Albert Johnsen Will Head New School District

Albert C. Johnsen, former superintendent of the Chelsea Public School district, has been named superintendent of the newly consolidated Benton Harbor school district. The appointment is for three years, at a salary of $20,000 annually. He had been superintendent of the Benton Harbor city schools since February, 1961.

Johnsen joined the Chelsea school system in 1954. He was appointed superintendent four years later and served in that capacity until 1959, when he resigned to assume the superintendency of the Willow Run schools in 1959. He left Willow Run for Benton Harbor.

While a resident of Washtenaw county, he was active in his civic affairs, was a long-time member of the Washtenaw County School Superintendents Association and part-time lecturer in the Eastern Michigan Graduate school.

Youth Ready For State 4-H Club Week

More than 1,000 Michigan 4-H Club youths, including Washtenaw county, will spend four days in July on the Michigan State University Campus attending the 47th annual edition of 4-H Club Week.

The youthful delegates will come from all of Michigan's counties to attend the July 13-16 event having the general theme of "Destination Leadership." Delegates were selected for their outstanding record as 4-H club members in their home counties, according to Mrs. Lora Wise, Washtenaw county 4-H club agent.

This year's program, planned by a special 35 member planning committee composed of some of last year's delegates, will feature discussions on human relations, international understanding and boy-girl relationships.

The programs will include extensive use of closed circuit television.

The international understanding program will be designed so delegates can return to their home communities and take active leadership roles in helping other teenagers understand the workings of the United Nations.

The human relations phase of 4-H Club Week will explore the meaning and causes of discrimination, prejudice and other social problems concerning human relations. The youths will form 30 separate discussion groups to seek alternative solutions to problems and to find roles they as individuals can play in their home communities, state, nation and the entire world.

Delegates from Washtenaw county include Nancy Koenig, Charlene Powers, Bob Kuschmaul and Susan Hines from Chelsea; Judy Wheeler, Mark Ruhlig and Linda Mast from Dexter; Bethel Kemner, Marcia Hieber, Mary Uphaus and Art Feldkamp from Manchester; Sherry Goldsmith of Belleville; Don Liss, Mike Wusthoff, Carol Gannon, Pat Skaskiewicz and Sue Gees from Ypsilanti; Gerald Steeb, Karen Lindemann, Gail Gibbach and Elaine Steeb from Ann Arbor.

Dr. and Mrs. Thomas McMillan of Charlotte, N.C., spent Saturday and Sunday here visiting Mrs. L. P. Vogel, Miss Florence Vogel and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Osterle and daughter, Jane.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Howell and family, of Jackson, were Sunday visitors at the home of Mrs. Emma Seitz.

LEAVING FOR MADRID: David Knisely gets a chuckle out of the raincoat which Alyce Riemenschneider (center) and Penny Eisenbeiser stashed away, preparatory to their departure tomorrow. The two girls and their supervisor, a teacher at Chelsea High school, will spend six weeks attending the University of Madrid. While both girls plan to study the Spanish language in a program sponsored by the Foreign Language Institute, the historic highlights around one of the oldest capitals in Europe will probably do as much for their interest in the history of the Iberian peninsula as its language. The group, which will be joined by Carol Chamberlain of Lansing, will return Aug. 23.

Neighbors Help Eschelbach After Mowing Accident

"He was trying to finish a little more after dinner was ready," said his wife. "But he was lucky. It could have been his right hand and much more severe."

Men from seven neighborhood farms completed his mowing, some 15 workers in the bee putting up 1,500 hives of hay. Eschelbach was in St. Joseph Mercy hospital, Ann Arbor until last Thursday.

Families participating in the mowing included those of Neal Stierle, Robert and LeRoy Heller, Robert Musolf, Loren Koenig, Elmer Haab and Loren Wackenhut, all of Lima and Freedom township.

Class of '97 Survivors Regret Alumni Banquet Cancellation

In the "Just Reimiscing" column of The Standard July 1 edition, mention was made that in the 34 Years Ago column of the issue of June 25, 1931, it was stated that the 1897 class of Chelsea High school consisted of "eight young ladies."

The item was of particular interest to Mrs. Otto Luick of 607 S. Main St. since she was a member of that class. One member of the class, Thirza Wallace, who became a school teacher, died a short time later after taking a position in Minnesota; the other seven, however, kept in close touch with each other and until recently, attended alumni banquets almost each year since their graduation.

At this time there are only four survivors—Mrs. Luick, Mrs. Linna Lighthall Miles of Ann Arbor, Mrs. Lillian Gerard Hoppe in California, and Mrs. Marie Bacon Schneider who now resides at the Methodist Home.

The three members of the class who have died in recent years are Mrs. Elvira Clark Visel, Miss Minnie Schumacher and Mrs. Beatrice Bacon Thompson.

Mrs. Luick said she was disappointed that this year's Chelsea High school alumni banquet was canceled. She had intended to be present.

She said she still has the program of the 1897 Class Night and Commencement exercises, both of which were held at Sylvan Town Hall. She said the eight girls worked all day cleaning and decorating the auditorium and stage and were so tired by night it was an effort for them to march in and take their places.

Harold Jarvis, well known Detroit soloist of that time, was paid $25 by the class to sing at the

Legislators Will Tour Proposed Mill Creek Water Reservoir Area

Accidents on Farms Injure Two Youths

Two Chelsea area youths were injured in separate farm accidents which occurred Thursday of last week.

Daniel Clark, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Clark, 16655 Old US-12, West, and Robert Herst, eight years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Herst, 730 Freer Rd., are the boys who were injured.

The Herst boy's life was saved by the quick thinking and action of his cousins, John Birmingham, 17, and Joseph Birmingham, 15, of Brighton, who are visiting at the farm. Mrs. Herst said Robert was driving the tractor when the steering mechanism gave way and the vehicle ran into a pick-up truck, climbed over the truck's bumper and then turned over pinning the boy beneath it. His 13-year-old brother Ronald, ran to the barn to summon his father and the two cousins raced another tractor, equipped with a power lift draw bar, to the scene and while the 17-year-old boy raised the overturned tractor the 15-year-old cousin pulled the injured boy from beneath it. The two cousins had been baling hay in the field.

Mrs. Herst meanwhile had called an ambulance and the boy was rushed to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Ann Arbor, where he is recovering from a lower leg fracture.

Mrs. Herst said the boy's breath was being cut off by pressure on his mouth and, in addition, the overturned tractor was spilling oil on his face. She is certain the quick action of his two cousins saved Robert's life.

At the hospital, examination disclosed that he had suffered a broken upper left arm; also, that his eyes had hemorrhaged. Mrs. Herst said that if he continues to improve, he may be released from the hospital this week-end.

Daniel Clark received severe lacerations of the groin and right leg in an accident which occurred at 8:30 a.m. Thursday on the Edson Whitaker farm, 16771 Old US-12 West. He was working with his father, David, 47, and Larry Barnhill.

The injured boy's mother said that it is believed the leather shoe lace of his farm boots caught in the drive shaft of the tractor which was operating a power take-off. She said the eyelets on the shoe were torn out and the entire pant leg on a new pair of Levis was torn off.

As he cried out, his brother immediately shut off the machinery. Barnhill ran to the house for a clean sheet to cover the wounds and David put Daniel in their pick-up truck and rushed him to a Chelsea physician's office. From there he was taken by ambulance to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Ann Arbor.

The two Chelsea boys originally were in the same hospital room; however, Daniel has now been moved to an isolation room in order to combat possible infection. In addition to his injuries in the mishap, he had an attack of appendicitis on Friday, which cleared up without surgery. Mrs. Clark said: Doctors at the hospital said yesterday he is progressing satisfactorily.

Interested Persons in Area Invited To Meet Officials at Social Hour

Weston E. Vivian, U. S. Representative from the Second District of Michigan, State Senator Gilbert E. Bursley from the 18th District, Thomas G. Sharpe, State Representative from Michigan's 51st District, and Charles F. Gray, Representative from the 52nd District, have all accepted the invitation of the Mill Creek Research Council to tour the area under study for the proposed Mill Creek Reservoir.

Along with several members of the Ann Arbor League of Women Voters, and others they will begin the bus tour at the Leonard McCalla home, 481 S. Steinbach Rd., at 1:30 p.m. Sunday. An attempt will be made to cover every road in the area involved.

The outstanding quality of the crops being grown, the general high character of the homes and farmsteads, and the public and privately-owned recreation areas already available for use by the public, along with other significant facts will be emphasized during the bus tour.

Immediately following the tour, which will end at the George Friesinger home, 13450 Jerusalem Rd., at 3 p.m., there will be a social hour.

All families who are concerned about the effects of the proposed impoundments are invited to express their opinions to the special guests during the 3 to 5 p.m. open house. This invitation includes anyone who is interested in the reservoir project, whether or not he or she lives in the immediate impoundment area.

Newkirk Day Camp Closes for 71 Girl Scouts

Newkirk Day Camp closed June 26 with an overnight "Under the Stars" for 71 Girl Scouts of the Huron Valley Council. The program consisted of individual unit activities and work on various badges. These included outdoor cook, gypsy, rambler and health aid badges.

The five afternoon activities available to the girls were blue-printing and advanced arts and crafts, square and folk dancing, archery, camp craft and first aid. Those selecting the latter practiced on "Annie," borrowed from the American-Red Cross by Donna Sherman.

Camp director was Mrs. Carner Slomim, assisted by Mrs. Melvin Leach. According to Mrs. Ivy Reed, day camp co-ordinator, this was the first time a Chelsea leader had been in charge of a council-operated day camp. Chelsea volunteers who aided them were Mrs. Robert Jacobs, Mrs. Robert Foster and Donna Sherman.

Attend National NEA Convention In New York City

Mr. and Mrs. James Hoffmeyer, 146 Orchard, returned home Sunday from a week in New York City, where he attended the National Education Association convention as a delegate from Region 3 of the NEA District. Speaker at the last day's program was President Lyndon Johnson.

While most of the time was devoted to convention participation, the Hoffmeyers visited the fair and a few other highlights. Hoffmeyer was recently elected treasurer of the region, which includes Washtenaw, Jackson, Lenawee and Monroe counties.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Toney of Lansing were Friday callers of the former's mother and aunt, Mrs. Amanda Toney and Mrs. Carrie Niehaus.

Lineman Harold Bable Injured Last Week In Fall from Ladder

Lineman Harold Bable, 13405 Old US-12, fell from a ladder while working Wednesday afternoon and suffered injuries which left him unconscious for several minutes.

Several stitches were required to close a cut on his head.

According to the Chelsea Electric Light and Water Dept. where he is employed, he was expected back on the job Monday.

Sgt. Byron Pearson Home on Furlough

Staff Sergeant Byron Pearson USMC, with his wife and daughter are spending a two-week furlough in Michigan. They are visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Pearson and plan to spend some time in the northern part of the state before returning to Washington, D.C., where Sergeant Pearson plays the trumpet in the Marine Corps band—the official band for state affairs.

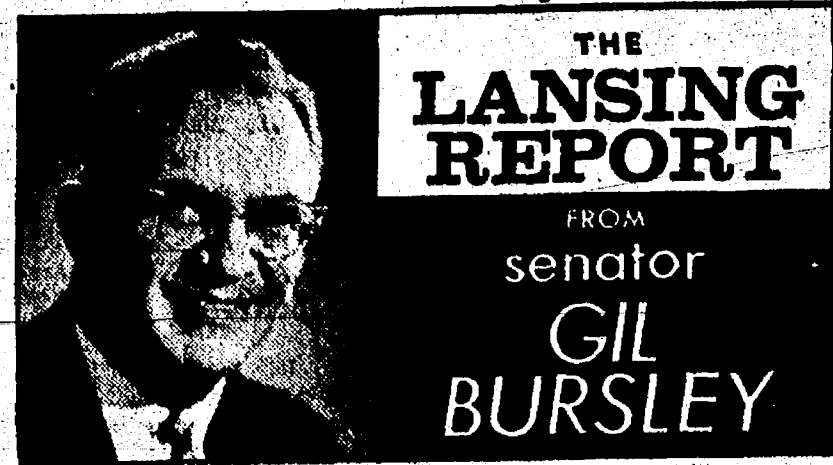

WHO'S THIS CHARMER? She was snapped recently at Pierce Park by Mrs. Grover McFadden, 265 Harrison, while outting with her granddaughter, Terri Talbot. Mrs. McFadden didn't get the little one's name but she's such an engaging subject she thought the mother will be interested in claiming the picture at The Chelsea Standard office.

REGULATION—and ever more regulation—of our daily lives is a trend within government at all levels which I oppose on principle. Granted we need more regulation than 50 years ago. We do have more population, new inventions in communications and transportation and more areas in which government must function. Yet the tendency to create new licensing agencies, new regulatory boards and new governmental commissions is a constant pressure on legislators, from special interest groups throughout the state.

I regard myself as a lobbyist for the general public against all these special interest groups. For each additional enactment by government upon our privacy I feel full and thorough justification must be required. Let me illustrate what I am talking about by reference to bills introduced in this year's legislative session. Remember that we had 1,800 bills introduced and that fortunately only 400 passed. Certain issues like milk pricing, Sunday liquor and dog racing stole the headlines. Yet there were a great many unspectacular bills introduced which received little notice in the press and which would have been further government regulation upon the citizen.

In reviewing some of these bills you will agree that many of them are a pretty good idea. But protecting you against more and more regulation, introduced by whatever it is, whether it be Democrats or Republicans, is a real problem. Many of these regulatory bills, maybe this is a real basic party philosophy. Bills which did NOT pass:

Going Up

Lieutenant Governor of Michigan has been a stepping-stone position in the past and incumbent William G. Milliken hopes to continue the tradition.

The three men who preceded Milliken in office since 1955 have each stepped into higher posts: Philip A. Hart to the U. S. Senate; John B. Swainson to the governor's chair; and then a court post: T. John Lesinski to the new State Court of Appeals.

Milliken, at 43, reportedly is Gov. George Romney's choice for the next GOP chief executive. Even when the Traverse City businessman first came into the State Senate it was reported he had his sights on the governor's chair.

Now in the No. 2 spot, perhaps largely by virtue of the Constitution, which elected the governor and lieutenant governor.

His office has taken to publication of a periodical entitled "Data on Lansing" which details his activities in addition to the standard job of presiding over the Senate.

The first edition published in May noted his first five months in office involved speeches to "many thousands of persons" and traveling more than 14,000 miles on state business.

His public exposure has been enhanced by the governor's frequent trips outside the state and Milliken's resulting assignment to many local activities where the chief executive's presence is requested.

Police Specialists
 Specialized police work is rapidly becoming a reality, unheard of only a few years ago.

The use of lie detectors has required an expertly trained police officer for several years. Most of ten, however, the lie detector expert has worked in an ordinary job within his department.

Within the past five years or so another class of specialists has been added to the state police organization. The use of tracking dogs also necessitated training men to efficiently handle the animals in seeking to find missing persons, evidence or criminals.

The miles and miles of waterways in Michigan also creates the need for still other experts within state police and local law enforcement agencies.

Several sheriff's departments throughout the state now have specially trained boating patrols on busy, large lakes and rivers. State police maintain several teams of skindiving experts at various posts.

The latter, given the title of underwater recovery teams, are volunteers drawn from within the state police ranks who train at a water-filled clay pit near Williamsport diving as deep as 100 feet.

Use of the teams is primarily to recover bodies, cars, weapons and evidence.

Underwater recovery teams, just like the lie detector experts, remain permanently assigned to regular police duties. But it appears there may be a day soon when these and the dog trackers and boat patrol units will be full-time specialists within the broad law enforcement organization in Michigan.

Teacher Strikes
 Precedence went by the boards recently when the State Board of Education issued a policy statement that teachers have the right to strike the same as do other workers.

"We would hope that no teacher group in this state or nation would resort to this means except as a last resort, but they should have the same right as any other citizen," said a board spokesman.

Prior to the board decision, teachers were deemed included under the Hutchinson Act, which calls for the firing of public employees involved in a strike. The board said this act should be repealed.

Presumably the board considered the idea that the educated teacher and local boards of education will properly weigh the various problems in any given labor dispute.

Responsibilities come with all rights. Many teachers now feel the responsibilities placed upon them have long outweighed their rights where local education policies are concerned.

Salary compensation and fringe benefits are not the only areas in which teachers have occasionally complained. Although these do lead the list, overbearing boards of education and overly heavy teaching loads have also resulted in a good share of teacher-community problems.

Since the State Board of Education's statement appeared designed primarily to give teachers more leverage in employee-employer disputes, it is to be hoped the policy will serve just this purpose. If the statement of policy is used as a blackjack, it would appear the board's philosophy will have been misinterpreted.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The fellers at the country store Saturday night was about decided that next to poverty, the biggest problem in this country today was the automobile. Ed Doolittle was reporting some figgers he had clipped from one of them Government agencies about folks killed walking on our streets and highways.

First off, Ed reported, wimmen was safer walkers than men on account of these figgers for 1964 showed only 30 per cent of folks killed was wimmen. But 28 per cent of them pedestrians killed had been drinking, 9 out of 10 had never drove a car, and 38 percent of them was over 64 years old.

With a mess of stew beef like that, allowed Ed, it was hard to tell from the figgers who had ought to be walking on the highway and who had ought to be riding a mule.

Furthermore, said Ed, it was gitting to be a big problem fer folks driving cars. He claimed he had saw a piece in the papers where a Judge sentenced a feller to one year in jail fer running over a hitch hiker. Ed said it had come to the point where it was about as risky to run over a hitch hiker as to pick one up.

Zeke Grubb was agreed with Ed, claimed everybody was ganging up on car drivers. He reported he was reading a piece where some feller in Chicago had patented a parking meter that automatic turned back to zero when a car pulled out of the parking space.

This was going to stop all free-loading on unused time, said Zeke. According to Zeke, this way this meter works is it sends out some sort of rays and if they wasn't reflected back by a car in the parking space, the meter flipped back.

All of the fellers was agreed, Mister Editor, that this was about as sneaky as sneaky can get and they was surprised that President Johnson would allow a thing like this in the Great Society.

Clem Webster, that is the official press agent for the Great Society in our community, reported the Russians was now leaning in that direction. He said he had saw a piece in the papers where the Kremlin had took the restrictions off wimmen's hats. Up to this time, the piece said, Russian wimmen couldn't wear nothing but simple head covering, but now they was allowed to make 'em out of fruit baskets and rabbit tails like American wimmen.

I reckon, Mister Editor, you'd call this sorter taking the lid off the lid. Judging from what I have saw of wimmen's hats in the last 30 year, I figgered they was beyond control or reason anywhere in the world. Just goes to show you, how fur them Russians has went in the direction of trying to do the impossible.

Yours truly,
 Uncle Lew.

June Traffic Toll Continues Down Trend

Michigan traffic accidents

June killed 150 persons, nine fewer than 168 in that month a year ago, according to State Police preliminary figures.

This brought to 848 the provisional total for the first half of the year, 117, or 12 percent less than 965 in the same period of 1960. However, delayed death reports will raise the June and half-year totals somewhat.

June's average was 140 for 10 years, 1955-64. High for month was 192 in 1955, and low was 57 in 1944, a war year.

More complete figures for 1961 showed 140 killed and 12,150 injured in the first half of the year, a 13 percent reduction in deaths and increases of nine 15 percent in injuries and deaths compared with 706 killed and 51,786 injured in 1960.

Estimated travel mileage for first four months, the latest information available, was 12.3 billion, up nearly five percent of the same period in 1960, while death rate of 4.4 per 100 million vehicle miles was down 10 percent on the same comparative basis.

Accumulated figures for first five months included deaths and 56,518 injured, 125,047 accidents. These represented a 13 percent reduction in deaths and increases of nine 15 percent in injuries and deaths compared with 706 killed and 51,786 injured in 1960.

Water Safety Warning to Park Users

Lansing — "A lifeguard in every family" is what the Conservation Department is urging state park swimmers following five recent drownings at public recreation areas in southern Michigan.

In at least four of these water fatalities, the victims could have been saved if someone had been watching over them, state park supervisors believe.

Three of those who drowned were swimming from boats in unsupervised offshore areas, which again points up the need for every water user to have his own personal lifeguard, whether it's Mom, Dad, big brother, or a buddy.

Department parks officials explain that their regular staff of lifeguards, which goes on duty this month, cannot keep an eye on every swimmer all the time. Nor, they say, should these men be considered built-in baby sitters.

"Our lifeguards are there to keep an over-all watch on the situation, but they can't be responsible for every person who goes into the water," reports Department parks chief Arthur C. Elmer.

"The job of supervision is everybody's business, and that applies especially so to parents of young children," he adds.

In hopes of preventing other drownings, the Department is encouraging state park users to swim in marked areas where dangers are at a minimum and where park lifeguards will have a chance to rescue them if they need help.

Another Department safety pointer calls for recreationists to swim parallel to the shore instead of from one side of the lake to the other. Along these same lines, it warns swimmers not to try to stroke long distances in waters where they will be over their heads in trouble if they get cramps or become exhausted.

TROOPER WRITES SONG

Tallahassee, Florida — State trooper Jim Foster wrote a song about highway safety that was recorded recently in Nashville, Tenn. The story is in the title "Four on the Floor and a Fifth Under the Seat." It concerns an accident which killed a fast-driving youngster.

He sells prayers printed on cardboard with a picture of himself and Clara on the back. Most are his own compositions, but he also has copies of the 23rd Psalm and the Prayer of St. Francis. He also writes songs that they both sing.

"I've given myself to the Lord," he said.

Their cart was parked in back of Mrs. Swarthout's house Saturday morning. A canvas was thrown over the front of the cart, but the rest was painted a bright yellow. A retired carpenter in Greenville made it for RELIGIOUS PEDDLERS Nolin and Clara Dunn stand in front of their home on wheels with Mrs. Cora Swarthout, a friend, and Miss Mae Mosson who lives with her here in Dexter. The Duns pushed the two-wheel cart containing all their worldly possessions all the way from Greenville, O.

Itinerant Religious Peddlers Stop To Visit Dexter Friend

Nolin and Clara Dunn stopped at the Dexter Crazy Daze Sale Saturday morning to buy a pair of blue tennis shoes for her. Her old shoes had holes in the bottom.

Dunn and his wife have pushed a yellow cart with large, red-steel wheels from Greenville, O., to here in Dexter, where Clara wanted to visit a friend, Mrs. Cora Swarthout, 8051 Huron St.

Dunn is a religious peddler. He sells prayers printed on cardboard with a picture of himself and Clara on the back. Most are his own compositions, but he also has copies of the 23rd Psalm and the Prayer of St. Francis. He also writes songs that they both sing.

"I've given myself to the Lord," he said.

Their cart was parked in back of Mrs. Swarthout's house Saturday morning. A canvas was thrown over the front of the cart, but the rest was painted a bright yellow. A retired carpenter in Greenville made it for them. On one side in two-foot letters are the words, "Lead Kindly-Light — God Bless Us"; on the other is "God Bless All Americans," and on the front it reads "Unity Mission."

The cart is four by six by five feet high and inside are all their worldly possessions. Among these are two mandolins in brown cases that the Duns play when they sing their songs. Dunn took his mandolin out of the case and put the strap around his neck.

"They are both mandolins," he said, "but I fixed her's so it would have only four strings so it would sound like a tenor guitar. Her fingers weren't long enough to reach the chords the other way."

"Let's do 'Lord Make My Dreams Come True,'" he said. Clara sat on the edge of the porch. She is 54 years old. Her sun was burning hot and her dress was long and heavy white cotton socks covered most of her thin legs to her knees. Her arms were covered with long sleeves and she wore a white straw hat that tied in place under her chin.

She watches Dunn through gold wire glasses that peer out from under the low brim of her hat.

As they sang, Dunn rocked back and forth and tapped his foot as though he didn't quite know what he should do. Clara sang in a strained voice as Dunn signaled her to "take the verse."

"We don't get a chance to practice as much as we should," he said.

At night they unload the cart and sleep on a crude mattress inside. They buy food that won't spoil and cook over a camp stove.

Dunn, a small man with a pointed beard is 60 years old. He put his foot up on the porch and leaned on his knee. He pulled a tobacco pouch out of his pocket and poured some into a white cigarette paper that he licked and sealed. He motioned toward Clara who had moved into the shade with one of the two pups that they take with them from town to town.

"She's all I've got and I'm all she's got," he smiled. "I call her St. Clara."

"She has diabetes. Once she had blood poisoning in her leg, but she promised the Lord that she would give it to him if he saved it and He did. Once, she died for about an hour and a half, but I prayed over her and beat her body and the Lord gave her back to me."

"We've been carrying too much stuff," he said looking at the cart. "It gets too heavy for us and the cart shakes. I've been trying to ask God to give me the brains to figure out what to do next. I've been thinking about getting two smaller trucks that we could push. We'd have to get down to just a change of clothes. Maybe we could get a pup tent to sleep in."

Dunn pulled out a letter from the cart that acknowledged the receipt of his will. He is leaving his songs to the foundation so they can handle them when he is gone.

"Back in the twenties," he said, "around 1928, I was about to go to the railroad. I don't want to talk about why. But I promised God then that if He'd save me from death, I'd devote my life to Him and his word. I studied by correspondence at the Los Angeles Bible Institute because I wanted to be a minister, but I couldn't be accepted because of my record. After jail, I've been doing this. I promised I would serve the Lord in some way.

"Some people say I'm profiting on these prayer cards, but there's an awful lot I just give away to folks. I don't care if people get mad at me selling the cards or just buy one to get rid of me. After they've got them in their homes I think when they see them, then maybe they're thinking about them and the prayer and God."

Dunn said he was not sure where they would be going next. He just hopes that Clara's new tennis shoes will hold out.

Pheasant Population Shows Hike

Lansing — Southern Michigan's pheasant population, now in the midst of its all-important nesting season, is up about 25 percent over last spring and 10-15 percent above its five-year average, according to the Conservation Department.

Pointing to the birds' higher breeding population this year is a recent Department survey along 88 established routes which indicates that ringneck numbers have rebounded or held their own in all parts of the state's major pheasant range.

Showing the biggest gain is the region's central sector where Department counts of crowing ringnecks nearly doubled those of a year ago. Included in this area are Clinton, Eaton, Ingham, Ionia, Gratiot, and Shiawassee counties.

The number of male birds heard ranged from the same as last spring to slightly more in the Thumb and southeastern areas which cover Bay, Huron, St. Clair, Sanilac, Tuscola, Lenawee, Monroe, and Washtenaw counties.

In the southwestern area made up of Barry, Berrien, Branch, Calhoun, Cass, and Kalamazoo counties, the birds are estimated to be at last year's level. Male call counts suggest a 40-percent jump for the pheasant breeding population of Allegan — Muskegon, and Ottawa counties.

The pheasant picture appears about the same as a year ago in the birds' northern fringe area of Gladwin, Mecosta, Newaygo, and Midland counties. Latest survey results also show that parts of Delta and Menominee counties in the Upper Peninsula continue to have a low, stable population of pheasants which can withstand a short hunting season.

With the bird production potential more encouraging than a year ago, hopes for better shooting prospects in the fall now hinge upon their nesting success this month. A brood survey will be held in late July and early August to measure this year's pheasant crop.

ITEM: Aerosol cans of paint are ideal for spraying small objects, such as flower pots, break baskets, toys and similar items. For best results you should shake the can thoroughly until the mixing balls roll around without resistance; keep the spray moving parallel to the surface; and overlap each stroke slightly.

ITEM: Milk is essential to a good diet and, fortunately, milk is a most versatile food. It can be fitted into the menu in a variety of ways — in main dishes, sandwiches, vegetable dishes or salads, as milk or in the form of cheese; ice cream is a world-wide favorite. Custards, cakes, pies and puddings are desserts that can be made with milk.

ITEM: Cotton gloves that look like real reptile skin are a highlight of the current fashion rage for reptile. These snake-embossed gloves, in a choice of lengths and colors, are machine-washable.

Increasing Deer Herd Gives Highway Dept. Big Headache

Lansing — The increasing deer herd in the Lower Peninsula is an increasing worry for state officials.

Statistics show 4,148 deer killed on all Michigan highways in 1962. The figure jumped to almost 5,000 in 1963 and reached 5,970 in 1964.

Lower Peninsula statistics show an increase from 3,180 in 1962 to 4,739 in 1964.

This year, more than 4,700 motorists in the Lower Peninsula alone will see deer—and collide with them.

Conservation Department officials estimate the deer herd in the Lower Peninsula is increasing at the rate of 14 percent per year. Low winter kill, abundant food supply from farms and highways and favorable habitats contribute to the herd's development, they said.

Highway officials are frankly worried — and frustrated. They have no practical solution and to make matters worse — every mile of highways built creates more favorable conditions for increasing the deer census.

"We spend time and money developing grass-covered medians for highway safety and beautification," a highway maintenance official said. "The deer seem to think it's just for their benefit. They jump the four-foot boundary fences to eat the green grass and clover and then seek shelter on the state's right-of-way."

"In winter, we spread salt to melt road ice and this attracts them. Thus, some of the things we do for safety seem to encourage the deer population and then it becomes a traffic hazard," he complained.

The Highway Traffic Division recently installed two five-mile sections of mirrors on road reflectors on US-127 north of Jackson and on the I-94 Business Loop west of Battle Creek. These are designed to reflect headlights at right angles to the highway and theoretically blind the deer. It has been tried in other states but results in Michigan won't be available until fall—and the mirrors won't work during the day.

State Highway officials offer the following advice to motorists who will be involved with deer in 1965:

- Slow down if animals are in or by the road.
- Sound your horn, they probably will scatter.
- Don't fix your eyes on one only—there may be others around.
- Don't swerve at high speeds in attempting to avoid an animal.
- And remember drivers can read the "Deer Crossing" signs—deer cannot.

BIG INDUSTRY

Perhaps our least suspected growth industry is the nation's library system. Data compiled by the U.S. Office of Education and other sources indicate that total library expenditures are rapidly approaching the billion dollar annual level and have grown substantially faster than the economy as a whole in recent years.

THE COUNTRY PULPIT:

"BARGAIN RELIGIONS"

JEWELRY MANUFACTURERS do a very profitable business in imitation gold crosses. It's human nature to hunt for bargains, even in religious items. That's why so many people turn to religions that cost them little, modern cults and sects that offer a comforting sense of God's nearness and do away with the idea of hell entirely. It's only human to want a religion that de-emphasizes punishment for sin. However, a bargain may have serious hidden flaws. The thing you buy cheaply often turns out to be worthless.

Genuine Christianity is not a cheap religion, although many offer bargains in its name. It was a critical moment in history when Christ had to tell His disciples what His proclamation of the truth would cost Him: crucifixion. Who wants to follow a defeated leader? Christ's offer was, "If any man will come after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross daily, and follow me."

Christianity is a religion of choice. The consequences of that choice are clearly set forth in the Bible. He who chooses Christ is reconciled with God, born anew, assured of eternal life. He who rejects Christ and chooses to continue in the sin of a self-directed life condemns himself to trouble and sorrow, divorces himself from reality and ultimate purpose, and in the end suffers eternal loss. Even the most sophisticated person is haunted at some time by the fear, "What if I wake up after all this."

—Pastor Elmer S. Steenson.

Just A Minute...

By the Rev. James A. Craig

Cautiously crossing the road, the squirrel felt his way. His head was caught in a small tin can blinding him as to where he was.

You could hardly do other than admire his courage. Rather than collapse in frustration or scream with fury he was at least trying to do something.

It seemed better than standing in confused stillness.

With so much happening in the world around us it is difficult to know where we're going. It's almost like having a can over our heads and not sure to which sounds we should listen.

Like the squirrel we can trust our instinct to guide us in the right direction. Like him we can go cautiously, feeling our way step by step.

It seems better than standing in confused stillness.

The sequel to the story is this: Driving over the same highway near the spot where we had been told, the squirrel was crossing, we saw a squirrel, dead victim of a car.

To depend on one's instinct is often to be led into catastrophe. We have no can on our heads. We need not depend on instinct to guide us.

We, like a psalmist, can depend on a Lord who is our shepherd.

COURAGE

During the course of this nation's many struggles to maintain freedom the courage of the citizen has often been tested. Rightfully, the nation has always recognized and been grateful for the courage of its citizen soldiers.

In less trying times, few are presented the opportunity for a spectacular display of heroism. Yet, men of courage surround us every day. Look for them, these men of quiet strength and dedicated purpose.

Who are they? They are men and women, your friends and neighbors. They live a life of purpose. They aren't afraid to stand on principle while others follow the crowd. They aren't ashamed to be thankful for what they have, and they give no time to bitterness and envy. They perform good works, for the community, for the unfortunate. They do it without fanfare and to the delight of the community.

In these times, it is easy to follow the slipstream of the "crowd" and to be indifferent about anything that does not directly concern us. It takes a special kind of quiet courage to covet goodness, to perform good works, and this courage is found only in a deep and abiding faith—in God, and in one's fellow man.

Gypsy Moth Traps Now Being Set Out

Although trapping programs conducted in central Michigan in the past three years failed to disclose a single gypsy moth, 6,000 gypsy moth traps are again being placed in the same territory.

If no moths are trapped in 1965, efforts to eradicate the pest in Michigan will be considered successful, said Agricultural Director G. S. McIntyre. The eradication program is operated jointly between the Michigan Department of Agriculture's Plant Industry Division and the USDA's Plant Pest Control Division.

The first instance of gypsy moth in the state came to light in 1954 when eggs were found in suburban Lansing. Subsequently, there was active treatment of 86,400 acres with pesticide in the surrounding territory.

Gypsy moth is a destroyer of fruit trees and forest trees with the exception of conifers. Colonies of these insects can be found on nearly 40 million acres in the northeastern part of the United States. Whole forest tracts have been destroyed or severely damaged. In some seasons as many as a half-million acres have been defoliated. Two successive defoliations kill oak, birch, poplar, willow, linden, apple, pear, and other hardwood trees.

In Michigan traps are being set in wooded or brushy locations in seven central counties. The routines and the number of traps are: Clinton 780, Shiawassee 225, Eaton 1,000, Ingham 2,025, Calhoun 300, Jackson 530, and Ionia 240.

When traps, somewhat resembling paper drinking cups, are baited with a synthetic sex attractant that lures the strong-flying male moth. When a male is drawn into a trap, a layer of sticky substance holds him until an inspector checks the trap.

You may not agree with everything you hear in church, but you will agree with most of it, and that's pretty good batting average.

The more any individual is certain he knows, the less he knows.

General Math Reform Needed, Says U-M Prof.

Ann Arbor — Most teachers feel that general mathematics has been completely neglected in the current high school mathematics reform, says Joseph N. Payne, University of Michigan professor of education.

The National Science Foundation-sponsored institutes for high school teachers have largely ignored general mathematics courses by heavy emphasis on content geared primarily to the needs of college mathematics, Payne says. Many teachers have designed new units of work for general mathematics to improve the interest and quality of the course.

Payne says experimental work in general mathematics places greater emphasis on mathematical ideas than most courses have in the past. "The attempt seems to be to find new content, or at least new approaches to content, so that the mathematics of the course will have greater intrinsic interest for students. Emphasis on such problems as tax rates, insurance and complicated consumer problems seems to have little appeal for ninth and tenth grade students and their teachers," he notes.

Several problems remain: Content must be adjusted to widely different abilities of students, remedial work is often needed, and many students need help in seeing the purpose of the content they are studying, Payne explains.

Another problem is the attitude of teachers and administrators toward general mathematics classes. "It is commonly believed that the principle difficulty in general mathematics is caused by the attitude of the pupils toward mathematics," he says. "It could be the case that the content of general mathematics has not been the kind that teachers value. Certainly the background and preparation of mathematics teachers is heavily oriented toward college preparation and college mathematics. Perhaps the newer directions for the content will be helpful in changing teacher attitudes toward the course."

"Long range improvement in general mathematics will come as the content becomes more interesting for students and for teachers, and as teachers learn to adapt the content to the interests and abilities of the students."

Michigan's famous Charcoal Chicken Broil, scheduled for Thursday, July 15, on the high school athletic field, will have a new look this year.

The 6,000 or more visitors from a score of states and a half dozen foreign countries, who begin lining up about 4:30 p.m., will note a new look to the massive event. Instead of two lines of charcoal pits totaling 150 feet, there will be four, measuring a full 270 feet, thus assuring faster service, and a continuous flow of delicately broiled chicken to the serving lines.

There will be new displays. In addition to the usual exhibit of backyard barbecue equipment, and Class A softball games, there will be an exhibit of colorful Michigan-designed tents recently featured in Sports Illustrated. But the important feature as always will be the sight of the long pits, with more than 2,000 chicken halves, turning golden-brown, under the careful supervision of 90 white-hatted chefs.

The slow-broil technique, which assures that the chicken will be done to a turn without blistering the skin, was developed by Dr. Howard Zindel, head of the Michigan State Poultry Department, who personally supervises the big Manchester event each year.

The broil features Michigan chicken, generally plumper and better conditioned than imported varieties. Halves average 18 ounces. Crates of chicken are delivered to the pits from a refrigerator truck, from which they emerge lightly frosted but not frozen. Between 4 and 9:30 p.m., four tons of chicken, gently heated by two tons of charcoal and basted with 150 pounds of Michigan butter, will progress through the four long lines of pits to 6,000 or more hungry customers.

Also during the dinner, more than a ton of chilled cabbage will be fresh sliced on German sauer-croutons. The event is scheduled for Thursday, July 15, at 4:30 p.m. at the high school athletic field.

Boat Registrations Done More Easily At Branch Offices

Secretary of State James M. Hare said he was concerned especially with the payment of the four percent use tax on transactions between individuals which have been sent directly to his Lan-

"More than 50 percent of these applications have to be returned because of the lack of payment of use tax on the boats," Hare said. "This means correspondence back and forth and a time lapse before the boat is actually registered. When the application is processed by one of our branches, all the necessary data can be handled and registrations made on the spot. Use tax may be paid at all branches, too."

Hare said that more than 375,000 motorboats have been registered during the current three-year registration period which closes out this year.

REPORT from LANSING

State Representative

Thomas G. Sharpe

Although this legislature was very slow in getting started, the accelerated pace of activity during the final few weeks of the session resulted in the passage of a record-breaking 400 bills.

Fortunately, many of the frivolous proposals found the going too rough and did not survive the onslaught of public indignation. I believe it can now be regarded as a productive session—both in the number of bills passed and the quality of SOME of the legislation enacted.

However, there were some very disappointing omissions—particularly in the area of fiscal reform and traffic safety. We may also find that some of this sugar-coated legislation will, in the long run, turn out to be bitter pills to swallow.

The Democratic majority was generous to a fault in approving new programs and expanding present state services while refusing to face the all too obvious fact that higher taxes are the only answer to higher expenditures.

The legislature is now in recess until mid-September, and the Democrats have promised to tackle the state's financial problems when they return in the fall. So—until this session is officially over later in the year, we shall withhold final judgment with regard to the enactment of an equitable and adequate tax program with which to meet Michigan's spiraling expenditures.

During the summer recess I devote this column to highlighting the major legislation enacted to date, categorizing actions taken according to their subject matter.

It should be noted, however, that at the time of this writing, not all of these measures have been acted upon by the Governor.

Among the measures passed affecting agriculture were bills to:—Bring agricultural employers under the Workmen's Compensation Act.

—Provide for statewide licensing and inspection of slaughterhouses.

—Establish a state bean commission.

—Develop a comprehensive state agricultural marketing program.

—Remove floricultural products from statutes governing commission merchants handling agricultural products.

—Bring under the regulation of the Department of Agriculture the production, handling, processing and regulation of farm labor contractors.

A bill to prohibit the selling of milk for a loss at any stage of its production or distribution triggered gored such a landslide of public protest that after long hours of heated debate, it fell by the wayside.
