EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

We Can Survive Nuclear Attack with Preparation

The idea that if we engage in another war—a nuclear war—all will be lost and there is, therefore, no reason to make plans for survival, or for winning the peace and controlling the postwar world, is our most dangerous enemy today.

A nuclear war will not kill all Americans and will not end the United States of America. The nation's civil defense chief recently testified a thermonuclear attack on the U.S. would not create a wasteland and would not foreclose any possibility of economic recovery.

Assistant Secretary of Defense Stewart L. Pittman believes we must begin work on a nation-wide shelter program. He recently told a House committee if we are adequately prepared, there is no reason to believe most of us cannot survive a nuclear war.

Yet, strangely enough, the United States of America, the greatest and richest democracy in the world and the leader of the free nations, is taking few steps to protect its people and to survive, in case such a calamity is suddenly to be faced.

Government Involved in Too Many Sideline Ventures

Did you know that Uncle Sam has a lot of sidelines? Well, he has.

He runs coffee-roasting plants, rum distilleries, printing and power plants. He manufactures scores of different products, including surgical, medical and dental equipment, rope, chains, watches, clocks, paints and fertilizers.

There's more. Uncle Sam is also in the plastic-laminating business and in cement, railroad and wood-preservation enterprises. He even operates movie theaters and ice cream plants.

All in all, according to Senator J. Glenn Beall (R-Md.), Uncle Sam as the front for the federal government, runs some 19,000 commercial and industrial businesses which are in direct competition with private concerns.

The unfairness of this deplorable situation is further compounded, Senator Beall points out, by the fact that businessmen and industrialists, who operate the same kinds of establishments as the government, must pay taxes to their competitor and that these taxes are poured back into the government-operated businesses which are damaging to the interests of the privately-operated enterprises.

This tops all the "heads-I-win-tails-you-lose" propositions we ever heard about. Uncle Sam has no business in business and the Congress should make it its business to see that he retires as soon as possible.

Common Cold Still Baffles

The doctors admit that "as of now, we can't cure colds," and add, "anyone who tells you he can, deserves at best considerable suspicion."

Such is the word of the American Medical Association on the subject of "the common cold," which says that while most people know it can't be cured, "we still waste a lot of time and money on pills and treatments—all in the faint hope that maybe this time something will help." The AMA also takes a dim view of vaccines for cold prevention, declaring that it is unlikely that a vaccine will help much."

Grandma had the right idea, if you ask the AMA. "If you get a cold (or rather when you get a cold, as we all do), it advises, 'Stay home in bed. Keep warm. Gargle to ease a sore throat. Take aspirin for the discomfort. None of this will cure the cold, but it will make you feel somewhat more comfortable while your body's natural defense mechanisms are building up enough steam to overcome the cold virus."

But don't think the medics are giving up. Research goes on constantly to find the cause and "possible cure" for colds and the AMA expresses the hope that "perhaps the answers will be found some day." And we may be sure they will let us know when this happens!

Woman's complete emancipation will never come until some genius has perfected a home that can be run by a steering wheel, a clutch and a brake.

Stop Dropouts

Individual problems in children should be met face on as soon as they are discovered, according to Michigan's No. 1 school chief.

Superintendent of Public Instruction Lynn M. Battell says the schools should start their approach to begin dealing with individual problems as early as the kindergarten level.

"We need to adapt our programs to meet the needs from the early grades on through," he said. "We can't wait until the young ones reach the secondary level to become concerned about individual problems."

Identification of individual problems is often made at a very early date.

"We can—with fair accuracy—identify those youngsters who are going to have trouble, including the ones who will have trouble reading," said Battell. "We can predict right now, the ones who will fail unless something is done to aid their individual problems.

Roughly one-third of all youngsters who enter the ninth grade drop out before they graduate. In my judgement more students would stay if we had adequately met their needs as they were going through school," he said.

"Screened" Picture

The big day for Republicans will come late this month. A major undertaking in electronics planning will be culminated Jan. 29 in a television program such as never was seen on commercial channels.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, still titular head of the party, will headline the closed circuit speech-making program.

Michigan's Gov. George Romney, also announced presidential hopefuls and the GOP's Congressional leaders also will be billed for pep-talks during the telecast to fund-raising dinners across the country.

Both parties have previously used the closed-circuit television approach to stimulate party-spirits. In each successive event the motto becomes, "bigger and better than the last."

Week's Foundation

A "greater Michigan" has long been the aim of an organization which bears these two words within its name.

The Greater Michigan Foundation was started only four years ago formally; however, as a charitable educational foundation to improve life in the state. It is an outgrowth of a group called Greator Michigan, Inc., which worked with the state Economic Development Department to start Michigan Week in 1954.

Currently the Foundation's 60-member board of governors includes representatives of agriculture, business, education, govern-

Senator John Kennedy, Massachusetts Democrat, has now officially entered the presidential race.

When he probably commands more delegate votes than any other candidate in his party, his toughest opposition may come from Adlai Stevenson, Senator Lyndon Johnson of Texas, or Senator Stuart Symington of Missouri.

The 1960 Betty Crocker Home-maker of Tomorrow award for Chelsea High school went to Judy Woolley, CHS senior, it was announced this week.

At Tuesday's Village Council meeting approval was voted for a motion to sell bonds amounting to $40,000 to finance improvement of the Municipal parking lot on Park St.

UNDER THE YUM-YUM TREE

This is a situation comedy in which Jack Lemmon (Robin Austin) and Carol Lynne (Robin Austin) and Dean Jones (David Manning) create quite a triangle that proves to be all a mistake.

It's springtime and Robin moves into the apartment building owned by Hogan. Hogan is a confirmed bachelor who has a profound interest in all his tenants especially the young and pretty Miss Robin Austin.

This modern college girl is much in love with Dave and has a plan to determine their character compatibility. Hogan, having a different idea about courtship, almost breaks his neck trying to solve this mystery—but all ends well and the mystery is cleared.

As one lawmaker put it, the change in name usually means programs will be broadened and has one other primary result: The cost of state aid to the institution goes up and up and up.

The latest name change had a curious effect. Michigan's new constitution, which just became effective Jan. 1, redesignated the institution at Houghton as Michigan College of Science and Technology.

It previously was known as the Michigan Mining School, Michigan

College of Mines, and most recently as Michigan College of Mining and Technology.

The state started its system of higher education with one university at Ann Arbor and several colleges scattered throughout.

Now nearly all institutions of higher learning which get state support have gained the title of university. Michigan State, Wayne State, and the regional teachers' colleges came in quick succession, although Wayne became a university before it came under state control.

NEW CAPITAL — This is a view of Brasilia, the new capital of Brazil, a completely planned city constructed in the Brazilian jungle. Other views of this spectacular project will be included in Saturday's travelogue presentation by Romaine Wilkinson who appears here in the fourth travelogue of the 1963 series sponsored by the Kiwanis club. The program will take place at the Chelsea High school auditorium.

Accompanied by Hermann Book, famous German explorer, Norman Jenson, known as the Amazon Trader, and Dana Lamb, author of many adventure books, Wilhelmsen traveled to these remote areas by plane and by raft which floated down the Amazon River.

Wilhelmsen's home is in Pasadena, Calif., and he is a member of the Los Angeles Adventurers' club. His famed exploits have appeared on the TV shows "I Search for Adventure" and "Golden Voyage."

The remaining programs of the current travelogue series will be presented Feb. 29 and March 14 by Stan Midgley and James Metcalf, respectively.

Also included are pictures of the Amazon River Basin; the city of Iquitos which has compared to India, Tibet, and Africa, because of its

Keep Clothes In Service By Buying Quality

East Lansing — Trying to balance the budget for the new year may find you resolving to cut family clothing expenses by getting along on items already in your closet.

Buying for durability in the first place often saves time and money later on, according to Michigan State University home economists.

They describe ways of maintaining your present wardrobe in a new bulletin called "Keeping Clothes in Service."

The durability of a garment, they write, may usually be determined by examining the fabric.

For example:

"A closely woven fabric may be stronger than a loosely woven one."

"Yarns of equal size rather than a weave of heavy and fine yarns should be stronger."

Fabrics woven with novelty yarns that loop or curl may pull out or be snared when worn.

Fiber content and construction fibers also may indicate garment strength. Cotton and nylon, for example, are listed among the durables.

For additional pointers, obtain your copy of the bulletin either from your county extension office or from the Bulletin Office, Room 10, Michigan State University, East Lansing. Ask for "Keeping Clothes in Service," E-404.

The remaining programs of the current travelogue series will be presented Feb. 29 and March 14 by Stan Midgley and James Metcalf, respectively.

The University of Michigan was first among American institutions of higher education to offer experimental instruction in bacteriology, in 1889.

COMPACT VIEW OF STATE LANDS—Had the impression that a big share of Michigan's lands are state-owned? By lumping scattered holdings into shaded blocks, this map shows how much state land there actually is in each of the Conservation Department's three administrative regions. Together, these blocks represent some 4,200,000 acres of state lands managed by the Department, including all state forests, parks, recreation and game areas, fishing access sites, and smaller parcels. Michigan's total land area comes to about 38 million acres.

Your Social Security

Not long after the turn of the year, postmen will begin delivering millions of tax withholding statements to working people who have worked in the past year. It takes a little more effort on the part of the self-employed person to find out what his earnings were.

He does this when he assembles the figures for his federal income tax return.

The two tax forms for the self-employed are Schedule C, for business or professional work, and Schedule F, for farm or agricultural income. The Social Security Administration is concerned with some of the information contained on these tax forms.

By law any self-employed person who nets over $400 per year must report this income for social security purposes and pay the social security tax in addition to the income tax payable. And it is on the basis of these reports that the self-employed persons earn his social security credit.

The Social Security Administration urges all self-employed persons to complete their 1963 tax returns before the April 15 deadline. Be early this year! It takes

1,926 Businesses Listed In Washtenaw County

There is a total of 1,926 businesses in Washtenaw County, according to statistics released by W. S. Garrison, district manager of the Detroit office of Dun & Bradstreet, Inc. This total is based on a physical count of the November, 1963 edition of the Dun & Bradstreet Reference Book.

Mr. Garrison noted that each January business concerns in all parts of the United States are asked by Dun & Bradstreet for copies of their financial statements. This year requests are being sent to nearly three million business concerns to the corner grocery store worth a few thousand dollars as well as to businesses worth millions.

much more time and money to process a late tax return than an early one. Time, costs, no more in January than it does in April, but a delay after April 15 may mean paying a penalty in addition to the taxes due.

Thirty-nine State Police probationary troopers were graduated in recruit school; ceremonies at East Lansing headquarters as a start to re-strengthening 23 posts involved in freeway patrolling and whose operations had been sharply curtailed by the new five-day work week.

The five-day week was necessitated by a Civil Service Commission ruling effective in mid-1963.

The former six-day week of more than 54 hours, was limited to a work week of 38 hours. The troopers now work five nine-hour days, leaving a cushion of three hours for court appearances and other extra service.

The new officers bring the department's strength to 1,151, eight less than the authorized complement of 1,159.

Posts receiving new troopers are:

East Lansing, Brighton, Ithaca,

Detroit, Center Line, Flat Rock,

Ypsilanti, Pontiac, Erie, Bay City,

Flint, Bridgeport, Jackson, Battle

Creek, Paw Paw, New Buffalo,

Wayland, Rockford, Mt. Pleasant,

Area 4-H Club Activities

WIDE AWAKE 4-H CLUB

The fourth meeting was held at the home of Judy and Alvin Wilson. For roll call everyone showed their dress and how much they had finished. Mrs. Charles Curtis, was attended by 36 members. They responded to roll call by stating New Year resolutions.

At this meeting, the president, Alvin Rosas, announced receipt of a check for $10, the Edison award won by the club for its summer project work.

Demonstrations were given by Linda Bradbury on "Cloud Hair" and Laurie Reddenman on "New Hair" and Noelle Schmalz on "Recipe on Light".

Refreshments were given by the Ann Arbor Kiwanis club sale which Wide Awake club members customarily support. It was stated the sale dates are Feb. 6-8.

Activity at Tuesday's meeting included a demonstration on making hem by Marilyn Hindorff and a recreation period during which games were played under the leadership of Judy Bollinger.

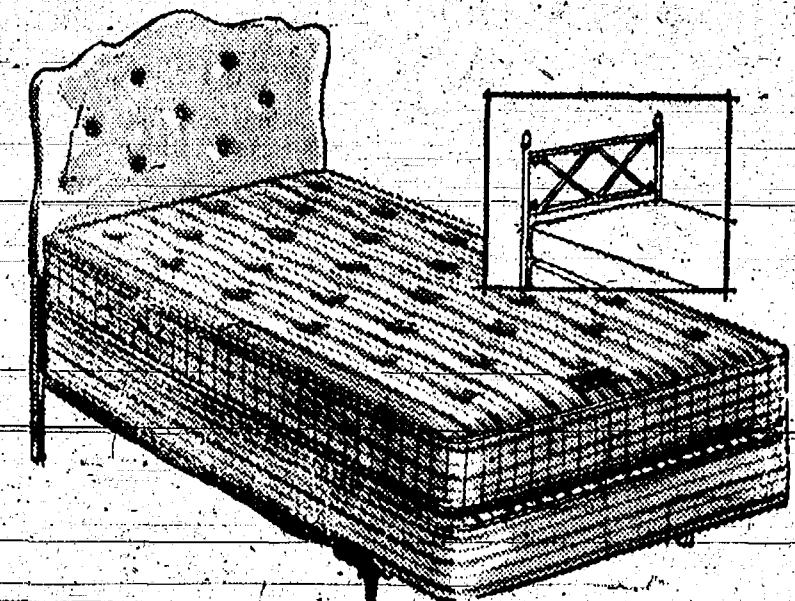

Refreshments were served by a committee and announcement was made that the next regular meeting will be held Feb. 4 at the home of Mrs. Curtis.

Insects put on a good disappearing act during the winter, but they're still here—sometimes in unfamiliar forms of hiding, waiting for spring's return. Housewives don't have to ask where the box elder bug (top, right) hibernates. Much to their disappointment, he goes right into the house or other sheltered places when cold weather comes. Fortunately, most insects stay out of doors during the winter. Eastern tent caterpillars (top left) remain on cherry trees in the form of eggs left by adults which die each summer. Many other insects spend the winter as eggs. Some, like pine sawfly eggs, are found inside pine needles; others are found under bark, on stones, and in almost every place imaginable. Eggs laid by walkingsticks (bottom, right) become buried under leaves where they remain for two winters before hatching. The brown and black woolly-bear caterpillars (middle, right) crawl under rocks, boards, or other sheltered hideaways and hibernate much like a real bear. Aquatic insects that breathe with gills and live in lakes continue to feed under the ice. Other water insects that must come to the surface to breathe hibernate by burrowing in the mud, or in banks of streams and lakes. Social insects bees and ants may hibernate by congregating in a mass, or they may all die except the queen. Monarch butterflies are probably the envy of the insect world for they spend the winter in the south, and certain other insects are light "sleepers" and sometimes are seen flitting about on warm days in the winter.

Summertime's Pesky Insects Are With Us Through Winter

Lansing—All of a sudden Michigan's insects are gone, and we wonder where they went. Not that we miss those pesky creatures that were around all summer, but we are curious where they are now.

Actually, insects are still with us in winter, but many times they are overlooked because we are not familiar with all the stages of their life cycle. We might know what caterpillars look like in the summer, but in the winter they may be in a form strange to us, such as eggs, or pupae.

Housewives don't have to be told where the box elder bug hibernates to wait for the return of warm weather. This pretty red and black bug is hardly ever seen during most of its life when it is living and feeding on box elder trees. But when cold weather comes and he invades houses looking for a warm place to stay, housewives dare not war with fly swatters, brooms and lit guns.

Most insects, fortunately, have become accustomed to staying in the outdoors during the winter. During the summer, the tents of the eastern tent caterpillar and the large, bluish-black caterpillars are a familiar sight on cherry trees along roadsides. In the winter, the insects are still on the cherry trees but it's harder to find them. Up on the trees are the brown egg masses encircling the small twigs. These will hatch into a hundred or more little caterpillars as soon as warm weather comes in the spring.

Many other insects spend the winter as eggs. Some are found in hairy masses on bark as are gypsy moth eggs; some like pine sawfly eggs are found inside pine needles; others are found under bark, on stones, and in almost every place imaginable.

Caterpillars of the viceroy butterfly, build their own shelter against the winter storms. With the return of spring, the monarchs head north. They do not come all the way, but lay eggs and the new generation continues north to spend the summer.

Most insects entering hibernation do not become active again until several days or weeks of warm weather in the spring. Flies and certain other insects, however, are light "sleepers" and are easily aroused by a warm day. This is why they can sometimes be found flying about in the middle of winter. Cottage owners often are surprised to find hornets active in a cold cottage soon after their stoves are started.

It is not known why some insects hibernate. It may be reasoned for most insects that cold or lack of food causes the temporary suspension of activities. For others, however, these are not the reasons as the period of rest and inactivity may start in mid-summer and continue through the following spring.

At any rate, insects are still here—sometimes in unfamiliar forms of hiding, waiting for spring's return.

Heaters and lanterns should not be used inside a tent that is not vented regardless of the type of fuel they use.

Stoves and lanterns which operate from pressurized cans of gas may not work well in very low temperatures. Check your equipment before you head for the woods.

House Plan Features Family Work Room

If you're in the market for a house that keeps work, living and sleeping areas well separated from each other, a new two-bed room house plan released by the Federal Extension Service may be for you.

It features a work room that opens onto the terrace, making it possible to bring in flowers, plants or groceries without tramping through the house explains Alice Apple, county extension agent in home economics. The workroom can also serve as a mudroom for children, she adds.

Ample storage is found throughout the house, with large closets in both bedrooms and the living room. The kitchen and dining area are both equipped with storage space for linens and china. Lawn and garden tools may be kept in a special unit along the outer wall of the carport.

This plan also provides sound barriers created by closets between the living room and bedroom windows that provide cross ventilation and natural lighting; a nearby exit from the living room to the terrace; living and dining areas that may be combined or separated by a divider.

You may obtain working drawings for this house at your county Co-operative Extension Service office, Washtenaw County Building, by asking for Plan No. 7150.

Winter Camp Challenges Outdoorsmen

A flickering campfire casts dancing shadows against the pines in a Michigan campground. Steaming mugs in hand, the campers stand around the fire listening to the night sounds of the forest and the nearby lake.

"A commonplace scene but add a yard of ice to the top of the lake and a couple of feet of snow to the campground and you have a scene that will be repeated often this year," according to the Michigan Tourist Council.

A growing number of campers refuse to put aside their gear when the snow begins to fall. The increase in winter camping has prompted Michigan park planners to undertake programs to provide for the comforts of winter outdoorsmen in state parks.

Most Michigan parks are now open for winter campers, although lack of snow removal equipment in some cases limits their use. Water is available and steps are now being taken to winterize other facilities.

Winter campers have to employ some special techniques to enjoy their sport but once these are mastered a snow-bound camp can be a snug and cozy spot.

Many of the techniques were developed by the armed services in the arctic survival training courses and have been further perfected by a band of "old-timers" among the winter campers.

Insulation under the tent floor in the form of evergreen boughs, straw, forest stuff such as leaves is a must. Development of plastic drop cloths such as painter's use has added a lightweight waterproof groundcloth to the winter camper's equipment.

The winter camper soon learns that cold comes from below as well as above and a heavy wool blanket beneath the air mattress or sleeping bag is well worth its weight.

Moisture is a major problem in the winter camp and special care must be taken to keep clothing dry. A great variety of insulated clothing employing the multi-layer principal is available to today's winter sports fan and effectively solves this problem.

A special area should be set aside outside the door of the tent for removing shoes to keep snow outside. A small rubberized tarp is excellent for this and by running a rope through grommets on the edges it can be quickly converted into a waterproof bag with many uses.

Wet boots freeze if not placed near a source of heat during the night. Thawing them in the morning can be a nasty chore.

Heaters and lanterns should not be used inside a tent that is not vented regardless of the type of fuel they use.

Stoves and lanterns which operate from pressurized cans of gas may not work well in very low temperatures. Check your equipment before you head for the woods.

CD COMMUNICATIONS CENTER — Open house was held Tuesday, Jan. 7 for village and township officials and county Civil Defense personnel at the Civil Defense Emergency Communications Center in the basement of the Municipal Building. Tuesday evening of this week, area residents were invited to visit the center and inspect the equipment installed there for emergency use. In the photo, from left, are Marion Longworth, chief communications officer for C. D. District VI; Dean Guenther, one of his assistants (seated at the controls); District VI Civil Defense Director Elwyn Beach; assistants, Bill Altenbernd and Lee Satterthwaite; and, standing at right, Washtenaw County Civil Defense Director Elwyn Beach. The equipment now installed and in operation works in conjunction with stations located in strategic places covering the area in all directions as far as Jackson, Ann Arbor, Grass Lake, Adrian, Brighton and others. It was planned with the intention of emergency use of the center as the seat of county government in the event Ann Arbor's government center should be rendered inoperable. A large standby generator is available for emergency use should the regular power fail or be rendered useless.

Funeral services were held at 2 p.m. Monday at the Kechn-Hosmer Funeral Home in Dexter with the Rev. M. Donald Eaton officiating. Burial followed at Bethlehem Cemetery, Ann Arbor, with graveside services conducted by Masonic Lodge No. 65 F&AM.

DEATHS

Arthur F. Widmayer

Was Former Owner of Ford Agency in Dexter

Arthur F. Widmayer, a former Chelsea area resident, died Saturday morning at his home, 7971 Ann Arbor St., Dexter. He was 79 years old.

Born June 9, 1884, in Lima township, he was a son of Albert and Lisette Meyer Widmayer. He was a life-long county resident and a Dexter resident for many years. He was married Oct. 4, 1906, at Hillsdale, to Lucille Uhakee, who survives.

McKenney has been general manager of WSPD-TV, at Toledo, O., has been elected a vice-president of the Storer Broadcasting Co., according to an announcement made this week by George B. Storer, chairman of the board.

McKenney is the husband of the former Betty Ruth Fletcher, daughter of Mrs. John Fletcher and the late Mr. Fletcher. Mrs. McKenney is a graduate of the University of Michigan, is a past president of the PTA at Birmingham and the Detroit Junior Women's Symphony Association. The McKenneys have two sons, Thomas and Steve.

A 17-year veteran in the broadcasting industry, McKenney started his career in 1946 with WRSE, Schenectady, N.Y., as a producer-director. Between 1947 and 1951 he was associated with WWJ-TV, Detroit, as program and production manager and just prior to joining Storer Broadcasting, McKenney spent a year and a half with Peters, Griffin and Woodward as their first television sales representative in Detroit.

A graduate of the University of Michigan and a native of Burlington, Vt., McKenney served with the U.S. Navy during World War II. The NATIONAL OUTLOOK

By GEORGE HAGEDORN

Labor Costs Hold Economy's Answer

As has been pointed out before in this column, the monetary authorities in this country face the difficult problem of steering a middle course. They have to avoid, in the one hand, a policy which takes money and credit so plentifully that we will not be able to achieve the international value of the dollar. On the other hand, many observers are optimistic regarding the prospects for maintaining and even improving our present situation. This optimism is based on the expectation that labor costs will continue to rise faster in the other industrial nations of the world than in this country.

There is, however, a sour note in this chorus of optimism. The reason for expecting labor costs to rise more rapidly abroad than here is that while we face a chronic unemployment, our chief competitors face labor shortages. In other words, it is unemployment in this country which protects us against a disastrous increase in cost levels.

Even if we accept this analysis at face value, it can hardly be cause for satisfaction. It means that, to the extent that we succeed in reducing unemployment, we release the restraints on labor cost increases. We would thereby intensify the problem of reconciling preservation of the external economy with the value of the dollar with domestic expansion.

Moreover, it is well not too confident that labor costs will continue to rise more rapidly in other countries than here. Leadership in these other countries is well aware of the difficulties they may create for themselves by rapid cost increases. Even the rank and file in such nations as Germany, which have had historical experience with runaway inflation, are receptive to arguments for going slow.

On our own side, labor union leaders are growing more conservative as charges that the labor movement has lost its fighting spirit. Contract negotiations in critical industries are scheduled in 1964. It is conceivable that a major break-through in labor costs could occur as the wearer's thickest lip.

and then spread through the economy. If we let this happen, the fat would be in the fire. The nation's political leaders would then be faced with a bitter choice between abandoning our commitment to a dollar "as good as gold," and letting the domestic economy go through a wrench.

THIEF RIDES BICYCLE
Phoenix, Ariz.—Joseph Ralph Liles admitted to police that he rode quietly away from the scene of the robbery with $1,220.

Police were searching the area for the robber when Liles rode away on a bicycle. He felt confident they were not looking for a man to make his getaway just pedaling down the street.

NOW IT'S FALSE BEARDS

New York—At a barber's convention, Joseph Carlow demonstrated facial hairpieces for men.

With women wearing wigs, Carlow said the time was ripe for men to begin wearing false mustaches and beards.

In demonstrating the mustache suitable for different men, a good general rule was the wearer should use a mustache that is as thick as the wearer's thickest lip.

Club and Social Activities

MODERN MOTHERS

Modern Mothers Child Study Club held the Jan. 1 meeting at the Chelsea High school library and the librarian, Mrs. Kemp, was the evening's speaker. He explained to club members about the operation of school libraries—high school, high school and elementary schools.

During a business session, club members discussed plans for a dinner to be held at Lovemore's Club in connection with the club's husbands' night meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 25. There were 20 members present for Tuesday's meeting.

Principal business at the meeting was discussion of plans for the club's "husbands' night out" dinner; it will be held Saturday, Jan. 25 at Bill Cone's restaurant in Jackson. Members and their husbands are to be at the restaurant at 7:30 p.m. Those who plan to attend are to notify Mrs. Diane Edor by Jan. 23.

Following the dinner, the group will be entertained at the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bussler.

JOINT BIRTHDAY PARTY

Three children of Mr. and Mrs. Tice were honored at their joint birthday party Sunday at the home of their grandmother, Mrs. J. T. Wadsworth, at Romeo. The girls are Elton, 11, who was four years old Saturday, Jan. 4; Diane, 12; and their sister, Mary, whose tenth birthday was Monday, Jan. 13.

Their other grandparents spoke about Lady Churchill, wife of Sir Winston Churchill of England, and also about the late Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, and mothers in general and their children.

Mrs. H. T. Moore enlarged on the role of women in public congresswomen, etc., and reported on the findings of the government's Commission on the Status of Women.

A discussion which followed brought out divergent opinions of members as related to the program topic.

During the club's business session conducted by the president, Mrs. E. J. Weiss, Mrs. Robert Livingston was accepted into club membership.

Other business included voting to make a contribution of $50 to the Chelsea Junior Chamber of Commerce for landscaping at Pierce Park—a JCC community service project.

Hostesses for Tuesday's meeting were Mrs. David Colquhoun and Mrs. Leon Fox.

Program topic for the Jan. 28 meeting is to be "Flowers" and Walter Zeeb, Jr., of Chelsea Greenhouse has been invited to be the guest speaker.

There is one mile of street or highway in the United States per each square mile of area.

KINDER KLUB

Kinder Klub Child Study group members were entertained Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Don Ewald and heard an interesting talk by Mrs. Thelma Douglas of Ann Arbor.

Mrs. Douglas, an author and lecturer, spoke on the topic "Keeping a Sense of Humor." Her talk was concerned chiefly with the relationship between young mothers and their children. There were 15 members and one guest present.

Cochostesses for Tuesday's meeting were Mrs. Donald Dall and Mrs. Keith Rappete.

MOTHERS CLUB

Wednesday, Jan. 8, the Mothers Club held a regular meeting, hostess for the gathering being Mrs. Albert Sannes of 523 Arthur St.

Co-hostess was Mrs. Dee W. Keene. Chief James Gaken was guest speaker at the meeting, explaining about the placing of furnaces in homes and how to correct the situation when heating units are incorrectly placed.

The next meeting, scheduled for Feb. 5, is to be held at the home of Mrs. John Toon, 529 Arthur St.

ST. PAUL'S WOMEN'S GUILD

The new president, Mrs. David Stricker, presided at the Jan. 8 meeting of the Women's Guild of St. Paul's church held at the church hall with 35 members present.

Mrs. Richard Schmidt was in charge of the devotional service and Mrs. Louis Burghardt served as usher.

The program for the year was outlined by the vice-president and program chairman, Mrs. Henry Kurner. She said the theme is "Our Changing World," and program material will be made available to the various Circle groups who will be encouraged to include pertinent material in programs at Circle meetings, embracing the recommended materials from the Guild.

Circles will continue the customary once-a-month-meetings; however, the Guild, itself, will hold but five meetings during the year.

In addition to the January meeting, Guild meetings for the remainder of the year are planned for March, June, September and December.

Membership of Circles has been rearranged and all eight Circles are scheduled to hold meetings during January.

Hostesses at the January meeting were Mrs. Wilbert Grieb, Mrs. William Osburn, Mrs. Floyd Walz and Mrs. Lynn Kern.

International Noon Luncheon Featured At WSCS Meeting

The Woman's Society of Christian Service (WSCS) of the Methodist church featured an international noon luncheon at the Jan. 8 meeting held in the church social center. Members of Pearl Baxter Circle were in charge of the meal which included a Finnish salad, Swedish rye-bread and Italian and Indian dishes.

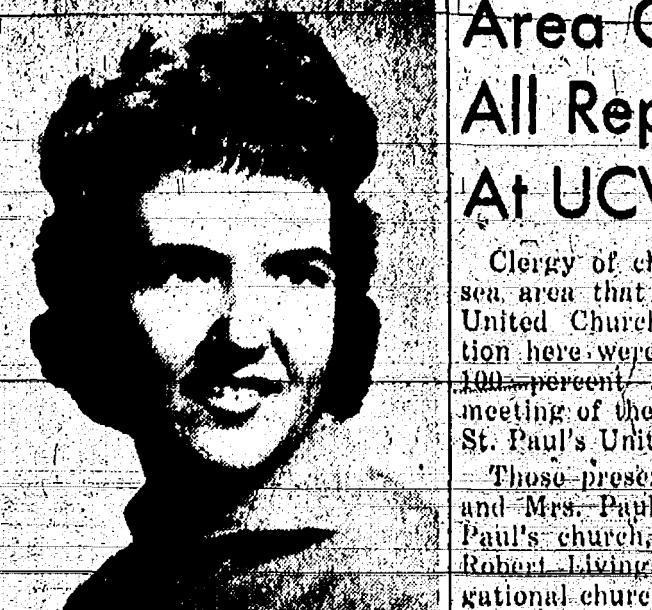

Carrying out the international theme further, several members wore costumes of foreign countries; table decorations, too, were in keeping and included international styled place mats and napkins and miniature UN flags.

Following the luncheon, members met in the narthex for a business session and program.

Mrs. James Craig, in charge of the devotional period, presented a service of worship commemorating the 100th anniversary of the emancipation proclamation. Background music included spirituals and later Mrs. George Stanford and Mrs. Robert Harris sang an appropriate duet.

The committee on social relations then presented panel discussion on the topic, "Human Rights," led by Mrs. Ben Donaldson. Panel members were Mrs. Albert Potts and Mrs. Robert Daniels.

It was announced that the Rev. Jim Bristol, executive director of the Board of Christian Concerns

Area Churches All Represented At UCW Meet

Clergy of churches in the Chelsea area that are included in the United Church Women organization here were represented almost 100 percent at Friday's annual meeting of the USW group held at St. Paul's United Church of Christ.

Those present included the Rev. and Mrs. Paul M. Schanck of St. Paul's church; the Rev. and Mrs. Robert Livingston of the Congregational church, the Rev. and Mrs. James Craig of the Methodist church, the Rev. and Mrs. John Fall of the Methodist Home and Mrs. J. R. Smucker, wife of the vicar of St. Barnabas Episcopal church.

The Rev. John Jolley, pastor of Salem Grove and North Lake Methodist churches, was out of town and could not be present but women of both of the churches attended the noon luncheon and afternoon meeting.

There were 40 present for the luncheon.

The afternoon's speaker was Harold C. McKinney, Jr., associate director of the Michigan Council of Churches.

During his service with the Council of Churches, a number of new projects related to the churches' interest in public affairs were originated and, in keeping with this interest, McKinney's topic was "Legislative Principles Statement Adopted By Michigan Council of Churches."

Discussing what he called "the amateur legislator," he spoke of the complexity of the work of state legislators; the need for church people to understand the varied problems facing the legislators; and the responsibility of Christian citizens to command (or criticize) their elected officials.

The speaker also explained about the availability of the "Legislative Principles Statement" adopted by the Michigan Council of Churches; also the "Michigan Legislative Memo" and said these are provided for the use and information of Christians to help them understand the legislators' problems and to plan action to further desirable legislation.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Ben Donaldson, president of United Church Women of the Chelsea area, who presided at the meeting.

Announcement was made that Mrs. Thomas Smith is general chairman in charge of arrangements for the UCW World Day of Prayer, customarily held the first Friday in Lent. This year's service is scheduled for Feb. 14.

Principal item of business at the Jan. 10 meeting was the election of officers. Mrs. Donaldson was re-elected president and Mrs. Graham Sprague was re-elected treasurer.

Mrs. Donnak, as immediate past noble grand, was presented a past noble grand pin and certificate by Mrs. Anna McDonald of the Past Noble Grand's club.

Mrs. Clarence Lake (Flossie) Hirschman, secretary; Mrs. Stephen Shipe (Viola), treasurer; Mrs. Demont Sweeny (Lulu), chaplain; Mrs. Mac Packard, warden; Mrs. Elwood Keezer (Dorothy), conductor.

Mrs. Donnak, as immediate past noble grand, was presented a past noble grand pin and certificate by Mrs. Anna McDonald of the Past Noble Grand's club.

Among other business transacted at the meeting the group voted to make a contribution of $10 to the current March of Dimes campaign.

At the conclusion of the meeting Mrs. Johnson said she would return to be present at the first meeting in February and, at that time would install those officers of the local lodge who were unable to be present for the original installation.

The committee in charge of the installation meeting included Mrs. Clifford Wolfe, Mrs. Julius Reule and Mrs. Charles J. Williams.

Annual reports are to be read and projects discussed at the Jan. 25 meeting. The committee for that meeting is to include Mrs. Mac Packard and Mrs. Winston Boyer.

The committee on social relations then presented panel discussion on the topic, "Human Rights," led by Mrs. Ben Donaldson. Panel members were Mrs. Albert Potts and Mrs. Robert Daniels.

It was announced that the Rev. Jim Bristol, executive director of the Board of Christian Concerns is to be the speaker at the Feb. 5 meeting of the WSCS and husbands of members are to be guests.

January Birthday Party Honors 14 At Methodist Home

Miss Mae Clark, who was 93 years old on Jan. 15, has been a resident of the Methodist Home the past 21 years. She was one of 14 Home residents who were honored Tuesday at the monthly birthday party at the Home.

Miss Clark came to the Home from St. Clair.

Decorations on the "birthday table" included miniature figures of snowmen and pine trees. The birthday cake was decorated to match.

Others honored in observance of January birthdays include the Rev. Matthew Betz, former Home administrator; also Mrs. Fannie Ballard, Mrs. Mary Rutten, Mrs. Ida Lomis, Mrs. Nori Dench, Mrs. Emma Faupel, Mrs. Minnie Fisher, Mrs. Ethel Reed, Mrs. Cora Warren, Mrs. Margaret Hallett, Mrs. Wilma Briges, Miss Anna Youngs and Mrs. Frances Fellmy.

The Rev. Betz was presented with a set of personal grooming accessories and the ladies each received a compact. Gifts are provided by the Chelsea Home Friends.

The afternoon's speaker was Harold C. McKinney, Jr., associate director of the Michigan Council of Churches.

The speaker also explained about the availability of the "Legislative Principles Statement" adopted by the Michigan Council of Churches; also the "Michigan Legislative Memo" and said these are provided for the use and information of Christians to help them understand the legislators' problems and to plan action to further desirable legislation.

What in the WORLD! by TED

Human Rights

A century after slavery was abolished in the United States, human beings are still bought and sold in some parts of the world.

And more than 150 years after the Bill of Rights became a bulwark for Americans, countries exist where inhuman punishment, forced labor, stern censorship and political oppression are commonplace.

To spread the benefits of democratic guarantees worldwide, the United Nations statement of principle it already has guided the framing of Human Rights just 15 years ago this month.

It evolved from earlier pro-tectionists—from the Magna Carta to the American Declaration of Independence. Many of its provisions parallel those of the U.S. Constitution: freedom of worship and expression and the right of peaceful assembly. It also calls for equal opportunity in the economic and social fields; the right to a job, a fair standard of living and universal education.

The declaration is neither a treaty nor a law. But as a statement of principle, it already has guided the framing of new constitutions and legislation in countries with gaps in their human-rights guarantees.

DUTCH ELM disease has left many unsightly stumps marring the landscape. Forestry experts at Syracuse University suggest the use of decaying wood of the same species to get rid of them. Inserted into bored holes, the fungi grows and speeds the breakdown of the stump for easy removal.

OVERHEAD supply units for use in connection with heart surgery, a growing technique in U.S. hospitals, have been introduced. The Mayco units, one for the heart lung machine operator, the other for the anesthesiologist, carry all the supply lines (water, electricity, gases, intercom), eliminating the usual tangle of cables from the floor of the cardiovascular operating room. Results: greater cleanliness, minimized clean-up time and reduced danger of infection.

Education, even if secured to several degrees, will not solve all of life's problems.

Aching Feet May Result From Poor Fit

"All I want for Christmas is two new feet" might have been the request of many after miles of walking from store to store to do Christmas buying.

Perhaps Santa did bring you a new pair of shoes or slippers, but they won't help unless they fit properly.

The United States Public Health Service has found that at some time in their lives 80 percent of the American people complain of foot disorders," says Bernetta Kahabka, clothing specialist with the Co-operative Extension Service at Michigan State University.

Describing the problem in a new bulletin, "Walking in Comfort," Miss Kahabka states that most foot trouble may be acquired before a person is 15 years old. Foot trouble is often the result of ill-fitting shoes or hose.

The clothing specialist outlines possible causes of various foot ailments and lists the characteristics of "a good shoe."

Diagrams in the folder show proper fitting and charts show average foot growth for children. "Loafers and ballets are for loafing and relaxing," Miss Kahabka says. "They have little, if any, support for long periods of standing."

The specialists offers many other pointers for fitting shoes to the occasion. You may obtain this bulletin from your county extension office or from the Bulletin Office, 10 Agricultural Hall, Michigan State University, East Lansing.

Uniform Commercial Code Now in Effect

LANSING.—The state's lending institutions and attorneys were reminded that the new Michigan Uniform Commercial Code went into effect on Jan. 1 and the Secretary of State's office is accepting filings under the Code.

The Code repealed some 29 existing statutes and parts of acts that previously governed commercial transactions in Michigan. This codification has been adopted by 28 states and Michigan became the 19th to implement it.

Hare said his office was providing both mail and counter service at 300 E. Michigan Ave., Lansing, 48918. Phone 373-2525. Forms for filing are available from a number of private printing firms and the standard 5 by 8-inch form is urged to speed service, Hare said.

Copies of the Uniform Commercial Code may be obtained at 75 cents per copy. A booklet on procedures and forms used under the Code is available at no cost by writing the Equipment and Supply Division, Department of State, Lansing 48018.

Education, even if secured to several degrees, will not solve all of life's problems.

Educators view high school dropouts as a tragic waste of manpower. Once a potential mechanic, salesman, or secretary who could have been making a comfortable living, the dropout becomes a growing part of the labor force competing for the unskilled and semi-skilled jobs which offer an unstable income and uncertain employment.

Approximately one million teenagers drop out of school each year for a number of reasons, ranging from personal financial needs to a dislike of school. The squandering of their talents on low-paying jobs gives them a false, temporary feeling of financial security. It is a pity that so many of them soon join the ranks of the unemployed when the demand for untrained labor decreases because of lay-offs or technological changes.

Too late and too frequently dropouts realize their limited education is a handicap when their salaries show no appreciable increase over the years, while the educated worker passes him by in a career and financial sense.

President John F. Kennedy's Committee on Youth Employment, an out-growth of the President's concern for the dropout, points out that a solution to the dropout dilemma is the responsibility and obligation of every citizen.

License Plate Sale Lags As Usual Until Deadline Date

Michigan motorists — more than a million of them — are urged to get their license plate shopping done this year, preferably during January, if they haven't already taken their 1964 tabs.

Melvin J. James, M. Secretary of State, says that less than 10 percent of all registered vehicles in the state were licensed during the first two months of the current year, November and December.

Wallace Woods, manager of the Chelsea-Dexter area, said the plates purchased here from Jan. 1 until Jan. 10, represent approximately 12 percent of the total number of licensees sold in the Chelsea-Dexter area during the period from June 1, 1963,

"We must insist that both old plates be turned in before new ones can be issued," he noted.

"Licenses are issued to motorists and each owner is responsible for his own plates." Haro concluded.

CHIMP GOOD DRIVER

Tampa, Fla. — When John McLeod saw a chimpanzee steering a car down a busy highway, he called the highway patrol.

Trooper Lamar Maxwell followed the car through traffic and stopped the drivers and charged them with reckless driving and speeding.

Robert E. Stover, 41, the chimpanzee's owner, had taught the animal to steer while he operated the brakes and accelerator.

1964 will be a good year for those who fight to move ahead.

WINTER SPORT FOR EVERYONE — Winter is anything but an off-season for Michigan fishing fans. Men, women, and children — all find their own special brand of fun and sport in fishing through the ice. For members of the workaday set, it's a refreshing change of pace, far removed from the worries of their routine chores. For youngsters, ice fishing is a challenge to prove their ruggedness and beginners' skill with hook and line. Winter fishing is all these things, topped off by several rounds of good eating, to thousands of venturesome souls who make the most of the cold-weather months by lugging their lines or setting out tip-ups for tasty panfish, trout, bass, pike, and muskies.

THE LETTERBOX

Two Promotions Announced By Ann Arbor Bank

Dear Editor:
World Peace is uppermost in the minds of people everywhere. To achieve it, political, economic and cultural programs between nations are being advocated. These programs are good as far as they go, but do they go far enough? Experience seems to indicate that they do not. If not, what does?

In previous ages religion has brought warring peoples together: the Semitic tribes; Jews, Gentiles and Barbarians; and the wild tribes of Arabia. Why can't religion do it again?

If the sincere Christian or Jew, for instance, could distinguish the fundamentals of his faith from its outward observances and man-made rituals, he'd be better able to sense the same fundamentals in, say, the Islamic, the Buddhist and Hindu faiths. This knowledge will enable him to close ranks in his own faith and unite with kindred souls in other faiths in acknowledging and serving God in one universal cause, one common faith.

This process of uniting mankind is the very nature of religion. The word itself means to re-align . . . to bind together again . . . the hearts and minds of men. Today this process must be world-encompassing. How else can we build a foundation firm enough for universal peace? There is one faith that believes this is so . . . the Bahai' World Faith.

SECOND BULLET FATAL

According to an autopsy findings report, it was the second bullet that caused the almost instant death of President Kennedy.

Reports indicate the first bullet would not have been fatal.

The first bullet fired struck the President in the back, hitting no vital organ, and second to strike the President—the third fired—left a large hole in the back of his head. There is no doubt that it caused instant death.

Date Is Approaching

Jan. 1 begins the income tax filing period. Your financial records are important in preparing Federal income tax returns. Director of Internal Revenue, R. L. Nixon for the Detroit District said.

Now is the time to get together your cancelled checks, receipts, records of contributions, and other papers.

Taxpayers who kept good financial records during the year should have no trouble preparing their Federal income tax returns. Nixon explained.

Complete records are especially important to taxpayers who itemize deductions.

Just A Minute . . .

By the Rev. James A. Craig

The newspaper reported that school officials were trying to stop a growing business among their students. The item was a new form of paper used for smudging answers into exam sessions.

The thing that interested the paper so much in demand was its property of dissolving and disappearing on contact with moisture. A student in danger of being caught simply put it in his mouth and the evidence was gone.

The school officials were frustrated since they couldn't pinpoint the source of supply. The students were willing to pay a premium price in order to have the paper available.

Newspaper and magazine articles deal with an almost monotonous regularity with the problems of cheating. It is the feeling of some writers that dishonesty has become a way of life for many, if not most, people.

Some who thought they could do as they pleased were called out. They were told "He who is faithful in a very little is faithful also in much; and he who is dishonest in a very little is dishonest also in much."

The price you pay is your reputation. The name you save may be your own.

AID BILL PASSED

The House passed $8-billion foreign aid bill as its last piece of legislation before the holidays.

The bill gives the President authority to approve credit guarantees on wheat and other sales to the Soviet bloc.

It was the first big legislative victory for President Johnson, although he did not get as much as he asked for.

Federal Funds Allotted for County Road Construction

Lansing -- Every Michigan county will receive an increase in federal matching funds for construction of county secondary roads.

Under this program Washtenaw county will receive $80,588 while Jackson county is allocated $2,324.

State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie said Michigan will have nearly $8.5 million in federal funds for secondary road construction during the fiscal year starting July 1, an increase of about $135,000 over last year.

The State Highway Department will keep approximately $3.1 million for use on its secondary system, about the same amount it has received during the last three years.

Mackie said: "The counties will receive $85.3 million compared to $83.2 million last year."

Each county road commission must match the federal funds on a 50-50 basis. The money is allocated to the counties on the basis of land area, population and road mileage.

Tuesday, Jan. 21 -- Turkey mashed potatoes and gravy; Harvey beef; fruit.

State Police Records Show Highest Traffic Toll Since '55

Suffering its worst traffic toll in eight years, Michigan recorded 1,858 deaths in 1963, or 18 percent more than 1,571 in 1962, according to State Police preliminary figures reported by Commissioner Joseph A. Childs.

It was the highest annual count since 2,013 were killed in 1955. In addition, delayed death reports are expected to raise the toll from 24 of the last 25 on the same comparative basis.

Related to this worsened fatality picture are new all-time highs in the number of injured and accidents which earlier projections indicate will reach respective totals of about 121,750 and 255,500 when all reports are in.

Only in five previous years since record keeping began in 1933 have Michigan's annual fatalities exceeded 1,800. These were 1936 with 1,924, 1937 with 2,175 (the all-time high), 1941 with 2,133, 1953 with 1,905 and 1955.

The state's annual average for the 30-year period of 1933-62 was 1,581. For the seven years of 1956-62 it was 1,556.

Michigan's tolls dropped for three consecutive years after 1955 when the state launched an intensive accident prevention program. The counts then rose somewhat in 1959 and 1960, dropped again in 1961 and climbed slightly in 1962.

Contributing to the state's sixth worst traffic year were:

The provisional December count of 1,858 deaths, an increase of 18 percent over 1,571 in the same month in 1962. It was the highest December mark since 190 in 1955. The monthly average for the five years of 1958-62 was 1,73.

Significant estimated increases in accident exposure factors showed: mileage traveled, gamma seven percent; 10, 35.5 percent; motor vehicle registrations rising four percent to 3,040,089, and licensed drivers up two percent to 4,285,495.

Traffic deaths were up in 10 of the 12 months in 1963 compared with the same months of 1962. Through December, injuries had increased 10, 25 successive months over the same months a year earlier while accidents were up for 24 of the last 25 on the same comparative basis.

Related to this worsened fatality picture are new all-time highs in the number of injured and accidents which earlier projections indicate will reach respective totals of about 121,750 and 255,500 when all reports are in.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Rickerman have purchased Baxter's Market at 6065 Old M-42 from George Baxter who had owned it the past 11 years. The Rickermans, who live in Jackson, took possession of the business as of Jan. 1; however, announcement of the change of ownership was not made until this week.

In Jackson, Rickerman has been employed in the sales department of the Aerocup Co.

The Rickermans' family includes two sons, Terry and Harold. They also have a daughter, Sandra, who is married.

The Rickermans and their sons plan to move to Chelsea as soon as they find living quarters here. Baxter has no immediate plans except to vacation for a time.

ON JUNK MAIL:

The House has approved Representative Tom Steele's bill to let members send what is termed "junk mail" free to their own districts.

Under the Oklahoma Democrat's bill, House members can send unaddressed mail free to the folks back home just by putting an address on it. This does not apply to senators.

Little Change Seen In Michigan's 1964 Crop Production

Total Michigan cash crop production is expected to remain about the same as last year, according to Michigan State University agricultural economists.

No serious surplus situation is in sight for dry beans although exports should reach record levels this year. Prices on the 1963 and 1964 crops will average near support levels even though some increase in acreage and production is expected.

Some of these new developments will be shown in displays. Exhibits of newly developed turbine engines, and the latest thing in farm tractors, tillage and harvesting equipment will be on display.

Sprinkling equipment for irrigation and frost prevention, and clay and concrete products for agricultural drainage also will be exhibited.

The MSU agricultural engineers have devoted all day Wednesday to talks on problems of agricultural waste disposal. Lagoons, holding tanks, liquid and dry handling will be discussed in terms of health and aesthetics, including a discussion of water problems in wells, streams and rivers caused by agricultural wastes.

Thursday will be devoted to new machinery developments. New sources of farm power, transferred ignition systems and diesel fuel power will be subject for talks.

New developments for slow moving vehicles on the highway will be a subject for an MSU safety engineer. Hay wafing, with its implications for hay transportation and cattle feeding, will be the subject for another.

New findings for row spacing on coin yields and narrow row harvesting equipment will complete the program.

The fact that the alleged murderer of the late President Kennedy was more of a leftist than a rightist disappointed a lot of people.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

TROOP 98

Girl Scouts of Troop 98, at their Jan. 8 meeting, held a planning session. —patrols discussed the badges they hope to complete during the next five months; the "Schneider's Smokers" started plans for an investiture ceremony in February when Judy Schneider and Sherry Robbins will be inducted into troop membership.

During a recent Court of Honor meeting, which patrol leaders and the troop secretary attended, special troop projects for the next year were outlined.

The girls planned to go ice skating as part of the Jan. 16 meeting if weather permitted. Tim Lindauer, scribe.

TROOP 82

We are sorry to say that the leader of the Busy Bees, Annette Eresten, was absent when the troop met Tuesday.

Karen Schafer brought the refreshments.

We are still working on our toy making badges.

Susan Rogers, scribe.

TROOP 47

Girl Scouts of Troop 47 had a regular meeting Tuesday afternoon in the Municipal building. The girls discussed ideas on where to go for an outing and then made preparations for the flag ceremony they planned for the Jan. 21 meeting.

It was announced that everyone in the troop must bring 10 cents for membership dues.

Lisa Sharrard brought the refreshments for the meeting. Mary Ly McClellan, scribe.

TROOP 84

Girl Scouts of Troop 84 met Jan. 13 at South school. Party Partner showed the girls how to open and close a jackknife and Cindy Chandler and Barbara Duerr demonstrated how to tie knots in rope.

Rhonda Romin and Cheryl Wilkerson served refreshments. Debra Paul, scribe.

"This washer you won't have to worry about"

Here's proof of

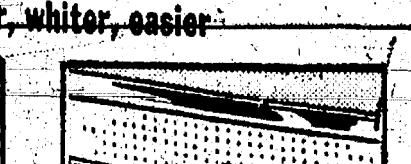

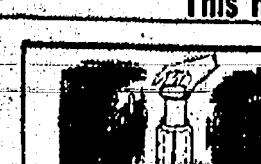

MAYTAG DEPENDABILITY

Just over a year ago, a Maytag Automatic Washer was selected at random from our assembly line. We worked it day in and day out for 9,853 hours (14,920 loads). That's equal to 50 years' normal home use!

Sure, the Maytag required service during this two-generation span. What machine wouldn't? Fact is, the Maytag was serviced only six times at an average cost of about $16.00 (including parts and labor).

Dependable? You know what we mean first hand if yours is one of the 13 million Maytags that have been built since 1907.

This new Maytag gets clothes cleaner, whiter, easier.
