Memorial to Man's Superiority Urged for Fairground Cafe

By J. M. Grate

At last night's meeting of the directors of the Chelsea Community Fair the following was adopted into the minutes:

"Somewhere up through the ages, a phenomenal change has taken place. Our male ancestors used to drag their women along behind them by their hair, while the men of today extend to their women every courtesy and consideration, even to the point of politely stepping aside and allowing the women to precede them through a door.

"Now, we men realize that this courtesy developed after man had decided that women were useful around the home, and were quite nice pets as well; but we deplore the thought that, in the years to come, women may consider these little courtesies as evidence of subjection and humility on the part of man.

"To set the record straight and to provide a yearly reminder of man's rightful place as the undisputed head of the family, we hereby dedicate the exit door of the new addition to our Fair Cafeteria as 'Door of the Brush' and charge that an appropriate and permanent sign be posted to reaffirm that famous and traditional slogan—

'The Male Must Go Through.'

Men are asked to stride through this door in all their glory as lords and masters of the family, while women are instructed to follow along in their rightful place behind their man with their eyes respectfully lowered.

To make this 'Door of the Brush' even more appropriate, the cement in the step platform just outside this door contains almost a peck of facial foliage which the menfolk of the community deposited in the collection containers placed around our fair village for that purpose following the 125th Anniversary celebration shave-off."

Editor's Note—Your editor is in full accord with this long felt need for man to assume his rightful place in the world but the following comment, on this article, by the fairer sex working in the office of The Chelsea Standard dampens my feelings of supreme accomplishment. She says "We girls will probably go along with this gag and humor the men because we know it is really a woman's world and has been ever since Eve gave Adam the apple. Besides, if it becomes necessary, we can always show them who is boss when we get them back home!"

Gigantic Sidewalk Sale Will Be Held Friday, Saturday

Annual Bargain Event Offers Huge Savings

Chelsea Merchants, under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce Retail Division, are sponsoring their fifth annual Sidewalk Sales, Friday and Saturday, Aug. 18-19. This idea, which was taken from Chicago and New York outdoor markets, was first held in Chelsea a year ago. It was at once a success and since then has been held by the local merchants each year in August. It has reached a point where people from all over the surrounding area come down during these two days to take advantage of the tremendous savings.

All varieties of merchandise may be purchased at the outdoor stands ranging from clothes to cars and appliances to appliances. This isn't just a clearance sale on stock—many merchants buy new merchandise and slash the prices to offer the people of Chelsea and the surrounding area, the best in merchandise at the most economical prices found anywhere.

Start at one end of town and go to the other on both sides of the street—don't miss any store for the bargains will be waiting for you.

Now is the time for those "Back to school" items, clothes for the family, terrific savings on food, appliances, everyday household items, hardware, drug items and any others that you may or may not need at the moment but which it will be advantageous to purchase for future needs.

This year the merchants are saying "everything goes."

Chelsea Fair Sets Thursday, Aug. 31 As 'Dexter Day'

Children's Day Parade Planned First Evening

The Chelsea Community Fair is highlighting three exceptionally bright days this year. Children's Day, Dexter Day, Old Settler's Day and a huge parade on Saturday, Sept. 2, are headlining this year's "better-than-ever" Community Fair.

Wednesday, Aug. 30, has been designated Children's Day. All children through the age of 12 will be honored.

The program will begin with a children's parade at 6:30 p.m., which will start at the Municipal parking lot and proceed to the fairgrounds.

Children are being encouraged to enter colorful exhibits such as paper boats, dog-drawn carts, piggy banks, and floats erected by wagon. Entry blanks are not needed for this event.

Prizes will be given for the most beautiful and original costume as well as for many other categories. The Kiwanis club has volunteered to underwrite the entire children's program.

Upon arrival at the fairgrounds, the children will be treated to free rides and a very low priced dinner at the new French Cafe.

Prizes will also be given to all children who participate. The program will include a balloon scramble, a sack race, pony-tail competition for the girls, a pet contest, and a greased-pole contest for the boys.

Because of increasing interest in participation by people of the water community, Thursday, Aug. 31, will be designated "Dexter Day."

MARILYN FREY showed the reserve and junior champion in the Holstein dairy class at the Washtenaw county 4-H Show last week. A member of the Selo & Lodi Junior Farmers 4-H club, she is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elton Frey, 6800 Stein Church Rd. She will be a senior at Dexter High school next month. She has been a member of her club for six years. Her cow was junior champion in the Wayne-Washtenaw Black and White Show and placed second in the State Black and White Show. The Elton Frey family formerly lived near Chelsea.

CARL MACOMBER exhibited the grand champion dairy division winner at the Washtenaw County 4-H Show. He showed his Holstein-Friesian entry in the aged cow class. A member of the Selo & Lodi Junior Farmers 4-H club in which his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Macomber, 6844 Park Rd., are active as leaders, it is his fifth year of participation in showing cattle at 4-H shows. He attends Salem Lutheran parochial school on Selo Church Rd. The registered cow had won first place in the aged cow class at the Washtenaw-Wayne-Black and White Show earlier this month.

Area Young People Win Many Awards at 4-H Show

Sharon L. Hall and Robert McCrory, Washtenaw county extension agents for 4-H club work, commended leaders throughout the county, saying they have reason to be proud of the excellent results their 4-H club members earned at last week's County 4-H Show at the Rural Activities Center.

McCrory and Miss Hall said much of the credit for the fine success of the 4-H Show is due to the leaders who assumed responsibility for planning, organizing and setting up the exhibits.

The champion market livestock of the County 4-H Show as listed by the two county agents is as follows:

Electors Being Asked To Approve Two Mills For Three Year Period

School Board Unanimous in Making Request

This final article discussing the need for the two mill operational funds for operating and maintaining the Chelsea School District schools will be for the most part a summary of previous articles published in The Chelsea Standard over the past weeks.

Your present School Board membership is comprised of individuals who have every reason, personal or business, to conserve and wisely spend each dollar of the District's income. Each of them has more than average real and personal property ownership, or business assets against which this requested millage will be levied. Each of them has declared themselves unequivocally against frills, waste or any unnecessary expenditure of school funds and if the personal conduct of their own affairs constitutes any criterion, each of them habitually practices such a policy. Accordingly, each of them has every personal reason to check carefully, investigate fully, soberly consider and weigh deliberately the matter of the minimum funds necessary to operate the School District in a way that will afford the proper educational opportunities to the youngsters whose educational welfare is in their hands.

Members of your School Board contribute their time, thought and energy to the end of providing

Kindergarten Ready for 183 Beginners

Elementary Principal Arthur Schunk has made the following announcements relative to the kindergarten program in Chelsea schools this year.

The kindergarten enrollment to date is higher than in previous years. At present 183 children have registered at the Elementary school. This number alone will provide large groups for the six planned classes.

It is important that any newcomers to the school district register this week if they have not done so already. It may be necessary to arrange for a seventh group of these beginners. These children must be five years old by Dec. 1 of this year in order to enter school in September.

Present health laws require that parents must arrange for their children's immunization and vaccination prior to school opening.

Present enrollments indicate that most beginners living along Waterloo Rd. and north from this road would form a satisfactory kindergarten class at the North Elementary school. Children from this area may go with their parents directly to the kindergarten room located in the front annex of the North school. All other kindergartens should come with their parents to South Elementary school on opening day, Tuesday, Sept. 5.

Voting Will Be Done Tuesday at Junior High

Tuesday, Aug. 22, from 1 p.m. until 8 p.m., qualified electors of the Chelsea School District will vote on the question of a two-mill operational levy for the years 1961, 1962 and 1963.

In special articles published during the past few weeks, the Board of Education has explained the reasons why it was unanimously decided to request approval for the operational levy, saying particularly that the additional revenue from the requested levy is a real necessity to offset a deficit accumulated over the past three years and to keep from adding to the amount.

Official notice of the election is published on page 10 of this issue of The Standard.

The election is to be held in the gymnasium at the Junior High school on East St.

To be qualified to vote in the special millage election, a person must be a citizen of the United States above the age of 21 years; a resident of the State of Michigan at least six months; and a resident of the school district at least 30 days prior to the election date.

Anyone meeting these requirements may vote on the millage question—property ownership is not a requirement.

In the first of the series of articles pertaining to the election, published July 27, property owners were advised as to the exact amount of the levy for each $1,000 of assessed valuation, as equalized, in each of the townships in the district—Dexter, Freedom, Lima, Lyndon, Sharon, Sylvan, Grass Lake and Waterloo—ranging from $4.00 per $1,000 in Waterloo township to $7.26 per $1,000 in Sharon township.

The variations in the townships' amounts per $1,000 are caused by the equalization factor brought about by the difference between the assessed valuation placed on property by local assessing officers and the state equalized valuation.

The rates per $1,000 of assessed valuation in each of the townships, as published at the time, are as follows: Dexter, $6.62; Freedom, $4.52; Lima, $5.44; Lyndon, $5.32; Sharon, $7.26; Sylvan, $5.72; Grass Lake, $4.10; and Waterloo, $4.00.

In the article published Aug. 3, the School Board listed facts as proof that the two-mill levy is an immediate necessity for the operation of Chelsea schools.

These facts listed student increase from 964 in 1954 to an estimated 1,076 in 1961 as the major reason for the need for additional operational funds.

In the Aug. 10 issue of The Standard, enrollment figures for grades 9 through 12 show an increase from 392 in 1950-51 to 450 in 1961-62 and an estimated 522 in 1962-63.

Kindergarten enrollment is also (Continued on page three)

Community-Wide Work Bee Set Tuesday at Fairgrounds

According to a special reporter for the Chelsea Community Fair, Tuesday night, Aug. 22, has been set as the date for a community-wide work bee at the fairgrounds, beginning exactly at 6 p.m.

The reporter has submitted the following information.

All of you, either as individuals or as organizations, are asked to show up and give your friends and neighbors a hand with a big job that will become a small one with enough help.

Bleachers will have to be hauled from the high school and erected near the arena; grounds will have to be cleaned and mowed; buildings swept out; livestock gates set up in the stock building; the kitchen cleaned; and the new addition painted, both inside and out.

"Dinty" Moore wants his chair cushioned so it will be more comfortable while he passes out all the premium money to the exhibitors, and new sanitary tops will have to be installed on the kitchen counters, to mention just a few of the jobs to be done.

An all-out effort will be made by your Fair Board to have all jobs organized ahead of time so you can pick a job and start in immediately when you arrive.

Many American Businesses Improve Products at Still Lower Unit Cost

Too many of those ivory-towerists, columnists, commentators and do-gooders who echo whatever viewpoint they consider fashionable have seized upon American business as their current whipping boy.

But don't ever forget that despite their uninformed innocence, they are doing the devil's work. If we are ever to be "buried" by the Communist hordes—as Khrushchev has promised—these heedless snipers at our free enterprise system will have helped quite a bit.

Currently, these persons hint darkly that our manufacturers are deliberately producing less than their best—at prices that are higher than they need to be. The critics are slyly playing upon the moth-eaten old refrain: "They don't make them like they used to."

To accept and repeat such destructive nonsense it is necessary to forget that competition for public approval is the breath of life to our business system. And it is helpful also to ignore statistics. On this latter point we are indebted to H. F. Lehman, a vice-president of General Motors for bringing us up-to-date.

Most of today's household appliances, for example, are more reliable and require less service attention than ever before, he says. And you don't pay for this improved quality and dependability because, despite inflation, appliances actually are priced lower today than they were 10 years ago.

Specifically, Lehman reports that his company's 1961 appliances are requiring nine percent less service attention than last year's. This year's automatic clothes washers and dishwashers are cutting service attention 60 percent below that of 1957 and even the refrigerator—a product of 45 years of continuous development—shows 47 percent service improvement over 1957. A 1961 washer and dryer pair sells for $70 less than comparable equipment of 1957 and $134.60 below that of 1951. Analysis of refrigerator costs shows a 1961 model as low as $18.46 per cubic foot compared with lows of $23.84 in 1956 and $27.25 in 1951.

Better appliances for less money result from continuing progress in equipment, methods and materials over many years, Lehman observed. Parts and finished products now are subjected to much more exhaustive and precise inspection than was possible in 1951.

In any industry you might choose to check, the findings would be similar. "They don't build them like they used to," and for the best reason in the world: Nobody would buy them!

It always seems to take a pair of squeaky shoes the longest to get anywhere.

Betting, says a church paper, is essentially a means of getting something for nothing. Or vice versa.

A home town is the place where people wonder how you got as far as you have.

Professor in Northwestern University says coeds pretend to be dumb to attract boys. Some of them don't have to pretend much.

WASHINGTON AND 'SMALL BUSINESS'

By C. Wilson Harder

In what is undoubtedly the most comprehensive survey ever undertaken of Main Street sentiments on taxation problems, the National Federation of Independent Business has completed and sent to the White House, Congressional Committee on Finance, Treasury Dept. and other governmental agencies a 240-page report.

The district chairmen of the Federation were asked to vote on the various parts of the President's proposed tax program, and invited to make additional comments.

Approximately 1,000 of the total number of district chairmen replied. Each of them engaged in independent business or professional practice covering the entire field of commercial activity from manufacturing, wholesaling, retailing and services. The returns from 50 states and the District of Columbia were about in ratio to their populations.

54.9% expressed favor of the proposed tax incentive program which would provide for a different method of depreciation write-offs to encourage business to expand.

Yet only 22.3% were in favor of the proposal to levy a withholding tax against interest and dividends, and only 18.4% favored the repeal of the provision that now permits the first $50 in income from dividends and interest to be tax free, and the additional credit of 4% on dividend income in excess of $50.

In volunteered comments, there is expressed considerable and often quite bitter resentment over U. S. policy on foreign matters. 71.9% voted for the proposal to compel U. S. firms with foreign plants to pay U. S. taxes on the undistributed earnings of these plants. And likewise, by a majority of 57.6% the president's proposal that such tax be deferred on U. S. plants operating in so-called "underdeveloped" countries was voted down.

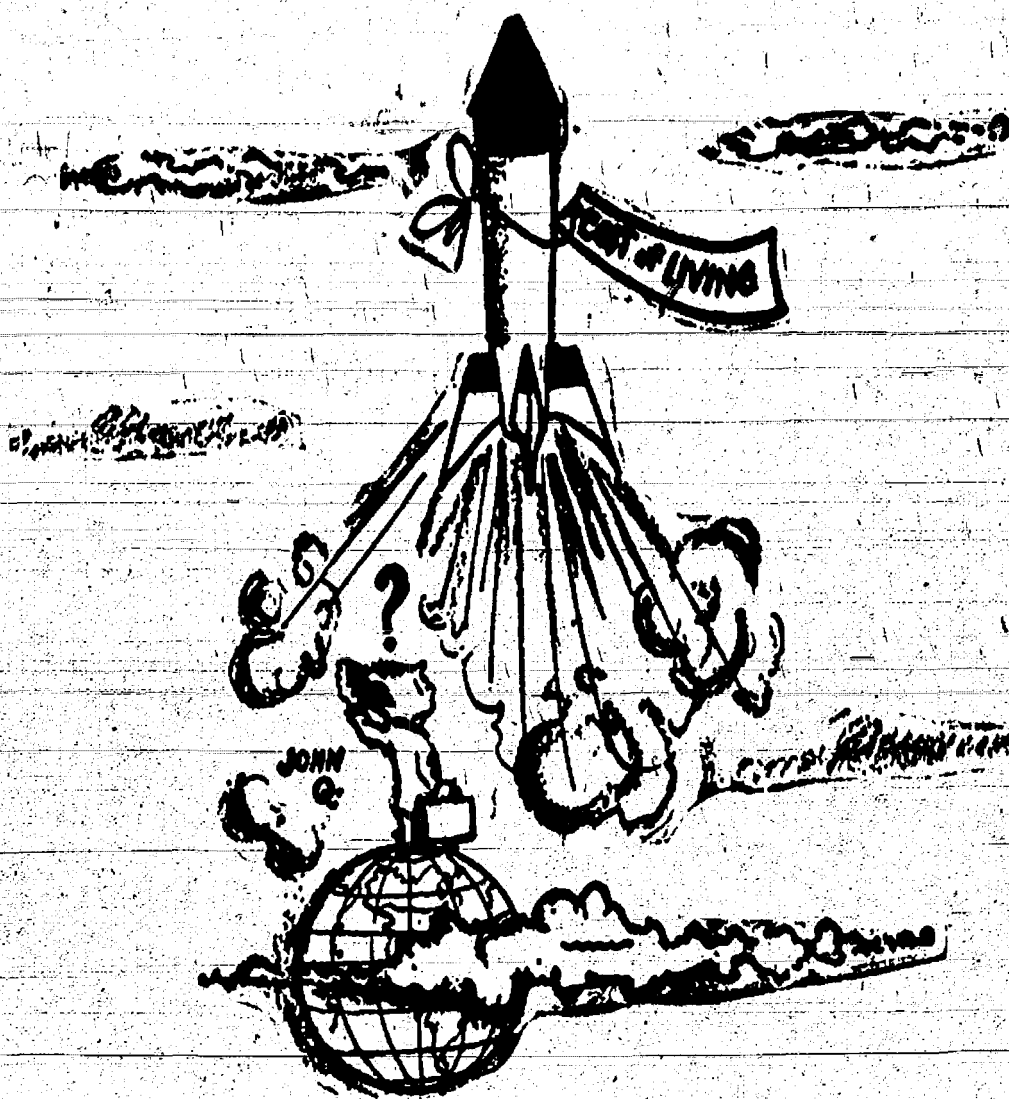

While 54.2% voted against the president's proposal to change the ruling on capital gains from the sale of depreciable property by having the profit computed on such a sale on the actual original price rather than the depreciated value, 93.4% are in favor of the President's recommendations to tax cooperatives.

Although by time survey was tabulated, Congress had already voted a one year extension of present corporation and income tax rates, only 39.3% favored such a move.

Of the ten tax proposals, half were favored, the other half not favored.

While the Federation is not committed on these votes, as it requires a vote by the full national membership of the organization, it is quite probable that these district chairmen, closely in touch with the independent business sentiments in all parts of the country, voted in much the same way. Full membership ballot would turn out. But one thing seems obvious. There will not be much first $50 in income from dividends and interest to be tax free, and the additional credit of 4% on dividend income in excess of $50.

MICHIGAN MIRROR

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

How much power should the state Legislature have?

This is more than the academic question it might seem, and especially important because of the coming Constitutional Convention which can control this power.

Lawmakers frequently complain that they have no real power over day-to-day operations of state government, except through their function of budgeting. There is some merit to this statement, and those who would argue that things are as they should be.

Loss of power from legislative control develops in several ways, some of which the Legislature can reverse if it chooses. However, amendment to the Constitution by referendum limits legislative control and nothing can be done about it except by another public vote.

The 3 percent sales tax, for example, was set by public vote and had to be changed the same way. Earmarking of funds by constitutional action leaves legislators' hands tied.

The Civil Defense Commission, also voted into the Constitution, permits a group of commissioners to raise pay of state employees with no regard for legislative approval. The Legislature can, however, refuse to allocate additional money, a situation which forces each state department to cut the number of employees or make ends meet in some other fashion.

Some power loss results from legislative action. When boards and commissions are created by their action to govern certain aspects of state government, authority goes with it.

There are oodles of these commissions, controlled for the most part by commission members appointed by the Governor with approval of the Senate. Included among the most important are Conservation, Economic Development, Fair Employment Practices, and commissions dealing with various segments of health such as nursing, optometrists, etc.

Other power loss results from "earmarking" of funds. When a law says that money from a certain source shall be spent for a certain purpose, it can be spent in no other way. If conditions change so that this money is needed for some other purpose, the Legislature is hamstrung.

Absence of some powers is certainly desirable. The Constitution should prevent abuse of legislative power, as well as abuse from the executive or judicial branches of government. Such limitation involves the rights of individual citizens. Other provisions should prevent the various branches of government from acting in areas rightfully belonging to another branch.

Con-Con delegates must decide how much power they want to assign to the Legislature and which powers they want to specifically deny. Proponents of sound government believe a Constitution should be a framework of law which leaves flexibility for legislative action. To construct a legal scale which permits the democratic system of checks and balances to work well is no simple task, but it is a worthy one.

Some very fine hair-splitting in the interpretation of a federal law threatened to cost Michigan money, so the state went to court recently and won some $610,000.

The action, in which Michigan was joined by Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Colorado, forced the U. S. Department of the Interior to return to its old ways of computing eligibility for a type of federal grant used for game and wildlife management projects.

The money is in the so-called Pittman-Robertson fund and there might be a considerably bigger saving for Michigan in the long run.

He claims Congressmen ain't got but two remedies for anything and both of them is bad. They either pass a law or appoint a committee, and if the law ain't bad, the committee is stacked. Anyhow, says Bug, he ain't had no reply to the last two letters he sent to Washington.

I wouldn't doubt it, Mister Editor. When a Congressman don't answer a letter from a rancher or a farmer it's on account of him never getting the letter. I reckon a secretary sorts out the mail and none of them knows the difference between a hayrack and a silo. A farmer can get to be a Congressman, but the farm ain't never produced a Congressman's secretary. A heap of Congressmen brags about how they has walked behind a mule from sunset to sunset, but you never heard that kind of talk from one of their secretaries.

The Pittman-Robertson Act has been on the books since 1937, but in 1950 the Interior Department upset what had been a smoothly running program.

Funds under the plan are handed out on a formula basis. The number of hunting licenses sold in a state is the key to how much money it gets.

In 1950 the department changed to a formula based on the number of persons buying licenses.

This meant that the state could collect only once for a person who might buy a deer license, a small game license, and possibly some other kind of hunting permit.

The states went to court because they said the number of licenses sold, not just the number of persons buying them, was the best indication of how much hunting was done in each state.

Total sum which the four states collected was more than $13 million. While the federal government could appeal, there was no indication it would.

Bond Buyers React To Better Publicity With Lower Interest.

Lansing—If money talks, as they say, it's certainly talking a better story about Michigan.

At any rate, that's the indication of a bond bid approved recently by the State Administrative Board.

State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie reported that Blythe and Co. of New York was low bidder at 3.69 percent on the most recent issue of Michigan state highway bonds for $35 million.

"It was lower than any of the five previous bond issues which ranged up to 4.28 percent," he said.

"According to what the bond people tell us, the lower interest rate means that it is easier to resell the bonds now because they don't have to contend with bad publicity about Michigan," Mackie explained.

Every continent, except Europe, has extensive deserts.

Parachute 'Jump' Offered Kiddies At State Fair

The U. S. Army has come with what may be the biggest free attraction ever at the Michigan State Fair, Sept. 1-10. It's a mock parachute jump the kiddies with real, live Airborne Division personnel supervising the activities.

Four youngsters simultaneously will go to the top of a 164 platform, get fitted with "chutes" and then zip down each of four directions on foot long cables.

The "parachutes" will be neases attached to the cables pulleys. State Fair and Army officials calculate that eight drops can be made in a minute, 87,000 operating from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily for the ten days.

This is quite a production figure. However, the Army is ready.

With free admission to State Fair for children 14 and under, the figure is not too "tasty," comments State Fair General Manager Walter A. Gode.

Army paratroopers will be each end of the cables to the "Junior Paratrooper" as they hit the ground. And they will be "Junior Paratrooper" for each will get a certificate from the Army to prove that he has made his first jump.

Helping the Army and the State Fair in this endeavor will be companies, Chevrolet Motor division of General Motors who pick up the insurance tab and International Industrial Company of Royal Oak will use its heavy industrial engineering talents to erect the equipment. The two companies also will board and room the personnel.

Needless to say, the Army is that many of the youngsters talk so much about their experiences that older brothers may be bug to join up with the borne Division.

A SIGNIFICANT MILESTONE IN FREE ENTERPRISE was reached recently when Mr. and Mrs. Hugh T. Polson of Wichita, Kan., together became the 2,000,000th AT&T share owner.

Thus, the Bell System becomes the first privately owned business in history to be owned by so many people—people from all walks of life. This is a prime example of people's capitalism in action—a dramatic testimonial to the American economic system—democracy in action. Incidentally, just 10 years ago Mr. and Mrs. Brady Denton of Saginaw jointly became the 1,000,000th AT&T share owner.

WHEREVER YOU ARE this summer, chances are you'll be near a public telephone—whether it's an indoor booth or the familiar outdoor booth, or the handy new Walk-Up or Drive-Up variety. Any one of them—and there are more than 45,000 in Michigan—is your "phone away from home."

PRODUCING A RABBIT out of a hat is a startling feat of magic—much like the "magic" produced by Bell System scientists. A good example is a new way to increase the capacity of transatlantic cables. The equipment seeks out the pauses which are a part of every telephone conversation and uses them for extra calls. This remarkable achievement doubles the capacity of undersens cables. It's this kind of ingenuity that helps keep your phone costs low while providing you with ever-improving service.

July Traffic Death Toll In State Shows Sharp Drop

Showing a sharp reduction for the second month in a row, July traffic deaths in Michigan totaled 120, or 32 fewer than the 158 fatalities in the same month a year ago, according to provisional State Police figures. It was a cut of 20 percent.

The toll for the first seven months this year now stands at 885, which is 10, or about two percent, more than 870 deaths in the corresponding 1960 period. Delayed death reports will increase the July and seven-month totals slightly.

January was the only other month so far this year to show a decrease compared to the same month last year.

Encouraging as the latest reductions are, motorists and pedestrians should remember that traffic accidents in the last five months of the year account for nearly half of the annual road toll," said Commissioner Joseph A. Chilis. "This emphasizes the necessity for protective driving and walking if the cost in lives and injuries is to be lowered."

More complete figures for June show 119 deaths, a reduction of 14, or 11 percent, while the 7,851 Standard Want Ads Get Results!

AGRICULTURE In Action

by M. L. Voell

Farmers and The Con-Con

Apparently there is much less need for Constitutional revision in Michigan than many people would have us believe. Seemingly a few hard-working specialists in interest groups were able to blow a small amount of need into a large amount of concern.

Lack of need was painfully evident in the July 25th primary where voter apathy reached classic proportions in many communities. State-wide, about 15 percent of the eligible voters turned out to cast their ballot.

So few people voted in many communities that the election took on farcical overtones. In more than 60 Republican and Democratic races, the nominee had no opposition — which, of course, added nothing to voter interest.

In spite of these obvious shortcomings, Michigan residents cannot duck their responsibilities in the coming September election. These include getting to know the candidates; using every tough yardstick of comparison that can be devised to measure them; and then working and voting for those best fitted to serve the needs of all Michigan.

A check of the higher Detroit voting record and the success of labor-backed candidates in metropolitan areas of the state shows that farmers have a clear-cut duty in the coming election. It is evident that reapportionment continues as a major issue. If further appears that most plans are unquestionably detrimental to farmers.

"Michigan farmers have a great deal at stake," reports Stanley Powell, Ionia county farmer and former member of the State Legislature. Powell sees a growing possibility of a power-grab from the Detroit faction where nominees to the Convention now include 18 lawyers and five labor union officials.

Powell feels the real issue in the coming Convention will be Senate redistricting that "could allow complete metropolitan domination" of the state.

Farmers must be alert to this threat. They don't want or expect special treatment in the convention but they have every right to demand protection for minority group interests. Farmers must work hard to make sure the convention is not metropolitan dominated and that outstate Michigan is represented by only the most capable and effective delegates.

greatly increased—approximately 180 this year—requiring additional sections.

The final article of the series pertaining to the coming election appears in today's issue of The Standard.

Everyone in the community who has an interest in the operation of Chelsea schools should make a special effort to get out and vote on the operational millage question Tuesday, it was pointed out. Only qualifications necessary are age (at least 21 years old) and residence in the state at least six months and in the school district at least 30 days.

It is not necessary to own property to vote on the millage issue.

Nine out of every 10 miles of Michigan highways, roads, and streets will need some improvements during the next 20 years to carry the expected traffic load in 1980, the Michigan Highway Needs Study reports.

Moon Eclipse At Favorable Time Aug. 25

Ann Arbor—A near total eclipse of the moon will be seen Friday, Aug. 25. The moon will slip into the earth's shadow at 8:36 p.m. and get completely out of it at 11:42 p.m.

The lunar show will be generally observable across most of North America, according to Associate Prof. Hazel M. Losh of the University of Michigan Astronomy Department.

"The convenient time of evening on a week-end (Friday) in comfortable summer weather makes this eclipse particularly favorable," she adds.

Soon after the eclipse begins, there will be noticeable dimming of the eastern edge of the disk. "The darkened area will gradually increase until mid-eclipse at 10:00 p.m., when only less than one per cent of the moon's diameter will remain outside this dark inner shadow. A narrow sliver of the moon's surface will remain illuminated by the direct rays of the sun," Prof. Losh points out.

"The moon will be located a few degrees above the southeast horizon at the beginning of the eclipse. It will be plainly visible throughout the three-hour period, shining in a dull, coppery-red glow, for it will be illuminated by sun light which filters through the earth's atmosphere, being bent and refracted into the shadow and on to the moon."

For such an eclipse to take place, the moon must be in full phase and in direct line with the earth and sun. The reason we do not have an eclipse every month is because of the five-degree tilt of the moon's orbit to that of the earth. Consequently, the moon in its monthly path usually misses the earth's shadow, passing above or below it, the U-M astronomer says.

PERSONAL TOUCH

Your living room shouldn't be decorated to fit the pages of a magazine, unless it also fits the way you live. Patricia Klobe, home furnishings specialist at Michigan State University, says rooms should be furnished to make the home more livable and attractive. Interior design should consider the living habits of your family and satisfy your ideas of comfort, beauty, economy and ease of maintenance, as well as using general standards of good design.

ARCHIE BRADBURY, a member of the Lima-Selo Livestock 4-H club, shows his Grand Champion Suffolk ewe at the Washtenaw County 4-H Fair at the Farm Council's Rural Activities Center near Saline last week. Archie also had a Grand Champion Suffolk ram at the county showing and received a second place rating in the senior showmanship division with the ewe. Club leaders are David Wolfgang and Robert Breuninger.

PROTECT FROZEN FOODS

Cold air is dry and causes food to dry out in the freezer—unless the food is protected with moisture-proof, vapor-proof wrappings. Foods and nutrition specialists say it's false economy to skimp on packaging materials, especially when food is to be stored for several months. Ordinary waxed paper, household-weight aluminum foil and used food cartons are not designed for freezer use.

Although Michigan's 9,300 miles of state highways comprise less than 10 percent of the state's total roadway mileage, they carry nearly half of all highway travel in Michigan.

Echo I Satellite Passes First Year In Space Orbit

Echo I, a special balloon made of an aluminized plastic material thinner than onion skin, celebrated its first anniversary aloft Saturday, Aug. 12, when it crossed the equator for the 4,481st time.

Demonstrating the feasibility of satellite communications for the first time, voice broadcasts, telephone conversations, facsimile photographs, and data messages were carried back and forth across the continent, with Echo—traveling 16,000 miles an hour 1,000 miles above the earth—serving as a backdoor for radio signals.

Although its surface is wrinkled—somewhat like the skin of a dried prune—and its effective diameter is down from 100 feet to about 70 feet, the satellite is still being used as an efficient radio reflector.

During the year, Echo has suffered a net loss in altitude of only 34 miles from its original 1,000, and it has a minimum predicted life of two more years.

Echo was directed into nearly perfect orbit by a command guidance system developed by the Bell Telephone Laboratories for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Since then, progress, based in great part on Echo's performance, has been so rapid that satellite communications has moved near the day of commercial application.

The Bell System and NASA recently signed an agreement for the launching of at least two experimental "active" satellites. Under its terms, the Bell System will develop the satellite and pay for rocket and launching costs. NASA will provide for the availability of the vehicle and launching facilities.

Although obstacles to the performance of a passive satellite like Echo—where the satellite simply serves as a reflecting surface—were dramatically overcome, an "active" satellite, with built-in electronic equipment, forms the nucleus of the space communication system proposed by the Bell System.

All new systems, however, will have to give precedence to their forerunner, Echo I, the pacesetter which has survived a fruitful year in space and can look forward to at least two more birthdays aloft.

Board Is Unanimous

and maintaining a creditable educational opportunity for the students of the district with slight personal reward other than the satisfaction of performing a worthwhile civic duty. If they were not motivated by the desire to do a good job for the district they would not have been available as candidates for election to these jobs. If the electorate had not been convinced that these men, who normally leisure time wrestling with School Board problems, and familiarizing themselves with all facets of the complexities of administering the affairs of the School District and that they had the ability to intelligently evaluate the facts and dig out, doubtless none of these members would have been elected to this responsibility.

Accordingly, is it not reasonable to assume that these men, who have been evaluated by the voters as men of integrity and ability to do the job, should expect the voters to impartially consider their unanimous request for the two mills tax for operational funds and by their affirmative vote permit the levy of this needed millage?

Quite naturally, no taxpayer likes to increase his burden of taxation. On the other hand, none of us would admit that for the lack of reasonable funds, we should permit our school facilities and the educational opportunities of our boys and girls to deteriorate. If the unanimous opinion of the elected members of the School Board, after careful consideration of all the facts, indicates that such a deterioration would result if the millage is denied by the voters, should anyone, far less familiar with the facts, express a difference of opinion by not voting these funds.

The present deficit incurred over the past two years, the serious situation in respect to the need for new buses to replace old worn out vehicles and the projected increase in enrollment over the next three years points up the urgent need for these additional funds.

The problems of the Chelsea District are no different than those of the other districts. Expenses have been constantly mounting everywhere and our School District is no exception. To make it possible to meet these costs your School Board respectfully requests an affirmative vote on this additional millage.

Can the voters in all good conscience take issue with their elected School Board members and chance a deterioration of the quality of education offered the District's youngsters? If this lack of confidence in your Board proves to be erroneous there is no way to rectify the mistake as regards that portion of the student body whose educational advantages have suffered.

This issue represents a matter of serious proportions to the future of our students and should be well considered before you cast your vote on August 22.

Then on Friday, Sept. 1, people of the Chelsea community who have lived in this area for 40 years or more will be the center of attraction on "Old Settler's Day." CARD OF THANKS

The recent bereavement which has visited our home has brought to us a greater appreciation of our friends. Such kindnesses and neighborly thoughtfulness as were extended to our loved one during his long illness and to us following his death can never be forgotten. Special thanks to the Rev. Paul Schuck, Mitchell Picklesimer, Dean Hepburn and to the ladies who assisted on the day of the funeral.

Family of Fred Voelm.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our father and grandfather, Peter J. Young, who died Aug. 19, 1957.

His memory is as dear today as on the day he passed away.

CHUMMY THIEF

Fourth Worth, Tex. — A thug was held up a local food store so often that he now calls Hubert Hendon, the store manager, by his first name.

"Hello, Hubert, sack it up," the thief said during the fourth robbery. Hendon did, and the thief ran off with $140.

Michigan has 110,000 miles of highways, roads and streets—one mile for every 70 people.

Kay Runciman Cited for 'Fine Work' as Treasurer

Iceman, Johnson & Hoffman, certified public accounting firm at Ann Arbor, has sent the Chelsea School District Board of Education a duplicate copy of a letter of congratulation sent to Kay Runciman in acknowledgement of the "very fine work on the Chelsea School District internal accounts for the year 1960-61."

The letter states in conclusion, "The thoroughness with which you did your job enabled us to audit these accounts with a minimum of difficulty. Please accept our congratulations for a job well done."

Miss Runciman, who was central treasurer of the internal accounts, was responsible for 30 treasurers of the classes, clubs, and organizations of the Chelsea School District. During the year she handled and was responsible for more than $30,000. The report of the auditors shows that all her books balanced to the penny.

Although she had these additional responsibilities she maintained her all "A" record during her senior year. (She has an all "A" record in all her high school years.) She also participated in many activities in school.

Superintendent Charles Cameron said yesterday, "The school officials add their congratulations to those of the auditors for the exceptional job Kay did as the central treasurer."

Library Board Opposes Proposed County Library

At a regular meeting of the McKune Memorial Library Board Tuesday evening, in the board room at the library, members discussed at some length the proposed establishment of a county library.

As a result of the discussion, board members came to the conclusion that no advantage to the Chelsea library could be expected if a county library should be established; in fact, it would work a hardship since any service from the county library would have to be paid for.

In addition, the Chelsea school library, which now benefits from penal fine funds distributed to certain public libraries and school libraries (but not Village libraries) would no longer be eligible to receive any of these funds.

A cash gift received from the Chelsea Friends of McKune Memorial Library, was also the subject for discussion. It was reported that one magazine rack had been purchased and another one was still to be purchased.

Circulation reports for the month of July showed an increase of almost 1,000 books over the figures for June. Total July circulation was 2,020 books, the highest for June being 1961.

Steadily increasing use of library by school-age children noted this summer in spite of fact that no summer reading test was conducted this year.

Summer story hours, with Wilbur Hinderer as "story teller" were exceptionally popular, final day's attendance being children.

Other business at the meeting included appointment of Dr. F. Sharrard to fill

About Your Social Security

"One question we hear a lot," says Robert A. Kehoe, district manager of the Ann Arbor Social Security office, "is how much social security credit is needed for people to qualify for old-age or survivors benefits?" Today, this newspaper offered Kehoe the opportunity to give the answer.

Kehoe not only gave us the answer, but it's news. The Social Security Act was changed in 1950 and the amount of work covered by the program needed by workers now reaching or past retirement age or who have died, is less than it was. Under the old law, the worker needed social security credit equal to one year of work for each two years after 1950 and before he died or reached retirement age.

The new law, however, specifies that this worker now needs social security credit equal to only one year for each three years after 1950 and up to the year he reaches retirement age or dies. Under both the old and the new law, the social security credit needed can be earned anytime after 1936—no one needs credit for more than 10 years' work, and a minimum of a year and a half of work under social security is always required.

Because of the new law, many people who have had their claims for old-age or survivors benefits rejected because of lack of sufficient work credit, may now be eligible. For instance, all workers who reached retirement age (65 for men, 62 for women) before 1957 need credit for only 1 1/2 years of work under social security to be eligible. Under the old law, only people who reached retirement age before July 1954 could qualify with credit for only 1 1/2 years of work.

Kehoe urged people who have had an application for benefits turned down, or who have failed to apply or report because of insufficient credit, to get in touch again with the social security office. They may now be eligible for benefits.

Permit Required To Make Wine For Family Use

The grape harvest season is at hand, and the Assistant Regional Commissioner, Alcohol & Tobacco Tax, for the Chicago Region, wishes to inform prospective wine makers that although the head of a family may produce 200 gallons of wine per year taxfree for the use of his immediate family, he must first register his intention to produce such wine with the Alcohol & Tobacco Tax Division of the Internal Revenue Service.

Prospective wine makers in the State of Michigan must secure forms for this purpose from the Office of the Supervisor in Charge, Alcohol & Tobacco Tax, Post Office Box 1897, Detroit 31. Applicants wishing to obtain forms from the office in person may call at Room 401, Federal Building. These forms must be submitted to the above office, in duplicate, at least five days before the production of wine is started.

If the applicant is qualified one copy of the form will be returned as authorization to produce not more than two hundred gallons of wine during the twelve month period from July 1 through June 30. A new form must be filed for each year in which it is desired to produce such wine.

The exemption given under Federal Law for the production of taxfree wine is solely for family use and does not apply to an unmarried person, unless he qualifies as head of a family, or a married man living apart from his family or to the production of wine by corporations or partnerships for commercial purposes. Each year a number of persons who have made wine for family use are taxed at the regular rate according to the alcoholic content, and may face criminal prosecution for the reason that they fail to register their intention to produce wine.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee Eder

Patricia Mary Bradbury, Robert Eder Wed at Dexter Methodist Church

Patricia Mary Bradbury and Robert Lee Eder exchanged wedding vows before the Rev. A. Theodore Haisted at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Dexter Methodist church.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Bradbury, 9875 Jackson Rd., and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Eder, 19880 Ivey Rd.

Soloist for the ceremony was Mrs. Waldron Vaughan, of Dexter. Accompanied on the organ by Mrs. Irvine Thornton, she sang "Because," "Wedding Prayer" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride's selection as her wedding gown was a floor-length silk organza with bouffant skirt featuring a bustle bow at the back. The short-sleeved bodice was styled with a scoop neckline and the bodice and skirt were trimmed with satin appliques. Matching elbow-length mitts of silk organza and an elbow-length veil held in place with a crown headpiece of pearls and crystal completed her ensemble. Her bouquet was a cascade arrangement of stephanotis and white roses centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. Roland Eder, of Chelsea, was her sister's matron of honor. She wore a gown of lavender eyelet over purple taffeta with matching colored veil and shoes. Her bouquet was gold-colored beehive mums centered with a lavender mum.

Bridesmaids were Gail Frank of Dexter, Marilyn Ellis of Charlotte and Linda Brown of Lansing. Their gowns were of lavender eyelet over lavender taffeta and their bouquets were yellow mums centered with a lavender bloom. Their costumes were complemented with matching colored veils and shoes.

The bride's mother, in a bone colored sheath dress of lace and silk shantung, chose beige and red accessories.

The bridegroom's mother wore for the wedding a turquoise silk shantung sheath dress with navy and white accessories. She and the bride's mother each had a corsage of pink gladioli.

Roland Eder assisted his brother as best man, while James Bradbury, brother of the bride, Jerry Bonnevier of Chicago, and Gary Dault of Chelsea, served as ushers.

Wendy Bradbury, a niece of the bride, served as flower girl dressed for the occasion in white nylon dotted swiss with a lavender sash. She carried a basket of yellow mums and wore a headband of matching mums.

Kevin Bradbury, nephew of the bride, was ringbearer.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church dining room, those assisting including Mrs. Edwin Hicks and Mrs. Lewis Haselswerdt, aunts of the bride, who cut the wedding cake; Mrs. James Bradbury and Mrs. Keith Bradbury, sisters-in-law of the bride, who poured coffee and punch; Mrs. Robert Gustafson, her cousin, who served ice cream; and Mrs. Julie Eder, aunt of the bridegroom, who served the bridegroom's cake.

Others who assisted are Mrs. LaVerne Coy, another aunt of the bride, who was the reception hostess; Betty Kay Fleming, in charge of the guest book; and Kandle Waggoner and Bonnie Smith who were at the gift table.

Following their return from a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and northern Michigan, the couple will be at home at 213 South Francis St., in Lansing.

For going away the bride wore a yellow cotton cord suit. Her corsage was the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

The bride, a graduate of Dexter High school and Lansing Business University, is now employed as a secretary at Michigan State University.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Chelsea High school, is a student at Michigan State University.

Pre-nuptial parties honoring the bride included three showers at which hostesses were Mrs. Ferris Lewis, Mrs. LaVerne Coy, Mrs. Robert Gustafson and Mrs. Lewis Haselswerdt; Marilyn Ellis of Charlotte and Linda Brown of Lansing; and Gail Frank of Dexter.

BIRTH EVERY 20 SECONDS

Tokyo — According to a survey made by the Japanese Welfare Ministry, a baby was born every 20 seconds in Japan between January and September 1960. This was 20,000 fewer than last year, the ministry said.

During the same period, one person died every 45 second. The birth and infant death rates were the lowest since the end of World War II.

Patricia Bradbury Is Honor Guest At Bridal Shower

Miss Patricia Bradbury was honored at a bridal shower at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Lewis Haselswerdt on Saturday, Aug. 5, with 23 guests present.

Entertainment for the evening was planned by one of the co-hostesses, Mrs. Robert Gustafson of Fowlerville, cousin of the bride-elect.

Following the bridal games and opening of gifts, refreshments were served by other co-hostesses, Mrs. Ferris Lewis of Dearborn and Mrs. LaVerne Coy, aunts of the bride-to-be.

Waffle Baker Needs Special Care in Cleaning

Don't wash the waffle baker after supper. Let it cool, then clean the grids with a stiff brush. If the grids have a special silicone treatment, skip the brush and use a damp cloth.

Georgianne Baker, home management specialist at Michigan State University, says a brown film may form on the grids when waffles bake. This will not harm the food, and it may prevent sticking.

When the baker needs a special cleaning, soak a paper napkin in household ammonia and place it between the grids. Leave it overnight so the ammonia can loosen the brown, cooked-on grease. Rub the grids with fine steel wool, then wash them with a cloth. Don't immerse the baker in water, and don't get the electrical connections wet.

After a special cleaning, re-season the baker. Brush the grids with unsalted shortening. Close the baker, and heat it to baking temperature. Then let it cool with the cover open.

When you're ready to bake waffles, proceed as usual, but throw away the first one which will be very greasy.

Frey Reunion

Thirty relatives were present, coming from Chelsea, Dexter, Grass Lake, Tecumseh, Brooklyn and from St. Petersburg, Fla.

New officers elected are Paul Frey of Jackson, president; Mrs. Paul Frey, secretary-treasurer; and Mrs. Elwyn Gieske of Norvell and Mrs. Donald Brazee of Tecumseh, sports committee.

The Paul Freys invited the family to hold the 1962 reunion at their home in Jackson the second Sunday in August.

US-27 To End At Cheboygan After Sept. 1

Lansing — The State Highway Department announced recently that highway US-27 will end at Cheboygan after Sept. 1.

The highway now extends from the Michigan-Indiana line, east of Coldwater to Mackinaw City, a distance of 314 miles.

The section from Cheboygan to Mackinaw City has two route numbers—US-27 and US-23. It will continue to be designated US-23.

The Highway Department said US-27 is being terminated at Cheboygan because Interstate 75 Freeway has replaced it as the primary north-south route in the northern tip of Michigan's Lower Peninsula.

US-27 has been open to traffic from Indian River to Mackinaw City since last November.

Highway Department officials also announced that M-33 will be extended three miles in September from its present junction with US-27 south of Cheboygan.

US-23 in Cheboygan. The new position of M-33 will follow the route of existing US-27.

FROZEN CATS?
Ventura, Calif.—Elmer A. Powers, raiding his refrigerator for a midnight snack, had quite a surprise.

He opened the door and found the family cat, his tail, standing straight as a pole, was frozen stiff.

Powers' wife, Billie, said: "He wasn't really badly hurt—he's just as frisky as ever."

How he got into his predicament remains a mystery.

People who try to tell you what you can and cannot do should seek to control their own lives.
