Week-End Closing Law Upheld

A public hearing Monday at the Washtenaw County Board of Supervisors' office, the law which prohibits certain businesses from selling specified goods on more than one of two days of the week was upheld. A two-thirds majority vote of the supervisors was needed for exemption.

The law's effective date is today (Thursday); however, enforcement has been blocked at least temporarily in 25 cities and 18 counties, including Washtenaw and Jackson by a Wayne county circuit court order. Judge Joseph G. Rashid granted temporary restraining order last Friday to 50 independent merchants who attacked the law as unconstitutional. Rashid's order is valid through April 5.

Two firms, Arian's Discount Department Stores, and Country Markets, Inc., with stores in Washtenaw county, are among the parties suing to prevent enforcement of the law. A hearing has been set for April 1 for state officials to show cause why the restraining order should be made permanent.

At the Washtenaw county hearing Monday, those who urged acceptance of the statute included Chambers of Commerce and individual retailers.

PRODUCT OF THE YEAR—This portable "home away from home," manufactured in Chelsea, won first place in Washtenaw county competition to select the county's top-manufactured product in connection with the annual Michigan Week observance to be held in May. Judging of county entries took place Saturday. Manufactured by Outdoor Fibre Products, Inc., 320 N. Main St., the structure is called "PARADOME." It is made of rigid polystyrene insulated foam plastic with a translucent plastic roof. When taken down for transportation or storage, it fits into a carton three feet wide, six feet long and nine inches thick which may be easily transported in the rear of a station wagon as seen in photo below. The "Paradome," dismantled and packed in its container, is stowed neatly in the station wagon, ready to "go places," where, on arrival, it can be set up again, easily. A "Paradome" will be on display in Chelsea during Michigan Week.

SECOND PLACE WINNER in the Michigan Week competition to select the top product manufactured in Washtenaw county is this "Sweepster Golfer," a small, powered vehicle which may be used as a golf cart, a lawn mower (by adding attachments) or as transportation for four people with the addition of rear deck cushions. Manufactured by Jenkins Equipment Co. of Dexter, it is also used in factories for transportation, as well as for the outdoor uses described.

Portable Home, New Jiffy Mixes Take Top Honors

Two Chelsea products won first place and a Dexter product placed second in its class in competition to select the top county products as entries in regional judging for Michigan Week honors.

Those winning in regional judging will become eligible to compete for additional honors through state selection of the top state product in the various classes.

Chelsea's first-place winners are a portable house manufactured by Outdoor Fibre Products, Inc., and Chelsea Milling Company's two Jiffy Mixes, milk chocolate and dark fudge cake, produced in one-layer sizes.

The Dexter second-place county winner is a small powered vehicle called "Sweepster Golfer" which is manufactured by Jenkins Equipment Co. of Dexter. The Chelsea Milling Co. award was in the category of agricultural products, a new situation this year in the Michigan Week competition. Rival firms in the cake mix field have not, as yet, produced the one-layer size package. Chelsea's other first-place product—the portable house called "Paradome" and described as a "home away from home," has rigid plastic walls that give greater stability and do away with the necessity for interior poles or exterior ropes. It folds into a 3x6 foot carton and sets up quickly, providing 123 square feet of living area and a 7-foot-high roof.

It may be used for family camping, as a hunting lodge, summer lake cabin, barbecue pavilion, house, skinning shelter, ice fishing house, first aid station, temporary housing for emergency and disaster areas, etc. These units may be connected together offering multiple unit living quarters, any number of "Paradomes" may be joined together.

From a carton three feet wide, six feet long and nine inches thick, unfolds a 13-foot round camping house or cabin. The 12-section wall unit constructed of high density, polystyrene, insulated foam plastic 3/4" thick. These wall panels are connected together every three feet with a flexible foam vinyl hinge. Each panel is framed with heavy, durable foam vinyl plastic rigid extrusions. The roof is heavy two-ply nylon reinforced. The floor is heavy, waterproof, mildew-proof, reinforced plastic. There are three large screened sliding windows and a double two-piece hinged, latching door. There is 123 square feet of living area, the walls are 5 1/2 feet high, with a 7-foot high roof. No interior poles or outside ropes or lines are required.

"Paradome" colors are pleasant, light and airy; the interior is light grey, exterior is dark green and the door and window panels are orange.

Fire Chief Chosen

James Gaken, head miller at Chelsea Milling Co., and a member of Chelsea's volunteer Fire Department since March 31, 1947, was elected fire chief to succeed retiring Chief Ted Balmer, by members of the department on March 11 and his election was approved by the Chelsea Village Council of the March 26 meeting.

Gaken got his first experience as a fireman at the big Central Fibre Products fire March 31, 1947, when his grandfather, Edmund Gentner, a veteran of 35 years on the department, asked him if he'd like to help out at the fire and become a regular member of the volunteer department.

Gaken is a third generation member of the Chelsea Fire Department. His uncle, Floyd Gentner, was a fireman for 30 years. When Gaken's grandfather retired in 1945, he held the rank of captain.

Gaken served as secretary of the Fire Department from April of 1949 until 1957; was assistant fire chief in 1957 and 1958 and in 1959, 1960 and 1961 was a trustee of the Fire Department's accident fund.

He is married to the former Shirley Duror and has a family of seven children ranging in age from seven months to 13 years. The family home is at 310 Pierce St.

Gaken has been employed at Chelsea Milling Co. since 1945. Retiring Fire Chief Ted Balmer has been a member of the department since June 1948. At that time, Howard Brooks, longtime fire chief, had already resigned but was still an honorary member of the department.

Thomas Young had been named fire chief, Kenneth Schanz was assistant chief and Balmer was named captain.

Before being a member of the Department Balmer, like Gaken, had helped fight the big Central Fibre plant fire in March, 1947.

Don't Forget Election Day Next Monday

Monday, April 1, is election day and election officials are preparing for an unusually big turnout of voters.

In addition to contests for township offices, the big issue at state level is the proposal relative to the adoption of the revised Constitution of the State of Michigan.

Also to be named are two justices of the state Supreme Court; two regents of the University of Michigan; the superintendent of the State Board of Education; two trustees of Michigan State University; and two members of the Board of Governors of Wayne State University.

In Freedom township voters will also be voting on a road proposition and on confirmation of a grant of franchise to Consumers Power Co.

Democrats and Republicans, alike, are working to get out a large percentage of the registered voters in the townships; several committees are offering free transportation to the polls to facilitate balloting.

Full slates of candidates appear on both tickets in several area townships, including Sylvan and Lyndon—others have partial lists on each ticket leaving several incumbent officials unopposed. Notable among these are Sharon and Lima townships.

In several townships where there are spirited contests, both parties have been advertising full lists of their candidates for all offices to be filled at Monday's election.

Vandals ripped an American flag in two and threw it on the floor at the Flag Shrine on Mt. Hope Rd., at Seymour rd., scattered books and papers, generally ransacked the building and made off with a set of five historical flags and state flags of Tennessee, Illinois and North Dakota.

The Flag Shrine, a project of the Rev. and Mrs. Karl Keifer of Mt. Hope Methodist church, is located in a former rural school building adjacent to the church.

Final Lenten Service Slated Next Wednesday

The final united community Lenten service of the current series will take place next Wednesday, April 3, at St. Paul's United Church of Christ.

The sermon, on the topic "Adoration and Prayer," will be given by the Rev. George P. Stanford, chaplain of the Methodist Home.

During Holy Week, April 8-13, each church will hold its own services, most of them having a Maundy Thursday evening service on April 11.

The final united service is the Good Friday observance, April 12, at the Methodist church.

Salem Grove Church Being Renovated

The interior of Salem Grove Methodist church is undergoing extensive renovating, all work being done by volunteer members of the congregation.

The work is being supervised by a committee composed of Allen Brossmer, president of the Official Board of the church, Paul Peiters, Mrs. Austin Aitz, Mrs. Alda Lehman, Mrs. Truman Lehman, Mrs. Glenn Rentschler and Dean Schweinfurth.

During the past week men of the church have put in a hardwood floor, applying the oak flooring over the old flooring in the sanctuary. The floor will be sanded and finished with a seal coat.

Prior to installing the new floor, the men of the church had applied a new ceiling of white acoustical tile and cleaned and repainted the walls a rose beige color.

New pews with cushioned seats have been ordered. Cost of the pews being covered by contributions from a number of church members. Brossmer said contributions for the pews are still being received.

The entire Easter offering is also being designated to be added to the fund for payment of the materials used in the renovation project.

The new pews will be installed in parallel rows at either side of a center aisle, with narrow aisles at the side along the wall. Formerly long pews were arranged across the center of the sanctuary with two side aisles between the center pews and shorter pews at either side.

Heating ducts have been installed around the sides of the auditorium replacing former floor registers in the aisles.

The final touch will be new carpeting in the aisles and on the altar platform.

The Rev. John Jolley is the pastor of Salem Grove church.

Police Officer Frank Reed is convalescing at his home, 121 North St., after submitting to surgery Tuesday at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Ann Arbor.

EXCAVATION on the Main St. property of Chelsea Milling Co., on the south side of the railroad tracks, started last Thursday, is proceeding rapidly; instead of five new storage bins as mentioned in announcements by the village last week in relation to closing of the former parking area there, a total of 27 bins are to be erected on the site. There will be two rows of nine circular bins each with nine interstices between. The circular bins are to be 24 feet in diameter and 120 feet high. Present circular bins of the firm on the north side of the railroad tracks are 70 and 90 feet high, the largest being 16 feet in diameter. The new circular bins will provide additional storage in excess of 1,000,000 bushels of grain for Chelsea Milling Co. The excavation for foundations and unloading mechanism is 12 feet deep. It will be possible to receive delivery by rail or truck, the grain passing through special cleaning mechanism and then conveyed and dumped into the top of the bin. Transfer to the processing departments in the present plant on North St. will be accomplished by means of conveyors to be constructed over the railroad tracks; the cleaned grain will be removed from the bottom of the bin, carried up to the overhead conveyors and thence across to its destination.

Proposed New Constitution Offers Michigan Chance To Make Progress

(This is the last in a series of four articles to be published by The Standard to help clarify the primary issues involved in the April 1 vote on the new State Constitution.)

At the outset of this series it was suggested that those who had already decided how to vote April 1 regarding the adoption or rejection of the proposed new State Constitution should read no further.

If you are still following this series, you are to be complimented. It indicates your interest in your government and this interest will, hopefully lead you to the voting booth next Monday. By all means, DO VOTE. No issue in recent years has been as vital to Michigan as the Monday vote on NewCon.

The purpose of these articles has been to highlight the most important aspects of the proposed new document, explaining how, we believe, these offer a positive program of progress for the state, with special emphasis on those phases the "independent" voter would consider most critical.

These voters will not be governed by selfish partisan interest, nor by emotional appeals, but they will be influenced by a factor called "enlightened self-interest" and they will judge NewCon in terms of how much it will benefit themselves, their children and their fellow citizens.

Supporters of NewCon contend that Michigan residents will benefit from a "yes" vote because the new document will overhaul and streamline the obsolete governmental machinery that has been slapped together in the state capital in a patchwork maze of amendments to the old 1908 Constitution.

The new Constitution, they maintain, will provide a means for correcting inequities and inadequacies and will enable Michigan to change its national "image" from that of a "trouble" state to that of a progressive state on the march to new triumphs.

It will do this, we believe; because, under NewCon, Michigan will assure its children of a continually improving chance to become educated in an ever-improving educational system supported by a constantly-expanding economy.

In last week's article, it was explained how NewCon will require the payment of state aid to school districts on schedule and will earmark two cents of every four cents of sales tax for this purpose.

NewCon further will standardize and equalize property tax procedures enabling school districts with special financial problems to solve them locally depending upon the will of the majority of voters within the local district.

That NewCon offers substantial improvement in provisions for educating our young should be apparent from the fact that the major citizens organizations involved in the educational process have endorsed a "yes" vote and are actively participating in support of the new document. These organizations include the Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers (PTA) and the Michigan Education Association (primarily teachers and school administrators).

Under NewCon, the office of the state superintendent of public instruction will be removed from the ballot and, in a fashion similar to that utilized in all local school districts, the superintendent will be made responsible to the state board of education.

NewCon not only would remove the superintendent of public instruction from direct participation in partisan politics, but would increase the state board of education from four members to eight to be elected by all voters in the state.

By taking partisan politics out of the state superintendent's office, better administration would result and the state board could screen top-rated candidates from all over the nation for the state superintendent's job.

NewCon provides also that the enlarged state board would be a central planning body for all public education, thus making for more efficient and economical operation while leaving a maximum of control at the local level.

NewCon further would establish for all state colleges and universities a pattern of control by supervising boards. Three of these boards would, as presently, be elected: University of Michigan, Michigan State University, and Wayne State University. Other smaller state-owned colleges would be controlled by boards appointed by the governor.

Supporters of NewCon believe this orderly and improved set-up for financing and administering the state's educational system is of utmost importance for the future development of Michigan.

It is another of the many reasons for boosting NewCon as a "positive program for progress" in Michigan.

The position of those who favor NewCon is that as a modernized document it is better than the old one and that despite the harassment of detractors, the voters of the state will agree NewCon is an improvement and will so express themselves Monday.

EXPECT ANYTHING TO HAPPEN ON ALL-FOOL'S DAY

MICHIGAN MIRROR

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Effective Technique
 The honeymoon between Gov. Romney and the Republican-dominated legislature is lasting longer than many thought possible. As expected, the Governor meets his biggest problems in the House of Representatives, but difficulties also have cropped up in the Senate where his party holds a 23-11 margin.

Despite the problems, however, Romney's tactics of extensive personal contacts with the legislature have worked to his advantage. The biggest question now is how much longer can he win his battles.

Romney lost a little ground when his bills to further Olympic bid chances reached the House. The more conservative GOP spokesmen there insisted on some safety measures which he had not expected. He wanted the measure to pass without change, but gave in when the conservative voice indicated it would not retreat. The changes would not hurt the bills, he decided, but his further insistence on no change might hurt him.

In the Senate, his toughest battle came on the long-controversial proposal to put Michigan under Aid to Dependent Children of the Unemployed: the ADC-U question. He made it very clear in his State of the State message and another special request to the legislature that passage of this legislation was an important part of his program.

The GOP majority in both houses had been fighting such legislation for two years, ever since the Federal program started. House members switched positions quietly with the justification that now many other states were in the program and passage here would not cause widespread attention to Michigan as a welfare state.

In the Senate, however, the program was temporarily blocked by a quirk. There were enough "Old Guard" Republicans who remained opposed to the program that the GOP badly needed Democratic votes to pass it. The 11 Democrats attacked Romney's ADC-U proposal as too restrictive and too "watered down" from the version former Gov. John B. Swainson wanted during his term of office. They said they would withhold their votes entirely.

With these two pieces of legislation counted as Romney victories, the future battles likely will appear as only minor skirmishes. So far, however, the new governor has disproved the theory that you can't win them all.

Every Day Counts
 The annual observance of Michigan Week is rapidly approaching. This year, as in the previous nine "brag weeks" each day will have a special purpose to recognize. Sunday, May 19, will be "Spiritual Foundations" day; Monday is "Our Government" day; Tuesday, "Hospitality" day; Wednesday, "Our Livelihood" day; Thursday, "Education" day; Friday, "Our Heritage" day; and Saturday, "Our Youth" day.

Beinard A. Kalahar, of Center Line, president of the State Association of County Supervisors, is co-ordinating the local plans for the Monday programs.

As a member of the Macomb County Board of Supervisors for 19 years, Kalahar is fully familiar with the growth of local government.

His plan for the May 20 programs calls for civic and service clubs, schools and other organizations to promote meetings "where people familiar with all the ramifications of local government explain how the various offices function, in clear and practical terms."

The traditional "Mayors' Exchange" and open houses in government offices also will be emphasized for the 10th consecutive year as primary functions of "Our Government" day during Michigan Week.

Better Teachers
 Michigan teachers may soon be required to have more extensive (Continued on page three)

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:
 The fellows at the county store Saturday night was setting around adding up their blessings and subtracting their burdens and I'll have to report they come out about even.

On the blessings side, Ed Doolittle was giving thanks for the fact his old lady ain't offered him no advice about nothing in a whole week. Ed reported he was getting fed up on his old lady trying to give him advice all the time. He allowed as how a feller that could tell the difference between good and bad advice didn't need neither one and if he couldn't tell the difference, the advice wouldn't do him no good now. Confidential, I think Ed's old lady has been advising him to do a little work around the place for a change.

And Ed reported he had saw in the papers where a Illinois agriculture expert named George E. Smith has announced official that he has been able to get bumper corn crops by bombarding corn fields with music sounds. He claims he has increased corn yields from 6 to 10 per cent with music.

In the first place, claims Ed, we got too much corn surplus now and using this music fertilizer was working again the farm problem. He was of the opinion the Government should start right now harrin' any farmer from getting a handout that was growing corn to music.

Zeke Grubb figured that corn grown to music would make fine popcorn and that any grover that was using this new music fertilizer could get the difference between the regular price and the Government handout price by getting into the popcorn business.

Glen Webster told the fellows he couldn't figure which was worse, using this new music fertilizer or the non-existent fertilizer invented by Billy Sol Estes. This brings up a discussion about whether or not they was ever going to be able to get Billy Sol behind the bars. Ed Doolittle was again it, said, if they put him in jail he'd write a book. Ed allowed as how it was a dangerous thing anymore to put a feller in jail that could read and write. He started out with Alger Hiss and named a long list of fellows that has got famous from writing a book in jail. Ed says throwing some of them smart operators in jail for a spell is like throwing a rabbit in a briar patch. They love it, come out on the best seller list.

I agree with Ed, Mister Editor, that if they is any chance Billy Sol will write a book, it would be better for the Government to let him stay in the non-existent fertilizer business. And I'm solid again any Government aid to farmers growing corn to music.

Yours truly,
 Uncle Lew.

GIRL TALK

"Mommy does, too, and she says anybody can figure it out if they just try."

"Local folks make their living selling things to other local folks. They try to sell the best things at good prices, because this makes people happy and satisfied, so they'll come back tomorrow. This is important because local folks are thinking about tomorrow. They have to get business from the same people they did business with yesterday. So they try to keep everybody happy."

"Mommy says you see so many different things in the stores because the store man knows that folks like to choose for themselves. Mommy says she buys something because she knows the name of the folks who made it and because the price is right—and because she knows the man who sells it."

"Mommy says most folks are the same way. We're old business with yesterday. If they watch their pennies as close as she does?"

State's Christmas Tree Markets Face Competition

Lansing—Michigan ranks as the top nationally in export of Christmas trees to other states. About half of the trees cut last year by the state's 18,000 growers went out of state. But Michigan growers face some problems.

Unfortunately, high freight rates under sales to distant states like Florida and Texas, and the competition from the National Christmas Tree Growers' Association, headquartered in Belmont, N. Y., has made it difficult for Michigan growers to compete.

Some explained that most trees being sold in distant areas are relatively poor quality. Better quality would be too expensive with freight rates added to the regular rates.

The national organization is working to correct this problem, and is indicated.

Edward Hunt, president of the Michigan Christmas Tree Growers' Association, stressed the vigorous efforts of the young Christmas tree industry during Christmas at Michigan State University.

Leo Dunbar, a grower-wholesaler in Cadillac, voiced the belief that Michigan growers' market by up to 10 percent. He based this estimate on personal inspection of trees in several cities throughout the country.

"That's not saying everyone is selling artificial trees," Dunbar added. "But it does mean the quality which produces the 'real' look must keep striving for a better product."

State Civil Defense Council Supports Bills in Legislature

Reporting on a meeting he attended at State Police headquarters in East Lansing, March 15, Col. Gerald G. Miller, Washtenaw county Civil Defense director, said council members representing eight Civil Defense districts of the state were present; it was a meeting of the executive council of the State Association of Civil Defense Directors.

On the council, Col. Miller represents the seven counties in southeastern Michigan—St. Clair, Macomb, Oakland, Wayne, Monroe, Lenawee and Washtenaw.

Present at the meeting from the state director's staff was Captain Nicolien, of the State Police, and Henry Finl, Civil Defense administrator for the director.

Receiving considerable attention at the meeting, according to Col. Miller's report, were several bills now pending before the State Legislature dealing with Civil Defense. The group at the meeting voted to "vigorously support" five of the bills and take negative action in relation to two others.

Miller said bills supported are House Bill 103 which deals with workman's compensation for Civil Defense volunteers; Senate Bill 1187 and House Bill 542 (which are the same) and deal with builders' and contractors' minimum permissible specifications on private or home shelters; House Bill 761 which relates to relief of taxation for family shelters; and House Bill 548 dealing with Civil Defense in the education field.

Also supported were House Bill 485 and Senate Bill 1202, pertaining to lines of succession for the State.

The council went on record recommending that the State appoint a committee or that the Governor appoint a committee to study the problem of Civil Defense in the rural areas and to emphasize and promote the rural program that has been laid out by the Federal Government. The Federal Government has a good rural program; however, a lack of emphasis has caused the rural program to fall by the wayside.

The council noted the three major fields that can be developed in the rural program: the shelter program, i.e. private or home shelters for the rural families; second, a radiological defense capability to measure radiation; and third, there is no reason why communications cannot be developed to an excellent degree in the rural area as well as in the urban area. Continuity of government, particularly as it applies to lines of succession for township boards and small villages and communities, can be developed without any difficulty. Public information programs can be aimed at rural areas by radio as well as by newspaper, the council pointed out.

The council noted also that the President in Executive Order 10097 charged the United States Department of Agriculture with the responsibility for all food under emergency conditions. Further, the County Extension Agent has been charged with the program of developing shelters for our rural residents. "I am happy to say that we have an excellent United States Department of Agriculture Defense Committee working in this area which is developing considerable information regarding the protection of a program for the rural residents in Civil Defense," Miller concluded.

'Parade of Hats' Proves To Be Hit with Women

Approximately 165 area women attended the salad luncheon and "Parade of Hats" held Wednesday of last week at the Congregational church under sponsorship of the women of the church. Proceeds of the affair are being contributed to the church's fund being accumulated to pay for a new church organ.

A door prize given at the luncheon was awarded to Mrs. Robert Masten of Manchester; it was a new hat, her choice of those displayed in the "hat parade."

The affair proved such a success, not only to the Congregational church, itself, but to all who attended, that suggestions were made that a similar luncheon be given soon again.

Serving began at 11:30 a.m. and continued until 2 p.m. Generally, there was very little waiting, the smorgasbord-style table at one side making it convenient for patrons to serve themselves from the varied selections displayed.

In reporting the exceptional success of the project the women of the church expressed appreciation to the area women who patronized the luncheon, particularly in view of Wednesday's stormy weather.

Mairne Corporal Richard Lee, with his wife and young son, Peter, spent some time Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elba Gage. Corporal Lee recently received his discharge after five and one-half years in the service and the family was enroute from Costa Mesa, Calif., to the home of his parents, the Rev. and Mrs. James R. Lee, at Cooperstown, N. Y., and other relatives at Cambridge, N. Y.

training in their field to be licensed by the state.

A proposed revision to the Michigan Teacher Certification Code has been in the works for about six years. The Commission on Teacher Education and Certification consulted nearly 1,000 professional people and educational organizations in drawing its recommendations for code changes.

"The proposed code is definitely a compromise measure representing as best it can all the beliefs and convictions of the hundreds of people in Michigan who are striving to improve the quality of education," said State Board of Education President Chris H. Magnusson.

Revision of the code was proposed because it was felt the present regulations, written in 1938, could hardly set the minimum qualifications for teachers nearly a quarter-century later, said the Board President.

"The vast explosion of knowledge since then; the enormous increase in our population; public pressure to educate everyone to his limit of learning, and the realization that the continuation of a free society will depend on a totally educated populace—demand a concerted effort to keep our standards for teaching at the highest possible level."

In addition to raising the educational requirements in fields related to teaching, the proposed revision would require administrative school personnel to be certified. At the present time there is no requirement for certification of administrators such as principals.

Flag Shrine Damage . . .

The vandalism and theft apparently occurred early Friday morning, entrance being gained through a side window.

State Police were called and are investigating.

The Rev. and Mrs. Keefer have traveled extensively in accumulating the flags in the display and have made many people welcome at the unique exhibit the past two years. They said they are at a loss to understand the senseless destruction.

Shoplifting Doesn't Pay

Two Chelsea men and a Stockbridge woman were apprehended by Chelsea police for shoplifting from Stop & Shop Supermarket in separate offenses committed March 12, 13 and 16.

The three were charged with and plead guilty to being disorderly persons and each paid fines of $30 and costs of $20 when they appeared before Sylvan Township Justice Chandler Rogers on March 14 and 20.

No man under 75 years of age was old enough to vote in 1908, the last time the question "Do you approve of a new state constitution?" was asked.

Travel Series...

"Freightboat to Asia," by John Weld, Dec. 14.

"South American Adventure," by Romain Wilhelmsen, Jan. 18.

"Jeep Trails Through Utah," by Stan Midgley, Feb. 28.

"Nova Scotia," by James Metcalf, March 14.

Next Monday's presentation is on the topic, "Colorado—Today and Yesterday," with Stan Midgley as narrator.

Midgley graduated as a chemist from Pymonston during the depression. The next two years he described as his "best years" and then he found a job. Thereafter his new colleagues began to call him "That crazy chemist," not for his prowess with test tube and clothes pin, however, but because he rode his bicycle to work—a mere 48 miles every day. Always striving to make his work more interesting, Midgley kept a list of everything good or bad about his job. After eight years he had eight "goods," his eight vacations. Obviously he was a square head in a round hole.

Quitting chemistry for good (chemistry's good, he says), he went into vacations full time. His "Opus One," a movie about a bicycle trip in Utah won the $1,000 first prize in a nation-wide contest. In the following years eight "chucklelogues" have established him as "The Mark Twain of the Camera."

"Colorado—Today and Yesterday" takes the audience to the colorful state of Colorado as it is today and as yesterday, to visit its great scenic attractions and activities. Included are scenes in Denver, the Capitol, Pikes Peak, the garden of the Gods, the Royal Gorge, Estes Park, and Rocky Mountain National Park. The ascent of Long's Peak is a noteworthy achievement. This is followed by a trip along the Trail Ridge Road; a visit at Glenwood Springs; the Aspen skiing area and many other points of interest. Monday's program begins at 8 p.m.

Being constructed of all high grade plastic materials the Paragone is completely weatherproof, will withstand high winds and is easily heated. This unit can be erected by two people within 20 minutes; can be carried in the rear of a station wagon, on the roof of an automobile or when towing a boat, transported right inside of the boat. It weighs approximately 87 pounds.

The Dexter "Sweepster Gelfer" which placed second in the county competition, is described as a small powered vehicle which can be used as a golf cart, will take mowing attachments for grass cutting and will transport four people with the addition of rear deck cushions. It is being used in factories for transportation, the manufacturers say.

Among other county products entered in the county competition are garden tools by Fabricators, Inc. of Saline; preformed tumbling materials by Fortune Industries, Inc. of Chelsea; electrophoresis chambers by Gelman Instrument Co. of Chelsea; portable diving boards and "Ski-Bird" boats by Michigan Ladder Co. of Ypsilanti; "Goldmaster" portable driving range by Sportmaster Corp., Ypsilanti, and many others.

Harold B. Coolman of Ann Arbor, Washtenaw county products chairman for Michigan Week, said judging of products submitted for competition took place at Coolman Industries, 321 S. Main St., Ann Arbor, Saturday, March 23.

Judges were Donald Alber, president of Alber Oil Co., Dexter; Robert O. Eberbach, president of Eberbach and Son Co., Ann Arbor; S. E. Keenan, owner of Keenan Trailer Sales, Ann Arbor; and Charles B. Woodhead of Michigan Bell Telephone Co., Detroit.

350 Attend Girl Scout Dads Party

After being flooded out of the Junior High gymnasium because of a roof leak, the Chelsea Neighborhood girl Scouts held their father-daughter birthday celebration in the High school cafeteria on Tuesday, March 19, with approximately 350 people present. The mistress of ceremonies was Kathy Sutter of Senior Troop 77.

The evening program started with a flag ceremony by the intermediates. Brownies sang songs, led by Drinda West of Troop 77, and repeated their Promise.

Senior Troop 48 gave a skit on camping. Following this skit, one of the highlights of the evening took place—a special surprise interruption by Senior Troop 77 honoring their leader, Mrs. Wilber Worden. Representing the troop were Cindy Churchill, Julie Eisenman, and Diane Worden. The leader was crowned "leader of the week" and given special awards for her contributions to Girl Scouting.

Drinda West and Jane Scott gave a talk explaining the Juliette Lowe Fund. Then the girls representing their troops deposited their money (a penny for each year of their age) which amounted to 1,925 pennies. The pennies were dropped into a box decorated with daisies in honor of Juliette Lowe's nickname.

"Indian Taps" was sung by the girls and the flags were retired and refreshments of cookies, coffee, and punch were served.

Mrs. Glen Clark and Mrs. Alfred Eisenman acted as co-chairmen of the planning committee, along with Senior Girl Scouts, Cindy Churchill and Julie Eisenman, of Troop 77, and Suzy Clark and Penny Eisenbeiser of Troop 48.

Special thanks were expressed to the girls of Troop 98 who acted as hostesses, the women who worked in the kitchen, the fathers who helped set up and take down tables and chairs, and Mr. Conklin for making the arrangements for switching the location of the party from the gym to the cafeteria.

New Fire Chief Chosen...

Early events of his association with the department included the banquet honoring Howard Brooks on his retirement when firemen presented him with 50 silver dollars—one for each year of his service as fire chief.

Thomas Young succeeded Brooks as fire chief, retaining the position until 1956 when he opened a hardware store in Clinton and moved there. He had called a special meeting of the firemen Dec. 17, 1956, and nominated Balmer to succeed him.

Balmer recalled that in 1950 the department made 29 fire runs, as compared to 83 in 1962. Increase in population, number of homes and shops was given by Balmer as factors causing the greater number of runs.

Biggest fire during Balmer's career as fire chief was at the Rockwell-Standard Spring plant in September, 1953. In that fire, Balmer sustained first, second and third degree burns from hip to heel of his right leg and spent two weeks in bed and an additional three weeks in a wheel chair.

Balmer's hopes for a new fire hall—a project in which he has been interested and for which he has worked for several years—will become a reality this year. The village is activating plans for its construction in line with plans drawn up more than two years ago.

During his years as chief, the Fire Department, itself, has accumulated a building fund amounting at present to $1,027.81. The department also has accumulated an accident fund of $1,887.71 and a general fund of $550.89.

In a parting message directed to the people of Chelsea, Balmer said, "The Fire Department needs your support as well as you need the Fire Department. This is still a volunteer department—every man responds immediately from his work or his home, day or night to fight your fire if necessary."

In addition to Chief Gaken, other officers of Chelsea's 18-man volunteer Fire Department are: Bud Hafner, assistant fire chief; George Atkinson, captain; David Longworth, secretary-treasurer; Mac Packard, first lieutenant; and Arthur Paul, second lieutenant.

COLORADO SCENE—Here is one of the views which Stan Midgley will include in his travelogue program at Chelsea High school auditorium Monday evening in the final presentation of the current travel series sponsored by the Kiwanis Club. Midgley is a "one-wolf photographer." He seldom has anyone with him on his filming trips. While in the field he usually travels by bicycle, in a Jeep where it is possible, or afloat. So he is never in a hurry and he can take as much time as is necessary to obtain the best photographic results. Hence his color pictures are rated "excellent" and if he finds that they aren't he returns to location and takes them over again.

Parli-Pro Team Places 6th in State Contest

Chelsea High school's Future Farmers of America parliamentary procedure team placed sixth in the field of eight regional team finalists in state contests at Michigan State University Wednesday, March 20. The "parli-pro" contests were part of the FFA convention program at the university.

Chelsea's team includes Lynn Harvey, chairman; David Young, vice-chairman; Edward Keezer, secretary; Jerry Bristle, Kenneth Bollinger, Carl Loeffler, Tom Penhalligon, John Widmayer and James Schiller.

Almost at the last moment, Kenneth Bollinger became ill with an attack of the "flu" and was forced to remain at home, much to his disappointment.

Placings of the other seven teams competing according to a report by Stephen Hayden, Chelsea FFA advisor, are as follows: Felch High school (in the Upper Peninsula), first; Williamson, second; Hart, third; Cassopolis, fifth; Elkton-Figeon-Bayport High school, seventh; and Ludington, eighth.

TAX CUT AND DEBT

Raising the ceiling on the national debt has become a painful annual exercise for Congress.

Good News on Business Investment

Business investment in plant and equipment will reach a new peak this year, according to a survey made periodically by the Department of Commerce. It is the only official estimate we get on this item. For 1963 it is predicted that investment in plant and equipment will be $30.1 billion. In 1962 the comparable figure was $27.3 billion. The increase amounts to 10 percent. Previous to last year the all-time high had been $37 billion in 1957. It has been generally expected that we would have a larger total for this item this year. This has been based upon the fact that business firms are well supplied with funds and much of our equipment is old and in need of replacement.

ing with more modern units. Corporate profits are still under a squeeze, although it appears that in the final three months of 1962 they made a new high, according to preliminary figures. The adequacy of funds within business firms is from more generous depreciation allowances granted by the Internal Revenue Service last year. Our depreciation schedules still are well behind those found in all other major industrial nations, and they need still more liberalization. That, we are told, can be done only by law. In other words, the Internal Revenue Service says it went as far as it can go under present legal requirements. It also must be remembered that the Congress last year enacted a credit against taxes for certain specified types of business investment. No one knows, or can know, how much effect this has had. The government has estimated that the tax credit plus the increased depreciation amounts to about $2.5 billion in corporate cash flow. Along with their survey on capital investment plans the SEC and the Department of Commerce also ask for anticipations on sales, and the results are released at the same time. The latest survey indicates that manufacturers and trade firms expect sales in 1963 to be 4 percent above 1962 and utilities are anticipating a rise of 5 percent. Some of the details on capital investment are worthy of note. The largest percentage increase—13—is in railroads. Durable goods manufacturing anticipates an increase of 11 percent, as compared with only 3 percent in nondurable goods industries. The only broad groups showing a decline are mining and transportation other than rail. The expected decreases are 6 and 11 percent respectively. The over-all increase in capital investment is slightly less than $2 billion, and that is not enough to give great stimulus to the economy. But it is one of the really cheerful reports that have come out on 1963 prospects.

FOOD FOR THE BIRDS

Agricultural efficiency is posing a threat to the nation's game birds, particularly quail. The Agriculture Department issued a leaflet urging farmers to plant odd areas on their farms to lespediza. This provides food and cover for quail.

MSU Students Staging Annual Horse Show

Michigan State University will take on the atmosphere of the old west Friday and Saturday, March 29-30, when the Block and Bridge Club presents their 15th annual Horse Show. The event will turn the livestock pavilion on the East Lansing campus into a hub-bub of show activity as the cowboys take over during spring term registration and their horses experience a week of hectic college life. Those members who do not show are not left out of the activities; colorful flags and banners are raised in place and the arena is decorated in the style of the big-time shows. Earl Heller, of Chelsea, is a member of the club. The show is recognized as one with his team and the Hugh of the finest of its kind in the country. It is unique in that all the advanced planning and the final production is carried out solely by a student committee composed of club members. This year the committee is headed by Rich Forbush, an animal husbandry major from Inkster. The highlight of the Friday evening performance will be a championship horse pulling contest. Competing for the honors will be the teams of Charles Rach, Jr., Smith Creek, and Smith Bros., of Cassopolis, who are first and second national lightweight champions respectively. Pulling against them are Harold Gilbert, Sholbina, Mo., and the team of Bronson. All these teams are evenly matched and promise to present a close contest.

House Tour Date Set for April 27 By Co-Op Nursery

Chelsea Co-Operative Nursery has completed arrangements for its fourth annual house tour which is scheduled for Saturday, April 27, from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m.

General chairman for the project is Mrs. George L. Palmer. Serving as co-chairman is Mrs. David Longworth.

In charge of ticket sales are Mrs. Raymond Steinbach of Chelsea, and Mrs. Patrick McLeod, of Dexter. All members of the Nursery group will be given tickets to sell; tickets will also be available at Winans Jewelry store and Merkel Brothers in Chelsea and McLeod's Drug store in Dexter.

An innovation of the tour this year is inclusion of the new facilities at the Methodist Home, in addition to four area homes.

Selection of homes to be included is in charge of Mrs. George Wynn and Mrs. David Longworth.

Other committee chairmen are Mrs. Charles Gelman and Mrs. Thomas Neff, publicity; and Mrs. Jack Merkel and Mrs. Ned Palmer, hostesses.

Free Pamphlet Available To Serve as Helpful Guide in Tree Planting

Landowners with thoughts of planting trees for forestry and wildlife purposes this spring can solve many problems by requesting a new Conservation Department pamphlet before ordering their planting stock.

"A Guide for Planting Your Trees" is available free from the Department's forestry division office in Lansing or locally from Victor G. Horvath, District Forester, County Building, Ann Arbor.

Among other things, it provides an easy-to-follow check list that helps property owners choose the correct species, stock sizes, and seasons for planting. Illustrations of valuable tips on the care and actual planting of trees are included.

Some 7,000,000 young pine and spruce trees are still on sale through the Conservation Department for reforestation plantings on private lands in Michigan this spring. Official stock price lists and order blanks are available upon request.

No speedster will admit there is any likelihood that he will kill a pedestrian.

Area Scout Adult Leaders Meet At Manchester

On Wednesday night of last week, 24 adults from District IV attended the scouting Round Table and Boy Scout Leader Training session held at Manchester. Eighteen adult leaders completed the first sessions and will receive certificates in recognition of their attendance.

Two of the patrols displayed their patrol flags, which proved of interest to the group. Students of the Chelsea art classes received some compliments as Robert Anderson's patrol, The Wanderers, unfurled their patrol flag, with colorful wanderers in evidence. Wendell Young of Whitmore Lake proclaimed proudly "My den mother made this for me," as he exhibited his patrol's flag; the patrol is the Coffee-Pot patrol.

During the fourth session of the training schedule, set for Wednesday, March 27, the group covered "How to Train Junior Leaders in the Troop."

Scout executive for District IV, Bill Windle, and Bob Stimpson, chairman of the council activities committee talked on Philmont and the forthcoming Camp-O-Ree to be held in May. Further plans on this event will be announced in the near future.

The fifth session of the training program will be held at Camp Newkirk, just outside Dexter, on Wednesday, April 3, at 7:30 p.m. "Advancement in the Troop" will be the theme, and all interested men in the area are invited to attend. The training program is being conducted over a seven-week period by Robert Foye of Chelsea and Robert Lambert of Dexter.

Order of Arrow Scouts Meet at Camp Newkirk

The Order of the Arrow's Munhake Lodge held a meeting at Camp Newkirk, just outside Dexter, Saturday afternoon with area Council members attending.

Joe Doud, new scout executive in the Portage Trails Council, was introduced and described his feelings about the Order of the Arrow when he became a member 25 years ago.

Harold Houk is the council representative of the O. A. and is district executive for the Ypsilanti area.

Order of the Arrow is an honorary campers group whose motto is "Cheerful service to all." Attending this lodge meeting were men and boys from Chelsea and Dexter as well as from Ann Arbor, Howell, Ypsilanti, Whitmore Lake, Saline and Milan.

Total of 101 Kiwanians in 88th Congress

A total of 101 Kiwanians are serving in the 88th Congress of the United States, according to information received by Robert Daniels, president of the Kiwanis Club of Chelsea. The information came as the result of a survey conducted early this year, Daniels said. There are 23 Kiwanians in the Senate, and 78 in the House of Representatives, he added.

In announcing the extent of Kiwanis participation in the 88th Congress, Kiwanis International President Merle H. Tucker, Gallup, N. M., pointed out that Kiwanis, which constitutes less than one percent of the country's population, contributes more than one-sixth of its national legislative leadership.

"This is in keeping with our traditional emphasis on the importance of assuming individual citizenship responsibility," Tucker said.

Two well known members of the Senate, both long-time Kiwanians, and both former Kiwanis District Governors, added their comments, too.

Said the Honorable John Sparkman (D-Alabama), former Governor of the Alabama Kiwanis District and former nominee for the United States Vice Presidency:

"When I first came to Congress 26 years ago I was pleased to find that fellow Kiwanians were in both the House of Representatives, where I was serving, and the Senate of the United States. Through the years it has been interesting to note the increasing number of Kiwanians that serve in the two houses of Congress. Kiwanis has taught through the years the principle of service and the principle of public responsibility. It is not surprising then that so many in whom these principles have been instilled seek to serve in this field."

The Honorable Karl Mundt (R-South Dakota), former Governor of the Minnesota-Dakotas Kiwanis District, said:

"The 1963 theme of Kiwanis International — 'Responsibility: the key to Freedom' — is no more aptly demonstrated than in the Congress of the United States. Within this national legislative body are many members of Kiwanis; in fact, more than 16 percent of the Members of the House and Senate are Kiwanians. It seems to me that this Kiwanis representation in the Congress not only exemplifies a key Kiwanis objective, to develop, by precept and example, a more intelligent, aggressive, and serviceable citizenship, but brings to fruition for us in Congress the fervent desire of all Kiwanians to contribute one's talents and energies to the preservation and enhancement of freedom both here at home and abroad."

NEWS HOLLYWOOD

The hottest new romance rumor making the rounds of the younger set in Hollywood concerns Jill Haworth and Sal Mineo. After escorting the lovely Jill to a Hollywood play opening, Sal decided he'd like to have the pleasure of her company more often.

Bets are that Jason Robards Jr. (who is married to the lovely Lauren Bacall) may win the Oscar for his remarkable performance in the movie, "Long Days' Journey Into Night." He did the stage version, too.

Paul Lukas has been signed by producer Hal Wallis to costar with Elvis Presley in the Paramount release, "Fun in Acapulco." It has been 20 years since Lukas gave his Oscar-winning performance in "Watch On The Rhine," which was also produced by Hal Wallis.

Today's Film Review
"TO KILL A MOCKINGBIRD"

In a film full of heart and warmth, Gregory Peck has given what may be his best performance of his screen career. He portrays the father of two motherless children, 6-year-old Scout and her 10-year-old brother, Jem.

It reveals the deep bond of understanding between them and their widower father, a soft-spoken brilliant lawyer of integrity and quiet courage. He is never too busy to listen to the children's daily adventures that transpire to the screen a special sentimental charm.

Set in a small southern town in the early Thirties, the film reaches its climax when Mr. Peck defends a Negro falsely accused of raping a white woman. The forces of good and evil battle it out in the crowded courtroom and justice and goodness wins out which is how it should be—even though this is not always the case.

There is much real drama as well as human comedy in this film and the characterizations are excellently performed.

The proposed new state constitution is not ratified; it will be 10 years until the next regular election to call a constitutional convention when the present document requires the convention question to appear on a ballot. The legislature, by majority vote, could put the question on the ballot at any time; and the people could also place the question on the ballot by initiative petition—both difficult processes.

HOW MUCH MORE DO YOU WANT TO PAY IN TAXES?

CONSIDER THESE FACTS WHEN YOU VOTE APRIL 1st ON CON-CON PROPOSAL No. 1

SALES TAX

The present Constitution guarantees that "AT NO TIME SHALL THE LEGISLATURE LEVY A SALES TAX OF MORE THAN 4%." The proposed Constitution removes this guaranteed tax ceiling by applying the 4% maximum only to a sales tax on "retailers."

This change opens the door to an increase in your grocery and drug bills by permitting a CONSUMERS' TAX or a WHOLESALER'S TAX in addition to the 4% sales tax on "retailers." Thus, you could end up paying 5% or even 10% in sales taxes.

INCOME TAX

THE PRESENT CONSTITUTION SAYS NOTHING ABOUT AN INCOME TAX. The proposed Constitution legalizes a flat-rate income tax and none other. This provision ignores the principle of ability to pay and prohibits, forever, the adoption of a fair and equitable tax program.

PROPERTY TAXES

The proposed Constitution makes totally meaningless present guarantee of state aid for schools. The proposed changes in the school aid formula could force you to choose between lower educational standards or higher homeowner property taxes for schools.

Why? The school aid fund is reduced by $62-million (primary school interest fund), which will no longer be dedicated for education. The more than $100-million higher education budget will also have to be financed, for the first time, out of what's left in the school aid fund. This will mean a drop of more than $100-million in present dedicated funds for education.

TAX ASSESSMENTS

The proposed Constitution shifts more of the tax burden from large corporations to home-owners and small business by lowering tax assessments on numerous industrial properties.

GASOLINE TAXES

The proposed Constitution gives the Legislature power to raid highway funds for purposes other than road building. You would still pay gasoline taxes for highways, but there is no longer any guarantee that this money would be used to build the highways you pay for.

The Legislature has attempted to raid these funds in the past but has been stopped by the safeguards contained in the present Constitution. These safeguards are eliminated in the proposed Constitution.

Consider these changes. Consider your pocketbook. Consider your future.

ROGERS CORNERS EXTENSION

Tuesday evening, March 19, the Rogers Corners Extension club held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Frank Mitchell. The meeting was held at 7:30 p.m. and was well attended. The business session was held first, followed by the making of Easter hats for patients at the Colonial Nursing Home. Mrs. Lester Czarnecki and Mrs. L. A program on conservation topics was presented by Conservation Officer Donley Boyer who was introduced by Mrs. Loring Bates. By means of colored slide pictures, Boyer took his audience through the year, beginning with January scenes and showing the many kinds of game and fish to be found in this area.

He explained the laws governing hunting, fishing and related conservation projects and mentioned the penalties imposed for their misuse. Boyer gave an overall picture of the goals of the Conservation Department and the part of the individual citizen should assume in co-operating with the department.

The hostesses for the evening—Mrs. H. T. Moore and Mrs. Paul Maroney—served refreshments at the close of the program period. "Michigan Ballads" is to be the program topic for the next regular meeting of the club.

IFYE DELEGATES ANNOUNCED—These four Michigan 4-H'ers will spend six months abroad as International Farm Youth Exchange delegates. They will leave this country in early April. Left to right: Thomas Thorburn, Mason, who will go to Sweden; Lynn Munson, Ithaca, who will visit Italy; Charlotte Webster, Hillsdale, bound for France; and David Jonckheere, Fowlerville, who will go to Venezuela.

Countries Assigned to Four Michigan IFYE Delegates

Four of Michigan's eight 1963 International Farm Youth Exchange delegates will leave the USA in early April. Three of the youths will live with European farm families for six months, while one will go to South America.

IFYE delegates live with rural families in other countries as adopted sons and daughters. They work in the fields and take part in community and social activities with "host brothers and sisters."

IFYE seeks to improve world understanding through shared experience with other cultures. About 2,750 young people have gone to or from the United States under the 15-year-old program. In Michigan, 42 IFYE trainees have visited more than 40 countries.

The four delegates leaving in April are:

Thomas Thorburn, 21, Mason, going to Sweden. Tom, a Michigan State University junior majoring in animal husbandry, will be taking his second 4-H trip abroad. He went on an Ingham county 4-H goodwill tour to Mexico in December 1961.

Lynn Munson, 22, Ithaca, going to Italy. He is an MSU senior majoring in agricultural education. Lynn first became interested in IFYE program in 1958 when his parents hosted a delegate from Costa Rica on their Gratiot county farm.

Charlotte Webster, 21, Hillsdale, who will go to France. Charlotte is a senior at Western Michigan University.

David Jonckheere, 20, Fowlerville, leaving for Venezuela. He has studied engineering at Central Michigan University.

Four other Michigan youths will go abroad later in the year. All eight will share their experiences with the folks back home when they return.

HONEST JOHN—Newton, Kans. — A Florida man's conscience was eased when Carl Hedrick received a letter containing $5 and signed "Honest John."

In a note, the man wrote that he had helped raise a Kansas City post office in the 1930's and kept $5 that was in an envelope addressed to Hedrick. He was sorry but he did not remember who the money was from.

Do you prefer to spend money or time for food preparation? Surveys show that the purchase of convenience foods rises with increasing income. . . . so home-makers willingly spend money instead of time for food preparation. However, the use of the popular cook-in-pouch products is not limited to "poor folk" cooks. Recent surveys show that 68 percent of the women buying cook-in-pouch products were not employed. These popular convenience foods appeal just as much to people who could spend more time cooking if they chose to, Michigan State University specialists state.

KINDER KLUB—Kinder Klub members elected officers at the meeting held Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. David Soule.

Named are Mrs. George Winchester, Jr., president; Mrs. Duane Landwehr, first vice-president; Mrs. Albert Notten, Jr., second vice-president; Mrs. Robert Hendrick, secretary; Mrs. Keith Ruppette, treasurer; Mrs. Roland Eder, parliamentarian; Mrs. George Heydlauff, auditor; Mrs. Charles Smith, historian.

Co-hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Robert M. Taylor and Mrs. Alan Conklin.

The program was a presentation of movies and slide pictures of the World's Fair at Seattle, Wash., shown by Mrs. Blaine Lyle.

Hostess for the next regular club meeting is to be Mrs. Keith Boylan; a program on the topic "Literature," will be presented by Mrs. Marvin Kirk of Manchester.

Children Should Learn Parents Don't Know All

East Lansing—Parents, teachers and encyclopedias are not all-knowing, and children should learn this early in life, says a Michigan State University psychologist.

Dr. Milton Rokeach says parents and teachers should explicitly teach that there is a spiral of advancing knowledge that never ends.

Otherwise, he observes, children may fail to learn to evaluate information separate from the source and blindly believe that all their authorities say is fact.

Young Trees Available For Reforestation

Lansing — Nearly 9,000,000 young pine and spruce trees are now on sale through the Conservation Department to promote reforestation plantings on private lands in Michigan this spring.

Red and white pine seedlings and transplants, Norway and white spruce transplants, Austrian pine seedlings, and jack pine seedlings round out the list of species being offered.

Nearly one-half of the Department's nursery-raised planting stock consists of red pine seedlings and transplants.

All species are available at approximate production costs to help private landowners set up erosion controls, farm windbreaks, and plantings which will yield timber crops in future years.

Although weather conditions may alter its timetable somewhat, the department plans to ship stock from April 20 through May 30.

Official stock price lists and order blanks may be obtained from the Department's forestry division in Lansing.

THE BEAGLE—A gay tail-wagger and keen rabbit chaser with plenty of bounce to the ounce. That's the beagle. In a rabbit patch, a pack of these peppy dogs scurries about sniffing like snots. They hop this way and that over obstacles, their noses never leaving the ground. If some old half wisp of rabbit smell turns up for one, he matches it with half a howl, and that draws the others into a single-bunched mass of wigwags. When they really think they've got a live one going, chorusing howls of delight come forth, and off they go in a line, wild-eyed with happiness. All this really saves many bunny lives; hunters are so often caught up with the spirit of the chase that many refuse to shoot, lest all that canine happiness be spoiled.

WEBELOS DEN VI

At Saturday's regular meeting, Webelos Den VI used the new 50-star flag presented to the den at the Pack meeting Thursday evening as a gift from the Ladies Auxiliary to Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 4076. The flag ceremony was in charge of Bruce Parks.

The boys learned two new Morse Code letters—"B" and "C."

They also learned a number of things about the Boy Scout organization as follows: reviewed the Boy Scout Motto and Slogan; what the Boy Scout signal signifies; representative of the three points of the motto; the Boy Scout emblem and what the four points represent; and the Boy Scout organization from the district through the local groups.

The boys learned that they are a part of Troop District No. IV; that the next line of organization is the sponsoring organization with institutional representatives; then the Scoutmaster, Scout Committee and chairman, assistant Scoutmaster, Junior Assistant Scoutmaster, senior patrol leader, patrol leader and assistant patrol leader.

In addition, there was discussion of the requirements for work the boys will be doing in Boy Scouting to earn merit badges and various ranks.

Discussion of the Boy Scout uniform was begun and is to be continued at future meetings.

The next meeting will be held Saturday, March 30, at the regular meeting place, 153 Van Buren St. It was announced following the closing ceremony and Boy Scout benediction.

Public Interest Runs High in Display of Old Constitutions

As Winter ends and Spring begins, thousands of school children and adult visitors make their annual pilgrimage to the State Capitol in Lansing to see the exhibits and watch their legislators at work.

One of the newest and most discussed exhibits is the showcase in the hallway outside of the Great Seal and Archives office. It contains the Constitutions of 1835, of 1850, and 1908. The men who designed the heavily protected glass showcase left room for the draft written by the Constitutional Convention of 1961-62, if it is adopted by the people of Michigan on April 1.

The three historical items were taken out of the Capitol vaults and put on display by order of Secretary of State, James M. Hare. The Michigan Historical Society assisted by providing funds to build a sturdy, well-lighted showcase in which to display these priceless documents.

Right To See "Just as visitors to the nation's Capitol have a right and a responsibility to see and read the United States Constitution, we felt that Michigan boys and girls and men and women had a right to see these basic documents," Hare said.

The first Constitution was adopted in 1835, two years prior to Michigan's admission to the Union as the 26th State. It is written in an orderly and beautiful handwriting, unfaded after one and a quarter centuries.

Hare, who was once a political science teacher at Wayne State University, said, "The original Constitution was written by a Constitutional Convention which met in Detroit from May 11 to June 24 in 1835. At that time, the Capitol of Michigan was in Detroit, not Lansing."

Ratified in 1835 The 1835 Constitution, which was ratified on Oct. 5, 1835, has been compared with the Federal Constitution, since both documents set up a framework of government, outline the areas in which it can operate, and leave the making of the laws to the legislature and their enforcement to a strong executive.

Michigan's second Constitution was drawn up by a convention that met in Lansing from June 3 to August 15, 1850, and was approved by voters of the State on Nov. 5, 1850.

This 1850 document, also handwritten, was twice as long as the Constitution of 1835. It contained many more restrictions on the powers of the Governor and the legislature than had been found in the earlier document.

Convene in Lansing The Constitution under which Michigan has been governed for the past half century was written by a convention that met in Lansing from Oct. 22, 1907, to Feb. 21, 1908. It was ratified on Nov. 3, 1908, and went into effect Jan. 1, 1909.

According to Hare, the 1908 Constitution is a revision of the 1850 document and contains many of the features of the earlier constitution. New provisions were introduced to enable the State to act in the area of highways, labor, and other governmental problems of growing importance in the middle of the twentieth century.

Documents Missing Missing from the cabinet are the Constitutional drafts which voters rejected. This happened in 1867 and again in 1873.

Cave On Exhibit The show case also contains the gavel used by Secretary of State, James M. Hare, as he opened the 1961-62 Convention in Lansing's Constitution Hall. It was made from a white cedar log, taken from the Edward Biddle House on Mackinac Island at the time of its restoration.

The exhibit also contains rectangular eye glasses, pens, pen-wipers, and ink wells used by the founding writers of the early Constitution.

Visitors often ask Hare what the chances are that the 1961-62 draft will be placed alongside the three historic documents in the near future.

To this question, Hare replies, "That is up to the people of Michigan. They will decide this question."

SCIENCE COMPLEX RISING AT MSU

This is how the southeastern part of the Michigan State University campus will look in 1964. All the buildings will be devoted to science education and research, except for the $1.4 million, 1,000-car capacity parking ramp (1) to be completed this fall. A "space-age" planetarium (2) is to be completed by the summer at a cost of $500,000. The cyclotron (3) will be operating in 1964. The building is costing $1.4 million and the cyclotron itself, another $1.4 million. The $3.5 million veterinary medicine building (4) is entering the final planning stage and will be completed by late 1964. The chemistry building (5), now under construction, is to be ready by the fall of 1964 at a cost of $6 million. Contracts for construction of the $5.2 million biochemistry building (6) are to be awarded soon. It will be completed by late 1964. The Biology Research Center (7) was completed in 1960 at a cost of $620,000. The chemistry building is the only structure which has an appropriation from the state. The planetarium is being built through contributions to the MSU development fund, including $250,000 from Mr. and Mrs. Talbert Abrams of Lansing. The parking ramp will be paid for out of operating revenues. Other construction is being supported by grants from the National Science Foundation and the National Institutes of Health. The perspective for this sketch is from the intersection of Shaw Lane and Farm Lane, looking southeast. A portion of the Agricultural Engineering Building is seen at lower right.

For the academic year 1962-1963, the American Foundation for the Blind granted 40 scholarships and fellowships to students pursuing careers in social work. About one-third of the awards went to blind students in graduate schools.

About Your Social Security

Many people lose money because they don't check on their social security when they reach retirement age, according to Robert A. Kehoe, manager of the Ann Arbor Social Security office.

In many cases, these people are still working and believe they cannot get any benefit payments unless they are completely retired. Kehoe stated that workers who earn more than $1,200 yearly may still get some social security payments depending on the amount of their earnings. He cited as an example, a 55-year-old worker eligible for $100 a month from social security. In this case, the worker could get some benefits even if his yearly earnings were as high as $2,800. If a wife or child were eligible for benefits on his account, the worker could earn for himself and his family.

Kehoe urged workers age 62 and over, who have not applied for benefits, to check up on their social security status.

The Ann Arbor office at 1255 Main St. is open to the public Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. Kehoe invites those who are unable to visit the office personally to phone the office at 682-3275.

Gas Company Has Lower Rate for Air Conditioning

A new lower rate which will reduce by as much as 40 percent the cost of natural gas used for air conditioning and the operation of internal combustion engines for other purposes as electricity generated, was announced today by Michigan Consolidated Gas Co.

Hugh C. Daly, executive vice-president of the company, said the new "Rate 3" will cut the cost of gas used in both home and commercial gas air conditioning and the newly developed gas fired turbines which are used to produce power, air conditioning and heat. The rate also applies to all gas used in internal combustion engines for producing electricity, refrigerating air compressors, water pumps and other purposes.

The new rate, he explained, provides a flat charge of 50 cents per thousand cubic feet for all gas used for these purposes during the seven months from April 1 to October 31. Daly said there would be a $10 minimum charge, but the 50 cent rate would apply to gas used for other purposes for these air conditioning customers who normally buy gas under the space heating rate. For other types of customers, the Rate 3 gas would be metered separately. The cost of gas used in internal combustion engines during the remaining five months is also lowered, with the rate based upon the amount of gas used.

Previously, customers using gas in internal combustion engines paid a higher, variable rate during the entire year. Gas used for refrigeration type air conditioning was billed at the space heating rate of 82.2 cents per thousand cubic feet. As an example, Daly cited an engine designed to deliver 100 kilowatts of electricity an hour, operating 24 hours a day. Costs for operating such an engine would be approximately $540 a month from April through October, and $918 a month from November through March, or a total of $7,170 for the year. Under the previous rate, the cost would have been $788 a month, or $9,456 a year, and if the same engine were operated by diesel oil, the cost would be $892 a month, or $10,704 a year.

Daly pointed out that in this case the new rate offered a 24 percent savings over the previous rate and 31 percent savings over diesel oil.

"The percentage of savings would rise with more powerful engines or additional engines," Daly pointed out, "because by using only one engine as an example, the consumption figure does not reach our lowest rate during the winter."

Daly said savings on gas operated air conditioning would range about 40 percent. Considering that homeowners may use the early spring and fall, their savings could be even greater, he said.

In order to take advantage of the new rate, customers must make a written application to the company.

Daly said the company has instituted the new rate to increase the use of gas during the summer months when the company's gas supply is much greater than the demands of its customers. The Michigan Public Service Commission approved the new rate schedule, commenting that it benefits both the company and its customers.

Use Pressure Cooker For Non-Acid Foods, Warns Bacteriologist

East Lansing — Home canners should always use a pressure cooker for non-acid foods, says a Michigan State University bacteriologist who for several years now has been studying the basic chemistry of botulinum, the spores implicated in the recent death of two Grosbeak women.

Botulinum will produce poison only under airless, non-acid conditions, as in a can or jar of non-acid vegetables or meat, says Dr. Ralph Costlow, an MSU bacteriologist.

"There have been few, if any, cases of botulinism arising from commercially canned food since the 1920s," he observes. "At least, I know of none."

"The can of tuna suspected to have caused the recent botulinism cases in Detroit may have been a one-in-a-billion chance."

Scholarships for Six Farm Youth Sponsored by PCA

University scholarships in the amount of $1,800 will be sponsored by the Production Credit Association of Michigan; for the 1963-64 school year, Gerald Memmer, manager of the Production Credit Association of Southeastern Michigan has announced.

The scholarships will be awarded to six outstanding men majoring in agriculture at Michigan State University. To be eligible, the recipient must have a farm background, above average scholastic accomplishments, exhibit leadership abilities, and have a need for financial assistance. Two sophomores, two juniors, and two seniors will receive the awards each year, beginning next fall.

"This will give outstanding men the financial assistance they frequently need to complete their formal training, which is becoming so essential in today's business and professional world," advises Memmer.

Applications for the scholarships should be made through the Dean of Agriculture, Michigan State University.

Two College Scholarships Added to Fair

Two college scholarships valued at $250 each have been added to the prizes to be awarded at the fifth annual Southeastern Michigan Science Fair in Ann Arbor in April.

University of Michigan Vice-President Ralph Sawyer, director of the 1963 event, announced that the one-year scholarships will be given to two of eight candidates selected from the leading senior division student scientists at the fair.

A Science Fair committee will interview the eight after the fair to determine which pair have the best over-all qualifications for the college aid, he said.

The scholarships will be awarded to either boys or girls, Vice-President Sawyer noted, and may be used at whatever educational institutions the recipients enter.

The awards will be known as Fair Scholarships. Other awards will include expenses-paid trips to the National Science Fair at Albuquerque, N. M., in May for the top senior boy and girl, cash prizes, medals, books and supplementary awards.

Funds for the prizes—and for all expenses of the fair—are solicited from area business and alumni by members of the Ann Arbor Exchange Club, one of the fair's three sponsors. The Ann Arbor News and the University are sponsors.

The fair will be held April 19-21 at the U-M's Intramural Sports Building on Hoover Street. Entry cards have been mailed to junior and senior high school science department chairmen in Hillsdale, Jackson, Lenawee, Livingston, Monroe and Washtenaw counties.

Deadlines for return of entry cards is April 12. Additional cards may be obtained from the Southeastern Michigan Science Fair, 4507 Administration Building, the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

Cub Scout Awards Made Thursday

Cub Scouts and leaders of Pack 125 held the March Pack meeting at the Junior High school gymnasium Thursday evening.

Perfect attendance recognition was given to Dens 1, 2, 3, 5, 6, 7 and 13.

The meeting opened with a flag ceremony by Den 3 of which Mrs. Huey Hardy is den mother. This was followed by presentation of new American flags to each den mother by the Ladies' Auxiliary to Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 4076. The den mothers were requested to turn the flags over to Pack 125 when they no longer were active as den mothers, thus assuring that those who follow will have the flag for use in the dens.

Cub Scout Committeeman Robert Foye asked for volunteers to become den mothers—one is urgently needed at once and a second one would be welcomed in order that boys waiting to become Cub Scouts could be placed. Foye also pointed out that there is an urgent need for additional fathers who are willing to take part in Cub Scout work.

Max Hepburn and Franklin Sweeney have volunteered to take over the work of overseeing Cub Scout awards the boys wish to earn. Vern Hiltz who is in charge of this work at present will be resigning in the fall.

Announcements made at the meeting Thursday stated that a Pack committee meeting will be held April 2 at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Thomas McClear; also, that a Den Chief training project will take place some time this spring, probably in May.

The meeting closed with Den 3 retiring the flags and boys of Den 13 singing the national anthem under the direction of their den mothers, Mrs. Charles Cameron and Mrs. Robert Foye.

April 20, Cub Scouts will be guests of the University of Michigan ROTC department where they will tour the ROTC facilities.

Awards presented at the March 21 Pack meeting are listed as follows: Den Chief Mike McClear, one-

Food Information Week Will Be Observed in Detroit

Food Information Week will be celebrated in the Greater-Detroit area March 31 through April 6 to help homemakers keep up-to-date on new developments in the food field—to help them better recognize the value of the kinds of factual food information which are available to them.

The signing of the proclamation by the Honorable Jerome P. Cavanaugh, Mayor of Detroit, will begin the week's programs. All activities and materials will involve the theme of the week, "New Glamour in Foods." They will cover the new foods, new food packages and timesaver meals which might be expected by the homemakers of tomorrow—they will consider the growing interest of consumers in foods which are easy to prepare, economical and yet have a gourmet touch.

The key event of the week will be the ninth annual meeting of the Advisory Council of the Detroit Marketing Information for Consumers Program on Tuesday evening, April 2, at 7:45 p.m. in Ford Auditorium, 20 E. Jefferson. It has been planned to be more meaningful in the actual provision of food information than ever before. Herrell DeGraff, executive vice-president of American Meat Institute; Harry Mathis, vice-president and general manager of Libby, Eastern Division; and Winston Schuler, president of Win Schuler's Restaurants, Inc., are the three outstanding representatives of different food fields who will speak on the panel that evening.

They will cover the research of convenience foods which has been done in their own respective fields—the trends and changes in the modern food industries; and the factors responsible for these changes. Mrs. Marjorie A. Gibbs, Detroit Consumer Marketing Information Agent, will serve as moderator.

Don Large and the Honeybees, well known in the Detroit area, will provide the musical introductions and a skit on his-and-hers fashions, "Glamour Begins in the Kitchen," will tie together the glamour of food and clothing. The meeting will be closed with the distribution of a wide assortment of attendance prizes.

An understanding of the food industry and information on buying all kinds of foods is important in helping consumers obtain the most from their food dollar. The Marketing Information for Consumers Program will provide this kind of assistance through its many programs planned during Food Information Week—and through its many regular methods of distributing information.

The meeting on April 2 is open to the public, but advance reservations would be appreciated at the Consumer Marketing Office, 81 Boulevard Building, Detroit 2, TRinity 3-0794.

Bacteriologist Says Fats May Have No Effect on Heart Disease

East Lansing — Eating fats may have nothing at all to do with heart attacks, says a Michigan State University nutritionist, Dr. Olaf Mickelsen.

"All this evidence," he cautioned, "is purely circumstantial. . . an equally good correlation . . . can be secured if heart disease deaths were plotted against the number of television sets, radios, cars or other accoutrements of the more economically advanced countries."

Pressures of modern life and lack of exercise, he indicates, may be as important or more important than diet as a cause of heart disease.

However, he adds, for persons who have had coronary attacks or appear to be susceptible to them, a diet high in unsaturated fats and low in saturated fats appears to be of benefit.

A RARE REQUEST

Tucson, Ariz. — When a person demands to pay more taxes—that is a rare occasion.

A man walked into the county assessor's office and asked that his taxes be increased. He explained that he had been taxed for 37 acres of land, but a survey has shown that he owns 40 acres. Officials promised to correct the records so he would hereafter be assessed for the additional three acres.

The right guess is never as good as the correct answer.

Youth Urged To Continue Education

East Lansing — Rural boys intending to farm are realizing that they need still more education following high school graduation.

With 10 percent of the farmers accounting for one-half of the agriculture income, any young man, going into farming, should aim for a place in that small, select, profit-making group. That's the opinion of Dr. Harold Henneman, director of agriculture short courses at Michigan State University.

"Rapid changes in farming demand good management and sound business practices," according to Henneman. "This makes it imperative that today's farmer get all of the education he possibly can."

Short courses have been offered at MSU since 1894 to aid in filling this need for additional agricultural education. Many short course students are already in partnership with parents or other relatives on their home farms while attending school.

In the young farmer program, designed for students planning on returning to the farm, 80 percent of the graduates start on the home farm with another 8 percent working for other farmers, says Henneman. The other 12 percent transfer to four-year degree programs.

Graduates of the elevator and farm supply course are employed as feedmen in warehouses, or as bookkeepers and salesmen. Many eventually wind up as managers.

"Nearly 75 percent of these graduates are staying with the industry, an indication that they are well satisfied," says Henneman.

Farm machinery dealers and manufacturers offer job opportunities for graduates of the farm equipment service and sales course.

Many former students now manage their own dealerships.

The commercial floriculture short course attracts students from urban areas. It attracts numerous girls as well as boys. Graduates find careers in outdoor or greenhouse flower production, wholesaling or as designers or salesmen in retail florist shops and garden stores.

The nursery and landscape management course prepares students for growing and selling trees, shrubs, vines and plant materials for the fruit, landscaping and forestry industry. Still other students find careers as tree surgeons and caretakers of lawns, gardens, parks, cemeteries and golf courses.

Dairy, manufacturing, training of milk tasters and farmstead mechanization are other short courses offered each year. More than 450 students have been enrolled in the various short courses during the past year.

Michigan has 5,000 more miles of highway today than it had 10 years ago, the State Highway Department reports. The Highway Department's latest tabulation as of last July 1 shows Michigan has 111,836 miles of state highway, county roads and city streets compared to 106,738 on the same date 10 years ago.

CON-CON REPORT

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last in a series of 42 articles about the proposed new Michigan Constitution. A special section on the new document will be published in the state's election on Monday, April 1.

Michigan needs the new constitution. It holds the promise of the future. It is the state's escape from the shackles of the past and the means of reversing the trend towards dependence upon Federal government for answers to purely state and local problems.

So said Gov. George Romney last week, just four days before Michigan voters will go to the polls to pass judgment on the proposed new state constitution.

Bipartisan support for the new document has become increasingly apparent as Election Day approaches. Not only have more and more nonpartisan organizations in the state endorsed the proposal, but in recent weeks leaders in both political parties have been outspoken in their support.

Early this month, Prentiss M. Brown, Democratic elder statesman and former U. S. Senator, announced his intention to vote for the new constitution. Dr. Conner D. Smith, Democratic chairman of the Michigan State University board of trustees, had previously announced his support.

William Palmer, a Democratic spokesman to Michigan's original Civil Service Commission, has also announced his approval of the new constitution. "It will keep the merit system and keep career people in state service," he said.

Some of the proposed changes, if passed, will also improve the relations of civil service with other branches of government. At least 70 major changes from the 1908 state constitution are incorporated in the proposed document and 75 percent of them received the unanimous or near-unanimous vote of the 144 delegates to the Constitutional Convention. No decisions at the convention were made on a strictly partisan basis, and all sections of the document passed by the delegates had bipartisan support.

Among the significant improvements over the 1908 constitution are:

1. Abolition of Spring elections, saving an estimated $1 million each two years.

2. Four-year terms for elected state administrative officials, permitting the time needed to establish a program.

3. Reorganization of Michigan's hodge-podge of 128 boards, bureaus and commissions into not more than 20 departments.

4. Tools to help the legislature solve the problems of mushrooming urban areas.

5. Co-ordination of the state's educational system through an enlarged eight-member state board of education who would have authority to appoint the superintendent of public instruction.

6. Expanded provisions on civil rights, including a new anti-discrimination clause which is to be enforced by the nation's first constitutionally-established state civil rights commission.

7. Legislative apportionment formulas which will guarantee to Michigan citizens a truly "balanced" legislature.

8. Improved basic enactments on finance and taxation which will permit short-term borrowing of substantial amounts of money at periods during the year when the state traditionally experiences lower monthly revenues.

No significant changes are made in people's right to amend the new document. The process will be substantially the same as in the present constitution.

The question to be submitted to the voters at Monday's election is a simple one—"Shall the revised Constitution be adopted?"

If the proposal receives a favorable majority, the new document would become effective Jan. 1, 1964. The first election for four-year terms under the new constitution would be in November of 1966.

What kind of turkey do consumers like best? A Michigan State University food scientist conducted consumer preference tests to answer this question. He found that the ideal turkey could be either fresh or frozen, would be a "hen" rather than a "tom," would have a descriptive word grade label instead of a letter grade and would be a "young" turkey instead of a "yearling."

AGRICULTURE

SPECIAL ADVERTISING SECTION

Which Way
On Wheat?

Farmers sympathize with newspapers in their indignation at Washington attempts to "manage" news. For years farmers have been subject to the same kind of systematic, bureaucratic control efforts.

Most recently they boil down to the question of "who will manage the farms of America—farmers themselves, or the Secretary of Agriculture?"

Last year Congress enacted a multiple-price "certification" wheat program, which contains the most restrictive, all-inclusive farm controls ever seriously considered for American farmers. Fortunately a section of the law gives farmers a chance to reject the proposed controls through a referendum to be held this spring. The program will be turned down if at least one-third of the growers vote "no."

Especially disturbing to farmers who believe that propagandizing by government is dangerous to self-government, is the flood of leaflets, news releases, tapes, speeches and films, streaming out of the Department of Agriculture. All urge a strong "yes" vote, all hint that anything less would be disaster, and it goes without saying that all are paid for out of tax dollars. Against the millions of taxpayer funds spent by these public "servants," free farmers prepare to match their nickels and dimes.

In some areas of the state, it has been suggested that local farmers who oppose the program enter public debate with local Agriculture Department employees. This is equal to farmers deciding which field to plow or what seed to plant by engaging in argument with the hired man.

Farmers listen to talk of need to cut farm program costs and try to match this against the steady increase in Agricultural Department payrolls, now risen to 100,000 employees.

Last year Michigan Congressman Robert Griffin offered an amendment to the 1962 farm bill, stating that "employees in the Department of Agriculture shall at no time exceed the number of farmers in America."

Although offered somewhat in humor at that time, farmers are beginning to wonder.

Michigan wood products are a $750 million annual business in Michigan. The industry provides 100,000 jobs according to Michigan State University foresters.

Red Cross Plans
Series of Water
Safety Classes

The final series of Red Cross Adult Swim classes will start Wednesday, April 17 at 7 p.m., at the Ann Arbor High school. It was announced today by the Washtenaw County Red Cross.

The swimming classes, to be taught by volunteer Water Safety Instructors, are to meet each Wednesday for eight weeks through June 5. The series will again include the special sections for non-swimmers, swimmers, and a Senior Life Saving course.

These co-educational classes are open to anyone in the county at least 17 years of age; but registration will be limited. Locker assignments will be made in the West Cafeteria of the High School with the first lessons starting after everyone has been accommodated.

Individuals interested in the Senior Life Saving section should be "better than average" swimmers and should be able to swim at least 75 yards without tiring, swim under water, dive to 13 feet, and be in good health.

It should be noted that this will be the last opportunity to take these courses until next fall. Registration for any of the levels may be made by calling the Red Cross office at NOrmandy 2-5546 before April 10.

Lyle Chriswell Wins
Ford Motor Company
Award for Sales Record

Lyle Chriswell of Palmer Motor Sales, Inc., will be presented Ford Motor Company's 300-500 Club award at a banquet in Detroit on April 4 honoring high-ranking Ford dealership car and truck salesmen of 1962 in the Detroit District, Ford division of Ford Motor Co.

J. O. Wardwell, Detroit district sales manager, said 300-500 Club membership awards are presented for excellent retail sales performance. The Ford 300-500 Club was founded in 1950 to recognize the performance of outstanding Ford salesmen throughout the country.

Wardwell added the average 300-500 Club member sold nearly $400,000 worth of automotive merchandise in qualifying for the national honors.

Lack of Education Is Basis
Of Future Discrimination

Abstract of Remarks on
"Youth and Employment"
By William Haber
University of Michigan

"Economic and technological now being accelerated are bound to eliminate thousands of jobs in unskilled categories. Automation for example will play havoc with clerical positions, simple jobs heretofore readily available, and occupied by school 'drop-outs' and other youth generally poorly trained and educated.

The real minority group tomorrow will be determined not by color or race or religion; lack of education and training will be the basis of discrimination—rather than the traditional factors."

The youth unemployment problem of today is critical; it's likely to be more so in the years immediately ahead. More than 1,000,000 of the unemployed this spring were out of school youth in the age 16 to 24 years.

Youth-unemployment rates are generally double and in some areas three times that of other age groups in the labor force. In some sections of Detroit for example, more than 50 percent of the 16 to 21 year age group are out of school and unemployed. In large urban centers this situation is explosive and has a potential to the youth involved and to the community in general far greater than is appreciated.

The situation in the immediate future is bound to be accentuated. Sheer numbers tell the story. No guessing is required. The number of young people entering the labor market in the 1960's will be at least 40 percent more than in the 1950's; 7 1/2 million will be drop-outs; 2 1/2 million will not have gone beyond elementary school. In one year alone—1965—nearly 4 million will become 18 years of age and only one out of three will be going to college.

Those who do not complete their education will be dispensable and economically vulnerable. Millions of young people are unprepared for the world of work, and many because of their educational and training shortcomings are unwanted in the labor force. Employers are becoming increasingly more selective in their hiring procedures.

All seek, "the cream of the crop" even for a simple job.

There are no easy solutions to the problem. Panaceas do not exist. It will take years and perhaps decades of hard work involving school officials, counselors, guidance experts and employers, to make serious inroads in the problem of youth unemployment. Nothing short of a massive attack in community after community, particularly in large urban areas, can deal with the situation.

There are some who view the situation merely as part of the general economic condition of the country. These suggest that as higher levels of employment materialize youth unemployment will automatically disappear. This is too optimistic and quite unrealistic. Naturally a booming employment market will provide some kind of job for many young people who have dropped out or have completed their elementary and secondary education. That alone, however, will not erase the bulk of the problem.

Thousands will require some training and work experience. Local boards of education, like in Detroit, Flint and Macomb county, and in other states are slowly "taking hold" of some aspects of this large and growing problem. More is needed. Helpful toward the general objective would be the following: A vigorous program to do something for potential drop-outs before they leave school. This requires much more counselling and guidance than is now available. It may require also some potent incentives to hold young people in school until the completion of their high school work. Such incentives may be related to a first year scholarship at a college or university—costly, but cheaper in the long run.

Since only about one out of three high school graduates now take advantage of higher educational opportunities a close examination of the high school curriculum for those who are not likely to continue is called for. Vocational training is too easy an answer, since the nature of jobs are changing so rapidly. However, some greater familiarity with skills and tools and work discipline in their hiring procedures.

Gov. Romney
To Appear Friday
On TV Program

A 30-minute television program entitled "The Michigan Constitution Story" featuring Gov. and Mrs. Romney, will be shown throughout the state on Friday. The half-hour program written by Bob Casemore of WXYZ, features the Governor and First Lady explaining the significant benefits in the proposed constitution. Film coverage highlights the Oakland County Antique Car Parade for Con-Con, and a look at Michigan today.

There will be scenes depicting Upper Peninsula copper and iron country, Picture Rocks, sand dunes and Mackinac Bridge; plus the state's farm belt and great cities, industrial and agricultural activities—all of which are affected by the state's new constitution.

The show will be televised by the following stations in this area: WJIM-TV (6) Lansing, 7-730 p.m.; WXYZ-TV (7) Detroit, 8-830 p.m.

Radio coverage also has been arranged for those areas of the state not reached by television.

Michigan Will Lose
680,000 Farm Acres

East Lansing — Michigan will lose 680,000 acres of cropland and gain a million acres of highway, urban and built-up areas by 1975, Dr. Anne Garrison reports in the March issue of the Michigan Economic Record, published by Michigan State University's Bureau of Business and Economic Research.

pline would aid many who leave high school to look for work.

The seriousness of the problem justifies the passage of the proposed National Youth Employment situation involving young workers, while not related to the over-all employment picture, requires a specialized approach, primarily as a result of inadequate education and training, which young workers bring to the labor market. The problem will persist and get worse unless we do something about it. Much has been done—but not nearly as vigorous and massive approach is to involve countless problems of maladjusted youth in the future.

Cheese Has Been Known 4,000 Years

Ann Arbor—Cheese, which has a history spanning more than 4,000 years, still remains one of the most popular food items for the sick and well alike, says dietitians at the University of Michigan Medical Center.

Because both Swiss and cottage cheeses are now available unsalted, they are used extensively in low-sodium diets. Cheddar cheese, although salted, is also used on many selective menus, both modified and special.

According to dietitians at University Hospital, an ancient legend records that cheese was made "accidentally" by an Arabian merchant.

Starting a long day's journey across the desert, the merchant put his supply of milk into a pouch made of sheep's stomach. A milk curdling enzyme (rennin) in the lining of the pouch combined with the sun's heat to separate the milk into curd and whey.

By nightfall, the traveler discovered the whey (liquid) satisfied his thirst, and the delightful flavor of the curd (cheese) stemmed his hunger.

Thus began the making of cheese, one of nature's most useful foods.

$2 Million To Be Spent For Paving 50 Miles of Freeway Shoulders

The Michigan State Highway Department will spend an estimated $2 million during the next year to pave the shoulders on 50 miles of Interstate freeway.

State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie said the highways were built or designed before Interstate freeway specifications were changed to require that shoulders be paved.

The paving projects, to be let in six separate contracts in June of this year and early next year, are on I-94 and I-96 in Kalamazoo, Jackson, Washtenaw, Ionia, Wayne and Clinton counties. The Washtenaw County portion includes a section of I-94 between Wagner Rd. and Carpenter Rd.

A society that neglects children should not blame the adults that develop an attitude to neglect society's laws and customs.

Midwest Boasts 4,000 Miles of New Modern Freeways

Chicago—The president of the American Association of State Highway Officials (AASHO) congratulated highway officials from 14 mid-western states on the "excellent progress" they are making toward completion of the National Interstate Highway System.

State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie of Michigan said more than 4,000 miles of toll-free interstate highways are now open to traffic in the 14 states and construction is under way on another 1,125 miles.

Mackie told the 54th annual of the Mississippi Valley Conference of State Highway Departments that a "highway explosion" has occurred in the mid-west during the last three years.

Toll-free interstate mileage open to traffic in the mid-west has increased from 2,002 miles at the start of 1960 to 4,077 miles at the end of 1962, he said.

"That is a remarkable record," Mackie said. "You are making excellent progress toward completion of the Interstate System by 1972."

Mackie said the mid-west may well be the first region in the country to have at least half of its free interstate mileage open to traffic by the end of 1964, a goal set by federal highway officials.

The mid-west has 45 percent of its Interstate System open to traffic or under construction compared to the national average of 42 percent.

Naval Cadet Wins Wings and Commission

Truck Transportation Vital In Moving Foods to Market

Most of us take for granted that for today's food menu we probably ate food produced in 10 or more of our widely scattered states as well as from five or more foreign lands. Without the miracle of modern transportation we could not enjoy year-round food variety which we have come to expect, say Consumer Marketing Information Agents.

One of the significant changes in transportation influencing our food supply is the rapid rise in highway transportation. Today, about 98 percent of the poultry and eggs are moved to markets by truck. 90 percent of all dairy products arrive via this method. Trucks are hauling more than 75 percent of all the livestock to the major marketing terminals. It is estimated that more than half the fresh vegetables are moved from the producing to the consuming areas by truck.

During the past five years receipts of fresh fruits and vegetables arriving by truck in Detroit have increased 230 percent. At present, approximately 40 percent of all fruits and vegetables arriving in Detroit are transported into the city by truck.

Speed is one reason why transporting food by truck has grown so rapidly. With modern highways and new equipment, trucks are able to deliver the products of southern orchards and gardens to northern consumers in a period of 24 hours or less.

Convenience is a second factor determining use of trucks in transporting food. Modern, high-speed truck vans go direct to the farm or factory for loading, speedily transport the food products long distances to the market place, and distribute the products to many individual markets without unloading at intermediate points.

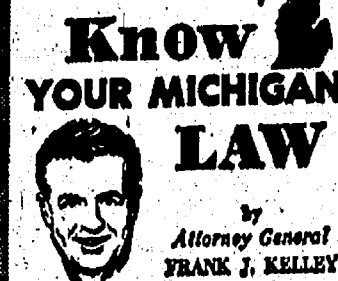

Cost is the third important service factor in transportation and trucks have been the most economical method, except with extremely bulky products of the farm.

Marketing the nation's food takes about 61 cents of each dollar the consumer spends for food products. Of this, approximately one-tenth goes for transportation by truck, rail, boat and plane. This transportation bill has increased in the years from 1950 to 1961. In 1961, it was about two-thirds higher than in 1950.

This rise was caused by higher rates, increase in volume of food and longer hauls. Since 1940, the volume of farm food products has increased over 50 percent.

Americans take pride in their many accomplishments. The development of the most efficient and productive food industry the world has ever known has been no exception. The modern miracle of transportation has played, and will continue to play, an important role in the nation's food supply.

The Financial Responsibility Laws are intended to hold people responsible for automobile accidents, but are widely misunderstood.

If there is an accident involving personal injury or death to any person or damage to property of $100 or more, a report of the accident must be made to the Department of State. This report must be made by the drivers and owners of vehicles involved and is separate from the report made by the police officers at the scene of the accident.

If any of the people involved were not covered by insurance at the time of the accident, the Department of State requires them to either settle the claims resulting from the accident or post security with the Department for their settlement. If the person fails to settle the claims or post the security before a fixed date, his driver's license is automatically suspended.

Any person whose license is suspended under this section of the Financial Responsibility Laws may petition the Circuit Court for the restoration of his license.

If a judgment is rendered against a person as the result of an automobile accident, and the person fails to pay the judgement or make a court approved partial payment agreement within thirty days, the judgement can be certified to the Department of State. If this is done, the Department is required to suspend his driver's license. Before the license can be restored, the judgement must be paid and the person required to take out Financial Responsibility Insurance.

If a person is suspended by the Department as the result of an unsatisfied judgement, there is no appeal allowed to Circuit Court for the restoration of his license.

If you wish a pamphlet giving a more detailed explanation of these programs, you may write to me, Attorney General Frank J. Kelley, State Capitol, Lansing.
