M-22 SURVEY PROMISED BY ADMINISTRATIVE BOARD

Survey of M-22 as the first step toward improvement of this highway was promised a delegation of Chelsea and Stockbridge men who appeared before the State administrative board at Lansing Tuesday morning and made a request that the state either take steps toward improving the highway or return it to the county for improvement. The highway has been listed as a state highway for the past several years, but as yet no improving has been done, with the result that one of the poorest stretches of state trunk lines in Michigan extends from Chelsea to Stockbridge. This in spite of the fact that it represents one of the shortest routes between Lansing and Detroit and Lansing and Toledo as well as other points south.

Whether promise of a survey will prove to be the extent of the administrative board's activities remains to be seen. Agitation has been in progress all along the line for several months and any encouraging signs from state officials looks good to the territory affected. Chelsea will await with much interest any favorable moves on the part of Lansing officials.

Those attending the meeting Tuesday from Chelsea were: Supervisor Howard Boyd, H. E. Canfield, C. Lehman, O. T. Hoover, L. G. Palmer, M. J. Dunkel, John Fletcher and Dr. A. Gulde.

BATTLE GREEN MAN FIGURES IN AUTO WRECK

An Essex coach was almost completely demolished and a Hummobile sedan was considerably damaged in a collision near the Otto Luick farm in Lima on M-17 last Thursday, while the driver of the coach was seriously injured and taken to a hospital in Ann Arbor for treatment. According to reports of persons reaching the scene of the accident shortly after it happened the driver of the coach, a Battle Creek man driving a new car from Detroit to his home city, started around a slower moving vehicle from the rear. Unable to make his way around and to the front before the Hummobile bore down upon him, the driver made an effort to get off the pavement on the left side and was struck about midway of his car. The force of the impact served to fairly demolish the new car.

CHAUTAUQUA PROGRAM WILL OPEN HERE THIS EVENING

"Believe Me, Xantippe", American Comedy, Will Be Opening Entertainment on Four-Day Program.

Opening tonight at 8:15 with one of the strongest bills of the four-day program, Chelsea's chautauqua promises to be the most successful ever staged in this community. Ticket sales have been generous and the general public has been unusually responsive to the chautauqua idea during the past week or ten days of the sales canvass. Approximately three hundred season tickets are in the hands of patrons and this, along with an expected patronage of single admissions, will put the local committee over the top financially with likelihood of a generous surplus to be given the local Boy Scout organization.

"Believe Me, Xantippe", a sparkling American comedy which for years has proven one of the best drawing cards on the legitimate stage, will be given by an all-star cast this evening, furnishing an auspicious opener for the several programs. Much interest is being shown in its presentation.

Evening programs will begin at 8:15 and Friday and Saturday afternoons will open at 2:30. Sunday afternoon program will start at 3 o'clock to allow ample time for Sunday dinners, etc. The tent, which is located on South street just off South Main, is large enough to accommodate an immense crowd and, while persons holding season tickets will have a reserved section, there will be ample seats provided for others who buy single admissions. Quietness of the territory in which the tent is located will permit everyone to hear plainly and remain comfortable throughout the program.

Season tickets are still available from a number of persons and business places about town.

Correggio's Odd Death

The death of Correggio, the great Italian painter who lived in the early part of the sixteenth century, is alleged to have been caused by his having to carry home a sum of money due him for a picture he had painted, and paid in copper coins to humiliate and annoy him. The painter carried the money some twenty miles on a hot day to save the expense of hiring a conveyance. The subsequent exhaustion led to a breakdown that ended in his death.

NEW SUBMARINE CABLE TO BE LAID AT ST. IGNACE

Sixty-four and a half tons of especially made submarine telephone cable will be laid during the coming week, connecting St. Ignace with Mackinac Island—almost four miles away—so members of the 100 families residing on the island the year around and the tens of thousands of tourists who visit that historic spot each season might have vocal communication with the outside world when and as they want it.

This cable will replace that laid in 1909, which was badly damaged by the dragging anchor of a lake freighter which was forced to anchor during a severe storm. The old cable was broken about 200 feet from the shore of Mackinac Island and, because of ice, storm and cold, it was impossible to make permanent repairs. However, temporary repairs were made, the men working on scows and in the most extreme weather, so the island people had communication with the mainland throughout the winter.

The new cable will contain 18 circuits for use for toll or long distance purposes, connecting the very efficient local exchange with the 17,000,000 other telephones of the Bell System in this country and Canada and another island, far-away Cuba, also reached by submarine. It is anticipated by telephone engineers that the new cable to be laid next week will be sufficiently large to handle increasing business until 1943. A very large volume of messages is handled from the island each year.

The placing of the cable will be a spectacular piece of work and one of great importance to the people of the state as well as to tourists and travelers. Plant men of the Michigan Bell Telephone company's northern division, which embraces all of the Upper Peninsula, will place the cable, with D. I. Dixon of Menominee, division plant superintendent, and Lyman Green of Menominee, division construction superintendent, in charge. The cable, which was manufactured in the Hawthorne plant of the Western Electric company, has been shipped to St. Ignace, where it is being coiled on a large barge in figure "8" form, loop upon loop, so it will readily slip off into the water as the boat is towed across the Straits of Mackinac.

At Mackinac Island, the cable will land at the foot of Market street, from where it will go into aerial cable leading to the central office of Mackinac Island City. At St. Ignace, 21,500 feet distant, the submarine circuits also will connect with the central office by aerial cable and from there by open wire and cable and submarine cable circuits to other points.

The greater volume of messages from the island will, of course, pass through two cables, the new one to be laid next week and the larger cable extending from St. Ignace to Mackinac City, in the southern peninsula, which connects the two portions of the state and was laid in 1918.

Points to Remember in Choosing Your Gas Range

Select a gas range that is standard enough to be easily repaired and for which parts can be replaced without delay.

A top lighter is a big convenience and eliminates all match litter and bother.

Be sure the oven has a rust-proof lining.

Inquire all about pipe, piping and connections before you buy.

Take care that the stove you buy is adapted to the gas burned in your city.

Oven heat regulators more than repay you the slightly greater initial cost.

A simmer burner is a great convenience on a gas stove.

If you will be needing your stove to warm up the kitchen on cold days or in the early morning be sure to investigate the models equipped with warm air compartments. This is more efficient and more economical than to turn on a burner or heat up the oven.

BALDWIN OFFERS PLAN

Premier Baldwin of England, has offered in the House of Commons, as a suggestion to bring about the settlement of the English coal strike, that the working hour shall be eight instead of seven. He has aroused the ire of all English organized workers, and has started something, no matter how sound it may be, that will result in his ultimate downfall.

Organized labor made a long, strenuous fight for the eight hours would properly divide the twenty-four hours into eight for work, eight for recreation and eight for sleep. It had its appeal. It won out. It is operative in most of the world today, especially in the English speaking world.

But, no sooner has eight hours been secured, than the organizations start out for shorter hours. They fight now for seven. When they get seven they will want six. If they get six, they will want five and so on, down the line.

For that reason they are violently antagonistic to the Baldwin plan to settle the coal strike, because the miners have a seven-hour day, and they will not go willingly back to an eight hour day nor will they go at all, without a fight that will make what England has gone through, appear like a fist fight at a county fair, compared with what is in store.

The Baldwin policy will inevitably bring the downfall of the Baldwin ministry, in our opinion, soon or late. If no other means appear to be open, labor will abandon its party organization in England, and pursue the labor policy that has been successful in America—labor will cast its strength to the support of its friends in other parties as the only way to defeat what it terms its enemies.

England is not out of the woods—she is just about to enter the black forest of political controversy with civic upheaval.

HINNING AMERICANS

Those South Americans are a bad lot generally speaking. Chile and Peru asked America to arbitrate their differences over the territory of Tacna-Arica. America went there and did her best. Neither country was pleased, and on Thursday, Maj. Gen. William Lassiter, American president of the plebiscitary commission, was hissed. There was a demonstration against Americans, and Chilean troops had to quell it.

America ought to stay out of these South American quarrels, just as she ought to stay out of European quarrels.

ANOTHER NEWBERRY CASE

The United States Senate has another Newberry case in the making. It had its origin in the state of Pennsylvania, and already it is shaking the country, though only in its primary state.

The senate committee investigating the campaign slush fund, and bringing out the nasty details of the ward politics prevailing in Pennsylvania, has dug up, already, a grand total of $1,886,436 spent in the senatorial primaries by three candidates and their friends. George Wharton Pepper, present senator, running for re-election, together with his friends, spent a total of $1,086,249, and was defeated by William S. Vare, "wet" candidate, who, up to Tuesday had been proved to have spent $604,906 and got the nomination. Clifford Pinchot, governor, a candidate for the senate nomination, spent $195,102, and is the second big holder in the campaign.

If the country was shocked by the disclosure that they had spent around $200,000 to put Senator Newberry of Michigan in his senate seat, when he flattered in just a few votes ahead of Henry Ford, then it ought to be entirely flabbergasted at the Pennsylvania showing, wherein Mr. Pinchot, spent more than was spent on Newberry, while Senator Pepper and his friends spent five times as much as was spent on Mr. Newberry's successful campaign, only to lose the plum. Then comes the case of Mr. Vare. The committee has dug up more than three times the amount of money spent to elect Newberry, that was spent just to nominate Mr. Vare. What will the senate do when Mr. Vare files his certificate of election if he ever gets one to file?

RADIO AND WEATHER

Paul Painleve, French minister of war thinks radio has something to do with the weather. He says that if you enclose radio telephonic emissions in a tight room, drops of moisture will be generated and finally precipitated. He infers from that, that radio activity in Europe has caused the long drawn out season of rainy, wintry weather in western Europe.

If that theory had any basis, why did most of America suffer such a severe drought this spring, when radio activity was at a greater height than now when it is cold and rainy?

Painleve, one of the leading scientists of France expresses the belief that through discoveries connected with radio and electric development, we shall see the time when the weather can be controlled by that means.

Long ago we expressed the same belief. If the sound and light waves can be transmitted long or short distances, why can not heat and energy be transmitted, and if transmitted short distances, why not a development that will spread the possibility over the whole surface of the earth? It will be just as reasonable to expect heat waves transmitted from the tropics in winter, and cold waves transmitted from the polar regions in summer, as to transmit sound waves across the seas, or around the world. This generation may not witness that accomplishment, and yet, tomorrow may bring it to our doors.

BREVITIES.

CHARLOTTE—The friends of this city have completed arrangements for holding a celebration on Monday, July 5. A program of games and fireworks has been provided for the day and evening.

HOWELL—Under direction of the Livingston County Fair Association, several local organizations and committees of the best boosters in this community are hard at work to put on the greatest patriotic celebration this city has ever seen, on Monday, July 5.—Republican.

DEXTER—Professor A. D. Van Aken, who has been engaged as superintendent of the Dexter public schools for the coming year, arrived Monday with his family from South Haven. They will occupy the residence recently vacated by Dr. High, on C street.—Leader.

STOCKBRIDGE—Because of the boys who wrote the county eighth grade examinations, he had the highest average standing, Robert Hague, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orris Hague, of the Sullivan school in Stockbridge township, will be the guest of the State Fair Managers for a week during the annual fair at Detroit in September.

SALINE—Sunday evening a young lady in an automobile, in attempting to park in front of the Savings Bank, didn't slow up soon enough, with the result that "another Detroit" Edison boulevard light post bit the dust. The company should build retaining walls around their posts in the business district, or hire someone to stand guard over them. This is the second one in the same block to meet such a fate within a month.—Observer.

SOUTH LYON—Marauders forced an entrance into the South Lyon school building some time Monday night, unlocked the desk of Supt. J. C. Covert and left, taking with them such articles as typewriter, drawing instrument, etc., valued at $125. Practically everything stolen was the property of Mr. Covert. The desk of A. L. Titus was also unlocked and searched, but evidently they were not interested in what they found there, as we understand there was nothing taken.—Herald.

BROOKLYN—Cement pouring is making good progress north from the public square on M-50. The road builders have reached the intersection of Michigan avenue and will soon be out of town. The road is covered with dirt as fast as finished, and this is kept dampened to aid in the curing for the 21 days before opening to traffic. Everybody is getting ready for the opening celebration and pavement dance to be held on the public square the last of this month or first of July.—Exponent.

BRIGHTON—One of the new lake developments in the vicinity of Brighton, that has been brewing for some time, has been finally closed. The last signature that assured the certainty of the transaction being secured about midnight last night. We refer to the lake proposition that takes in the southwest part of this village and portions of Genoa and Hamburg townships, which when developed will provide a lake of approximately 200 acres, reaching into the village as far as Third street near W. H. Seger's—Argus.

MANCHESTER—Governor Groesbeck made good his promise to see that state surveyors came and surveyed for concrete highway and park lighting through Manchester. They plan to build the road from Napoleon to Saline, making a complete paved line from Detroit to Jackson. The line is surveyed to leave Jefferson street just east of Mrs. Adam Wurster's residence, bear southeast to Duncan street, thence east to the corner on what was the Frank Brown farm in Bridgewater, instead of going past the creamery and Wilbur Short's.—Enterprise.

GRASS LAKE—At the meeting of the Board of Education Tuesday evening our school bonds for $72,000 were sold. The Farmers' State Bank of Grass Lake being the successful bidder. They were sold on the basis of $198.75 premium and a 4 1/2 per cent rate. The request for bids was published in the Michigan Investor, a financial paper of largest circulation. Many bids were offered and many companies were anxious to buy them and we feel that it is with considerable feeling of local pride that our own bank was able to out bid the rest and that another large business transaction can be kept at home.—News.

VERMONT CEMETERY ASS'N ELECTED OFFICERS JUNE 19

The Vermont Cemetery Association meeting was held Saturday afternoon on the grounds. The following officers were elected:

President—E. S. Spaulding.
Vice Pres.—N. H. Cook.
Secretary—Miss Mantie Spaulding.
Treasurer—Warren Spaulding.
Trustees—Walter C. Wines, Mantie Spaulding, Warren Spaulding.
At this meeting Walter C. Wines presented the members with an interesting booklet containing a history of the Vermont settlement, and the following pioneer letter, dated July 1, 1832, written by Orlo H. Fenn to his parents in Vermont. The postage on this letter was 25c.

Dexter, July 1, A. D. 1832.

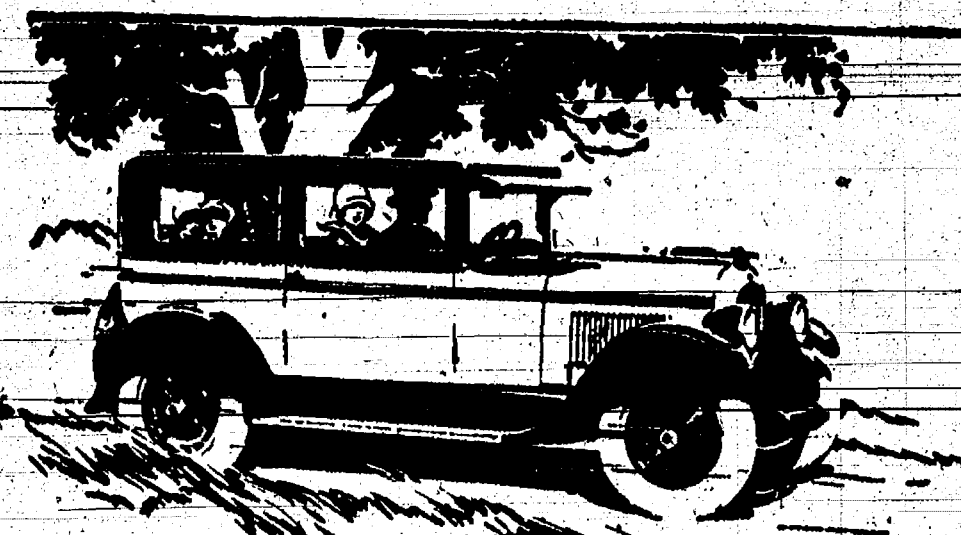

Honored parents:

Whilst distance again separates us I again resume my pen to converse with friends in Shoreham as it appears to be the only method at present, and indeed we ought to be thankful that we have the use of pen and paper and the means of conveyance to hold converse with our friends whilst at a distance from them. And whilst I speak of myself I must speak for my friends who are present with me. We have enjoyed good health ever since we left Shoreham, for which we ought to feel thankful, but I must proceed to give you a short history of our travels since we left Shoreham. We arrived in Whitehall the same day we left Shoreham and looked up. The next morning we left and arrived in Troy on Friday morning. Left Troy Friday evening and arrived in Buffalo on Saturday of the next week in time to ship abroad the steamboat Ohio. At 1/2 past 10 o'clock we left Buffalo for Detroit on Monday evening, which made us two weeks from home. We staid in Detroit until Wednesday morning when Arnold-Truman, Matilda and myself started for Dexter. In the stage and arrived at Mr. Spaulding's house on Thursday about noon. The rest of that week we spent in looking land in and about Dexter. We got the number of some lots of land and started on Monday for Lapeer on foot, through Oakland county, and arrived at Lapeer on Thursday forenoon. We looked about Lapeer the rest of Thursday and concluded we had rather settle on the land we had selected, and started for Detroit on Friday morning and arrived in Detroit on Saturday. I had forgotten to state that we left Lois and Abigail in Detroit and Matilda at Warren's. When we arrived we found them well and not but a little homesick. On Monday we did our business at the land office, bought 120 acres of land each and bought one yoke of oxen each. I bought one cow and calf. Truman bought 2 cows and Arnold bought 2 cows. We found cattle about the same price as in Shoreham. I paid $80 for my oxen and $17 for my cow. Truman paid $72 1/2 for oxen and $21 for his cows. Arnold paid $68 for oxen and $30 for his cows. Arnold has since bought another yoke of oxen which he paid $80 dollars for, as heavy as either pair so that you see we drive considerably of a team. Our cattle all appear to be good. My oxen are 5 years old. Truman's 7, and Arnold's one 5 and the other older. We have plowed a piece of land and planted a few potatoes, and beans, cucumbers, melons, etc. We are now building a log house for Arnold and all calculate to live in it until after sowing, when I calculate to build. We have each of us a hog. When we selected our land we agreed for a house to live in until we could build, but we were absent so long, they concluded we were not coming and let three other families into it. We are at present living in a barn, and live tolerable comfortable. We are in hopes not to stay here long.

You probably have heard a great many Indian stories. The men have been drafted in these parts, and been discharged before we arrived. There has been some trouble with the Indians in the west part of the Territory, but we do not anticipate any trouble from them here. The Indians are all friendly.

We have a chance to do well if we have our health, but health and life is uncertain. I should be glad if I could have some of my friends settle around me. Our land lays about 9 miles from Dexter mills. Our religious privileges are not as good as we could wish. We have no meetings very near. There is meetings at Dexter and a part of the time about three or four miles from us, but although we are deprived of this privilege, the same God that has hitherto kept us is able to keep us still. Lois sends her respects to Father Fenn and family. She has been some homesick, but not very bad. Give my best

Old-Time Hosiery

Hose is really the old term for what amounted to our modern trousers and stockings combined. Our ancestors at one period wearing a garment something like the "legginette" now so popular for small children.

The centuries passed and the fashions changed. First breeches and then trousers came in, and the old one-piece garment disappeared. We still kept its name, however, but only applied it to the tight-fitting covering of the lower limbs, and even this in time we took to calling by another name—the stocking. This name is a form of the word stock, which means in this case, part of the trunk.

Had Benefit of Climate

The homes of the ancient Romans were imperishable because they were erected in a climate wherein there was practically no freezing and thawing. The same mortars used in our climate have not been at all successful. Furthermore, the same stones used by the Romans give a comparatively short life in our country. The mortar mostly used by the Romans was a mixture of lime and sand. To this was added some natural occurring ground volcanic rock. This corresponds to what is known as puzolana, which, as indicated, has not been found satisfactory here.

Greeks Are Philanthropists

In Greece the wealthy men make gifts to the nation and leave legacies to civic enterprises in a way that outshines the rich men of any other nation in Europe. This is due partly to the native desire of the Greeks to improve themselves and to transfer that eagerness to corporate affairs.

Scoring Lawn Tennis

In the early days of lawn tennis two methods of scoring were used, played indiscriminately. One of these was the scoring used in the game of "racquets" and the other the "tennis" scoring. In 1878 the "tennis" method of scoring was adopted and the "racquets" scoring abandoned. No material change in the method of scoring has been made since 1878.

Won't Help the Cooking

It is said the kitchen utensils of the shah of Persia cost $25,000,000. Gosh! He must have had an openers of soda gold and platinum set with diamonds and rubies. But even at that, we don't believe he had any better—or at least any more enjoyable—method than a modern kitchen set with an outfit of the best quality.

Reptiles Endure Fasting

Observation at a large python in the Melbourne zoo disclosed that the serpent fasted eighteen months, then took its food regularly. An iguana (lizard-like creature) fasted nine months, then greedily gobbled eight unfortunate sparrows, the last two being merely shaken and quickly engulfed. They could be heard chirping for a while after arrival at their destination.

Ivory Taken
From Mule Elephant

Strictly speaking, ivory is a term applied to material represented by the tusk of the elephant, and for commercial purposes almost entirely to that of the male elephant. Both male and female African elephants produce good-sized tusks. In the Indian variety the female is much less beautifully provided, while less than 1 per cent of the elephants of Ceylon have tusks of any value. Ivory is a very dense substance; the pores are close and compact and filled with a gelatinous solution, which contributes to the beautiful polish that can be given to ivory. The tusk of the elephant, from which alone true ivory is obtained, may be placed between bone and horn. It is more fibrous than bone and, therefore, less easily torn or splintered.

The tusks of the walrus correspond to the canine teeth of other mammals, and they are not true ivory although so called. They are inferior in quality to the ivory of the elephant.

Great Voices Called
Accidents of Nature

Great voices are rare and undoubtedly owe their wonderful purity of tone to an accidental combination of those physical characteristics which lead to the production of song. The human musical instrument, though built of living tissues, resembles in structure the reed organ pipe fitted with a vox humana stop. In both cases the note depends on the vibrations of a column of air produced in the organ by a reed and in the voice by the vocal cords. The human air chamber corresponding to the organ pipe is composed of the larynx and the bronchial system beneath it.

The throat, mouth and nasal cavities form the resonators which, by alternation in shape and size, are able to pick out and emphasize certain component parts of the fundamental tones produced in the larynx. The lungs form the bellows which produce the upward blast of air, and upon their quality depends the loudness of the voice.—London Daily Mail.

Questions and Answers
The question and answer method of presenting news began in English newspapers in the seventeenth century. One of the first advice departments in question and answer form appeared in the London Athenian Mercury in 1691. Charles Dana was one of the first editors to answer letters in the editorial column of the New York Sun.

Epworth League
Epworth league gets its name from the name of the town in Lincolnshire, England, which was the birthplace of John Wesley, founder of Methodism. E. church, Cleveland Public Center.

Nicotine in Tobacco
The percentage of nicotine varies with the kind of tobacco and with the district in which it is grown. Our domestic "cabbage-leaf" brand, contains from 94 to 95 per cent of nicotine. This is the authority of the United States Department of Agriculture. The French Department of Agriculture states that it made 22 to 30 per cent of nicotine in tobacco examined by these experts.

Pirate Perch Turns

Sunfish Out of Nest

Sunfish are troubled with what may be called a marine cuckoo—the pirate perch. This fish, which is either too lazy or else incapable of making a nest of its own, waits until the sunfish have completed their nest and then turns them out, installing itself in their place. Its eggs are frequently laid among those of the original occupants. These, however, are not disturbed and hatch out in due course, says the Vancouver Province.

Perhaps the most interesting nest found under water is that of the black-nosed dace. The fish clears a space about two feet in diameter and the female deposits a layer of eggs. Then a layer of stones is gradually placed over the eggs. The stones being brought to the nest in the mouth of the dace. On these another layer of eggs is placed and then comes another layer of stones. These alternate layers of eggs and stones are slowly built up until the pile reaches a height of eight inches or so.

The black goby forges a home for its eggs like a ball. This is constructed of pieces of wood interwoven and bound together, the eggs being placed inside. As is often the case, the male builds the nest and, after the eggs have been deposited, takes it in turn to guard it.

And Not Always Then
No man can be happy without a friend, nor be sure of him till he's unhappy.—Scottish Proverb.

Tribute to Franklin

For 68 years Benjamin Franklin served his country and mankind, and history affirms the judgment of his contemporaries, expressed most notably in the tribute adopted by the national assembly of France upon announcement of his death. Offering the resolution, which was seconded by Rochefort and Lafayette, Mirabeau declared:

"The sage whom two worlds claim as their own, the man for whom the history of science and the history of empires contend with each other, held without doubt exalted rank in the human race. Antiquity would have raised altars to this mighty genius, who, to the advantage of mankind, compassing in his mind the heavens and the earth, was able to restrain alike thunderbolts and tyrants. Europe, enlightened and free, owes at least a token of remembrance to one of the greatest men who have ever been engaged in the service of philosophy and of liberty."

Reason for Cold Weather

The naval observatory says while it is true that in the northern hemisphere the maximum difference between the heat lost at night and that gained by day occurs about December 21, it is also true that there is more lost at night than gained by day for some time after that. In other words one might say that the northern hemisphere cools off most rapidly about December 21, but still continues to cool after that time, though more slowly.

Early Actresses

Actresses appear to have been unknown to the ancients in earliest times, female parts in dramatic performances being taken by males. Actresses appeared on the stage under the Roman empire. The first English actress is said to have been Mrs. Colman, who performed the part of "Isabella" in Davenant's "Siege of Rhodes" in 1633.

Hardly Draw Breath During Winter Sleep

The mild weather sometimes observed during winter occasionally wakes before their time animals which have been spending the winter buried in the ground or in trees. While these creatures are asleep, often for months, respiration seems to be totally suspended.

A hedgehog was recently immersed in a pail of cold water, and though the ducking was continued for thirty minutes the animal was taken out unharmed. So slight was its breathing that practically no water entered its lungs.

Marmots and bats have been placed in glass chambers filled with carbon dioxide. In their normal state they have expired almost immediately; but in their winter sleep they have survived after four hours in the gas chambers.

Extreme cold will sometimes kill six months' slumbers, but there have been notable exceptions in the case of animals with cold blood. Occasionally fish have been brought to life when taken from solid blocks of ice; frogs have been known to recover after ice has formed in their blood.

Charleston's Distinction

A clay product closely resembling our present-day brick was among the earliest materials used for paving streets and roads. The first brick pavement constructed in this country, however, dates back no further than 1872, and to Charleston, W. Va., belongs the distinction of having been the first American city to employ brick for paving.

Composition of Grenadine

Grenadine is made from the pomegranate. The juice, when cooked with an equal amount of sugar, produces a beautiful red-colored sirup, which is greatly improved by the addition of a little lemon sirup. This serves to bring out the aromatic flavor and increase the acidity. A sirup of this nature constituted the original grenadine sirup, much used in Europe in the preparation of soft drinks.

In the Twinkling of an Eye

By MARTHA M. WILLIAMS

MARTHA's world changed in the twinkling of an eye. She felt asleep poor and joyful—she waked to wealth and woe. For the wealth meant loss of so much—the home she called always father and mother, who had given her in return love and cherishing the name she had been so proud of—Martha. Alison Lewis, worst of all, her sweetheart, Thomas Elton—who was by way of becoming also a Thomas, the Rhymer.

Truly a sorry miracle—yet no whit mysterious. She was born a waitress, came somehow from a burning boat. The kind foster parents had taken her to their home and heart, holding her heaven-sent to comfort them for the baby they had just lost. Grief for it had already put them in the mind to move—so they had gone, taking the baby to a distant new home.

If only she had been such a witch at tennis, she might never have known, Mother Lewis lamented. Then her picture wouldn't have been printed. When she won the cup her blood grandmother had seen it and had been so struck by the likeness to her dead daughter, she had set about investigating—with a result of discovering her grandchild. Her husband had been haunted all along by a ghost—hope of the baby's survival. When he died a year before, he had willed his estate and the great fortune that belonged with it, to the great-nephew legally adopted—but on condition of searching diligently for the mythical grandchild—and it found within five years, marrying her. Thus there would be more Pendleton blood in the inheritance of the fortune. The heir got it through his mother—but that had been remedied easily—he had taken the name along with the rest.

He insisted that Martha's foster parents must go along with the daughter they were giving up to Pendleton, there to receive the thanks—richly deserved, Madame Pendleton was so shaken with her great new happiness, she was unequal to such a journey.

They looked at Martha—she sprang up, flushing and going white, and said huskily: "Go if you like. I shan't budge, unless Thomas goes with us," then facing Henry Edmond Pendleton, she went on steadily: "He is the man I am going to marry. Understand that! Now—do you think it worth while to carry this any further?"

"Very well worth while for the sake of Madame Pendleton, if nothing else," he returned gravely.

Martha hid her face, strangling a sob. And just then in walked her Thomas to soothe and comfort her, and fall in a daze when he had heard the wonder news.

He went along decidedly—to the amazement of Mrs. Lewis. She liked him just for company, but had never been reconciled to Martha's choice of him. She did not know—indeed that was a dead secret—that Edmond Pendleton had said to him: "You can have her—if you keep her loving you best. I wouldn't marry an unwilling bride—not for twice, not for ten times all the Pendleton money. Let's make it a fair field with odds in your favor—and no grudges after, no matter who wins."

Madame Pendleton faced Martha white and tremulous, but after a long, long look, folded her light in her arms. She could not speak for minutes—then in a whisper came: "My child lives again." And indeed there was startling likeness between Martha and the portrait of her mother in bridal white, that had a light above it, fresh flowers below it, every hour of every day, Martha choked at sight of them. Madame patted her cheek, saying softly: "Lillias always brings my dead darling the finest freshest flowers."

That of course brought Lillias into the picture—she was slim, lithe, dark-eyed, of a clear brown, pale skin, swept now and then by a poppy flush. Madame's foster-child, two years older than Martha. They took to each other so wonderfully, Thomas Elton all but whiskered away.

Martha was finding out with a vengeance that she loved beautiful things. Her mother's laces, jewels, family diamonds, grandma's store of silks, furs and brocades were excellent teachers. They kept her so occupied she was consequence-stricken sometimes at thought of Thomas, the Rhymer. She wondered a bit that he stayed on and on—that is to say when she thought of him seriously.

Lillias was angelic—Martha wondered how she would have got on without her. So nice that she could stay on with Granny, when Martha had gone back home—as she insisted she must do. Nobody gainsaid her: "I want you to be happy," said Madame. Edmond Pendleton smiled inscrutably. And then, strolling in the rose-sweet garden under a May moon, Martha came upon her Thomas and Lillias clasped in each other's arms, his kisses raining down on her uplifted face. After one sharp jealous twinge Martha's heart gave a great glad leap—she slid behind them, put her hands upon their heads and said in almost Madame's own voice: "Bless you, my children. Things are—as they should be. Several people, I know, are going to live happy ever after." To which Henry Edmond Pendleton in the background voiced a hearty "Amen and Amen."

Families Live Together

In Dinanous it is the custom for families to live together. In fact, the sons when marrying bring their brides to the house of their father as a matter of course.

Visitors Not Encouraged

In some South American countries a gentleman is expected to kiss every woman to whom he is introduced, but they don't see Sunday excursions to that place.—Exchange.

CLEAR LAKE NEWS

The Runciman reunion was held in Greening's grove, on June 12, 1926. Seventy people attended it. A pot-luck dinner was served, followed by a program. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Clouser and family, Mary, Patricia, Harry Jr. and Edward were Sunday guests at Greening's grove. The Lehman reunion was held in Greening's grove, June 20, 1926. A lovely dinner was served, followed by a program of songs, speaking and music. There were many sports, the most interesting one was a ball game played by the Lehman men.

Support for Grapevines

The bureau of plant industry says that copper wire may be used to support grapevines. While the copper wire is more expensive at first, some believe that it is cheaper in the long run, as it endures longer than galvanized iron, which is used more universally. The galvanized iron wire needs to be removed in about three years. No. 10 wire is the size which is used for vineyard trellis.

When a Man Marries

When a man who has not been married before marries a widow, it is only a marriage in law, says Ed Howe, it isn't the real thing. "A real marriage is when two inexperienced young people learn its trials and tribulations together."

Wheat Products for Food

It has been calculated that wheat flour, bread and crackers—pastry and similar products constitute 10 per cent of the total food of the average American family, furnishing about 27 per cent of the total protein, 18 per cent of the total fat and 40 per cent of the total carbohydrates. They contain a high percentage of starch and may be profitably combined with materials rich in protein, meat, eggs, etc., to form a well-balanced diet.

Supported by Right

Calhoun Clay was a typical modern parent. As he loafed in front of the garage a minister stopped and said: "Cal, why don't you go to work?" "I'm busy, sah," Cal answered with dignity. "Ah's got eight chillun toe support—"

"Well," interrupted the minister, "you can't support them by loafing here in front of this garage."

"Scuse me, sah," Cal went on.

"Now me ter finish mah remark, sah. Wet Ah means ter say is dat Ah's got eight chillun toe support me."

Waltz King's Record

Strauss, the waltz king, is said to have written nearly 400 waltzes and that there was not a poor one among them. In addition he wrote many selections for other dance steps, including polkas, mazurkas and schottisches, not to mention marches and ballads. His operettas were next in fame to his waltzes.

American Edibles

Tuckahoe is a name applied by the Algonquin Indians to many roundish roots. Specifically it included the golden club and the arrow arum, both having fleshy rootstocks, arid when fresh, but rendered edible by cooking and abunding in starch. Another highly prized tuckahoe is a subterranean fungus found in the southern states. It is not unlike a coconut. It is also known as Indian bread or Indian loaf.

Bill of Rights

The bill of rights in England is the name commonly given to the set of subjects and settling the succession of the crown, 1689, which embodied the declaration of rights drawn up by a committee of the commons and presented to William Prince of Orange and his wife, afterward William III and Queen Mary. The bill of rights is the nearest approach to a written constitution which the United Kingdom possesses.

Unprofitable Indeed

To harbor hatred and animosity to the soul makes one irritable, gloomy and prematurely old.—Auerbach.

The High Cost Of Excess Weight

Excess weight in motor trucks is expensive. It increases the purchase price and it costs as much to carry as an equal weight of payload. Its cost is even greater, because it must be carried all the time.

Graham Brothers trucks have a larger proportion of payload to chassis weight than is usually available in their respective capacities. Careful buyers are giving this due recognition, as their marked preference for Graham Brothers trucks indicates.

Built by the largest exclusive truck makers in the world—powered by Dodge Brothers dependable engine—these trucks are capable of an exceptional amount of profitable work over a long period of life.

FAIR NOTES

Journalist Scored

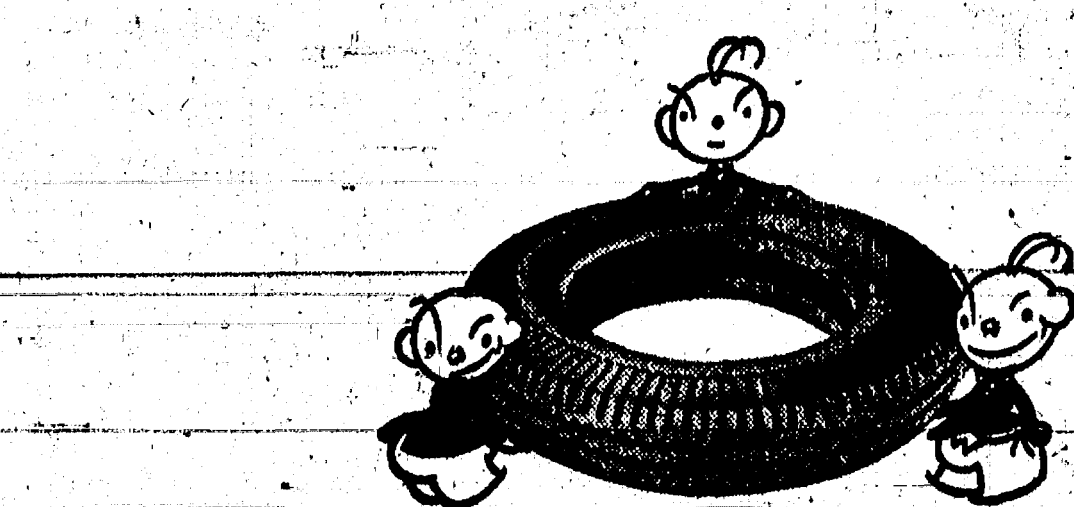

Anatole France said that actors have the vanity and brains of peacocks. From which it follows that they are not adept at repartee. A journalist and an actor become involved in an argument as to the intelligence of the stage craft. To support his case, the journalist quoted the statement by France. The discussion was long and heated, the actor finally accusing the journalist of lack of intelligence because the latter denied possession of brains to actors. He said: "Now I know what it means to have a peacock brain." To this the journalist retorted: "Then you must have learned through introspection."

Milk Products Old

Butter was known for at least 2,000 years before the Christian era. It was not used as food, however, but mostly as a medicine and ointment, and in some parts was employed as an illuminant for lamps. The butter was churned crudely in skin bags or pouches, and was a very inferior article. Cheese has been known since the earliest times, the oldest mention of it occurring in 1400 B. C. It was used as an article of food before butter.

Difference in Law Terms

The Pathfinder Magazine thus defines the difference between adjective and substantive law: Substantive law consists of the general and fundamental principles of law. Adjective law consists of certain rules and regulations governing court procedure and the administration of the substantive law. In other words, adjective law is a set of rules by which the substantive law is executed.

When George Caught Dorinda

By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD

(Copyright.)
WHEN twins came to Darling and Darling, that world renowned acrobatic pair, there was great rejoicing in Circus Town. "They'll be some kids on the tight rope!" prophesied one, and "Gosh, what a future in stunt dancing!" foretold another.

As the years passed, Geoffrey Darling seemed the only one likely to carry on the family reputation. True, his brother George could get away with a mediocre performance now and again.

By the time the boys had reached the age of discretion, if not of great wisdom, the elder Darlings had passed in one brief and tragic accident to that land where their peculiar endowments were presumably of no more use to them. Geoffrey was left to carry on their reputation—and George to look after Geoffrey.

That he did so was particularly evident in the matter of Dorinda. Who was Dorinda? She was the sweetest, prettiest, sunniest, daintiest little equestrienne of them all. The bills that so proclaimed her spoke truly, and George would have knocked you down had you questioned it.

Yes—even after he relinquished all hope of ever having her for his own. For one night George had stumbled out of his tent at the sound of voices close at hand. Unobserved, he had stepped back quickly when he saw Dorinda in the arms of his brother and heard her murmur, "Darling, I thought you would never propose!"

Next day when he had happened near her she had acted strangely disturbed, but George, mastering his emotions, had gone straight over to her and gripped both her little hands. "It's splendid," he said, "just splendid, Dorrie, about you and Geoff. Now I can really be to you the brother you have always wanted to be."

Then he had left her abruptly, his heart torn with anguish. Geoffrey's engagement to Dorinda kept him straight for just about one month. Then his former habits gripped him.

George gradually found himself bothered about his brother's act on the bill, in which, as a breath-taking finale, he caught Dorinda as she leaped from her horse straight into his arms as he balanced precariously on a bit of apparatus all but suspended in mid air.

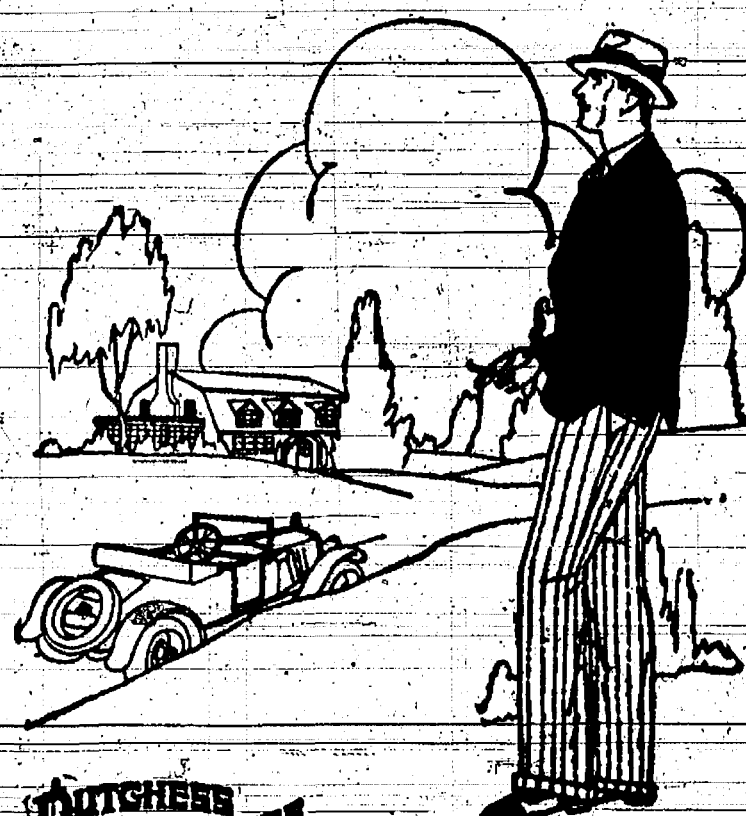

Geoffrey was neglecting his practice and, as all circus men know, a man who wants to maintain steady nerves and perfect co-ordination of eye and muscle cannot drink.

There came an afternoon when Geoffrey swayed into George's tent in a sad state.

"Can't go on—can't do it, ol' man. You got to take my place." George repressed a desire to fling him out of the tent, brother though he was. Then, "That's foolish and you know it," he said.

"Got to," insisted Geoffrey. "Nobody knows the difference—look alike." But suddenly he braced himself. "Feel queer," he muttered. "Guess I can do it. Let me sleep an hour. Then wake me."

Smart—and sensible too!

ing the role of the clowns, but at last he went out and left the little equestrienne to get through some of her own special performance. The crowd could not know that just outside Geoffrey fell and that it was George who came on again.

As a matter of fact, Geoffrey, overcome by something more deadly than mere intoxication, had collapsed and his brother, hastily summoning the circus doctor, had stripped off the tawdry garments, doused them and dashed in so that Dorinda's act should not be ruined.

Could he put it across? There was no way in which he could first communicate with Dorinda and prepare her. Moreover, it was perhaps better that she should not know of the substitution for her own sake.

George was familiar enough with his brother's part and went through the patter and accompanying hand springs creditably. What worried him was the final catching of Dorinda. Was he risking the life of the woman he loved?

Then, before he could hesitate further, the moment itself was upon him. He climbed mechanically, he balanced, he poled with outstretched arms—Could he hold it—ah—Dorinda was in his arms! He held her there and then leaped lightly to the ground. It had been in him, after all.

But what was she saying, as she still clung to him while the applause thundered?

"Thought you wouldn't make it, Geoff. Oh, how can you keep on
