

TALUS Plan Sees 50,000 Population for Chelsea By 1990

Effort Made To Co-ordinate Chelsea Planning Staff Efforts

Summary 1980 land use plan for the Southeast Michigan Regional Planning Council of Government (SEMCOG) was presented to the Advisory Council on Regional Planning of the Southeast Michigan Council of Government (SEMCOG).

Dr. J. V. Fisher, chairman of the Chelsea Village Planning Commission, said that the TALUS plan came as a complete surprise to Chelsea officials. "The information meeting Thursday night was the first the Planning Commission was made aware of any regional plan that included Chelsea," said Dr. Fisher.

However Will Hardy, chief of the information services of TALUS, states that a letter acknowledging the ongoing work of TALUS was sent in Fall, 1967, to all village councils and bodies of government in the seven-county area of SEMCOG. "We invited questions and stated our willingness to meet with local planners at their convenience," said Hardy. "Items have also appeared in the press whenever there was progress to report."

Hardy pointed out that TALUS worked mainly with county planning commissions, since meeting with the 400 or more individual township and village governments in Southeast Michigan was an impossible task.

"We expected the Washtenaw County Metropolitan Planning Commission (WCMP) to represent local planners of this area to TALUS," said Hardy. "In addition, we met with Manchester planners, for example, when they requested a visit."

Fred Barkley, secretary of the Chelsea Planning Commission, can recall no letter ever being received from TALUS. "But the County Planning Commission was long aware of the ongoing planning in Chelsea," said Barkley. "They sent me to help Chelsea form their planning commission when I was a staff member of WCMP." Barkley has since been transferred to the Jackson County Planning Commission and also serves on the Chelsea Planning Commission.

Thomas Fegan, director of WCMP, notes that TALUS has involved Washtenaw county very little. "The structure of the TALUS program is based primarily on the population diffusion of the region," said Fegan. "Since Washtenaw county has only 8 percent of the population in the study region, we had about 8 percent to do with the planning."

"Either my staff or I have been asked periodically to meet with the TALUS staff and discuss aspects of the study," added Fegan, "but we were not members of their Technical Study Team and did not have a vote."

The Chelsea Planning Commission has been working for more than two years on a local plan for the future expansion of the village. In March, 1967, they contracted the planning consultant firm of Parkins, Rogers & Associates, Inc., to prepare a base map, a determination of "community objectives, policies and standards," a community attitude survey, a review of published reports and studies, a field survey and a five-part land use study.

The final report of the Chelsea study is expected from Parkins, Rogers & Associates on Oct. 2. The local plan includes a population projection for 1990 of approximately 50,000, a figure that contrasts sharply with the 50,000 projected by TALUS.

Dr. Fisher indicated that although the Chelsea Planning Commission is interested in co-operating with the regional planners, their primary concern is with Chelsea and the surrounding environment. "We know we can't go off and develop a plan independent of the larger region," said Dr. Fisher. "But we don't intend to set aside our three years of planning and let them walk over us."

Dr. Fisher has sent a letter to TALUS Sept. 22 noting the work done by the Chelsea Planning Commission and reiterating the question of a M-52 bypass that Fisher directed to Rubin at the Information Meeting, Sept. 18. Representatives of Chelsea, left the meeting early and thus had been unable to talk with Rubin.

Barkley, a professional planner, explained that the primary concern of TALUS had been with the heavily-populated area near Detroit. Specific plans for the Western half of Washtenaw county were probably formulated quite recently. "TALUS was under extreme pressure to come up with a plan by December," (Continued on page three)

Bulldogs Shut Out Dundee in Title Defense

The Chelsea Bulldogs opened their Southeastern Conference title defense with a 14-0 victory over the Dundee Vikings Friday evening. This was Chelsea's second consecutive shut-out of the young 1969 football season.

The first half of the game was marked by plenty of defensive action but no scoring. Chelsea failed in two field goal attempts, missing what had seemed perfect openings. The Viking offense was limited to only two first downs. John Porter and Tim Colvia both recovered fumbles in the first half.

The second half ushered in Bulldog determination to win. Taking the ball on their own 33-yard line, the Bulldogs drove 67 yards in nine plays for a touchdown. The long drive was climaxed by a 12-yard run around right end by Larry Gorton. Leading the way for Gorton were end Glen Wilkerson, flanker Art Farley, tackle Karsten Kargel and guard Richard Bollinger. The attempt for the extra point was made by Tim Orling.

Dundee bounced back in a last drive that brought them to Chelsea's 17-yard line. The Bulldog defense held for four downs to kill the Viking push for a touchdown. Key tackles were made by end Len Kozma, linebacker Paul Wenk and tackle Rod Powers.

Chelsea's next touchdown was set up by Co-Captain Tim Colvia who intercepted a pass on Dundee's 40-yard line. Gorton again scored on a 46-yard sweep at right end, cutting back on blocks by center Jeff Bust and tackle Tom Harmon. Chelsea then tried for the new two-point conversion. Quarterback Dave Corbitt rolled right and fired a pass to Wilkerson in the corner of the end zone for the two points, sending Chelsea to its final 14-point lead.

The Chelsea defense, as in the previous game, dominated action on the field. Linemen Porter, Karsten, Dennis Brown, Rod Powers and Len Kozma spearheaded a solid defense that yielded the scoreless session for the Vikings. Defensive halfback Tom Sukasiala played a steady game for Chelsea in his first varsity start.

Tomorrow Chelsea visits Novi, a non-league team with a one-and-one record. They romped over Hartland, 33-13, but lost to Dexter last Friday, 14-8. According to scouting information, Novi is expected to be a tough opponent.

GOTTLIEB SAGER examines the contract he made with a local farmer in 1916 to be employed as farm manager for the year. Sager worked on local farms from the time he was 14 until his retirement 14 years ago. He enjoys the village life now, but can still describe the by-gone days of the large, hand-operated farm typical of the time.

WHO WANTS TO GO BACK?

Gottlieb Sager Remembers 'Good Old Days' in Chelsea

The good ol' days are often referred to with a sign of nostalgia perhaps, or a yearning for the "simpler way of life." But how many of us really remember the old days in Chelsea? Gottlieb Sager, for one, can tell you how it was.

Sager was born June 4, 1884, and has lived in Chelsea since the time he could walk. He sat in the quiet lobby of the Sylvan Hotel where he lives now and talked.

Sager had hurried back from a late afternoon euchre game. He works mornings at the Methodist Home but manages to spend some leisure every day every day with his cronies.

"My older brother, Fred, came over from Germany when I was a baby and stayed with our Uncle Rothfuss in Sharon township. Our uncle had been a soldier in the Civil War. My father, Fred, Sr., joined my brother soon after. He had a good trade, stone-masonry, and soon he sent for the rest of our family. When I was 1 1/2 years old, my mother, Mary Ann, and by sister's, Catherine, Rose, Mary and Margaret sailed over to America to join father."

"At first we lived with our uncle, but soon we had our own home on Old US-12, in Chelsea, a dirt road in those days," said Sager. "We lived next door to the schoolhouse and every winter morning the schoolmaster, Schuyler Foster, would trot up in his buggy and come in for a cup of coffee."

Since the schoolmaster was an honored member of the village, young Gottlieb had the tacit duty of trudging over to the schoolhouse and building a fire in the woodstove, warming the room up before Master Foster set foot in it.

"The school was the one from variety," remembers Sager, "with students from five years old up to the few that stayed on through the eighth grade. A few of the graduates would go on to high school in Chelsea but I finished the eighth grade and went to work."

"We didn't play football or get together after school," said Sager. "Every youngster went straight home and helped with the chores. By the time supper was over it was bedtime and we were certainly ready. I had a sled for the winter time," he added.

"It seems as if the winters brought more snow then," recalls Sager. "The banks would come up to a man's shoulder and of course there were no county snow plows to clear the streets. Everyone got together and shoveled a path to the store and to the church."

"The grocery store was owned by a man named Blake," said Sager. "Our family belonged to the German Lutheran Church. The church building still stands on Summit St., but has been sold to the Immanuel Bible church. The church is now St. Paul United Church of Christ and meets in a new building."

Sager hired out as a farm hand by the month in his first years after graduation. At the turn of the century, "going visiting" was the equivalent of dating, and Gottlieb often visited the Visel family on the old Joe Weber farm in Sylvan township. The particular member of the family in whom he was interested was Bertha Visel and on March 2, 1905, they were married in her parent's home.

The newlyweds first worked on the Dick Clark farm for one year and then spent five years at the Albert Smith farm on Freer Rd. In 1912, they drove their top-buggy with their dapple-gray driving horse to the Sears farm on Dexter Rd. Howard Congdon, the bachelor nephew of Mrs. Sears, was trying to manage the farm and needed the Sagers to help. He had a contract drawn up by a local lawyer that outlined the benefits to be exchanged between them. Sager unearthed the original contract the other day and brought it out to show.

"This agreement made by and between Howard A. Congdon of the Township of Lima, Washtenaw County, State of Michigan party of the first part, and Gottlieb Sager, of the Township of Lima, Washtenaw County, State of Michigan, party of the second part."

"Party of the first part hires and employs party of the second part for the period of one year, said year dating from March 1st, 1912, to March 1st, 1913, for the consideration of the sum of three hundred and seventy-five dollars, ($375.00), said sum to be paid in cash."

"Party of the first part agrees to furnish party of the second part all his wood for two fires. Party of the first part also agrees to furnish party of the second part 385 pounds of pork on foot."

"Party of the second part also agrees to furnish said second party all potatoes for table use."

"Party of the first part agrees to furnish party of the second part with a garden spot to be taken care of by said second party."

"Party of the second part is to have milk and butter for table use."

"Party of the first part agrees to keep the house of party of the second part on condition that it may be used on the farm when needed."

"Party of the first part agrees to pay said second party fifteen cents (15 cents) per meal for all hired help, and party of the first part also agrees to furnish the dinner meat for the threshing crew."

"Party of the second part also agrees that if a hired hand is needed that he will board said man and do his washing for the sum of three dollars and twenty-five cents ($3.25) per week."

"Party of the second part also agrees to take care of the milk and cream."

"Party of the second part is to furnish half of the chickens and

Community Chest Drive Starts Oct. 20

The Community Chest Board set the dates for their 1969 fundraising campaign as Oct. 20 to Nov. 7 in a meeting Wednesday. They accepted the Budget Committee's request for a goal of $24,225, a 1.5 percent increase over last year. The increase this year is less than the approximately 9 percent increase in 1968.

Dr. Gene Miller was designated as chairman for the 1969 campaign.

The Budget Committee has been set up under the chairmanship of the Rev. Warner Siebert. Mrs. E. S. Michaelson, Gerald Wenk, James Liebeck, Mrs. Charles Popovich, Jr., and Conrad Hafner are serving on the committee.

A public hearing of the contract dispute between the Chelsea Education Association and the Board of Education will be held in the Chelsea High School auditorium today.

Dr. William Gould, the fact finder appointed by the Michigan Labor Mediation Board, is expected to appear at 3 p.m. today, Sept. 25, and begin fact finding proceedings.

The auditorium was chosen by the parties to the dispute in order to accommodate a public audience. The board room in the high school had earlier been suggested by the Board of Education but the CEA had requested larger accommodations.

The meeting is open to everyone interested in the dispute and its settlement.

Contribution OK'd To Help Storm Victims

The victims of hurricane Camille, which in August wrought disaster over much of the Deep South, will benefit from the donations of Chelsea Citizens. The local Community Chest voted Wednesday to give $200 to the Washtenaw County Chapter of the American Red Cross after a special plea for help in the wake of the hurricane.

The Red Cross is maintaining shelters in Mississippi, Louisiana, and Alabama for the many still-homeless families. 29 rehabilitation centers have registered 12,000 families for long-term assistance in rebuilding and repairing homes and replacing furnishings, tools and equipment. By Aug. 29, $1,300,000 had been spent by the Red Cross alone for food, clothing, and furniture distributed to the thousands who have lost everything.

An estimated 66,202 families in Mississippi, Alabama, Louisiana and Florida were affected by Camille. Damage has been estimated in the tens of millions and months will have to be given over to cleaning up for eventual re-building.

THE
 FROM
GIL BURSLEY

One of the most popular games in Lansing these days is trying to find out or guess what the legislature will have placed before it Oct. 6 in the way of educational reform—the main reason for the fall sessions.

While the Governor's special Educational Reform Commission has not yet completed its report, there have been enough "leaks" and loose talk among those "in the know" to get some idea of what will be coming up next month. That information I am at liberty to report although I cannot yet disclose what the Governor has told me directly in private conversations. I have made my own recommendations separately to the Governor as reported elsewhere.

According to most of these news leaks, the package to be submitted to the legislature will feature "centralization."

It will feature centralization by collecting more school money through taxation on a state level, disbursing money through a revolutionary school aid formula, and operating public schools through tighter control from Lansing.

Indications are that the commission will recommend trading lower local taxes for sharply increased state taxes.

It is reported that one study by eight university professors proposes increasing personal income taxes by 77 percent and corporate income taxes by 43 percent.

This report says the personal income taxes would increase from 2.6 percent to 4.6 percent and the tax on corporate income would rise from 5.6 percent to 8 percent.

Another suggestion—to raise more money for schools on the state level—would be to tax charitable, religious, educational and public lands and buildings.

This would be part of an overall attempt to close 46 existing loopholes on property taxes alone, according to one senator.

According to preliminary reports, in exchange for the added taxes, a ceiling of 20 mills would be put on local property taxes.

thus easing a growing burden that hits particularly hard at the elderly and the low income group.

Another proposal being studied would give householders an exemption on the first $3,000 of assessed valuation—about the same as now given war veterans and senior citizens.

Another report is that, if necessary to spur school construction, the proposal would be to bond the state for a billion dollars for five years. This, of course, would have to be approved by a vote of the people—not the legislature.

The centralization of operating procedures would be effected by reducing the number of intermediate school districts to 10 to 15 larger regional districts, which would be primarily concerned with handling special education, vocational education, transportation, curriculum consulting, data processing and central purchasing.

These regional supervisors would be appointed by the superintendent of public instruction.

This feature is likely to run into great opposition from those who feel that the department of education already has far too much control over local operation of schools.

One feature of the proposed reform that many teachers may not like is Governor Milliken's purported interest in upgrading teaching efficiency.

He has been quoted many times as questioning the quality of education in Michigan and feels that something should be done to upgrade teaching methods—and to set up a system of testing which will determine the effectiveness of teaching.

The Governor has noted that Michigan teacher salaries are third highest in the nation but that Michigan ranks quite far down the list of states in criteria showing the effectiveness of Michigan's educational system.

The Governor has noted that in the last six years financial aid to public schools has more than doubled but the enrollment has increased only 21 percent.

One of the proposals for revenue bonding payment of state aid to local schools would be to put it on a classroom unit concept geared to an average salary of $10,000 a year for a teacher with average classes of 25 children.

Education is the biggest problem of state government. This fall, there are about 2.7 million children in Michigan schools—including 240,000 in Catholic schools, 23,000 in Lutheran schools and 20,000 in Jewish and other denominational institutions. The rest are in public schools.

This year, the state is providing about $418 million for public school operations.

If the educational reform program is adopted—and it may have a rough road ahead—the state government undoubtedly will be providing a much greater share of financing for operations and construction of elementary and secondary schools.

FROM THE RANCH—

Ranch-raised minks account for the bulk of U. S. pet usage, which has nearly doubled every 10 years since the start of commercial mink ranches in the 1930's. In 1967 we used 10.2 million mink fur skins.

Politics being what they are you expect government to be what it is.

We Get Numb

When school opened at the beginning of September, teachers in more than 20 school districts went on strike.

The strikes made news. They were treated more as a normal occurrence and were chronicled that way instead of a spectacular and unusual happening. Outside of Michigan they weren't even noticed.

Yet, no more than five years ago a similar situation would have been a national headline and would have inspired columnists and editorial writers to write reams of evaluations.

One difference lies in the fact that two years ago the situation was much worse than it was—his year.

In addition, many other parts of the country have been hit by teacher strikes. They just aren't an oddity any more.

News, as the word itself says, deals with things which are new. Five years ago teacher strikes were new. Today they are old hat.

The same thing accounts for part of the heavy news play given to traffic accidents, though part of the play is the result of an attempt by newsmen to impress upon the public the need to be careful in a car.

When traffic fatalities first happened years ago, they were big news because they were both new and rare. When something becomes news, it stays news if it keeps happening, but gets less and less coverage the more it happens.

Whose House?

Gov. William G. Milliken hosted a reception at the Governor's Mansion and invited only Republicans.

Democrats immediately began complaining loudly that a building owned by the taxpayers should not be used for partisan political purposes. Their state chairman, James McNeely, said the legislature should set up guidelines for the use of the mansion so that such an occurrence would not be repeated.

Whether the holding of a political reception at the Governor's mansion is a good idea or not depends on which side of the fence you are on. It's probably safe to imagine that had the situation been reversed the Republicans would be complaining just as loudly.

The interesting point is that receptions of exactly the same type are held by governors in their mansions in many other states, and no issue has developed.

In those states, the mansion is considered sort of a reward for having the governorship in your party.

For example, in Nebraska earlier this year, Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann hosted a dinner on the lawn of the mansion for several hundred faithful Republicans. The guest of honor at the dinner was GOP National Chairman Rogers Morton.

Not one word of criticism of the party came from the Democrats, who were well aware of the whole affair.

The difference appears to be that Nebraskaans have had their governor's mansion long enough for it to have housed governors from both parties.

One could safely assume it would appear that after the existence of a state-owned governor's mansion in Michigan becomes a usual thing, both parties will use it in a similar manner.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

About this time last year, Mister Editor, they was a heap of talk about law and order. Personal, I allus figured politicians mean't their law and everybody else's order. All they was saying was they want everybody to think like they do, and that's really what everybody wants.

Since the big vote, we ain't saw much in the papers about law and order, but the fellers at the country store got the subject livened up again Saturday night. The discussion come up after Bug Hookum told the feller that runs the store he won't be none surprised if next Saturday night we find a big mean police dog garding the cheese and crackers. Bug said he had saw by the papers where sale of watchdogs is strong all over the country.

Clem Webster told Bug them watchdogs is in the spirit of the country. Too many folks think they got a right to steal whatever somebody is too dumb to gard. Clem allowed, and that ain't a new idee. Clem said a heap of folks in this world past and present was kept from being thieves by finding everything locked up. That's why pens in banks is chained to desks, and why outdoor stoves in parks is locked to concrete poles. The only difference now is that thieves is more brazen.

The real trouble with calling fer law and order, Clem allowed, is that everybody has a different idee what it means. Fer instant, the FBI says the crime wave is getting to be a flood, and they is right. But the FBI don't say that a heap of crimes today wouldn't of been crimes a few years back.

Bug was agreed with Clem. Every time Congress of a state legislature meets they make crimes out of new things. Bug had in mind special this law that makes it a crime fer a bank not to tell a feller how much interest he's paying. If a clerk in a store forgets to fill out forms that state a customer about charges on monthly payments he can wind up in the pen fer five year.

Traffic crimes is the biggest wave of all, Bug said, and it ain't cause more crooks is driving cars. They is so many cars on the road and so many laws like "falling to see intended move made in safety" until the wonder is any of us stays out of jail, was Bug's words. Bug said he hears tell it's a crime to build a back porch on your own house in town without a permit. He knows it's a crime to let yore dog run loose in town. A feller can go to jail fer fishing without a license, but he can dump sewage and chemicals in the water and kill the fish.

Personal, Mister Editor, I see where a Labor Department study shows ex-convicts has talents needed in business. I'm working on what kind of law and order they'd go fer.

Yours truly,
 Uncle Lew.

DEVELOPMENT of a totally new waste water purification process described as one that could revolutionize water treatment and help solve both water pollution and water supply problems has been announced by New York University civil engineers. It is a chemical-physical process that would replace conventional biological treatment and that promises to make large-scale water re-use a practical possibility. The researchers reported that in laboratory tests it purified raw sewage samples—from both New York City and a suburban Connecticut town—to a equivalent or better better quality than the average drinking water for most cities.

JV Gridders Victors Over Dundee, 38-0

Junior Varsity gridders shut out Dundee Thursday night, 44-0, to keep Chelsea opponents scoreless in all football to this week.

Mark Collins made the first touchdown in the first quarter on a 67-yard run. He followed with another long run, 60 yards, to score another TD. Tom McKernan finished a drive with a two-yard run to bring the score to 24-0 at the end of the first quarter. Collins, McKernan and Dave Lukasik made the extra two points after every TD on conversions of two runs and a pass. Larry Hopkins and Collins each recovered a fumble.

The second quarter saw the second string pick up the ball, with Joe Aspiranti running in another TD to raise the score to 30. Jeff Schmidt recovered a fumble with Wayne Walton completing an interception.

A 56-yard run by Collins in the third quarter, completed by a two-point conversion by Tom Lixey, set the score at 38-0. Hopkins again recovered a fumble along with Ron Sweeney and Steve Bergman.

Dave Powers brought in the final TD on a four-yard sweep in the fourth quarter.

The first string of the Chelsea team was on the field for only 11 plays with the second team carrying out 30 plays. Mark Collins was leading rusher with 207 yards in carrying the ball only six times.

The offense moved well with the line of Ron Sweeney, Bob Wojcik, Jeff Schmidt, Larry Hopkins, Dan Schuelke, Ed Koenigter, Dave Lukasik and wingback Tom Lixey doing fine blocking.

The Junior Varsity team will go for a third win today at a home game with Novi. The game begins at 7 p.m.

LEONARD E. McDOUGALL stands ready to step into his new job as patrolman for the Chelsea Police Department. McDougall joined the force this week and fills a vacancy created when Officer Siebert started military service.

New Officer Joins Police Force

The Chelsea Police Department has hired an additional patrolman, Leonard E. McDougall. McDougall, 26, joins the Chelsea force with three years of experience as a deputy with the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department behind him.

McDougall left Ypsilanti High school in 1961 to join the Marine Corps. He served in the Far East including Laos, Europe and later in the Brooklyn Navy Yard and was discharged a Lance Corporal. As a Deputy Sheriff, McDougall twice received a departmental citation. One was awarded for his rescuing a mother and her two children after their boat capsized in Ford Lake. The Detroit News chose McDougall as "Policeman of the Month" in their one-time series that honored local law officers.

McDougall was a member of the County Sheriff's Scuba Diving Team as well as their Pistol Team.

REFINISHING FURNITURE

One of the major problems in furniture refinishing is getting that old paint finish off. One easy way of doing this is with the chemical paint removers that wash off with water. These paint removers contain an emulsifier that lifts off the remover and the old finish when combined with water. After you have applied the remover and followed the directions, you can simply wash off the old finish and the wood surface beneath should be perfectly clean. Many of these new paint removers are non-flammable and leave no wax residue on the wood.

which competes with other county teams.

McDougall left the Sheriff's Department for factory work in search of a better salary than that of a county deputy. He found little to enjoy in the factory, however, and is glad to return to law enforcement duties. He could not return to his former job since the Sheriff's Department has a rule that prevents former deputies from rejoining the force until after a period of two years has elapsed.

McDougall lives in Ypsilanti with his wife, Mary, and their son, Joseph, 2.

Today's homemaker has a different pattern of food buying than her grandmother did. She chooses lighter foods for breakfast and leaner meats for dinner.

Personal Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lake of Umatilla, Fla., who spent the summer with their son and family at Williamston, were overnight guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donovan Sweeney and left Wednesday of last week for a trip west to California before returning to their home in Florida.

Wednesday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Donovan Sweeney were Mrs. Ora Smith of Morenci with her son, Eddie Venor and his friend, Ricky Mullenax, both of Palm Desert, Calif.

Spaulding Benefit

A houseware product demonstration will be given Thursday, Oct. 2 at 8 p.m., at St. Paul United Church of Christ, Old US-12, with the proceeds going to Spaulding for Children Auxiliary.

It will be open to the public. Many special gifts will be given. A representative from Spaulding for Children will be present to answer any questions regarding the Agency and refreshments will be served.

Junior High Has 17-Game Win Streak

The Junior High football team enjoys a very impressive record. They have been undefeated for four years and will go into their 1969 season on the crown of a 17-game winning streak. What a record like that, one might term it a "hot-streak" continued.

The Milan Junior High team and Chelsea Wednesday to challenge Chelsea control of the situation. The score was not reported in press time, but all bets are on Chelsea. The team will play the games this season on Wednesday at 4 p.m. on the high school ball field.

Bert Kruse and Pat Wade are the happy coaches of this extraordinary football squad.

The rich and well-to-do naturally believe that they should rule the country.

Tax Bafflegab

All over the state of Michigan and the United States taxpayers are showing signs of revolt. People are rebelling against the tax crunch and are showing their resistance by turning down one bond issue after another.

School districts are having to shave budgets and urban and rural areas find themselves at the end of the rope on taxation. Voters are not in a mood to put up with heavier burdens and politicians at all levels are having to pay attention to the clamor against tax increases.

It's no wonder state legislators are "banging their heads" together for creation of some new tax design that will fit smoothly into the total tax structure without sinking the ship of state. It's not an easy job. In doing so, tax law complexities emerge to mount a peak size for most people when just trying to comprehend the tax language, let alone the real issues and problems.

In fact communicating ideas can get downright sticky when discussing taxes between lawmakers and us mere mortals. Mr. Citizen who is rebelling for relief from the inequitable property tax, for example, is easily trapped in the "bafflegab" of tax law complexities.

Take, for instance, a Tax Reform Act of 1969 (H.R. 13270) in Washington D. C., "Limitation on Deductions of Individuals."

The instructions begin: "(A) General Rule—If a taxpayer (other than a corporation) has allowable expenses for a taxable year, the deduction otherwise allowable under this chapter for such expenses shall be disallowed to the extent of an amount equal to the lesser of:—"

(If you're still with it, read on.)

(1) The aggregate of such expenses multiplied by the section 277 fraction, or (2) the allowable tax preferences, (b) Section 277 Fraction. For purposes of this section, the section 277 fraction is the fraction—the numerator of which is the allowable tax preferences and denominator of which is the sum of the allowable tax preferences plus modified adjusted gross income." (Ya gotta be kidding—this is diagnosed as communication breakdown!)

Despite almost everyone's recognition of needed tax reform, discovering what we already have in tax laws adds to tax reform difficulties.

IN THE OPEN

Biologists have a list of "endangered species"—birds and mammals that will presently be extinct: the alligator for example, since a Florida native can make more money in one night, killing alligators, than he could earn in six months by legitimate toil. An encouraging sign some of the big New York dealers in feminine fashions have announced that they will no longer handle items made of alligator hide.

Michigan has seen the disappearance of a number of wildlife species. On the prairie areas of the southern counties, adjoining the Indiana border, there were bison in the fur-trade era. They were elk in the region between Detroit and Saginaw Bay. Prairie

Deer, Plaintiff, against Jo Ann Gil Dean, Defendant, in this Court to obtain a divorce and that the last known address of the Defendant is 27 June Avenue, Bay City, Michigan. The Plaintiff, Jo Ann Gil Dean, answers on or before the 10th day of November, 1968. Failure to comply with this order will result in a judgment by default against such defendant for the relief demanded in the complaint filed in this Court.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that a copy of this Order be published in The Chelsea Standard at least once each week for four consecutive weeks and further that the Defendant may be notified of the pendency of this action and her obligation thereto by mailing on or before the date of the second publication a copy of the Order to the Defendant at her last known address.

Order to Answer
At a session of said Court held in the County Building, in the City of Ann Arbor, Michigan, on the 4th day of September, A.D. 1968.

Honorable Ross W. Campbell, Circuit Judge.

chicken were abundant in parts of the Lower Peninsula. Michigan fur bearers included the marten and fisher, both members of the weasel family. Both species were virtually exterminated in Michigan. In recent years the Natural Resources Department has imported marten and fisher from Canada and released them in wilder parts of the Upper Peninsula. Whether they will reproduce and flourish remains to be seen. Foresters are hopeful that the fisher can be restored because the fisher is about the only animal that preys on porcupines, and porcupines damage and destroy young trees.

The timber wolf, symbol of the wilderness, was the state bird of extinction until the state bounties on dead wolves. Now the wolf has legal protection. A few remain on the Upper Peninsula mainland, and Isle Royale in the northwest part of Lake Superior has about 25 wolves that prevent the island moose from becoming too numerous for their food supply.

There is a bounty on bobcat in the Upper Peninsula. In lower Michigan the bobcat is enthusiastically hunted with dogs, and it is reported that many hunters refrain from killing a bobcat, but let it escape to give hounds a run on another day.

The lynx was an endangered species that seemed to have been wiped out, although Elsworth M. Harger, wildlife biologist at the Cusino Wildlife Research Station in the Upper Peninsula has compiled reports that indicate the lynx are coming back, possibly crossing over on the ice from Ontario.

When bounty hunters used poison on bait for wolves, fox and coyotes, the raven was killed off in the north. Now the raven is no longer endangered, but is a flourishing species, probably because highway killed deer provide ample food.

Another picturesque Michigan bird is the pileated woodpecker. This giant of the woodpecker family requires old, decaying trees, and as timber harvesting proceeded, the pileated woodpecker—known to native woodsmen as "cock of the woods"—became scarce, but is now fairly common in the northern counties.

What was listed as the last Michigan wild turkey was killed near Saginaw more than 70 years ago. The wild turkey has been introduced from native stock in other states, and there is now an open hunting season on turkey.

Should the pilot blacksnake be listed as an endangered species? Snakes have few friends, but the blacksnake, sometimes attaining a length of six to eight feet was a spectacular member of Michigan fauna. There are still blacksnakes in Michigan, but they don't live long enough to get very big.

An endangered Michigan species that is gravely missed is the American eagle. Like the osprey, the eagle is apparently a victim of hard pesticides, found in fish, the chief food of both eagle and osprey.

Michigan has a rather mysterious bird that has become increasingly rare—the spruce grouse or fool hen. These birds were never abundant, and they made no effort to avoid gunfire. Their flesh was rank, from feeding on spruce buds. Yet over the years the spruce hen has just about vanished from the Michigan scene. Drummond Island had a fair number of spruce hens. There were spruce hens on the Seney Wildlife Refuge. The last I recall seeing were north of Newberry while with Lloyd Schenauer of the D. N. R. on a deep trip, looking for wolf signs.

It may be too early to start worrying about another endangered species, homo sapiens. Man, like other animal species, is in danger when population pressure keeps mounting. We humans are too numerous, and we poison the air we breath, the water we drink. We permit fertile soil to be drained away and our food resources are by no means unlimited.

However, scientists, and the general public, are aware of these perils. We are talking about them. We are planning cures for these evils. Therefore there may be as much hope for humans as for ravens and elk.

SUNDAY'S SERMON
★ We and Others
It was Mark Twain who said "Nothing so needs reforming as other people's habits." How true these words ring when we consider the attitude that many of us take when we judge the actions of our fellow man.

Nearly all of us are more aware of the faults of others than we are of our own shortcomings. We know why it is that we react in a certain way to a particular situation. We have a plausible "excuse" or "reason" for whatever it is that we do. Our fellow man does not always get the benefit of the doubt.

We would all do well to take an impartial look at the face we see in the mirror, to more closely examine our contributions to the world in which we live and the role we have chosen to play in community and in family life.

If we apply the principles of Christianity to everyday life, we institute a program of "fair play" that serves as a guideline for determining not only our own course of action, but as well influences our attitude and our relationship with contemporaries.

MISPLACED NILE MONITOR

Philadelphia—The pilot of a jet plane almost ran over a four-foot Nile monitor while landing his plane at Philadelphia International Airport. Air officials did not know how the lizard-like reptile got on the runway so they turned it over to the Philadelphia zoo.

S-Sgt. Gary White Awarded Air Medal For Act of Heroism

U. S. Air Forces, Thailand—U. S. Air Force Staff Sergeant Gary A. White, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester H. White, 210 Island Lake Rd., Chelsea, Mich., has received the Airman's Medal for heroism involving voluntary risk of life.

Sergeant White earned the medal while assigned to Selfridge AFB, Mich., when he rescued a woman from a burning automobile in Selo township, Mich.

He has served with the famed 8th Tactical Fighter Wing "Wolfpack," at Ubon Royal Thai AFB, Thailand, since March 1969.

Sergeant White, who received the medal in recent ceremonies at Ubon, was cited for his courageous action and humanitarian efforts.

He was driving through Selo township when he observed an intense flash in his rear view mirror. The car following the sergeant had been struck from the rear and its gas tank had exploded.

The sergeant observed a young woman carrying a child away from the flaming wreckage. Another woman, who had been injured in the blast was still in the car.

Sergeant White acted quickly and at the risk of his own life, to pull the remaining passenger from the flames to safety.

A 1965 graduate of Chelsea High school, the sergeant attended Jackson (Mich.) Community College.

His wife, Linda, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Blanchard, 5160 Happy Hollow Dr., Manchester, Mich.

If I switch from oil heat to gas, I can heat more modern. Right? Wrong.

Oil and gas are equally modern. Their efficiency is rated equal by the Public Housing Administration. Switching fuels won't make your heat more modern. Switching oil heat service and equipment will. Change to new Standard Oil Hot Line Service. We give modern service. And our AMOCO Home Comfort Equipment is as modern as that offered by other fuels, or more so. Why waste hundreds of dollars converting? Think of all you'd rather do with the money. Get more facts. Call Hot Line. It can save you plenty.

Don't buy the "gas line" until you call Hot Line.

The 1970 light-your-fire Buicks are here.

They're just for you. The cars you've been asking for. From Buick 1970.

This one is the GS 455. Sleek, sporty, exciting.

Its engine? 455 cubic-inches. 350 horses strong. With a four-barrel carburetor that breathes through real air scoops.

Four on the floor? A finely tuned 3-speed automatic? Both are available. Power disc brakes. Positive traction differential. High performance rear axle ratios, too. And lots more.

Wide-tread fiberglass belted tires that are standard on all 1970 Buicks give improved traction during braking, cornering and acceleration; significant increases in tread life; and substantially superior resistance to road hazards. Side guard beam construction for added protection. Body by Fisher.

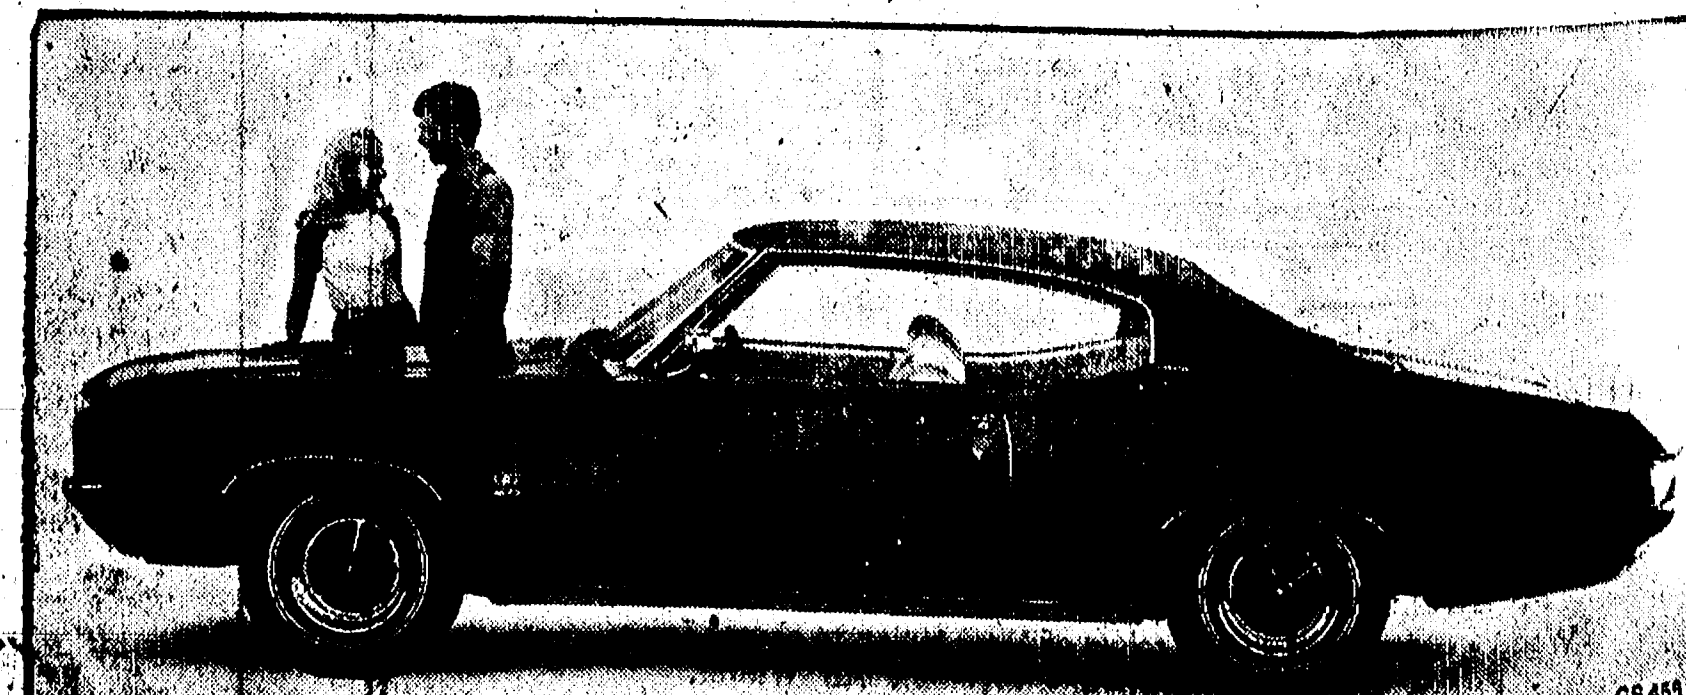

There's luxury, too. Bucket seats, if you want them. Full carpeting.

Obviously the most exciting car we've ever made.

Administration Studies High Teacher Turnover Problems

Chelsea Public Schools are again beginning a fall semester with a large portion of their teaching staff composed of new members. The Board of Education has filled 30 vacancies for the school-year 1969-70. Last year 33 teachers were recruited to replace those who had left.

A break-down of the reasons for leaving the employ of the Chelsea schools at the end of June, 1969, has been compiled by the school administration and throws some light on the turnover. Nine teachers left for other teaching positions in Michigan. Their reasons for changing to another school are not known, but it is clear that their interest in teaching has not dissipated.

Two teachers gave up teaching

Frosh Eke Out Tie With Mich. Center

A late fourth-quarter touchdown by Jeff Daniels enabled the Chelsea freshman football team to tie their season-opener against Michigan Center, 14-14, Tuesday night.

The final touchdown was set up as a host of Chelsea defenders, including Dan Schulze and Harold Allen blocked a Michigan Center punt on their one-yard-line. On the next play from scrimmage, Daniels took the ball in for the score.

Chelsea scored first in the ball game on a four-yard plunge by Daniels after several long runs by Bruce Guster. Tim Lancaster prepared the final effort for the TD. Michigan Center followed with a TD to tie the game at six and six until the second half.

In the second half several mistakes by the Chelsea team let Michigan Center take the lead for the first time. With 1:45 minutes remaining in the game, the Bulldogs came to life and blocked the Michigan Center punt to tie the game.

Coach Jim Tallman said of the game, "I thought the boys showed promise and that with some improvement in certain areas we should have a successful ball club." Tallman felt that the high point of the ball game was the "tremendous effort put forth by our defensive halfbacks, Bruce Guster, Jeff Daniels and Tim Lancaster."
