Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I heard about a fellow named who always put a dollar and a dime in the church envelope for foreign missions, with this note: "The dime is for them heathens, and the dollar is for the missionaries to get it to 'em."

I want to pitch part of my sermon today around that thought. The reason we got such high federal taxes is because all the states in the Union is always running to Washington to get something. They demand "States Rights," but spend their time begging Washington for favors. The fellow on foreign missions, we send a dollar up there to fetch back a dime.

And what disturbs me is that it reminds me of the time the Indian and his dog. The Indian gave his dog a reward for faithful service a piece of the dog's own tail. The Indian started feeding the front end of his dog by cutting off a piece of the tail end. He kept this up till the dog had eat himself up. The story goes that ever time the Indian fed the dog a bite the dog licked his chops for more.

That's us, Mister Editor, on this federal aid business. Ever time we get that dime back we lick our chops for more. We've been feeding the front end from the back and so long that it's beginning to hurt us at both ends.

Some fellow said the other day that the United States was now in the Jackass Age. I figure the taxpayer is the king jackass of 'em all.

It's a sight in this world, for instant, how much the taxpayers must have to pay for all this literature the Government sends out to farmers. I got a pamphlet the other day explaining that a person in middle age is a fellow that has "survived infancy, childhood, and youth." I appreciate their artistic use of that word "survive." In this day and time if a fellow can weather them three stages of life he ought to live to be hundred. But I don't appreciate them using my money to print and mail out such junk.

Well, Mister Editor, I better knock off for this time. I see the mail man coming, and he's shore to have another communication from Washington. I reckon I can rotate my crops. You can't get no adjustment checks unless you "rotate," and the mail man probably has something telling me all about it.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Mrs. Schneider expects to remain in Germany a year.

She and Mrs. Chazan are scheduled to arrive at Chikago, France, Monday and will spend the night in Paris, leaving for Ulm the next day.

Some Michigan cities have made a practice of buying sites which are believed suitable for industrial development in this area are abundant water supply, central location in the rich Great Lakes market area, rapid and varied means of transportation and an adequate, skilled labor force.

Gage stated that preliminary planning in organizing of new firms has undergone great changes in recent years because of large-scale impact advertising methods making it possible to establish a commodity with the public before actual production has begun. For this reason, a new industry seeking a location to build now demands a site with all improvements—water, sewer, power, etc., in order that construction may be undertaken without delay and production begun in a comparatively short time.

Gage stressed the importance of such preparedness and recommended it for the Chelsea area.

Other factors making for a good industrial development "climate," according to Gage, are good educational, medical and recreational facilities; a tax policy which maintains equality in distribution of tax load on various land uses; a favorable official attitude on the part of the community's governmental body; and favorable unofficial approval in the attitude of people who live in the community. In connection with Gage's talk, a short film was shown, entitled "Michigan Means Business."

The business session at the meeting Tuesday included election of officers. A unanimous ballot was cast for the slate of officers as presented by the chairman of the nominating committee, Leon Shutes.

New officers are Lowell Davison, president; M. J. Anderson, vice-president; Thomas McClear, secretary; Jack Merkal, treasurer; and David Strieton and John Pierson, directors.

In addition to the Gas company officials, guests at Tuesday's meeting were Victor Kohsman, Ed. Iman, a representative of General Mills, who attended with William Blaess, and Howard Holmes, Louis Birch and Stan Policht.

Major General Dwight Beach, of Washington, D. C., left early Thursday to return to Washington after being called here Sunday because of the death of his mother, Mrs. D. E. Beach. His wife had been called to San Antonio, Texas, on Friday, because of the sudden death of her father, Colonel J. L. Clem, Jr., following a heart attack.

Dennis Gary Commended For Performance in College Aptitude Test

Dennis T. Gary, Chelsea High school senior, has been commended by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation for his outstanding performance on a nation-wide college aptitude test, according to Principal Charles Lane.

He was a runner-up in the 1957-58 Merit Scholarship competition and will receive a letter of recommendation by National Merit Scholarship Corporation for use in applying to colleges. John M. Stalnaker, President of NMSC, believes that the 7,500 students who received the commendation rank in the top one or two per cent in ability in the senior classes of their respective states.

"While students receiving this commendation did not quite reach the finals of the 1957-58 Merit Scholarship competition, each of them has demonstrated highly superior ability and outstanding promise to benefit from college training," declared Stalnaker.

"I hope that every one of them will make a special effort to obtain the best college education possible. Our country needs more able people like these."

The annual National Merit Scholarship competition offers the largest system of privately financed scholarships in the United States. The Merit Scholarship Program is open to all high school seniors in the United States and its possessions.

This year, more than 260,000 outstanding seniors from over 14,000 high schools entered the competition which began with a nation-wide screening examination in October, 1957. About 7,200 students, who have already been named, are now in the finals of the current competition. More than 1,000 four-year Merit Scholarships worth an estimated $6 million to the winners and their colleges will be awarded about May 1.

NMSC was established in 1955 through grant of private million from the Ford Foundation and Carnegie Corporation of New York.

Adolescents Help at Home

This is the third in a series of articles written especially for Michigan weekly newspapers on the problems of the "betweeners"—the young people between childhood and adolescence, between elementary and high school. The author is associate professor in the department of vocational education at Michigan State University.

By Dr. Mary Lee Hurt

East Lansing—Seventh and eighth graders are more enthusiastic about helping at home than older brothers and sisters whose friends and interests are beginning to take them out of the home more of the time.

A survey of this age group in three Michigan communities showed "betweeners" to be active and ambitious helpers at home.

They listed such activities as dusting furniture, washing and waxing floors, using the vacuum cleaner, making beds and helping when someone was ill.

They said they took care of their own rooms and their own pets. Many took care of gardens and lawns.

Some families depend upon their young people to assume considerable responsibility in helping with the cleaning and care of the house, especially when the mother works outside the home.

Girls show an interest in flowers and plants and the boys enjoy doing garden and lawn work outdoors. "Betweeners" take seriously their responsibilities in preventing accidents at home.

Parents and teachers might plan some learning experiences for young adolescents anxious to share responsibilities at home. They could put on demonstrations to show how to make a bed so all the covers will stay in, and explain how to care for the vacuum cleaner and to check over the home to remove conditions which would cause accidents.

AUDIO TV SET

Dallas, Texas—Sara Suwal, blind for twenty years, has the smallest television set in town. For obvious reasons, it has no picture tube. Yet Miss Suwal uses it instead of a radio.

The set is actually a small cabinet about the size of a table model radio, but its dial has numbers for TV channels. Plugged in, it picks up the audio-portion of television programs.

The set is built by the American Foundation for the Blind. Miss Suwal is employed by the Texas Commission for the Blind.

"Future Homemakers Week" March 24-28, will be observed by the local FHA group, according to plans formulated at a recent meeting. On Monday they will go on a field trip, Tuesday they are sponsoring a candy sale. Wednesday members will wear their colors, red and white, and will wear their pins. Thursday will be just a regular day, and Friday all the girls in the club will wear their clothes backwards.

They also discussed having a swimming party with the GAA or sponsoring a dance, but made no decision on either of these.

On Friday, March 21, the speech class will journey to Adrian for a speech contest where various members will participate in a series of competitive events. Those taking part are Peggy Miller, "The Human Comedy," and Shirley Dyar, "St. Joan," in dramatic reading; Nancy May, "These Brutal Young," in oration; Quentin Smith, "Green Pastures," in humorous reading; and Dennis Gary, "Current Events," in extemporé reading.

Senior band students spent an enjoyable afternoon at Ypsilanti on March 18. They left in their uniforms, about noon and arrived about 1 p.m. They were all eager to meet the members of the two other bands to play with them, Dexter and Roosevelt High. Dr. Lucien Cailliet, French composer of the music played by these students, was the conductor. He explained just why he put certain instruments on one part and certain other instruments on another part. In general, he explained why he composed his music as he did. This was a very interesting trip and most band members were delighted to go.

Members of the Annual staff have been working energetically under the supervision of advisor Mrs. LaGoe and Editor Nancy Mayer. They have been identifying pictures and writing copy. Proudly they announced that they successfully reached their deadline of March 17.

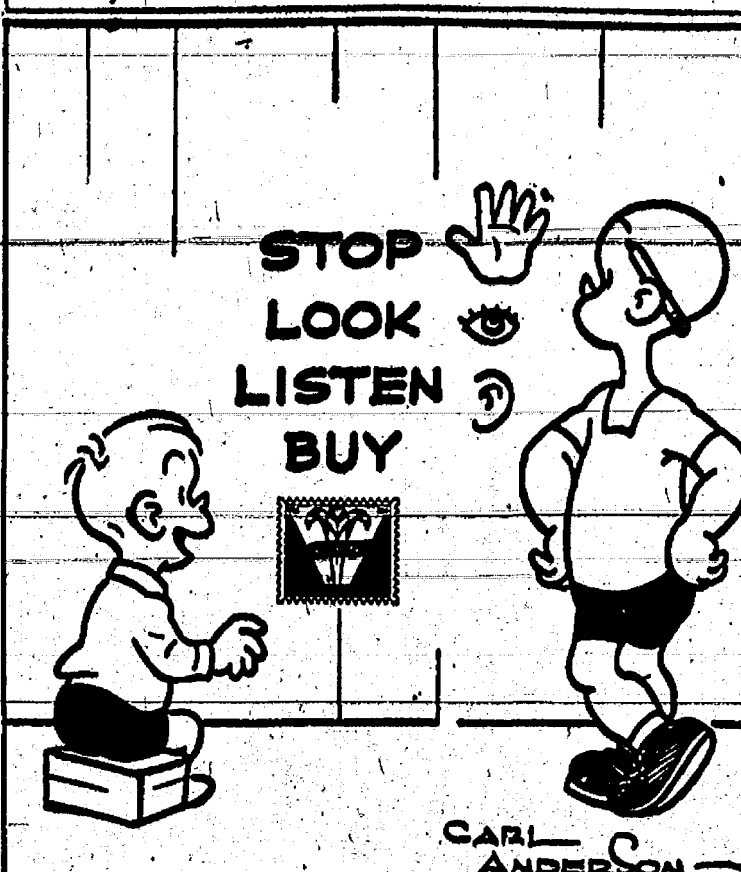

The choir practiced hard for the chorus festival, which was held March 18 at Roosevelt High Ypsilanti. They sang "Lord for Thy Tender Mercy's Sake" and "Hallelujah Amen" for the contest.

The Future Teachers have been receiving lectures on many colleges to help them decide which they would like to attend. Such colleges include Eastern and Olivet. The talks are given by the club's advisor Mr. Sanborn.

Art students are learning that there really is something to this "modern art." Inspired by movies on "How to Make a Mobile" and "Wire Sculpture" all have embarked on a mobile "campaign." Something very artistic can be made with household odds and ends.

There have been a number of movies shown during the past two weeks. Miss Fox showed "War Comes to America," "The ABC of Hand Tools" was shown by Mr.

Bill Now in Legislature Threatens State Highway Traffic Safety Record

Your chances of being killed or injured by a driver who shouldn't even be permitted on the highways will be greatly increased if a bill passed by the Michigan Senate is also passed by the House and signed by the Governor.

About two years ago, when people were shocked into action by the high number of traffic deaths, much study was given to ways to reduce accidents. It was decided that the best way to get quick improvement was to get accident-prone, consistent violators off the roads. As soon as this and other steps were taken, the number of traffic deaths did start downward.

The Secretary of State was authorized to set up a board of examiners to interview drivers whose records of arrests and accidents indicated they were a threat.

About 28,000 such hearings were held last year. In some instances driver licenses were revoked; in other cases suspended. Sometimes the driver was warned. All decisions were subject to review of the courts.

Now comes a senator to argue that the Circuit Court should conduct these hearings and decide what should be done with the drivers.

This is a job so big that circuit judges are appalled at the thought. They cannot handle it properly. Jammed circuit dockets are already a source of haggling. Cases are months behind in many instances.

If these 72 courts are given the huge task of holding 28,000 or more hearings per year, it is plain that most hearings will not be held. If hearings are not held, drivers who should be off the roads will be driving. More people will be killed, more property damaged.

Contact your representative and tell him you favor the existing plan which has resulted in thousands of lives being saved. Tell him you want a practical plan which will protect you and your family most when you are on the highway. Don't put it off. Do it now. Your representative will be interested in hearing your opinion before he votes.

Let Us Be Heard . . .

In 1958 it is to be hoped that the American people will again demand and insist on economy in government spending, and also urge an end to labor union monopoly power which enables union leaders to force wage increases far in excess of gains in productivity. Public apathy is the protector of both of these inflationary pressures.

During the last year we witnessed a widespread and insist demand for economy in government—probably the most determined and vocal demand of our generation.

The biggest ally of the two forces of inflation—public apathy—will disappear if everyone of us will make our demands heard.—Livingston County Press, Howell.

MICHIGAN MIRROR

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

If long range employment problems are to be solved with least hardship, it will take some real statesmanship on the part of industry and labor, said Sen. Robert E. Faulkner (R-Berrien).

He was referring to problems caused by increased automation. The senator remarked that it was all right to point to the great number of jobs caused by mechanization in the industrial revolution. "This is true," he stated. "But there is at least one important difference between the economy then and at present."

Stable price reductions resulted for the purchaser when the first machines boosted production, he pointed out. When the consumer receives part of the value of automation, it's good for the economy.

Recent automation, Sen. Faulkner reminded, had resulted in no such benefit to the consumer. In fact, prices have increased.

The problem today, the senator indicated, is to pass some of the savings resulting from automation on to the consumer. If labor or industry, or both together, try to keep all the benefits for themselves, the result can only mean fewer jobs and higher prices.

Write the senator was not optimistic that labor and industry will act now with the long range gain as an aim, he feels sure that there is no other sound and permanent solution.

Jobs for 2,000 more qualified people will open up in September and 11,000 more positions now occupied should be filled with better trained personnel.

These job openings are for school teachers.

Michigan's growing birth rate, though it has many economic and social advantages, causes a relentless problem for educators.

The enrollment in elementary schools has been growing at the rate of 70,000 students each year. This requires at least 2,000 more classrooms each year plus the space and facilities to service the increase.

Because of a shortage of completely qualified teachers, about 11,000 "partially" qualified people have temporary teaching certificates. According to Superintendent of Public Instruction Lynn M. Bartlett, these teachers should be upgraded in training so they can be issued regular credentials.

There is a total of 55,000 teachers working in grade and secondary schools of the state, so next year there should be 57,000.

Starting salary for a teacher with a four-year college degree and no experience is in the neighborhood of $4,100 for a 10-month year. The teacher who has special training in music, art, etc., can command a beginning rate between $2,000 and $400 higher.

After 15 years, during which time the teacher is expected to have earned a Master's degree, he might earn about $8,000 per year. A high percentage of teachers leave the field after only a few years with a school system, Bartlett referred to a survey by the National Education Association which shows that one-half of the teachers who started last year will have left teaching by 1982.

Some of these are girls who marry; others leave for better paying work.

A logical place for an ambitious teacher to move is into school administration. Consequently, there is a steady flow of good teachers into the ranks of the principal and superintendent offices.

Bartlett favors the idea that school administrators have teaching experience, but he is unhappy that a good teacher must leave teaching for administration if he is to receive higher salaries within the framework of the educational system.

To the young person considering teaching as a profession there are two things to think about. Teaching is gradually gaining headway economically. So far few teachers have been replaced by machines.

Michigan Week preparations are roaring along as innumerable people on state and local committees all over the state devise plans to promote advantages of this state between May 4 and 10. A double barrel theme has been adopted this year: Education and Water Resources.

The celebration comes earlier this year in order to fit better into school schedules. But moving up the period to avoid examination week also moves it into a time when weather is more likely to be cold enough to prevent outdoor programs which had been held in other years.

The best time for Michigan Week will be decided after this year's celebration when the early period has had an actual trial.

★ Deadlines

Everybody in the publishing business is conscious of deadlines. There comes a time when the paper must be "put to bed," and any news that happens after that, or any story which misses the deadline, is just too late to be included.

Deadlines aren't so deadly in the office of a weekly paper like The Standard, because most of the events of the week take place on some other day than publication day, thus allowing plenty of time for writing the story and setting the type.

The pressure is much greater at the city desk of a daily paper, for there the news has to be published within hours or minutes after it occurs.

In this world of time and space, there is no getting away from deadlines. If the farmer is to get his chores done, he has to be up at a certain time every morning. The commuter has to catch the 8:10, or he'll be late to work. The teacher has to do his home-work before he can go to bed at night.

Some of life's deadlines are seldom recognized until they are past. If a girl wants to be the hop-scotch champion of her town, she'd better do it before she's 11. If a boy wants to be a top-notch swimmer, he ought to know how before he's 13. The pupil who doesn't learn to study efficiently in high school probably will never be a great scientist.

Some deadlines are inevitable, but unpredictable. In wartime, D-Day is known to be approaching, but few people know how far away it is. If the stock market speculator could only know when the boom was going to end, he could make a killing—but he doesn't know.

There comes a time in every man's life when he is no longer eligible for life insurance, but few give any thought to this until the time has passed.

Two traditional certainties are death and taxes. The date of the latter is fixed by law; the former often comes without warning. Happy is the man who has his affairs in order so as to be ready for either.

If you knew that death would come one year from today, are there some things you'd like to do or say within the year? Better look after them right away, if they are important. For whether the year brings life or death, the wise man is the one who pays attention to things that are really important.

BY FORMAL RESOLUTION, adopted 93 to 1, the Senate urged President Eisenhower last week to loosen the federal moneybags on public works. Merely by speeding up appropriations on projects already approved, billions of dollars would pour into contracts and pay checks, sending a healthy surge through the economy. After inching through the tedious process of obtaining Congressional approval, which sometimes takes years, most of these projects are now in the budget waiting the green light for funds. Fast action would unwork a long list of civil works by the Corps of Engineers, National Park Service, Departments of the Interior and Agriculture.

Any plans to alter the excise tax on autos should be retroactive to March 1 and that is the basis on which we're considering it in Congress. It would protect car buyers who want to purchase now. At the moment it appears as if we have a chance of cutting the tax to 5 per cent rather than wiping it off the books entirely. Even that would save the consumer close to $800 million in 1958. The Treasury's revenue loss would be more than made up by new income taxes from the increased business and jobs following tax removal.

NEW HOUSING STARTS should zoom under a bill which passed the Senate last week, for which I voted. I also supported the increase of interest rates for veterans from 4 1/2 per cent to 4 per cent. This should ease the veteran's difficulties in getting mortgage money to house his family. Until now he has been hampered by an unrealistic interest rate.

The Treasury's revenue loss would be more than made up by new income taxes from the increased business and jobs following tax removal.

NEW HOUSING STARTS should zoom under a bill which passed the Senate last week, for which I voted. I also supported the increase of interest rates for veterans from 4 1/2 per cent to 4 per cent. This should ease the veteran's difficulties in getting mortgage money to house his family. Until now he has been hampered by an unrealistic interest rate.

BY FORMAL RESOLUTION, adopted 93 to 1, the Senate urged President Eisenhower last week to loosen the federal moneybags on public works. Merely by speeding up appropriations on projects already approved, billions of dollars would pour into contracts and pay checks, sending a healthy surge through the economy. After inching through the tedious process of obtaining Congressional approval, which sometimes takes years, most of these projects are now in the budget waiting the green light for funds. Fast action would unwork a long list of civil works by the Corps of Engineers, National Park Service, Departments of the Interior and Agriculture.

Any plans to alter the excise tax on autos should be retroactive to March 1 and that is the basis on which we're considering it in Congress. It would protect car buyers who want to purchase now. At the moment it appears as if we have a chance of cutting the tax to 5 per cent rather than wiping it off the books entirely. Even that would save the consumer close to $800 million in 1958. The Treasury's revenue loss would be more than made up by new income taxes from the increased business and jobs following tax removal.

HELP A HEART—Pat Taslerbeck, 2590 Little Trail, Walled Lake, Michigan, displays a poster, now being distributed widely by the Michigan Heart Association throughout the state. The poster graphically spells out the first-aid measures you should take to help someone who seems to be having a heart attack. The work of the Michigan Heart Association is made possible by public contributions to United Fund Campaigns last fall.

Washington Report

By Senator Charles E. Potter
The latest news from Washington of special interest to Michigan.

A FULL HEAD of Washington steam is building up for tax cuts and a speed-up in public works.

My recent urging that the Budget Bureau unhook more money for work on the Great Lakes connecting channels are receiving attention. The Bureau has informed me that it is drafting budget amendments to accelerate funds for this type of activity and that the channel work may be included.

I SPENT SEVERAL DAYS last week contacting top officials in an effort to spur action on automobile excise tax reduction. Right now this unfair levy stands at 10 per cent and you pay $250 federal tax on a $2,500 automobile. For four years I have fought the auto excise. Now, with more than 5 million workers throughout the U. S. jobless, getting rid of the tax is a good way of putting money into circulation and pepping up the economy.

CUB SCOUT NEWS

The monthly business meeting of the Cub Scouts organization was held at South Elementary school Tuesday evening, March 11, and plans were made for Cub Scouts to go swimming Saturday at Slauson Junior High school at Ann Arbor.

Also discussed was the Cub Scouts kite flying contest, sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary. The contest will be concluded with the actual flying project in a Freer road field of the Darwin Downer farm March 20, beginning at 1:30 p.m.

Erle Brady was to be in charge of cutting wood for the kites and Mac Packard was to provide the paper.

All Cub Scouts who wish to enter the contest must make their own kite from the materials provided.

Prizes are to be given for the best and neatest kite and for the one which flies the highest.

The Cub Scouts Pack meeting is to be held at South Elementary school Thursday March 27, at 7 p.m.

In 1854 the University of Michigan built a 37 1/2-inch reflecting telescope, then one of the three largest in the world.

How Valuable Is Local Newspaper Advertising To Local Business People?

Here's What the American Bankers Magazine Has To Say:

"No business man or woman in any town should allow a newspaper to go to press without his or her name and business-being mentioned somewhere in its columns. This does not mean you should have a whole, half, or even a quarter page advertisement in each issue of the paper, but your name and address should be mentioned, if you do not use more than several inches of space.

"A stranger picking up a newspaper should be able to tell what business is represented in a town . . . it's the best possible town advertiser. The man or woman who does not advertise does an injustice to himself or herself and definitely to the town."

Herb Estes Named County Chairman Of Michigan Week

Herb Estes, Ann Arbor Ford dealer, has been named Michigan Week chairman for Washtenaw county.

His appointment was announced today by Paul Carnahan, president of Great Lakes Steel corporation, executive regional chairman for southeastern Michigan which embraces Wayne, Macomb, Monroe and Oakland counties in addition to Washtenaw.

Last year, Estes was chairman of the state automobile dealers committee for Michigan Week.

An appeal for all citizens of the county to join in the state celebration which will be held the week of May 4 was made by Estes following his selection as county chairman. He said work of organizing the county and each community will go forward immediately.

Other Washtenaw county citizens already serving in important Michigan Week capacities are: Dr. Harlan Hatcher, president, University of Michigan, chairman state cultural activities board; Michael Church, extension division, University of Michigan, secretary cultural activities; Prof. Leland Stowe, University of Michigan journalism department, chairman national magazine committee, and Cleland Wyllie, managing editor information and news services, University of Michigan, state public relations board; Garnet Garrison, professor of journalism, University of Michigan, chairman of educational television, and Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, president Eastern Michigan College, Ypsilanti, chairman state committee for observance of Our Heritage Day.

A native of Perry, where he graduated from high school in 1930, Estes obtained a degree from

Michigan's Traffic Death Toll Now at Lowest Since 1949

Michigan's traffic death toll of 1,537 in 1957 was the lowest since 1949 when 1,444 persons were killed according to the final summary for the year compiled by the State Police.

The death rate of 5.3 per 100 million miles of travel was the lowest ever recorded in the state and well below the national rate of 5.9 Michigan ranked third among the large states.

The revised figures show a saving of 209 lives, or 12 per cent, as compared with 1956, a year in which there also was a substantial reduction.

There were 80,067 persons injured, a decrease of 1,091, or two per cent, and 191,915 reported accidents, a drop of 6,080, or three per cent.

Rural areas accounted for 71 per cent of the deaths in 1957, a reduction of 241 or 16 per cent, and the lowest total since 1954. Urban deaths decreased eight, or two per cent.

The saving in lives is considered the best measurement of the effectiveness of the intensified accident prevention program launched in the state after the bad record of 1956.

Chelsea Schools Use Series Of Aptitude, Progress Tests

In connection with the Parent-Teachers Association meeting scheduled for last night at Chelsea High school, a spokesman for the group prepared an explanatory list of aptitude and progress testing programs used in schools.

According to the PTA information, Chelsea schools, at present, carry out a program which includes intelligence tests every three years, using the Long-Thurstone system; achievement tests each year at the end of March, known as the Metropolitan Achievement tests; and each kindergarten class has a Metropolitan Reading Readiness test.

The PTA list explains that educational tests and measurements are used in schools principally to measure the achievements, intelligence and aptitudes of the pupils and may reveal special needs or abilities.

All intelligence tests are standardized, and the majority of achievement tests are also standardized, the PTA list points out. No one method of testing can

Entire State Under Test Program for Bang's Disease

Boards of supervisors in all of Michigan's 83 counties have passed resolutions requesting that their areas be declared test and compulsory slaughter counties as a part of the accelerated program to rid the state of brucellosis.
Brucellosis or Bang's disease is a highly contagious disease of cattle causing contagious abortion. It is transmissible to mankind from animals only, and takes the form of undulant fever. Brucellosis over the years has cost owners of cattle millions of dollars, which in turn has been reflected to the consumer in higher cost of meat.

Complete state coverage under the test and compulsory slaughter program was achieved recently when boards of supervisors of Ingham, Jackson, Lenawee and Hillsdale counties requested Director
G. S. McIntyre of the Michigan Department of Agriculture to include their areas under the program. The effective date will probably be within the next 45 days.

Other counties recently requesting the same declaration were Branch, Calhoun, Eaton, Lapeer, Macomb, Oakland and Washtenaw with Director McIntyre setting
April 15 as the effective date.
Under the program, cattle reacting positively to brucellosis test are ordered to slaughter within certain time limits established by Federal or State veterinarians conducting the program. When a herd owner complies with such an order, he is entitled to an indemnity payment in addition to the price of the carcass. This can amount to as much as $50 in the case of purebred animals and up to $25 in the case of grade animals.

"State-wide adoption of the test and compulsory plan," said Director McIntyre, "puts Michigan in the lead among states fighting this disease and will hasten the day when brucellosis will be eliminated in this state."

Michigan's Mackinac Straits bridge, according to David B.
Steinman, designing engineer, can bear a maximum load equivalent to a "continuous line of heavy trucks about 50 feet apart on each of the four lanes—a load which will probably never be obtained under actual conditions. Under ordinary heavy traffic the average load will probably be less than one-third of that load.

Choose Quality Coat When Shopping At Winter Sales

Choose wisely if you're buying a coat during the winter coat sale. A well-chosen coat can warm for several seasons, according to Lola Belle Green, extension specialist in clothing at Michigan State University.

Coats of good quality have many hidden values in materials, cut and workmanship. Imported fabrics of scarce fibers often cause the coat to be more expensive. Equally good looking and durable coats are available in less costly domestic materials.

This year dressy coats differ from coats for general wear more in fabric than by line. The dressy coats tend to have a soft or polished look. Often fabrics are blends of wool with cashmere, precious fur or perhaps nylon—these are lovely but may not stand hard wear like all purpose wools such as the tweeds. Present day tweeds are very fashionable and are really good buys for general purpose wear.

Soft fabrics are apt to pick up lint. This is often noticeable when you're looking at coats on the rack. And some materials are easily wrinkled. If the coat has definite wrinkles from hanging in the store, it will probably require frequent pressing to keep it looking nice.

A well-made coat keeps its good appearance and shape after long wear and many dry cleanings. Outside stitching in well matched thread is an indication of good workmanship. Look for buttonholes that are cut with the grain of the fabric. Off-grain buttonholes will stretch out of shape and hang open with wear.

Lining and the way they're put in show the hidden values of a coat. The quality of material in the lining should compare with the outer cloth. A good lining is smoothly and neatly fitted with expansion allowance in the back. If the lining material tends to fray easily, seams should have a generous allowance, and should be finished off with stitching so they won't pull out with wear or cleaning.

HANDY CHECKERS: An old broom handle, sawed into quarter-inch lengths, will make many handy-checkers for the kids.

Pleasant Lake Faculty Hosts Teachers Club

Teachers at Pleasant Lake school were hostesses for a dinner meeting of Western Washtenaw Teachers club, held at the school Monday evening.

The after-dinner program included a National Education Association (NEA) film strip entitled "Explosion of a Myth." The film illustrated the evolution of popular ideas of the teaching profession "exploding the myth that teaching was a job for spinsters and only. The growth of the field of teaching to its present-day level was brought out in interesting and informative sequence. The film was shown by Miss Mabel Fox of Chelsea High school, a guest at the meeting.

The club plans to invite other teachers as their guests at the April 28 meeting which also will be held at Pleasant Lake school.

Evening Philathea Continues Study of Race Relations

A continuation of the year's study course on the subject of race relations was the basis for the program at a meeting of Philathea Evening Circle of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist church.

The meeting was held Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Thomas Smith on Congdon street.

The program, as presented by Mrs. LeRoy Hoffman, brought out the fact that while there is no distinction of color or race in the Scriptures, either in the old or new testament, justifying their stand, many Christians do not always practice what they preach regarding the brotherhood of all men—that it is a matter of faith and not race or color.

Also discussed was the approach of churches to desegregation in church organizations and institutions—whether they will proceed voluntarily in the program that public institutions must follow in accordance with the law.

The devotional service, led by Mrs. George Atkinson, included the reading of Scripture passages and meditations pertaining to the approaching Easter season.

The April meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. George Atkinson.

NEW NATIONAL MONUMENT?
A bill to authorize construction of a new national monument in Washington, D.C., "symbolizing the ideals of democracy," has been approved by the House Interior Committee. The monument, which would cost an estimated $28,000,000, would be built with funds received in public subscription.

Style Show...

Anne Sorenson and Mrs. J. R. Seitz.

Linda Blaess, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Blaess, was also expected to be a model in the show, but became ill with the measles that day.

Outfits modeled included casual clothes, sports outfits, suits, dresses, hats, and accessories for women. Outfits for boys three to twelve years of age were also shown.

In addition to the 1958 fashions shown, the models wore gowns of the 1920's while the models wore gowns loaned by Miss Marian Schmidt of Jackson, formerly of Chelsea. One was a shrimp-colored knee-length dress which was worn at a J-Hop in Ann Arbor and the other a grey chiffon which originally cost $150 when it was chased in New York. Both were beautifully embroidered with beads. The shrimp-colored dress was modeled by Mrs. Robert Daniels while the grey creation was shown by Mrs. Jack Wellnitz.

Also providing an amusing note was the modeling of an old-fashioned, flowered, floor-length nightgown by Mrs. J. R. Seitz with her hair in curlers and carrying a lighted candle in a candlestick. She appeared as part of the showing of lingerie items.

Approximately 225 people attended the style show which opened with a short film showing how styles are brought to stores in all sections of the country. The film was entitled "Buyers' Market Week."

At the conclusion of the show Child Study club members served refreshments under the chairmanship of Mrs. Marion Dietle.

Fire Destroys Warehouse at Prison Camp

Fire of undetermined origin discovered late Wednesday night, March 12, destroyed a 30 by 250 foot warehouse and its contents at the Waterloo corrections camp of Southern Michigan Prison on Maute road west of Chelsea, Chelsea firemen responded when the call was received at 11:40 p.m. and remained on the scene until 4:15 a.m. Thursday.

The warehouse formed the stem of a T-shaped building and abutted the main camp office which contained records dealing with all of the state's 12 prison camps.

A fire wall between the wooden warehouse and the cinder block office building aided in successful efforts of firemen to confine the blaze to the warehouse.

Office records and furnishings were carried out of the building by inmates while flames raged through the wooden warehouse and threatened to spread to the roof of the office.

Large quantities of food, clothing and plumbing and sanitation equipment were destroyed in the flames. About 1 1/2 hours after the fire was discovered, firemen and inmates formed a human chain to salvage a truck load of canned goods from a refrigerated locker on the south side of the warehouse.

The south wall, which had formed the rear wall of the locker, had been burned away, permitting access.

Inmates joined with firemen in fighting the blaze, some receiving minor burns and injuries. None of the inmates was reported missing.

In addition to the Chelsea Fire Department, equipment and men fighting the fire were from Blackman, Henrietta, Leoni and Grass Lake in addition to a fire truck from Southern Michigan Prison.

The 10 fire trucks included two each from Chelsea, Henrietta, Leoni and Grass Lake.

Chelsea Fire Chief Ted Balmer said the Chelsea trucks poured on 5,500 gallons of water.

Estimates of the loss have reportedly been placed as high as $100,000.

After receiving a radio call from the Sheriff's Department that an escapee from the Southern Michigan State Prison farm at Jackson was believed to be hiding in this area, Chelsea police officers, Don Walz and Harold Owings, Jr., picked the prisoner up on North Territorial road.

The prisoner, Morrison White, was picked up at 3:45 a.m. yesterday, according to Police Department reports. He had been reported missing at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday, when he apparently walked away from the prison farm.
