EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

Let Us Mend Our Fences And Again Be Neighborly

Robert Frost, in one of his best loved poems, says: "Good fences make good neighbors."

The simple wisdom in those words speaks to Chelsea today. It is time for the Chelsea school board and faculty to provide a fence against future disruptive contract battles and to once again become "good neighbors."

A recent school dispute rocked the foundations of the Chelsea school system and involved the entire community in what should have been a routine administrative matter. Without a well-defined and accepted procedure for handling future disputes, Chelsea may very possibly look forward to similar outbursts each spring as contract renewal time arrives.

One method of confining future disputes to the school, where they properly belong, we believe, could be the establishment of a grievance committee composed of teachers and administrators, such as the local tenure committee provided for by the Chelsea Teacher Tenure Policy. Such a committee could make provision for appeals from both probationary and tenure teachers. The committee would not threaten the power of the school board and the administration to decide whether or not to employ a non-tenure teacher, for they would still retain the ultimate authority.

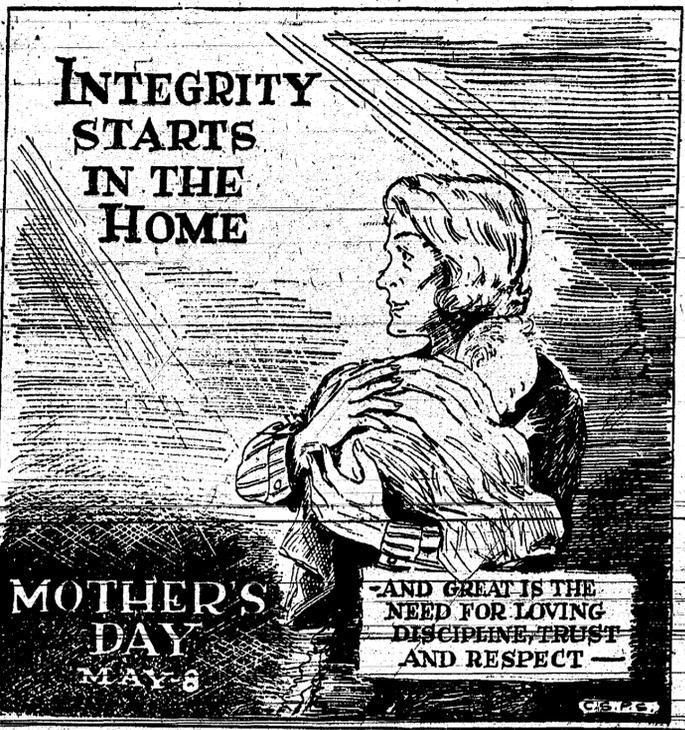

The committee could, instead, serve as a board of review and provide teachers who believe they have been arbitrarily and unfairly treated a means of answering and rebutting criticism. The committee, after listening to both the administrators and the teachers, could then make recommendations to the superintendent or the school board. But the ultimate authority would still, very properly, rest with the school board.

Review by this committee need not amount to a full-scale review, such as that provided for in the State Teacher Tenure Act. The review could be either public or private, as requested by the appealing teacher, and the recommendations could be made public upon written request of the individual concerned.

Such procedure, we believe, would have several advantages. Teachers would be more likely to accept the judgment of a committee which includes their peers than that of one individual. The school board is answerable to the electorate, and if the committee's recommendations are continually ignored, the electors could be so informed.

Not only matters of teacher retention or dismissal, but other grievances which administrators and teachers have been unable to resolve, perhaps concerning such matters as class loads (number of pupils or classes), extra-curricular responsibilities and hours could be discussed and perhaps resolved by the committee without going to the school board.

The most two wrongs have demonstrated the need for such a procedure. It is the responsibility of the school board and the bargaining committee of the Chelsea Education Association to implement a grievance committee as part of the new contract now being negotiated. The implementation has become more than a school concern—it has now become a community necessity.

MICHIGAN MIRROR

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Can't Legislate Honestly

Views were sharply divided on a lobbying activities proposal which got further this year than any previously suggested regulation. A bill requiring regular reports of expenditures and activities by lobbyists made it to the half-way mark on a 17-20 vote in the House.

A Big Week

It's almost that time again. Time for Michigan Week, that is. For the 13th year in succession, Michigan residents will make a special effort the third week in May to let it be known that this is a great state in many ways.

Statisticians Say

Statisticians say the present trend may soon be over, as the babies of the post-war boom are now reaching the age to start their own families. This new surge, expected in another two years, is fully likely to match or surpass the highs reached in the late 1940's.

Antiquing

Antiquing with the new short-cut kits is an easy way to make old furniture look like new or give a new piece of furniture the charming appearance of age. However, if undercoating or color toner is to be applied with a spray gun, the coating must first be thinned to insure an even flow of paint.

Fewer Babies

Eight years in recession, Michigan has followed the national trend of decreasing birth rates. For 1961, the State Health Department reported 105,483 births. This was a drop of nearly 8,500 from the previous year and 12,000 less than were recorded in 1960.

More Deaths

The present decline in birth rates has been going since 1957, when the peak of 207,000 was reached to end the so-called baby boom. The boom started from a 120,000 count in 1945 at the end of World War II and lasted 12 years, rising swiftly in each year.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR: The fellows at the country store Saturday night was lamenting that pretty soon our old country folks was going to be as scarce as them do-hens-were. Clem Webster reported he had saw where the rural population was going down about 2 percent a year in spite of the population explosion. And Clem said, this piece claimed about half of our present population was under 25 year old. He was of the opinion this was making old fellows our age in the rural areas real rare birds. He figured maybe they'd put us out on one of them preserves before long, like they done the buffaloes.

Ed Daulton allowed as how we got confusion everywhere, from population trends to an argument over whether "Whimmin" wiggle or wiggle when they walk. And, as usual, Ed blamed a heap of this confusion on the Democrats. For instance, he recollected when Lyndon signed the Civil Rights Bill, he called all the reporters out to the Lincoln Memorial for the ceremony. When he signed the new immigrating bill he called 'em out to the Statue of Liberty, and he went on television to sign the bill cutting excise taxes on some items. But, said Ed, when he signed the bill putting them excise taxes back, he sneaked in his office and done it in private.

Clem Webster was defending the Democrats, said they wasn't no appropriate place to sign a tax bill on account of they ain't never been a statute erected in this country to the taxpayer.

Zeke Grubb claimed this was a serious oversight, that the Government had ought to erect a monument to the taxpayer, showing a man with his pockets turned inside out, along side the Washington Monument, only make it a few feet higher.

The fellows at the store, Mister Editor, all of them around 70 year old, was great on hindsight. They can tell you what was wrong with yesterday but they ain't got no cure fer tomorrow. It makes me recollect the story in the paper where this fellow was in court trying to get a divorce. He told the Judge if he'd knowed about electric blankets and store-bought bread he never would have got married in the first place.

But I agree with Ed that things was getting mighty confused in life. It has got to be the place, for instance, where it's a little embarrassing for a fellow to pay his bills ever year and have a little leet over. His neighbors call him a miser and he ain't got no status with his banker on account of he ain't got his name in their "loose receivable" files. Personally, I ain't got that trouble, either with my neighbors or my banker.

Yours truly,
 Uncle Lew.

Recall Move Halted

to be heard in response to accusations made against her. She has a right to know these accusations, and she has a right to rebut them, and she has a right to a hearing based upon this evidence, just like anyone else in a court of law in this land does. A teacher is not a second-rate citizen. They deserve justice like anybody else.

Applause also came from the audience when the question was raised as to why the recall movement was being abandoned. Steve Graves, who raised the question, asked: "Aren't you people concerned with what a recall board can get away with here in Chelsea? Aren't they publicly elected officials? Don't you care about the next teacher who might happen to?"

Another teacher, Wesley Cowley, who said he had taught in Chelsea for 10 years, said he agreed that the teachers need protection and that there are ways of doing this. "As far as we are concerned, this is the sort of thing that should remove the contract agreement that is written with the Board and the teachers. A procedure should be set up in the contract so that in the future the teacher will have a person or a committee to go to when such a problem arises."

When asked to understand, there is a provision in your contract now but you can't get them to form a committee. Isn't that right?" asked a member of the audience.

Several teachers responded, commenting that the situation was somewhat nebulous because the teachers now have an official bargaining agent which is responsible for setting up these procedures and for writing a binding contract, a situation which did not exist before. Others pointed out that the tenure policy of the Chelsea school system provides for a tenure committee which would cover both tenure and probationary teachers and which would serve as a board of review, but that the committee had never been implemented. If the tenure committee had been formed, the Committee for Barbara Segal would never have been necessary and the Thursday evening meeting would never have been held, they contended.

In response to the other questions, two mothers stated that they had children in Mrs. Segal's class and they believed that their children had progressed very satisfactorily under her guidance. One mother stated that her child had never brought home a paper that had not been corrected, that if the child needed help a note to that effect was written on the paper and if Mrs. Segal wanted the mother to do anything for the child, the mother would get a personal note.

Another member of the audience asked why Mrs. Segal was hired in the first place if her recommendations were uncomplimentary, as the letter revealed by the School Board indicated. The question was not answered because it was beyond the immediate concern of the meeting, which focused around the refusal of the Board to grant Mrs. Segal a hearing, according to the moderator. Another question regarding whether there have been other dismissals which the teachers considered arbitrary was also termed beyond the scope of the meeting.

SINCE 1839 the farm on which Earl Huehl lives at 4100 Fletcher Rd., Chelsea, has been owned and farmed by his family. Recently designated a Centennial Farm by the Michigan Historical Commission, the house in the background has stood on the farm since 1887.

Centennial Farm Designated

In 1837, 129 years ago, John Huehl packed up his wife, Adelaide, his infant son, John G., and all his belongings and bid good-bye forever to his native Prussia. He was headed for America—the land of opportunity and Freedom township, Michigan, where he put down his roots.

He settled temporarily in Freedom township, then went to Lima township for a short time before returning to Freedom township, where he bought a farm from A. Perkins and Eliza, his wife, in 1839. The farm, now known as the Freedom township cemetery, occupies half an acre. He was also described as an "ardent Republican, dating his adherence to the party since the beginning of Abraham Lincoln's second term of office."

John G.'s son, John F. married Elizabeth Pinkbender and they raised three children: Today, Mrs. Carl (Irene) Morhart lives in Owosso, Norman Huehl lives in Arcadia, Calif., and Earl lives on the family farm with his wife, the former Mildred Goske, and their two children, Dennis and Gerald, where they to sell his eggs, butter and other produce.

John G. Huehl brought to this country from Prussia when he was an infant, attended school in this district. In 1856 he and Adelaide Schlicht, who was also born in Prussia and arrived in America in 1855, were married. They had six children, one of whom, John F., later operated the family farm. John G. farmed 115 of the 195 acres and had "a fine lot of graded stock," according to the 1891 biographical album. The farm actually contains 194 1/2 acres, as the Freedom township cemetery occupies half an acre.

He was also described as an "ardent Republican, dating his adherence to the party since the beginning of Abraham Lincoln's second term of office."

Before his death in 1892, John had cleared 30 acres of land. Of his four children, John G. was the only survivor.

The Portrait and Biographical Album of Washtenaw County, published in 1891, describes the struggles of this early pioneer. He, with a few others, came walked to Chicago to look for work. The journey took seven days, each way and cost a grand total of 50 cents. At night they slept in fields and barns. They worked on the canal in the western metropolis and received $1 a day for their labor. John frequently walked into Ann Arbor.

The black silk neckerchief worn about a sailor's neck commemorates the death of Lord Nelson, an early leader in the U. S. Navy.

National Trout King Is Now Dexter Area Homesteader

Arthur M. Hutchins, outdoorsman, 1965 National Trout King, photographer, lecturer, and a new Dexter resident, has recently been named the 1966 National Trout King and presided over the 30th National Trout Festival held April 29 through May 1 at Kalkaska.

NATIONAL TROUT KING: A newcomer to Dexter, Arthur M. Hutchins, above, presided over the 30th National Trout Festival at the 1966 National Trout King, held in Kalkaska on April 29-30 and May 1. Highlighting the festivities was the unveiling of the National Trout Memorial in honor of Michigan's State Fish.

Hutchins learned of this honor through presentation to him of the following resolution:

"On Aug. 1965, the board of directors of the National Trout Festival unanimously adopted a resolution commending the 1965 Trout King, Arthur M. Hutchins, for his fine representation of our community to the nation and for his untiring assistance in helping us to help ourselves."

Also, at this meeting, a motion was made and unanimously passed to allow a king to serve an unprecedented second term in order that he might see through to completion the projects started during his reign.

"We are proud to announce that the National Trout Festival board of directors has selected King Arthur M. Hutchins of Rochester, Mich., to be our 1966 National Trout King," the resolution concluded.

Highlighting this year's festival was the unveiling of the National Trout Memorial, a beautiful 18-foot high fountain with a 17-foot brook trout leaping from its center bowl. The new "fisherman's shrine" was unveiled Saturday, April 30, and the two and one-half hour "Grand Royal Parade" Brook trout has recently been named Michigan's official fish.

Hutchins has played a large role in raising the funds for this monument through showing the films and slides of his many adventures and travels and offered $1,000 to get the project rolling and that along with his money, raising projects totals half the cost of the $6,000 monument.

The National Trout Festival had been rated as one of the top 20 events in the U.S. for the month of April by the National Association of Travel Organizations and kicked-off the Festival USA 1966 year. From 80,000 to 100,000 sportsmen and sports lovers were present to overflow.

Hutchins, who became a Dexter resident four months ago, lives at 9705 Mast Rd. He formerly lived in Rochester and is owner of Art Industries in Detroit which is now managed by his step-son, as he puts it "my step-son runs the place better than I did, makes more money than I did, and I can follow my other interests, so we're both happier."

The outdoorsman said he is very concerned about the amount of pollution and feels that "the monument which will be dedicated to live trout will be a monument to dead trout unless pollution is stopped. Hutchins is interested in all areas of conserving our countryside and streams. He said we must keep the place fit for the operators of those UPO's to fish if they ever get over their shyness and decide to try our way of life!

Fishing, hunting, skiing or whatever, Hutchins has a fabulous tale of true adventure to relate. Just one of his more noteworthy feats is that he is the only Michigan hunter who has legally shot an island white or Kermode's bear. The bear is exactly like a black bear, except its fur is white and even the soles of its feet and its claws are white, but it has brown eyes. It is not an albino. This event was written up for a national magazine.

RECORDS-HELP PLANNING - Farmers who have good records are usually able to plan and operate the farm business at a profit. A Michigan Co-operative Extension specialist in farm management points out that poor records are listed as the number one cause of business failures.

Continuing to hold down the No. 2 spot in the state's mineral production was cement which edged up in value to $93.8 million, about $4.6 million more than the previous year. Some $51.7 million worth of copper was mined, placing this mineral third and topping its 1964 figure of $46 million.

The Hi-Light

Edited by Students of the Chelsea High School Journalism Club.

The pace of work quickens as May 21, which is prom night, rapidly approaches. The juniors and their mothers are preparing for the long-awaited prom night at which they honor this year's graduating seniors.

The food committee, which is headed by Vice-President Kim Elliott, has decided to make this year's banquet a little different than past years by serving the meal buffet style. The menu as planned will be: beef, ham, three types of salads, three types of vegetables, bean salad, Jell-O salad, and dessert. All of the food will be prepared by the juniors' mothers. The kitchen chairman is Mrs. Harvey, and the dining room chairman is Mrs. Winkler.

The serving committee has prepared material for the six boys and six girls' costumes. The girls' costumes will consist of face veils, cummerbunds, and excite pants; and the boys' costumes will be hats, cummerbunds, and excite pants.

Kathy Foster, committee chairman, reports that all six of the sophomore and seniors have volunteered to serve at the prom. The invitation committee, headed by Debbie Gorton, has already sent out invitations to the seniors, the teachers, the administration, and the school board.

Decorations for the prom will be rented from the LeVan Co., and the company also will provide records for background music; which will include Desert Sands, Bigband Bazaar, and Moonlight Serenade. The chairman for the decoration committee is Russ Maurer.

The Irresistibles, chosen by Becky Freeman, will be entertaining the band for the prom.

One concern for girls going to the prom is buying formal, and an Ann Arbor department store had a style show of formal at which three Chelsea, Dexter and Ann Arbor girls modeled. On Saturday, April 23, Candi Daniels, Pat Guest, and Sharon Still chose the formal they were to model the following Monday, and any alterations of these dresses were made over the week-end.

Each of the CHS girls wore three formal, all of which were long, escorted by a young gentleman, the girls walked out onto a platform and modeled their formal as a commentator introduced them and told about their particular dresses.

In between the showing of the dresses there was an informal discussion about prom etiquette.

Punch and cookies were served after the style show.

On the strictly more informal side of CHS, some of the senior girls are wearing dresses to school which they bought at Macy's in New York.

Contests for the first CHS Talent Show in several years will be held at school from May 2 through May 6, and will culminate with a talent show on Friday, May 6. Marjane Edwards, the chairman, has invited all CHS students to participate in the show.

Students talent will be divided into many categories. There will be a talent section in which their talents will also be covered.

classes are practicing archery when weather permits. When the classes are not able to go outdoors, they re-take the American Association for Health, Physical Education & Recreation (AAHPER) Tests, which are carefully developed physical trials. The girls took the tests last fall and show improvement over the previous results. The purpose of the tests are to show improvement and to show how to improve the physical education program. The next program in physical education will be golf.

Junior High Track Team Undefeated

The squad is made up of 22 boys from the seventh and eighth grades and has turned in some outstanding performances thus far. Some of the better performances have been turned in by eighth graders Rick Slane, Tim Colvart, Richard Bolinger, Mike Bauer, John White, David Loukin, and Flaviy B... and seventh graders Larry Gorton, Dale Robbins, Bob Sawyer and Jim Wolecki. Army Nurse Chief Praises Work of Nurses in Vietnam

Mrs. Iza Carty, with Mrs. Ruth Otto of Ann Arbor, were in Detroit Thursday to attend the 31st Michigan Women's National Security conference, held at the Embassy Hotel.

Purpose of the conference is to further national security activities in this State of Michigan; to create interest among patriotic, civic and social organizations in the establishment of adequate defense against aggression from without and un-American activities from within.

Guest speaker at the morning session was Federal Circuit Judge George Edwards whose topic was "American Heritage."

At the afternoon session the guest speaker was Colonel Mildred L. Clark, chief of the Army Nurse Corps, USA in the office of the surgeon general, Washington, D.C.

Col. Clark, who recently returned from Vietnam, commended the work being done for the wounded there by the army nurses, calling them "my nurses." She said that "conditions are not good; nurses work long hours; there was no complaining; they feel there is a job to be done and they are doing it and their morale is an inspiration to anyone."

Colonel Clark said there are now approximately 200 nurses in Vietnam—both men and women—she foresees a shortage of nurses in the Corps by 1967 unless approximately 3,000 recruits are added to the normal peacetime strength of 5,000.

Col. Clark, reporting on the death rate from wounds, said that to as little as one percent because of tremendous changes in medicine and nursing care even since the Korean War when the death rate was three percent. Because of mobile units and fast evacuation by helicopter, she said, the wounded soldiers in the Vietnam conflict have more chance of survival than in any previous war.

Mrs. Carty attended Thursday all-day meeting because of her interest in volunteer service at the VA Hospital, Ann Arbor, and the Red Cross.

Mrs. Otto is a veteran. Allmation Voluntary Services (representative of the Ann Arbor VA Hospital).

What is the difference between potato chips and potato crisps?
In the United States they are the same; both chips. In Britain chips are what we know as French fried potatoes. To be sure of getting potato chips in England, order crisps.

THE LANSING REPORT

BY SENATOR GIL BURSLEY

The billion dollar budget now facing the State of Michigan must be brought back within reasonable range of the $944,000,000 budget suggested by Governor Romney.

The Governor's figures already include a generous increase of $125,000,000. Legislative action now in process adds another $80,000,000—a total budget of $1,020,000,000.

This amount of spending guarantees a fiscal crisis next year. It will certainly require added taxes but provides no assurance of tax reform. There is no provision for example for property tax relief—a tax now hitting unfairly many citizens.

The Senate should cut down on House bills which total almost $60,000,000 more than the Governor's recommendations.

The House should cut down on Senate bills which exceed the Governor's budget by some $20,000,000.

I suggest the House start by cutting out the suggested legislative pay raise. This is a small part of the total reduction needed but it is entirely proper for the legislature to cut out its own proposed increase first. I will support such action by the House.

I would like to see the Senate's modest increases for higher education retained. I think the Governor will accept them.

I also feel that the Senate's out of $300,000 from the Governor's proposed increase for public libraries should be restored. I joined in a floor fight to accomplish this but we fell one vote short.

Everyone—citizen and legislator—will have different ideas as to where to make cuts. Priorities in budgeting are always hard to establish.

I personally will support any line item veto the Governor makes in an effort to return the State's fiscally sound position. I hope the House and Senate can agree on compromise figures on some of the major items so that we'll pull the budget well back below the billion dollar mark and into an area acceptable to Governor Romney's budget advisors.

If we are prudent with this year's budget the surplus will carry us into the following fiscal year without any financial crisis.

It would be unfortunate to work on tax reform solely in response to a crisis. Panic legislation is rarely responsible legislation.

State Government Day Slated Saturday in Ypsilanti

Ypsilanti will be the site, on Saturday, May 7 of the second "State Government Day" program sponsored by Senator Gilbert E. Bursley as a public service to the residents of the area. It will be held at the West Junior High school, 105 N. Mansfield from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Five departments of the State Government, Senator Bursley explained, will be represented by their directors or designated deputies on a program describing to local government officials, civic groups, school organizations and interested citizens how these departments are organized and how they serve the Washtenaw county area as well as the state as a whole.

Senator Bursley further indicated that each department will be given 30 minutes for a presentation and then 15 minutes for questions and answers. All questions will be submitted in writing.

At 9:45 a.m. Dr. Albert Heustis, director of the Department of Public Health will speak.

At 10:30 a.m. it will be the Department of Education and Alexander Kloster, acting director of the department.

At 11:15 a.m. the State Highway Department will be represented. Director Howard Hill has not yet indicated who will be present for the department.

At 12 noon the program will be turned over to the Department of Civil Rights. Co-director of the Civil Rights Commission, John Keenleyside, hopes to be present himself.

At the first "State Government Day" program in Ann Arbor on March 26 the departments represented were Commerce, Treasury (State Tax Commissioner), Mental Health, Social Services and Conservation. This first program was so successful that Senator Bursley has arranged for the second one in Ypsilanti. Bursley further indicated tentative plans are underway for a third program in Tecumseh. He stressed that all citizens are welcome and that this is their opportunity to learn more about state government.

School Officials Study Approaches To Vocational Ed

Two approaches to a vital topic, vocational education, will be the subject Thursday, May 5, at a meeting of the Washtenaw County School Officers and School Superintendents associations, at the Ann Arbor Board of Education offices.

In addition to school board members, secondary school principals, superintendents and members of the Intermediate School Board, invited guests who will attend are State Senator Gilbert Bursley and Representatives Thomas Sharpe and Charles Gray.

Harold Matthews, dean of Jackson Community College, will tell the way in which this college treats vocational training for grades 11 and 12 as an integral part of the college set-up.

Harold Fisher, vocational education director of Muskegon County Intermediate School District, by contrast, will tell about the concept of vocational education as it is handled there.

In Muskegon instead of using Community College facilities, a separate building to serve all vocational education students in these grades in the county is operated by the Intermediate School District.

To determine which concept might best serve Washtenaw the Intermediate School Board here has asked the Community College Board to conduct a survey in which they will participate. Should the results show that vocational education here could be handled most economically and efficiently by a co-operative venture between the Community College and Intermediate School District, "it is hoped that before January 1967 the people of the county will know where the county is heading relative to vocational and technical training," according to Nick Lamb, assistant superintendent of the Intermediate School District.

ASCS Compliance To Be Completed By Certification

Mrs. Carolyn Stump, office manager of the Washtenaw ASCS county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office, announces that Washtenaw county will again be doing compliance by certification. Under this plan the farm operator will come into the county office and certify the number of acres diverted and planted for both the wheat and feed grain programs.

At the time of certification the producer will receive a photo copy of his farm. The farm boundaries, farm number, field numbers and acreages of most fields will be shown on the photo. The field acreage shown will be considered correct for the current year unless the field boundary differs from the boundary lines shown.

All producers in the Wheat Diversion Program must certify to their wheat acreage by June 15. If we do not have this certification by June 15, the producer will be ineligible for any program benefits. Producers will be assisted by county office personnel in completing their certification.

To give better service three townships a day are scheduled to come to the county office. Producers are asked to check the file carefully and make every effort possible to come in on the day scheduled for their township. If for some reason a producer is unable to come on the day specified, please wait until after May 17.

The schedule of townships is as follows: Lyndon, Dexter, Augusta, May 9; Webster, Northfield, Ann Arbor, May 10; Salem, Sylvan, Lima, May 11; Scio, Superior, Sharon, May 12; Freedom, Lodi, Pittsfield, May 13; Ypsilanti, York, Manchester, May 16; Bridgewater, Saline, May 17.

Remember a reporter will not visit your farm this year to measure acreages as in previous years. Producers must come to the county ASCS office prior to June 15, 1966. The county office is open daily from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

It is suggested that producers take advantage of the measurement service available if they are not certain of the acreages in the fields being diverted or planted. The cost of this service is $5 per farm plus 10 cents an acre. If you wish your acreage measured contact the ASCS office as soon as possible.

Congressman Wes VIVIAN Reports from WASHINGTON

Last week I wrote on the need for truth-in-packaging legislation. This week I start with this question: How much do you pay in interest?

6 percent, 8 percent? If you think it's that low, you are probably wrong.

The average interest rate of 500 typical families, as determined by a recent government survey (Bureau of Economic Research), was actually 23 percent.

Why don't we know? Because under present trade practices, the consumer is often not told nor is it easy to find out what credit will cost. I am referring to the dollars and cents cost of interest, as well as the true interest rate cost. Lenders too often quote deceptively low rates.

The so-called "six percent rate" on financing used cars is at least 12 percent a year—sometimes it is actually about 18 or 25 percent.

Some teen-age charge accounts, advertised as "only pennies per week" have run as high as 60 and 80 percent annually!

To let the consumer know just how much credit costs is the goal of my Truth in Lending Bill, introduced in the United States House of Representatives. This bill has been referred to the House Banking and Currency Committee. I hope that the Committee will discuss and send the bill to the floor of the House, where, I am sure, it will be passed.

Why do I think this bill necessary? Let me quote from one of the consumer's best friends, Mrs. Esther Peterson. Mrs. Peterson is Special Assistant to the President for Consumer Affairs. She says, "Perhaps no consumer topic is more vital than credit. It is one thing to talk abstractly of unconscionably high interest rates, overextension, or misrepresentation in credit transactions, and of harsh collection methods. It is quite another thing to hear of families such as the Petersons. And unfortunately, the number of those who have been victimized appears on the rise."

Here is an example: A family bought some furniture for $380, they thought. But when the payment book came, they discovered that he owed $588 over 24 months.

Total interest—$199. Annual interest rate—49 percent.

He might have bought the furniture anyway but at least he should have known just what he was paying, to finance it.

Those against the bill say that consumers might cut back on their credit purchases if they were told the costs. I disagree. Credit and I mean the wise use of credit is necessary to the way we live.

What some credit sellers are afraid of is that by revealing the true costs of credit, the consumer would be able to shop around for credit just as we now shop for a car. And we all know that shopping around might give us a better buy.

I believe that "truth in lending" will give the American consumer a valuable tool he can use, whenever he wants to make a large-scale purchase. And today, when prices unfortunately are on the rise, we need to be able to use the tool of credit to the best advantage.

My bill will set national guidelines for credit. But credit in each state is of course regulated by the state. That is why I am watching with interest Michigan's own credit bill, now being debated in Lansing.

Both are necessary. Both are needed. Both need the support of Michigan consumers. It is your interest—in dollars and cents.

SENDOFF FOR COHO SALMON: For the first time ever, thousands of young coho salmon are swimming in the Great Lakes. The fish, called coho smolts, recently made their way into the big waters after being planted in two northern Michigan streams by the Conservation Department. Under this spring's efforts to add an exciting new boon to Great Lakes sport-fishing, introductory coho releases totaled 250,000 fish in the Platte river, Benzie county, and 350,000 in Bear creek, Manistee county.

As soon as stream conditions signal the go-ahead in the Upper Peninsula, some 225,000 cohos will be liberated in the Big Huron river, Baraga county, to round out the Department's first-year plantings of these fish. Hopefully, the fish will grow for about two years in the big waters, then return to the rivers for spawning in the fall of 1967. Plans call for carrying out more large-scale plantings during the next two springs in a bid to establish coho salmon fishing in the Great Lakes.

State Police Warn About Molesters

Emphasizing that child molesters are more numerous in the summer months, State Police Sgt. Mario Formolo, commander of the Brighton post, and Sgt. Matt Hrbec, commander of the Jackson post, advised parents to caution youngsters about possible dangers from strangers.

In a seasonal reminder on this problem, the sergeants said the State Police last year received 547 complaints of sex offenses which included incidents of child molesting with most occurring in warm weather months.

Similar incidents are reported to other police departments and many, usually because of an unwarranted fear of publicity, are not reported at all.

Molestering dangers may best be thwarted by co-operation of parents, children, school authorities and police, the sergeants said, though initial responsibility falls heaviest upon parents and children.

Parents should set guidelines on outdoor activity for their children, explain the importance of rules and see that they are followed.

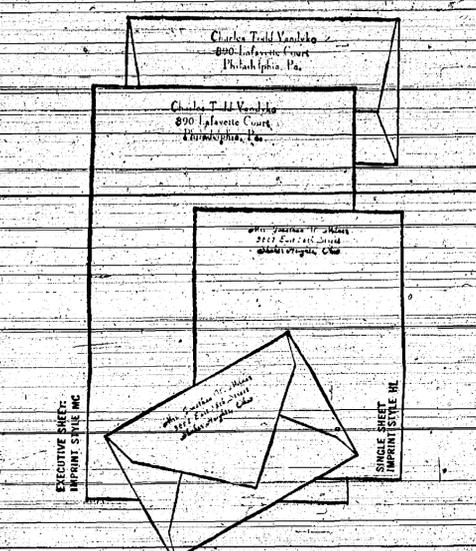

The sergeants made these recommendations:

Children should not accept offers for walks or rides from strangers nor should they go with any person unless the parents approve. Youngsters should reject bribes of candy, money or gifts and report such offers to parents, teachers or police.

Parents should know where their children are outdoors and children should make no important change of area without notifying parents.

Children should have companions at play, going to or from school, movies or other approved places or when running errands because a child alone may too easily become a molester's victim.

Youngsters should be told not to loiter at public rest rooms, isolated places or vacant buildings which may be high danger areas. Parents should report any suspicious incident to police because this can help check the names of youngsters involved in such incidents are not made public except where warranted in cases of abduction or murder.

REPORT from LANSING
State Representative
Thomas G. Sharpe

There is no doubt that this will go down as one of the greatest shortcomings of the 73rd Legislature.

The failure to meet this very pressing need has come despite the fact that according to a Michigan State University public opinion survey, the large majority of Michigan citizens rate traffic safety as the number two major state problem...

The entire problem area of traffic safety did not appear on the majority party's so-called "Hit Parade" of priority legislation.

Among the many traffic safety measures ignored again this year are: Three periodic motor vehicle inspection bills...

Several bills for strengthened driver licensing and examinations. Many proposals for better traffic law enforcement and improved driver education.

Not only does the failure indicate a reluctance to come to grips with a problem of great concern, but also and more tragically, it stalls for another year efforts to reduce the slaughter on Michigan's highways...

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

Michigan could be plunged into a financial crisis if the legislature persists in its current reckless spending course.

Through the 1966 legislative session, preliminary actions of the legislature have increased the budget recommendations for next year by approximately $75 million and would increase its first billion dollar budget to at least $1,020,000,000. A proposed increase in additional recommended increase to $120 million would result in a total increase of over $200 million in a single year.

Such a budget would ever exceed our entire surplus would be wiped out. Michigan would be in the red (which is operationally, and we would be put in a position of deficit spending as much as $142 million for the 1967 budget year. This further set the stage for a deficit of close to a quarter of a billion dollars for 1967-68.

A legislature which has consistently refused to face squarely the state revenue inequity and future needs even to consider spending actions now which would lead to deficit and crisis is a sign of irresponsibility.

Should the future financial of the people of Michigan be by more "patchwork" tax needs reform. To date there has been no indication that the legislative leaders of this legislature are any more ready to understand tax reform now than they were last fall, when they refused even to consider a bipartisan program developed by representatives of both political parties.

It doesn't take ability or talent to spend money, particularly the public's. The real test of capacity is to spend wisely—to spend within the limits of sound financial policy, and to make the most of what is spent. These are qualities that count both inside and outside the public arena.

I am hopeful that, like last year, more common sense will prevail by the time the budget bills are finalized and sent to my desk. I am not wedded to every proposal just as it stands in my budget. I realize that there is a certain amount of give and take in the months of work that result in a state budget for an entire year.

But I have no intention of seeing out more than three years of hard work to turn fiscal sanity to the ashcan. I am not prepared to see our surplus wasted away in one year while the future is left unprotected and unprovided for.

The budget I presented reflects both fiscal responsibility and program responsibility. It is in the tradition of past budgets of this administration; it is both prudent and progressive. It would substantially improve the level of services in all important areas and would reasonably meet state needs.

Fortunately, budget totals in the house of origin can seldom be considered final actions. Generally they are reduced. Fortunately, there are legislators from both sides of the aisle who are concerned about the reckless size of these tentative budget totals. But to avoid financial difficulty, they will need strong public support in bringing the final budget back to a sound basis.

Rep. M. Esch Asks Increased Funds For 4-H Club Work

Representative Marvin L. Esch (R-Ann Arbor) last week proposed a $50,000 increase for 4-H club work. The proposal came as an amendment to the appropriation bill for agriculture which originally called for $76,000.

"How long are we going to spend money on containing delinquents—rather than getting to the cause of the problem?" Esch asked the members of the House.

"We have in the 4-H program a way to reach out and develop affirmative attitudes and leadership qualities in our young people. Let's not deprive those hundreds of volunteer workers of the basic funds they need to carry out their work. We have just this afternoon, appropriated 7 million dollars for the girls and boys training schools for teen-agers in trouble. Now I ask you for just $50,000 more to help support the thousands of young men and women who are learning to become the leaders of our community tomorrow. Let's use this fine 4-H program to build more leaders—then we may not have to spend so much for containing juvenile delinquents." Esch concluded.

PRIMER TO TEACHING CONSERVATION: Michigan educators and youth leaders interested in learning more about conservation and how to fit it into their programs for youngsters can start doing something about it right now. It's not too early for them to apply through the Conservation Department to attend this summer's courses dealing with natural resources at the Higgins Lake conservation school and Camp Shaw near Chatham in the Upper Peninsula. Teachers who turn students for one of these week-long sessions will learn the ABC's of conservation from classroom studies and field trips (left photo). They will return to their own classrooms next fall with better backgrounds to open the eyes and minds of their pupils to conservation and wonders of the outdoor world (right photos, top and bottom). For enrollment forms and more information about the summer programs at Higgins Lake and Camp Shaw write: Teachers' Conservation School, Michigan Department of Conservation, 408 Kalamazoo Plaza, Lansing 48926.

AGRICULTURE in Action

by M. L. Wood
CHELSEA FARM BUREAU

★ Father-to-Son

With the "Project 80" study indicating that the average farm of 1980 will represent an investment of around $75,000 and with many in Michigan already passing the $200,000 mark, inheritance taxes become a greater factor in agriculture.

Ignorance of the law can be costly. Many farm families are finding this especially true when it comes to the settlement of estates. Although the head of the family may leave a "good" will when he dies, he may still leave his family in desperate financial straits even though the business was in excellent condition before death.

Wills alone frequently leave the heirs in the position of having to sell part or all of the estate to settle claims of heirs or the tax collector, with the disruption or destruction of the farm enterprise.

Most farmers inspecting their cash situation fail to realize that farm lands, cattle and equipment may well put their estates in the high brackets for estate-tax purposes. The lower limit of $80,000 on estate taxes looks mighty big to an operator who is borrowing production money and paying interest on a land loan.

This weakness may be in his estimate of the worth of his property. Frequently, the tax man has a much different valuation—the sorrow of the heirs.

In an informal survey among young farmers conducted by Michigan Farm Bureau staff members, one of the chief concerns was how best to pass the farm from father to son without excessive taxes.

The importance of estate planning is emphasized by the fact that the insurance companies, working with farmers in Michigan, are employing more specialists in estate management.

One such planner, Russel Moore, Lansing, says the farm operator or owner needs a proper will to take care of the separation and distribution of his worldly goods, plus an operational plan to take care of the passage of the property to the new operator, while still caring for the interest of the widow or other heirs.

Eighty-one percent of the estimated 67.2 million households in the U. S. had telephones in March, 1965, a Bureau of the Census study shows. The figure compares with 75 percent of 52.3 million households with phones in a March, 1960 survey.

THE LETTERBOX

Thank You, Teacher, From A Parent . . .

Mr. Editor:

I have just returned from the meeting at the Town Hall concerning the school. I have tried to sleep but I cannot get the tears in my eyes. I think of what has been done to this young teacher. When I looked at her tonight, I was filled with compassion. I wonder if I could have done more to help this girl, the teacher of my child. I think of the many things now—but it seems too late.

Nevertheless, I now want to express my feelings publicly. I feel Mrs. Segal to be a good teacher, certainly not deserving of the pressure which has been put upon her. I see my child talk excitedly of things learned and things to be learned. His progress certainly is real. This could not be questioned. In this way I want to say thank you, Barbara Segal, for all you have done for my child, and for my heart. I say Dear God what have we (the people of Chelsea) done to you.

Dorothy Heilner.

Understanding your HEALTH

By Albert E. Heustle, M.D. Director, Michigan Department of Public Health

If you are 35 or over and have healthy teeth, it would seem that you haven't any major dental problems. This may be true—or very misleading.

There is a dental disease that creeps up on folks and can't in the worst cases, result in the loss of all their teeth, even though the teeth themselves are healthy. You've probably heard of it, but never paid much attention. It's called pyorrhea, or more scientifically, periodontal disease.

If you allow this disease to gain a foothold, it will destroy your gums, the other attaching your teeth, and finally the jawbones themselves. This surely isn't a pleasant topic, but we in public pyorrhea is the biggest cause pyorrhea is the biggest roadblock to good dental health for folks over 35.

The disease usually develops in two stages, the first called gingivitis, or inflamed gums, and the second, periodontitis, known as pyorrhea. In gingivitis, gums become swollen and sensitive, pulling away from the teeth and bleeding at the slightest touch. If it is not promptly treated, the inflammation extends along teeth roots, forming pockets that fill with bacteria and pus, causing pyorrhea.

Factors that can irritate your gums, and lead to pyorrhea are: calculus, or often called tartar, worn out fillings; poor fitting partial dentures; sharp edges of decayed teeth and food particles lodged in cavities or between teeth.

Symptoms for you to watch for are, bleeding gums while brushing, gums separating from teeth and looseness or shifting of teeth.

At the first sign of the disease see your dentist. Home cures are reasonably useless. It takes professional help to save your teeth!

ROYAL TEACH-IN

The denaturalization of Hawaii started in 1839 when King Kamehameha III, after hearing a course of lectures on government by several missionaries, proclaimed the Declaration of Rights and the Edict of Toleration. Hawaii is the only State in the Union to honor its past monarch with a public holiday: King Kamehameha Day, June 11.

Spring Calls For Tornado Safety Rules

Tornado safety reminders have been issued by Col. Gerald G. Miller, director of Washtenaw County Office of Civil Defense. Col. Miller, director of Washtenaw County this article and post it in a convenient place, as this information and these precautions could save a person's life if a tornado strikes this area.

When the weather conditions are such that a tornado could develop, the Weather Bureau will publish a tornado watch.

Official weather information for Washtenaw county will be broadcast over these radio stations: sunup to midnight—WAAM, 1690; WOIA-FM, 102.9; noon to 11 p.m.—WUOM-FM, 91.7; sunup to sundown—WPAG, 1050; WYNZ, 1520; WOIB, 1290; and WYSI, 1480.

When a tornado is sighted, the following information should be reported: location—where it is, along which road, direction and distance from town or some other commonly known reference point; direction of travel — (tornadoes travel between 25 and 40 miles per hour); and time sighted.

The tornado should be reported by calling one of these agencies: the U.S. Weather Bureau, 492-5000; County Civil Defense Office, 668-8811; County Sheriff's Office, 662-2504; Elynn Beach, Chelesea Civil Defense director, 478-0931; or Vic Sindlinger, Dexter Civil Defense director, 426-8287.

Most tornadoes occur between 3 and 7 p.m.

When a tornado watch is published, the County Civil Defense Office recommends that residents take these precautions: Watch the weather; review the Tornado Safety Rules; keep a portable radio and flashlight handy and make sure they work; if children are in school, remember the school has a good plan for their safety and if the children are at home, keep them nearby; when winds become extremely violent, or a tornado warning is received, or a tornado is sighted, go to a tornado shelter, or to the southwest corner of the basement, taking along the children, radio and flashlight; open doors and windows on the north and east sides of the house; keep the radio tuned to a county station.

For further information or a copy of the tornado safety rules, persons are urged to see Chelsea Civil Defense Director Beach or Dexter Civil Defense Director Sindlinger.

Mitch Hits the Ditch

A one-car accident resulted in extensive damage to a 1965 Ford Thursday at approximately 1:15 p.m. when the driver, Mitchell Zink, 18, of 435 North St., apparently dozed as he was driving on M-52 near Jerusalem Rd. The car, traveling at approximately 55 miles per hour, crossed the road, hit a guidewire in the roadbed, traveled for approximately 100 feet off the side of the road before coming to a stop in a field. A portion of fence owned by Carl Heller was also torn out.

DR. POLLEY NAMED STATE SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT—The State Board of Education has named Dr. Ira Polley (seated center) to be State Superintendent of Public Instruction. Polley, a former State Controller, posed for this picture with members of the State Board following his appointment. Pictured are (seated left to right) Dr. Leon Hill of Huntington Woods, Marilyn Jean Kelly of Ann Arbor, Polley, Board President Thomas J. Brennan of Dearborn and Donald M.D. Thurber of Grosse Pointe. New Federal Program Offers Help in Developing Public Outdoor Facilities

Greenspan is a name that has been applied to a new program which involves farmers but is of more interest and is designed for the benefit of non-farm people. About a month ago, the Secretary of Agriculture distributed pamphlets to some 1,500 governors and officials of local units of government to inform them of a new Federal program which provides grants to local units of government to help purchase farmland and retire this land from agricultural production to public use of any type or outdoor activities that are needed and enjoyed by all people.

The actual amount of the grant would be determined by the amount of payment the agricultural land would otherwise earn under our land retirement program but not to exceed 50 percent of the actual cost of the land. These payments would be determined by local ASCS offices subject to approval of the Secretary of Agriculture.

Greenspan is a part of our new Cropland Adjustment Program, the idea of which is to take out of agricultural production cropland that can be diverted to public recreation, wildlife habitat, natural beauty, or other uses to control air and water pollution.

In addition to the grant itself, the program also provides funds to help share the cost of developing the conservation needs which protect the land from wind and water erosion, help conserve water, reforestation, and any other practices that contribute to a recreational land use.

Cost-sharing for this program is the same as would be paid to individual land owners which, in general, is 50 percent of the total cost.

A local unit of government means a unit of government that has taxing powers; that is, the authority to assess taxes such as county boards of supervisors, city councils, etc. Conservation clubs, Soil Conservation District boards, service clubs, etc., would not be eligible for a grant under this program. However, in many parts of the country a local unit of government acquires the title to and authorizes its development to a local conservation or service club. Local units of government may get information from any state or local office of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. The final date that a grant may be approved for 1966 is June 30. In addition to the Greenspan program, but closely related to it, is another provision of 1966. Cropland Adjustment Program which provides additional adjustment payments to individual farm owners who have a Cropland Adjustment Agreement and agree to permit public access for hunting, fishing, trapping and hiking on the designated acreage by the public.

The program is designed and payments are based on the natural resources that are available for the project that the individual land owner has in mind. For example, hunting, the payment would be determined by how available the area is to the people who need additional hunting range, how well it is developed to attract wildlife, that is, the amount of habitat and food available. Or, in the case of fishing, the type of fishing that is available and the number of fishermen it might support each day.

Applications for this additional adjustment payment for public access will be referred to the Game and Fish Division of our State Conservation Department. They will inspect the land and consult with the individual land owner and develop a plan that would provide the maximum public use. This plan would be well within the limits of what the area could be expected to support and the land owner would have complete control up to those limits.

Presently there are 22 CAP agreements. Everyone of these is eligible for this extra adjustment payment. An official announcement of this payment will be made in the very near future, but for the state as a whole, it will vary from $1 to $5. Applications are now available in the County Office for producers to file a request.

May 13 is the final date a producer may file a request for a CAP agreement. All agreements, including the public access provision, must be approved by the county committee not later than June 30, 1966.

Judge Francis J. O'Brien, Municipal Judge for the city of Ann Arbor has announced that he will seek nomination on the non-partisan ballot for the office of Judge of Probate of Washtenaw county. He has served as Ann Arbor's Municipal Judge since 1949 being elected to three successive terms with out opposition. Judge and Mrs. O'Brien reside at 215 S. Revenue Blvd., Ann Arbor and have two sons, Tom, a graduate student at Eastern Michigan University and Michael, a student in high school.

President Johnson has indicated he will ask Congress for a tax increase if prices continue to rise. He hinted a possible hike of a billion "more or less" affects both individual and corporate taxes.
