CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY LAST FRIDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Jabez Bacon entertained as their Honor Guests at Festive Occasion in Maccabee Hall.

Reminding them of the fact that they had spent fifty years of wedded life together since their marriage October 24th, 1874, friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Jabez Bacon on Friday, October 24, assisted them in celebration of their golden wedding anniversary at Maccabee hall.

Coming as a complete surprise to the honor guests, Mr. and Mrs. Bacon were escorted to the hall where a 3-course dinner, served by Lady Maccabee, was enjoyed in the company of some forty odd friends and relatives, amid a setting of autumnal decorations, on the table as well as throughout the room.

Set in the form of a cross the table presented a pretty picture, with a large wedding cake as center piece, and resplendent with crystal chandeliers, yellow candles, yellow silk stockings, and unique place cards marking the place of each guest. Added to this was the spirit of enjoyment, fond recollections and hopes for the future which permeated the atmosphere from start to finish of the program.

Mr. and Mrs. Bacon were united in marriage in Chelsea, October 24, 1874. To them have been born twelve children, eleven of whom, with their families, together with the children of their deceased daughter, Nellie, were privileged to assist in celebrating the festive day. In addition to the many beautiful gifts presented them, they were the recipients of many messages of congratulation from those unable to be present.

Those present from out of town were: Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schneider, and daughter Helen, of Beloit, Wis.; Mrs. Nellie Jane, Armin and Mary Schneider, of Wisconsin University, Madison, Wis.; Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Schultz and three children, Dr. and Mrs. N. E. Phelps and two children of Coldwater; Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Dewey and three sons; Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds Bacon and four children; Donald Bacon and Miss Jemie Houghton and Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Emmett of Detroit; Miss Grace Bacon of Penna. State College; Mr. and Mrs. Harris Fletcher and three children and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bacon of Ann Arbor; Mr. and Mrs. George Bacon and two children of Albany, New York. Those from Chelsea attending were Mrs. William Bacon, Ben Bacon and son Bennie, and Mr. and Mrs. John Bacon.

PUPPETEERS TO BE HEARD AT CHELSEA HIGH SCHOOL

Chelsea residents will be given an opportunity of seeing something out of the ordinary when the Puppeteers, students of the University of Michigan present their marionette production "The Puppet Revue" in the high school auditorium on Friday, November 7, afternoon and evening. The matinee will be at 4 o'clock and the evening performance at 8:00 o'clock.

The Puppeteers are three young men from the University who have been touring Michigan towns and cities for more than two years with their marionette troupe. Week-ends and vacations are thus spent by these students. Each summer a six weeks tour has been made into northern Michigan where the finer resorts were visited, such places as Mackinac Island, Les Cheneaux Islands, Portage Point, Charlevoix and Harbor Springs. So well has the "Puppet Revue" been received that next summer the Puppeteers are planning to go to England instead of taking their customary trip into northern Michigan.

Marionettes or puppets as they are often called are figures made of wood and loosely joined so that when they are dressed they appear to be like real people—only smaller. They are operated from above by pulling strings and are made to walk, talk and do all the things done by real people. Among the stunts done are, a bear that plays a cello, a piano player, an opera singer, a wonderful harpist, who alone is worth the price of admission. The program in the afternoon is made up of acts that have a social interest for children and includes the old English play of "Prince George and the Dragon" being a number of other plays. The evening program included the scene from "A Midsummer Night's Dream" and is of especial interest to adults.

SCHOOL NEWS
Monday and Tuesday of this week were vacation days for the students, while the teachers attended the State Teachers' convention at Detroit.

PAVING MAY BE DONE BEFORE END OF WEEK

Unusually Good Weather Assists in Speeding of Work on South Main St. Lighting Question Next

With fair weather prevailing it was expected paving of South Main street would be finished before the end of this week. Unusual progress has been made, a strip half the width of the pavement and from three to four hundred feet being laid nearly every day since the start a month ago. Completion of the highway quite likely will mean opening of the road for traffic before winter really sets in and will be heartily welcomed by every resident in this vicinity. Chelsea will have one of the finest approaches to be found in this section of the country and it is expected noticeable improvement will be made in the number of people making Chelsea their trading point.

Of interest to the whole community will be the action taken by the county board of supervisors last week when the board approved appropriation of $4,000 toward payment of cost of widening pavement to 30 feet including curb and gutter, outside the village limits. The total cost of widening, which amounts to approximately $4,400 outside the village limits, had been subscribed by business and professional men of Chelsea. The money had been paid in and was sent to Lansing before the work was started. Efforts on the part of Geo. Backus, of the board of supervisors and Otto D. Lulck, of the county road commission, resulted in this loan being lifted from the shoulders of local men, leaving a balance of only $400 to be paid.

Completion of the paving project leaves the problem of lighting which has been discussed for several weeks. At their meeting last week the village council approved plans for boulevard lighting system as far as the village limits, their authority ending at that point. However, it is not expected the lights will end there. Demands are for boulevard lights to Main St., which seems likely to be the final plan to be adopted. That these should be installed at once and not wait until another year is the general feeling prevailing at this time. Fear that should the matter be dropped now it would be difficult to revive it again being expressed by advocates of the plan. Whether or not this difficulty would be encountered there is reason to believe any action contemplated should be taken at once while curbs are torn up and in shape for laying cable underground from post to post. The main question is "how to raise the funds."

THREE SENTENCED TO PRISON FRIDAY

Judge George W. Sample Friday passed sentences on three men pleading guilty to criminal charges. Charles Brandt and John Deten, arrested by sheriff's officers and confessed to stealing chickens from farms in the southeastern section of the county, were sentenced to the state prison at Jackson for from two and a half to five years each. The minimum sentence was recommended for Brandt and a four-year sentence for Deten with the proviso that he be deported to Canada upon completing his time.

REPUBLICAN RALLY AT THE WHITNEY THEATRE, ANN ARBOR, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 8:00 O'CLOCK.

Mrs. Corinne Roosevelt Robinson, sister of the late Ex-President Theodore Roosevelt, will speak on "Why I Am a Republican." John Sargent, ex-attorney general of Vermont, and lifelong friend of President Coolidge, will speak on "The President and His Politics."

Mrs. Robinson is a delightful speaker. She is one of the Executive committee of the National Republican Committee and was one of the women on the Advisory Council at the Washington Disarmament conference.

HOLSTEIN-FRIESIAN BREEDERS HOLD 7TH ANNUAL SALE

The seventh annual consignment and dispersal sale of Washtenaw County Holstein-Friesian Breeders was held at the Ann Arbor fair grounds Tuesday, October 21. M. E. Brown of Jonesville and Wm. Bartlett of Plymouth dispersed their entire herds and about 40 head consigned by breeders of the county.

The cattle all sold at an unusually low price. A herd sire consigned by M. E. Brown, Waseco Pride Koenigke, Wayne topped the sale at $350 and was purchased by G. Wheeler, Brooklyn, who also was the highest bidder on a number of the best ones in the sale. Col. D. L. Perry, of Columbus, Ohio, acted as auctioneer and S. T. Wood of Liverpool, New York, was pedigree reader. Sales committee consisted of Walter L. Spaulding, Wm. A. Austin, Glenn Bird and A. A. Snyder.

S. P. I. ENTERTAINED AT PROGRESSIVE PARTY

The members of the S. P. I. club enjoyed a very pleasant evening Monday at a progressive Halloween party. The members all met at the home of the president, Lillie Wackenhut, where the business meeting took place. From there they went to the home of Mrs. Lester Wilans, where roll call was answered, then to the home of Mrs. Waldo Kusterer, for the regular program and last to the home of Miss Amanda Koch, where games were enjoyed. Each of the hostesses served light refreshments and the dining rooms were prettily decorated for the occasion. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. O. D. Schneider Monday evening, November 3.

KIWANIANS ENTERTAIN WITH LADIES' NIGHT PROGRAM

Albert E. Buss, Detroit, and Misses Ruth and Esther Bauerle, Lansing, Rander Pleasing Program Monday.

Chelsea Kiwanians and their ladies on Monday evening enjoyed what has been unanimously pronounced as the most entertaining and instructive session yet held by the local club, when Albert E. Buss, of Detroit, entertainer, impersonator, musician and lecturer, talked, sang, played and laughed with his audience of seventy persons.

The Misses Ruth and Esther Bauerle of Lansing, also were present, entertaining with piano duets, and vocal solos by Miss Ruth Bauerle—accompanied by her sister.

Mr. Buss, a Kiwanian of no mean proportions, physically as well as "entertainingly," is a musician of considerable prominence in Detroit circles wherein he moves and gave a repertoire of baritone solos and cornet solos which pleased his audience to the utmost. Especially well received were his Scotch songs, of which he gave a number, interspersed with Scotch, Irish and negro stories that kept his hearers roaring with laughter. An artist of great ability in the instrumental lire was displayed when Mr. Buss played several excellent cornet solos to the delight of his audience. In all of his numbers he was accompanied by Miss Dorothy Welman.

Among the vocal solos rendered were "Roamin' Through the Gloamin'," "Breakfast in Bed on Sunday Morning," "The Village Blacksmith," and others, while on the cornet he played "The Lost Chord," and several Scotch melodies.

Departing from the fun and frivolity for a half hour, Mr. Buss talked on the subject "Holding the Ropes," illustrating his points with word pictures of incidents drawn from life's story in which it was the men or women who "held onto the ropes" at the critical time in the young boy or girl's life—who held onto the ropes when their country called for a demonstration of the voter's right to franchise such as will be experienced next Tuesday—that these were the persons who typified the spirit of Kiwanis in its broad program of civic betterment, education and understanding.

DEMOCRAT RALLY AT TOWN HALL TONIGHT

A democratic rally will be held at 7:30 o'clock this evening in the Sylvan town hall. Prof. M. S. Pittman of the State Normal College, Ypsilanti, and other good speakers will be present. Music by Miss Georgia Smith on xylophone.

BUSINESS OF GOVERNMENT The sharks who indulge in statistical research, tell us that in our country about one-third of the voters, or that class of citizens entitled to vote, stay at home on election day and do not make a pretence at casting a ballot. They say, moreover, that there is never an election but that might be changed as to results, if these voters would get out and cast their ballots. Pluralities are so small in most national elections that if only a small percentage of the voters who do not go to the polls year in and year out, would exercise their franchise it would change results. The business of government is one of our greatest concerns. Government, as a matter of fact, is our gravest concern. It is our biggest business. It ought to have the attention that any big business should have. Every voter is a stockholder and ought to give the same attention to selecting the executives and board of directors, as would be given to a small corporation in which we had invested a part of our savings.

When we get down to the brass tacks of government and reflect that it was costing us less than five dollars per capita in 1880, and is costing us about $60 per capita now, it is time not only to reflect, but to go about electing our executives with as much of an eye to business as we exercise when we go about a business transaction that materially affects our pocketbooks.

If we have never voted before, let us give careful thought to the situation by which we are confronted this year, make up our minds as we would make them up on any business matter, go to the polls and do our share, in getting the best man possible to direct the business of our government.

AN AMERICAN NEED A greater number of the American people depend upon agriculture for their existence than can be found in any other three industries or occupations combined. Agriculture is now, as it has always been, the basis of our national wealth and prosperity.

The farmers of America do not need political aid. They do not need financial aid so much as they need an opportunity to protect themselves from the ever increasing price they must pay for everything they buy with no adequate advance in the price of the things they have to sell. Transportation costs have increased so greatly that the producers are at a great disadvantage. It has not been so very long ago that whatever the farmer shipped to the great trade centers and distributing points was carried at a low freight rate, and distributed to the jobbers, the retailers, and finally to the consumers at the minimum of cost. Now there are so many organizations controlling the handling of all food supplies, originating first-hand with the farmer, that the expense has been multiplied by four and even by six in some cases. It is this, more than increased transportation charges by the railroads, that has caused the producer to get so much less net out of the stuff he ships.

If the government would set up an agency for the purpose of securing shipping service and distribution for farm products, it would render the farmer a greater service than could be rendered by any subsidy or financial help of any sort.

UTILIZING THE AIR The United States government is finding mail carrying by airplane a practical thing, and with the improvement of the service and the consequent gain in the amount of mail carried, with accruing revenues, it will be a profitable means of carrying mail, especially mail of first-rate importance.

The American people, as a whole, wherever they have given thought and consideration to this faster method of carrying important mail, are enthusiastically for it. Time was in the not distant past, when he who received a letter by air mail was an object of interest in the community. Now so many people get mail that way, that it is ceasing to attract attention.

Following the air mail service for first class mail, there is bound to follow freight-carrying planes which will take very important heavy mail from coast to coast in a very short time. This will be necessitated by the demand for this sort of service breaks down, and it is important to get a part from distant places. The class air mail service. This brings us to a point where we shall be in the way of developing our air craft, and building more air machines, than will be soon.

Present Responsibility While we have no say as regards the kind of man timber out of which our ancestors were made, we must remember we have a say and are responsible for the man timber out of which we will be soon.

A BOY OF TEN

Ralph Roberts of Toledo, Ohio, put a log on a railroad track and wrecked a fier 'just to see what would happen', he said. He saw, and the engineer satisfied that curiosity with his life. But Ralph can't be punished by the law; he is not morally responsible. His family, teacher, pastor, parents of his playmates, young men whom he admired, everybody he came in contact with helped ruin him. A boy of ten can be lovable or diabolical. He isn't supposed to form his own character up to that time. He must answer for his conduct. If he grows up bad, other boys will follow his example. That is the way of things. He probably admired some crook of seventeen. Apparently to be one's brother's keeper is a serious obligation. And everybody who violates the code is, of course, a stumbling block for somebody else.

SEEKING U. S. LOANS

Charles E. Mitchell, president of the City National bank of New York, back from a trip to Europe, is authority for the statement that the big loan of $110,000,000 floated for Germany in this country last week, is but the forerunner of a great flock of borrowers from European countries that will come to this country seeking loans for foreign nations. Mr. Mitchell warns that these borrowers, many of them will be unauthorized, and that they will be laden with glittering promises, many of which will be quite impossible of fulfillment. He urges caution in extending to their pleas.

The state of Europe is not such at the present time, as to warrant extended loans.

American Agriculture, Industry and Commerce all stand in need of a large amount of money to properly finance expansion in operations. The German loan was placed at a rate above 7 per cent. Any amount of money loaned to Europe at such high rates of interest will raise the rate of interest in this country and work a hardship on all lines of our national activities, to the detriment of the people of this country.

CAMPAIGN FUNDS

Always there is a hue and cry about national campaign funds, just before a national election in this country. There are charges and counter charges. There are investigations and reports.

In the past these have not amounted to anything. Only a part of campaign funds are accounted for and reported before an election. Campaign committees always have large deficits that have to be made up after election, and in this way money can be raised, and has been raised and expended without a full accounting before election.

But few people take into consideration the amount that is necessary to be spent in a great political campaign. There must be advertising, and there must be speakers and workers employed—legitimately employed and paid for their services.

Perhaps some of the money is paid out unwisely. Perhaps some of it could be saved. But any campaign that uses a large amount of advertising to inform the people or enlighten issues or aims of parties and candidates, is money well expended.

Advertising is as essential in elections as it is in business. We believe it is more essential. No great manufacturing enterprise, undertaking to put a food product before the consuming public would think of trying to do so without a great advertising campaign. If a concern marketing one important food product should spend a million dollars a year in advertising the merits of that product, it would not be considered too much. The results would readily justify the expenditure. The public would benefit.

Surely the election of a president, of many state governors, of a lower house of congress, and of a part of the senate of the United States is as important as the sale of all the food products, automobiles, clothing and the like that is sold in a year. Surely the good or bad management of our government is as important for public information as the good or bad qualities of merchandise we buy and yet, there is expended every year more than a billion dollars just for the advertising of the things we eat, the things we wear, and the vehicles in which we ride and no comment is made.

Legitimate campaign funds, if they are spent to inform the people, and to get better government, are wise expenditures. If they amounted to ten times as much as the highest sum ever collected, and spent in a campaign, they would be warranted.

Columbia Old College

Columbia college, which was first known as King's college, was established in the middle of the eighteenth century, and save for a few years during the Revolutionary war, it has carried on its work in the city of New York. It was the college of Alexander Hamilton, John Jay, Robert R. Livingston, De Witt Clinton, Hamilton Fish and many other outstanding figures in the history of this nation.

Author of Famous Poem

The correct name of the poem "The Night Before Christmas" is "A Visit From St. Nicholas." This was written by Clement C. Moore, an American poet and educator, at New York city in 1822. He wrote it for his children, but afterward it was published in a New York paper and later in a book of his collected poems.

Annexation of Hawaii

Hawaii was annexed by joint resolution of congress July 7, 1898, and created a territory by act of April 30, 1900. When the United States acquired the Hawaiian Islands she assumed the public debt to the amount of $4,000,000 instead of making actual payment. There are 20 islands in the Hawaiian group.

Crow Is Devouring as Fast

Investigations of the Crow have taken place recently, wider than ever before, but he is one of the five creatures known as game birds, and to put in fact, his depredations spread and fraught with suits that sportmen all try are banding together so that the game which have a better chance of security. A census taken by game wardens in Pennsylvania showed that an overwhelming number of the men in the nation, positive, from actual observation, the destructive habits of the crow, and the unwholesome habits of the bird, taken against him. Some directly have claimed that not only does the crow damage the crop, but that indirectly he is vastly more destructive. His indirect work is done when he destroys millions of the eggs of useful birds, and therefore prevents the coming to maturity of these auxiliaries of the farmer who would, had they been allowed to exist, have accounted for myriads of insects. In fact, naturally, it is said that the farmer's bill for insecticides would be greatly lowered were the crow prevented from killing useful birds who are the natural enemies of the insect pests.

In the West hunters are employed to kill off the predatory animals which prey on the cattle, and great sums have been saved by their activities. It appears that organized effort against the crow will also save great sums in other parts of the country if this particular menace to bird life is reduced in numbers. The various campaigns against the crow have followed on the heels of the great conservation movement to protect game which is now finding such a response among sportsmen in all parts of the country. With the efforts made to provide proper refuges for useful birds, comes the question of protecting their young against the predatory creatures which prey on them.

Anything for Profit

A rich Amsterdam merchant was brought before the council of the states general in 1639. He was accused of supplying war materiel to the English, notwithstanding the fact that his country was at war with England. "Alas," he told the judges, "there was profit in my ventures, and for profit I'd sell my ships through hell."

Nature's "Fireworks"

St. Elmo's fire, the flame-like appearance seen in stormy weather in the rigging of vessels and on lofty terrestrial objects, is nearly akin to lightning, says Nature Magazine. The aurora, in its many beautiful forms, is the most ambitious electrical display produced by nature.

It is the glorious prerogative of the empire of knowledge that what it gains it never loses. On the contrary, it increases by the multiple of its own power; all its ends become means; all its attainments help to new conquests.—Daniel Webster.

"Disappointed? Then the miracle has cleared away?"

"On the contrary, it grows more distorted every day. I see you towering above all your fellow humans; reaching up into a heaven so far above them that they don't even know of its existence. I see you as really 'The Man on the Hill.' The idealism which I thought must fade away is justified—heightened—by the reality."

She had turned her face to him, and Grant, little as he understood the ways of women, knew that she had made her great confession. For a moment he held himself transfixed.

"It's not fear, but good sense may do it. It was not fear that made me send you home early from your previous call. It was discretion."

"Oh!" he said, a new light dawning, and he marvelled again at her consummate artistry.

"But I must tell you," she resumed, "Frank leaves on a business trip tomorrow night. He will be gone for some time, and I shall motor into town to see him off. I am wondering about Wilson. She hurried on, as though not daring to weigh her words."

"Sarah will be away—I am letting her have a little holiday—and I can't take Wilson into town with me because it will be so late. Then, with a burst of confession, she spoke more deliberately. "That isn't exactly the reason, Dennison; Frank doesn't know I have let Sarah go, and I can't explain."

Her face shone pink and warm in the glow of the firelight, and as the significance of her words sank in upon him, Grant marvelled at that wizardry of the gods which could bring such homage to the foot of man. A tenderness such as he had never known suffused him; her very presence was holy.

CHAPTER XVII

Grant spent his Sunday forenoon in an exhaustive house-cleaning campaign. Bachelor life on the farm is not conducive to domestic delicacy.

When he was able to view his household work with a feeling that even feminine eyes would find nothing to offend Grant did an unwanted thing. He unlocked the whim-room and opened the windows that the fresh air might play through the silent chamber.

"All right," he said, "I will be frank. Fate has brought within my orbit a second chance, or what would have been a second chance had my heart not been so full of you. She was a girl well worth thinking about. When an employee introduces herself to you with a declaration of independence you may know that you have met with someone out of the ordinary."

Grant did an unwanted thing. He unlocked the whim-room and opened the windows that the fresh air might play through the silent chamber.

Linder admired as he was directed, and then the two men fell into a discussion of business matters. Eventually Grant cooked supper, and just as they had finished Mrs. Transley drove in her motor.

"Here we are!" she cried, cheerily. "Glad to see you, Mr. Linder. Wilson has his teddy-bear and his knife and his pajamas, and is a little put out, I think, that I wouldn't let him bring the pig."

"I shall try and make up the deficiency," said Grant, smiling broadly, as the boy climbed to his shoulder.

"No need of that; he can ride to the field with me on Prince. He is a great help with the plowing."

"I'm sure," she stepped up to Grant and drew the boy's face down to hers. "Good-by, dear! Be a good boy!" she whispered, and Wilson waved kisses to her as the motor sped down the road.

Linder took his departure soon after, and Grant was surprised to find himself almost embarrassed in the presence of his little guest.

Where to start on the bedtime preparations was a puzzle, but Wilson himself came to Grant's aid with explicit instructions about buttons and pins.

"You must hear my prayer, Uncle Man-on-the-Hill," said the boy. "You have to sit down in a chair."

Grant sat down with a strange mixture of emotions drew the little chap between his knees as he listened to the long-forgotten prattle.

"At the third line the boy stopped. 'You have to tell me now,'" he prompted.

"But I can't, Willie; I have forgotten." "Hub, you don't know much," the child commented, and glibly quoted the remaining lines. "And God bless Daddy and Mamma and teddy-bear and Uncle Man-on-the-Hill and the pig. Amen," he concluded, accompanying the last word with a jump which landed him fairly in Grant's lap.

Grant's arms went up about his friend's neck, and his little soft cheek rested against a tanned and weather-beaten one. Slowly Grant's arms closed about the warm, lithe body and pressed it to his in a new passion, strange and holy.

Then he led him to the whim-room, turned down the white sheets in which he lay and ever lain and placed the boy between them, snuggled his teddy-bear in his side and set his knife properly in view upon the dresser. And then he leaned down again and read the little fact and whispered, "Good night, little boy; God bless you—safe—healthy—and always." And suddenly Grant realized that he had been praying.

Grant sat down with a strange mixture of emotions drew the little chap between his knees as he listened to the long-forgotten prattle.

"At the third line the boy stopped. 'You have to tell me now,'" he prompted.

"But I can't, Willie; I have forgotten." "Hub, you don't know much," the child commented, and glibly quoted the remaining lines. "And God bless Daddy and Mamma and teddy-bear and Uncle Man-on-the-Hill and the pig. Amen," he concluded, accompanying the last word with a jump which landed him fairly in Grant's lap.

Grant's arms went up about his friend's neck, and his little soft cheek rested against a tanned and weather-beaten one. Slowly Grant's arms closed about the warm, lithe body and pressed it to his in a new passion, strange and holy.

Grant sat down with a strange mixture of emotions drew the little chap between his knees as he listened to the long-forgotten prattle.

"At the third line the boy stopped. 'You have to tell me now,'" he prompted.

Then he led him to the whim-room, turned down the white sheets in which he lay and ever lain and placed the boy between them, snuggled his teddy-bear in his side and set his knife properly in view upon the dresser. And then he leaned down again and read the little fact and whispered, "Good night, little boy; God bless you—safe—healthy—and always." And suddenly Grant realized that he had been praying.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE
 Whereas, Mark Bell, a widower, of the Township of Dexter, County of Washtenaw and State of Michigan, made and executed a certain mortgage, bearing date the 11th day of January, A. D. 1916, to James H.
 Guthrie, of the Township of Silvan,
 County of Washtenaw, Michigan, which was recorded in the office of secured thereby, or any part thereof.

 And whereas default has been made in the payment of the money secured by said mortgage, whereby the power of sale contained therein has become operative.
 Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that, by virtue of said power of sale, and in pursuance thereof, and of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the mortgage premises, at public vendue, to the highest bidder, at the south front door of the court house, at the

DANGER!

Vote No-or Pay

Tax radicals in Michigan have succeeded in placing on the ballot, for your vote, next Tuesday, a Constitutional Amendment LOADED WITH DYNAMITE.

This Amendment proposes a State Income Tax which would, in its eventual result, deprive every wage earner in Michigan of from 5% to 10% of his—or her—income.

This Tax would increase your rent and raise the price of every article you buy.

Like every other Tax, it would be passed along to the eventual consumer, and would be finally balanced by a corresponding increase in living costs.

It Imperils Prosperity
 Worse even than this would be the foul blow this Amendment would strike at Michigan Industry. For the manufacturer here must still compete for business in open market. Few other states have income taxes. None has a tax so cruelly severe as the one proposed for us.

Can the Michigan factory successfully shoulder this handicap?

Must it not eventually go under, throwing its men out of work, and increasing the tax burden of everyone else?

It Threatens Our Schools
 The higher authorities, including the State's Attorney General and its Superintendent of Public Instruction, agree that this proposed amendment would have still another disastrous and even more immediate effect. It would surely reduce taxes paid by railroads, telephone companies, power companies, and other public service corporations.

It would go back to the old system of local assessment and local rates—the system which Pingree changed through his Equal Taxation fight, after these corporations had, for many years, escaped paying their share of taxation.

By this backward step, the Michigan Primary School Fund, into which such corporations today pay yearly the huge sum of almost $15,000,000, would surely be seriously depleted.

In great part, the grade schools of Michigan are supported through this fund.

Women Voters!

Your family needs your husband's earnings far more than the rich, mighty state of Michigan.

But the politicians want more of his money to spend and they will get it, if the Income Tax Amendment passes.

Vote NO on this amendment next Tuesday.

Keep this income where it belongs—where it can help support your family and make life easier for all of you.

Read this advertisement carefully and understand how you can make your vote—and your influence—count as they have never counted before.

It Robs Your Church

Heavy, too, would be the penalty enacted by this amendment from Michigan Churches, fraternal societies and Charities.

They are not in any way exempted from this tax. Therefore, for every dollar you contribute to them, from five to ten cents would go to the politicians to spend, if this amendment passes.

And remember, this is a Constitutional Amendment!

It becomes, if passed, part of Michigan's FUNDAMENTAL LAW, and almost impossible to change in any way.

Defeat It!

Let nobody delude you regarding the actual facts. Place no trust whatever in the loose phrasing of the Amendment itself. And don't present for your vote. You will find this amendment the second on your ballot.

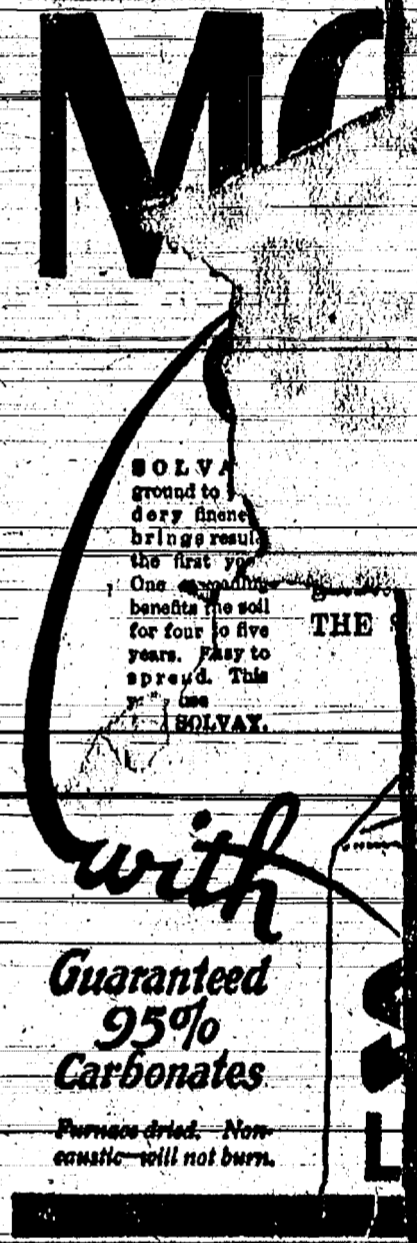

Determine firmly, right now, to carefully pick it out on Tuesday, and to vote an emphatic NO as your verdict on this State Income Tax.

confuse it, for one moment, with any other amendment presented for your vote.

Determine firmly, right now, to carefully pick it out on Tuesday, and to vote an emphatic NO as your verdict on this State Income Tax.

TRIBUTES TO

Robert M. La Follette

By Men and Women, Leaders of National Thought in Other Fields than Politics

Rev. Clarence E. Macartney, Moderator, Presbyterian-General Assembly: "As for the candidate of the third or independent party, he has been more tried, by fire, than any of his competitors. The fires of execration and hatred have swept around him. But after his long service as Governor, Representative, Senator and Independent leader, there he stands, his character without reproach, his beautiful home life without a stain, and his most intense enemies unable to point to a single act in his long public career which would discredit him."

Roscoe Pound, Dean of Harvard Law School: "Even Senator LaFollette's enemies must concede, if they are commonly honest, that he is one of the great figures in contemporary public life. I have been a zealous and consistent Republican since I was able to vote, but I do not believe loyalty to party requires that we place it in the position which the Democratic party occupied in American politics prior to the Civil War."

Mrs. Mabel C. Costigan, former chairman, committee on markets and living costs, National League of Women Voters: "Justice and popular government have had no more powerful and constructive advocate in our generation."

Woodrow Wilson: "I take off my hat to Bob LaFollette. I have sometimes thought of Senator LaFollette climbing the mountain of privilege—taunted, laughed at, called back, going steadfastly on and not allowing himself to be deflected for a single moment, for fear he also should hearken and lose all his power to serve the great interests to which he had devoted himself."

Alice Stone Blackwell, author and suffrage leader: "LaFollette is one of the bravest men we have ever had in American public life. He can neither be bullied nor bought. Again and again he has stood firm against the utmost intensity of popular clamor, and again and again he has lived to see public opinion swing around to his side, when time has proved him to be right."

MONDAY

NAVY DAY is two-fold. It commemorates the great American, President, and secondly, to call attention to the importance of keeping strong our first great line of defense, the United States Navy.

It is the strength of the Navy, particularly in ships then building, that made it possible for this country to lead in establishing the practice of limiting armaments by international agreement.

Many people still fail to realize the tremendous peace-time value of the Navy. It is the inalienable right of the people of our country to know about their Navy and the degree of support which the Navy receives in a direct ratio to their understanding of its problems.

The Navy stands for peace and the enforcement of peace. When unprovoked it is forced into action in the defense of our ideals it takes its place as the first line of our national defense system, but the real measure of its efficiency is not the number of wars it wins, but rather the number of wars which it averts or makes impossible by its existence.

As discouraging war, as an agency of mercy, illustrated in recent years in Smyrna and Japan, as a training school for thousands of young men every year, as an industrial asset in the development of engineering, navigation, aeronautics and in scores of other activities, the Navy is one of the soundest investments of our Government.

Americans Lead Fight Against Appalling Misery As Millions Exchange Homes In Near East

H. C. JAQUITH

Smyrna Hero Who Heads Near East Relief Work Among Deportees

ALLEVIATING the misery of two million people, torn from their homes and forcibly moved to distant lands, where customs, languages, and surroundings are strange and confusing to them, is the task confronting American workers of the Near East Relief in the Balkans to-day.

Primarily the situation was brought about by the flight of more than a million Greeks from Turkey following the Smyrna disaster. The Exchange of Populations agreement written into the Lausanne treaty was the other contributing factor. It increased the numbers involved by almost one hundred per cent, about half of them Moslems from the Greek Islands and Macedonia, the rest being the remaining Greeks in Turkey.

Theoretically the situation is handled by a high commission and eleven sub-commissions, headed by neutrals with Greek and Turkish members.

Actually much of the work has fallen on the Americans, who were specifically requested by the High Commission to begin the transfer before the necessary sub-commissions could function. At that time Greece was overrun with refugees, who were dying in the camps in hundreds and whose rehabilitation in Greece depended on settling them on property occupied by Moslems.

With the consent of both the Turkish and Greek Governments the transfer was placed under the direction of H. C. Jaquith, who had directed Near East Relief since the outbreak of the Smyrna disaster and who

WESTERN MICHIGAN TELEPHONE HEADQUARTERS DEDICATED

President Franz C. Kuhn of the Michigan Bell Telephone Company Thursday dedicated to the service of Michigan's Second City, and the entire state, the new Western Michigan telephone headquarters building under construction at Grand Rapids. The cornerstone of the new million-dollar plant was placed at noon. The cornerstone was placed by Dudley E. Waters of Grand Rapids, vice president and director of the Michigan Bell Telephone Company, who was introduced by Judge Kuhn.

Judge Kuhn, who served in offices of public trust many years before becoming identified with the Michigan Bell Company, gave a remarkable dedicatory address. He stressed the part the telephone plays in the upbuilding of a community or state and their industries and social life. He said it was the desire of the telephone organization to serve in such manner as to most efficiently aid that growth.

The first Grand Rapids telephones, Judge Kuhn said, were brought to the Furniture City in 1877 by J. W. Converse, an extensive owner of plaster quarries. The first telephone exchange was established in Grand Rapids the following year, with Samuel E. Watson manager. There was 21 subscribers. The first telephone directory was published in 1879 and long distance communication was established with Muskegon, Ionia, Grand Haven and Big Rapids. Night service began in 1884. Michigan had only 686 telephones in 1888, of which Grand Rapids had 800. The population of Michigan's second city at that time was 60,000.

The Citizens Telephone Company, which consolidated by purchase with the Michigan Bell Sept. 1, 1923, was organized in 1896 and had a steady growth. The Michigan Bell now has 479 employees in Grand Rapids.

Purchase of the Citizens company, Judge Kuhn said Thursday, required a new investment of $3,851,735 and the new building, necessary equipment and facilities for future growth means another immediately outlay of $3,158,000.

Judge Kuhn stated that the giving of telephone service is as complicated a problem as is involved in any service—the public receives. The ideals of the Bell System as to this service are of the very highest. The personnel in charge of the management and operation is of the very best. The objective always is to improve the service and lessen the cost. Financing of the large building and expansion programs presents difficult problems but the American investing public has confidence in the stability of the business and has providing funds to meet the needs of telephone users—not a few wealthy people but hundreds of thousands of thrifty people who have invested their savings in telephone securities.

Judge Kuhn appealed for the continued cooperation of the telephone using public to the end that the best and most efficient service may result.
