The Chelsea club has in turn sponsored clubs in Dexter, 1936, Pinckney, 1964.

Guests from Kiwanis clubs of Ann Arbor, Dexter, Pinckney, Ann Arbor, and Onsted attended the birthday celebration.

Red Lamb Home After Receiving Kidney Transplant

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin "Red" Lamb returned last Thursday from Cleveland, where "Red" had a patient at the Cleveland Clinic since he underwent a kidney transplant operation late in December.

The family moved back into their home at 20533 Logan, Manchester, over the week-end. Daily visits of his condition must still be made and he will have to visit the Cleveland Clinic once a week to be examined. He is able to be active, however, and to drive a car.

"Red", who is 51, had been in Cleveland since both of his diseased kidneys were removed last year.

He had worked in the Chelsea workshop operated by his uncle, Brown, before he was hospitalized.

DR. KENNETH F. SEIFERTH is joining Dr. Wilfred C. Lane at the Lane Animal Hospital this month. Dr. Seiferth received his degree as a doctor of veterinary medicine (DVM) March 12 at Michigan State University. He graduated from Niles High school in 1959, earned a Bachelor of Science degree in poultry science in 1963, and a BS in veterinary science in 1965 from MSU. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Seiferth of Niles. His wife, Linda, is formerly of Owosso. She graduated from MSU in 1964 with a BS degree in medical technology. They are now residing at 140 Owens Ct.

New Sidewalk Job Started on North Main

Anyone walking down the east side of N. Main St. might think the public works crew has been on a treasure hunt with a phony map. Actually, they are finding what they've been looking for—trash, rusty old cans, pieces of scrap lumber and a fine assortment of just plain junk.

The holes lead to old storage bins built under the sidewalks to hold coal for the stores along Main St. When coal was no longer used for heating, the bins became catchalls.

Plans now are to clean them out and fill the old storage areas with sand to provide a foundation for new sidewalks to be constructed in the block between E. Middle St. and the railroad tracks, along the east side of the street.

The new sidewalk will be lower than the present one, and the high curb, which now serves only to remove paint from car doors, will be eliminated.

The village and the state are co-operating in the project. Chelsea will finance new sidewalks, while the state will pay the cost of new curb and gutter along this section since Main St. is also state highway M-52.

Construction of the new sidewalk is scheduled to get underway soon after the weather improves, and, once begun, the job should take only about a month to complete.

Village Clerk Addresses Local C. of C.

George Winans, village clerk, reviewed progress by the local government in the past year and discussed some plans for the future Tuesday noon at the monthly Chamber of Commerce meeting.

He spoke in place of Don Baldwin, village president, who was ill.

Some of the accomplishments made in the past year which were cited by Winans include passage of a peddlers and a five ordinance, adoption of a new wage and policy plan for village employees, development of plans requiring a special use permit for mobile home park construction, completion of the Sibley Rd. sewer lift station for Dana Corp. and a water-main extending to the Sibley Rd. corner, and purchase of an 80-acre landfill site for $25,000.

Actual expenditures for 1966 were $298,000.

Winans said that the tentative budget for the coming year, to be discussed within a few weeks at a public meeting, was approximately $294,000.

A program to plant 150 trees of three varieties each year will be started this summer, Winans said. He also mentioned development of plans for alternate parking on village streets, investigation of the need for a village manager and opposition to the current election rule requiring candidates to file as members of national parties as important aspects of planning for the next year.

Winans added that the planning commission, which has recently hired a professional consultant, should have an definite influence on village government decisions in the coming year.

CHELSEA HIGH PUBLICATIONS, "Accolade," an annual literary magazine, and "Bulldog Barks," the student newspaper, were honored recently by Columbia University Scholastic Press Association. "Accolade" won a first-place rating in the association's annual newspaper-magazine contest and the newspaper won third-place honors. Both publications are the work of the high school journalism class. Above, John McKeighan, photographer; Jan Koenigster; Bruce Spencer, editor of the "Bulldog Barks," and Tina Lindauer, editor of the "Accolade," look over some of the work to be done. Mrs. Carol Shook, advisor for both publications, is on the right. She joined the Chelsea High school faculty at the beginning of the current semester. "Bulldog Barks" is published every (well, almost every) two weeks and has a circulation of about 200. "Accolade" will appear for the second year late this spring. Tina was also editor of the magazine last year.

JIM WILLIAMS, Chelsea High school junior who was struck by a car on N. Main St., Feb. 10, is shown here with a television set purchased for him with contributions from Chelsea High students. The set was presented by Student Council representatives last week. Williams lost a leg through amputation soon after the accident, but is now reported to be in fair condition. Williams, 16, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Williams. His home is at 14034 N. Territorial Rd. He is in room 318 at St. Joseph-Mercy Hospital, Ann Arbor.

Easter Egg Hunt Slated Saturday

Jaycees and the Jaycee Auxiliary have teamed up with the Easter Bunny to sponsor the annual Easter Egg Hunt this Saturday, March 25.

The hunt this year is open to pre-schoolers, first, second and third graders. Several prizes will be awarded in each age category.

Hunters should meet in the high school parking lot at 11 a.m. The eggs will be hidden in the lawn area in back of the high school and a public address system will be used to co-ordinate the egg hunt.

More than 2,000 eggs have been dyed for this year's hunt. In case of bad weather, the egg search will be rescheduled for next Saturday morning, April 1.

Committees working on the project are headed by Silas Hopkins, Vern Otto, Mrs. Ed Akin and E. Bunny.

Churches Plan Special Services For Holy Week

Chelsea Congregations Uniting for Community Good Friday Service

Chelsea area churches have scheduled many special services to mark the events of Holy Week, culminating in Easter morning worship at all churches. Several sunrise services and breakfasts are planned for Easter. Although many churches will have independent Good Friday services, most Chelsea congregations will participate in a community service at First Methodist church at 1:30 p.m. Friday, sponsored by the Chelsea Ministers Fellowship.

The Rev. Warner H. Siebert of St. Paul's United Church of Christ will give the sermon; "The Sovereign Emblem" for the community Good Friday service. The Chelsea High School Choir, directed by Miss DiAnn L'Roy, will sing. Ushers for the service are members of the Kiwanis club. This is the only major co-operative service scheduled in the community for Holy Week.

First Methodist church will have a Maundy Thursday communion service, preceded by choir practice at 7:30 p.m. to night, and will host the community Good Friday service. A sunrise service at 7:30 a.m. Easter morning will be sponsored by the Methodist Youth Fellowship, and an Easter Sunday breakfast will follow at 8. The regular worship service is scheduled for 10 a.m. with a combined church school for grades K-6 at the same time in room 2 of the education unit.

First Congregational church, UCC, will also have a Maundy Thursday candlelight service, with communion at 8 p.m. this evening, and the congregation will participate in the community Good Friday service. Two identical Easter services at 9 and 11 a.m. with 2nd, 3rd, 4th and 5th graders. But Does His Church Still Live? as the sermon topic, are planned by the Rev. Robert A. J. Livingston.

St. Barnabas Episcopal church plans a Maundy Thursday service for 6:30 p.m. and a Good Friday service for 1 p.m. The Easter Sunday Holy Communion will be at 9:30. There will be no church school, although a nursery for young children will be available.

The Maundy Thursday service of Tenebrae, or extinguishing of lights, will be offered at St. Paul's United Church of Christ at 7:30 tonight, and a combined choir rehearsal will follow. The Rev. Siebert will give the sermon for the community Good Friday service. Easter Sunday at St. Paul's will begin at 6:30 a.m. with a sunrise service, followed at 7:30 by Easter breakfast, sponsored by St. Paul's Senior High Fellowship. Ken Blass is chairman of the breakfast project and Jess Meininger will be chief biscuit-baker. The Rev. Siebert has invited any interested person in the community to take part in the sunrise service and breakfast, and reservations for the breakfast may be made by calling the chairman or the church.

St. Paul's Communion worship service will be at 10:45 a.m. and the Sunday school meets at 9:30. The sermon topic for the 6:30 sunrise service is "The Morning that Changed the World," and the topic at 10:45 will be "The Easter-Side of the Cross."

Several special services will mark the first Easter for St. Mary's congregation in their new church building. The Maundy Thursday service will be at 8 p.m. and Good Friday Holy Communion is scheduled for 1 p.m. tomorrow. An Easter Vigil on Holy Saturday night will begin at 10:45 p.m. Masses on Easter Sunday will be offered at 6:30, 8, 10 and 11 a.m.

St. Thomas Evangelical Lutheran church in Freedom township plans a Maundy Thursday Communion service at 8 p.m. to night and a Good Friday service at 1 p.m. tomorrow. Second Showing Slated on Turner's Alaska Films

The Don Turner Alaska travel films, sponsored by Chelsea Kiwanis club, will be shown at 6 p.m. April 22 and May 6 in addition to the originally scheduled 8 p.m. showings on the same dates, officers of the club have announced.

They also noted that the additional showings will delay the 8 p.m. programs slightly and asked persons holding tickets for the later shows not to arrive before 8:15.

The 6 p.m. programs were added to the original schedule to meet overflow demand for tickets, officers said; after the 8 p.m. tickets were sold out in four days.

Soap Box Derby Time Approaching

Chelsea Jaycees this week reminded boys between the ages of 11 and 16 that now is the time to start preparing for the Soap Box Derby in Ann Arbor and the Cracker Box Derby in Chelsea this summer.

Saturday, March 25: a construction clinic will be held in Ann Arbor at 2:00 p.m. Any boys interested should contact Dick McUmber immediately; phone number 475-7394.

Nine Chelsea boys are already planning to enter the race this summer, including last year's winner of the Cracker Box Derby, Philip Musolf.

Other youths planning to enter this year's derby are Harold Allen, Jeff Daniels, Eugene Moore, Tim Lancaster, Michael Roskowsky, Terry Lee Roskowsky, Chris Tompkins, and Brad Tompkins. Jaycees are sponsoring the event.

Businesses Closing

All downtown Chelsea businesses will be closed tomorrow, Good Friday, from 12 to 3 in observance of the religious holiday.

MEDICAL CENTER PROGRESSES: It's not evident from the street, but a muddy walk through the woods to the site of the Chelsea Medical Center reveals one building taking its final form and two others that are as yet only foundations. The medical office building, above, is the most nearly finished. Wiring is now being installed and newer connections made. Main entrance to this building will be through a double door, far right, behind the pile of cement blocks draped in black. The two other buildings now being constructed are a dental office building, to the right of the medical offices, and a pharmacy, to the left. Completion of all three buildings is now scheduled for August, and doctors now in the Chelsea Medical Clinic on N. Main St. hope to move their offices to the new facility in that month.

OUTDOORS with GORDIE

by GORDON CHARLES

Wildlife authorities have argued for years that Michigan, the Wolverine State, has never been the home of the wolverine. They contend that the only wolverines ever found in Michigan were in the form of furs brought in by Canadian trappers.

The authorities are wrong on that one. It was Oct. 8, 1871, about a week before the famed Peshtigo fire in Wisconsin which burned 1,500 people, that a strange animal came splashing across the Menominee River into Michigan.

A 10-year-old lad, George Primo, was leaning on a stick as he stood on a knoll watching the parade of wildlife fleeing ahead of one of many uncontrolled fires in Wisconsin. Even at this early age he was familiar with most forms of wildlife but now he saw one he couldn't identify.

The peculiar animal came ashore fairly well spent, then ambled up behind a French trapper's shack where the family dog was sleeping. Immediately, the dog and the animal were battling and the trapper's wife saw the dog was getting far the worst of it.

She grabbed a broom and went to the dog's aid. At the same time, George came running with his stick to enter the fray and between them they finally killed the creature. Neither, however, was able to identify what it was they had killed.

A few days later George went back and the trapper, who had returned by then, told him the animal was a "carcajou." This still meant nothing to him till years later when George entered a Marquette barber shop and saw an identical animal mounted on a shelf. The barber told him it was a wolverine.

George Primo, a French trapper and hunter, related his story to Ford Kellum in 1945 when the two men were neighbors in the little northern Michigan town of Ansonia in Iosco county. A teen student of nature, Kellum at that time wrote up an elaborate account of Primo's story for his own files.

We first read this factual account when Kellum was district game manager at Traverse City. He was later transferred to Gaylord by the Conservation Department when the Traverse City and Baldwin district offices were wiped out by ill-advised reorganization efforts.

Kellum's files also contain one other account of a wolverine once living in Michigan. A Milwaukee newspaper, in its March 20, 1960 edition, reported the trapping of a strange animal caught by a German trapper "at Marquette, near Lake Superior."

After reading this account, Dr. William Burr, mammalogist at the University of Michigan, declared the animal, trapped Feb. 15, 1880, could have been nothing but a wolverine.

Thus it would appear that despite what other wildlife authorities might say, the wolverine did indeed once live in Michigan, the Wolverine State!

More Michigan Wheat Expected by 1980 From Fewer Acres

Michigan farmers will be producing 3.5 million bushels more wheat by 1980 on 236,000 fewer acres.

Michigan State University crop scientists point out that Michigan wheat farmers produced 27.6 million bushels of wheat in 1965 on 340,000 acres. By 1980, the researchers expect wheat acreage to drop to 600,000—but total production should be around 31.2 million bushels.

The reasons for the greater wheat production efficiency will be improved varieties, more efficient cultural practices and better methods of disease and insect control. These factors will send yields soaring from 33 bushels per acre in 1965 to about 52 bushels by 1980.

PARTY FUND FOR DOG

Muncie, Ind.—Three boys had worked for three weeks running errands, and collecting pop bottles to earn $4.50 for a party. Doyle Sylvester, 11, his brother, Danny, 10, and Charles King, 12, forgot their party plans when they found a mongrel dog with a broken leg. They gave a veterinarian their money to care for the dog and still owe $8.50.

Police Dept. Staff Again at Full Strength

The last police officer necessary to bring the Chelsea Police Department up to full strength of four men was hired this week. He is Jerry Stanifer, 22, a graduate of Sand Creek High school who has just completed four years of Air Force service, where he received training in the Air Police unit.

The police department had some help in recruiting Stanifer from the police officer hired two weeks ago, Chief Garney. The two new patrolmen know each other before coming to Chelsea—in fact, they graduated from high school in the same class at Sand Creek. Four years ago they entered the Air Force at the same time. Stanifer spent most of his time those four years in Texas and Alaska, while Garney was stationed in Europe. Stanifer's home town is Jasper.

He is interested in sports, especially football, and played tackle in high school. The police department has not had a full force of officers since September. In addition to Stanifer and Garney, the force now includes Patrolman James Valentine, hired last week, and Acting Police Chief Earl Willis, who has been with the department since 1959.

YOUR INCOME TAX

Editor's Note: This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the Detroit District Office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. Does the gas tax table in the 1966 instructions cover business driving as well as pleasure driving?

A. No. This table should only be used for non-business driving. If you are entitled to a deduction for business driving handle it separately. Check page 7 of the 1966 instructions for details.

Q. Are week-ends counted in the waiting period for a sick pay exclusion?

A. Yes, they are counted unless the illness began on a weekend. In that case, the waiting period begins on the next work day.

Q. If you have more than one casualty loss during the year can you combine the losses so—this you only have to apply the $100 limitation once?

A. No. The $100 limitation applies to each separate casualty. Q. Is there any limit on what you can claim under the minimum standard deduction?

A. Yes, the limit is $500 for married persons filing separately and $1,000 for single persons or married couples filing jointly.

Q. Am I taxed on what I received on the sale of a house?

A. Profits made on the sale of a residence are taxable. However, if another home is purchased within a certain period that costs the same or more than the adjusted sales price of the one you sold, payment of the tax may be postponed. There are also special rules on home sales by those 65 or older. Details on these provisions of the tax law are given in IRS Document No. 5617, "Selling Your Home." Send a postcard to your District Director for a free copy.

Q. Is a man entitled to claim something for child care expenses?

A. Yes, under certain circumstances, men as well as women are entitled to use this provision of the law.

Q. I got a refund on my state income tax last year. Do I have to declare that as income?

A. Yes. Refunds of state income tax deducted in a prior year are income. However, federal income tax refunds are not taxable but interest on them is.

Q. I just moved. Should I notify you of my new address since I'm expecting a refund?

A. Yes, it will avoid delays in receiving your refund.

Q. My wife worked a little last year. Since there was no withholding on her salary does that mean we don't have to pay tax on it?

A. No. Income is taxable whether or not it is subject to withholding.

Q. My 14-year-old boy earned several hundred dollars last year on his paper route. Does he have to report it or do I since he is my dependent?

A. If your son earned $600 or more last year, he is required to file a tax return. You should not report his earnings on your return even though he is your dependent. Q. I sold some family property I inherited. What do I use as the basis to determine whether I made any profit, the original cost of the property or its value when I inherited it?

A. Generally, the basis should be the fair market value of the property at the time you inherited it.

Q. My buddy says strike payments are taxable while unemployment payments aren't. Is that right?

A. Strike benefits are taxable.

unless they are clearly intended as a gift. Unemployment payments are not taxable.

Q. I don't work but do have my own savings account. Is it necessary for me to have a Social Security number?

A. The law requires you to furnish an account number to any payer who is required to report to IRS interest paid you. Check with any IRS or Social Security Office for an application form to obtain a number. If you are married and file a joint return, you must report any interest you earn on the account as income.

Q. Is a government disability pension taxable? I retired last year at age 57.

A. A disability pension received before normal retirement age may be treated as sick pay. In that case up to $100 a week may be excluded from income. When retirement age is reached, the pension will be treated as an annuity for tax purposes.

For easy accessibility, reach-in closets should have a full-front opening with sliding or folding doors, home management specialists at Michigan State University say.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

TRY FIRST

Did you really try? Ask yourself, when it is certain that you were unsuccessful, when it is apparent that things will not go your way—ask yourself if you really tried. Whatever the job you do, do it with real effort. Don't anticipate failure, you may quit too soon. You may sit down to rest when only a small "try" will enable you to salvage something, rather than nothing.

Try first, before you say the job can't be done. Try first, before you sit down to watch something go wrong—or to see a dream fall into pieces.

In most every game of life, they count the score. You win or you lose. But you get no measured satisfaction for honest effort. You feel better about the whole thing if you stick to the discipline of effort and got up to "try" before you sat down to accept defeat.

All set for the heat wave?

You aren't unless you get Gas air conditioning.

Even though you may doubt that summer will ever come, talk to one of our Gas air conditioning specialists and he'll convince you. And tell you that now's the time to plan for a long, cool summer with central Gas air conditioning. Why now? Because this is when the installers have more time. Later, when the rush is on, you may have to wait to enjoy all the good things about Gas air conditioning. The uniform temperatures, filtered, dehumidified air. Quiet operation. No major moving parts to wear out. Operating costs that are about half of electricity. And a special, low air conditioning rate for summer that applies to all the Gas you use. The upshot of it all? Gas air conditioning is the very best you can buy. And isn't that what you deserve? Only a small down payment needed now, with no more payments until May 1. And five years to pay. See your Gas heating and air conditioning contractor now. Or one of our air conditioning specialists will come to see you if you call us at 663-6631, Ext. 248.

MICHIGAN CONSOLIDATED GAS COMPANY

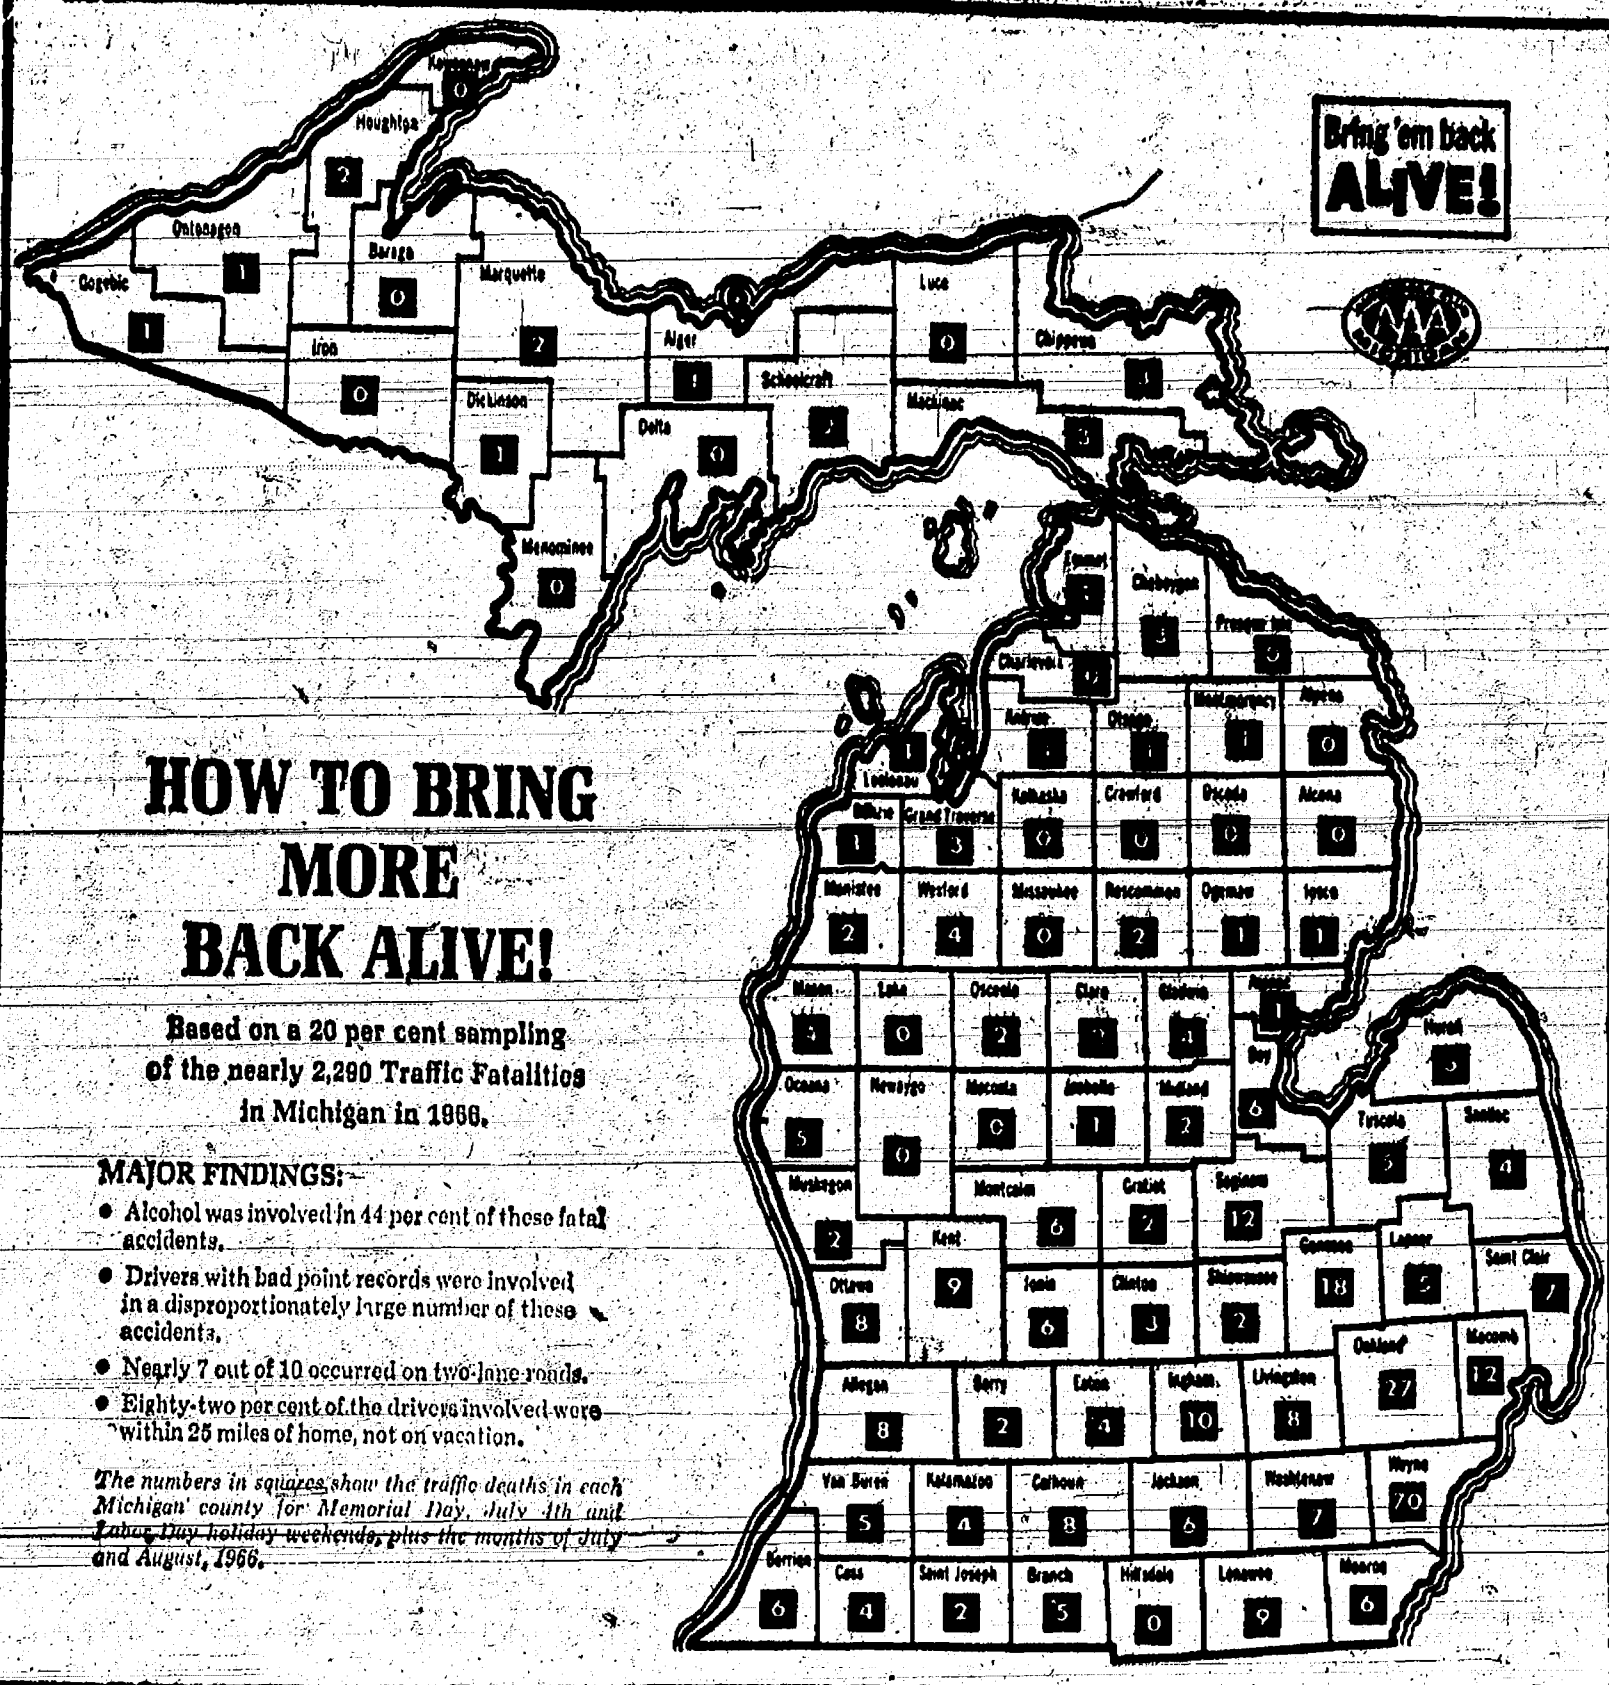

HOW TO BRING MORE BACK ALIVE!

Based on a 20 per cent sampling of the nearly 2,290 Traffic Fatalities in Michigan in 1966.

MAJOR FINDINGS:

- Alcohol was involved in 44 per cent of these fatal accidents.
- Drivers with bad point records were involved in a disproportionately large number of these accidents.
- Nearly 7 out of 10 occurred on two-lane roads.
- Eighty-two per cent of the drivers involved were within 25 miles of home, not on vacation.

The numbers in squares show the traffic deaths in each Michigan county for Memorial Day, July 4th and Labor Day, September 4th, 1966.

Driver Failure Listed as Primary Cause In 89% of Michigan Traffic Deaths

Almost half of all drivers involved in Michigan's 2,284 fatal traffic accidents in 1966 had been drinking, and were driving too fast on two-lane roads at night within 25 miles of home, in cars whose average age was 3.2 years, with no mechanical defects and no seat belts, Automobile Club of Michigan's General Manager Fred N. Rehm revealed today.

Driver failure was primary cause of 89 percent of the deaths. These facts emerge from a 61-page study, titled "How To Bring Move-Back Alive," which projects a representative 20 percent sample of Michigan's 1966 deaths. It will be published next week along with Auto Club's suggestions on what to do about the seven percent increase in traffic deaths last year. Triple A safety analysts visited scenes of 432 traffic deaths in July, August and over Memorial Day week-end and analyzed them plus drivers' records and what drivers had been doing immediately prior to the accidents.

Other facts the study reveals: The point system identifies bad drivers but does not protect the rest of society by taking them off the road. The 10 worst drivers involved in the 363 accidents studied had a lifetime average of 44 points each, 11 times more than the average driver gets in his lifetime. They had an average of eight speeding or reckless driving convictions.

Four percent of the drivers involved had a total of 35 suspensions, with one suspended eight times. But nearly 20 percent of drivers whose licenses are suspended or revoked get them back or have the suspensions modified by appeal boards or the courts. Any driver who has over 12 points in any two-year period is headed for a serious accident," Rehm said. "His chances of being involved in a fatal accident are almost eight times greater than the average driver. Secretary of State figures show the average driver has four points and one accident in his lifetime. Our investigators, who are not auto engineers, could find no evidence that vehicle defects played a significant role as accident but could not have caused it. Tire defects were found on six cars, along with one light and one brake defect.

"Old cars—the kind that look unsafe—standing still—were in a surprisingly small minority," Rehm said. "Average age of the cars was three years—and three months, with less than seven percent 10 years or older. Only 13 percent of the cars checked had seat belts, and in only two cases were they used.

Fifty-five percent of the deaths occurred in 12 counties: Wayne, Oakland, Genesee, Macomb, Saginaw, Ingham, Lapeer, Calhoun, Kent, Livingston, Ottawa and Allegan.

"This was in spite of the fact that our analysis occurred in July and August plus Memorial week-end, when counties north of a line from Bay City to Muskegon had their heaviest vacation traffic," Rehm said.

Even in Michigan's peak tourist months, the area within 25 miles of home is by far the most dangerous. Eighty-two percent of the drivers involved were within 25 miles of home, not on vacation. Only two percent were on vacation and more than 25 miles from home.

Some basic law violation was involved in 89 percent of fatalities, with speed too fast for conditions most common. Others included driving to left of center, failure to yield right-of-way, running traffic signals, disregarding stop signs and improper turns.

Many motorists misunderstand Michigan's basic "whatever is safe and proper" speed law, for many apparently presumed incorrectly that they could safely go the state-wide limit of 65 daytime, 55 at night, on any unposted two-lane county road. Nearly 70 percent of the fatalities occurred on two-lane roads, 41 percent of them at speeds too fast for conditions. Only 4,000 of 24,000 miles of two-lane county roads have been studied scientifically to determine their speed capabilities.

"This problem is especially acute in counties with freeways running through them, which indicates drivers tend to continue at high speeds when they leave freeways," Rehm said.

The speed problem is indicated by the fact that while total accidents decreased by 2.7 percent in 1966, deaths increased 7 percent and injuries increased 5.6 percent.

"We feel this is due to high speeds on two-lane roads," Rehm said.

Largest single accident type was single-car run off road accidents (34 percent), followed by two-car collisions (31 percent).

An even 20 percent of drivers at fault were between ages 16 and 20. Nearly 16 percent were between 16 and 18—far out of proportion to the 8.9 percent of drivers it is estimated they represent. In addition, 50 percent of teen-agers involved in fatalities had been drinking.

Most dangerous hour was 6 p.m. with 10 percent of the accidents. Next was 1 a.m. with nine percent, followed by 2 a.m. with 7 percent. Sunday was most dangerous day, followed by Saturday, Friday and Monday. Presumably these days experienced highest traffic volumes also.

At least half of the accident reports examined were incomplete to some degree. Many lacked any information on drinking condition of the driver.

"Our investigation in many cases showed that the driver had been drinking, while the reports did not show this," Rehm noted.

One out of 17 of the accidents involved motorized bikes or cycles, while they represent only one out of every 65 vehicles on Michigan roads. While the number of motorized cycles and bikes on Michigan roads is increasing at an unprecedented rate, the number of accidents and fatalities involving these vehicles is going up nearly 50 percent faster."

The vast majority of cycle drivers who died were under age 25. Average age was under 21, ranging from 14 to 31. Almost all occurred on week-ends.

"Driver failure, due to bad habits, attitudes, alcohol, ignorance, poor judgment, inexperience or a combination of these, underlies most fatal accidents," Rehm said. "The disproportionately large number of high point drivers involved is evidence of the role of habits and attitudes.

"Speed too fast for conditions, combined with the large number of single-car accidents, the extremely high percentage of fatalities on two-lane roads and the large number of teenage drivers, indicate poor judgment, ignorance of the basic speed law, driver fatigue, inattention, bad habits and attitudes and/or alcohol," Rehm said.

If you must travel by automobile along our modern highways, drive carefully.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

By LOUIS BURGHARDT

Centuries ago, some grief-stricken women walked toward a tomb with heavy hearts in what must have been the gray light of dawn. When the first streaks of the rising sun brightened the sky, they were unaware that this was a special dawn on a magnificent day. It turned out to be the most glorious day in the history of the Christian world.

Resurrection creeds differ in language but all Christian people believe in the Resurrection. As surely as sunrise follows sunset, Easter is the crowning evidence of resurrection. Without resurrection, religion of any type is a fallacy. Yet, terrified people continue to be confused about the meaning and purpose of the last and final heartbeat. This confusion is so needless when the evidence of Easter can and should give us confidence that the grave is not the end of life.

We should reckon with and remember these words at the dawn of every day: "I am the resurrection, and the life; he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live; and whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die." Without reckoning and remembering His words, the words "Happy Easter" mean nothing. In that spirit we say "Happy Easter" to you and truly hope the words mean something. BURGHARDT FUNERAL HOME, 214 E. Area Girl Scouts Entertain At Father-Daughter Night

Chelsea area Girl Scouts and Brownies entertained 150 of their fathers last Friday, March 17, at a Father-Daughter Night in the junior high school. Each troop presented a portion of the program and contributions to the Juliette Low World Friendship Fund were made.

The program was organized by the Chelsea Girl Scout Neighborhood Association. Denise West acted as mistress of ceremonies for the program. Cadette Troop 170 opened the evening with a flag ceremony, and a candle-lighting ceremony involving members of all troops followed with Brownies giving the Brownie Promise and Girl Scouts the Girl Scout Promise. A girl from each troop lit a candle and recited one of the 10 Girl Scout laws.

The history and purpose of the Juliette Low World Friendship Fund were explained by Barbara Bury. As she called troop numbers, contributions from scouts and leaders were placed in the Juliette Low Fund chest.

Skills and presentations by each of the troops entertained scouts, leaders and fathers.

The three Brownie troops sang "Brownie Smile Song," "Boonie Boonie" and "America."

Junior Troop 93 completed a part of their "sonnet" song by singing several Rodgers & Hammerstein songs.

Cadette Troop 98, with International Friendship as their theme, presented a history of scouting in eight countries: India, Israel, Mexico, Holland, Spain, Japan, Brazil and Scotland, as eight girls dressed in costumes of those countries displayed the national flags.

Junior Troop 58 entertained with a folk song and dance which they had learned from their junior scouting book.

Junior Troop 47 sang "The Growing-up Tree" and "The Great Lakes Region Song" while grouped in a campfire scene.

"The Hello Song" and a skit about the Brownie computer were presented by Brownie Troop 145. Mrs. Carmer Slocum, chairman of the program, was introduced by the mistress of ceremonies.

Mrs. Slocum presented Mrs. Wilbur Worden, retiring neighborhood association chairman, with an adult recognition form, honoring her 10 years of girl scouting. Mrs. Worden has been both a leader and trainer and has been neighborhood chairman for six years, the maximum number of years one person may hold this office. Along with her recognition form, Mrs. Worden received a gift from all adult Girl Scouts of the neighborhood.

Mrs. Slocum also introduced Mrs. Paul Mann, the new neighborhood chairman. She had previously been neighborhood secretary. The meeting ended as all scouts and leaders came to the front of the room and sang taps as the flag was retired. Refreshments were served to the girls and their fathers after the program.

DE GAULLE, U.S. & WAR
Paris — President De Gaulle has renewed his calls for self-determination for the Vietnamese people, neutralization of Southeast Asia and reconstruction of war-torn areas. He called the war "odious" and "detestable" and blames it on American intervention.

FIGHT AGAINST CRIME
A national campaign against a crime syndicate has been proposed by a presidential commission. The commission identified the crime syndicate in question as the Cosa Nostra.

DADDIES' NIGHT at Chelsea Co-op Nursery gave the fathers a chance to see what their toddlers have been up to in the little red schoolhouse. Here a group of young artists demonstrates just how to go about a painting project. John Dunn, in a plaid paint-catcher, was so busy he couldn't turn around to have his picture taken. His father, Jack Dunn, is on his left. The other members of the group are, from left, Paul Hoffmeyer and his father, James; Bob Updegraff and his daughter, Karen; Mrs. Raymond (Jane) Schairer, the teacher; Charles Cattell and his daughter, Tracy.

Co-op Nursery Entertains Fathers

Simulated sessions of the Chelsea Co-op Nursery were held four evenings last week in order to accommodate fathers from each class. Beginning with free play, the children then demonstrated project activities as the fathers watched. After clean-up time each father shared a rug with his child for a short rest period.

Juice and crackers were served to all at the tables. Many fathers reported slight discomfort as they attempted to place themselves on chairs half as large as they Teacher Mrs. Raymond Schairer (Miss Jane, as she is known to the toddlers) told an amusing story to the group before sending the sleepy children (and daddies) on their way.

Co-op mothers are busy planning for this year's annual fashion show and noon luncheon slated for Saturday, April 22, at Chelsea High school. Centered around the theme, "Around the World in 80 Minutes," the show will feature fashions from Dancer's as well as from many foreign countries.

Understanding your HEALTH

By Albert E. Heustis, M.D. Director
Michigan Department of Public Health

Each year, during the harvest season, agricultural workers come into Michigan to pick crops. Representing some 100,000 strong, these folks are essential to Michigan's agriculture, and it would be virtually impossible to harvest many crops without their help.

Your state health department was charged last year by the Michigan legislature to administer a fair and equitable Agricultural Labor Camp Licensing Law. What this law means is that health workers have been inspecting labor camps all over the state to make sure their facilities are up to par.

The main areas of concern to our inspectors have been proper water supply, sewage disposal, garbage and refuse disposal, safety hazards, the hazards and finally, the quality of the housing. The happy to say that much progress has been made in our first year of licensing camps of workers, there's still much work to do, and we are definitely on the right road to helping growers to improve and maintain healthful and sanitary conditions.

Last year health workers inspected and licensed some 200 camps. Now, these camps are that were in substantial compliance with the law, in other words, they were in good enough shape that the workers would co-operate and make minor corrections. Of the total number inspected, 180 facilities were issued provisional licenses that required the camp operator to agree to certain improvements within a given length of time.

There were also 44 temporary licenses granted that required the owner to make the needed corrections within 90 days.

Adding the health department in the administration of the law is a committee made up of growers, processors, church groups, social workers, public health engineers and former agricultural workers. The advisory committee, evenly divided between industry and non-industry representatives, provides helpful recommendations for our program staff.

If in the future any changes in the licensing program are necessary, you may rest assured they will be initiated. I'd also like to emphasize that improvements that have been made so far in existing labor camps have been designed to upgrade the living conditions for agricultural workers. Remember, these workers know no political or racial prejudice, and the possibility of their growth everywhere in Michigan—including the camps.

ACCIDENTS
Of all causes of death among adolescents and young adults, accidents take by far the greatest toll. In 1964, accidents were responsible for 62 per cent of the deaths among males aged 15-24. In the same age group, for both sexes, this was seven times the loss of life suffered by cancer, next in importance as a cause of death at these ages.

Clothing Prices Expected To Jump In Coming Year

Price for clothes will probably go up this year, according to a clothing specialist at Michigan State University.

Bernatta Kahabka, specialist with MSU's Co-operative Extension Service, says high consumer and military demand and increasing costs of operation for manufacturers may mean higher prices.

"Shoe prices are expected to go up in the spring, although probably not as much as last spring, and not the same amount on all items," she said. "Prices of some suits for men are expected to increase this spring by as much as $5. By next fall the increases should be fairly widespread at a maximum five percent increase."

The increased retail prices reflect higher wholesale prices of fabrics and fibers. Cotton prices went up five percent; spun rayon three percent and wool one percent.

At the same time, filament synthetic yarns and fibers went down slightly.

The price of Dacron fibers commonly used in blends with cotton was reduced 14 percent and the price of type 420 nylon, also used in cotton blends, was reduced 11 percent.

Miss Kahabka noted that these price of type 420 nylon, also used in blends with cotton, were planning to increase their production capacity and that demand for the fibers was growing.

The specialist noted that production of nylon should increase more in the coming year than at any time in its 28-year history. She cited the number of production companies entering the field and the increased output of existing companies.

Some manufacturers expect nylon prices to drop as much as 10 percent this year, and continue to drop, since patents on early fibers are running out.

TIPS for your TOP from

TODDY and FRAN

Women take several different views of a trip to the hairdresser. Some see it as a duty, brushing your teeth. Others see it as an escape from a world of youngsters for a couple of hours, a well-earned chance for a quiet time to skim magazines. Others see it as a chance each week or so to see how attractive you unfold like a flower from a bud—as they say in colors, styles. No matter how you feel about it, we think it can be one of the pleasantest interludes on your busy schedule once you make a habit to come in to see us.

RISK ON HOMBING

In a news conference broadcast during the four-day truce in Vietnam, Secretary of State Dean Rusk placed a pessimistic note on prospects for any immediate peace talks. He reported a large number of bomb-carrying supplies to the forces in South Vietnam.

UNINVITED GUESTS

Los Angeles — Mrs. Sandra Ivey was surprised to say the least when a baboon walked into her kitchen. She called an animal shelter and the senior kennelman said they would hold it and if no one claimed it, then the 28-inch-tall baboon would go to a zoo.

Interview with Film Director Huston Highlights TV Show

East Lansing — N.E.T. devotes a one-hour special to "The Life and Times of John Huston, Director," Monday, March 27, at 7:30 p.m. on WMSB (Channel 10), Michigan State University television.

Huston, the famous film director who is one of the most colorful figures in the world of motion pictures, has written or directed 24 films in the past 25 years, including "Asphalt Jungle," "The Treasure of Sierra Madre" and "The Bible," in which Huston, himself, appears as Noah.

The production follows Huston about Europe and England, showing the Huston magic at work on and off the set, highlighting his relationship with his cast and fellow film-makers and doing one of his increasingly frequent stunts as an actor.

At his castle in Ireland, Huston talks at length about his past, his successes and failures, his life in general, his motives, attitudes and future plans.

VIETNAM— "N.E.T. Journal" studies the reaction of an average American town to the war in Vietnam on "Homefront 1967," Sunday, March 26, at 4:30 p.m. and Wednesday, March 29, at 12 noon.

Interviews with residents of Charlottesville, Va., a representative American community of 30,000 people, crystallize the divergent attitudes of American citizens toward government policy in the Vietnam crisis.

SCIENCE— The life and work of Nobel Laureate and co-discoverer of penicillin, Dr. Ernst Chain, are explored when "Spectrum" presents "The Structure of Life," Tuesday, March 28, at 7 p.m. and Wednesday, March 29, at 11:30 a.m.

Dr. Chain talks about his early work on penicillin, about his present research and about the artistic aspects of creative science.

"Spectrum" cameras travel to London's Imperial College to look at some of the remarkable work being conducted there under Dr. Chain's direction. His researchers conduct investigations on a variety of phenomena, from the effects of obesity and darkness on rats to the cellular-biology microscopic organisms.

INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT— Internationally renowned urban planner and architect Constantinos A. Doxiadis visits "Harvest," Friday, March 31, at 7 p.m. to talk about his current project, a research program for the development of the Detroit urban area. He is working on the project in collaboration with Wayne State University and the Detroit Edison Company.

Since 1951, Doxiadis has worked in 32 countries on five continents for governments, international agencies and philanthropic enterprises.

According to Doxiadis, successful planning for the cities of tomorrow involves the recognition of two opposing forces at work in today's world: the necessity for growth and change, and the necessity to build a balanced, static community made up of small, permanent shells for man.

MUSIC— Pianist Andrew Wolf of Philadelphia is guest performer on "Young American Musicians," Sunday, March 26, at 1:30 p.m. Wolf is studying with Rudolph Serkin at the Curtis Institute of Music and has given numerous recitals and performances with orchestras in the East.

He performs the Prelude and Fugue No. 3 in C Sharp Major by Bach; Ballade No. 1 in G Minor, Opus 25, by Chopin, and Pour le Piano by Claude Debussy.

DRAFT— "Assignment 10" surveys recent controversies arising over the draft process on "The Draft Is A Going Concern," Monday, March 27, at 8:30 p.m. and Tuesday, March 28, at 12:30 p.m.

Frank Martin, Director of MSU Data Processing and member of a local draft board, lays a groundwork of facts about the draft and specifies major alternatives or modifications to the present draft system.

You can get into lots of trouble sometimes by repeating what you heard somebody say.

Senator Philip A. Hart's

REPORT from WASHINGTON

★ The Consular Treaty

The Consular Treaty — which could not go into effect without Senate ratification — is one of those international housekeeping documents that would be dismissed as routine if the other signers were not Russia.

It merely sets conditions under which Russia could open one consulate in this country for every consulate we are allowed to open in Russia.

The treaty, however, seems to be generating the same jittery nervousness among some citizens and Senators that accompanied every proposed agreement that we may have with the Soviet Union.

The feeling seems to be that by even talking to Russians we are exposing ourselves to some sinister plot that we cannot at the moment fathom or understand.

My mail runs about 30 to one against the treaty and much of it assumes the same tone used by the opponents of the Test Ban Treaty of 1964: The Russians are untrustworthy, and sending our government to deal with them is like sending Phyllis Annie to deal with Fu Manchu—the innocent are bound to be somehow tricked and corrupted.

First of all, there seems to be an abundance of misinformation on the function of a consulate. Opponents tend to picture them as the guardians of travelers in trouble.

Well, a consulate in any nation has a number of functions. Certainly one important one is to help tourists out of whatever difficulties they may find themselves in.

They also may spot trade opportunities, expedite export agreements, provide speakers for local groups and promote cultural exchanges.

But the fact is that consulates also provide important listening posts. Our consuls overseas are expected to report political trends, public opinion trends, commercial activities and industrial innovations.

British, French and German consulates in Detroit, for example, have the assignment of watching the auto industry and reporting any trends or model changes that may affect the auto export business in the home country.

Foreign offices in London and Paris are doubtless interested in reports on American grass roots feeling about Vietnam and other international issues. And our consulates gather the same information in England and France.

Now, assuming that consulates do serve as listening posts, let's pose the question this way:

If a closed society exchanges listening posts with an open society, which nation gets the better deal?

By allowing Russia a consulate in Chicago, we are in effect letting the Russians into a fish bowl for a closer look at what they could just as well have seen from the outside.

But an American consul in, say, Kharkov, would be a torch-bearer leading into a previously forbidden world.

Would a Russian consulate here serve as a center for military espionage? Well, there are already some 700 accredited Soviet diplomats in this country and it does not seem that the addition of 10 or 15 more in any consulate would strain the effectiveness of the FBI.

This is not a large step toward better relations with Russia but any step we make in that direction is a significant one.

President Kennedy once pointed out that if the world is ever thrown into nuclear holocaust, it will be because one major power misjudged the resolve and goals of the other.

Putting Russians in a position better to gauge the grass roots feeling in this country does not scare me a bit—as long as their reports are accurate. And I don't feel that a consulate or two will pose any serious additional threat to national security.

Senate confirmation of the treaty requires a two-thirds vote. Perhaps the issue will be resolved by the time you receive this. At any rate, you should know that my vote will be "yes."

DEBT RISE APPROVED

Senate Democrats voted to raise the temporary national debt ceiling to $330,000,000. This move will allow the Government to meet its March obligations. The present debt ceiling is $285,000,000.

MSU Tests
Show Best
Yield Hybrids

It costs little or no more money to get extra bushels from high yielding corn hybrids in Michigan. Trials in 11 different locations in the state by Michigan State University have pinpointed the top producing varieties for each area.

Robert McCrory, Washtenaw county extension, agricultural agent, this week released the information on the 252 different hybrids tested by the Department of Crop Science of MSU. The publication, "Corn Hybrids Compared for 1967" (Extension Bulletin 481), is now available at the County Extension office and gives performance ratings for the past three years.

"Highest yielding corn hybrids in the 1966 Michigan Corn Performance Trials produced 28 bushels more per acre than the average and 52 bushels more than the lowest yielding varieties," said Dr. Elmer C. Rossman, corn variety breeder at MSU.

His report shows the driest hybrids at harvest contained 7 percent less moisture than the average and 13 percent less moisture than the wettest hybrids.

It also showed that it was not necessary to grow a late-maturing hybrid to obtain high yields. "The best early-maturing hybrids will yield as much or more corn than late-maturing hybrids. Planting early-maturing hybrids is one form of frost protection."

Earlier harvests of corn, when weather is more favorable and harvest losses are lower, is another advantage in favor of early hybrids," Rossman explained.

Single-cross hybrids in the following list are indicated by (2x) and three-way hybrids by (3x) following the hybrid number. All other are double-cross. Lists in each test area are in order of increasing moisture content at harvest. Only hybrids significantly better than average yield in the 1966 trials are listed here for counties in areas near Washtenaw county.

Monroe County (81 hybrids tested)—Pioneer 3775 (2x), Michigan 500-2X (2x), United Hagie 1X16 (2x), DeKalb XL 45 (2x), Northrup King PX 610 (3x), Northrup King PX 610 (3x), Bayless SX 415 (2x), Northrup King PX 610 (3x), DeKalb 441A, and DeKalb XL 342 (3x).

Branch County (90) hybrids tested)—Michigan 500-2X (2x), Cobwell 112 SX (2x), Todd M55 (2x), Northrup King PX 610 (3x), Wyckoff W10A, Bayless SX 415 (2x), Pioneer 354A, Haas SX 626 (2x), Northrup King PX 610 (3x), DeKalb 400 (2x), Northrup King PX 610 (3x), DeKalb 441A, and DeKalb XL 342 (3x).

Kalamazoo County (64 hybrids tested)—Funk Bros. G17A, Cobwell 112 SX (2x), Michigan 402 (2x), DeKalb XL 325 (3x), Michigan 425, DeKalb XL 35 (2x), Michigan 425, 2X (2x), Michigan Exp. 63-981 (3x), Taylor Evans Bonumaker (2x), Tomco Genetic Giant 440, P.A.G. SX 66 (2x) and Bayless SX 415 (2x).

The United States Auto Club will officiate the Mobil Economy Run for the 12th straight year this April 4-6, when the event takes a Los Angeles-Detroit course.

Rep. Marvin Esch
Opens Office
In Ann Arbor

U. S. Representative Marvin L. Esch (R-Ann Arbor) has announced the opening of the Second Congressional District Office at 200 E. Huron in Ann Arbor.

Each explained that the purpose of the district office was to serve constituents having difficulties with the Federal government.

To disseminate information on governmental programs and services and generally to act as a liaison between the district and his Washington office. The Congressman will also utilize the office as a base of operations during trips back to the district and when Congress is not in session.

Staffing the office is Mrs. Lucrecia Miller, a former secretary in the University of Michigan School of Medicine. Persons wishing to contact the office should call her at 665-0618 or drop by in person.

It is hoped all people in the 2nd District will take advantage of this new facility," Esch said. "It is completely a service-oriented operation and not concerned with partisan politics in any way."

An auxiliary office in Monroe is expected to be opened later in the month. The exact location and phone number will be announced at that time.

Farm Equipment
Now Required
To Show Emblem

The red, triangular reflective emblem to designate slow-moving vehicles should be attached on all tractors and farm machinery used on highways effective March 10.

Richard Pfister, Michigan State University agricultural engineer, says the new Michigan law requiring such emblems became effective on that date.

He points to these rules: "The emblem must be displayed, both day and night, when traveling on public roads."

It should be located on the rear of the equipment, centered if possible. The standard emblem should be mounted at a height of 3 to 5 feet to keep in the headlight beam range.

The emblem is only a supplement to adequate night lighting and side reflector requirements for slow-moving vehicles.

Use of the emblem is prohibited on trucks, cars, or any vehicle with a maximum speed potential of more than 25 miles per hour. The emblems may be obtained from farm equipment dealers, and in many counties 4-H club members and vocational agricultural students have made them available to farmers.

Pfister said between 1963 and 1965 nearly 1,000 accidents involving farm tractors or equipment on public highways were reported in Michigan. In two out of three, the slow vehicle was hit from the rear. Nine of 10 took place in daylight hours and on open highways with good road, weather, and visibility conditions. The motorist frequently failed to recognize a slow-moving vehicle in time to avoid a collision.

Pfister thinks the SMV emblem's unique color and shape will communicate "danger," as does a railroad "crossbuck."

ON HALF-DOLLARS

Half-dollars are again circulating according to the Treasury Department. The current production is at a record 24 million 50-cent pieces each month. Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Robert A. Wallace said a shortage was expected for the rest of the year.

★ Chelsea's Ed Arnett Questions
Psychological Aptitudes of Sportsmen

Ed Arnett of Chelsea presents an interesting subject for serious study—the different psychological aptitudes called for by various kinds of sports.

A column in The Chelsea Standard on the intellectual requirements of ice-fishing prompted a letter from Arnett in which he said:

"You know, of course, that Chelsea is well surrounded with lakes, so fishing through the ice is not exactly unheard of in these parts."

"On days when co-operation on the fish side is low (this has been heard of) some might call it a test of endurance or possibly character."

"With such a source of data so near one of our major universities, someone should have thought of the ice fisherman as a worthy subject for psychological study, which could be of great help to the experts charged with recreational planning."

"There must be some way the personality test could be applied to the backpack camping, my favorite outdoor activity. I would like to see testing applied to the popularization of hiking vacations."

Sincere there seems to be no literature available on the psychology of backpack camping, we can only indulge in random speculation about the personality best suited to this pastime.

Backpacking can be listed as a solo sport. True, Boy Scouts Campfire Girls and others have been known to make packing trips in groups, yet the basic attraction of packing is a sense of self-sufficiency. The lone packer can tell himself that he is pitting his mind and body against the wild, with no aid except from the producers and retailers of such items as tent, sleeping bag, cooking utensils, compact foods, insect repellent, compass, camera and various other items of equipment.

The ultimate in backpacking is for someone who does not require gun, fishing gear or even a camera to derive enjoyment from the outdoors. This means that a typical backpacking vacationer would be beyond the first surging eagerness of youth. Sadly enough, it is when a man's legs begin to give out that he becomes fully aware of nature's wonders, the joys of solitary contemplation.

For the gregarious extrovert, duck shooting is recommended. Duck hunters customarily shoot in pairs. In the inevitable interludes between shots they tell stories. Boat-fishing, like duck hunting, is for companionable people, although it can be, and is, carried on by solitary.

Fly-fishing is for introverts. Deer-hunting is carried on by a large variety of psychological types. The true still-hunter, deer-stalker, deer-tracker, has a hard time getting away from poker-players and highball enthusiasts. A serious deer hunter wants to be in bed at an early hour, up and out an hour before dawn.

Most deer killed in Michigan are taken by sitters—hunters who can sit and sit, watching a runway, enduring cold and boredom, yet continuously alert. Although no data is available, it is fair to suppose that successful ice fishermen has the makings of a successful deer-sitter.

The small game hunter, seeking pheasant, grouse, quail, cottontail, should be, first of all, a devoted appreciator of dogs. Dog work is the best part of upland game hunting in America. A fair set of legs is helpful. Certainly capable legs are needed for trailing after hounds, hunting bear, bobcat, fox, although dog appreciation is of course the prime requisite. It has been reported that some of the most dedicated coon-hunters are men who can miss a night's sleep without ill effects and who are highly tolerant of distilled beverages.

Outdoor Michigan has something for every personality type, even for the sportsman burdened with affluence, old age, failing eyesight and flat feet. He can enjoy wonderful shooting, highly productive fly-fishing at any one of some 60 licensed preserves in our state.

When you try to get rid of a disease merely by treating the obvious symptoms, the disease can get worse and the patient may die.

Forghage

HYBRID FORAGE SORGHUM gives what corn gives

even when corn won't

Sound corn? You bet it is. Forghage is the best, most corn-like silage crop you can plant.

Yields up to 30 tons per acre with 3,000 to 5,000 pounds of grain. Carries 7-8% protein, is ready to harvest in 80-100 days, and has 15-17% sugar for extra palatability.

Great for marginal corn land, too! Forghage produces even when moisture is low, corn planting is delayed, or when corn stunt has taken its toll.

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

It has been said that the true measure of a society is how well it treats its elderly citizens.

In this standard, we are proud to be proud of our state. Through a series of programs, Michigan has made a name for itself as one of the leading states in the nation in assistance to the elderly. We have gone a long way in making it possible for those who have helped build the state in the past to continue to live in dignity.

For example, we have removed from the old age assistance program the medical assistance provisions which had reduced the elderly to a level of poverty. The same manner, the limit on market value of an elderly person's home was eliminated from the old age assistance program.

In addition, the Commission on Aging has helped 37 communities establish councils on aging and provided technical assistance to communities regarding housing for the elderly. The Commission has funded 17 projects aimed to provide services to the elderly.

Two years ago, we obtained passage of legislation which provided tax exemptions on the homes of the elderly who are living on low-level incomes.

Last year, Michigan became one of the first states to take advantage of federal legislation which permitted establishment of state child care programs.

Unfortunately, there has been a great deal of misunderstanding about the services available under the program.

These most in need—old age assistance recipients, the blind, the aged, and dependent children—are having their medical needs met by the program. Direct payments are made for hospitalization, nursing home care, drugs and services prescribed by a doctor.

As a result, about one quarter of a million Michigan citizens who most in need are no longer receiving assistance payments for medical services or for needed services, such as housing, food and utilities.

This is an enriched program. But it is not all we would like to do.

Careless Errors Delaying Income Tax Processing

Detroit — Income tax refunds of 1964 taxpayers in Michigan and four other states in the IRS Central Region are being held up because Form 1040 or 1040A sent in does not contain an accurate Social Security Number.

A. M. Stoepfer, IRS District Director for Michigan, said that in some cases IRS will be able to verify the correct number from Social Security Administration records, but this will cause a delay in processing the refund.

In other cases, refunds will be delayed until the taxpayer has been contacted by IRS and has sent in an accurate Social Security number. He said, "Correct numbers are necessary since this year all individual tax returns filed by Michigan taxpayers are being processed by computers at the IRS Service Center in Cincinnati."

Stoepfer reported that to date other refunds are being held up because of a variety of other types of errors or failures to comply with the instructions mailed to each taxpayer with his tax forms.

Tax returns filed up to last week included 721 without the signatures of husband or wife or both. These will have to be sent back to the taxpayers before refunds can be processed.

Returns with errors in arithmetic which are causing delays in sending refunds so far total $2,000 and returns where taxpayers have used the wrong tax table total $7,749.

As of last week, Stoepfer said, the IRS Service Center in Cincinnati had processed 144,819 refunds of Michigan taxpayers for a total of $26,300,000.

You can help yourself to safety by obeying traffic regulations without waiting for a police officer to catch you.

Area CB Radio Operators Meet At Manchester

The all-purpose room of the Nellie Ackerson school Sunday, March 12 was the site of the first Manchester meeting of the Chelsea Citizen's Band Emergency Service.

This group is composed of Citizen's Band Radio operators from an area of about 20 miles' radius, centered more or less on the community of Chelsea. Citizen's Band radio is noted for its utility and extreme versatility in short range (up to 20 miles) communications.

It is of interest that in the Palm Sunday tornadoes of last year, much initial local information was obtained entirely by Citizen's Band radio operators manning mobile radios and "walkie-talkies," relaying information to base stations, and thence to Civil Defense and other emergency services.

In the event of disaster, this Chelsea Citizen's Band Emergency Service has communication capabilities with similar groups in Ann Arbor, Jackson, Lansing, State Police, Civil Defense, and Sheriff's Departments.

Emergency aid to the site of highway disasters is also facilitated with this radio service, and many members possess special skills and equipment which are available to hasten a community's recovery from disaster.

Members of the group are at the disposal of civil defense and police units in time of emergency to aid in saturating a stricken area with emergency communications.

At the meeting Sunday at Nellie Ackerson school, means of improving the group's function were discussed and implemented, and a film from the Civil Defense office on the Cuban Missile Crisis was viewed.

Computers are playing a bigger part in Michigan's agriculture each year.

Enrollment in TelFarm, Michigan State University's electronic farm record keeping system, is expected to hit a record high of over 1,400. Enrollment in 1964 was 1,130; in 1965, 1,250; and in 1966, 1,370.

Dr. Warren Vincent, MSU agricultural economist, developed the basic program for TelFarm in 1953. This method of providing farm management information—the use of high speed machines to process mail-in farm records—was the first of its kind in the world.

Today, computers have replaced most of the manual tabulation necessary during the early days. MSU scientists are now working on an automated forward planning and consulting service for farmers which will allow them to make detailed farm management decisions for the future.

ELDERLY & WELFARE
As Social Security coverage is extended, fewer elderly persons are dependent on welfare. Wilbur J. Cohen, Undersecretary of Health, Education and Welfare, said the number of elderly persons receiving assistance is down nearly one million from 1950.

Mill Creek Research Council Annual Meet Slated Tuesday

Mill Creek Research Council and other interested citizens will have an opportunity to learn the current status of the Mill Creek reservoir project and the Huron River studies when Col. Edward C. Bruce, district engineer, Detroit District, Army Corps of Engineers, speaks at the second annual meeting of the council. The meeting will be Tuesday, March 28, 8 p.m. at Lima Community Hall.

Col. Bruce graduated from Oklahoma State University with a degree in electrical engineering. He later obtained a master's degree in civil engineering from Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College. He also earned an MA degree in international relations. Col. Bruce is also a graduate of the Army War College, a senior service training agency.

His 25 years of service with the corps has included tours of duty in Walla Walla, Wash., Mobile, Ala., and Detroit, where he has been for the past two and one-half years. He also spent nine years of foreign service in North Africa, Italy, South France, Bolivia, Korea and the Panama Canal Zone.

The Corps of Engineers Detroit District includes most of Michigan, excluding the western half of the Upper Peninsula. Also included in the Detroit District are the St. Joseph and Maumee River Basins in Indiana and Ohio.

Col. Bruce has presented the following view of the responsibilities of the Corps of Engineers:

"Our primary responsibilities are in areas of navigation and flood control, but we have certain comprehensive studies also assigned. One of these is the Grand River Basin study and the other is a study of Southeastern Michigan. In each of these we're working with other federal, state, and local agencies which have a primary interest in water resources. In these last two studies we're trying to identify water resource problems and needs both for the present and future, and to identify a plan for optimum development of the resources to meet total needs."

Officers of the Mill Creek Research Council have urged both members of the council and other interested persons to attend the annual meeting.

In addition to Col. Bruce's status report, a brief business meeting will be held and a 12-member board of directors will be elected to serve for the coming year.

Treasurer William Chandler will be present to collect 1967-68 annual dues of $10 or $12 for new members.

DRAFT PROPOSALS

A committee appointed by the House Armed Services Committee urged draft boards to induct more 19- and 20-year olds. The panel also recommended deferring college students until they received their undergraduate degree or reached age 24, whichever came first.

Citizen's Advisory Committee Studies Vocational Education Needs of Schools

Ninety-two citizens from Livingston and Washtenaw counties have been meeting regularly since February to study local school needs for courses which will prepare high school students for jobs when they graduate. The major goal of their study is to recommend ways in which school districts can combine resources to organize and finance vocational education programs which would be available to all students.

This study and other such studies being conducted in Michigan and other states have resulted from a recognition that most high schools are presently equipped to do a much better job of educating the students who plan to attend college than those who will go to work after high school. Since 36 percent of our students leave high school during their high school days, 45 percent never enroll in education beyond high school, and 40 percent leave college before completion, it would seem that approximately three-fourths of those students who enter high school wind up seeking jobs immediately or soon after leaving high school.

While approximately one-fifth of all youth under 21 are unemployed, employers are finding it increasingly difficult to find workers qualified to fill existing jobs. The obvious solution seems to be increased job-training opportunities at the high school level. However, before such training can be provided many questions must be answered, such as: what are the jobs for which employers feel high school students can be adequately trained; would high school students take advantage of job training if it were made available to them; what existing high school shops, classrooms, and teachers might be better utilized for job training; how could new job training programs be organized and financed to provide the best opportunities for students and at the same time make the best use of available tax dollars; and a host of other such questions.

The 92-member Citizens Advisory Committee, at the request of local schools, is attempting to find answers to these questions. Since the middle of February, 12 meetings of subcommittees of 15 to 25 members each, have been held. Plans are being made to survey high school 10th and 12th grade students early in May to determine their interest in job-training classes. A subcommittee composed of local employers and school representatives is developing methods of determining local employment needs. Guest speakers are being invited to discuss programs which they have established as a solution to the high school job-training problem.

Every effort will be made to keep the public informed of the activities of this study. Questions may be directed to the study director, Earl Shaffer, by dialing 482-5122.

What American car is roomiest? Guess again

According to the 1967 Automotive News Roominess Index Analysis, Chevrolet is the roomiest car in America. Roomier, even, than those big expensive luxury cars—one of which placed second. Chevrolet's Index of 291.3 is the sum of its seven basic interior dimensions: head room front and rear, leg room front and rear, shoulder room front and rear, front seat height. Basic Canoeing Course Slated
By Red Cross

A basic canoeing course for residents of Washtenaw county will be offered through the cooperative efforts of the Washtenaw County Chapter of the American Red Cross, Wirth's Canoe Livery and Senior Girl Scout Mariner Troop 1.

The first session will be held at the Ann Arbor High school swimming pool on Saturday, April 8 from 1 to 4 P.M. and the remaining five sessions will be held at Wirth's Canoe Livery, at the foot of Long Shore Dr., from 9 a.m. to noon beginning April 22.

No upper age limit has been set but persons taking the course must be at least in the 7th grade. As with other Red Cross classes there will be no charge.

People enrolling should come to the first session at Ann Arbor High pool equipped with bathing suits, caps for women, and extra clothes that may be used in the water for practicing canoe rescue techniques.

Volunteer Red Cross instructors who will be working with the program are: Lois Bates, co-ordinator and instructors, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Harris, Mildred Denekke, Nancy Nevins and Mrs. John R. Dice.

Senior Girl Scout Mariner Troop 1 will also provide Canoe Aide Scouts to assist in the course.

Registration for the canoe class may be made by calling the Red Cross Operations Center, 662-5546. Enrollment is limited.

Higher Per Capita Income Seen by 1980

If you're an average Michigan resident, you'll have about $800 more disposable income in 1980 than you have today.

Michigan State University scientists point out that the national economy is expected to reach the trillion dollar level by 1980, enough to provide the population with disposable incomes of $3,000 per capita. This is about $800 greater than in 1962-63.

The Michigan economy is expected to grow at least as rapidly as the national economy, with incomes and wage rates remaining above the U.S. average.

In 1965, say the MSU researchers, wage rates in Michigan were the highest in the nation.

Track Team Fights Snow, Cold Weather

Chelsea High school's track team has been warming up for the spring season with a battle against the weather.

Practice started officially March 8, but many boys had been working out on their own before that date. About 35 track team candidates have been working, both indoors and out, in an early season conditioning program designed to build legs and wind for the rigors of the track.

"I am optimistic about the coming season," Coach Bert Kruse says. "Last year was a rebuilding year with many underclassmen in the different events. Although there are only nine seniors on the squad this year, the team should have more experience."

Leading lettermen will be Steve Slane in the dashes, Paul Lancaster in hurdles, Ken Blaess in the 440 distance run, Gary Larson in the 880 run, Bob Dove in the mile and Larry Porash in the two mile, a new event this year.

Field events will be paced by Larry Gaken, shot put, and Larry Blackwell, and John Bergman, pole vault.

Other members of the team returning from last year and expected to help considerably are Gary Ellenwood, 880; John Freeman and Lance Burghardt, high jump; Doug Weatherwax, Mike Punderburgh and Alan Boyce, pole vault; Jim Boylan and Howard McCall, shot put; Tom Smith, Tom McGaw and Keith Kusterer, 440.

Newcomers to the squad are sophomores Mike Schmidt and freshman Rich Slane, who set six junior high records last spring.

The first two meets of the season for the Chelsea team will be indoor affairs. March 24 the Huron Relays at Eastern Michigan University's track will kick off the track events and Michigan State Relays at East Lansing follow March 31.

The outdoor season will get underway with a dual meet at Tecumseh, April 7.

The first home meet will be against conference foe Dundee, Thursday, April 13. This meet could well be an early showdown.

Dundee rates as a pre-season choice for the Southeastern Conference.

"However, Coach Kruse claims, 'if we come around as expected, we should give them a good run for the title.'"

Bob Purrel, assistant varsity coach, will also handle the junior high track squad.

All home meets begin at 4 p.m.

Michigan Farm Crop Yields Increase Sharply

Agricultural research and better practices by farmers have sent Michigan crop yields soaring in the past 25 years.

Michigan State University scientists report that the state's corn and sugar beet yields have more than doubled since 1940. Wheat yields have increased by more than 50 percent.

Improved varieties, the wide use of pesticides, improved cultural practices and a greatly expanded use of commercial fertilizers are given credit for the yield increases.

Just A Minute...

By the Rev. James A. Craig

Christmas the theme is the birth of the "Prince of Peace." It is the coming into the world of a new hope, a new reason for being, a new possibility for each of us.

Good Friday is our response to broken hopes, lost reasons, frustrated possibilities. It scores the mood that blames God for failure and refuses to accept some accountability for itself.

Easter is the refusal of God to be humbled by the way things are. The empty grave is a challenge to us to face our failure to work for what we want in the world. After all these years we are still at war with one another, individually and collectively.

Easter the Prince of Peace once more bursts into our comfortable, complaining world. The stone rolled aside defeats our most strenuous efforts to seal away that force in the life of a man that makes us see ourselves for the evaders we are.

Easter is a gauntlet thrown down by God daring us to match our pious words with worthwhile action.

The thunderous stillness of an empty grave deafens us with its mute testimony to the fact of the ultimate fact that we shall have to put up or shut up.

So far we have failed to put up. So far we have been unwilling to shut up.

Easter faces us, once more. What shall we say to it this time?

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

"I am not, I repeat, not a dog hater! We have a house dog that is such a pet he thinks he is a people."

I could become a people hater if I tried hard enough!

I have a complaint I would like to air to other "so-called" dog lovers before spring gets here and we open the windows. These people who have dogs that are tied up in back of the house, or that are in a pen are inhuman! The poor creatures get watered and fed (if they are lucky) and occasionally one or the other member of the family opens a window and says, "shut-up."

This constant barking all day is enough to drive a person to a nervous breakdown. Believe me, I know, in our neighborhood we have several such dogs. The barking is bad enough in the daytime, but then the barking from 6 p.m. to whenever their vocal cords give out is nerve racking.

One person never likes to file a complaint on another with the police department, especially if they like living in the vicinity.

But these dog owners should stop and take account of the treatment of their (so-called) pets. I can fully appreciate a barking dog in a pen or tied up, however, most of these dogs wouldn't know a squirrel from an elephant.

So, you people who have such animals, please, isn't there something that can be done about this constant barking? You people that work all day and your dog is barking you just don't know what you are missing! Or do you?

A "Perturbed Neighbor."
