party. Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served the nuptial party and guests.

The bride was beautifully attired in a blue crepe de chine gown and carried a bouquet of sweet peas. Immediately after the wedding dinner the young couple left on a short honeymoon to Detroit and upon their return Sunday took up their residence on the Sibley farm, where the groom is employed.

The bride of Friday is a popular young lady among local circles. She is a graduate of Chelsea high school in the class of '23 and has been teaching during the past winter in the rural schools of Lima.

Friends and acquaintances join in wishing the bridal couple a happy and prosperous future.

J. WILBUR STEDMAN

J. Wilbur Stedman was born September 9, 1860, and passed away April 17, 1924.

On October 22, 1884 he was united in marriage with Etta M. Taylor of Lima township, near Chelsea. To them was born two sons, Harry Wilbur and Ray E., who with the mother are left to mourn their loss. Besides his immediate family Mr. Stedman is survived by one brother, Albert H. of Detroit, also three sisters, Mrs. Jennie Chipman of Chelsea, Mrs. Hattie Patterson of Lima township and May Saylor of Denton, Michigan. He was the son of Henry C. and Nancy L. Stedman. He was ever kind and thoughtful to his loved ones in the home.

In the home he was the most devoted of husbands and the kindest of fathers and no sacrifice was too great when it was for the welfare of his loved ones.

While the trial of parting is most severe what a sweet and sacred remembrance is left to them for the path he has trodden. Funeral services were held from the home Sunday afternoon, conducted by Rev. C. S. Kisley, pastor of the M. E. church of Chelsea, and laid to rest in Oak Grove cemetery.

WILL PLAY RE-ENGAGEMENT

"Always in Trouble," the farce comedy given by the Young People's League of St. Paul's church a few weeks ago, will be repeated at the town hall on next Tuesday evening. So great was the demand for seats that the local hall was entirely too small to accommodate the crowd, hence the re-engagement.

New features have been added to the program for Tuesday evening and it is expected a number who witnessed the first appearance will also take in the second. An advertisement in another page sets forth special numbers which will be given.

FRED GENTNER GIVEN BIRTHDAY SURPRISE PARTY

REQUESTS OBSERVANCE OF GOOD FRIDAY CLOSING

President Daniels, in Proclamation Issued Today, Asks All Industry to Cease for Three Hours.

That Good Friday will be observed in Chelsea and vicinity by a general suspension of business activities was indicated today when President W. R. Daniels issued a proclamation in which he asks that all business places and industries close at 12 noon and remain inactive for a period of three hours thereafter.

Commemoration of the crucifixion and death of Christ has become a fixed custom locally, practically every one joining in the three-hour period of reverent cessation of business activities and it is expected that this year will prove no exception.

President Daniels' proclamation: To the Citizens of Chelsea:

Whereas it is appropriate for Christian people to commemorate the death of our Saviour, and Whereas, it has been the custom of our village to observe Good Friday in a reverent way by cessation of business during certain hours.

Therefore, in furtherance of this commendable practice, I, W. R. Daniels, President of the Village of Chelsea, earnestly request that all places of business be closed Good Friday between the hours of 12 noon and 3 p. m.

W. R. DANIELS, President.

Of Mr. Niehaus, the Telegram says: "Julius Niehaus, the basso, is a giant in stature and his voice reverberates with physical force. He appeared at his best in the aria, 'The people that walked in darkness have seen a great light,' the forceful rendition given by him of the narrative against its enchanting background of weird harmonies being one of the enduring memories of the evening."

Other soloists of the evening were Mrs. Annis Dexter Gray of Ypsilanti, Mrs. Grace Johnson Knoid of Ann Arbor, James Hamilton of the U. of M. faculty.

STANDING shoulder to shoulder with public officials, doctors and nurses, thousands of American funeral directors are constantly safeguarding your health.

Their part in stamping out contagion and saving human life is one of their many almost unobserved, yet very definite, contributions to public safety and peace of mind, and to the higher modern standards of living.

Because they are prepared, you do not have to be. They have provided facilities equally accessible to all, adequate to every material and spiritual necessity, and thoughtfully designed with the sincerity and good taste befitting equipment which is intended to carry a message of love and esteem.

By their preparedness they have relieved the family and its friends of all perplexing responsibilities, and by the influence resulting from their own progress, they have brought about the abolition of traditional funeral customs that did violence to the finer sensibilities.

Editorial

KEEPING REGULAR
Martin Wright, seventy of Newark, New Jersey, killed a young man living in his home the other day. He said he had gotten tired of the youth's familiarity with his married daughter. The girl is now sobbing for her slain "soul-husband" as she calls him, and her father, except for the adroitness of his lawyer, may go to the chair.

Not a very pretty situation. It would have shocked our forefathers silent with the several tragedies of it. We see similar instances every day in the big city papers. Like stories played up under colossal headlines with flattering photographs, however, these recitals often encourage, or at least palliate, such misdeeds instead of serving as a warning—as the journals vociferously declare.

It was evidently not a "regular" situation; one might call it irregular domesticity. We know such things are getting more common, more brazen, more culpable. Yet whether we're getting broader or not, we condemn much less than a decade ago.

Neither God nor the Biblical prophets instituted marriage. Find some reference to it if you can, Man did it. There was a big need for some such institution, for the good of man, woman, and society. It has justified itself a million fold. It is necessary, sacred, and just as authoritative as if practised from the beginning at Divine prompting.

Irregularity of any sort, we believe, is contrary to the purposes of the Creator of the Universe. Domestic irregularity disturbs the serenity of things, it throws sand into the mechanism of social order. Hundreds of unwed couples live together; they call it free love. Thousands of married folks scatter their interests beyond their own firesides.

That brings trouble, not only for themselves but for others. Such irregularity begets other unusual conditions which won't adjust themselves. The Bible says it is wrong. Common sense shouts that it is foolish as well. Experience proves that it is dangerous and wisdom condemns it.

Keeping regular may be tedious, tiresome, difficult. Yet modern waves of liberalism have found no substitute for an unsullied home or the calm trust of man and wife who love each other. Anything which threatens that content is surely an enemy of mankind.

SWEET REVENGE
Harry H. Pottle of Long Island got peevish because he couldn't stand the admission tests of Annapolis Naval Academy many years ago, and vowed to get even. He did. He now has three sons in the Academy, the second father to enjoy such an honor. Doubtless Uncle Sam is hoping that other men will take a similar revenge on the government.

That isn't a bad idea, either. Few folks get revenge that way. Most try to see how much harm they can do to the other fellow and not how quickly they can win him. There is such a thing as sickening, spineless meekness and submission to injury. But we see little of it. Forgiveness with most people is an afterthought; getting even comes first.

ADVERTISING AN ART
Col. R. R. McCormick, an owner of the Chicago Tribune, told his advertising staff they had a real man's job.

"There is no one," he said, "be he priest or preacher or rabbi; be he poet or editorial writer—there is no one whose calling is more exalted than yours."

He surely meant it. He didn't say it to make his men feel good; he didn't need to. Also, it sounds logical.

Advertising men hold the fate of giant industries in their hands. Think over that sentence. They send the same "copy" to thousands of newspapers. A word wrongly used; a slightly tainted impression; a bit of false logic, illegitimate appeal, crude or vague sentences—these may seal the doom of a big enterprise. Needless to say, the men take much pains with their work. You see other examples, not written by fifty-thousand-dollar-a-year men, but by merchants you know. You know whether or not you can trust them to back up their printed statements. Their art is truth. And that is the biggest art in any field.

Tactful Men Curious
Tactful men may have as much curiosity as anybody, but they ask no questions and leave it ungratified.

MORE ABOUT BOYS
Supreme Court Justice Cresspey, of New York, is helping state towns establish boys' clubs. He believes they help to prevent juvenile crimes, and, in addition, help the boys to advance by giving them something good to do.

The idea has long been advocated, always, where good clubs have been organized, not necessarily brilliant leaders, they work fine. One doesn't have to be a scholar or experienced club worker to handle boys. A warm heart goes further.

Crimes by boys are, we admit, frequent in large cities. In the New York slums just the other night, two were shot in a gang feud. The Marshall Stillman movement is organizing these boys, and others all over the land, helping them to real manhood.

A Judge Vause was given some publicity the other day for urging the whipping post for young criminals. They used it in Delaware until recently, and that state boasts a low crime rate. But the whipping post didn't keep the boys good. It probably drove many to big cities where they became real crooks and went to prison.

Punishment is necessary, of course, for both home and state. Effectiveness, however, doesn't depend on severity. Prevention of crime and saving boys from becoming really bad is our object; not revenge after it's over or making sure it won't happen again soon.

A deterrent, like a whipping post—or almost any other punishment, for that matter— isn't nearly as effective as a little friendly interest in a boy by an older person. Boys' clubs are a remarkable agency for good. Yet what are they to do if older people don't show some interest?

CHIVALRY PLUS

According to Frank Van Eaton, of Oklahoma, he was trying to be chivalrous to a woman when he shot a man on the streets of New York. Since the woman disappeared and since it is a penitentiary offence in New York to own a gun, to say nothing of carrying one, he was taken into custody.

We note that the New York papers referred to him as "chivalrous" and "breezy" and all the rest of those nice adjectives usually tucked onto southerners and westerners. Doubtless he was. And he was in a city where chivalry is at a premium.

But the world has moved fast since the days of the cowboy in fiction. We don't use guns any more; that is, wise people do not. We don't need to. Trouble always follows. We've gotten beyond the stage of hitting our enemies with lead, settling private grudges with young cannon, and using strong arm methods except where there is no alternative. We won't outlive chivalry, we hope. Yet chivalry plus—something else—is the answer. Reason is the contrary notwithstanding, there is usually another method for the hero than that of beating the villain to the draw.

MR. COOLIDGE'S FATHER

At seventy-nine, the father of our president told newspaper men the secret of longevity is "Work hard and don't worry." Astonishing how many old men have the same formula. Do folks take it seriously?

Mr. Coolidge, Sr., is also sparing with his words. Had he elaborated, he might have said: "Don't work too hard;" "When you play, forget all about work;" "If you don't like your job, change it;" and similar good advice. Many folks are grinds; they need an occasional or permanent change.

The worrying part is interesting. More folks worry themselves to death than disease overcomes. Ask the doctor. Yet there are three thousand stages of worrying. Some are just plain fretting, useless, expensive of energy. Some are grave anxiety over a serious situation, soon passing. Yet worrying, in a certain degree is good for anybody. The man who worries to get ahead becomes a leader. The woman who worries about her children becoming honorable and pleasant adults will have her dreams realized. The man who worries because our Congressmen are not all they should be, or because thousands of savages eat each other, or because farm products don't bring a fair price; or because automobiles cost so much to run, expensive heat is wasted around an electric light bulb; hundreds of high school girls smoke cigarettes, miners are daily entombed and die, drunkenness and crime prevail to an alarming extent—and such things; the man who worries about these is the only man in whom the world has any right to place hope.

Fretting is what Mr. Coolidge meant. It is silly and futile. Worrying for self-advancement, or for the sake of family, friends, country, or world is what distinguishes the citizen from the loafer parasite.

How Burglars Work in Peru

Burglars in Peru, when about to enter a house, supply themselves with a sponge and a bucket of water. With the sponge they moisten the mud-covered domestic, and the thin coating is easily dissolved. Then they readily cut through the thin framework, and make a hole large enough to pass through.

If She Had Known
Another example of queer English has come to our attention. During a New York court inquiry into a family quarrel the wife stood up, raised her arms and cried: "Oh, if I had known when I was sweet sixteen already all that I know now yet!"—Boston Transcript.

Oldest University in World
The famous University of Bologna at Bologna, Italy, was founded in the eleventh century. Its foundation by Phaedrus the Great in 425 A. D. is legendary. This is the oldest university in the world. The University of Paris is the next oldest. Harvard is the oldest university in the United States.

Mississippi Flows Uphill?

The basis for the statement that the Mississippi river flows "uphill" is the idea that "up" is away from the center of the earth and "down" is toward it. If these were the only meanings of the words, then it might be said that the Mississippi river flows uphill, for the polar radius of the earth is over thirteen miles shorter than the equatorial radius and as the Mississippi river extends over 18 degrees of latitude, its proper proportion of this difference amounts to more than four miles, the river's source being that much nearer the center of the earth than its mouth.

Lawrence Wacker, Lima, Wins a First Prize

As a result of the recent essay contest in Lima Township, Lawrence Wacker, student in District No. 8, Miss Grimmer teacher, won first prize. Lawrence is fifteen years of age and produces an essay of real merit. It follows:

"IN THE HOUR OF TRIAL"

The picture entitled "In The Hour of Trial" represents George Washington upon their arrival at Valley Forge December 18, 1777. The scene in the picture occurred toward the last of the Revolutionary war which was brought about by the King of England insisting on taxing the American colonies without their consent. The King grew angry and ordered the port of Boston to be closed so that no ships except the King's warships should enter. This caused nearly all trade to stop and many of the people began to suffer for want of food. The other colonies and even England felt very sorry for the people and helped them in all ways they could. The King had troops placed here in America to watch the Americans. General Gage was at the head of this troop. He knew the Americans were getting ready for a fight and that they had provisions stored at Concord. One night Gage sent a lot of soldiers to March to Concord and destroy what they found there but Paul Revere, a Boston man, was on the watch and when he found out they were coming he broke the news to his people to be ready. When the British had only reached Lexington, they found the Americans ready for them. This was the beginning of our war. About two months later a battle was fought at Bunker Hill which was the first great battle of the Revolution. During this battle the British fell back two times and would have gone back the third time but our provisions had given out. George Washington was then made General and sent to take command of the American army. While Washington was waiting for ammunition a number of Americans marched against the British at Quebec, Canada. The cold weather came on and they nearly starved to death. When Washington did get cannon and powder, he went near the Boston harbor. Word was sent to the British that they should leave Boston or their ships would be knocked to pieces. The British see that they could not help themselves so they left Boston and went to New York. Washington got to New York first. Their next battle was on Long Island just across from New York City. The British gained the victory and forced Washington to leave New York, driving him clear across the state of New Jersey. Washington seized a lot of boats on the Delaware river and got across into Pennsylvania. The British having no boats could not follow them. The British officer left fifteen hundred German soldiers at Trenton on the Delaware. As soon as the river froze over they were going to follow Washington but on Christmas night (1776) he took a large number of boats and they secretly crossed over to New Jersey. The weather was very cold, the river was full of floating ice and a very hard snow storm set in. Our men were ragged and tired.

All at once Washington rushed in on the German soldiers and captured about a thousand of them, taking them into Pennsylvania. This was the Americans' first victory. A few days later Washington and his army crossed the Delaware into New Jersey, slipped around Cornwallis and his men and there beat a part of the British army. Before the next winter set in the British had taken the city of Philadelphia, then the capital of the United States. Washington's army was freezing and starving on the hillsides of Valley Forge, about twenty miles from Philadelphia. The picture on the calendar shows Washington and his brave companions gathered around the fire lighted in recognition of their safe arrival at Valley Forge, where they made their headquarters during the winter. The men suffered fearful privations but would not give up. Finally good news was coming. The Americans had won a great victory at Saratoga, over the British General Burgoyne. When the King of France heard this he was ready to help America, for he did not like the British. When the men at Valley Forge heard this they leaped with joy. We are told that during that long winter at Valley Forge, Washington and his men suffered many hardships, but they kept up their spirits and fought to the last. Washington and his men stayed at New York and kept watch of the British. France had sent ships and soldiers to help us. Washington sent the French to Yorktown to prevent the British from leaving by sea and he came by land completely blocking in the British. At last Cornwallis could not hold out any longer and on October (1781) his army came out and gave themselves up as prisoners. The Revolutionary war had lasted seven years, terrible years of sorrow, suffering and death but now the end had come and America was free, and George Washington's name stands today among those of the greatest men in the history of the world.

During the past ten days men with scales have been on the county roads weighing trucks and enforcing the law which provides that all heavy vehicles must carry only one-half of their usual weight during the spring season. Many trucks have been found overloaded and have been stopped and made to transfer part of their loads. One arrest has been made where a driver refused to comply with the law.

Jay G. Pray, county clerk, has received notice from the department of state at Lansing that branch motor-vehicle licenses will not be allowed to issue license plates for automobiles purchased outside of the state of Michigan. In making an explanation of the bulletin, the secretary of state declares that this ruling conforms to a strict observance of the statute which protects the public from the onslaughts of dishonest persons who are working to obtain titles to "stolen" and disposed of cars.

D. W. GRIFFITH LISTS "FURY" AMONG SCREEN'S GREATEST

Pronounced by D. W. Griffith to be one of the greatest pictures ever produced and a document from life, Richard Barthelmess' new, startling production, "Fury," in which Dorothy Gish plays opposite him, is a classic of the sea. Unlike the way most pictures of the sea are made, Mr. Barthelmess and his supporting company lived for three weeks on an old schooner, minus all comforts and conveniences, undergoing the same experiences as fall to the men who still sail the seven seas in wind-jammers.

"In spite of the hardships it was the most fascinating journey I have ever taken," Mr. Barthelmess says. "The mathematics of navigation became clear to me. I learned to read the compass and steer by it. The stories some of the old salts would tell of their experiences were romance carried to the Nth degree. "It's a lonesome life though, in spite of the fact that you are never alone. There is no privacy. But to be cut off from the world for three weeks, without any communication, not even a wireless, makes you realize isolation as nothing else will. It sure seemed good to buy a newspaper when we rowed into Gloucester and also to feel some of the comforts of home once again."

"Fury" will be shown at the Princess Theatre Wednesday and Thursday, April 23 and 24.

GENERAL MOVEMENT MADE TO EXTERMINATE CROW FEET

War on the crow as a destroyer of the eggs and young of game and useful birds, young rabbits, poultry and crops, will be carried on by the sportsmen and farmers of this vicinity during this spring in an effort to save game and crops from his depredations. Local gunners who are familiar with the crow's habits state that he is the worst enemy that useful birds have and that he is responsible for more damage than any other bird in wild life. David R. Jones, Chief Deputy Department of Conservation of Michigan, states that all Michigan conservation officers, game wardens and game breeders consider crows destructive to the eggs and young of game and song birds. During the calendar year nineteen twenty three, state deputies and trappers destroyed two thousand eight hundred and eleven crows.

The efforts of local sportsmen and farmers will be helped by the fact that a general movement against the crow is in force throughout the country. A canvass just completed by one of the largest states shows that crows pick out the eyes of young lambs and calves, besides doing other damage. At this time of the year the nesting season for birds begins and if they are to be protected from the crow's ravages and allowed to raise their young, quick action on the part of sportsmen and farmers is necessary. In many sections the depredations of crows have been so serious that farmers have had to go to the expense of replanting crops.

In one of the western states a census shows that there are from ten to fifteen millions of crows and that it costs the people of that state a dollar a head per year to feed them. Thirty-eight states of the Union through their game protection authorities and agricultural officials are back of their sportsmen and farmers in the fight against the crow. It is expected that through the efforts being made this year to lessen the number of crows, millions of dollars worth of game birds, poultry and crops will be saved.

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA TO GIVE CONCERT

Lovers of good music in Chelsea will do well to take advantage of the arrival of nice driving weather to go to Jackson-Sunday for the second concert of the Jackson, Symphony orchestra. This organization of 70 young musicians scored a success that was little short of phenomenal at its initial concert at the Majestic theatre, that city, two weeks ago. There is no other city in the country outside the class of the metropolitan centers which boasts a complete big symphony organization of this kind. At the first concert the most difficult symphonies were mastered and presented in a thoroughly professional concert.

For this second concert at three o'clock Easter Sunday, the Jackson Symphony will have as assisting artist, Professor M. C. Wier, cello soloist and instructor at the University School of Music.

A popular admission price only is charged for these concerts, the 75c admission being good for not only the concert, which starts at 3 o'clock, but also providing admission for the full picture program of the day, which for Sunday is "Sporting Youth," an auto racing story very similar to the Wally Reid auto stories that were so popular.

Orders have also been issued to widen the roadbed west of the village to 40 feet, which means more grading, ditching and tree cutting. A force of 32 prisoners and two guards are now at the camp west of the village.—Review.

Ann Arbor—The voters of Ann Arbor overwhelmingly defeated the proposition of raising $10,000 to pay the cost of the proposed centennial celebration to be held in the city this year. The vote was 1,248 against while 842 voted for it. Only two wards in the city gave it a small majority. It will be decided at a meeting called by the committee whether the amount can be raised by popular subscription.

Saltine—Newspapers do strange things at times. In our thirty years at the game we have married folks without their knowledge, sent them to the other shore whether they wanted to go or not, and last week we presented a bouncing baby boy to Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Rogers which the stock left at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lance Rogers, and for this mistake we make as hurried and complete correction as possible, and trust it won't happen again—right away.—Observer.

Pinckney—Two women and their babies were rescued from probable death Friday in a fire that destroyed the Pinckney sanitarium, with a loss estimated at approximately $15,000. The origin of the blaze is unknown. The fire which started on the second floor of the two story frame building, in the heart of the village, swept downward, and when discovered was beyond control of the village fire brigade. Firemen rushed into the burning building and rescued Mrs. C. Ambrose, wife of Rev. Ambrose of Pinckney and her baby. Two other patients escaped without assistance. As firemen carried Mrs. Ambrose out of the building, the roof of the structure fell in.

Naval Reserve Officer to Direct Pole Flight

Washington.—Lieut. Com. Robert Abram Bartlett of the navy reserve force (above) who has been ordered back to active duty in his old rank, will head the expedition now being planned to the North pole region via airplane. It is believed that the Shenandoah will be used. The flight will start in the spring.
 Bartlett assisted Rear Admiral Peary in his 1909 dash to the North pole, reaching personally the eighty-eighth parallel, and is known as an intrepid explorer.

Evil Human Nature
 No doubt, as Freud says, there is evil human nature in all of us. But civilization consists in holding a tight rein on it, instead of letting it go like a savage.

Gold in Ocean Water
 Several eminent physicians and natural scientists are experimenting with a modern avenue of alchemy in that the ocean waters are being worked with to produce what gold they contain. Prof. Herschel Parker, eminent physicist, and W. L. Morrison, scientist and mining engineer, are carrying on research to extract the gold from natural salt water. An ultimate cost of 10 cents per barrel of water containing 4 cents in gold is aimed at in a practical way.

High Polish for Dishes
 A high polish may be given to cut-glass dishes, decanters, etc., by sprinkling with warm sand just directly after washing and drying in the usual way. A very soft chamois leather must give the final polish, and this should be kept free from dust and for no other purpose only.
