PROUD GRADUATES, PROUD CHILDREN: Gladys and Robert Reed of 207 Lincoln hold the diplomas and tassels they received Thursday evening at the adult high school completion program graduation. The Reeds' six children, five of whom have already graduated from high school and had parties hosted by their parents, decided turn-about is fair play. The children hosted the party Friday night. Their deliberately misspelled sign has a double meaning—conGRADulations.

28 Adults Receive High School Diplomas in Community Ed

At commencement ceremonies June 16 at Chelsea High school gymnasium, 28 adults graduated from Chelsea Community Education's adult high school completion program.

In the five years of the program, 151 persons have completed their high school diplomas by taking from one course to three years of day and night classes. An additional four graduated this year, but did not attend commencement.

Robert C. Reed, one of the graduates along with his wife, received special recognition at commencement for his determination to get his degree. Last fall he had a hard-to-diagnose lung abscess, and between hospital stays he attended class with a tube draining from his lung. He is completely recovered now.

Guest speaker was Raymond E. Van Meer, superintendent of the Chelsea school district. Anne Eckert, recruiter for adult education, also gave brief remarks.

Jaclynn C. Rogers, director of community education, presented diplomas along with school board members, Ann Feeney, Earl Heller and Dale Schumann.

The Rev. Fr. Jerrold Beaumont of St. Barnabas Episcopal church gave the invocation and benediction.

"Pomp and Circumstance" was played by a special performance octet of Chelsea High school band and orchestra members.

Charles Palmer Moore, Deborah A. Munding, Debra K. Outwater, Gladys L. Reed, Robert C. Reed, James E. Taylor, Amy M. White, Beverly J. White and Diane Sue White.

A reception in the high school cafeteria followed commencement.

Non-Teaching Employees Raised 3%

A 3 percent raise for school district maintenance, custodial, secretarial employees and teacher aides was approved by Chelsea school board at its June 13 meeting after the board heard the 2.9 millage increase had passed in that day's election.

Raises for these non-certified, non-union employees, will become effective July 1. Last year's raise was 5 percent.

There are about 50 employees in this group, said Fred Mills, school district assistant superintendent.

Beach Band, Orchestra Go To Bob-Lo

Beach seventh and eighth grade band and string orchestra students performed at Bob-Lo Island June 14.

They traveled by bus to Detroit and took the boat to the island. Warren Mayer, middle school band director, led the parade to dock-side, where the band and orchestra, under the direction of Carol Palms, entertained those getting off boats. The students received many compliments from passengers.

Bill Andress, father of a band member, was in charge of getting all the instruments safely to the island.

Chaperones for the seventh graders were Claudette Baker, Phebe Dent, Hazel Hermosillo and Katie Parker. Eighth grade chaperones were Gail King, Ann Lee, Linda Mayer, Mrs. Stan Stevenson, Jan Stevens, Sandy Schmunk, Mrs. White, Mr. and Mrs. Mullison and Sandy Vosters.

Chelsea Class of '63 Will Hold Reunion

Chelsea High school Class of 1963 will celebrate its 20th-year reunion Saturday, July 16 at Chelsea Rod and Gun Club.

Cocktail hour will begin at 6 p.m., followed by dinner and dancing to a live band.

Anyone interested should make a reservation soon by contacting Dave Feldkamp, Pat Carter Whitesall or Barb Wenk Preuss.

School Millage OK'd By 76-Vote Margin To Maintain Programs

Chelsea school district's swimming pool was jammed last week with children and adults seeking relief from the hot, muggy weather; sixth graders tried to figure out clarinet keys at the summer music program, and 15 school district employees still had jobs.

The 2.9 millage increase for three years was passed, 1,092-1,016, at the June 13 election, and all the above programs and jobs were saved.

Renewal of the five-year half-mill specifically designated for maintenance and improvements to school facilities passed by the largest margin of any such millage in the county, 1,405-705. Whitmore Lake and Lincoln voters also passed maintenance millages, while Clinton's and Manchester's were defeated.

Incumbent Arthur E. Dils was re-elected as school board trustee with 1,910 votes. Invalid ballots totaled 135, and 38 ballots were spoiled.

When Fred Mills, school district assistant superintendent, walked into the Beach Middle school library with the thumbs up sign shortly before 9 p.m. on election day June 13, cheers and applause broke out among assembled board members, administrators, teachers and community members.

Preliminary totals of ballots being counted in an adjacent room, showed the increase had passed by at least 70 votes. It takes only one more "yes" than the "no" total to pass a millage.

Mills, who had worked many hours to get the millage approved by making speeches to community groups explaining the real meanings of the numbers and tax jargon, said the crucial factor in passing the millage was "Parents who want good schools and programs for their children."

A local woman whose family's main reason for moving to Chelsea five years ago was the schools, agreed with Mills about what the bottom line was. "The schools are one of the major attractions of this town."

The 70-vote margin could have swung to "no" if certain events such as the weather and student behavior hadn't been in the school district's favor.

The school's swimming pool, the only public pool in the village, would have closed for the summer Tuesday morning, if the millage hadn't passed. Election day was the third day of sweltering heat.

There were also no post-graduation incidents or pranks involving malicious destruction of property reported to the police from June 3-17, said Robert Aeillo, Chelsea police chief, last Friday. "It was an exceptionally good class. If there were pranks, we didn't hear about them."

Student behavior at Beach Middle school, the election site, was the best for a last day of school, Alan Conklin, Beach principal, said he could ever remember. He has been principal at Beach for 15 years.

Chelsea certainly fared better than Dexter, whose millage proposal was defeated, 790-788. Mills said at least one district in the state had a millage proposal tie vote, which means the proposal is defeated.

Saline school district voters defeated all three millage proposals. The state department of education put both Dexter and Saline on the "critical list" after the election, because they are unable to support themselves financially.

Although the 76-vote margin in Chelsea was close, it did not set a record. The closest race since March of 1976 was a 1,005-999 defeat of a one-year, 1.5 millage increase in October of 1976.

Of the 13 elections in the past seven years, six have had more than 2,000 voters.

Fair Board Hopes To Have New Building

If Chelsea Community fair board gets approval for its new exhibit building by mid-July, the building may be constructed for the 1983 fair, it was decided at the board's June 16 meeting.

Earl Heller, fair board director, gave a report on building plans, and Reuben Lesser, Jr., brought in a set of blue prints.

Increased security was also discussed for the antiques exhibit in a presentation made by Dan Bieske. Such a move would probably increase the number of antique exhibits.

Additional ventilation will be added to the horse barn this year. In very hot weather, the barn needs this extra help.

Using Youth Job Corps workers at the fair was discussed thoroughly. Angie Merkel told the board how much help a copier would be with the large paper load a fair generates. The couple who brought a pair of hogs which had been trained to pull a small cart and which were a big hit with the children a few years ago will return with their animals to this year's fair.

Persons from another fair will make a fair tour Friday, Sept. 2. Minutes of the May meeting were read and approved.

Fair dates are Aug. 30 through Sept. 3.

Art Steinaway, fair board president, called the meeting to order. Other officers present were Jerry Herrick, vice-president; Maryann Guenther, secretary; Debbie Stapish, treasurer; and Lloyd Grau, executive vice-president.

Directors attending were Archie Bradbury, Harold Gross, Earl Heller, Jerry Heydlauff, Gary Houle, Charles Koenn, Reuben Lesser, Jr., and Mark Stapish.

Others at the meeting were Bieske, Ms. Merkel and John Wellnitz, correspondent.

Woman Jogger Kicks Assailant, Gets Free

A young woman jogging along Bush Rd. just east of McClure Rd. was deliberately run down by the driver of a pick-up truck at about 6:30 a.m. last Sunday morning.

Sheriff's deputies reported that the victim, whose name was not released, escaped with minor injuries after she broke away from her assailant, who got out of the truck and tried to drag her into the vehicle.

According to the official report of the incident, the driver of a red Chevrolet long-bed pick-up passed the jogger on the road, turned around and came back, running onto the shoulder to hit her and knock her down.

The driver got out and struck her about the head while attempting to pull her into the truck. An accurately aimed kick enabled her to get free, and she ran off into the woods and hid.

The suspect was described as a blond white male in his mid-20's.

School Budget Passed, But It Means Nothing

Chelsea school board had to hold its Uniform Budget Act hearing at 7 p.m. June 13 before election results were tallied.

That meant the budget the board later approved at its meeting didn't include the 2.9 millage increase approved by voters.

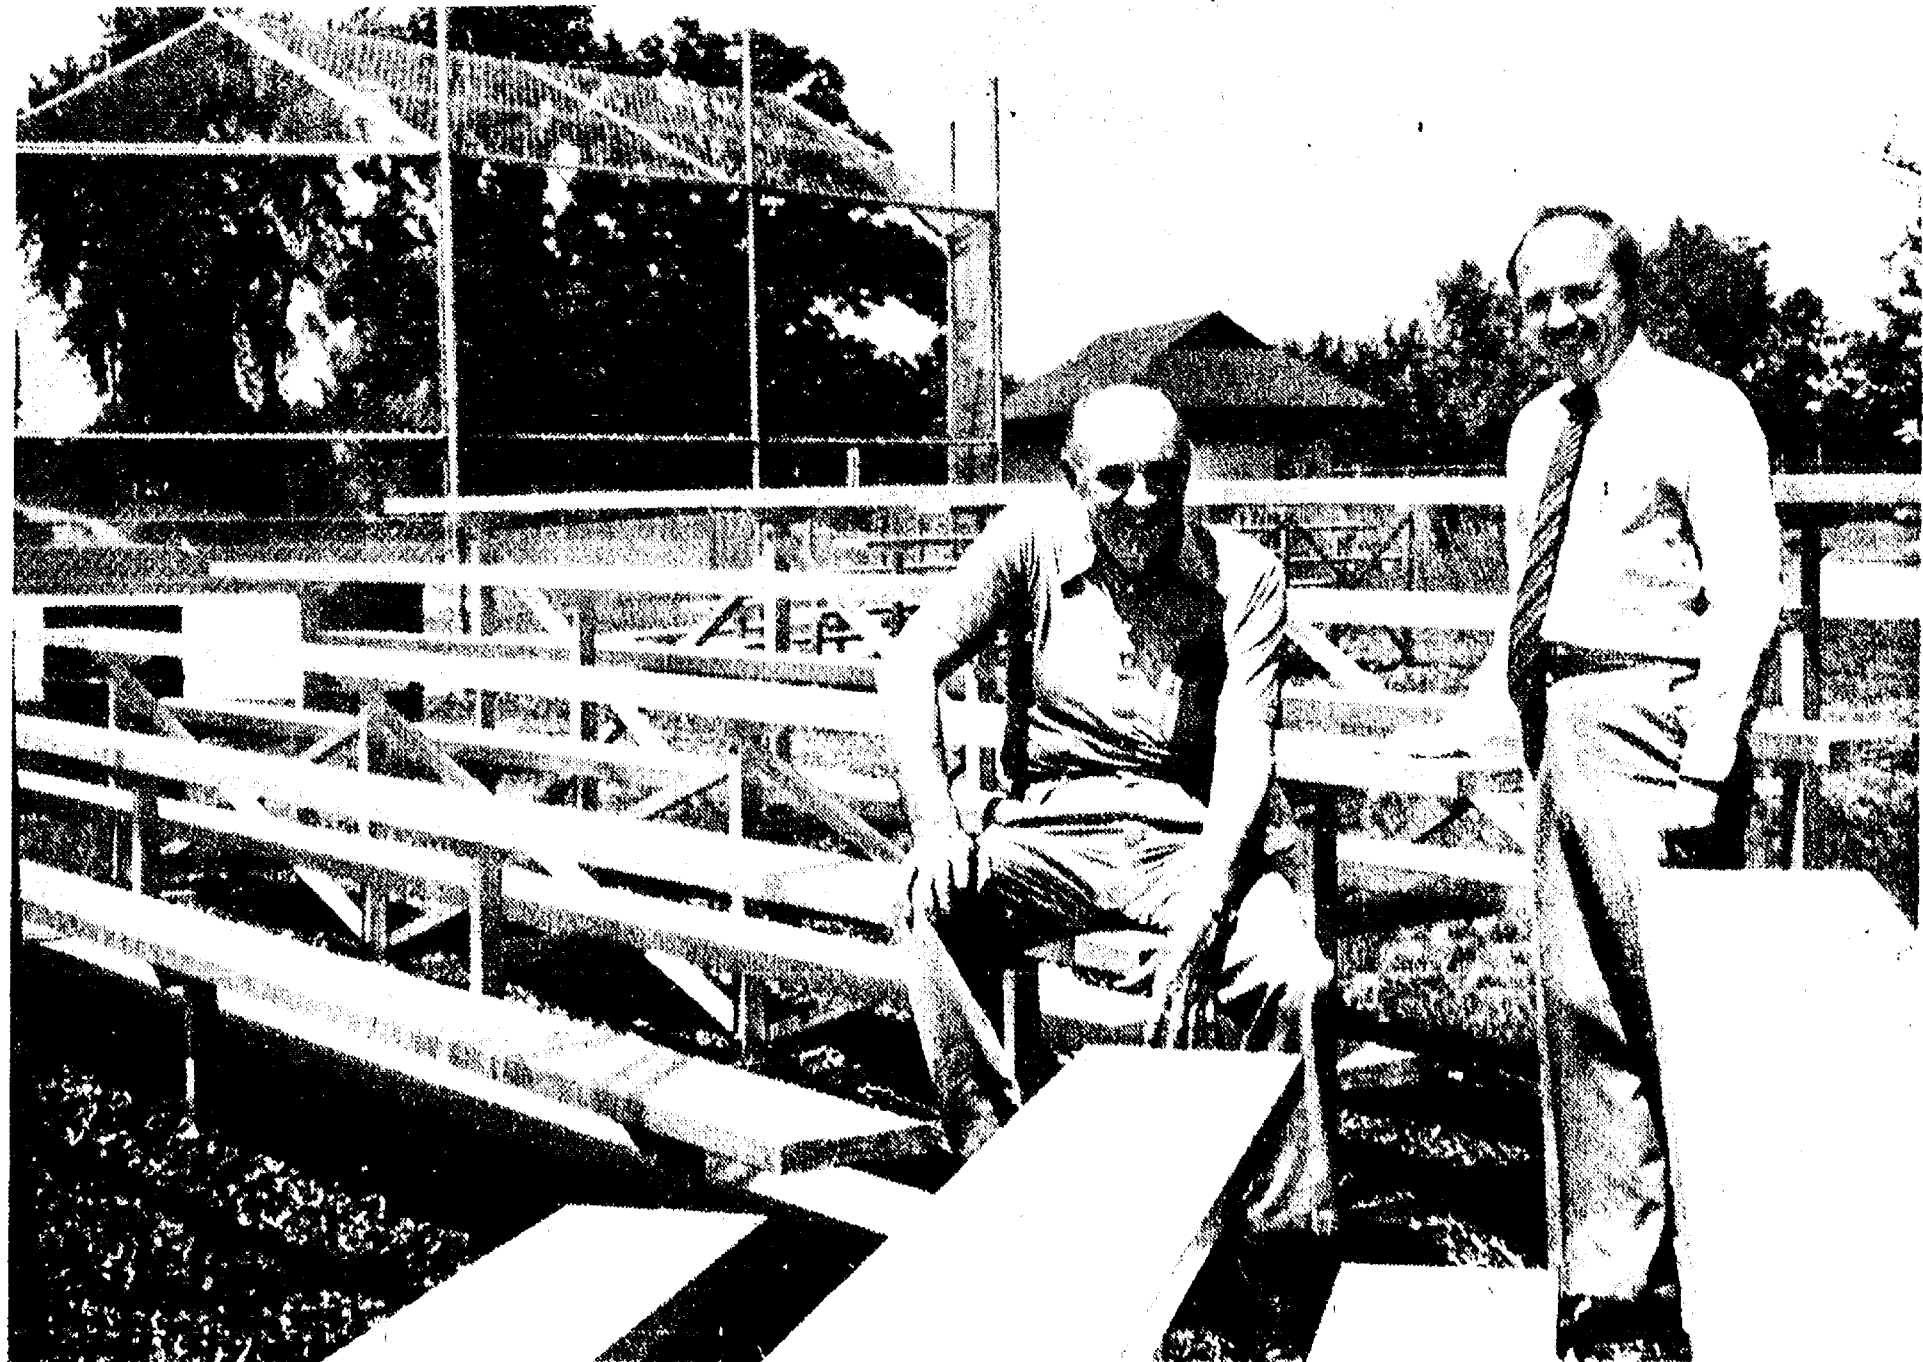

State law says if a school district wants to be able to spend money for bills or payroll in the new fiscal year, a hearing must be held before July 1, said Fred Mills, school district assistant superintendent. Only one school board meeting had been scheduled, June 13, so the hearing had to be held before millage information was in. (Later that night, the board voted to meet June 27.)

Since the increase did pass, the budget will have to be amended. The final budget is usually approved in the fall, said Mills.

Attendance at the Chelsea meeting was about average, said Mills, who attended the hearing along with three board members.

Summer inspires summer-time thefts. Someone stole 60 bags of ice valued at $67.80 from Pump & Pantry last Thursday. In a separate incident, someone attempted to take five watermelons from the outdoor bin at Pelly's Market.

Chelsea High School Class of 1969 gave a trophy case as a class gift—a good choice since class members helped fill up the other one this year by winning the league all-sport trophy. The tennis and track teams took regional championships, and league titles went to football, wrestling, golf and baseball.

All five bids on the renovation and conversion of the former Chelsea State Bank building into a district court exceeded the ceiling set by the property committee of the county board of supervisors. The committee and architect will meet to try and cut costs in the plans.

Chelsea school board overturned its recent decision to eliminate summer programs at its Monday meeting. This is in anticipation of passage of a 10.98 millage request to be voted on Aug. 4, a 2.83 mill increase and 7.65 millage renewal. Voters have turned down a 11.98 mill request twice this spring and summer.

Dr. L. J. Paul of Chelsea caught a lake trout weighing 34½ pounds on a fishing trip to Lake of the Woods country, Canada, about 1,000 miles from Chelsea via Duluth, Minn. The fish was 44½ inches long, 26 inches in girth and 14 inches across the tail.

Chelsea summer band will begin rehearsals next Tuesday in preparation for its first concert July 2 in the village business district. Community members and high school band students are welcome to join the band, which is being reorganized after several years.

The 53rd annual Chelsea High School alumni banquet June 18 attracted 250 former Bulldogs to the high school gymnasium. The Class of '49, the youngest group, had to sit at a special table and wear bibs and bonnets. Robert Merkel was chosen "prettiest baby" at a contest following the dinner and program. The newest class tables were decorated with covered wagons since they are "49-ers." Eva Taylor Gildersleeve, Class of '96, reminisced about her days at Chelsea High school, 53 years ago.

MICHIGAN MIRROR

By Warren M. Hoyt, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

New Environmental Protection Department Recommended
A new state department that would co-ordinate environmental protection programs that deal directly with human or animal health should be created, a report by the Toxic Substance Commission has recommended.

At the same time the commission recommended that it remain a separate oversight agency and further called for improved and increased financing for environmental protection functions.

Such a new department would bring the number to 20—the maximum number allowed under the state constitution—in state government.

A new department is needed, the report stated, to "maximize productivity of the great protection effort" already underway in three departments, Natural Resources, Public Health and Agriculture.

Currently, "existing Michigan departments have not placed the emphasis on environmental protection," the report said.

In the DNR's total budget, only 29 percent goes for environmental protection, while 5 percent of Public Health's budget and 31 percent of Agriculture's budgets go for environmental and environmental health programs.

Programs that could be consolidated into one department should be those that deal specifically with the health of humans, animals and plant life, especially through "exposure to adverse concentrations of chemicals through exposure routes of air, groundwater or surface water, direct contact or food."

According to the report, some environmental activities that do not have direct bearing on health could be kept in their current departments, such as the Great Lakes shorelands program in the DNR's Land Resources Division.

The report also recommended that programs that either had "long standing . . . good statutory authority," or were strongly integrated with local programs, should remain in their current departments, such as the soil conservation programs in Agriculture and Local Health Services in Public Health.

Among the programs the report recommends be moved either totally or partially into a new department are the air and water quality divisions of DNR along with the hydrogeology division of the department's geological survey division.

From Public Health, the report recommends moving the water supply services division of the environmental and occupational health services administration and from Agriculture, the report recommends moving the pesticide enforcement program.

Even though creating a new department would create some departmental efficiencies, the report strongly recommended against further cuts in funding for environmental protection.

Consolidating the programs will also require proper staffing "to provide fresh ideas and fresh policy to guide the programs," the report said.

Finally, the report recommended that the Toxic Substance Control Commission maintain its independent oversight role.

"It will be of special importance to maintain a strong commission and staff to review implementation of these recommendations and to maintain special emergency powers," the report concluded.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Exercise may make people stronger, Clem Webster told the fellers at the country store Saturday night, but the more you exercise words the weaker they get. Clem said he had studied the word "plan" up one side and down the other, and he was of a mind that it has been used so much it has lost its old meaning and took on a new one. It used to mean preparing for what you think is coming, but now it means trying to change what's done. It looks like planners more than armies are allus fighting the last war, was Clem's words.

Planners are everywhere these days, Clem said, you find em in ever level of Government, you find private planners hiring out to help public planners, and you find private companies regulated by what private planners help the public planners plan. The final result, Clem said, usual is the camel the planning committee come up with when it set out to design a horse.

What convinced him there's a heap more planning behind than planning ahead, Clem said, was this report he saw where nuclear power plants being built all over the country are stopping before they git started. Since 1973, Clem went on, $10 billion has been spent on 98 projects that have been cancelled, and dollars and numbers have took their biggest jumps in the past two year.

How is it, Clem wanted to know, that somepun called a Health Systems Agency claims to know to the bed how many beds any hospital in this country will need in the year 2000, but somepun called a Federal Energy Regulatory Commission can be so wrong on how much electricity we need now. The answer, Clem went on, is that the regulators depend on the regulated git the kind of regulation they want. A hospital ain't got a way to pay fer empty beds, so it don't plan em. The more a power company builds the more it gits paid fer building, so it builds more than it needs and tells the customer he's gitting a bargain because he's only got to pay fer half of what he didn't need, not all of it, was Clem's words.

Ed Doolittle was strong disagreed. He said power companies can't perdict economic slowdowns, and they got to figger it's better to have to much electricity than not enuff. Besides, Ed went on, private companies can't be blamed fer all public planning mistakes. Ed said he had saw where 4.8 billion gasoline ration coupons that cost more than a few million to print during the Arab oil cutoff now are costing $70,000 a year to store in Army warehouses.

But Bug Hookum was with Clem. Bug had saw where still another congressman wants still another Federal commission to set safety standards fer boxing so people that beat on one another can't git hurt. When you got regulators to tackle that kind of job it's time to do what more states are doing and loosen the controls so some goods and services can find their level in the marketplace, was Bug's words.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Two More Families List Eight Graduates

Publication of a story in last week's issue of The Standard on the graduation of the last of eight children of Mr. and Mrs. Andy Brown from Chelsea High school brought reports from two other families who likewise list eight graduates.

Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Knickerbocker had eight children—Harvey, George, Dorothy, Ray, Clare, David, Stanley and Alfred—graduate from Chelsea High between 1939 and 1957.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Bauer listed Mary Ann, Shirley, Sally, Betty, Norma, Johnny, Margaret and Marjorie between 1951 and 1963.

Someone called The Standard to say that 10 members of her family had graduated from the high school and said she would bring in the documentation, but had not done so by the news deadline for this edition.

WEAKNESS IN THE FEET
Maybe you've noticed a weakness in your feet that wasn't there before. Many things can cause this, including too much weight for the feet to bear comfortably or too much exercise, either walking, running, or even standing in one place for too long a time.
Your feet have to be properly supported to be able to move in comfort. A weakness in the ligaments, for example, can have a direct effect on the bones and muscles of your feet. Undue strain can cause your feet to become fatigued or swollen. If you feel pain in your heels, this may be caused by too much stress on the heel bone when walking or by an inflammation of the planter fascia. This is the band of connective tissue that stretches from the heel to the metatarsal bones under the long arch.
These are just a few of the conditions that cause weakness in the feet. These problems can become increasingly painful unless you receive the treatment needed. If you feel a weakness in your feet, for whatever reason, see your podiatrist for treatment.

Patchwork Quilt Show Slated at Cobblestone Farm

In the past few years, an interest has arisen in American folk art, most notably patchwork quilting. Patchwork is the art of making whole cloth from scraps and pieces of otherwise worn clothing.

Far from being the leisure time hobby it has become today, quilt-making was a standard and necessary function of every pioneer household. With money and materials scarce, the pioneer woman learned to create intricate designs that gave witness of her life style. Names such as Road to California, Log Cabin, Drunkard's Path, and Churn Dash are a few examples of history being written in cloth.

Cobblestone Farm will be holding a special event Quilt Show at the historic city-owned farmhouse at 2781 Packard Rd., Ann Arbor, on June 25-26 from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. More than 100 quilts or quilted items will be shown and sold. Exhibitors will be on hand to demonstrate and answer questions.

For further information, please call the farm office, 994-2928.

Chelsea Co-op Nursery Plans Workshops

Chelsea Co-op Nursery school will hold its annual summer workshops in July.

Winnie the Pooh will be the theme of the three-four-year-olds workshop from 9 to 11:15 a.m. Thursday, July 14. Snoopy will be the theme for the four-five-year-olds workshop from 9 to 11:15 a.m. Wednesday, July 20.

The workshops are an excellent opportunity for parents and children to participate in a pre-school class. Children will develop an art project and receive a snack among other activities planned for the day. Each session will be conducted as if it were a typical nursery school day.

The nursery is located at the Florence Howlett Memorial Building at 11000 Chelsea-Dexter Rd. The "little one-room schoolhouse" has served the children of the Chelsea and Dexter communities since 1916. Before then, classes were held in a log cabin built on that site in 1854.

For workshop reservations or information, call Karen Dixon at 475-7161 or Jean Dunn at 475-1850.

Rep. O'Connor Fights Pay Increase Impasse

A move to force the Michigan House to consider a bill allowing lawmakers to rescind their 1984 pay raise failed Wednesday because "politics won out over representation," State Representative Margaret O'Connor (R-Saline) charged.

O'Connor sponsored a rarely used "discharge" motion that would have brought the bill to the floor of the House for debate without consideration by the House Appropriations Committee.

"The bill has been stalled in the Appropriations Committee for months," O'Connor said "and the chairman has indicated he has no intention of giving it a hearing. Our discharge motion was really a last resort—the only tool we had available to bring the whole issue of the pay raise before the House. Unfortunately it failed, but not before the chairman made a public statement that the bill will be heard. If he doesn't keep that commitment, we may try the discharge again."

O'Connor explained that a vote on the bill itself would only extend the deadline for rejecting the 1984 pay raise through July.

Additional legislation to reject the increase would have to be introduced. The state Officers Compensation Commission recommends the salary for legislators, the governor, lieutenant governor and State Supreme Court Justices. Under the present law, the House and Senate must reject the recommendations by the end of January. If lawmakers fail to act within that time, the pay increase will automatically take effect.

"I believe the people of Michigan would like to see the issue of legislative salaries debated open and fully," she continued. "But unless we can approve this bill that debate will be silenced."

"We have a committee chairman who refuses to play by the rules and is abusing his power by purposefully squelching any attempts to take a look at the whole issue."

"I don't think citizens who are handing over even more of their pay check to the state government through a 38 percent tax increase would agree. We are defeated today, but the issue isn't dead yet," O'Connor concluded.

All Noxious Weeds Must Be Destroyed

Police chief Robert Aello, who doubles in brass as Chelsea's commissioner of noxious weeds, announces that offending weeds on private property must be destroyed no later than Friday, July 1.

Otherwise, the village will do the work and bill the property owner for the cost. Cutting is the normal method for getting rid of noxious weeds, but herbicides may also be used provided they are legally registered for application in Michigan.

Noxious weeds as defined by law include Canada thistles, dodders, mustards, wild carrot (Queen Anne's lace), bindweed, sowthistle, hoary alyssum, ragweed, poison ivy and poison sumac. Common lawn weeds, such as dandelions and plantains, are not included under the law.

Carpenter Ants Can Be Real Problem for People

The Standard printed a story last week reporting that carpenter ants have invaded the village fire hall and done enough damage so that the roof may have to be replaced.

The day after the paper came out, a reader called up and wanted to know what a carpenter ant is. This may tell you more than you really want to know about carpenter ants, but it's important in the sense that anybody who occupies or owns anything built of wood may someday have to deal with them.

The scientific name for carpenter ants is camponotus pennsylvanicus, which tells you that they are a species of ant first recorded in Pennsylvania a long time ago. Originally, they lived in forests and didn't bother anybody. As the forests were cut down, carpenter ants adapted and moved into town, where they can cause serious and costly problems to people.

Carpenter ants live in wood. They prefer rotting wood but will make their homes in solid wood if they have to. Ants of all kinds have existed on earth a lot longer than humans, and have learned how to survive. Some scientists have predicted that, in the event of an all-out world-wide nuclear war, ants and cockroaches and their near relatives may be the only survivors.

Termites, which belong to the cockroach family, eat and digest wood. Carpenter ants chew up wood and spit it out. Otherwise, their activities are quite similar. Both eat out galleries (tunnels) leading to nest cavities where the business of reproduction and rearing takes place. Termites tend to do their dirty work close to the ground, in foundations. Carpenter ants aren't afraid to crawl into the upper stories, and often tunnel into roof supports. That's what has happened at the fire station.

Carpenter ants are among the largest of the thousands of ant species known. A queen may be an inch long, and workers measure about half an inch. Their size provides the best clue to their presence. If you see a bunch of really big ants around your property, you are well advised to find out what they may be up to. They could be carpenter ants chewing up your roof or upper outside walls.

As village officials have found out the hard way, intrusions of carpenter ants are not easily detected from the outside. The critters obviously have been busy eating out the roof of the fire hall for several years, but they weren't discovered until painters began scraping away old paint preparatory to applying a fresh coat. In several places there was nothing under the old paint but holes made by carpenter ants.

Unfortunately, the insects don't chew on paint. They work inside it, and so often go undetected. Although carpenter ants, like all ants and also termites, are hard to kill, they can be eliminated with proper application of the right kind of pesticide. It's a job for a professional exterminator. The important thing is to discover them before the roof falls in.

If you want all the bad news at once, there are also carpenter bees, which likewise tunnel into wood for the purpose of making nests. Being larger than ants, bees get the job done faster and can cause more damage in a short time.

Should you see large bees that look a bit like bumblebees paying special attention to the sidewalls or roof or your wood building, check them out. They, too, can cause the roof to fall in.

$60,000 Contract Awarded For Beach School Roof

Chelsea school board approved a bid of $59,977.34 placed by Gundrum Roofing Co. of Ann Arbor to repair the 30,000 square-foot main wing roof of Beach Middle School at its June 13 meeting.

Two companies bid on the original specifications for a three-ply, built-up roof. Both they and a third firm offered lower bids on alternative, new roofing systems.

Gundrum had the low bid among the alternatives. Theirs was a Carlisle design A roofing system, which features one-inch of insulation covered by a glued-on rubber layer.

That is less labor-intensive than laying three layers of felt, said Fred Mills, school district assistant superintendent, and also weighs less. The old type required 10 pounds of stone ballast per square foot, which halved the amount of snow the roof could safely hold.

Although the Carlisle design has less insulating value than another new system of a layer of polyurethane foam covered by a layer of silicon, Mills recommended the Carlisle because it could withstand more traffic.

Air handling equipment such as air conditioning and vents is on the section of roof at Beach to be done this year, said Mills. This section of roof also provides access to the wing roofs.

The chance for puncturing the silicon and getting leaks was much higher in a heavily trafficked area, he said, but the district will probably use this foam-silicon system in the future.

Gundrum had the school district's roofing contract last summer.

All three firms which submitted bids were from out of town.

Investigations conducted by the U. S. Labor Department's Wage and Hour Division in fiscal 1982 disclosed $49.4 million in minimum wage underpayments due 290,000 workers and $80.8 million in overtime underpayments due 288,000 employers.

USDA Exercises Option For 1983-Crop Wheat

Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block today said it will be necessary to require wheat producers who do not have sufficient quantities of wheat pledged as price support loan collateral to meet their payment-in-kind requirements to obtain loans on their 1983-crop production.

Producers who have no 1983-crop wheat planted for harvest or who do not have sufficient wheat planted for harvest to meet their PIK requirements will receive payment-in-kind from other wheat in Commodity Credit Corporation inventory, he said.

Block said all producers who signed a contract to participate in the 1983 PIK program agreed to obtain a loan on their 1983 production for PIK purposes to satisfy program needs if required by CCC. USDA decided to exercise this option after determining there is an insufficient quantity of wheat currently available to CCC to meet PIK needs, he said.

CCC has developed special provisions to permit producers to use their 1983 wheat production for PIK purposes even though they do not have warehouse or on-farm storage available, Block said. The producer must certify to the local county office of USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service that the required quantity was harvested from an eligible farm and has not been sold prior to the certification.

The producer can obtain the loan, redeem the loan collateral and sell it to CCC. The producer then will be eligible to immediately receive the payment-in-kind from CCC inventory. However, these producers will not receive the proceeds of the sale of the wheat to CCC until their PIK availability date, Block said.

Producers with eligible 1983-crop wheat stored in an approved structure on the farm or in a warehouse covered by a uniform grain storage agreement may receive a regular price support loan for the wheat and earn storage payments for up to five months beginning on the PIK availability date.

Restaurants Must Give Notice If Sulfites Added

In the near future diners in Washtenaw county food establishments may begin to notice signs, placards, labels or menu notes which state "sodium bisulfites are added" or "sulfiting agents are added to preserve natural appearance and freshness," according to Jim Henderson, head of the Food Service Program for the Washtenaw County Health Department.

The health department recently notified restaurant owners and managers that they must inform their patrons if sulfiting agents are used on any of the foods they serve.

Sulfiting agents are often used to retard browning and to keep foods looking fresh, according to Dr. Henderson. Although they cause serious health problems in some sensitive individuals when they are eaten on uncooked foods, the cooking process does reduce the health threat.

Asthmatics in particular may experience life-threatening breathing problems, shock and even coma after consuming foods that have been treated with the sulfiting agents.

Six sulfiting agents are approved by the U. S. Food & Drug Administration for food use: Sulfur dioxide, Sodiumsulfite, Sodium and Potassium Bisulfite and Sodium and Potassium Metabisulfite. Since 1959, the FDA has listed these six as GRAS (generally recognized as safe).

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

It seems like there have been a number of accidents involving the Werkner-M-52 intersection, with everyone trying to figure out why these accidents happen because of the high visibility. I might have a couple of ideas.

One thing I have noticed from personal observation is that when you're sitting on Werkner Rd., it's sometimes hard to judge the speed of a car coming into town on M-52. This is a 55 mile-an-hour road, and people tend to go over the speed limit coming down that hill. So sometimes you end up pulling out onto M-52 in front of a car going faster than you thought he was going.

Another thing is the fact that there is no right turn lane when you're turning onto Werkner from M-52. Some people pull off onto the paved shoulder, some don't. This tends to make the car behind them try to pass while they are turning. If you're sitting on Werkner Rd., it's hard to guess what these cars are going to do.

My first suggestion is this: Perhaps 500 yards or so on M-52, before you come into town, the speed limit could be changed to 50 or 45 miles an hour instead of 55.

A second suggestion is to put a right turn lane on M-52 for people pulling onto Werkner Rd. There's plenty of room, and there's always an enormous amount of traffic at this intersection to warrant it. There's also been a suggestion to install a yellow blinking light. This also sounds like a good idea. Perhaps these ideas will be thought over and given some serious consideration.

Robin Aspiranti.

Open Letter to Tom Green, Dana Plant Manager

Dear Mr. Green,

My husband works for Dana and has worked there for almost 16 years. With the new announcement about the assembly move to Memphis, some questions have come up that I would like to have answers to. My husband is unable to answer these questions to my satisfaction, so to prevent anymore rumors from starting, I'd like to get these answers from you.

You stated in The Chelsea Standard "We are going to remain in Chelsea we don't plan to lay off anybody, and we have every reason to think we are going to expand our work force during the next 18 months. Business is picking up, orders are up, and the economic indicators are positive." Then later in the same article you state assembly is leaving to "partially escape the high costs of doing business in Michigan," and "I don't see any signs that this is going to change for the better soon."

Question: How will Dana, Chel-

sea, be able to absorb 38 assembly persons into manufacturing jobs? Will people presently in manufacturing be bumped out of their jobs? Also what about people moving into different job classifications? If there are going to be plenty of jobs available at Dana, Chelsea—why is it necessary for there to be the option of moving to Memphis?

If "We fully expect to maintain our current employment level in Chelsea through the relocation period and beyond." Does this mean that Dana, Chelsea will employ only 165 people? Or "I am confident that by 1984 we will have increased our work force by at least 50 percent, approaching the number we had in 1981 before our business dropped sharply because of the recession." Does this mean that people will be called back from layoff?

Dana says they have a "strong sense of responsibility to its employees, and we will continue to display it." Why then are people asked to work overtime, while employees are still layed off? Are you aware that a lot of Chelsea, Dana employees are out of their unemployment benefits with sub pay being 7 months behind and with the situation as it is now, (with assembly moving south) what can be done to help or where can these people turn to? What about people with 10 or more years seniority? Will they ever get called back?

Everyone knows that Michigan is a very costly state to do business in, so my next question is, why doesn't Dana, Chelsea move their whole plant to Memphis? or to Arkansas? Mr. Green—please—I'd like an answer to my questions. I feel they are valid.

Sincerely,
M. Stevens.

Department of Labor's Mine Safety and Health Administration (MSHA) included: to reduce adversarial relations between labor and management over safety and health in mining community; to eliminate needless regulatory burdens, and to encourage positive efforts by industry and labor to protect miners' safety and health.

Mill Creek Metropark Idea Still Dead Despite 'Revival'

There is an old song titled "He's Dead But He Won't Lie Down," and it is reminiscent of the saga of the Mill Creek Metropark which has been buried several times but keeps springing back to life in the minds of some people.

Back in 1965 the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority (HCMA) came up with a proposal to dam Mill Creek and create a 2,000-acre artificial lake as the centerpiece of a 3,500-acre park in Lima township.

Strong opposition from local residents killed the idea before it ever got off the ground. From its beginning in 1941, HCMA has stood by a firm policy against condemning land for its projects.

Because it was obvious that the land needed for the proposed Mill Creek park could not be bought without first legally condemning it, HCMA abandoned the proposal and went on to other projects in areas where public receptivity was more favorable.

While there is no question that HCMA, established by the Legislature as a state government entity, has the legal authority to initiate condemnation proceedings, there is a very good question whether any judge or jury would regard a metropark as a "public necessity." HCMA decided at the outset of its existence never to test that issue in court, and it never has.

Partly in response to the metropark proposal, a group of Lima township citizens organized as the Mill Creek Research Council and began pushing for designation of 9,400 acres south of I-94 as a National Rural Historic District, intending to lock in present land uses which are primarily agricultural.

That designation is one step away from final approval by the National Park Service. The Michigan Historic Preservation Review Board gave its consent following an April 7 public hearing in Lansing. A decision from Washington is expected soon.

Meanwhile the ghost of the metropark has risen again, raised this time by the Washtenaw County Planning Commission which is seeking to update some old maps showing proposed land uses in the county.

The planning commission queried HCMA, and James B. Cosgrove of Ypsilanti, Washtenaw's representative on the authority board and also its vice-chairman, tried one more time to lay the ghost to rest.

HCMA is barred from acting on the Mill Creek proposal because it cannot buy the land without first condemning it, and the agency's "no condemnation" policy is still in full force, Cosgrove emphasized.

He added that HCMA has shifted its priorities toward developing and maintaining the parks it has already established, rather than starting new ones.

In that context, HCMA has budgeted $1.7 million this year for improvements at Hudson Mills Metropark, on the Huron River just east of the intersection of North Territorial and Dexter-Pinkney Rds.

HCMA would like to acquire more land to add to Hudson Mills, and suggested the county might better turn its attention to supporting that need and quit worrying about Mill Creek.

Dexter Area Youth Completes Navy Recruit Training

Navy Constructionman Recruit William L. Treaster, son of Nelson L. and Marge C. Trester of 7721 Donavon Rd., Dexter, has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center, San Diego, Calif.

During the eight-week training cycle, trainees studied general military subjects designed to prepare them for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic occupational fields.

Included in their studies were seamanship, close order drill, Naval history and first aid.

Two Students from Chelsea Area Earn Degrees from MIT

Two students from the Chelsea area received bachelor's degrees in electrical engineering and computer technology from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) during commencement exercises held May 27.

They are Eric P. Nygaard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett P. Nygaard of 11105 Boyce Rd., and Jason R. Redgrave, son of Ms. Jennifer M. Scott of 20820 Island Lake Rd.

Bus Garage Easement Change OK'd

Although part of the easement to the school district's bus garage was granted to Thomas and Joan Eisele at the school board's June 13 meeting, the school district did not give up possible access to the facility from the north.

The easement the district had from Book to Flanders was a lot more than was needed, said Fred Mills, school district assistant superintendent. If the district ever wanted to have additional access to the bus garage from the north, it would want to build a 95-foot road to Book instead of a more than 300-foot road to Flanders.

The main entrance to the bus garage and maintenance facility is on Old US-12. There is a narrow, dirt lane to the north, which is used in winter to get small snowplow tractors up to the school and by joggers throughout the year.

The Eiseles' home at 770 Book is up for sale. Mills said he could understand why they wanted the easement question settled.

Who'd want to buy a house if there was a chance, no matter how slim, that some day 30 buses would drive by every weekday morning beginning at 7:10 a.m.?

U. of M. Awards Regents-Alumni Scholarships

Four local high school seniors are among 392 students in the state named Regents-Alumni Scholars by the University of Michigan Alumni Association.

Local winners are Sharon S. Glassford of 13123 Island Lake Rd., Chelsea; Kevin M. Clark of 2376 Baker Rd., Dexter; Allison M. Meyers of 11850 Centerline, Pinkney; and Melissa M. Bunney of 19025 Sanborn Rd., Manchester.

The awards are given for outstanding academic achievement, scholarly promise and potential contribution to the University community and were based on grades, class ranking, test scores and interviews.

Scholars who enroll at U. of M. in the fall will receive a $750 non-renewable merit scholarship.

Approximately $596 million in benefits was paid to 90,000 coal miners or their surviving dependents during the 1982 fiscal year, the Labor Department's annual report stated.

Future Business Leaders Attending WCC Conference

Two high school students from both Chelsea and Dexter high schools were chosen to attend the Future Business Leaders Conference sponsored by the Ann Arbor Area Chamber of Commerce June 20-24 at Washtenaw Community College.

Both Becky Schluppe of 13380 Old US-12, Chelsea, who is being sponsored by Sarns, Inc., and Tom Nemeth of 53 Butternut, Chelsea, sponsored by Warner-Lambert, attend Chelsea High school.

Dexter High school students are Andri Doi of 8006 Kurtland Ct., Dexter, sponsored by Control-O-Mation, and William A. McRoy of 4270 Crestline Dr., Ann Arbor, sponsored by Thetford Corp.

In 1982, a difficult year for all businesses, employment among small firms declined less than employment among large corporations. A major reason for the relatively good performance of small companies in a recessionary period was careful cost control by small business owners, preventing an accumulation of unwanted inventories among small firms. Studies have shown that in recessions, small firms tend to retain employees longer than large firms.

Cavanaugh Lake Store Is Sold

The Cavanaugh Lake Store at Cavanaugh Lake and Glazier Rds. has been sold to James Shadoan, owner James Nye has announced. A former Chelsea resident, Shadoan presently lives in Galesburg, Ill.

The change of ownership is contingent on transfer of package liquor and beer and wine takeout licenses, which must be approved by the Michigan Liquor Control Commission, Nye said.

The transfer process normally takes 6-8 weeks, but has been running slower lately because the Liquor Commission is short-staffed and behind on its paperwork.

Nye has owned the store for the past 3½ years. Besides alcoholic beverages, the establishment sells groceries, gasoline, fishing bait and sundries.

Chelsea Man Doing Study In Africa

Jim Botsford, a 1978 graduate of Chelsea High school, is one of two students from Michigan State University studying a parasite on humans in Khartoum, Sudan this summer on a grant from the MSU College of Veterinary Medicine.

Botsford, who left Chelsea June 13 and will be in Africa about two months, received his Bachelor of Science degree in veterinary medicine in 1983 from MSU. When he returns from Sudan, he plans to pursue his doctorate of veterinary medicine, also at MSU. He is the son of Jean Botsford of Sibley Rd. and James Botsford of Cedar Lake Rd.

The internal, tropical parasite, schistosomiasis, is transmitted to humans via snails in the water supply, said Botsford. Although not fatal, it is debilitating since persons afflicted cannot absorb food properly.

Although the parasite can be eliminated through drug therapy, he and his colleagues are interested in preventive care by studying its life cycle and transmission.

Farm animals are involved in the parasite's life cycles, he said, but how hasn't yet been determined.

Dental School Seeks Periodontal Patients

The School of Dentistry at the University of Michigan is seeking patients with periodontal disease (pyorrhea).

Screening examinations will be conducted this summer for persons who wish to be evaluated for receiving treatment in the fall.

A fee of approximately $20 will be charged at the time of the examination for registration and x-rays.

Anyone interested in being examined to determine possible periodontal disease (gum disease) should call (313) 764-1516 and make a specific request for a periodontal screening examination.

HUMMER IN HAND: The hands holding this female ruby-throated hummingbird belong to Rick Buckberry of 9100 Beeman Rd., who released the bird after it became trapped on an enclosed porch at the Buckberry home.

Bird in the Hand Is a Rare One

Holding a wild hummingbird in your hand has to be one of life's rare experiences, but it happened recently to Rick Buckberry of 9100 Beeman Rd.

The tiny female ruby-throated hummingbird buzzed into the Buckberrys' glass-enclosed back porch through an open archway at the side, attracted by a pot of purple flowers that Mrs. Sharon Buckberry had placed on the windowsill of the porch.

After sampling the nectar from the blossoms, the bird tried to get back out but couldn't find the way. It flew up and down the windows until finally exhausting itself.

"It looked like a giant moth while it was flying, not like a bird at all," Mrs. Buckberry said. She called her husband, who picked up the bird and held it in his cupped hands while he carried it outside and his wife took pictures.

When Buckberry opened his hands, the hummingbird sat for several seconds, then took off toward the treetops, apparently none the worse for the experience. "I'm sure it was just tired from trying to escape from our porch," Mrs. Buckberry said, adding that she believes the hummer has a nest nearby.

William Lavery, administrator, Saline Community Hospital; John J. Freysinger, executive director, Beyer Memorial Hospital/People's Cooperative Hospital Authority; and Jephtha W. Dalston, executive director, University of Michigan Hospitals.

Chelsea Hospital Joins Ambulance Service Firm

Huron Valley Ambulance (HVA) will become a service company owned and operated by Washtenaw county's five health care institutions, including Saline Community Hospital; Chelsea Community Health Center; the University of Michigan Hospitals; the Catherine McAuley Health Center which operates St. Joseph Mercy and Mercywood Hospitals; and Beyer Memorial Hospital, a unit of the People's Community Hospital Authority.

HVA was formed in December, 1981, following purchase by Catherine McAuley Health Center (CMHC) of Pontiana-Taylor Ambulance Service, Inc., and Emergency Specialties Service.

"The agreement demonstrates a commitment by area hospitals to quality patient care in our county. It is also a fine example of a co-operative effort to maintain a vitally needed health care service," said David G. Hunscher, county controller/administrator.

Direction for the ambulance service will come from a board of directors which will include hospital and community representatives to ensure broad-based participation, according to William J. Fileti, HVA president and chief executive officer.

"The hospitals hope that HVA will evolve over time into an organization, governed and primarily funded by the community," Fileti said.

CMHC president Robert E.

Lavery said, "The Board of Directors of Catherine McAuley Health Center acted quickly in late 1981 to salvage and stabilize ambulance service for citizens of Washtenaw county. It is a matter of real pride, not to say reassurance, that four other major hospitals in our area are willing to share a common commitment and become co-owners of the ambulance service."

Comments by the chief executives of the other HVA partners include this from Will Johnson, administrator of Chelsea Community Hospital:

"We are extremely pleased that the ambulance needs of our community are being met by this joint effort. The people of Washtenaw county are the beneficiaries."

Over the next two years, the maximum financial involvement of the five hospitals will not exceed two million dollars, with CMHC and U-M each contributing $750,000; People's Community Hospital Authority, $300,000; and Chelsea and Saline Community Hospitals, $100,000 each.

Football and Track Construction Projects Get Green Light

You'll finally be able to really see Chelsea High school football games, and track meets will be held at home once again, but Chelsea tennis players will have to put up with balls bouncing erratically on cracks for another year.

Chelsea school board awarded contracts for football field and track improvements at its June 13 meeting, after it heard voters passed the half-mill for maintenance and facilities improvements by a solid 1,405-705 margin. Construction is to begin this week.

Those improvements include general construction on the football field to make it drain better, a new track bed (the old one was so cracked it was unsafe to practice on much less hold a meet there), fencing and more powerful and more energy efficient lights.

But even with the renewal, the district couldn't afford the entire $281,000 project; it had $210,730 to spend. Improvements the board approved came to $211,288, and the tennis courts would have cost close to $50,000 more. (The extra $558 needed will be re-allocated from other maintenance millage funds.)

"I'd love to do the whole thing and get it done," Fred Mills, school district assistant superintendent who recommended dropping the tennis courts project, told the board. The money just wasn't there. This way at least two major projects will be completed.

Board member Earl Heller, who is not a tennis player, favored doing all three projects, but delaying the $76,000 track resurfacing. The cost of such surfaces has been dropping in recent years, he said, and he would rather hold off on it and see if money could be saved on the surface.

Mills said the price on the surface is the best anyone in the area has gotten recently. Both Eastern Michigan University and University of Toledo had bids of more than $100,000 for similar surfaces. EMU's price went up more than $25,000 in less than a year.

A new surface for the proposed four tennis courts is about $5,000, so a price rise there would have much less impact than one for the larger surface area of the track, said Mills.

The board had asked for and gotten extensions on the original bids until June 14, because renewal of the millage was crucial to the project.

As soon as unofficial vote tallies showed the renewal had passed by a large margin, the board voted.

Although earlier in the spring a more than $6,000 deficit had been anticipated for the field-track improvements, the district got more back in matching funds for its federal energy management grant than had been anticipated, said Mills.

Souter Asphalt and Paving of Troy was awarded the $176,381 contract for general construction of the track and field, track surface and markings; A. F. Smith & Son, Inc. of Ypsilanti, the $24,950 contract for lights with an additional $48,000 over four years; and New Hudson Fence Co., Inc. of Novi, the $9,957 contract for fencing.

Boy Scout Camp At Bruin Lake Robbed

Two life preservers and a truck battery were stolen in a break-in at the Bruin Lake Boy Scout camp off Hadley Rd. in Lyndon township last Sunday night.

Chelsea Big Boy Still Winning Big

Chelsea's fastpitch team, sponsored by Big Boy restaurant, is fast becoming the premiere team in the area.

Over the week-end of June 10-12 Big Boy took home another tournament championship. The first annual Lefty Ross Memorial Tournament saw Big Boy go undefeated in six games, to claim their crown. Having a good tournament and providing most of Big Boy's offensive punch were Bob DeCarolis and Mike Lauerman, each delivering some clutch hitting.

Big Boy also got good work turned in by outfielder Bob Moffett, first baseman Len Kozma, third baseman Roger Bourne and manager Randy Brier who plays any position. Designated hitter Craig Houle, and catcher Al Augustine, who both have hot bats. Todd Orthing, Wayne Welton and Bruce Wagner handled all chances cleanly for Big Boy. This trio has turned in some sparkling glove work all year long, to go with their tough hitting as well.

Jim Strong, John Strong and Al Cohen each pitched very well, taking their turns on the mound.

All proceeds from the tournament went to the Muscular Dystrophy Association. Big Boy was especially pleased to win this championship, and hope for its long success in honor of Lefty Ross, their former teammate and friend who died two years ago of cancer.

In league action Big Boy remains unbeaten. Chelsea posts a perfect 8-0 record, while their nearest challenger, Wolverine Supply, is at 5-4. Big Boy plays a 21-game schedule.

Over the past two weeks in league action, Big Boy has put on an explosive offensive show. In their last four games they have won two by the mercy rule, then posted a 10-2 win and scored eight runs in their most recent game which ended in a tie because of a time limit. The game will be rescheduled later.

That's a total of 43 runs in four games. Big Boy's lineup is packed with hitting from top to bottom, and has earned a reputation as one of the top Class A teams in the state.

Big Boy has an 11-game winning streak. They have won 22 of their last 23 games, and their total record this year is 23-4.

Big Boy travels to Ludington June 24-26 to defend their championship in the Scottville "A" Invitational.

Rod Robeson Named Second-Team All-State

Rod Robeson's excellent defensive abilities, robust hitting and fast feet earned him second-team all-state honors in baseball, Chelsea coach Wayne Welton announced yesterday.

"Rod is an excellent all-around catcher," Welton said. "He handles pitchers especially well. He knows the game and studies the hitters. I didn't have to call pitches for him."

Robeson excelled behind the plate this past season, using his quickness to block errant pitches that many high school catchers would have let get by. He has the knack for keeping the ball "out in front" instead of letting it get through to the backstop.

He batted .451 on the season with 32 hits, and scored 19 runs. He also walked 17 times, and stole 19 bases.

"You don't ordinarily think of a catcher as being fast, but Rod had the best speed of anybody on our team," Welton said. "He has been an outstanding high school catcher, and I'm sure he will go on to do well in college. I'm very pleased that his ability has been recognized."

Robeson will enroll at Grand Valley State College this fall.

ROD ROBESON

SPLASHING IN THE POOL during recreational swim hour will be a summer scene in Chelsea this summer. The millage increase passed, so the pool will be open for lessons, playing, lap swimming and swim team. Recreational swim hours are noon to 1 p.m.

weekdays, 8 to 9 p.m., Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and 2:30 to 4 p.m. Saturday. Swimmers are: Nikki Wireman, left foreground; Sarah Borders, left in dark suit; Ann Terpstra; Brent Baier; and Shannon Springer, right foreground.

Awards Presented To Tennis Players

Tennis awards were presented after a pot-luck dinner held at Pierce Park on June 4.

Seniors honored this year were Damon Mark (captain), Mike Redit (co-captain), Rod Worthing, Bill Merkel, Rob Moore, and Craig Hinz.

Damon Mark and Rod Worthing received the most valuable player awards. They were 15-2 for the season. They lost one match to Saline and the other in the finals of the regional meet at Monroe. Medals were presented to them in recognition of this feat by coach Terry Schreiner.

Most improved player awards went to Damon Mark, Craig Hinz and Greg Markle. These three started playing tennis three years ago and have come a very long way in a short time.

Other senior awards were certificates to all the above, plaques and pins. Three-year members received trophies. They were Bill Merkel, Rob Moore, Damon Mark, Mike Reid, Kurt Eisenbeiser and Thom Schumann. Two-year members who received bulldog pins were Rod Worthing, Craig Hinz and Greg Markle. They also received certificates.

Steve Worthing and Mark Henson both received their first varsity letter plus a certificate and pin. They both earned spots on the varsity team this year over nine other players.

Junior varsity certificates went to David Bareis, Brett Knickerbocker, Dan Waldyke, Kevin Vandegriff, and Rick Proctor. Matt Grau, Mike Feeney and William Van Reesma received JV letters. Numerals were given to Steve Worthing and William Van Reesma.

Farmers who hire an economically disadvantaged youth this summer can get a tax credit under a new federal program. The Targeted Jobs Tax Credit applies to the hiring of youths who are 16 or 17 years old on the hiring date after April 30.

MILLAGE "YES" SAVES POOL: These two girls taking swimming lessons at Chelsea school district's pool at Beach Middle school June 16 wouldn't have been a common summer scene if voters had turned down the 2.9 millage increase at the June 13 election. If it had been "no," the pool would have closed for the summer. Back floaters are Bree Wireman, left, and Nikki Wireman. Shannon Springer, the instructor supports their heads.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BILL MULLENDORE

It was happy and it was sad.

It was happy because two of the all-time great Detroit Tiger baseball players—Charlie Gehringer and Hank Greenberg—finally got the honor and homage due them after all these many years.

It was sad because so few people—about 37,000—turned out on a perfect Sunday afternoon in Tiger Stadium to see and listen to the ceremonies as Gehringer (2) and Greenberg (5) had their numbers retired, something that should have been done 20 years ago.

It was nice that they got around to doing it while Gehringer, 80, and Greenberg, 72, are still alive.

Never have I seen the generation gap more in evidence, and never did it hurt more than when the crowd boomed as Gehringer was introduced by Al Kaline as the greatest second baseman who ever played the game, which he was and is.

The young crowd was calling out the name of Lou Whitaker, who might someday get to be good enough to carry Gehringer's glove if he keeps working hard at it. Whitaker just may be the best second baseman in the game today, as Gehringer graciously called him, but Sweet Lou lacks the skill with the bat and the range in the field to rank in the all-time great class yet. A lot of ground balls go into right field under Whitaker's glove, balls that Gehringer would have gobbled up and turned into routine outs.

There was some head-scratching as Greenberg was introduced. Who's this guy? Well, he batted in 183 runs in 154 games one year. If anybody manages to knock in 100 runs in 162 games these days, he's headline news and worth a zillion dollars. Greenberg hit 58 home runs one season and undoubtedly would have set an all-time record for homers had he not been unselfish enough to put balls on the ground behind the runners and raise sacrifice flies to the opposite field when there was somebody on third.

As the two "G-Men" recalled it, Gehringer's job was to get on base and into scoring position, and it was Greenberg's task to bring him home. Gehringer led the team in runs scored during all those years that Greenberg was tops in RBI's. Baseball was more of a team game back then. Individual statistics weren't all that important. The idea was to win, however you did it.

Gehringer got on base just about half of the times that he came up to bat—besides getting more than 200 hits a year, he walked about 100 times—and Greenberg, who hit behind him, more often than not found a way to get him across the plate. Next to Lou Gehrig and Babe Ruth, it was the greatest 1-2 punch in the history of modern baseball.

Another of the remarkable things about these two remarkable athletes was that they played every day. There was none of this platooning nonsense, nor did players sit out a game with a hangnail or an ankle twich. They were in the lineup almost every game. If they were able to put on a uniform, they played.

Gehringer put together streaks of 541 and 458 consecutive games played, the two longest in Tiger history. Greenberg never quite matched those, but he didn't miss very many (more about that next week).

Gehringer batted left-handed and Greenberg right-handed, and anybody who suggested that either one couldn't hit pitching from the same side would have been laughed at. (Today's conventional baseball wisdom says that a left-handed hitter is helpless against a left-handed pitcher, and vice versa. That gives managers like Sparky Anderson something to do while juggling lineups. It also assures that the best hitters won't play every day, and that a lot of games will be lost that could have been won. Anybody who can't hit pitching from either arm doesn't belong in the Major Leagues.)

When you can't say something as well as somebody else has already said it, the smart thing to do is quote the person who wrote it first. George Puskas, Detroit Free Press sports columnist, put it this way in summing up the occasion:

"They took us back a half-century and more at the old ball-yard, back into some of the darkest days of our time, and showed us a luster long lost and largely forgotten.

"To most in a new generation of baseball lovers, Charlie Gehringer and Hank Greenberg are almost as unfamiliar as the years of their prime—the 1930's, the years of the Great Depression.

"They were leaders, heroes, symbols of excellence from that incredible period when proud men were jobless, thousands were hungry, homeless and broken.

"They helped build a civic pride that lingers still in Detroit. As much as their personal accomplishments, that is their reward.

"In 1935 a million people lived in the metropolitan area, but more than a million paid to see the Tigers with Gehringer and Greenberg play their game at the ball-yard. Such was their appeal in a town still in tatters and with faint hope."

I remember the times because I was a part of them. My 81-year-old dad and I spent Gehringer-Greenberg Day recalling those years which were so bad but yet so good if you had a job that put a roof over your head and food on the table, and left a little over to buy tickets to a Tiger game every once in awhile.

Some of those memories will be the subject of next week's column.

There are no permanent rivers in the country of Yemen.

OUT IN THE OPEN

By BILL MULLENDORE

Coming up on my 57th birthday next Sunday, I have managed to find nothing at all good about the idea of getting older and wish there were some way to interrupt the process. What bothers me most of all are the notices I receive of the deaths of former friends and professional colleagues, persons whom I respected and cherished.

Last week I wrote about Dorias J. Curry, the iron man of the Upper Peninsula. Before that column had gotten into print, I was informed that another very special person had died, a man as well known locally as Curry was, but who was likewise a giant in his own way. He was Donald W. Douglass, the most "intellectual" person I have ever known.

Dorrie Curry and Don Douglass were about as poles apart as two persons can be. Don was gentle, too gentle by far for the rough-and-tough, savage infighting of bureaucracy, where groin kicks are among the less imaginative methods used to gain ascendancy. That he rose very close to the top of the Department of Natural Resources is a tribute to his sheer power of intellect, a triumph of mind over matter.

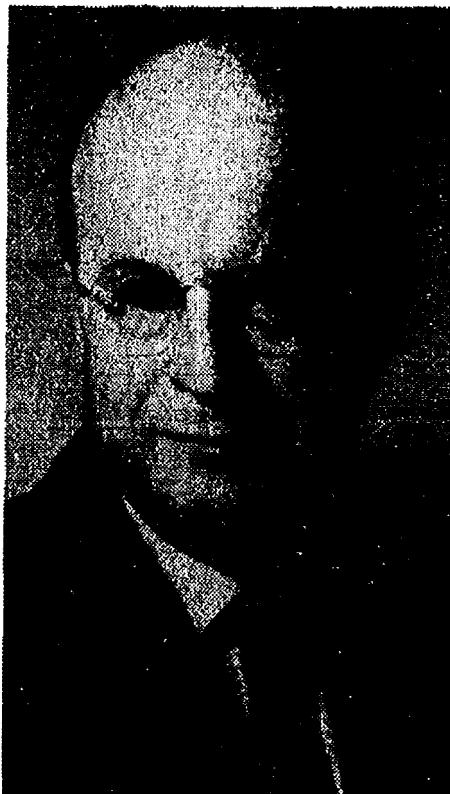

Don Douglass may not have been the only wildlife biologist in history who could read classical Latin and Greek, and understand them, but I doubt there have been very many. He knew more about birds and animals than the creatures know about themselves. In fact, I never found any subject that he didn't know more about than I did, including the English language which is supposed to be my specialty.

Don and I worked in adjoining cubicles in the DNR executive offices for several years. After serving a stint as chief of the Wildlife Division, an administrative post for which he was not qualified by experience, inclination or temperament, Don was given the assignment to be "policy co-ordinator" for the Department.

He was handed two big shelves of "policy statements"—about 40 loose-leaf volumes full of non-English that had been prepared and issued as policy statements over the years since the DNR was established in 1921. It was a mish-mash, a garbage collection "filled with sound and fury, signifying nothing" (to borrow a few words from Shakespeare, which Don did in describing the collection).

A bureaucrat who knows his stuff never puts words on paper that he might later be held accountable for. He ducks and dodges and weasels so that either (1) nobody could ever possibly understand what, if anything, he intended to say, or (2) nobody could figure out that he never meant to say anything.

Don took this bunch of junk in hand and tried to make something out of it. Because the DNR was acing through one of its "don't tell 'em anything" phases, I didn't have a whole lot to do as public information officer, and so joined Don in the fascinating task of trying to untangle the verbal mess.

Don and I spent hundreds of hours together, working through dictionaries, thesauruses, books of grammar and usage. We assigned meanings to words, then tried to reconstruct sentences into English that the ordinary person might understand.

We argued endlessly, but Don almost invariably turned out to be right when it came down to the fine points of grammar and usage. My doubts from Michigan and Columbia, and my 30 years of experience in working with words, turned out to be inferior to his sheer power of intellect.

Don finally completed his revision of the DNR's policy manual. The chiefs turned it aside, horrified because it stated in plain English what the department's policies were supposed to be. Our many months of work turned out to be a useless exercise, but I'm happy to have put in the time.

Don Douglass made me a little more conscious of the debt all of us who speak and write the English language owe to that most marvelous communications tool ever devised. He encouraged me to be a better writer, and I like to think that I have improved because of him.

None of this has a whole lot to do with "out in the open," and Don was good at that, too. I suspect there has never been a more knowledgeable biologist in the state of Michigan.

I made the mistake of telling him once that I had taken four years of Latin in high school and had passed a "competency test" in Latin to enter the U. of M. He would talk to me in Latin every once in awhile, and then chide me because I couldn't understand him.

Don died in Green Valley, Ariz., on June 9 at the age of 74. He served the DNR for 35 years, from 1939 to 1974.

Poor management is the greatest single cause of business failures. Fifty percent of businesses that fail are less than five years old; less than 20 percent are more than 10 years old. In short, the older the business, the more unlikely it will fail.

JERRY CRAFT, head of the 1983 hunter safety program of the Chelsea Rod and Gun Club, holds a copy of the safety manual which is provided to all who take instruction.

Hunter Safety Course Offered by Chelsea Club

Members of the Chelsea Rod and Gun Club are prepared to give hunter safety instruction without charge to area residents 12 years of age or older who have never had a hunting license before. Boys and girls, men and women, are invited to classes which will be held at the clubhouse on Lingane Rd. from 6 to 9 p.m. June 27, 28 and 29.

Club members have conducted these hunter safety courses since 1975.

According to Jerry Craft, head of the Chelsea hunter safety program, the instruction will cover various types of guns and their safe handling. Also included will be sighting techniques, hunting privileges and protection of the habitat.

As always, the instruction includes first aid for the various emergencies that might occur while enjoying the outdoors. Because hunters may become lost, they are also instructed in the use of a compass and maps as well as techniques of survival.

Club instructors, certified by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and the National Rifle Association, will provide the training.

Interested persons are invited to call either Jerry Craft at 475-7487 or George Padgham at 475-8812 for further information.

Ambulance Service

"Running a county-wide, quality ambulance service is not a money-making proposition," Fileti said. "It requires top technical personnel, the latest in equipment, and strategically located dispatch stations in urban and rural areas," Fileti said.

"We all have a vital stake in a dependable ambulance service in our county, and the new agreement is heartening reassurance that we will have it," Hunscher said.

JAPANESE CARP KITES traditionally celebrate Tango-no-Sekku, the boys' festival in early May. JoAnn Thornton, first grade teacher at South elementary school, Americanized the tradition so boys and girls in her classroom would both make kites and celebrate the festival as an end-of-school activity. Carp are the boys' symbols because they are long-lived, energetic fish, strong enough to swim upstream in rapidly-flowing waters. Along with learning Japanese words and playing dot-to-dot pictures with Japanese numeric symbols, the children made their shoes or "getas" with styrofoam and elastic. Kimonos for the girls and "happi" coats for the boys were made from sheets by a mother of one of the students. The girls wear ribbon "obis," sashes on their kimonos. The hats have different Japanese symbols on them. Left to right: Jessica Burby, Colby Gorton and Elizabeth McLaughlin.

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT DEHUMIDIFIERS:

No. 1 ENEMY IS DAMPNES! A dehumidifier should remove moisture from your home to insure the maximum amount of protection against mildew, mold, corrosion and rot.

COPPER TUBING-A MUST! Copper will not rust or corrode. Its use is the only practical way to avoid rusting out. Amana uses solid copper in both the condenser and evaporator section.

AIR MOVEMENT OVER COILS-ONE MEASURE OF PERFORMANCE. To be efficient the air in the area to be dehumidified must pass over the evaporator coil. Amana has 34 1/2 feet of evaporator coils. An air control shroud assures all air passing over the coils and avoids air leaks of moisture laden air back into the room.

WATER DISPOSAL MUST BE QUICK, EASY AND SURE. Amana gives you a choice of 3 ways to remove condensate. 1) a standard hose connection for direct to drain. 2) set unit directly over drain. 3) big condensate pan that holds more than 2 gallons of water.

AUTOMATIC OPERATION IS BEST! Amana Humidistat control automatically watches the humidity for you. Turns on and off as needed to maintain pre-selected humidity with a control ranging from 20% to 80% humidity.

OVERFLOW CONTROL! Amana overflow control switch automatically shuts off when condensate pan is full. Eliminates frequent checking on container.
