MABC Hosts FPA Dairy Judging Team

Robert Kuehmal, Jr., Larry Smith and Jim Grison were the dairy judging teams from the state.

There's A New Family In St. Paul's Parsonage

It was raining hard Wednesday June 23 and in between downpours the Rev. Warner Siebert and his family moved into the parsonage across the street from St. Paul's United Church of Christ on Summit St. The new minister and his wife, Joyce, took things in stride, however.
Rain or no rain, they were as happy to be settling in as are the 515 parishioners to have them.

What kind of people are Siebert and Joyce Siebert? Well, they're young—in their early thirties—and they're both interested in making a contribution to the community. They're also a lively, "zippy" pair, full of energy and ideas.

"She's especially 'zippy' if I'm not quick enough at the home chores," he said.

His wife grinned. "Well, the first thing he put up the day we moved was the basketball cage; even before the curtain rods. And he removed the clothesline to do it."

With four youngsters, she'll be needing that clothes line.

She's extremely interested in working with children. Her major at Elmhurst (Ill.) College was in special education. While she has never taught in a classroom, her training has been put to good use in the rearing and teaching of Stephen, Pamela, Leslie and Susan. Stephen, the oldest, is eight; baby Susan is nearly two.

"She finds working with children and people more satisfactory than keeping houses or cooking," he said. "I think cooking and housework are fine," she said. "But there are so many other things.
I'm always about five projects deep at the same time. For one thing, I never get caught up with my reading."

Her husband, an avid sports enthusiast—expected of a man who played professional baseball while studying for the ministry—is a reader, too, and both have more than a passing interest in music.

"I also like change and enjoy moving around," she said. "I find new situations and new people exhilarating. That's why I married a minister."

They met while in college—over a piece of pie, according to the young minister. "I noticed her because she was the only girl in a group who unconcernedly polished off two pieces of pie at one sitting. I found this refreshing in an era of dieting."

She dismissed this in amusement. Joyce Siebert gives the impression of being able to handle a double work load with the same facility. An outgoing personality, she projects confidence and adaptability.

This adaptability, an integral part of one who is outgoing, came in handy during the first three years of their marriage.
From 1954 through 1957 they led a checkered existence—months in Florida—where he pitched with the St. Louis Cardinals—and the other six in Evansville, Ind., where he attended the theological seminary.

This is why she could not put her teacher's training into use.
Unable to fulfill a year's teaching contract, she turned to secretarial work.

"My wife makes an excellent secretary. She's speedy, efficient, accurate and efficient. When I get her to work for me I'm in luck. As to your previous question about her cooking, she's too good," he patted his midsection.

The Sieberts are congenial, relaxed, extroverted. The continuous stream of joking they direct at each other is highly indicative of a warm regard and mutual understanding.

To a direct question on the calibre of his pitching, his wife filled in. "He was darn good.
He racked up a good strikeout record and a very respectable earned run average."

We are sure they'll do the same thing here. It's good to have people like the Sieberts join the town—even if they had to move in the rain. Besides, who minds a June shower, especially in a farming community.

Fireworks, Ice Cream Social Slated July 4

American Legion Post, Kiwanis Club Providing Free Fireworks Display

The Fourth of July spalls Freedom to Americans!

And Chelsea, along with all other communities—rural and urban, village and metropolis—will celebrate Independence Day with the ringing of bells, a nation-wide reminder of the unique heritage which distinguishes this country from all others. It will continue with an ice cream social and gigantic fireworks display after dusk at the Community Fairgrounds.

The ringing of bells from all Chelsea churches will take place at 1 p.m., and continue for four minutes. This will be patterned on the originating ceremony which will be staged in historic Independence Hall in Philadelphia.

Village President Howard Haselschwardt has issued a proclamation calling upon all residents of Chelsea to join in the anniversary celebration of America's victorious fight for freedom—which culminated in the Declaration of Independence in 1776. He also has emphasized the committee's request for all residents to display the American flag that day—a practice which has been urged throughout the state by Governor George A. Romney.

Plans for the day's events are being co-ordinated by Herbert J.
McKune Post No. 31, American Legion, headed by Commander Eugene G. Martin, with the co-operation of the Chelsea Kiwanis Club.

The ice cream social will begin at 5 p.m. with Ralph Guenther and Keith Boylan in charge. Elton Guenther is chairman of the fireworks committee.

Other groups assisting in the day's events include the Ladies of the Legion Auxiliary, the Chamber of Commerce, the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Post 4076 and its Ladies Auxiliary. This is a community celebration—a holiday dear to the hearts of all Americans. Everyone is urged to come to the Fairgrounds and join in the celebration.

Harold Owings, Jr., Made Captain in Sheriff's Dept.

When Harold J. Owings, Jr., 29, was appointed a patrolman with the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department this morning (July 1) he became the youngest man to hold a captain's rank in a large police agency anywhere in the state. This was the expressed opinion of Sheriff Douglas J. Harvey in announcing promotions in the 55-man agency last week.

Owings has been a detective lieutenant since Harvey took office on Jan. 1. The appointment was based on a written and oral examination and a department evaluation. The captain's vacancy was created when former Capt.
Clare M. LaFolier was named under-sheriff on June 8.

A graduate of Chelsea High school in 1953, Owings worked as a mechanic until 1957, when he was appointed a patrolman with the Ann Arbor Police Department.

A year later he moved to the Sheriff's Department as a uniformed deputy. Four years ago he was promoted to detective sergeant, handling general investigations, enforcement of local liquor laws and specializing in bad check probes.

When Harvey took office in January, Owings was named lieutenant in charge of the Detective division. As a uniformed captain, he will be third in command in the Sheriff's department and will have direct supervision of all uniformed personnel.

Owings and his wife and two children live at 239 Jefferson.

Paul 'Jerry' Niehaus Retires From Position With Bank

Paul F. Niehaus, an assistant cashier at Chelsea State Bank, retired at the close of business yesterday, June 30, after more than 40 years with the bank.

He was honored Thursday evening at a retirement party held at Schumpp's Restaurant and attended by members of the bank's board of directors and officers and employees of the bank. As a member of the occasion, he was presented with a transistor radio.

A life-long area resident, he graduated from Chelsea High school in 1912 and was employed for a year at Chelsea Milling Co. and then for two years at what is now Schneider's Grocery before accepting a position with the former Farmers & Merchants Bank.

He continued with the bank when it merged with the Kempf Commercial & Savings Bank June 1, 1927, to become the Chelsea State Bank and moved to the present location.

In 1942 he was appointed senior assistant paymaster at the pay office of the Ford Willow Run plant where B-24 bombers were manufactured during World War II, and on Sept. 30, 1946 he was appointed acting Chelsea postmaster, a position he held until Dec. 30, 1949. The following year he became a traveling salesman for the Kemper Thomas Co. of Cincinnati, O.

In 1951 he returned to Chelsea State Bank as assistant cashier, the position he held until his retirement.

When questioned about "retirement activities" he said he had made no special plans except that he and Mrs. Niehaus will be doing some traveling.

The first of these travels will be a trip to the Golden Anniversary convention of Kiwanis International being held July 4-8 at New York City. A charter member of the Kiwanis club of Chelsea with a perfect attendance record, and secretary of the club for the past 34 years, he was honored at the regular Kiwanis dinner meeting Monday evening at the Con-

PAUL F. NIEHAUS, more familiarly known as "Jerry," retired effective yesterday after more than 40 years' service at Chelsea State Bank. He had been an assistant cashier since 1951. In the

gregational church in recognition of his efforts on behalf of the club. The recognition was planned to coincide with his retirement from the Chelsea State Bank.

Kiwanis members had made voluntary contributions to a "pot-of-gold" gift amounting to $400 and this was presented to him at Monday's meeting by Kiwanis President Don Turner on behalf of the club inviting him and Mrs.
Niehaus to attend the convention as guests of the Chelsea club. A citation honoring Niehaus was read by William Rademacher, with Mrs. Niehaus included in the honor in recognition of her service as piano accompanist at Kiwanis meetings.

Paul Mann, Chelsea State Bank president, commenting yesterday on Niehaus' retirement, said, "Mr.
Niehaus has served banking in Chelsea faithfully and loyally for more than 40 years. He will be missed, not only by his fellow officers and employees at the bank, but by the many patrons of the bank who are his friends—I believe he has more friends than any other single person in Chelsea."
"Our best wishes are extended to him as he begins his well-earned retirement."

Kiwanians Honor Sercretary's Long Service With 'Loot Bag'

A highlight of Monday's Kiwanis meeting was the surprise presentation of a "golden sack of loot" or "pot of gold" to Paul F.
'Jerry' Niehaus. The "loot" amounted to $400 representing voluntary contributions from Kiwanians to finance a trip to the annual convention of Kiwanis International at New York City for Mr. and Mrs. Niehaus as "special guests" of the Chelsea club. Mrs.
Niehaus was included in the honor because of her service as pianist for the weekly club meetings.

The presentation was made by Kiwanis President Don Turner after William Rademacher read a citation honoring Niehaus.

The citation stated in part, "No one has, or could anyone, devote more time and effort to the good purposes and works of this club.
None has performed his duties with more enthusiasm. None has given of himself so completely or unselfishly."

Mentioning Mrs. Niehaus' helpfulness to the club, the citation states, "she too is a member, if not in fact, surely in our affection."

Rademacher concluded the citation by calling Niehaus "Mr. Kiwanis" and including Mrs. Nie-haus (Ruth) in the honor as the club members gave him a standing ovation.

Guest Kiwanians present at Monday's meeting included Gor-

THE LANSING REPORT FROM
 senator
GIL BURSLEY

Milk, Sunday liquor, meat inspection, school aid, appropriation bills and executive reorganization of state government held the legislative headlines last week.

By Friday at midnight the legislative had approved more than 400 new laws. This is more than 100 more than in recent years and I think a lot of unnecessary and unimportant laws were passed. Furthermore I think that many of them were hastily drafted and will require later amendment.

The Senate I feel was far more responsible in its approach to legislative matters than the House. But in the Senate for the first time we followed a parliamentary procedure which materially limits thorough consideration of a bill. Our procedure would be to have all Committee of the Whole debate and Third Reading (Final Vote) on the same afternoon or evening. Historically these two distinct processes have been on succeeding days in order to permit careful checking of a bill with one's constituents, with competent authorities and also to permit amendments made by the Committee of the Whole to be printed in the Journal so the legislator would have a written text available prior to the final vote. I certainly hope the Senate will go back to a more deliberative approach to legislation and abandon this year's procedure which involved suspending rules and rushing everything through on the same day.

In the Senate as in recent years there were basically three groups only this year. It was the Democrats, moderate-conservative, and a liberal big-spending group. The first group retained control and had continuous support from Senate Republicans. In recent years it had been the Republicans who had broken into two factions.

The milk bill which would prohibit the sale of milk by chain stores as a loss leader has been "put on the table" by the Senate. An interim committee has already been appointed to review carefully both sides of the question and give us recommendations in the fall. The substitute bill which was finally being considered would not have taken effect in any event until 1966 so this delay and study is the most sensible approach.

The bill to permit Wayne county residents to vote on whether they would want the Sunday sale of liquor was defeated by a narrow margin and the bill is thus dead for this session. It had previously passed the House of Representatives by a close vote. I voted against this measure, but I am sure it will be back again next year.

Meat inspection legislation has been proposed for years in Michigan and this year we finally got it through. This will be a definite protection for the public and was sought by farm groups. I voted for this bill.

School aid was increased by $71,000,000 over last year. This was about twice the increase the Governor recommended. However, record revenue collections permitted this step without creating a fiscal imbalance. I voted for this measure.

Apart from school aid the grand total of appropriations as passed by the legislature was only about $4,000,000 off from the Governor's recommendations. By and large I think it is a responsible budget and I think we will have enough surplus left to take care of the fiscal year which follows the one we are just entering.

I am preparing a detailed summary of all legislation passed which I will mail any citizen requesting it. I also have a limited supply of 1965 highway maps which I will also be happy to mail upon request. Send any requests to my residence at 2065 Geddes Ave., Ann Arbor, as we will only be in Lansing on an irregular basis for the next few weeks. The legislature is due to return to the Capitol for a day on July 20 and then for a full session on Sept. 14.

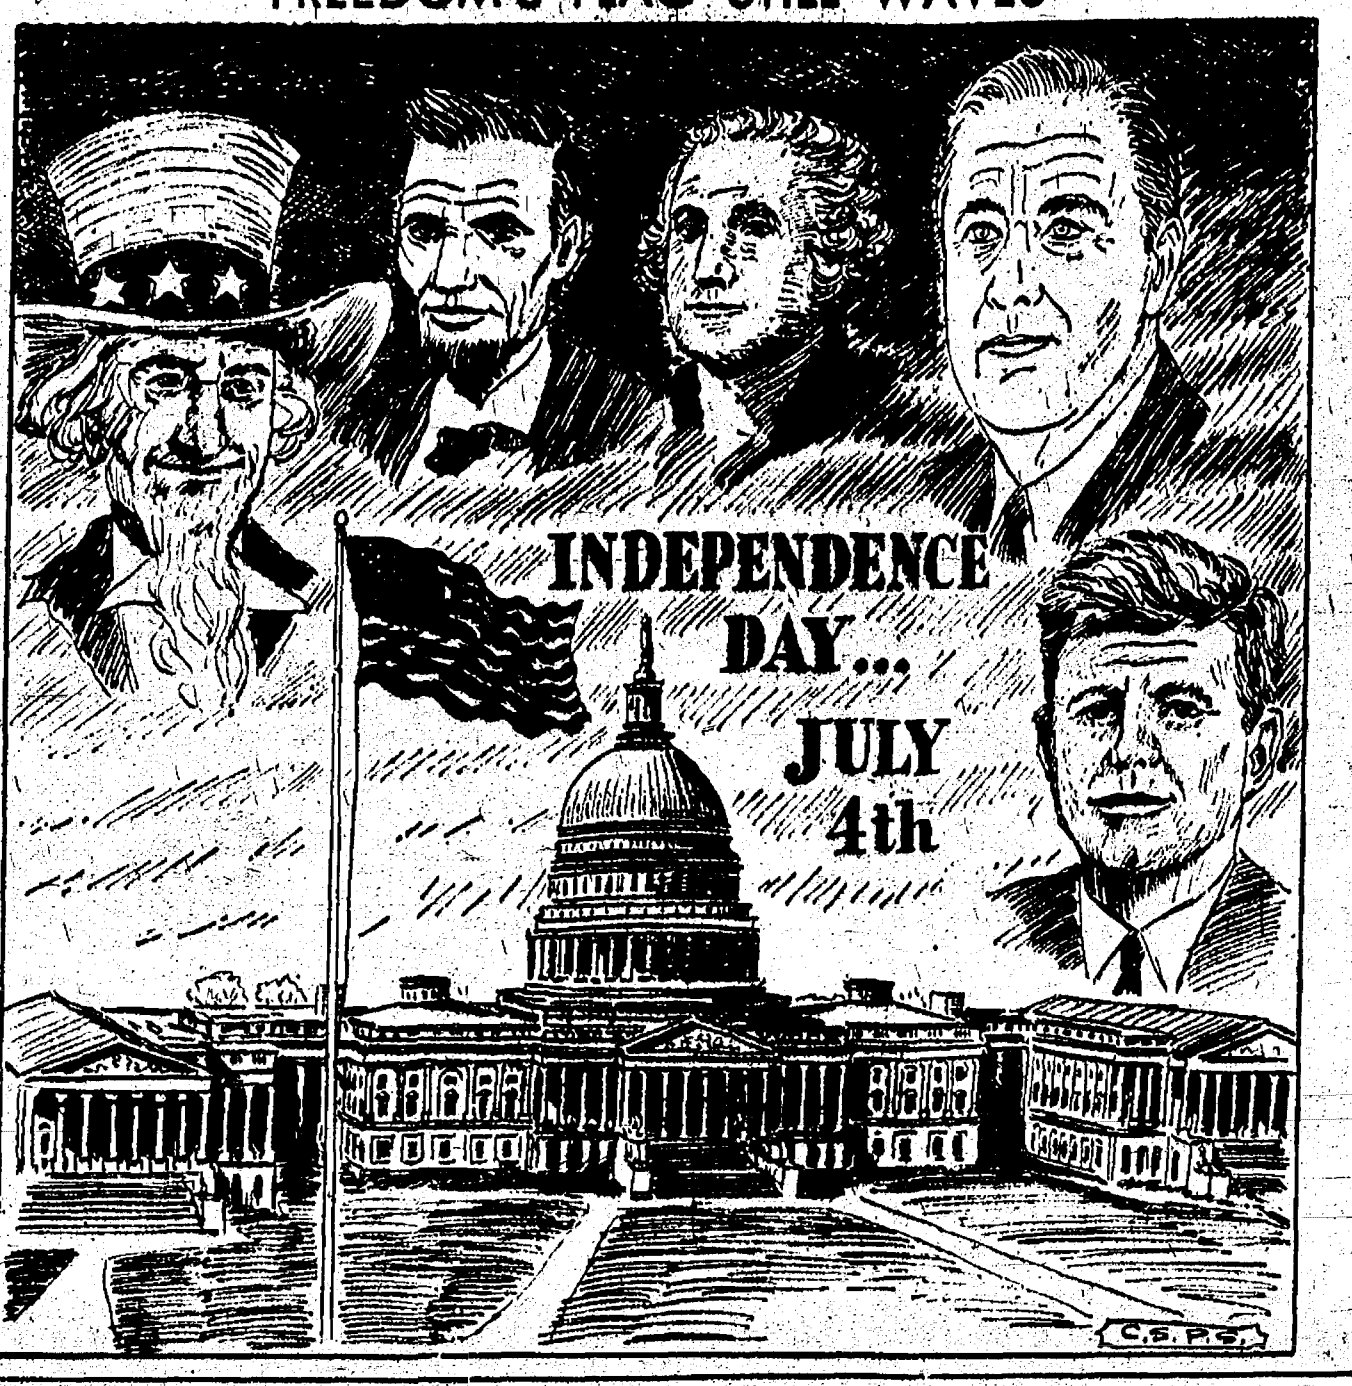

During recent weeks I have been meeting with citizens on Saturday mornings and have thus far conducted these Senate Citizen Sessions in Saline, Chelsea, Milan and this past Saturday, Manchester. On July 10 I plan to meet with any interested Dexter residents. Tecumseh and Blissfield meetings are just now being arranged. If any service clubs, ladies clubs, study groups—in fact any type of citizen group—would like me to meet with them and report on the Lansing session, new legislation and what the future might bring of interest, I would be most happy to try to work out a mutually satisfactory date.

There is no substitute for person-to-person communication between legislator and constituent.

FREEDOM'S FLAG STILL WAVES

★ MICHIGAN MIRROR ★
 By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Industry for U.P.
 A new and profitable industry for the Upper Peninsula was suggested by John Stout, MSU food science freshman, in a term paper for one of his classes. He urges that market and food researchers check details to be sure if his plan is practical.

Different Maps
 Two official maps of Michigan are now in use widely by travelers and state boosters.

The first has been in publication for several years by the State Highway Department. In full color, this is designated the "official highway map."

New to the scene this year is one published jointly by the Michigan Historical Commission and the State Tourist Council. It is dubbed "A guide to Michigan's historical attractions." Both are free for the asking while supplies last.

Designed to inform visitors about the state's historic sites, the latter publication was started relatively modestly in just three colors.

Listings and locations of more than 200 historic sites and markers, some 40-odd historic buildings and another 53 museums are included. Detail maps of Kalamazoo, Grand Rapids, Sault Ste. Marie, Mackinac Island, Detroit and the downriver Detroit area are inset for their historic significance.

The reverse side contains printed matter including a brief history of the state, description of the buildings and landmarks numbered on the map side, and pertinent facts about Michigan such as the motto, bird, flag and population date.

Land Battles
 Frequently over a period of years the same old fights are renewed, some of great magnitude and others of little or no significance.

Verbal fights regarding the state's land area have been among to put too much frosting on the cake in civic matters.

And while the fellers was on the subject of community poverty and handouts, Clem Webster brings up the point that in all wars it was customary to put veterans in the key positions. He claimed we got too many rookies at the wheel on this project, that these matters should be in the hands of the veterans that fought in his war in the early thirties.

For instant, reported Clem, he recollected back in 1932, when things got so bad some feller in Chicago was wearing socks with leather heels, claimed one pair would last a lifetime. Clem was of the opinion President Johnson had ought to locate this feller and put him in charge of Division Headquarters.

Personal Mister Editor, I think they was going to be a certain amount of tax money wasted in this poverty project either way, no matter who was in charge. I'm like the old timer that was listening to two candidates argue the issues. He said he was mighty thankful only one of 'em could get elected.

Yours truly,
 Uncle Lew.

Staff members elected at the agreed-to a redistribution of the land to Ohio.

State lawmaker Raymond Kehres, D-Monroe, in whose district the area lies has taken somewhat of a tongue-in-cheek attitude and counter-proposed that Michigan take all of Toledo to go along with the lost peninsula rather than give the square-mile Erie Township to our southern neighbor.

Kehres acknowledges he opposes the Ohio bid. He semi-seriously discusses asking Congress to let the people on the peninsula vote on the question of annexing to Ohio.

He might be wise to consider the Ohio proposal in the tenor in which it was made. The 130 voters might surprise him if he purchases it lightly.

 Culminating several years' efforts to establish a health unit for Washtenaw county, the board of supervisors passed a resolution Monday favoring the unit by a vote of 19-8, and appropriated $8,875 to operate until Oct. 1, and ordered the hiring of a director.

In a proclamation by Gov. Murray D. Van Wagoner, citizens were called upon to join in an effort to prevent the tragic death toll on Michigan highways recorded over Memorial Day—49 persons. Gov. Van Wagoner asked everyone to do his part to prevent a similar record for the imminent 4th of July week-end.

34 Years Ago...
 Thursday, June 25, 1931—
 The first settler arrived in what is now Sylvan township only 100 years ago, on June 24, 1831. He was Cyrus W. Beckwith, who settled on a farm now owned by E. J. Weinberg.

Nine band concerts will be played in Chelsea and nearby areas this summer by Claude Isham's band. They will be financed by local business firms.

Park your car right and hold your tongue reads the heading over an article about a complaint received by Sylvan township officers. The complaint: unlawful parking along Cavanaugh Lake narrow east shore drive and scene language used by some of the young swimmers.

In the 34 Years Ago column note that the graduating class of '97 of Chelsea High school consisted of eight young ladies. Another is the installation of a telephone exchange in the State and office after the new telephone line had been established for business between Chelsea and St. Clair.

Life teaching certificates were awarded at Michigan State Normal College commencement exercises to Ruth Freeman, Katherine Nial, Nadene Dancer, Oleta S. Mrs. R. D. Gates and Mrs. Geo. Atkinson.

Fire of undetermined origin completely destroyed a large warehouse and its contents belong to the Chelsea Lumber, Grain and Coal Co., Saturday evening. Loss was estimated at between $12,000 and $15,000.

DIGS UP CASH.
 St. Paul, Minn. — While playing with her pet dog, Mae Nelson, 10, was surprised when Skipper dug up a wad of $100 bills. Lila Mae called her mother and they dug up a claim of $3,000. If no one claims in 90 days, they will get the entire sum.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The fellers at the country store Saturday night was advocating a strange new philosophy that might get 'em investigated for treason by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce.

Ed Doolittle, that ain't exact in tune with the Great Society, allowed as how ever community had ought to get rid of all clubs and organizations that was boosting things. He was of the opinion that, with all this Federal money for places that was run down and in a state of poverty, boosters was doing the community a heap of harm.

Zeke Grubb was agreed with Ed, claimed ever patriotic citizen should now be lamenting about how pore and decayed the community was, and how they wasn't much hope for survival unless the Great Society stepped in with a heap of that Appalachia money and saved the situation. Some Government official, claimed Zeke, might overhear the President of the Chamber of Commerce bragging about how good things was in the community and cost the place hundreds of thousands of dollars in Federal handouts.

Bug Hookum didn't go all the way with Ed and Zeke, claimed it might not hurt matters for the boosters to say a good word for the community now and then if they so ter kept their voice low and done it in a confidential manner. But he was agreed that as a general policy it was better in these times to knock instead of boost. Furthermore, Mister Editor, Bug allowed as how your newspaper might get into the hands of one of them Appalachia doctors in Washington and Bug said you had ought to be mighty careful not

DISADVANTAGED AMERICANS

Fundamental to the American dream is equality of opportunity. Not all of us, however, have been able to share in this dream. Some Americans have remained apart from the mainstream of our society—receiving neither the benefits nor the responsibilities that come with our way of life. These isolated segments of our population are known as the culturally disadvantaged.

Congregated in both city and rural slums, millions of Americans are living in bewilderment and ignorance. Their solitary and sometimes primitive way of life has not prepared them for today's social ferment.

Major ethnic groups among the disadvantaged are the Negroes, Spanish Americans, poor Southern whites, and the American Indians—people whose livelihood has traditionally derived from subsistence farming. As agriculture became mechanized, they were forced off their land. Many fled to the cities; others took part-time work on neighboring farms.

If these people are to become part of our modern world, society must somehow bridge the gap created by their limited experience. The school is the logical instrument for this delicate and important task. With the cooperation of an understanding community, skillful educators can reach these disadvantaged Americans and give them hope of overcoming their cultural handicap.

"It does look a little tight in the shoulders... Let's try it without the coat-hanger."

IN THE OPEN

By Lee Smits

Conservation starts off with water and topsoil. We succeed in conserving these two, or we perish.
Among the many other meanings of conservation are wood ibis and alligators.
Everglades National Park in Florida is bigger than the State of Delaware. A man standing on a 12-foot stepladder could look across the Everglades for 100 miles if he had a telescope. Right now he would be looking over a barren desert where innumerable wild creatures are doomed.
Drouth is the immediate cause, the way to disaster having been prepared by the works of man.
Ten years ago engineers figured that a system of canals and levees in the Everglades would speed the run-off of flood-water when hurricanes strike the Florida coast.
The system blocked the southward flow of water through the Everglades. Rainfall shortage completed the disaster.
Like other national parks and any sizeable area where nature isn't interfered with the Everglades attract a procession of far-travelling pilgrims who find nourishment for the spirit, the imagination, exercise for awareness. There is no handy name for this kind of natural resource.
For a review of conservation priorities in Michigan we turn to a man whose energies are largely directed to proclaiming the principles of human ecology. Carl T.
Johnson is a member of the State Conservation Commission; founder of the Michigan Bear Hunters' Association, one of the most militant conservation outfits we have.
He lives in Cadillac, has his offices in Grand Rapids, spends a lot of time in Lansing around Conservation Department offices and the legislature.
Meanwhile Carl is on call to address service clubs and other organizations on the subject uppermost in his mind. As a successful businessman Carl takes an accountant's view of the conservation problems of state and nation. He asks for better forest management, for multiple use; for geological exploration to uncover additional mineral wealth.
Here are some of the points Carl hammers away on:
"Communism in China does not have its roots in political theory. Its roots are in the soil of China. They were planted there by greed, mismanagement and lack of knowledge many many years before the birth of Marx or Lenin. The roots of social catastrophe started to grow in 2200 B.C. when Emperor Shen Mung failed to sell the Chinese people on his policies for wise use of the land.
"Managing people becomes tougher all the time, simply because there are more of them. In Michigan we expect the population to balloon from today's 8 1/2 million to 10 million 30 years from now.
"Michigan rightly takes pride in

New Highway Dept. Director Is Native of Upper Peninsula

Howard E. Hill, director of the 5,000-man Michigan State Highway Department is a native of Calumet in the Upper Peninsula. He graduated from Detroit Central High school and from the Michigan College of Mining and Technology at Houghton.
Before joining the State Highway Department as deputy commissioner-engineering, in 1957, he spent 18 years in the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers.
His military duties included supervising the designing and construction of 15 major air fields in Michigan, Ohio and Indiana during the late 1930's and early 1940's.
After World War II, he returned to civilian status, headed design and construction teams for Veterans Administration hospitals in Michigan, northern Ohio and northern Indiana.
During the Korean War, he served as chief of the design branch for the Detroit District of the U. S. Corps of Engineers and was responsible for work valued at $280 million.
Hill, now 58, was designated acting director in January and under his guidance, the State Highway Department's construction program is continuing at a $160 million a year pace.
After graduating from high school, Hill worked first in underground operations for the Calumet and Hecla Consolidated Copper Co. in Calumet, for two years in the assembly and export operations division of Chrysler Corp. in Highland Park, in a gold mine in Arizona and on a dredge in the Detroit River.

Standard Want Ad Helps Find Pet Quickly

Are Chelsea Standard ads effective?

You bet! Just ask Caroline and Chandler Lane. Last week their pet Siamese cat disappeared. By Thursday evening, however, he was back at their home on Main St. and everyone was happy—the two preschoolers and their parents. Dr. and Mrs. W. L. Lane. Furthermore, as a result of the ad, they helped another family locate their missing pet.

State Police Plan Extra Patrols for 4th

Special State Police Highway patrols will be operated over the Independence Day week-end beginning at noon, Friday, July 2, and continuing until midnight Monday, July 5, according to Commissioner Frederick E. Davids.

Emphasizing that Michigan's road toll of 43 deaths in the July 4 period last year was one of the state's worst holiday losses, Davids appealed to drivers to be especially vigilant in the expected heavy traffic.

Pass days for State Police uniform officers are cancelled for the four days July 2-5. Detectives where available will be used to relieve uniform officers for patrol duty.

There will be maximum patrol coverage from 3 to 9 p.m. each day of the holiday period, with special attention to highway sections showing bad accident experience.

Assisting the State Police will be 108 National Guard members who will serve as second men on two-man patrols or on point control.

Tax-Reverted Lands Available to Former Owners

Lansing —Former owners who lost lands to the State for failure to pay their 1961 taxes still have a chance to get their holdings back, the Conservation Department announces.

Here is one of two ways they can go about it. Between now and the deadline of Aug. 2, they may contact the Department's lands section in Lansing, asking that their tax-reverted properties be offered for sale.

Through their applications, lands will be put up for public auction at 25 percent of their last assessed valuation. They will go to the person who makes the highest offer, with each former owner having the top bid within 30 days after the sale.

The other way that a one-time owner may attempt to recover his tax-delinquent lands is by requesting his local unit of government to adopt a resolution which will prevent his property from being offered for immediate sale.

Under this procedure, the resolution must be filed with the Department's lands section by Nov. 2, 1965. Back taxes then are to be paid to the city or county treasurer.

The sooner these payments are made, the better. Until they are, persons using improved property must pay monthly rental fees which are turned over to counties where the lands are located.

Landowners, who are in arrears with their 1962 and 1963 taxes, can avoid going through any of these steps by simply paying their overdue amounts to local county treasurers.

CHS Class of '55 Holds Reunion Party

The group plans another reunion in 1970.

MOTHERS' CLUB

The Tuesday, July 13 meeting of the Mothers' Club of Chelsea will be held at the home of Mrs. Donald McDonald, 519 Arthur, at 8 p.m. Mrs. Dorn Myers was hostess to the come-as-you-are meeting on June 8. The group held its May meeting at Bill Cones' Restaurant in Jackson.

Two Chelsea Girls Leave July 9 To Study Spanish in Madrid

If "the rain in Spain is mainly in the plain," the two Chelsea girls who will leave for Madrid on July 9 won't get much use out of their raincoats. Studying Spanish at the University of Madrid for six weeks will be Alyce Riemenschneider, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Riemenschneider, 175 Park St., and Penny Eisenbeiser, daughter of the Leslie Eisenbeisers, 2081 Island Lake Rd. Accompanying them will be Carol Chamberlin, daughter of the Gordon Chamberlins, of Lansing, and David Knieley, English teacher at Chelsea Junior High school, who will act as supervisor for the trio.

Along with other students from other parts of the United States, they will be housed in the university dormitories during the six-week course. Arrangements for the trip, the curriculum and the week-end sightseeing and social activities have been made by the Foreign Language League, which is headquartered in Salt Lake City. U. Alyce has just graduated from Chelsea High school while Penny is a senior. They will return Aug. 23.

Summer Band Classes Have Monday Holiday

Chelsea Public schools instrumental music classes began Monday for all students currently taking instrumental music as well as for post-graduate musicians.

Bruce W. Galbraith, band director, said the classes will continue through Aug. 6. He called attention to the fact that the seventh grade classes meet at the High School Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 9:30 a.m. until 10:30 a.m. The time was incorrectly given in the schedule for all classes as published in last week's issue of The Standard.

Because of the Fourth of July holiday observance on Monday, July 5, there will be no music classes that day, Director Galbraith announced.

REPORT from LANSING

State Representative

Thomas G. Sharpe

By the time you read this column, the 73rd Michigan legislature, controlled by the Democratic party for the first time in more than 30 years, will have ground slowly to a halt—to return again after a three-month summer recess to tackle some of the crucial problems left dangling in air.

A few good pieces of legislation have been enacted, but the number of unsolved, crucial issues still leaves much cause for concern.

On the positive side, some progress was made in providing tax relief for our senior citizens, but this problem was only partially solved since the legislation enacted provided only for home owners and did nothing for those senior citizens who rent. It was not until the original bill was substantially changed, and not until the Democrats promised to pass a similar measure to cover renters later this session, that the measure received unanimous legislative approval and the Governor's signature.

In the field of education, considerable increased aid was approved—but even this was in jeopardy because of the unnecessary partisan maneuvering of the majority party. Although these appropriations were supported by members of both parties, they may be only hollow gestures if steps are not taken to raise the necessary revenues with which to meet them.

Probably the most significant piece of legislation was passed with bipartisan support. This was the reorganization of the executive branch of government—consolidating the nearly 150 different state boards, commissions and agencies into 19 departments, as follows: Departments of State, Attorney General, Treasury, Administration, State Police, Military Affairs, Agriculture, Civil Service, Commerce, Conservation, Corrections, Education, Licensing and Regulation, State Highways, Labor, Mental Health, Public Health, Social Services, and Civil Rights. This reorganization of departments was called for in the new state constitution recently adopted by the people.

The most conspicuous failure of this session has been the lack of commitment to fiscal responsibility. As the state's legislative costs soar, and government operations increase in both cost and scope, fiscal reform is still in the "talking" stage, with the Democrats assuring us that a solution to the state's financial problems will be forthcoming when the legislature returns in the fall.

Highway traffic tolls continue to mount at an alarming pace, yet few pieces of significant legislation were enacted this session to halt this horrifying loss of life and property.

Justices Crack Down on State Park Violators

Lansing — Livingston county justices of the peace are co-operating with the Conservation Department in its crackdown on violators at southern Michigan state parks and recreation areas.

During the past month, they have handed out 21 fines ranging from $10 to $75 to persons, mostly teenagers, who were arrested for illegally possessing alcohol at Island Lake recreation area.

"These finds should serve fair warning that we and local justices mean business in our efforts to control wild beer busts, vandalism, hot rodding, and other violations at all southern parks and recreation areas," reports Conservation Department regional manager Warren W. Shapton.

Prompted by a rash of rowdyism earlier this spring, the State Police and local sheriff's departments have also rallied their support behind the program to quell troublemakers at these public playgrounds.

Modern Wisdom: A fuss in time saves nine.

Other significant issues not dealt with include county home rule, Mackinac Bridge tolls, reorganization of the military establishment, tax relief for senior citizens who rent rather than own their homes—to mention but a few.

Whether better things can be expected when this session resumes in the fall remains to be seen. We can only hope.

Motorists May Keep Deer Killed by Car

Lansing — Resident motorists killing deer on Michigan's highways are now able to keep the animals, they hit, the Conservation Department announces.

The Department's new immediate-effect policy is tied to the state's spiraling increase of vehicle-deer collisions which reached a record high of nearly 6,000 in 1964.

With the number of these accidents jumping steadily during the last five years, conservation officers have been hard pressed to dispose of animals struck down by motorists. At the same time, many drivers experiencing run-ins with deer have asked officers to give them the animals.

In many cases where deer haven't been too badly mangled by vehicles and meat spoilage hasn't occurred, the Department has turned the animals over to lunch programs of schools, county sheriff's departments, and other public institutions.

However, because of the sheer number of deer slaughtered on the state's roads, there often isn't enough time to save the meat.

"Under our new policy, we hope to cut this waste of venison and, by the same token, give motorists some sort of compensation for the vehicle damage they suffer," explains John A. Angulin, chief of the Department's law-enforcement section.

"With each smashup between whitetails and cars costing an average of about $200 in repairs, we don't anticipate that people will deliberately try to hit deer as a means of putting meat on the table," he adds.

In keeping deer they have killed, motorists will need to obtain permits from conservation officers. This requirement will validate the fact that the animals were actually killed by vehicles. It will control the possibility of someone trying to pull a "fast one" by illegally shooting a deer and then claiming that he hit it with his car.

Officers of the State Police and local law enforcement agencies have been authorized to release highway-killed deer to drivers. They will take the names, addresses, and license numbers of motorists and relay this information to local conservation officers who will then contact each driver to issue a free possession permit.

Persons allowed to recover deer must consume or dispose of their animals' meat within 30 days after permits are obtained. They may not give the animals to someone else.

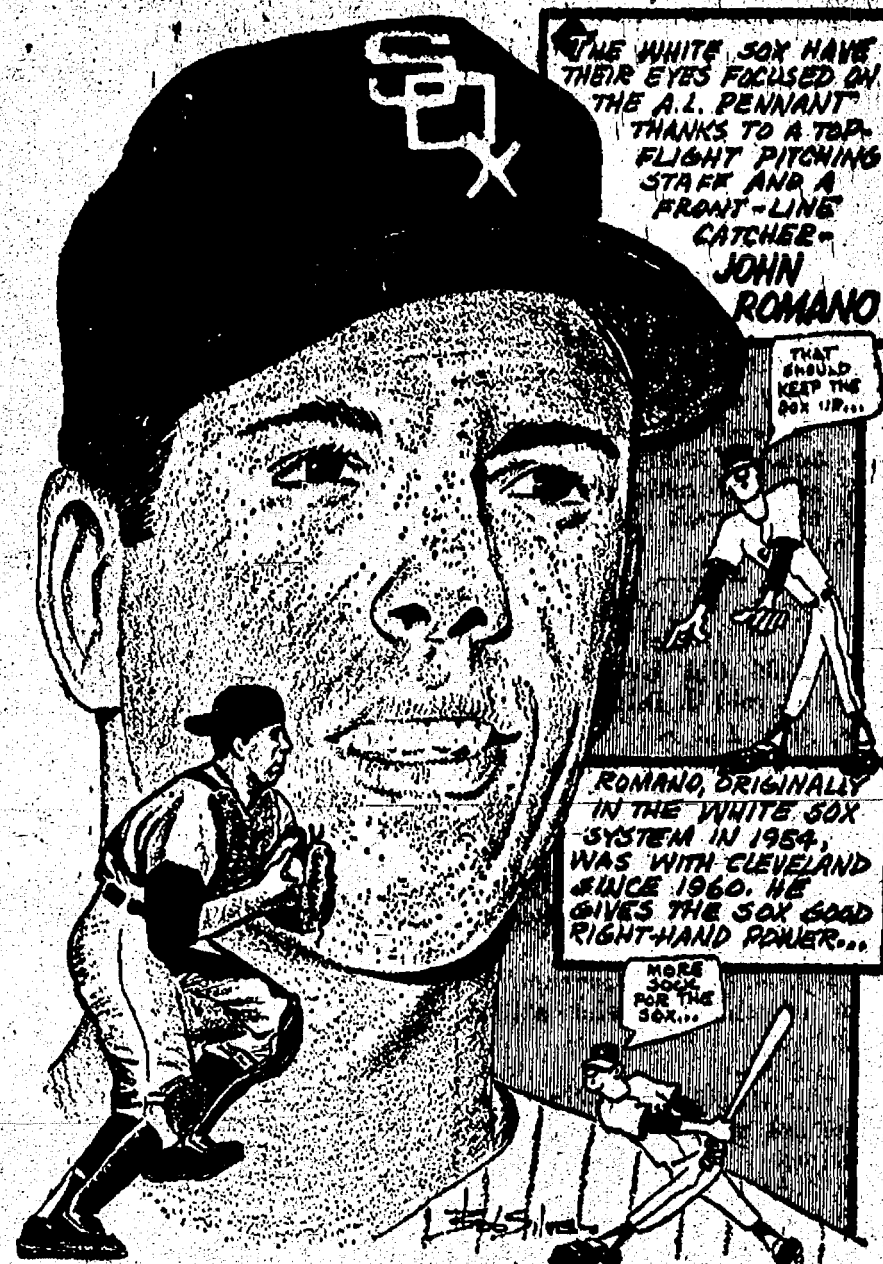

Both of these regulations are also designed to prevent illegal possession of venison.

To avoid causing deer possession problems with other states, non-residents will not be allowed to take home whitetails which they hit in Michigan.

Spotted fawns and other immature deer killed by vehicles will not be turned over to motorists because they have little meat to be salvaged for eating.

With the worst months for vehicle-deer accidents still ahead, latest Department field reports show that slightly more than 1,400 whitetails had met death along the state's highways through the end of last April. The toll for this period was down about 12 percent from the year before.

Mrs. Ronnie Lee Braun

Linda R. Koenigter, Ronnie Braun Wed at Congregational Church

Linda Rose Koenigter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Karl E. Koenigter, 630 Flanders St., was united in marriage with Ronnie Lee Braun, son of Mrs. Doris Braun of Traverse City, and Lawrence Braun of South Lyon, at the Congregational church Saturday.

The candlelight ceremony was performed by the Rev. Robert A. Livingston, assisted by the Rev. P. H. Grabowski. "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer" were sung by Grace Penhaligon. A full-skirted gown of nylon over Chantilly lace and taffeta was worn by the bride. The bodice featured a sabbina neckline and long, pointed sleeves. The train was formed from three back tiers. Her elbow-length veil was secured by a crown of pearls and aurora crystals and her cascading floral arrangement was made with white roses and stephanotis, centered with a moth orchid.

Her honor maid and sister, Janice Kay Koenigter, wore a gown of light blue chiffon over taffeta, a pillbox hat and carried a cascade of pale pink roses encircled with tiny rose colored carnations.

Identically gowned were bridesmaids Mrs. Stanley Dyer, Jr., Mrs. E. E. Wheeler, of Whitmore Lake and Susan Grossman. Their bouquets were rose-colored roses with pale pink carnations.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Koenigter chose pastel pink batiste, made with a lace trimmed bodice and pleated skirt. Her accessories and an orchid corsage were in a matching shade.

A two-piece willow green lace over taffeta with matching shoes, gold accessories and a golden orchid made up the costume worn by the bridegroom's mother.

As flower girl, Janice Braun, sister of the bridegroom, was dressed in white lace over blue with a blue sash and circlet of pink roses. She carried a basket

Judith K. Kaveman Becomes Bride of John M. Reilly

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Haveman of Grand Rapids. Her gown of ivory shantastic featured a back panel of Venice lace. A pillbox of lace held her veil of silk illusion.

Attending her were honor maid Judith Sprout and Karen Pearson, both of Grand Rapids. The bridegroom's brother, James, was his best man and Frank Lee of Manchester, David Glynn of Gregory and Jack Haveman, brother of the bride of Grand Rapids, were ushers.

ANN ARBOR, MICHIGANLanguage Research Center Established on U-M Campus

A new Center for Research on Language and Language Behavior (ORLLD) has been established at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

The three-fold objective of the Center is to combine investigation, application, and dissemination in order to develop new techniques that will enable people of all ages and abilities to learn languages most effectively.

The Center hopes to achieve these goals by four means:

(1) Basic research on language learning with people of all ages and levels of language proficiency;
(2) Activities to improve the techniques of language learning;
(3) Applied research to field test instructional techniques, materials and devices;

(4) Distribution of information for the enhancement of research, development and instruction in language learning.

Today's world demands linguistic competence in an ever-increasing number of people. Scientific research has contributed much toward the improvement of methods and materials in language teaching. But a greater effort is needed to co-ordinate the work of scientists and educators concerned with different facets of language study and to carry out comprehensive and integrated research.

The Center is organized with representatives of various disciplines involved with research in speaking, hearing and language. The disciplines presently represented include computer science, education, electrical engineering, English, linguistics, mathematics, philosophy, psychology, reading science and speech correction.

The Center began operating several months ago and is currently involved in 25 different research projects, utilizing computing and measuring equipment valued at more than $300,000.

The basic and applied research projects, which are either underway or ready, are organized in five general areas (1) speech production and perception, (2) language development, (3) behavioral engineering, (4) motor aspects of language, and (5) high-level language structures.

One project being conducted with computers is the Speech Audio-Instructional Device (SAID). This was developed by a group of the Center's scientists. It teaches pitch, loudness, and rhythm in pronunciation.

The purpose of SAID is to extend the usefulness of the speech teaching device and to find out if it can also check the student's individual vowel and consonant responses by using information from his voice, speech muscles and breath.

This would also contribute toward the development of an automatic speech-recognition system. The Center is an outgrowth of the Behavioral Analysis Laboratory (BAL) which was organized in 1961 by Dr. Harlan L. Lane, associate professor of the Psychology Department and director of the new center.

Dr. Lane, while working at the BAL with specialists in fields other than psychology, conceived of a center particularly designed to correlate all research in language and language behavior which would appeal to all people working in that area, regardless of their field of specialization. The Center currently employs 45 people who represent the various disciplines.

The Center is now in process of cataloging research in language and language behavior currently being done around the country.

A brochure describing the Center is being published. It is hoped that many researchers in the United States will be attracted by the unique opportunities the Center offers for research now and in the future. These opportunities will include not only the centralization of specialists and equipment, but also the availability of many reference materials.

Present plans for publicizing and expanding the Center call for the publication of an abstract journal, noting all articles published which relate in any way to language or language behavior, and the establishment of a language research library that will become a source for material pertaining to language research. It is hoped that all of these measures will lead to broader financial support from foundations and organizations.

The Center is operated by Dr. Lane, Dr. Robert D. Tarte, Associate Director of Administration, and Dr. Eric M. Zale, Associate Director of Dissemination.

Some of the nation's most productive scholars in the psychology area are involved with the Center: Harlan L. Lane, Kenneth L. Pike, John C. Catford, and Ronald S. Tikofsky.

Average Motorist
Pays $3.22 Daily
To Own Auto

The average Michigan motorist pays $3.22 daily to own and drive a car 28 miles, according to research statistics released by Automobile Club of Michigan.

"Car owners in Michigan spend approximately $8 million annually on their automobiles," says Jerry E. Flaher, Auto Club touring manager.

"For many persons, a car is the largest, daily expense after food and housing," he adds.

These facts are derived from information in AAA's pamphlet titled "Your Driving Costs," which is issued biennially. Information in the latest edition is based on the performance of a 1965 eight-cylinder standard car of the lower price class.

Yearly cost for driving 10,000 miles is set at $1,177. This is up $15 as compared with 1963, according to figures compiled for Auto Club by two independent research firms.

Expenses for gas, oil, tire and routine maintenance remain unchanged since the last report at 3.7 cents per mile. Fix costs—depreciation, insurance and registration—are up slightly across the nation.

Auto Club separates car expenses into two categories, as follows:

1. Variable costs per mile (based on 10,000 miles yearly)—gas and oil, 2.53 cents; maintenance, .68 cents, and tires, .44 cents. This totals a little over $1.01 daily or $370 yearly.

2. Fixed costs per year—fire and theft insurance, $31; property damage and liability, $126; license and registration, $24, and depreciation, $626. This totals $2.21 daily or $807 yearly.

Motorists who travel 10,000 miles yearly spend 11.8 cents per mile, according to Auto Club's 10,000 miles yearly up the cost per mile, whereas an annual mileage of 20,000 lowers it to 7.7 cents per mile.

Michigan car owners, however, pay less than the national average for car operation due to lower insurance rates than those paid in many other states.

In addition to the breakdown on operating costs for private passenger cars, the pamphlet—available free to Auto Club members at local division offices—has special sections on allowances for cars used on company business, vacation travel costs plus a special report on compact cars.
