Area Churches Plan Special Holiday Events

Annual Christmas Programs Set By Young People

Area churches are planning Christmas programs by Sunday school children and young people, a number to be held Sunday and others later in the week and on Christmas Eve.

The First Methodist church has scheduled its Sunday school Christmas program and workshop for 5 p.m. Sunday and the Senior Methodist Youth Fellowship will have a supper at 6 p.m. and then go caroling.

The Sunday school program will be a half-hour worship service featuring five scenes of the biblical Christmas story.

The workshop will take place in the educational unit affording an opportunity for families to participate in making home decorations for the Christmas holidays.

Dr. and Mrs. Clare Warren are in charge of the Sunday school program and the workshop committee includes Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Bower, Jack Musser, Merle Hammell, Mrs. Raymond Schaefer and Mrs. Robert Daniels.

St. Barnabas' Episcopal church has a covered-dish supper planned for this evening (Thursday) at 6:30, followed by a children's program with a Christmas tree.

At the Congregational church Sunday, each church school class will have its own party; the junior and senior high group will have its own celebration; and a third group will be the adults. All will join for a carol singing service, the entire program to begin at 4 p.m. and conclude at 5:30 p.m.

St. Paul's Sunday school nursery, beginners and primary departments will meet Sunday for a program at 3 p.m. and the junior and intermediate departments will have a program at 4:15 p.m.

Chelsea Baptist church on Wilkinson St. will have a Christmas program Thursday, Dec. 21, at 7:30 p.m. The younger children will present songs and recitations; orchestra music will be presented by the young people of the church who are school-band members; and the young people's group will give a playlet, "The Rose of Sharon." Setting for the play is a florist shop.

Sunday evening, Dec. 17, at 7 o'clock, Dean Cummings, a graduate student at the University of Michigan and a graduate of Wheaton College and Moody Bible Institute, will direct the Chelsea Baptist church choir in a cantata entitled "Love Transcending" by John Peterson.

Zion Lutheran church, Rogers Corners, has scheduled a musical play in observance of the Christmas season at 7:45 p.m. Sunday with upper Sunday school classes taking part.

Traditional songs and recitations by the primary department of Zion Sunday school will be given Christmas Eve at a 7:30 p.m. service.

Bethel Evangelical and Reformed church will have its primary and kindergarten Sunday school decorated.

CHS Debate Team Wins Contest at Jackson Northwest

Chelsea High school debaters went to Jackson Northwest High school for competition Monday and were successful in one debate and accepted a forfeit on a second one when the second Jackson team failed to appear for the contest.

Debaters from Chelsea were Carol Mayer and Nancy Carter. The two who went along prepared to debate the second Jackson team are Mary Ann Hanson and Ellen Fisher.

Chelsea's next debate competition, probably next week, will be with New Boston.

Lighting Contest Needs More Entries

Paul G. Schaible, Jr., chairman of the annual "Chamber of Commerce Christmas Lighting Contest," urges all people of the community who plan any outdoor lighting decoration, to send in a registration form, thus becoming eligible to participate in the contest.

Each year, judges bemoan the fact that displays of prize-winning caliber are ineligible for judging because they have not been officially registered.

A registration form is included on page five of this issue of The Standard. The registration forms should be mailed or taken to Paul G. Schaible, Jr., at Chelsea State Bank.

Schaible said yesterday that judges will view all displays entered in the contest between 7 and 9 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 19, and will announce their decision in the Dec. 21 issue of The Standard.

Rules of the contest are the same as in past years. The contest is specifically for outdoor residential lighting; however, in-door lighting used in conjunction with the outdoor display will be considered and judged for overall effect providing the entire display is visible from the street in front of the residence.

First, second and third prizes, $15, $10 and $5, respectively, are being offered.

Schaible said "I hope a large (Continued on page five)

Christmas Concert Scheduled Monday By School Bands

The annual Christmas Band Concert will be presented in the High School Auditorium Monday, Dec. 18 at 8 p.m. Participating will be student musicians from the Seventh Grade Band, Eighth Grade Band and Senior Band.

A variety of appropriate seasonal music in addition to standard band literature will be heard. Care has been taken in programming to insure the discriminating listener a variety of moods and tempos. Too—tapping—marches, pleasant and varied concert numbers will be presented along with familiar Christmas tunes to make a well balanced program.

No tickets are required for attendance at the concert; however, there will be an opportunity to contribute to a fund offering, any funds received being designated for band purposes.

Awards to the students who won first, second and third prizes in the fruit cake and candy bar contest will be made during the evening. It is hoped that a large audience will be present to hear and observe the skills which the students have developed through long hours of diligent rehearsal. The general public is cordially invited to attend.

The Sixth Grade Band will perform during the Christmas program to be presented by the elementary schools at Chelsea High school, Tuesday, Dec. 19, at 7:30 p.m.

Other officials, including three assistant district commissioners to be selected by District Commissioner Kuntz, a staff member to act as neighborhood commissioner and six operating committee chairmen are to be named prior to the first official meeting of the new district at Saline, Jan. 9.

The six operating committee chairmen to be named are responsible for advancement, camping, activities, health and safety, leadership, training, organization extension and finance.

Fred Sundling, new District IV executive, was not present for Tuesday's meeting, having been called to Escanaba because of the death of a relative.

Rock Martin of Ann Arbor, district chairman of District I, acted as chairman of Tuesday's meeting which was held at Bates Elementary school at Dexter.

Boy Scout Troop 28 of Dexter, served refreshments at the meeting.

Mrs. John Alber entertained several friends and neighbors at a coffee hour at her home on South Main St. Monday morning. Mrs. Richard Riemenschneider of Ann Arbor, formerly of Chelsea, was a special guest.

Washtenaw Student Council Discusses All-Sports Trophy

The Washtenaw Conference Student Council, at a meeting at 9:30 a.m. Monday at Manchester High school, continued discussion begun at previous meetings pertaining to an All-Sports trophy to be awarded by the Council.

It was decided to have the Conference Student Council itself do the judging as to the recipient of the trophy on the basis of conduct of the team and cheerleaders; also appearance, actions and attitudes.

A Journalism Workshop was discussed and Sandy Brown of Saline and Mary Ann Hanson of Chelsea were appointed to make arrangements for the workshop project to be held in February, probably at Saline.

Also on the agenda at Monday's meeting was discussion of arrangements for a Washtenaw Conference dance March 3 at Manchester High school for the seven conference schools—Dexter, Chelsea, University High, Manchester, Milan, Pinckney and Saline High—with a disc jockey to provide special music.

Annual Event Is Holiday Highlight For Community

This is the week of the annual "Children's Christmas Party." It will be held Saturday, Dec. 16, at Sylvan Theatre with three shows scheduled—12 o'clock noon, 1 p.m. and 2 p.m.—and parents are being reminded to caution their children not to attend more than one of the shows, since they might deprive some other youngsters of their share of the fun and the gifts which Santa Claus customarily distributes after each show.

The annual party is sponsored by UAW-CIO Locals 437 and 1284 and the Chelsea Community Chest.

Mac Packard and Mitchell Fickles are co-chairmen for the party.

They will be assisted by volunteers from the four divisions of Local 437—Federal Screw, Central Fibre, Rockwell-Standard and Chrysler Products—and from Chrysler Proving Ground division of Local 1284.

Sheep-Killing Dogs Shot In Lyndon

Dean Clark killed two dogs, one Friday and the other Saturday, after a number of his sheep had been killed.

The dog Clark shot on Friday was owned by Troy Minix of Gregory, who told deputies he had let his dog out of his car to chase a fox near the Clark farm. Minix said the dog was valued at more than $100.

Officers told him Clark had a legal right to shoot the dog.

Clark, with a neighbor, had found the Minix dog roaming in his pasture and chasing deer in the area while he and the neighbor were rounding up injured sheep. At that time four dead sheep were found in the pasture.

Marauding dogs had first attacked and killed some of Clark's sheep on Thursday and on Saturday morning Clark killed a red hound he found in his sheep barn.

Nine sheep lay dead near the dog in the barn, investigating officers reported. Tracks in snow outside indicated there had been at least one other dog with the one that was shot.

By Tuesday afternoon, Clark counted 18 sheep dead and 9 injured, three so badly hurt that it was feared they would not survive. The remaining two sheep in the flock of 29 are missing.

Outstanding Scholars Awarded School Letters for Achievement

When school opened on a hot day in Denison, Tex., this fall, a small group of high school students turned up in heavy wool sweaters with big block D's. Parents considered the group a bit "tetched," but classmates eyed them enviously. For the D's marked each as a new kind of hero—as one put it, as "one of the top brains in town."

Three years ago, Denison High attracted nation-wide attention by becoming the first school in the U. S. to award school letters—heretofore reserved for athletes—to its top scholars.

"We felt a letter was a prestige symbol," said the superintendent, "and we felt it was high time a good student was given some prestige."

The news from Denison today is that the idea has succeeded far beyond the sponsors' widest dreams. Letters winners are enormously proud to belong to the "club." Said one boy who didn't get one: "I'd rather have one of those than a sports letter. They really show you've achieved something."

The letters themselves are the same as those awarded for athletics except they have the name of the subject on them—such as math, chemistry or physics.

Each school term, 21 letters are handed out. One boy and one girl win in each category in each of the top three grades. "If we didn't do that," says the superintendent, the girls would clean up."

Winners are selected on three grounds. First, they must have an over-all scholastic average of 90, and they must rate higher than 90 in citizenship. Their grade in the subject counts 50 percent of their final rating. Finally, they are given a standardized achievement test which counts for the other half.

Denison's plan has since been copied by more than 10 other schools. It is something our schools should consider?

Diversification of Michigan Industry Provides Many Great Advantages

Michigan is Industry Diversification!

So reads an advertisement today in The Chelsea Standard. This diversification is an advantage for industry. It provides an industrial market for other manufacturers and it enables them to utilize to the fullest our consumer market. Michigan is the center of the Great Lakes market area, the largest market area in the world.

Let us not be misled, however, into believing that our industrial diversification is sufficient unto our needs. There must be even more. There are areas of industry in which we are small. These should be encouraged to build and expand. Our present industry can diversify even further with the assistance of research facilities at our great universities.

The industry promotion committee of the Michigan Press Association and the Michigan Economic Development Department have done well to point out this diversification of Michigan industry. But more needs to be done and the people of our community are important in achieving this. They can show their appreciation of our present industry and they can clip today's advertisement and mail it to a friend outside our state. That will project them actively into our program for industrial development.

Success is relative—the more success the more relatives.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I see by the papers where a barnyard full of high officials of the Treasury Department and a pasture full of clerks to ment claims it would be good for keep track of them cheap dollars the country if we'd cut in half the inheritance tax on all estates worth forecasts at the $10 million level. $10 million or more. He allows as how it would be an incentive to free enterprise."

I'm strong in favor of it, Mister Editor. I remember back in 1925 when Cal Coolidge came up with a idea called the "flexible tariff" fer helping the little feller. My memory gits a little hazy after 35 year but seems like I recall we got a little relief on such items as goose feathers, paint brushes, axe handles and sheep dip. If I recollect right, this is the last time us little fellers has had any reductions.

Starting at $10 million is a little high up on the hog, but it could be the beginning of a trend. By the end of this century the Congress might git down to the one-gallus boys, git it so's a farmer or rancher could not his cemetery lot and front yard in the Soil Bank git his fertilizer at cost through the United Nations.

When I bring these glad tidings to the fellers at the country store Saturday night most of 'em took a dim view of the situation. Ed Doolittle, fer instant, claimed everybody in Washington did a heap of popping off when the Congress was out of town. It don't mean a thing, allowed Ed, and he said he wouldn't be surprised, afore them Congressmen git back to Washington, to see Bobby Kennedy issue a proclamation abolishing poverty. Zeke Grubb said he was special doubtful of anything that come out of the Treasury Department. He figgers that any Government agency that has to have a barnyard full of high officials and a pasture full of clerks to ment claims it would be good for keep track of them cheap dollars the country if we'd cut in half the inheritance tax on all estates worth forecasts at the $10 million level. $10 million or more. He allows as how it would be an incentive to free enterprise."

Well, I see where the U. S. Safety Council says 1961 is going to be our best year yet fer pedestrians. Fewer of them per capita getting killed than in any other year. I'd have to see the detailed figgers on this survey. It could be Mister Editor, that all slow-jumping pedestrians has been killed off afore 1961.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

MICHIGAN MIRROR

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Adequate medical service, a basic need of the nation's population, has been found lacking in Michigan according to surveys by the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The department's Health Manpower Source Book—published in 1959—showed there were 8,118 physicians in Michigan, or 105.6 doctors per 100,000 people.

It carries a report by the American Medical Association showing that by 1975 Michigan will need 15,005 doctors if the state is to have what the AMA considers adequate medical service. This would provide 124.7 doctors for each 100,000 of Michigan's anticipated 1975 population of 12,081,000, a number which could not possibly be supplied if present medical schools were forced to expansion beyond optimum capacities.

Where will these doctors come from?

A Michigan State University study recently showed between 100 and 150 doctors of medicine were coming into the state each year. This was over and above the number graduated from Michigan's two existing medical schools at Wayne State University and the University of Michigan.

The need for more doctors, the lack of Michigan's medical schools providing for the state's needs led to a recommendation by the U. S. Public Health Service that additional medical education programs be started here.

Michigan State University officials started a project two years ago to study the feasibility of establishing a medical school program on the East Lansing campus. The project resulted in the recent approval by the MSU Board of Trustees of the establishment of an Institute of Biology and Medicine.

The Institute will be a two-year program of post-graduate education which medical students need before they can start clinical work. Michigan State officials proposed the two-year curriculum presumably as a start toward a full medical school program at East Lansing, but it was also intended to fill another gap in Michigan's supply of doctors.

The MSU study which prompted the creation of the Institute showed some 700 or 800 vacancies occur annually in the third year of the nation's medical schools. Other studies indicated more two-year programs were needed to fill these vacancies.

University officials also saw the Institute as a means of training enough teachers and researchers to staff medical colleges. In the 1959-60 school year, the study showed eight percent of these staff positions were unfilled.

The Institute's work began immediately after the Board of Trustees approved the plan. Actual training of Michigan's future doctors at MSU, however, will await at least one year of program development.

AUS spokesman said the greatest single need of the new unit would be additional teaching and research facilities. Present university faculty members, especially in existing biology and health-related departments, will be used but some other staff must be added.

This state lags behind others in the number of medical schools. Michigan now has two. The 1959 federal report showed the picture in other states at that time: Ohio, three; Illinois, five; New York, nine; California, five; Pennsylvania, six; Massachusetts, three; Wisconsin, two; Indiana, one.

Recreation to the MSU program from officials at the two existing medical schools was favorable, though relatively reserved.

The public reaction was not felt immediately, but was expected to be that of overwhelming support. An adequate supply of doctors, many feel, would help bring medical costs down.

If some measure of competition were present in the medical field, the "buyer's market" would enable more people to receive care and costs might be less to the individual.

Whether a switch from the "seller's market" to a "buyer's market" brings about lower individual costs remains to be seen, but creation of the Institute of Biology and Medicine at MSU will almost undoubtedly be a giant step toward relieving Michigan's doctor shortage.

Successful operation of the Institute and placement of its students in medical schools is also expected to encourage the establishment of similar post-graduate programs at other locations in the state.

VIETNAM-BERLIN ACTION

The possibility of United States military intervention in South Vietnam appeared to be sharpened by President Kennedy's decision to send Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor there to assess the Communist threat.

The President also announced that he will send Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson back to Moscow to resume exploratory talks with Soviet leaders.

Chelsea is welcoming a new industry this week—the S. L. Jackson Co., of Detroit, manufacturers of rubber products—to be located in the Tower Building.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. James Savage, pastor of Holy Trinity church,

Lansing—it is time for Michigan to take a good look at its space potential—to see just how we shape up.

A good place to look, if you will, is at a map.

We find that Michigan has a great corridor of research and progress that can open new frontiers in science, medicine, nuclear energy—a pattern for a fuller life.

This corridor leads from Detroit to Ann Arbor to Lansing, where three of our universities are located. There you find some of the best brainpower of the world probing into fields of research directed toward improving Michigan industry—defending our freedom, forming for each of us a better tomorrow and bringing benefits to the entire world.

The greatest portion of this research, is being done from outside funds through grants and under contract.

At Wayne State University much research is going on in the fields of medicine, engineering and in the area of liberal arts, such as biology, chemistry, physics, psychology, geology and mathematics.

At the University of Michigan more than 800 research projects were under way last year, ranging in value from $500 to more than $5 million.

Research expenditures at the university for 1959-60, amounted to more than $25 million for the second consecutive year, with more than three-fourths of the research funds coming from the federal government.

At Ann Arbor, too, the Institute of Science and Technology, a part of the university. This is a research facility capable of offering great benefit to industry—and how and brains to make Michigan should be used to a greater extent by industry, both large and small, we are in the automotive field to develop new products for challenging decades ahead.

Another door on this dramatic corridor opens into Michigan State University, long known for its agricultural research, but recently vaulted into space-age research with two major grants from the National Science Foundation.

A 50-million volt range cyclotron will be constructed at MSU for clear and electronic research. Prostate funds will also provide expansion of the university's electronic computer center.

Michigan projects have included spectacular research resulting development in Michigan of high resolution radar, the Bomarc high performance rocket, plus mapping radar to a satellite system.

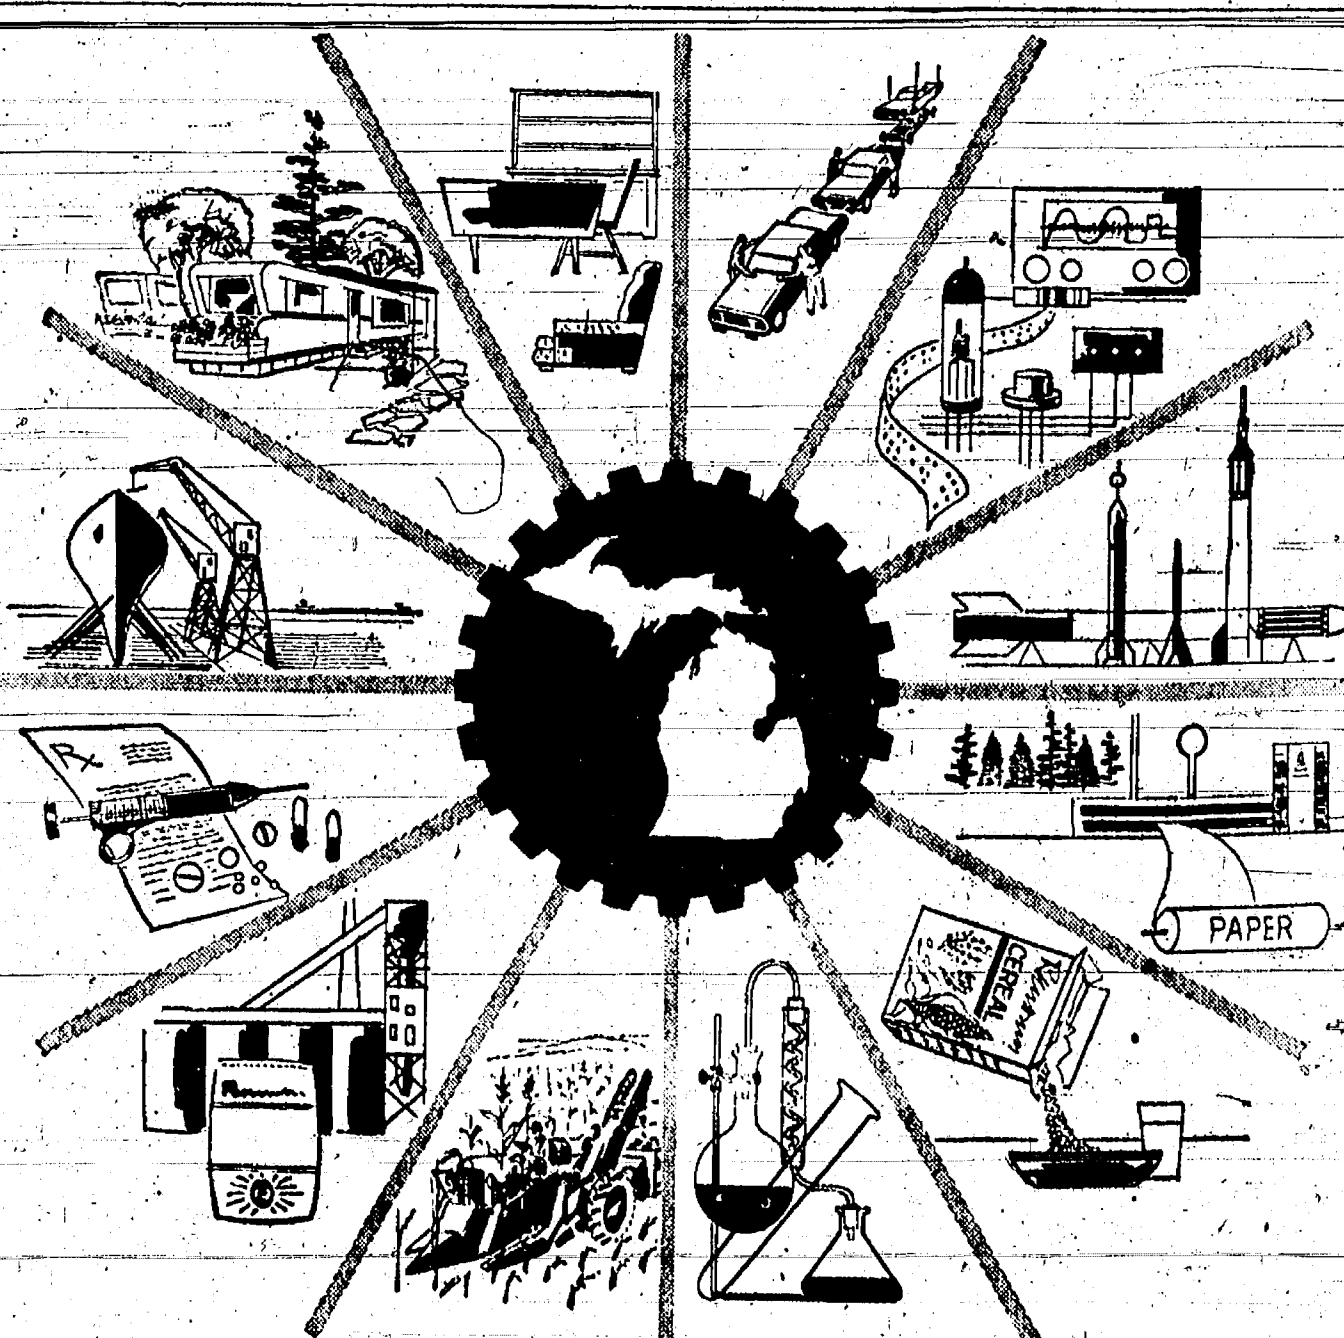

Other projects are: research cancer; industrial medicine; blood coagulation, and safe airplane seats—to mention only a few.

Research is going on in our colleges and universities, too, as at the Michigan College of Mining and Technology at Houghton where research in wood pulp, age and ore processing will add northern Michigan's economy.

It was research and salesmanship that built the electronics industry in Massachusetts and California. In Michigan, we have the research, the people qualified to carry on this work and dedicated to the challenge of new frontiers.

Our corridor of research and progress is wide open, providing Michigan the potential to be first every phase of new industries.

There is nothing Michigan industry and workers cannot do. Challenge our leaders of business, industry and labor to make the greatest use of our skills, knowledge and brains to make Michigan the leader in new fields, just as we are in the automotive field.

MICHIGAN IS INDUSTRY DIVERSIFICATION

Michigan is a good place for any industry. Here we have the ability to produce almost everything—and we prove it daily.

It was Michigan which put the world on wheels when it developed the automobile and changed global economics. It was a Michigan-made Redstone missile which boosted the first American astronaut into space. In between these great achievements is the romance of industrial development by which Michigan advanced the living standards of nearly all peoples and served as the Arsenal of Democracy in the protection of freedom. The nation starts each day with a cereal—generally from Michigan. It travels over highways built with Michigan materials; protects its health with a Michigan-made pharmaceutical; enjoys the benefits of our research.

The skills, the knowledge, the brainpower which makes this possible is constantly available to industry—a new one or one which expands here. It makes Michigan a good place for industry—any industry.

Help carry Michigan's message to the nation. Clip this ad and mail it to someone in another state with your comment. Let's talk up Michigan and its advantages for industry. Together we can assure a greater future for all of us.

MICHIGAN IS EVERYTHING FOR INDUSTRY

Area Resident Helping Formulate Rules For International Aerobatic Competition

When did I first get interested in flying and airplanes? I guess I was as long as I can remember. It was the reply when your editor, himself a former aeronautical engineer, queried Bill Barber, 1962, North Central Airlines pilot, who this week is attending meetings in Paris, France, at which time the rules for the international aerobatic flying competition will be established for the world's championship aerobatic pilots.

Captain William A. Barber

Barber, whose official airline name is "Captain William A. Barber" has been flying literally since he was a kid, qualifying since his pilot's license at the age of 16. He spent many an hour watching planes and doing the hundred other small chores always around an airport. He collected his pay in flight instruction in lieu of cash, and by the time he reached the age of 16, he was well-trained to pass the examination for his private pilot's license.

Barber was born in Minneapolis, Minn., and hour after hour of his boyhood was spent watching planes and eventually working at the Chamberlain Field, the Minneapolis municipal airport. The field itself was named for two air aces of World War I.

Now piloting a DC-3 on regular flights scheduled from Willow Run Detroit Metropolitan Airport, Barber has been with North Central Airlines for approximately 10 years.

For nearly four years now, the pilot and his vivacious wife, Nevada, have made their home at 8881 McGregory Rd. at Portage Lake.

Coupled with his aviation interest as a commercial pilot, Barber is one of the top aerobatic pilots in the country and maintains two planes presently. One, a Curtiss "Falcon" he keeps at Young Field, located on Jackson Rd., just a stone's throw from Dexter; the other, a special clipped-wing Piper Cub is housed at Ypsilanti's McKennan Airport. The "Falcon" is at present undergoing some extensive work in the hangar shops.

Barber says his planes contain specially designed fuel feed lines and many other extras required for efficient operation of an aircraft when it is subjected to flying in an inverted position for any length of time. Also the frame must be "beefed up" with additional support for the tremendous stresses under which an aerobatic pilot flies his plane.

Reviewing some of the policies used in many of the Iron Curtain countries, Barber explained that most of the planes used by pilots in competition, internationally, in these countries are taken from quantities of 700-800 government ordered planes, while U. S. pilots finance their own planes and expenses in this field. When a Russian-trained pilot tears off a wing or finds a major repair necessary, he merely takes an alternate ship and continues his arduous flight practice. Not so the American pilot. The American is grounded until the plane can be repaired and if it is beyond repair, he is sometimes grounded permanently or until he can scrape enough cash together to invest in another craft.

The men and women interested in promoting aerobatic flying in the United States are not suggesting government owned stocks or advising that the government subsidize the aerobatic program, but many feel that some type of program could be set up whereby the program received some support similar to the type of support which enables the U. S. to send highly and specially trained athletes to participate in international competition at regular intervals. Russia in her campaign to gain world recognition will not overlook the opportunity to send her finest pilots, equipped with first-class aircraft, to any international competition of this type.

Our pilots are surely among the world's best—why shouldn't the U. S. receive recognition for their superior abilities? This and many other questions need to be evaluated by Americans and some solutions found whereby America receives her just due, according to Capt. Barber. The captain has promised a report on his activities at the meetings in which he will notify area residents of the happenings in Paris.

Holiday Drivers Will Find I-96 Brighton By-Pass Open

Lansing — One of Michigan's worst traffic bottlenecks will be reduced considerably by Christmas with the opening of a four-mile stretch of Interstate 96 Freeway at Brighton.

The State Highway Department said the exact date for opening the freeway that by-passes Brighton has not been set but it may be as early as Dec. 15.

State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie said the by-pass part of the Detroit-to-Muskegon Freeway—is being opened to traffic nine months ahead of schedule in an effort to reduce traffic congestion at the intersection of old US-16 and old US-23.

Mackie had high praise for the contractor—L. A. Davidson Construction Co. of Lansing, and Highway Department personnel who worked on the project.

The by-pass is part of a $5 million interchange at the junction of the Interstate 96 and US-23 freeways.

The entire interchange, one of the world's largest in terms of the 175 acres it covers, is expected to be opened to traffic by the middle of next year.

By opening I-96 around Brighton, through east-west traffic will not be required to take a detour. However, west-bound traffic desiring to go from I-96 to US-23 will be required to take the detour.

Costs of Traffic Tragedies Exceed Loss from Crime

Lansing — "Mr. Motorist you can help fight crime and delinquency," says the State Safety Commission office. Maybe you are not an expert in fingerprint detection, interception of bank robbers, or in the elimination of gambling, vice, and other criminal activity but you can make a real contribution to the law and order of the community simply by driving sensibly and legally.

As things are now in some communities, an estimated 75 percent to 85 percent of police and court time is taken up with traffic cases. This is far from wasted effort as so-called traffic accidents create four times the deaths and injuries caused by criminal activity. Likewise, the costs of traffic tragedies greatly exceed the loss from burglaries, robberies, swindles, and forgeries—spectacular as these are.

The selective enforcement policy followed by most police agencies puts the enforcement manpower where most of the trouble is. This is true also of specialties like traffic enforcement. If the traffic situation in a given community shows substantial improvement, it could follow that police manpower would be deployed in other needed activity. However, if by the determined, dedicated actions of millions of motorists traffic violations and accidents were drastically reduced, it follows that the crime situation would presently be improved also.

The motorist would be helping in other directions also. At present the flouting of traffic laws and hostility to traffic enforcement manifested by even a small percentage of otherwise respectable drivers gives open encouragement to less stable characters to follow suit and to extend this attitude logically to all law and restraint.

What was it you said to the family, or at the friend's house, or down at the shop about your last traffic ticket?

Mild Weather Saves Snow Removal Funds

Lansing — Mild weather saved the State Highway Department an estimated $100,000 in snow removal money through the first part of December.

However, State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie was quick to say that a big snow storm could cut up any savings almost as fast as a snowflake can fall. There has been an insignificant amount of snow in Michigan through the first week in December and Highway Department maintenance engineers were hopeful the stroke of good luck would continue.

Maintenance crews weren't exactly sitting on their gloves waiting for snow.

"There's lots of other work we can do," Mackie said at the time. "I don't think we have to worry about spring fever... not yet."

Mackie was right. Highway Department snow removal equipment went to work in parts of the state the next morning.

Bachelor's degree graduates of Michigan colleges and universities received an average beginning teacher salary in September 1961 which ranged from $4,400 to $5,000 annually, the research division of the Michigan Education Association reported. Surveyed by the MEA were 10 teacher education institutions in Michigan.

MEA Forms Association To Provide Village For Retired Teachers

The Michigan Education Home Association, a corporation chartered by the Michigan Education Association, is making initial plans to provide housing for retired Michigan teachers. Dr. E. Dale Kennedy, MEA executive secretary, announced. Named "Meha Village," the project is designed to establish housing facilities for retired personnel of Michigan public schools and colleges. Initially, about 500 persons will be accommodated by the village which is scheduled to be completed in the fall of 1966 on a site near Ann Arbor. The village will provide residents with recreational, civic, cultural, and educational opportunities along with physical benefits which will be available through the University of Michigan Hospital and Medical School.

Learning Process Is Lonely Business U-M Man Writes

Ann Arbor—Learning is not a social activity—it's lonely business, and the greater the learning, the greater the loneliness.

So states Frank O. Copley, University of Michigan professor of Latin in his book, "The American High School and the Talented Student," published this year by the U-M Press.

"Learning is full of repetition, of dull fact-gathering, of monotonous checking and rechecking of details. It demands discipline. It requires endless memorization, for the learner will never have time for a final step to understanding if he must be forever running to his reference books," writes the professor.

"We have no right as teachers," he says, "to let our students—and above all our best students—imagine that learning is or can be anything else than all of this."

The course in critical thinking, with an air of ease and speed and a promise of education reward greater than that to be gained from "just learning facts" is a questionable service to intelligent young people and to society, Copley says.

The tossing back and forth of topics of current interest by students and teachers is great fun, Copley admits. "It is also excellent social training of a kind American culture could use to advantage, for as conversationalists we are a dull people. But it is not learning, and we do wrong when we lead our students to think it is."

Michigan Communication Facilities Fit Industry Needs

Good communication is important to industry, industrialists and industrial location experts explain.
Good communication enables industrial management and workers to know what is going on in their particular field of our industrial complex. It enables them to know, almost the minute it happens, what local, state and national governments are doing that might affect their particular operations. It permits them to keep abreast of expansions and developments in the industry. It tells them what to expect in the days and months ahead. It details weather, economics and other factors which are of significance to industry.
These services are important to the operation of industry, it is pointed out.
It is satisfying to know what our neighbors are doing or what is happening in our "old home town." Our newspapers, daily and weekly, keep Michigan people informed of these happenings in which they have so much interest.
In taking into consideration the advantages Michigan has for industry, our means of communication is given a high rating by those charged with the location of an industry.
Michigan has radio and television which complete an outstanding system of communication in our State.

New MSU Record Service Now Available to Dairymen

Michigan dairy farmers participating in the Owner-Sampler testing program are now receiving a complete lactation record on all cows.
Starting last October, the program shifted from yearly records to lactation records on each cow, says Curtis C. Miller, dairy extension specialist at Michigan State University.
Before the new system, cows started their yearly record in October and completed it the following September.
Farmers in the past have had to add and subtract from at least

Two Groups Seek Permission To Use Seal of Quality

The first two commodities, poultry products and all Jersey milk, through their organizations have applied to the Michigan Department of Agriculture for consideration for the Seal of Quality. Legislation was approved by the last legislature.
The Michigan Allied Poultry Industries, Inc., has applied for consideration on all poultry products with standards to be set up by each segment of the poultry industry.
The Michigan Jersey Cattle club has asked for permission to use the Seal on dairy products.

Con-Con Attraction Draws More Visitors To State Capitol

The annual cavalcade of students moving toward the Lansing Capitol is increasing in size, due largely to the "once-in-a-lifetime" added attraction, the Constitutional Convention.
According to Secretary of State James M. Hare the students and teachers who come by the bus load from all parts of the state are still interested in seeing the Great Seal of Michigan and learning how a voting machine works, but that many are now asking questions about Con-Con and want to have a look at the original copies of previous Constitutions which are kept in the archives in Hare's office.
"The number of students visiting Constitution Hall and the Capitol was twice as large in November as it was in October," Hare said.
"The chances are, when the legislature is in session in January, the largest number of students in history will observe their deliberations."

Thank You

I wish to extend my thanks to Lyndon Home Extension club, neighbors, friends and relatives who so kindly remembered me with candy, cards and letters while I was in the hospital and since my return home. Everything is deeply appreciated. Sincerely,
Mrs. Fred Hadley

Election Clerks Drop Non-Voters From Polling Lists

Secretary of State James M. Hare is reminding Michigan citizens who have not voted for four years that election clerks, charged with the responsibility of revising and correcting their records each December, must drop them from the polling lists if they fail to register.

A state-wide check-up on election procedures made by the Department of State has shown that some clerks in many different parts of the state did not comply with this statute in the past.

The law states that the clerk must suspend the registration for all electors who have not voted, not continued their registration, not reinstated their registration, or not recorded a change of address on their registration within a period of four years. A local city, village or township governing body, by majority vote of the body, may call for such suspension and re-registration every two years if they find this desirable.

Hare said that election clerks must notify non-voting citizens of their registration suspension by mail and warn them that they must apply for a reinstatement within 30 days of the notice.

"We in Michigan cannot afford to have any deadwood in our registration lists," Hare said. "To fail to clean out the names of non-voters, the deceased, or citizens who have moved out of the community could open the door to those who may want to rig elections, vote tampones, or otherwise misuse election machinery to their own ends."

Arthritis Strikes at Every Age

Rheumatoid arthritis is no respecter of ages, as shown by this study of crippled hands photographed by March of Dimes-supported Arthritis Clinical Study Center, University of Texas Southwestern Medical School, Dallas. Note the different forms of crippling—saw-toothed swollen knuckles, hands bent both inward and outward, enlarged wrists. At three other such university-affiliated study centers across the nation, The National Foundation, parent body of the March of Dimes, is seeking answers to the riddle of rheumatic disease, including arthritis, which today afflicts at least 11 millions of all ages in the U. S. The health organization also continues its fight against crippling birth defects and polio through research, patient aid and professional education.

AGRICULTURE in ACTION

by M. L. Voehl

All Those Decisions

Sam was unhappy in his job of sorting potatoes. "I like the work fine," he said, "but all them decisions is getting me down!"

The art of making decisions is no small-potato matter.

It is something never really accomplished by many people.

It is recognized and rewarded by top business management.

It is a power carefully removed from the individual by totalitarian governments.

"Americans must flex their decision-making muscles or they will atrophy," warns Dr. Laurence Taylor, vice-president of Hillsdale College, and head of its project in Leadership Development. Dr. Taylor makes it plain that decision-making is necessary if individuals are to grow and remain free. He adds that many decisions now made for Americans are so pleasurable and seemingly so necessary that they are no longer of concern.

Dr. Taylor aims much of his advice at farmers and farm groups which he feels have prime leadership responsibilities and yet often ignore opportunities to strengthen the decision-making processes of their members.

In a recent seminar at Michigan State University, East Lansing, Taylor asked Michigan farmers if they really "believe in the dignity and preciousness of people as you profess." He challenged 250 county Farm Bureau officers and leaders to give all farmers, big or small, outspoken or inarticulate—a chance to share in the decision making process. "When you help others to make decisions you exalt the individual and in this fashion prove that you mean what you say when you talk about their importance," he said.

Taylor would ask these questions of all farm leaders:

"Do you really trust people to think through their problems to an adequate solution?"

"Are you willing to settle for less than the best, knowing that to most people the 'best' is the way that THEY want to do it?"

"Are you big enough to get around your thought and habit patterns to face that which is new and changing?"

Dr. Taylor suggests that when it comes to planning member participation, farmers would do well to apply the principles of agriculture. They should recognize that good leaders are "facilitating agents" and that the best kind of leader is like a farmer—a cultivator and grower of the twin crops of decision-making and participation.

Smallpox 'Put on Ice'

In the United States the scarcity of smallpox is due to refrigeration as well as to vaccination, as the vaccine loses potency unless kept ice-cold. In countries with fewer such coolers the world health organization of the United Nations has introduced a new method of manufacture—a freeze-dried vaccine. India will use this product in a forthcoming mass vaccination of her 480,000,000 citizens, in the global campaign of the WHO to eradicate the disease. The Government is recruiting 20,000 vaccinators for the drive.

MEA Will Support Earmarked Funds for Support of Education

The Michigan Education Association will support earmarked funds for education and will recommend that the controlling boards for the three constitutionally established universities remain the same, George N. Lauer, registrar, Central Michigan University, and president of the MEA, announced recently.

The MEA board of directors has voted association support of "earmarked funds for education sufficient to the degree that the state educational program will—in no way be impaired beneath its present level." In addition, the MEA "urges and encourages adequate earmarking of funds to greatly improve the existing program."

Action was also taken by the board to recommend that controlling boards for the University of Michigan, Wayne State University, and Michigan State University remain the same or be retained.

Any newspaper editor will admit that it is impossible to run a newspaper to suit all of several thousand readers.

Marquette Editor Named to Conservation Commission Vacancy

Lansing — Kenneth S. Lowe, editor of The Marquette Mining Journal, was named to Michigan's Conservation Commission Dec. 6 by Governor Swainson.

His appointment is for the unexpired term of Joseph P. Rahilly, of Newberry, which runs through April 1, 1963. Rahilly retired early last month after serving 27 years on the Commission.

Lowe, 40, a graduate of the University of Michigan, has been with The Mining Journal since 1948 when he joined its staff as a telegraph editor. He became associate editor of the paper in 1951 and editor in 1955.

From 1951-55, he was also editor of the Northern Michigan Sportsman, official publication of the Northern Michigan Sportsmen's Association.

For several years, Lowe has been editor-writer-photographer of The Mining Journal's outdoors page. He has authored a number of hunting, fishing, and conservation articles in national magazines.

Lowe is a member of the Fish and Wildlife Committee of the Michigan Natural Resources Council, Michigan Outdoor Writers Association, and Outdoor Writers Association of America.

He is secretary of the Marquette County Economic Study Committee, as well as a member of the executive committee of the Northern Michigan Sportsmen's Association. Also, he is a trustee of the Peter White Public Library, Marquette; vice-president of the Upper Peninsula Child Guidance Center, Inc., and a member of the executive committee of Bay Cliff Health Camp at Big Bay.

Greater Portion of World Is News Hungry

Seventy-five percent of the world's people are news hungry, according to the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization. This does not apply to the United States, which has 1,763 English language daily newspapers, more than 8,000 weeklies, and many foreign language papers. In at least 100 underdeveloped countries and territories, however, UNESCO has found that less than 10 copies of a daily newspaper are available per 100 persons.

ONLY 9 SHOPPING DAYS LEFT

Michigan's Congressman Robert P. Griffin interrupted a recent G.O.P. speaking tour of colleges in the Pacific Northwest to chat briefly with 1961 March of Dimes Poster Girl, Debbie Sue Brown, of Clifton, Washington. They discussed "ways and means" of encouraging everyone to contribute generously to the new March of Dimes crusade.

Officer Don Boyer Solves Mystery of Illegal Deer Kills

A real life "Whodunnit" with Conservation Officer Don Boyer as the star performer, resulted in the arrest and conviction of an Ann Arbor man as the perpetrator of illegal deer hunting over a period of three months.

Starting with only a handwritten note on a newspaper, Boyer's investigation led him to the Horseshoe Lake area and eventual apprehension of Charles W. Landers of 628 West Summit St., Ann Arbor, who pleaded guilty Friday in Municipal Court, Ann Arbor, to "illegally and maliciously" killing three deer—two does and a fawn.

Landers was ordered by Municipal Judge Francis L. O'Brien to spend five days in jail and pay $50 fine and $15 costs. An extra 10 days in jail is to be served if the fine is not paid. In addition Landers' deer-hunting privileges were revoked for three years and the remaining venison and Landers' rifle were confiscated.

Boyer went into action when three young sons of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Naught of 7305 Donovan Rd., Webster township, found the newspaper-wrapped remains — legs, skulls, heads, hides and bones — of three deer carcasses beside the road near their home. They told their mother, who called Boyer.

While game law violations were indicated by the find, there at first appeared to be no way to apprehend the violator. Then one of the Naught boys, Russell, 14, showed Boyer the word "Landers" written in ink on a piece of old newspaper and the officer went to work.

He knew that some newsstand dealers mark copies of newspapers with the names of regular customers who stop at the dealers to pick up their papers.

Checking dealers, Boyer found one in the Horseshoe Lake area who recognized the handwriting as her own and remembered having a customer named Landers who formerly lived at Horseshoe Lake.

Boyer then called his area supervisor, Ronald McKibben of Jackson, and Conservation Officer Karl Brushaber of Ypsilanti.

The three officers first obtained permission to look over the vacant property where Landers had formerly lived at Horseshoe Lake and in the garage there, they found evidence of the killed deer as well as a piece of rope matching that found on one of the discarded deer heads. They then obtained a search warrant for the Summit St. address and for an Ann Arbor house Landers operates. Confronted with evidence secured from both places, Landers admitted he had shot the three animals, all in Webster township, during September and October.

Farm Record Books Available At County Banks

Good farm records are a must. The tempo of agricultural business keeps increasing at a rapid pace. In order to keep abreast of this fast changing business farmers must keep good records. It is from these records a farm business analysis may be made to aid in planning ahead and making wise decisions.

For many years now the Washtenaw County Bankers Association has made available at no charge to farmers a Farm Record Book. These books are now in and available at your local bank. He will be happy to supply you one for the asking.

These books are easy to keep and summarize into your 1941 income tax and Social Security return. They have proven to be a popular book as approximately 1,400 a year are being used by our Washtenaw county farmers.

Sheriff's Monthly Report Lists 93 Auto Accidents

The monthly activity report of the Washtenaw county Sheriff's Department shows that the Driver's License division issued a total of 1,214 licenses during November. This included 36 duplicates, 202 chauffeur renewals, 116 operator renewals and 160 originals. Fees collected amounted to $9,271.50.

The dog-control division of the Sheriff's Department listed 187 complaints and 180 dogs picked up. The department's cars were driven a total of 41,425 miles during November.

A total of 666 complaints were answered; 112 arrests were made; 83 warrants were closed; and 688 civil papers were served.

The department policed 93 accidents during the month. Of these, two involved fatalities, one person being killed in each, and 58 involved personal injury to 51 persons. The remainder were property damage accidents.

The report, as released by Sheriff George A. Petersen, is concluded with the notation that a total of 6,484 meals were served to inmates of the County Jail during the month.

EAST-WEST CONFLICT

President Kennedy sees no easy or early halt to East-West collisions which have pushed mankind to, as he views it, the gravest danger point in all history.

The talks he and Secretary of State Rusk have had with Russian Foreign Minister Gromyko in the last few weeks have failed to produce immediate hope of achieving agreement on Berlin, Kennedy told a recent news conference.

Survey Shows Grade Parents Desire To Visit Teachers

At the time of the Chelsea Elementary school open house for parents Nov. 8, approximately 225 of those who attended completed a short questionnaire giving a definite expression of opinion relative to future school visitation by parents.

For some time, Principal Arthur Schumuk said, there has been an evident need for improved group communication between the school and parents of elementary school children. Parents have called the school occasionally to ask if some kind of group meetings could be arranged.

With this in mind, the questionnaire was prepared to give parents an opportunity to express themselves on the matter.

Knowing that parents of the school children are interested in the results of the survey, Principal Schumuk commented, the results were tabulated and announced this week.

The first question on the list was as follows: "Is there a real need for meetings to be held regularly between parents and teachers?" Answers to this were 181 "yes"; 20 "no"; and 17 indefinite.

Following through was the next question: "Would you be willing to attend four such meetings a year?" Answers received listed 108 "yes"; 19 "no"; and 28 indefinite.

To poll opinion on possible smaller groups for such meetings the question was asked, "Should North and South schools plan for meetings as separate units?" and the response listed 138 "yes"; 44 "no" and 39 "undecided."

Of 164 persons who answered the final question, "Would you serve on a planning committee?" 101 said "yes" and 63 said they would not.

Scouting Officials Attend Council Recognition Dinner

Among the 400 persons who attended the Portage Trails Council's Recognition dinner Wednesday evening, Dec. 6, at St. Paul's Evangelical and Reformed church, Saline, were Cub Scoutmaster W. J. Grossman; John Luebke, Cub Scout committee chairman; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Frisch, Jr. Frisch being Pack 125 institutional representative for the sponsoring Jaycees; Paul Niehaus, member of the Portage Trails advisory council, with Mrs. Niehaus; and the following den mothers—Mrs. Alex Ersten, Mrs. Robert McKaig, Mrs. Curtis Parley and Mrs. Vernon Parks.

Other Chelsea representatives at the dinner were Troop 25 Scoutmaster and Mrs. Robert Foye; Troop 25 Assistant Scoutmaster and Mrs. Fred Worden; and Troop Committeeman Vernon Parks.

Scoutmaster Foye was recognized with an award for the 1961 Roundup and also accepted an award for the Troop 25 sponsor, the Kiwanis Club of Chelsea.

Cubmaster Grossman also was given an award for the 1961 Round-up and an award for the Cub Scout Pack 125 sponsor, the Chelsea Jaycees.

Merritt D. Hill of Birmingham, president of the Detroit Area Boy Scout Council, was the speaker at the recognition dinner, title of his address being "Higher Plateaus."

In his talk he stressed five requirements for achieving the "higher plateaus" of service—honesty, discontent, motivation, ambition, faith and heart interest.

Wyeth Allen, vice-chairman of Region VII Executive Committee, introduced Hill.

Three area men received the Silver Beaver Award for outstanding Boy Scouts of America volunteer service.

Receiving the honors at the annual Scouters' recognition dinner of the Portage Trails Council in Saline were Dwight B. Mitchell of 3405 Platt Rd., Ann Arbor, James L. Luebke of Ypsilanti and A. Marshall Dayton of Howell.

Circuit Judge James R. Breaker, Jr., read the citations and Dr. V. L. Van Duzen, chairman of the Silver Beaver committee, presented the awards. Both had received the Silver Beaver in 1956.

Mitchell and Luebke have been active in Scouting since 1949 while Dayton's service dates to 1951.

The late Alfred D. Mayer of Chelsea was one of two men who received the Silver Beaver Award at the 1960 recognition dinner.

Students Receive Thanks for Items To Dr. Schweitzer

Jack Good, sixth grade teacher at North Elementary school, has sent to each of his 1960-61 class members a copy of a letter he received this week in response to a class project last year—sending letters, cloth and soap to Dr. Albert Schweitzer at his hospital in Africa. The letter was written by a member of a group in America known as "Fellows for Schweitzer" who do many volunteer services for the missionary.

The letter follows:
Fellows for Schweitzer
501 East Montecito Ave.
Sierra Madre, California
November 24, 1961

Mr. Jack Good
Sixth Grade
North El. School
Chelsea, Michigan

Dear Children:

Mr. Good has sent all your letters to Dr. Schweitzer and he enjoyed so much reading them . . . but although he works from 8:30 in the morning every day until the wee hours of the next, his correspondence is 14 months in arrears! I am a friend of his and visited him last January on his 86th birthday—and he wanted me to answer your dear letters and thank you for him.

To answer some of your questions: when I was in Labarene he had about 150 goats, 15 dogs, about 10 cats, 10 antelopes, 2 chimpanzees, one pelican (Parsifal) and many chickens, 2 wild pigs (Thakka and Isabelle are still there!)—and a turkey. The gorilla and some others had been given to a zoo.

Mias Ali Silver, his nurse and secretary, wrote me in her last letter that she now sleeps with a big antelope, Cecilie, the dogs ChuChu and Caramba, a black sheep, Elizabeth—and a baby antelope with a lame leg which has not been baptized yet!

It was a wonderful thought for all of you to get some money together through some sacrifice and send the doctor cloth and soap . . . you warmed Dr. Schweitzer's heart and he thanks you so much!

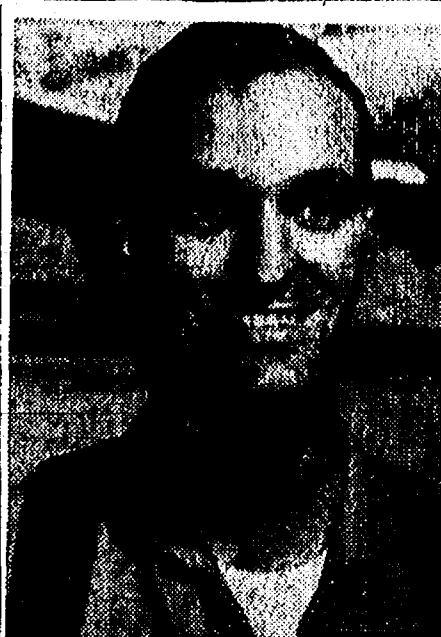

With the best wishes and thanks to all of you from Dr. Schweitzer and myself,

Fondly,
Lee Ellerborch,
president

Costly Palace Unnecessary For Schools

Ann Arbor—Costly palaces for schools are not needed says Dean Philip N. Youtz, of the University of Michigan College of Architecture and Design.

School architects agree with taxpayers in recommending intelligent economy in school design, he continues. "A white elephant or a palace is a bad recommendation for a professional man."

However, the architect has no use for shoddy work likely to prove expensive to maintain and impossible to enlarge to meet growing needs, Dean Youtz points out.

Architects must produce better schools—more economical, more effective in providing a setting for learning, and more flexible for changes and additions. The school architect should prepare himself to think as an educator, Youtz maintains.

How much money should a community spend on a school project to meet growing needs? The answer differs in various parts of the country, but the school architect tries to balance present requirements and probable future needs with the realities of the community budget. He submits to the school board comparative costs and points out items on which they can economize, Youtz says.

"The architect strives to maintain high standards so that students and teachers may benefit by the best space arrangement, lighting, color, sanitation, heating and cooling, and most important of all, enjoy imaginative surroundings which will contribute to creative learning."

Army Reserve Will Resume Six-Month Enlistment

Ann Arbor—The Army Reserve Center here expects to receive orders soon to resume enlisting Washtenaw and Lenawee county men in the Reserves' six-month program, Capt. Ralph E. Butts, area Reserve coordinator, has announced.

No enlistments were accepted for this program, and no men were sent on six-month active duty, for several weeks this fall. This was to make more training facilities available at Army posts for the 155,000 reservists and National Guardsmen ordered to a year of active duty in October.

On Nov. 24, Secretary of the Army Elvis J. Stahr, Jr., announced that men will again be sent on active duty under the six-month program beginning Jan. 3.

At the same time, he raised the maximum age limit for enlistment in this program from 20 to 22. The minimum age for enlistment is 17.

Stahr said that resumption of the six-month program will not conflict with plans to increase the number of men called by Selective Service. No men under 23 are being drafted.

Capt. Butts said there are several vacancies in the Ann Arbor Reserve units which can be filled by enlistment when orders to accept new men are received.

New Brownie Troop Formed for 21 Girls

A total of 21 girls were invested at South Elementary school into a new Brownie troop Dec. 7 by their leaders, Mrs. Wilbur Yocum and Mrs. Basil Greenleaf. The mothers were welcomed by Susan Nabb, Sue Eisenbeiser read the Brownie Story after which the girls received their pins at the investiture ceremony. Janice Guenther and Joan Yocum were hostesses. The meeting was closed with the singing of taps.

METEOR JOINS BUCKET BRIGADE—The Mercury Meteor, a completely new-sized car, was introduced only a week ago. However, Lincoln-Mercury Division already has announced a planned addition to the line—the Mercury Meteor S-33. The S-33 will feature contoured bucket seats, an item growing in popularity among American car buyers. The S-33 is being readied for showings in February when it will join the four other models in the Meteor line. The Meteor S-33 will have a package compartment console between the individually adjustable front seats, special door panel trim, distinctive wheel covers and exterior emblems.

Ohio-to-Straits Freeway Will Pass Two-Thirds Mark

Lansing — Construction of the 380-mile Ohio-to-Mackinac Bridge freeway will pass the two-thirds mark within a week when nearly 35 miles of freeway on the route are opened to traffic, the State Highway Department announced today.

State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie said 25 miles of the US-10 freeway between Midland and Clare will be opened to traffic Friday while nine miles of US-23 freeway between Hartland and Livingston county and Fenton in Genesee county will be opened next Monday.

Completion of these two sections will give motorists more than 250 miles of freeway between the Ohio-Michigan state line and the Mackinac Bridge.

Of this amount, nearly 190 miles will be continuous from Hartland to the community of Waters in Otsego county. This section of freeway bypasses Flint, Saginaw, Bay City, Midland, Clare, Harrison, Houghton Lake and Grayling.

The Ohio-Mackinac Bridge freeway is made up of a combination of four superhighways—US-23, US-10, US-27 and Interstate 75 freeways.

The remaining 75 miles of freeway under construction on the Ohio-Mackinac Bridge freeway are scheduled to be completed by the end of next year, providing a continuous superhighway from the Michigan-Ohio line near Sylvania, O., to the Straits of Mackinac. It will be extended to Sault Ste. Marie by the end of 1962.

The 25 miles of US-10 Freeway to be opened next Friday was built at a cost of $14.6 million. Included in the freeway projects is a 365-foot bridge spanning Sanford Lake, just west of Midland.

Use Lie Detector Cautiously, Says U-M Instructor

Ann Arbor—Employers should be cautious in using lie detector tests to check up on their employees or in hiring new workers, states a University of Michigan man.

Ross J. Wilhelm, instructor in marketing in the U-M School of Business Administration, says companies concerned about employee thefts are using the tests more and more.

But test results are not clear and unambiguous, and mistakes in interpretation can have "terrible consequences for an employee" and can be risky for the employer who could face a lawsuit, Wilhelm says. The main argument for lie detector tests is that they work and provide an objective measurement in an otherwise difficult judgment situation, he explains. The tests are based on physiological changes in person, such as in breathing, blood pressure or perspiration, when they lie.

Liquor stores, mail order houses, food processors and vending machine operators are among firms which seem to be using the tests the most, Wilhelm says.

Many famous characters in fiction have suffered from tuberculosis. Among the most noted are Little Emory in Dickens' "David Copperfield," many characters in Emily Bronte's "Wuthering Heights" and Marguerite Gauthier in Dumas' "La Dame aux Camelias."

All boys who attended the end session received a certificate signifying their participation. Robert Foye is Scoutmaster.

TROOP 25—Adults who acted as leaders the camp included Assistant Scoutmaster Fred Worden and Committee members Edwin Dickel, Elwyn Beach and the Rev. Ruston.

Roll call inspection for Scout Troop 25, Monday, Dec. 11, 1961, was held at 7:30 p.m. This will be the final meeting until after the first of the year.

Seven More Miles of New Freeway Opened

Grand Rapids—A seven-mile section of the Lansing to Muskegon Freeway was opened to traffic here recently, the State Highway Department reports.

The new section of Interstate routes 96 and 196 extends from Cascade Rd. west of Grand Rapids to Plainfield Ave. (US-131 BR) north of the city.

It was built at a cost of $7.5 million.

Interchange... A New Word For Michigan Motorists

Lansing — New Interstate freeways are responsible for some changes in the vocabulary of Michigan motorists.

One word rapidly gaining everyday use is "interchange," a word that was unknown a few years ago.

An interchange is a collection of ramps and bridges that connect a side road with a freeway. It makes it possible for traffic to enter and leave a freeway without stopping or to get to the other side without interfering with freeway traffic.

The first interchange in the country was built in New Jersey in 1928. Michigan was a close second, building its first in 1931 at the intersection of Eight Mile and Telegraph roads in Detroit.

Interchanges came into popular use after World War II when they were used exclusively at connecting points on toll roads.

As the interstate freeway program progresses in Michigan there will be literally hundreds of interchanges in the state. Every motorist will become as familiar with them as he now is with an ordinary intersection.

Interchanges come in an assortment of sizes and shapes. They have colorful nicknames such as cloverleaves, partial cloverleaves, diamonds and trumpets. In England, engineers speak of roundabouts, flyovers and slip roads when talking about interchanges.

Interchanges look complicated, but they really aren't. When a motorist approaches one there are only three things he can do: Go straight through or swing to the right or left. This is the same number of choices he has when he approaches an ordinary intersection.

Traffic engineers know that every highway intersection is a potential collision point.

This is why interchanges have been incorporated into new freeways to make them the safest highways ever built.

Better Careful Than Cure for New Cosmetics

By Paul L. Adams
Michigan Attorney General

(Note: This is one in a series of articles by Paul L. Adams, State Attorney General, concerning frauds affecting the consumers of this state.)

Beauty preparations and cosmetics need not be tested for safety before marketing, under present laws. Although many manufacturers conduct their own tests, the buyer can hardly tell from a label which he or she is safe, in any event, from the threat of an allergic reaction.

Recently, a lady reported to my office that three weeks' use of a liquid described as a nail-strengthening and beautifier resulted in disfiguring white scars on several nails and in the loss of one entire nail. We are having the liquid analyzed and will then take action.

The incident emphasizes the possibility of harm through cosmetic ingredients which may contain poisonous substances, or which may cause an allergic reaction.

Doctors advise that beauty aids are a common cause of allergic troubles. A recent study of 50,000 cases of accidental poisoning showed over three percent involving cosmetics.

I therefore urge you to check new cosmetic products, before extensive use, with your pharmacist, your doctor, or your health department.

CON-CON RESEARCH PILES UP—Delegates to the Michigan Constitutional Convention are burning the midnight oil as the Convention buckles down to the second phase of its deliberations. John T. Kelsey (D., Warren, left) and Henrik E. Stafseth (R., Grand Haven) prepare to tackle a typical pile of research data that delegates must master in order to understand the hazy problems before them. The Convention is in the process of formulating specific recommendations for Constitutional change which will soon be reported out of committees for floor debate.

A second-generation weather-forecasting satellite, the Nimbus, now is in development. Professional Lobbyists Must Register with Dept. of State

Do you represent a group interested in "promoting, advocating, or opposing" any legislation to be considered by the Michigan Senate or House?

If you are employed by any "firm, association, corporation, or an agency" to influence such legislation you must register as a legislative agent.

All of the 240 legislative agents, or "lobbyists" as they are more often called, currently registered by the Michigan Department of State have been reminded by Secretary of State James M. Hare that they must obtain their 1962 registration cards before the 1962 legislative session begins if they wish to lobby for their clients or for their projects.

Among the many different organizations now represented by legislative agents are: the American Association of Bioanalysts, the American Association of Massage and Therapy, the Christian Science Committee on Publications, the City of Detroit, the Distilled Spirits Institute, the DWG Cigar Corporation, the Fertilizer Dealers and Users of Michigan, the League of Women Voters of Michigan, the Michigan Association of Book Stores, the Michigan Association of Private Detectives, the Michigan Brewers Association, the Michigan Cemetery Association, the Michigan Heavy Haulers Association, the Michigan Motel Resort Association, Inc., the Michigan Press Association, the Michigan Psychological Association, the Michigan Racing Association, the Michigan Seedling Growers Association, the Michigan State Association of Journeymen Barbers, Hairdressers & Cosmetologists, the Michigan State Podiatry Association, the Michigan Table Top Licensees' Congress, the Michigan Temperance Foundation, the Michigan Trappers Association, the Watchmaker's Guild, the Water Ways Control and Development Co., and the Wine Institute.

Michigan Drivers Are Getting There Faster

Lansing — Motorists are driving nearly three miles an hour faster in Michigan this year than they were at this time last year, the State Highway Department reported recently.

State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie said the average speed of passenger cars on all state highways is 58 miles an hour during the day and better than 56 miles an hour at night.

Mackie's report also said the average speed of commercial vehicles is 48 miles an hour during the day and nearly 50 miles an hour at night, an increase of nearly two miles an hour over last year.

WCS Christmas Program Presented At Social Center

The program at the Dec. 8 meeting of the Women's Society for Christian Service of the Methodist church was carried out as announced prior to the gathering and held in the social center of the church.

The program was presented by Mrs. Calvin Peters and Mrs. Gail Rector of the First Methodist church of Ann Arbor, who originally prepared the arrangement themselves for presentation in their own church group and have been asked to repeat it a number of times for other churches. The readings, songs and other music stress the various parts of the age-old Christmas story around the central theme of the lighted creche.

The three scenes included the Nativity; St. Nicholas; and Christmas Carols in All Lands.

Mrs. Peters narrated the program and served as accompanist for the singing of Mrs. Rector. They also led in group singing of Christmas carols.

Mrs. Rector is soprano soloist with the First Methodist church choir at Ann Arbor and Mrs. Peters serves as assistant church organist.

Mrs. Loring Bates, WCS president, was in charge of the business session, turning the meeting over to Mrs. Charles Cameron for the program period. Mrs. Cameron, in turn, introduced the two Ann Arbor women.

Evening Philatelia Circle was in charge of the program arrangements and Deborah Circle was the hostess group.

Pouring at the refreshment table, which was centered with a decorative Christmas arrangement, were Mrs. William Freeman and Mrs. Loren Turner.

Mr. Smyser has been employed at The Chelsea Standard since the family came to Chelsea nine years ago and Mrs. Smyser is a fourth grade teacher at South Elementary school.

Their daughter, Sharon, is now a sophomore at Eastern Michigan University and their son, Francis, is an eighth grader at Chelsea Junior High school.

The group voted a contribution of $3 to the VFW Auxiliary Department of Michigan Christmas hospital fund and also decided to make up a Christmas gift basket for an Ypsilanti Hospital patient, "adopted" by the Chelsea Auxiliary.

Mrs. Geraldine Klink, Auxiliary president, awarded Mrs. Wayne Harvey a prize as chairman of the first dues collection committee to turn in its completed general dues collection.

On the committee with Mrs. Harvey were Mrs. Ruth Perkins, Mrs. Vera Heim and Mrs. Dorothy Lentz.

Games were the evening's entertainment during the social hour, gifts were exchanged and refreshments were served by a committee headed by Mrs. Lewis Schneider as chairman.

Mrs. Howard Walz was named chairman of a committee to be in charge of the January social meeting. Others appointed to work with her are Mrs. Maadalen Weber, Mrs. Florence Metelk and Mrs. Florence O'Hara.

MODERN MOTHERS
Modern Mothers Child Study club met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. William Adams for the annual Christmas party. The Adams home was attractively decorated for the occasion, the decorations including a Christmas tree.

Mrs. Elmer Hartman was accepted as a new member of the club at this meeting.

Principal activity following the business session was work on a Christmas project for a needy family.

Announcement was made that the next meeting will be held Jan. 9 at the home of Mrs. Errol Jones with Mrs. William Adams as co-hostess.

Plans were also announced for a smoresnord dinner to be held next month at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wood, with husbands of members as guests.

Tentatively set as the date for the dinner was Jan. 27, with co-hostesses to be Mrs. John Steele, Mrs. William Wade and Mrs. Paul Roehler.

Refreshments were served at the Christmas meeting Tuesday by Mrs. Wilbur Werner and Mrs. Donald Bussler.

Eight Carmathian walnut varieties rank higher in market quality and probably furnish the best source of propagating material according to Michigan State University horticulturists. The superior varieties are: Hansen, Somers N-2; Van Riven, Fickler, Somers NC-4; Nogler, Somers N-1, W-3, and Somers N-1, W-4.

LIMANERS
The December meeting of the Limaners was held Thursday at the home of Mrs. Alvin Pommerehne with 14 members present. The assisting hostess was Mrs. Earl Whitney.

At a business session following the noon pot-luck dinner, the group made plans to present a project of last year's Christmas season—taking favor tags to be served at the annual pre-Christmas party at Ypsilanti State Hospital.

The January meeting of Limaners will be held at the home of Mrs. Carl Schlosser, it was announced.

IDEAL HOMEMAKERS
Freedom Ideal Homemakers Extension club members and their families held a Christmas party Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Kuhl. There were 32 in attendance.

Christmas decorations on the tables and throughout the rooms added to the holiday mood.

Following a pot-luck dinner at 6:30 p.m., Mr. and Mrs. Wilko showed slide pictures of their European trip last spring.

At the conclusion of the program period a collection was taken up to provide Christmas cheer for a needy family.

Mrs. Charles Krusen was in charge of a gift exchange which concluded the Christmas party.

The next regular club meeting, Friday, Jan. 19, at 1:30 p.m., is to be held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Kuhl.

MISSION CLUB
The Mission club of St. Paul's church held the annual Christmas party Thursday, Dec. 7, meeting for the occasion at the home of Mrs. Alvin Vail.

An exchange of gifts followed the program period which included the singing of Christmas carols and readings as follows: "Christmas" by Mrs. Mina Seltz; "A Christmas Feast," by Mrs. Oscar Jindaner; "When the King Came," by Mrs. Clarence Nicolai; and "The Starbore Unbeliever," by Mrs. Emma Seltz.

The latter was an explanation of the origin of the Christmas creche, now a familiar part of the holiday decorations. The first creche the article stated, was arranged by St. Francis of Assisi.

Mrs. Wilbert Grieb read the story of how the carol, "O Little Town of Bethlehem," happened, and he written and Mrs. Alvin Vail read a letter which had been sent by Douglas Schneider, a member of St. Paul's church who is now a missionary in India.

In honor of their birthdays, which occur in December, Mrs. Paul Seltz and Mrs. Emma Seltz were remembered with a shower of birthday cards.

The January meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Wilbert Grieb.

New Interchange Claims Portion of Ford Homestead

Detroit — It took automobile pioneer Henry Ford nearly eight years to build his first 70,000 cars.

Today, more than a half-century later, 70,000 vehicles a day are using a new highway interchange that bisects Ford's birthplace in suburban Dearborn.

Ford's first 70,000 autos—built between 1908 and mid-1910—traveled dirt roads that were often impassable.

The $16-million interchange on Ford's 80-acre homestead carries a four-lane highway over a six-lane divided highway.

The modern interchange, linking Ford and Greenfield roads, was opened to traffic early in December.

State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie said it has eliminated one of the worst traffic bottlenecks in the Dearborn area.

Automotive tests show that normal-auto engines require about 65% more power to start at 32 degrees than is needed at 80 degrees. Two and a half times more power when the temperature drops to zero.

We point this out to our customers at FOOR MOBIL SERVICE to show the importance of keeping the battery fully charged during cold weather.

Often, emergency calls wouldn't be necessary if drivers would get over to 520 South Main St. for a periodic battery test. We give it free and it saves you a lot of time in the long run.
