Snow, Rain, Ice, Winds Hit Area

Rain, snow and 35 mile per hour winds, gusting up to 60 m.p.h., resulted in a slippery, blustery and damaging situation Monday as reports of loosened aluminum siding, downed electrical wires, missing hats and Christmas trees and garbage cans blowing along village streets were heard.

While Christmas vacation was extended for local students, and those in nine area school districts, city workers, carpenters and those with fleeing feet and the wind at their heels, attempted to right the situations Mother Nature caused, nailing down the loosened siding, reinstating electrical and telephone service, chasing the wild Christmas trees and garbage cans and capturing runaway hats.

Though the National Weather Service had issued a Winter Storm Watch, loyal employees blew from one lane to another on main thoroughfares while many were ice-bound, incapable of escaping their frozen driveways.

Rain turning to snow was expected to make roadways particularly slick and drivers were warned to exercise extreme caution while heading home. Still, the snow was not expected to amount to much and Tuesday's outlook was much more promising.

Nevertheless, Monday was like a day in a wind tunnel in this southeastern Michigan area and like a day in Anarctica for those in other parts of the state as eight to 15 inches of snow paralyzed the northern part of the Lower Peninsula and the eastern half of the Upper Peninsula.

CHS SALAD BAR: Acquired in a trade with Tim Orbring, Chelsea High school now features an extensive salad bar as a lunch selection. Eleven toppings, four dressings and ham and turkey are among the salad bar selections offered to students for $1. Fran Ferry, food service supervisor, readies the chilled salad bar for the lunch crowd.

School Lunch Program Now Features Complete Salad Bar

It may not be The Gandy Dancer, or Delphine's or Mantel's but as far as the student bodies of both the Chelsea and Manchester School Districts are concerned, it's marvelous nonetheless. Its name, the Chelsea High school cafeteria.

The cafeteria operates on a full-scale production schedule, turning out an average of 1,200 hot and cold meals per day featuring the necessary components of good nutrition including three ounces or protein, three-quarters of a cup of fruits or vegetables, dairy foods such as milk and breads. And the meals cost amazingly little, 90 cents, which would be difficult to match by buying it elsewhere or packing it at home.

Still, the 90-cent price is up from one year ago following governmental budget cuts in school lunch program participation. With the introduction of the salad bar, students can feast on a variety of garden delights at a cost of $1.

Turning out the versatile, tasty meals are a group of eight women, under the supervision of food service supervisor Fran Ferry. They include Barb Krichbaum, cook; Judy Boyer, salad person; Mary Aello, baker and fruit preparer; Betty Young, transporter loader and supply organizer; Diane Bentley, snack bar person; Terry Fifer, dishwasher; and Judy Buntin, in charge of production. Ferry also maintains all of the book work, plans menus and completes necessary government reports. Substitutes and helpers such as Lorena Wenk, Davey Curtis and Don Burechette handle the transportation, serving and monetary duties. Employed also are five workers at Beach Middle school and two each at North and South Elementary schools.

All of the food is prepared at the high school, not at Chelsea Community Hospital, which holds the lunch contract for the schools. Chelsea School District, in turn, holds the lunch contract for the Manchester schools which made the switch-over from a lunch agreement with the Saline School District at the beginning of the academic year.

Working from a production sheet estimate of meals to be prepared on a given day, the kitchen staff begins their work early each day. By 10:30 a.m., the schools served have all called in to provide their lunch counts for the day and the operation is in full swing.

Lunch participation depends on the meal to be served. On a day that pizza is served, an average of 43 cases of the frozen food, containing 40 servings per case, are prepared. Too, according to Fran Ferry, anything served on a bun is a big hit with the students and tacos are also very popular.

Still, the hungry students are not limited to the hot lunch offering of the day. A trip to the salad bar, acquired in a trade with Tim Orbring of Timothy's Catering for six-year-old transporters, will find students at the high school indulging in a large bowl of iceberg and leaf lettuce covered with an assortment of 11 toppings, four dressings and a choice of one ounce of turkey, ham or a combination of the two. In addition, students can pick from an assortment of crackers, bread sticks and rolls, beverages and fruits or desserts.

If ruffage is not on the food list for students, they can take a tour of the snack bar which offers a variety of sandwiches, potato chips, yogurts and the like. Monetary losses on the hot lunches are absorbed here.

If there are hot lunch leftovers, students are often apt to look for the re-heated delectables the next day, especially if the day before's offering is more appetizing than the current serving.

In addition to preparing the lunches, the group of food service workers wash all of the dishes returned to the school, except those from Beach school which has washing facilities. Laundry created from the daily food prep is also done at the high school.

Still, the kitchen workers who busily prepare the daily lunches also do more including the preparation of meals for School Superintendent Ray Van Meer's See For Yourself program and, on occasion, meals are prepared for the Chelsea Senior Citizens. An example of this was the preparation of 62 turkeys for the schools' Thanksgiving dinners as well as 14 for the Senior Citizens first special event at North school.

Though it sounds like a lot of work, the ladies in the kitchen, who also serve the meals, are extremely positive about their work and the student response to what they turn out. After 14 years, Betty Young still enjoys it and she and her cohorts still find getting everything done at the same time a "real challenge." According to Mary Aello, time passes quickly and comments from the students, who frequently have code names for the entrees, make the day's real experiences.

In the long run, enjoying what they do and keeping an open mind when a student asks if the mushrooms on the salad bar are fresh and another comments "they sure are, mine just moved," the kitchen staff at Chelsea High school operates a very successful and highly commendable school lunch program featuring restaurant-like versatility.

Sex Education Advisory Committee Seeks Public Input

The Sex Education Advisory Committee of the Chelsea School District has scheduled a series of public meetings to gain input prior to going to the Board of Education with a recommendation.

The Advisory Committee has reviewed the present program and contemplates making a recommendation which would include some changes. The total program would deal with the area of human sexuality and its many implications which may also include the teaching of contraceptive education.

The public meetings, designed to stimulate public interest and input, are scheduled as follows: Thursday, Jan. 14, 7:30 p.m., (Continued on page four)

Charter Option Bring Offered Sylvan Twp.

Sylvan township has received notification from the Michigan Secretary of State's office that the township has a population of at least 5,000 and that the township board has the right to exercise one of three options concerning status as a charter township under the provisions of Act 359 of the Public Acts of 1947.

This trio of options are: First, to adopt by majority vote a resolution opposed to incorporation as a charter township.

Secondly, to adopt by majority vote a resolution of intent to approve incorporation as a charter township.

Thirdly, adopt by majority vote a resolution to place before voters at the next regular or special township election the question of incorporation as a charter township.

Should the first or third options be utilized, Sylvan township voters are not given the authority to partake in the decision making process in the most complete sense. The first option ratifies opposition while the third places the question on the ballot without any real input from township residents. The second option appears to be more middle-of-the-road and affords negative as well as positive residential opinion.

In the event that the second option is adopted by the township board, the citizens of the township have the right to file a "Right to Referendum Petition." This petition must be filed within the 60 days that are required to lapse between passage of a resolution to incorporate as a charter township.

The petition must follow, in general form, the nominating petition form as prescribed in the Michigan Election Law, and in the heading it is required to indicate "disagreement to intent to incorporate as a charter township." The petition must be signed by at 10 percent of the registered voters of the township as determined on the vote cast for all candidates for township supervisor at the last election at which a supervisor was elected.

If the petition is successful, the question of incorporation will be placed on the ballot at the next general or special township election.

Election To Determine Caucus Fate

The decision is up to the village voters as they take to the polls today to determine the most favorable means of nominating candidates for public office in Chelsea.

This special election shall determine whether or not the charter of the Village of Chelsea will be amended to provide for nominating elective officers by petition and general election. Should this proposal go down in defeat, the process of nominating by caucus will continue; should the proposal of charter amendment be approved, the nominating caucus system shall be discontinued.

The polls are open today from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Every qualified elector present and in line at closing time will have the opportunity to vote.

Property Tax Refund Help Offered Seniors By Kiwanis Club

Chelsea Kiwanis Club will again assist local senior citizens with their property tax refunds. This year, the tax assistance will be held at North Elementary school from 1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday, Jan. 11 and Monday, Jan. 25.

Seniors who would like such assistance should bring their 1982 property tax bill, all records of income and last year's tax return if possible. The service is provided free of charge by the Kiwanis Club of Chelsea.

WHAT'S GOING TO HAPPEN will anyway, so don't worry about it explains Chelseaiter Albert Chambers while he relaxes in an easy chair at his home on W. Middle St. Chambers, 96, has lived in Chelsea since 1902 and has seen a great many changes come over the village. Still, he's more than satisfied with Chelsea's nice people and places.

Albert Chambers Reminisces About 58 Years With Railroad

"What's going to happen will anyway, so don't worry about it," is the motto by which longtime Chelsea resident Albert Chambers goes.

Talk about Chambers' past and age, in particular, has often been misleading. When given the information that Chambers would be 100 years old on Dec. 2, we talked to him and found that he, in fact, celebrated his 96th birthday last May 12.

Chambers was born in West Virginia in 1886 and has been a resident of Chelsea since 1902. He married Lucy and the couple never had any children though Chambers does have a stepson living in Ann Arbor.

Originally, Chambers worked as a farm hand and later spent time on the New York Central railroad—58 years to be exact.

When he retired, he was given a gold watch. It was stolen.

During his half century-plus with the N. Y. Central, Chambers recalls most vividly the train wreck of 1917, which occurred near Dexter. "A lot of people were killed," he recalls.

Too, Chambers worked for the Glazier Stove Company, in the building which now houses The Chelsea Standard.

Now, Albert Chambers lives alone on W. Middle St.; he smokes cigars and pipes and has no pets. He gets hot meals delivered by Chelsea Home Meal Service, something he admits he gets tired of though he's not particularly choosy.

Having been a resident of Chelsea since age 17 and for nearly 80 years, Chambers has seen a great many changes. Still, he is more than satisfied with his life and his community. "I like Chelsea's nice people and places," he says.

Milliken Announcement Signals Battle For New Leadership

With the recent announcement that Governor William G. Milliken will be leaving elective office at the end of his current term, a signal was sent out to begin the most wide open battle for political leadership in the state in the past 20 years.

The general election in 1982 will mark the first time a sitting governor will not be seeking reelection to the state's top elective post.

Democrats said they were elected at the chances of recapturing the office held by Republican Milliken for 13 years and Republican George Romney for the preceding six years to the Milliken era.

Republicans, meanwhile, said it opens the door to setting a new direction for the party.

Lieutenant Governor James Brickley and insurance executive Richard Headlee are both probable candidates for the Republican nomination next year although they both refused to commit themselves after the Milliken declaration.

Conservative Senator Jack Welborn (R-Kalamazoo) has announced he is a candidate for the nomination and expressed disappointment that Milliken would not run as he said he wanted to run against Milliken directly.

Democratic candidates for their party's nomination are many and they all expressed optimism for their chances after Milliken announced he would not run.

Those candidates include 1978 nominee William Fitzgerald of Detroit, Congressman James Blanchard of Pleasant Ridge, always-a-candidate East Lansing attorney Zolton/Ferency, state Senators Gary Corbin of Clio, David Plewecki of Dearborn Heights, Kerry Kammer of Pontiac and Edward Pierce of Ann Arbor, and Robert Tisch who has attempted, but failed, during two elections to cut property taxes by as much as 50 percent.

The outgoing governor may not do much to help voters decide who he would like to succeed him. He said he would vote for his lieutenant governor if he were a candidate, but did not indicate if he would be much more active than that in the primary.

"There is no such thing as an heir apparent. Every candidate must compete on his own merit," he said.

Milliken said he intends to serve out the remainder of his term—through Dec. 31, 1982—making a total of 14 years in his record-setting tenure as Michigan's chief executive.

He added he would begin a new career after that, but said what that will be is unclear. "I have not yet explored the options," he said.

The governor said he decided to leave office, in part, so he could work full time on the state's problems.

"Next year may well be the most critical in Michigan's history. Michigan's problems in those extraordinary times are too serious to have a governor unable to devote full energies to them. . . a governor suspected of putting political self-interest ahead of public interest . . . a governor preoccupied with months of campaigning."

"It will need an unprecedented degree of bipartisan co-operation and achievement between Republicans and Democrats—between the Legislature and the governor. I want all of my efforts in this critical period to be judged on their merits—not suspected motives," he said in his announcement.

Milliken said his major objectives in 1982 are further moves for an economic recovery program, guiding the fiscal affairs of the state through the continued recession and establishing a Resource Heritage Fund to enable the state to use revenues from depletable natural resources to enhance permanent recreation, pollution control, waste disposal and other environmental programs.

Gary Larson Earns PhD At Ohio State

Gary Robert Larson graduated from Ohio State University last month, receiving his PhD. in organic chemistry.

Dr. Larson was a teaching associate at OSU while completing his studies and research.

His publications include a paper on "The Synthesis and Structure Elucidation of 5, 7-Polymethylene Bridged 6 (2H) and 6 (1H) Cycloheptapyrazolones," presented by Dr. R. E. Harmon at the 173rd American Chemical Society's national meeting in New Orleans and a paper on the synthesis of chain-extended C-nucleosides modified in the 5' and 6' positions.

Dr. Larson is the son of Arlene Larson of 45 Butternut Ct. and the late Darrell Larson.

He attended Chelsea High school and received his BS and MA degrees at Western Michigan University.

He was previously employed by Warner Lambert/Parke Davis Research Division, Ann Arbor.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:*DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Everywhere you look out here in the country you see environment. You step outside the house and there it is all over. In town and especial in big cities you can't see the environment for the buildings, so I reckon that explains why folks that cry the loudest about protecting the environment is city folks. This come to mind Saturday night when Zeke Grubb brung a report on the great Idaho bunny hop to the session at the country store.

There has been some small talk agin the farmers and ranchers that lined up and walked through the sagebrush with ball bats and tire irons. They bumped off a few thousand bunnies that already had eat $5 million worth of their crops, and they didn't seem in no mood to apologize. Some years back, Zeke recalled, a American Legion post in North Carolina had to call off a annual bunny bopping because of the outcry that they were being cruel to animals.

There's all kinds of ways to look at this, Zeke went on, but they all boil down to the old line about whose bull is being gored. It's fine to shoot jackrabbits for sport, but it's mean to beat em off your potatoes with a stick. Farmers in Idaho want to keep the rabbits from eating their crops, and the post in North Carolina wanted to eat the rabbits. Zeke said he recalled the upstir in cities about ranchers shooting, poisoning and otherwise killing coyotes any way they could to keep em from killing their lambs and calves. But when Los Angeles subdivisions covered the range and hungry coyotes come to town to turn over garbage cans and eat a few poodles the environment took a back seat to shooting them devils on sight.

On account of the meeting being the first of the year, the fellers was looking both ways Saturday night. Ed Doolittle got the floor to allow that the two sides of the jackrabbit issue was like all the bad mouth the Reagan Administration is getting. You can't make a omet without breaking a egg, Ed said, but you got to admit that Reagan is scrambling everything pritty much like he promised. Things may git even tougher before they git better, but at least we got some chancet of em getting better, was Ed's words. Ed had saw where the Italian Government had decided to spend $12 million to stop the lean in the Leaning Tower of Piza. Fer more than 800 years folks have looked at the tower and said it's going to fall one of these days. Nobody wanted it to fall, but nobody helped, Ed said, and that's what's been happening to the Federal Government fer the last 50 year.

Personal, I side with Zeke. There's different ways to look at everthing. Fer instant, I saw where this feller said when he was arrested that he could afford his own lawyer, but when he had a hearing he asked the court to git him one. The judge ask him what happened. The feller said he weren't broke after he held up the bank and robbed the grocery store, but after he talked with a lawyer about taking his case he was broke.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Dramatic Increase Found in Number Of Young Farmers

Contrary to widely held belief, more and more young Americans are turning to the soil for a living, the USDA reports.

There were 401,000 farmers under the age of 35 in 1980, compared with 265,000 a decade earlier. And, notably, that youthful group swelled while the over-all ranks of farmers declined.

The trend is somewhat surprising, USDA's Calvin L. Beale says, in light of the economic difficulties which face young people who want to get started in farming. "A lot of these guys have a lot of debt and unless you've got the father or father-in-law to facilitate it, it's pretty tough," he said.

Beale said his studies show that the median age of farmers has declined from a peak of 53.1 years in 1970 to 48.6 years in 1980. The median age means half are younger, half older.

The research figures by Beale are based on monthly Bureau of Labor statistics reports on employment and earnings, which include agriculture.

Beale said the age figures relate only to people who are self-employed in farming and who make most of their living from it.

The age series, he said, goes back only to 1967 when the median age of farmers was 52.2 years. It increased gradually to the peak of 53.1 years in 1970 and has declined each year since.

Hints for HOMEMAKERS

Buying milk in a Gallon 2-pak package can keep it fresher than buying that same amount in a gallon jug.

Although the trend for some years has been towards purchasing milk in economy-size gallon jugs, consumers have been unhappy with unwieldy sizes and problems of keeping such a large amount fresh.

Now come answers to these problems in the form of the convenient gallon 2-pak, two paper half gallon cartons held together by a neat and handy carrying handle and sold as a gallon package.

The big difference is size. Once home, the 2-pak easily separates into two cartons. They are much easier to store than jugs, even fitting into most refrigerator doors. One can be kept in the refrigerator sealed and chilled until needed. This maintain freshness. The one in use is much easier to pour, especially for youngsters.

There's another plus: when each carton is empty, just flatten it out and toss it in the garbage for easy disposal.

A real advantage for homemakers.

Views On Dental Health

By ROBERT A. BURNS, JR., DDS, P.C.

WHY A BRIDGE?

Is it really necessary to replace adult's missing teeth with a fixed bridge or partial denture? The answer is a definite YES! The reasons are quite simple.

When a tooth is lost, the adjacent teeth and the tooth (above or below) which acts as a biting partner, lose the support, strength and stabilizing influence which the lost tooth once provided. The remaining teeth will be subject to many problems such as drifting, abnormally exposed decay-prone areas and, worst of all, periodontal disease. (The single largest cause of tooth loss in adults).

The loss of just one tooth, if not replaced by a fixed bridge or partial denture, will more than likely, ultimately cause the loss of more and more teeth. In many patients, it is only a matter of time until the destruction is complete.

The dental arch was designed by nature to have a complete set of teeth—one helping and protecting the other. Replacing missing teeth with a dental appliance will maintain this design as well as your smile and ability to eat properly.

(2) Whitmore Lake Community Clinic, 138 Barker, Whitmore Lake, 1st Monday, 1:30-3:30 p.m., 3rd Monday, 1:00-4:00 p.m., by appointment only. Call 449-2033. Clinic changes have been made necessary by budget reductions. During the next months, as the health department studies the health needs of the county, additional clinic sites may be identified.

During hard economic times, clinic services become especially important to many families who do not use the services of a private physician unless their child is ill.

Community resources, physicians, and school nurses often refer families to one of the health department clinics. Parents, on their own, may also bring their children to the clinics.

Well Child Clinic staff see children only for routine well child care. They counsel parents about normal growth and development, such as eating or sleeping patterns, and refer all identified health problems to the child's physician.

We Eat All That?

According to the USDA, the average American family eats about 2.5 tons of food each year. This breaks down into 694 lbs. of meat, 1,154 lbs. of vegetables, 349 lbs. of poultry and about 600 lbs. of grain products.

Marie van Reesema, Craig Blogin Wed in Candelight Ceremony

First Presbyterian church of Ann Arbor was the setting for the candlelight wedding of Marie Martine Siewertsz van Reesema and Craig Leonard Blogin Saturday, Dec. 19. A total of 150 guests witnessed the late afternoon ceremony conducted by the Rev. William C. Hillegonds.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frederik Siewertsz van Reesema of Chelsea while the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Blogin of Arcadia, Calif.

The Galliard Brass Ensemble of Ann Arbor provided the music.

The bride chose a white taffeta and tulle gown featuring a fitted bodice and a full skirt embellished with lace and seed pearls which terminated in a chapel-length train. She wore a mantilla of tulle and lace and carried a cascading bouquet of lilies, red and white roses, stephanotis and greens.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Jon (Catherine) Milleville of Chicago. She was dressed in a lace ecru blouse and burgundy velvet floor length skirt. She carried a colonial bouquet of miniature rubrum lilies, red and white roses and greens.

Serving as maid of honor was Kim Ford, a friend of the couple from Chicago. Bridesmaids included Lonne Blogin of Arcadia, Calif., sister of the bridegroom; and Laurel Short and Lisa Smith, friends of the bride from Ann Arbor.

bor. Minta van Reesema, the bride's sister, served as junior bridesmaid. Each wore costumes similar to that worn by the matron of honor and carried matching bouquets.

Eric Sullivan of San Francisco, Calif., a friend of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers included Curtis Blogin of Arcadia, Calif., brother of the bridegroom, Frederik S. van Reesema of Chelsea and Bryan S. van Reesema of Kalamazoo, brothers of the bride; and Jack Blatz of Chicago, a friend of the couple. Junior usher was Willem van Reesema, brother of the bride.

Following the wedding ceremony, a reception was held at the Ann Arbor Women's City Club with 150 guests attending. Out-of-state guests attended from California, Illinois, Indiana, the Netherlands and Australia.

The couple honeymooned for one week in Acapulco, Mexico and are residing in Chicago.

The bride is a graduate of Ann Arbor Pioneer High school and the Valparaiso University College of Nursing. She is employed as a registered nurse at the Rehabilitation Institute of Chicago.

The bridegroom graduated from Arcadia High school, Arcadia, Calif. He attended the University of Southern California and is a junior in the Dental School at Northwestern University, Chicago.

Complete New Travel Agency Opens Monday in Manchester

Manchester Travel, a new business in the local village, held its grand opening yesterday. The company, the brainchild of Susan and Wayne Hamilton of Manchester and Mona Mancy of Ann Arbor, is the first travel agency to open in the village.

Susan and Wayne, owner of Manchester Stamping, conceived of the idea after having dealt with travel agent Mona on a number of occasions. One day, Mona explains, they called her at Boersma Travel in Ann Arbor and discussed their idea. She was definitely interested and two weeks ago gave up her former job. Now, at 22, she is the exclusive travel agent at Manchester Travel.

Mona Mancy has been a resident of Ann Arbor since 1968. She graduated from Pioneer High school in 1977, attended Eastern Michigan University for two years where she studied nursing and then turned her love of travel into a full-time agent's job with Boersma. She was sent to Texas to train and received a great deal of on-the-job training in Ann Arbor.

Mona is the daughter of an Egyptian chemistry professor at the University of Michigan. Each year, she and her family visited Egypt and stopped in other countries enroute there or home. Consequently, she is very well traveled and interested in seeing others enjoy those things that she, herself, enjoys. At Boersma, she specialized in international tourism.

Her partner, Susan, is a teacher in the Manchester School District and she is a candidate for mayor in the upcoming spring election. As a client of Mona's, Susan and her husband traveled to Europe on a number of occasions as well as heading to Florida on a regular basis. Mona made all of the arrangements and apparently did well because, in July, the Hamiltons approached the two-year travel agent with the idea of opening their own travel agency.

Since that time, the trio has been involved with locating a building, ordering equipment and all of the other aspects of opening a new business. Though the agency will eventually be fully automated and tickets will be issued directly through the firm, the pair is now operating strictly through the airlines and providing delivery service for tickets purchased.

Mona will man the travel operation Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on

Manchester Youth Completes Marine Recruit Training

Marine Pvt. Jon E. Rowe, son of Jack and Marjorie Rowe of 9470 Kles Rd., Manchester, has completed recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego, Calif.

During the 11-week training cycle, he learned the basics of battlefield survival. He was introduced to the typical daily routine that he will experience during his enlistment and studied the personal and professional standards traditionally exhibited by Marines.

He participated in an active physical conditioning program and gained proficiency in a variety of military skills, including first aid, rifle marksmanship and close order drill. Teamwork and self-discipline were emphasized

Saturday from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Her partner will be trained while she works during the afternoons on a part-time basis.

Manchester Travel is located at 154 E. Main St. and specializes in both domestic and international tourism and all available means of transportation: rail, air, sea and the like.

throughout the training cycle. A 1981 graduate of Manchester High school, he joined the Marine Corps in September, 1981.

Six Calls Answered By Fire Dept.

Chelsea Fire Department made a total of six runs during the week of Dec. 28 to Jan. 4. Four of the calls were in reference to rescue requests while two fire calls were also answered.

On Thursday, Dec. 31, a possible heart attack was reported at a residence on McKinley Heights. This call was received at 10:30 p.m. Then, at 11:03 p.m., a possible car fire was reported at Mile Marker 164 on east-bound I-94.

On New Year's Day, a possible injury accident was reported at Mile Marker 168 on west-bound I-94. This call was received at 6:22 a.m. Then, at 9:22 a.m., an unknown accident was reported on M-52 north of Waterloo Rd.

On Sunday, Jan. 3, an electrical wire on fire was reported at a residence on Peckins Rd. This call was received at 6:47 p.m.

Finally, on Monday, Jan. 4, an injury was reported at H and R Block, where a woman had fallen. This call was received at 10:14 a.m.

Pinckney Area Youth Completes Navy's Recruit Training

Coast Guard Seaman Apprentice Jay K. Daum, son of James and Roberta Daum of 6229 W. M-38, Pinckney, has completed recruit training at the Coast Guard Training Center, Cape May, N. J.

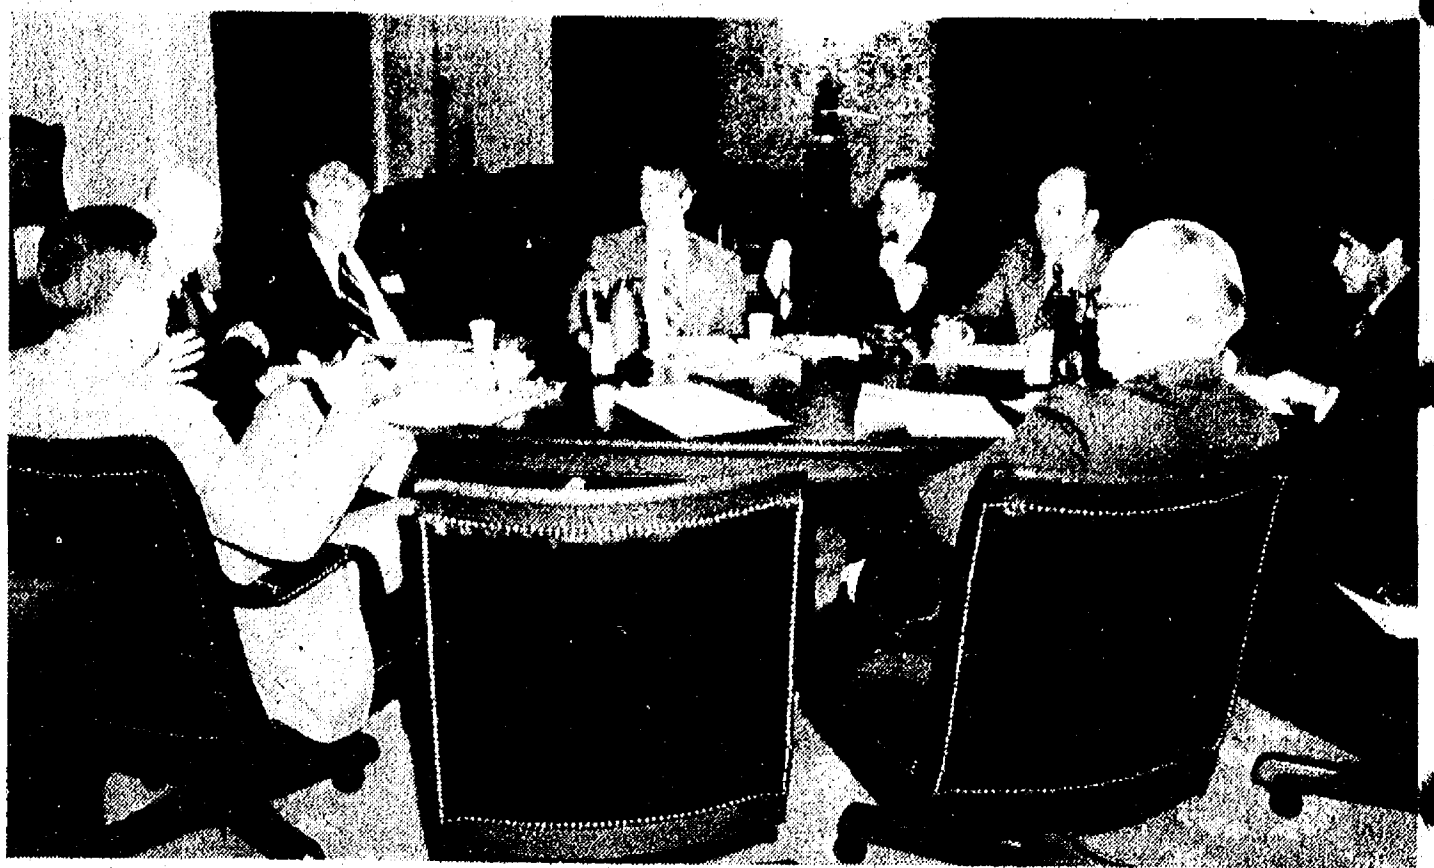

During the eight-week training cycle, trainees studied general military subjects designed to prepare them for further academic and on-the-job training leading toward their qualification in one of the Coast Guard's 26 basic occupational fields.

Included in their studies were first aid, seamanship, Coast Guard history and regulations, close order drill and damage control.

A 1981 graduate of Pinckney High school, he joined the Coast Guard in September 1981.

United Way Leaders Honored at Luncheon

United Way leaders from among 107 United Ways in Michigan were honored at the 1981 United Way of Michigan's Campaign Achievement Celebration held recently at the Kellogg Center on the campus of Michigan State University in East Lansing.

Confronted with the most difficult economic climate in recent years, United Way volunteers succeeded in raising $87,950,413 representing 99.34 percent of the campaign goals. This amount is also an increase of $3,956,378 over the amount raised in 1980-81.

Proceeds from the many local United Ways will be allocated to hundreds of local, state and national human care service agencies, including Michigan Heart Association, National Kidney Foundation of Michigan, Leader Dogs for the Blind and others. A total of 24 state and national human care service agencies are recipients of monies allocated by local United Ways through the United Way of Michigan.

More than 500 United Way volunteers from all sections of Michigan were in attendance. Each local United Way campaign chairperson was honored for the leadership and service provided to his/her local United Way.

Receiving United Way pewter mugs for outstanding leadership provided to the local United Way campaigns were Don Peck, Chelsea campaign chairman employed by the Springer Agency, Inc. and Dr. Glenn Lehr, Jr., DDS, campaign chairman for the Manchester United Way campaign.

The meeting was sponsored by 60 major companies and organizations from around the state. Walter Campbell, past Secretary-Treasurer of the Michigan State AFL-CIO and chairman, United Way of Michigan's Campaign and Field Services Committee, was the master of ceremonies and keynote speaker.

Certain Fruits, Vegetables May Prevent Cancer

People who eat a few helpings a day of dark red, green or yellow fruits and vegetables—such as carrots, spinach and tomatoes—may be less likely to get lung cancer, according to a study by scientists from four major medical institutions.

The study, carried out over 19 years, indicated that, generally, the more a person consumes fruits and vegetables containing carotene, a vital nutrient converted into Vitamin A by the body, the less chance he will have of developing lung cancer. Carotene is what gives such fruits and vegetables their deep colors.

Researchers, who cautioned that their findings were not yet conclusive, indicated that Vitamin A itself, taken in pill form, apparently does not prevent cancer.

Other fruits and vegetables rich in carotene include: dark green lettuce, grapes, yellow and green squash, broccoli, apples, sweet potatoes, apricots, peaches and persimmons. Apart from the possible effects on cancer, the scientists recommended that people eat these foods simply because they contribute to a well-balanced diet.

★ What It Means

To Be An American

Amidst all the cries of doom and the moaning about cutting social programs in the budget, it was refreshing to read a report of a letter to the editor of a leading news magazine, written by an immigrant from the Soviet Union. The immigrant wrote:

"If Americans knew what it is like to search for a piece of meat and never find it; how it is not to be able to buy a refrigerator unless you stay on a waiting list for 10 years; what it is like, by mandatory registration, to be committed forever to living in one place; how easily people are put in jail for complaining about it; what it is like to live in constant fear and to struggle for survival every day in a country where courts are designed to protect the government and justice is formulated in one simple concept of guilty unless you can prove otherwise; if they knew all this, they would become law-abiding citizens, never go on strike, not demand more freedom and never insult their government."

"But with amazement, delight and deserved pride, they would whisper as I do: 'God bless this land and its people'."

We Americans are the most spoiled people on earth. We are so accustomed to having what we want and need when we want it and need it, to an abundance of any kind of food we want at reasonable prices; to the latest in conveniences through technology and to the freedom to tell those who govern us what we think of them, that we forget how fortunate we are to enjoy the fruits of liberty and private enterprise.

We need those immigrants to remind us from time to time about how good we have it in this country.

school day for the students in both districts while Chelsea High school also offers a complete salad bar and snack bar featuring sandwiches, fruits, yogurt and the like.

EVERY MEAL IS A BANQUET at Chelsea High school with the culinary talents of Chelsea's kitchen staff which prepares approximately 1,200 hot lunches each day for both the Chelsea and Manchester School Districts. In addition to the hot lunches, students at CHS are also offered a salad bar and snack bar from which to choose. Above, Mary Aiello and Fran Ferry serve lunch to some hungry students.

Saline Valley Project OKs 7 More Applicants

Seven more Saline Valley Project applicants have received high priority ratings for their rural clean water projects. These projects consist of either soil erosion or manure run-off control practices that will help keep silt, fertilizer, pesticides and manure from polluting area lakes and streams. These recent approvals raises the total number of applicants receiving favorable ratings to 49.

The majority of these new applicants were for soil erosion control practices. Ron Struss, Saline Valley Project Co-ordinator, finds this encouraging. "At first people thought of us as only a manure run-off control project," Ron commented, "but now they realize we also offer help for soil erosion control practices such as chisel plowing, waterways and erosion control structures."

Both Don Korte of Bridgewater township and Dick Gaskill of Saline Orchards, Saline, are interested in controlling excessive surface water run-off which is eroding their topsoil into the Saline River. LeRoy Buss and Luther Schaible of Freedom township are planning to control cropland soil erosion into Mill Creek by adapting chisel plowing on their farms.

Three of the seven applicants are primarily interested in manure management systems. Ken and Sue Krause of Lodi township plan to construct a manure storage area for their horse breeding and riding stable. Such a storage area will improve water quality of the Saline River. Benefiting the quality of Macon Creek is Manley Robison of Saline township. Manley hopes to install a manure storage facility on his dairy operation that will control manure run-off to the Macon. Also dairy farmers, Elmer and Jim Bristle of Lima township plan to install a manure management system that will reduce barnyard run-off flow into Mill Creek.

The Saline Valley Project is a special USDA project operating in parts of Washtenaw and Monroe counties. Its goal is to improve water quality of the Saline River, River Raisin and Mill Creek by co-operatively working with farmers to control cropland erosion and manure run-off.

Saline Valley Project pays up to 75% the cost of applying eligible practices, with a cost-share limit of $50,000 per farm. "The beauty of the project," says project co-ordinator Ron Struss, "is that very often the same farm practices which lead to cleaner water also lead to better soil conservation and farm management."

Individuals interested in the Project may contact Struss at the Washtenaw County Co-operative Extension Office, 973-9510.

ENERGY SAVING WAYS!

With AUTOMATIC DRYERS

Energy-conscious homemakers are looking at many ways to conserve energy and save money. Here are a few suggestions:

- Avoid overdrying—overdrying wastes energy and can create static electricity and wrinkling as well as shrinkage of many cottons and knitted fabrics.
- Use your dryer's full capacity—energy is wasted when only one or two items are dried at a time.
- Don't overload—clothes dry more quickly if they can tumble freely.
- Clean lint screen after each load—a build-up of lint lengthens the drying time and uses more energy.

Your Health Options

By Beverly Chethik
Director of Health Education, Washtenaw County Health Dept.

My 70-year-old mother tends to forget simple things and sometimes she seems confused. I wonder if this is normal.

Older people sometimes forget things and have trouble reasoning and understanding. Before you accept these problems as a normal part of aging, you should learn about their causes.

Only a complete physical examination by a doctor can determine what is causing your mother's confusion and forgetfulness. Some conditions are reversible, so your doctor will look for treatable conditions first. For instance:

—Depression: Older people may become depressed as a result of changes in their lives. The death of friends or relatives or their own declining physical abilities may affect them. Depression, which may cause a person to become forgetful, can be treated.

—Reaction to medication: Too much medication, or medication that is too strong can cause disorientation or confusion. If more than one doctor is prescribing medications, the combination of drugs may make things worse. Tell your doctor about all medications, including aspirin and other over-the-counter drugs, your mother is taking.

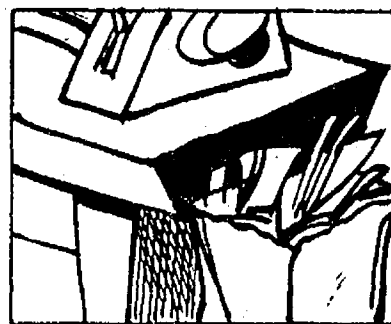

—Physical conditions: Infection, heart disease and other problems may cause confusion in older persons, but not in younger persons. When the doctor treats these conditions, the confusion may go away.

—Poor nutrition: Older people, especially if they live alone or have a poor appetite, may not eat a balanced diet, and they may forget to drink enough liquids. Older people—like everyone else—need a variety of milk products, meat or beans, fruits and vegetables and whole grain products each day.

Since almost 50% of the older people who are confused or disoriented may be helped to be more alert, the most important thing you can do for your mother is take her to your doctor for a complete examination. After examining your mother, the doctor may decide to do further tests to determine if her condition is treatable.

The Health Department has several pamphlets about aging. For your own copy, please call the Health Education Office, 973-1488.

YOUR HEALTH OPTIONS appears in this paper each month. If you have a health-related question, please write to this paper, Attn: YOUR HEALTH OPTIONS, or directly to the Washtenaw County Health Department, Health Education Office, Box 8645, Ann Arbor 48107.

WCC Trustees Committed to Job Training Efforts

Washtenaw Community College Trustees took a strong position in endorsing the role of the college in economic development at their Oct. 27 meeting.

In a resolution passed at the October Board of Trustees Meeting, the trustees specifically identified job training and upgrading now being provided by the 29 community colleges in Michigan as key factors in support of economic development within the state.

Washtenaw's role in economic development locally was identified as providing job training programs for new firms coming to the Washtenaw county area and for present firms planning to expand operations. These programs include short-term or "quick start" offerings which provide specific skill training as well as degree and certificate programs in a wide range of occupational areas.

Other college activities oriented to economic development are continuing education for employee groups to improve job skills and planning and needs analysis to forecast future needs of employers for skilled workers.

The trustees established these functions as elements in developing a college program in job training and economic development.

The National Trades' Union was formed in 1834 in New York City. This was the first attempt toward a national labor federation in the United States. It failed to survive the financial panic of 1837, according to "Brief History of the American Labor Movement," a publication of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Christmas Cactus Will Live Many Years With Proper Care

The Christmas cactus is a good houseplant, will thrive with routine care and likes Michigan, says a Michigan State University Extension specialist in horticulture.

When you bring a Christmas cactus into your home, all you need to do is place it in a somewhat sunny location, water it regularly and enjoy it, says Will Carlson, professor of horticulture.

The Christmas cactus originates in a small mountainous region north of Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. It grows naturally at a high altitude in a rain forest and at a uniform yearly temperature of between 60 and 70 degrees.

"Thus the word 'cactus' is somewhat a misnomer," says Carlson. "This plant doesn't like it too dry, as do true cacti."

Eventually the blooms will drop off and there may or may not be a second flowering that winter depending on the amount of light or the temperature at which the plant is kept.

As the length of the daylight increases in the spring, the cactus will have a new growth. Leaf segments, called phylloclades, will appear. These segments, when developed, may be removed and rooted in a peat-like mixture, Carlson says. After about 3-4 weeks, the new cacti may be transplanted into small pots.

Some people choose to put their cactus outside for the summer. If you put it in a shady location and keep it uniformly watered it will do well, Carlson says. Bring it back in September and start to prepare it for flowering. This can be done in one of two ways.

First, about 9 to 10 weeks before Christmas (mid-October), make sure the plant gets no more than 12 hours of light each day. If you do this the plant will flower regardless of the temperature at which it's kept. The Christmas cactus likes the short daylight hours we have during Michigan's fall and winter, says Carlson. Be certain to take into consideration the amount of artificial light the plant gets. If it is kept in the family room, for example, where the lights are on in the evening hours, the plant will assume it's being exposed to too much daylight and will withhold its flowers.

Secondly, you can control the temperature to cause blooming. Again, 9 to 10 weeks before Christmas, place the plant in a room where the temperature is 59 degrees or less. At this temperature the plant will flower in 10 weeks regardless of the amount of light. A cool bedroom is a good location. Basements, Carlson said, can often be too dark.

Keep the plant uniformly moist, but avoid overwatering, he advises. Christmas cacti are susceptible to four diseases, all of which can be environmentally caused by overwatering. Probably the most common disease is characterized by a circular rot on the leaves close to the soil line. This rot is caused by a fungus called Fusarium. Avoid buying plants with this rot, says Carlson. If the rot develops after you own the plant, the best thing to do is take the top of the plant for cuttings and throw the rest of it away.

The Christmas cactus (Schlumbergera bridgesii) is characterized by smaller, smooth-edged segments or phylloclades. The plants most often sold as Christmas cacti are actually Thanksgiving or Easter cacti (Schlumbergera truncata), says Carlson, which are characterized by leaf segments that are toothed or jagged-edged.

Christmas cacti come in a variety of colors—white, orange, pink and a purplish color, but the true Christmas cactus is an "orange" color, says Carlson.

This plant may outlast all the plants you bring into the home at Christmas, and with normal care will reward you with new blooms year after year, says Carlson, who has a 25-year-old Christmas cactus in the family.

Questions Answered On New IRA Program

Beginning in 1982 the new tax law will expand eligibility for Individual Retirement Arrangement (IRA) plans. The following questions and answers provided by the Internal Revenue Service deal with these and other taxation aspects of IRAs.

Q. What is an IRA?
A. An Individual Retirement Arrangement (IRA) is a savings program that permits you to set aside money for your retirement. Your contributions to it are tax deductible and earnings of your IRA are not taxed until they are distributed to you, generally upon retirement when you would have a lower taxable income.

Q. Who can set up an IRA?
A. Starting in 1982 all taxpayers who have earned compensation during the year, including those already covered by retirement plans, can set up an IRA. Moreover, workers already covered by a company plan may make voluntary tax-deductible contributions to the plan.

Q. What is considered compensation?

A. Wages, salaries, commissions, tips, professional fees, bonuses, and other amounts you get for providing personal service are compensation. Earnings and profits from property, such as interest and dividend income, cannot be included.

Q. How many types of IRAs are there?

A. If you qualify, you may set up any of these three types of IRAs: individual retirement accounts, individual retirement annuities, and individual retirement bonds.

Q. How do I start an IRA?

A. You may buy IRAs from different sources, such as banks, insurance companies, and mutual funds. You may also set up an IRA by buying U.S. Individual Retirement Bonds.

Q. I make $15,000 a year and my wife makes $2,000 from a part time job. How much can we deduct from our contributions to an IRA?

A. Beginning in 1982 the limit for an IRA contribution is the lesser of $2,000 or the total compensation. In your case you could deduct up to $4,000.

Q. My wife is a homemaker and earns no compensation. Could I set up a separate IRA for her?

A. You may be eligible to set up an IRA for yourself and a separate IRA for your spouse if you were married at the end of the tax year, and she is not an active participant in a qualified retirement plan nor receives compensation during the year.

Q. In this arrangement, what part of my contribution is tax deductible?

A. If you qualify for a spousal IRA you may deduct up to $2,250 of your contribution. However, under the new law, contributions are no longer required to be equal for husband and wife; for example, instead of having to contribute $1,125 to his IRA and $1,125 to his wife's, a man can now contribute $2,000 to his plan and $250 to his wife's.

Q. What is a Simplified Employee Pension, or SEP?

A. A SEP is a retirement income arrangement under which your employer may contribute any amount each year up to the smaller of $15,000 or 15 percent of your compensation into your own IRA. The amount your employer contributes will be included in your gross income reported on Form W-2 and you will be entitled to an offsetting deduction in your tax return.

Q. What is the latest date I am allowed to establish or contribute to an IRA?

A. You can establish or contribute to an IRA at any time during the tax year up to the due date for filing your tax return.

Q. What should I look out for when shopping for an IRA?

A. Some things to look out for are: how much are the fees, what is the interest rate and how is it calculated, and how much will you have in your account when you retire.

Q. Are there other important IRA rules?

A. Yes. For instance, under certain rules you are allowed a tax-free transfer ("rollover") of cash or other assets from one retirement program to another. Also, if you withdraw from your IRA account or annuity before you are 59½, you must pay an additional tax.

Q. Where can I find out more about IRAs?

A. More information on IRAs is available in IRS Publication 590, "Tax Information on Individual Retirement Arrangements." To obtain, write the IRS or call the IRS Forms/Tax Information number listed in the telephone directory under U. S. Government.

Poor oral hygiene, heavy drinking and smoking can lead to the development of oral cancer. Cancers of the mouth and tongue can be easily treated if discovered early by a physician, dentist or dental hygienist. Early symptoms are often something you can see or feel: a sore or growth on the tongue, lump or thickening in the cheeks, a scab or blister on the lower lip. When you have questions about cancer, call the Public Response Program at the Michigan Cancer Foundation. Call toll-free, 1-800-462-9191.

Social Security Student Benefits Being Changed

Students between the ages of 18 and 22 who receive Social Security benefits on the record of a retired, disabled, or deceased parent will be affected by a provision of the Omnibus Reconciliation Bill which was signed into law by President Reagan earlier this year.

The new law eventually eliminates benefits for college or university students. Benefits will continue to be paid until age 19 for students still in elementary or secondary school. This change is effective August, 1982.

Students who might ordinarily have their benefits terminated as the result of this amendment but who meet certain conditions will have their benefits continued subject to two reductions. To qualify for the continuance of benefits in this phase-out period, the student must be entitled to a Social Security benefit, either as a minor child or as a student, for August, 1981 and must be in full-time attendance at a post-secondary educational institution (such as a college or university) for any month prior to May, 1982.

No benefits will be paid to these "phase-out" students for the months of May, June, July and August regardless of whether the student is in school. These students will get no cost-of-living increases. Instead, the benefits payable for September, 1982 through April, 1983, will be 25% less than the benefit in effect in August, 1981. Benefits payable for September, 1983 through April, 1984 will be reduced to 50% of the August, 1981 rate; and benefits for September, 1984 through April, 1985 will be reduced to 25% of the August, 1981 rate.

All phase-out student benefits will be terminated in August, 1985.

More information about this change may be obtained by phoning 994-3310, or by visiting the Ann Arbor Social Security office at 200 E. Liberty St. in the Federal Building. The office is open weekdays from 9 a.m. to 4:15 p.m.

For People Who Want To Quit Working Someday

ANN ARBOR TRUST'S DESIRABLE RETIREMENT PLAN

Everyone should be able to enter retirement with sufficient financial resources to enjoy this very special part of their life. But every day we hear of elderly persons whose savings have been gobbled up by inflation and taxes, and who can barely scrape by on their Social Security and limited pension benefits. Recent legislation now makes it possible for everyone who works to acquire a meaningful retirement fund through an Individual Retirement Account (IRA).

Our DESIRABLE Retirement Plan allows you to contribute up to $2,000 each year to your IRA and deduct the entire contribution from your current taxable income. If you were able to contribute $2,000 each year for 20 years and earned 12% interest, you would accumulate over $160,000.

If you've been wanting to save for retirement, but just can't seem to get started, you'll like our Floating Rate Account that allows you to make regular contributions of $25 or more after an opening deposit of just $100. You'll earn an attractively higher rate than the current 6-month Treasury Bill auction rate*, and the rate will be adjusted quarterly.

If you find it more convenient to make a deposit of $1,000 or more, you may prefer our Fixed Rate Account where the rate in effect when you make your opening deposit remains constant during the term of the deposit. Both of these plans offer terms of deposit ranging from 18 to 60 months. Interest is compounded quarterly, and each account is insured to $100,000. How's that for safety, convenience, and flexibility?

Need more information? Just complete the form and we'll send you all the details. Don't delay taking this step towards a secure financial future.

*6-month Treasury Bill auction rate plus 25 basis points. Withdrawals from an IRA prior to age 59½ are subject to substantial tax penalties. If certificates of deposit are used, added penalties may also apply. Withdrawals must begin and no contributions may be made past age 70½.

Since 1914

The new Individual Retirement Account regulations permit every working person to have a tax sheltered retirement program, an IRA.

Now, whether you have a pension plan where you work or not, you can invest up to $2,000 annually in an IRA. And, your unemployed spouse can contribute $250 annually, too.

Every dime you invest in your IRA as well as interest earned can be excluded from your 1982 federal and state income taxes.

If you already have a retirement plan where you work, why should you also contribute to an IRA? ... so you can enjoy retirement, of course.

Begin a program now to accumulate your full contribution by year's end.

Chelsea Aquatic Club Starting Winter Session

Chelsea Aquatic Club will begin its winter session on Wednesday, Jan. 13. CAC swimmers will again be coached by David Johnson and assistant coach, Jon Osterle. Aquatic Club divers will be coached by Chris Seufert, a member of the USS National Diving Team.

Practice will be the same as during the fall session. Swimmers will practice Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 5 p.m. to 6 p.m. for "B" swimmers; 6 p.m. to 7 p.m. for "A" swimmers; and 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. for junior high swimmers. On Tuesday and Thursday, junior high swimmers will practice from 3:15 p.m. to 4 p.m. as well.

Divers will take to the pool on Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m. for 10-year-old and under divers while junior high school-age divers will practice from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Registration for the winter Chelsea Aquatic Club session will be held before practice begins, on Saturday, Jan. 9, from 10 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and again on Monday, Jan. 11, from 5:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. Registration will be held at the Charles S. Cameron Pool.

For further information, contact the pool office at 475-1425.

Men's Recreation Basketball League To Be Organized

An organizational meeting for men's recreational basketball will be held Wednesday, Jan. 6, beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the Chelsea High school auditorium.

The program is offered by the Chelsea Recreation Council to those persons playing in the Chelsea league and teams and individuals who are interested in playing should register at this meeting.

Entry fees are based on the number of participating teams and will be determined at the organizational gathering.

In addition, the Recreation Council is in need of a director for the program. Interested parties are urged to attend the organizational meeting or call the recreation office at 475-9830.

Biddy Basketball Registration Set Saturday, Jan. 9

Biddy basketball registration will be held Saturday, Jan. 9 at Beach Middle school. Seven- and eight-year-olds will register from 9 a.m. to 10 a.m. while 10- and 11-year-olds will do so between 10 a.m. and 11 a.m. The oldest participating age group, youngsters ages 11 and 12, will sign up for the popular biddy basketball program from 11 a.m. to 12-noon.

Youngsters planning to take part in the program are instructed to bring a birth certificate or other documentation of birth. Cut off birth date is Dec. 1. Parents wishing to bring a copy of such documentation to be left on file with the Chelsea Recreation Council for further registration should do so at this time.

MOST VALUABLE SWIMMER in 1981 is Margie Rawson. Recently, Margie returned home from the state meet with three personal best times, All-State recognition and three varsity records. "A talented swimmer who is learning to work harder each year, her talent is unlimited. Her best swims are still ahead of her," explained Coach David Johnson. She is a sophomore at Chelsea High school and the daughter of Bob and Alice Rawson.

AIR FORCE TRAINING CAN GIVE YOU A HEAD START

Many high school seniors approach graduation without definite plans for their future. Some go to work while others enter a trade school. Still others start college. But the most successful high school seniors KNOW what they want... and many of them choose the Air Force as a realistic way to achieve their goals.

For those who want to learn a skill, Air Force technical schools provide some of the best training in the world... training which will teach them a valuable skill and give them experience to last a lifetime.

For those who want higher education without the expense, the Air Force offers tuition assistance and credit for training through the Community College of the Air Force.

Take a long look at YOUR future and what you want to achieve. The Air Force may be the answer for you. For your country. Good pay, advantages, training and promotions. A good way to start your future. Contact an Air Force recruiter for details.

Today's Investor

By Thomas E. O'Hara
Chairman, Board of Trustees

Better Investing Magazine

Q. Back in 1972, I talked with my broker and told him I wanted to make a long term investment in several companies that had a record of increasing sales and earnings and seemed to have good prospects of continuing to do so. My thinking was that the price of such stocks would go up as sales and earnings went up and that I would have an investment of greater value. After quite a bit of discussion, he recommended that I buy Warner-Lambert, American Home Products and Johnson & Johnson. I agreed with my broker that these stocks had had an excellent record and should do well. But they have not. Warner-Lambert is selling for $12 a share less than I paid for it 10 years ago. American Home is $5 less and Johnson & Johnson is $10 less. Obviously, there was something wrong with our reasoning. Would you tell me what you think was wrong with our reasoning and also, do you think I should continue to hold these stocks?

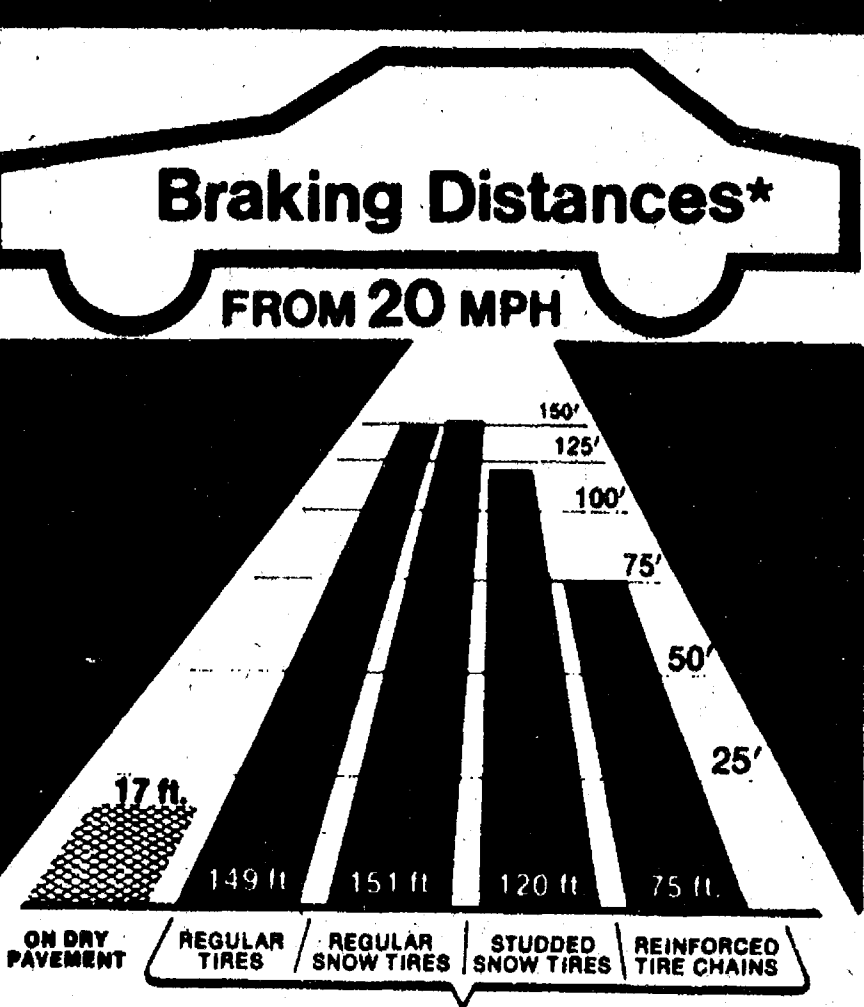

A. Basically, there was nothing wrong with the part of your reasoning where you concluded that a company which had a record of increasing sales and earnings per share would be likely to continue to do so and that that in turn would make the stock price go higher.

One mistake you made was to make all your investments in the same industry. A development that was very unfavorable for the drug industry took place and all three of your stocks were affected. The federal government took a much more stringent regulatory outlook at the drug industry and extended the testing period for new drugs for a much longer period of time. This did two things to the drug companies. It made it cost a lot more to introduce a new drug. And it reduced the time during which the 17-year patent on a new drug protected its sale and gave the company a protected price. The result was that the introduction of new drugs each year dropped from a post World War II peak of 65 to just 14 in 1976. And with seven, eight or more years of the 17-year patent period now being used to secure approval, the profitable sales period of a new drug was much reduced. The result was the profitability of the drug industry suffered. This, and general stock market conditions, resulted in your stocks selling at a lower price to earnings ratio.

At this time the outlook for the drug industry seems to be improving. An effort is being made to reduce the time and expenses for new drug testing. There is hope that the experience from testing and use of drugs overseas may be included in the U.S. testing procedure. Also, research methods for drugs overseas may be included in the U.S. testing procedure. Also, research methods for drugs have improved and are expected to be more targeted and effective in the future.

The next time you invest, follow your basic belief in growth, but spread your purchases in different industries.

Governor

Question: I have just learned that employees of the state of Michigan are paid more than state workers in any other state. I think this is wrong when the state doesn't have enough money for services.

Governor: It is true that state employees are paid more than the national average of state workers, but it is equally true that the average pay of all Michigan workers is the third highest in the nation. In manufacturing, for example, wages are higher than the national average by 30 percent. In addition, jobs in state government were reduced by 9.5 percent between June, 1980 and June, 1981, making Michigan 37th in the nation in the number of state employees per 10,000 of population.

Question: Our parents just got a new snowmobile but they won't let us drive it. They say it's illegal, but we're 12 and 13 years old.

Governor: You may legally operate a snowmobile if you are under the supervision of an adult or if you have completed a snowmobile safety course and received a valid certificate. The safety education classes are offered by volunteer instructors and by local sheriff's departments. Your Department of Natural Resources district office will have a list of available classes. A certificate is required of all youngsters between 12 and 16 to operate a snowmobile, and classes are recommended for individuals of any age who are new to snowmobiling. There were 20 deaths involving snowmobiles during the 1980-81 snow season and 28 during the 1979-80 season.

All snowmobiles must be registered except those operated exclusively on land owned or under control of the snowmobile owner. Registrations, which cost $15 and are valid for three years, are available at your local Secretary of State's office.

Snowmobiles may be operated on the right-of-way of state highways but not on the plowed shoulder except to cross a river on a bridge. State law provides for counties to allow snowmobile operation on right-of-way or plowed shoulder of county roads if the county chooses to do so.

New mechanical hand Really helps amputees

Dave Cooper tapped his hand in time with the music coming from the van's radio as he waited for the traffic light to change. The metallic tapping of the "Farmer's Hook," which replaced his right hand, attracted the attention of the driver in the car next to him.

"This guy started shouting for us to pull over, he had something to show me," Cooper recalls with a smile. "I thought he was a kook—a big guy with a beard. But, we pulled over anyway, and I'll tell you, it really changed my life."

The big man with the beard turned out to be Ron Dick, co-inventor of the Prehensile Hand, a device he says offers new hope for people with below-the-elbow amputations. Within two weeks Cooper, of Boulder, Colorado, was doing things he thought he'd never do again, thanks to the device Dick made for him.

There are no precise figures on the number of below-the-elbow amputees in the nation, but Dick says it is the most common amputation to occur. And, he says, until now such amputees have had to be content with a hook device that has seen little improvement through the years.

"Current hooks use rubber bands to provide their limited gripping power and do not call on body functions to be involved in their use. As a result, Dick says, atrophy of muscles is a very common side effect of amputations.

Strengthens muscles

The Prehensile Hand changes all that. The device requires the user to activate it with muscle power and to think about what he is doing. Dick says the lack of mind/muscle coordination is another drawback with the familiar hook.

Cooper backs up the inventor's contention. "My shoulder muscles were atrophying, but I felt my muscles shaping up two weeks after I started using the new device," Cooper says. "I can do anything from applying gentle pressure to pick up an egg to locking it like a vice so nothing will fall from my grip. It's been a Godsend to me."

Dick first started working on the device four years ago with Bob Radocy, a student he taught in one of his therapeutic recreation classes at the University of Colorado. The two men are now partners in Therapeutic Recreation Systems, of Boulder, the firm they started to manufacture the device.

Gripping improves

"There's a great deal of interest in bio-electric devices, but the big manufacturers seemed to consider our device just an improved version of the old hook," Dick says. "This is not the case at all. The Prehensile Hand not only does a much better job in gripping, it also helps improve the user's muscle and mind."

Despite the rejections and lack of interest, the pair have devoted their savings to development. They've been unable to do the advertising required to get their story out. But, some recognition has come in the farm press.

"Our study indicates that about 60 percent of the below-the-shoulder amputees are farmers," Radocy says. "Many of them occurred before new safety devices were used on farm machinery."

A few articles in some Midwest farm publications have resulted in a lot of inquiries. And, once they show the device they have almost 100 percent reception by amputees.

"There have been some who felt it is too heavy, or too big," Dick says. "However, everyone who has one says they'd never part with it. And, we are working on a lighter, smaller device to answer the most common criticism we've received thus far."

Smaller device

Dick feels this is important because he especially wants to be able to fit the device to adolescent amputees. He feels it is important to get them using the mind/muscle coordination right away.

The two inventors have dozens of stories of what the new hand has meant to amputees. One of the most revealing is that of Bill White, a construction worker in Waterford, Pa.

White lost both hands in an explosion and tried to go back to work using the typical hooks. However, after breaking several hooks and finding that he simply could not keep up with the work he was told he was going to have to be replaced.

In desperation, White sought out a better method. A prosthetic house in Erie had heard of the Prehensile Hand and put White in touch with Radocy and Dick. In a matter of weeks he was back on the job, able to keep up his old pace.

Shooting champion

But, it didn't stop there. White had been an avid target shooter. Last year, after resuming target practice, White captured the National Rifle Association 100 yard .22 calibre championship.

Radocy, an avid archer before losing his left hand, says the Prehensile Hand means amputees can resume many sports activities that would be pretty much precluded by ordinary hooks. Soon after perfecting the device he again took up archery and in the 1978 season bagged a doe at 45 yards.

The major problem Radocy had was glare of the sunlight on the stainless steel hand. He solved that quickly by spraying the steel hand with easily-removed cameo paint.

REV. PAUL T. HEINECKE

Our Savior Lutheran Plans 10th Anniversary

The public is invited to attend a special service of re-dedication at Our Savior Lutheran church on Sunday, Jan. 10 at 10:30 a.m.

The service is being held to celebrate the 10th anniversary of the dedication of the congregation's present building. The Rev. Paul T. Heinecke of Ann Arbor will be guest speaker. He is administrative assistant in charge of Missions for the Michigan District of the Lutheran church—Missouri Synod, directing the mission efforts of the more than 350 congregations of the Michigan District. The Rev. Heinecke was active in the founding of the local congregation in 1969, and was one of the speakers for the original dedication services in 1972.

Assisting in the worship service will be the present pastor of the congregation, Franklin H. Giebel, who has been serving here the past three years, succeeding the Rev. William Keller. Pastor Giebel resides in the village at the congregation's parsonage at 761 Flanders.

A reception will be held at the church following the service. The members of Our Savior Lutheran church enjoy their facilities, not only as a center of worship, but also as a regularly used facility for education and fellowship. There is plenty of room for expansion as the congregation hopes to continue to grow in serving the needs of its members and of its community.

Organizing the event is the anniversary committee, appointed by congregation president Gerald Dresselhouse. Included in this committee are some of the people who were instrumental in building the church including Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Ruhlig, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Ruhlig, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Duane Layher. Also serving on the original building committee was Elmer Lindow.

Stress Workshop Sessions Slated at Chelsea Church

Chelsea Church Women United and the Family Practice Center are sponsoring a workshop on stress. The Rev. Robert Weikart, pastoral counselor on the staff of the Family Practice Center, will lead the workshop.

The content of the workshop will cover the spiritual, mental, physical, emotional, and social aspects of the total person.

Sessions will be held on Thursdays, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., starting Jan. 21, and running for four consecutive weeks, ending on Feb. 11. Workshop sessions will be held in the Educational Building of the Chelsea United Methodist church, located on Park St.

The cost will be $15 per person, or $20 for couples or two or more from a family, for the entire workshop. Scholarships are available if needed.

To register for this workshop, contact Mrs. Joanne Weber, 19990 Ivey Rd., Chelsea, at 475-2741. Forms to mail in your registration may be found at the Family Practice Center or the Chelsea Hospital.

WATCH YOUR ENERGY

NEEDING THESE HINTS FROM THE NATIONAL ENERGY WATCH WILL HELP YOU DISCOVER TWO NEW WAYS TO BE ENERGY EFFICIENT.

YOUR HOT WATER HEATER CAN RUN MORE EFFICIENTLY IF, SEVERAL TIMES A YEAR, YOU DRAIN A PAIL OR TWO OF WATER FROM THE FAUCET NEAR THE BOTTOM OF THE HEATER. THIS REMOVES THE SEDIMENT THAT MAKES THE HEATER WORK HARDER.

Dies at Chelsea Hospital

Oscar Emmanuel Bareis, 1741 Dancer Rd., Dexter, died Wednesday, Dec. 30 at Chelsea Memorial Hospital. He was 77.

He was born Jan. 10, 1904 in Lima township, the son of George and Bertha Koch Bareis.

Mr. Bareis had been a farmer and a life-long resident of Lima township. He married Wilda McVay in Stoney Point, O., on June 30, 1930. She survives.

Mr. Bareis was a member of St. Paul United Church of Christ, Chelsea.

Survivors in addition to his widow include one daughter, Mrs. Dale (Carolyn) Schuster of Mt. Clemens; three sons, Oscar Bareis of Chelsea, Richard Bareis of Dexter and Philip Bareis of Chelsea; 12 grandchildren; and four sisters, Mrs. William (Edna) Armstrong of Arizona; Mrs. Carl (Ella) Heller of Chelsea; Mrs. Wilbur (Ruth) Tisch of Stockbridge; and Mrs. Joel (Elsie) Clay of Mt. Clemens.

He was preceded in death by two brothers.

Memorial services were held Saturday, Jan. 2 at 1 p.m. at St. Paul United Church of Christ with the Rev. Erwin R. Koch officiating.

Memorial contributions may be made to St. Paul United Church of Christ.

Arrangements were made by the Burghardt-Cole Chelsea Funeral Chapel.

Memorial Services Planned Later for Dr. H. B. Steinbach

Following the death of Dr. Henry Burr Steinbach on Dec. 21, memorial services are being planned for the spring.

Dr. Steinbach died at Falmouth Hospital, Falmouth, Mass. on Dec. 21. He was 76.

He was born in Dexter on Oct. 7, 1905, the son of Henry August and Mary Laney Steinbach. He was a native of Dexter and had earned his bachelor's degree from the University of Michigan. He later became an internationally known marine biologist.

Dr. Steinbach was a member of Woods Hole's scientific community for half a century. He was a director and president of the Marine Biological Laboratory and first dean of the graduate school at the Oceanographic Institution.

He was an assistant professor at the University of Minnesota when he began coming to Woods Hole for summer research in the early 1930's. Dr. Steinbach had been a research assistant at Brown University while working for his bachelor's degree. He became an instructor in zoology at the University of Pennsylvania while working for his Ph.D., which he received there in 1933.

Dr. Steinbach was a National Research Council Fellow at the University of Chicago and the University of Rochester from 1933 to 1935. He served on the faculty of the University of Minnesota, Columbia University and Washington University at St. Louis.

From 1957 until his retirement, he taught and headed the department of zoology and physiology at the University of Chicago.

From 1966 to 1970, Dr. Steinbach was director and president of the MBL. In March 1968, the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution announced its arrival as a formal educational institution, with a graduate program in which it would work jointly with MIT to award doctoral degrees in oceanography. Dr. Steinbach was named its dean and served in that position until 1973. At that time he left to become director of science at the laboratory of the Harbor Branch Foundation at Fort Pierce, Fla.

He was a trustee emeritus and life member of the corporation of the MBL. He was an honorary trustee and honorary member of the corporation of the Oceanographic Institution and was president emeritus of the Oceanic Institute in Makapuu Point, Hawaii.

Dr. Steinbach was a member of many professional societies and associations and edited several professional journals. In 1953 and 1954 he was assistant director of the National Science Foundation and he served as an advisor to the President's Science Advisory Committee.

He became dean emeritus and a special consultant on marine policy at the Oceanographic Institution.

In recent years he was a visiting professor at the National Taiwan University and studied biophysics at the University of London following his receipt of a Guggenheim fellowship.

In Oct. 1980, he was honored at a symposium of the Society of General Physiologists.

Dr. Steinbach was a 50-year life member of Washtenaw Lodge No. 85 F & AM of Dexter.

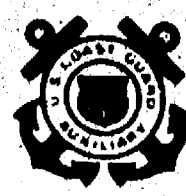

He is survived by his widow, Eleanor (Parsons) Steinbach of Woods Hole; one daughter, Mary P. Ulbrich of Fair Haven, N. J.; three sons, Alan B. Steinbach of San Francisco, Calif., Joseph H. Steinbach of La Jolla, Calif. and James B. Steinbach of St. Paul, Minn.; a brother, Charles, and a brother-in-law, Leon Agan of Dexter; and four grandchildren. He was preceded in death by a sister, Mrs. Leon (Frances) Agan.

Burial was private.

A son, Dennis Thomas, Wednesday, Dec. 9, Foote East Hospital, Jackson, to Ginger and David Watson of Grass Lake. Maternal grandparents are Nell and Bill White of Munnith. Paternal grandparents are Mrs. Myrtle Watson of Chelsea and Richard Watson, also of Chelsea. Dennis has two brothers at home.

'SAFE BOATING TIPS'

From Ann Arbor Flotilla 17-03,
U. S. Coast Guard Auxiliary

*Prepare Your Boat Engine for Winter Lay-Up

A few hours spent now can save a lot of time and money next year. When preparing your boat engine for winter lay-up, it is wise to follow the manufacturer's instructions contained in your owner's manual. Cold weather brings freezing temperatures which can destroy an engine by bursting lines, engine heads and water manifolds which are not drained or protected with antifreeze in the proper amount.

Most boat builders recommend draining fuel tanks, carburetors, and settling bowls, to prevent formation of "varnish" and rust. It is also a good idea to fasten a plastic bag over the gas tank filler cap of your built-in gas tank, the tank vent, and the engine exhaust outlet, to prevent the entry of moisture and dirt which can cause trouble later.

There are several rust inhibitors on the market to put into empty gasoline tanks—if you elect to drain your tanks. Others are merely added to any gasoline remaining in the tank. Water which accumulates in gasoline settling bowls or gas line filters is almost sure to freeze and cause damage. Check these items carefully, and empty out any water found there.

Many manufacturers recommend that you remove the spark plugs from the engine, then add about a teaspoonful of SAE 20 or SAE 30 weight oil to each cylinder, after which the engine should be cranked through 2-3 revolutions to distribute the oil over cylinder walls and piston rings. This helps to prevent rust and engine "seizure." The spark plugs should then be cleaned and gapped—or replaced with new ones before spring start-up.

The battery should be removed from the boat, brought to full charge, and stored in a warm place—preferably in its own plastic battery box, free of dirt and acid.

If inside storage is not available, cover the boat with a waterproof cover or tarpaulin. Removal of safety equipment and other gear for inside storage will prevent rust and mildew, in case moisture gets through the cover. Allow space for air to circulate under the cover to prevent "sweating."

For additional information, call Albert Chaffee, commander of Ann Arbor's Flotilla 17-03 of the U. S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, at (313) 449-4674, between 7 p.m. and 9 p.m.
