HOLLY—Rehearsals have started for the annual Michigan Music Festival at Detroit, to be held on Sunday, May 26, in the state fair coliseum. Again the public will hear 150 pianos, furnished annually by the Grinnell Bros. factory of this village. In addition to the pianos, this year's festival will feature a 300 string-instrument ensemble, under the baton of Arthur Luck, of the Detroit Symphony orchestra.—Herald.

HOWELL—Mr. and Mrs. Al Vogel and two daughters, Virginia and Janet, of Escanaba, are expected Saturday at the home of Mrs. Vogel's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Crandall, where they will spend a couple of weeks. Mr. Vogel, who has a nursery here, plans to set out some 10,000 trees, mostly evergreens, during his stay here.—County Press.

PLYMOUTH—Plymouth property owners will experience a relief in their tax burden during 1940-41, it has been revealed following a report of the budget committee to the city commission. The new tax rate is 80 cents less per one thousand dollars assessed valuation than it was last year, being cut from $13.30 to $12.50.—Mail.

DEXTER—The Michigan Central depot at Dexter apparently was the object of an attempted breaking and entering some time Monday night. When Ira Ott, station agent, came to work Tuesday morning he found a window broken out. On investigating inside the building nothing appeared to be missing.—Leader.

Question And Answer Dept.

Problem—What kind of dogs never had any fleas? (Answer elsewhere in this department).

Ques—What causes quicksand? Is it alarmingly dangerous?

Ans—Quicksand is a deep bed of sand on the sea shore or in a river bed, which is completely covered with and saturated with water, especially if there is a spring of water seeping upward through it. Very few of these are ever found outside of novels and other stories of fiction.

Ques—Why do moth balls get smaller and finally disappear when put away with clothes?

Ans—Moth balls really evaporate just as water does out of an open pan. The chemical from which the moth balls are made is one of the substances which can evaporate directly from the solid state without having to pass through a liquid one.

Ques—Are there any unconscious influences which we cannot make conscious even if we try?

Ans—Yes, according to modern psychologists. For instance, some people have an unreasonable but very strong objection to cats, or an instinctive fear of having cats around them. Psychologists explain this as the result of some fright in childhood. Cats are common household pets, and sometimes the cat scares the baby. The incident is soon forgotten, even by the baby. But its effect persists, say the psychologists, in the unconscious part of the baby's mind, and often grows with it to maturity.

Answer to problem—Hot dogs never have fleas.

Ques—Who were the all-time champion home-run hitters respectively in the National and American Leagues?

Ans—Mel Ott of the New York Giants, with 342 home runs; and Lou Gehrig of the New York Yankees, with 494 home runs.

Ques—Grandpa would like to know on what day of the week he was born. The date was June 4, 1864. Also, Grandpa's was Sept. 1, 1857. Thank you.

Ans—Both dates given above occurred on the holy day. Hence your Grandpa and Grandma were both born on Sunday.

Ques—What is asphalt made of? And where is it manufactured?

Ans—Asphalt is not manufactured; it is a bituminous mineral substance found more or less pure in some localities. The pitch lake of Trinidad and the Bermudez lake at the mouth of the Orinoco in Venezuela are the largest known deposits of moderately pure asphalt. However, smaller amounts of high grade occur in Utah, Cuba and the Barbadoes.

Ques—Do English sparrows interfere in any way with our migratory birds?

Ans—Yes. The English sparrow is a very hardy bird that can withstand the rigors of sub-zero weather equally as well as the blistering heat of Summer. However, they are a terrifying menace to all migratory song birds that come north to nest and rear their young.

Ques—Is Benjamin Franklin's name in the Hall of Fame for Great Americans?

Ans—Yes. Benjamin Franklin's name was chosen in the year 1900.

Children In Court

By Judge Malcolm Hatfield

Laughing Tobacco

A court was recently forced to commit a fifteen year old marihuana and liquor addict to the state hospital for the insane. While no definite proof exists that the use of this drug caused his insanity, the court was assured by relatives that, during the periods this boy was under the influence of marihuana and liquor, he was exceedingly dangerous.

Marihuana is frequently referred to as "reefer" or "laughing tobacco." Its use by one of its victims in another instance resulted in a serious automobile accident in which a nineteen year old boy was killed. As marihuana is usually peddled by dope fiends, adolescent boys and girls are forced to contact the underworld to procure it. Case after case has been revealed where youngsters have been induced to use cocaine, heroin and other drugs by individuals who first taught them the use of marihuana.

Junk Dealers Encourage Crime
Five boys stood in court and confessed that they had stolen several hundred dollars worth of brass from various manufacturing plants and from city property. They had destroyed two electric traffic signal lights so as to secure a few pounds of saleable brass.

It was revealed, during the course of the trial, that the brass had been sold to several junk dealers. When the boys were confronted by the junk dealers, they readily admitted that they would not have stolen the traffic lights if it had not been possible to dispose of the brass they contained.

The indignant parents of the boys, as well as the city officials and the representatives of the defrauded manufacturing firms, immediately joined forces in demanding that the junk dealers be prosecuted.

OLDS USED CAR SALES UP
March sales of used cars by Oldsmobile dealers throughout the United States totaled 48,558 units, making that month the best since July 1937, according to D. E. Ralston, general sales manager of Oldsmobile.

"This record is particularly noteworthy," said Ralston, "in that March, in many sections of the nation, finds winter weather still much in evidence and is normally considered as being only an average month for used car sales."

It is, however, indicative of the marked improvement in sales of both new and used cars being reported by Oldsmobile's dealer body," he added.

Drivers' License Exam Forms Are Simplified

Modified examination forms were being headed applicants for drivers' licenses throughout the state this week.

New examination sheets together with a revised chart of traffic signals had been distributed by the safety and traffic division of the Michigan State Police with instructions to all stations to place them into immediate use.

"Cribbing" is made difficult through use of the new blanks. Since examinations have been required, one blank has been handed out for written examination answers. A glimpse at the applicant's paper at the adjoining table might have occasionally helped in the past but hereafter his blank will be different from his neighbor's. In fact, the new set consists of six different sets.

Instead of seeking to trip the applicant and make his appearance before examiners more involved, Capt. C. J. Scavarda of the state police says the new blanks are simplified and will speed up the required tests.

"The examinations are designed to require only sufficient knowledge of traffic laws and regulations to assure us that the applicant will make a reasonably safe driver," Captain Scavarda said. "Our new form discloses the information we want through use of simple questions. The new test charts places needed emphasis on matters of safety which experience has shown too hazy in the minds of most applicants."

The new chart for the first time touches the matter of traffic regulations as they concern the blind pedestrian with a white cane. In other respects, the chart touches on pedestrian safety.

Familiarity with the pamphlet "What Every Driver Must Know," distributed by the secretary of state with each notice of expiration of driving license, remains the requirement of satisfactorily passing the examination for license renewal. This booklet highlights Michigan's safety and traffic laws.

"A survey of 1939 statistics on drivers' examinations showed that 53 per cent of those who failed on their appearance for an examination successfully passed after a brief study of 'What Every Driver Must Know' on their second appearance before the examiner," Captain Scavarda said.

"Approximately 48,000 persons in Michigan last year qualified as better drivers through operation of the drivers' examination law," Scavarda said. "That number," he said, "failed on their first examination but received licenses on later examinations through correction of vision, greater familiarity with fundamental traffic and safety laws or through acquiring mechanical aids to compensate physical handicaps that prevented them originally qualifying as safe drivers."

Wanted: One Wife
In search of adventure and an "ideal" wife, Gilbert Simon has wandered three times around the world and is still seeking his perfect mate. But he will not give up, he says. Simon ran away from his home in New Zealand when 17 years old to join a sailing ship. In his quest he cycled, sailed, walked and canoed. In every country he looked for his ideal, only to be disappointed. "Girls want to settle down and stay in one place when they marry," he said. "That's the trouble." Then he admitted his ideal girl must be one "with the wanderlust."

Michigan Leads Nation in Number of Licenses Issued
Nearly complete figures for 1939, announced by the conservation department, show 858,802 licenses of all classifications issued last year. This total, a record, topped the 855,037 licenses issued in 1938, which mark was a high for that and preceding years.

The trend has been up in recent years. And, according to Fred A. Westerman, chief of the department's fish division, early inquiries from outside may presage increased tourist business this season. On the other hand, he points out, effect of the one-dollar general rod license, increased from 50 cents as of the first of the year, may be to lower the total of licenses sold.

Included in the 858,802 total of licenses issued for 1939 are the 538,402 in the "resident non-trout fishing" classification, the former 50-cent license.

Standard Liners Bring Quick Results
Communities have much to do to educate the pedestrian in the proper method of walking. Schools are doing a very fine piece of work in this respect, but too often parents are inclined not to follow the advice of their children, who tell them that they are taught the correct way and the correct place to cross streets. This is the improper attitude and accounts for a considerable share of the pedestrian toll.

It's smart to "walk" carefully.

Much has been written in this column about the pedestrian. Pedestrians most often walk into trouble. It is not always the driver who is to blame. Approximately 41 per cent of the fatalities to pedestrians in 1939 were the result of the pedestrian's crossing a street or highway between intersections.

In rural areas, about 38 per cent of the pedestrians killed were walking in the roadway when struck. In cities, 42 per cent were crossing at an intersection and of course, about one-fourth were crossing against the signal or diagonally.

Safety men believe there are three underlying personal causes of these accidents: (1) bodily defects; (2) lack of knowledge or skill; and (3) improper attitude.

Communities have much to do to educate the pedestrian in the proper method of walking. Schools are doing a very fine piece of work in this respect, but too often parents are inclined not to follow the advice of their children, who tell them that they are taught the correct way and the correct place to cross streets. This is the improper attitude and accounts for a considerable share of the pedestrian toll.

It's smart to "walk" carefully.

Hi-Y News

Last Thursday afternoon at 12:35 the Chelsea Hi-Y club held their weekly meeting in the club room. Roderick McDonald led a discussion on "The benefits of Hi-Y and what Hi-Y can do for the school." During the business part of the meeting we talked over plans for nominating John Hale to the National Hi-Y Congress which will be held at Oberlin, Ohio, June 20-24.

The Chelsea Hi-Y is planning to act as host to all Hi-Y clubs in this district on Friday, April 19, for the Spring Conference. At this meeting many noted speakers, such as Merrill Enyart, George Corwin and Bruce Tallman will give talks from which all Hi-Ys will benefit.

Confucius Say

We see that our dark haired Freshman, M. Lyons, has gone even higher than the Senior class. She's picking on the alumni now. Hey, Johnny! And incidentally, that inseparable Freshman couple, G. H. and D. K. did not disappoint us all Friday night. So Betty B. has changed her attention to Chelsea from Jackson. Well, we don't blame her with what she got. Well, at last Balmer is neutral. Only once in a while A. A. comes in. R. McDonald has been told to shave off his sideburns. We wonder why?

The Inquiring Reporter

Question—"What is your opinion on the Senior Privileges?"

The following Seniors were interviewed by Lillian Allhouse:

Janis Dancer—"The regulations of the school should be followed by all classes. Seniors included."

Betty Letch—"The Seniors should do as they please, but not overdo it too much."

George Winans—"I think the Seniors are no better than the rest when it comes to the regulations."

Doris Allhouse—"I think the Seniors should have more privileges than the underclassmen."

Donald Cook—"In comparison to the past years, the Senior class is greatly restricted."

Lorraine Weatherwax—"The rights of all classes should not be imposed upon by any certain group of individuals."

From Room 14

Starting this week, each week we will run an article on each division of the high school. As Chelsea High is mainly an agricultural school we start with this department.

Mr. Bust is the agricultural teacher and under his direction there are classes of Biology, Farm Crops, and Animal Husbandry.

As Biology is the state of ag study in plants, we will tell of it first. In Biology the students are growing potatoes without soil so far. A bumper crop is in sight.

The farm crops and animal husbandry classes are working hard, going out on field trips. When you see a group of students before school don't be alarmed. It is only animal husbandry going out. Mr. Bust is whipping his teams into shape for the Junior Farmers Week at East Lansing, May 2 and 3.

The animal husbandry class has finished making halters from rope to use at home or judging trips.

Senior Statistics

George Winans—Birthday, August 6, age 17; residence, Chelsea; description, black hair, green eyes, five feet, eight inches tall; school attended,

Chelsea public; activity, football, student council, library; favorite study, chemistry; favorite amusement, singing and dancing; favorite sport, football; something he does fairly well, "Dating a certain class, singing, dancing"; most thrilling experience, "Winning the Manchester football game one year ago."

Doris Allhouse—Birthday, June 23, age 18; residence, Chelsea; description, blonde hair, blue-green eyes, short, five feet, three inches, plump; schools attended, Chelsea public; favorite study, history; favorite amusement, "Getting the car"; favorite sport, football; something she does fairly well, "Always tries to help the rest, and driving a car"; most thrilling experience, "Her first (and last) date with one who shall be nameless (not blameless)."

Junior Play

The Junior class is very busy preparing for their play, which is to be given on May 3. The play is a comedy, "China Boy," a rollicking play which will keep you in suspense from the rise of the curtain to the fall.

The story of the play involves the Parker family. Mr. Parker is the principal of the Cranston high school. He and his wife Emily have two children, Bill, seventeen, and Selma, sixteen. Bill is wrapped up in football. Selma is set on winning the Cranston-Munchie-Crunchie Ice Cream Company's Popularity Contest, and winning a free trip to Hollywood for herself and her mother. Then a cousin, Mark Willis, the son of a missionary in China, is sent to the Parker family to receive an American education.

Mark arrives, the model of virtue, very correct and dignified, and very helpful. Mr. and Mrs. Parker are wondering how they got along without him. But he doesn't fit into the younger set. Then Lulu Mae Robinson, a twelve year old terrorist, takes him under her wing. Her efforts to transform him into a "regular guy" are "side-splitting."

It promises to provide an evening of fun. The characters will be announced next week. Presented by permission of Samuel French.

Hit and Miss

For anyone who isn't acquainted with "Hit and Miss," it's a travelogue and resume of what's going on in C. H. S. things outsiders rarely know about.

Perhaps you've never noticed it, but one of the cherubs on the wall plaques in Study Hall has a black eye—how come? No one knows. The bulletin board in S. H. has been pepped up a great deal lately—not only notices of what's going on inside and outside the school—but actual school work—and humorous quotations—our hats are off to whoever is taking care of it. And perhaps it might be well to mention the Sophs have lost a "member of good standing" with Jane C. home for a few weeks—she had an appendectomy, and we're all looking forward to when she'll be back. All the baseball boys looked somewhat disappointed Thursday when it snowed. It meant no practice that night—and probably no game with Belleville Friday—that's what happened last year.

Last week C. H. S. was visited by a number of different people—I wonder what they thought of us? But they'll never tell.

Our singing might be well to mention our "Happy Thought of the Week." John Hale has been carrying around a metal plaque with the words "At Rest" on it—clever, don't you think—one never knows, does one?

Roadside Tables Will Be Ready for Picnic Season

Lansing—The state highway department is scribbling up its more than 3,000 roadside picnic tables for the opening of Michigan's tourist season.

The tables were gathered up with the last departing tourist last fall and stored in district maintenance garages. Workmen there, in their spare time, have been repairing them and varnishing those which show the stains and wear of an outdoor season.

The department has requisitioned materials for the construction of approximately 450 additional roadside tables. All of the old style green tables have been dismantled and will be replaced this year by the new design of rustic table which has proved popular with wayside picnickers.

The new tables, according to present plans, will be distributed as follows: Cadillac and Alpena districts, 75; Grand Rapids district, 75; Kalamazoo district, 75; Plymouth district, 75; Saginaw district, 60; and the Upper Peninsula, 100.

Efforts are being made to have tables for the Upper Peninsula built in the state prison at Marquette. The department will build other tables in local maintenance garages.

State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagener stated that "A study of letters sent the department by out-of-state tourists lists roadside tables as the first feature of Michigan highways to draw praise from those who spend their recreation money here."

District foresters will soon be staking out table locations, chosen for scenic beauty, fresh water supply, safety and freedom from roadside dust. Many of the tables will be placed in the department's roadside parks, and Van Wagener said the "no overnight camping" rule would continue to be enforced at these points.

The department is striving to have its tables in place by Decoration Day, the first high point in tourist travel each season.

Would Use Fires To Aid Deer Feeding

An unusual suggestion that controlled light burnings by forest fires would insure greater feed for Michigan's record deer population comes from a man at Michigan State College who has studied the problem and who is anxious to promote forestry, conservation and wild game.

The authority is P. A. Herbert, head of the college forestry department and president of the Michigan United Conservation clubs.

"In northern Michigan where much of the land is still wild land, a great many species of game, especially deer, are more abundant now than when most of the state was covered with virgin timber," explains Professor Herbert.

"History is simple. After the hardwoods and pines were cut the brush and other growth gave food and cover to wild life. Now the forests are again growing up, out of reach of ground-feeding birds and animals."

Herbert admits the use of fire to open up areas here and there for new brush and undergrowth would be dangerous. Foresters in the past have rigidly preached and practiced fire control, but in the future some of these same men may be the ones who will advocate spotted and controlled light burnings, according to his prediction.

The work could be done at non-hazardous times of the year. By permitting light to reach the forest floor, food and shelter could grow where it would be useful to wild life, says Herbert. He admits that more knowledge of fires and how they could be used by laymen is needed before the practice is recommended generally.

Springtide of Spiritual Joy

IN AN exquisite passage in the Song of Solomon, the "beloved" sings (2:10-12): "Rise up, my love, my fair one, and come away. For lo, the winter is past, the rain is over and gone; the flowers appear on the earth; the time of the singing of birds is come." However variously this passage may have been interpreted, we perhaps be permitted to see in it, for us, a hint of the call of divine Love to love in the human heart to awake from the dream of life in matter, to see the ever-appearing freshness and beauty of true being. Among the seasons, each of them bringing its wealth of beauty, and variety, spring is thought of by many, especially by those who are acquainted with the rigors of winter, as the season eloquently illustrative of the awakening of new hopes, aspiration, courage, and inspiration.

Mary Baker Eddy, who was a lover of nature in its various forms, in a beautiful article, "Voices of Spring," in "Miscellaneous Writings" has written (p. 329): "Spring is my sweet heart," using a metaphor which points to the ever-awakening of love, of gentleness, tenderness, sympathy, and she adds that its "voices are sad or glad, even as the heart may be restored in memory the sweet rhythm of forgotten harmonies, or touching tenderly its tearful tones." Thus does love mingle with love in all the sympathetic interests of the human experience. How the ever-recurring expression of love, in families and among friends, sweetens human lives, brightening the heart's harmonious melodies. Are they not easily likened to the return of springtime, after the long chill of winter? And even in these times when summer abides through most of the year, the love-fulness of the verdure only more continuously reminds one that flowers appear on the earth, and the time of the singing of birds is come.

So, in our daily experiences, even though at times there may seem to be the chilling clouds of depression, the voice of Love is ever calling to spiritual sense, "Rise up, my love, my fair one, and come away," and in obeying the call we shall "come away" from the dream of life and intelligence in matter, away from the beliefs of mortal discords, and see, through enlightened spiritual vision that "flowers appear on the earth," that in every experience we may rejoice in the beauty and the harmony of the real and eternal. There is no dearth of beauty, freshness, and goodness in the reality of spiritual being; no lack or loss, no chilling discords, no absence of Love and its loveliness.

If, however, in the dream of material experience, there seems to be some reason for sadness, then indeed "the time of the singing of birds" is come; then should we lift our hearts in songs of gratitude for the ever-present harmony of real being, of life in infinite divine Love.

How swiftly "the long winter of our discontent" melts into the springtime of joy and gladness, when we obediently respond to the call of Love, "Rise up, my love, my fair one," for love, reflecting Love, God, is indeed fair and beautiful, peace-bringing and satisfying. Now, what is one to do about the difficulties, the wrongs, the sorrows, which seem ever to haunt the footstep of the human family? In the article mentioned above, Mrs. Eddy refers to these things and to the lessons in spiritual overcoming to be gleaned from them, and she asks (Miscellaneous Writings, p. 331): "When downtrodden like the grass, didst make them humble, loving, obedient, full of good odor, and cause them to wait patiently on God for man's rich heritage, 'dominion over all the earth'—thus abiding in Truth," she assures us, "the warmth and sunlight of prayer and praise and understanding will ripen the fruits of Spirit, and goodness will have its springtime of freedom and greatness."

Home Entrance Light

A home owner will be repaid many times over in convenience and safety in installing a front-door or entrance light. Such an entrance light, in addition to making unnecessary groping in the dark for door or keyhole, can prove an attractive feature. Such lights can be controlled from the inside of a house.

Origin of 'Bolshevik'

FOR MEALS THAT ARE TASTY
AND COOKING THAT'S HASTY.
A NEW 'ELECTRIC RANGE IS THE TOPS!'"

In more than a million homes that now employ modern economical electric cookery, the housewife has reduced her kitchen cares to a minimum. There is no need for her to work over a hot stove, burning hands and arms on hot oven doors and sides as she inspects and bastes the food. With the food in the oven, she merely selects the temperature for the meal, sets two dials on her control clock for starting and stopping the heat, turns the switch and goes on her way rejoicing—knowing that she will find a complete meal, perfectly cooked, ready to be served when she returns.

There is nothing to do in cooking electrically that you have not done for years. It is all so simple a child could do it, yet there is no possibility of failure, and your friends will marvel at your success!

THIRD NICKNAME CONTEST

A third Used Car Nickname Contest is to be put on by Ford dealers after the present contest closes at midnight today, according to D. D. Harris, chairman. The third contest will end at midnight, April 25.

The same amount of prize money which was offered in both the first and second contests, $1000, will go to the ten used car buyers who give the best nicknames to the cars they buy from Ford dealers, said Mr. Harris. Again, the judges will be the Honorable John L. Carey, Mayor of Dearborn, Michigan; Gordon Kingsbury, Director of Advertising Courses at Wayne University; and G. D. Gettins, Automobile Editor of the Toledo Blade.

"We were agreeably surprised at the unusual interest which our Nickname Contest aroused," said Mr. Harris. "Our first two contests, of one week's duration each, proved to be so popular that Ford dealers are glad to invest a third $1000 in prizes. In most of the comments which we have received so far, people have complimented us upon the simplicity of the contest. There are no puzzles to solve, essays to write, or questions to answer. All the contestant needs to do is to write a nickname for the car he buys, using any number of words up to five. The ten best names win checks for $100 each."
