Washington Report
by Congressman
MARVIN L. ESCH

The vote in the House of Representatives on the tax reform bill was a major victory for the common man. This was the most significant tax reform measure since the beginning of the income tax. At long last, action is being taken to relieve the middle class working American from some of his heavy burden of income taxation. For far too long the middle class American has borne more than his share of the nation's tax load.

The tax reform bill will significantly alter the tax pattern in the nation. An estimated 5 percent reduction in taxes for middle class Americans is expected, while low income working people will receive even greater reductions. Hundreds of loopholes through which the rich have been able to escape paying their share of the taxes will be closed.

The most important sections of the tax bill for the middle class American are the provisions relating to maximum standard deductions. By raising the maximum standard deduction to $2,000 (rather than $1,000 in the present law) not only will taxes be lowered, but the filing of tax returns for millions of Americans will be greatly simplified. The deduction will also be increased to $2,500 for persons earning more than $20,000 and $3,000 for those earning more than $30,000.

Other and retired citizens will benefit not only from the above deductions but from changes in the minimum standard deduction—better known as the low income allowance. Many retired citizens who are finding it difficult to make ends meet will have no federal taxes at all. Also benefiting from this change in the law will be college students working their way through school, as proposed legislation has introduced earlier this year. Widows and widowers will be aided by changes in the tax law for "single" persons which will recognize that household expenses for one are almost as much as those for a married couple. Single persons over 65 will receive the same benefit.

Other tax changes include reduction of the gift and inheritance tax allowances, taxation of the

Essay Contest For Children Slated at Fair

Visitors visiting the Michigan State Fair on Children's Day, Friday, Aug. 26, will get a chance not only to win U. S. Savings Bonds but to tell fair officials just what they learned at the exposition.

Cliff Keene, State Fair general manager, said an essay contest will be conducted with a $50 bond as a first prize, and other prizes for second and third places in each of six age groups.

The children will write on the theme "What I Learned at the Michigan State Fair." In addition, the youngsters will be asked to check boxes indicating what exhibits they visited and which ones they liked best.

Entries must be delivered to the State Fair administration building by 10 p.m. Friday, Aug. 26, and marked on or before that date.

Winners will be announced within 10 days after the close of the State Fair which runs from Friday, Aug. 22 through Monday, Sept. 4.

"Our purpose is two-fold," said Keene. "We want to encourage the children to see more of their fair and to do more while visiting it. In addition, we hope to get from these essays and questionnaires some ideas on how we can make next year's fair even more attractive to the younger set."

Rules and entry blanks will be handed out to all children entering the State Fair gates on Children's Day, Tuesday, Aug. 26.

MARINE SONAR
The porpoise, or dolphin, uses a form of sonar. Scientists believe the mammal sends out clicking sounds by forcing air from the two lungs near the blowholes. From echoes, he judges the direction, distance, and size of objects around him.

Keep butter clean, cold, and covered in its original protective wrapping to guard its delicate flavor and texture.

★ MICHIGAN MIRROR ★

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Reason Is There
Anyone wondering why Michigan property owners have been complaining about their property taxes? The questions are answered by figures which came out of the state Treasurer's office.

The records show property tax payments for 1960 reached the $7.5 billion mark this year. That's a jump of 14.46 percent over last year alone.

And the department says property tax collections have risen 99 percent over the past 10 years. The figures also show schools, which are receiving more and more state money every year, also taking a bigger bite of the property tax revenues.

In 1967, 56.34 percent of all property tax collections in the state went for schools. That figure jumped to 58.23 percent last year and to 60.94 percent this year. The percentage of the tax received by cities, counties, townships and villages was down slightly at the same time.

Soaring property taxes received a great deal of attention in the hearings held earlier this year by the Governor's Commission on Educational Reform.

Witness after witness said the state must come up with a different source for school finances. The source most often mentioned was the state income tax.

The Governor himself has said the state role in education "must be stronger and much more vital" than it is now. This presumably would include more state support for schools than ever before.

Michigan already leads most states in the percentage of school money which comes from the state.

A recent survey by the National Education Association showed that only 52.4 percent of school funding in Michigan comes from local sources. This compares with 69.2 percent in Wisconsin, 64.7 percent in Illinois and 64.9 percent in Ohio.

Suspensions Soar
The Secretary of State's office is suspending drivers licenses at a rate nearly double that of a year ago.

Secretary of State James M. Hare says the hike is the result of a new law which requires suspensions of drivers licenses belonging to persons who do not take care of tickets they receive for driving offenses.

In all of 1968, Hare's office suspended or revoked a total of 60,520 drivers licenses for various periods of time. By the end of the first six months of this year, his office already had lifted 51,000 licenses for varying times.

Hare said the new law is responsible for 17,000 of the suspensions and added, "The pace is picking up."

Youths Are High Risk
That much-maligned group in the driving public, the 25 and under category, has received another damaging report from the Michigan State Police.

Drivers under 25 make up 21 percent of the driving public. Yet last year, police records show they accounted for 38 percent of all drivers involved in accidents. The same group accounted for 38 percent of all drivers involved in fatal crashes.

Records also show youthful drivers are the most frequent victims of traffic death. Of the 2,388 persons who died on Michigan streets and highways last year, 770 of them were in the 15-24 age group.

"Although they may seem to be unduly criticized, the available facts establish young drivers under 25 years of age as an extraordinary high risk group," said State Police Director Fredrick E. Davids.

"If the only assets required for safe driving were skills, reflexes and automotive knowledge, the average young driver could teach his elders," Davids said. "Instead, young drivers seem to provide proof that one's life-style and driving style are inseparable. Since youth is a time of impulse, testing and competition, that stage of driving and its consequences are increasingly tragic on both the state and national scale."

Among other facts included in the report was the statistic that 81 percent of all bicycle deaths occur to children under the age of 15.

Carolina Copies
It took 48 years to accomplish it, but North Carolina has finally imposed a cigarette tax, making it the 50th state to do so.

Iowa was the first state to impose such a tax back in 1921. The other states have fallen in line one by one until North Carolina was the lone holdout.

But rising expenses finally forced the lawmakers there to turn

School Millage Approved By 49-Vote Margin

DEXTER—Registered voters of the Dexter Community Schools went to the polls to cast a total of 894 ballots in Monday's special school election at Copeland school, as the 12.5 operational mills request was authorized to be levied for a one-year period.

A margin of 49 votes was listed after the election board counted ballots, with 440 yes and 391 no votes. Three ballots were spoiled. Nineteen absentee ballots were issued, but three of these did not reach Dexter in time for Monday's election.

Fair Plans...

of this year's fair, MC for the evening will be CKLW's Good Guy Hal Martin.

Committeemen have expressed the hope that as many floats as possible will be on display at the fairgrounds so that prize-winning floats may be designated and fair visitors will be able to photograph them.

In addition to the floats, the Chelsea Fire Department, sponsors of the parade, is expecting a variety of marching groups including the Chelsea High School Marching Band, and the Waterloo Band. Also expected are antique cars, clowns, horseback riding groups, and farm machinery. Riding in the parade will be sheriffs and auxiliary possees, along with local officials.

The Fair Department Committee under the general chairmanship of Fire Chief James Gaken, with the help of committeemen Mack Packard and Paul Harker, is making all the arrangements for the parade.

The following committees have been set up, and their members may be contacted for parade entries:

Marching Groups and Bands: Art Paul, Merle Leach, and Phil Roy.

Floats: Dave Longworth and Ray Johnson.

Antique Cars and Trucks: Charles Hafner, Laverne Hafner, and Larry Koch.

Horses: Paul Bollinger, Ishmael Pickelsimer, and Mary Schiller.

Farm Machinery: Robert Dorner, Don Alexander, and Dave Elkins.

The parade route is set to begin at the old junior high school, down East St. to Middle St. From there they will march to Main St., to Old US-12, and then to the fairgrounds.

The Community Fair Restaurant, under the supervision of Mrs. Geraldine Klink, will be open from 7 a.m. to midnight every day of the fair serving home-cooked meals. Ladies who wish to contribute time or food are more than welcome, according to Mrs. Klink. Profits from the restaurant go into the Community Fair treasury.

CHS Evaluation Report...

use of the room by athletics—a major problem, it is recommended that a rearrangement of the room be made to include elimination of the basket system. Small lockers accompanied by one large locker for each six small ones could be installed and would eliminate the loss of uniform problem.

3. Class size directs the program toward more mass-type activities. This affects one of the aims of the program which is to teach some individual career activities. It is recommended that a reduction in size of classes be considered in light of the individual sports.

4. It is recommended that construction of a swimming pool be considered. In a community such as Chelsea, so close to many lakes, water safety and aquatic activities are prominent aspects of life. Programs in these areas are very adaptable to school programs and afford additional activities for students.

5. It is recommended that class size not be composed of boys of every grade level. The physical and physiological differences of grades precludes physical competition and participation between them.

6. It is recommended that class size not be composed of girls of every grade level. The physical and physiological differences of girls in the 9th and 12th grades are too great and preclude participation between them.

SOCIAL STUDIES

William Hamilton

Michigan Center High School

Chelsea High school provides a broad offering of subjects in the social studies area. Presently these offerings are found in the upper three grades. These courses are appropriate and relevant to the philosophy of Chelsea High School.

The findings of the self-evaluation are a valid picture of the social studies curriculum in Chelsea High School. The ratings are accurate.

The sequence of course offerings is meaningful, and interest in the social studies program is evident in terms of the large number of students participating. Five hundred and fifty-four students of the total school population of 718 are involved in the seven course offerings during this school year.

Co-ordination of the social studies area is effective and presently handled in an informal manner by the four instructors. All instructors are involved in the total program and have taken into consideration problems (such as overlapping of instruction) which could be a problem in the 12th grade level, especially.

Teaching materials are available in suitable quantity for the teachers' needs. In this respect, work in the A-V area is most noteworthy. The school has a great deal to offer to the social studies teachers, as well as to the entire school faculty.

Methods (Mr. Larson's work with slow learners), classroom procedures, use of the library, experimentation (Mr. Bechtelheimer's speech U. S. Government class), new classes (Mr. Wade's Current Problems class), are relevant and stimulating to the social studies program.

Class enrollments indicate a student interest in the social studies program of Chelsea High School. Consideration of the curriculum recommendations made during this evaluation should be a part of future curriculum planning. Since social studies classes tend to be bunched on the 11th and 12th grade levels, the recommendation of geography on perhaps the 9th grade level might be explained.

Facilities interest in a new approach relative to U.S. History (three semesters of concentration with junior high school) and possible use of teachers with special competence to present six weeks in-depth classes should be given a thorough evaluation by the social studies teachers and the school.

Difficulties are obvious, but teacher enthusiasm should be encouraged to build the best program for the community.

A more formal organization should be developed for the social studies department as the school grows and informal means of co-ordination become less effective.

SPECIAL EDUCATION

James Champion

Principal, Charlotte High School

This department is very well equipped. The room is large, with audio-visual storage, and adequate classroom space. I hope that some industrial arts opportunities are available for the boys.

Two periods of about 30 minutes were spent in observation. The students were participating in discussions, very interested and alert for opportunities to respond. The teacher is obviously interested in art (her major), and some interesting student work is on display.

Patricia Hall of Manchester won champion honors in the western equitation division.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

By LOUIS BURGHARDT

"Safety First" is common sense. But the slogan is ignored at times. Dictates of good judgment are disregarded. Surely there would be fewer fires, fewer accidents, less grief, if the thought of safety motivated us to do certain things ahead of time. For example, a simple, easy, safety precaution we can see needed in many places is seldom thought about. In fact, we believe this easy-to-do thing has rarely, if ever, been publicized before.

Firemen, policemen, ambulance crews, cab drivers or other persons who may have occasion to be called to your home in an emergency will agree this easy-to-do thing is a sound, sensible act. All of them would appreciate your help in making it easier for them to help you if and when you may need help—quickly.

This "help" is in having your house number in an easy to see spot! Have you looked at it lately, yourself? Can it be clearly and instantly seen, day or night? Is it covered with an obstruction—or paint? If repaid, relocation or replacement is needed, would it not be a good idea to take care of it—today—and play "safe"? ... BURGHARDT FUNERAL HOME, 214 E. Middle St., Chelsea, Mich. Phone GR 5-4147.

MODELING GRADUATE: Vickie Wilkerson, 611 N. Main St., graduated from the Joan Jewett Career School in East Lansing and is now signed with the school's modeling agency.

CHS Senior Student Completes Modeling Course

A Chelsea High school senior has graduated from the Joan Jewett Career School with a major in professional modeling.

Vickie Wilkerson, daughter of Kenneth Wilkerson, 611 N. Main, and Mrs. Norma Wilkerson of Spring Lake, graduated and is now signed with the Joan Jewett Modeling Agency in East Lansing.

Vickie attended the six-week course in East Lansing, and lived in a home with seven other girls on Haslett St. The girls were all attending courses and supervisors from the career school lived with them.

Vickie's course consisted of professional training in all types of modeling, from basic ideas to concentrated study in the fields of fashion, photographic, trade, and show modeling.

The Joan Jewett Career School is a private girls' school located by the Michigan Board of Education and offers four major fields of study in addition to their modeling course. These courses consist of Airline and Travel training, Business and Secretarial, Finishing, and Dance.

Vickie plans to finish high school and try to do some modeling during her final year at Chelsea High.

Couple Arrested for Passing 'No Account' Checks in Area

5 cents to $1 Store, where she bought three bathing suits, and four sweat shirts; Chelsea Drugs, and Gateway Sport Centre.

When renting the cottage, Mrs. Dahlberg asked the owner if she would "like a check now or cash in the morning." She also told the owner of the cottage that she and her husband and six children were moving to Detroit from Wisconsin, and that their furniture had not yet arrived.

Both have admitted that they knew that they did not have an account with the Michigan Bank, but deny receiving a letter from the bank notifying them of the closing of their account.

Chief Meranuck said that the couple has been arrested several times in the past for various reasons.

He also said that they are both very presentable, and could see how the merchants would have cashed checks for them.

"She is a pretty, typical, mother-type woman," he said.

Chief Meranuck and Patrolman Schneider would like to join Shoe-maker in alerting the merchants of the area against cashing checks that they may be unsure of.

The Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department states that each year merchants of the United States are swindled out of more than $1 billion by means of fraudulent checks, and that Michigan's share of this amount is more than $40 million annually, or better than $3 million a month.

They suggest treating the cashing of a check for a stranger with the same amount of caution that would be used in making an unsecured loan to him.

Identification should be requested if the passer is not personally known, and notification of the identification should be on the back of the check.

The department has published 20 rules to follow when cashing a check. They are follows:

1. Be sure to ask for identification.

2. Make a note of the identification offered on the back of the check. Write the operator's and-or the car-license-number on the back of the check along with the state in which it was issued. Do not accept Social Security cards as total identification.

3. Do not cash checks that show signs of erasure or alterations.

4. Be sure that the item you cash is a check and not an advertising device or record voucher.

5. Do not cash checks for juveniles.

6. Make sure that the amounts shown on the check are the same.

7. Be wary of personal checks bearing unusually high sequence numbers.

8. Beware of checks far in excess of the amount of purchase.

9. Do not accept postdated or "stale" checks. Do not accept checks that the passer asks be held until a later date for cashing as he does not have sufficient funds presently on deposit.

10. Authenticity is not guaranteed because a check is stamped "Certified."

11. Because payroll checks on true or fictitious companies are frequently printed by the professional passer, treat all payroll checks with the same caution that you do with personal checks.

12. Have the check endorsed in your presence. Even if the check has already been endorsed, insist that it be endorsed again.

13. Do not let the passer hurry you.

14. If the maker's signature is not legible, ask for the spelling and print it below his name.

15. The person accepting the check should mark it with his initials so that it and the passer can later be identified in court if necessary.

16. Report all check law violations to your local law enforcement agency.

17. Follow through with prosecution on all check cases after a complaint has been signed. Don't be "bought" off.

18. Protect your blank checks, cancelled checks, and bank statements from theft. Review your cancelled checks for unauthorized signatures or altered amounts.

19. Write your own checks in such a manner that they cannot be altered.

20. KNOW YOUR ENDORSER. If all these points are followed, and a check cashed does bounce, the information will be on the back of the check, where it will do the most good and where there is no chance of it becoming lost.

Chelsea police have distributed recording blanks to merchants in the area with reminders and information points to be filled in, as a means of insuring the best possible law enforcement.

Michigan check laws are adequate. However, co-operation of the merchant receiving the bad check is a requisite if any headway is to be made in stamping out this type of crime. Merchants should not hesitate to prosecute the passers of bogus checks.

Negotiations With Teachers Moving Slowly

"We have made some movement on non-economic issues and other items," he said. "We haven't talked about economic issues yet. It's hard to get together with the other side sometimes."

He added that it's difficult to determine now if school will open Sept. 8. Meanwhile the members of the CEA are being notified of proceedings through a newsletter and special meetings.

Lawrence Lonsway, CEA president, said that of 27 items in the contract, only the school calendar, establishing the start and end of the school year, and a teacher evaluation program have been agreed upon.

"Through negotiations, the CEA is seeking to improve the districts' curriculum committee," Lonsway said.

"Such improvements," he continued, "would require more active participation by the teachers and recognize the complete teachers in the best interest of the school district."

The CEA is still seeking a year contract instead of the year contract that expired in

Freedom To Market

Those who urge a boycott of California table grapes are running head-on into an effective boycott led by irate consumers who make it plain that they are not going to buy what they wish to buy if it is threatened.

Thank you for stocking California table grapes and for supporting your customer's rights to what they wish in your store. We continue to shop here and hope our neighbors to do so. We are printing on small signs at checkout counters by the numbers of housewives. Intimidation of customers and harassment of store employees must not be tolerated," the committee says.

The bottom is the signature of the "Freedom To Market Committee." Michigan, more than two-thirds of its population, is organized into as many as 100 such committees now organizing the nation to confront the labor unions and others who oppose a boycott of the California fruit. All have one thing in common—consumer anger at attempts to use shoppers and their purchasing power to bring about an organization of farm workers against the worker's wishes. This is the actual issue behind the boycott—an issue largely hidden by emotion—charge and counter-charge. Labor has long had a reputation on the nation's farm workers as an organization target, but workers have spurned union efforts to organize them. With a handful of farm workers signed after four years of intensive organizational effort, the union has now focused its attention on growers who hire farm workers. If growers can be forced to sign closed-shop contracts, then workers automatically become members whether they wish or not—the organizers reason. A nationwide boycott is an attempt to apply pressure on the growers by ruining his market unless he signs a union contract. The consumer is caught in this double play. That's the "Freedom To Market Committee." They see their work as to expose the grape boycott for what it is, and to get the right of all consumers to buy what they wish, when they wish, without intimidation.

"I REMEMBER"

BY THE OLD TIMER

When Sue Clark, Montebello, Cal., remembers the one-room schoolhouse of West Virginia, she says she has a complete set of grades one to eight. The school was located near the center of the school district. Those who were nearest would go home for lunch, the rest carried tin pails, and with sandwiches, homemade pies, and an apple. Drinking water was from a cool which sat upon a shelf in one corner and was filled with a bucket of water from the nearest spring. Going for this water was eagerly sought for, since it meant a short reprieve from the heat and sometimes the lady of the house would have a cookie or apple for the lucky twosome carrying the pail. Teachers used the privilege as an aid to discipline. Transgressions were denied their turn to the spring.

Lolich Named American Legion Baseball Grad of the Year

Detroit—Mickey Lolich, who recently was named American Legion Baseball Graduate of the Year for 1968, has the widest background in amateur baseball among the Tigers.

Lolich joined superstars Ted Williams, Stan Musial and Carl Yastrzemski in winning the coveted American Legion trophy. But the Tiger southpaw also gained a league experience in Little League, Connie Mack, Babe Ruth and high school competition.

Most of the current Tigers took part in one or more of the many amateur diamond programs on their way to the Big Time—but three of the pitchers made the grade without any such experience. John Hiller and Mike Kilkenny, who are from Canada where other sports are more prominent, and Earl Wilson, who was interested in other athletic action—as a youngster, have been pros only on the diamond.

Norm Cash and Tom Matchick, along with Hiller, Kilkenny and Wilson, did not play high school baseball and Fred Lasher played only one season in prep competition.

Cash, however, is one of eight Tigers who were collegiate stars. The others are—Dave Campbell, Bill Freehan, Jim Northrup, Daryl Patterson, Joe Sparna, Tom Timmerman and Tom Tresh.

Tigers with experience in various amateur programs:

LITTLE LEAGUE—Gates Brown, Bill Freehan, Willie Horton, Mickey Lolich, Dick McAuliffe, Tom Matchick, Jim Northrup, Daryl Patterson, Jim Price, Joe Sparna, Dick Tracewski.

PONY LEAGUE—Jim Northrup, Joe Sparna, Mickey Stanley, Dick Tracewski.

BABE RUTH LEAGUE—Willie Horton, Mickey Lolich, Denny McLaughlin, Tom Matchick, Jim Northrup, Mickey Stanley.

CONNIE MACK LEAGUE—Mickey Lolich.

AMERICAN LEGION—Gates Brown, Bill Freehan, Al Kaline, Mickey Lolich, Dick McAuliffe, Tom Matchick, Jim Northrup, Jim Price, Joe Sparna, Mickey Stanley, Dick Tracewski, Tom Tresh, Don Wert.

32nd Infantry Convention Slated Aug. 29 in Detroit

Veterans of the famous 32nd Infantry (Red Arrow) Division will meet in Detroit Aug. 29-31 for their Golden Anniversary Convention. Organized 50 years ago as the "32nd Division Veterans Association," the outfit is one of the oldest of its type in existence. The 32nd, as a fighting division, was one of the top outfits in both World War I and World War II. It also saw active service during the Berlin Crisis. The division consisted mostly of men from Michigan and Wisconsin, but included troops from all over the United States. Red Arrow men established a record for continuous days in combat in both World Wars and closed World War II with their capture of General Yamashita in the Philippines. Convention headquarters will be the Detroit Hilton and all activities will be held there. Speaker at the Convention Banquet Sunday evening, Aug. 31, will be General Winston P. Wilson, Chief of the National Guard Bureau. Stanley J. Gray of Detroit, convention chairman, urges all Red Arrow men to attend this 50th Anniversary Convention.

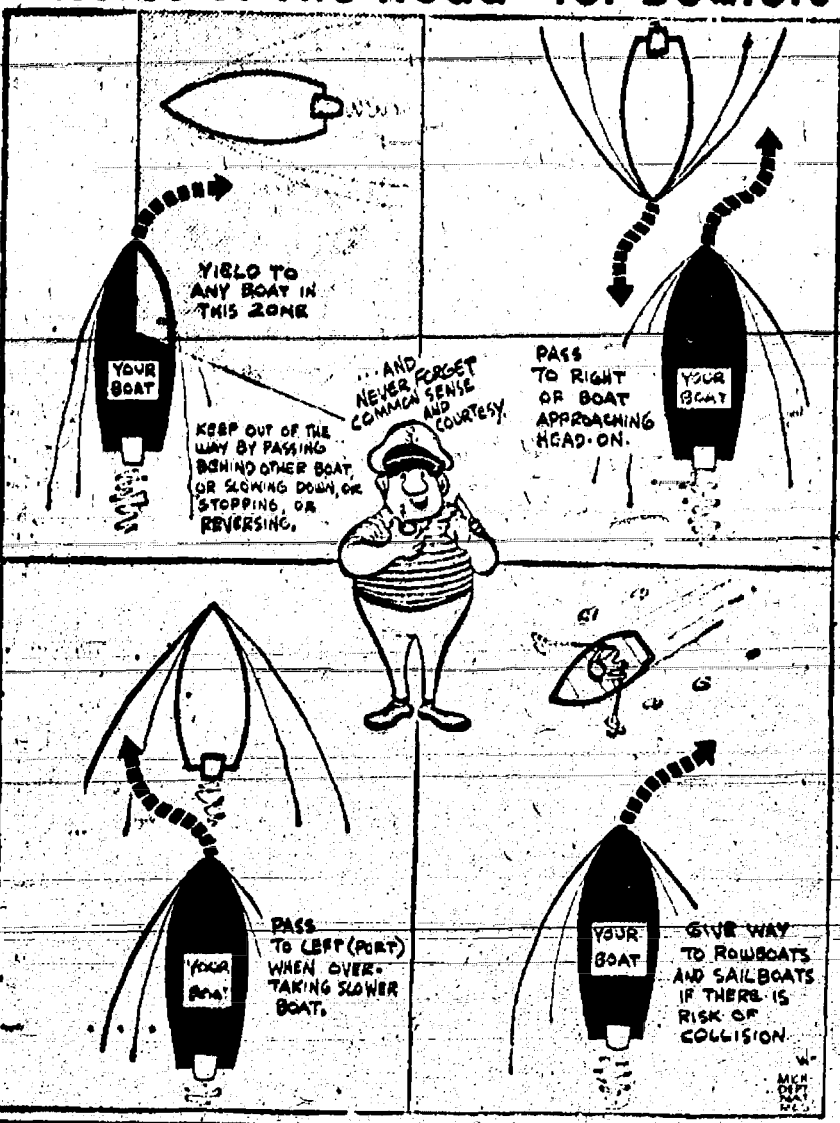

Cities Found Sharing In Pesticide Guilt

Scientists at Michigan State University's Pesticide Research Center found that 60-80 percent of the pesticide contamination in the Red Cedar River enters from waste water treatment plants and only 20-40 percent from farms. Similar contamination patterns were found in three Kent county streams.

Pesticides from municipal spray programs don't seem to be adequately handled by treatment plants and thus get pumped back into rivers.

THE LANSING REPORT

FROM
GIL BURSLEY

There is much speculation these days around the Capitol in Lansing—and, I am sure, other parts of Michigan—on what the October session of the legislature will be like.

Of particular interest, of course, is what Governor Milliken's Commission on Educational Reform will recommend in the way of revised curricula and new methods of financing.

While other subjects undoubtedly will be considered this fall, the prime reason for the October session is education.

From some hints that have been dropped around Lansing, I think we can make a pretty good educated guess on some of the recommendations of the governor's commission.

For instance, I think it would be safe to say that the report will put heavy emphasis on vocational education—the type of education that would help non-college graduates make a good living in life. Governor Milliken has indicated more than once that he is greatly concerned that the state is not doing enough in vocational education.

He has said there must be a proper balance between emphasis on college preparatory and vocational education which he says are related directly to the real needs of the students and society.

The governor has said that we do not have such a balance now. Recently, Governor Milliken said "it is sad—but tragically true—that, at a time when man has started leaving footprints on the moon, many thousands of men and women are not qualified for the path to gainful employment on earth."

So, if you were a betting man, I think you would be safe in putting a little wager that the commission of which the governor is chairman—will strongly stress the need for more emphasis on vocational education in our schools, especially since most high school graduates do not go on to finish college.

It will be a safe bet, too, that heavy emphasis will be placed on new methods of financing education. Just what they will be is anyone's guess right now but many persons around the capitol will be surprised if they don't include some increase in the state income tax.

In recent months, Lansing has been bombarded with complaints that local property taxes—most of which go to schools—are becoming unbearable, especially for the retired and the low-income people. With constitutional limitations on the sales and property taxes, about the only substantial tax source that can still be tapped is the income tax.

As Governor Milliken recently put it, "the extent of new means of financing education would depend in large measure on growth that could be expected within the existing revenue structure."

That sounds suspiciously like the state income tax.

Unfortunately, many people harbor the illusion that they can be relieved of paying local taxes for schools if the state takes over financing them. That, of course, is a cruel fallacy. If people don't back their schools financially at the local level, they have to expect an increase in their state taxes.

The state can't pick money out of thin air any more than an individual can.

Many people on both sides of the argument will be waiting with more than normal interest to see what the governor's commission does about the controversial subject of aid to non-public schools.

The governor has indicated that "the means to ease the plight of non-public schools" is one of the items being considered by his commission.

The issue of public tax money being appropriated for non-public schools was twice defeated in the house of representatives earlier this year and it is one of the touchiest subjects ever to come before a legislature.

Even those opposed to the principle of state aid to non-public schools—either on religious or constitutional grounds—pretty well agree that many of the state's non-public schools are in deep financial trouble.

And it is also rather generally agreed that any non-public school that fails will have to send its pupils to public schools.

If the governor's commission recommends financial aid to parochial schools, and the legislature approves the recommendation, Michigan taxpayers will have to prepare themselves for an even larger tax increase.

I don't like to think of new taxes under any circumstances but I wouldn't be fair to the people of my senatorial district if I didn't warn them that easing or abolishing local property taxes and giving public aid to non-public schools will very definitely mean they will face higher taxes next year.

Now, let's get off the subject taxes and on to something less painful.

I think the governor's commission may include some suggestions for more effective use of school facilities.

People frequently complain that too much money is tied up in school property to permit it to be used only three quarters of a year. We may get some suggestions from the governor's commission on how we can make better use of our school facilities.

The minimum size of school districts may come in for some serious consideration, too.

This is a rather touchy subject. Bureaucrats in Lansing generally subscribe to the theory that small school districts cannot provide as good an education as large school districts.

Consequently, they are always trying to push for more and more consolidations.

On the other hand, most local school administrators contend that school districts—especially in the less densely populated areas of the state—are fast becoming too big and too unwieldy to operate efficiently. The problem of transporting children long distances, especially in winter months, is proving a severe headache to many school administrators.

But Governor Milliken recently said "there must be some mechanism for setting minimum size of school districts to assure resources for an adequate program."

There are indications the committee may propose a plan that would encourage, rather than order, school district reorganization.

Then the problem of teacher contracts undoubtedly will be dwelt upon. The big issue here will be whether to make teachers part of a statewide civil service-like system and operate under one master contract. This one will be a tough one to solve.

It appears that the fall session of the legislature will be an extremely active and interesting one and the decisions that emerge will vitally affect almost every resident of Michigan.

WRONG PEDAL
Miami Beach, Fla.—Seven automobiles received various damages when Mrs. Josephine Rosenberg, 52, hit the gas pedal instead of the brake.

Police reported that Mrs. Rosenberg drove her car into a city parking lot and in preparing to park hit the gas pedal instead of the brake. This caused a chain of one car-bouncing into another until Mrs. Rosenberg finally brought her car under control.

She was charged with careless driving.

A blinding streak of lightning, followed by a sharp thunderpeal, causes a sinner to pause—and think.

Every Day Termed Agriculture Day at Michigan State Fair

The hard work and initiative of the American farmer are largely responsible for America's high standard of living. E. J. (Jeff) Keirns, State Fair general manager, noted today in announcing Agriculture Day at the 120th Michigan State Fair.

Each day of the fair, which runs from Aug. 22 through Sept. 1, has been designated for a certain group or purpose, but agriculture is so overwhelmingly important to our state and nation, Keirns said, that every day at the State Fair is considered an Agriculture Day. In addition, a special salute will be paid to farmers on Thursday, Aug. 28, the main Agriculture Day.

United Nations statistics show that the pork chops the average American worker has for dinner cost him only 157 minutes working time per kilogram (a kilogram is about 2.2 pounds). In France, for comparison, the chops cost the worker 193 minutes; in Britain, 123 minutes in Russia, 369 minutes.

Beef, says the UN, goes for 44 minutes in the U.S., 240 minutes in France, 147 minutes in Britain, and 161 minutes in Russia.

Through the entire range of foodstuffs, the U. S. worker pays consistently less of his income than workers anywhere else in the world. Food is truly a bargain today, Keirns said, despite the recent inflationary cost increases.

What's America eating today? Our consumption of red meats has risen from 127 pounds per capita per year in 1935 to about 170 today. Poultry consumption has gone up from 15 pounds to 43 pounds. However, potato consumption has dropped from 151 pounds to 114 pounds, and wheat flour has dropped from 160 pounds to 116 pounds.

"It's as simple as this," Keirns said, "the American public are meat eaters today." To produce all the food we consume and export America has a farm population of under 13 million, less than 7 percent of the population. In 1930, the farm population was more than 30 million.

Farms are growing in size as we require fewer and fewer workers to man them. In 1930, average acreage was 157. Now it's more than 350. Today, one man does

About Your Social Security

By Robert A. Kehoe
Social Security District Manager

Q. I will have earned almost $10,000 by the time I retire on July 31st of this year. Will I be able to receive any social security checks for 1969?

A. Yes. You can get payments for the months of August through December if during those months, you earn wages of less than $140 a month and are not actively self-employed.

Q. I'll be 72 in July 1969, and plan to continue working. I've been told I'll be able to get my social security checks then. Is this true?

A. Yes. You will get monthly checks beginning with the month of your 72nd birthday. However, your earnings for the entire year will be counted in determining whether any benefits can be paid to you for months of this year before your 72nd birthday.

Q. Will my wife and children be eligible for monthly payments if I get disability benefits?

A. If you get disability benefits, your children under age 18 (18-22 if they are full-time students) would be eligible for payments. Also, disabled children 18 or over who have been disabled since before their 18th birthdays may be eligible, as is your wife if she is 62 or older, or at any age, if she has in her care a child who is eligible for benefits.

Dorothy reached over the driver's body and steered while Ronald cut off the ignition and applied the brakes. They stopped the bus safely and prevented it from overturning.

SCIENCE TOPICS

ORAL DISEASES are the most universal afflictions of mankind, reports the Harvard School of Dental Medicine, and cites some facts about the dental life of Americans to substantiate its view. Nearly 25 million Americans have lost all their natural teeth; half the adult population, by middle age, has destructive periodontal disease leading to loss of teeth; oral cancer strikes 23,000 people annually; and dental bills of American families total nearly $3.5 billion a year.

EXPERIMENTAL SNAKEBITE vaccine that its developers believe offers potential protection for humans has been successfully tested on 15 dogs at the University of Utah. The dogs were vaccinated some months ago and survived double lethal doses of pure rattlesnake venom. Much more remains to be learned about the vaccine, the Utah researchers say, but they believe there are no insurmountable obstacles to its eventual injection into humans.

STRAY ELECTRICITY endangers buried pipelines such as those carrying gas and oil. The current, from power transmission lines and manufacturing plants, among other sources, flows along the line and can cause "galvanic" corrosion. This electrochemical activity causes pipe metal to break away in the form of ions and can eventually destroy the pipe wall, reports Tube Turns, Louisville. However, the company says, insulating joints deter the corrosion without weakening the line itself. Units are installed at intervals in high-pressure buried piping, isolating the line into small, separate electrical units and breaking the flow of the unwanted current.

SIDEWALK DAYS

Old-Timers May Take Lessons in Modern Dancing

You don't know the Fox Trot? You never heard of the Fox Trot? You'll both get a chance to get up to the dance in a "bridge-generation" dance, at the Michigan State Fair, which runs from Friday, Aug. 22, through Sunday, Sept. 1.

The dance will be held at 1 p.m. Family Day at the fair. That's Friday, Aug. 22. Site will be the Michigan State Fair, which is located in the Michigan State Fairgrounds.

A half-dozen teen couples will be asked to teach the oldsters such as the Boogaloo, the Iron Horse, the Hip Squeeze, the Pop, and the Soulful Strut. Play, and they will be the Ash and the well-known rock group, the half-dozen middle-aged couples will show the youngsters how to dance the Fox Trot, the Iron Horse, and the Soulful Strut. Remember? Furnishing music will be the John Keen orchestra.

Spectators will be invited to join in if they wish.

And if the oldsters find they are out of step, they can be whipped down to the Teen Center at the fair and find more of the same, according to E.J. (Jeff) Smith, State Fair manager.

I was greatly encouraged to see President Nixon offer a plan of assistance against campus violence. You may recall that the President had earlier urged campus officials to stand firm against violence. He has not backed up his words with action.

The main portion of the President's plan, to allow federal court injunctions to be used to open campuses closed down by rioters, seems a wise procedure to me. The issuance of federal injunctions would mean that federal marshals, and even federal troops in very extreme cases, could be used to enforce the court order.

Hopefully this provision would never have to be used, since state and local injunctions can presently be obtained for campus disorders. However, these do not carry the weight or enforcement potential of a federal injunction. It is conceivable that a situation could arise which would require federal assistance. If Congress approves, the Nixon plan would offer this alternative.

Another segment of the Nixon plan would toughen provisions for revoking federal assistance to students involved in campus riots. Such students would face loss of financial aid for up to five years, instead of the present two.

It is always important to recognize that only a small minority of students are involved in any violent confrontation. However, that small minority can effectively disrupt the educational process which the majority are trying to pursue.

If only this hard-core dissident element would understand that violent tactics are not necessary to bring about desirable reforms. The public and their elected officials very much want to see higher education be as meaningful for students as possible. They are most willing to accept steps to accomplish this goal, if only those seeking change would work within the system instead of trying to destroy it. However, they will not, and should not, tolerate violence. Such action can only bring a reaction which will stifle change on campus, rather than promote it.

In his proposals, President Nixon has refrained from blocking peaceful change and dissent on campus. The door is still open for meaningful reform. If a handful of students refuse to see that door, and continue to resort to violence, even sterner measures will have to be proposed and even more vigorous action will have to be taken. Our educational system must be free to function.

YOUR INCOME TAX

Editor's Note: This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the Detroit District Office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service for taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. A company I interviewed about a job has offered to pay my expenses if I will visit their headquarters. If I take the money will it be taxable for me?

A. Money received as a reimbursement for travel expenses incurred in being interviewed for possible employment is not taxable and does not have to be reported. However, if the reimbursement is more than your expenses the excess is taxable.

Q. I was just billed for taxes. I've already paid. What should I do?

A. The bill you received was most probably issued before your payment had been credited to your account.

However, if your payment was made more than four weeks ago return the notice of a copy and indicate on it when the payment was made and where it was sent. If you paid by check and the check has been endorsed and returned to you, indicate the IRS number stamped on the check by IRS and the date.

Q. My house has gone up in value in the 15 years I've owned it. Will I be taxed on this increase when I sell?

A. Profits on the sale of a home are taxable. There are situations, however, where the tax may be postponed or even eliminated. A person who buys another house within a year of the sale of his old home may be able to postpone the tax depending on how much the new one costs. Under certain

New Rules Seek To Establish Good Conduct at Fairs

You can ride on the ferris wheel, eat cotton candy, admire the prize livestock and do a lot of other happy things at the Michigan State Fair Aug. 22 through Sept. 1.

But there will be a lot of things you can't do, under a proposed new regulation governing unlawful acts on state fair properties. The regulation was developed on the advice of the attorney general's office.

Rules will also apply to the Upper Peninsula state fair in Escanaba, open Aug. 12 through 17.

A hearing on the new regulation is being conducted by the Michigan Department of Agriculture Monday, Aug. 11, beginning at 10:30 a.m. The hearing, open to the public, will be in the department conference room, sixth floor, Lewis Cass building in Lansing, Director E. Dale Ball said.

Some of the things you can't do at the fair, if the regulation is adopted by the Michigan Commission of Agriculture, are: Be a "litterbug"; Beat up any of the fairgrounds guards; Carry a switch blade, or have firearms in your possession; Smash up any property, public or private, on the fairgrounds; Create a disturbance; Loiter, trespass, beg, or be a vagrant.

The regulation provides that violations will be considered misdemeanors, with conviction carrying a fine of up to $50 or a jail sentence of 10 to 60 days.

If you're sober, solvent and looking for a wonderful time, you'll be welcome at the fairs.

It is funny how people think you're interested in their troubles.

"I REMEMBER"

By THE OLD TIMER

From Pearl McConnel Edmondson, Long Lake, Minn.: I was a little eight-year-old Oklahoman pioneer's daughter, in the second reader at our log country schoolhouse. I became enthralled by reading one of the stories, about a young boy who had to go to work in the woods and leave his sick Mother lying in bed all day. Anyone my age will remember the story, for we had no other books to read in the year 1898.

Well, the boy became hungry and after looking about he found some berries. "How nice with my lunch," he thought, until he remembered his sick mother, and didn't eat them. He took them home to his mother.

On my way home that day, I passed my grandfather's house and he was standing in the road holding a big red apple. He had planted an orchard soon after he arrived in this new land. We didn't have apples as father had not planted an orchard.

I walked the woods on a faint trail, smelling the apple, just to enjoy its aroma. But I didn't eat it. I thought of the little boy in the story and decided to share it with my little brother and sisters at home.

Arriving home, I proudly showed the apple to mama, telling her I brought it home to share. Mama peeled it, cut it open and held it up for us to see. I wonder who had the most useful looks? The apple was rotten.

IN THE OPEN

By Lee Smiths

Long admiration for bullfighting was derived from Uncle Ash, who came to southwest Michigan via the Underground Railroad. Uncle Ed was a popular sports man in our town.

My grandpa, commissioned Uncle Ed to see to it I didn't drown as I rambled the banks of the St. Joe River and its tributaries. I was then at kindergarten and was in the habit of running away to go fishing.

Among the natural wonders Uncle Ed pointed out to me was a bullhead accompanied by a swarm of miniature bullheads about half inch long.

"That there," he said "is a mama and her young uns. There is something going to mess with a mama bullhead."

Later on I learned from other sources that the guardian bullhead is a male. He underlines his family obligations as the eggs are laid. Uncle Ed showed me a sizable pike that had choked to death, trying to swallow a bullhead.

Uncle Ed revealed many wonders of nature, some of them factual. Uncle Ed told of seeing a snake holding its tail in its mouth, rolling down hill and spear a stone with the fang the end of its tail. In minutes, the end of its tail, the tree withered and died.

Perhaps scientists would agree that two species of bullhead exist in Michigan waters—a black bullhead and a brown. When it came to catching bullheads, Uncle Ed's hands really worked. He would throw a string around a frog, hook the frog by the front legs. At the line, about 18 inches to the end of a tag-alder maybe three or four feet. Throwing the stick with the frog to the bottom in bullhead was to detect when a

LET'S LOOK AT THE RECORDS

BY LINDA MORRIS

One of the wildest LP's of the hectic era we're enjoying is The Best of the Two Thousand Year Old Man featuring Carl Reiner and Mel Brooks.

How did the Two Thousand Year Old Man's parents create this classic patriarch of comedy? With the most advanced and influential methods of contemporary comedy conception, like use the imagination, man!

A day or so before the original albums were made, Mr. Reiner would say casually to friends, Mel Brooks and I are going to do an album Thursday night, why don't you drop over to the studio and watch? And Mr. Brooks would casually say to friends, Carl Reiner and I are going to do an album Thursday night, why don't you drop over to the studio and watch? Naturally, the two attract different types of people and naturally, they pop in for the recording. If Mr. Reiner and/or Mr. Brooks happened to dine out where the people looked nice, they were prone to send discreet notes of invitation to several carefully selected tables.

Then, audience overflowing with friends and tables, Mr. Reiner and Mr. Brooks would walk into the studio, sit on stools before microphones and begin to talk. Spontaneously, without script, without plot, with no guarantee of payment unless they came up with something funny, they began to talk and their audiences began to respond. And as a result, they got paid handsomely. And that is just how the Two Thousand Year Old Man happened. And keeps happening for two comedy writers, promoters and performers who are now independent bulwarks of America's rampaging comedy industry.

P.S. It's a great album.

LAFF OF THE WEEK

Contests Arranged for Nearly Everyone at Big State Fair

Bald-headed men and pie-eating kids, horseshoe pitchers and beautiful girls. There are contests for all of them—and for that matter, contests for almost anyone—at the 120th Michigan State Fair, which runs from Aug. 22 through Sept. 1.

"You don't have to own a prize steer or be a champion horseman to compete at the fair," E.J. (Jeff) Keirns, the State Fair's general manager noted. "We have competition for all."

The livestock and community art deadlines have passed, but there is still plenty of time for other entries. In many cases, all the contestant has to do is show up at the right time.

For the kids, contests will run from Monday through Friday, Aug. 25-29. They'll include ponytail, football throw, blueberry pie-eating, balloon race, look-alike twins, most freckles, and egg and spoon race. Registration is 9 a.m. the day of the contest.

And there'll be an essay contest for children on Children's Day, Tuesday, Aug. 26 with $50 Savings Bonds for first-place prizes for six age groups and other prizes. They'll tell what they learned at the State Fair on blanks to be given out on Children's Day.

At the other end of the age scale, senior citizens will compete on Old Timers' Day, Monday, Aug. 25, in such categories as prettiest hat, baldest head, most grandchildren, longest married couple and oldest man and woman.

Senior Citizen of the Year Awards also will be given on that day. There's an Aug. 8 deadline for entering this competition.

The day for those with big families and/or loud voices to attend the fair is Friday, Aug. 29, Family Day. The largest family in attendance will be honored and receive a raft of gifts. The wives will get a shot at husband-calling and the men will exercise their lungs in the hog calling.

The contests for veterans will center around drill teams, color guards, and drum-and-bugle corps from veterans' organization posts. Deadline for entering this competition is Aug. 9.

Beauty queens will compete in the "fairest of the fair" contest for the title of Miss Michigan State Fair. The winner will be crowned Wednesday evening, Aug. 27. There's still time for reigning beauty queens to beat the Aug. 16 deadline.

Baton twirling and strutting contests always draw big entry lists and big crowds of spectators, and this year promises to be no exception.

For those who can't throw a baton but can pitch ringers, the daily horseshoe pitching contests are attractive. There will be daily winners plus a championship trophy for the top pitcher on the final day of the fair.

Information on the many contests may be obtained from the Michigan State Fair, Detroit 48, 203, or by calling the fair office in Detroit at 368-1000.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

★ Parental Guidance

Some parents seem to believe they fulfill their responsibility when they tell their children the difference between "right" and "wrong." This is not quite true. One can teach a five-year-old to recite the ten commandments and the child is still unable to relate these commandments to Christian living. When a child encounters a "new" experience, he is most likely to respond in a manner similar to the reaction he observed in his parents, or someone else older than he, in a similar situation.

Just as children like to be "grown-up" by putting on adult clothes to play "house," they are likely to mimic the responses and reactions they observe in their elders—in speech and behavior.

Just as one picture is worth a thousand words, a single good example can be worth much more than a volume of words spoken by the "voice of experience."

The wise parent will not be content to point to the pathway a child should walk through life; it is far better to take the child by the hand and show the way.

Michigan August Events Geared To Host Visitors

Lansing—More than seven dozen Michigan community events, including fairs, art festivals, Indian pow-wows and boat races, are being readied to add to family vacation fun during August.

Among the August events listed in the Calendar are the U. P. Championship Rodeo, Aug. 2-3, Iron River; the blessing of the Waterscraft, Menominee, Aug. 3; the Water Festival, Pentwater, Aug. 7-10; the Yankee 800 Auto Race, Michigan International Speedway, Irish Hills, Aug. 17; the Danish Festival, Greenville, Aug. 23; and the Pere Marquette Regatta, St. Ignace, Aug. 29-31.

The Calendar lists art fairs and shows for Blanchard, Aug. 24; Iron Mountain in Kingsford, Aug. 2-8; Wyandotte, Aug. 7-9; and at Charlevoix, Aug. 9.

More than 50 fairs are featured in the Michigan Calendar of Events for August, including the Iowa Free Fair, Iowa, Aug. 1-10; the Northern Michigan Fair, Aug. 11-16, Cheboygan; the U. P. State Fair, Escanaba, Aug. 12-17; the Chelsea Community Fair, Aug. 27-30; and the big Michigan State Fair, Detroit, Aug. 22-Sept. 1.

A canoe race will be held on the Pere Marquette River, Scottville, Aug. 17; Indian pow-wows are scheduled for Hastings, Aug. 9-10; and at Cross Village, Aug. 10. A copy of the Michigan Calendar of Events, listing vacation travel activities for the summer may be obtained without charge by writing the Michigan Tourist Council, Stevens T. Mason Building, Lansing 48926.

BUYING ON CREDIT

If you plan to buy on credit, determine how much credit-buying will cost you. You can compare the credit cost in actual money terms by comparing the dollar cost for using the same amount of credit for the same period of time at several different dealers or lenders. Or, you can compare the annual percentage rate you may be charged for the use of credit at different places.

What makes a business a success? It is not merely enough to say that success is achieved because a merchant offers to sell a product for which there is need. Today, more than ever, there is a strong element of competition. The customer has a choice. Few indeed are the items sold by only one merchant. Lasting success for the businessman must be built on the policy of satisfactory customer service. A low price may bring about a quick sale, but lasting and continuing success may be maintained only through the establishment of a reputation for a continuing policy of quality products and service at a satisfactory price.

That's why we vote for the established merchant. He makes it his business to provide full service and satisfaction today in order to merit more business tomorrow. Shop locally first you'll be glad you did.

Mrs. Duane R. Brassow

Sandra Bucholtz, Duane Brassow Exchange Vows in Stevensville

Sandra Ann Bucholtz became the bride of Duane R. Brassow, Aug. 2 at St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church in Stevensville. The Rev. Harold J. Zink performed the ceremony for the daughter of Arthur Bucholtz of Stevensville, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Brassow of North Fletcher Rd., Dexter. The bride is also the daughter of the late Mrs. Bucholtz.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, chose a floor-length gown of white linen styled with imported lace bodice accentuating an empire waist and lay down collar. A fingertip veil complemented her gown and she carried a bouquet of white gladioli.

Maid of honor was Miss Betty Bucholtz, sister of the bride. She wore a yellow gown of sheer nylon over acetate taffeta with an A-line skirt. Long sheer sleeves in rayon chiffon accented the rest of the dress. She carried white gladioli entwined with fern, with yellow and white streamers.

Bridesmaids included Mrs. James Zech of Barrien Springs, sister of the bride, and the Misses Linda and Esther Brassow, sisters of the bridegroom. Their gowns and flowers were identical to those of the maid of honor.

The bride's aunt, Mrs. Minnie Hanson, wore a green and white suit dress with white accessories and Mrs. Brassow wore a light pink dress with matching accessories.

Carl Brassow of Ann Arbor, was his brother's best man. Gerald Duham and Duane Schroen of Ann Arbor, Randy Anderson of Stevensville, Richard Brassow of Dexter, and Steve Weiss of Ypsilanti were ushers.

Mrs. Charles Michael Oates

Judith Weinkauf, Charles Oates Wed Saturday at St. Mary Church

A Catholic church was the scene of the marriage ceremony of Judith Lee Weinkauf and Charles Michael Oates, on Saturday at noon.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Weinkauf of South St. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William F. Francis Wahowiak of Grand Blanc.

The couple will spend one week in Banff, Canada, then return to look for a home in Kalamazoo.

The bride is a graduate of Western Michigan University, and is affiliated with Delta Zeta social sorority. She will be teaching in the fall near Kalamazoo.

Her husband is employed with National Waterlift, and is attending his senior year of Western Michigan University.

Four generations of the Burg family attended their family reunion at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Doll, 17410 Hein Rd., on Sunday, Aug. 10.

The reunion was held to honor Mrs. Doll's brother, Chief Warrant Officer Richard G. Lyons and his wife and family on his retirement from the U. S. Army Medical Service, of which he has been a member for 28 years. Lyons and his family make their home in San Antonio, Tex.

Other members of the family came from Cleveland and Toledo, O.; Jackson, Berkeley, Port Huron, Adrian, and Chelsea. 104 persons in all attended the celebration.

Sensible query: "If you are so smart, why aren't you rich?"

Club and Social Activities

BURKHART REUNION

Approximately 40 relatives from Hart, Perry, Dundee, Ann Arbor and the Chelsea area attended the annual reunion of the Burkhardt family held Sunday, Aug. 3 at Pierce Park.

Arrangements for the reunion were made by Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Winans and family.

Officers re-elected for next year's reunion, also to be held at Pierce Park, are George Fleming of Hart, president, and Mrs. Charles Winans, secretary-treasurer.

VFW AUXILIARY

The representative to the Citizens for Quality Education was selected by the 17 members attending the regular meeting of the VFW auxiliary Monday evening.

Mrs. Carmer Slocum will represent the group in the Chelsea School District.

Dates of the National Convention and 1969 Pow Wow were announced. The convention will be held in Philadelphia from Aug. 15-22. The Pow Wow will be held in Traverse City on Oct. 30, Nov. 1 and 2.

Mrs. Kenneth Platt was appointed chairman for the August social meeting, and will be assisted by Mrs. Hurschel O'Dell, Mrs. Wayne Harvey, and Mrs. Frank Warywoda.

The August meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Clyde Matthews on Aug. 25.

All members were urged to participate in the Chelsea Community Fair.

Mrs. Jeffrey Scott Heth

Jennifer L. Bolton, Jeffrey Heth Exchange Vows in Grand Rapids

Marriage vows were exchanged by Jennifer Louise Bolton of Chelsea, and Jeffrey Scott Heth of Grand Rapids, Saturday, Aug. 9, at a 1:30 p.m. ceremony at the Park Congregational church in Grand Rapids.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford C. Bolton of 20111 Old US-12. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Claude W. Heth, 1084 Pinecrest S. E., Grand Rapids.

Thirteen Springer sang while Dr. David Bowman performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a silk organza over summer peau de sole, full length. Her dress was trimmed with alencon lace appliqued with seed pearls, three-quarter length sleeves and portrait neckline. Her headpiece was designed and made by her mother, and matched the seed pearl applique of the dress.

She carried white stephanotis and yellow sweetheart roses, ivy, and white gladiolus.

The maid of honor was Lois Bolton, sister of the bride. She wore a time green A-line dress with a mandarin collar, and triangle cut-out in back, with a built-in train. Her headpiece was also designed by the bride's mother and consisted of a large bow attaching floor-length veiling.

Bridesmaids were Karen Campbell of Grand Rapids; Martha Townsend, of Troy; Mrs. Charles Peterson, Savannah, Ga.; and Jane Paist of East Lansing. They are all Sorority sisters of the bride.

Attendees were from Grass Lake, Jackson, Brooklyn, Chelsea, Norvell, Hamburg, Howell, and Mount Dora, Fla.

The oldest member present was Herman Gross, 82, with a set of two-year-old twins the youngest. Leanne and Gregg are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Weed of Howell.

Next year's reunion will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elwyn Gieske of Norvell.

New Fabrics Ease Summer Laundry Jobs

Laundry problems can mount up in the summer time. But this year a widening variety of easy care clothes should give mom some time for fun in the sun.

The new styles are reminiscent of the "good old days" without the laundry problems that women used to face, says Helen Fairman, home economist with the Co-operative Extension Service in Washtenaw, Lenawee and Monroe counties.

"Pucker dominates the textures. Seersucker, one of the original no-iron fabrics, is still easy care. But now it's much more sophisticated," she points out.

"Now seersucker combines with plique and leno weaves for tone on patterns and lacy effects. Men may even find it in 'dandy' shirt styles," she adds.

The "new" gingham is a polyester-cotton fabric with the same bright colors and washability. And it has added crease-resistance.

Denim now stretches which makes it more comfortable than conventional denim. Glen plaids give it a new look.

Voiles with a Dotted Swiss look, made from polyester and cotton blends are washable, easy to care for and comfortable.

The home economist adds that a new non-woven fabric, a blend of polyester and rayon, looks like a thick and thin crochet. Since it is completely washable, she suggests it for beachwear and sportswear.

A new kind of doubleknit combines the feel of wool with wash and wear qualities of polyester, she explains. The outside is acrylic with a wool-like feel. The inside which feels silky and soft is polyester. The home economist says its credits are impressive: no pilling, fine wrinkle resistant, permanent creases, and plenty of body and bulk without weight. It's being used in women's dresses and sportswear, men's slacks and sports jackets and children's wear.

With the current stock of easy care fabrics available, smart summer clothes can be totally washable and easy care, the home economist concludes.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Sir:

I don't know what Boy Scout wrote the letter to your paper last week but he certainly deserves a pat on the back for his courage, accuracy and laudability of expression.

Let's hope enough people read it and heed it to help a little. Most people who do this slinging of rubbish are thoughtless, irresponsible who couldn't care less for the trouble and litter they cause.

The last sentence of his letter is enough to make some people at least, take notice.

Flora Schanz.

Sentenced on Charge Of Drunk Driving

A Chelsea man was sentenced on a charge of drunk driving Monday in the district court by Judge Patrick J. Conlin.

Louis Knickerbocker, 32, of 113 1/2 S. Main St., was assessed fines and costs of $100, and suspension of his driver's license in addition to a sentence of 10 days in jail for his offense reported in March of this year.

The jail sentence will be spent on five consecutive week-ends.

Knickerbocker's license had been previously suspended for his refusal to take the breath test when apprehended on suspected drunk driving before.

Donald Dickelman Returns from Vietnam Aboard USS Bainbridge

USS Bainbridge—Yeoman Third Class Donald L. Dickelman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Dickelman of 253 Harrison St., Chelsea, Mich., is serving aboard the nuclear powered guided missile frigate USS Bainbridge.

The ship recently returned from duty in Vietnam.

During its six months in Southeast Asian waters the ship served as an escort-plane guard for various attack carriers including the USS Enterprise. It also served as a Search and Rescue ship and provided air control assistance to the aircraft of the Seventh Fleet. The ship is homeported in Valdez, Calif.

Prospective WCC Students Urged To Enroll Early

Students planning to attend Washtenaw Community College this fall should apply immediately. This is the message to all prospective students from James Jones, Dean of Student Services at the college.

Space limitations and the rapid growth of the college make it imperative that Washtenaw county residents who wish to attend the college should make application immediately to insure admission this fall.

Admission applications are available at the Registrar's Office, 1005 Midway Blvd., Willow Run. Prospective students may also request an application by calling the college 483-5152; extension 55.

In previous years, all students residing in Washtenaw county have been accepted for admission. However, because of the anticipated increased enrollment this fall, there will be no guarantee of acceptance for students who apply late.

Dean Jones pointed out that counselors are on duty throughout the day to assist persons in selecting courses and programs.

Dr. Neil Beach Receives Award in Science Research

Announcement was made this week that Dr. Neil W. Beach, associate professor of biology at the University of Gettysburg, Gettysburg, Pa., is the recipient of an award from the Society of the Sigma Xi for the Encouragement of Scientific Research, the award having been made "to assist Dr. Beach in his study of 'Biological Studies of Commensals and Predators of Marine Bivalves of East Coast Australia'."

Dr. Beach, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Beach of Chelsea-Dexter Rd., has been on a year's sabbatical leave and he and his wife, Harriett and children, Eric, Betsy and Susan, have been living in Brisbane, Australia the past year while he has been doing research at the University of Queensland and along the eastern coast of Australia. They are currently enroute home and are making stops at the Fiji Islands, Samoa Islands and New Zealand. They expect to arrive at their home in Gettysburg, Aug. 27.

The family left for Brisbane by ship from the east coast on July 15, 1968, the trip across the Pacific via the Panama Canal taking approximately a month. They are returning by plane.

Announcement of the award to Dr. Beach was made by Dr. Harold G. Cassidy, chairman of the Grants-in-Aid of Research committee of the Society of the Sigma Xi, New Haven, Conn. He explained that "Sigma Xi each year makes a number of grants to promising scientists at critical points in their research careers. We recognize that many needs are relatively too small for the large foundations to consider, yet to the scientist himself the need may be critical. It is to meet these needs that our research fund is maintained."

Founded in 1886, the society of the Sigma Xi now has 173 chapters and more than 205 clubs in the major colleges and universities in the United States and Canada. Sigma Xi, with an active membership of 100,000 scientists, sponsors 22 national lectureships, publishes "American Scientist," and in the academic year 1966-1967 made awards in support of research totaling $89,754.

Vo-Ag Teacher Lonsway Cited at State Conference

A Chelsea High school teacher has been honored by the 50th annual Conference for Teachers of Vocational Agriculture held in East Lansing, July 28-31.

Lawrence H. Lonsway, of Chelsea's agriculture program, received an award for five years of service, and for his contributions to education in his field.

He has been teaching for six years, two in the Chelsea system, and is presently president of the teachers association, the CEA. Previous to teaching in Chelsea, he taught in the North Huron school system in Kinde.

Lonsway received a BS degree in Animal Husbandry and a Master's degree in Agricultural Education, along with his teaching certification from Michigan State University. He has completed one third of the credits necessary for a master's in School Administration.

Presently he is taking classes when they are available regarding new programs or when they are directly related to improving his classroom instruction.

He is looking forward to the construction of the new agriculture shop laboratory. Part of the industrial arts woodshop will be remodeled to make that improvement in the agriculture program offered at Chelsea High.

"The shop will provide a greater lab area and the possibility of greater numbers of students practicing working with plants and small animals," he said.

The conference in East Lansing this year was designed to improve and develop new agricultural experience programs and to acquaint teachers with new instructional aids. It also presented new developments in agri-business and offered the latest information on technical agriculture.

WHAT DO SMELLS of popcorn and diesel engine exhaust have in common? Researchers at Georgia Tech's Engineering Experiment Station have developed a diesel engine converter that curtails the engine's smoke production as much as 33 percent and removes the smell that produces nausea. The resulting odor is that of freshly cooked popcorn.
