Parallel Parking Goes Into Effect Next Week

Beginning Tuesday, June 1 or as soon thereafter as the streets can be marked, parking on all of Chelsea's streets will be parallel, replacing the diagonal parking which has been the practice in the past.

Although there is a law which prohibits diagonal parking on state-highways, which would include Chelsea's Main street, the village council has hesitated in taking action, realizing that parallel parking would limit the amount of parking space and would cause some hardships because of the high curbs. However, the state highway department has insisted that parking regulations in Chelsea comply with the state law, thus the change is made.

Because of the added safety in parallel parking, the council has decided to put this method of parking into effect on all streets when the change is made. Many minor accidents have resulted when cars have collided while backing from the curb, and it is fortunate that more serious accidents have not resulted because of the crowded conditions of the streets.

Although this new regulation will limit the parking space on the streets, there is a very convenient public parking lot, with entrance from East or Park streets, which should easily take care of the parking overflow of cars.

All groups participating in the day's activities are asked to assemble in front of Kolb's Restaurant on Main street shortly before 2:00 o'clock for the march to the auditorium. These organizations include the High School Band, American Legion, Auxiliary, Women's Relief Corps, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts.

The program in the auditorium will be as follows:

Bring Flowers Saturday

The American Legion asks that anyone having flowers to contribute for the decoration of graves please leave them at the school gymnasium about 8:00 o'clock on Saturday night.

The Legion also wishes to inform members of the Auxiliary and the Relief Corps that transportation to and from the cemetery will be furnished.

Rationing Board Moves

The local rationing board office is now located in the Sylvan town hall on West Middle St., across the street from its former location. The entire board will work on Friday afternoons from 1 to 5 o'clock. The section of the board which issues War Ration Books 1 and 11, sugar and other food coupons and certificates, shoe stamps, and kerosene coupons, will also be open on Saturday evenings from seven until nine o'clock.

Shoe Stamps

Anyone who applies to the rationing board for an extra shoe stamp must present War Ration Book 1 before the stamp may be granted. Do not detach Stamp 17 from your war book but present the book to the merchant where you buy your shoes as it must be detached in his presence and not presented loose.

According to unconfirmed reports, a number of Chelsea stores will close on Monday, May 31.

"Poppy Day" Will Be Observed On Saturday

Herbert J. McKune Post No. 31 of the American Legion and Auxiliary of Chelsea will hold their annual Poppy sale on Saturday. Daughters of the Auxiliary and Legion will offer the poppies for sale on the streets throughout the day.

The Poppy honors and aids the men who defended America twenty-five years ago and their families and those defending America today and their families. Profit from the sale of poppies will be used in the work the Legion and Auxiliary are doing for the disabled of both wars and their needy families. Generous contributions for the poppies will be appreciated.

Tiny red blossoms fragile and sweet,
Bloom for a day on highway and street,
In memory of those who've passed on to rest,
In honor of those who still do their best.

Only red poppies, yet how much they tell
Of unselfish service and duty done well.
Tiny bright flowers, made by hand it is true,
That bloom for one day in memory, anew.

Reception for Seniors Will Be Held Friday

The annual Junior-Senior Reception will be held in the high school gymnasium on Friday evening, May 28. The school board, the faculty, and the Seniors will be the honored guests of the evening.

A program will follow the banquet which will be served at 6:30. George Miller, a member of the faculty, will be the guest speaker. The Juniors and their mothers are planning the banquet, and the Sophomore class, as usual, will serve.

Dancing with "Duke" Wellington and his orchestra, will begin at nine o'clock and continue until twelve. Hawaiian Nights will be the general plans for the decorations.

Here is the prospect of food for Michigan, as revealed by Governor Kelly's fact-finding committee:

Unless more residents grow more food in victory gardens, Michigan will have to import 70 per cent of its vegetable needs during the coming 12-month period.

A study of carload shipments of fruit and vegetables into the Detroit market alone reveals a 15 per cent reduction in supplies received. This trend is expected to continue downward.

Military and lend-lease are going to dip heavily into the normal supply available to civilians. This will be true not only of canned goods but also of potatoes and onions, much of which will be dehydrated in Michigan plants.

Bad weather this spring, delaying the planting of crops, has already prompted federal experts to forecast a 14 per cent decline in the 1943 truck crop as compared with 1942 yields.

While the situation is not serious, continued unseasonal weather could make it so.

Consider, for a minute, what Uncle Sam is requiring to feed our armed forces.

Federal demands for canned goods based on 1942 needs: Spinach, 45 per cent; snap beans, 38; lima beans, 66; peas, 48; beets, 100; carrots, 130; tomatoes, 40; tomato juice, 48; sweet corn, 40; pumpkin and squash, 51; catsup, 61; tomato puree, 71; tomato paste, 40.

The average of these percentages is about 50 per cent—HALF of all the commercially canned vegetables!

Dehydration of vegetables will also remove substantial amounts of vegetables from the civilian market. We quote from the governor's report:

"The government is greatly expanding its program for the production of dehydrated vegetables which is best evidenced by the fact that there were fifteen million pounds produced in 1941 and this is expected to increase to at least seventy million pounds in 1943."

"This increased demand for foods for dehydrating will be an additional drain upon Michigan's food supplies. At present, a dehydrating plant at Traverse City is ready to start operations. Plants at Holland and Port Huron are also in the process of construction."

"Two other plants have been approved: a dehydrating plant at Greenville and an onion dehydrating plant at Marshall. Present plans call for these plants to be in operation by August 1. The Greenville plant will be the largest of its kind in America."

In the frozen food field the governor's report says that Uncle Sam is also taking over 70 per cent of 1943 production.

"The increase in output of frozen foods will be primarily for the purpose of meeting expanding requirements of the armed forces."

What about the commercial truck growers?

"In the Detroit area it is apparent that commercial truck gardeners do not plan an increase of acreage over last year in vegetables because of limited facilities and limited labor supplies. Outstate our survey would indicate that growers who produce food for local consumption will not be able to increase their planting in 1943 to any extent. In several sections there will be less produced in 1943 than in 1942."

These facts do not make pleasant reading. But war isn't a picnic, and the home front must expect to be second to the armed forces for all needs—clothing and food and everything else.

What can we do about it? Here are recommendations of a group of Michigan food experts—Paul R. Krone, chairman of the OGD victory garden committee; Charles Figy, state agricultural commissioner; Robert J. Baldwin, MSC extension director; Lawrence O'Neill, state department of agriculture; C. J. Borum, state and federal cooperative crop reporting service; and M. L. Lowe, United States department of agriculture:

1. If you have not a big victory garden, do so.
2. Grow enough food to take care of your family needs next fall, winter and spring. That means home canning of food.
3. Grow non-perishable vegetables which may be stored, such as potatoes, carrots, cabbages, onions, and rutabagas.
4. Avoid waste. Sell any surplus crops to your neighbors, local merchants and markets.

There is still time to act. It is not "Too little and too late."

The greatest road building program ever adopted in Washtenaw county, and one calling for the expenditure of more than a half million dollars, involving the construction of at least sixteen miles of pavement connecting Washtenaw county with Wayne on the east and Jackson on the west, was definitely decided upon last Thursday night by the county road commissioners and members of the board of supervisors. However, the county will not be compelled to pay that figure for the road. The actual cost to the county will be somewhere near $150,000.

The legislature has passed an act which extends free high school tuition, up to twenty dollars, to all rural school pupils who finish the eighth grade in their districts. This bill provides that parents select one of three convenient high schools and, before the fourth Monday in June notify the district officers in writing that they have children eligible for high school work in such schools.

Cast by Thomas Lister

The Province bell, later known as the Liberty bell, was cast by Thomas Lister of Whitechapel, London. It arrived in Philadelphia in the latter part of August, 1752, and was hung on trusses in the yard of the State house to test its sound before hanging it in the tower. In September of 1752 the bell was cracked by the clapper during a test and was recast by Pass and Stow, "two ingenious workmen of Philadelphia." The present bell was turned out of their moulds on March 16, 1753, and in June it was placed in the State house steeple.

Representative... for this too...
we buy war bonds...

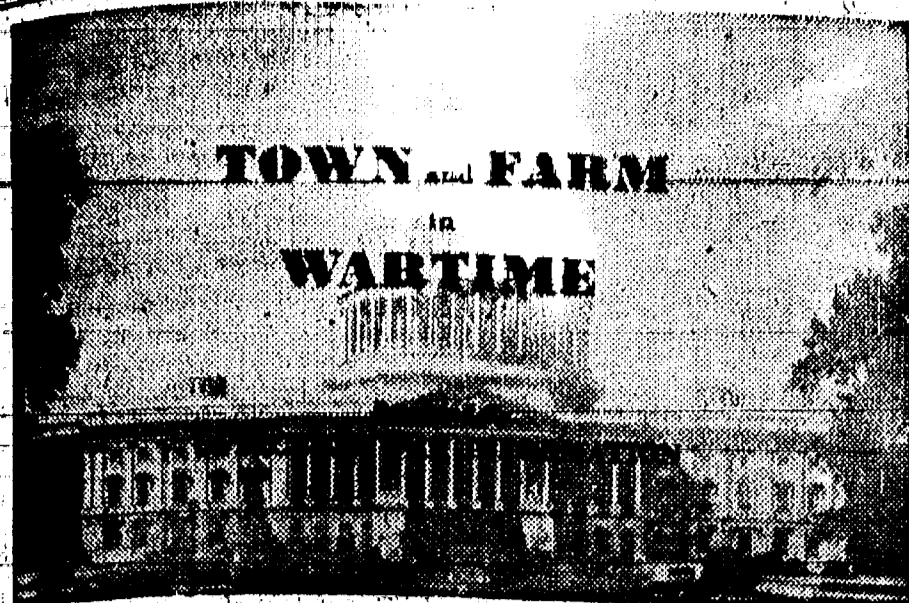

To preserve a Free Press in America... to read the newspaper of our choice, without fear or threat... to bring into our homes whatever magazines and books and newspapers our families choose... to live in a land that permits a newspaper to say what it pleases, however bitterly it may criticize the government... to be a citizen of a Democracy where official bonfires of banned books are unknown... to recognize that a people can qualify for self-government only when every shade of opinion is freely expressed and currently published...

... for this we must all in this year of trial buy war bonds in ever-increasing amounts, to provide the means for all-out Victory.

Destroy Expired Ration Stamps

Housewives are urged to destroy all expired red or blue ration stamps to help guard against black-market in food. Reports to OPA indicate that many storekeepers have asked their customers for expired stamps, and in turn have used them to buy more food from wholesalers. Because foods brought at wholesale with these stamps can be sold at retail without points, every expired stamp given to a storekeeper is a potential contribution to a black market.

New Way To Get Canning Sugar

Sugar for home canning can be obtained by using stamps 15 and 16 in War Ration Book One, instead of "sugar allowance coupons" as previously announced. Each stamp is worth five pounds. Consumers who require more than ten pounds per person for canning will apply to their local ration boards for an additional allowance.

OCR To Supply Farmers' Needs

The newly-created Office of Civilian Requirements, WPB, has worked out an emergency farmers' supply program which will quickly make available to farmers some 50 items essential in the production of food. The procedure will enable a farmer to buy reasonable amounts of needed items directly from his dealer without complicated forms. Materials to be made available under the program include adjustable wrenches, agricultural forks, auger bits, barbed wire, clevises, dehorning saws, fence pliers, garden hoses, batteries, motors, grain scoops, grease guns, harness hardware, horse collars, nails, neck yokes, poultry netting, cold chisels, hog tags, knives, and many other products.

Applications for Ration Book 3

Applications for War Ration Book No. 3, which will provide stamps to replace those now running out in existing books, are now being distributed by letter carriers. Each application is good for a single individual or an entire family. Consumers ers will fill out and return application cards, which are pre-addressed to OPA mail centers between June 1 and June 10. Around June 20 and up to July 21, OPA centers will mail books to applicants.

Longer Furlough Granted

The War Department has authorized extension of the furlough period between the day of induction and the date men must report for duty from seven days to fourteen days. This change will be made in all commands not later than July 1. After July 1, but before September 1, the period will be increased from fourteen days to twenty-one days.

Stoves To Be Rationed

Rationing of six types of stoves (including laundry stoves, but excluding water heaters) will begin late in June. They include coal or wood, oil, and gas heating stoves, coal or wood, oil, and gas cooking stoves. After the plan becomes effective, you must have a purchase certificate from your ration board to buy a stove. Certificates will be issued on the basis of need.

No Special Gas for Vacations

Vacations are fine, but there will be no extra gasoline for vacation travel this year, says Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown. Both rubber and gasoline supplies are too critical to allow motorists any "luxury" gasoline rations. Mr. Brown pointed out that gasoline coupons in an "A" Book could be saved, and that gasoline could be carried over in the tank of an auto from one period to the next. In this way, a motorist may save fuel for 180 miles for a vacation trip by car.

Scouting for Scrap

More than a million boy scouts and cub scouts will tramp the woods and valleys of America this summer on a new kind of scouting expedition. They will be exploring for heavy scrap iron that can later be brought in to collection points. Overnight camps will permit the boys to cover a wider territory and to carry some light scrap back to collection trucks.

Convicted Violators Get License Suspensions

More than half of the 649 licensees convicted in violation hearings before the Michigan Liquor Control Commission since January 1 suffered permanent or temporary suspension of their licenses, a study of dispositions of cases reveals.

The study, ordered by Chairman R. Glen Dunn of the Commission, discloses that serving, selling or allowing minors to drink on the premises is the most prevalent offense with 226 of the 649 convicted being brought before the Commission on those charges.

Highest penalties of the Commission were reserved for those 226 who sold to minors with 191 suffering suspensions or revocations. Four of the 191 had their license revoked and six others were stopped from obtaining new licenses at the end of the last license year so they are now out of business.

Of total cases brought in, Detroit police made 476 complaints, Michigan State Police 42, other Police Departments in the state 89, and the Michigan Liquor Control Commission investigators 184. The 83 sheriffs of the state and their staffs brought in a total of 29 complaints.

Serving intoxicated patrons and selling liquor on Sunday were offenses charged to 90 operators, 45 for each offense. Another 85 licensees were brought in for failing to cancel their revenue stamps. All of those brought in on this charge by the Detroit Police Department were given fines.

Other offenses which brought in substantial numbers were: permitting intoxicated patrons to loiter, 42; gambling, 34; selling whiskey on election day, 32; and employing minors, 19.

Since automobile drivers haven't the eyes of cats, it is more dangerous to drive at night than in the daytime. It is even more hazardous when drivers are blinded by the headlights of approaching cars.

Some people seem to feel that because there are fewer cars on the road they need not bother with dimming their lights. This is a very dangerous attitude and one that is also very dangerous.

You can help by showing the way and by urging others who must drive at night to dim their lights. You may meet a car loaded with war workers who are going to or from their work. An accident involving them would materially affect the war production effort.

WAR HEADLINES BRING CHANGES DIRECTLY AFFECTING YOUR CAR!

When war came to America... "driving as usual" ended for Americans. Each day's headlines brought new changes—new shortages or restrictions—affecting you and your car. High speeds, long trips, plentiful gasoline were ruled out. Everything changed. And here's the important point, your car and your car's service program should be changed, too, to fit these new conditions. Have you attended to this?

DEC. 1941 AUTOMOBILE PRODUCTION STOPPED! Among the first to go "all-out" on war production were the automobile manufacturers. That meant no more cars would be built. It meant your present car must last. You assumed a new responsibility to "care for your car... for your country."	OCT. 1942 35 MILES PER HOUR LIMIT SET! Your car was designed for performance over a wide range of speeds. You can get greater economy in today's kind of driving by having its timing, distributor points, spark plugs, choke and heat control re-adjusted for low speeds.
JAN. 1942 RATIONING OF TIRES STARTED! The rubber shortage made tire protection vitally important. You learned about inflation and proper wheel alignment, and you probably learned that your Oldsmobile dealer's was the best place to get complete tire-saving service.	DEC. 1942 GASOLINE RATIONING BEGINS! No matter what type of gas ration book you have, it's imperative to waste fuel. 4-H Girls Show How To Keep Fit In Wartime

A feminine army, comprising thousands of 4-H club girls in Michigan and practically all other states, is bringing home the paramount wartime need of making the fullest use of milk and other dairy products to keep rural America in working and fighting trim.

The girls are accomplishing this task through public demonstrations, which include the preparation of nutritious drinks, custards, cream and cheese pies, soups, salads, and other dishes utilizing milk and dairy products. They are also demonstrating how to make and handle butter, cheese, cottage cheese, and ice cream.

Many of these youthful workers are enrolled in the 1943 National 4-H Dairy Foods Demonstration activity, in which outstanding records of achievement will be recognized. These recognitions include medals to county individual and team winners, and awards of $50 War Savings Bonds to the two highest rating individual demonstrators, and to members of the two top teams in the State.

This activity is being conducted along with other wartime projects of production and conservation by the Extension Service of the State Agricultural Colleges, and the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Full details may be obtained from county extension agents.

CANNING ASSISTANCE

The State Board of Vocational Control is sponsoring community canning projects during the summer. These are to be set up in local areas to assist in production, conservation, and processing of food.

Canning equipment is scarce and an attempt would be made to obtain pressure cookers for use. A qualified instructor would supervise the work which would consist of a series of ten or more lesson meetings for a minimum of two hours each organized to meet at least once a week at a time most convenient for the group. Part of the time would be devoted to discussions on current problems in canning, after which the actual canning of produce brought in by each member would be done. Each class must have a minimum enrollment of ten persons.

This opportunity should be of interest to many people. No fee will be charged for the series of lessons, and a person may enroll in more than one class. There will be a meeting to discuss the community canning project for Chelsea in the Homemaking room at the high school on Tuesday, June 1 at 8:00. All people who are interested are asked to attend.

Time Limit Is Placed On Telephone Calls

Detroit—Don't be surprised if the telephone operator asks you to limit your long distance call to five minutes. Michigan Bell Telephone Company has instituted the new practice in order to help conserve time on overloaded telephone lines. The request by the operator will be made only on calls which have been delayed because circuits were unavailable.

On such calls, the operator, after completing the connection, will say: "Please limit your call to five minutes—others are waiting."

George M. Welch, president of the company, said that "notwithstanding the cooperation of many people in limiting their use of the long distance service to only the most necessary calls, the fact remains that the number of calls to war-busy centers continues to increase."

"The new practice is important to the service because restrictions on the use of materials make it impossible to add sufficient circuits to busy centers for handling the additional calls. If our customers generally will limit their calls to five minutes or less, delays now experienced in setting up connections during busy periods can be reduced considerably."

The public is being informed officially of the new practice through advertising.

JEWETT-STONE SCHOOL NEWS
The last term of Jewett-Stone school closed Friday, May 21. The mother's arrived at noon with well-filled baskets. A bountiful dinner was enjoyed by all.

Those receiving reading-certificates were Donna Lee Chapman, Kathleen Eschelbach, Ralph Erke, Allan Erke and Rosemary Steele.

Billie Van Riper wrote the eighth grade, Ralph Erke, Donna Lee Chapman and Kathleen Eschelbach wrote the seventh grade examinations on May 14.

Billie, Mary Ellen and Nancy Van Riper came from Pumpkin College to attend our school during the month of March. Shirley MacComber moved to the Beach District. Our enrollment during the last term was 14.

The Book Club voted to buy a book suitable for our library with the proceeds collected during the year. Kathleen and her mother were placed on this committee.

On Thursday afternoon, May 20, the Civics Health Club had a party. The members of this club had been very faithful during the school year. Mrs. Whipple treated them to home-made candy and salad peanuts. We received our report cards at this time.

The Safety Club received a certificate of honor from the A.A.A. for their co-operative work during the year. We are thankful to Ralph, the captain, and to Jerry, Lawrence and Jack for their splendid work.

For our spring project in science we gathered and studied about wild flowers. This fall we will mount them on a wall chart. We also watched for our bird friends who came back this spring. We studied their habits and how they built their nests.

Our visitors during the last term were Mrs. Inaah M. Thayer, Mrs. O'Brien, Virginia and Ruben Lesser, Herbert Erke, Doris Ann Corey and Wayne Corey from Ohio.

Our sale of stamps since April 12 was $25.90. Can you imagine Allan Erke buying $10.00 worth of 25c stamps all at one time—and Lawrence Bristle a bond! Those are the kind of war workers we have in our school. Our sale of 10c and 25c stamps since November 16 is $96.10 plus one $18.75 bond.

Mrs. Whipple wishes to thank the children, parents and schoolboard for the splendid co-operation throughout the year. Also the lovely gifts and many deeds of kindness.

Michigan Attractions Featured In Magazine

If you love hunting and fishing, and if you lived outside the borders of Michigan, you couldn't read the "Michigan" article in the June issue of "Field and Stream" without wanting to pack up your duffel bag, grab your rod and gun and head for the state whose license-holders bagged in one season 75,000 deer, 900 bear, 600,000 squirrels, 400,000 ruffed grouse, 600 woodcock, 40,000 prairie chickens, and a raft of other feathered and furred game. In addition, a world of game fish fill the creels and perfume the frying pans of Michigan's residents and visitors—including brook trout, bass, perch, blue-gills, pike, pickerel, and the mighty muskie. Rating the state's hunting and fishing resources as an asset second only to the automobile industry, Field and Stream gives a clear analysis of Michigan's Department of Conservation and gives details of conservation measures inaugurated by the seven-man commission and carried to successful conclusion by the 1,000 persons on the Department's payroll. Among other interesting facts about the Department's work, the article points out that the state holds title to nearly five million acres of land which are administered for the benefit of outdoor sportsmen. This land is protected from fire, replanted with seedling pine and other trees, and otherwise developed for public recreational purposes. Ranking first in allocation of federal funds under the Pittman-Robertson Act, the state has used federal money for the purchase of land, and for extensive game research. As one example of the use made of federal funds, the article describes the Rose Lake Wildlife Experiment Station where 2,000 acres of land are used under modern methods for purposes of determining the effects of such methods on the supplies of pheasants, rabbits and squirrels, and also the effects of such game population on crops.

Of intense interest to visiting sportsmen is Michigan's policy of purchasing property when it gives public access to fishing water. Over 150 such sites have been purchased, ranging from a few feet of frontage on lakes in populous areas to miles of mighty rivers. These sites, together with state ownership of forests and game refuges, answer the age-old question of "where to fish" for visitor and resident alike. Keeping the fishing good is the job of fifteen hatcheries and over fifty rearing stations. The work of these plants is reinforced by stream improvement and other measures based on the findings and recommendations of the Institute for Fisheries Research.

Among other activities mentioned in the article are measures for better farmer-sportsman relations, assemblies of 4-H clubs, Boy Scout organizations, and many other interested groups for training and information through lecture courses. The item of sportsman interest is given credit as one of the great influences in Michigan's conservation program.

Snake's Terminal Rings
A rattlesnake acquires from two to four rings a year. Under normal conditions a ring is added each time the snake sheds its skin and, contrary to the general belief that this occurs only once a year, the usual number of sheddings or sloughings each year is three. A rattlesnake contains more than 12 rings because the vibration at the tip of the tail is so great that terminal rings are worn down or broken off.

MURDER at PIRATES' HEAD

By ISABEL WAITT

CHAPTER XVII

"Nonsense! Fiddlesticks! Come along in the house, Mr. Norcross. I don't want two invalids on my hands."

Hugh just tugged at the boat with the others.

"No use, Auntie. Leave him alone. I don't believe he's guilty, either; but he has his own reasons for confessing," I said to her.

"That sister of his! Crazy as a loon! Mooning up there when her own brother is trying to go to jail. I'll bet she—"

"Hush, Auntie. Let's help the men."

We went down and helped steady the thing. Luckily it wasn't far to the Gerry landing a weatherbeaten, broken raft, anchored to a tiny pier beyond the barn and not far from the strip of beach.

The rolling was slow, but after a while we reached the edge of the woods. In the path something bright lay gleaming, and I saw it was one of Lily's small green beads from her mixed string. Poor Miss Kendall! She'd never walk this path again nor scatter her innumerable beads. I stooped and picked up the little memento and put it in my pocket. Then I sat down on an old willow stump to rest.

Auntie was urging me to go back to the house. The boat was already at the water's edge. I wanted to see the final splash and learn if it would be safe. I hoped Victor Quade wouldn't get into it; when, with a mighty shove, it slipped into the bay.

As a matter of fact, nobody did. Just then Thaddeus Quincy let out a yell and waved his red table cloth like anything. Sure enough, a sailboat was making for our wharf. She had no tender, but as she came about the men hastily tied the Eleanor and stood shouting till it was a wonder anything could be made of it.

"Aho, there!" yelled the man. "Lane ready? Lost my tender." So he'd come expecting Roddy to go sailing with him. And Roddy hadn't kept the date.

"Lane's not here!" shrieked Quincy. "There's been a—"

De Witt held up his hands. "Let me, my friends." Then he belloved. "Send the police—at once! Murder! Understand?"

The man let go the tiller a second to megaphone with his hands. "Not Lane! Did you say—murder? When he didn't show up I came after him. You want the police!"

I was sure he was going to capsize, but he righted his craft and sailed slowly, oh, it seemed so slowly, toward town across the cove.

"It won't be long now," Potter said of a copy of the said bill, and in default thereof that said bill be taken as confessed by the said defendant, Merle Pratt.

And it is further ordered, that the said plaintiff cause this order to be published in the Chelsea Standard, a newspaper printed, published and circulated in said county, and that such publication be commenced within forty days from the date of this order, and that such publication be continued therein once in each week for six weeks in succession, or that the said plaintiff cause a copy of this order to be served on the said defendant, Merle Pratt, either personally or by registered mail with return receipt demanded as provided for by statute at least twenty days before the time prescribed for his appearance.

ply married again. You can see why I don't want her mentioned. She waited three years for him, and when he came crawling back after the Lane Bank scandal she saw reason and divorced him."

Hugh flamed. "It wasn't my sister! Bessie wouldn't have anything to do with another woman's husband."

"If she knew it," Quincy added. "Don't have a fit, Norcross. It wasn't your sister. Happened out West. The woman—I won't mention her name—but she dabbled in magazine illustrating. She was married, also, at the time. Deserted her, too. Led her a terrible life, I've heard."

There was a motive a yard wide—a man who'd abused his daughter ought to be killed. Mr. Quincy himself said so, the next breath. It was lucky Lane had kept out of his sight.

"But I didn't kill him, nor that pestiferous Miss Kendall. I'll admit I came to the Head to try to get back my daughter's $10,000. Roddy told her, after he'd been drinking one day, he had a personal bank hidden at the Head, but not in the Castle. He'd fooled the police at the time of the search; but if she'd take him back she'd get it and repay her. The depression left us—especially her and her twin babies—she'd remarried after the divorce—hard up. I'd seen no mention of Lane in the Rockville paper. I determined to come to the Head and have a look-see. The auction of the church set me thinking. That would be the very place to hide wealth, in an unused church. So I came. I didn't know whether Lane was still afraid to show up here, or had taken the money away or not. My daughter refused to have anything to do with him or his money."

"Did you send me the cash to buy the church?"

He pointed his cane at Hugh. "He did. Me, I'm poor. I bid, but it was a relief when you got it, Judy. That would give me access without suspicion. No, it's clear as a brook: The reclusé died by accident. The bridge collapsed. Norcross avenged his sister. And Miss Kendall fell. All we have to do is wait for the police, who should arrive in—"

Victor's hands pat-a-caked silently. "Very, very interesting, Mr. Quincy. And the wind-tied the blue scarf around Lily's neck?"

"You should know. I wasn't down there. We'd all left the church and gone to the bridge. You stayed a while, didn't you?"

"Yes. With Judy. Did Lily's death coincide with the gull's cry? I felt sure it had. Victor changed the subject. 'Why? Anything to add, Potter?'"

The artist jumped, his wide eyes bulging wider. "Me?" He shrugged. "Not a thing. Came here to paint, and a fine chance I've had! Never saw or heard of the place before. Went to Rockville first, just as you did, Quade, and a fellow said, when I bought some linseed oil and turpentine, 'If it's scenery you want, go to the Head.' So I came and liked it, and now wish I hadn't." It was the longest speech I'd ever heard from him.

The minister wasn't saying a thing. He stood by the rail, his sermon forgotten, gazing out toward Rockville. But he faced us quietly when Victor spoke to him.

"And you, De Witt, want to add a word?"

"You mean my prison record? I'll doubtless be raked up. I'll just say this: 'I lost money in the Lane Bank failure—several thousand dollars. I came here summers—Rockville, I mean—and preached there, as well as in New York. Because of a scandal, I was ousted from both churches. Some of the funds for maintenance were missing. The police received an anonymous letter hinting that there might be a connection between the embezzlement at the bank and the church affair—perfectly ridiculous. I was accused and sent to prison and served nine months; then one of my deacons confessed. I always thought Lane might have sent that anonymous letter. No proof could be found. There was a horrible interval of suspicion before the police accused me. At the church everyone thought him guilty. His father had come to me and I'd talked with Roddy earlier; that is, tried to get him to do the right thing. If he had taken poor people's savings or forged my name to a certain check I prayed with him to clear his conscience. He told me to go to—Hades. His father, my friend, shot himself, but that wasn't until after I'd been tried and convicted and served time. Now you know, and if you'll excuse me—'" He left us and went to his room.

Victor announced quite bluntly, "Several things sound fishy to me. I wouldn't advise anyone to try to get away—in the Eleanor, for instance."

"Including yourself?" cried Hugh.

"Including myself."

He was rehearsing his own status when I went in. I was a sight and the police were due any minute. We might all be taken to Rockville for questioning. I'd fix my hair and jump into a clean dress. That dotted blue voile would do. I hurried to my room. The money? Yes, it was still there!

DIM-OUT

By Ruth Taylor

Those who live in perpetual darkness develop acuter perception in other senses. We who are living in dimmed out cities and towns are developing an acuter perception, too.

When the little street lamps blink out, we draw together in closer companionship, in a realization of our dependence one upon the other. Our sense of neighborliness becomes more acute.

When I come up into the darkened Pennsylvania Station or when I walk along the blackened streets of New York, I notice this new feeling of friendliness. There is less hurry, less rush, more politeness, more consideration. People talk together, where before they would have ignored each other's existence. There is a feeling of neighborliness in the air. We are tied in bonds of common danger.

Our manner of living, too, has been dimmed out by war. Those things we thought essential, for which we have fought, are put aside. We are already restricted in many of our liberties and we know that before long, we will have to dim out other privileges.

But—as our eyes have become accustomed to the darkened streets, to the absence of the strong lights which detracted from the details of the every day scene, we have learned to see, with other eyes, to know what we truly believed. As the material things have been taken from us, we have learned to use the senses of our hearts and minds.

Only in material things does the dimmed out prevail. Our faith is not dimmed out. Our spirit is not dimmed out. We know that it is up to each and every one of us to make this dim-out a temporary thing—that it is up to us and to our work, to turn the lights on again.

In this darkened period we need to be a united people, to hold hands with our fellow men, to work with them regardless of race or creed or color. We are no longer rich or poor, worker or employer, black or white, Catholic, Jew or Protestant. We are, each one of us, simply Americans, believers in a common credo of Democracy, in the freedom of all mankind, in the sanctity of the individual.

In the dark hours the barriers of pride dim out first. We are at last free to meet as neighbors, ready to serve, comfort and befriend one another regardless of whom our neighbor may be. Let us resolve, therefore, that when the lights go on again, we will carry this friendliness into our daily lives, living as bravely in the light as in the darkness!

NO CHANGE in Shell Horsehide.—the world's most amazing work shoe leather. It's still the way Nature makes it—the only leather on earth with a tough center layer or shell that reinforces the leather as steel rods "do concrete." There's also no change in the unique Wolverine secret triple-tanning process that makes Shell Horsehide soft as buckskin—so it even dries out soft. So, naturally, there's no change in the money-saving longer wear nor in the foot-saving house-slipper comfort for which Wolverine Shell Horsehide have long been famous. Drop in for a try-on.
