Measles Clinic Slated Saturday At High School

Mass Immunization Program Is for Children 1 Year Through 6th Grade

free measles clinic for chil- from one year through sixth de will be offered in the Chel- High gym this Saturday morn- from 9 to 11:30. The clinic is igned to reach all children in age bracket who have not ved seven-day measles or sles vaccinations.

clinics are being offered ughout the county by the shtenaw County Health De- tment and the county medical ety. Request slips for the clin- have been distributed in ools. All children to be vaccin- at the clinics must be ac- panied by a parent or other onsible adult over 21, and must ent a request slip signed by child's parent or guardian. itional request slips will available at the clinics.

children who have already had e-day measles or who have or are being treated for can- leukemia or tuberculosis, chil- n who are allergic to eggs or products and children who e had a convulsion in the past years should not be given inoculation. If a child is un- the care of a doctor, he should consulted beforehand.

If the series of clinics offered in the county is successful, no fur- ther mass immunization measures are planned, according to County Health Department Director Otto K. Engelke.

Effective next fall, measles vac- cination has been added to the list of immunizations necessary for children entering Michigan schools, Dr. Engelke noted.

Chelsea Jaycees will assist doc- tors and nurses at the local clinic.

Last week's clinics, scheduled Saturday morning at Ann Arbor High and Lincoln High, were can- celled due to the weather and have been re-scheduled. Ann Arbor High will have a measles clinic on March 4 and the Lincoln clinic will be held this Saturday, Feb. 4.

Children are welcome at any of the county clinics. In addition to the Chelsea, Ann Arbor and Lin- coln clinics, the following sites and dates have been set for the pro- gram (all clinics from 9 to 11:30 a.m.):

Feb. 11—Whitmore Lake High school and Manchester Intermedi- ate school.

Feb. 18—Ypsilanti High school and Perry school, Ypsilanti.

Snow, Sleet Halt Activities

Chelsea was just getting back normal in mid-week after a vere storm last Thursday and iday dumped up to 12 inches snow and sleet in the area. Travel, education, social and siness activities were all dis- pted by the storm. By Monday st roads were open, although t necessarily cleared, and sev- l activities had been re-sched- ed.

Chelsea schools were closed day, as were schools through- t lower Southern Michigan, d remained closed Monday be- use many back roads in the strict were not plowed open school buses. Public schools ened Tuesday, but a freezing in early in the morning gave dents another free day. They re sent home from school at :15 Tuesday morning. Classes sumed Wednesday.

Driving conditions in and und Chelsea were particularly rardous last Thursday night d Friday, after a layer of sleet d an top of heavy snow. When precipitation dropped, the heav- packed snow and ice present- difficult removal problems. e crusty snow slowed plow- operations and was a snow- veler's nightmare.

City snow-removal crews, un- the direction of Parker own superintendent, worked most round the clock until city streets were passable and finally cleared. City officials and Council members expressed their appreciation to the crews for a difficult job well done.

—Chelsea High school's Friday night basketball game with Dun- dee was re-scheduled for Feb. 11 at Dundee. A district Jaycees basketball tournament was also the victim of week-end traveling conditions. The tournament, orig- inally set for last Saturday, has been re-scheduled for Feb. 18 in the Chelsea High gym.

While most Chelsea residents shuffled schedules and cancelled plans, Boy Scout Troop 425 de- cided that the weather offered fine winter camping conditions. They set out Friday evening for Kensington Park as planned, to attend a camp-out and Klondike sled derby. When they arrived at the site, the road wasn't plowed and no other scouts were there.

But the boys and their lead- ers hauled their equipment a half-mile to the campsite with the Klondike sleds and set up camp.

After winning second place in sled competition Saturday, the troop spent another night at the camp.

They returned to Chelsea Sun- day afternoon to find that school would be closed Monday. Scouts are now accepting bids from the school district for a fleet of Klondike sleds.

KLONDIKE CAMPERS: Chelsea Boy Scout Troop 425 earned the uncontested distinction of being the only troop in the Portage Trails Council, which covers both Livingston and Washtenaw counties, to camp out both last Friday and Saturday nights in Kensington Metropolitan Park, near Milford. The group hauled supplies more than one-half mile through the snow to the campsite Friday night. Shown with their Klondike Derby sleds are, from left, John Bennett, patrol leader; James Juergens, senior patrol leader; Jon Schenk, bugler; James Craig, II, junior assistant scoutmaster; John Craig, librarian; Daniel Boham, Paul Garman, scoutmaster; Tim Marzec; Bill Harrison; Chris Marzec, patrol leader; Edward Drieman; Lee Dickelman, scribe, and Chuck Patrick. Ralph Frisch, former scoutmaster of the troop, snapped the photo. The Scouts placed second in a field of 63 entries in Klondike Derby sled judging.

Train Strikes Car Monday Afternoon

Stockbridge Woman Seriously Injured at Dexter Rd. Crossing

A Stockbridge woman was seri- ously injured Monday afternoon about 3:30 when her small sedan was hit by a New York Central passenger train at the Chelsea- Dexter Rd. crossing near Blaess Elevator, in Lima township.

Mrs. Clyde (Jewel) Howard, 18, was alone in her car, Washtenaw county sheriff's deputies said, and apparently failed to notice or heed flashing signals at the crossing. The signals were operating, depu- ties said.

The train, traveling north-east, struck Mrs. Howard's car from the rear. The car was dragged 60 yards with the train. Mrs. How- ard was thrown out of the car.

She suffered a concussion and fractures of ribs and pelvis, the doctor attending her at St. Joseph Mercy hospital, Ann Arbor, said. He added that while her injuries were serious, she is expected to recover.

Mrs. Howard's car was consid- ered a total loss, according to the Sheriff Department report.

World Day Of Prayer Slated Feb. 9

A chain of prayer around the world in which millions will take part is the essence of World Day of Prayer, which will be celebrat- ed in Chelsea on Friday, Feb. 10 at St. Paul's United Church of Christ at 1 p.m.

The program is under the spon- sorship of the United Church Women with Mrs. Thomas Smith and Mrs. Robert Taylor acting as co-chairmen.

At all times during a 24-hour period, groups of women will be meeting to give expression to a commitment to prayer and its power, and to a concern for the need of all people for the mes- sage of the Christian gospel, the co-chairmen said. Observances will be held in 125 countries on five continents, with the same basic service used everywhere.

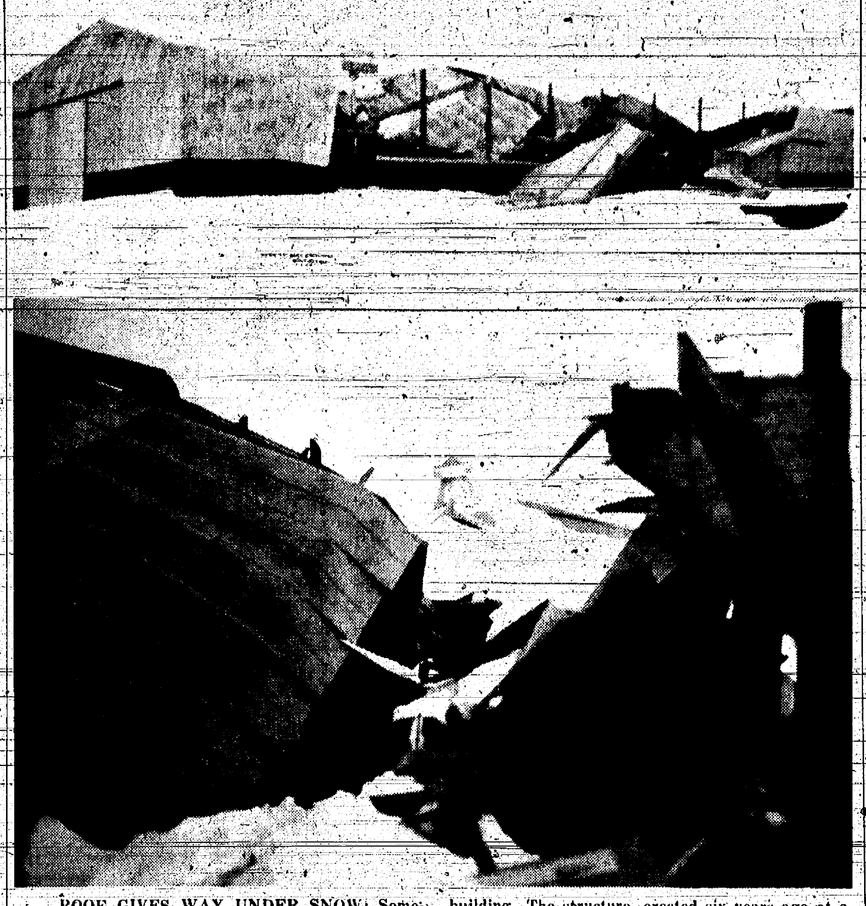

The first services of the World Day of Prayer are held in the Tonga Islands in the South Pa- cific. Since the beginning of ob- servances in these islands, Queen Salote Tupou led her people in the preparation and carrying out of the services. In 1965 Queen Sa- lote died after ruling for 47 years. A few months before her death she completed the World Day of Prayer service to be used around the world this year.

The Chelsea area women will be joined by the ladies of Zion Luth- eran church, Rogers Corners, the St. John's United Church of Christ and the Francisco United Church of Christ for this year's service.

Taking part in the service of worship will be Mrs. George Heyd- lauff, Mrs. Andrew Dyson, Mrs. Leslie Eisenbeiser, Mrs. Vergil Hines, Mrs. William Blaess, Mrs. James Craig and Mrs. Sidney Schenk.

Mrs. Ben Bower is in charge of the posters. If any woman is un- able to attend and would like to make a contribution, it may be mailed to the treasurer, Mrs. Jess Meininger.

A baby sitter will be available and there will be a fellowship hour following the service.

ROOF GIVES WAY UNDER SNOW: Some- time Friday night the roof of the livestock building at the Chelsea Community Fairgrounds began to collapse under the weight of Thursday's excessively heavy snow. Beams splintered and sheets of metal buckled as the structure fell onto several house trailers and pieces of machinery stored in the building. The structure, erected six years ago at a cost of $7,500, is considered a total loss. Several of the vehicles and trailers stored in it were also damaged. Fair Board officials say that the roof is still in the process of falling and that it is definitely not safe to go inside the building.

Kiwanians Hear from Stockbroker

James Conlin, stockbroker for Watling Lerchen & Co., spoke at the Monday evening meeting of Chelsea Kiwanis club. "One of the greatest obstacles is the people who think we should know every- thing," Conlin said. He spoke of the general directions the stock market might take in 1967 and about the duties of a stockbroker.

Conlin cited problems in the au- tomotive industry as adding to the uncertainty of the stock mar- ket. The auto industry is consid- ered a key indicator of stock mar- ket activity because many indus- tries are tied to automotive manu- facturing and sales. Conlin pre- dicted an 8.5 million unit produc- tion year in automobiles. He said that difficult collective bargaining in the auto industry lay ahead and that the car safety standards may affect the automotive market.

Noting that interest rates were generally high last year, Conlin predicted a rise in construction due to lower interest rates in 1967. Last year construction was down 20 to 25 percent but easier money would encourage building. The latter part of 1967 should show a rise in activity in the construc- tion industry.

Possible Murder Victim Sought in Half Moon Area

Sheriff's deputies said yester- day that a search for the body of a Detroit woman has been resumed in the Half Moon and Pickerel Lake area. The search had been called off last Thursday night due to the heavy snowfall.

The Sheriff's Department was using dogs in the search yester- day, but no trace of the woman had been found by nightfall, depu- ties said.

Mrs. Kathleen Riddle, a Detroit barmaid and mother of three, dis- appeared Monday night.

Wednesday night Larry Mark- ham, 22, of Romulus, was arraigned on a kidnaping charge after he walked into the River Rouge police station and reported- ly said, "I hear you fellows are looking for me."

River Rouge police believe that the woman was raped and shot to death in a cottage in the Half Moon Lake area.

The search last week before the snow employed horses, a plane and several officers on foot. The diffi- culty in finding a hidden body would obviously be greatly in- creased by the snowfall, deputies said.

Several law officers who have investigated the case have ex- pressed the opinion that Mark- ham's confession is "too good to be true."

Basketball Game Rescheduled for Feb. 11

The Chelsea High varsity bas- ketball game with Dundee, orig- inally scheduled for Friday, Jan. 27, has been reset for Saturday, Feb. 11. The game will be played on the Dundee court.

St. Paul's Church Holds Youth Sunday

Youth Sunday, Jan. 29, at St. Paul United Church of Christ featured a service predominately planned and led by the senior youth of the church.

Members of the congregation heard four addresses from youth members dealing with their assess- ment of their own role and that of the Church in our "affluent so- ciety." Hymns and prayers for the service were selected by the young church members.

Charles Fredette was "task force leader" for Youth Sunday and spearheaded a committee composed of Paul Lancaster, Ann Travis, Dave Pickell and Keith Kusterer. After several planning sessions with senior high advisors Larry and Virginia Dietle, Youth Sun- day began with a visit by Inge- bord Allegeyer, a native of Ger- many, to the senior high class where a discussion of the differ- ences in church, education, and youth "culture" took place.

Following this, the regular wor- ship was held with liturgists Keith Kusterer and Dave Pickell lead- ing the way. Sermon addresses were given by Charles Fredette, whose talk was entitled "What's the Problem?" Following this Sue Knickerbocker spoke on "What's Missing?", Paul Lancaster on "What's Doing!" (in the church) and Janet Travis entitled her talk "What's Coming!" (the future of the Church).

The high school choir sang and Bruce Galbraith sang a baritone solo. Ushering was handled by team No. 2, headed by Ray Seitz and made up of Ron Koch, Mike Eisemann, John White, Barry Novess, Kirk Dietle and Don Pas- sow.

Dana Corp. Chelsea Plant Becomes Separate Division

Dana Corp. announced this week that its Chelsea plant has been reorganized into an autonomous division within the corporation and that a general manager for the newly-created division has been appointed.

Until Feb. 1 Dana's Chelsea plant was one of three plants in the Salisbury Division of the firm.

Dana's Chelsea operations will now be known as the Power Take- Off Division of Dana Corporation.

Reorganization of the Chelsea plant into a division coincides with expansion of the Chelsea opera- tions into a new $2.8 million plant off Sibley Rd. Plant officials say that a gradual move into the new facility will begin this week.

General manager of the new Power Take-Off Division is T. J. "Tom" Fairhurst. He arrived in Chelsea Feb. 1. Fairhurst will be responsible for the marketing, en- gineering and manufacturing of Chelsea products. He has been with the Toledo based Dana cor- poration for about 12 years, and had been sales manager for the firm's Spicer Division. He is a graduate of Franklin and Mar- shall College.

Lee Hess, plant manager for the Chelsea plant and Robert Wag- ner, sales and engineering man- ager, will stay on in the same positions.

Talent Contest Plans Cancelled By Junior Class

An announced junior class Trip Club talent contest at the High school has been cancelled. The contest had been slated for Feb. 11, but a spokesman for the junior class said that scheduling difficul- ties forced abandonment of the project.

A preliminary audition for the contest had been held Jan. 19.

Fair Building Collapses from Weight of Snow

Several Stored Vehicles Damaged as Roof of Livestock Building Caves in

The Chelsea Community Fair Board will meet this Friday to open bids for a new livestock build- ing. The roof of the present struc- ture caved in Friday night under the weight of last week's excep- tionally dense snow and ice accu- mulation.

The roof came down on several vehicles stored in the building for the winter. George Doe, who leased the space for winter storage, said the building contained five or six house trailers, three combines, a small car and a bus at the time of the roof collapse. One of the trailers was immediately removed Saturday, but the other vehicles are still pinned under the wreck- age of the roof.

Several of the trailers suffered damage to their exteriors and one of the combines was reported crushed by the collapse of the roof. None of the other vehicles will be removed until insurance companies can investigate, Doe said.

The building, which was erected six years ago at a cost of $7,500, is considered a total loss.

E. G. Van Riper, fair co-ordi- nator and member of the Fair Board, said that the board had received an estimate of $1,000 for the removal of the roof debris and that the board now plans to con- tract with a building firm for both removal of the old building and construction of a new one.

Fair Board members said that the roof was still settling and al- though some sections had been propped up Saturday morning, the caved in structure was still very unstable. They warned curi- ous area residents to look from afar and under no circumstances to enter the building.

Van Riper said that he under- stood several other farm buildings in the area which were built from the same design had also col- lapsed after the last storm.

Chelsea Fire Loss for 1966 Hits $121,925

The Chelsea Fire Department made a total of 134 runs in 1966, for the most part to fight fires which resulted in a combined loss of $121,925. This total was $119,- 365 less than the fire loss total for 1965.

The department answered 19 calls involving autos and trucks, 20 calls for dwelling fires and 70 grass fire calls. Miscellaneous fire calls numbered 20. Five other emergency calls were also an- swered.

The 1966 total fire loss on build- ings was $58,920. $19,850 of the total was damage to dwellings. A total loss of $54,260 was reported for contents of buildings, only $9,260 within dwellings. Other fire losses totaled $11,385.

The figures are contained in a report prepared by Fire Chief James Gaken for the Fire Divi- sion of the Michigan State Police. The report must be filed annu- ally.

In addition to fire calls and damage totals, the report lists the 12 major fires in the Chelsea area for 1966 and their dates:

Michigan Conservation Depart- ment cabin at Sugar Loaf Lake destroyed Feb. 10; abandoned house owned by William Walker, April 4; storage shed and con- tents owned by Lewis Alber, April 14; Albert Rettig house, May 20.

Area Mothers March Date Is Extended

The Mothers March for the March of Dimes, which was origin- ally planned for Tuesday night, Jan. 31 has been extended. March- ers will now be able to collect in their areas between Jan. 31 and Feb. 7. The change was a result of adverse weather conditions in the past few days.

Mrs. Gerald Blough, chairman of the Chelsea Mothers March said that some of her block captains had organized the march Tuesday night as planned, but that some groups planned to take advantage of the extended deadline for col- lections. Plans of about 70 Chel- sea marchers were affected by the change.

Other March of Dimes projects in Chelsea have announced total contributions to date.

A peanut sale sponsored by area Boy Scouts added $223.80 to The March of Dimes total. Ralph Frisch, who organized the peanut sale here, said the Scouts sold all the peanuts that had been ordered

SIGN CONTEST WINNERS Marlene Raney, left, and Patty Gilbert, right, display the designs that will be combined to produce a sign for the Chelsea Outdoor Lab, to be developed on part of the new Junior High site. The sign contest was open to all grades and about 40 designs were entered. Ben Bower, who organized the sign contest for the Chelsea Nature Lab Committee, is between the girls. Marlene, a fifth grader, drew plans for the construction of a heavy wooden sign, with two side posts and a suspended center portion. Patty, a freshman, submitted a design for the face of the sign. The words "Chelsea Nature Center" are flanked by two drawings of birds and flowers. Actual construction of the signs is the next step and the Lab Committee hopes students will be able to do most of the work themselves.

THE LANSING REPORT FROM senator GIL BURSLEY

During my years of public service I have worked to achieve progressive government, responsibly financed through a healthy rate of economic growth. Before defining that term let me suggest the alternatives are a rise in tax rates or a slash of services.

Economic growth reflects a rise in the production of goods and services. It is measured as a percentage change over the previous year. It is also measured by comparing the dollar volume produced in succeeding years. Because of price inflation downward adjustments are necessary to obtain the "real" rate of economic growth.

Economic growth means more jobs for the people of Michigan and more income per capita.

Michigan has had almost a doubling of personal incomes during the past decade. Our 8,000,000 people have an annual income of 26 billion dollars. The total value of all goods and services (called the GNP or gross national product) has risen to 31 billion dollars. Only 10 countries in the world produce more than Michigan—we are ahead of every country in Latin America and Africa.

When we have MORE people working and MORE people earning MORE money it is elementary logic to conclude that they spend MORE. Here is where our taxes, for example the sales tax, the cigarette tax, the gasoline tax, the business activities tax and—in the case of Detroit—the personal income tax produce more revenue. Tax rates are not changed but state revenues go up.

During the past five years we have seen an annual increase of 80 to 100,000 in the number of Michigan citizens at work. We have had more jobs and a fewer number of unemployed.

These increased numbers of workers have spent so much more that our tax revenues have skyrocketed and the $85,000,000 deficit which Governor Romney inherited has been wiped out and by 1965 a [illegible] surplus was created. Not since the cigarette and beer taxes were increased [illegible] years ago has there been any major tax change in Michigan [illegible]. During the period we have been able to provide [illegible] increase in educational and health facilities in the history of our state. These were made [illegible] by [illegible] the increase in state population.

Now in 1967 our rate of economic growth has [illegible] off. It has been described as being on a plateau.

Action is needed in three areas:

1) An [illegible] of the state's tax structure to [illegible] and produce more revenue.

2) A rededication to the principles of economy and efficiency in government—and to their meaningful implementation.

3) A restimulation and revitalization of our state's economic growth. This should be self-generated within our private enterprise system by the business community and investor. But government can act as a friend—as a catalyst—and can help assure a climate where business can expand and new investments be productive.

My legislative service has been dedicated towards these ends. In 1961-62 I was chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Economic Growth; in 1963-64 I was first chairman of the House Economic Development Committee; in 1965-66 I was chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee; and now beginning in 1967 I am chairman of the Senate Committee on Agriculture and Economic Development.

I am delighted that Ann Arbor's highly competent Representative Ray Smit, is the new Chairman of the House Economic Development Committee. We have a unique opportunity for joint legislative action for a more prosperous Michigan.

Growing Pains

While Michigan legislators are being asked to consider tax reform, including the reduction of some present state levies, Highway Department officials are seeking a hike in two revenue sources which affect their operations.

One is the state gasoline tax, which now stands at six cents per gallon. The other is the vehicle registration fee, more commonly regarded as the price of license plates. The latter fee is now imposed on the basis of 35 cents per hundred pounds weight of the vehicle.

A one-cent increase in the gas tax is being sought. Officials say they need only a "moderate" increase in the license plate fee but that both sources of additional revenue are urgently needed.

"Until about a year ago, we had the funds necessary to keep pace with our minimum highway needs," Highway Director Howard E. Hill notes. "We are no longer in this favorable situation."

Michigan's rate of growth and the corresponding increase in the number of vehicles traveling the roadways are "radically outstripping" the ability of state, county and city highway units to provide and maintain adequate highways, contends Hill.

Without the proposed increases in both taxes, of which the bulk of the income goes back into highway construction and maintenance, Hill says many road building projects already planned will have to be dealyed.

As part of its push for increased revenue to maintain Michigan's leadership in the field of highway construction and modernization, the department has taken to the use of slogans.

Most news releases emanating from the department now end with a good saying such as, "It costs more to use bad roads than to build good roads," or "Better living through better roads."

"No" Voters

Many thousands of Michigan residents stand in danger of losing their voting rights this year if they do not take a minute of their time.

Secretary of State James M. Hare, whose office administers the election law, estimates 10 percent or better of Michigan's registered voters have not exercised the franchise in the past two years.

State law now requires local clerks to go through the voting rolls and remove the names of those being purged from the voting roll and supply a return card with which the resident may indicate his desire to remain registered.

Thus, any resident who wants to remain on the roll books may do so just by returning the card to the local election office. Failure to do this results in removal of the registration and the resident must sign up anew, in person, to get back on the list in the future.

Technically the cards were to be mailed in December with specific instructions to the errant voters that the returns were valid for only 30 days.

A number of city and township clerks indicated, however, that they would accept return cards beyond the 30-day period.

Since initial registration must be done in person, it would appear that people really interested in maintaining this important privilege would find the few minutes required to renew the registration in this convenient manner.

More important, an individual may maintain the voting right indefinitely by expressing his desires at the polls at least every two years. Receipt of one of these registration "removal" notices should serve as a reminder of the importance of being a responsible citizen.

Long Sessions

Sharp increases have been noted in legislative activity in Michigan during the past eight or 10 years and now a nation-wide survey confirms that this has been the trend throughout the country.

Michigan still outdistances most states, however, in the length of its sessions. Our state is one of a very small number in which lawmakers consider their job almost a full-time one. In several recent years the sessions have run six months or more.

Just 10 years ago Michigan was one of only 10 states which held annual sessions. This figure has now jumped to 22.

Most states which hold sessions only once in the biennium do so during the odd number year, however, so 47 legislatures will be meeting this year.

Just as the number of states finding a need for annual meetings has increased, so has the volume of activity during these sessions.

In 1955, a national legislative survey shows about 83,000 pieces of legislation were introduced in the various states. Some 26,000 of these became new laws.

This year the prediction is that the various lawmakers in the 47 states meeting will introduce for consideration about 100,000 proposals, of which 30,000 or more will become laws.

Edward Lauhon suffered second degree burns on the left side of his body, his right leg, right hand and arm and the right side of his face in a fire which destroyed the Lauhons' three-year-old home at 58 Cavanaugh Lake Friday night.

Because of the threat of excessively high winter kill of fish due to a combination of the extremely cold weather of the past few weeks, together with shallow water level, all fishing restrictions (except creel limits) are lifted, effective at once, on the Winnewana Flood Waters near Chelsea. Conservation officer Donley Boyer, in making the announcement, said fishermen are being given this opportunity to harvest the fish by whatever means are most expeditious so the waste of winter kill may be avoided.

Following the addition of $634.14, proceeds of Tuesday's New March of Dimes Mothers' March, a total of $1,754.48 had been contributed to date in the January campaign, according to a report by Mrs. Wallace Wood, general campaign chairman.

Chrysler Proving Ground driver mechanics will play against office workers in a softball game at 2 p.m. Saturday at the American Legion Home grounds at Cavanaugh Lake, it was announced yesterday. Regulation rules and equipment will be used, ice and snow notwithstanding.

Women of the Chelsea Baptist church have formed a missionary group and named the organization "God's Willing Workers."

William J. Windle, sponsored by A. S. Penhallegon, John C. Pierson, sponsored by Robert Daniels and George F. Heydlauff, sponsored by George A. Staffan, were installed as new members of the Kiwanis Club of Chelsea at the regular meeting Monday evening.

Tonight Chelsea will participate for the first time in the nationwide Mother's March to aid in the collection of funds to fight polio.

Mrs. James Gaken, 310 Pierce St., has returned home after approximately three months in University hospital. Mrs. Gaken was taken to the hospital on Oct. 3, when she was stricken with polio and was discharged on Jan. 16.

The Bulldogs suffered their third Huron League defeat Saturday, when Ypsilanti Roosevelt ran over the quintet, 64-38, on the Ypsilanti court.

Mrs. Estella Jane McManus, who had been in failing health since she suffered a stroke in May, 1951, died Friday morning at her home, 213 Middle St. Mrs. McManus came to Chelsea in 1918 with her husband to operate a photographic studio. Mr. McManus died in 1950 and Mrs. McManus operated the studio until she became ill.

William Quigley suffered burns on his face, neck and legs when a gas tank on a junked car presumably exploded about 3:30 p.m. Tuesday afternoon. Quigley had set the junked car afire in preparation for its disposal as junk metal. The fire had been burning for some time when he deemed it safe to begin cutting up the metal frame. As he cut away the gas tank with an acetylene torch, an explosion followed and he was immediately enveloped in flames.

At the 85th annual meeting of the Michigan Press Association, held in East Lansing Friday and Saturday last week, The Chelsea Standard was again honored in a general excellence contest in which newspapers from all over the state participated. Publishers of Michigan newspapers selected The Standard for the third-place award in its circulation grouping of from 2,000 to 4,000.

Thursday, Feb. 2, 1933—

A two-day cooking school w[ill] be held at Chelsea High Audit[or]ium next Wednesday and Thu[rs]day. A special feature of the coo[k]ing school, of more than us[ual] interest locally, is the fact th[at] all flour used in the demonstr[a]tions during the two days will [be] furnished by the Chelsea Milli[ng] Co. This flour will be taken fr[om] the new lines of specialties wh[ich] have been developed by the lo[cal] company, and will include Ji[ffy] biscuit flour and a special ca[ke] flour, with the trade name "Fa-ree Fluff."

A Parent-Teacher Associati[on] of School District No. 3, fr[ac]tional, was organized at a me[et]ing held Monday evening in [the] public school gymnasium. About [...] were present at the meeti[ng] which was called to order by [...] Rev. Fred Matthews.

Beautiful in its simplicity w[as] the ceremony which united [in] marriage Miss Ida A. Wenk [and] Julius F. Schmid, both of Ch[el]sea, Jan. 28 at 2 p.m. The mar[ri]age vows were spoken at the p[ar]sonage of the Evangelical Lu[th]eran church at Scio, the Rev. P[...] Schulz officiating.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

My preacher was always telling the congregation a honest confession was good for the soul and the fellers at the country store Saturday night was shore improving on their soul.

First off, Clem Webster of the Great Society confessed he has got so old he ain't in the mainstream of life no more. For instant, said Clem, for all his three score and ten year he has been a distant admirer of the wimmen folks, but he ain't never thought wimmen's knees was one of their strong points. And now, reported Clem, wimmen's knees was in the middle of the mainstream.

Ed Doolittle said what we got now was wimmen what don't want to wear no skirt at all and they was coming so close to it as they could. But here, allowed Ed, was where us old foggies was gitting out of the mainstream. While we was lamenting about ugly knees the manufacturers was making a skirt for ever day in the week from the same material they used to put in one regular frock.

Farthermore, claimed Ed, no sooner did skirts start gitting up in orbit than them fellers in the mainstream started figgering new ways to make money out of it. He said he had saw in the papers where they was coming out with special leg make up and knee glamerizers and false tattoos to paste on the kneecap. He perdicted afore 1967 was over the TV commercials on tooth paste would be squeezing it on a woman's knee instead of her teeth.

Even the lawyers, said Zeke Grubb, was gitting in the mainstream. He reported he had saw where this young girl got her knee cut in a car wreck and she sued the driver. The court give her $2,000 in damages and said the reason was skirts was now so high the scar could easy handicap her future.

The storekeeper butted in to say we didn't know the half of it, that they was now putting dresses on the market made out of paper. They was claiming we got throw-away towels, places, table clothes, iron-on patches and that paper dresses was next in the main-stream.

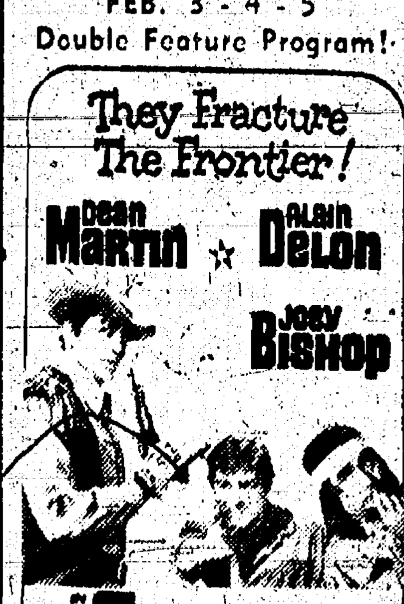

Bug Hookum was lamenting the mainstream has got so wile all a well-dressed woman would need in the future was a few rolls of paper and some hesive tape so's she could go to the closet, tear off a yard or two and paste up a frock proper for the occasion.

It was a mighty sad session to see all the fellers admit they was flopping around in shaller water while the rest of the world was out in the mainstream.

Incidental, Mister Editor, the next time you hear a woman say she ain't got nothing to wear, just hand her a copy of your newspaper and tell her to go paste herself up a new outfit.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

WORTH THE TRIP! Walter Leonard, publisher of The Chelsea Standard and The Dexter Leader, practically had to shovel his way to Lansing last Friday, but he arrived after the 13-hour trip to find four awards from the Michigan Press Association waiting for him. The Chelsea Standard won second-place awards in its circulation category for news reporting and use or photographs. The Dexter Leader won first place in use of photographs and third in news reporting in its circulation class. The awards for weekly newspapers are presented annually at the Michigan Press Association winter convention.

Standard, Leader Score in State Newspaper Judging

East Lansing — Forty-seven weekly newspapers received a total of 87 awards for excellence in six categories at the 99th annual meeting of the Michigan Press Association, Jan. 27-28, at Michigan State University.

All of the weeklies, regardless of size, competed for honors in original columns, editorial and feature story of the year.

In news reporting, use of pictures and advertising idea of the year, awards were presented to first-, second-, third-place and honorable mention winners in five circulation classes—A, up to 1,500; B, 1,501-2,500; C, 2,501-4,000; D over 4,000, and E, over 4,000 in Wayne, Oakland, Macomb and Kent counties.

The major award winners in the six categories are:

Original Personal Column—Jim Fitzgerald, Lapeer County Press; Bob Clock, Charlevoix Courier; Dave Kraft, Vassar Pioneer Times.

Best Editorial Page — Birmingham Eccentric, Davison Index, Ingham County News.

Feature Story of the Year—Harry Stapler, East Lansing Town Courier; Tom Ferguson, Wyandotte News-Herald; Roger Leavenworth, East Grand Rapids Almanac.

News Reporting—Class A, Okemos Towne Courier, Ravenna Times; Dexter Leader; B, Vassar Pioneer Times, Holly Herald Advertiser, South Lyon Herald; C, East Lansing Towne Courier and Northville Record (tie) Chelsea Standard, Sebewaing Blade; D, Lapeer County Press, Belleville Enterprise-Roman, Ingham County News and Clinton County News (tie); E, Birmingham Eccentric, Lincoln Parker, Wyandotte News-Herald.

Use of Pictures — Letterpress, A, Dexter Leader, Union City Register Tribune; B, Crystal Falls Diamond Drill, Vassar Pioneer Times, Beulah Benzie Record; C, Manistique Pioneer Tribune, Chelsea Standard, Durand Express; D, Lapeer County Press, Tecumseh Herald, Tuscola County Advertiser; E, Wayne Eagle, Livonia Observer, Westland Eagle.

Use of Pictures—offset, A, Okemos Towne Courier, Ravenna Times, Straitsland Resorter; B, South Lyon Herald, Eaton Rapids Journa.; C, Sebewaing Blade and Northville Record (tie), Gladstone Delta Reporter and Stockbridge Town Crier and Brief Sun (tie), East Lansing Towne Courier; D, Belleville Enterprise-Roman and Clinton County News (tie), Ingham County News, Livingston County Press; E, Wyandotte News-Herald, Birmingham Eccentric, Dearborn Heights Leader.

Advertising Idea of the Year—A, Ravenna Times, Nashville News, Saugatuck Commercial Record; B, South Lyon Herald, Grand Ledge Independent; C, Gladstone Delta Reporter, East Lansing Tow Courier and Northville Record tie), Fenton Independent; D, Tecumseh Herald, Hartford Day Spring, Richmond Review; E, Birmingham Eccentric, Dearborn Press, Wyandotte News-Herald.

Postal Service Implementing 'Customer's Bill of Rights'

Postmaster Richard Schaules today called attention of Chelsea mailers to the new "Postal Customer's Bill of Rights" to help meet President Johnson's government-wide goal of improving the quality of federal services to the public.

Directed at post office window services, Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien has ordered the Customer's Bill of Rights implemented by two immediate steps at Chelsea.

1. Posters will be displayed in the post office lobby and service counters containing 10 points which specify the kind of treatment customers have a right to expect.

2. Instructions from O'Brien call for careful observance of all points in the "Postal Customer's Bill of Rights." The instructions also provide directions for the most efficient management of window services.

The posters tell customers they are entitled to:

1. A neat, clean counter on which to transact business.

2. Service by a well-groomed, neat window employee.

3. A friendly greeting that expresses a desire to assist.

4. Knowledgeable, well-informed, interested window personnel to help with postal needs.

5. Prompt, alert and efficient service.

6. Competent and correct information on inquiries.

7. An attitude that reflects helpfulness, patience and congeniality.

8. The courtesy and tact that would be expected from a friend.

9. Polite referral to another window or individual, when necessary, to give the appropriate service.

10 A feeling, upon leaving, that the post office is glad to serve and help at all times.

Instructions for fulfilling "The Postal Customer's Bill of Rights" are being distributed to all window personnel by Postmaster Schaules.

O'Brien stated in connection with the new postal service improvement effort: "President Johnson insisted that every federal employee give added attention to providing the American people with the very best service possible . . . Since your daily duties bring you in direct and continuing contact with our customers, I would like to tell you what I consider the type of service the American people have a right to expect when dealing with the largest business operation in the world."

In addition to improving relations with customers, Postmaster Schaules said, the "Customer Bill of Rights" can expedite handling of transactions at the windows and make the service more efficient.

He urged Chelsea residents to assist in this effort, by stating their needs clearly, and having money and any necessary filled-out forms ready for transactions.

The Postmaster explained that demands on window personnel, who must deal with a wide variety of information, forms and varying services, are usually very heavy, and postal customers can assist them in meeting the new service goals by being as brief and business-like as possible.

St. Paul's Youth Sunday

Following the service about 30 young people met in the fellowship hall to share lunches prepared by the female contingent and shared through the drawing of a partner.

Six bowling lanes formed the backdrop for further activity in the afternoon and the group enjoyed bowling for about two hours before returning to attend the annual meeting of St. Paul church.

At the meeting, the group presented a resolution which may result in a constitutional change at St. Paul, as the congregation looked favorably on the senior high group's attempt to lower the voting age of members to an area where more youth might participate.

To close the day, plans were made to have "task force February" meet after the services next week to begin planning for the group's next meeting which will be a progressive supper.

Fashion Notes

Some style trends that continue to be popular this season are first—sleeveless frocks. We find this evident in wool dresses as well as in those of lighter weight fabrics.

Second-pleated skirts and low belted waistlines. These dresses are reminincent of the old Mary Jane style dress of the World War One era. They give the wearer a little girl look. They are particularly smart with the new long sweaters.

Stripes are very good in dresses and in pull overs with solid color skirts.

SHE'D RATHER HAVE MEASLES, she thinks. This youngster takes a dim view of the Washtenaw County Health Department's free measles clinics for children from one year to sixth grade. It might help if she knew that only one vaccination is necessary for protection against the seven day red measles. Dr. David Lint and nurse Gail Spoltz might try to explain that through the clinics offered throughout the county, the threat of a measles epidemic may be wiped out. Chelsea youngsters, with all these facts in hand, should approach the clinic in the Chelsea High gym, Saturday, from 9 to 11:30, with a better attitude.

Major Goals Outlined by MEA Group

Higher minimum standards, provision for full transfer of experience and starting salaries of $7,000, it is allowed.

were the three major goals adopted by the Region 5 Council of the Michigan Education Association at a meeting in Milan Jan. 19.

Chelsea Education Association, the exclusive bargaining agent for teachers in the Chelsea School District, is the local chapter of the Michigan Education Association.

Region 3 of the association covers Washtenaw, Jackson, Monroe and Lenawee counties.

Washtenaw county district president for the MEA, Mrs. Mary Ellen Kelly of Whitmore Lake, announced the three goals and presented the Association's rationale for each goal.

The three resolutions adopted and the rationale offered for each follow:

1. "It shall be the goal of every local association in Region 3 to include the following in their negotiated agreement: No new teacher shall be employed by the Board for a regular teaching assignment who does not have a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university and a regular certification for teaching."

"Certain minimum standards are necessary to insure quality education for students. Part of these minimum standards are the standards for teacher certification. Many people have invested thousands of dollars and much time to meet these standards and to continue to improve so that students can receive ever increasing quality of education. In Michigan, these minimum standards are being ignored, as shown by the increasing number of persons who are hired as teachers without even a bachelor's degree or certification. (There are some 10,000 teachers in Michigan without regular certification)."

2. "It shall be the goal of every local association in Region 3 to include the following in their negotiated agreement: All teachers newly employed shall be given full credit on the Salary Schedule for full years of outside teaching experience in any school district a maximum of five years."

"Teaching experience is just as valuable in one school district as another. The alternative for those who have several years of experience is to stay or leave teaching entirely. Many are leaving teaching. Can we really improve the quality of education by making it difficult for the experienced teacher to stay in teaching?"

3. "It shall be the goal of every local association in Region 3 to fulfill the Total Michigan Education Association Platform and Resolution on salaries: We believe that a professional salary schedule should provide for a beginning salary of at least $7,000 for fully certified degree teachers progressing with advanced degrees to at least $15,000 in 10 years."

"Minimum salaries for teachers continue to rise slowly. However, the gap between the average starting salary for a teacher with a bachelor's degree and the average starting salary for college graduates entering business and industry is not closing. The average beginning salary for male college graduates exceeds $7,000 and for some fields is well above $8,000. The median starting salary for teachers in Michigan is $5,600 this year. We cannot hope to attract enough teachers for education unless we can be more nearly competitive."

Capt. S. Knickerbocker Invited To Witness White House Ceremony

Captain Stanley Knickerbocker, son of Mrs. M. L. Knickerbocker, 429 W. Middle, was honored recently by an invitation to the White House to witness President Johnson's presentation of the Medal of Honor to Major Bernard F. Fisher.

Major Fisher received the medal for his rescue of Major Dafford Myers from an enemy-held air strip at Ashau, Vietnam, on March 10, 1966. Major Knickerbocker was on standby alert for this operation.

Accounts of the rescue were featured in several national magazines.

YOUR INCOME TAX

Editor's Note: This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the Detroit District office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. When will I get my tax forms in the mail?

A. Distribution of the 1966 tax forms should be completed early in January. Forms will also be available at IRS offices as well as many banks and post offices.

Q. Is a Social Security pension taxable?

A. No it is not.

Q. I worked last summer to earn money for college but made less than $600. How can I get back what was withheld from my pay for income tax?

A. File an income tax return to obtain a refund of any income tax which was withheld from your wages. The card Form 1040A may be the best, as well as the easiest, for you to use. Don't forget to put your Social Security number on the return and attach your W-2 Form. The W-2 shows how much was withheld.

Q. Has there been any change in the income tax rates for 1966?

A. No. An individual's income for 1966 is taxed at the same rates in effect the preceding year.

Q. When can I expect to get my W-2 from my employer?

A. Employers are required to issue Form W-2 by the end of January but many do so earlier.

Q. Can anyone use the figures for state gas tax deductions that are given in the 1040 instruction booklet?

A. These figures are provide as a convenience for those taxpayers who deduct state gasoline tax when the itemize deducations. If you are entitled to claim this deduction then you may use the table instead of doing the calculations yourself.

Q. If my wife and I file separately instead of jointly, can one itemize while the other uses the standard deduction?

A. No. Married couples filing separately must also take the same type of standard deduction. If one takes the minimum standard deduction, they both must take it.

Q. Are you going to offer tax assistance over the phone again this year?

A. Yes. Check the local phone directory for the number to call.

Q. Does the law now require me to file my return with an IRS service center?

A. A new law authorizes the Secretary of Treasury to make such a request but it will not be required for 1966 returns. Check your 1040 instructions for the address of the office to which tax returns are to be sent. Note that in some states, taxpayers are offered the option of mailing returns calling for a refund direct to a service center. Even in these states this is not a requirement but offered as a means to help speed up refunds and reduce processing costs.

Q. How does the minimum standard deduction work?

A. The deduction amounts to $200 plus $100 for each exemption taken on the return including those for age and blindness. For married couples filing separately, the deduction is $100 plus $100 for each exemption. The maximum that may be claimed by those using this deduction is $1,000 but it is limited to $500 when a married taxpayer files a separate return. A married couple with two children as dependents would be entitled to a $600 deduction when this method is used. If the income reported in the return was under $6,000 then this method would be more to the couple's advantage than the standard deduction.

Q. I've heard that one of the tax benefits for older people is to be able to sell your home at a profit and not be taxed on that money. Is that true?

A. Yes it is if certain conditions are met. You will not have to pay tax on the profit if you were 65 or older before the date of the sale, the adjusted sales price was $20,000 or less, and you owned and occupied the house as your principal residence for at least 5 of the 8 years before the sale. If you sold the house for over $20,000 and the other conditions are met, than only a portion of the profit will be taxable. Gain excluded under this provision of law may be elected only once. This benefit is explained in the booklet, Tax Benefits for Older Americans, Document No. 5569. For a free copy, drop a postcard to your IRS district director.

St. Paul Church Members Hold Annual Meet Sunday

Sunday afternoon, Jan. 29, the congregation of St. Paul United Church of Christ convened in the fellowship hall of their new facility, 14600 Old US-12 East at 4 p.m. to hold their annual meeting.

Brief devotions were offered by the pastor, the Rev. Warner H. Siebert. The meeting was called to order by President Jess Meininger with a reading of the minutes from the previous meeting. Following this, the previously printed and distributed annual report of all officers and groups within the church was discussed. Points of interest raised concerning the annual report centered around the pastor's report in which he proposed a seven-fold plan of goals for 1967 molded around the key-word "forward." "O" for outreach for fellowship, "O" for outreach, "R" for reduction of financial obligations, "W" for more unity together, "A" for augmenting the Christian Education program, "R" for re-structuring the congregation for the challenges before them and "D" for devotion and spiritual growth.

Secondly, it was pointed out that St. Paul church holds high rank among Michigan churches of the United Church of Christ, having more than 30 percent of its budget designated for benevolences and other causes outside of its own program. This level of concern has been consistently maintained in spite of the fact that the congregation has been heavily taxed in erecting new facilities.

Finally, considerable discussion was held concerning the sale of the old property on Summit St., and some time was granted for consideration of the offers which have been made.

After the 1967 budget was approved, the election of new officers was held. Elected to the governing body of the congregation, the Church Council, were Mrs. Jess Pierson, Ben Keezer and Dave Bates. In executive session, the following officers for the Church Council were elected: William Bess, president; Charles Winans, vice-president; Mrs. John Pierson, secretary; Mrs. Dorothy Fisher, treasurer; Richard Schmidt, financial secretary. Blaess appointees Melvin Seitz and Don Keezer assist the financial secretary. Pastor Siebert presented the incoming members with materials relating to their new tasks and a "yoke pin" which each St. Paul Council member wears. Pastor Siebert said, to remind himself and others that he is both yoked with Christ, His Lord, and with his fellow council members to carry out the tasks of the church.

A youth resolution was heard and accepted to lower the voting age of members so that youth might take a more active part.

President Meininger commended the large number of men who have given so much of their time and talent in the continuing task of finishing the beautiful facilities. Recently, acoustical ceilings have been put up in the complete lower level, and the finishing touches are being placed on St. Paul's new kitchen.

Member Dorothea Piclemeier commended and thanked the members of the Church Council, who, she said, "have worked so hard and given so much of themselves."

The remaining members of the Council are George Elkins and Harold Widmayer, with John Pierson, Mrs. Alma Meserva and Jess Meininger the outgoing members. Meininger ends nearly 10 consecutive years of elected responsibility in three different United Churches of Christ, the previous two in Chicago Heights, Ill., and Highland, Ill.

The meeting concluded with prayer and refreshments prepared by some of the leader's wives.

Craig definitely plans to attend college and is especially interested in mechanical drawing, drafting and math. He is a member of St. Mary's church. This all-season athlete plans to attend a sports camp this summer.

OUTDOORS with GORDIE

by GORDON CHARLES

So you forgot to make any New Year's resolutions and now you figure it's too late?

Well, if you happen to enjoy the outdoors and want to pass some of the best of it along to your children in the years ahead, there is still plenty of time to make, and carry out, some effective resolutions during 1967.

Our friend Charlie DuBuisson is just bursting with ideas for folks who want to help themselves to a better outdoor future. Consider these ideas, then adopt a few of them as your own:

Get acquainted with your legislators and alert them to outdoor problems, such as anti-gun legislation which would limit your right to own and use your shotguns and rifles.

Keep informed on all legislation pertaining to hunting, fishing and natural resource conservation. This way you will be more effective in fighting bad bills and supporting desirable measures.

Take an interest in at least one youth by educating him in sound conservation practices, outdoor manners, and skills which took you many years to learn.

Evaluate your own outdoor interests from a broader spectrum than that which might reflect only your own personal desires.

If land is posted in your area, find out why and make an effort to bridge the gap between landowners and sportsman so the barriers will come down.

Respect the property of another as you would your own. Don't litter, don't damage and don't enter without permission. Courtesy is contagious; start an epidemic.

Abide by the hunting and fishing laws in the tradition of true sportsmanship.

Join your local sportsmen's club for something more than the birds it releases during the hunting season or the fish it plants. Become active in its functions and contribute more to its objectives than your membership dues.

Make a sincere attempt to understand the complications of wildlife management and help, rather than hinder through constant criticism, those charged with providing your hunting pleasure.

Take an active part in promoting conservation education on a local or state level. See that the subject is added to the school curriculum or integrated with other subjects, by helping your local teachers take advantage of special conservation schooling.

Try to find pleasure and satisfaction in the recreational aspects of hunting or fishing, not only in the harvest.

Make and keep one or more of these resolutions during 1967 and you will have already contributed something of great value to the future of our outdoors.

REPORT from LANSING

State Representative

Thomas G. Sharpe

We are certain that the 1967-68 session of the legislature will face a major financial crisis and should completely revise and reform the entire tax structure of the state. I base my opinion on the fact that in order to finance the existing state programs that were written last session and already enacted into law will require an additional 113 million dollars next year.

This is how the General Fund Budget will look through 1968 with no new programs added.

General Fund

(All figures in millions)

Cash surplus in the State Treasury, June 30, 1966	$ 167
Budget as written for year ending June 30, 1967	994
Revenues (estimated) for 1966-67 fiscal year	900
Cash surplus in State Treasury, June 30, 1967	73
Expenditures required to finance existing programs for 1967-68 (based on normal growth of 10 percent of existing state services)	1107
Revenues (estimated) for 1967-68 fiscal year (based on normal growth of 7 percent of present tax receipts)	66
Deficit (estimated) in State Treasury, June 30, 1968	-68

These cold hard statistics clearly indicate that without any change in the present tax structure and without any increase in state services (except for normal growth), it can be anticipated that Michigan will be in the red by 1968. We can also anticipate that new programs will be added, such as additional school aid, veteran's homestead tax relief, water and air pollution control, etc. These additional programs would further increase the 68 million dollar deficit estimated for June 30, 1968.

Counties, cities, and townships are badly in need of additional revenue to meet their service demands for roads, sewers, bridges and the like and to shift this load from property tax.

So that you might better understand the problem that we face, here is my breakdown of different taxes and their normal estimated yield. This table is for information only, and should not be construed as a recommendation. It must be remembered that any time a tax is removed it MUST be replaced or the service ELIMINATED.

(All figures in millions)

	(Approx. Annual Yield)
1. To lower property tax 1 mill (state-wide) would reduce state revenues	$ 27
2. To repeal the sales tax on on food and drugs would reduce state revenues	120
3. To repeal the business activities tax would reduce state revenues	120
4. To repeal the intangibles tax would reduce state revenues	45
5. 1 percent sales and use tax on present basis yields	150
6. Extending the sales and use tax to cover all services except professional (doctors, hospitals, lawyers, etc.) will yield	50
7. Extending the sales and use tax to cover commercial advertising will yield	8
8. 1 cent of gas tax will yield	80
9. 1 cent tax on each package of cigarettes will yield	11
10. 1 cent tax per 12 oz. bottole of beer will yield	17
11. 1 cent tax per 12 oz. bottle of soft drinks (pop) will yield	10
12. 1 percent personal state income tax (federal exemptions) will yield	135
13. 1 percent corporate income tax will yield	35
14. Allowing pari-mutuel betting on dog racing under conditions similar to horse racing will yield	15

My purpose in asking you to state your preferences on this poll is to enable me to better represent all the people of the 51st Representative District and the State of Michigan. I hope you will take the necessary time to express your opinion and return this questionnaire to me as soon as possible. I wish to incorporate your ideas to formulate my decisions in this session of the Legislature.

In revising and reforming the state tax structure in Michigan the Legislature must make certain decisions.

1. In your opinion, what would be a reasonable tax reduction? (The amount of reduction must be reimbursed by the state to the local units of government from income tax revenues.) A 10 percent reduction would cost the state $103.4 million.

2. Would you favor an income tax without property tax relief? (Yes) (No)

3. Should the business activities tax eb repealed? (Loss in revenue $420 million) (Yes) (No)

4. Should the intangibles tax be repealed? (Loss in revenue $45 million). (Yes) (No)

5 Should the state contribute a greater share in the cost of operating schools? (Loss in revenue unknown) (Yes) (No)

6. Should the state START a program of sharing in the cost of bulding schools? (Loss in revenue unknown) (Yes) (No)

Note: If you answered yes to any or all of the first 6 questions you must be ready to answer yes to the remaining questions or some combination thereof.

7. Should the state repeal the local city income tax and spread in lieu thereof a state-wide income tax to be returned to the counties, villages and cities on a population basis to relieve or reduce the burden of property tax? (Yes) (No)

8. Realizing that the federal government matches state funds 90 to 10 for inter-state highways and 50-50 on state highways, should the gas tax in Michigan be increased to provide for more, better, and safer highways? (Yes) (No)

9. Would you support a state income tax, both personal and corporate to finance the programs that you feel are essential? Yes) (No)

10. Should the state authorize pari-mutuel betting on dog racing on a basis similar to that now used by horse racing? Yes) (No)

11. Should the state leave all existing taxes as they are and provide for needed revenues by increasing the specific (nuisance) taxes listed in items 6, 7, 9, 10 and 11 as shown on the first page? (Yes) (No)

TODAY'S THOUGHT

By LOUIS BURGHARDT

"We shall defend our island, whatever the cost may be, we shall fight on the beaches, we shall fight on the landing grounds, we shall fight in the fields and in the streets, we shall fight in the hills, we shall never surrender . . ." — said Churchill in Britain's disquieting, darkening hours, — amid London's ruins.

"Better Red than dead," is being heard in some areas in current disquieting, darkening hours, — amid tranquilizers, tedium and television.

Quite a contrast! But — IF and when a showdown comes, let no known or potential enemy think Americans will dilly dally in a decision to be free men in freedom. Let no one think Americans can ever be collared ceratures in captivity. Let those who doubt this know there will be a unified decision to choose the Churchill slogan. Above all, our prayers should be unified that such a day for decision will never dawn . . . BURGHARDT FUNERAL HOME, 214 E. Middle St., Chelsea, Mich. Phone GR 5-1141.

Michigan Bell Tells Plans for Expansion

Michigan Bell Telephone Co. announced today that in 1967 its expansion and improvement expenditures will continue at last year's record level to keep pace with sustained demand for more and varied communications services.

William M. Day, Michigan Bell president, placed the 1967 construction figure at $181 million, about the same as in 1966.

Day said last year's peak construction program went a long way toward helping the company "catch up with the unprecedented demand for and high usage of telephone service."

"Our 1967 program, as last year's, is designed not only to meet the continuing demand for basic telephone service, but to give every Michigan Bell customer the type and quality of service he wants and expects from us," Day said.

Noting that much of the capital to finance the construction program must come from investors, Day said the magnitude of his year's expenditures reflects the company's confidence in the continued economic health of Michigan.

"We expect to continue to gain telephones this year at a very rapid rate," he said, "and our forecasts of this certainly are not based on a weakening of the state's economy."

Part of the huge demand placed on company facilities, he said, stems from the fact that more and more customers are requesting better grades of service (one-party versus two-party), and that customers in general are using their telephones more.

State-wide, Michigan Bell will place more exchange cable in 1967 than it ever did in a single year—a record 11.4 billion conductor feet.

The 1967 program calls for the expenditure of $51.6 million for outside plant facilities, $55.6 million for telephone equipment in homes and offices, $62.1 million for central office equipment, and about $11.5 million for land and buildings. Some $3.5 million will go for general equipment.

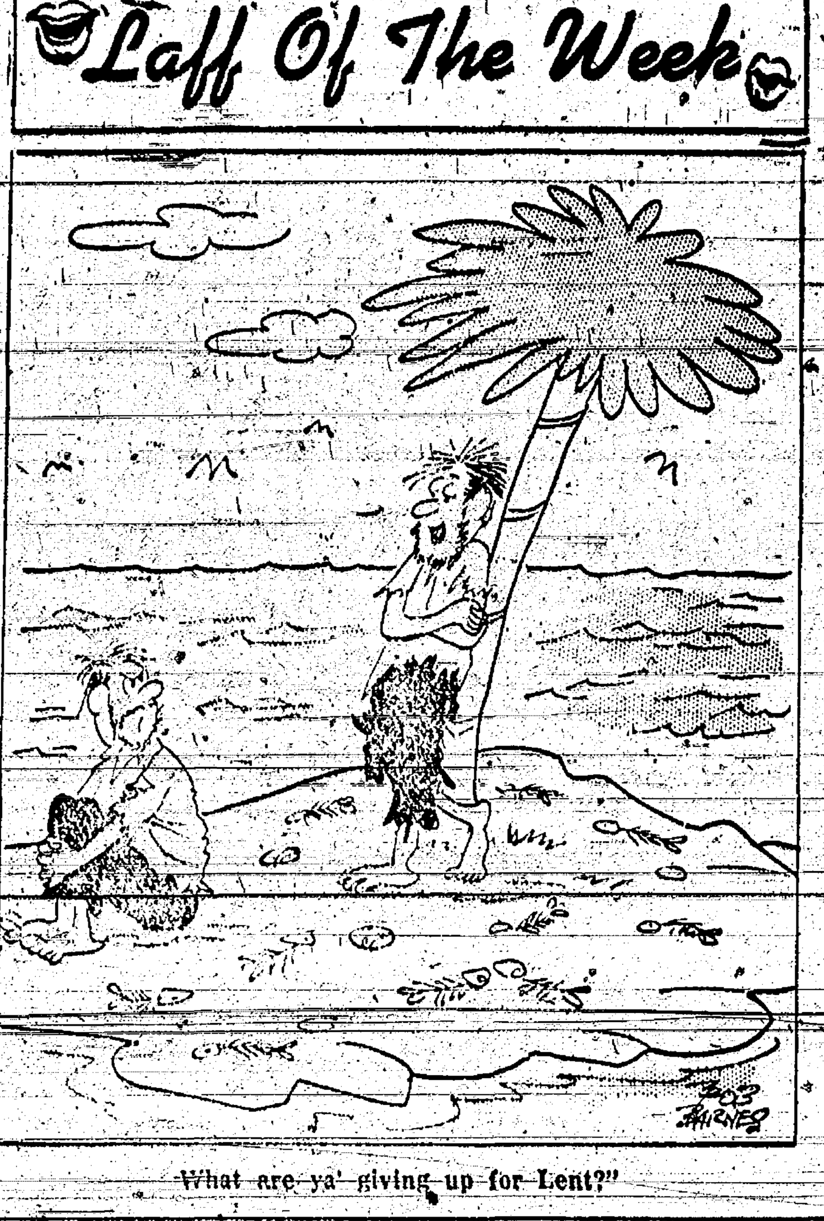

Michigan Bell will start eight new telephone buildings during the year [illegible] building additions [illegible] communities [illegible] feet [illegible]

'Big Mac' Bridge Toll Collectors Sharp with Change

St. Ignace—Only one driver out of every 71,000 who crosses the Mackinac Bridge is likely to be handed incorrect change by the toll collectors, the Bridge Authority reports.

In reviewing its figures for 1966 the Authority said 1,418,000 drivers handed money to 10 permanent and seven part-time toll collectors during the year. Only 20 filed incorrect change claims which could be proved by audit.

"This record seems phenomenal when one considers that each toll collector often handles up to four transactions per minute; must keep in mind 12 different vehicle classifications; answer unlimited questions about recreation areas; provide road directions and frequently convert a foreign currency to U.S. rates," said Authority Chairman Prentiss M. Brown.

Brown said each collector handled more than 83,000 transactions each during the year involving $365,000 per collector.

Brown said short change claims are easy to check and prove. He also said persons who are handed too much change usually return the excess to the collectors.

THE USE of computer "models" of the earth to imitate geologic changes that took millions of years is reported by Stanford University. Researchers there say the use of computers to mimic geologic changes has lagged behind their use for similar purposes in business, medicine, engineering and other sciences. Now, in several hours' computing time, geologists are able to observe the development of geologic features and monitor the underground behavior of gas, oil and water.

WHITETAIL DEER in Pennsylvania State University's Stone Valley Experimental Forest are being "bugged." The deer are tranquilized and then fitted with tiny radio transmitters attached to bright-colored plastic collars which emit continuous signals on pre-selected frequencies. University researchers are tracking the "bugged" deer to determine how best to manage the large deer herds in the state.

There is only one way to make an honest dollar.

★ Supersonic Squirt Saws Concrete . . .

A TINY JET of liquid traveling from a nozzle at supersonic speed is more than just a useless squirt. It will cut almost anything, a University of Michigan research team has found. The jet cuts by shooting a stream of water five one-thousandths of an inch thick at an object at three times the speed of sound. With it the stream has cut not only wood, but concrete one inch thick at a rate of 15 inches per minute.

CARBON DIOXIDE has reached the "core" of a costly problem in foundries. It's producing inexpensive sand molds for castings, reports Cardox, Chicago, that are more accurate and less expensive than those made by conventional hardening methods that require baking and drying. An injection of gaseous carbon dioxide almost instantly hardens a prepared mixture of sand, binder and additives used to make foundry cores for castings.

" A SOLDIER WOUNDED in the jungle of Vietnam often gets quicker, more comprehensive emergency care than an accident victim on the open highway or a farmer stricken by a heart attack," says the American Medical Association. The AMA reports that hospital emergency room visits are up 175 percent in the last 10 years and that over-all services and facilities "have fallen woefully behind."

CONVERTING salt water to fresh water isn't new; sailors were able to do this 2,000 years ago. However, hydrologists of the U.S. Geological Survey say, it is still a relatively costly process—averaging about one dollar per thousand gallons. They say that there is hope of desalting at costs as low as 22 cents per thousand gallons in the near future.

Fifth Grade HONOR ROLL

The elementary school honor rolls for fifth graders were announced this week by Sylvester Wojcicki, elementary schools principal. The honor rolls are based on grades for the third six-week marking period.

South school A Honor Roll: Jon Lewis.

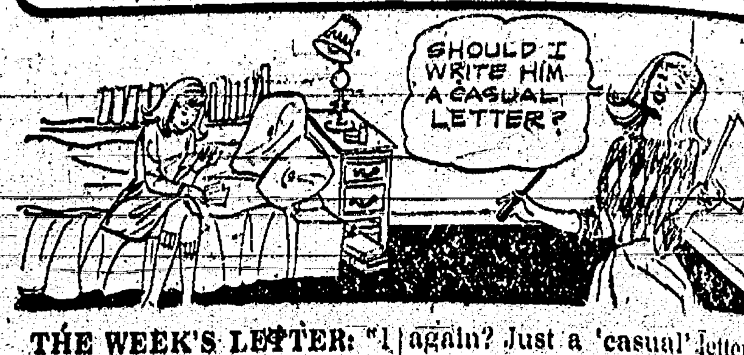

South school B Honor Roll: William Aldrich, Jane Belser, Vicki Burnett, Ronald Collins, Craig Coltre, Todd Gardner, Mark Heydlauff, Patty Knickerbocker, Dale Koch, Jeff Marshall, Daniel Merkel, Michael Murphy, Sandra Norton, Pamela Risner, Darlene Robbins, Kathy Sannes, Gena Shoemaker, Kevin Smith, Carol Smyth, Linda Steinaway, Kathy Stoll, James Storey, Dan Thomson and Colette Wright.

North school A Honor Roll: Neil Bollinger and Jennifer Lane.

North school B Honor Roll: Betsey Bacon, John Brauninger, Jeffrey Bussler, Paul Case, Debra Clark, Janis Eisemann, Debrah Fitzsimmons, Phyllis Jedele, Nancy Jennings, Dennis Kipfmiller, David Lauhon, Mary Linebaugh, Suzanne Osinski, Marjory Parsons, Marlene Raney, Debra Rooke, Gary Sanderson, Trudi Sanderson, Gina Slane, Jeffrey Sprague, Stephen Straub and Jennifer Tandy.

For And About Teenagers

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I have a real problem and just don't know what to do. There's this certain boy I really like. I just love him so much, but he must not love me. I've known him most of my life, but it wasn't until just last summer we became real good friends.

He's such a great guy. He's just the greatest thing on earth. He was so nice to me and acted like he really liked me. This fall he went away to school and I'm lost without him. His birthday was a few weeks after he left, so I sent him a birthday card and a letter. He didn't write back. Does this mean he doesn't love me? It's been two weeks since his birthday. What can I do? Don't tell me to forget him, because it's next to impossible. My friends tell me he'll write, but I am beginning to doubt it. Help me, please! Should I write to him again? Just a 'casual' letter—I mean, we are friends."

OUR REPLY: We won't tell you to forget him, since you make this request. But we will say you have built him into an image of the ideal man, which he probably is not. A gentleman would at least thank you for remembering his birthday. Give him time. Maybe he will. If he doesn't, write another casual letter, giving him "news" about the hometown. If he doesn't reply, you may be sure he is too busy with other things and you'll probably not hear from him until he comes home on vacation. Our bet is that then he will want to be friends again and will be as nice as if he had never been away.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, COMMUNITY AND SUBURBAN PRESS SERVICE, FRANKFORT, KY.

License Plate Sales Lagging Far Behind Normal Pace

Lansing — The only trouble with early license plate buyers in the opinion of Secretary of State James M. Hare is "there just are not enough of them."

Hare pointed to the "slow" pace of 1967 plate sales which were running nearly 200,000 below comparable dates last year during mid-January.

"Unless we pick up the sales tempo by the end of this month and the first 10 days of February, I'm afraid buyers will be faced with monumental lines of pushing people and flaring tempers," Hare predicted.

Hare pointed to several factors which he said were "contributing to the snail's-pace license sales campaign.

1. "Lag in new car sales. This has seriously affected sale of plates during the tag-end of 1966 and seems to be extending into the new year. Used cars sales seem to be down, too.

2. "Persons who obtained plates early last year because they were leerie of the new Motor Vehicle Accident Claims Fund have a year's experience to call upon and don't seem overly concerned about being later this year.

3. "License plate sales were stimulated last year by the gigantic state-wide educational and publicity campaign on the Accident Fund which stimulated persons to buy plates early."

Hare pointed out another problem, caused when the legislature extended the commercial plate buying deadline back to the original Feb. 28 date. Lawmakers earlier in last year's session had passed a bill which had moved up commercial plate sales one month whith the deadline of Jan. 31.

"This is a problem we did not anticipate, figuring commercials would be out of the way by the end of January."

Hare again reminded vehicle owners that they would have to provide proof of insurance to qualify for the $1.00 insured fee under the Motor Vehicle Accident Claims Fund law.

"If adequate proof is not furnished, these drivers will have to pay the $35 uninsured fee under the Fund."

Adequate proof of insurance, according to Hare, can consist of any of the following:

—Certificate of insurance but only when a policy number and expiration date appear on the certificate. Terms such as "applied for" or "continuous" are not acceptable.

—A statement with the same information as the certificate on the letterhead of any company agent.

—A copy of a policy declaration or an insurance ID card which contains the same information as the certificate.

—A certificate of insurance binder or any document containing the same information as a binder showing the binder period or expiration date.

Hare said binders must be given to branch personnel when plates are purchased and would be checked at the expiration period to see if the person followed through on the purchase of liability insurance. Persons who do not show in-effect liability insurance will be asked to pay the $35 uninsured fee.

Oldest Bridge on State Road System To Be Replaced

Lansing — The days of the oldest bridge on Michigan's state highway system are numbered.

The State Highway Commission reports that construction has started on a new bridge to carry M-91 over the Grand River south of the Kent county community of Lowell.

It will replace an 83-year-old iron truss span which will be dismantled when the new $352,000 bridge is completed later this year.

Highway Department records show the iron bridge was built in 1884 by the King Bridge Co. and became part of the state highway system in 1927 when M-91 was established to provide a link between Lowell and Old US-16.

The old bridge, built to horse-and-buggy specifications, was financed with funds from the 1859 Swampland Road Act, an early federal-state effort to finance road building in the latter half of the 19th century.

Under the Swampland Road Act federal land in Michigan was turned over to the state to be sold and the proceeds to be used for construction of roads, bridges and dams.

Mrs. Norman Eugene Hannewald

Penny Boyer, Norman Hannewald Speak Vows at Methodist Church

Penny Lynn Boyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donley Boyer, 10 Sycamore St., became the bride of Norman Eugene Hannewald last Saturday evening.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin C. Hannewald of Stockbridge.

The Rev. S. D. Kinde, former pastor of First Methodist church, officiated at the ceremony.

The bride approached the altar of the Methodist church wearing a white satin gown styled with an empire bodice, lace appliques bordering the scoop neckline, long pointed sleeves and a floor-length A-line skirt complimented by a Watteau train. Her shoulder-length veil was secured by three roses.

She carried a bouquet of white roses centered with a white orchid corsage.

The bride's sister, Miss Dori Jo Boyer of Ypsilanti, was maid of honor. Her gown, with a bottle green bodice and mint green skirt, was styled like the bride's. Her headpiece was of bottle green.

The three bridesmaids, Miss Melody Ann Boyer, Miss Terri Lee Boyer and Miss Ruth Hannewald, wore floor-length gowns entirely of bottle green and carried bouquets of yellow roses.

A miniature of the yellow bouquets was carried by the flower girl, Lois Ann Butler of Chelsea. She wore a floor-length dress of mint green with deep green streamers and had a headpiece of bottle and mint green.

Vocalist for the ceremony was Mrs. Thomas Slater of Cedar Lake. She sang "Each for the Other."

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Boyer chose a yellow basket-weave wool suit and hat with beige accessories. She had a green orchid corsage.

The mother of the bridegroom chose a muted green sheath and jacket costume with matching accessories. Her corsage was a yellow orchid.

The bridegroom's father was best man by proxy for his son, Robert, who is in the Army Reserve Training Camp.

Donald Hannewald, the bridegroom's brother, Ted A. Mills of Ypsilanti and David Sweet of Stockbridge were ushers.

A reception in the church followed the ceremony. Mrs. Robert Helrigel of Hastings cut the cake, which was baked by the grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Joseph Eaton of Mulliken. Miss Lin Sommer was in charge of the guest book and Miss Lynn Weidman and Miss Joan Hofman assisted with gifts.

The couple left after the reception for a week-long Canadian wedding trip. The bride's traveling costume was a kelly green suit with matching accessories.

The bride graduated from Chelsea High school in 1964 and is now a sophomore at Eastern Michigan University. Her husband is a graduate of Stockbridge High school and is in his senior year at EMU. A biology major, he plans to teach.

The couple will live on Pine Grove Terrace, Ypsilanti.

Carol Ann Hafley On Dean's List at Kalamazoo College

Carol Ann Hafley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Veryl F. Hafley, 17838 Old US-12, has been named to the dean's list for the fall quarter at Kalamazoo College. Carol, a sophomore, maintained a 3.5 (B-plus) average for that quarter.

Birthdays Celebrated By Four Generations

Four generations of Lindemanns gathered at the Reuben Lindemann home, 4015 Dexter Town Hall Rd. on Sunday, Jan. 29 to celebrate five family birthdays falling within a few days of each other.

Honored on the occasion of his 90th birthday, which was Feb. 2, Gerhart Losser shared birthday cake with two of his great-grandchildren, Lucy Lindemann, who was four on Jan. 30 and her brother Dean, who was seven on Jan. 29. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Lindemann of 11790 Island Lake Rd.

The children's grandfather, Reuben Lindemann, who was born on Jan. 8, joined their uncle, Eugene Luckhardt, of Saline, born Jan. 18, in partaking of one of the three cakes which made up the table centerpiece.

Also joining in the celebration as well as the other Lindemann children, were Mr. and Mrs. William Beach and Mrs. Eugene Luckhardt.

WEDDING DATE SET: The engagement of Therese Marie Hankerd, 600 Taylor St., daughter of Emmett M. Hankerd and the late Oleta F. Hankerd, to David Scharphorn of Chelsea, has been announced by her father. Mr. Scharphorn is the son of Mrs. Joseph Scharphorn, of Zeeland, and the late Mr. Scharphorn. Miss Hankerd is a graduate of Chelsea High school and is employed in the office of Federal Screw Works. Mr. Scharphorn graduated from Zeeland High school and the University of Michigan. He is employed at Refrigeration Research, Brighton. A wedding date of July 1 has been set.

Brownies...

TROOP 247—

Brownie Troop 247 meets Wednesdays at the Congregational church.

At our first meeting of the new year we turned our Brownie pins upside down and had to do a special good deed in order to turn the pin right side up. This was easy and each Brownie was able to turn her pin over at the next meeting. Even the leaders!!

On Jan. 18 we divided into four groups and baked cookies at the homes of Karen Kern, Pam Siebert, Beth Clark and Sandy Crouch.

We are now planning a special program for a Mothers' Tea on Feb. 8.

Officers for January were: president, Pam Siebert; secretary, Sandy Crouch; treasurer, Karin Roskowski; scribe, Susie Palmer.

Susie Palmer, scribe.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Penhallegon

Linda Kealy, Thomas Penhallegon Wed at Congregational Church

The Congregational church was the setting for the Saturday evening wedding of Linda Ann Kealy and Thomas A. Penhallegon.

The Rev. Philip Rusten and the Rev. Robert Livingston officiated at the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Duane Kealy, 1214 Kernwood Dr., and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Penhallegon, 155 Shore View Dr., Crooked Lake.

"I Love You Truly" and "The Lord's Prayer" were sung by Miss Grace Penhallegon, sister of the bridegroom.

The bride approached the sanctuary wearing a floor-length gown of silk organza and lace. A scalloped sabrina neckline trimmed with pearls and sequins accented the lace bodice. A bouffant silk organza skirt was highlighted by a lace panel in front. A detachable cathedral train of alternate tiers of lace and organza and a shoulder-length veil of English illusion held by a headdress of pearlized orange blossoms and birds completed the costume. The bride carried a classic cascade of white pompon mums and white orchids.

Miss Grace Penhallegon, sister of the bridegroom, was the maid of honor. Her floor-length gown was of sapphire blue silk organza and was accented by a scooped neckline, elbow-length sleeves and a modified empire waist with a bow at the front. A train fell behind the slim skirt. Her veil was held by a pearl headdress. She carried a French hand bouquet of white pom-pon mums centered with blue-tipped carnations.

The three bridesmaids, Miss Karen Hopkins of Chelsea, Miss Kay Britten of Jackson and Miss Kathy Kealy, a sister of the bride, wore gowns of cotillion blue fashioned in the same style as the maid of honor's. They also carried French hand bouquets with the carnations tipped to match their gowns.

The bride's mother chose a three-piece biege suit with beige accessories. Her corsage was of red roses.

The mother of the bridegroom wore a light blue two-piece suit with a corsage of white roses. Her costume was accented by tan shoes, gloves and hat.

Best man for the ceremony was Richard Penhallegon, brother of the bridegroom. John Tapioli, a cousin of the bridegroom, John Barrett and Dewey Barber ushered.

A reception was held following the ceremony. Mrs. Harold McDonald, aunt of the bride, assisted with cutting of the cake. Mrs. Doris Perry poured coffee, Mrs. Ray Guenther served punch and Jane Tapioli was in charge of the guest book.

The couple left following the reception for a one-week wedding trip to northern Michigan. The bride wore a tan traveling suit with black accessories.

The couple will be at home at 6 Cavanaugh Lake after the wedding trip.

The bride is employed at Chelsea State Bank. Mr. Penhallegon is employed at Applied Dynamics, Dexter, and attends Washtenaw Community College.

Essentials of Good Dental Health

This is the second in a series of articles on dental health published by The Chelsea Standard, in co-operation with the Washtenaw District Dental Society, Dr. Olin Cox, president. National Children's Dental Health week will be observed Feb. 5-11.

My son, who is eight, has cerebral palsy. While he is mentally alert and bright, his motor ability is severely limited. What I am concerned with is the fact that he appears to have more than the usual amount of decay, and we have to make frequent trips to the dentist. Could this unusual decay be a result of his disease, and is there anything we can do to lessen it?

It is unlikely that cerebral palsy is the cause of your son's high decay rate. However, the disease may be indirectly responsible because of poor dental hygiene. The motor restrictions in your son probably prevent him from brushing his teeth regularly and adequately, and this factor alone can lead to a higher than usual decay rate.

Fortunately, the advent of the electric toothbrush has helped many such handicapped children and adults. Since the brush does much of the work for the person, even people with motor limitations can brush their teeth well. In addition, the sense of pride and accomplishment that comes with this simple achievement — tooth brushing — encourages the child to continue personal dental care.

If the handicap is too severe to permit the individual to brush his own teeth, brushing can be conveniently accomplished by the parent.

Diet can play an important part in any child's dental health. Since your son probably has difficulty in brushing his teeth, I would advise that you keep sweets away from him as much as possible. Candy, highly sugary fruits and other sweets should be permitted only on special occasions, and the teeth should be brushed immediately after consumption of the sweets.

You didn't mention whether or not your community has fluoridated water. If it doesn't, I suggest you ask your dentist about the advisability of prescribing dietary fluorides or applying topical fluoride to your son's teeth. As you may know, fluoride has been shown to reduce the incidence of decay by as much as 60 percent, and this certainly would benefit your child.

These four things—good home care, limitation of sweet intake, fluoridation and regular visits to the dentist—will, I am sure, help your son maintain his best possible dental health.

HOT FOOT

To keep children's feet warm and dry for romping in snow, place little plastic household bags over their shoes before putting on boots. Secure with strips of plastic tape around ankels so bags won't slide or slip. The plastic tape peels off easily, won't constrict blood circulation, as rubber bands might do.

Correct this sentence: "I run my business on a system; everything happens on time and in accordance with my plan."

THE LETTERBOX

Dear Editor:

Let's quit wasting our school facilities.

With costs of everything going up, some one in one branch of government has finally suggested a way to obtain more for the money we spend.

No farsighted person begrudes well-spent money for education, but James O'Neil, new member of the Michigan Board of Education, expressed an idea that should provoke positive thoughts in all of us.

School buildings cost money, he points out, too much money to stand idle very much of the time. He says we are wasting our school buildings all summer long.

In its planning for the next few years, our Board of Education at Chelsea (and other local boards, too) should consider three ways to obtain greater benefits in return for the Taxpayer's dollar.

1. 11 months of school or 12. Many colleges and universities have gone to this in recent years, to educate more people with no more buildings.

2. Longer hours of school operation, with staggered and or overlapping "shifts" of student attendance. This would apply to teachers as well, and would work just as efficiently as it does in industrial factories and offices.

3. Greater use of school facilities for community use as meeting and recreation places, to be scheduled in the "open" time and to be paid for by the using organization.

Though it may or may not be the most feasible solution to the problem, Point No. 1 is the easiest to compare with other things we know. Examples: No factory manager, drug store owner, clothing store operator, farmer, dentist, nor factory worker willingly stops his productive operations two-and-a-half months every year.

The best money we spend is the money invested in education. Maybe we can set an example for other branches of government, however. This example seems badly needed, when you consider that the new proposals now before Congress will create Social Secuirty taxes higher than income taxes on the first $6,600 of income for the head of a family of four.

Certainly, any one or any combination of these ideas would create problems. We would need more teachers—but we will, anyway, as the student population continues to increase. We would have greater administrative burdens, and perhaps a need for additional administrators, — but we made an intelligent step in that direction when we decided on a school businsess manager.

When the new junior high is completed, we will have all the basic physical facilities required. We may be on the verge of participating in the new era in education.

Sincerely yours,
Ed Lewis

SEWING CENTER

A special area where you can sew without having to pick up your equipment after each sewing job can save you time and energy. This is true whether you devote a whole room to your sewing center or just a corner of a room.

Splattered or spilled foods come off range surfaces easily when they have just happened. Wipe them off with paper or a dry cloth. A wet cloth may steam-burn your fingers or crack the range enamel.

Dear Editor:

Does anyone know of the whereabouts of a Raymond Nelson, Ruth Mary Nelson or Virginia Rose Nelson?

They used to live at Chelsea. The girls could have different last names.

The children were raised by an aunt and uncle, the Lee Becks. They had two sons, Lawrence and Elmer.

The reason I am trying to locate this family is to let them know that their brother, John Herbert Nelson, born at Mt. Vista, Colo., July 23, 1906, died July 10, 1966.

The widow and a son, John, now 22 years old, and a step-daughter would love to find them.

If anyone knows of their whereabouts, please notify:

Proposed Mill Creek Impoundment Report Delayed Until 1968

Philip McCallister, U. S. Army Corps of Engineers representative, said this week that an interim report on the proposed Mill Creek Impoundment, scheduled for release in June, 1967, will not be released until one year later. According to McCallister, this change in report date will not delay the final project report, which is scheduled for completion by the 1970 fiscal year.

Holton R. Bush

Retired Farmer Dies Following Extended Illness

Holton R. Bush, aged 83, died Sunday, Jan. 29 at Cedar Knoll Rest Home, Grass Lake township, after a lengthy illness. He was a retired farmer and dairy equipment dealer.

Born Jan. 18, 1884 in Morrisburg, Ontario, Canada, he was married to Minnie Jane Hamilton at Massena, N.Y., Aug. 23, 1905. She preceded him in death on Jan. 4, 1963.

Mr. Bush had farmed for many years in Canada before coming to Michigan in 1951. He was a member of Salem Grove Methodist church. Preceding him in death in addition to his wife were two sons and a daughter, Roy in 1927, Helen in 1928 and Harvey in 1945. A brother, Harry Bush, died in 1953. The only survivor is a cousin, Mrs. Louis C. Ramp of Waterloo.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at 1 p.m. at the Burghardt Funeral Home, with the Rev. George T. Nevin officiating. Burial followed in Mt. Hope cemetery, Waterloo.

George A. Gilson

Dies Saturday Morning At Area Rest Home

George A. Gilson, 89, 515 East St., died Saturday morning at Cedar Knoll Rest Home. He had been a patient there since March, 1965.

Born in Bedford township, Calhoun county, on Dec. 13, 1877, the son of William Gilson and Helen Faundley Gilson. He married Olive C. Clark March 15, 1900 at Battle Creek.

The couple moved to Chelsea in 1943 where Gilson was employed at the Federal Screw Works, retiring in 1955. Mrs. Gilson died Jan. 18, 1952.

He is survived by two sons, Don L. Gilson, Long Beach, Calif., and Gale C. Gilson, of Chelsea; four grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. from Staffan Funeral Home with the Rev. James Craig officiating. Burial was in Bedford cemetery, Bedford, Mich.

Junior High Science Fair Set Friday Evening

Entries in the Junior High Science Fair will be displayed in the Junior High gym Friday night, Feb. 3, from 7 to 9, Principal Alan Conklin announced this week. The display will include winning entries. Judging in the contest will take place after school Friday.

Winners in the competition may enter the county science fair to be held this spring in Ann Arbor.

Area Students Earn Degrees at Eastern Michigan

Mrs. Ethel M. Samuelson of 3141 Central, wife of Wylie science teacher Harold Samuelson, received her BS in Elementary Education as well as her Elementary Provisional Teaching certificate, on Jan. 22 at the commencement exercises of Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti.

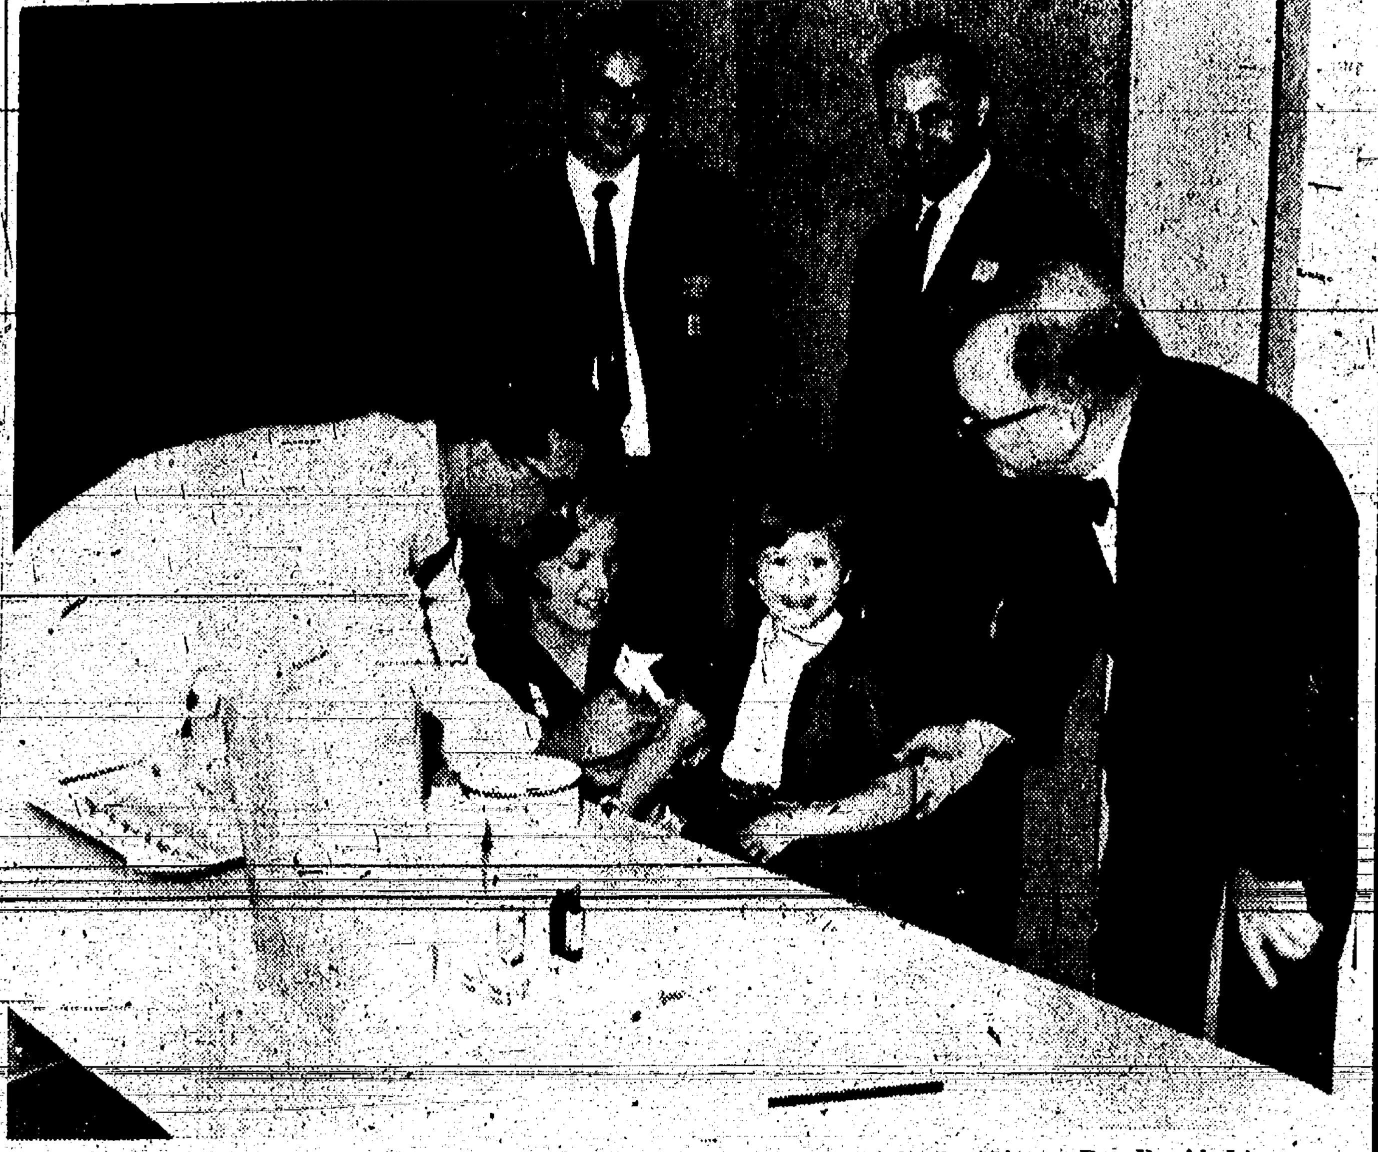

The mother of three children, twins Barbara and Betty, in 10th grade at Dexter High school, and one son, David, a fifth grader at Wylie, Mrs. Samuelson has finished her college work in only four and one-half years, while continuing to manage her household.

In addition she was elected to Kappa Delta Pi, scholastic honorary in the Education discipline.

Mrs. Samuelson enjoys tennis and sewing, but counts bicycling as her principal interest. She and her family are members of the Dexter Methodist church.

Since Jan. 24 she has been teaching first grade at North school in Chelsea.

Also graduated from EMU on Jan. 22 was Miss Linda Scherdt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Scherdt of 6424 W. Huron River Dr., who received a BA and her Elementary Provisional teaching certificate. She is now teaching fifth grade at Monroe school in Livonia.

NO MEASLES FOR HER: Dawn Shavalia of Dexter really enjoyed her visit to the free measles clinic held there Jan. 14. Chelsea youngsters will have their chance at the Chelsea High gym, Saturday morning from 9 to 11:30. The clinics, designed to wipe out seven day red measles, are sponsored by the Washtenaw County Health Department and the county medical society. Dr. David Lint gave Dawn the painless measles vaccination, while nurse Gail Speitz assisted. Dr. Otto K. Engelke, right, director of the County Health Department, and Dexter Jaycees Gary Kolander, left rear, and Al Smith were pleased with Dawn's reaction.

IN THE OPEN

By Lee Smits

Fishing through the ice is a personality test. For best results, an ice-fisherman needs the stolid patience of primitive man. (An Eskimo hunter, spear poised, will bend over the breathing-hole of a seal all day with no action whatsoever, and return next day to the same spot for another long vigil).

Gazing down into the water from a fish shanty, working a decoy or watching a minnow, can become very monotonous to a man accustomed to activity. A school of minnows drifts through, he sees fragments of bullrush move on the bottom and knows that a fish-fly will crawl out of the hollow stem on a spring day. If the shanty is heated, the sportsman had better keep coffee ready for he will drift into slumber, which he could do better at home.

Mid-winter fish seem better flavored. Most ice-fishermen let their catch freeze, although a confirmed gourmet would prefer to keep fish just above freezing temperature to retain flavor perfection.

While hungry pike are on the prowl and smelt, perch, bluegills, croppies snatch baited hooks, what about the winter habits of other fish species?

Dr. Wayne H. Tody, chief of the Fish Division, Michigan Department of Conservation, comes up with some interesting items about how fish behave in cold weather.

"In general the sunfish family, which includes bass, becomes inactive in winter," says Dr. Tody. "Bluegills and croppies are exceptions.

"Our three species of trout are active all winter, except in streams during very cold weather. Temperatures below 32 lower the vitality of most cold-blooded creatures. Trout keep feeding in lakes and ponds because water covered by ice is warmer than fast-running water in a stream. In late winter, trout will take shelter under ice-rims along the banks of a stream or in pools.

"Carp don't like winter weather. They came from Asia and they have a hard time dodging the cold. Carp hole up in a muddy marsh in real cold weather. They will congregate anywhere they can find a flow of warm water. At the big Horicon federal refuge in Wisconsin, the waste flow from a pickle factory makes it possible to net carp in quantities, as much as a million pounds during the winter."

A long, hard winter can bring disaster to fish in Michigan's interior lakes. A thick cover of ice and snow in a weedy lake means that, in late winter, there will be a defective supply of oxygen which may cause a heavy die-off of fish.

At one time it was hoped that strips of tarpaper, dropped on the ice from a plane, would cause holes to form as the tarpaper concentrated sunlight. That didn't work too well. On an ice-bound lake, oxygen can be supplied by cutting a hole and setting up an outboard motor so that the whirling propeller splashes water up onto the ice to become charged with oxygen as it flows back into the hole. There is also an air-compressor designed to aerate small bodies of water.

All winter there is a living world, hidden from human view, except where ice-fishermen operate; a world of the northern pike, savagely hunting its prey; of drowsy bass and sunfish, loafing; of turtles and frogs asleep in the mud; of billions of fish-fly larvae, waiting to climb up into the sunlight, mate and die.

'Vandals' Turn Out To Be Professionals

Flint — Mystery concerning a professional job of vandalism at a rest area on I-75 near Flint has been solved.

Flint State Police were called recently when workmen from the Genesee County Road Commission found high voltage wires clipped off at the rest area, a $50 mercury lamp torn down and a string of 220-volt wire between two utility poles removed and carted away.

State Highway Commission workers speculated that the thieves had to know about electricity. They were right.

Police learned that the "job" was pulled off in broad daylight by employees of the Consumers Power Co. The State Highway Commission had planned to expand the rest facility and had hired Consumers to do the electrical work.

Meanwhile, there was a cutback in funds and the project was abandoned, but nobody told Consumers Power.

Traffic Death Toll for '66 Sets Record

Despite a reduction in traffic deaths in December, Michigan's road toll for 1966 climbed to a new all-time high of 2,243, according to State Police provisional figures.

This annual mark tops the old record of 2,175 set in 1937 and exceeds by 114 or five percent the 2,129 killed in 1965.

It was the sixth time and the third year in a row since Michigan began record keeping in 1933 that traffic fatalities have exceeded the 2,000 mark. Other annual highs were 2,122 in 1964, 2,016 in 1955 and 2,133 in 1941.

The provisional toll of 190 in December was 54 or 21 percent less than 244 in that month in 1965 which is the all-time high for any month. The month's average was 178 for the five years 1961-65.

Michigan had five months which exceeded the 200-death level in 1966, tying 1936 for this record. These high months last year were May with 207, June with 203, July with 210, August with 204 and October with 201.

Delayed death reports will raise somewhat the provisional December and 1966 tolls.

Motorists' Speed May Be Affected By Many Factors

Lansing — Auto speed is affected by many factors, including even your marital status, according to the Michigan State Highway Commission.

Citing a study made by Highway Research Board, the State Highway Commission reported that single women and divorcees of both sexes tend to drive faster than married men and women.

On a long trip, a person will drive faster than on a short one, and out-of-state cars maintain higher speeds than in-state cars, according to the study. The greater the annual mileage, the higher the average speed.

Ownership affects speed, too, the study revealed. The average driver will not drive his own car as fast as he drives a rented or fleet car. New cars average higher speeds than old ones, expensive cars higher than low-priced ones, and heavy cars higher than light ones. Buses are the fastest vehicles on the highways, passenger cars next, and trucks are slowest.

The best thing in life is not baseball, ice cream, or even chocolate-covered raisins.

Highway Dept. Spends $1,720 Per Mile for Maintenance

Lansing — The State Highway Commission reports that it spent an average of $1,720 per mile during 1966 to maintain state highways in rural areas.

This is nearly $10 per mile less than it cost to maintain Michigan's state highways during the previous year.

Major reason for the decrease in maintenance costs was a reduction in the amount of money spent for snow removal. Michigan had an exceptionally light winter last year.

State Highway Director Howard E. Hill told the Commission the Highway Department spent $20.2 million during 1966 compared to $21.6 million during 1965. In addition, the Highway Department spent $2.3 million for maintenance of state highways in incorporated cities and villages.

Hill said the largest single cost item was for snow and ice removal. The Highway Department spent $5.4 million to keep Michigan's 8,000 miles of rural state highways "bare" during the winter months compared to 7.9 million the previous year.

Hill said the Highway Department's per mile maintenance costs ranged from $928 per mile in Huron county to $3,165 per mile in Wayne county.

Snow and ice removal ranged from $151 per mile in Montcalm county to $931 per mile in Alger county.

The Highway Department spent nearly $600,000 during 1966 to pick up trash and litter strewn along Michigan's highways by "careless and thoughtless" motorists, Hill said.

Roadside cleanup costs ranged from $6 per mile in Newaygo county to $162 per mile in heavily populated Wayne county.

Maintenance costs in Washtenaw county totaled $1,160 per mile with clean-up costing $7 and snow removal $202 per mile. Jackson county figures were $1,493 per mile with clean-up costing $7 per mile and $350 per mile being expended for snow and ice removal.

Highway Dept. Testing Variety of Snow Scrapers

Detroit — The State Highway Commission is conducting experiments this winter in an effort to find a more durable scraper blade for its snowplows, the Commission's Chairman reported recently.

Commission Chairman Ardale W. Ferguson of Benton Harbor said the Highway Department's Maintenance Division uses upwards of 10,000 scraper blades every winter.

"The low-carbon blades, which cost nearly $5 each, are six inches wide when they are put under a snowplow but sometimes wear down as much as two inches after the plow has traveled 60 to 70 miles," Ferguson said.

"In an effort to find a more durable blade, we are experimenting with plastic, rubber and carbide tungsten blades, and we hope the experiments will help us find a blade that will save the Highway Department thousands of dollars in the years ahead."

The scraper blade experiments are being conducted on snowplows based at Highway Department Maintenance Garages in Fennville, Plainwell, Webberville, Mio and Kalkaska.

WRONG HOSE

Perth, Australia — While watering his lawn, Laurie Spicer decided to move the sprinkler without turning off the water. Picking up the "hose" to bend it double and stop the flow, he discovered he had picked up a deadly copperhead snake—which he dropped before it bit him.

DETERMINED FISHERMAN

Bournemouth, Britain — When the line broke, fisherman John Harris, determined not to lose his big catch, jumped in and grabbed his fish. It was a 20-pound cod—the largest ever caught in that area.

State Highway Dept. Collects for Damages

Lansing — The Michigan State Highway Commission reports that it collected $218,973 during 1966 for damages to state highways and bridges.

State Highway Director Howard E. Hill said the majority of claims were damages to guard rails, bridges and signs.

The largest bill collected by the Highway Department last year was for $17,432 for reparis to a bridge carrying I-75 over the Saginaw River near Saginaw. Its pilings were hit by a freighter.

"It has been our policy for many years to bill individuals and firms that accidentally damage or litter state highways," Hill said. "If we didn't, Michigan's taxpayers would have to foot the bill."

State-maintained picnic facilities are scattered along Michigan's roads and highways, offering more than 3,600 picnic tables.

Eighth Grade Cagers Suffer First Defeat

The seventh and eighth grade basketball teams at Chelsea Junior High have continued their winning ways. The seventh graders have stretched their win-streak to eight straight. However, the eighth graders took their first loss of the season last Wednesday when Milan triumphed, 80-27, giving Chelsea's eighth grade team an over-all 7-1 record.

In the four games since the first of the year the seventh graders have downed Stockbridge, 40-17 and 36-14, Manchester, 51-16, and Milan, in a close one, 30-27.

David Porath led the scoring with 15, 11, 14 and 18 points respectively. Porath has also been the rebound and defensive leader. Greg Howard with 10, 7, 8, and 2 points has been the second leading scorer.

The remainder of the starting line-up includes Ron Sweeny, Wayne Welton, and Eddie Koengeter and Mark Collins alternating.

The eighth grade, in the same period, has defeated Stockbridge, 45-34 and 31-26, and Manchester, 41-33. The team lost to Milan, 41-36 although they led by six points going into the fourth quarter.

Jim Wojcicki continues to lead the scoring with 19, 13, 22, and 21 points in the four games. John Taylor with 5, 10, 6, and 5 has the second high average.

The remainder of the starting five includes Jim Hercules and Larry Gorton, both strong rebounders; George Cameron, who missed the last two games with the flu, and Roger Roark, who filled in for Cameron.

Both squads have two games remaining, away at Saline, Feb. 1, and Manchester, Feb. 15.

Kaline Nearing Many Records In Tiger Hitting

Detroit—Al Kaline has a good chance in 1967 to execute a half-dozen changes in the Tigers' list of all-time batting leaders.

His foremost goal will be the home run leadership. The slender veteran needs 28 homers to take over the No. 1 position from Hank Greenberg, who had 306 round-trippers while wearing a Tiger uniform with distinction.

At the same time, Norm Cash has a chance of becoming third in the Tiger all-time home run race. With 31, he would replace Rudy York, who bagged 230 four-baggers as a Tiger.

Here's what Kaline needs to advance in other departments:

Games played—10 to become 5th, passing Donie Bush.

At bats—94 to become 5th, passing Bush.

Runs scored—3 to become 5th, passing Sam Crawford.

Doubles—23 to become 5th, passing Bobby Veach and Greenberg.

Total bases—181 to become 4th, passing Crawford.

PEACHY IDEA

Mincemeat peaches make a delicious dessert. Fill centers of canned peach halves with a spoonful of mincemeat. Bake in a moderate oven about 20 minutes, basting several times during baking with orange juice. Top each half with hard sauce or whipped cream.

PITCHER WITH POWER

Earl Wilson's seven home runs in 1966 fell two short of the American League record for homers by a pitcher in a single season set by Wes Ferrell with Cleveland in 1931 and tied the Detroit Tiger hurler with Don Drysdale and Don Newcomb of the National League.

The person who "knows everything" has a lot to learn.

Ever hear of instant credit—you just add money.

Grapplers Down Saline For 10th Win

Saline wrestlers gave the Chelsea squad a scare last Wednesday by jumping off to a 11-5 lead.

Chelsea won the 95-lb. weight class on a fall, but lost the next three classes before returning to their winning ways and shutting out Saline for the rest of the meet.

Final score for Wednesday's match was Chelsea 37, Saline 11.

John McKeighan (95) won on a second-round fall. Web Reffitt (103) lost a 13-4 decision and Jim Williams (112) lost on a first-round fall. Doug Young (120) lost a 6-2 decision.

Paul Stahl (127) won a 4-2 decision and Mark Lancaster (133) won an 8-0 decision. Russ Maurer (138) won on a first-round fall and Tim Colvin (145) captured his match with a second-round fall.

Lauren Boyer (154) won a 7-0 decision and Paul Lancaster (165) took his match on a second-round fall. Mike Gaken (180) won a 4-3 decision and Jim Boylan (hwt.) won on a first-round fall.

Bulldog wrestlers have won all six of their starts this season and have a 10-match winning streak going for them. They have scored a total of 231 points this season to 65 scored against them.

Tonight's match (Feb. 2) will be against South Lyon, away. The next home match for the grapplers will be with Clinton, Feb. 9.

YOUNG-A-GO-GO

United States Census Bureau records show that younger people do the most moving, particularly those in the under 35 group. After 35, most families have put down roots in their community. The reasons older citizens move less include home ownership, friendships, and the fact the family breadwinner is well established in job or business.

Nothing is more precious than time, and those who mis-spend it are the greatest of all prodigals.

Dallas — Hair rollers are fine for the hair but not spendable as cash. A bank teller was sentenced on two counts of embezzlement when she was caught substituting hair rollers for coins in coin rolls with a coin in each end.

Just A Minute . . .

By the Rev. James A. Craig

A recent conversation was concerned with one man's concern for a return to the simple gospel. The gospel without complications, without all this "other business about the poor, and the war, and the race problem."

Now it would be a much better world if all there were to deal with were the religious problems faced by individuals; if all there were to be concerned with was one's own sin. That would be a simple world and a simple gospel would do.

But the world wasn't that simple when Jesus of Nazareth went about doing good. Now it is also true that he didn't launch an organized social revolution such as we have seen develop in our own time. But social revolution was never far from where he was.

The Sermon on the Mount, thought of by most Christians as a pleasant piece of speaking, laid the groundwork for society's change. The change was to take place in personal relations. The "Golden Rule" is an apt summary.

But our applying the Golden Rule in our daily lives with the people with whom we live and work isn't enough. The mass of people are not going to be largely affected by individual generosity.

Therefore, the Church has become involved as an institution. And it has to complicate the simple gospel by applying it in all areas of community life. So, it is involved in race relations and poverty and war and peace issues.

Nothing much is gained if the person is saved and the society ignored. It's not a simple world and a simple gospel won't do. Not now. Not ever.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

ACTION

Action is an important word. Movies and television programs are "action-packed", "Action-filled". A hero is always a "man of action."

When we think of action, we think of heading them off at the pass" or some similar feat which requires great physical effort and achievement.

We never consider the quiet action. We never consider that there is action in a decision. There is action in merely standing up to be counted, in holding firm to an ideal, in lending a helping hand to a worthwhile cause or project.

Action does not always speak loudly. Action is not always flamboyant. Action is sometimes merely the opposite of indecision, the opposite of indifference.

Hold to a right thought, be it unpopular; do a good deed, quietly, without hope of ackowledgement or reward; and you will realize there is quiet action—and strength — in faith and good works.

It has been reported that President Johnson will ask Congress to vote pay increases for Federal, military and civil personnel. No details were given, but the increase was speculated to average 3.5 to 4 percent.

AGRICULTURE in ACTION .....

★ Ducking De-Ducks

A simple tax proposal with sweeping implications has stirred up a storm of interest, particularly in farm areas. Here is the wording:

"In order to increase local control of tax resources, we recommend that taxpayers be given a federal credit for state taxes paid. . ."

What does it mean? Simply that if you owed $400 to the federal government on your income tax you would fill in a new box on your form labelled "State Taxes Paid" and the amount of these state taxes, in total, would be deducted from what you owe.

Let's say that last year you paid a total of $300 in Michigan taxes. This would be deducted from the $400 owed the federal government in income taxes. You would mail a check for only $100 to the Internal Revenue people, and pocket (at least temporarily) the $300.

The big idea is not to give taxpayers a windfall—rather—to force immediate local tax reform, with each state devising its own best methods of recapturing the newly available money for local government use.

Since in at least one important area, Michigan farmers pay more taxes than anybody, they have become more vocal than most people in talking up tax reform. Farmers now pay about 14 percent of their total per incomes in property taxes. Others pay only 4 percent. Much of this money is used for local governmnent purposes.

Most tax experts agree that local levels of government like most efficient use of tax money and that there is a growing need for more funds for these purposes. So far, property has been the most readily available source of this revenue, partially because much of the money raised by other means is promptly shipped off to Washington.

If it were kept home through such an idea as a federal credit for state taxes paid, Michigan would have available $593 million dollars which is now first sent to Washington with some part again finding its way back home after the federal "deducks" have pecked at it, eating upward of 80 percent of the total.

Those who support the state tax-credit idea admit there are holes in it, but also point to what it could mean, in terms of more money to schools and local government. Best of all, they say: Wouldn't it take the wind out of the sails of the Federalizers, who now say that "since there is no money available locally, we must turn to federal aid. . ."

Tractor with Carpeting, TV Slated for Farmers' Week

Farming was never like this! A tractor equipped with wall-to-wall carpeting, a two-way radio to keep in touch with home, a transistorized AM-FM radio, an electronic seed counter and closed circuit television will highlight agricultural engineering exhibits during Farmers' Week, Jan. 30 through Feb. 3, at Michigan State University.

This tractor, according to MSU agricultural engineers, is not simply a luxury item. It is especially designed by a commercial company to provide the modern farmer with more comfort, enabling him to work hours in the field, and give more precise, scientific control over his environment. The TV will enable the operator to keep a constant eye on trading equipment while watching other controls.

Dr. Carl W. Hall, chairman of MSU's Department of Agricultural Engineering, says "Engineering for Modern Agriculture" will be his department's theme during Farmers' Week.

"It is estimated that at least 80 percent of the technological changes that have occurred on American farms involve engineering techniques or principles in some way," comments Hall. "Our Farmers' Week programs are intended to help explain how these changes may be met effectively and wisely."

The agricultural engineering exhibit will also include the latest pickle and asparagus harvesters, a complete line of crop drying equipment, combination tillage and planting units, liquid manure handling equipment, anhydrous ammonia spraying equipment and several silo models.

Beginning Tuesday morning, Jan. 31, the agricultural engineers will begin reporting on the latest research development in fruit and vegetable harvesters, a new technique for placing an asphalt layer under the soil to conserve moisture in sandy soils, trends in tractor development and extensive discussion on improvements in dairy housing and feed handling.

The Wednesday program will concentrate on improving the water supply for both farm and home. Water systems, sanitary regulations, pollution, softening, iron removal and other water problems will be discussed.

An agricultural engineering banquet is also scheduled Wednesday evening and will include presentation of a 'Distinguished Service Award" and naming of the "Engineer of the Year" in Michigan. Keynote speaker for the banquet will be Dr. Sylvan H. Wittwer, director of MSU's Agricultural Experiment Station, who will report on some of the Experiment Stations's 350 research projects and their importance to the future.

On Thursday, the engineers will discuss "Systematic Decisions for Mechanizing the Entire Farm." Reports will be given on the labor, equipment and economics in developing a completely mechanized setup for hogs, beef and dairy operations.

Even the smartest individual has much to learn and the sooner they realize it, the smarter they will be.

You build a new home to get exactly what you want

why not get the heating system that gives you exactly what you want

Electric heat is custom heat. There's a thermostat in each room so you can dial the exact warmth you want . . . in the baby's room, the den, the kitchen, every room!

Electric heat is the clean, modern heat. No drafts or cold spots. You get even heat from head to feet. Ideal for your new home.

It's also a good choice as supplemental heat for your present home—to warm up a chilly bedroom or new family room.

The cost? That depends on your particular home. Electric heat may be your most economical heat. It won't cost you a penny to find out for sure. Just call Edison for a free estimate.

Hare, Hill Both Support Good Roads Tax Package

Rochester—Secretary of State James M. Hare and State Highway Director Howard E. Hill teamed up recently to support an increase in highway taxes to pay for new road construction in Michigan.

Appearing together at a Good Roads Federation Conference at Oakland University, they said they will take part in a state-wide effort to obtain legislation for an increase in state gasoline taxes and license plate fees and a new tax distribution formula.

Without a new tax package, Hill warned a group of 100 county and local officials, several major road construction projects needed in fast-growing Oakland county cannot get started before 1972.

Paul Van Roekel, chief engineer for the Oakland County Road Commission, said two-thirds of the roads in the county are inadequate for the loads they carry.

Van Roekel said it would cost $200 million to bring the roads up to modern standards.

Hill said road tax reform bills have failed to pass in the last two sessions of the legislature.

A new bill, he said, will be introduced during the current session of the legislature.

Both Hill and Hare said there is strong bi-partisan backing for the legislation this year.

They said it is endorsed by the trucking industry and other key highway interest groups.

The tax package calls for:

—A one-cent increase in the six cents a gallon gasoline tax.

—An increase of 20 cents per hundredweight in passenger car license plate fees, boosting them from 35 to 55 cents a hundredweight.

—A 10 percent increase in commercial vehicle weight taxes.

The revenue distribution formula would be changed by reducing the present county and state shares by one percent each to give cities and villages more money.

The current $280 million gas tax and license plate yield would be shared 20 percent by cities and villages, 34 percent by counties and 46 percent by the state.

Hill said the tax increase would add $70 million annually, based on current figures, but said this would still be short of Michigan highway needs.

Rep. Sharpe Introduces Bill To Eliminate Summons Offenders

State Representative Thomas G. Sharpe (R-Howell) has introduced a bill in the House at Lansing which would end a current traffic law procedure which permits thousands of alleged offenders to avoid court summonses by simply ignoring them.

"Under this plan an arresting officer would pick up the driver's license when he issues a notice for a moving violation," Representative Sharpe said. "This notice would serve as a temporary driver's license, valid only until the court date shown on the notice.

"Motorists who ignore court summonses would be driving without a license. Those who settle their cases would have their licenses returned by the court."

Representative Sharpe said that this plan has been in successful operation in Illinois for the past few years.

"During the past year more than 260,000 reports of failure to answer summonses were received by the Department of State," Representative Sharpe continued. "Under the point system the state cannot assess points until reports of convictions have been received. Some drivers have been avoiding the point system by failing to answer summonses.

"In this area of traffic control the offenses are mostly misdemeanors and the task of locating each negligent driver would be extremely costly and perhaps an impossibility.

"This new program would permit all agencies and the courts to keep their dockets up to date and would sharply reduce the workload in the State Department of filing and clearing more than a quarter of a million notices of failure to answer summonses each year."

Representative Sharpe added that enactment of his bill would close one of the gaps in traffic law enforcement by using temporary drivers' permits pending court appearances.

The Firebird, Pontiac Motor Division's new personal sports car, is shown above in the convertible model. The Firebird 400 features Pontiac's famed 400 cubic-inch engine, special hood with dual air scoops and wide oval red line tires. The Firebird is also available in a hardtop coupe and other engines offered include the overhead camshaft six-cylinder standard and the 326 cubic inch V-8 optional. The Firebird is named after a legendary Indian symbol which promised action, power, beauty and youth. It was first used in 1954 on General Motors' dramatic gas turbine powered car, Firebird I, shown in the background.

Rep. Esch Named To Education, Labor Committee

Second District Congressman Marvin L. Esch (R-Ann Arbor) today expressed satisfaction with his appointment by House leadership to the Education and Labor Committee.

"I am honored that I have been entrusted with the responsibilities of a position on this important committee," Esch said. "Certainly the Second District with its vast educational and industrial interests will benefit by this appointment."

House Republican Leader Gerald Ford, commenting on Esch's appointment today said, "We are indeed fortunate to have a man of Rep. Esch's background and qualifications to serve in this key position. Most of his life life has been devoted to education and labor and I know that in the years ahead he will make significant contributions to his district and the nation."

Congressman Esch, starting his first term in Wasington, is a former member of the Michigan House of Representatives where he served on the Labor Committee and had leadership responsibility on major labor legislation during the 1965-66 session. He has also worked as a consultant for both labor and management on industrial relation problems.

His educational background includes a PhD degree from the University of Michigan in speech and education and 14 years of college teaching at the University of Michigan and Wayne State University.

Recent Insurance Rate Increases Affect Everyone

Lansing — The recent car insurance rate increase approval bears "mute but expensive testimony that accidents affect us all—good drivers who are never involved, as well as those whose accident involvement is high."

Commenting on an announced increase of from $3 to $11 for liability coverage and a $3 to $10 increase in deductible collision coverage granted to insurers who do 20 percent of the state's auto insurance business, Secretary of State James M. Hare blamed Michigan's "increasing highway casualties as well as spiraling inflationary pressures."

He said he hoped this did not start another "round of general increases involving all car insurers in Michigan.

"Car insurance rates have risen dramatically in Michigan during the past two or three years," Hare asserted. "This really hurts low income families and many older persons on fixed low incomes, and the ultimate results will likely be more uninsured drivers in Michigan.

He predicted that claims against the Motor Vehicle Accident Claims Fund would rise as a result of the latest increase in rates.

"A few years ago, Michigan's insurance rates were unrealistically low," Hare said. "But we're fast catching up to rates throughout the country. I just read the 1966 annual roundup of Michigan's traffic toll issued by the State Police, and the statistics are appalling.

"When people say that they are unaffected by Michigan's high accident toll . . . they had better reappraise the situation by looking at their car insurance bill from year to year and their deflated pocketbooks."

Jackson Community College's 109-member faculty includes 95 who have a master's degree.

BUT HE DIDN'T KNOW: Only the face has been changed to protect the guilty. This well-known area resident posed with his snowmobile in the Waterloo Recreation Area before he discovered that it is illegal to operate the machines in state recreation areas, except where specific snowmobile trails have been laid out and none have been established in southern Michigan. As regional parks supervisor for the Conservation Department, Charles M. Leeson, said in response to questions about the rule: "These vehicles do considerable damage when they are permitted to operate promiscuously." He pointed out that snow cover in Southern Michigan is seldom sufficient to protect seedlings, plants and top soil from the vehicles. The headless rider was accompanied on his foray to view the winter beauty of the backwoods country by two other violators, who did not repent and are still being sought by conservation officers.

International Authority Will Edit Series of Environmental Articles

Ann Arbor — Dr. Robert N. Rickles, international expert on pollution control and author of seven books, is editor of a complete new series of environment studies to be produced by Ann Arbor Science Publishers, Inc.

Production of the series will begin later this year, with titles such as: Legal Aspects of Air Pollution, Water Re-Use, Sources and Kinds of Air and Water Pollution Control, Legal Aspects of Water Pollution, Computer Technology Water and Low-Flow Augmentation, according to Edward E. Lewis, vice-president and general manager of the publishing company, which is a Gelman Instrument Co. subsidiary.

"Before the vast needs of this area are filled, I expect we'll have about two dozen books, all valuable tools to the man on the firing line," Rickles states.

As pollution abatement director for the 100-plus world-wide plants of the Celanese Corporation, Dr. Rickles is responsible for development and implementation of the engineering and construction programs to meet Celanese responsibilities for waste treatment solutions and general pollution control. This includes disposal as well as treatment in chemical, pulp and paper, textile plastics, coatings, petrochemical and petroleum industries.

Understanding your HEALTH

By Albert E. Heustis, M.D. Director
Michigan Department of Public Health

What should you know about nutrition to be sure you are eating the right kind of nourishing foods that will provide you needed vitamins and minerals?

Well, the answer is really quite simple. In Michigan we are fortunate in having an abundance of a wide variety of foods. All you have to do is select the foods that will furnish you with the essentials you need—then you will be well nourished.

The following amounts of food eaten daily, plus other food eaten by most people to round out their meals, will provide you with all the essentials you need.

Milk—Children, three to four glasses; adults, two or more glasses; pregnant women, four or more glasses; nursing mothers, six or more blasses. If the milk isn't consumed by drinking equivalent amounts can be eaten in the form of cheese, ice cream and other milk products like puddings and soups.

Meat—fish and poultry—two or more servings of beef, veal, pork, lamb, poultry, fish and or eggs, with dry beans, dry peas, and nuts as alternates.

Vegetables and fruits—four or more servings, including citrus fruit or other fruit and vegetables, such as potatoes and tomatoes that supply vitamin C. A dark green or deep yellow vegetable should be eaten every day for vitamin A.

Breads and cereals—four or more servings of whole grain, enriched or restored products.

Now, this will give most everyone a balanced nutritious diet, the only exceptions are people with certain physical and emotional illnesses—but only a doctor can determine what these people need.

If you eat a balanced diet there is no point in purchasing any of the amazing array of pills, powders, syrups, lozenges and salves that are peddled as food supplements by commercial opportunists. At least, the person that buys these concoctions is getting enough nutrients from his regular diet; and at worst these products sometimes mask the symptoms of pernicious anemia or other diseases—thus delaying treatment by a physician.

General information about nutrition is easily obtained from your local health department or by writing to the Michigan Department of Public Health, Lansing, 48914. Information is also available from private physicians, hospital dietitians, county extension offices, and home economics departments of colleges and universities.

Major Appointments Announced by Hare

Lansing — Major appointments to two top jobs in the Michigan Department of State were made by Secretary of State James M. Hare.

Richard M. Cook, 37, East Lansing, was appointed deputy secretary of state. He has served as chief assistant the past two years.

To succeed Cook, Hare appointed James F. McClure, 44, Haslett, as chief assistant. McClure was director of the Michigan Migrant Opportunity, Inc., a state-wide economic opportunity project.

The federal government pays 90 percent of the cost of building Michigan's Interstate freeways and Michigan pays 10 perccent, but the state has the sole responsibility for maintaining these superhighways.

Pole Barn Collapses Under Snow

A pole barn roof collapsed at the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gross at 691 Parker Rd., due to the weight of the heavy snow some time Thursday night or early Friday morning.

Sixty-seven sheep were kept in this barn and when Gross investigated the pinned in animals, he found that one lamb's back had been broken and three sheep had broken legs.

The barn was built less than three years. Their insurance does not cover this type of loss.

New '67 Michigan Highway Maps Available Soon

Lansing — The 1967 Official Michigan Highway Map will be off the press soon, the State Highway Commission reported today. Commission Chairman Ardale W. Ferguson of Benton Harbor said the new map will be ready for distribution about mid-February.

The cover of this year's map honors the University of Michigan on its 150th anniversary and the Mackinac Bridge on its 10th anniversary.

Ferguson said hundreds of changes have been made on this year's map, many the result of new freeways and other highways that have been opened to traffic during the past year. Michigan now has nearly 1,300 miles of freeways.

Ferguson said one million copies of the 1967 map are being printed by Michigan Lithographing Co. of Grand Rapids.

Copies of the map are available free of cost by writing—on a postcard, please, to: Maps, State Highway Commission, Lansing, Mich. 48926.

Vacationers Urged To Check Driver License Expiration

Lansing — Michigan drivers planning winter vacations or moves to warm climes during the winter, and who have celebrated or are having birthdays while they are away, are urged to check their driver licenses to make sure they don't expire when they are gone.

Secretary of State James M. Hare said, "I would urge every Michigan citizen who plans to be out of Michigan and who has an expiring driver license to go to the nearest driver license exam bureau to get a renewal of the license before leaving.

"Licenses may be renewed any time 90 days prior to the date of expiration at local driver license bureaus," said Hare. He urged persons who were leaving the state for even longer periods to come in and discuss the situation with examining bureau managers.

"Many persons have found renewal of their licenses tricky, laborious, and rife with red-tape as well as very time consuming when they suddenly realized that they are out of Michigan and have an expired driver license," Hare said.

School Board Members Offer To Address Local Groups

By C. M. Warren
President, Board of Education

During recent weeks members of the school board have brought some items to your attention. In the first article I made a plea for more interest in school affairs. The attendance at school board meetings has not increased. I can only hope that some interest has been generated to make you talk with your friends on education problems in our district.

Mr. Taylor made you aware of the teacher situation regarding supply and salaries and Mr. Koenn and Mr. Irwin have brought out points regarding other aspects of the education program with special emphasis on the need for adequate financing through state fiscal reform and the continued willingness of the district taxpayers to support the quality of educational program that we have in the Chelsea schools.

Our administration and board committees are working at this time with the budget for next year. It is hoped that the operational millage election may be held during the first part of April this year. We want desperately to avoid the need of hiring, or rather trying to hire, a large number of teachers during the summer months when the supply and quality begin to dwindle. The millage issue cannot be determined as yet. It has not been decided how many mills nor for how long they should be levied.

This is an excellent time for all clubs, organizations and any interested group to ask any board member to come before their group for the purpose of giving out all information available. This seems to be the only way that large amounts of accuate information can be clearly understood. If your group has only a few minutes after a regular program, we would be happy for even that short a period.

When we come to this year's election, let's be prepared with accurate information on which to vote intelligently without so many emotional rumors being spread that it hurts everyone in the district.

Remember, the students in our schools are the product of our system. Therefore, they are the ones who are ultimately short-changed.

Dr. Edwin L. Novak, a Flint optometrist, is secretary of the State Board of Education.

113,000 IN ALL

Lansing — Michigan has 9,200 miles of highways on its state highway system and more than 104,000 miles of county roads and city streets throughout the state.

Final Section of I-94 Opened in Macomb County

Lansing — The State Highway Commission opened the final section of I-94 in Macomb county on Feb. 1.

State Highway Director Howard E. Hill said the final section —which extends from Eight Mile Rd. to 14 Mile Rd.—was opened to through traffic only until June when work will be completed on five interchanges.

Provisions will be made, however, for emergency vehicles to get on and off the freeway at 11 Mile Rd.

Completion of the seven-mile stretch of I-94 in Macomb county provides motorists with a continuous freeway from the Blue Water Bridge at Port Huron to New Buffalo on the Michigan-Indiana state line, a distance of 275 miles.

Opening of the freeway between Eight and 14 Mile Rd. will relieve rush-hour congestion on the outbound lanes of Detroit's Edsel Ford Freeway.
