Will Present Handel's Messiah at Hill Aud.

The annual Christmas performance of Handel's "Messiah" under the auspices of the University Musical society, will take place in Hill Auditorium, Ann Arbor, Sunday afternoon, Dec. 11, at 4:15 o'clock, sharp, when the University Choral Union of 800 voices, the School of Music Symphony orchestra of about 100 players and a group of distinguished soloists, all under the baton of Dr. Earl V. Moore, musical director, will unite their artistry in a program which will usher in the Christmas tide spirit.

The soloists will include Laura Littlefield, assistant professor of voice; soprano; Miss Helen McClarin of Kent state college, Kent, Ohio, former student in the school of music, contralto; Arthur Hackett, professor of voice, senior, and King Keillogg, professor of voice, at Albion college conservatory, also a former student of the school, bass. The soloists are all artists of recognition, chosen particularly for the roles which they sing. In combination with the program of exceptional brilliance is anticipated.

The University Choral Union is made up of more than 300 players, largely students in the school of music and the university, but including a sprinkling of townsfolk of musical ability and inclination. Regular rehearsals since the opening of college have developed a perfection and sureness which is most desirable.

The school of music orchestra which recently appeared in Hill Auditorium in a faculty concert, with its quota of 100 players, includes many professional performers who are enrolled in the school of music, for advanced instrumental study and their familiarity with Handel's monumental oratorio, is such as to make the organization a splendid supporting body for the chorus and the soloists.

Dr. Moore is recognized as one of America's outstanding younger choral conductors. During the decade of his incumbency as musical director, having succeeded Dr. Stanley, 10 years ago, he has not only presented in public many of the older substantial choral compositions of traditional worth, but he has pioneered the performances of a number of modern works of real merit. He has wielded the baton over Messiah performances many times in Ann Arbor and in numerous other cities, so that he is a master of all of the intricacies of this splendid Christmas tide work which in and out of season is always desirable.

CHRISTMAS SEALS

By Ed. S. Snover

Buy Christmas seals! The pennies spent

For them aids in the banishment Of that insidious disease Which saps the youthful energies Of boys and girls—they help to purge This state of childhood's blackest scourge

Which menaces, with its uncouth Malignancy, our precious youth!

Buy Christmas seals and help to free Our homes of this dread malady Which enters, with its evil stealth, To take the priceless boon of health From fathers so they cannot earn The comforts which all fathers yearn By honest labor to provide For those who "neath their roofs abide.

Buy Christmas seals and help to stay The progress of this grisly, gray Destroyer which engraves its blight On motherhood and steals the right Of women to exert the care Their growing children ought to share—

Buy Christmas seals—help vitalize This most important enterprise!

"Don't forget us" is the message conveyed by the Children on the 1932 tuberculosis Christmas seal which is appearing now on letters and packages as far-sighted people hasten to make their contributions to the protection of the child. For it is to save youth from the dread disease that pennies spent for these Christmas seals are used.

The Michigan Tuberculosis Association is asking self-sacrificing men and women to open their purses wide that the work of early discovery of tuberculosis by means of tuberculin tests and X-ray examinations of school children may be carried on. Finding many cases of tuberculosis in time to save a corresponding number of lives in an examination of 10,001 Michigan school children last year proved the great need for this work.

School boards were convinced to the extent of filing requests for examinations covering 44,000 children. For economy's sake if no other reason, the plea of the tuberculosis association that these children should be examined should appeal to every citizen.

For it is false economy to neglect the child during any time. If we are to have sound citizens tomorrow we must know about the health condition of the child of today. Had this fact been recognized years ago Michigan would not have made a sacrifice to tuberculosis of 458 boys and girls in 1931. Failure to see this in blindness indeed.

"Buy Christmas Seals and Save Lives" is not an empty slogan. It is a crying fact. A quarter century response to this appeal shows a marked progress in the reduction of needless deaths. There are 90,000 people aged 20 in Michigan. Recently the vital statistics division of the state department of health issued figures proving that their life expectancy so far as tuberculosis is concerned had been increased one year each of the equivalent of a full life time of 2,000 people due to the educational program of the past 25 years. Buy Christmas seals and save lives.

The sale of these seals is being handled in Chelsea by the Kiwanis club.

Pennsylvania, April 9, 1834. She came to the Home from Milford, January 11, 1930. Services were held in the chapel, conducted by Dr. W. J. Balmer. Interment in Oak Grove cemetery, Chelsea. ## Question And Answer Dept.

Ques.—What should a person say or do in acknowledging an introduction when one did not "get" the name? Is it good manners to have the name repeated?

Ans.—It is bad form to ask to have the name repeated. Direct your remarks to the person to whom you were introduced and simply say: "Beg pardon, but I did not catch the name," or any other words similar or perfectly natural with you. There is absolutely no reason to become flustered or embarrassed. Do not show either by haste or embarrassment that you are ill at ease because the name escaped you. It is a bad fault to attempt to guess at a name when it is not heard distinctly. It is wiser to ask and be correct than it is to have the embarrassment of being corrected.

Ques.—I wish to ask in your valuable paper what day of the week was May 5, 1492?

Ans.—May 5, 1492, was on Friday.

Ques.—Will you kindly answer who were the two greatest generals in the American Civil War?

Ans.—To answer this question would be a matter of opinion. In our opinion, however, Grant, head of the Federals; and Lee, head of the Confederates, should be given this distinction.

Ques.—What should one do to be a good booster for the community?

Ans.—That's easy. The best way to be a good booster for the community is to do your trading at home. We can all do that, more or less.

Ques.—What is a "chauffeur"?

Ans.—That depends upon circumstances. Ordinarily a "chauffeur" is a man who drives a car. But if he makes us do the "highland fling" to get out of his way, we usually call the driver of the car a different name.

Ques.—What do the letters "S. O."

"S." stand for. Your answer will settle an argument?

Ans.—It all depends upon how they are used. In wireless telegraphy these letters are used as a distress signal, but do not represent any particular words. Among us poor printers "S. O. S." is also a distress signal, which we have fitted in the words "Send On Subscriptions."

Ques.—In an argument A says that Illinois was admitted to the Union 10 years ahead of Nebraska; B says it was 25 years. Which is right?

Ans.—Neither are right. Illinois was admitted to the Union December 3, 1818; and Nebraska was admitted December 3, 1890. Therefore, Illinois was admitted 45 years before Nebraska.

Ques.—Will you please answer in your question department what was Mark Twain's real full name, and what was the day and date of his birth?

Ans.—The real name of Mark Twain was "Samuel Langhorne Clemens." He was born on Monday, November 30, 1835.

Ques.—Did John the Apostle write "Revelation" in Palestine?

Ans.—No. John the Apostle wrote "Revelation" on the Isle of Patmos.

Ques.—I was born on March 7, 1900. What day of the week was I born?

Ans.—That date occurred on Sunday, so that's the day on which you were born.

Ques.—What is the nickname for the city of Rome in Italy?

Ans.—The nickname for the city of Rome, Italy, is the "Imperial City."

Ques.—I am told that violin strings are made out of cat gut. Is that a fact?

Ans.—Originally violin strings were made of catgut, and were so named, but the intestines of sheep are now used, as they are stronger and better.

Ques.—Can you tell me who was the founder of the Red Cross?

Ans.—The Red Cross was founded by Clara Barton.

Peach Growers Have New Market Problem

Most of Michigan Fruit Must Be Sold for Immediate Consumption—Little Used for Canning.

Michigan fruit growers who contemplate setting new peach orchards are advised by the horticultural department at Michigan State College to make their plantings to meet the present conditions which restrict the sale of Michigan peaches to markets which supply fruit for immediate consumption.

Most of the peaches which are commercially canned are now produced by California. Michigan peaches are used mainly for fresh fruit or for home canning and the latter outlet is somewhat curtailed by the competition with other states.

Michigan growers are asked to take advantage of these conditions by planting varieties which will spread the harvest season over a longer period of time. Plantings of a single variety will mature all fruit for harvest at the same time and the peaches will have to be marketed within a period of a few days.

If several good varieties are chosen for planting, the picking dates will vary and both early and late peaches can be marketed. The increasing use of trucks for moving the fruit makes it possible for Michigan peaches to be placed on fairly distant markets within a short space of time from the hour when they are picked.

Members of the horticultural department do not advise increased plantings but a wise choice of varieties in areas which are to be replanted.

Livestock Brings Most Cash Income

Records Show Farm Operators Shift Business From Crops to More Profitable Lines.

Livestock sales made up 70 per cent and crops sales 30 per cent of the cash receipts from the Michigan farms whose owners furnished the farm management department at Michigan State College a complete record of their business to show the change made in farm operations to meet the present conditions.

There is a tendency to concentrate more effort on livestock and less on crops and the records also show a shift to the more intensive producing units of livestock. Dairy cattle, hens and brood sows increased in the period reported.

This shift is evidence of the farmers' attempt to obtain a larger income from the same number of acres and the same outfit of farm buildings and equipment. In spite of the evident attempt of farm operators to put their business on a more profitable basis, income records show a continued drop due to steadily decreasing prices.

The farmers in the group studied cut their operating costs 47.1 per cent during the year. The cash receipts dropped 44.7 per cent during the same time. The saving in operating expenses did not compensate for the loss in cash income.

The farm owners make their savings in other ways than in abandoning good farm practices such as the use of fertilizer, sprays, and good seed. Less was spent for labor but the reduction in this expense was due more to lower wages than to less men hired.

Expenses on the upkeep of the farm plant, painting, fence building, and machinery repair have been cut to the point where the plants show considerable depreciation.

CHARLOTTE.—Miss Lydia Jane Winn of the Lane-Dulencia Home in Charlotte is believed to be Michigan's oldest citizen. On her 104th anniversary she received telegrams from President Hoover and Governor Brucker, nearly 200 birthday greeting cards, many of them from strangers, and two large birthday cakes.—Republican Tribune.

HOWELL.—The Detroit Creamery Co. of Detroit, closed its local plant on Thursday. The producers supplying the Howell plant will have to take their milk to Fowlerville or Brighton.—Republican Press.

WEEKLY NEWS BULLETIN

Frank D. Fitzgerald
Secretary of State

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 7.—The confusion of a year ago due to the similarity of Ohio and Michigan 1932 automobile license plates, will be eliminated in 1933. Michigan 1933 plates went on sale Dec. 1.

A year ago both Ohio and Michigan used white numerals on a blue background. The 1933 Michigan plates have black numerals on a white background while Ohio is using black numerals on an orange background.

The closest approach to the Michigan plates is the 1932 Minnesota plates which have black figures on a silver background. Illinois and Wisconsin plates for the coming year are using the same color combination that Michigan and Ohio used in 1932. This may cause some confusion in those states.

Other 1933 colors include: West Virginia, yellow numerals on a black background; Kentucky, yellow on a green background; New York, black on a yellow background; Pennsylvania, yellow on a blue background; Indiana, white on a maroon background, and the Province of Ontario, black on a pale yellow background.

Gasoline used in tractor road scrapers employed in grading or cleaning roads is subject to the provisions of the gas tax law, according to an opinion given the Department of State by the Attorney General's office. Municipal and federal owned scrapers, according to the opinion, are exempt from the tax as are individually owned scrapers used in constructing roads before they are opened to traffic.

DEXTER—Last week Rev. and Mrs. A. Schoen had the pleasure of entertaining their cousin, whose home is in Salt Lake City. He had spent several weeks in London, Eng., as advising mining engineer, and was now on his way home.—Leader.

SOUTH LYON.—For nearly three years a swarm of bees had taken up quarters in the walls below the belfry of the Methodist church. Recently a group of men wrecked part of the wall and with smoke and sulphur fumes exterminated the bees. About 200 pounds of a fine grade of honey were taken from the walls.—Herald.

WAYNE.—A wholesale investigation of the 2,000 families now on the Dearborn Welfare rolls was ordered Monday after a preliminary investigation had showed that 10 out of 35 families questioned were receiving aid through fraud.—County Review.

GRASS LAKE.—Harry Serviss, Charles Kulmbach, Glenn Curtis and W. M. McCumsey are home from a deer hunting trip in Chippewa county, each bringing back a deer. It may be of interest to note that the files of The News of 25 years ago contain a photograph of a deer hunting party, of which Mr. Serviss was a member, and the scene of operations was at
"Camp Starvation," three miles south

EDITORIAL

Not long ago a book with the intriguing title "Oh, Yeah" came off the press. Here are some pithy paragraphs from its author, Edward Angly. We recommend them as good food for thought in these trying times when the two principal questions in our minds are "How long?" and "What next?"

"We are still bogged, I believe, in a false sense of spiritual and material values. We still listen, without cackling, to apostles of the Great God Salemanship as they preach the phony doctrine that profligacy breeds prosperity."

"As a means of getting on in the world, our youths are still encouraged to cultivate their personalities rather than their minds, their charm rather than their character. We can tolerate demagoguery but not dandruff, bootleg but not athlete's foot, racketeering but not halitosis, the stench of municipal corruption but not B. O."

"We are accused, we often, indeed, accuse ourselves, of admitting bigness extravagantly. The biggest man in town, the biggest corporation in the world, the biggest bank. This depression, among other good lessons, may teach us that balance is more desirable than bigness."

"But balance presupposes the presence of discipline, order, integrity, and the courage to face a fact. Those four virtues, it has seemed to me, were generally sold short in this country in the days when we were long on prosperity. We need now the courage to cease pretending that our difficulties are merely material when the evils that are gnawing away at our greatness are essentially spiritual. In our flight from realities, we got far nearer to moral bankruptcy than to the sort of insolvency which concerns economics. Almost every change that has taken place in American life during the past three years leads me to the conclusion that an honest depression is good for the soul."

"Think it over. Remember that Jesus gave us the whole picture when he said: 'He that soweth to the flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption, but he that soweth to the spirit shall of the spirit reap life everlasting.'"

"Ask yourself the question: 'What am I sowing and what will my harvest be?'"

Library News

The students of the library club have taken it upon themselves to conduct a special reading class for the children in the first grade. This special reading class is held every Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday from 2:45 to 3:30.

The children of the first grade are very enthusiastic over this reading period.

The names of the stories that have been read to the children are as follows: "The Three Bears," "Dickie Beyer," "Three Blind Mice," "The Little Red Hen," "Aesop's Fables," and "Three Little Pigs."

The names of the children that are interested in this reading class are: Philip Vogel, Philip Tompkins, Richard Beal, Mary Christwell, Virginia Spalding, Linda Johns, Raymond Purson, Richard Bahmiller, Richard Poor, Joyce Foster, Ruth Oesterle, Walter Oesterle, Ronald Walz, Royal Spryke, Jane Christwell, Sumner Oesterle, Merle Getty, Toby Brunner, Doris Collins, Ester Renschneider, Roy Sykes, Robert Schantz, Marjorie Unstead, Roland Ewald, Elvira Harper, John Christwell, Betty Lucie Holdenman, Betty Jane Winchester, Alice Duraw, Sunny Baxter, Elaine Schmidt, Dorothy Dornick, Virginia Miller, Ronald Genter, Charles Blanchard and June Nyvoss.

The girls taking charge of the first grade are: Mildred Tompkins, Katherine Spalding, Janet Dancer, Margaret Merkel, Zilpha Shaver, Lorinda Butler, Marjorie Sott, Verna Adams and Viola Krumm.

Helen Baxter, Gertrude Jensen and Doris Boone have been working with the kindergarten children in the library. They are spending 40 minutes each Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoon with them reading stories and showing them picture books. They have special books that children of the upper grades are not allowed to take home which they read to them. Some of these are: "The Three Bears," "The Little Red Hen," "Chicken Licken," and many other short stories and poems from other primers. The children are enjoying this very much.

The girls have tried to make this library as much like a home library as possible, because they realize that each child doesn't have this opportunity at home. Any mothers who happen to come to school are cordially invited to visit the library and inspect the books.

The book reports to be given this week in club meetings are to be given by Kathryn Ashfal and Jonnie Scripser. The latter will give a book report on "The Tide of the Empire" by Peter B. Kyne.

EDUCATION

I am Education. I bear the torch that enlightens the world, feeds the imagination of man, feeds the flame of genius. I give wings to dreams and might to hand and brain.

I am the parent of progress, creator of culture, molders of destiny. Philosophy, science and art are the works of my hand. I banish ignorance, discourage vice, disarm anarchy.

Thus have I become freedom's citadel, the arm of democracy, the hope of youth, the pride of adolescence, the joy of age. Fortunate the nations and happy the homes that welcome me. The school is my workshop; here I stir ambitions, stimulate ideals, forge the keys that open the door to opportunity. I am the source of inspiration, the aid of aspiration. I am irresistible power.

Huron League Holds Annual Meeting

The Huron Valley League met Monday night at the Roosevelt High School in Ypsilanti for their first 1932-33 meeting. The meeting was opened by President Walker. The minutes of the last meeting were also read by him. Mr. Walker then read to the members of the League the Chelsea letter suggesting withdrawal from the League.

The matter was discussed and Mr. Moore made it clear that geographical conditions were our reason for suggesting a withdrawal at that time. He went on to convey the fact that the student body was almost unanimously against withdrawal. That matter was discussed for about an hour by the coaches and principals who were present at the League from different schools, with the exception of Saline.

Chelsea was well represented by the following people: Mr. Moore, Mr. Cross, Mr. Thompson, Mr. Vander Ven, Edward Steiner, Glenwood Novess, Charlie Panarites, Harold Grove, and Nick Panarites.

It was moved and carried that Chelsea remain in the League this year. The new schedule was completed, except for the game with U. High, which may be arranged later.

The question then arose of the election of officers for the coming year. The following officers were elected: President, Mr. Darling of University High, Ann Arbor; vice-president, Mr. Fleming of Clinton High School. The secretary and treasurer will not be elected until the spring meeting in March.

President Walker awarded Mr. Drabinski, head coach of Milan, the trophy which his team had won on the gridiron this fall. He received many congratulations for a successful season. After further questions were discussed the meeting was adjourned.

That public confidence in big business, so necessary to prosperity, will never be restored until bond houses and banks are prosecuted for rigging the public with worthless securities.

That movies and magazines offered to the people of our community should be censored by village authorities.

That the best things to read in this time of depression are the 23rd Psalm and the Sermon on the Mount.

That the critics of our school would sing a different tune if they spent just one day visiting the school.

That the Student Congress should codify all the rules governing the personal conduct of students and post the list, assigning to someone the task of making revisions as changes occur.

The editor of The Sheeps will pay for each "thing we believe" submitted by a student and suitable for publication. (The school will supply the money.)

Kindlings From The Elementary Grades

Kindergarten.
The pupils of the kindergarten have made an attractive project in their sand table. Aside from that, they have been very busy with their rising sand.

Fourth Grade.
The fourth grade was the scene of a lively surprise, Wednesday before Thanksgiving, when the pupils gave their teacher a fruit shower. It seems that this little surprise was planned by Miss Yager one year ago while they were still third graders. What a long time to keep a secret! But they kept it to the letter and it was a secret surprise.

A sense of mystery seemed to pervade the air when Mrs. Steiner entered the room Wednesday noon before Thanksgiving, and at a given signal from Miss Yager in the hall, an avalanche of apples, oranges, and grape fruit came rolling down her desk, until she was literally surrounded.

not with mice, as was the Bishop of long ago in the Tower—but with large, luscious fruits for the Thanksgiving feast.

The fourth grade have incorporated a library reading period into their program. Reports are to be given on the books read sometime later when Miss Dancer can be present.

The girls and boys wish to thank Mrs. Combs for the cut flowers and plants which she has sent this room from time to time.

Now that Thanksgiving is over our thoughts turn to Christmas and the Elementary Operetta, "The Magic Gift."

In geography they are to study the lands from which the magic came.

They have some real sand from the Arabian desert, also some from the land of the pyramids in Egypt which is much different.

After examining the sand they can better understand why the desert is such a barren waste.

In Egypt the camels wear bells. They have one of these bells direct from Egypt, worn by an Egyptian camel.

Fifth Grade.
The following pupils in the fifth grade have their names on the spelling honor roll this week: Joan Walworth, Thomas Aldrich, Mary Jane Bahmiller, Ruth Walz, Maynard Osterle, Ethel Yeager, Russell Abdon, Eunice Hart, Donald Alexander, Jane Wilkinson, Delys Jahn and Gene Dward.

They are studying the southern states in geography and they are making a cotton exhibit. They have written to school children in one of the cotton belt cities to send them some cotton bolls to mount.

They have already started making Christmas gifts for their parents and along with the operetta they have a great deal to look forward to this month. The operetta, "The Magic Gift," is to be presented Friday evening, Dec. 16.

Ye Ol' Snooper's Column
Your ol' snooper is sho' hot on the trail of all the happenings in this high vicinity.

Dec. 8.—HAIL! HAIL! HAIL! The Shadow Speaks!!! Shivers and what haven't you will make up "A Night of Mystery" to be presented by the seniors. If you want to see some baffling acts—wo promise they'll be all of that and then some—make yourself present in the gym at eight thirty. Admission: 25c-15c.

Dec. 14.—From now on we'll all be singing "Masquerade." The why and so-forth is the fact that the Museum club is going to put forth an effort to give a "Museum Masquerade." The main attraction is the fact that there is to be no admission. Local talent will be used as an orchestra. The Museum will be open for inspection and we would appreciate any articles contributed to our collection.

Dec. 17.—Hurray—The Seniors are going to have another dance. We all remember the "swellish" time we had at the last one. There hasn't been any definite announcements made as to the orchestra but you can bank on the Seniors to pick a good one. (Don't fail us—will you Seniors??)

My time and energy is completely exhausted so I'll have to quit. I'll be seeing ya next week.

"MAYBE"

The butcher had read considerable about the "milk from contented cows" and wanting to keep up with the times he placed this sign in the window: "Sausage from pigs that died happy."

Teacher (in grammar class): Will you please tell me what it is when I say, "I love, you love, he loves."

Willie: "That's one of them triangles when somebody gets shot."

Number Tens

By ALICE C. MEYER-WING

MATTIE REYNOLDS took stock of her wardrobe: a half worn-out coat, a three-year-old flimsy blue silk and two print dresses, a wool sweater and one pair of shoes without holes in the soles. Nothing to wear anywhere. Certainly nothing to wear to a wedding. And Joe had just sold the calves for a hundred dollars.

What a lot of things a hundred dollars would buy. Oh, well, she knew when she married Joe Reynolds that this farm—
"But there's just one more payment after this, honey," he'd said when she acquiesced to a loan for the best room clothes. "Clothes? Why, girl, you always look dressed-up to me, and as for a rug—well, you just wait till the last payment is made. I'll hurt your eyes the way we'll doll up just one hundred more, and my girl'll have a home."

And now had come that invitation to Ernest's wedding. "And I haven't a thing to wear," she told Joe, "except that flimsy old silk—and I hate it, Joe."

But Joe was immovable. The payment must be made promptly. "And as for that wedding invitation—"
He didn't finish the sentence but Mattie knew the invitation hadn't interested her husband. Well, it interested her—and she'd go. It would be the last affair of any kind they would attend together. She'd endured this old, unkind farm as long as she could. One suitcase would hold every garment she possessed. Joe could have the dishes; their few pieces of furniture. She was sick of the whole mess.

But she would like to look nice at Ernest's wedding. Ernest had been fond of her in the old days. Well, there were those two five-dollar bills hidden away in the toolhouse. Joe was saving them for sending the small meadow. And there were four dollars and seventy cents she'd kept careful of the count—in her little bank, almost another five. Joe had been dear about dimes for her little bank—but too determined about business. Always business first, with Joe.

Fifteen dollars would buy that flowered satin dress she'd seen in the window of the village store, marked down from twelve-seventy-five, and shoes. The very best shoes in the store would cost less than five dollars. Here her glance rested upon Joe's best on the closet floor beside her own. Their bulk reminded her of something Ernest had said once, about Joe's "number tens" being in the way when her future husband had been slow to catch a figure in the square dance. She had resented the inferred comparison at the time. Ernest wore sevens.

Thoughtlessly, she picked up the big shoes beside her own small ones, idly turned them over. Why! There were holes in the soles. Joe's best, Joe would go stark naked to make those terrible payments. Well, let him. Let's see. Where was she? Yes, her dime bank money for shoes; the ten dollars for the satin dress. She would walk to the village.

She paused before the mirror in the store window. The fresh air had lent additional color to her cheeks, a bluer blue to her eyes—why, three years couldn't be an eternity. She was still young, and lovely—and there was the flower-budded dress. She felt a bit of civic pride as she looked at the store things in the windows. Like a shop in the city. Men's articles on one side. Women's on the other.

With her hand on the doorknob, she faced the men's window. Shoes. Well, what of it? Of course there would be men's shoes in the men's window. Except for one pair, all her own had holes in the soles. This stony country left its mark, and she and Joe—
But Joe hadn't even one pair without holes in the soles. These men's shoes in the window—the price screamed at her—were exactly four-seventy. Warm, thick-soled, dressy looking.

She was suffocating—too warm in the store. She would walk to the post office. Those shoes—she would look at the other window as she passed through the door.

She walked past the post office, turned and passed it again. On down to the blacksmith shop. Back again: Rosebuds. Men's shoes. Rosebuds. But she must hurry. She'd planned hot minutes for Joe's supper. She smiled, thinking of her husband's boyish liking for hot biscuits and his pride of her skill in making them. And how proud he was of—Haven't I? Why need she, at this moment, remember his pride in her economy? He must never know how she'd felt about these farm payments. It was for her he'd been so determined—
A house for his girl—comforting, protecting. She put her hand to her face, wet with tears.

A thousands loving little characteristics that were Joe came rushing through her mind. Good, genuine, big-footed Joe. Tears were streaming now. Thinking of Joe—and weeping. She liked men with big feet. It took a good foundation to build one. Joe was a builder. Her husband. She loved him.

She would press the old blue silk, put fresh lace in the neck. Joe had always told her how sweet she looked in blue. Blue like her eyes. But she must hurry.
Boldly, she re-entered the store and when she left it, she carried a single package under her arm: Men's shoes. Number tens.

Queer "Currency" in Use

in Country's Infancy

The product most extensively employed in the place of coined money, before this country had a coinage, was the tobacco of the southern colonies, especially of Virginia. For several years nearly all of the business of that colony, both domestic and foreign, was carried on by means of tobacco until the enormous production of the plant made restriction on its use as money necessary. Powder and bullets were also used as money throughout the colonies, in some of which the legal tender of bullets in payment was limited to a small number. In Massachusetts and among the New England colonies generally grain, fish and furs were in common use as means of exchange, and not only in the settlement of private debts but they were receivable for taxes as well. Wampum, which served the Indians in nearly all their business transactions, was early recognized in New England and valuations placed upon it from time to time by the General court.

How Sound Is Conveyed

in Whispering Gallery

A whispering gallery is a gallery or dome of an elliptical or circular form, of peculiar acoustic qualities, arranged to echo faint sounds between certain points. The sounds are conveyed around the interior wall so that they may be readily heard, though they are inaudible elsewhere in the interior. This is an elliptical chamber. If a person standing in one of the foci of the ellipse speaks in a whisper, he will be heard distinctly by a person standing in the other focus, though the same sound would not be audible at the same distance under any other circumstances, or at any other place in the chamber. There is a whispering gallery in the Capitol at Washington; one in St. Paul's cathedral, London; another in Gloucester cathedral, England, etc. The explanation of these and of various famous "echoes" is to be found in the laws of reflection of sound in physics.

CAMPAIGNS FOR PENNY SEALS

Mrs. Wilber M. Brucker, wife of the Governor, on a trip to Michigan State Senator in the interests of the 1932 tuberculosis seal sale found in this lovely child the picture behind the work done with children by the Michigan Tuberculosis Association.

Realizing that the future of the state rests first upon a disease-free youth, Mrs. Brucker urged the generous purchase of the tiny Christmas seal that the life saving work of fighting deadly tuberculosis in children may go on.

Tuberculosis

Tuberculosis robbed Michigan of more boys and girls last year than the next four most deadly diseases working together. Finding tuberculosis at an early age speeds recovery. Examination of 44,000 school children by means of the tuberculin test and X-ray has been placed at the top of the list of things to be done by the Michigan Tuberculosis Association with funds to be realized from the sale of penny Christmas seals. How many young lives can be saved depends entirely upon the generosity of the citizens of Michigan, since Christmas seal funds offer the one state-wide means of challenging childhood's greatest disease—tuberculosis.
