Open House Is Planned at High School

Parents Urged To Visit Some of Child's Classes

Parents of Chelsea High school students are being invited to "re-enter classes" Wednesday, Nov. 21, to attend the classes of their sons and daughters and gain insight into what is being done and what is expected of the students each class. Open house will be held from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Report cards, scheduled to be mailed out that day, will be available to the parents.

Parents will be invited to have coffee in the school cafeteria during the periods when the students would be scheduled for study.

In announcing the open house, High School Principal Charles A. Chapman said: "It may be possible to meet all classes but we hope that parents will attempt to visit at least the academic classes. There will not be time to discuss individual problems, but teachers will explain and when they may be asked for conferences."

Student council members will be hand to act as guides and parents should attempt to obtain their child's schedule before they come to school. Class periods will be followed. It may be interesting to see if the "old folks" still make it to the class rooms.

Following is a schedule of classes: 7:15-7:30—1st hour; 7:35-8:00—2nd hour; 7:55-8:05—3rd hour; 8:10-8:25—4th hour; 8:30-8:45—5th hour; 8:50-9:05—6th hour; 9:10-9:25—7th hour.

Glenn Weir Completes Two Year Service with Army

A total of 115 Chelsea-area people are receiving checks this week for amounts varying from $25 to $1,000. These lucky people are receiving Christmas club checks mailed out Tuesday, Nov. 20, by Chelsea State Bank to those who have been depositing from 50 cents to $20 per week since last November in the bank's Christmas savings plan in preparation for this year's Christmas shopping. The total amount of Christmas shopping money paid out in the 1962 Christmas club is $52,157.50. (Continued on page three)

Community Chest Drive Short of Goal

With the official completion of the 1962 Chelsea Community Chest Drive on Nov. 15, a total of $14,630.80 had been collected representing 95 percent of the $15,000 goal. Although the campaign is officially over, returns are expected to continue for several weeks.

Co-chairmen Larry Chapman and Tom McClellan, who had hoped to reach 100 percent of the goal this year, said they were very pleased, however, with the campaign and termed it a success the community should be proud of. "Although it now appears certain that the goal will not be reached," they said, "we are hopeful of attaining 97 percent, thus missing the goal by only $100 to $500."

They further stated they were especially grateful for the help given by the area captains and solicitors who they say, deserve most of the credit for the drive's success. "Without these people the campaign would have been an impossible undertaking," Chapman and McClellan concluded.

Mrs. Holmes said volunteers needed are two doctors, two registered nurses, six nurses aides and six registrars. Anyone willing to assist should call Mrs. Holmes, GR 0-2181, and offer their services.

Mrs. Holmes said, too, that casserole dishes, salads and desserts will be needed for the noon luncheon customarily served to the workers and the Red Cross personnel and here again, those who are willing to contribute should call Mrs. Holmes.

Prospective blood donors, with the exception of those in industries, also may call Mrs. Holmes to make appointments. A committee is in charge of registering donors in all factories and making appointments for them.

Mrs. M. J. Baxter will be in charge of the canteen at the clinic.

Mrs. Holmes said that this year another attempt will be made to include in the Chelsea Blood Bank area, all persons living or working in the Chelsea Blood Bank area.

The total amount of Christmas shopping money paid out in the 1962 Christmas club is $52,157.50. (Continued on page three)

Cub Scout Den Presents Thanksgiving Program

At the Cub Scout Pack meeting at the Junior High school Thursday, the boys of Den II, as their contribution to the program, read a poem pertaining to Thanksgiving Day. Those who participated are Steven Bergman, Scott Foster, David Heydlauff, James Kalmbach, Dennis Landwehr, John Lantis, Thomas Peltes, Jackie Wellnitz, and Den Chief Michael Warden.

After they had concluded the reading of the poem, Mrs. Willis Heydlauff, the den mother, asked each boy to bring to the platform the "white gift" he had brought. These gifts, which the Pack collects each year, are given to Chelsen Social Service to be included in Christmas boxes distributed to needy persons.

The verses read by Cub Scouts of Den II is as follows:

"Gentleman Gay". Said old Gentleman Gay, "On a Thanksgiving day if you want to be happy, give something away."

So he gave a fat turkey to Shoemaker Price, and the shoemaker said, "What a fine bird! How nice I'll give Widow Lee the fine chicken I bought." Said the pleased widow Lee, "See this chicken Oh my! I'll give washwoman Biddy my big pumpkin pie. And, "Oh, sure," Biddy said, "It's the queen of all pies; just to look at its yellow face gladdens my eyes! Now it's my turn; I think, and a sweet ginger cake for the motherless Finnegan children I'll make." Said the Finnegan children—Rose, Benny, and Hugh—"It smells sweet of spice and we'll carry a slice to little lame Jake who has nothing that's nice." "Oh, thank you and thank you," said little lame Jake, "What a beautiful, beautiful, beautiful cake and such a big slice, I will save all the crumbs and give some to each little sparrow that comes." And the sparrows they twittered as if they would say, Like old Gentleman Gay, "On Thanksgiving Day, if you want to be happy, give something away."

The Pack meeting was opened promptly at 7 p.m. with the flag ceremony by Den I.

This was followed by reciting the Cub Scout Law, led by George Cameron, and the Pack Law, led by Danny Soule.

Robert Foye, as Cub Scout Pack Committee chairman, introduced Malcolm Novess as the new Cub master of Pack 125, and Mrs. Wil-

Thanksgiving Day Is Appropriate Time To Give Thanks for Blessings

Thanksgiving Day, which falls on the fourth Thursday of November, comes early this year, on the 22nd. Thus the interval between this November religious observance and Christmas is a little over a month this year.

Our National Thanksgiving—which the day was first called by Sarah J. Hale, who is credited with having begun the national observance of Thanksgiving Day in the United States in 1863—is certainly a day of richness, reward and satisfaction in the United States of 1962.

Americans should never lose sight of the fact that they are more blessed than any other people on earth, materially. We should give thanks, and try to make ourselves spiritually worthy of all these blessings.

We in America have come a long way since that New England day, in the autumn of 1621, when Governor Bradford ordered some of the colonialists into the forests to shoot a number of wild turkeys. That night, Indians, who had brought deer, and colonists who had shot turkeys, feasted together. It was the first Thanksgiving Day in the United States.

Every American should give thanks, in his prayers, for the American heritage, our freedoms, including religious freedom, and all that goes to make up the riches and wealth of this country. Unless we spiritually deserve these blessings they will be of little value to us.

We hope that Thanksgiving Day, 1962, will be a day of re-dedication to spiritual principles for many Americans.

Mrs. Roosevelt Will Be Remembered As Our Most Controversial First Lady

Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt died recently at the age of 78. Her career was long and controversial, and she certainly set a number of precedents for First Ladies in the United States.

Perhaps her greatest departure from the customary role was in involving the First Lady's position in extremely partisan politics, to a degree not known up until her time.

Also, she was very progressive in her philosophy—probably even more so than her husband who was elected president by the people of the United States four times.

This being the case, she stirred the animosity of millions and often did not appear to create an image of feminine restraint.

That Mrs. Roosevelt had an active mind and was capable in many fields is unanimously admitted, even by those who opposed her views.

It is doubtful, however, if the people as a whole, approved of such an active partisan role for the First Lady. Certainly neither Mrs. Truman, Mrs. Eisenhower, nor Mrs. Kennedy have followed that course.

That she was human and warm-hearted, and sought to do what she considered right, is to give her, at this time, her reward. Nevertheless, history will probably record the fact that she was one of the more controversial First Ladies.

Inspection of Cuban Missile Bases Necessary Before Crisis Is Ended

Charges by Cuban opposition leaders that Fidel Castro's government is hiding Soviet missiles in caves, rather than shipping them all back to Russia have been made on numerous occasions in the past several weeks.

This is a problem which has been overlooked by many of us who were relieved that a shooting war did not result in the United States' decision to stop shipment of offensive weapons from Russia to Castro's Cuba.

If we had been able to go into Cuba with inspection teams as soon as the removal decision of Russian Premier Nikita Khrushchev was announced, we would have been able to inspect the missiles on the various bases before there had been time to disperse and conceal them.

Washington has been convinced that Moscow wanted to avoid a showdown on the Cuban missiles issue but Castro has shown little inclination to give the United States satisfactory assurances or allow for satisfactory inspection.

The victory we have thought we won, the danger we have thought had been removed, both will not have been realized if the latest charges are true. President Kennedy will be forced to take action relatively soon if Castro does not allow inspection, and the American people will support him in this move even though it will bring the Cuban crisis back to its dangerous intensity once again.

Fight Begins

The victory of George Romney in the Michigan gubernatorial race may well prove to be just a beginning of his contests in state government.

Many political observers are predicting bigger battles lie ahead for the new Governor in his dealings with the all-Democratic State Administrative Board and the legislature.

Republican gains in the legislature, however, would seem to indicate he will have less trouble in this area than anticipated.

The other state officers, all elected on the Democratic ticket, have pledged their co-operation with the new chief of state.

Unfortunately Romney's strength at the polls was not as great as Republican leaders hoped it would be. In fact, the areas where he made gains were counted more as Swainson weaknesses than Romney strengths.

In the suburban communities around Detroit, Swainson made many enemies by vetoing the bill to protect the people from Detroit's income tax. In the Upper Peninsula, people who usually voted Democratic were unhappy that Swainson supported a Congressional reapportionment plan

Romney will be assured some measure of cooperation with Democratic state officers since he will have considerable power over the budgets of their departments being considered in the legislature.

GOP budget writers who have been keeping the purse-strings tight for years are not going to let up to any great amount next year. But the new Governor is likely to get more ready acceptance of his budget recommendations than his Democratic predecessor could.

Forecasts of a fight over a state income tax likely will never be borne out.

The nuisance tax package adopted by the legislature this year is in considerable amounts, boosting the revenue supply. Continuation of the increase in revenue during the next fiscal year most likely will mean Romney won't have to ask for a state income tax.

If he does propose total fiscal reform, including a state income tax, Democrats in the legislature would be under heavy pressure to support it since they screamed so loudly in favor of such a program when their party was in power in the executive office.

A Challenge to Americans

Our forefathers were made of hardy stuff! They had faith in their capabilities. It was far from their thoughts to look to the Government to support them and their families.

Somehow we need to instill in the coming generations pride of personal achievement. It is a task that challenges all of us.

1. You cannot strengthen the weak by weakening the strong.
2. You cannot help small men by blindly criticizing big men.
3. You cannot lift the wage earner up by pulling the wage payer down.
4. You cannot help the poor by unjustly penalizing the rich.
5. You cannot bring about prosperity by sidestepping thrift.
6. You cannot further the brotherhood of man by continuing class hatred.
7. You cannot establish sound security on borrowed money.
8. You cannot, as an individual or Government, avoid trouble by spending more than your income.
9. You cannot help mankind by doing for them what they could, and should, do for themselves.
10. You cannot build character into our citizenry by having the Government do things that now are men's initiative and proof of his independence.

Sugar Helps Fill USSR Refining Capacity

Ann Arbor — Face to face in conference with the teacher, parents can learn best just how their child stands, says William H. Mills, University of Michigan assistant professor of education.

Mills says he feels a parent-teacher conference should be a shared discussion, supplementing the report card parents receive from the school at the end of each marking period, and should be conducted in a free period when neither the parent nor the teacher is hurried to end the interview because someone else is waiting.

"It should be informative, objective, positive in tone, and take into account the attitude of the student," Mills says.

The U-M educator suggests that both the teacher and the parent should prepare for the conference. "In one school, teachers hold practice conferences with each other. One first grade sends out an elaborate check-lists before the parent-teacher conference."

If the interview involves a high school student, sometimes the student and his parents can benefit from sharing in the conference with the teacher," Mills says.

"In any case, to walk into a conference cold, without any preparation on either side, could be a disappointment."

"At the beginning of a conference it is well for the teacher to present a paper and pencil to each parent, or even an outline. Growth data should be prepared in advance," Mills says.

"After the conference, the teacher should keep a written record — what we talked about, what commitments were made — to continue the line of communication for further talks, as needed, by parent or teacher."

"The value to the child is the important thing," says Mills. "It helps the teacher understand the child better. It helps the Dad or Mother understand that their child is improving even if the grades are only C or D."

"Perhaps at home, the student can be helped in areas of academic weakness."

FALL RESTORES HEARING

Effingham, Ill. — Having been deaf for 15 years, Mrs. Ruby Ooton's hearing was restored following a bad fall.

Her physicians told her in 1947 that she became deaf when the tissue of her inner ear had hardened. She has not sought medical explanation of why she can hear but hopes the miracle will last.

Elementary PTA Boasts 100 Members

Approximately 140 people were present Wednesday evening for the Elementary PTA meeting held at South school. Membership includes parents and teachers of North and South schools and sixth grades at the Junior High school.

Banners presented to the grade in each of the three schools with the largest percentage of parents attending were awarded to Mrs. Mulholland's kindergarten at North school, Mrs. Grossman's fourth grade at South school, and Mrs. Musson's and Mrs. Cowles' sixth grades at the Junior High school.

James Hoffmeyer, PTA vice-president, called the roll by grades. There are now 100 paid-up members of the Elementary PTA.

The evening's program was a panel discussion led by Mrs. Charles Winans as moderator, members of the panel including teachers and parents — Mr. Birmingham, visiting teacher; Mrs. Rosemary Irving, speech correctionist; Mrs. Benjamin Bower, parent; and David Sanborn, teacher and parent.

Mr. Sanborn explained his opinion regarding the importance of the arts in developing a child's self-confidence. Mrs. Irving said it is very important to children to know they are "being accepted," and Mrs. Bower said it is her belief that good self-expression develops self-confidence in children.

Refreshments were served by a committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. Alex Egeston and the evening was concluded with awarding of two door prizes — a loaf of apple bread and a loaf of white bread, both home-made and contributed by Mrs. Vernon Parks to Mrs. Larry Zimmer and Mrs. Dunn Luick.

The PTA is sponsoring a new Brownie troop. The troop is led by Mrs. Robert Foye as den mother and she also was appointed Brownie Girl Scout representative from the PTA.

Mrs. Curtis Farley, librarian at South school, asked for volunteer aides and Mrs. Andy Blackwell, secretary, and Mrs. Robert Koch, president of the PTA responded.

The next PTA meeting will be held Jan. 23.

Blood Bank . . .

(Continued from page one) in the Washtenaw county portion of the Chelsea School District. There had been requests for inclusion of the enlarged area once before; however, the percentage of donors from the outlying areas was so small that the plan proved impractical.

The practice has been that the limit for inclusion in the Chelsea Blood Bank was "four miles out" from town. People living beyond that point who donated blood or worked at the clinic were eligible to receive blood if needed — the amount set being a total of six pints per person per year for each donor or member of his immediate family.

The Dec. 7 blood donor clinic will be held in the Congregational church basement from 11 a.m. until 1 p.m. and 2 p.m. until 5 p.m.

Persons between the ages of 18 and 50 are eligible. If prospective donors are between 18 and 21 and not married or in the armed services, they must have written permission from parents or guardians to be eligible.

Speaking of the plan to include the larger area in the Blood Bank this year, Mrs. Holmes concluded her announcement with the plea, "Let's try to make it a real success this time. It should not be too much trouble for anyone to come to the clinic to donate blood; last year no one had to wait more than a half hour. Call me at GR 9-2181 and make your appointment."

Canada Goose Rates High As Lucky Hunter's Trophy

Ann Arbor — A hunter lucky enough to get a Canada Goose has bagged himself a real "status symbol," says George Hunt, University of Michigan assistant professor of wildlife management.

"As a trophy, this handsome game bird is practically on a par with a well-anthlered buck deer," says Hunt.

The large, spectacular bird is gray-brown in color with black tail. A broad white patch extending from the chin region up into the front sides of the black head has given this bird one of its common names, "white-cheeked goose."

They may weigh anywhere from 7 to 13½ pounds and are good eating.

Strong flyers, Canada geese can fly up to 40 miles per hour and can cover many miles without having to stop. They are also good runners and strike powerful blows with their wings when attacked.

"The incubation period is usually four weeks and from five to six eggs are laid," Hunt says.

"The male stays near the female through this period and helps with the raising of the brood during the rest of the summer.

"The nest, made of grasses and down from the bird's breast is cup-shaped. Sometimes they will use osprey or even an old beaver house placed above the surrounding vegetation so danger from predators may be spotted readily.

"Gregarious in habit, these birds form family units, with male and female often remaining mates for life. They are migratory birds and fly as a family."

The Canada geese that pass through Michigan have breeding range extending to the middle of Hudson Bay and over to Lake Ontario and into Manitoba. Some migrate as far south as the Gulf Coast; a few even get into Mexico.

"With the development of agriculture and the establishment of several reservations in the north central part of the country many of these birds now remain as far north as Illinois, Wisconsin and Michigan.

"Southwest Michigan has a wintering population of as many as two to three thousand Canada geese," Hunt adds.

Rising Equipment Offers Greater Farming Flexibility

Michigan farmer today has as much invested in machinery as he did 20 years ago, but farmers now require more equipment to operate larger acreage than they did 20 years ago; increased machinery investment has reduced hired labor need in many farms. Machinery investment per U.S. farm worker rose from an average of $220 in 1940 to more than $2,000 in 1960.

Many people feel that renting equipment and machinery may be a solution to the problem of increasing investments, says P. Kelsey, Michigan State University agricultural economist.

"Leased equipment could be used to eliminate investment in machinery having only limited use," he says. Other leased equipment such as an ammonia applicator, extra tractor, plow or wagon could supplement a farmer's own machinery during peak work periods.

Another plan is called the "lease with option to purchase" at a fixed or predetermined price at the end of the lease. A portion of the lease payments are applied toward the eventual purchase price with this plan. This plan—used by some farm equipment suppliers—usually carries a two to five-year rental arrangement with monthly payment at a pure interest rate of 13.28 percent. Because of the stated interest rate, this is a finance plan and not a lease agreement, points out Kelsey.

The "lease with option to purchase" plan provides for extremely low down payments but is a high-interest method of financing machinery, he adds.

Farmers need to understand three things before using this plan: (1) that they are responsible for any personal property taxes; (2) that this is usually considered as a conditional sale for income tax purposes; and (3) that they must retitle that this turns out to be a fixed commitment very similar to a debt payment.

The Detroit expressway experiment uses television cameras and variable signs to control traffic speeds and lane use. Traffic engineers in short distance away are able to control traffic on the freeway by keeping an eye on the road conditions and pushing buttons to regulate lane-use at will.

At first it would appear closed circuit television would be effective only for highway use in the cities where traffic is heavy. State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie says this is not the case. Mackie believes the experiment will be a major factor in future planning of automated highways and soon may be affecting rural areas.

Macomber & Son Will Exhibit at International

Chicago — Five Washtenaw county farms are among the many from Michigan that will be represented this year by exhibits at the 1962 International Livestock Exposition, to be held here Nov. 23 to Dec. 1 in the International Amphitheatre at the Chicago Stock Yards.

Nell Haner of Saline lists entries for the Polled Hereford cattle classes of this event which will celebrate its 63rd anniversary as the country's largest stock show; and E. W. Porath's Water Cress Farm at Northville will be exhibiting Brown Swiss cattle.

The grand champion Holstein bull at the 1962 Michigan State Black and White Show, and the reserve grand champion winner at the Michigan State Fair, has been entered by his owners, George Macomber and Sons, of Ann Arbor.

Two Washtenaw county swine breeders, Charles McCalla and Sons and Bill McCalla, of Ann Arbor, will be exhibiting purebred Chester White and Yorkshire hogs.

Cash prizes of $130,000 are offered in competitions featuring 37 different breeds of farm animals. Last and largest show of the year, it draws exhibitions of the country's top farm animals from more than 30 states and Canada.

Arthur Godfrey will appear with his famed performing Palomino, "Goldie" as the feature attraction at each of the 14 Horse Shows scheduled during the nine-day run of the Exposition. Godfrey has made two previous appearances at the International Horse Show before capacity audiences with his expertly-trained "Goldie".

Laff Of The Week

Con-Con Report

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one in a series about the proposed new Michigan Constitution. Additional articles will appear in subsequent weeks.

Citizen interest in Michigan's proposed new constitution is evidenced by continuing stream of inquiries reaching the Con-Con office at Lansing's Civic Center asking for printed materials describing the new document. Voters will make their decision on the constitution at the polls on April 1, 1963.

The small staff of aides which remains to wind up the work of the convention has been kept busy in recent weeks filling the scores of daily requests for copies of the proposed constitution and two other pieces of literature produced by the convention for distribution.

More than 50,000 copies of the text of the document have been mailed out to groups, libraries, schools and interested individuals.

About 35,000 of the 110-page booklet explaining in detail revisions proposed by the convention have also been distributed.

Great demand is for a 12-page pamphlet, "The Proposed New Constitution of Michigan—What It Means to You." This leaflet contains the preface from the longer booklet and summarizes the most significant changes. Upwards of 150,000 of this pamphlet have been sent out from the Con-Con office.

Many of the 144 ex-delegates to the Constitutional Convention have made themselves available to fill speaking engagements before interested groups throughout the state. Frequently these meetings have been panel discussions with two or more former delegates participating.

Con-Con delegates lost their official status when the convention adjourned August 1. Their pay and expense checks had ceased on May 15—ten weeks prior to their final adjournment. Most delegates, however, regard their post-convention chores as a public service which is a continuing responsibility to the citizens of their districts.

A visual aid to their work which will be available before January 1 is a documentary sound film of convention activities produced through the co-operation of the audio-visual departments of the state's three major universities.

The Con-Con office plans to have enough prints of this film on hand to provide for wide circulation throughout the state. Citizen groups who would like to have the film for showing at meetings after January 1 may contact their former delegates or communicate directly with the Constitutional Convention office at Lansing.

Requests for pamphlets and copies of the new document may be sent on a postcard to: Con-Con Office, Civic Center, Lansing.

Soils Also Need 'Winter Coats' for Erosion Control

The old saying "Button up your overcoat" not only applies at this time of year to the human race but also to farm cropland in some cases.

Soils also need to have overcoats buttoned up tightly in preparation for the long cold winter ahead. Cropland with no cover may be faced with a critical erosion problem resulting in reduced yields and lost soil which can never be replaced.

Rainfall and melting snow combined with a rapid runoff can cause severe erosion during the late fall or early spring. Sheet erosion may occur—even on gentle sloping land. Although a gradual loss over an entire field may not be spectacular, total soil losses may be several tons per acre," says Russell G. Hill, Michigan State University soil conservationist.

Farmers should mulch critical cropland areas to prevent erosion, Hill advises. More than 50 percent of the soil loss on corn land may be eliminated by shredding corn stalks during harvest. A shallow disking of this mulch material can reduce wind erosion and prevent the wind from blowing the mulching material away.

Mulches, such as manure or straw spread in a thin layer are also very effective on critical erosion areas. "Such mulches serve as an umbrella between rain and the soil—providing much needed winter protection," points out Hill.

Harvested corn fields with no cover crop, winter wheat on sloping land and bare fields are especially vulnerable to winter erosion.

ONE OF THE MANY colorful scenes of Mexico shown Saturday at the Kiwanis-sponsored travelogue program in the Chelsea High school auditorium is shown here. Romain Wilhelmsen, who has been called "The Legend Hunter," was the narrator. Saturday's presentation was the second in a series of five. The next program is scheduled for Dec. 6.

Travel Film Shows Scenes From 'Wild' Part of Mexico

Romain Wilhelmsen, who graduated from high school at Jackson, came back to this area Saturday evening to give one of the illustrated lectures for which he has become widely known; he estimates that he has appeared, in person, before more than 1,000 audiences.

Wilhelmsen's appearance here was one of five travelogue programs sponsored by the Kiwanis club of Chelsea; his was the second of the series.

He began his film-lecture career in 1953; has made three educational films; and has made more than 60 appearances on television; eight of his shows have been syndicated on "Bold Journey" and "I Search for Adventure."

Following his graduation from Jackson High school, he attended St. Joseph's College in Indiana for two years and then trained for the stage at Pasadena Playhouse, Pasadena, Calif.

He started his professional career on the stage, and enjoyed two successful seasons on Broadway. But "his heart was not in acting," he explained, so he left the theater to take up life of adventure and exploration. He was especially interested in the "wild" parts of Mexico, Central and South America, and he avidly studied all that he could find on their lost cities, missions, lost treasures and remote civilizations.

While he soon determined that source material in this country was limited, he found much more in the national libraries and missions of the Latin American countries. When he had gathered enough "history on an area to determine where these old treasures might be located, he set out—always alone—to find and film them.

His success has been phenomenal.

Included in his pictures shown Saturday were scenes of ancient lava-covered cities, little towns whose inhabitants have never seen an automobile, vast deserts, and dense jungles also, the Barranca de Cobre, canyon that may have heard of, yet it is nearly as large as the Grand Canyon of the Colorado and in it is the third highest waterfall in the world.

His film on Mexico one of those which have won Wilhelmsen first place on the "World Travel Series."
