Basketball Team Downs Pinckney

Face Crucial Test Friday Night Against Sharp U. High Squad

With the starters playing less than half of the game, the Chelsea Bulldogs steamrolled over the Pinckney last Friday night, 78-43, making it five in a row and bringing their conference record to 2-1.

The Bulldogs flashed an effective court press in the first half and led 19-10 after one period, and 34-14 at half time. In the third period, Chelsea outscored Pinckney, 23-11, but it was Pinckney outscoring Chelsea in the fourth quarter, 18-14.

The scoring for Chelsea was as follows: Daryl Keezer and Larry Call each collected 13 points; Alton Marsh had 12 points; Alton Marsh and Don Sexton each had 9 points; Homer Nixon, 8 points; Dave McLaughlin, 6; Ed Laughton, Charles Koenig, 3; and Danny Meyer, 2 points.

The Chelsea Junior Varsity overcame a very slow start, and defeated the Pinckney Junior Varsity by a 56-30 score.

Tomorrow night the Bulldogs journey to Ann Arbor to take on a very strong pack of U. High in a battle which will have much to do with the outcome of the Washtenaw Conference race. U. High, having lost once in the conference, to Saline, is a strong rebounding, hustling team with plenty of scoring punch. This is an opportunity for the Bulldogs to find out if their bark is worse than their bite, or if they are really as strong as some so-called experts say they are.

Lima Voters Okay Zoning Ordinance

By a three-to-one margin, Lima township electors voted Tuesday in favor of having a permanent zoning ordinance adopted by the township board June 16, 1960, go into effect at once.

The vote was 166 "yes" and 50 "no."

Lima township had voted down a permanent zoning ordinance in April 1954, and in 1957 an interim ordinance was put into effect.

The interim ordinance was renewed each year for the three-year limit permissible under the law and on June 16, 1960, the township board passed the present permanent zoning ordinance.

This permanent ordinance would ordinarily have gone into effect within 30 days, or July 16, 1960; however, a petition for a referendum was filed within the prescribed time and the referendum date was set for Jan. 10.

Lima was the only township left in Washtenaw county without either a permanent or interim zoning ordinance in effect prior to Tuesday's election.

We Cast Our Vote for Percentage Split of Votes in Presidential Election

The final figures are in on the Nov. 8 General Election. They show that 68,832,818 Americans voted in the presidential contest for a new record turn-out, as was forecast in pre-election days.

The vote was surprisingly close, when considering the total number of votes cast. The winner's total was 34,221,463 and the loser's 34,108,582. That's a difference of a little more than 100,000 votes.

The most striking thing about the election from the geographical standpoint is the strength Vice-President Nixon showed in the West and the strength Senator Kennedy showed in the South and East.

The final figures made it obvious that Kennedy's campaign was so successful that he could have won without receiving as many popular votes as Nixon. In the actual event, he received more popular votes but if the percentage Kennedy received were adjusted downward enough to give Nixon a slight popular vote margin, Kennedy would still have won enough electoral votes to be named President.

This can happen, of course, and has happened, and because of this possibility, legislation is being introduced in the new Congress to change the electoral college system. As far as democracy and democratic procedures are concerned we believe the fairest way to stage a presidential election would be to provide that each state give each major party candidate his proportionate share of the state's popular vote.

All Is Not Gravy in Retailer's Life

Every once in a while we hear a consumer complain about "excessive profits" retailers get from goods the consumer buys. When he hears of 25, 30 or 40 per cent mark-ups the retailer adds to wholesale prices the consumer somehow gets the idea that these mark-ups are all profit.

The consumer fails to realize that out of these mark-ups the retailer has to pay light, heat, rent, insurance, taxes, sales personnel and other expenses before he can make a penny for himself. The best lesson these mistaken consumers could have would be to get in business for themselves for a time. They would have a shocking revelation of the cost of doing business.

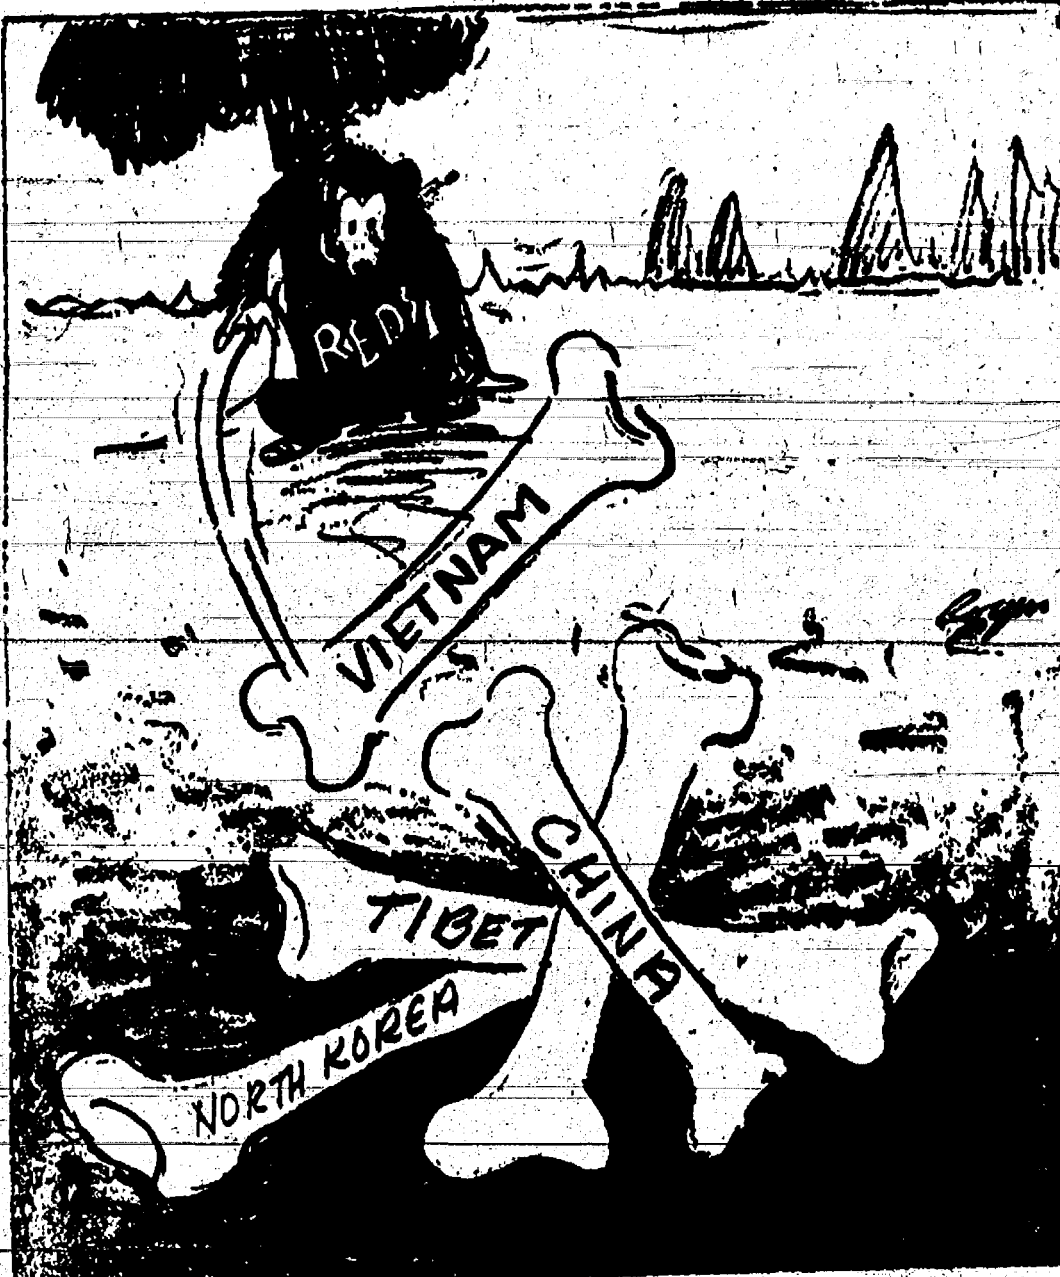

Since food is a major retail item it is interesting to note on what a narrow margin of profit grocery stores operate. The fifth annual survey of expenses and profits in the food chain industry, conducted by the Harvard Business School division of research in conjunction with the National Association of Food Chains, reveals that in 1959 net profits worked out to about 1.4 per cent of the sales dollar. This means that the grocery store had to sell $10 worth of groceries to make 14 cents profit.

This doesn't mean that it was a bad year for the grocery business. In 1958, the researchers found, the margin of profit was practically the same—1.38 per cent. Over the years the profit margins have been remarkably stable in the food business, in the general neighborhood of one and one-half per cent.

Summing up, the profit on food sales is so small, percentage-wise, that it would take an exceedingly savvy shopper to notice the difference if there were no profit at all. Generally, the same thing is true in other basic retail lines—profits commonly run around three cents on the sales dollar. The average retailer is not a profit gouger as some consumers think. Actually, here in Michigan, the sales tax retailers collect for the state usually dwarfs the profit they collect for themselves.

Middle age is when work is no longer play, and play is getting to be work.

1961: LAOS

MICHIGAN MIRROR

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

G. Mennen Williams has a habit of dealing with if he wants to do well in his new job as Assistant Secretary of State for African Affairs in the administration of John F. Kennedy.

Put simply, Williams must change the habit of speaking his mind in public on whatever issue he wishes or any question that is put before him.

For 12 years, Williams has been the public leader of the Democratic party in Michigan.

As such, he had to answer primarily to himself for any view he might express on any issue. In short, Williams was the chief policy maker of the particular organization which he represented and as such he was a leader to be followed.

In Washington, it is a different story.

As a member of the Kennedy "team," Williams must be extremely cautious not to embarrass or offend the administration. His job, though it may truly deal with more important questions than he faced in Michigan and be of greater significance from the standpoint of world government.

affairs, is nevertheless that of a underling.

That Williams recognizes the difficulty of his new role is certain.

He has admitted he will miss the "individual eminence" which he had as governor. As he made the transition, Williams said he "can't say very much now because now I don't speak until I hear the leader speak."

The adjustment is, of course, one which many people have made before Williams.

But Williams served as a chief of state for much longer than most who leave to become Indians in the way party of another. He also held a special position among Democrats and was even instrumental in helping his new boss get elected President.

Still, there is no doubt that the habit of 12 years will be hard to break, even for a man of Williams' intellectual ability.

Dignified Otis M. Smith, Michigan's Auditor General and the first Negro to be elected to state-wide office, takes himself and his job seriously.

Above all, he believes in his own real ability to do the job to which he was elected.

Smith is proud to be the first of his race to attain such a high position, but he is also cognizant of the fact that it was ability and not inheritance that brought him to a position of leadership.

He also seems to feel deeply the gratitude and humility toward the people who elected him that some politicians might sham.

Smith compiled a distinguished record as an attorney, and as chairman of the Public Service Commission before Gov. G. Mennen Williams appointed him Auditor General to fill the vacancy created when Frank Szymanski left to take a Wayne county judgeship.

Smith's election apparently came, not because of the fact that he is a Negro, nor in spite of it, but because voters felt he had demonstrated that he could do the job.

"Yellow jaundice," the liver-damaging ailment which is really infectious hepatitis under another name, hit a peak in Michigan during 1960.

State health department officials said the disease should decrease slightly in 1961, if it runs true to its pattern of reaching a peak every six or seven years.

The more than 2,000 cases of the disease reported in the state last year came close to doubling the previous record, set in 1954.

Michigan mirrored a national increase in the disease during 1960. Sanitation breakdowns in certain communities during an unusually wet spring season were largely to blame for the jump, officials said.

Infectious hepatitis spreads through the intestinal-oral route, the doctors said.

Best protection against the disease is a high degree of personal cleanliness, with frequent hand washings a necessity. Winter and spring, when family members are in frequent close contact, are the peak times for outbreaks.

The fundamental justification for our public schools is the development of pupils rather than the testing of educational systems and theories of teaching.

Michigan's Unemployed Present Problems

When President-elect Kennedy pledged help to the depressed areas of the nation where 600,000 workers are unemployed, he did not explain that a third of this surplus labor is in Michigan.

At mention of Michigan, the incoming President probably covers his eyes with his two fists—and whimpers.

With help from Vice-President-elect Johnson, he disposed of the "Williams Problem" by assigning the Governor to Africa. He apparently plans to make Walter Reuther a delegate to the United Nations, hoping to forestall union criticism of the contemplated automobile strike this year turns out badly for the UAW. He still is searching for a solution to the "Staeble Problem" now that Democratic State Chairman Neil Staeble has been turned down for the party's national chairmanship.

But far more important than these political problems is the economic headache in Michigan described in the report to Kennedy by his labor task force headed by Senator Douglas, of Illinois.

So skillful are Democrats in mentioning the blight in this northern Democratic stronghold the new administration's handout, to the press did not mention Michigan by name. It glossed over us as "the upper Great Lakes."

The report to the newspapers reviews employment in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin, spelling out the names of these states. It then declares that there is a serious depressed area in the "upper Great Lakes."

If Senator Douglas needs to refresh his memory about geography, he will find that Michigan is the only remaining "upper Great Lakes" state qualifying for the dubious honor.

In this mysteriously unidentified area, according to Senator Douglas, there are close to 200,000 chronically unemployed.

For one reason or another, undoubtedly acceptable to Williams and Staebler, the report does not say that the total of unemployed climbed in Michigan during 1960 despite a slight increase in employment in the automobile industry.

According to Max M. Horton, director of the Michigan Employment Security Commission, unemployment jumped to 227,000 early in January.

At least 80,000 of these workers are unskilled.

Another 80,000 are semi-skilled. There is slight hope that many of these jobs—nearly all of them arrivals in Michigan during the last six or eight years—will find work.

They will be compelled to leave or spend the rest of their lives here drawing welfare, aid to dependent children and other special assistance.

Horton provided one ray of hope for the state's taxpayers in his year-end report. He said 56,500 of the jobs disappeared during the year and that of this great emigration, 49,200 left the Detroit area.

With their wives and children, this reversal in the population flow should mean a considerable saving in welfare expenditures.

Detroit's Mayor Miriani gave impetus to the exodus two weeks ago by ordering his police department to halt the unprecedented crime wave in the metropolis.

The Mayor indignantly declared that women should not venture alone on the streets at night in mixed neighborhoods that ran now averages one a day; that 15 persons were murdered in 1960; that 18,000 homes and business places were burglarized last year and that 5,000 innocent citizens were assaulted.

Like the writer of this column when he protested last summer that Detroit has not been attracting desirable new residents, Mayor Miriani is being blasted by the NAACP for this war against crime.

As a result of Senator Douglas' investigation, President-elect Kennedy will ask Congress to help Michigan and the other depressed areas by undertaking an immense housing and re-development program.

Michigan taxpayers would be compelled to foot a far larger part of the total cost than the state will receive.

This is the Democratic pattern for a strong, liberal, paternal Federal government.

But don't forget: Despite automation, employment in the automobile industry went up 2.7 per cent in Michigan in 1960.

Next time you see a truck on the road, picture some of the things you buy right along... or have in your home... or hope to own some day... and you'll have the inside story on what that truck's carrying. For it's a fact that everything you eat, wear or use travels part or all of the way to you in trucks. The familiar things that are required to run a household—or a business—they all depend on trucks to get where they're needed. So, you see, the real inside story is that trucks are absolutely essential to your everyday living!

Soil Conservation District To Elect One New Director

The Washtenaw Soil Conservation District will hold the 11th annual meeting at 8 o'clock this evening in Room 1 in the basement of County Building at Ann Arbor. Everyone interested is welcome to attend. One director is to be elected—the term of Donald Baldus of Webster township expires at this time. He is a candidate for re-election and other nominees are Neil Heller, of Webster township, and Lloyd Boyce of Lima township. Nominations may also be accepted from the floor at the meeting. The evening's program opens with a short conservation movie. Following the annual report and election of a director, a film strip well illustrated and narrated, will be shown on the topic "Communism on the Map." The Michigan Farm Bureau is providing the program material which shows how Communism "may affect your everyday life." Conservation displays by 4-H clubs and FFA Chapters will be exhibited. The County Building parking lot will be open for use by people who attend the meeting.

pective members are to meet at 7 p.m. and senior members and prospective members are scheduled to meet at 7:30 p.m. At this meeting the group will organize and elect officers. Approximately 30 people have shown an interest in the club and others interested are invited to attend. Among those already identified with the club are some from Munnith, Gregory, Waterloo, Grass Lake and Dexter, as well as the Chelsea people. Dr. L. J. Paul or the Rev. Philip Ruster may be contacted for further information, if desired. However, everyone interested may attend the Jan. 16 meeting. If you love luxury and hate gas pumps

... then you'll love the Buick Special! You get Buick comfort, ride and go—plus real gas savings to boot!

The Buick Special is 100% Buick—with everything that means. Like Buick go, for example. A new 155-h.p. aluminum V-8 gives you more size than many a big car. And, because aluminum turns deadweight into live action, the miles per gallon figures are most delightful. Then there's Buick comfort—big roomy comfort for heads, hips and legs. There's also Buick's "all-day" ride, Buick's Clean Look of Action and Body by Fisher—all priced less than most models of the low-price field! Come guest-test the Special at your Buick dealer's—but come prepared to lose your heart!

Tucson, Ariz. — Barmaid Alice Shoaf doesn't mind her loud customers. A silent young man startled her when he produced an age card with someone else's picture. "This isn't your card," she said, "it can't serve you."

Without saying a word, the youth reached across the bar, slapped the barmaid's face and walked out.

County Roads Need Nearly $57 Million in Next 20 Years

Washtenaw County Primary and secondary roads in the next 20 years will need about $57 million dollars, H. G. Minier, Superintendent of the Washtenaw County Road Commission, said today.

Washtenaw county roads need a staggering $5.5 billion dollars for construction and improvement program that must be completed in the next 20 years to avoid rural traffic jams in Michigan. John H. Minier, Engineer-Elector of the County Road Association of Michigan, said, "The estimate of needs made by a corps of 100 road engineers after 18 months of study."

These needs will be presented to the 1961 State Legislature for their consideration and necessary action.

Minier said, "Washtenaw county needs total about 38 million dollars in the next two decades for the 400-miles of Primary road system in the county."

Washtenaw county at the present time is receiving about $900,000 per year for the maintenance and construction of the Primary system. For the 20-year period this would amount to approximately 18 million dollars. This leaves the Primary road system about 15 million dollars short of the estimated needs for Washtenaw county's Primary system during the next 20 years.

The breakdown of the needs for Washtenaw county's Primary system is as follows: grade, drain, base construction, and blacktop surface—11 million dollars; grade, drain, base construction, and bituminous concrete surfacing—5 million dollars; grade, drain, base, and concrete surfacing—4 million dollars; replace or re-construct 20 bridges—1.2 million dollars; construct 3 railroad grade separation structures—5 million dollars; install railroad crossing protection at 17 crossings—2 million dollars; engineering planning costs—1.1 million dollars; and necessary maintenance over the 20-year period—10 million dollars.

"Local road needs in Washtenaw county," Minier said, "are 24 million dollars for the next 20 years. The Washtenaw County Road Commission at the present time is receiving about $350,000 per year as Washtenaw county's share of the Motor Vehicle Funds for the maintenance and improvement of 830 miles of Local roads and subdivision streets and 88 bridges on the Local road system. This would amount to about 7 million dollars over the period of the next 20 years. This would leave the local road system about 17 million dollars short of the necessary funds to cover the estimated needs for the Local road system of Washtenaw county for the next two decades.

The breakdown of the needs for Washtenaw county's Local roads and subdivision streets is as follows: 231 miles of improved gravel roads—5 million dollars; 266 miles of grade, drain, base construction, and blacktop surface—8.5 million dollars; 46 miles of blacktop with storm drainage and curb and gutter—2.6 million dollars; re-construct 27 bridges—4 million dollars; replace 14 bridges—6 million dollars; install railroad crossing protection at 8 crossings—$68,000; engineering planning costs—8 million dollars; and necessary maintenance over the next 20 years—about 8 million dollars.

It is apparent from the above that under Michigan's existing Highway Financing Law, Washtenaw county is receiving only 54 per cent of the necessary funds to meet the estimated Primary road needs over the next 20 years, and only 30 per cent of the required funds to meet the estimated needs on the Local road and subdivision street system in Washtenaw county for the same period.

Open House Set by Co-Op Nursery

The "blue polka-dot door" will again swing open for the annual open house of the Chelsea Co-Operative Nursery on Sunday, Feb. 26, from 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. The nursery, located at 11000 Dexter-Chelsea Rd., invites the community to plan to attend and see the facilities available for three- and four-year-olds and the Chelsea areas.

The Nursery expanded its program this month to two sessions—the three-year-olds attend in the morning and the four-year-olds attend in the afternoon. The children now enjoy activities especially designed for their age group.

Mrs. Raymond Schaefer, teacher for both sessions, will be at the Nursery during the Open House to answer questions pertaining to the program for the children and the opportunities that nursery school offers.

Adult visitors are welcome to observe a regular session of school any time. They should contact Mrs. J. V. Burg, II, of Chelsea, or Mrs. Waldron Vaughan of Dexter for an appointment.

The next business meeting will be Feb. 2 at the home of Mrs. John Zimmer, 418 Dale, Chelsea.

In the University of Michigan College of Engineering, no faculty member, regardless of rank, is provided with an individual office.

Next to making a speech, about the most useless thing is listening to one.

Jaycee Awards...

of leadership and service to the community during the calendar year.

Judges for the DSA award were the Rev. S. D. Kinde, Robert Foster, and W. P. Leonard.

Robert Daniels was last year's DSA award winner.

The Jaycees committee in charge of selecting the DSA winner included Lyle Chriswell and Ron Branham.

Don Johnson, agricultural extension agent for Washtenaw county, as guest speaker at the awards dinner, congratulated Baldwin and Van Riper for having received the Jaycees distinguished service and outstanding young farmer award, respectively, and said presentation of the two awards at the same time served to accentuate his own personal belief that the profession of agriculture is equally as important as any business or profession and that each has equal responsibility toward the other.

This responsibility, he said, covers first of all the area of public relations. He explained that most people not directly related with agricultural activities have a distorted idea that the farmer is being subsidized at the expense of city taxpayers, business and industry and that farmers are an underprivileged class. This is a gross misconception, Johnson pointed out, saying that we should have the highest regard for our farmers, particularly in this area.

Washtenaw county farming, Johnson said, is a 13- to 14-million-dollar-a-year business with an average investment of $60,000 per worker. Some farmers, he said, have as much as $100,000 invested in barns, alone.

Average value of farm land and buildings in Washtenaw county, as taken from the 1950 census figure, is now $41,000 as compared to $25,000 five years ago. Farmers often have a similar amount invested in livestock, machinery and equipment, Johnson said.

He quoted the "average" figures to bring out the point that farming is a good business—a big business—that farmers themselves should be proud of their profession and others should realize this in respect and farming in the same measure as any industrial or business venture.

Saying we should be particularly proud of our farmers in Washtenaw county, he admonished that farmers should reciprocate by also being proud of the businessmen and industrialists in the area. He cited the Chelsea-Manchester and Saline areas, especially, as having gone a long way in business-farmer co-operation as evidenced by the success of their community fair projects.

Continuing his theme of mutual respect, he said that farmers, industrialists, business and professional people have just cause for community pride, as well, if they will but stop and think that Washtenaw county and Michigan are recognized not only for industrial and agricultural progress but for educational and cultural advantages, as well. He mentioned the University of Michigan; Eastern Michigan University; Michigan State University; all "firsts" of their kind; and said high schools of Washtenaw county and Michigan have served as patterns for others throughout the country.

Research carried on at the University has served to focus world-wide attention on Washtenaw county and Ann Arbor, the county seat, Johnson reminded his audience.

New Football Scoreboard Is Greatly Enjoyed

School Superintendent Charles S. Cameron this week made special mention of the new football scoreboard at the Chelsea High school athletic field, saying it was a "most welcome addition to the school's athletic facilities."

The football scoreboard was a project of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and was completed last September before the start of the home football games.

Superintendent Cameron said, "The football games were more enjoyable to the fans because at a glance the scoreboard showed the score, the quarter, time remaining in the quarter, the down and yards to go."

The scoreboard and the installation costs were financed through the contributions of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Kiwanis club, the Dads' club, the classes of 1951, 1952, 1953, 1954, 1955, 1956, 1957, and an anonymous donor for the class of 1961.

The football players, the students, teachers, administrators and the school board have expressed their appreciation to the donors for the addition of the athletic facilities through the superintendent of schools.

LONG RANGE POLARIS
The range of the Polaris missile to 2,800 miles by early 1964 is the hope of the American rocket experts.

Polaris missiles were tested in recent months with a range of 1,200 miles. The most recent range reported is 1,700 miles.

Vice Adm. W. F. Raborn, head of the Polaris program said his program is being stepped up in order to achieve this year sooner than originally expected.

Business Population Levels Off After Post-War Boom

The business population of Washtenaw County has held steady over the past year following more than a decade of growth which saw the number of businesses in the county grow from 1,487 in 1947 to 2,040 in 1959, an increase of 37 per cent. Listings for 1960 totaled 2,029.

These figures were released by Willard S. Garrison, District Manager of the Detroit office of Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., in connection with the annual mailing of requests for financial statements to county businessmen.

According to Garrison, each January business concerns in all parts of the United States are asked by Dun & Bradstreet for copies of their financial statements. This year requests are being sent to approximately three million business concerns to the corner grocery store as well as to businesses worth millions.

The Dun & Bradstreet reference book lists those manufacturers, wholesalers, and retailers who seek or grant commercial credit but it does not include some of the service and professional businesses such as beauty and barber shops, security dealers and real estate brokers. Therefore, the figures for total business in the United States would be higher than the three million quoted above.

Using the Dun & Bradstreet reference book listings as a guide, it is interesting to review what has happened in the principal county communities during the past year:

	1959	1960	1961
Ann Arbor	974	977	724
Chelsea	101	103	87
Dexter	79	72	34
Manchester	64	64	46
Milan	108	125	88
Saline	74	73	56
Whitmore Lake	47	48	24
Willis	13	20	10
Ypsilanti	563	551	407

All this talk about what the youngsters are doing is silly, especially to adults who recall what they did when children.

The reason some people have so few friends is that they think a friend should give them something for nothing.

30 Days for Gas Thefts

Phillip J. Thomas, 18, of Ann Arbor, and Robert F. Manning of Jackson Rd., Lima township, were sentenced Thursday to 30 days in the Washtenaw County Jail and ordered to pay fine and court costs of $85 each or spend an additional 30 days in jail on charges of stealing gasoline. They appeared for sentencing Thursday after pleading guilty last week to charges of attempted simple larceny and simple larceny, respectively.

They were arrested at 1 a.m. on Dec. 23 after Harold Guenther, a Dexter township farmer, had caught them siphoning gasoline from a storage tank near his home. Guenther fired several shotgun blasts at Thomas, Manning and a companion, Roy Lee Root, 18, of Ann Arbor, as the three tried to escape.

Root, a serviceman on leave, pleaded guilty Dec. 27 to attempted simple larceny and was sentenced to two days in jail and paid fine and costs of $35.

County's Oldest Resident Dies Thursday at 101

Mrs. Elizabeth Pettibone, mother of Earle Pettibone, 2220 North Dancer Rd. and grandmother of Mrs. Floyd Fowler, 2250 Dancer Rd., died Thursday evening at Colonial Manor Nursing Home where she had been a patient the past six months.

Mrs. Pettibone who observed her 101st birthday, July 23, 1960, is believed to have been the oldest Washtenaw county resident at the time of her death. Her age was 101 years, five months and 12 days.

She was born July 23, 1860, at what is now US-23 and Packard Rd., then known as Carpenter's Corners, in Pittsfield township. Her parents were Adam and Christine Unkel Böhnet.

She was married May 30, 1882 to Lyman B. Pettibone. They farmed in Superior township until 1926 when they moved to Ypsilanti.

Mr. Pettibone died April 10, 1940. Since her husband's death Mrs. Pettibone had made her home with her daughter, Mrs. George Parker of Ann Arbor, and her sons, Earle, of Dancer Rd., and Roy Pettibone of Farmington.

Surviving, in addition to the daughter and two sons are nine grandchildren, 18 great-grandchildren and eight great-great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Pettibone was a member of Jehovah Witnesses church at Ypsilanti.

Funeral services were held at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Staffan Funeral Home, C. E. Silaway of the Jehovah Witnesses church at Ann Arbor, officiated.

Interment took place at Highland cemetery, Ypsilanti.

G.O.P. PLANS TO MODIFY

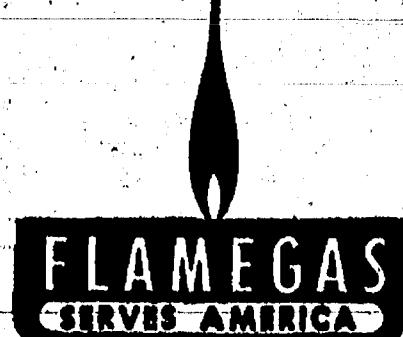

Senator Everett McKinley Dirksen stated that the Republican aim in its new Congress would be to modify, not oppose, President-elect Kennedy's program.

In the legislative field, Mr. Dirksen made it clear, Republicans expect to get the kind of support for conservative action they have had in the past from many Southern Democrats.

He insisted they had no intention of trying to make a battle out of hearings on Cabinet appointments.

Human nature, being what it is, men and women constantly seek excuses for their own shortcomings.

Music Teachers Will Attend Midwest Conference at U-M

David Lindsay, instrumental music director, and David Sanborn, vocal music director in Chelsea schools, will be among the more than 1,500 music teachers who are expected to attend the 10th annual Midwest Conference on School Vocal and Instrumental Music to be held at the University of Michigan, tomorrow and Saturday.

Co-sponsored by two departments of the Michigan Education Association—the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association and the Michigan Music Educators Association, along with several other music organizations—the conference is scheduled for the Michigan Union, the Rackham Building and the Michigan League.

Featured at the conference will be choral and instrumental sessions, panel discussions, general meetings, audio-visual sessions and vocal and instrumental recitals.

Highlight of the two-day conference will be a University of Michigan concert, to be held in the Hill Auditorium, January 13, at 8 p.m. Performing will be the University of Michigan Symphony Band, combined choir and Symphony Orchestra. Conductors are to be William D. Revelli, Maynard Klein, and Josef Blatt. The University of Michigan will present a mid-winter concert in the Hill Auditorium January 15 at 4:15 p.m.

This concert is open to the public and is of special interest to Chelsea area people because of the fact that a Chelsea student, Byron Pearson, plays the cornet with the symphony. The orchestra will be playing some of the music which will be part of the group's repertoire when they tour Russia. The group leaves for Russia in February.

Featured soloist at the concert is to be Rafael Mendez, professional trumpet player.

Other major events during the conference will be the presentation of a citation to Dr. Joseph E. Maddy, professor of music, University of Michigan, and president of the National Music Camp; and an address by Marten ten Hoor, dean emeritus, College of Arts and Sciences, University of Alabama. Dr. Maddy will receive the award from the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association upon his retirement from the university.

Instrumental recitals, choral recitals and string ensemble presentations will be featured by selected university and high school bands, orchestras and vocal groups from various parts of the state.

The annual winter meeting of the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association will take place at 7 p.m. Saturday in Rackham Lecture Hall, with the MSBOA president, Richard Snook of Grosse Pointe, in charge.

MYSTERY FARM NO. 152 was recognized as 13225 North Territorial Rd., until yesterday when Charles Curtis called The Standard office and correctly identified it.

Only One Reader Identifies Sterling Farm Home on North Territorial Road

The farm at 12670 North Territorial Rd., originally shown in a photo which appeared without identification in the Jan. 5 issue of The Standard, is the property of Mrs. Rebecca Sterling, widow of J. Gordon Sterling.

Mrs. Sterling is spending some time with relatives in Des Moines, and could not be reached for a detailed history of the place. Two months ago, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Braumbaugh and family moved to the farm and soon after that Mrs. Sterling left of Iowa.

The Braumbaughs have three small children—Gary who attends kindergarten in Chelsea, Greg and Maria.

Sterling served as supervisor of Dexter township from 1948 until his death, Aug. 17, 1959.

He and Mrs. Sterling came to Chelsea in 1937 after he had served 10 years as coach at Battle Creek High school and 10 years at the Detroit Athletic Club.

From 1944 until his retirement in March, 1959, he was employed at Federal Screw Works.

Basil Reiley who lives at 13225 North Territorial Rd., was the only person who correctly identified the Sterling farm.

The men at Blaess Elevator Co., who customarily are among the first to identify the photographs of area farms which appear each week in The Standard, failed to call the office on this farm.

AID TO LAOS RESUMED

WINTER LOGGING 'CUTS' DEER LOSSES—The steady whir of a power saw or solid whacking of an axe are happy winter sounds in the deer huddled in northern Michigan swamps. They often mean the difference between survival (lower left) and starvation (lower right), especially when the going gets rough. Last winter's deeryard cuttings on state lands alone provided enough on-the-spot browse from felled trees to carry an extra 40,000 whitetails through the crucial months. Other cuttings were made on 90,000 acres of federal and private lands. In addition to toning down deer starvation during the winter, the timber harvest stimulates new seedlings and sprouts to produce a year-round supply of good deer food for about the following 10 years—if the size of the deer herd is properly controlled.

Winter Logging Operations Provide Needed Deer Food

Lansing—Deer range management has come a long way in this state since the lumberjack first started clearing away pine and hardwood from northern Michigan in the 1850's.

The logger of this early era unconsciously pioneered the biggest and best deer food improvement program in Michigan's history. Brush and young trees thrived in his wake. His double-bitted axe meant plenty of low, young growth and plenty of deer.

There was one big drawback, however. Cuttings were fine for deer at first, but the lumberjack gave no thought to future timber production. It was inevitable that this time of plenty would end, and it did around the turn of the century following a siege of sweeping slash fires.

Forest fire control, reforestation, and time allowed the forest to gradually build up again. The deer herd came back, too, reaching its all-time peak during the 1945-50 period.

History has been a stern, but helpful teacher of wise deer range management. The early lumberjack showed the merits of timber cutting as a practical tool for improving deer range. Equally important, he pointed the way to using this sharp tool for a sustainable yield of deer and timber. The "cut-and-get-out" philosophy was dead.

As in other areas of conservation, range management has evolved today into a program for multiple-use benefits.

During this time of year its most dramatic dividends go to deer in the form of browse from timber cuttings. The steady whir of a power saw or solid whacking of an axe are happy winter sounds to deer huddled in swamps of the upper and northern lower peninsulas. They often mean the difference between survival and starvation.

Last winter's timber harvest on state lands boosted the carrying capacity of the herd's range in 1965 by an extra 120,000 animals. Conservation Department biologists estimate it produced nearly $2,400,000 worth of winter browse and new food for deer.

Deer-feeding experiments and browse-plot studies at the Department's Cusino wildlife station shed more light on this. Average cuttings supported 2.6 deer per acre by producing food equal to about 80 tons of hay for every 40 acres of state lands under cutting permit. One ton of good hay properly distributed in deer-yarding areas would have cost at least $50.

Figures used thus far apply only to logging operations on state lands. Cuttings were also made on 90,000 acres of federal and private lands during the winter of 1965-66.

This means that timber was harvested at or within one mile of deer yards on some 154,000 acres in the state last winter. At first glance, the figure seems quite high. Actually, it represents only about six per cent of the herd's winter range and less than one per cent of the total northern deer range.

If cuttings work so well, why doesn't the Department see to it that timber is harvested on more land? Well, first of all, there are 2,500,000 acres of deer winter

Help Offered on Income Tax Returns If You Get Stuck

The Detroit District Office of the Internal Revenue Service today announced plans for assisting taxpayers in preparing their 1965 Federal Income Tax Returns.

This year, the various Internal Revenue offices will designate a Special Assistance Day. On this day, extra personnel will be available so taxpayers visiting the offices will quickly receive answers to their questions. A great number of taxpayers can save a trip by telephoning their local Internal Revenue office.

R. I. Nixon, District Director, urged taxpayers to:

1. Read the instructions and start the return.
2. If you have a question, call your local Tax Information number.
3. If you need further help, visit your nearest Internal Revenue Service office on the Special Assistance Day.

range. The State owns less than one-third of this. A large percentage of the timber land that is ready for cutting is privately owned.

Secondly, multiple-use comes in to the picture. Consideration must be given to managing the range for timber production as well as for deer. Also, wood products must be marketed. Market conditions call the shots in the logging business. When there is a poor market, things are slow for loggers.

Last but not least, much of the timber is out of the best deer food stage, but not yet big enough to cut profitably.

In spite of these limitations, range management can continue to make progress in the years ahead. New markets for less valuable forest products have already started to help. State and national forests are stepping up their cutting programs, when and where sales are possible. Private hunting clubs are working with pulp companies to get their timber harvested.

The real test of progress, of course, will be the deer herd's size. Unless it is kept in balance with its food supply, range management will be a losing cause.

CAB MAY HIKE AIR-FARE—The Civil Aeronautics Board has decided to allow the airlines much greater rate of return on their investment than they are now earning. This could mean a substantial boost in fares.

The CAB decision appeared to open the way for the twelve domestic trunk airlines to ask fare increases.

Industry sources said it was unlikely, however, that there would be any rush to do this.

State-Wide Math Competition Open To High Schoolers

George R. Bergman, Chelsea school counselor, has announced that the fourth annual prize competition in mathematics will take place throughout Michigan on March 2 and that Chelsea High school also will participate.

This state-wide competition is intended to foster a wider interest in mathematics and to focus attention on the important position of mathematics in every well-rounded educational program and in most professions and trades.

Any Michigan high school student is eligible to enter the competition. A fee of 50 cents is assessed each contestant to help defray the cost of printing, mailing and grading the examinations. Interested Chelsea High school students should pay the fee and register within the next two weeks, Bergman pointed out.

Approximately 60 college scholarships, ranging from $100 to $600 will be awarded by sponsoring organizations to those contestants with outstanding performance in the competition.

Medals and certificates of merit will be awarded to those who finish with high standings less than those winning scholarships.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

TROOP 48
At the Jan. 6 meeting of Girl Scout Troop 48, an executive session was held and discussed, as an opening activity suggested by the leaders, the discussion took place during the "gripe period" which takes place at the first meeting of every month.

The girls have resumed badge work.

Girls of the troop chose Lauralyn Johnson and Cynthia Hepburn as representatives who are to attend a Girl Scout planning board meeting at the First Baptist church, on Huron St., Ann Arbor.

As a closing activity at Friday's meeting, the girls told what they received for Christmas and refreshments were served by Mrs. Wilkerson, a leader of the troop.

TROOP 498
Kathy Fulk, scribe for Girl Scout Troop 498, reported this week on past activities of the troop including a Christmas party held Dec. 15 at South Elementary school. Each troop furnished entertainment, Troop 1 presenting an "electric brain" act. Carol Sharard took the leading part.

Gifts were passed out by Sandra Eisele, Janis Fitzsimmons and Karen Miles.

TROOP 148
Girl Scouts of Troop 148, at their Jan. 4 meeting at South Elementary school, practiced making "sit-ups" so they would know how to do so when they went camping.

Julie Rosebush, scribe.

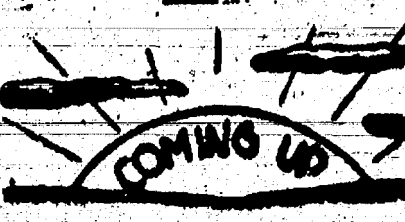

The main business of every citizen is to improve this community by improving himself. That's the only way it can be done.

When men and women fight for principle rather than for personal advantages the so-called human race will be moving along.

Latin II classes, under the expert guidance of Mr. Alfred Smith, are presently reading adventures of two boys in Greece. They have to translate them. Irregular verbs are a source of worry and study. They will soon begin reviewing for the dreaded exams later in the week.

Mr. William Hunter and Mr. Thomas Slater's Biology classes after finishing chapters on the circulatory and digestive systems, are now studying respiration and breathing. A few dissections on tadpoles and fish were made the week before Christmas vacation. These were used in the six weeks projects of the different groups.

The Home Economics classes have been hurriedly putting the finishing touches on their sewing projects. The third-year girls have been sewing on wool. The first-year students are working on cotton dresses, skirts, and blouses. Good luck, girls!

Mrs. Sharp's Public Speaking class have been working on debate for many weeks. The students have also entered debating contests with other schools. The first interschool debate was held with Stockbridge. The established debate topic was "Resolved: The United Nations should be significantly strengthened." Representing the affirmative were Lynn Lipphart and Carolyn Bavelle. Representing the negative were Dan Mayer and Dave Tulbot. The second interschool debate was held at Chelsea against the Marshall debaters. Representing the affirmative were Kay Runciman and Dave Lixey. The negative facts were presented by Dan Mayer and Lynn Lipphart. Although Chelsea lost against both schools all members of the team feel that a great deal was gained from the experiences.

beiser and Mrs. Wesley Cowell are struggling with the topic of titration. Specific gravity, molar solutions, molarity, end point, acids, bases, and indicators are also giving the hard-working chemistry students their share of grief. There is a possibility, however, that the situation may be cleared up by the time the semester exams arrive.

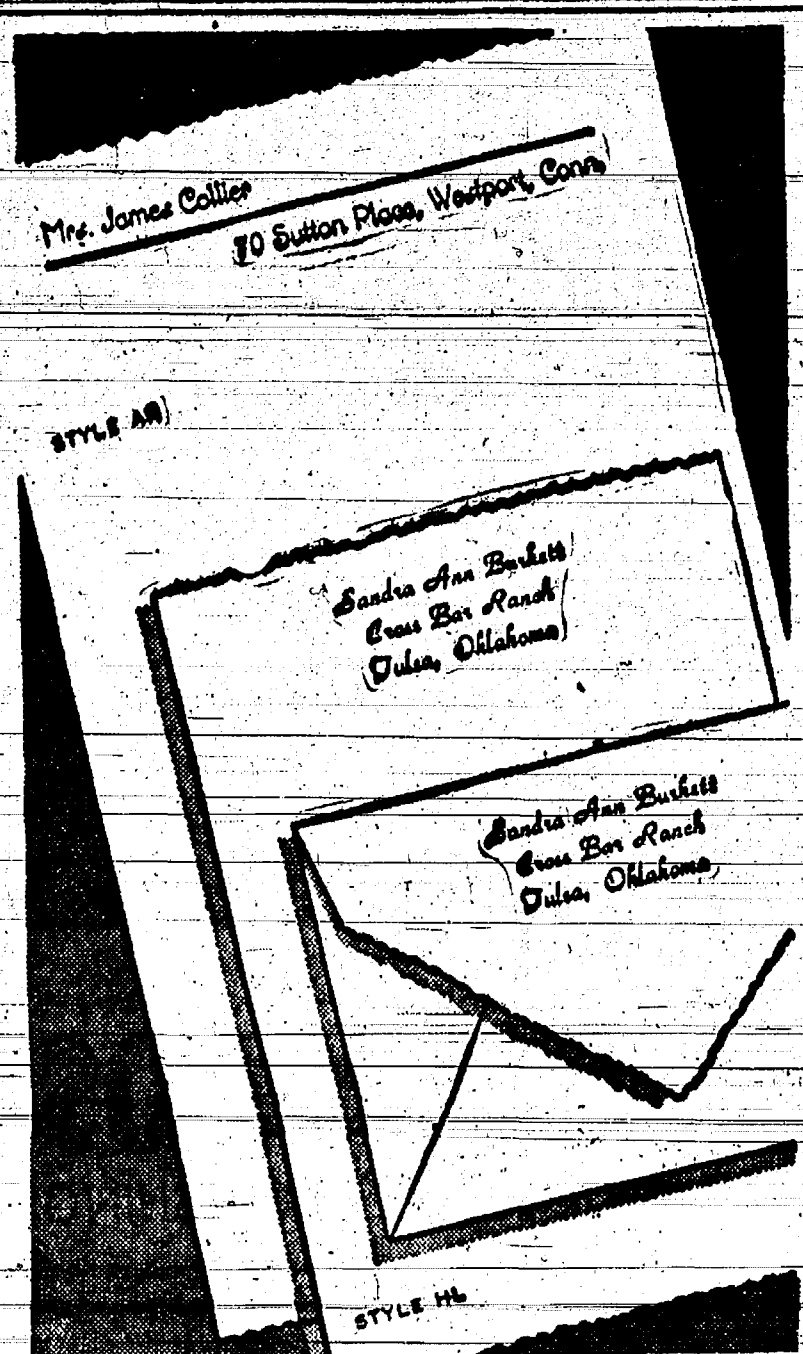

Choir is busy at work practicing for the upcoming operetta Carousell. They are at present picking out selections for it and looking over the music score. The Chelletes are also looking for new selections for upcoming engagements.

The election is over. This does not mean that you must change your views, if you belong to the minority group. It does mean that you should recognize the right of the majority to frame national policies.

Important news for new-car buyers— THE '61 CHEVY BRINGS JET-SMOOTH TRAVEL DOWN TO EARTH

HERE'S WHAT GIVES CHEVY ITS JET-SMOOTH RIDE—
Full Coil suspension—Chevy's one of the few cars with a coil spring at every wheel. Precision-balanced wheels —For smoother rolling with less vibration. Sound-hushing insulation—Sheet metal is carefully insulated against drumming and vibration. 51 built-in "shock absorbers" —Cushion the chassis against shock and shake. Live rubber body mountings—Extra-large-butyl-rubber cushions that further isolate the ride from the road.

This is the Impala Sport Coupe—just one of 20 Jet-smooth Chevies!

Better just circle your dealer's block the first time you try a Jet-smooth '61 Chevy. Get anywhere near an open highway and he's liable never to see you again.

What we mean, Chevy's ride whets your yen to travel. Wins you over with its delightful coil-spring smoothness, its hushed comfort and light steering. You find yourself feeling sorry for people who buy higher priced cars, thinking they have to pay premium prices for a luxury ride.

That may have been true at one time, but not any more. Chevrolet's ride, its roadability, just doesn't take second place to anybody's. Drive one soon and see.
