THE LANSING REPORT

FROM senator
GIL BURSLEY

That the legislature adjourns to take soundings back in their districts on the proposals under consideration in Lansing. We plan such a break this mid-November. Either Governor Milliken's educational "reform" program will have cleared hurdles in one of the houses or it will be evident that there is too much disagreement and it will be necessary to take it up again in January. I have found no one who buys this program exactly as introduced. We are making progress but we're far from a consensus as to what is best for Michigan's school kids.

I expect to use the last two weeks in November to further work on those educational bills for which I am responsible as vice-chairman of the Education Committee and also in getting ready legislation for the January session. We should properly spend weeks in preparing legislation before introducing it, or else we lose weeks of time after the session starts.

A very high proportion of a legislator's time is spent in handling special problems for his constituents. Last week-end I had over 50 telephone calls at home either in parochial ones on a proposal to remove the sales tax exemption from purchases of farm equipment—a proposal to which I am opposed.

This work with constituents is one of the most interesting and rewarding parts of the job. But it comes at all hours of the day and night and week-end. So don't think that a session break—a recess—at the beginning of the deer hunting season means a holiday for all legislators. I think almost all of us will still be very much on the job.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Ain't it a wonder how we ever got along afore Government and private agencies got to studying and reporting ever move we make and ever thought we think. We are the most analyzed people they ever was, but ain't many of us happier cause of it.

The feller took up this matter during the session at the country store Saturday night, and they was full agreed we got to take all these tests and predictions with a big grain of salt.

For instint, Bug Hookum said back when TV first came out somebody said all the younguns would get malocclusion, which is their front teeth turning in from proping their chins in their hands while laying on the floor watching TV. Bug said he is yet to see a malocclusion, but now everybody is worried cause by the time a youngun is 15 year old he has seen 18,000 people killed in TV shows.

Bug said he wondered who figured out the number of killings. Probable it was the same survey outfit that predicted them malocclusions. Not too long back, Bug said, he saw where eating fruit afore it is ripe causes a hard wad in the stummock that has to be took out with surgery. Bug said if this was so ever boy that ever lived would of had them things from eating green apples.

Our brains and our blood, our social lives and sex lives, our heart and our habits, and even our unconscious has been studied, surveyed and analyzed, allowed Bug and all it has got us is more things to worry about going wrong with us. When a feller knows he ain't nothing but 50 cent worth of acid, water and mineral it takes some of the kick out of living, was Bug's words.

All this ain't jest happening to people, said Clem Webster. He had saw where the Department of Agriculture has give a $50,082 grant to a university to study the cause and cure of wore out shirt collars. Clem was of the mind that the reason is, the Government is taxing us to pay for a so many grants until we ain't got the price of a new shirt left.

Another study Clem reported on deals with the economic status of the bald eagle, and he said most folks didn't even know they has one. A professor got $1,000 to find out if eggs talk to one another afore they hatch.

Personal Mister Editor, I ain't too strong on researching the sex life of spiders. And I see where this zoologist in England has found that birds has "definite immoral tendencies," which I take to mean some of 'em git in the wrong nest sometimes.

I can't help wondering what the birds would have to say if they researched our nesting habits.

Yours Truly,
Uncle Lew.

Osteopaths Advance

As far as members of the osteopathic profession are concerned, 1958 has been quite a year.

At the start of the year there were more than 2,000 osteopaths in the state. But, at the same time, they had no schools to train osteopaths in Michigan.

Now, one school is in operation in Pontiac and the legislature has authorized Michigan State University to organize a school of osteopathy.

State Rep. Josephine Hunsinger, D-Detroit, has been the chief legislative supporter of the osteopaths and thinks the situation is "wonderful."

The two-college status now enjoyed by Michigan osteopaths was not planned and almost will certainly end soon.

It is expected that when Michigan State's osteopathic program is in full swing, the Pontiac school will be closed and the students and facilities transferred to East Lansing.

The fledgling Michigan College of Osteopathic Medicine (MCOM) at Pontiac was created only after the osteopaths grew weary of waiting for legislative action. After waiting for so long, they went ahead and built a $500,000 basic science building at Pontiac with donations.

The school opened its doors this fall with an initial enrollment of 16 students.

Meanwhile, the legislature passed a bill to give the school $240,000 in state funds and a second bill to create a state-supported osteopathic school at one of the three state medical colleges.

The $240,000 appropriation bill was vetoed by Gov. William G. Milliken, who then signed the bill to affiliate an osteopathic school with one of the three state medical schools.

Michigan State was awarded the osteopathic school this fall by the State Board of Education, which had been given the authority to make the final decision.

The other two eligible schools were the University of Michigan, which said privately it didn't want the school, and Wayne State, whose conditions for acceptance weren't acceptable to the osteopaths.

At both places the existing medical schools have been in operation for a while and are established, but MSU is just starting its medical school. It's no secret that most physicians and osteopaths could learn to love each other more, especially the older ones. The opportunity for harmony at a new medical school is considered better.

Lesinski Faces Decision
The Chief Justice of the Michigan Court of Appeals, former Lt. Gov. T. John Lesinski, is faced with a dilemma as he contemplates his future.

Lesinski thoroughly enjoys his job on the Appeals Court and there aren't many things that would prompt him to leave it. One of those things, however, might be a seat on the State Supreme Court.

And next year is an election year with two of the justices on the high court up for re-election. Lesinski candidly admits he is thinking about running for the high court, but he hasn't come close to making up his mind yet.

"I guess part of the question involves whether you want to be a big fish in a small pond or a smaller fish in a bigger pond," he says. "As chief justice of the Appeals Court I'm a big fish in a smaller pond. As an associate justice of the Supreme Court, I'd be a smaller fish in a bigger pond."

Lesinski says age also is affecting his decision. "I'm in my 40s," he says, "and when you're a lawyer that's about the last chance you have to build up a private practice. So I have to consider that too."

"It's just something we'll have to consider for a while before making any decisions," he says. "All I can say now is that I'm seriously considering it."

Washington Report
by Congressman
MARVIN L. ESCH

The urgent first order of business in the U. S. Russian arms limitation talks starting this month should be a total ban on use and possession of chemical and biological weapons.

Such weapons are hazardous to test, store and transfer, even in peacetime. They reduce our security rather than enhance it, diminish our standing as a humane people and threaten the very existence of mankind. The contention they serve as a needed, effective deterrent to enemies, despite their admitted ugliness, is simply not true; as was borne out by a thorough analysis of the problem by a Republican Task Force I have been serving on.

Use of biological weapons raises the truly horrifying prospect that an attack by one nation could start an epidemic which would rage unchecked, observing no boundaries and destroying friend and foe alike.
Even if the immediate damage is minimized there is constant danger that lingering effects will wreak havoc in the area for many years.

Mere possession of these weapons also gives rise to the wildest sort of rumors about what is being developed secretly and how it may be used. They breed fear and distrust, almost as much in our nation as in other countries. There is in the United States a deep abhorrence to chemical and biological weapons. We should listen to this concern.

To this end I urged President Nixon last week to consider scrapping all chemical and biological weapons. I was joined by 15 fellow Republicans in this request.

I specifically asked the President to give careful consideration to U. S.
Ratification of the 1925 Geneva Protocol against first use of poison gas; to publicize results of future research on chemical and biological weapons and to declare that the U.S. will never use such weapons under any circumstance.

In some ways, electric heat is better than warm summer sunshine. For one thing, it's even the year around. And it stays that way during weather changes. Also, with electric heat, drafts and cold floors become a thing of the past. With flameless electric heat, you'll never wake up in the morning feeling dried out. You even get an operating cost guarantee. In writing. If you'd like a free estimate of installation and operating cost, we'll arrange for an Edison Approved Electric Heat Contractor to call on you. Naturally, there's no obligation. Convert to electric heat. Winter will never be the same.

Erastus Chief Chef-Paul Mann tests the flapjacks (right) while Apprentice Chef William Rademacher lets his hotcakes turn to talk to Probate Court Judge Rodney Hutchinson. ## Former Everett Rural School Destroyed By Fire Tuesday

The former Everett rural school, on the east side of Chelsea-Manchester Rd., opposite the intersection of Grass Lake Rd. six miles south of Chelsea, was completely destroyed by fire Tuesday, together with its contents. The building had been used for the storage of hay.

Fire Chief James Gaken said yesterday that arson is suspected.

The fire was discovered shortly after 5 a.m.—Chelsea firemen were called at 5:25—and was brought under control at 9 a.m., Gaken said. The fire smoldered all day and into the evening hours. After dark the blaze was noticed by several people who called in to report a fire; however, the owner, Paul Bauer, had alerted the fire department that he was watching the blaze carefully and would call the department himself if it got out of control. A pile of ashes and the foundation wall are all that remain to mark the spot where the school building had been a landmark.

It is believed the building replaced an earlier school built in 1839 or 1840. Land for a school building was given to the school district—No. 4, fractional, Sharon Township—on Feb. 9, 1839 by George Lathrop. The lease was renewed April 22, 1845 by Norman Cummings and Dec. 19, 1925 by the late Joseph Mayer, owner of the farm for many years. His son, Elmer Mayer, who was a longtime supervisor of Sharon township, and his wife took over management of the farm following their marriage and moved there in 1921. He assumed ownership of the farm after his father's death. Mrs. Mayer taught in the Everett school for several years. The farm home is across the road from the former schoolhouse. The present owner bought the farm in 1964 following the death of Elmer Mayer.

The school received its name from the pioneer Everett family who lived on the farm south of the Grass Lake Rd. corner. Early records of the school were lost when the home of a school director, the late Otto Mayer, was destroyed by fire in 1921. Situated approximately half way between Chelsea and Manchester, the district was divided by vote of the electors of the district Aug. 28, 1863, the northern part being annexed to Chelsea and the southern part to the Manchester School District.

The site, originally given for the construction of a public school and to be the property of the district as long as it was in use for school purposes, reverted to the farm when the school closed and the district was divided between the Chelsea and Manchester districts. Elmer Mayer owned the farm at the time and was the successful bidder when the building was offered for sale. Since then it has been used for storage purposes.

Car Disappears With Prospective Customer On Demonstration Drive

Chelsea village police report a car stolen from Palmer Motor Sales Monday afternoon. The gold-colored 1967 Ford Falcon was taken by a man for a "demonstration drive" from which he failed to return. The man is described as about 40 to 45 years of age, six feet tall and weighing about 240 pounds.

GRASS FIRE

The Chelsea Fire Department answered a call late Wednesday afternoon to douse a grass fire on Riker Rd. About five acres owned by Robert Barnes were burned over.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

About Living

Foolish is the individual who thinks he is a self-made man and can find no one to share honors with when accolades come his way. Every man needs some kind of help and encouragement along the road to success.

Equally foolish is the individual who operates on the theory that "It's my life and I shall do with it what I want." The free man has a right to choose, but with that right and equal obligation to observe his rights and privileges of his fellow man.

Freedom of choice is not freedom from responsibility. The teenager, for example, anxiously awaits the legal age of adulthood, expecting that something marvelous will happen; but comes to discover principally a new number of responsibilities, a new set of values.

Guidelines for successful living were set down long ago in the Ten Commandments. The wise man knows them, one and all.

TODDY and FRAN

You'll remember we talked about the state contest to choose a Miss Cosmetology a while back; we think you'll enjoy the follow-up information that our gal Fran placed second when she competed in Lansing with representatives from other shops throughout Michigan. Of course we think you always enjoy the kind of personal attention all of our operators give their customers. You're a name, not a number, here. We feel after a visit or two you'll think of whichever girl who does your hair as a friend—with your best interests in mind when she takes you under her wing. You'll look forward to coming back—and if you don't, feel free to talk with us about it. We honestly aim to please.

National Family Health Week Focuses on Family Physician

National Family Health Week has been proclaimed for Nov. 16-22 in legislation signed by President Nixon Oct. 15.

The legislation, introduced as a joint Senate-House resolution by the late Senator Everett Dirksen and physician-Congressman, Dr. Timothy L. Carter of Kentucky, asked the President to proclaim National Family Health Week to focus attention upon the family physician. The observance notes the accomplishments of the American health care system and particularly the doctor providing medical care to the entire family.

Robert Young, starring as a family physician in the new television series, "Marcus Welby, M.D.," will serve as honorary chairman of the Week. The series, which opened this fall on ABC-TV, highlights the role of the general practitioner within the medical structure.

Dr. Edward J. Kowalewski, president of the American Academy of General Practice, which sponsors National Family Health Week, stated, "One of the greatest needs for the improvement of our health care services is an expanded role for the highly-trained family doctor to serve as the physician of primary contact with American families."

"Our goal is to provide every family with a doctor dedicated and trained to treat the family as a unit and its individual members as total human beings," Kowalewski continued, "responsive not only to physical factors in illness, but also to the psychological, emotional and cultural factors that affect health."

Dr. Kowalewski pointed out that the specialty of Family Practice was approved in February, 1969, as the 20th primary medical specialty, by the Advisory Board for Medical Specialties and the Council on Medical Education of the American Medical Association. Since then 23 residency programs have been approved by the AMA to train candidates for certification in the new specialty.

In Congress, Representative Fred B. Rooney of Pennsylvania and 35 co-sponsoring House members this year introduced legislation to set up a three-year, $320,000,000 grant to develop medical school facilities for expanded enrollment in family medicine.

This new specialty, the first to be created since 1940, is designed to produce a new breed of family specialist, to attract greater numbers of medical students, and thus reverse a 25-year decline in primary physicians.

Family Practice medical students are more interested in people than pure science and research, and will gain tremendous satisfaction from family medicine, supporters of general practitioners believe.

Book Fair at Beach School Starts Nov. 17

Dwight E. Beach Middle School in Chelsea will sponsor a student book fair from Nov. 17 to Nov. 21. Students and parents will be able to browse and purchase books. The book fair will be open during school hours, 8:15 to 3:30 and Tuesday and Thursday evenings, 6 to 9 p.m. Books will be on display in the library.

The book fair committee invites all students, parents and visitors to attend the fair. The fair will not only help spur student interest in reading and building home libraries, but will also contribute to a worthwhile project. The school earns 20 percent of all sales and profits will be used for purchasing library books.

The Library Club is sponsoring this event, with Mrs. Sheryl Pursel serving as book fair chairman. The committee includes Mrs. Barbara Brown and Ed Lathum.

The book fair display will include attractive new books from many publishers in all popular price ranges. All reading areas of interest to students will be represented, including classics, fiction, biographies, adventure stories, science, nature, craft, mystery and reference books. The committee is working with Educational Reading Service, a professional book fair company, to furnish an individual selection of books for the fair.

R DON'T TAKE YOUR EYES FOR GRANTED

There is much more to good vision than people realize. Better vision can mean greater ability in every aspect of life. Although under normal circumstances your eyes will serve you as long as you live, it is important that you protect them with proper care.

Periodic check-ups are a necessity whether you wear glasses or not. Avoid strain by having the proper glasses (if you need them). Use proper lighting when reading, working or watching TV. Protect your eyes against glare. Rest them when they are tired. Sometimes a soothing eyewash or eye-drops can be helpful. We carry many of them in our pharmacy.
