Form Local Unit of National Business Organization

William and Julius Blaess are co-chairmen of the local unit of the National Federation of Independent Business, Inc., an organization formed in 1949 for the purpose of protecting and helping independent business by fighting socialistic trends on a legislative level.

The federation, which claims the largest individual membership of any business organization in the United States, was founded by C. Wilson Harder, who was formerly associated with the U. S. Chamber of Commerce. It's slogan is "Our Nation Remains the Land of Opportunity by Giving Small Business Fair Consideration."

There are ten members in the local unit, while the total present national membership is given as 230,000. Each local unit is in touch each month with its Washington legislators through the organization's Washington representative.

Each individual member's opinion on the various measures up for consideration by the legislature is registered by personal ballot which goes directly to the congressman. Fellowship of Many Followers
John 15: 1-17; Philippians 2: 14-16; Romans 16: 1-7.
Golden Text: John 15: 8.

HAVING STUDIED the first quarter of early followers of Jesus, we began in the present quarter with A Fellowship of Many Followers. This fellowship was illustrated in what Jesus had to say about the vine and the branches. The life of the vine is the same in all its parts, from the roots that are imbedded in the soil to the highest tendrils that cling to the supporting trellis. So Christ dwells in Christians and they dwell in him. Their life is all of one.

Paul counsels the Philippians to deal with one another in love, that they might indeed be as shining lights in the world, and that through them others might be led to the Lord Jesus.

In Romans 16 we find Paul sending messages to a number of the early followers of Jesus and who had been associated with the apostle in spreading the gospel. Among these, Phoebe, a member of the church in Corinth, may have carried Paul's Epistle to the Romans to the Christians in Rome when she went on a visit to that city. Aquila and Priscilla became converts and fast friends of Paul in Corinth. They afterward went with him to Ephesus. Epenetus was the first convert made by Paul in the region about Ephesus.

May the fellowship of many followers found in early churches be a wholesome example today and sound a warning against strife and contention as hurtful to the life of a church.

PUNKYDOODLES CORNERS

Three Counties Claim Village

CANADA'S southwest Ontario counties of Perth, Oxford, and Waterloo are conducting a running argument about the location of the six-inhabitant village of Punky, doodles Corners.

Each county claims the honor, adding that it is possible to stand at the inoperative town pump and throw stones into all three provincial districts. The latest map shows Punky, doodles Corners in Waterloo county, but the others contend map-makers can be wrong.

The fame of the village lies, of course, in its name, as does that of numerous other communities and geographical features. Canada has no corner on unusual names, although she has her share. The mother country of England holds her own with such towns as Bishop's Cleeve, which recalls the hair shirt of ancient clerics.

There is a punch of the three Berkshire villages of Upper Wallop, Middle Wallop and Nether Wallop. Odd British names are found all over the world. Tribesmen in the colony of Gambia in northwest Africa have told authorities they can stop living in Sin any time they want to and move across the border to neighboring French possessions. Even here they could remain in Sin, as the village extends over the border.

The British Isles have one claim, however, that is hard to dispute. That is the longest place name, the Welsh village of Llanfairpwllgwyngyllgogochchwyrndrobwllantysilioogoch. Rivaling this is Tautawhakatangihangaokauatamata a p o k a iwhenuakitanatahu, a small hill in New Zealand.

The forty-niners who rushed to California for gold a little more than a hundred years ago had ears for the unusual in names, to put it mildly. They were not always original. Louis Level, for instance, was found in both the Sierra Nevada and Hertfordshire. But the California names reared the peak for graphic description or whimsy.

It makes you comfortable all over

BUICK engineers have a habit of getting at the bottom of things.

So they're not content to stop with putting beneath you cushions that are luxuriously soft and deep.

They also put big, soft, deep coil springs between you and all four wheels - and big, soft tires between the wheels and the road.

But real riding comfort calls for more than cushioning up-and-down jolts and jars.

There's end-sway and side-roll and "wander" to be controlled. There's sure-footed balance on curves. Not to mention the importance of having a frame stout and husky enough to make the whole car feel safely solid.

So Buick engineers have gone through the list—come up with a ride that cost a cool million dollars and more for special engineering, tooling and components.

Does that cover Buick's comfort story? It certainly does not.

There's the comfort of driving a car that instinctively holds the road—the comfort of ample room and a wide-open view of the world around you—the comfort of fabric colors that please the eye and fabric textures that please the touch—and the effortless smoothness of Dynaflow Drive.*

Then there's the mental comfort of bossing power mighty enough to meet any demand you make upon it in emergency—8-cylinder power—high-compression power—valve-in-head power—Fireball power, that makes you proud of the miles you get from a gallon of gas.

And maybe you'll also find comfort in knowing that this great automobile can be yours at a price that is still just a small step above what's known as "the low-priced three."

On top of all this, driving a Buick's a barrel of fun. Why not drop in tomorrow and ask us to prove it?

Wilkinson's Count 56 Varieties of Birds at Feeding Station

Thursday, April 4, Mrs. A. W. Wilkinson saw four evening grosbeaks in a tree outside the window of her home on Old US-12. These birds are very rare in this part of the country and are seldom seen east of the Mississippi.

When Mrs. Wilkinson first saw them, the group included a male and three females. They were eating the seeds of apples that had frozen on the trees last fall. She assumed they had stopped to rest on their way to their nesting grounds in Canada but last Wednesday she saw them again.

The Wilkinsons have a feeding station where they scatter food for birds during the winter and to date have counted 56 varieties of birds that have been seen there.

The grosbeaks did not go to the feeding station, however, but stayed in the apple tree where they fed on the apple seeds.

The grosbeaks are yellow, with white and black markings. Black-headed grosbeaks are even more rare here than the evening grosbeaks and at first glimpse Mrs. Wilkinson thought the birds she saw were the more rare variety.

It took diligent search through books of bird lore to properly identify them.
