Washtenaw county, following the trend of most of the state, rejected the proposed county parks system in the special election, held Tuesday.

Named for the 33rd Senatorial District was Roscoe O. Bonisteel, Jr. (R), 11,184; Lawrence (R) 133; Pollock (R) 111; Pinter (SL) 3; Pinter (SL) 4; Proposal I, 37 yes, 128 no; Proposal II, 16 yes, 125 no.

Col. Miller To Speak at C. of C. Meet

Col. Gerald Miller, Civil Defense director for Washtenaw county, will be the guest speaker at the Chamber of Commerce dinner meeting Tuesday evening, Sept. 19.

MICHIGAN'S GOVERNOR John B. Swainson and the state secretary of agriculture, George McIntyre, were at the open house held Saturday at the new Michigan Feed Milling Co. at Four Mile Lake. The plant, located here by General Mills, Inc., for the manufacture of General Mills SureFeeds, is the first national feed company to locate in the state. Saturday's open house was planned especially for dealers in the area supplied by the company. Ideal transportation facilities because of proximity of the new I-94 highway and the New York Central Railroad was a factor in locating the plant in the Chelsea area. In the above group, from left, are McIntyre; William Stokes, district sales manager for General Mills, Inc.; William Blaess, president of Michigan Feed Milling Co., and partner with his brother, Julius, in Blaess Elevator Co.; ship-democratic committee chairman; and Chelsea Village President Robert Daniels. At the open house for dealers Saturday and for area residents on Sunday, the facilities for manufacturing 300 tons of finished feeds per eight-hour shift were viewed by more than 1,200 people.

School Millage Proposal Wins In Close Vote

School Board Grateful for OK on Millage

Following a short meeting of the Board of Education Monday evening for certification of the results of the operational millage election, the following statement was released.

"Members of the School Board of the Chelsea School District are most appreciative of the results of the election held Monday, Sept. 11, at which a majority of the electorate voting cast affirmative votes for a two mill increase for the operation of the district's schools for the current school year.

"The Board offers its sincere thanks for those voters who expressed their confidence in the Board by casting votes for the increase. They also wish to express their appreciation to those of the district's people who so generously donated their time, graciously and worked so diligently to accomplish the result attained. We would also like to commend and thank those individuals who served as election officials and clerks without pay.

Total of 1,719 Ballots Cast in Controversy

The Chelsea School District's two-mill operational levy for one year was approved at Monday's election by a vote of 858 "yes" and 860 "no."

A total of 1,719 votes were cast; 25 of these, however, were declared spoiled ballots by the election board as the votes were counted.

School Board Member Arthur Kuhl was chairman of the election board and volunteer workers assisted throughout the 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. election in the Junior High school gymnasium.

Approximately 50 per cent of the record number of votes were cast during the final two hours. Voters stood in a long line outside the building waiting their turn to cast their ballot.

CHS Grid Season Opens Friday Night In Contest at Milan

10 Lettermen Return To Form Strong Varsity

The 1961 version of the Chelsea High School Bulldogs will open their football season tomorrow, Friday, Sept. 15, by traveling to Milan to battle with the "Big Reds."

At stake in the game is the two-foot high Kiwanis Trophy given yearly to the winner of the game by the Kiwanis clubs of both communities.

County Park System Explained To Kiwanians

Robert Carpenter, director of the Washtenaw County Planning Commission, presented a report on parks and recreation at the Kiwanis club meeting Monday evening in the Methodist church social center.

Carpenter used maps to show the increase in the county's population and to point out possible locations for new parks.

Study Club Plans Fall Fashion Show

Chelsea Child Study club has announced plans for another of its fashion shows, a highlight of the club year.

This year's show is being called "Fall in Full Fashion" and will be held Tuesday evening, Oct. 3, in the Chelsea High school auditorium.

Area Co-Op Nursery Classes Start

The Chelsea Co-Op Nursery, located at 11000 Dexter-Chelsea Rd., began the school year Tuesday, Sept. 12.

Again this year the sessions will be divided with the three-year-olds coming from 9 to 11 a.m. and the four-year-olds from 12:45 to 2:45 each Tuesday and Thursday.

The teacher "Miss Jane" (Mrs. Raymond Schairer) met 28 eager and excited pre-schoolers at the door during this first session of school. All seemed eager to begin nursery activities which include free play, painting, music, stories, rest time followed by juice and crackers, "show-and-tell" outdoor play in a large fenced-in yard, special parties and field trips.

Also, the Bulldogs hope to gain a little revenge, as in the past two years the Big Reds have defeated Chelsea, only to see the Bulldogs go the rest of the way undefeated.

The Chelsea High varsity squad, and Line Mentor Truman O'Donerty, have been working out for the past three weeks in preparation for the opener.

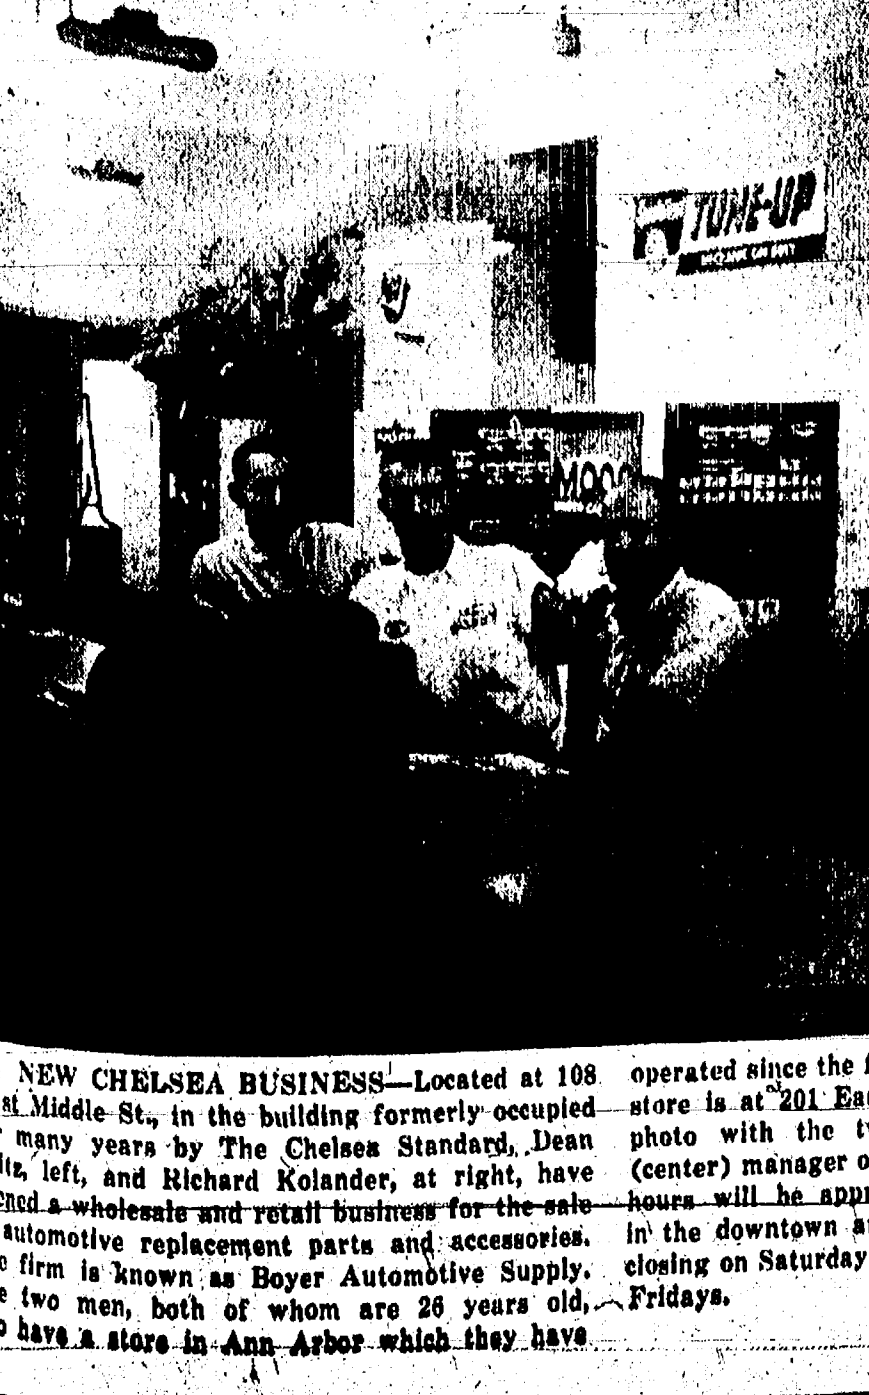

This year's squad has 10 returning lettermen; only two, co-captains Jim Maynard and Dave McLaughlin were regulars last year.

Senior lettermen on this year's squad include End Larry Cattell, Tackle Stan Hand, Halfback Al Schauer and Guard Paul Schramm.

Junior lettermen include Tom Eisenbeiser, Quarterback Dudley Holmes, who is out for two weeks due to a very severe dislocated finger, Tackle Robert Riemenschneider and Tackle Don Wilson.

In a statement this week Coach Al Conklin said in appraising this year's team, "Our first unit looks fairly strong but we have two sophomores and one freshman on our 26-man varsity squad, most of whom will not be ready to help until later on in the season. One thing that Chelsea fans can count on is that Chelsea fans can count on."

The firm is known as Boyer Automotive Supply. The two men, both of whom are 26 years old, also have a store in Ann Arbor which they have operated since the first of the year. Community Chest Budget Set at $15,300

Robert Rudd, chairman of the 1962 budget committee of the Chelsea Community Chest board of directors, submitted a recommended budget of $15,300 for this year's campaign goal. The budget was approved after an explanation of each member agency's allotment was revealed at a meeting held Aug. 16.

George Knickerbocker is chairman and Larry Chapman co-chairman for the fund campaign.

The customary "kick-off" luncheon is scheduled for Oct. 10.

Needlework Guild Plans Annual Ingathering Tea

"Charity begins at home." A gift of two or more new articles of clothing or household items to the Chelsea branch of the Needlework Guild of America helps a neighbor. Someone less fortunate than you who, because of illness, unemployment or age (all unavoidable circumstances which could happen to anyone at some time in their life), will this year need the new clothing or household items collected by the local volunteer workers of the Guild. The little extra lift of something new means more than just charity to those who receive Needlework Guild articles; a lift in spirit, a gift of confidence that can never be fully evaluated.

Mrs. Thomas Masterson, president of the Chelsea branch reports that during National Membership Week, Oct. 2-7, more than 400 Guild branches in 36 states make a special appeal for new members to help them meet the ever-increasing need for the unique service of this "garment charity." Local members have already devoted many hours to making and collecting new garments for their annual ingathering. Featuring home-made and bought articles, this display will be held at the Ingathering Tea Thursday, Oct. 5, at the Congregational church. Garments collected will go to the Chelsea Social Service distribution. Arrangements are being made by Mrs. Robert Wagner, ingathering chairman.

Extension groups and church groups are participating and more such groups would be most welcomed. Mrs. Masterson said. For details on membership, Mrs. E. W. Eaton, membership chairman, may be contacted.

The Chelsea Social Service director, Mrs. Louis Kamp, has advised the Needlework Guild that the following articles are those most needed this fall:

Boys—shorts, sizes 2-4-6-8; undershirts, 4-6-8; "U"-shirts, 4-6-8; shirts, 10; sweaters, all sizes; "jeans" and coveralls, 2-4-6-12; socks, all sizes; mittens and caps, all sizes; pajamas, all sizes; socks, all sizes.

Girls—panties, sizes 2-4-6; slips, 4-6-10-12-14; sweaters, all sizes; "jeans", 2-4-6-12; blouses, 4-6-8-10; mittens and hoods, all sizes; socks, all sizes (knee length); pajamas, all sizes.

Money donations are also gratefully accepted and are used for this display will be held at the Ingathering Tea Thursday, Oct. 5, articles of clothing.

Need Former H's for Peace Corps

Former 4-H Club members have been invited to volunteer in the Peace Corps, says Robert McCrory and Sharon Hall, Washington county 4-H agents. Their new training and service project, which is being considered for Latin America, McCrory and Hall believe cannot be announced yet because it is still being negotiated. Participants would work as two-person teams, and help develop type rural youth programs. They would assist local extension workers of the country in recruiting and training local volunteer leaders, and helping club members with projects, demonstrations, meetings, exhibits, and recreation.

The Peace Corps assignment will be for two years, starting Dec. 1. The assignment includes a three-month training program in the language of the country, its customs and culture, at the National 4-H Club Center in Washington, D. C.

Men and women 18 years of age or older, with rural and 4-H backgrounds, are especially desired as applicants. Those selected would be accompanied to their assignments, and guided in their work by a project director and three regional supervisors, representing the National 4-H Club Foundation.

Youth of Washtenaw county are interested should call, write, or visit the County Extension Office at the County Building, room 116, Ann Arbor, as soon as possible, where further information and Peace Corps application forms may be obtained.

State's Traffic Toll for August Decreases Slightly

Showing a reduction for the third successive month, traffic deaths for August in Michigan totaled 148, five less than 153 for the same month a year ago, according to provisional State Police figures. It was a three-percent decrease.

Delayed death reports, however, are expected to make the month's final total match or exceed that of August 1960.

The provisional road toll for the first eight months is 985, which is 13, or one percent, more than 972 in the corresponding period last year.

Final figures for July show 137 killed and 8,025 injured in 14,971 accidents, representing a 13 percent reduction in deaths, seven percent fewer accidents and 0.2 percent more injured, compared with July 1960.

The accumulated seven-month record shows 839 dead and 48,370 injured in 107,256 accidents. Compared with the same period last year, there were 50 more deaths and 63 more injured but 7,789 fewer accidents.

Estimated mileage for the first six months, the latest information available, totaled 16 billions, a drop of two percent from the corresponding 1960 period, while the death rate of 4.7 per 100 million vehicle miles increased nine percent.

Census Bureau To Collect Data On Polio Shots

Information on polio shots will be collected from a number of local families in connection with the September Current Population Survey, the U. S. Census Bureau announced today.

The information is being collected for the United States Public Health Service so that estimates of the number of persons who have had polio shots may be brought up to date. The polio shot questions will be asked of persons under 40 years of age, are: Have you had any polio injections or shots? How many shots have you already had? When did you get the latest shot?

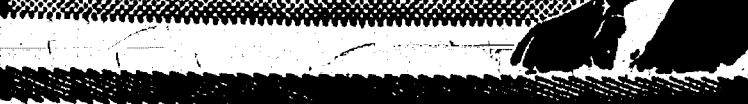

The polio shot questions will be in addition to the regular monthly inquiries on employment and unemployment. The Current Population survey will be conducted here and in 338 other sample areas of the country during the week of Sept. 18. Information will be collected locally by Julia Rapp of Livingston and Washtenaw counties.

Senator Philip A. Hart's REPORT from WASHINGTON

Watershed Programs

Small watershed projects are gaining momentum in Michigan as they are elsewhere in the nation. Recently the Chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee assigned me to a new subcommittee created to handle the increasing numbers of these projects when they come to the Congress for final approval.

The Watershed Protection and Flood Prevention Act, usually known as "Public Law 566," authorizes federal assistance to local organizations for flood prevention, drainage and irrigation, and non-structural water management, including municipal or industrial water supply and fish and wildlife management. The watershed work plan is prepared and directed by local organizations, under authority of state law.

Generally, in Michigan, the local sponsors are the Soil Conservation Districts, of which we have approximately 175. They are doing yeoman work in spreading knowledge and practice of sound soil and water conservation. In sponsoring watershed projects they are often joined by the townships or by drainage districts. There are presently 23 watershed projects in some stage of investigation or development in our state. Nationwide, 325 have been approved and are in operation; 1,600 applications are pending at the present time.

Financing of these projects is on a joint basis. The federal government provides all the technical assistance on land treatment measures, while the local groups pay for installing such improvements; local groups provide all land easements and rights of way; and the federal government bears 100 percent of the cost of flood control structures, up to 45 percent of structures for drainage and irrigation and 50 percent of measures for fish and wildlife. Recreation and industrial and municipal water benefits may also be included if the local organizations wish, but the federal government will make no contribution toward these benefits.

The rapidity with which "P.L. 566" projects are spreading throughout the nation is proof of the success of this program which combines soil and water conservation measures on the land with upstream flood prevention structures.

Watershed protection and development is important not only to our farm population but to town and city dwellers downstream. One Michigan project now underway, for example, will save one of our fine cities from annual floods caused by snowmelt—four flood-water retarding structures and a Floodwater diversion channel will do the job.

This kind of program is a fine example of local-state-federal teamwork. It combines local initiative and responsibility, federal technical and financial aid and state review and approval. And it is working!

Five Youths Fined for Creating Disturbance

Three area youths and two teenagers from Jackson were fined Thursday in Municipal Court, Ann Arbor, for their parts in a pair of gang fights staged last month.

Howard W. O'Dell 15, and Robert G. Fletcher, 18, both of Chelsea, Donald W. Forner, 18 of Pierce Rd., and Thomas R. Weinberg, 18, and Paul A. Wurster, 17, both of Jackson, were all arrested by police on Aug. 29.

Police Chief John Palmer said the five youths took part in two fights near the Municipal parking lot in Chelsea where teen-age dances are held during the summer months. The chief said the brawls stemmed from a dispute among the youths about paying for admittance to the dance. None of the boys was seriously hurt.

All the defendants pleaded guilty before Municipal Court Judge Francis L. O'Brien to separate charges of creating a disturbance in a public place. The judge ordered each youth to pay court costs of $10 each.

In addition he ordered Fletcher to pay $16 restitution to Gerald Weinberg of Jackson and Thomas Weinberg was told to make restitution of $12 to Forner. O'Dell was ordered to pay $12 restitution to Thomas Weinberg.

All of the restitution which was paid in lieu of 10-day jail terms was ordered to pay for property damage or doctor bills.

Precinct I, Scio township: Grossman (D) 54; Carr (D) 40; Bonisteel (R) 108; Pollock (R) 166; Proposal I, 55 yes, 128 no; Proposal II, 68 yes, 131 no.

Precinct II, Scio township: Grossman (D) 97; Carr (D) 90; Bonisteel (R) 262; Pollock (R) 253; Proposal I, 158 yes, 168 no; Proposal II, 166 yes, 184 no.

In Scio township, electors also voted on the proposed annexation of 67 acres west of Maple Rd. to the city of Ann Arbor.

While the proposal received a large majority in the City of Ann Arbor and a majority in the township itself outside of the affected area, the residents of the area, it self, tied their vote at 36 yes and 36 no. There are 97 registered voters in the area.

Because of the tie vote in the affected area, a legal opinion will be sought following official canvass of all election results on the annexation proposal.

The total vote on the annexation proposal in Precinct II (including the tie vote of 36 yes and 36 no) is 185 yes and 151 no, while in Precinct I the total is 81 yes and 103 no.

The Ann Arbor City vote on the annexation proposal listed 4,869 yes and 1,495 no.

SHOES AT LAST

Fort Jackson, S. C.—Private Robert Trimas finally got a pair of size 16½ shoes from the army. Trimas, from Miami, went through basic training in tennis shoes and the search went on for regulation footwear.

It didn't seem to bother the soldier, except that he was stopped an average of three times a week to explain to officers why he was not dressed in proper uniform, including shoes.

Fall Season Will Begin On Sept. 23

Autumn will begin officially at 1:43 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 23, when the night becomes longer than the day, a University of Michigan astronomer says.

"At this time, the sun on its way south will cross the equator, and will be said to enter the autumnal equinox," explains Associate Prof. Hazel M. Losh.

"Since June 21, the sun has been steadily dropping southward. This crossing of the equator marks the opening of the fall season in the Northern Hemisphere and spring in the southern," she notes.

On Sept. 23, the sun will rise and set almost exactly at the east and west points, and the day and night will be said to be equal, hence the name, equinox.

Strictly speaking, however, this is not true, Professor Losh adds.

"Due to the apparent 'lifting' of the sun by the earth's atmosphere, the hours when the sun is actually visible on this day slightly will exceed the time when the sun is out of sight by as much as eight minutes.

Equal day and night will not really come until Sept. 26, the U-M astronomer says.

New Laws Apply To Coin Box Phone Larcenies, Credit Misuse

Two new laws applying to coin box telephone larcenies and misuse of credit cards were in effect this week in Michigan.

Passed by the last session of the legislature and signed by Governor Swainson last May, the laws became effective Sept. 9.

The law applying to public telephones increases the maximum penalty to $200 fine or imprisonment of up to a year for persons found guilty of willful damage to and theft from coin telephones.

The credit law applies to the fraudulent use of credit cards in general and has specific reference to their misuse in telephone and telegraph communications. Such misuse of the cards will carry a misdemeanor charge, punishable by a maximum of $100 fine and/or 90 days imprisonment.

Traffic Signals To Be Installed on I-94 Rail Crossings

Lansing — The State Highway Department said today it will install overhead traffic signals and advance warning flashers next month at four railroad crossings on the Interstate 94 Freeway near Kalamazoo, Ann Arbor and New Buffalo.

Present laws require certain commercial vehicles to come to a complete stop at all railroad crossings.

State Highway Commissioner John C. Muckie said the overhead signals will allow these vehicles to drive through the crossings without stopping if a train is not approaching.

"The new signals will provide a continuous flow of traffic on the freeway and reduce the hazard of rear-end collisions with vehicles now required to stop at the crossings," Muckie said.

The overhead signals and advance warning flashers will be installed at New York Central and Grand Trunk crossings near Kalamazoo, at a Chesapeake and Ohio crossing on a section of I-94 under construction north of New Buffalo and at a New York Central crossing south of Ann Arbor.

Similar signals were installed early this summer at a New York Central crossing on I-94 east of Albion.

Muckie said the traffic signals will remain in operation until the crossings are either abandoned by the railroads or grade-separations are built.

Construction of grade separations is scheduled to begin at the crossings in 1964 should the railroads decide to retain the crossings, he said.

SURPRISE MEETING

Pittsburg — A 30-year-old bartender, John Tambellini, was telling a customer he hadn't seen his father in ten years—since he left Italy.

He casually pointed to another customer remarking that he looked like his father.

Seconds later he leaped over the bar shouting: "My gosh, it is my father!"

Elephants seem to come in various colors, depending on whether you are cleaning out the attic, hunting in Africa, or coming out of the DPs.

'Retirement Creates Problem For Wives' - U-M Authority

Ann Arbor—Retirement often makes marriage a 24-hour proposition for the first time, according to Wilma Donahue (Ph.D.), chairman of the University of Michigan Division of Gerontology.

Several studies have shown that husbands feel increasingly close to their wives as they grow older, she notes. After retirement, this relationship may be enhanced.

Nevertheless, many wives do not look forward to their husbands' retirement, she notes:

"A significant proportion of women do not want their husbands to retire because they feel that there will be more housework to do, that their daily routine will be disrupted, that they do not want their husbands home all day, and that they will have to live on a lower income."

"Higher-status wives feel that they will lose social prestige and personal relationships. Few wives, except perhaps those in the upper class, view their husbands' retirement as providing a time when they can enjoy life more together with their husbands."

"Women are apprehensive of having a member of the household in 24-hour presence who has no established pattern for use of his waking hours at home. They are unwilling to include their husbands more than nominally in decision-making regarding the minutiae of living which formerly they handled themselves.

Slim Gets in the Swim

Shortly Johnson's eldest boy, Slim, is as tall as his dad is short and when he heard about an opening for an assistant lifeguard at our local kiddie pool, he figured there was the perfect job for him.

Right away he made a bee-line over to see the head lifeguard, who asked him how long he'd been swimming. "Well, to tell the truth," says Slim, "I never learned."

"You don't know how to swim?" asks the lifeguard, puzzled. "No," says Slim, "who's that, and still growing, but I sure can wade!"

From where I sit, it's not how you get a job done, but how well you do it that's important. Most folks have their own way of working—a way that suits them best. It's the same when it comes to personal preferences. I may like an occasional glass of beer with my meals; you might rather have buttermilk. Neither of us is "right"—it's just a matter of taste. Recognizing this fact is one sure way to get along "swimmingly" with your friends and neighbors.

Bulk Milk Tank Testing Unit Now Checks Accuracy

Early results in the use of a new bulk milk tank testing unit, the Michigan Department of Agriculture's new mobile unit for calibrating accuracy of bulk milk tanks, of which there are estimated to be about 2,000 in use on farms of the state. The Department's Foods & Standards division is in charge of weights and measures work.

Cherry Trees, People Like Traverse City

Traverse City—In testifying to the delightful climate of Traverse City, one million cherry trees can't be wrong.

The little finger of Michigan's big mitten offers everything a vacationer could ask—conveniently arranged around a permanent community of charm and grace, according to Charles M. Davis, chairman of The University of Michigan Department of Geography. Professor Davis, author on Michigan subjects and much-traveled around the state, says flatly: "I like the Traverse City region best of all."

"It is my opinion that the west shore of Michigan is the most beautiful area of the state. The west coast is the windward coast and has magnificent sand dunes and beaches. These are not lovely things to build houses on, but they are a pleasant surprise."

The area is much different from the pine-domination of other northern Michigan areas, he adds. The soil supports deciduous hardwood trees, and of course the many orchards, widely known for the three-day National Cherry Festival.

Traverse City and the Leelanau Peninsula have long been a mecca for vacationers and artists because they combine excellent and varied scenery with camping and bathing facilities. The area is a boat center and offers fishing in deep water, in scores of inland lakes, and in Boardman River, one of Michigan's two or three best trout streams. Two good winter sports areas are nearby.

Traverse City is not a typical "summer community," Davis points out. "It has a relatively sophisticated population, good stores and restaurants which make it one of the prime shopping areas of northern Michigan, good hotel and hospital facilities and nearby is even a bookstore operated by a well-known collector."

Many a summer vacationer finds that after retirement he might like to have a home in the Traverse City vicinity, the U-M geographer says.

Best of all, he adds, the area is accessible to most in-state travelers in a single day's drive, and "week-end visitors usually can get back home Sunday night without being completely exhausted."

Resort rental property is available, particularly in the lake country to the south. Information about accommodations may be obtained through the Traverse City Chamber of Commerce.

Cub Scouts Preparing for Harvest Fair

Cub Scouts in the Huron Trails District of the Portage Trails Council, Boy Scouts of America will develop plans at weekly den meetings in September for the "Harvest Fair" they will conduct at the end of this month.

The Huron Trails District has 23 Cub Scout Packs with 1,245 Cub Scouts enrolled.

During the weekly meetings of the den, which comprises a small number of Cub Scouts who live very near each other and generally play together after school, the members plan their part in the "Harvest Fair."

They decide what they will do for a side-show act or the booth and exhibit they will set-up.

Since each Cub Scout may enter one "animal" in the livestock show, Cub Scouts either bring along their animal pets or make a stand-up cardboard cut-out of "animal." Blue ribbons go to these Cub Scouts "farmers" exhibiting the best pig, sheep, cow, horse, chicken, duck, or turkey.

The Cub Scout Dens vie with each other for the most picturesque side-shows of their fair. These may include take-offs on the bearded lady, the fat lady, or the strong man (with boxes to simulate iron weights).

Each Den sets up a try-your-skill booth that includes such things as throwing bean bags into scoring holes cut out on a cardboard pig, or toss darts at a plywood duck with point scores marked on the cutout, and tossing rings onto the tail of a make-believe cow.

Cub Scout ingenuity knows no limits when the Cub Scouts make their peepshows boxes out of shoe boxes. One such peep-hole-labeled, "The Big Slipper" contains a banana peel.

The "Harvest Fair" will have some contests for Cub Scouts, neighborhood boys of Cub Scout age, and their parents. These may include a tug of war, chariot race, corn-shelling contest, a hog-calling contest, human wheelbarrow race, or other audience participation stunts.

Parents of Cub Scouts get into the fun by contributing unneeded items from home for the "white elephant" sale, with the proceeds going to the Cub Pack's treasury. Other fund raising devices for the unit at the "Harvest Fair" are a home-made cake sale, refreshments booth, and a home-made candy stand.

In preparation for their "Harvest Fair" Cub Scouts arrange a visit to a county fair, farm, or creamery. They learn what fruits and vegetables are harvested in their part of the country. These visits acquaint the Cub Scouts with the nearby countryside and what they learn there contributes to their growing up.

AGRICULTURE ACTION

by M. L. Voss
OF THE FARM BUREAU

The Day the Tractors Stopped

In this dream, the gasoline had run out . . . petroleum products were cut off. The tractors had stopped. The dark furrow where they had drawn their plows, ceased. Cattle cried for water because the still pumps, and a chill silence spread over the land where formerly locomotives raced, engines sputtered into life and trucks loaded with food roared.

In this dramatic fashion we point up the importance of petroleum products—a major farm production "tool" and a major item in today's farm budget.

"What would we do in America if petroleum were cut off? How long would it take to plow an acre, or cultivate a field of corn?" These questions were asked recently by Jack McKendry, manager of Farmers Petroleum Cooperative, one of the largest state-wide farm petroleum suppliers.

Those are intriguing questions to say the least. A good team of horses hitched to a "walking" plow could cover from one to three acres a day. Four horses on a spike-tooth harrow can go over 20 acres. But where are the horses these days? Without them, how would we plow and seed, combine and elevate? Who would chop and dig, grind and pump?

Human muscles would do these things just as they still do in many parts of the world. Picture it—you can—the harvest methods of one Asiatic farmer, who uses two chiseled-like pieces of wood to "pinch off a head of grain, meanwhile depositing it in his collection bucket." Thrilling, of course, is a repeat of the beating and winnowing process of Biblical times. It goes without saying that such countries have no surplus problems.

Contrast the 80-acre field harvested in one day by a 16-foot, self-propelled American combine!

Small wonder that, as McKendry points out—Michigan farmers willingly spend major money on petroleum products. McKendry lists major cash outlays by most farmers for petroleum, fertilizer, seeds and feed, in that order. Much feed and some seeds are still home produced, but "horsepower" is not.

Without adequate petroleum supplies, (farmers are the largest single users of petroleum products) the tractors would truly stop and American farm surpluses would melt into nothing in a matter of months.

Backdoor Financing

"Backdoor financing" is a vicious practice from the viewpoint of government spending. It is a device by which a bureau, division, or department is freed from annual appropriation committee review of the amount which may be spent, and to the extent it is used it reduces the generally accepted congressional control of the public purse. The latest effort to get free of such control was in connection with the foreign development loan program, and it has been defeated.

Such "backdoor" spending is not a new development. The first notable example was with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in 1932. That was during the Hoover administration, and Ogden Mills was Secretary of the Treasury. Mr. Mills in making his customary summary of the budget for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1932, failed to include an advance of close to $300 million in the deficit figures. Technically he was not required to include this amount in the deficit, but failure to do so gave a distorted picture of the condition of federal finances. Such an amount today would be relatively insignificant, but in 1932 the total federal budget was only about $5 billion, and $300 million was important.

During the intervening years "backdoor" spending has grown by leaps and bounds, and today amounts to billions of dollars. The growth has been in both Republican and Democratic administrations. President Kennedy specifically asked for authority to borrow $5.8 billion from the Treasury over five years for development—and that is "backdoor financing."

The Senate, which is more "liberal" than the House, reduced the amount to an even $5 billion, and passed a bill covering both the method and the period of such borrowing. The House would have none of this and passed a one-year authorization of $1.2 billion. The House then also instructed its conferees not to accept the "backdoor financing" but to insist upon annual appropriations. To give such instructions is most unusual, and made the task of the conference committee quite difficult.

Finally, however, an agreement was reached in the conference, and it has been passed by both branches of the Congress. It provides for a five-year program of $7.2 billion in development by annual appropriations. Obviously this is a curious solution and small wonder that both sides are claiming victory.

Those who oppose long-term commitments emphasize the requirement of annual appropriations. The Administration, and those who were supporting it, emphasize that the President is given specific authority to make a five-year agreement, and insist that the Congress has at least a moral responsibility to provide the funds.

Now in spite of the unquestioned waste that goes on in our foreign aid program, and in spite of it frequently not being as effective as we should like, the fact remains that we, as a nation, cannot suddenly withdraw from continuing to try to help foreign countries. And it also is a fact that frequently funds can be used to better advantage if an agreement extending beyond our fiscal year can be made. Those are arguments which cannot successfully be countered.

At the same time it is of utmost importance that the Congress should have an opportunity to review annually what we are doing. The compromise, in other words, is wise, and the so-called moral obligations of the Congress to provide the funds is eyewash, if the commitments do not make sense.

Western States Highways Most Deadly in Nation
Believe it or not, the most likely place to die in a traffic accident is in the far West and not in the crowded East.

National Safety Council statistics based on population show that more people die of highway injuries in the sparsely settled western mountain areas than die in New England.

James M. Hare, chairman of the Michigan State Safety Commission, released figures today which finds Nevada, with a yearly average of 60 highway fatalities per 100,000 population, as the "deadliest" state in the nation. Wyoming, with an annual average of 41.0 deaths recorded for each 100,000 citizens, was the second most highway-death dangerous state.

"On the other hand," Hare said, "Northeastern seaboard states had the lowest fatality rates; Rhode Island shows 8.6, Connecticut 8.7, Massachusetts 8.9, and New Hampshire 9.0 annual deaths per 100,000 population."

Hare pointed out that the national average was 20.9 deaths, and that Michigan, with 17 fatalities for each 100,000 citizens, has a safety record only slightly better than the average.

"If we continue our across-the-board efforts in education, engineering, and enforcement, we can make Michigan a more accident-free state in which to live, work, and play," Hare said. "As Michigan's reputation grows as a safe state, crisscrossed with good highways leading to vacation areas and cultural centers, our tourist business will grow and prosper. It is up to each of us to help make Michigan a travel-safe state and then tell the world about it."

All nations report more women working, each year. Looks like the menfolk are going back to the method used by the American Indians.

Con-Con Candidates Meet with Area Library Association

The Washtenaw Area Library Association, at a meeting held in the Ann Arbor Library last Thursday, considered laws to be incorporated in the new state constitution by delegates to the Con-Con. Recommended were financial provisions for public libraries in relation to those of the education division, with responsibility for support to be shared by local communities and the state, on a percentage basis.

Candidates Bonsteel, Carr, Grossman, Lawrence, Muncy and Sutter attended the meeting, to present their views on library legislation and to hear those of the members of the Association. Also present were Mrs. Marion Ingram of the State Library, and several members of the county Board of Supervisors.

Librarians and members of local library boards in the area, as well as others interested in better library service, make up the Association and are promoting wider use of libraries and more up-to-date legislation.

Mrs. David Soule attended the meeting as the official representative of McKune Memorial Library. She was accompanied by Mrs. E. W. Eaton.

New Speed Limits Set For Freeways

Lansing—New speed limits went into effect Sept. 8 on more than 500 miles of Michigan freeway.

The new maximum limits are 70 miles an hour during the day and 60 at night. They replace former maximum speed limits of 55 and 55.

State Highway Department Traffic Division Director Harold H. Cooper said today the new limits apply only on freeways—divided highways which can be reached only at interchanges, such as I-94 between Detroit and Benton Harbor.

"Non-freeways, such as divided US-27 north of Lansing, will qualify only when they are brought up to freeway standards," Cooper said.

"Existing speed limits will remain in effect on freeways in major cities, such as Detroit."

More than 200 freeway speed limit signs were replaced or revised before the new limits went into effect.

Of these, about 80 existing signs, measuring 24 by 30 inches, were replaced by new signs measuring four by five feet while overlays showing the new speed limits were placed on more than 120 existing four by five-foot signs.

Cooper said the cost of the changeover will be an estimated $7,500.

Daytime and nighttime limits are on a single sign and motorists will only see the higher limit during the day and only the lower limit at night.

"This is done through the use of three materials," Cooper said. "First, we have a reflective material that appears black during the day and white at night."

"We also use a plain white paint that looks white during the day and appears black at night."

"Then there is another material that appears white during the day and white at night."

"This combination gives us a sign with the daytime and nighttime limits overlapping," Cooper said.

The change in freeway speed limits was approved three months ago by the Michigan legislature.

3-Year-Old Drowns in Portage Lake

Portage Lake claimed its second youthful victim early Saturday evening after Ronald Hoseney, 3, of 9900 Winston Dr., and his grandfather, Carl Neifert, of 9904 Winston Dr. at Portage Lake, were thrown into the water when the aluminum boat in which they were riding flipped.

Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputies, who were called to the scene of the drowning by deputies from Livingston county, reported that the boy had apparently asked to steer the boat and evidently fully opened the throttle of the 18 horsepower outboard motor as he began to steer.

The force flipped the boat, spilling the two occupants into the water, estimated to be about 55 feet deep. Occupants of nearby boats were able to rescue Neifert, but the child was not found, despite rescue operations far into the night, Saturday. His body was recovered Sunday shortly after noon by Portage Lake residents Robert Road and his son, Tom, in about 6 to 8 feet of water. The pair were aiding deputies from Washtenaw and Livingston counties, Michigan State Police skin divers from the Brighton Post and the Underwater Recovery Team of the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department in the search.

Dexter's fire chief, Keith Hostlin, and assistant chief, Vincent LaRosa, provided searchlights on the lake Saturday night using the fire department's generator.

The boy was the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Hoseney of Portage Lake.

Funeral services were held from the Bobson Funeral Home, Flat Rock, on Tuesday afternoon with burial in Flat Rock.

Mr. and Mrs. George Knoll and Mrs. Adam Alber were in Pontiac Thursday and called on Charles Young at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Richard Koontz.

Personal Notes

Thirty-four delegates from the Chelsea congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses will spend the coming week-end at Battle Creek attending an assembly meeting. Saturday's activities will include a special baptism service, according to Raymond P. Tyskewicz, leader of the Chelsea congregation.

U.S. EYES BRITISH GUIANA

A new communist threat of the Western Hemisphere problem is the election of Cheddi Jagan as premier of the British colony of British Guiana in South America. Jagan is an outspoken admirer of communism and Fidel Castro. His country is now approaching full independence from Great Britain.

Secretary of State Rusk says lots depends on what happens in the next few weeks.

ON RESERVISTS' KIN The Pentagon has clarified Army's explanation of Defense Secretary McNamara's recent statement, which is now official. Dependents of reservists called up to active duty in the present go overseas to be with their bands or father. Exceptions are: 1. Remain in service and seas beyond the present temporary call-up limited to one year. 2. Pay all expenses for transportation, housing and other dentals for dependents. When an individual makes his mind to go to work, he is usually surprised by the plan.

Open House Reception Will Honor Martin Millers on Golden Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Earl Miller will be honored at an open house reception at their home, 525 McKinley St., Sunday from two until five o'clock in observance of their 50th wedding anniversary.

They have been residents of Chelsea since 1942, when Mr. Miller took over operation of the former Plankell Funeral Home, operating it until 1952 when he sold it to the present owner, Louis Burghardt.

He had previously sponsored and financed a partnership in a funeral home on Kercheval Ave. in Detroit before opening his own funeral home at 1408 Wayburn Ave., Grosse Pointe Park, remaining at that location five years before moving to 15033 Kercheval Ave., also in Grosse Pointe Park.

For health reasons, he closed his business there in 1957 and returned to the building construction business, a career he had followed before taking up the profession of funeral director. He was employed as architect's superintendent for Albert Kahn, Inc., architect and engineers, a position which took him to Flint, Baltimore, Md., East Hartford, Conn., and Detroit.

In 1938 and 1939 he was appointed resident engineer in charge of the Federal Government, stationed at Adrian. After that he was with the Argonaut Realty Division of General Motors Corp., as architect's superintendent, stationed at Lockport, N. Y., on a large factory addition to the Harrison Radiator Co. plant.

During the construction of the Willow Run Bomber Plant he was employed by Bryant & Detweiler on allocation of costs and materials, resigning that position to take over the funeral home here.

After selling the funeral home to Burghardt in 1952, the Millers took an extended vacation and later that year he returned again to the commercial construction field, representing the city engineer's office of the City of Ann Arbor and the architects as concrete inspector on the Maynard Street Carport.

Other activity in the construction trades before his retirement in August, 1960, included employment with Kurtz Building Co., of Ann Arbor, first as construction superintendent and later as estimator; work with the city engineer's office.

He and Mrs. Miller, the former Wyola Wiseman, former resident of Hamburg, N. Y., were married Sept. 16, 1911 in the Baptist parsonage at Niagara Falls by Rev. Albert E. Quinn. They resided for a short time in Buffalo, N. Y., and returned to Hamburg where Mr. Miller went to work on the hot mills of the Seneca Iron & Steel Co. at Blaisdell, N. Y.

He succeeded his father-in-law in the contracting business in 1913.

Employed by the Curtis-Wright Co. on the construction of R-36 fighters for England.

Mrs. Miller was active in school affairs and PTA work while the three children were in school. Grosse Pointe Park and also assisted Mr. Miller during the time he was engaged in funeral directing in Grosse Pointe Park and Chelsea.

Their family includes a son, Walter G. Miller of Birmingham, two daughters—Mrs. Don Roebuck (Martha) of Grosse Pointe Woods and Mrs. Darwin Bush (Martha) of Farmington.

They also have five grandchildren.

Sewing Contest Open to Amateurs Of Entire Nation

The Ann Arbor Junior Chamber of Commerce Auxiliary has announced its annual "Magical Needles Style Show" for non-professional sewers of the county.

Any woman or girl who sews is eligible to enter and compete for a grand prize as well as for first and second prizes in each of 10 categories.

Last year's grand prize winner was Mrs. Paul Mann of Chelsea who was awarded a sewing machine.

Ten finalists will be chosen from each category during a preliminary judging contest. Categories include sportswear, daytime, evening, suits and coats, millinery, family, children, student sewing, and costumes, including native and masquerade.

The finalists in each category will model their entries at 8 p.m. Oct. 6 in a style show at the Ann Arbor High School auditorium at which time the woman who is judged to be the best seamstress and model of her own entry will receive a grand prize.

Proceeds realized from entry fees and from the style show will be used for a scholarship which the auxiliary awards annually to an Ann Arbor High school graduate.

Entries for the contest are due Sept. 27 and prospective contestants may contact the co-chairmen, Mrs. E. C. Robert, III, or Mrs. Richard Simon of Ann Arbor for information.

Newlyweds from New York Visit Relatives

Corporal Richard Lee, United States Marine Corps, and his bride, the former Joanne King of Shushan, N. Y., were in Chelsea Monday to visit Miss Lillie Wackenhut and Mr. and Mrs. Elba Gage.

Miss Wackenhut and Corporal and Mrs. Lee were dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gage. Also a dinner guest was Mrs. Ola Hilsinger.

Corporal Lee, who has re-enlisted for an additional year of duty, is a grandson of Miss Wackenhut's sister, the late Mrs. Adolph Eisen. He and his bride were married Sept. 2 at the Shushan United Presbyterian church by his father, red meat.

Last year, American hunters bagged enough deer to produce 184 million pounds of venison making it the fourth-largest source of meat.

Following their marriage Corporal and Mrs. Lee spent a week in Vermont and are now enroute to Newport Beach, Calif., where they will make their home. He is to report at the Marine Base at El Toro, Calif., Sept. 28.

Enroute to the west coast, the newlyweds have been visiting relatives, stopping here and in Detroit, Birmingham, Dexter and other points.
