COMMUNITY FAIR - SOMETHING FOR EVERYONE

Hopes Increase for Settlement of Teacher Contract

Continuing negotiations between the Board of Education and Chelsea Education Association have been taking place over the week, with many results being discussed. The entire proposal is still far from being settled, but both the board and CEA are much more realistic than in the past. A question of teacher salaries has been discussed, and a proposal has been decided upon. Other areas seriously discussed are re-evaluation, school calendar, and of Education rights, dues, and membership fees, and hours and class loads, and retirement funds.

With these questions settled, the bargaining table does not mean that they are decided upon. It means these proposals will become part of the proposed contract that will be presented for ratification to the board, and to the members of the association.

Articles left to discuss are questions of student disciplinary procedures, the reduction of personnel procedures in case of necessity, leaves of absence, and most important, the grievance procedure. A grievance procedure article will identify the terms of what is involved, how it should be pro-

Immanuel Church Members Finish Remodeling Work

After a summer full of long, hard hours of work, the Immanuel Bible church will be using their new sanctuary facilities this Sunday.

About Your Social Security

By Robert A. Kehoe
Social Security Director, Michigan
The new Social Security Act of 1956 will be a landmark in the history of the program. It will provide for a more comprehensive system of social security, including old age, disability, and health insurance. The new law will also provide for a more equitable distribution of the burden of the program, and will provide for a more efficient administration of the program.

Miniskirts Found Popular In Europe

Eight weeks touring Europe is a vacation that many look forward to, and it describes the vacation spent by Janice Wood, 644 Flanders.

Miss Wood and her college roommate, Susan Barthold, left June 30, and returned Aug. 21. During their stay they toured 10 countries. Those countries were France, Italy, Austria, Switzerland, Germany, Denmark, Holland, Belgium, England, and Ireland.

Her roommate purchased an MGB in England, and it was used as their means of transportation from one country to another.

She said that they liked Germany and Switzerland the best, and noticed that most people in the countries were very friendly to Americans.

"There are also many more miniskirts in Europe than in America," she said. "And everyone wears them, not just a few people."

Personal Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Lesser and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kalmbach spent Sunday evening with Mrs. Mary Clark and her son, Dean.

Mr. and Mrs. Beecher Risner, Jr., of Trenton, O., spent a few days with her mother, Mrs. George Knoll at her home at 124 Dewey.

FRENCH VISITOR: Sylvie Tolnard, left, 17, 4000 Mushbach Rd. She will be living with the old student from France, poses with Susan family for the entire year of her stay in the United States.

French Student Will Live This Year With Stock Family

Chelsea High school will have a friendly new member in its senior class this fall, French student sponsored by the French Club for Understanding.

Sylvie Tolnard, 17, from Lyon, France, will attend classes for the entire year, while living with the Thomas Stock family, 4000 Mushbach Rd.

Youth for Understanding is an international organization in which Americans serve as host families for 14- to 18-year-old foreign students. The plan may be reciprocal, but at the time it is not.

Sylvie has been here since last Wednesday, Aug. 20, and has noticed a number of things about America and American youth that are different from things in France.

The one thing that has surprised her the most is seeing young boys and girls driving cars. The legal age for driving in France is 18, and most of the young people walk or ride bicycles.

She arrived on a charter flight for Youth for Understanding from the Paris airport, where she chatted to meet Mr. and Mrs. Sportis, parents of Claude, who lived with the Charles Cameron family in Chelsea last year on an exchange program from France.

"In France we do not see women going shopping in shorts with curlers in their hair," she said. "And I have seen this already."

"We also do not have the large shopping areas that include many stores. We have large stores, but not many in one place."

Sylvie is looking forward to many things during her stay in Chelsea, and said that she is looking forward to seeing the Community Fair.

"We have fairs like this at home, but not as large, or including as many things. I will enjoy it," she said.

Two Fined for Spear Fishing On Long Lake

Two men from the area were arrested and fined for spearing fish on Long Lake recently. Frederick R. Fretner, 21, 805 N. Prospect, Ypsilanti, and Larry L. Darling, 22, 2750 Golfside, Ann Arbor, were assessed $21 fines and costs and $5 restitution for the bass that they had speared. The men were apprehended wearing snorkels and using rubber propelled spear-guns, with a number of bass already speared. They claimed that a relative had told them that Long Lake was private property and spearing was allowed on it. They appeared before Judge Edward D. Deake of Ypsilanti and learned that they had been misinformed. State Conservation Officer, Donley Boyer, said that spearing is allowed only with a rubber propelled spear and only on certain area lakes. These lakes include Silver Lake, Pleasant-Lake, Round Lake, and Big and Little Portage chain, the Half Moon chain, Horseshoe Lake, Four Mile Lake, and the Huron River. "It is against the law to spear game fish in any county lake," he said. "The only fish legally prey to spear fishing are carp, dogfish, garpike, and suckers."

Assembly of God Complex To Be Built Near Grass Lake

A long range, million dollar development has been announced by the Assembly of God Church on the 80-acre former Robert Hawkins farm in Grass Lake township. The site chosen is just east of the church's present camp Fa-Ho-Lo, 3000 Mt. Hope Rd. The Assembly of God is a fundamentalist church founded in 1914. It now comprises about 200 churches. The 20-year master plan for the Hawkins property will be reported on at a meeting of the nine committees involved on Sept. 15. The site will include the church's state office and district headquarters. Initially, four houses will be built for field men and three more later for workers. Later the church plans to build a nursing home and a retirement village with a capacity of about 100 to start. Both facilities will be restricted to church members. They will be serviced by their own water system and lagoon sewage disposal system. The church will also locate its present Detroit seminary, an extension of Central Bible College in Springfield, Mo., on the Grass Lake property. If there is no zoning conflict, the master plan includes a mobile home-year-round subdivision, also restricted to church members. Two small ponds on the site are to be developed for recreational use. The Rev. T. B. Thodeson, who has been the ground supervisor of Fa-Ho-Lo for three years, will continue in his position in the expanded properties. The Rev. Thodeson, 55, pastored in Glennie, north of East Tawas, Reed City, Charlevoix, and Ludington before receiving his present assignment. Mrs. Thodeson, who received her master's degree this summer, teaches in Chelsea. They have three children, Robert, who will be attending Eastern Michigan University this fall, Paul, who will be a freshman at the University of Michigan, and Loreen, at home.

TODAY'S THOUGHT By LOUIS BURGHARDT In less than a century, labor has made tremendous and almost unbelievable gains... A look at some of the common words seen and heard these days in labor matters shows how a new, up to date labor vocabulary requires intimate understanding of labor-management relations, public interest protection, labor courts, governmental intervention, compulsory arbitration, minimum wage, moonlighting, union dues check-off, apprenticeships, unemployment compensation, industrial compensation, fringe benefits, etc., etc. All these and others were unheard of words not too many years ago. Through the years, labor has acquired a good taste of "the good life." Even better days are optimistically and hopefully seen ahead... But a disturbingly nagging question remains - "How will it all end?" Or... more disturbingly... "WILL it all end?"... BURGHARDT FUNERAL HOME, 214 East Middle St., Chelsea, Mich. Phone GR 5-4141.

An economist who studied the life cycle of fashions has suggested that cycles in accessories such as scarfs, handbags, and costume jewelry generally last about one season, fashions in color, design and fabrics usually are popular about one year, with certain exceptions.

Candidates for office, as a rule recommend themselves very highly.

loon Stomp was won by Sidney Dixon, Jarts Contests were won by Mike Fouty, with door prizes going to Mrs. G. Pickell, and Alvin Whitaker.

Bingo winners were Katrina Rowe, Tim Knickerbocker, Rene Summers, and Randy Summers. Marshmallow Chew winners were Eric Galen and Perry Ellenwood, with Chris Jones, Randy Summers, and Tammy Collinsworth winning the Sack Races.

Everyone enjoyed the picnic, and the turnout was very good, according to company spokesmen.

Find Mosquito Enemy

Michigan State University entomologists found a tiny, worm-like nematode that acts as a parasite in floodwater mosquitoes.

The nematodes either kill the mosquito outright or disrupt its reproduction cycle so it can't reproduce. The MSU scientists are now rearing parasites and mosquitoes in controlled-atmosphere chambers to improve nematode effectiveness.

Boy Scouts Plan

Waste Paper Pick-Up

Saturday, Sept. 13 is the date chosen for Boy Scout Troop 420's paper drive. The date was decided upon at their regular meeting.

A truck will be parked at the Stop & Shop store for those who wish to drop off papers.

Residents may call the following people to make arrangements for papers to be picked up: Dick Seyfried at 475-2761, Art Stoll at 475-8846, Carmer Slocum at 475-8186, Cecil Clouse at 475-8562, or Dan Foytik at 475-8813.

STAINLESS STEEL IN FABRIC

Stainless steel may be featured in feminine fabrics of the future. Research shows that if only 1-1000th of an inch of stainless steel is used, lint-free, static-free and shock-free fabrics will be available. High cost of manufacture is the current holdback.

Pleasant Lake Flea Market Without Fleas

What is a Flea Market? That seems to be a very popular question today, and Mrs. Gary Hansen of Pleasant Lake would like to answer.

The reason for their answer is the question is that they recently opened just that, a Flea Market, at the completely new Barlett's at Pleasant Lake off of Highway 106 on the large dance floor.

Its name is G & W Flea Market. The initials for the first name of Gary and Wanda Hansen.

The origin of the name Flea Market came from about 10 years ago in Paris, France. Merchants put their wares out on sidewalk to sell, and fleas would eventually gather on the wares. The people that bought the home with new merchandise fleas.

Mr. and Mrs. Hansen would like to announce that booths are up, and that they may be ready and booths will be donated church or civic organizations. They will be donated on a come-first served basis on designated days.

Hansen was formerly Chief Police in Dexter, in 1948, and writes for television.

The Hansens would like to mind those that are interested that due to modern sanitation methods there will be no fleas on the market, but they hope see a lot of people with their bargains participating in the venture.

Scientists Search for Alfalfa Weevil Control

Five parasites, natural enemies of the alfalfa weevil, are being tested by Michigan State University entomologists. But until suits are final, best bet is chemical control. Almost non-existent in Michigan fields in 1966, weevils numbers were estimated at 2.8 million in 1968, and no end to population explosion is in sight.

"Consequently, I had to use television queen pageants as a model to follow," she said. "Even to having a celebrity emcee."

Other members of the committee are Mrs. Arthur Steinaway, who handled all the correspondence, and is in charge of selecting judges, along with Mrs. Gerald Blough, handling gifts and flowers. Publicity chairman is Mrs. Don Proctor, who is also in charge of the informal tea to be held Saturday with the contestants and judges.

It took a lot of planning and a lot of hard work put into making Saturday an evening the candidates and residents will remember.

AGRICULTURE in Action
by L.L. Wood

Unity With Purpose
Over Michigan from the In-Ohio borders to the Upper Peninsula, outstanding farm leaders have agreed to drop their farm for days at a time to represent their neighbors on the Michigan Farm Bureau's Development Committee. The important job—to study, help and help decide which hundreds of county policies will be debated by the Michigan Farm Bureau's House of Delegates at the Michigan Farm Bureau's 10th anniversary meeting of the Michigan Farm Bureau—Nov. 10-12—is the job of this representative of actual, active farm combine, correlate, discuss and finally agree upon a program of work for the big organization.

don't care if we all agree among ourselves, as long as the policy proposals are in the best interests of agriculture reflect what farmers want," said Elton Smith, president of the Michigan Farm Bureau (and himself a Kent County farmer) in opening the session.

The occasion was the first in a series of five meetings involving preliminary planning, search background, and the eventual writing of policy proposals. During all committee members will firmly in mind that national farmers represent a minority less than six percent of the population, that even so, the voice of agriculture is a vital voice, that farm programs and farm plans must be heard, examined and understood by the non-farm majority.

Unity with purpose—might be the key phrase guiding this important policy development process. In unity, policies can and do move into legislative decisions of major importance. It is to the farmer's credit that these pressures have been aimed at farm programs consistent with the national good.

Michigan farmers recognize the need to work together to achieve their goals. That is the serious and strength the farmer-organizations take with them to Policy Development sessions.

That's the beauty of such a committee. It is a group of serious-minded, actual operating farm-folks working together for the common good.

Time To Spare

By GERALD ANDREWS - Retirement Adviser

Some Answers to The Money Problem

Any retired couple without the funds to make ends meet have two basic solutions. They can try to build an extra income. Or they can decide to cut their living expenses—make do with less money.

Mary and Mac O'Hara of Clearwater, Florida, took the second route to financial stability. Their methods could be helpful to others. So, here's a capsule account of what they've done.

First, as to that address. It might have been some other place than Clearwater or even Florida. The problem was simply to find a Southern site where some of the wintertime expenses of the North could be forgotten. And Clearwater filled the bill.

Second, living quarters. The O'Haras invested in a trailer. Not as expensive as a house, and quite big enough for the two of them. Mary O'Hara makes sure of getting value for every penny she spends. One of her rules is: "Never buy anything at regular prices."

In other words, she keeps an eye on sales and bargains. "Grocery Stores here, for example, have twice a week specials. Over six weeks these specials will include nearly all items. I shop Tuesday and Fridays, buying a little extra of anything we can store."

The O'Haras never call in a repairman unless there's some problem too big for them. Smaller things are handled on a do-it-yourself basis.

"Do-it-yourself? We could write a book! I wash, cut, and set my own hair, and give myself permanents. Every two weeks I cut Mac's hair. A good set of barber's clippers cost us $15 and paid for themselves in a few months."

Yes, the O'Haras have a car and a television set. These are two amenities they can afford because of their care with the rest of the budget.

In short, they do not live the life of the hermit or the recluse. They enjoy quite a pleasant existence. And they do it on $160 per month.

Michigan Hay Dealers Will Benefit From Change in Beetle Quarantine

Michigan farmers and hay dealers will benefit from recent changes in cereal leaf beetle quarantine regulations. New rules will permit shipment of quarantined commodities from Michigan to most states east of the Mississippi river without treatment.

B. Dale Ball, director, Michigan Department of Agriculture, said the new regulations will significantly reduce the amount of Michigan's hay crop requiring fumigation before shipment.

Untreated Michigan hay may now be shipped with a permit to all states east of the Mississippi except Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Florida, Wisconsin, Louisiana, and Mississippi; some counties in Illinois; Michigan's upper peninsula, and small areas in the western parts of Kentucky and Tennessee. Treatment is still required for these areas.

Michigan's quarantined area, comprised of the entire lower peninsula, remains unchanged. The quarantine has been extended to include four more states, New York, Pennsylvania, Indiana, and West Virginia. In addition, two counties in Maryland, two in Virginia, and other areas in Illinois and Kentucky are now quarantined.

Regulations are administered in a co-operative program of the Plant Industry Division, Michigan Department of Agriculture, and Plant Pest Control Division of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Cereal leaf beetle, one of the most destructive pests of growing grains; feeds on oats, barley, wheat, rye and some grasses. It was discovered in southwestern Michigan in 1962, the first time the pest had ever been seen outside of Europe and adjacent areas. Since 1962, natural spread to the south and east has occurred at a rate of about 60 miles annually. Westward spread has reportedly been extremely slow.

Much of Michigan's hay crop goes to Florida, which still requires fumigation. Dean Lovitt, Plant Industry chief, reported. Lovitt said beetle populations in the southern half of the lower peninsula have been heavy this year, necessitating the spraying of oats, and, in some areas, wheat. Populations in southwestern Michigan are particularly intense, and beetles have fed heavily on fields of late-planted corn, he added.

HEROIN BY AIR
Two seizures of heroin at John F. Kennedy International Airport totaled over 14 pounds of the narcotic. In one case, Treasury Customs Port Investigators found 2 kilos (4.4 pounds) taped to the courier's body. The nervousness of another arriving traveler aroused the suspicion of a Treasury Customs Inspector. A search uncovered about 4 1/2 kilos (nearly 10 pounds) of heroin in a plastic container under his clothing. His problems were compounded by the discovery that he carried a false passport.

SO THEY SAY
Many a man works hard to keep the wolf from the door. Then his daughter grows up and brings him home.

What's a nice car like you doing in a sale like this?

Pity the poor car that's loaded with banners, signs and stickers at model closeout time. You'll never find one of our beauties plastered with promises. It's so unnecessary. When all a car buyer really wants is straight fact. So without any ballyhoo, here's what we have.

Skills Workshop Sessions Slated By Council of Churches

The second annual Skills Workshop sponsored by the Ann Arbor Washtenaw Council of Churches, will be offered Saturday, Sept. 13 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Zion Lutheran church, 1501 W. Liberty, Ann Arbor. The workshop will be available to all workers in religious education from the entire county. The theme will be

"Expand Your Horizons." More than 200 leaders took advantage of workshop number one, held a year ago, and a larger response is expected for the forthcoming event. Seven individual workshop courses will be provided. "Use of the Bible with Children" is the first one. It will be taught by Dr. Lowell B. Hazard, professor of Old Testament, Wesley Theological Seminary, Washington D. C. Dr. Hazard is writer of the Children's Curriculum Material for the United Methodist Church.

The second course is entitled "The Classroom Happening." The leader will be Miss Shije Orhan. Miss Orhan is a consultant in curriculum development evaluation for the Birmingham Public School system. She comes to the workshop in co-operation with the University of Michigan Extension Service.

Course number three will be "How to Love" (being sensitive to the feelings of young people). The leader will be the Rev. Lee Schomer, minister of the United Church of Christ, Dexter, and a doctoral candidate in adult education at the University of Michigan.

The fourth subject will be "Help for the New Teacher." Teaming up to lead this discussion will be the Rev. Wallace Robinson, associate minister of the West Side United Methodist church and a member of the Detroit Conference Christian Education Fellowship and the Rev. Walter Arnold, associate pastor of Trinity Evangelical Lutheran church in Ann Arbor and an experienced leader in group dynamics.

The fifth course is "Expressive Art and Activity" to be led by Professor Elaine Godfrey. Professor Godfrey is supervisor of art education at Eastern Michigan University and a state consultant in art. The course will deal with learning to use crayons, finger-paints and clay in creative ways.

Mrs. James D. Nixon will lead the sixth workshop on "Creative Drama Techniques," pointing out ways in which drama may be used within the classroom setting for children. Mrs. Nixon spent 10 years with the National Council of Churches Drama Workshop and has been the director and producer of TV programs in drama.

The seventh course will be on "Puppets." Mrs. John Rozaboom, the leader, is currently in the Saginaw Public School Systems but was formerly with the Mott Children's Program in Flint. The general chairman of Skills Workshop number 2 is Miss Ann Tyler, director of Children's work for First Methodist church Ann Arbor. Chairman of the sponsoring department of Christian Education of the Ann Arbor Washtenaw Council of Churches is the Rev. Cleo Y. Boyd, an instructor at Washtenaw Community College. Dr. G. Merrill Lenox, executive director of the Council, is in general charge of plans.

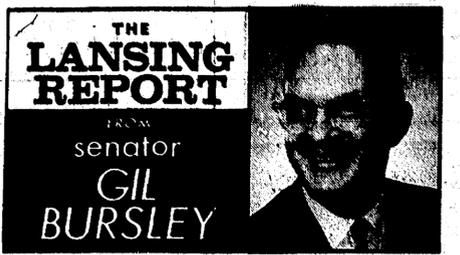

Dr. Lenox, who has been involved in programs of several councils of churches throughout the country, said, "I have never known of a finer workshop program than the one that is being offered this year to church leaders in Washtenaw county. It is my earnest hope," he continued, "that large numbers of teachers and church school workers will take advantage of this extraordinary opportunity. The leaders we have obtained," he said, "are some of the best available in the United States."

Workshop registration fee of $5 will include the cost of the luncheon. Many churches will pay this fee for those who are registering for the workshop.

A workshop limited to "Adult Counselors and Advisors with Junior High Youth" will be held a week earlier at Bethlehem United Church of Christ from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. In charge of this workshop will be the Rev. William C. Wright, minister of education at Bethlehem church. This workshop for workers with Junior High School Youth has been set up in response to insistent demand over the county.

"Many times we throw up our hands at just what can be done with these children who are outgrowing childhood but yet not true adolescents," declared the Rev. Wright. He said "This workshop is an endeavor to help the who are giving of their time and energy to guide these young people." The registration fee for this workshop is $2.50 including the cost of the luncheon.

How does a bill get passed in the legislature?

It is an oversimplification to say it 1) gets introduced, 2) is discussed in committee, 3) is debated and voted on the floor, and 4) is sent to the governor for signature.

Let me give you a thumbnail sketch of an important bill that it was my responsibility, as chairman of the Senate Committee on Corporations and Economic Development, to carry through the legislative process this past session.

The bill in question was designed to rescue the Michigan home-building industry by removing for a limited period the straight-jacket, on mortgage interest, known as the Usury Law.

In January I introduced Senate Bill 124 which was promptly referred to my committee. I was the sole sponsor as no other legislators wanted to put their names on it and risk the ire of the AFL-CIO. After public hearings, and with some amendments, the bill was reported out of committee. On the floor, I gave the necessary arguments and explanations. The bill passed the Senate by 27-8.

So far so good. In the House it was referred to the Committee on Private Corporations.

Again hearings were held and finally the bill was reported out but a tempest of controversy had arisen as at least half a dozen different special-interest groups were putting on the pressure. For some two months, the bill was at the head of the House calendar but each day was postponed because the proponents didn't think the votes were there. Finally after a long-drawn-out debate, and cluttered up with crippling amendments, the bill failed by 44-57 votes. A move to reconsider the vote was tabled but with 60 votes (a majority of the members of the House elected and serving) it could again have been taken off the table and voted on by the House. Frankly, the session was coming to a close and I could see the bill was never going to be resuscitated.

Now let me explain the rescue operation. House Bill 2071, amending the same Usury Statute on behalf of Michigan-based stock-brokers, had passed the House early in the session with relatively little attention. It would have affected only limited number of persons. This bill had been referred to my committee—Corporations and Economic Development. At my request, the bill was reported out of committee without recommendation, and therefore it was on the floor of the Senate but would be taken up only if someone moved to take it off the table and could muster a majority of the Senate votes. As committee chairman, this decision was pretty much left up to me.

From the beginning, I had envisaged H. B. 2671 as a vehicle to which the guts of S. B. 124 (lifting the ceiling on home mortgage rates) could be attached as an amendment if S. B. 124 ran into trouble in the House. Now let me explain one other complication. The Michigan Constitution says that any banking legislation must obtain a two-thirds vote in the legislature. (All other legislation needs only a majority.) Was this amendment to the Usury Statute "banking legislation"? The Speaker of the House had ruled that it was not and that a majority of 65 votes was all that was needed in that body to pass the bill. In the Senate we had originally passed S. B. 124 by more than two-thirds and the question had never arisen.

So now we come back to H. B. 2071. During the last week of the session, I moved to take the bill from the table and then offered the necessary amendments on the floor to include the content of S. B. 124. The opposition questioned the germaneness of the amendment. The presiding officer, after referring to Mason's Rules of Parliamentary Procedure, ruled that the Senate itself could vote on germaneness. We won this vote and the amended bill was passed on to Third Reading, which means final discussion and vote.

At this point the opposition asked the President Pro Tempore to rule on whether the Senate was considering banking legislation. As presiding officer, he ruled it was banking legislation and a two-thirds vote would be needed. This time we obtained exactly the needed 20 votes for the two-thirds. The amended House bill then went back to the House to see if they would concur in the Senate amendments. We had also given the bill "immediate effect" meaning it would become law the day the Governor signed it rather than 90 days after adjournment. For this particular bill, immediate effect was essential for the bill to do any good at all. Home mortgage loans were needed immediately so that construction could begin during the summer months. Immediate effect also requires a two-thirds vote.

In the House, after much debate, a compromise amendments were agreed to and the House returned the bill to see if the Senate would agree to the amendments to the amendments—which were quite all right as far as I was concerned.

We were now at the last afterthought of the session and two essential "you" votes in the Senate were absent. We then overruled the decision of the Chair requiring a two-thirds vote and, on the final vote, got just the necessary majority of 20.

The bill was then returned to the House where, by a show of hands, a two-thirds vote was obtained for immediate effect. If this letter vote had been a record roll call in the House, there would never have been enough votes to pass the bill. Governor Milliken has now signed the bill. It is law.

Almost every step I outlined above was far more dragged out, far more difficult to achieve, and subject to far more pressures than space permits to recount.

So now if YOU are a bit confused, bear in mind that this happens in Lansing and it is no wonder that legislators, themselves, are sometimes confused.

FAILURE Millions are afraid of it. It haunts many down and leaves them in broken pieces. Because of the dread of it many worthwhile ventures are never undertaken. It leaves a social stigma matched by few other things. And certainly a failure is rejected and relegated to a lower place in our society. What's wrong with failure? Why is it that so many fear it? Why is it that it has such a hold upon us?

Why Do We Fear Failure I guess that the reason many folks fear failure is that they have never learned that failure need not be fatal nor even final. One of the greatest men who ever served this country was a failure in business. Falling in business, he turned to law and was nominated as a candidate for the legislature of his state. His enemies made fun of him. He was so poor that in making his campaign speeches he wore a mixed jean coat so short that he could not sit down on it; flax and tow-linen trousers, straw hat, and pot-metal boots. He read under the trees a bare-foot man and slept on the counter of the store where he worked. He had nothing in the world except his character and friends. He had to borrow money to buy a suit of clothes to make a respectable appearance in the legislature after being elected, and he walked one hundred miles to take his seat. His name was Abraham Lincoln.

What's wrong with failing? By whose standards do we judge failures? Could it be that some failures "heard the sound of a different drummer" and thus are in step and we are not? It was said that the Nazarene Carpenter was a failure, you know. They passed him by as he hung on the cross and made fun of him. He who was to save the world couldn't even save himself! He was to institute a Kingdom, He said, but the only kingdom that He had was made up of a bunch of rag-tag, hob-nob, run-of-the-mill cowards who ran out on Him. So they left Him that day on the cross against a darkened sky outside Jerusalem. That was the end of Him, they thought. Even His closest friends considered His cause a failure. They went back to their old jobs. But did he fail? How Do We Judge Failure We had better be careful how we judge failures. For it could very well be that history will record our "failures" as men who most succeeded.

Again, what's wrong with failing? If a man dreams a great dream, sets out in search of it, gives it his best, but doesn't quite reach it, what's wrong with that? Who is the failure, the man who gives his best to the best there is in him or the man who likes security so well he is afraid to try? I'm going to try a lot of things in my life if I live long enough. The challenge will be great and the odds will be greater in most of them. The chances are that in some of them I will fail. But that will not stop me from trying. I have an idea that He will not judge me by how high I rise but by how hard I try. And if, after giving my best, I do not make it, I will not have failed.

Failure? It's just a stepping stone to success.

critters has endured. It is probable that the legend kills a few people, by creating panic that causes a lost person to exhaust himself, running in circles.

Michigan Indians had no fear of any wild animal, except the cougar, which was found in this state 200 years ago. Old narratives indicate that cougar had killed Indian children on occasion.

In the past century there have been two deaths caused by animal attack in Michigan, the animal in both instances being a black bear. In the 1940's a little girl was killed in the Upper Peninsula and, back in the 1870's, a man was killed in Cheboygan county by a bear he had wounded.

Michigan has one species of venomous snake—the massasauga rattlesnake. They are rarely encountered and, after giving fair warning, prefer to glide away rather than strike.

There comes from California the report of an animal attack that conceivably might occur in Michigan; a three-year old boy, bitten by a wildcat on a poultry farm. The child developed symptoms of rabies. Ontario has had minor outbreaks of rabies in recent years, although Michigan seems to have been free of the disease for some time.

There is just one thing to be borne in mind in case any animal, wild or domestic, makes an unprovoked attack on a person. The skull should be saved, undamaged, so that the brain may be examined for signs of rabies. This may save the victim from the necessity of taking painful preventive shots.

Michigan has more bears than it had 50 years ago, when the black bear was without any legal protection. A black bear is an unpredictable beast, and common sense precautions are called for in dealing with the species.

Garbage dump bears have lost their fear of man. If you are watching bears at a dump, stay in your car. Perhaps the odds are 1,000-to-one against a feeding bear molesting you, but why take even that kind of a chance? Carl T. Johnson, a member of the Department of Natural Resources Commission and a leading member of the Michigan Bear Hunters' Association, probably knows as much about black bears in the wild as anybody. He tells what to do if you come upon a bear that might make trouble.

"The bear is in his own territory," says Johnson, "and he represents an intruder. So try to let the bear know that you are leaving. But do not turn your back and run. Walk rapidly away, keeping an eye on the bear. Do not expert climber. A department expert climber. A department expert, a woodsman who knows bears, met up with a bear on an old road in the Upper Peninsula. The bear came toward him. He backed up a mile to where he had left his car. Along the way he picked up an old oil can and as he retreated, he banged on the can with a rock. The bear kept following him, but did not attack."

Now then a city police department gets a desperate call from a citizen, terrorized by an enraged bird—a sparrow hawk. This hawk, no larger than a robin, will attack anyone coming near its nest, and sparrow hawks nest in city back yards.

Omitted from this inventory of dangerous animals in the insect tribe—including wasps, hornets and black flies and mosquitoes. Early settlers suffered from malaria, transmitted by mosquitoes, although Michigan mosquitoes no longer carry the disease.

Stinging insects can cause serious trouble to people who are allergic to their venom. It is well to keep children away from stingers.

Two Seniors Home Again After Summer in France

Two Chelsea High school seniors spent the summer in France with French families in and around Paris during their French Club sponsored vacation.

Heidi Sprague, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sprague, 3430 Clear Lake Rd., and Bobbie Dvorak, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Dvorak, 18893 Waterloo Rd., spent eight weeks of the summer living in France. They returned Sunday, Aug. 24.

Both girls flew to France on the same plane, landed in Paris and then went their separate ways to see different parts of the country.

Heidi's first week was spent with the Ribault family in a small village just outside of Paris. The family took her on a grand tour of the city during the first few days, then took her on vacation with them for the next three weeks on the Mediterranean.

She then went to stay with the Lavavasser family again and vacationed with them in southwest France, bordering on the Atlantic, and then to northwest France.

Heidi particularly noticed the outside of Paris, and vacationed with them in southwest France, bordering on the Atlantic, and then to northwest France.

Cash's election breaks a two-year reign of Bill Freehan as "King Tiger"; the Tiger catcher was the winner in 1967 and 1968.

"Stormin' Norman" will be crowned and runnerup Northrup honored in a pre-game ceremony on the 9th annual Fan Club Day, Saturday, Sept. 6. The Tigers and Baltimore Orioles will meet at 1:15 p.m. that afternoon.

Miss Betty Nawrocki, president of the Norm Cash Fan Club, and Miss Rosemarie Lunek, who heads the Jim Northrup fan club, will assist Miss Finazzo with the ceremony.

Members of all fan clubs certified on Aug. 1 will be guests of the Tigers on Fan Club Day, entering at Gate 3 upon presentation of printed fan club membership cards.

Fan Club Day was inaugurated in 1961, when Steve Boros was named as the first "King Tiger." Since then, the honor has gone to Mike Roark in 1962, Freehan in 1965, Hank Aguirre 1964, Don Wert, 1965, and Dick McAuliffe 1968.

Seventeen-year-old Bobbie Dvorak spent most of her time with the Fromm family at Alsace-Lorraine, near the German border. Her home was close enough to Germany that she could see the country's mountains from her window.

"Heidi saw a lot of places," she said, "but I met a lot of people."

She attended a wine festival and saw two very popular French entertainers.

She said that when she was coming back from Germany, right at the time they were going through customs, they received word that the Apollo 11 astronauts had landed on the moon.

"It was such an exciting sensation," she said. "And I was very, very proud. The French people that I met were also very proud, and it was the main topic of discussion for a long time."

"I certainly was glad to be an American," she said.

Heidi also commented on the friendliness of the French people, and said that they did everything they could to make her feel at home.

"Even to the point of saying a few English words, when they could not speak the language," she said.

The final week of Heidi's trip was spent with the Sports family in Paris. Claude Sports was an exchange student who attended Chelsea High at the beginning of this year.

The trip for the two girls was sponsored by the Chelsea High French Club, with donations from Dana Corp., the Kiwanis Club, a local chapter of the UAW union, and an anonymous donor.

Norm Cash Honored as 'King Tiger'

Detroit—In a poll of the more than 3,000 members of the Tigers 45-registered fan clubs, Norm Cash has been selected as "King Tiger of 1969."

Jim Northrup was the runner-up in the teen-ager fan club election.

Results of the balloting were announced by Miss Benay Finazzo, president of the Tiger Fan Club Association, which conducted the poll.

Cash's election breaks a two-year reign of Bill Freehan as "King Tiger"; the Tiger catcher was the winner in 1967 and 1968.

"Stormin' Norman" will be crowned and runnerup Northrup honored in a pre-game ceremony on the 9th annual Fan Club Day, Saturday, Sept. 6. The Tigers and Baltimore Orioles will meet at 1:15 p.m. that afternoon.

Miss Betty Nawrocki, president of the Norm Cash Fan Club, and Miss Rosemarie Lunek, who heads the Jim Northrup fan club, will assist Miss Finazzo with the ceremony.

Members of all fan clubs certified on Aug. 1 will be guests of the Tigers on Fan Club Day, entering at Gate 3 upon presentation of printed fan club membership cards.

Fan Club Day was inaugurated in 1961, when Steve Boros was named as the first "King Tiger." Since then, the honor has gone to Mike Roark in 1962, Freehan in 1965, Hank Aguirre 1964, Don Wert, 1965, and Dick McAuliffe 1968.
