Musical Play Opens Tonight At Fairgrounds

The curtain will rise on Cole Porter's "Anything Goes" at 8 p.m. tonight, and for the Chelsea Players, the moment will mark more than the opening of their summer theatre production.

After the local theatre group was denied use of Chelsea High's auditorium when the Chelsea school board ruled school buildings could not be used for outside activities following the June 13 millage defeat, it was forced to look elsewhere for a place to stage the musical.

The result of these efforts will be viewed tonight, when the 35-member cast of "Anything Goes" presents the play on a plywood platform over a dirt floor in a converted cow barn at Chelsea fairgrounds.

At the front of the stage in what is commonly called the fairgrounds green building, will be an orchestra pit, dug out by John Link, a local contractor. His original 5'x9' pit was later extended to a 10'x15' pit by two local youths, Bob Martin and Bart Bauer, who used backhoes to complete the extension. The pit is 22 inches deep.

Directed by Gina Descenzo, "Anything Goes" will be presented Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m., in addition to tonight's opening performance.

A shipboard romance, complicated by an assortment of third parties, is the essence of the musical. "Anything Goes" takes place entirely aboard a luxury liner, a setting which has been meticulously followed by set designers for the Chelsea Players.

Norm Bauer is technical director for "Anything Goes" and David Prohaska is lighting director for the three-night run.

Headlining the all-star cast will be Julie Prohaska as Hope Harcourt, a beautiful American heiress; Doug Foreman as Sir Evelyn, her English fiancé; and Jeanette Tobin as Mrs. Harcourt, Hope's mother.

Others aboard the S.S. American, which is sailing from New York to London, are Kathy Treado as Reno Sweeney, an ex-evangelist; and Marcia Warren, Colleen Lewis, Sue Frisbie and Sally Vaught, portraying members of Reno's band of notorious angels.

Characters adding to the confusion are Doug Beaumont as Billy Crocker, a broken-down broker who stows away to break up the forthcoming engagement between Hope and Sir Evelyn; Bob Hodder as E. J. Whitney, also a stockbroker and Billy's boss; Todd Wurstler as "Moon Face" Martin, public enemy number 13; and Julie Vorus as Bonnie, "Moon Face's" moll.

Filling out the passenger list are a bishop, a steward, a reporter, a purser, a cameraman, Ching Ling, Chastity, Charity, Purity, Virtue, sailors and a captain.

A 25-member orchestra directed by Ann Lee will augment the production with such familiar tunes as "I Get a Kick Out of You," "It's D'Lovely," "Take Me Back to Manhattan," and, of course, "Anything Goes." Another featured attraction is the tap dancing chorus line which will send out a beat of rhythmic shuffles throughout the two-hour performance.

Tickets for "Anything Goes" may be purchased at Palmer Ford in Chelsea or at the door prior to performance time. Immediately following tonight's opening, an "Afterglow" for cast members and the opening night audience will be held. Tickets to the "Afterglow" may also be purchased at Palmer Ford.

PONY LEAGUE PIRATES: Equipped for battle on the baseball diamond, these members of the Pony League Pirates were described by league director Joe Rossi as a tournament standout in last week's Chelsea Pony League Tournament. In an impressive show of strength, the Pirates eliminated the Giants from tournament play, following an 8-3 loss to the Braves. Seated in the front

Auction Added To Sidewalk, Art Fair Plans

Display booths will line the streets along Main, Middle and Park as Chelsea's 5th annual Sidewalk Sale and Art Fair gets underway Friday and Saturday, Aug. 5-6. Hours for the festival will be 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. on Friday, and 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. on Saturday.

An old-fashioned auction, craft demonstrations and retail bargains will highlight this year's event. The auction, to be held Friday night, Aug. 5, will feature many valuable items donated by Chelsea merchants. Proceeds from the auction will be used to offset last year's Bicentennial debt.

According to Karen Johnson and Eve Policht, co-ordinators of the Sidewalk Sale and Art Fair, everything featured in fair booths will be hand-made. Some 80 artists will exhibit samples of their craft ranging from such items as jewelry, pottery and glasswork to paintings and sculpture.

Among the craftsmen who will demonstrate their talents are Peter Severn, a scientific glass blow-er for the University of Michigan who creates objects of art from glass when time allows and the spirit moves him; and Earl Whitner who travels nationwide to collect rocks which he then polishes, carves and cuts into gem stones.

Food booths will be strategically scattered throughout the downtown business district area, extending down Main St. as far as the post office. The most concentrated food section, however, will be on E. Middle. The variety of dishes to tempt one's palate will include knockwurst, home-made potato chips, honey and tacos among others.

Coffee and doughnuts will be served in the VFW Hall on N. Main St. from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. Friday and Saturday, followed by a luncheon between the hours of 11 a.m. and 1:30 p.m.

All merchants with shops in the area will have merchandise on sale both inside and outside of their business locations.

Crash Victim Once Resided in Chelsea

Brian Stout, 17, one of six Plymouth youths to die in a tragic high-speed crash early Saturday on Dexter-Pinckney Rd., was once a Chelsea resident, according to the Rev. James Stacey, pastor of Chelsea Baptist church on Wilkin St.

The Rev. Stacey said the youth had lived in Chelsea about four years ago and that Chelsea Baptist church was the last church the youth had attended regularly.

"Brian had considered this his home church," the Rev. Stacey revealed Tuesday. "and when I last saw him, which was not too long ago, he told me he was considering coming back to live in Chelsea."

The pastor, who added that he knew the Stout family "really well," described Brian as "not at all the type to frequent places like the Anchor Inn, or engage in a lifestyle that included heavy drinking."

According to the Rev. Stacey, the fact that the accident victims bore the Anchor Inn ink stamp on their wrists, showing they had been at the topless nightspot in Putnam township in Livingston county prior to the crash, was "probably the result of a lark, typical for boys that age."

"Brian seemed to be going through a period of loneliness when I last saw him," the pastor recalled. A report in the Ann Arbor News stated all of the boys involved in Saturday's crash were considered popular figures in school and had grown up through grade school together. Brian had served on the wrestling team at Plymouth's Salem High school.

Funeral services for Brian were held Tuesday, 1 p.m., at Schrader Funeral Home in Plymouth. The Rev. Stacey, who attended the fu-

Six Youths Killed in Auto Crash

Just when it looked as if the Anchor Inn, Livingston county's controversial nightspot, had surmounted the final hurdle in its fight to stay alive, a tragic accident involving a number of minors reported to have been its patrons early Saturday morning, July 23, has placed the establishment in what may well be its most vulnerable position yet.

A late-model Buick carrying seven teen-agers failed to negotiate a sharp curve while heading south on Dexter-Pinckney Rd., three miles north of Dexter, at 1:37 a.m. Saturday, skidded 220 feet, struck a tree near the Wylie Rd. intersection and separated at the firewall, after which the front end of the vehicle shot 26 feet down the road and struck a second tree. Six passengers were killed instantly; a seventh, 16-year-old Donald A. Gillau of Canton, was injured and is reported in fair condition at University of Michigan Hospital.

Killed were the driver, Bradley L. Wilson, 16, of Plymouth; Douglas G. McGregor, 17, also of Plymouth; Eric A. Corey, 16, of Ft. Smith, Ark.; and Brian W. Stout, 17, William L. Cook, 17, and Steven H. Rades, 18, all of Plymouth.

It has been determined from the survivor's statement and from stamps found on the backs of the passengers' right hands that the seven had been in the Anchor Inn shortly before the accident. Since all but one of the victims were under the legal drinking age, the State Liquor Control Commission has been notified and is expected to investigate the possibility of violation. The Livingston County Prosecutor's office has also shown an interest in the case, according to the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Dept.

According to Sgt. Robert Aeillo of the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department, no false identification was found on the bodies of the youths which were pinned inside their car when deputies arrived at the scene of the accident. He further stated there would have been no reason for any of the youths to rid themselves of false identification prior to the accident had they used false identification to gain entry to the Anchor Inn.

Sgt. George Chapman, also of the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Dept., refused to go so far as to say that the driver's reactions were definitely impaired by the presence of alcohol in his system until more evidence is uncovered. He said, however, that speed was a definite factor, and added: "I'm saying alcohol causes speed." He declined to estimate how fast the vehicle was traveling until tests have been carried out.

This comes directly on the heels of two separate victories by the Anchor Inn over its opponents which appeared to insure its future as a leader of the local night-time entertainment scene. Early last week, Livingston County Circuit Court Judge Paul R. Mahinski refused to close the establishment on the basis that the noise level from rock music performed there created a public nuisance, saying that the level did not exceed the limits imposed by Putnam township's zoning ordinance.

On Wednesday, July 20, Putnam township supervisor John Schenden led township officials in striking

Circus Performances Scheduled Today

The Lloyd Bridges property, to the east of the Chelsea Fairgrounds will be transformed into a panorama of blazing lights, arresting stunts, sideshow attractions and a following canvas tent stocked with excitement as the Hagan Wallace-Sells & Gray Combined Circus comes to town today.

Sponsored by the Chelsea Community Fair Association, the circus will stage two performances only, at 4:30 and 8 p.m.

Tickets to the big, three-ring extravaganza may be purchased from any Fair Association member or at the entry gate prior to performances. Funds raised by the circus project will be devoted to civic and charitable activities of the local Fair Association.

For many years the Hagan & Wallace Circus and the Sells & Gray Circus toured America as separate shows. Now they have been combined into one larger circus with the many features of the two organizations plus many new attractions. Arena stars from around the world have been recruited for this inaugural tour of the new big circus.

From Hungary comes The Karolys, top bare-back riding troupe; from Spain The Estrada Family of teeter-board artists; from South America the Antonio Trio, amazing feats high atop a balancing pole; from the Middle East comes The Great Sampan, outstanding dexterity in the juggling art; Miss Mimi Zerbini, French queen of the high trapeze; Evy and Mark with their educated high school horses; Miss Marie France and her canine revue and Bonnie and Clyde with their unusual concert.

Wallace Fuslier, second from right. Joining the proceedings is John Williams, far right, Chelsea High school principal. The checks will be used to fund special education programs at Dexter and Chelsea schools. A remaining share of the barn dance proceeds has been earmarked for: High Point in Ann Arbor. Mr. and Mrs. Fuslier co-chaired this year's dance which was sponsored by the Lima Liberty Belles and the Lima Brushkatcers.

Barn Dance Raises $1,200 for Special Education Programs

These who attended the 4th annual Old Fashioned Barn Dance at the Charles Trinkle farm June 18 were united in at least one opinion that evening as "what a good time" and "hope they do it again" were the two most widely overheard comments coming from the crowd of 516 that gathered to dance to the beat of Luke Schaike's band.

As a result of their response,

Chelsea and Dexter Special Education programs, as well as High Point in Ann Arbor, will divide proceeds totaling $1,200 from the event.

The barn dance was sponsored by Lima Liberty Belles and Lima Brushkatcers, who organized four years ago in Dexter. They are break-off groups from Dexter's Sesquicentennial celebration. Also on hand that evening was the Dexter Kiwanis Sausage Wagon which made it possible for dancers to refuel for yet another promenade across the floor.

Now in progress are plans for next year's encore. In February of 1978, a meeting will be held to organize the 5th annual Old Fashioned Barn Dance, slated for the third Saturday in June. Anyone wishing to help plan the dance is invited to attend the February meeting which will be publicized at a later date.

NEW FAIR HORSE BARN: Included in the face-lifting project now underway at the Chelsea Community Fairgrounds on Old US-12 W., is the addition of this new barn being built on the east side of the cow barn, or green building, at the fairgrounds. When this photo was taken Tuesday afternoon, all trusses were up. A short time later, an aluminum roof had been secured atop the structure and aluminum siding was on its way. The $16,000 barn was expected to be completed by the end of this week. Local contractors for the project are Bob Bauer, John Kilink and Earl Heller, aided by their respective employees. Other changes to be made at the fairgrounds include tearing out the north side of the horse barn to make room for bleachers and adding pens on the south side of the horse barn, to hold sheep. A new arena for showing livestock is also planned for construction some time in the future. It will face north and south as opposed to east and west, the directions faced by the present arena. A concrete washing rack, to be installed on the east side of the horse barn, will complete the extensive changes prior to the Chelsea Community Fair, Aug. 25-27.

Business District Hit By Thief

Chelsea's business district was the target of a thief last Friday, according to official word from the Chelsea Police Department, which stated wallets were taken from the purses of several employees of downtown Chelsea stores. The victims had all left their purses unattended in or near the office areas of the stores.

Police said three wallets were removed by the thief between 12 noon and 3 p.m. One wallet contained $25, another, $45, and the third, $140. One wallet, minus its money, was later recovered in the men's room at Chelsea's 14th District Courthouse, leading police to believe the person guilty of the petty crime spree is a male. The matter is still being investigated.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The feller got off to a dreamy startin' their session at the country store Saturday night. Bug Hookum come with this study of dreams, and he reported that this one says dreaming is "a highly organized activity." Bug said this doctor found our brains keep right on working when we sleep, but the orders it sends out don't reach our muscles. This means we think we're doing somethin' when we're laying in bed fast asleep.

It was Clem Webster that said if this was the case he knew a heap of folks that are better organized asleep than awake. And as for sending signals to a sleeping body, Clem allowed, dreaming is nothing more than Government in action. We got people in all levels of Government dreaming up projects, but making things happen down here where we are is another matter, was Clem's words.

The feller talked on about the sleeping giant this country is, with all kinds of organized activity going on, but very little really happening. Ed Doolittle was of a mind that from the quality of most of that dreaming it's a good thing the body don't ever hear about it. Ed said he was thinking particular of a piece he had saw recent about public libraries. There is a move to do away with free public library services, and he said this would be nothing short of a nightmare. Ed said he hopes whoever dreamed up charging admission to the library not only can't get his message through, but he falls out of bed on his pointed head.

Ed said he knows better than Democrat Clem Webster that there ain't no such thing as a free lunch, but he said the mail and libraries are two of the most important services any Government can do for the people that the people can't do better for themselves, and any move to deny anybody use of either one is nothing short of criminal. Ed said there is some pun bad wrong with a society that can work up a campaign to get rid of pay toilets while campaigning to make folks pay to get in libraries. One thing that's wrong, Ed went on, is that we don't know when to stop after we lose sight of our objectives, jump on our horses and ride off in all directions. The American Library Association is talking about charging to git in libraries, and then charging for books. Instead of borrowing em, we'd have to rent em, Ed said. They are saying we need to do this in order to provide fuller public computer research in libraries. Ed said fergit the computers and let's come to our senses about libraries. If somepun ain't broke, don't fix it, and Ed was of a mind that the very backbone of this country is public education and free access to information. A public library, Ed said, is everybody's school.

Mister Editor, service stations charge for road maps and they got coin-operated air machines, and I see in a Des Moines bar you can put money in a machine that tells you if you're drunk — your friends won't tell you free. Most eating places now won't serve a free glass of water unless you ask for it, but I'm with Ed, we got to have free libraries.

Yours truly,

Uncle Lew.

Putnam Twp. Firefighters Back on Job

"Everybody is fairly happy with the way it worked out." With that statement, Lt. Gordon McIlvain of the Putnam Township Fire Dept. dismissed a situation which less than a week ago threatened to leave the township without fire protection because of friction between the firefighters and the township board.

The controversy pivoted around plans by the township board to establish offices in the basement of the fire hall while the upstairs remained in a state of disrepair. All 27 firefighters, including the chief and assistant chief, submitted their resignations during an emotion-charged meeting Wednesday night, July 20, along with a four-point list of grievances. Among other things, the statement denounced lack of co-operation on the part of the township board and protested the firefighters' status as "second class citizens."

Tempers cooled during a special five-hour-long meeting Thursday night, July 21, according to Lt. McIlvain, when a budget controversy regarding the purchase of replacement boots and coats for the fire department was settled and the township board agreed not to move into the basement until the upstairs of the fire hall is completed according to the blueprint. In addition, the board will comply with the firefighters' request to carry out a study concerning the feasibility of establishing the new offices elsewhere.

The Putnam Township Fire Dept. was back at work Friday, July 22.

Adjournment Delays Question

Bleary-eyed from lack of sleep and lack of progress, Michigan legislators went home for the summer at about 9 p.m. July 8 — leaving unresolved a bitter controversy over whether the state police should expand their city freeway patrols beyond Detroit to other metropolitan areas.

After days of futile trying to reach a compromise on the question, the state Senate adjourned in exasperation. And since the House could do nothing by itself, it too adjourned.

The abrupt adjournment followed about a week of work that sent some $3.5 million in budget bills to the governor's desk. The appropriations will fund education and government operations in the fiscal year starting Oct. 1.

But lawmakers were stymied on efforts to work out the state police budget. Everyone seemed to agree that state police patrols should remain on Detroit freeways. But Gov. William Milliken wanted to send similar patrols to freeways in Flint, Grand Rapids, Saginaw, Lansing and Detroit suburbs. The AFL-CIO, a union with strong sway in the legislature, said money should go to sheriff departments instead, so deputies could do the patrolling.

Efforts to mix the two ideas failed, either because lawmakers rejected them or Milliken indicated he would veto them.

Lawmakers may be called back this summer for a few days if Milliken and legislative leaders can break the stalemate. Otherwise, they'll have to try to work out the problem when they return from vacation Sept. 14.

PBB To Be Cut in Food

After months of work, an expensive bill aimed at removing nearly all PBB from Michigan food has won final legislative approval.

Gov. Milliken, who backed it all along as a safety precaution, is expected to sign it.

It could force the destruction of up to 34,000 more Michigan dairy cows, those estimated by agriculture officials to exceed the new, more stringent guidelines set for PBB in food.

The bill would slash the current federal set guideline of 300 parts per billion to 20 parts per billion. Farmers whose animals had to be destroyed because they did not meet the new standard would be reimbursed with state money for their losses.

Agriculture officials estimate the bill could cost up to $45 million over five years, but legislative sponsors say that figure is way too high. They are guessing between $16 million and $25 million.

Opponents of the bill said it was only a public relations bill, intended to make people more confident in Michigan food. They said the cost of the bill is too high and its potential benefit too small.

Although Milliken's administration formally supported the measure, individual bureaucrats—publicly and privately—said they thought it was unnecessary. Others alleged it was sparked by only political pressures, and that it came too late to protect the public health.

PSC Appointment Sparks Debate
Gov. Milliken's appointment of a black woman attorney to fill the Democratic spot on the state Public Service Commission has sparked ed a debate over the appointee's party credentials.

Democratic Party Chairman Morley Winograd says he never heard of Willa Mae King, 45, named by Milliken to the $30,000 a year job.

Milliken's top aides retort that perhaps Winograd should get closer to his party. They say it may be better to have somebody "on the utility-regulating panel who isn't running for governor."

Milliken was particularly irked at former PSC commissioner Bill Ralls, a Democratic gubernatorial candidate who gained political mileage by routinely opposing rate increases.

Mrs. King would be the first black woman to serve on the PSC, which sets utility rates for all Michigan citizens. Although she has never worked with utility-related or energy-related matters, Milliken says she is sensitive to keeping a balance between the financial health of utilities and consumers.

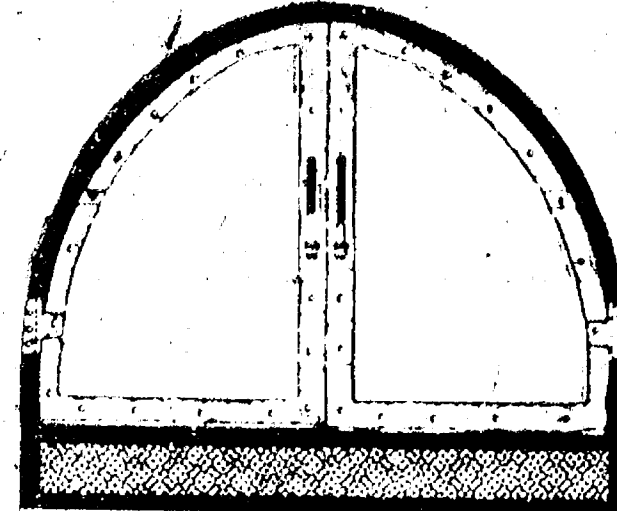

Her appointment needs the approval of the Senate, which is not expected to oppose her.

New Teacher Signed for School Board Hotline Chelsea Co-Op Nursery

Mrs. M. Warden Wins Toronto Trip

Dexter's Mrs. Margaret Warden has won an all-expenses-paid weekend trip to Toronto for two in a contest sponsored by WNRS radio. Mrs. Warden signed up as a contestant at Fran Coy's Beauty Salon, one of 10 area businesses participating in the contest. A drawing was held last week, at which time she was notified that she had won. The prize was one of three trips offered by WNRS, the other two being similar junkets to New York and Las Vegas. Asked when she plans to take the trip, Mrs. Warden said that she had no idea at the moment.

GI Bill students desiring advance payment for fall school semester must submit their request in writing to the school, the Veterans Administration advises.

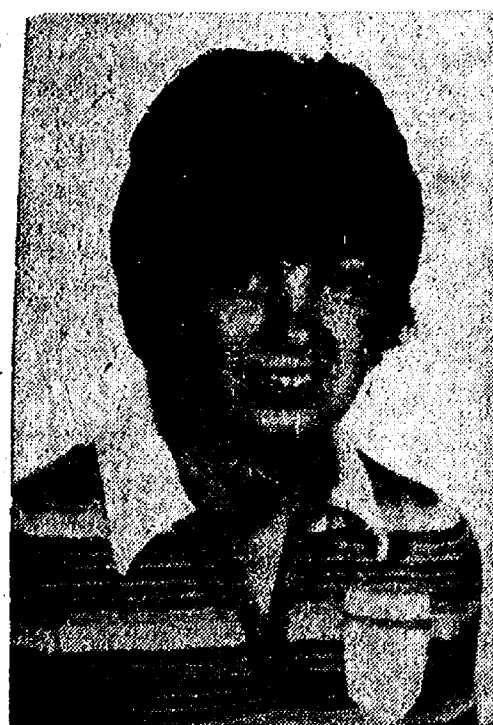

Mrs. Gene (Dottle) Schaff of 7534 Third St., Dexter, has assumed the teaching duties at the Chelsea Co-op Nursery, Dexter-Chelsea Rd. After receiving her B.S. in Education from Kent State University in 1961, Mrs. Schaff taught lower elementary grade for six years in Ohio, Michigan and Minnesota.

For the past three years, Mrs. Schaff has been a pre-school instructor at the Ann Arbor Y. Some of the classes she taught were painting, music, How Does it Work, Language, ABC's and the Kinder-Klass for 3- and 4-year-olds.

Dr. Seuss on the Loose and Christmas Around the World were two of her many special Workshops at the Y.

In 1976 and 1977 Mrs. Schaff taught a Science Snooper and Puppetry Workshop at the annual Huron Valley Nursery School Council Workshop.

Mrs. Schaff has two sons, Michael, 9, Jeffery 1 1/2. They have lived in Dexter for the last five years. Her husband, Gene, works

Chronically Ill Need Balanced Health Services

Current emphasis on doctors, nurses and hospital beds may be out of balance when measured against social and psychological needs of the chronically ill, suggests a Michigan State University medical researcher.

A balanced approach to health services for many chronically ill persons should include such services as day care, senior centers, homemakers, friendly visitors, health aides and assistants, as well as doctors, nurses and hospital beds, says Dr. Joseph Papsidero, associate director of health service education and research.

Although institutional care of the totally disabled will remain with us, states Papsidero, "noninstitutional" care could be provided less expensively. This could include health care in the home and easy access to a variety of professional services.

"This implies that services for the chronically ill or disabled patient should be organized with greater emphasis on planning, patient education, counseling and enhanced communication between health professionals," he said.

School Board Hotline

Question: Why does the school system contract with outside businesses when it could be handled right here in Chelsea?

Answer: In order to make the most economical use of tax dollars, the Chelsea School District awards contracts to the lowest bidder or to those businesses giving the best quality products or service for the money. Local businesses are given the opportunity to bid on these contracts. When two identical bids are received and all other considerations are equal, the board usually favors the local bidder. Here are some of the local businesses with which the Chelsea School District has had dealings this past year:

Village Motor Sales Inc., Judson Formprint, Inc., Merkel Brothers Swift Print, Chelsea Standard, Hilltop Plumbing and Heating, The Print Shop, Heller Electric, Schneider's Store, Chelsea Automotive, Polly's, Boyer Automotive Supply, Kusterer's Food Market, Red's Standard Service, Chelsea Hardware, Smith's Service Station, Gambles, All Season Comfort Heating & Air Conditioning, Groves Five and Dime, Gar-nett's Flower & Gift, A. D. Mayer Agency, Chelsea Greenhouse, Wallace Wood State Farm Ins., Chelsea Lumber Company, Chelsea Pharmacy, Sprague Buick-Olds-Opel, Inc., Chelsea Cleaners, Lloyd Bridges Chevrolet, Chelsea Glass, Inc., Palmer Ford, Inc., John Klink Excavating, Harper Pontiac Sales & Service, Klump Brothers, M & M Gravel, Fitzsimmons Excavating, Chelsea State Bank, Heydlauff's Chelsea Clinic, Winans Jewelry Store, Village of Chelsea, Keusch & Flintoft, Farmer's Supply Co.

We feel that present board policy has allowed for fair treatment of local businesses and plan to continue it in the future. We would welcome specific comments and suggestions as to any way the policy might be improved as we certainly value the support of our local business people.

ASK THE GOVERNOR

by William G. Milliken

Question: My farm is drying up; I'm going to have to buy most of my livestock feed this year instead of growing it. I just can't afford that.

Governor: I have asked for special federal assistance in your county and 28 others. State disaster and agriculture experts tell me that crop losses from the drought total more than $50 million in those 29 counties. Michigan pastures, I am told, are only 35 to 64 percent of normal.

I have written to the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration (FDAA) asking that 29 counties be added to the Emergency Livestock Feed Program.

Under that program, farmers who grow some of their own livestock feed, who suffered losses due to drought, and who continue to experience the need during the period designated by the FDAA, will be eligible for federal assistance of 50 percent of the cost of the feed up to two cents per pound.

I would urge you and other farmers who live in the 29 counties to contact your local USDA office for further information and assistance.

The 29 counties for which I requested assistance are: Alcona, Alcona, Antrim, Arenac, Benzie, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Clare, Crawford, Emmet, Gladwin, Grand Traverse, Isabella, Kalamazoo, Lake, Leelanau, Manistee, Mason, Missaukee, Montcalm, Oceana, Ogemaw, Oshtemo, Oscoda, Otsego, Presque Isle, Roscommon and Wexford.

Question: I purchased and consumed farm products from a PBB quarantined farm. Can I be tested?

Governor: If you know that you received and consumed such products as meat, milk and eggs directly from a quarantined farm, I would urge you to call (collect) the Michigan Department of Public Health field office in Big Rapids. The department is conducting a long-term study of people who lived on quarantined farms and ate products from that farm. It also wants to contact as many customers of such farms as possible.

If you are sure that you ate these products on a regular basis, you could benefit yourself and others by participating in this long-term study of the health effects of PBB exposure.

The number in Big Rapids is 616-796-3514; they accept collect calls.

On another PBB front, I am pleased that the legislature has passed the PBB tolerance level bill. It will help reduce further the amount of PBB to which we are exposed; it will also help restore consumer confidence in Michigan agriculture and should assist materially in getting the Canadian government to modify or drop its ban on Michigan beef.

Question: We have a cottage well secluded in the woods, and we are afraid of forest fires. What can we do to protect the cottage from forest fires?

Governor: The Department of Natural Resources suggests doing the following to give added protection:

- Remove dense underbrush — excess small trees, brush and other dense fuels that burn rapidly;
- Cut tall grass; don't allow grass to grow tall near any structure; dried grass is the most rapidly turning fire fuel in the forest;
- Rake away leaves and twigs;
- Prune branches, removing branches of large trees to a height of 15 or 20 feet—preventing ground fires from spreading to the tops of these trees;
- If possible, deposit debris at a municipal or private dump;
- If you cannot remove debris from premises, bury it in a pit;
- Burn debris only as a last resort, first clearing a sufficiently large area of all combustible material, using an approved type of outdoor incinerator positioned in the center of the cleared area. Pick the proper time to burn — such as after a rain or late in the afternoon when the humidity is starting to rise. Obtain a burning permit from your local fire officer or his representative. The permit is required by law.

Manchester School Chief Found Guilty

The 41-year-old superintendent of Manchester public schools, William J. Green, was found guilty Tuesday, July 19, in 14th District Court of disorderly and obscene conduct. The charges stemmed from an incident which occurred June 2 at the rest stop off I-94 near Baker Rd. in Scio township.

Sentencing has been set for Sept. 27 by District Court Judge Henry Arkinson. The charge, a misdemeanor, carries a maximum penalty of 90 days in jail and a $100 fine. Green was released on personal bond after the jury reached a verdict in the one-day trial.

The superintendent was arrested at the rest stop when two Washtenaw County sheriff's detectives said he approached them in a lewd and obscene manner. The detectives had been concentrating on rest stops in the county in an effort to crack down on homosexual activity and prostitution.

Green was suspended without pay in a unanimous decision June 8 by the Manchester Board of Education.

Green, who was hired by the board last July, voluntarily admitted himself to Mercywood Hospital after he was released from police custody June 8 on bond.

AGRICULTURE IN ACTION

By Michigan Farm Bureau Staff Writer

★ World Full of Don'ts

Almost every day, the news media reports on the latest health hazards discovered by zealous researchers.

The list is getting pretty long—DES, Red Dye No. 2, cyclamates, saccharin, just to name a few. At the rate things are going, it won't be long before we'll be cautioned against any substance that can be eaten, applied, injected or sprayed. Even Mom's apple pie won't be safe.

Harrell Degraff, retiring president of the American Meat Institute, summed it up this way recently as he addressed the Institute of Animal Agriculture: Don't eat sugar. Scientists have detected a correlation between blanching foods and stomach cancer. The same hazards can be alleged against refined flour and polished rice.

"Don't eat eggs or apples or carrots or rice, or oats or barley, or plums or cherries, or garlic or wheat bran, or wheat germ or safflower oil or soybean oil, or corn oil, or honey. They contain estrogens. For the same reason, don't eat green vegetables."

"Don't breathe. You will inhale carbon dioxide, carbon monoxide and oxides of nitrogen and sulfur. Obviously, don't drive or ride in an automobile. In the U. S., 50,000 persons a year are killed by automobiles."

"Don't eat salt. It may elevate your blood pressure. Don't eat rutabaga, turnip, cabbage, spinach and carrots. They may be goitrogenic."

"Don't engage in sex. It has been alleged to cause both heart attacks and cervical cancer."

To this list we'd like to add some of our own don'ts: Don't walk through a bull pen. The PA says that's hazardous—you might slip on something and hurt yourself.

Don't farm. It's one of the three most dangerous occupations. Don't use insecticides. They kill bugs and other insects, and it's for sure they kill rats. Don't go near farm machinery. It may be harmful to your health, according to some OSHA regulations.

One could go on and on listing substances and activities that could be dangerous to your health. Unfortunately, some scientists and researchers do just that. It's a wonder that the human race has survived at all, to say nothing of the fact that we live longer, healthier lives than ever before in history. Evidently, hazard-happy people have decided to disregard that simple piece of information.

T-Ball Teams Enter Final Week of Play

A dispersal of upsets, runaways and heated contests characterized local T-ball action during the week beginning July 18. Sponsored by the Chelsea Recreation Department, eight teams have been participating in this summer's T-ball league.

The week began with runaways as the Royals battled to a 20-13 decision over the Blue Jays, the Pirates humbled the Yankees, 41-21, and the Giants crushed the Reds, 27-8.

In a major upset, the Giants handed the Royals their first defeat when they posted a 19-14 victory over the league leaders.

On Thursday, July 21, the competition stiffened as the Dodgers upset the Pirates, 16-12, and the Yankees edged the Braves, 37-36.

With T-ball play scheduled to end Aug. 1, league director Joe Rossi issued a thank you to coaches, team members and their followers for their co-operation and patience in helping to make this a successful season.

New advance payment procedures for GI Bill students entering school this fall require written requests to the schools now, the Veterans Administration reports.

Motorcycles Involved in 45% Of Holiday Weekend Fatalities

Analysis by the Michigan State Police of this year's July 4 holiday weekend traffic accidents which claimed 24 lives showed drinking to be a factor in nine or 1 percent of the 22 fatal mishaps, according to a report reviewed by Col. Gerald L. Hough, department director.

The study was made by the department's traffic division for the 8-hour period from 6 p.m. Friday, July 1, to midnight Monday, July 4. Toll for this holiday in Michigan last year was 19. Delayed deaths charged to the holiday period this year are expected to raise the toll slightly.

Fatal accident types and drinking factor involvement were as follows in the analysis: Fourteen two-vehicle accidents, seven involved motorcycles and five had drinking involvement.

Seven one-vehicle accidents, usually run-off-the-roadway type. Of these, three involved motorcycles, four had a drinking factor involved.

One car-pedestrian accident, no drinking involvement.

There were two multiple death accidents in the holiday period. These were double fatality mishaps, with one occurring in Oakland county, the other in Macquett county. Both were the two-vehicle head-on collision type.

Of the 22 fatal accidents, 10 or 45 percent of them involved motorcycles.

Deaths by days during the period included two on July 1, 10 on July 2, five on July 3 and seven on July 4.

Three-Way Deadlock In Little League Race

Little League action for the week of July 18 emerged as a hotly contested series of games for three teams currently in a deadlock for the league championship. Members of the league leading triangle are the Blue Jays, the Reds and the Dodgers. All are expected to strengthen their bids for the title this week as the season grinds to a close.

In a recap of last week's results, the Blue Jays defeated the Dodgers, 4-1 to earn their first-place berth, and the Yankees tied the Reds.

The Yankees almost pulled the upset of the season in that game when they came to bat with the score tied, the bases loaded and only one out in the bottom of the last inning. The Reds' pitching staff responded to the challenge, however, and struck out the Yankee hitters.

Earlier in the game, the Yankees had allowed the Reds to score all their runs in one inning. Then the Yankee pitching staff tightened its clamp on the Reds' potent offense and proceeded to keep the Reds scoreless.

On another front, the Blue Jays' victory over the Dodgers marked their eighth consecutive win in the wake of two losses at the beginning of the season.

If the current three-way deadlock remains when the season ends this week, a play-off match will not be held and all three teams will share in the championship.

Buy Pesticides Only From Reputable Agents

Michigan farmers and consumers were warned today by the Michigan Department of Agriculture to purchase any needed pesticides only from reputable agents or firms they know.

A series of incidents involving telephone solicitations have created problems for some Michigan farmers, according to B. Dale Ball, MDA director. Reports indicate contacts are also being made to homeowners and nurserymen.

The phony practice is being reported all across the midwest and eastern states. Usually, the company represented is headquartered in a distant state, and frequently products are shipped which were never ordered. Efforts to collect for the unwanted material are accompanied by considerable harassment.

Often the product offered is not registered by MDA for sale in Michigan, or the label may not indicate its use for the treatment needed. Ball said it is imperative that all pesticides be used only as the label directs. Frequently, the product carries a highly inflated price tag, is greatly diluted, or otherwise unsuitable.

Dean Lovitt, chief of MDA's Plant Industry division, cited a typical incident which occurred late last autumn. An Isabella county farmer was contacted by phone and urged to buy an agricultural insecticide. When he indicated he was not interested, the caller hung up.

About three days later, two 20-pound bags of the insecticide were delivered to the farmer's residence. Because the farmer was not at home, a neighbor accepted delivery and signed for the material. Accompanying the insecticide was an invoice for $270 plus a freight charge of $9.85. The bill carried notification that return of the product was not permitted without prior company authorization. The product is not registered with MDA for sale in Michigan, and although the salesman claimed it could be used for control of rootworm, the label does not indicate this use.

Lovitt said the department has been advised you need not pay for unsolicited goods received, nor is it legally necessary to pay for return of the product.

Dexter Township Board OKs Rezoning Request

Dexter Township Board met July 19 to consider the rezoning of 79 acres on Wylie Rd. The reports from the Dexter Township Zoning Board and Washtenaw County Planning Commission both supported the zoning change from agricultural to rural residential because of the usage of surrounding land areas. After considering these two reports, the Township Board voted to approve the rezoning.

The board decided not to participate in the State-sponsored WORC program since plans for projects had to be filed within one day of the meeting.

The supervisor reported that three people had indicated an interest in serving on the Zoning Board of Appeals. The board decided to consider possible appointments at the next meeting.

The clerk reported that he had been notified of a request for a transfer of an SDM liquor license at 6100 Portage, Lake Rd. The transfer would be from Milo and Lois Vogel to Elizabeth Lewis.

The next meeting of the Dexter Township Board is set for Tuesday, Aug. 2, 7:30 p.m., at the Dexter Township Hall.

We Want You To Know . . .

That it doesn't cost you a dime to talk to us about your problem. We can explain Chiropractic to you and how it may apply. We can tell you or feds, which are designed to allow all people regardless of financial ability to use our services . . . and we can tell you how much time the average patient spends in our office. . . . BUT WE CAN'T FORCE YOU TO WANT TO HAVE BETTER HEALTH. . . . all we can do is try.

We know you think your problem is "hopeless" or "incurable," but you haven't tried everything unless you've tried the Dan Elwart Chiropractic Clinic.

Here are some of the remarks our patients have made to us after getting results: "I thought Chiropractors were quacks, but I don't now!" "to think that I put up with headaches for two years and since being under your care—haven't had one!"

When I tell my friends about you and Chiropractic they think I'm nuts, but I don't care! . . . they didn't suffer like I did before I got under Chiropractic care!"

"I tell all my friends—How do you expect to be well when you don't have a good nerve supply getting to all the parts of your body?—You need to see my Chiropractor!"

Here are a few examples of the results our patients have received once they started getting a better nerve supply:

ASTHMA No. 7589—A boy 10, came to us complaining of asthma for five years. His father hoped he wouldn't have to take medication for the rest of his life. We found a vertebral subluxation causing an interference to the nerve supply. Within two weeks after correction began, his breathing was better and nose stopped running. In one month he was off all medication. He has had no asthma attacks since starting under our care and can now play and do things like other children his age. He comes to us every two months to maintain his health.

KIDNEY INFECTION No. 2376—A woman of 38 came to us complaining of an 18 year kidney problem. After countless medications, doctors advised her that nothing more could be done. At the time she was taking three tranquilizers per day. We examined her spine and found with the Neurocalometer and Spino-graph (x-rays of spine) that nerve interference at the base of her skull was present. After the first visit she said she felt "wonderful" and had only taken one tranquilizer. Within a month she was off all medications and kidneys no longer bothered her.

Nancy Dickerson, prominent national correspondent, reports for Detroit Edison:

"Here are some tips on using your air conditioner wisely when temperatures soar."

The Midwest is experiencing one of the hottest summers in recent memory and many people are turning on their air conditioners to keep comfortable. As an energy supplier, Detroit Edison is an active and concerned participant in America's crusade for conservation. But the success of this crusade requires a working relationship between those who supply energy and those who use it. Using your air conditioner wisely is one of the ways you can help. You'll save on operating costs, too.

You can dial up and hold your costs down.

Don't overcool your home. That's a wasteful use of energy. And expensive. For the most comfort and the most efficiency, set your thermostat no lower than about 10 degrees below the outside temperature. If it's 85 degrees outside, then set your thermostat at about 75 degrees. Otherwise your air conditioner has to work extra hard and your costs go up and up. In a typical house, you can save about 5 percent in operating costs for every degree you move the thermostat up. So, if your house is going to be empty for a few hours, move your thermostat up 5 more degrees and pocket the savings.

Staying comfortable this summer can be a breeze.

When the sun beats down, the heat in your attic builds up and it can be like living under an oven. An attic exhaust fan will get the hot air out and let the cooler night air in, and take the strain off your air conditioner. Good attic insulation works wonders at keeping your home cooler in summer and it will pay off again by saving on heating costs next winter. And don't forget light-colored shingles reflect heat. Whatever you do to keep heat out of your house saves money in air conditioning. Window fans work, too.

Shades or the past.

Before you had air conditioning, there were things you did to keep comfortable, like pulling down the window shades and closing the draperies on the sunny side of the house. That's smart. Because a bare window lets in as much as 35 times more heat than an insulated wall.

So do the same now and you can reduce your air-conditioning costs by as much as 12 percent. Shade your windows from the outside with ventilated awnings or trees and save even more—up to 22 percent of your air-conditioning operating costs.

Maintain your cool.

If you want your air conditioner to take good care of you, keep it clean. This means changing or washing the air filters often. Also, vacuum the inside coils and keep outside coils free of debris. Clean registers and return ducts regularly on central air-conditioning systems, and keep the cooling drain open for free condensate flow. And don't block air flow with furniture or draperies. Your owner's manual lists other maintenance tips. Follow them and keep cool all summer.

Buying a new air conditioner? Maybe the most important numbers aren't on the price tag.

First of all, it's important that you get the right size unit (BTU's). Your salesman can help on this if you tell him the length and width of the area you want to cool. Another number that's important is the EER number. This stands for Energy Efficiency Rating.

MODEL NUMBER ACR20B 74F
VOLTS	CYCLE	PHASE
115	60	1
COOLING BTU/HR	AMPS	WATTS
(6400)	7.5	(800)

BTUs WATTS

You can figure this out yourself. Just divide the BTU number by the number of watts. For example, a unit that delivers 6400 BTU's with 800 watts has an EER rating of 8. (800 goes into 6400 8 times.) The recommended EER number for any air conditioner is 8 or more. You may pay a little more, but you'll save on energy costs in the long run.

Detroit Edison has a folder, "How to stretch your air-conditioning operating dollar." Pick one up at any customer office and start saving, or write to: Customer Relations, Detroit Edison 2000 Second, Detroit, Michigan 48226

Conserve for all it's worth. The power is in your hands.

Tracing Family Histories Aided By Obituary File Kept By Jones

If you are looking for a unique way to celebrate this bi-centennial year, a perfect solution is to trace your ancestry. You may find you are a descendant of a revolutionary spirit who fought side by side with General Washington at Valley Forge, or, like Chelsea's Hart family who are descendants of Miles Standish, you may be able to trace your lineage back to some notable personage, responsible for influencing our nation's history.

According to Harold A. Jones of Chelsea who has been avidly interested in family genealogies since the early fifties and has consequently become somewhat of an authority on the subject, the Chelsea-Ann Arbor area is rich in Revolutionary War descendants, as well as claiming a "surprising" number of families descended from the original Mayflower party, first settlers to cross the Atlantic and carve out new lives on our American shore.

The first step in tracing your family's genealogy is to cross-examine the oldest members of your family. The crucial data should include the maiden names of female ancestors, the area, city or town where one's ancestors settled, and the approximate dates they lived there.

Armed with this basic information, one of the best places to begin the search, informs Jones, is the Burton Historical Collections at the Detroit Public Library. If you can trace your family back to 1850, the bound volumes available there could take your ancestors back to America's early days or to a foreign country. The Burton collection offers maps, country histories, and genealogies from all over the United States.

Should you draw a blank, you may decide to consult the genealogical collections owned by the Mormons in Salt Lake City, billed "one of the finest collections in the world" by Jones.

Locally, Jones' interest in genealogical research led him to compile an outstanding card index of local genealogies for Chelsea's McKune Memorial Library. The reference file contains information copied from cemetery inscriptions in four townships—Sylvan, Freedom, Sharon, and Lima in Washtenaw county. To supplement the information, Jones went through old Chelsea Standards, dating back to the 1880's, and copied death records from obituaries.

Obituaries "are extremely important to genealogists," states Jones, "because they inevitably list collaterals," which are the parents of the deceased, and surviving or deceased kin.

Cemeteries oftentimes reveal the same information, though the search presents a more complex approach. Jones, who has published a book which maps the Oak Grove Cemetery in Chelsea and alphabetically lists and locates the people buried there, many of them early founders of the Chelsea community, described the dilemma one faces with some of the old German cemeteries like the one at Rogers Corners. "You're likely to find a husband buried in one spot, the wife buried 50 feet away, and the daughter buried somewhere else." Currently Jones is working on a catalog of the cemetery adjacent to the old Whitmore Lake church on Whitmore Lake Rd.

Jones had one, totally unexpected, invaluable source of help in gathering the genealogical statistics for the McKune Library reference. A friend, described by Jones as a "clipping nut," Lillian Wackenhut, and formerly employed as a staff writer for the Detroit Free Press, presented him with yellowed, loose, obituary clippings she had collected over the years as part of an entire series of clippings she had kept, to maintain tabs on local residents. In his words, "Jonesy's cutouts carried on from there."

To give you an idea of the value of the genealogical records presently contained in the McKune card index, several typescript volumes of the cards have been requested by libraries across the country. The Burton Historical Collection of the Detroit Public Library was among those making a request. The State of Michigan Bureau of Archives microfilmed the McKune genealogical records for the State Library in Lansing.

Jones' involvement in the process of keeping the McKune reference current, is a daily affair. He clips obituaries from The Chelsea Standard, usually two per week, from the Ann Arbor News, approximately four per day, and from the Jackson Citizen Patriot, an average of eight per day. Generally, the total amounts to 84 obituaries per week, which when multiplied by 52, results in a substantial yearly count.

Armed with the obituaries, the next step in the procedure of cataloging the information is to type up the subject data on an index card. The obituaries are then glued in place with Elmer's glue, "the best there is in my book, and I'm an old fuss budget," confides Jones. The glueing process has been systematically perfected by Jones. He first puts a glob in the middle, then trails a line of glue around the edges, and completes the preparation by smoothing out the beaded glue with a knife. This process, which may appear trivial at an initial, spurious glance, has actually been responsible for preserving the glued obituaries for close to 20 years.

Newspaper obituaries are unilaterally declared the "key to ancestry" by leading genealogists according to our Chelsea authority. Most newspapers today print the names of the parents of the deceased in the obituary. However, Jones has had a long-standing feud with the Jackson paper "which doesn't print the names of a deceased wife's parents."

Cemetery inscriptions and newspaper obituaries make it highly possible to trace family trees back to the 1830s, or about five generations back. Once outside these two sources, though, the search is often stymied by either referrals to inferior records or by a total void of references.

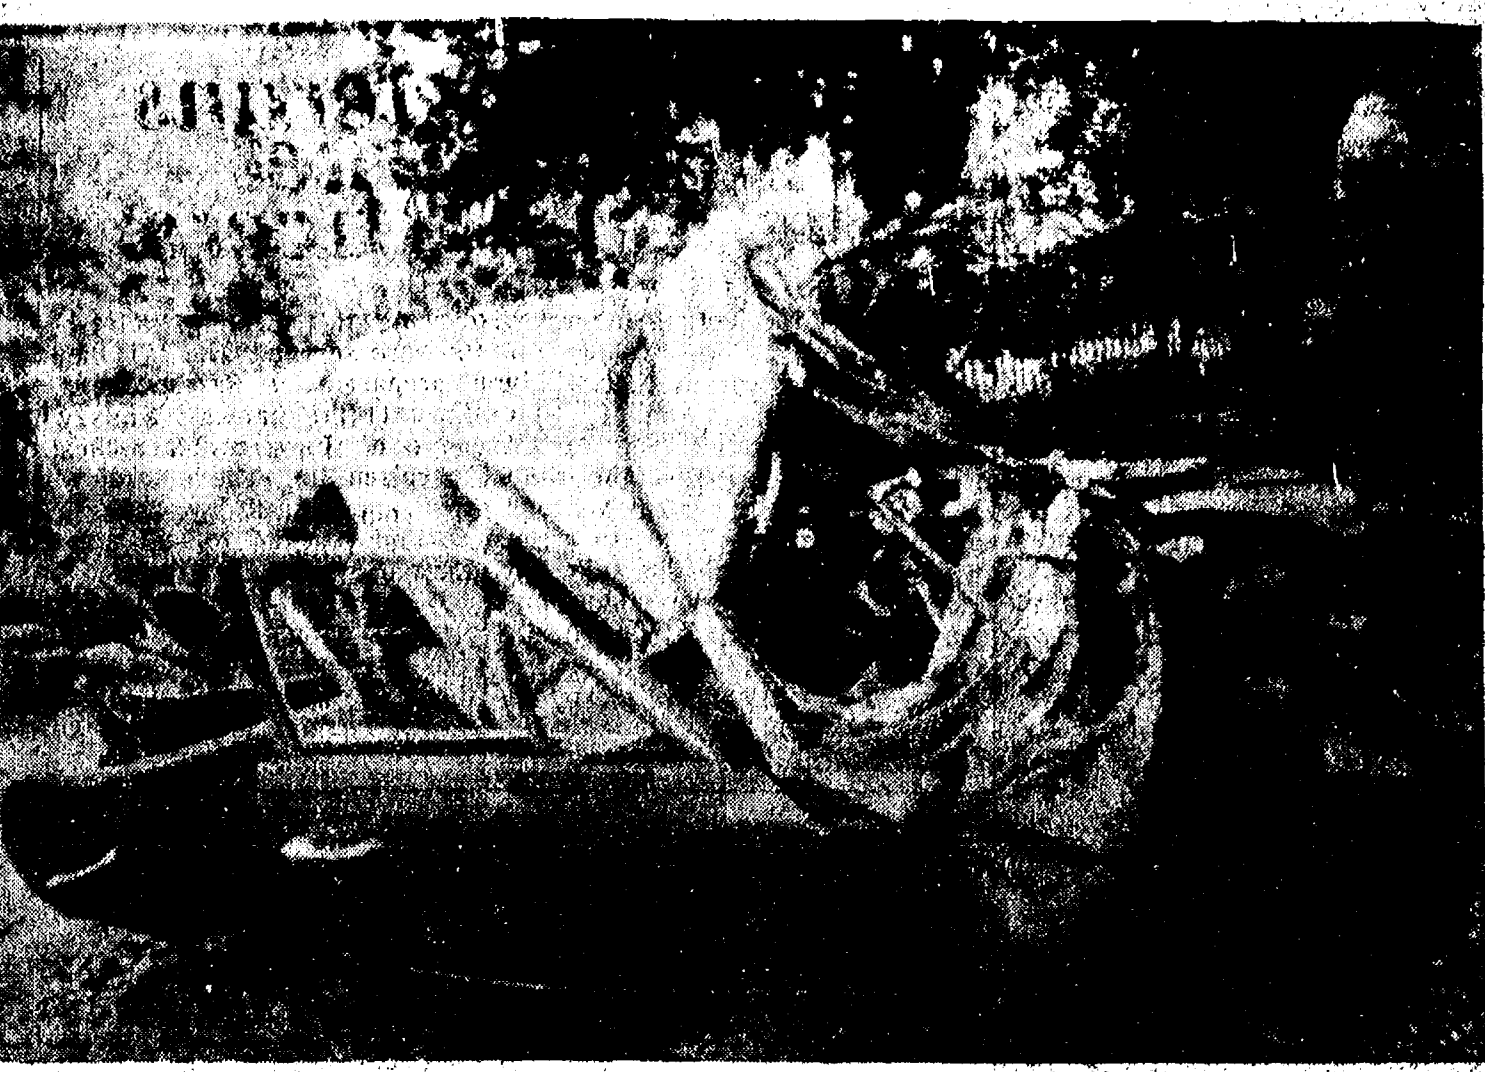

People who take both pride and interest in determining their heritage do get some encouragement from a limited choice of options which may yield genealogical data in a roundabout way. Estate records or land records span backwards in time longer than almost any statistical source outside the family Bible. Death certificates, which fall to mention dates of death prior to 1885, and skip mention of the mother's maiden name, can still be a helpful way of tracing one's genealogical origins. Copies of death certificates are available through the Department of Vital Statistics office in all cities.

For the German descendants among us, old parish records in local churches throughout Germany have been preserved for centuries, and are often quite revealing. The only drawback to this approach is you must know the name of the town in Germany where your ancestors were born. Professionals may be hired to cope with intervening problems such as language, name changes, etc.

Prior to 1915, neither obituaries nor death certificates listed the cemetery where the deceased was buried. This is where (public library volumes of cemetery inscriptions are of unestimated value. In the 1920's, for example, the Sara Prudent Chapter of the DAR conducted a country-wide inventory of cemeteries, an attempt to locate the graves of Revolutionary War soldiers, under the banner of a national project. The names were forwarded to Washington where a list was compiled. According to Jones, "the DAR has between 50 and 100 books containing the lineage of families dating back to the American Revolution."

If, like our Mr. Jones, a retired Detroit attorney who at one time appeared as a counsel of the U.S. Supreme Court, you begin your tramp through genealogical annals quite innocently—in his case, his wife, Margaret, claimed ancestry back to the famous Stewards of Scotland and he wanted to challenge her heritage with a hopefully splendid one of his own—you may be in for a surprise. Either your Uncle Harry was lying when he claimed to be descended from European royalty, or you may find that skeleton in your closet actually led a charge up Bunker Hill. Once you begin, the fascination of genealogy is viciously catching.

TRAGEDY NEAR DEXTER: This twisted mass of metal was once a late-model Buick before it shot off Dexter-Pinckney Rd. near the Wylie Rd. intersection early Saturday morning, July 23. Six youths were killed when the car struck a tree, tearing it in half and sending the front end flying 26 feet down the road. A seventh youth is reported in serious condition at University of Michigan Hospital. The survivor and his companions were removed from the wreckage with the aid of a new set of steel jaws operated by the Dexter Fire Dept.

ing down a request by some 50 residents who claimed that the inn was spot-zoned, a commercial disruption of a residential area. Schenden stated that the Inn has been zoned for commercial use since it was founded in 1935 and was zoned commercial a second time when it was rebuilt in 1973 after a fire destroyed the building.

Now, at a time when certain legislators have gained a great deal of public support in their efforts to raise the legal drinking age in Michigan, the Anchor Inn's alleged violation of state law comes at a most inopportune moment, as emotions concerning youthful drinking are running high.

Despite complaints earlier this year from the Anchor Inn's operators that the Washtenaw and Livingston County Sheriff's Departments were harassing the bistro's customers by citing motorists on their way home for minor traffic infractions, both agencies have pledged in the wake of Saturday's accident to increase their patrol of the area around the Inn in the hopes of preventing a similar occurrence.

Mrs. Rogers was a retired school teacher and had taught locally at both North Elementary school and Beach Middle school.

Woman Nearly Drowns in North Lake

A 35-year-old Ann Arbor woman nearly drowned in North Lake late Sunday afternoon when she was pushed playfully off a raft which had been anchored 30 feet off the shoreline. She was revived by Chelsea Patrolman John Dettling, using mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and CPR techniques, after her respiration had ceased and her heart had stopped beating for nearly a minute.

Now fully recovered is Margaret Swisher, who had been attending a birthday party at 7985 Sauer Dr. North Lake, at about 2:10 p.m. Sunday. Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputies reported that the woman had been drinking prior to her fall into the water and only had one lung, two factors which may have contributed to her near death.

The accident was witnessed by Robert Woodward of North Lake and Terry Kline of 4225 Mushbach Rd. According to Sheriff's Department reports, Woodward rescued the woman from the water and summoned local police for assistance. Chelsea police, in turn, notified sheriff's police while en route to the scene of the accident.

When sheriff's deputies arrived, the woman had regained consciousness. Although an ambulance had been summoned by deputies, she refused further medical treatment and remained at the scene of the accident.

First Public Forum Held on School Issues

"As many as were there, I think communication was no problem with those people," newly-elected Chelsea Board of Education member Earl Heller began in assessing his reaction to the first in a continuing series of informal meetings currently being held by the School Board on the fourth Monday of every month.

Last Monday's meeting, attended by residents of the Chelsea School District, school board members, local school administrators and teachers, was, among other things, an attempt to bridge the communications gap between members of the Chelsea Board of Education and the public, according to Heller.

He believes poor communication is the source of current misunderstandings between residents of the school district and the school board.

As chairman of the informal meeting Heller stated he was well pleased with the results of Monday's discussion. "These meetings have been designed to give residents an alternative to attending regular board meetings which are often too emotional and last too long," he said. "Although we had only 12 to 14 present Monday, the number of those attending should continue to grow."

Among the topics discussed were discipline and attendance policies at Chelsea High school, improvements in curriculum co-ordination throughout the school system, reading programs in the schools, the need for student counseling improvements, the relay of advice on college admissions procedures and requirements from the school to parents of college bound students, the board policy on bussing students, and the proposed 1977-78 school budget.

At the start of the informal meeting, John Williams, the new Chelsea High school principal, was introduced to those attending the meeting. He proceeded to talk openly with the public and presented his views on education when appropriate.

Williams will also be present at two public meetings which have been scheduled by the school board on Aug. 3 and Aug. 8. Purpose of these meetings will be to discuss the upcoming school millage election on Aug. 15 and any issues relating to local school operations.

The first meeting, on Aug. 3, will convene at 8 p.m. at Inverness Country Club, located at North Lake, and will be followed by the Aug. 8 meeting, 8 p.m. at the Chelsea Fairgrounds Service Center.

"I would like to encourage everyone to attend these next two meetings," Robert Daniels, Chelsea Board of Education president, said Tuesday. "The board is anxious to discuss issues and answer questions at both these meetings."

He echoed Heller in stating the school board was concerned with communication. "We're trying our best to communicate with the public," Daniels said. "Open communication is very important to the school system at this time."

Women's Fast Pitch Team Battles Back

Fiedling errors and an abundance of walks extracted their toll as Chelsea's women's fast-pitch team came out on the bottom of a 9-3 decision which favored Ann Arbor Headquarters, Wednesday, July 20, during action in the Ann Arbor Women's Fast-Pitch League. However, Chelsea made a stunning recovery, as members of the local squad returned Friday to upset undefeated Ann Arbor, Kiwanis, 9-5.

Sue Heydlauff, the losing pitcher in Wednesday's game, had relief from Nanette Push in the second inning. Heydlauff struck out three batters in four innings, but lost that momentum when she gave up four walks and two hits. Between Heydlauff and Push, Ann Arbor Headquarters came up with only four hits.

In offensive play, Heydlauff popped Ann Arbor's pitching for two doubles, the only Chelsea player to get two hits in the losing cause.

Friday's comeback, however, gave Chelsea a good shot at second place in the Ann Arbor league.

In that game, Nanette Push struck out seven batters and connected for four hits, including a home run. The lead run was scored by Tammy Collinsworth in the fourth inning when she laid down a bunt. With the score at 3-2 in the sixth inning, Chelsea exploded with a six-run onslaught to ice the victory.

Contributing to the upset was Chelsea's Cathy French, who wielded her bat for a double and a single.

The house features two full baths, three bedrooms, a living room, family room, dining room, kitchen, full basement and two-car garage. Three 8-ft. sliding glass doors are also included. They open onto patios and give the interior of the house an airy appearance. For cold winter nights, a prefabricated fireplace has been installed in the living room, the first to be installed by a Building and Trades class. Construction of the house began mid-September of last year and was completed in June by 26 youths under the direction of Building and Trades instructor Curt Farley. Plans for the house which were developed and paid for by the American Plywood Association, came from the August 1976 issue of Better Homes & Gardens.

ITEMIZE HOUSE TAX DEDUCTIONS

One of the great financial benefits of home ownership versus rental is that you are immediately eligible to deduct a good-sized amount of money from your income tax. As a homeowner, you will generally find it to your advantage to itemize deductions rather than taking the standard deduction.

This is especially true during the earlier years of home ownership. The mortgage interest and real property taxes on your personal residence, when added to other deductible items will usually be well in excess of any standard deduction you could claim.

Your home payment may consist of several parts: an amount placed in escrow to pay real estate taxes and fire insurance, FHA mortgage insurance premiums, and an amount applied to reduce the principal of the mortgage. Of these parts, only the interest and taxes are deductible — but that will prove to be a very sizable figure.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at FRISINGER REALTY CO., 935 S. Main St., Chelsea. Phone: 475-8681; evenings 475-2621. We're here to help!

Royals Favored in Pony League Tourney

As Chelsea's Pony League Tournament progressed toward its final stages last Thursday, the Royals appeared favored to win the title. Giving the Royals an edge in tournament play was a pitching performance which gave trouble to opposing batters all week.

According to league Director Joe Rossi, the Pony League Pirates, coached by Ralph Owings, were another tournament standout. "The Pirates have done surprisingly well, just as they did last year," he said.

In two tournament openers Monday, July 18, the Yankees trampled the Giants, 9-4, and the Braves overran the Pirates, 8-3. Returning to the diamond Tuesday, the Pirates eliminated the Giants from the tournament with a narrow 10-9 victory. That same day, the Royals handed the Yankees a 13-3 loss, the Yankees' first in tournament competition.

The Pirates again found themselves in the spoiler role Thursday when they dumped the Yankees, 9-1, ending the Yankees' hopes for a tournament title. Also on Thursday, the Royals recorded their second win with a 6-2 triumph over the Braves in a closely contested game.

Methodists Plan Vacation Church School

Chelsea United Methodist church will conduct its Vacation Church School Monday through Thursday, Aug. 1-4 and 8-11. Classes will meet each day from 9 to 11:30 in the Education Unit. All community children from ages two through junior high are invited to attend.

Over-all theme for the church school is, "Created for Love." Lessons will be centered around the idea of being a Christian friend both on an individual basis and when involved in group activities.

Many events are planned for the two weeks, including special craft projects for all ages, group singing, a picnic the first week and visits by Sparky the Clown and his friend the magician.

The Vacation Church School is pleased to include in its teaching staff Chris and Marian Sharp from Manchester, England. Chris is a Methodist theological student. He and his family are traveling of his training. They will spend the month of August in Chelsea and participate in a variety of church activities. The Sharps and their children, Emma and James, will have many interesting ideas and experiences to share with all who attend the Vacation Church School.

On Aug. 11 a family pot-luck dinner is planned. It will begin at 6 p.m., followed by a program. Registration will be held the first morning of church school. The cost is $1 per child or a maximum of $3 per family.

Date Corrected

A report on the July 18 meeting of the Citizens Committee for the Recall of Robert Musolf, which appeared on page one of the July 21 issue of The Chelsea Standard, incorrectly stated the time of the committee's next meeting. The next meeting will be Aug. 2, 8 p.m. in Lima Township Hall.

Students enrolled in Veterans Administration educational programs during June will receive their checks July 1, under new payment procedures.

What's Cooking In Michigan

Know someone who thinks he's a real wine expert and believes anyone drinking Michigan wine is a fool or worse? Well, he probably resembles an individual Andre Simon described in "Wines of the World".

Simon said, "The wine industry suffers interminably from the wine snob at one end of the scale of opinion and the ignoramus at the other, and often the two are combined in the same individual."

Many Michigan wines can hold their own with any in the world. In fact, many of the vines growing in Michigan can trace their ancestry to Europe. Hybrid vine planted and are now producing grapes which are being made into delicious wines.

Michigan's major producing wineries are located in the southwestern part of the state, with the recognized hub in Paw Paw. Harbor Springs, Hartford, Fennville and Paw Paw are the home towns of the wineries and if you're near one of these cities make it a point to stop and take a guided tour.

Four new Michigan wineries opened in May, one in Paw Paw and three in the Traverse City area. Wines always add distinction to any recipe. Put a dash of Michigan red wine into gravy and it almost automatically becomes a sauce fit for the gods. Use Michigan wine with other seasonings to marinate a steak and the flavor is fantastic.

A favorite of mine is to fry chicken breasts until they are almost done, lower the heat, and add ¼ cup white wine. Then add a handful of white, seedless grapes, letting them simmer for 5 to 10 minutes. Serve the grapes on the side with baked Michigan potatoes. Naturally, serve chilled Michigan white wine with dinner.

According to Michigan Department of Agriculture statistics, Michigan is fourth in the nation in wine production. That sure is a lot of purple feet.

New Hampshire Made It Nine . . . On June 21, 1788, New Hampshire became the ninth state to ratify the United States Constitution just nine months after it was first presented to the states for approval. The action officially put the Constitution into effect. A few weeks later, Virginia and New York followed suit, thus assuring the success of the new government.

Memorial Book Policy Changed at McKune Library

In addition to placing several new books on the Memorial Shelf at McKune Memorial Library, library administrators have announced a new memorial policy for book donations.

In the past, memorial contributors were offered the choice of donating any amount from 50 cents on up to the library's Memorial Fund which is used as a financial source for anything the library needs, or of donating at least $10 for a specific memorial book.

Because some people found this policy too limiting when they wished to buy books but felt $10 was more than they could contribute, the McKune Memorial Library Board has opened a new Memorial Book Fund for donations in any amount which will be posted in the purchase of books for the Memorial Shelf.

"It will obviously take a number of smaller contributions to purchase one new book, so the memorial bookplate inserted in books purchased in this manner will list any number of names as contributors, as well as more than one name in whose memory the book was placed," Debra A. Leabu, head librarian at McKune explained.

public with a suitable option for remembering a loved one in a more lasting way," she concluded.

PONY LEAGUE GIANTS: A tough offensive strategy and plenty of defensive hustle were not enough to carry these members of the Pony League Giants into Chelsea Pony League Tournament finals last week. In their tournament opener Monday, July 13, the Giants were squashed by the Yankees, 9-4, and then were eliminated from the tournament by the Pirates, who plundered their way to

Giants Win Girls Fast Pitch Softball Crown

The 1977 Chelsea girls' Fast Pitch season came to an exciting end Monday as the Giants and the Dodgers each entered their last game of the season with identical 5-4 records. The Dodgers had to face a strong Yankees team that trailed the leaders by one game, while the Giants had to get past the much improved Reds.

The first game to be decided was the Giants - Reds match in which both teams played fine defensive softball, according to league director Charles Waller. The Giants came out on top in the 5-4 score. "This game was a good example of how the pitching is improved for all of the teams as the season progressed," Waller said.

The second game featured the two best hitting teams in the league as the Yankees shook off an inopportune hitting slump that had caused them to lose their last four games.

They scored 12 runs to defeat the power hitting Dodgers, 12-8. This was an upset over the Dodgers who had won their last four games.

As a result of Monday's action the Giants finished first in the league with a fine 6-3 record, while the Yankees and Dodgers were runners-up.

Although the regular season is now over, the coaches of all four teams have each selected seven players from their teams to play in a Mixed All-Star game today. It is hoped the game will provide the girls with an opportunity to get together and play simply for the fun of it.

Howard Whitaker Attending Music Camp

Individualized music instruction is part of the program being enjoyed by Howard Whitaker of Chelsea, currently a student at Camp Emery, an extension of the Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp located just north of Muskegon.

Camp Emery offers instrumental music students the benefits of an intimate environment and limited enrollment, as well as the opportunity to participate in many of the programs offered at Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp.

At Camp Emery, the emphasis is on self-motivation and there is no competition for chair position.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

In the 10 years that we have known Bob Musolf, we have never known him to act without integrity. We asked him about the grave accusations made against him in this newspaper, and we were assured from his answers that on all occasions, he acted fairly and lawfully as supervisor of Lima township.

We hope other interested people will take the time to discuss this situation with Bob and not make a judgment on him from reading a newspaper article.

The R. H. Powers family.

Babe Ruth All-Stars Lose in Tournament

Chelsea's 13-year-old Babe Ruth All-Star team lost a hard-fought district tournament game Saturday against Jackson by a 4 to 3 score. David Soltyski pitched a seven-inning loss in the losing cause.

Chelsea's only hit was a single by Shawn Hemingway of Dexter. The outstanding play of the game came when Jeff Turck delivered an unassisted double play.

On Sunday, Chelsea lost its consolation game to Ypsilanti, 9-7 as Steve Wilson pitched an eight-inning loss for Chelsea.

Chelsea's attack was led by Shawn Hemingway, Larry Jacob, Jeff Turck, and Jeff Price, each with one hit, and David Soltyski, who had two hits and two wins.

The key to both losses, according to league director Ken Larson, was not getting certain critical hits in the games. However, he added that the players did an outstanding job and never quit in the midst of strong opposition.

Local students and their elective majors are John Whitaker, jazz-rock; and Faith Markle, orchestra.

Jazz enrollment at Blue Lake is limited to two ensembles of complete standard instrumentation. Jazz work includes two hours daily in full ensemble rehearsal, a sectional rehearsal and one hour of improvisation.

Students attending Blue Lake have the option of majoring in art, ballet, band, jazz-rock, orchestra, piano, or musical theatre. Programs are designed to accommodate the needs of elementary, junior high, high school and college students.

VFW Post, Auxiliary Host Party for VA Hospital Patients

On Tuesday, July 19, Veterans of Foreign Wars Chelsea Post No. 4076 and its Ladies Auxiliary hosted a picnic for patients of the Ann Arbor Veterans Administration Hospital. Initially the picnic was to have been at Dexter-Huron Metropolitan Park, but because of heavy thunderstorms earlier in the day, the picnic was held in the Ann Arbor VA Hospital's auditorium.

"If the precipitation had continued during the noon hour, then the hot dogs would have been cooked in the hospital's kitchen," a Post member stated. "Fortunately the weather cleared a little before noon and the hot dogs were grilled on the pits outside of the hospital auditorium."

A total of 23 patients and seven staff members from the hospital's seventh floor attended the picnic. Also present from Chelsea VFW Post 4076 were commander Kermit L. Sharp and hospital chairman Bill Pierce. From the Chelsea Ladies Auxiliary were president Bessie Sharp and junior vice-president Gertrude O'Dell.

While commander Sharp and Pierce cooked hot dogs outside, Bessie Sharp and Gert O'Dell prepared accompanying dishes on the inside for the hungry patients and staff members. Two other members of the Post and Auxiliary who helped with the picnic, but were unable to attend in person were past commander Byron E. Smith, who was responsible for getting the hot dogs, and past president Betty Smith who helped prepare the food.

Others at the picnic were Fred Bentz, VAVS representative for the VFW at the Ann Arbor VA Hospital; Ruth Otto, VAVS representative for the VFW Ladies Auxiliary at the Ann Arbor VA Hospital; Sam Otto of VFW Post 423, Ann Arbor; and Edna Lutz, of VFW Ladies Auxiliary 423, Ann Arbor.

In spite of bad weather forcing a change in plans, the patients seemed to enjoy themselves, according to Pierce. After they ate most of the food they played a game of volleyball in the hospital auditorium.

VFW Post No. 4076 and Ladies Auxiliary also hosted an evening party for patients of the Ann Arbor VA Hospital on Friday, July 22, 7 p.m., in the hospital auditorium. Various games were played and refreshments were served.

Chelsea Students Attend Orientation Session at WMU

Four Chelsea students were among the second half of approximately 2,400 students who will be freshmen at Western Michigan University this fall, to complete summer orientation at the university in Kalamazoo recently.

Attending the orientation program from the local area were Harold Vandervoort, Mark Warren, Kathleen Treado and Diane Burg.

In groups of 125 to 150, members of the fall freshman class spent a three-day period meeting faculty advisors, registering for classes, taking tests and touring campus buildings. Forty specially trained student leaders aided in the "get-acquainted" process.

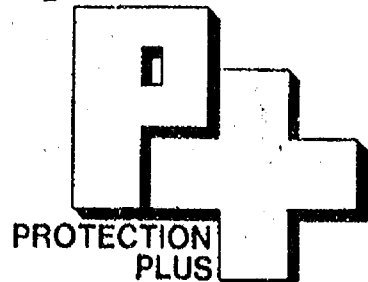

Many parents accompanied their sons and daughters to the orientation program and met with university administrators, faculty and staff members while the students went through the orientation process. Norman Russell, assistant to the vice-president for student services at WMU, directed the program.

The new students will return for the first day of fall semester classes on Monday, Aug. 29.
