Happy New Year!

LET'S wish together! Let's overlook our little complaints, and let's be thankful for what we have and for what we intend having. Let's wish for each other's joy in this great season . . . and hope for each other's happiness in the coming year. It's easier this way, and more enjoyable.

All together then! A brighter, happier year!

Outlook Brighter for Farmers In Michigan

Bright spots in the forecast outlook for Michigan agriculture in 1939 are found by R. V. Gunn, Michigan State College economist.

Mixed in with a few warnings that some crops and prices may not be any more favorable than they have been, the outlook report which Gunn is preparing indicates a basis for moderate optimism for Michigan farmers.

Gunn expects reduced white pea bean acreages will put the price up above prices of the past two years.

As second largest potato producing state, Michigan stands to benefit from the indication that prices and income from potatoes should be higher in 1939 than in other recent years, especially 1937-1938.

Wheat is a sour note in the forecast medley. For even if acreage reductions occur the July 1 carryover is likely to be close to 300 million bushels, according to estimates of the U. S. D. A.

Dairying in Michigan and other states is showing a production volume starting in size; but a fairly favorable feed cost situation has left dairymen in better condition than in 1937. Gunn warns, however, that the increase in consumption is not keeping pace with production.

Poultry, a 45 million dollar industry in the state, seems to be preparing for expansion. However, favorable egg prices in the face of favorably low feed prices ought to continue through the first six months, Gunn thinks. Increased hatchings this next spring probably will bring more poultry marketing than in 1938.

Little change in fat beef prices are expected, more slaughter of lambs is probable. Pig numbers have been increasing because of favorable feed prices. Consumer demand is counted on to maintain wool and meat prices.

1938 Plates Good Until First of March, 1939

The present black and green license plates may be legally used on motor vehicles until March 1, 1939.

Prior to 1938, the statute governing registration of motor vehicles provided that the Secretary of State have authority to extend the deadline for the use of old plates to not later than March 1st, and this was usually done. Then the 1937 legislature, by resolution, still further extended the final date that year to April 1st.

The 1937 legislature amended this Act, fixing March 1st as the definite deadline for the use of old plates.

Reciprocity agreements with other states makes it possible for motorists to drive outside the state with their present plates until the deadline established by statute.

People who are expecting to purchase plates in the near future are asked to do so as soon as possible as waiting until the deadline causes the hiring of additional help and expense to the department.

JOHN GEORGE WACKENHUT
John George Wackenhut, a resident of Chelsea for about 80 years, died Tuesday evening, December 27, at his home on South Main St.

He was the son of George and Mary Wackenhut, and was born in Wurttemberg, Germany, January 2, 1851, coming to Chelsea with his parents when a small child. On March 9, 1875 he was married to Elizabeth Steinbach, who died in October, 1918.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Adolph Elsen of Detroit and Miss Lillie Wackenhut of Chelsea; three grandchildren and a great-grandchild.

Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at 2:30 at the residence. Rev. P. H. Grabowski will be assisted by Rev. A. A. Schenck of Dexter and Rev. James R. Lee of Detroit. Interment will be in Oak Grove cemetery.

FARM UNION NEWS

There will be another daytime session of Local 254 at Lina Center Grange hall on January 5, beginning with a pot-luck dinner at 11 o'clock. Please bring your dishes. This is an important meeting as there will be election of officers. The State President, Harry Atchison, will be there.

Inauguration Will Be Simple Affair

Lansing—With modest simplicity Frank Fitzgerald, the Grand Lodge country farmer, will again become governor of Michigan next Monday, January 2.

At Fitzgerald's request the inaugural ceremonies here will be democratic in spirit, devoid of pomp. Taking the oath of office also will be an all-Republican cabinet—Harry Kelly as secretary of state, Thomas Read as attorney general, Miller Dunckel as state treasurer, and Vernon J. Brown as auditor general. They will join Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, state superintendent of public instruction, to make the Michigan state leadership nearly 100 per cent G. O. P.

Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner, will become Michigan No. 1 Democrat. Van Wagoner was re-elected at the 1937 spring election for a four-year term that expires in 1941.

Legislature Meets Jan. 4
On January 4 the state legislature will convene for the biennial session.

Considerable interest has centered on the selection of speaker of the house of representatives, and this week it appeared virtually certain that Howard Nugent, Huron county farmer, will hold this key position. Although Rep. Maurice E. Post of Grand Rapids has the backing of the county supervisors headed by Melville B. McPherson, also of Kent county, the Kent county legislator has the incidental handicap, for such it is, of being from the same city in which Frank D. McKay is a republican leader.

Governor-elect Fitzgerald is reported as being firm in his decision to avoid any "compromising situation" with McKay. No matter what were the actual facts, the selection of Post for speaker would be interpreted widely as proof of McKay's power behind. (Continued on next page)

EDWARD S. SPAULDING

Edward S. Spaulding, life-long resident of Sylvan township, died Monday afternoon, December 26. He was the eldest son of Dennis A. and Elizabeth (Updike) Spaulding, and was born May 2, 1862. He was married Sept. 21, 1887 to Emma Everett, who died several years ago.

Surviving are two sons, Harold E. of Chelsea, and Walter L. of Ann Arbor; a brother, Warren Spaulding of Sylvan; four sisters, Mrs. W. S. Davidson of Chelsea; Mrs. Myrtle Everett of Grass Lake; Mrs. Hattie Fletcher of Mason; and Miss Bertha Spaulding of Sylvan; and three grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2:00 o'clock this afternoon at the Plankell funeral home, with Rev. W. W. Barber officiating. Interment will take place in Vermont cemetery, Sylvan township.

NIGHT AG SCHOOL STARTS WED.

Those who wish to join, and those who have joined the Night Ag school will meet in the agricultural room of the Chelsea high school next Wednesday evening, January 4 at 8 o'clock. The classes will be under the supervision of Roy Wallis, vocational agricultural instructor, and the subject of the discussion will be "Feeding of Farm Animals." The school will be held each Wednesday evening for about fifteen weeks.

Chelsea Gets Taste of Real Winter Weather

Chelsea and vicinity had a white Christmas as the result of the snow storm during the past week. The pavement was clear on Christmas day although the streets in town were slippery.

Snow began to fall on Monday afternoon and by five o'clock the highways were very icy and many cars skidded into the ditch. Several people were injured near the Cooper farm on US-12 when an eastbound car skidded into the path of a westbound car. During the night the wind began to blow and the thermometer dropped 20 degrees. By noon on Tuesday the wind had reached gale proportions and the roads were blocked with snow.

Road crews were at work trying to keep the roads open. Sanding was abandoned on US-12 as the wind blew it off the road. The local mail carriers were forced to travel several extra miles owing to the condition of some roads. Mr. Dietle made his complete trip, but Mr. Allshouse was unable to cover three miles on his route. The wind went down during the night, and by noon on Wednesday the roads were practically all open to traffic.

Thermometers registered several degrees above zero on Wednesday morning and the five degree below zero mark, which was forecast for Tuesday night, did not materialize.

Dealers Have Fishing Licenses for Next Year

Lansing—Michigan's approximately 2,200 hunting and fishing license dealers are now supplied with 1939 fishing licenses and fish law books.

Shipment of 900,000 of the new licenses has been underway this month, including 605,375 resident non-trout licenses and 155,600 resident fishing licenses, the one dollar permit. For non-residents, 102,650 of the temporary class, 45,000 annual and 50,640 permits for non-resident wives were shipped.

Fishermen will not find any major differences in the regulations for 1939 from those which prevailed during 1938.

A total of 1,300,000 licenses and digests were printed this year, the same amount as was obtained for the 1938 season. A reserve stock is being held to supply dealers who may exhaust their current allotments.

Licenses, of course, also are on sale at all conservation department headquarters.

MRS. WILLIAM G. LEWICK

Mrs. William G. Lewick, 76 years of age, died Monday night, December 26, of a heart attack at her home on Lincoln St.

Formerly Mary Elizabeth Stevenson, she was born August 25, 1862 in Roxeter, Canada, the daughter of John and Emily Stevenson.

She was married to Mr. Lewick on December 14, 1887 in Wellington, Kansas, and after a brief residence in that state they came to Chelsea, which has since been their home.

Besides the husband, Mrs. Lewick is survived by four daughters: Mrs. Reuben W. Sord of Sharon township, Mrs. Arlo Dwyer of Dundee, Mrs. Elmer Schaefer of Seio township, and Mrs. Homer L. Parks of Detroit; two sisters, Mrs. Hannah Smock of Ann Arbor and Mrs. Clara Hart of Detroit, and eight grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 10:30 this forenoon at the residence. Rev. Ray W. Barber will officiate and interment will be in Oak Grove cemetery.

P. O. BUSINESS INCREASES

Postmaster Withereff reports that business at the local postoffice was 25 or 30 per cent better than last year during the holiday season. In 1937 the office sold 12,000 cent and a half stamps; this year 20,700 stamps were sold. Thousands of 2 and 3 cent stamps were sold. The two big days at the office were December 19 and 20 when 15,454 pieces of mail were handled each day. Last week 30,677 letters were run through the cancelling machines. Clerks worked each evening after hours to sort the mail.

24 YEARS AGO

Thursday, December 31, 1914

Miss Rhonda Ortring and Nelson Peterson were married at the Salem German M. E. parsonage on Wednesday, December 30, 1914.

H. R. Schoenhals commenced filling his Chelsea ice house on Monday of this week. The ice was about 10 inches thick, clear and almost entirely free of snow.

The Michigan Central during the recent cold snap was obliged to place an extra force of men at work at the track water pans east of town to keep them free of ice.

Miss Elsie Dorothy Buehler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Buehler of Ann Arbor, died suddenly Monday night, December 23, 1914. Miss Buehler was a Chelsea resident for some time and was formerly employed in the office of the Flanders Mfg. Co.

Mrs. Willis Smalley died at her home on the Canfield farm on Friday, December 25, 1914.

34 YEARS AGO

Thursday, December 29, 1904

One of the worst wind storms that we have had in years was the one which prevailed in this section Tuesday and Wednesday. It penetrated to the innermost recesses of the warmest built houses and caused a consequent run upon the coal bins.

Theodore Buehler and Miss Margaret Forner were married on Saturday, December 24, 1904.

Adam Eppler had a fine display of meat at his market during the holiday season. Among the display were nine head of cattle, five of which were hung up in the whole carcasses, the balance hung up in halves. He also had over two tons of turkey, besides other fowl.

Michigan was the first state in the Union to organize a complete school system, reaching from the primary grade through the university.

OUR NEIGHBORS

BROOKLYN—The Hart & Howell Co. has taken over 4,000,000 pounds of popcorn since the new crop started coming to market in Brooklyn on Nov. 1. The corn had the best maturing season and is the finest quality ever received here. Most of the crop so far received was grown in this area of Michigan.—Exponent.

HOWELL—Mr. Dawson, district commercial superintendent of the Michigan Bell Telephone Company, announces the designation of Howell as headquarters for the New Howell Area, which will serve Fowlerville, Brighton, Pinckney, Mason and surrounding territory. The new area set-up comes in response to the demands in the increased volume of business of this territory.—County Press.

HOLLY—The widely known ox team, Amos and Andy, owned by Dave Howe who resides on M-37, and which had an active part in the celebration of Holly township's centennial anniversary last summer, were "taken for a ride" last Monday. They weighed in for beef on the Detroit market at over 4500 pounds. The team was 8 years of age.—Herald.

MASON—Sheriff's officers recovered a stolen car Thursday morning. It was found about five miles north of Mason on College road and had been parked there since Tuesday, shortly after it had been stolen from a Lansing street. The owner of the car is Hubert Foster, 219 East South street, Lansing, salesman for a tobacco company. The commercial car was loaded with cigarettes, cigars and other tobacco products. Only a few articles had been taken from the cargo. Officers believe that the thieves thought they were being followed and so abandoned their loot to make their escape. Mileage on the speedometer showed that the car had been driven only from Lansing to the location where it was found.—County News.

PINCKNEY—Thieves broke into the fur house of Leslie Sidell at Fowlerville some time Friday night and took 300 muskrat hides and 20 mink. The rats were tied together with wire in bundles of 25 each, Mr. Sidell having prepared them for shipment. This burglary is thought to be the work of an organized gang and many other such robberies have been reported in this section.—Dispatch.

CHILDREN IN COURT

Judge Malcolm Hatfield

Delinquent Children Are Often Emotionally Ill

Courts frequently discover that many children, sent to clinics for observation and treatment, are emotionally ill. An analysis of such children reveals that in many instances the emotional illness can be attributed directly to the parents. The seriousness of this problem can be realized after studying the results of a recent survey, which illustrated that from two to nine per cent of the city and the rural school population of a given state was made up of problem children. While the rate was highest in the large metropolitan areas, the rural schools possessed a per capita population which was approximately half as large as that found in the highly congested districts. Handicapped children are generally classified into mental and physical handicap categories. The mentally handicapped are usually considered to be either emotional, or retarded children. Many in this group are abnormal, possessing peculiar personality traits. Mentally retarded children are often feeble-minded and dull. Among the physically handicapped can be found the crippled, blind, deaf, etc., and also those suffering from tubercular and other chronic disorders.

Social workers and courts alike lament the fact that the medical world, outside the field of psychiatry, has practically ignored this important phase of research. Intensive investigation must be undertaken to determine the exact connection between both the mental and the physical elements which effect the lives of delinquent children, before lasting gains can be made.

Correctional institutions must work in closer harmony with the law enforcement as well as recreational agencies, and child welfare groups, before greater and more efficient services can be rendered to the individual delinquent. Such an intelligent future program of cooperation will uncover many of the deep rooted causes of maladjustment which are ignored by courts throughout the nation. It will also stress the fact that the first six or seven years of a child's life are the most important, for during that period the child lays the foundation for the habits, etc., that guide him during his entire future life.

WATERLOO

(Received too late for last week)

Mrs. Allan Hitchcock is detained in Chicago, where she is receiving treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. Emory Runciman, Wilma, Gerald and George Goodell were dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Winter on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Stanfield and children of Stockbridge and Mrs. Kate

Wals and daughter Alice of Jackson were Sunday visitors at the Arthur Wals home.

Mrs. Ed Schulz and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wahl attended a surprise party in honor of Mrs. Milton Bohne at Grass Lake on Thursday evening.

The Christmas program at the church on Saturday evening will begin at 8 o'clock sharp. There will be a play, songs and the usual numbers, also a candlelight service. Bring the children. The public is cordially invited.

NEW YEAR GREETINGS

When happy associations are passed they leave pleasant memories and as we look back over 1938 we have fond recollections of our associations with you. May the year bring us together often that we may serve you. That you will have health, wealth and happiness in the New Year is our wish.

Bible Facts

All book-lovers read the Bible for the beautiful, dignified English it contains, if for no deeper reason. Men who have made a very careful analysis of the Bible say that it contains 3,866,480 letters, 810,697 words, 31,175 verses, 1,189 chapters, and 66 books. The word "and" occurs no fewer than 40,627 times and the word "Lord" 1,588 times. Those who order their lives by the Bible could not choose a better set of practical instructions. The Book of Proverbs contains the sanest advice on behavior ever given to man. In the earlier books there are rules for eating and drinking, for sowing crops and the maintenance of bodily health. Historically, it is accurate; it contains a comprehensive list of the flora and fauna of Palestine and the surrounding countries, their merchandise and mineral products.

Quilts of Iron or Rope

Regular quilts are circles of iron rounded on top and flat on bottom. About 8 1/2 inches in diameter, they weigh nine pounds apiece. Circles of heavy rope are sometimes substituted for iron bands. The game quilts is the "stop-son" of discus throwing. It was originated by camp followers of Greek soldiers who, being poor, couldn't afford to buy discuses. Instead, they picked up horseshoes and bent them into circles. Lazy players didn't bother to bend their shoes, pitched them "as is." In the game of quilts, two pegs are placed 18 to 24 yards apart. The player stands near one peg, tries to throw his quilt on top of or near the other peg. He usually gets two points for a "ringer," one point for being closest to the peg.

Cologne Facts

Perhaps you know that the difference between eau de cologne and toilet water lies in the fact that while the latter is simply a mild rendition of perfume, cologne is an actual cooling agent. Fern, bergamot, orange blossom, lemon are mixed with alcohol in cologne to give that tingling sensation that cools the skin much the same way as menthol cools the palate. But the really distinguished eau de cologne has the added virtue of containing plenty of perfume essence besides, to give it character.

Tacoma, Mispronunciation

Tacoma is a mispronunciation of the common Puget Sound Indian word for snowy mountain—"Ta-koh-bed," according to an authority. It is the name applied to Mount Rainier, Mount Baker at Everett, Wash.; Mount Hood and Mount McLaughlin. Early settlers mistook it to be a specific name for Mount Rainier.

Aramaic Used by Christ:
Northern Syria Dialect

Jesus Christ was a Jew, and the language he spoke was the Aramaic, the dialect of northern Syria.

The Israelites were much in contact with Aramaean populations, and some words from that tongue became incorporated into the Hebrew at a very early date. At the time of Ezekiel, notes a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer, Aramaic had become the official language of both Judea and Assyria; that is, the language spoken at the courts.

After the fall of Samaria the Hebrew inhabitants of northern Israel were largely carried into captivity and their place was taken by colonists from Syria, who probably spoke Aramaic as their mother tongue. The fall of the Jewish kingdom hastened the decay of Hebrew as a spoken language—not that the captives forgot their own language, as is generally assumed, but after the return to Judea the Jews found themselves, a people few in number, among a large number of surrounding populations using the Aramaic tongue.

When the latest books of the Old Testament were written Hebrew, though still the language of literature, had been supplanted by Aramaic as the language of common life. From that time on the former tongue was the exclusive property of scholars, and has no history save that of a merely literary language.

Viola Came Into Use in

The Fifteenth Century
Older than the violin, the viola family came into existence in the Fifteenth century. However, it passed out of general use almost 300 years later. The viola differed from the violin by having deeper ribs and a flat back, which sloped at the top. Its shoulders curved upward, thus joining the neck at a tangent, instead of at right angles. The "chest of viola" contained three sizes—bass (viola da gamba), tenor (viola da braccio) and the treble.

To this group must be added subsidiary types—the double-bass viola, viola bastarda (baltone) and the viola d'amore.

Our modern viola developed from the viola da braccio, and, as the Italian name implies, was held by the arm. It had six strings, but in the Eighteenth century the lowest was discarded. To Gasparo Bertolotti (1540-1609) better identified with the place of his birth, da Salo, belongs the credit for perfecting our four-stringed viola, tuned like a violin, but a fifth lower in pitch. Our viola is a seventh larger than the violin, but earlier examples were both larger and smaller, observes an authority in the Chicago Daily News.

In the days of Bach the viola da gamba was popular. He wrote three sonatas for it and he uses two of them in his sixth Brandenburg concerto. Of the secondary group, the viola d'amore, having sympathetic strings, has never become wholly archaic. Berlioz praised its tone quality, and Meyerbeer included it in an aria in "Les Huguenots."

Gray Thrush Flies High:

Solitaire Lofty Dweller
In the high mountains of the western states, where the Douglas fir grows far apart on the sides of the broken granite slopes, a gray bird flies quietly through the scattering woods and alights on the upturned roots of a fallen tree. After a few minutes it descends its perch to catch an insect in mid-air, much as do the bluebirds of the plains below. It is a Townsend's solitaire, a bird reclusive of the mountain solitudes, writes Ruth Wheeler in Nature magazine.

The solitaire is a thrush and one of the loftiest dwellers of all the thrush family. There is an air of mystery about these birds that fit snugly and unobtrusively through the mountain forests. They never go in flocks but seem to live to themselves, satisfied with the vast expanse of the upper world that is their kingdom.

Just as wild and full of romance as the region in which he lives is the song of the solitaire. He usually pours out his melody in a clear, rippling, penetrating warble from the summit of a high stub. This full, free song is the very spirit of the forest, the granite crags, and the tumbling mountain streams.

Monument to Camel Driver
In the desert badlands near Quartzsite, Ariz., stands a monument of colored quartz and petrified wood inscribed to "Hi Jolly." And thereby hangs a story from a curious chapter in the history of the U. S. army. Many years ago, when the army was active in western expansion, someone was inspired to start a camel corps for patrolling the desert. Seventy-four Arabian camels and one Syrian camel driver named Hadji Ali were imported.

Though the idea at first seemed sheer inspiration, it failed for several reasons, the two chief ones being that the camels developed sore feet from sharp stones in the "badlands" and that prospectors mistook the strange beasts for apparitions and continually sniped at them.

Eventually the camels were released to wander in the desert. Hadji Ali, whose name became Americanized into Hi Jolly, remained in the desert with the memory of his departed camels. Thirty-three years after his death, the monument was erected by the state of Arizona.

Leyden in Holland
Because of its famous university, Leyden is often called "the Northern Athens." Its ethnological museum is one of the finest in the world, and the streets ramble in all directions as they follow the Rhine. Ancient and modern gabled houses are at every turn, in Dutch Renaissance style. Of historical interest is its sixteenth-century town hall and the haunts of the Pilgrim fathers who worshipped in St. Peter's church. The carillon chimes among the loveliest in Holland. Goldsmith, John Evelyn and Sir Thomas Browne were once students in the university. Also Grotius, Arminius, Scaliger and Descartes. The university was founded by William of Orange in 1572.

Why Fuss Is Good Jumper
We all know how well puss jumps. She is helped in this by having countless stalked oval touch-organs on the stomach lining that communicate with the nerve supply of the intestines and loins. These, states a writer in London Tit-Bits Magazine, are called the Plicata bodies; and they are so small that, although there are 600 of them on the palm of the human hand, thousands of people live and die ignorant of their existence. But everybody knows how sensitive the palm of the hand is. And our pet always manages to fall on her feet, when she drops from any height. She does this deliberately, aided by her peculiar internal arrangements.

JERUSALEM SCHOOL NEWS

The school month of December closed for the Jerusalem school on December 22. It will reopen January 8. The following were neither absent nor tardy during the month: Lois Schlosser, Joyce Hoffman, Wilma Koenigter, Joyce Elsemann, Norman, Robert and Carl Koch.

We were busy during the month, getting ready for the Christmas program, making presents for our parents, and finishing our regular work. For our parents we made vases, painted flowers, made poinsettias, pin-cushions, pen wipers, blotter sets, and ornamental Christmas trees.

We also made Christmas scenes for our Art work. We had our windows decorated with candles and angels. We had the scene of the first Christmas in our sand box.

For our picture study this month we all studied "The Madonna of the Chair." We all liked this picture.

For penmanship we had a test and put our best papers in a booklet.

The beginners made a little sample booklet of their seatwork for December. The second grade also made a booklet of their month's seatwork.

We have all been studying Michigan. The sixth grade have been working on our chapbook. We will continue this study after Christmas.

The fourth grade will be ready to study the Mediterranean lands after Christmas.

The seventh grade have added several pictures to their Colonial book. They took their county tests December 1, and in general did well.

We enjoyed listening to Miss Colledge over the radio Dec. 2, when she presented our music appreciation work. We have the records and will enjoy listening to them again.

Miss Haas and Mrs. Robinson were at our school Dec. 18 and 19 to give the achievement tests. We found out that the 2nd grade did very well. We will find out about the rest after our teacher goes to the teachers' meeting Jan. 11 at the Freer school.

The president of our Civic Health club for January is Robert Trinkle and the secretary, Lois Schlosser.

Lois Schlosser, News Committee.

Pitcher Plant Drowns Victims
The greenish purple leaves of the pitcher plant form a jar or trumpet, half-filled with sweetish secretion in which to drown its victims. Curved hooks and sensitive hairs, lining the sides of the death house bend down easily to permit entrance but forbid an exit. In the golden pitcher of the Darlingtonia Californica found on the West coast is room enough and liquid enough to drown not only small birds but field mice as well.

The pitcher plants are members of the Sarracenia family and succeed well under cultivation. Jack-in-the-Pulpit is a member of the pitcher family.

Most Legible Colors
Although most of the printing and writing of the world is done in black and white, this combination of "color" is sixth in legibility among such combinations. The most legible colors are black words on yellow surfaces, declares a writer in Pearson's London Weekly. These are the easiest to see under ordinary illumination. Next in order comes green on white, red on white, blue on white, white on blue, and black on white.

Home

A Little things come home at evening, like birds that weary of their roaming.

What a true picture these words paint! And how familiar! Perhaps this true picture explains their universal appeal, for men everywhere love the thought of home. Sometimes it is the home they have known in childhood; again it may be one they are enjoying now. Or it may be an ideal which they yearningly hope to attain.

But whatever may be the case, home symbolizes shelter, comfort, joy, contentment, rest, companionship, a place where one is understood, loved, encouraged. These things are legitimate. Yet today there are many who seem homeless or unhappily situated.

"Whither shall I go from thence?" and "with what shall I be clothed?" are utterances of one who had at least glimpsed the spiritual aspect of home. He had also seen somewhat of the nature of man—the man whom the Scriptures depict as made "in the image of God"—and so he could say (Psalm 137: 1), "Lord, thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations."

The Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, Mary Baker Eddy, realized that God can only be imagined forth by that which possesses the nature of God. Therefore, man, made in God's likeness, is not a material mortal, but a spiritual idea. In her "Miscellaneous Writings," Mrs. Eddy makes this very clear. She writes (p. 186): "We learn, from the Scriptures, as to divine Science, that God made all; that He is the universal Father and Mother of man; that God is divine Love; that the divine Love is the divine Principle; the divine idea named man; in other words, the spiritual Principle of spiritual man. Now let us not lose this Science of man, but find it clearly, then we shall see that man cannot be separated from his perfect Principle, God, inasmuch as an idea cannot be torn apart from its fundamental basis."

A young woman who had always loved her home found after her childhood home no longer existed, that some of her happiest moments were those spent in the home of her friends. The home atmosphere seemed to make her thought expand. It brought her rest and satisfaction. As she analyzed her thoughts, she began more earnestly than ever to desire a home and to appreciate all the evidences of home she had ever had.

Then suddenly she awakened to the fact that since man is always in the presence of God, his Father-Mother, man is always at home. Joyfully she began to declare this truth for herself wherever she was—in her room, at her office, or elsewhere. She commenced to see that this same truth was true about all of God's sons and daughters; that as she consciously acknowledged this fact everyone who came to her must feel the joy and peace of being at home. It was not long before this young woman was sharing an apartment with a friend and experiencing to a greater degree the blessing of being at home.

These comforting passages point to the fact that since God, our Father-Mother, includes all the good there is or ever can be, we need not fear that we shall lose anything precious if we acknowledge love and adopt the spiritual concept of home. Nor can we fear that this home will not be progressively beautiful. Indeed, we shall be opening our eyes to behold and experience more of the glories of earth and heaven.

As we discern that man can never be separated from God, we realize that man can never be separated from home. All the good which we express anywhere is evidence of our consciousness of God's presence. Good, then, is not personal, limited, or restricted. Real home is not liable to be broken for material relationship to God is God sustained. Home cannot be lost; it is as ever present as God Himself. It cannot become drab or uninteresting; it is illumined with the radiance of love, filled with the ideal of Truth. Home cannot lack tenderness, companionship, joy, or any other good, for divine love is always imparting its own tender, joyous qualities. And man is always in the company of God's witnesses. Surely we need not be fearful about our home, for we can always lift our thoughts to accept the home God knows and receive the blessing He promises (Isaiah 65: 8): "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on thee: because he trusteth in thee."—The Christian Science Monitor.

Gem of Gems' Name Given

Precious Ruby by Hindus

"Gem of gems" is the name given to the ruby by the Hindus, who prize it above all other precious stones. It is said to bring to its wearer health, wealth, wisdom and happiness, and is the emblem of true love. It has been said that he who possesses a flawless ruby dwells without fear in the midst of his enemies. The ruby is spoken of in the "Laydair's Gems," where it is called the most precious of the 12 stones God created, when He created all creatures.

"The ruby," called the lord of gems, the highly prized, the dearly loved ruby, so fair with its gay color." By the Lord's command the ruby was placed on Aaron's neck. The many talismanic virtues of the ruby are noted in the Fourteenth century treatise on gems attributed to Sir John Mandeville. Here the fortunate owner of a brilliant ruby is assured that he will live in peace and concord with all men, that neither his land nor his rank will be taken from him, and that he will be preserved from all perils.

NEW YEAR on WHEELS

By Helen Morton

JUST one more mountain range to cross," Mac said to his sister, Josephine, as they got into their car one clear bright morning. They had been traveling forever, it seemed to her. They wanted to reach California and restore Mac to health.

"If we can start the New Year on the coast, everything will be all right," Josephine had told her brother, and she really seemed to have a superstitious feeling that if Mac was to get well, they must accomplish their trip by that time.

"Stiff wind blowing through here," Mac exclaimed, drawing his scarf more closely about his throat as they approached a grade.

"Mountain Springs grade," Josephine told him. "I hope the wind doesn't mean a storm. This is the last day of the old year."

They hadn't climbed far, however, before they knew they were in for it.

Josephine, at the wheel while Mac rested from his morning of driving, had to grip the wheel with fierce intensity. The car was climbing with difficulty. The snow was blurring the windshield.

"We've got to make the coast," Josephine was muttering to herself, when she realized that Mac had

"Here's luck," she said. "A house—the first I've seen in an hour."

wakened from his restless sleep. Abruptly she became animated, alert. "It's lovely and woodsy around here," she exclaimed.

"Awfully narrow road," Mac rejoined. "Are you sure you're on the highway?"

"I'm not sure of anything," Josephine replied. "Do you think we'd better stop and inquire?"

"I sure do," Mac agreed emphatically. "Your gasoline gauge isn't any too encouraging. We don't want to be stalled in this blizzard."

"You're getting tired, too, I know. I didn't count on this storm when I suggested stopping early yesterday. Here's luck," she interrupted herself. "A house right here, the first I've seen in an hour. I'll pop in."

She was back in a few moments with a uniformed figure in a big slouch hat and high leather boots. "Mac, I'm miles off the highway. I've been following the trail of Mr. Boseman's car. Oh, this is Mr. Boseman, a border patrolman, and this is my brother, Mac Silver. Mr. Boseman lives in this house here. He wants us to stop with him until the storm is over," Josephine explained, looking troubled.

"See here, Mr. Silver, I have plenty of room, and it will be a job trying to make the nearest town in this storm. In the morning I'll pilot you back to the highway and on to the coast." The young patrolman was very much in earnest. His eyes wandered from Mac to Josephine.

There really was no choice. Nothing ever tasted so good as the best stew that was simmering on the back of the Wood stove.

It was hard sledding next morning, getting through the drifts to the highway. But from then on it was only a matter of a few hours until they were descending the mountain.

It was after a hearty lunch together in a rustic tearoom that Jerry Boseman got up to leave them. "No, not good-bye. I don't mean to let this be the end of our acquaintance. It's only the beginning," he insisted, looking at Josephine. "Here's hoping this New Year will mean a lot to you."

"New Year! Sure enough, and I forgot all about it," Josephine exclaimed. "And we are in California for it. Thanks to you, Mr. Boseman. Here's wishing you all the happiness in the world!"

"I know where that is to be found," he said, as he looked into her eyes.

WASSAIL BOWL!

English made it from this recipe years ago—and it's still a good one!

A WARNING
One Drink May Lead to Another,
So Be Careful New Year's Eve!

Here's a graphic warning about your New Year's Eve celebration. Congenial drinks have a habit of following each other in insidious succession.

It's bad enough to risk your own life by driving after drinking, but how about the other lives that are thereby endangered? Gasoline and liquor don't mix!

Disaster stalks the highways each New Year's Eve because of drinking drivers. Won't you do your part to combat this needless slaughter? If you must drink, leave your car at home or let some one else do the driving!

He Tries, Anyway! New Year's Eve Needn't Be Wild, Says Ex-Fighter

WASHINGTON.—Each year since 1911 J. W. Hunsfeld has donned his special red necktie and waited to the White House, hoping to shake hands with the President. He was successful until 1933 when President Hoover left town for the day. The next year President Roosevelt abandoned the New Year's handshaking altogether and Hunsfeld hasn't seen the inside of the White House since. Here he is shown barred by the White House gates, still hoping that President Roosevelt will change his mind.

New Year's Eve Revelry Dates Back to Romans

Who Really Celebrated?

New Year's eve may be a Roman holiday to Americans but it's nothing like the celebration tendered the new year by Romans themselves in the days of Caesar.

Long before the wassail bowl became an English institution and $5 floor show seats were invented, the hardy Romans of a past age were forced to pay even higher stakes to watch the old man with the scythe go into retirement.

It started as a celebration of the winter solstice. In old Rome it was Saturnalia, even as now. Then Caesar changed the calendar and delayed the opening of the new year a few days until the first of the month honoring Janus. He was a two-faced god who looked both forward and back.

In Rome during the empire the heads of the state exacted presents at New Year's. They got so greedy that Claudius finally set up a schedule to make it legal.

Everybody's heard about the old English wassail bowl, but how many know how it's made? Here's a well-loved recipe, unchanged from the way its author prepared it years ago.

"Simmer a small quantity of the following spices in a teacup of water—cardamoms, cloves, nutmeg, mace, ginger, cinnamon and coriander. When done, put the spice to two, four or six bottles of port, sherry, or madeira, with one and one-half pounds of fine loaf sugar (pounded) to four bottles, and set all on the fire in a clean big sauce-pan; meanwhile have yolks of 12 and whites of 8 eggs well whisked up in it. Then, when the spiced and sugared wine is a little warm, take out one teacup, and so on for three or four cups; after which, when it boils, add the whole of the remaining, pouring it in gradually, and stirring it briskly all the time, so as to froth it. The moment a fine froth is obtained, toss in 12 fine soft roasted apples, and send it up hot."

NEW OUTLOOK

By Gregg Alexander

"A glorious New Year's day; isn't it?" the young man asked.

Molly aroused herself. She had noticed this attractive young man on the boat, of course. Molly had avoided him, however. If she hadn't been so absorbed with her own gloomy thoughts, he wouldn't have gotten near enough to speak.

"Yes, it is," she replied coldly. But as she looked up into his merry face, her own sad countenance thawed.

"Gee, but you are swell looking when you smile," he blurted out. "I've been wondering how you'd look with a smile on that pretty face."

Molly couldn't help but laugh. He sounded like a child. Then she grew sober.

"If you knew what makes me sad: my eyesight going, my fiancé deciding he didn't want a blind wife," she started. But Jack stopped her.

A NEW YEAR STORY

"Start the New Year thinking of what you have, not pitying yourself. You have money to travel."

"Surely. Money!" Molly agreed disgustedly.

"More than ordinary good looks. Education, I should judge. A fair amount of charm. I can't judge that accurately, for you've kept it shut off." His tone was so droll that Molly had to laugh.

"Well, you do paint rather a strong picture, Mr. Pollyanna. You have your fair share of charm and good looks too," she responded, with a provocative smile.

"Stop it, stop it!" Jack pleaded in mock alarm. "Turn it off, turn off the charm. I'm too susceptible."

"All right. Since you had the courage to tackle the glummiest girl on board ship, maybe I'd better try making myself agreeable." Molly was still smiling, but there was a look of determination on her face.

"Sure thing. Be a good sport. Take life as it comes."

A trace of bitterness returned to Molly's tone as she said: "It's easy for you to talk, with health and good looks and everything to make life easy."

Jack laughed. "Lots you know about it. They told me five months ago I had six months to live. But I'm showing them they're mistaken. Aren't your eyes better?"

Molly looked at him in astonishment. "You mean—really? And you so full of fun all the time? Oh, my eyes, you say. Yes, they really are better."

"I was sure of it. Well, I'm off to see the mate. His wife wants him to give up the sea and settle down on land. The idea is driving him nuts. So long, I'll be seeing you. Good luck, and Happy New Year!"

It's Open Season For Resolutions; Made Yours Yet?

CHICAGO.—It's again time for New Year's resolutions and psychologists have something to say about it.

"Humbly," is the comment of Dr. Robert N. McMurray, executive secretary of the Chicago Psychological corporation.

"He's wrong," answers Dr. George W. Crane, noted psychologist with Northwestern university.

Although most scientists admit the average resolution lives no longer than a May fly, they claim this old American habit does have merit. Dr. McMurray sees no more logic in using the first day of January for making resolutions than in the old southern custom of shooting off fireworks at Christmas, but he admits that people most meticulous about their obligations are more likely to keep New Year's promises.

"A good resolution," he says, "becomes a compromise solution to the conscience conflict. The man who makes one says to himself, 'I will make a resolution not to do this or that which I should not during the forthcoming year.' Although it's not the same as refraining from such actions, it does have some value in quieting the conscience's reproaches."

But Dr. Crane is more hopeful. "It is wise to make resolutions," he says, "since the first step in progress of any sort consists of formulating the plans."

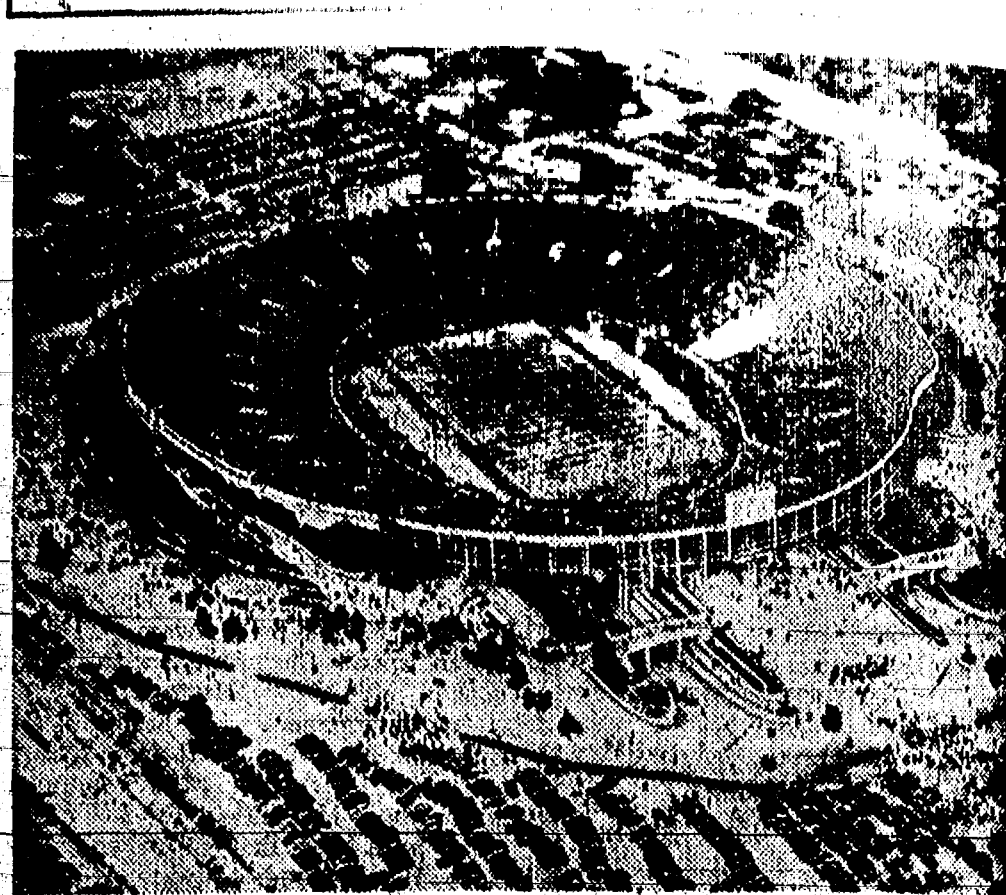

For those without sins to expiate, he suggests the following ideas: "Pay a sincere compliment to your wife or husband, your children or neighbors."

"Don't wait for death to tear the selfishness from your eyes, after which, in remorse, you heap extra bouquets on the coffin."

"Resolve now to pay at least three sincere compliments every day in 1939."

BOWL BUSINESS . . .

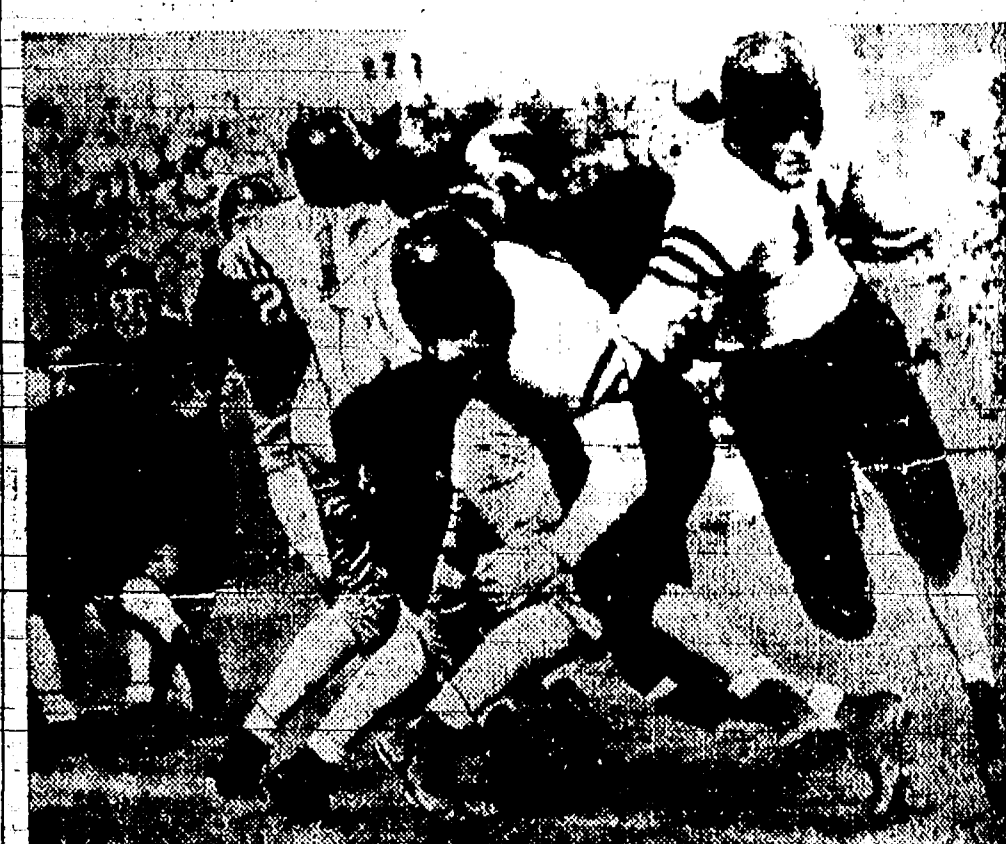

Football's biggest event comes on New Year's Day in this modern world. Bowls of all flavors attract several hundred thousand spectators. Here are last year's bowl games, where huge crowds gather again this New Year's Day.

Oldest of the New Year games, Pasadena's Rose Bowl dates back to 1916. Last year it attracted 90,000 spectators who watched California defeat Alabama by a score of 13-0. Above is an aerial view of the 1938 crowd. The spectacular tournament of roses always precedes the game, featuring a parade of colorful floats down Pasadena's tropical boulevards.

Shriners sponsor the annual East-West all-star game at San Francisco each New Year's day, an event that drew 65,000 football fans last year at Kezar stadium. The game ended in a scoreless tie. Brilliant pageantry featured the between-halves period.

At Miami, Fla., 18,000 attended last year's annual Orange Bowl game where Auburn defeated Michigan State 6-0. Halfback Sits (No. 11) carried the ball for many of Auburn's gains. The Orange Bowl is fast becoming a major attraction.

Santa Clara beat Louisiana State 6-0 at the New Orleans Sugar Bowl last year. Two other "bowls" attracted attention. At Dallas Cotton Bowl Rice beat Colorado 28-14 before 37,000 fans, and at El Paso a crowd of 15,000 watched West Virginia nose out Texas Tech, 7-6. Truly, "bowl business" is becoming "big business," and one of the most outstanding sports attractions.

Stone Age Safety Pins
Many housewives have blessed that simple yet ingenious boon the common safety pin. It was invented early in the last century. But was it?
Actually, says London Tit-Bits magazine, it was re-invented for research in the earthworks of prehistoric peoples has brought to light the modern safety pin whose usefulness had to disappear for thousands of years before the same idea occurred again to another human brain.

July Once Fifth Month
July, now the seventh month of the year, was the fifth month during the Roman empire. The month was named in honor of Julius Caesar, who was born in it.

Mule Progeny of Female Horses
A mule is the progeny of a female horse, or mare, and a male or "Jack" ass. The asses used for this purpose are of the large Spanish or French breeds. But mules themselves cannot breed. For certain work mules are better than horses.
For their size, they are stronger,
freer from disease, and less costly to feed.

Word 'Bank' From Italy
We get the word "bank" from Italy, where the word "banco" was used to denote a tradesman's counter, and so to a money-changer's bench or table. From this it is believed we also got "bankrupt."
When a money-lender was unable to carry on his business his bench was broken up, and the "himself" was spoken of as a "bancorotta," which came into our language as "bankrupt."

METHODIST HOME

On Wednesday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Lawrence of North Adams called on their cousin, Miss Ostrander, and brought her Christmas gifts. They also called on Miss Colby.

On Friday, Miss Leeman's visitors were Mrs. J. C. Leeman and son, John C., Jr., and her granddaughter, Valerie; also Mrs. Ella Dutler, all of Sharon; Mrs. Nettie Maute and daughter, Miss Esther, from Francisco; and Fred A. Lehman of Manchester. On Saturday, Jacob Lehman of Chelsea called, and on Monday she was visited by her brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Leeman of Sharon. Miss Leeman was deeply shocked and grieved by the news of the sudden death of her older sister, living in Albion.

Mr. and Mrs. George Shepard of Detroit visited their mother, Mrs.
Vollette, on Wednesday.

Miss Garvin spent Christmas very happily with her relatives in Ann Arbor.

On Saturday afternoon Mrs. Mary Fittler of Dexter called on Miss Gage and Miss Colby.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sheppard of Ypsilanti called on Miss Switzer on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hiser of Dunder and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hiser of Ann Arbor called on Mrs. Elliott on Monday. It was their twelfth consecutive Christmas season visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Myers of Mt.
Clemens left for home Monday afternoon, having had a happy visit of several days with their aunt, Miss Elm-
ing. They seem to like the Home, which suits us very nicely.

On Saturday Mrs. Russ and daughter from Detroit and Mrs. Charney from Ann Arbor called on our Mrs.
Russ.

Howard Chapin of Ypsilanti visited his mother, Mrs. Chapin, on Saturday and was the dinner guest of the Home.

Mrs. M. L. Lewis of Ypsilanti and Miss Alice Day of Detroit visited Miss Harris on Monday. The brought a bountiful dinner, but they arrived just after Miss Harris had eaten her dinner. In consequence she called in
help from the neighbors at supper time,
and everything was well cared
for.

On Monday, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Kloeffler of Mt. Clemens and Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Kloeffler of Armada visited
Mrs. Westbrook and brought a fine
Christmas dinner.

Mrs. Robby's Monday callers were three generations of cousins from Williamston.

Our Christmas dinner on Sunday was a grand success. The turkey was tender and perfectly cooked and everything was delicious. But what gave the greatest satisfaction was the card at each plate bearing a beautiful photograph of Barbara Leeson in a most characteristic pose and with her inexpressible joyous smile.

Nurse Koyle returned Monday evening from spending a few days in Jackson with her children and grandchildren. She reports an exceedingly happy visit.

On Monday evening the Home family had a very cheery Christmas celebration. Hymns were sung and poems read, and Rev. John Bunney of Manchester gave us an interesting talk on his recent visit to England; he spoke of his calling on the ninety-nine year old sister of the late Dr. Bray, Mrs.
Bennett's aunt, and her very attractive personality. Packages sent out by the Central M. E. church in Detroit were distributed, also the calen-ders sent us each year by Mr. and Mrs. L. B. York, for which we always

ner. In consequence she called in
help from the neighbors at supper time,
and everything was well cared
for.
