Aquatic Club Defeats AA Country Club

In one of the closest meets in the history of the Charles S. Cameron Pool, the Chelsea Aquatic Club defeated Ann Arbor Country Club by a score of 396-394 last week-end.

Because of inclement weather last week, the meet site was changed from Ann Arbor to Chelsea at the last minute. The change did not affect the attitude of the Chelseaites, though, as from the first event to the last the team persisted.

Events began with the 8-and-under boys relay team of Bromley, Karns, Karns and Rob taking first place honors. Dave Karns also won the 25-yard freestyle and Allison Brown took the 25-yard breaststroke.

In the 9-12 boys division, Teddy Lewis took the 50-yard breaststroke.

A handful of first-place finishes were garnered by the 9-10 girls division: medley relay team of Pichlik, Guard, Colombo and Stephens; Paula Colombo in 50-yard freestyle; Christine Guard in the 50-yard breaststroke; and the 220-yard freestyle relay composed of Pichlik, Spalding, Stephens and Colombo.

Other first-place finishes were as follows:

11-12 Boys 200-yd. Medley Relay: Miller, Henson, Pryor, Miller;

11-12 Boys 50-yd. Freestyle: Scott Miller;

11-12 Boys 50-yd. Breaststroke: Mark Henson;

11-12 Boys 200-yd. Freestyle Relay: Pryor, Degener, Baker, Coffman;

11-12 Girls 50-yd. Freestyle: Margie Rawson;

11-12 Girls 50-yd. Breaststroke: Margie Rawson;

13-14 Boys 200-yd. Med. Relay: Hoffman, Nicola, Mason, Oxner;

13-14 Boys 50-yd. Freestyle: Dave Mason;

13-14 Boys 50-yd. Breaststroke: Dave Nicolai;

13-14 Boys 200-yd. Free Relay: Mason, Hoffman, Oxner, Nicola;

13-14 Girls 50-yd. Breaststroke: Kustin Thomas;

15-16 Boys 200-yd. Med. Relay: Gaunt, Hoffman, Prohaska, Mason;

15-16 Boys 50-yd. Freestyle: Phil Hoffman;

15-16 Boys 200-yd. Free Relay: Mason, Prohaska, Gaunt, Wirtz;

15-16 Girls 200-yd. Med. Relay: Borders, Degener, Springer, Bacon;

15-16 Girls 50-yd. Breaststroke: Shannon Springer.

Divers Dave Karns, John Catell, Paula Colombo, Dave Mason, Mary Bacon and Craig Wirtz all took firsts in various diving categories.

Because of scoring practices which award points for first through sixth place finishes, all athletes who swam in the meet for Chelsea contributed to the victory.

The club's next home meet is July 14 at 9 a.m. The public is invited to attend.

BOOST FOR BAND TRIP: Chelsea Symphony Band President Julie Botsford, center, and Band-Orchestra Boosters President Gay Dalton, left, accept a $300 check from Bard Young, UAW Region 1-E director. The check, to be used to send the Symphony Band to the International Mexican Band Festival next May, came from funds earned in the annual Bard Young Golf Tournament.

Symphony Band Receives Gift Toward Mexican Festival Trip

Chelsea Symphony Band's "Mexican Festival Project" is off to a good start with the $300 check presented by Bard Young, UAW Region 1-E Director. The contribution is made possible through funds from the annual Bard Young Golf Tournament.

Selected by the Invitational Mexican Band Festival, the band will represent the state of Michigan in the ninth annual Invitational Band Festival at Mexico City in May 1980. In previous years, other area bands including Belleville, Ann Arbor Huron, and Livonia Clarenceville have represented our state.

Recognizing the band as "one of the outstanding bands in the United States," the invitation acknowledges the efforts and achievements of the Chelsea Symphony Band and its director, Steve Bergmann.

The band has received Division I ratings in both District and State competition for the last four years. In addition to the four scheduled concerts during each school year, members of the Symphony Band also perform in groups such as the High School Jazz Band, the Jazz Ensemble, and the Chelsea High school Pep Band.

With an annual marching season schedule which includes all home football games, the Chelsea Fair Parade, and the Memorial Day Parade, the band has also performed for "Band Day" activities at both Michigan State University and the University of Michigan. In the 1978 "U. of M. Band Day Competition," the "Pride of Chelsea Marching Band" rated second in its division. The 1978 schedule also included a post-game performance in Ryerson Stadium after the Eastern Michigan-Central Michigan football game. (Continued on page three)

SENIOR CITIZEN CENTER: Eventually, the land on which this house at 134 W. Middle St. is located will become a parking lot. In the approximately five years before that will happen, however, the old residence will be utilized as a senior citizens activities center. Chelsea's Kiwanis Club leased the house from the village and has spent many hours in painting and refurbishing the interior to fashion a suitable meeting place for seniors and possibly other community groups. Meanwhile, an informal coalition of representatives of the Chelsea School District, Kiwanis Club, Chelsea Community Hospital and Chelsea Recreation Council have been working toward providing enrichment and recreational activities in the new center.

Class of '69 Changes Plans For Reunion

Chelsea High school Class of 1969 reunion committee has elected to make changes in plans due to a Village ordinance.

The reunion picnic will not be held at Pierce Park as planned. New location of the Aug. 12 picnic is Park Lyndon on North Territorial Rd.

Other changes include a live band in addition to a juke box at the Saturday evening dinner, Aug. 11, at Roma Hall, Ann Arbor. Class members still wishing to (Continued on page six)

Kiwanians Continue Efforts To Renovate Senior Citizen House

If plans and wishes could magically transform themselves into bricks and mortar, Chelsea's Kiwanis Club might have built a dozen senior citizen's activities centers by now.

As things are, the Kiwanians have run into one frustration after another in procuring a feasible, well-located, well-constructed village location in which to house such a center. "Anyone will give us an acre out in the country," one Kiwanian summed it up, "but it's not readily accessible for the seniors."

So it wasn't exactly total victory, but certainly not defeat either, when the club recently became aware of a house for lease by the village at 134 W. Middle St., and decided to turn it into the long-planned center.

It isn't a victory because the village is committed to converting the property into a parking lot within the next five years. The purchase of the house and land five years ago carried that proviso with it.

But, on the other hand, no Kiwanian would consider the leasing of the old house a defeat after the series of homes they were sure they had wrapped up and then lost to other renters.

Location-wise, the old house is ideal, located downtown near the Methodist Retirement Home and many senior citizen apartments. A Kiwanian described the interior as "practically wide open," with three large rooms plus a kitchen and bathroom on the ground floor. Such wide open spaces are ideal for group activities and meetings.

A drawback is the flight of stairs leading up to the home, but it is possible that a ramp might be built if the need for one becomes obvious.

Kiwanians have been volunteering time to touch up the house, holding work bees for cleaning and painting the interior. Money for the improvements and leasing comes from the Kiwanis treasury, which has had a fund for such a center since seniors lost the building that is now the Secretary of State's office a number of years ago.

Since the home must be torn down eventually, however, the Club has not forgotten the original goal: to build a permanent activities center with that money so that seniors and possibly other community groups might have a place to meet regularly.

As one Kiwanian said, though, the finding of the Middle St. house was a fortuitous happening and it's not impossible that a building site for a permanent center might present itself in the next few years. Some things have changed since the club first set out to help the seniors. The most important difference is that, at that time, seniors were more tightly organized as a group through several different organizations.

Dodgers Take Lead In Babe Ruth League

In the Babe Ruth League, the contest for first place continues with some hard fought wins. The Dodgers, for the present, are on top of the league by virtue of good steady over-all play. Hot on the heels of the first-place team are the Orioles and Pirates.

The Orioles battled a stubborn Giant team to win, 14-10, with Mike Bareis and David Wojcik each rapping out three hits. The Pirates came along and subdued the Orioles as Joel Krichbaum pitched a fine no-hitter and helped himself with three hits. This loss dropped the Orioles from first place. The Pirates then lost to the Royals and were also eased out of first place.

Meanwhile, the Yankees made a strong move by claiming two shut-outs, one over the Athletics and the other over the Reds. Against the Athletics, Kurt Brushaber pitched well for the Yankees and struck out nine as his team backed him with good defensive play. Gary Hosmer hurled a one-hitter for the Yankees against the Reds and Randy Raiford and Ron Stoffer each chipped in with two hits.

Athletics slipped from first place with a couple of losses. Bob Trevino pitched well but in a losing cause. One of these losses was to the Giants as the Giants claimed their first win and climbed out of the cellar.

The Royals, who knocked off the Pirates, 6-4, received a very strong pitching performance from Steve Grau as he struck out 13 on his way to a four-hitter. Scott Daut and Ross Murphy helped the Royals with two hits each. (Continued on page three)

Ice Cream Social Slated July 17 at Zion Lutheran

Zion Lutheran church at Rogers Corners, corner of Waters and Fletcher Rds., will hold its annual ice cream social Tuesday, July 17 beginning at 5 p.m.

All are invited to attend the event. Organ recitals in Old Zion church for the benefit of its preservation will be held throughout the evening.

Alley Facelift Complete with Landscaping

A number of years ago, the village first formulated plans to refurbish and spruce up the alley on Main St. leading to the municipal parking lot.

This week, with the final installation of flower boxes and trees, the alley's facelift is completed.

Work on the narrow passageway first began last year when old, crumbling cement was hauled away and a new surface laid. All that remains to be done now is the addition of three new lights to augment the one already there and the beautification will be complete.

The colorful additions, planned and built by the village staff, were funded by the Downtown Merchants Association and revenue from Chelsea's former hospitality signs on I-94, which were purchased and then removed by the state to conform with Michigan's new billboard laws.

Fred Barkley, village director of special projects, said that the shrubs, trees and flowers were placed strategically to hide utility meters and other unsightly places along the walls. The boxes are also placed at varied heights to avoid a regimental look. The alley will look even greener and the walls smoother, Barkley said, after the foliage has had a chance to grow to full height.

Baseball Team Gets Win in AA League

Placing its emphasis strongly on the experience participation, Chelsea's entry in the Ann Arbor High Baseball League has been struggling to defeat more experienced teams.

All of the Chelsea players will be juniors or seniors next year at Chelsea High school. The summer games help to point out strengths and weaknesses in next year's varsity and also to enable the players to compete together as a unit.

Last Thursday, Chelsea scored its first victory, smashing the Taylor Rental Center, 17-5. Leading the attack was Mike Bohlender with two hits. Also collecting hits were Brad Knickerbocker, Sean Peterson, John Dunn, Mike Wade and Jim Cobb.

The combined pitching talents of Craig Thams, Brad Knickerbocker and Jeff Dils helped to earn the victory.

Seniors Lou Jahne and Brad Knickerbocker are currently leading the hitters, with Lou at .444 and Brad hitting .333 with three doubles and a home run to his credit.

Pitching is a prime area of concern for the coaches. Having graduated some fine pitchers, Chelsea is trying to develop a new mound corps. Seniors Chuck Moore, Brad Knickerbocker, Dan Alber and juniors Craig Thams, Jeff Dils, Joel Krichbaum, and Sean Peterson are all laboring hard to improve their hurling skills.

Games are played at Veteran's Park in Ann Arbor on Tuesday and Thursday evenings at either 6:15 or 8:30.

Top Talents Combine To Write Musical

Chelsea's upcoming community musical, "Bells are Ringing" is a show written by three of Broadway's brightest talents: Betty Comden and Adolph Green (book and lyrics), and Jule Styne (music).

Comden and Green wrote the film musical "Singin' in the Rain" which was recently voted one of the 10 best film of all time by the American Film Institute. They began as performer-writers in a group called the "Revuers," which included the late Judy Holiday, and went on to collaborate with Leonard Bernstein and Jerome Robbins what was the first show for all four of them. "On the Town." Also with Mr. Bernstein, they did the score for "Wonderful Town." Other musicals they've done include: "Peter Pan," "Applause," "Do Re Mi," "Subways are for Sleeping," and "Hallelujah, Baby!"

In addition to "Singin' in the Rain," their most recent smash-hit musical is "On the Twentieth Century," now at the Fisher Theatre, with Rock Hudson and Imogene Coca.

Jule Styne wrote the music for "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," "Say, Darling," "High Button Shoes," and "Gypsy." He won an Oscar for his hit song, "Three Coins in the Fountain," and has written songs for more than 30 other motion pictures.

Recently, one of his great hits, "Everything's Coming Up Roses," was voted as the unofficial theme song of American musical theatre. The three live up to, and surpass (Continued on page three)

A FEW LAST TOUCHES are all that remain to complete installation of festive planter boxes in the alley off Main St. near Middle. Village projects director Fred Barkley and helper Theresa Ottomian turn their shovels to the planting of a hardy bush that will add a touch of green to the narrow pathway. Fast growing, creeping ivy will eventually camouflage utility meters, heating ducts and cracked bricks. Funds for the beautification came from the Downtown Merchants Association and revenue from the sale of Chelsea's old 1-94 hospitality signs.

Milliken Opposes Year-RoundGreat Lakes Shipping
The environment and economics have clashed again, this time over a possible extension of year-round shipping on the Great Lakes.

Business and industry in the northern lower and upper peninsulas have been pushing for extension of the navigation season to get raw materials in and iron ore and finished products out during the winter months.

Meanwhile, environmentalists question an expanded navigation year and say they cannot be sure what effects the extension would have on the environment of the lakes and shoreline.

A modest extension of the Great Lakes shipping is reasonable, according to a recent report issued by Governor William G. Milliken, but a proposal for year-round activity was rejected.

He said he could not support the year-round proposal because of a lack of study of alternatives and of environmental and economic impacts.

The shipping season normally ends in mid-December.

While the year-round plan was designed to increase the capacity of the Great Lakes navigation system, the governor's Environmental Cabinet said extension of the season is only one means. A cabinet report noted a comparison of economic cost-benefits or environmental impacts of alternatives is lacking.

The cabinet's policy statement specifically disapproved a suggestion by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to evaluate environmental impacts while the program is in operation.

It recommended a two-phase system of first studying environmental and economic aspects of increasing the system's capacities along with alternative methods before implementing an alternative.

The Milliken policy supports extending the mid-December closing to the end of January, plus or minus two weeks depending upon conditions; making studies to establish permanent policy to determine conditions that require ending the season and a determination of the impact of oil spills in ice conditions.

"Michigan, which has more to gain or lose than any other state from the impacts of year-round shipping, must insist on full environmental and economic studies and a full exploration of other alternatives," Michigan has moved on many fronts to protect its magnificent coastal resources and must continue to address itself to everything that affects our fisheries, erosion areas, wetlands, transportation and recreation," Milliken said.

Workers' Compensation Revision
For the first time in many years, both business and labor are meeting as members of a special task force on workers' compensation to begin this year's attempt to rework the billion dollar workers' compensation system.

Workers' compensation along with the state's unemployment compensation system have created battle lines with neither side seeming to get an inch.

Business contends the systems are abusive and costing employers millions yearly, with payment going to undeserving recipients. Leaders say the systems are driving up the cost of doing business in the state, causing less expansion in the state.

Meanwhile, labor says the system is ancient and unrealistic in providing deserved benefits to those who qualify. They want to increase benefits but hesitate to open the whole system for a total revision.

Recently, the special task force was given outlines of the priority

Q. I bought Amdahl stock less than a year ago at $67 a share. Recently it has been selling at $20 a share. Do you think I should sell out?

A. Amdahl is a company that has been very aggressive in marketing an excellent product. At the same time it is a very small company in a very large industry. The leader in the industry is IBM. Amdahl has to keep even with or ahead of IBM in its particular area in the computer industry if it is to grow and prosper. It has done well so far but none of us know what the future will bring. At the moment the company is experiencing some competitive and earnings problems. How it works out of those in the next year and a half will give us a better picture of management's skill. I would be inclined to hold the stock during this period.

I would say the main mistake you made when you bought Amdahl was that you paid way too much for it. At $67 you paid 39 times the previous year's earnings of $1.69. There were thousands of stocks you could have bought at 6 to 8 times earnings. For instance at that time Better Investing suggested Federal-Mogul Corp. as an undervalued stock. It was selling at $13 a share and had a price-earnings ratio of 5.7. Recently it sold at $19.75.

The stocks in the Dow-Jones Industrial average have recently been selling at 6.8 times earnings. When you decide to buy a stock selling for more than that you should be convinced that the company has an exceptional record of increasing sales and earnings per share at a high rate. You should also be pretty sure that the company will be able to continue to do so for several years into the future. If the company stumbles as Amdahl has done the fall in its price can be substantial when you've paid too many times earnings for it.

It is well to keep in mind that there is no set figure by which you can judge the price-earnings ratio of stocks. You can't say this one figure is right for all of them.

issues of both business and labor groups and approved a subcommittee to determine the cost of various proposals.

The first head-to-head meeting of the two groups indicated that both are a little closer in reaching some agreement yet this year. The task force, which is scheduled to meet weekly, hopes to present a balanced proposal to the legislature by October.

They sent a letter to legislative leaders calling for support of the eventual proposal, rather than negotiating essential points of any agreement that will be presented in legislative form.

You can look at one stock and see the ratio it has sold at its high and at its low each year for several years. Price earnings ratios also vary with the stockmarket cycle. We are probably near the bottom of the long term confidence cycle in the stockmarket. As we work gradually into a period of greater confidence, we will probably see all price earnings ratios rise. But that is likely to take several years.

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

One thing about never being particular partial to regular work is that when the years pile up retirement don't mean near as much. All the fellows that gather at the country store are well past what the Government regards as the working years, and the best thing retirement has done for them is give them an excuse to keep on doing what they've allus done.

For this reason, Mister Editor, Independence Day don't get the fellows excited as a holiday. But they are big on the Fourth of July as a day for Americans to remember and rejoice over their Declaration of Independence. A good portion of the session Saturday night was given to the Fourth, and to what has become of it since the first one. General speaking, they weren't near as tore up about moving the Fourth all over the calendar to fit it to a Monday as they are about what America does with it wherever she finds it. The way Zeke Grubb put it, the Fourth of July use to be a time for taking stock of values and now it is one crazy stock car race from sea to shining sea as folks go as far and as fast as they can to do as much as they can.

Practical speaking, declared Zeke, John Wayne's death might finger strong in this Fourth. Here is a man that played the same part in ever picture show he was ever in, Zeke said, but in his late years he started making sense in real life. It might be that he got to believing in his movie image, Zeke said, but whatever the reason he stood up for this country and he caused a heap of folks to to examine where they stood. You can call that dealing in images all you want, declared Zeke, but the hard fact remains that there ain't no make believe about this country's image as the beacon of hope for people all over this world. We don't have to put on parades to remind us, Zeke said, but it would be good to go back to that kind of Fourth.

Zeke said his preacher come up with a good image maker recent that fits in with remembering what we're about. On Father's day he took out the pulpit and put in a eight-foot-tall chair he had made for the occasion. He climbed up and set down in that chair and ask the congregation to remember how big pa was when they were little, and how important it felt to set in pa's chair back then. He ask the older heads then to form a image of themselves as fathers. What we need to do now is set down in America's big chair and ask ourselves what kind of example we are in the eyes of the world, was Zeke's words.

General speaking, the fellows were downright proud of Zeke and his sermon. Bug Hookum said Zeke's was what advertisers call the soft sell. It brings the message without beating you over the head with it like a ad Bug said he saw recent. It showed a little girl playing in a field of flowers, and it ask daddies of all little girls if they wanted her in battle. If not they better fight the draft and the Equal Rights Amendment. Daddies wouldn't remind themselves that laws are made by daddies of little girls, and that ERA is dead, they would just work up a good hate. That, Bug allowed, is hard sell.

TODAY'S INVESTOR

By Thomas E. O'Hara

Q. I have been interested in buying Municipal Bonds because the interest from them is tax free. But, I have read about the financial condition of New York City and Cleveland; and I wonder if Municipal Bonds are really safe. Do you believe these bonds are safe enough to buy?

A. While I would not be inings, you should be quite safe. I've been buying New York City or Cleveland bonds at this time, there are bonds available from a great many municipalities that are of good quality and reasonably safe. Your broker or banker could help you select them. If you are a do-it-yourselfer, both Standard & Poor rate Municipal bonds; and if you stock with the one with the top rating.

There is a new development in the Municipal Bond field that you might use. The MGIC Indemnity Corporation now offers insurance on the interest of Municipal Bonds. In other words, if you buy a Municipal Bond, you can buy an insurance policy that guarantees that if for any reason the issuer of the bond doesn't pay the interest, the insurance company will pay you. The insurance company isn't called on very often to make payments.

This type of insurance has been used particularly by individuals who have found that they could buy a lower quality bond and consequently one that paid a higher rate of interest, since the annual fee for the insurance was less than the difference in interest paid by the lower quality bond compared with the higher quality one. The insurance enables them to buy a riskier bond and increase their income.

Q. My broker told me I could get a larger monthly payment if I put some of my money in a mutual fund and asked to have a regular withdrawal plan that I would get if I bought an annuity policy. It sounds good but I don't understand the difference.

A. There could be quite a difference. If you put your money in the mutual fund and asked to get $100 a month, you would get a $100 a month as long as the amount you paid in and the earnings on it provided the $100 a month. If all the money was used up, your payments would stop.

If you bought an annuity, you could get just a fixed number of payments which would equal the amount you paid in and the earnings on it or you could get a payment which would be smaller each month, but which would go on for life. The guarantee of payments continuing for life is the principal reason why your annuity payments would get smaller than those from the mutual fund withdrawal plan.

Someone To Lean On

What makes bereavement lonely is more than the sense of loss and grief. It's also the bewilderment... the strangeness... the wondering what to do. During this time you need, at once, someone to lean on.

Being that someone to lean on is our mission... to be there when you need a special friend. To help. To counsel. To reassure.

VFW Post, Auxiliary Group Attends Convention

The 60th Veterans of Foreign Wars convention for the state of Michigan was held at the Kalamazoo Hilton Convention center the week-end of June 21-24. Local post No. 4076 had Fremont Boyer, Ken Platt, Ron Zatorski, Carl Heldt, Gary Erskine, Kermit Sharp, Byron Smith and Tom Collinsworth as delegates and alternates.

Auxiliary sent President Bessie Sharp, Eulabee Packard, Lucy Platt, Fran Zatorski and Mary Erskine as delegates.

Mac Packard, as District No. 6 Commander, ended his term of office with the closing of the convention Sunday at noon.

There are 12 districts in lower Michigan and two in the Upper Peninsula, with a total membership of 78,692. The Auxiliary's 313 Michigan chapters encompass 29,236 members.

Approximately 5,000 combined members were in attendance for the four-day session. Many resolutions were adopted pertaining to veteran's affairs.

Local post and auxiliary received several citations for their work this year pertaining to hospital, Americanism, membership and Voice of Democracy projects.

Mrs. Betty Connelly of No. 1138 Monroe, a former 6th District president, was the presiding Department of Michigan president. Andy Richter of Bay City was the commander of the VFW Department of Michigan.

A one and a half hour parade led by Mac Packard featured Zatorski and Erskine carrying the colors and banner and Boyer and Collinsworth the rifles for the post.

Saginaw's delegation emerged victorious in the four-hour Pageant of Drums and will represent Michigan in the National Competition in New Orleans in August.

Unusual Bicycles

The first intercollegiate bicycle race was held on May 27, 1896. Six colleges competed in a series of five races ranging from a quarter mile to a five-mile contest. Columbia University came out the big winner, with mighty Harvard at the bottom of the list with only two third-place awards. Henry Ford Museum's bicycle collection in Dearborn includes such unusual bicycles of that period as an 1897 Bamboo with pneumatic tires and a bamboo frame, an 1895 Regina with a unique chainless drive mechanism, and the ponderous 1896 Orient 10-man bicycle.

In the early years of the 20th century, the world watched in awe as bold explorers reached new heights of success. On April 9, 1909, Robert Perry, Matthew Henson and four Eskimos became the first to reach the North Pole on foot. Twenty-seven years later, Commander Richard Byrd became the first to fly over the same pole in an airplane, again capturing the admiration of the world. MORTGAGE PROTECTION

Homeowners insurance buy because the insurance protection decreases with the re-against almost any conceivable damage or accident that can happen in, on, around and even away from your home. But do not make the mistake of thinking that your homeowners insurance will pay off your mortgage upon the breadwinner's death. It won't.

For this type of protection, and it is desirable, you must purchase a certain type of term life insurance policy for a period of time equal to the length of the mortgage loan.

The premiums on such policies are relatively low — in fact, they are about the lowest cost life insurance policies you can

Sluggers Prevail in Girls Softball Race

Only one team remains winless in the Chelsea Recreation Department girls softball leagues, as several teams eked out victories that tightened the races this past week.

In the Junior Miss League, the previously abused Orange Crush doomed 18 hits to record their first win of the season, a 22-13 romp over the Candy Kisses. Julie Hunn started on the mound for the Crush and allowed only four runs in the first three innings.

Among the Crush blasts was a triple by Julie Koch with the bases loaded in the bottom of the fourth.

Second game of the evening was also a slug-fest, as the Blue Eyes drilled 18 hits to outscore the Red Devils, 22-9. Blue Eye Chris DeFanti handled the pitching duties and also contributed three singles to the cause.

Also among the hits were two bunts laid down by Karla Peterson and a homer off the bat of Maro Petsch.

Wednesday was grand-slam night as Nora Morseau slugged a four-run round-tripper in the first inning for the Red Devils. Amy Poljan added a triple to 15 other hits for the Devils to overpower the Orange Crush, 20-5.

Black Panther Marjie Rawson slammed her grand slam in the second inning of a contest with the first-place Blue Eyes. The Panthers took the victory, 19-5.

Another tight game was held Tuesday evening in the Midget League. Pat Leidner's Giants pulled off a close victory over Joe Rossi's Blue Angels, 14-11.

Kelly Ghent and Jenny Borton shared pitching duties. Ghent also somered in the third for the Giants.

In the bottom of the fourth, Beth Kenney made an excellent shoe-string catch to retire the side.

Two round-trippers by the Blue Streak's Michelle Easton carried her team to victory over Basso's Bombers in the second game of the night, 15-6.

Thursday, the Chelseaettes came from behind to sink the Blue Angels, 9-8, in the bottom of the sixth inning.

Second game that evening was loaded with hard shots by the Giants and Redhots. Giant Alison Chasteen ripped a homer in the third inning, with Redhot Jill Schaffner answering with one of her own in the bottom of that inning.

Excellent defensive play contributed to the excitement of the game, with outstanding glove work by Amy Richardson and Paula Kuzon. The Redhots took the game by a close score, 12-10.

WATER IN THE EYES is one of the small, unavoidable problems of swimming. To help children and adults learn to cope with the larger hazards, Chelsea offers a learn to swim program. Two-week sessions, divided by age and ability, pass on skills and techniques for enjoying the water. Openings are still available for the final summer session, July 9-20.

AGE IS NO BARRIER to swimming prowess as these tiny tots demonstrate by flinging themselves confidently into the pool for a relay race. Chelsea's learn to swim program offers classes broken down into age and ability divisions, so that each swimmer will receive the proper training and attention. Reservations for the last summer session are now being taken.

Learn-To-Swim Program Taking Registrations

Chelsea's learn-to-swim program is entering its final phase for this summer season. Registration for the last session, July 9-20, is now being taken. Openings remain in almost all time periods.

Lessons are 1/2 hour long and last for two weeks. They are broken down into ability and age divisions. Fee is $12 for Chelsea residents and $18 for non-Chelsea school residents.

Sessions for most age groups are being offered in the morning and afternoon. More than 400 children and adults have taken the lessons thus far.

Remembering 'The Duke'...

By Loren D. Estleman
In the John Ford film "The Searchers," John Wayne, in the starring role, delivered the recurring line, "That'll be the day." Where the Duke's death was concerned, his many fans, and a good many of those who were decidedly not his fans, "That'll be the day" was the stock reply to questions of his mortality for more than half a century. That day came last week.

Now that the inevitable rites of defilement have begun, it's important to expend a few words on the man called Duke before the flames burn away all that was mortal, leaving only the god.

He wasn't perfect. He divorced two wives and separated from a third. He began drinking a quart of whiskey a day while still in his twenties and continued to do so for 40 years. He was not above allowing his political convictions to overshadow his art, as in his depiction of the Vietnamese War in "The Green Berets." In later years he became overweight and jeopardized his 1964 victory over cancer by continuing to smoke against his doctors' orders. He was a very human god after all.

Ironically, these very faults were responsible for a large part of his appeal, simply because they were as big as the rest of him: Physically he was a giant, standing 6'5" in his socks and weighing 225 without an ounce of suet on his frame even at his heaviest. His shoulders were huge, his chest massive. Katherine Hepburn, his leading lady in "Rooster Cogburn," said that leaning against him was like leaning against a great tree, and the doctor who performed open heart surgery on him in 1978 said that he never realized how big his patient was until he had him stretched out on the operating table. The Duke alone could ride through the magnificent Monument Valley scenery that provided the setting for so many of his westerns without being swallowed up in the sweeping panorama of towering buttes and vast desert.

His sense of humor was fully as vast, and as capable of as many changes. It could be quietly vindictive, as during his first divorce hearing when his estranged wife answered charges of frigidity by pointing at their four children, to which Wayne replied: "Yeah, four times in 10 years."

It could be wry, as demonstrated at a press conference following a hunting accident in which Wayne had wounded his good friend Ward Bond while shooting at a quail, when he quipped that he was glad of the opportunity to inspect his shotgun's pattern and see that it was not too broad.

His fans remember a more raucous side, and cherish the scene in "True Grit" wherein Wayne, as the boozy western marshal, takes a drunken pratfall from the saddle and blames it on his horse.

He was born Marion Michael Morrison May 26, 1907 in Winterset, Ia., studied law at the University of Southern California, and entered motion pictures in 1928 when director John Ford, who liked to surround himself with giants, recruited him from the USC football squad. His nickname "Duke" was bestowed upon him not for his early knowledge of fistfuffs, but for a dog he owned as a boy. (Asked during an appearance on NBC's "Tonight Show" if anyone had ever called him "Marion," he said, "Once.")

Following 10 years of apprenticeship in what were then called "two-and-a-half-day outers" for Republic, he achieved stardom in Ford's "Stagecoach" for his performance as the Ringo Kid, a gunfighter who escapes prison in order to gun down his family's murderers. Naturally he won, and was to do so in more than 200 major motion pictures — more than any other star in the history of the industry — until his bow in 1976's "The Shootist," in which, ironically, he played an aging gunfighter dying of cancer. That disease claimed him last week at the age of 72, just 15 years after he had sent it sinking off with its tail between its legs and one of his lungs in tow.

He became a controversial figure after the Second World War when he headed up an organization of actors opposed to Communists in Hollywood, and from that time on his politics were well known. He endorsed the 1964 Presidential campaign of right-wing candidate Sen. Barry Goldwater, came out strongly in favor of American involvement in Vietnam and Cambodia, underscoring his beliefs in "The Green Berets" (filmed by his own Batjac Productions), yet surprised everyone who dismissed him as a mindless reactionary by supporting the movement to turn ownership of the Panama Canal to the citizens of that country. And in 1969, advised not to use the submitted script for "True Grit" because of the screenwriter's suspected left-wing affiliations during the 1950's, the long-accused red-baiter blew his top, maintaining that a person's past was his own business.

Only someone like John Wayne could be spared the public and critical humiliation some thought due him once his long-awaited production, "The Alamo," proved a dud at the boxoffice, and only John Wayne himself could step from that debacle into the legendary status he achieved in the 1960's and was to retain even into death. Later this month, Congress will issue the first impression of the "John Wayne: American" bronze medal, a tribute that has been paid only a handful of Americans since the first was stamped in honor of George Washington.

Through it all, and except for his portrayal of a jealous suitor responsible for his rival's death in "Wake of the Red Witch" (and even then he was allowed to gather together the shreds of his self-respect and die a martyr), John Wayne played the hero, and he did so believably. It was no feat for his fans to imagine that the lonely, over-the-hill J. B. Books of "The Shootist" was the same stalwart youth who had defended his fellow passengers from Geronimo in "Stagecoach" 37 years earlier.

When all the inevitable pasters have been sold and television retrospectives aired and night-long movie festivals run their course, when, as in the case of NASA moon visits, all the adjectives to describe him have been exhausted, journalist George Plimpton may be remembered as the man who best summed up the Wayne phenomenon when, after observing him on the set of the 1970 film "Rio Lobo," swagging around, pounding backs, barking orders, rehearsing his lines, and quoting Milton "by the yard," he told an interviewer for True magazine: "I was astonished."

John Wayne dead? That'll be the day.

On May 11, 1854, Ottmar Mergenthaler entered the world in the little hamlet of Hachtel, Germany. In his early years Mergenthaler was apprenticed to a watchmaker, but his natural bent toward machinery quickly took hold. In 1884 he revolutionized the printing industry with his linotype machine, which allowed printers to set entire lines rather than a letter at a time. Examples of Mergenthaler's linotypes and their descendants are part of an exhibit in the Communications Collection of Henry Ford Museum, Dearborn.

DR. FRITZ WAGNER

Dr. Fritz Wagner Named To Advisory Commission

Former Chelsea resident Dr. Fritz W. Wagner, associate director and co-ordinator for graduate studies, University of New Orleans School of Urban and Regional Studies, has been appointed to the Delta Region Preservation Commission, an advisory board for the Jean Lafitte National Historical Park.

The two-year appointment was made by Acting Secretary of the Interior James A. Joseph upon the recommendations of New Orleans Mayor Ernest N. Morial. As a commission member, Dr. Wagner will help "advise in the selection of sites for inclusion in the Jean Lafitte National Historical Park" as well as "in the development and implementation of a general management plan" for the park and of a "comprehensive interpretive program of the natural, historic and cultural resources of the region," Joseph said.

Dr. Wagner, who joined the UNO faculty in 1974, serves as District I president of the Louisiana Recreation and Parks Association, as a consultant for the New Orleans and Jefferson Parish recreation departments and as editor of the "Newsletter," Louisiana Chapter of the American Institute of Planners. He has directed a number of neighborhood and recreation studies in the city and the state.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick J. Wagner of 319 Congdon St.

Dog 'Fish' Gives Angler Real Scare

The following item, bought into The Dexter Leader by Randolph Estleman, has appeared in the Tuscola County Advertiser and the Crawford County Avalanche, and is so bizarre that it bids well for syndication nationwide:

When the great fish stories of all time are told this one should perhaps be among them.

It seems a young Deford man and two companions were spending this past spring-like Saturday ice fishing on Mud Creek between Bay Port and Caseville when suddenly the solitude of the moment was interrupted by a crashing from nearby.

Turning at precisely the right moment the young men witnessed a man crashing through the front of his shanty onto the ice. The man was reportedly shaking uncontrollably and the young men rushed to his side to lend assistance. They thought certainly the man had been stricken by a seizure or a heart attack.

All the man was able to do was mumble but after some 20 minutes he calmed down to the point that he was able to tell the following story.

It seems that some 15 feet further down the ice a man was fishing in his shanty with his Labrador Retriever. He apparently latched on to a good-sized pike and had the fish up through the ice when it spit out the hook and fell back into the icy waters of Mud Creek. Ever-faithful, the dog dove in after the fish.

Unable, one would guess, to find his way back to the proper hole, the dog swam towards a spot of light some 15 feet away. Gulping and gasping for air the rather large, black dog came lunging up through the ice into the poor victim's shanty, scaring him so badly that he threw himself, quaking, through the door of his shack and out onto the ice. The dog, by the way, was fine. The fish got away.

The Bible-The Light from Heaven

Instructs about the essential redemption. By essential we mean, indispensable, cannot be done without. Redemption is the act of redeeming. A redeemer is one who rescues another from bondage, or liberates another from any condition wherein he is held. Jesus is our redeemer from sin. (Acts 4:12). This essential redemption is taught in Ephesians 1:7. The apostle Paul wrote: "In whom"—the essential state. All spiritual blessings are in Christ. (Ephesians 1:3). The way to get into this state is recorded in Galatians 3:26, 27; Romans 6:3, 4, "We have our redemption"—the essential work. Essential because all have sinned. (Romans 3:23). "Through his blood"—the essential means. "Without the shedding of blood is no remission of sins." (Hebrews 9:22). Jesus is the Lamb of God that taketh away sin. "The forgiveness of sin"—the essential blessing. Those who die in their sins cannot go to heaven. (John 8:21). "According to the riches of his grace"—the essential cause. Since man did not merit salvation, it could be effected only through the grace of God. (Ephesians 2:7-9).

ASK THE GOVERNOR

by William G. Millham

Question: The price of beer and pop has gone out of sight since the state got the new bottle bill. Are you doing anything to change that?

Governor: I asked my Consumer Protection and Regulatory Cabinet to investigate the recent steep rise in beer prices and make recommendations for changes in the operation of the Liquor Control Commission (LCC) which would affect the price of beer.

The consumer cabinet made several suggestions, which I have urged the LCC to adopt. The main suggestions were to lift the brand and label price advertising restrictions on malt beverages for off-premise consumption; to rescind requirements that wholesalers post their prices well in advance and hold those prices for a prescribed period; and to eliminate the restriction against quantity discounts to retailers.

Question: What is Michigan's Plant Rehabilitation and Industrial Development Act?

Governor: The Plant Rehabilitation and Industrial Development Act, also referred to as PA 198, allows communities to grant tax breaks to manufacturers willing to renovate obsolete facilities or to build new ones.

A recent survey of 251 companies which received property tax abatements under the program for at least one year, showed that it has helped generate 62,000 new jobs and has saved more than 70,000 existing jobs since its enactment five years ago.

The study indicated that PA 198 is being used by a growing number of small businesses. More than three-fifths of those using tax abatements employ fewer than 250 workers and the number of firms taking advantage of the program with fewer than 100 employees is steadily rising.

The average firm responding to the survey reported increasing its total employment by 56 percent. Approximately 26 percent of the firms with plans to expand in Michigan said they would cancel those plans if PA 198 were abolished.

Every year, companies consider many sites for expansion, and many of these places are outside of Michigan. PA 198 is one important tool for convincing these firms to locate or remain in the state. It helps Michigan competitive in the recruitment of interstate industry.

Question: What is your position on year-round shipping on the Great Lakes?

Governor: After meeting with my Environmental Cabinet earlier this week, and reviewing its recommendations regarding year-round shipping on the Great Lakes, I rejected a plan for year-round shipping because of a lack of study of alternatives and of environmental and economic impacts.

Michigan has more to gain or lose than any other state from year-round shipping and we must insist on full environmental and economic studies and a full exploration of other alternatives to the desired objective — increased capacity for the Great Lakes navigation system.

Michigan has moved on many fronts to protect its magnificent coastal resources and must contribute to address itself to everything that affects our fisheries, erosion areas, wetlands, transportation and recreation.

I will support, however, a modest, yet flexible, extension of the shipping season beyond its traditional closing date of mid-December under certain conditions. The season would be extended until the end of January, plus or minus a few weeks, if there is a continuation and improvement of all measures developed to mitigate the impact of winter navigation, if studies are undertaken to determine whether winter navigation has a negative impact on fish and waterfowl wintering, whether ice cover concentrates prop wash from ships and how to handle oil spills in ice conditions.

Child, Family Service Agency Receives Grant

Child and Family Service of Washtenaw County, a United Way agency, has received a $246,045 contract to continue administering the Senior Aides Project. The grant, awarded by the National Council of Senior Citizens through the U. S. Department of Labor, covers the second year of the project, July 1, 1979, to June 30, 1980.

The local Senior Aides Project employs some 60 low-income older workers in part-time jobs in and around Washtenaw county. Aides work in public and private non-profit organizations to expand community services.

The federal funds go directly to the aides as wages and benefits. Administrative costs are met by local cash and in-kind contributions. The Ann Arbor Area Foundation provided part of this local match for the project's first year.

The Senior Aides Project began in 1968 under Title V of the Older Americans Act. It is administered nationally by the National Council of Senior Citizens. Participants must be at least 55 years old with annual incomes below the federal poverty level.

Ecology Center Recycling Station Seeks Materials

A spring tune-up and oil change can improve the efficiency of your car engine and decrease gasoline consumption. You can further cut down on waste of petroleum resources by bringing your used motor oil to the Ann Arbor Ecology Center's Recycling Station at 2050 S. Industrial Highway.

While cleaning around the house this spring you may come across some of the old no-deposit, no-return soft drink and beer containers which have been banned in Michigan. Please don't throw them away, bring them to the station to be recycled.

In addition to used motor oil, the station accepts bundled newspaper, white office paper, computer paper, clear, brown, and green glass, and steel or bi-metal cans. Glass should be clean and separated by color, with all foil or metal removed; cans should be clean and flattened with the labels removed. Used motor oil may be brought in any convenient container.

The Recycling Station is open from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. every Friday and Saturday.

Legislative Update

A Weekly Report from State Rep. Mary Keith Ballentine
State Capitol, Lansing 48909
Phone (517) 373-1775

Week of July 2-9

FELONIOUS FIREARMS—The state Supreme Court has upheld our 1976 law which sets mandatory jail terms for carrying a gun while committing a felony. This reverses the Court of Appeals, which had held that the law was unconstitutional.

HEALTH HEAD—The Senate will vote this week to confirm Frank Ochberg as the new Director of the troubled Mental Health Department. He has said he would like to see more patients de-institutionalized and better relations with the public.

DISCHARGE DEFEAT—The Senate has defeated a rarely-used move to discharge a bill from committee. The bill in question was SB 157, which limits state funding for abortions, but the vote was mainly on the issue of taking a bill away from a committee.

PRIMARY PROGNOSIS—Because our present Presidential Primary procedures are in conflict with the Democrats' national party rules, HB 4520 and SB 540 would require voters to state their party preference before voting; HB 4392 would abolish the Presidential Primary altogether. Governor Milliken has said he would prefer no primary to one requiring party declaration.

LOOPHOLE LEGISLATION?—The Senate will soon vote on SB 460, which is drawn to implement the section of the Headlee Amendment which says the state must pay for all costs mandated to local governments. A local-government spokesman says the bill contains loopholes which allow increased local costs, contradicting the intent of the Headlee Amendment.

SEARCHES STRIPPED—The House will soon vote on HB 4639, which defines and limits body-cavity searches and strip-searches of people who are arrested. Such searches could be conducted only on the belief that weapons or evidence are concealed; law enforcement officers or their employees who violate the restrictions could be charged with a misdemeanor.

MEDICAL MARIJUANA—Now in the House is SB 185, which would allow the use of marijuana for cancer and glaucoma patients. The drug has been proven useful in controlling side effects of cancer chemotherapy and in reducing eye pressures of glaucoma, which can lead to blindness.

PRISON PROPOSALS—The Corrections Commission has recommended 15 new prisons for the state, with five regional ones to be built in the near future. The Governor has proposed spending $404 million over the next several years for such prison construction.

SAGGING SPENDING—The Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations reports that government spending as a percentage of gross national product appears to have peaked in 1975. But state and local taxes, and employee numbers, have increased faster than at the federal level.

Beware of Strange Dogs in Hot Weather

Good old Fido. He may be man's best friend. He's a faithful companion, a gallant protector. He has been known to risk life and limb for his owner.

But if he isn't your dog, don't trust him, warns the Health Insurance Institute.

That's because the chances of you - or more likely your youngster - being bitten by him are too great to ignore. And those chances are increasing each year. Data supplied by the U.S. Disease Control Center in Atlanta shows that at least one million people are bitten annually by dogs in this country.

And some authorities say the actual count probably runs to twice that number, because many cases are never reported.

Things have reached the point where the cost of treating dog bites in this country amounts to some $50 million a year. Indeed, dog bites have become so common in the nation that they are topped only by gonorrhea as among the most reported diseases and injuries in the U.S.

Unfortunately for parents, most of these bites seem to be the kind tearful children come home with. A large portion of these nips are of the facial variety which can cause permanent scars.

A seven-year survey conducted in New York City found that nearly 2 in 3 facial bites occurred among children under 10, the majority during the summer months. That's why parents instruct their children to keep their hands off stray dogs at all times, but especially as the weather gets warmer.

A child should be taught that reaching out to a strange dog is actually invading the animal's territory—a gesture that may lead to trouble.

On the other hand, what do you do if you are minding your own business and a strange dog suddenly charges you?

You do nothing.

According to authorities, when it comes to dogs, that is the best defense.

The strategy is to merely stand still, with your hands at your sides, no matter how frightened you are. This will either help the dog lose its fear of you or slow it down to the point where it becomes bored and drifts off.

If the dog continues to approach you and begins sniffing at your hands and feet, talk softly and slowly to him without making any attempt to touch him.

Either the dog will begin to trust you or he will not. In any case you will be safest if you stand still until he goes away or someone calls him off or comes to your rescue.

What precautions can you take if you're riding a bike and a dog suddenly gives chase?

Once again, the experts recommend a conservative defense. First, get off the bike immediately and keep it between yourself and the dog, using it as a shield as you walk calmly along.

Talking to the dog quietly and reassuringly, telling it, "No, stop, go home now," may do the trick. The dog, bored with inaction, might trot off for something more exciting.

But if it should persist, the best thing to do is to keep walking slowly until you can get on the bike and ride off safely.

The worst thing to do when a dog threatens you would be to scream and run away.

The next worst thing to do when a dog threatens you would be to reach for the dog or over your head. Nothing alarms a dog more quickly than such action.

That's why the final word of advice, no matter the dog, is never to startle the animal. Even friendly little dogs can become unfriendly if they're alarmed by an unexpected movement.

Nature Center Offers Summer Programs

Do you work with youth groups during the summer months? Would you like to treat them to some fun, learning experiences. The Waterloo Nature Center may have just what you are looking for.

From June 5 to Sept. 1 the Center's naturalists will be offering programs featuring some of the park's plants and wildlife that are at their best in summer. They include the following:

Life in a Bog: Tells the story of the formation and succession of Michigan's inland lakes. It includes a trip to a floating bog where the students will see insect eating plants and orchids in season. Recommended for 9 years old to adult. Insect repellent is recommended.

Nature's Tank, the Turtle: This program will introduce the children to several kinds of common Michigan turtles. They will be able to see and touch many of them. They will also learn how a turtle's shell is constructed, how turtles eat and reproduce, who are turtles' natural enemies and how turtles defend themselves. Can be geared to any age level.

They will be able to see and touch (if they want) several harmless snakes and learn many interesting facts about them. Myths and superstitions about snakes will also be discussed. Can be geared to any age level.

The above two programs may be combined into a Michigan Reptiles program if desired.

Michigan Geology: Introduces the students to the rocks common in the glacial till of Southern Michigan. The introduction stresses the role of rocks and minerals in our lives. Rock collecting as a hobby is also discussed. The program concludes with a walk on the geology trail to discover Michigan rocks in their natural environment. Recommended for 9- to 12-year-olds. Insect repellent is recommended.

The Summer Insects: An introduction to some of the common insects of the summer woods and fields. Will include a discussion of insect life histories and instructions on collecting and mounting insects. Recommended for ages 8 to 12.

Michigan Trees: An introduction to the common trees of Southern Michigan. Emphasis will be placed on the life processes within a tree, tree identification and the importance of trees to man and wildlife. Recommended for 9 year olds to adult. Insect repellent recommended.

Managing a State Recreation Area: A bus tour of the Waterloo Recreation Area to answer such questions as: What makes good recreation land, how and why we must control visitor activities, what is being done to protect park wildlife, and improve wildlife habitat.
