Jill Schaffner Accepted For West Point Career

Jill Schaffner wants to be all she can be.

The affable, 17-year-old, Chelsea High school senior found out Jan. 3 that she will be one of the few young women in the country to have the opportunity to attend the United States Military Academy at West Point for her college career.

Come July 1, when she reports, she will be in select company. Only 10 percent of the institution's 4,000 students are female. She will be among about 150 young women in her class. Women were first accepted in 1979.

The accomplishment becomes even more impressive when you consider just how difficult it is to be accepted. She had interviews to attend, physical exams to pass (how many colleges require an applicant to run 24, 25-yard wind sprints, perform a standing long jump, and throw a basketball one-handed from a squat?), recommendations to gather, and an essay to write, among the many steps of the application process.

Then she had to win a nomination. In this case from U.S. Sen. Sam Levin.

And all for what, you might wonder. To some, an appointment to West Point would be akin to a sentence to prison. For most high school seniors, the trip to college means freedom. No parents to answer to, parties every week-end (or every night), unusual classes to take and attend when they feel like it.

In Jill's case, she'll have far less leeway. West Point will, in most cases, tell her what to do every step of the way—from what food to eat and how to eat it, what clothes to wear, what classes to take, when to socialize, and on and on.

"I like the idea of developing discipline and self-confidence, and I know that I'll probably be able to accomplish a lot more at West Point than I would somewhere else during the next four years," Jill said.

"There's a cadet honor code that goes, 'a cadet will not lie, cheat or steal nor tolerate those who do so,'" Jill said.

"Those are the kind of people I want to be with in college."

Jill has prepared herself well for the rigors of the academy, a place where leadership is valued probably more than any other quality than loyalty. Just about everywhere you look at the high school, Jill has her hands into a project or organization—she is vice-president of the National Honor Society, a member of student council, president of the Key Club, a pitcher on the softball team, student director of this year's musical, "Annie Get Your Gun," a participant in the new student program (acting as a big sister to a new student). She has also been heavily involved with her church, St. Paul United Church of Christ.

DRAMATIC CHANGES are in store for Chelsea high senior Jill Schaffner, who was recently accepted by the United States Military Academy at West Point. She reports for boot camp July 1. For the next nine years, counting a mandatory five years of service after school, her life will be dominated by the U.S. Army.

"I keep really busy and for a while I thought maybe I should start cutting down, but I think it's really preparing me for West Point because I'm going to be under so much stress when I'm there, keeping on the run all the time."

Jill says her family and friends have taken all of this in stride and are, "very supportive." Her mother, Anne, was the first person to mention the academy to her. Anne, in turn, learned about it through her tennis buddy, Joan Walsh, of Dexter, whose daughter, Jane, attended West Point for two years.

"My parents (Jon is her father) haven't pushed me at all," Jill says. "They know this is what I want to do. I've known for two years, ever since a cadet came to visit the school."

Once Cadet Schaffner reports to West Point, she'll immediately undergo a six-week "boot camp," that the West Point admissions book promises is, "intensely rigorous."

Her first year she'll be known as a "plebe." A plebe's typical schedule is more demanding than an upper classman's, partly due to a lack of seniority. According to the brochure, a typical daily schedule begins with breakfast at 6:30, morning duty formation at 7:15, class or study from 7:30 to noon, a half hour lunch at 12:30 followed by more class or study until 3:30, followed by athletics until 6, a half hour dinner at 6:30, study time from 7:30-11:30, and lights out at 11:30. No Johnny Carson, no David Letterman, no normal college life.

From July 1, Jill won't even see Chelsea again until Christmas.

"I don't want to lose contact with my friends," Jill said. "There's always the mail and the telephone."

There will also be two, three-year McKune Library board posts to be filled.

Finally, a new assessor will be elected for two years. The position has been vacant since Chip Winans resigned.

Of the three village trustees, Finch said that he's "99 percent sure," he won't run again, saying he has "too many irons in the fire." Merkel said he will run. Fulks could not be reached.

Village elections are held on a non-partisan basis.

Master Teacher To Conduct Session For Parents, Child

Phyllis Welkart will hold a session on "Helping Your Child Achieve Success in Over-all School Performance" at North school, Thursday, Jan. 30 at 7 p.m. in North Elementary school cafeteria.

The session date has been changed from Tuesday, Jan. 21 to Thursday, Jan. 30.

Phyllis Welkart is a master teacher from the University of Michigan, Department of Physical Education.

The program is designed for the parent and child to participate together and both parent and child are urged to attend.

Ex-Chelsea Man Dies in Plane Crash

A former Chelsea man was killed Sunday, Jan. 5 when his plane crashed near the Hazard-Perry County Airport in southeastern Kentucky.

Dennis Hazeltine, 45, most recently of Ann Arbor, and formerly of 221 Glazier Rd., was a research engineer at the Environmental Research Institute of Michigan. He and companion Karen Hoogeveen, 28, were returning to Rossett Landing Strip outside Manchester from Puerto Rico where they spent the Christmas holidays.

According to police, Hazeltine radioed to the tower at the Hazard-Perry County airport minutes before the crash saying his plane was low on fuel. The crash occurred several hundred feet from the airport building.

Hoogeveen is still hospitalized in Ann Arbor.

Historical Society Elects New Officers

Chelsea Area Historical Society met Jan. 13 to elect 1986 officers. Elected for one-year terms were: Kathleen (Katie) Chapman, president; Hazel Dittmar, vice-president; Mary Ann Burgess, secretary; and Glen Wiseman, treasurer. Members elected to the board of directors are Marg Heppburn and Angela Smith.

A report from the Chelsea Depot Association pertaining to distribution of "Certificates of Donorship," and depot fund raising goals, which CAHS will take an active part in, was given by Will Connelly.

The annual Founder's dinner honoring past presidents and welcoming new members was set for 8:30 p.m., Monday Feb. 10 at the Crippen House.

Membership dues was discussed and changes will be voted on at the next business meeting, March 10.

Women Help In Arrest of Drunk Driver

A Gene Dr. man was arrested on Christmas Eve for drunk driving after two alert citizens boxed him in at a stop light and sought police help.

Chelsea police are still looking for the two women who assisted in the arrest, but left the scene before police could get their identities.

According to police, the man, an employee of the Village of Dexter, was on his way home from Dexter on Chelsea Rd. around noon and the motorists were following him. They apparently observed the vehicle swerving on the road as it nearly missed hitting at least one vehicle. When the three vehicles reached the village, the motorists blocked the inebriated driver in at the traffic light at E. Middle St. and Main St., right in front of the police station.

Police said one of the women flagged down a passing pedestrian for help, which, unknown to the woman, was off-duty police dispatcher Pam Lisnyal. She immediately went to the station. In the meantime, officer David Dettling arrived on the scene and arrested the man. When he took the suspect into the police station, the motorists who helped with the arrest left the scene.

"We have enough to convict the man now," said Chief Lenard McDougall. "But an eye-witness is always better and we would love to find the people who helped us."

Louise Koch Marks 90th Birthday Friday

Mrs. Louise Koch of Chelsea will be observing her 90th birthday, Friday, Jan. 17. She and her husband, the late George Koch, made their home in the Dexter-Chelsea area. She presently makes her home with her son, Robert and wife Betty Koch and family of 12555 Selo Church Rd., Chelsea. She has three sons, Norman Koch, of Ann Arbor, Carl Koch of Dexter and Robert Koch of Chelsea.

Council Will Decide on Method of Financing for Sewage Treatment Plant

The Chelsea village council is expected to decide tomorrow night whether to put the issue of the proposed $4.7 million wastewater treatment plant before the voters in the March 10 village elections.

The council is holding a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the council chambers. The meeting was scheduled after last Tuesday's regular meeting in which Don Keim, a representative of Miller, Canfield, Paddock & Stone, made a presentation concerning the financing alternatives for the federally-mandated project.

Miller, Canfield, Paddock & Stone, of Detroit, is the village's financial advisor, technically called a bond counsel.

Keim told the council that the village has to make its decision within a week or two in order to have the necessary time to complete the paperwork and notification process required by law, which takes at least 45 days.

Keim said after the meeting that most municipalities of Chelsea's size don't usually bother to put such a question before the voters when a project is mandated by the federal government, in this case the Environmental Protection Agency through the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

"There are several technical reasons for putting the question on the ballot but there is not much of a substantive reason," Keim said.

"It makes little difference economically whether you put it on or not. A voted general obligation bond would probably have a slightly lower interest rate."

When asked what would happen if the bonding proposition was turned down by the voters, neither Keim or village manager

Fritz Weber had a definitive answer. However, they were in agreement that the project would probably end up costing the village more.

"I have no problem with putting it before the voters," said Village President Jerry Satterthwaite. "I do think the pay back should be at least partly through taxes because this is the cheapest way for most residents (since they'll be able to write it off their taxes)."

One reason for putting the issue to a vote, Satterthwaite said, involves the village's millage limits. He said that the village can levy up to a total 12 mills without a vote (the current level is nine mills), which leaves the village with three mills. He said that if, for example, a half mill was levied to pay for the project, without a vote, then "that would leave two and a half mills, and some future council might wish they had that half mill if something came up."

The village's share of the $4.7 million project comes to just over $2.1 million. That's because 55 percent of the project will be paid for by a grant from the EPA, which the village secured last fall.

EPA estimates that the average Chelsea residence will pay about $90 per quarter for debt service and user fees on the new plant.

New bonds are being sold for 8-9 percent, Keim said, which is lower than any time in the last five years.

It is likely that some combination of higher user fees and an increase in taxes will be devised to pay for the bonds, which, Keim said, would likely be issued for 15 years.

Slippery Roads Trigger Accidents

David Lawrence Marsh of 1345 Sugarloaf told Deputies Thomas Spiess and Roger Stielow of the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department, he lost control of the vehicle he was driving on snow-covered Waterloo Rd. near Werkner Rd., at approximately 3 a.m. Wednesday, Jan. 1, and hit a tree.

In another traffic mishap, Thursday, Jan. 2, Jim Paul Eichler of Ypsilanti tried to go around the line of traffic as he drove on Jackson Rd. in the vicinity of Varsity Ford. His vehicle collided with another car which Nicole F. Booth of Vernon had parked in the lot at the auto dealership. The incident was reported at 8:20 p.m. Deputy Mike Rodery of the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department took the report.

In a strange tangle of events involving five vehicles traveling on Dexter-Ann Arbor Rd. just east of the Dan Hoy Rd. intersection during dinner-hour traffic, Friday, Jan. 3, deputies from the WCDSD said a small yellow Ford vehicle (probably an Escort) pulled out to pass another car traveling in the same direction, apparently noticed he/she wasn't going to be able to complete the pass safely and pulled onto the road's left shoulder.

Ritter Files Nomination Petition for President

Former Chelsea Village President Charles Ritter is the only official mayoral candidate so far for Chelsea's March 10 village elections.

Ritter, as of last week, was the only resident to have turned in the required nominating petition. The deadline for the petitions is Monday, Feb. 3 at 4 p.m.

The petitions require a minimum of 15 signatures of registered village voters, up to a maximum of 50.

While Ritter may be the only official candidate thus far, current village president Jerry Satterthwaite said last week that he intends to seek a second two-year term.

"At first I wasn't going to do it because it is an awful lot of work," said Satterthwaite, who has been keeping a break-neck pace this winter with his fuel oil business.

"But I decided I owe it to the community to do it. After two years, I've really only gotten my feet wet and the second two years should be a little easier."

Ritter, who is one of the few village residents to regularly attend the village council meetings, is almost constantly at odds with Satterthwaite during those meetings.

"Charlie and I see the village going in opposite directions, which is another reason I decided to run," Satterthwaite said.

Ritter was president from 1980-82.

"I think it's about time somebody did something to correct all this spending that's going on," Ritter said last Friday.

"Expenses are getting way out of line. The village just voted to spend $73,000 just on administration," Ritter said, referring to the 1986-87 contracts of village administrator Fritz Weber and his assistant Lee Fahrner.

"In the next few months people are going to have to come up with $90 a quarter to finance the new sewer plant. We've got to nip this in the bud."

Other village offices up for re-election are treasurer (two-year term), currently held by William Storey; and three village trustee positions (two-year terms) held by Joe Merkel, Jim Finch and Mac Fulks.

RIDING AN ICE GIRAFFE is 5-year-old Layla Rosario, daughter of George and Bertha Rosario, 12185 Trinkle Rd. Layla and her great-uncle, Christ Katopol, spent two days building the

A program of three one-act plays, Plaza Suite looks into the lives of three couples occupying, in turn, a suite at the Plaza Hotel in New York City, and features three different facets of masculine dominance and three different moods of feminine perseverance.

Gene Shoemaker, proprietor of Jiffy Market, reports that sometime between 10 p.m. Sunday and 6 a.m. Monday, person or persons unknown forced entry into the market on M-52 and stole approximately $500 worth of empty returnable cans.

Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department answered the call and area food and liquor stores have been notified of the large quantity of stolen cans should they be taken in for deposit payment.

Damage to the store was estimated by Shoemaker at $75.

Report Calls for Major Policy Changes for Michigan

To Be Competitive, Efficient

Despite substantial key assets, most of the economic risks facing Michigan over the next 20 years are negative and will require major policy changes to improve efficiency and competitiveness, an Indiana research firm said recently in a report to the Senate.

The Hudson Institute's final report said with "moderately good management and good luck," the state could be less dependent on manufacturing, less affected by recession, but poorer relative to the rest of the country by 2005.

The study, conducted under a controversial $280,000 contract awarded a year ago by Senate Majority Leader John Engler (R-Mt. Pleasant), said Michigan's greatest opportunities lie in regaining its advantage as an automobile manufacturer in part by bringing down a relatively high wage structure, delivering government services more efficiently, attracting more people to Michigan, and adopting policies for cities.

"Wealth generated by the auto industry has led to historical attention to equitable distribution of resources, the study said, but added, "The next two decades will require far more attention to questions of efficiency and competitiveness in addition to those of fairness. If Michigan fails to come to terms with the need for major changes in policies and attitudes, the state can expect painful, unplanned changes to be forced on it."

The report found assets such as a skilled workforce, an extraordinary manufacturing infrastructure and abundant natural resources offset by liabilities such as "a high level factionalism" between labor and management, Republicans and Democrats, blacks and whites, and Detroit and its suburbs, an overdependence on the auto, and an inflated wage structure.

Engler said the study contains good and bad news for everyone. "It doesn't matter what your political or philosophical persuasion happens to be," he said, adding legislators and the Blanchard administration should use it as a guide.

Richard Cole, Governor Blanchard's press secretary, said the study substantiates many, but admittedly not most, of the administration's efforts.

"It's too bad they didn't release it a year ago because it recognized the need for investment in state technologies, which the Michigan Strategic Fund is designed to do," he said referring to Engler's efforts to stall passage of fund legislation.

Cole said the most controversial part of the report is its recommendations for lower wages, saying decisions last year by Mazda and EDS to locate in Michigan do not indicate wages are a problem, but that a skilled workforce is an advantage. "That does not indicate we have to get poor and that's what the report suggests," he said.

He welcomed the report's recommendations for less political bickering and greater bipartisan efforts.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Ed Doolittle reminded the fellers Saturday night of a story that made the rounds back when Dr. Norman Vincent Peale made a big to do over the power of positive thinking. A disciple of Dr. Peale met the son of a old friend one morning and ask the boy how his pa was doing. The youngster said his old man was bad sick and had took to his bed. The feller told the boy to tell his pa that he just thinks he is sick, that he ought to think positive. A week later the feller saw the boy again and ask if his pa was up and about. The boy shook his head and said now his pa thinks he's dead.

This idea has took many shapes, Ed declared. We got deficits of strength, we got advance to the rear, we got Federal Revenue sharing, Ed said, and we got a new five-year plan for saving farming that everybody in Washington is billing as somepon fer everybody. In this positive world you don't rob Peter to pay Paul, Ed said, you git a state grant for Paul and apply fer a matching Federal grant fer Peter, so everybody comes out ahead. To hear the honorables tell it while they were home fer the holidays, Ed went on, Democrats and Republicans in Congress teamed up with the President to do just that fer the farmers and ranchers.

Practical speaking, Ed said, the way he reads the bill the farmers got price supports and the Federal Government got surpluses on top of surpluses. What this country needs more than a good $1.50 cigar, Ed declared, is some positive action to go with all the positive thinking. Fer instant, he had saw where a dairy farmer in California is pushing whole herd buyout that is a kind of land bank fer cows.

By buying a million cows you make consumers instead of producers out of five percent of the country's dairy farmers. Furthermore, you reduce the national annual dairy surplus by 16 million pounds so you save the cost of storage. The way the California fellers figgers, Ed reported, the Government comes out $3.5 billion winner. The other side is what all that extra beef would do to cattlemen and the meat packing industry that have their own surpluses, Ed said, but fer sure some positive thinker can work out that wrinkle.

Clem Webster got the floor to say a dairy farmer in Port Royal, Pa. already has. He has took a tip from Adopt-a-Child in a starving country to offer a deal to folks of the Hindu persuasion that can't keep cows where they are. Under Herbert Bressack's Adopt-a-Cow program, life-long care fer all his sacred animals would be guaranteed, and he would git extra income to feed em. Clem said he don't see why Adopt-a-Cow won't catch on. Zoos git folks to adopt their animals, he noted, and they even set up visiting hours fer the parents that help pay the bills.

Actual, broke in Ed, we got to keep in mind that what works fer the farmer don't work fer the Government. The USDA will see right off that Adopt-a-Cow don't do anything fer the milk surplus. So it will cut a deal with the State Department where all the adopted parents git to visit their cows twice a year under a cultural pilgrimage program that will cost $2 million a year and bring on more lawsuits about the Government promoting religion, not to mention Roman Catholics that figger they're entitle to a all-expense tour of the Vatican.

Yours truly,

Uncle Lew.

The study's conclusion of Michigan's likely development over the next 20 years includes a growing economy pulled by a stronger U.S. growth; continued center of major auto, smart industrial tools and associated product manufacture; flat employment levels in manufacturing; a slight reduction in population; wider dispersion of residents to western and northwestern parts of the state as well as Detroit exurbs; a clear trend of a revitalized Detroit; and blacks facing the greatest difficulties as a result of the economic changes.

Among steps urged in the report to take advantage of opportunities are: —bring auto manufacturing and related wages into line with lower payments in other parts of the country and the world, or risk losing production facilities. State government can help by acting to hold down health care costs, and shoulder more of the costs of job training.

—continue efforts to reduce business costs to levels below those in competing states.

—implement a "sensible and dynamic strategy" involving improved state regulation and programs to support suppliers which was proposed for state partnership with General Motors and the UAW in an unsuccessful effort to lure the Saturn plant on an industry wide basis.

—increase investments in advanced technologies and engineering education.

—privatize some public services, with top candidates being prisons, health programs and management of welfare and unemployment programs.

—redirect state spending more to investment in such things as education, industry development and transportation, while giving more scrutiny to consumption programs such as welfare.

—state policies which encourage regional decisionmakers to focus on shared opportunities and responsibilities in a metropolitan area in ways ranging from regional institutions to shared tax bases.

The study involved a look at three population centers, and found Detroit's revival lies in such things as continued riverfront development, improved competitiveness with suburbs for black businesses and the black middle class, acceptance of lower pay in the short term, and a commitment to making Detroit the capital of black America; Grand Rapids offers a good model of regional co-operation that has helped begin diversification of an economy still too dependent on manufacturing; Traverse City's influence will play a major role in the growth of new resort/convention centers, and expansion of jobs in service industries, particularly research and development, and engineering.

Q. Some years back we purchased shares of Philip Morris stock. The share price appreciated to approximately triple our original investment, although it has backed off some since then. I'm aware of the negative outlook for tobacco products but this company has diversified into other products. Now, I've heard that lawyers are gearing up to bring tremendous law suits, including group suits, as the Dalkon Shield/A. H. Robbins suit, against the tobacco companies. Remembering John Manville declared bankruptcy to avoid all of the product liability legislation, I'm unsure as to the future of this company. I would truly appreciate your thoughts and ideas.

A. As an investor I generally rely on the management of the company to meet and solve the problems that come before the business. There have been various groups in recent years that have done substantial damage to various businesses, and the type of problem you have broached in your letter could happen to Philip Morris or many other companies as well. If such a situation should develop it's difficult to tell what the immediate damage might be. Personally, I would expect that PM's management would continue to lead the company ahead in its various businesses.

As a shareholder I would be more interested in other figures. Generally the company has an outstanding record. Its earnings on equity are above 20% and have tended upwards. Its percent earned on sales has been excellent for its industries. The rate of sales growth has declined slightly but is still good for a company its size. One negative is that the company is having difficulty getting a good rate of earning in the Miller Brewing and Seven-Up divisions.

If your holding of Philip Morris is a major part of your assets and if the potential problem you have mentioned is a real concern, I would look for a good high quality stock and put about 1/3 to 1/2 of your PM value into it just to spread your risk and ease your mind, but I really would expect to see Philip Morris continue to make reasonable progress.

If a development such as you suggest should occur, there would probably be a negative reaction in the price of the stock, but I would expect management to take corrective action and to continue to move the company ahead.

Family Practice Center Program Fights Winter Blues

Are the short grey days of the Michigan Winter getting you down? Are you getting tired of being confined during the cold season?

If any of these things have been affecting you or if in general you are feeling blue, come to the Chelsea Family Practice Center's program and learn how to beat the Winter Blues.

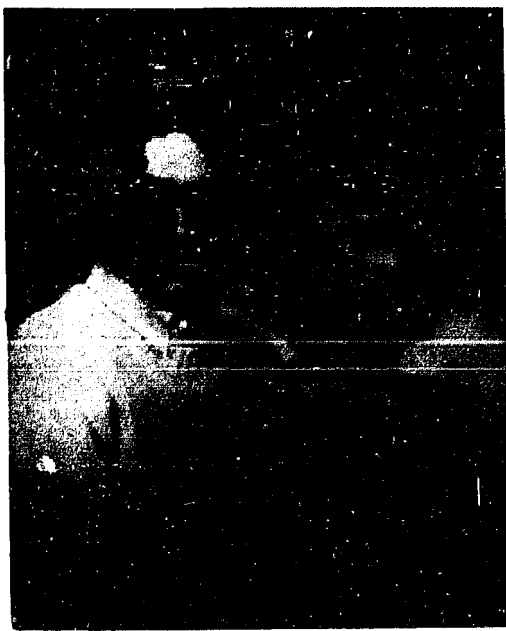

The program will be held Wednesday, Jan. 15, from 7 to 9 p.m. in the classroom at the Chelsea Family Practice Center. A $2 registration fee is payable at the door.

Workshop Set on Housing Options for Senior Citizens

"Where will home be next for Mom and Dad?" a workshop for the adult children of senior citizens who are worried about their parents' living situations will be held Thursday, Jan. 23 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Burns Park Senior Center, 1320 Baldwin in Ann Arbor.

The workshop is designed to help adult children address their anxieties and learn more about housing options for senior citizens in this county.

To register for this free workshop, contact the Housing Bureau for Seniors, at 763-0970.

NADEAU-HOUK: Mr. and Mrs. Douglas J. Nadeau of 19850 Old US-12-W, Chelsea, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Cheryl L. Nadeau to Douglas F. ART DILS explains the difference between typography and typesetting to students at North school last week. Children at both North and South elementary schools had a chance to hear the presentation on typography and advertising by Dils, a school board member and president of Typographic Insights. The children were part of the gifted and talented program at the schools, guided by Ruth Stielstra.

Gifted Students Given Lesson In Typography By Expert

Children in the programs for gifted and talented students at both North and South schools had a chance to learn about typography and how it relates to advertising from a local expert.

Art Dils, Chelsea school board member and president of Typographic Insights, Inc. of Ann Arbor, gave a presentation at each school last week, complete with visual aids, including a slide show.

"Even type face has personality," Dils said. "And advertisers use different type faces to sell their products."

He talked about the attention-grabbing qualities of different type faces and how they affect different audiences. He gave examples of how particular kinds of type faces are appropriate for different kinds of advertising, and showed examples from different magazines.

Dils also gave an overview of the evolution of typesetting—from the ancient Roman technique of chiseling in stone all the way to modern photocomposition and color application. He took the time to define every subject clearly so that the words he used were no longer mysteries to the students.

At the conclusion of the program, Dils gave each child a lead metal slug typeset with the words, "Triad Enrichment Program," as well as a personal typeset message using modern methods.

LISTENING TO A PRESENTATION on typography and advertising by Art Dils at North school last week are Kevin Lane and Sara Stoloski. Dils, a school board member, and president of Typographic Insights, gave his talk to children in the Enrichment Triad Program at both North and South school. The triad program is part of the program for gifted and talented students.

Products on Parade

Paula Blanchard

This series of stories spotlights the finest products of Michigan's farms, forests and factories. The products proudly stamped "Made in Michigan." Watch for them when you shop—and buy Michigan-made! This week's story: "Gaining for Baroque in Zeeland."

By Paula Blanchard
Sometimes I think there are only two kinds of people—those who own a classic grandfather clock and those, like me, who wish they did.

My so-far unrequited love for those magnificent time machines is mentioned here by way of introduction to the Howard Miller Clock Co. of Zeeland, the world's largest and most-honored manufacturer of the objects of my affection—grandfather clocks.

The company, founded in 1928, produces a full line of clocks—wall, mantel, desk, you name it—in both contemporary and classical styles. But Howard Miller's premier product is, and has been for many years, the stately, richly-wrought, enigmatically grandiose clock—the hallmark of the clockmakers' art.

The Howard Miller clock that caught my eye, and won my heart, is called the Hourglass III Limited Edition. Charleston Manor. How splendid is it? Here's how the company describes it:

... employs lavish use of hand-beveled glass and rare matched mahogany veneers... elaborate carvings of 18th Century design captured in the rice motif on the free-standing columns... shaped finials and tipped rosettes crowning the swan neck pediment... dial fretcut from solid brass sheets, overlaid with 24K gold plated spandrels... the historic chiming of Westminster, Winchester and Whittington." Wow!

But you don't have to go for baroque, as I do, in choosing a Howard Miller clock: there also are contemporary classics, such as the celebrated Museum Desk Clock, which is on permanent display at the New York Museum of Modern Art. No fretwork, no chiming, no spandrels, no numbers even—just a circular black dial (blank except for two thin brass hands and a dime-sized circle of brass at the top of the face) surrounded by a solid brass case. Classic simplicity at its absolute finest.

One more word about my favorite clock. It and the other Limited Edition clocks are especially-designed and built as awards to Americans who have made outstanding contributions to American society. The original of each edition goes into the private collection of Howard Miller, the company's founder and president. And after Leonard Bernstein, Bob Hope, Henry Kissinger, Dr. Jonas Salk (just to name a few of the distinguished award winners) get their own clocks, the rest of the Limited Edition clocks are made available to collectors, connoisseurs and individuals of discriminating taste. In other words, people like you and me!

In any case, let's keep making it—and buying it—in Michigan!

The cocoa pod is considered the fruit of the Gods.

A VIEW from the CLOCK TOWER

By Will Connelly

THE UNCOMMON MAN

One of the greatest fighters of world famine and disease was the son of an Iowa blacksmith. Raised in Indian Territory which is now Oklahoma, he became a successful engineer working on major engineering projects all over the world. Wherever he went in Asia or Europe he encountered starvation and sickness among native populations and invariably turned away from work to help them. He established and directed relief programs that saved millions of human lives before and after two world wars.

In 1929 this man, Herbert Hoover—a fine administrator, a true humanitarian and a poor politician—became the 31st president of the United States. Within a matter of months he also became the fall guy for the Great Depression, which he did not cause and could not cure. He was overwhelmingly defeated by Roosevelt, a politically adroit demagogue who excited the electorate with social reforms while the Depression went on and on. It was the free enterprise system that revived itself in spite of New Deal meddling from Washington.

As Herbert Hoover left the White House in 1933 for a long period of obscurity, Franklin D. Roosevelt—in my opinion the all time, all-American con man—introduced the idea of deficit financing by telling us not to worry about the national debt. Why worry, he soothed, about government borrowing? Government debt is no problem. "We owe it to ourselves."

This legacy from FDR means that we now owe three trillion dollars to ourselves at an annual cost of about $300 billion a year, payable directly to the IRS.

Out of his White House job at 59, Hoover continued to speak out against the socialization of our own economy but he never forgot the sick and hungry people of the world. In 1947 President Truman made Hoover co-ordinator of the European Food program—fighting starvation and disease just as he had done in China in 1900, just as he had done for hungry children in all the wretched nations defeated in World War I. Yes, even as he had done from 1918 to 1923 for millions of desperate Russians after the genocidal Communist takeover by Lenin.

We don't have any streets named after the 20th century presidents in Chelsea but I think this column in a 116-year-old newspaper is a fitting place to remember what Herbert C. Hoover said one day in an address delivered in Cleveland:

THE UNCOMMON MAN

"Recently, in my opinion, there has been too much talk about the Common Man. It has been dinned into us that this is the Century of the Common Man. The idea seems to be that the Common Man has come into his own at last.

"Thus we are in danger of developing a cult of the Common Man, which means a cult of mediocrity. But there is at least one hopeful sign: I have never been able to find out who this Common Man is. In fact, most Americans, and especially women, will get mad and fight if you call them common.

"This is hopeful because it shows that most people are holding fast to an essential fact in American life. We believe in opportunity for all, but we know that this includes the opportunity to rise to leadership—in other words, to be uncommon.

"Let us remember that the great human advances have not been brought about by mediocre men and women. They were brought about by distinctly uncommon people with vital sparks of leadership. Many of the great leaders were, it is true, of humble origin, but that alone was not their greatness.

"It is a curious fact that when you get sick you want an uncommon doctor; if your car breaks down you want an uncommonly good mechanic; when we get into war we want dreadfully an uncommon admiral and an uncommon general.

"I have never met a father and mother who did not want their children to grow-up to be uncommon men and women. May it always be so. For the future of America rests not on mediocrity, but on the constant renewal of leadership in every phase of our national life."

County Closes 3 Bridges As Unsafe

Three county bridges were closed by the Washtenaw County Road Commission on Jan. 5. The bridges are located on Liberty Rd., over Mill Creek between Jerusalem and Scio Church Rds. in Lima township; and Feldkamp over the Saline River between US-12 and Klager Rd. in Saline township.

All three bridges were previously posted with a 3-ton limit; however, as a result of the Road Commission's biannual structural survey of all county bridges, it was determined that they had deteriorated to the point that they were unsafe and need to be closed.

Once bridges are determined to be unsafe, agencies face suspension of federal funds unless action is taken to close the bridges. The Washtenaw County Road Commission anticipates receiving almost $4 million in federal aid during 1986.

Recent efforts to receive Federal Critical Bridge Funds to reconstruct these bridges were unsuccessful, although the County Road Commission has recently been awarded such funds to reconstruct two other deficient county bridges. These bridges, on Whittaker over Stoney Creek, between Liss and Milan-Oakville, and Willow over Paint Creek, between Tuttle Hill and Whittaker, will be reconstructed this summer.

Since federal funds will not be available for the three closed bridges, the Road Commission has committed county funds to construct temporary structures so that the bridges can be reopened as soon as possible. Road Commission crews began fabricating the temporary bridges last month; however, winter maintenance activities have slowed progress. It is the Road Commission's intent to reopen all three bridges by late spring.

Foster Homes Needed For Neglected Children

Can you make time in your life for a child who needs you? Washtenaw County Department of Social Services needs foster homes to provide care for children who have been removed from the home of their natural family because of abuse or neglect. They also work with some short term voluntary situations because of hospitalization of the caretaker.

Black and white homes are needed for children of all ages. Because they work with so many children who are also sexually abused, they especially need families who are willing to learn to work with older children with special needs. They also have a shortage of black families willing to do long term care or to adopt children of all ages.

Interested? They have a foster parent/adoption training program starting Wednesday, Jan. 22, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the Department of Social Services, 2350 W. Stadium Blvd., Ann Arbor.

Please call Pat Ruby at 994-1894 to register or for more information.

Radar Detector Stolen from Car Parked at School

A radar detector was stolen from a vehicle parked in the Chelsea High school parking lot on the evening of Wednesday, Jan. 8.

Police said the equipment, valued at $109, was taken from a 1985 Dodge Daytona owned by David Stoddard, of Grand Blanc, sometime before 8:30 p.m. They said the passenger door window was broken out.

KICKED UPSTAIRS was Zoning Inspector Rosemary Harook, whose former office, on the main floor of the village building, was recently given to Lee Fahrner, assistant village administrator. Harook's office is now in the west corner of the village council chambers, and she admits she likes the view. However, she wasn't so happy about how the move was conducted. She said publicly last week that she had no idea the move was imminent until she came to work one day and found her previous office a mess. She said she had to ask where her office was, which caused her considerable embarrassment. "I don't know why I was treated this way," she said. "I think somebody should have at least told me ahead of time."

Soil Conservation District Will Elect Two Directors

William Fishbeck, chairman of the Washtenaw County Soil Conservation District, has announced the 37th district annual meeting to be held Tuesday, Feb. 4, 8 p.m., at the Pittsfield Union Grange Hall, 3337 Ann Arbor-Saline Rd., Ann Arbor.

Featured speaker for the meeting will be Clayton Klein, who will present a slide program entitled "Cold Summer Wind." Fighting rapids, sleeping in a tent in the bitter cold and never seeing another human being for five weeks are just a few of the exciting adventures Klein and his son, Darrell, experienced while canoeing more than 3,000 miles above the 60th parallel in the wilds of Canada's Northwest Territories.

An election of two district directors will also be conducted at the meeting. Candidates for the director positions include William Fishbeck, Superior township; Victor Haeussler, Saline township; Dennis Huehl, Freedom township; and Dale Lasser, of Dexter township. The two candidates receiving the highest number of votes will be elected to three-year terms. All occupiers of three acres or more of land within Washtenaw county are eligible to vote in the director election.

Other features of the annual meeting include award presentations, a drawing for door prizes donated by area businesses and refreshments following the meeting. There is no charge for attending the meeting.

Questions about the district annual meeting should be directed to the Soil Conservation District Office, 6101 Jackson Rd., Ann Arbor, telephone: (313) 761-6721.

Business Survival Tips Offered at Growers Meet

The 3,000 farmers who are expected to attend the Great Lakes Vegetable Growers' Convention at the Lansing Civic Center Jan. 28-30 will hear a lot about farm survival.

Though most of the convention sessions will provide new research information about growing various crops, several of the planned sessions will focus on business management and crop marketing.

Guidelines for financial management will be given from 10 a.m. to noon on Jan. 29, and marketing opportunities within the state and the effect of imported produce will be discussed that day at 2 p.m.

During the roadside marketing session Jan. 30, the merits and pitfalls of direct marketing will be examined by economists, researchers and operators of farm markets.

"A lot of our growers are having a tough time staying in business, let alone making a profit," says Bernard Zandstra, Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service horticulture specialist and convention co-ordinator.

"About the only flexibility left in most farm operations is to be careful about business and marketing practices and obtain the greatest yield and highest quality per acre, and we can provide insights into those areas," Zandstra says.

The convention educational sessions are free, but it costs $10 per person or per family to see the tradeshow, which is the largest of its kind in the Great Lakes region.

The educational program will run from 10 a.m. to noon and from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. each day. The tradeshow will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. the first two days of the convention and from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. the third day.

Topics scheduled for discussion the afternoon of the first day include growing asparagus, pickling cucumbers and tomatoes.

During the second day, the program will focus on production of onions, sweet corn, melons and squash, potatoes, peppers and radishes.

The third day will offer guidelines for growing carrots, celery and cole crops, and a program on tillage practices and equipment to improve the effectiveness of irrigation. The roadside marketing program will run throughout most of the day.

Details of the convention may be obtained by writing to Bernard Zandstra, Department of Horticulture, Michigan State University, East Lansing 48824, or by telephoning him at (517) 353-6637.

Man Pleads No Contest in Sex Conduct Charge

A 42-year-old Chelsea man, originally charged with first degree criminal sexual conduct, pleaded no contest Monday, Jan. 6 to lesser charges in two separate cases, one involving a 9-year-old Chelsea girl.

Richard Shelters, a truck driver, was charged early this year for the offenses, one involving an 8-year-old Ann Arbor girl in 1982 and the other with the Chelsea girl in February. First degree criminal sexual conduct is penetration by force.

The plea-bargain agreement enabled Shelters to avoid a Washtenaw Circuit Court trial and the two victims were spared the trauma of testifying against him in an open court room. Shelters can receive up to 15 years in prison.

Although the nolo contendere plea is not an admission of guilt, the plea is equivalent to a guilty plea in criminal cases.

The Chelsea girl, according to the girl's mother, was spending the night with Shelters' girl when the incident occurred.

The mother said her daughter was ready to testify but was worried that it would be a "nerve-shattering experience," for her daughter. She said she has not ruled out filing a civil lawsuit in an attempt to collect monetary damages.

Shelters is out of jail on bond until his Feb. 14 sentencing by Circuit Court Judge Ross Campbell.

Pinckney Man Awarded Marine Good Conduct Medal

Marine Lance Cpl. Roy J. Shehan, son of Francis E. and Janet C. Shehan of 9780 McGregor Rd., Pinckney, was recently awarded the U. S. Marine Corps Good Conduct Medal.

Shehan received the award for good behavior and conduct over a three-year period in the Marine Corps.

He is currently serving at Marine Corps Air Station, El Toro, Calif.

ACADEMIC LETTERS were presented to Chelsea High school's finest students last Tuesday night after a cake and tea party at the high school's media center. The letters, similar to a varsity athletic letters with small "lamps of knowledge" incorporated into them, were given to high school students who maintained a B-plus minimum grade in every course throughout the last school year. Last year, in the first year of the award, nine students were honored.

Plan Garden Now While Snow Flies

What do you do when it looks as if winter is going to hang on forever? Close the curtains, curl up in your favorite chair with a cup of hot chocolate and a pile of seed catalogs, and plan this year's garden.

Lee Taylor, extension horticulture specialist at Michigan State University, advises buying seeds through catalogs for several reasons.

"Many of the varieties MSU researchers have tested and recommend for growing under Michigan conditions are available primarily through seed catalogs," he points out. "Likewise, many old-time favorite varieties are hard to find in seed racks at the grocery store."

For sheer range of choice, you can't beat seed catalogs, he says. Even a garden center may have only a handful of bean varieties, for instance, but a catalog will offer dozens. And the catalog descriptions will help you choose the variety that will fit your needs.

Catalogs offer lots of other information, too, on planting dates, expected yields, appropriate spacing for plants and seeds, best uses for certain varieties, etc.

Catalogs also try to make each variety sound better than the last one, Taylor notes, so you need to read them critically and look past the glowing description to the facts: days to maturity; size, shape and color of edible part; disease resistance, and other characteristics of crop varieties.

To resist the temptation offered by the color photos so many catalogs contain, Taylor suggests listing the vegetables and/or flowers you'd like to plant, based on family preferences, the size of your garden, local growing conditions and your level of gardening know-how. Then browse the catalogs.

"How large a garden you intend to plant and why you're gardening should influence your crop choices," Taylor says.

Generally, if your garden plot is small—200 to 300 square feet—the rule of thumb is to concentrate on vegetables that give relatively high yields for the space they occupy. These include tomatoes, leaf lettuce, bush beans, peppers and broccoli. Pumpkins, watermelons, vine squash, peas and sweet corn generally take up quite a bit of space in relation to the yield they provide. That's irrelevant, or worse, if your primary aim in gardening is to be able to enjoy garden-fresh sweet corn and peas, or to grow a giant pumpkin for Halloween.

If you want vegetables for storing, you'll want to emphasize those that keep well over long periods of time, such as carrots, winter squash and cabbage. If you want to can or freeze produce for the winter, you'll probably want to plant fairly large quantities all at once, so you'll have one or two major harvests of such crops as beans. And you'll want to choose varieties that are well suited to the use you have in mind for them.

Another consideration is how hard you want to work at gardening. Planning and planting can be exciting, but when the weeds try to take over, gardening can be a lot like work.

"First-time gardeners tend to plant a bigger garden than they can care for and then get discouraged when they can't keep up with it," Taylor observes. "I always advise beginners to figure out how large a garden they can handle, then cut that in half. That way, they're more likely to have a successful first experience that will encourage them to garden again the next year."

A critical factor in the choice of crops and varieties is the length of the local growing season. That's the number of days between the average date of the last frost in the spring and the first frost in the fall. If your local growing season is 95 days, you will need to choose quick maturing varieties of such warm-weather crops as tomatoes and squash. Varieties that take 100 days or more from seed to maturity would not have time to mature a crop in most years.

With a growing season of 150 days, on the other hand, you have a much wider choice in varieties and the option to plant some crops several times for an extended harvest.

One of the hardest parts of garden planning is figuring out how many feet of row or in-dividual plants to plant and to

Thursday, Jan. 17, 1952—

Junior Reilly had the thrill of his life last Thursday afternoon when he speared an 18-pound pike through the ice at Half Moon Lake.

Raymond Bross, district deputy instructor for the Royal Arch Masons and V. S. Richards of Milan, district deputy instructor for the F & AM, were special guests at the Masonic banquet held Saturday night in St. Paul's church hall. Mrs. Richards was also present.

Judge Jay H. Payne of Ann Arbor was the main speaker. Entertainment during the evening included novelty piano numbers by Harold Singer of the University of Michigan Glee Club, vocal selections by a quartet of Glee Club members and accordion music by Eugene Schumann of Ann Arbor. Schumann played request numbers during the dinner, which was attended by 129 Masons and several guests.

Approximately 300 people attended Portage Trails Boy Scout Council's annual business meeting and appreciation dinner held Sunday at Charles McKenny Hall, Ypsilanti.

Douglas and Richard Schneider of Chelsea were among the eight Eagle Scouts honored during afternoon ceremonies at the meeting.

During the business meeting, George Langford of Ann Arbor, chairman of the Capital Fund committee, said about half the money needed has been raised for the purpose of acquiring the Bruin Lake area as a permanent Boy Scout camp.

Total amount needed is $12,000 and Langford said it's hoped the fund will be complete by the end of the month.

St. Paul's Sunday school recognized 15 members for perfect attendance during 1951. The list is headed by Duane Satterthwaite, who has attended regularly each Sunday for eight consecutive years.

Mrs. Herbert Paul is credited with eight non-consecutive years of perfect attendance and Barbara Bertke has four non-consecutive years; Mrs. John Oesterle, three non-consecutive years; Marcia Bertke, two non-consecutive years; Mrs. Bruce Peabody, Genevieve Haffey, Earl Guenther and Frederick Wenk, each two consecutive years; Mrs. Willis Heydlauff, Gloria Heydlauff, Mrs. Floyd Walz and James Schneider, each one year.

The equipment for fabricating the steel frame of the new elementary school moved in last week, Tuesday, and upright beams were mostly in place by the first of the current week. Cross-beams and girders are being put in place this week.

From Kalamazoo, it was reported this week that Don Schrader, son of the Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schrader, Sr., and George Heydlauff, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Heydlauff, both won junior varsity football awards at Western Michigan College, Kalamazoo.

Schrader, a freshman, was graduated from Chelsea High, where he played four years of football and basketball, and Heydlauff, also a freshman, starred for four years at Chelsea High in football, basketball and baseball. He is also a graduate of CHS.

Music Boosters Make First Raffle Awards

Thursday, Jan. 9, the Chelsea Music Boosters held their first Calendar Raffle drawing at Citizens Trust Bank. The first 1986 $20 winners are Fred Leeman, Jan. 1; James Gaken, Jan. 2; Helen Kensler, Jan. 3; Sylvia Gilbert, Jan. 6; Ron Yannone, Jan. 7; Harold Polzin, Jan. 8 and Ronni Hilligoss, Jan. 9.

The first 1986 Saturday $50 winner is Robert Browning for Jan. 4.

Chelsea Music Boosters decided to have this Calendar Raffle in hopes of eliminating the various music groups of their individual fund-raising projects which tend to sometimes conflict or be a burden. The future of this venture possibly would be the only fundraiser for the entire year for the entire music program.

The calendar raffle is licensed by the State of Michigan Lottery Bureau.

This is how the calendar raffle works. Upon purchasing a calendar, you'll notice your official number printed on the inside back cover of your calendar. This number along with your name, address, and phone number is also on the sales card you fill out at the time you purchase a calendar. The "tab" end of the sales card is used for the drawings.

For each week-day and each Saturday during the 1986 calendar year a number is drawn, week-day prize is $20 each; Saturday prize is $50 each. On June 12 and Dec. 11 an extra number will be drawn for the Grand Prize of $500.

Your calendar number may be selected more than once throughout the year because after each bi-weekly drawing, all winning stubs will be returned for the next drawing.

A maximum of 1,000 calendars will be sold throughout the calendar year. Checks, made payable to the name listed on the numbered sales cards, will be sent to all winners. Please notify the Chelsea Music Boosters of any change of address or phone number.

You may purchase your official Music Booster calendar for $20 from any Music Booster member: Bob Strong, Dick Rigg, Roberta Kemp, Claudette Baker, Bonnie Basso, Nancy Grau, Carol Smith, Ellie Strong, Karen Street, Gay Dalton; and William Gourley, high school band director; Warren Mayer, middle school band director, Jed Fritzmeier, orchestra director and June Warren vocal department director. They are also available at Citizens Trust Bank.

On any further questions please contact Bob Strong, 475-8011 or Gay Dalton, 475-8768.

Rabbit Hunter Treated for Gunshot

A Gregory man was taken to the emergency room of Chelsea Community Hospital for treatment, Sunday, Jan. 12, after his hunting companion mistook his legs for a rabbit and shot him as the pair hunted on property owned by the victim, Barton A. Ward, 12760 Roepke Rd.

Jerry C. Cox, 26, of Pinckney, told deputies from the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department he and Ward were hunting together about 9:30 a.m. Sunday, walking through a field, probably 30 feet apart when they scared up a rabbit.

Ward sought medical assistance at the hospital. He had pellets lodged in both his legs, between his ankles and his knees.

Cox said he shot once and missed. The rabbit turned, Cox said, and he shot one more time. Neither hunter was wearing safety-orange hunting togs. Cox said he didn't see his friend's legs because Ward was wearing camouflage pants.

Whitmore Lake Youth Completes Navy Recruit Training

Navy Seaman Recruit Richard D. Shoemaker, son of Mary A. Shoemaker of 4459 Cornell, Whitmore Lake, has completed recruit training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, Ill.

During Shoemaker's eight-week training cycle, he studied general military subjects designed to prepare him for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic fields.

Shoemaker's studies included seamanship, close order drill, Navy history and first aid. Personnel who complete this course of instruction are eligible for three hours of college credit in Physical Education and Hygiene.

Carol Palmer Leaving for Six-Month Stay in Australia

"Because I've always wanted to go there" is one reason for Carol Palmer to be busily packing her suitcases in preparation for her trip to Australia next week-end.

The Chelsea High school junior, the daughter of George and Donna Palmer of Mayer Dr., is off to "down under" on Saturday, Jan. 18 for a six-month stay under the sponsorship of Youth for Understanding.

Preparations for the trip began last summer with an interview with a YFU representative that involved the entire family, including her big sister who happened to be on a visit. At the recommendation of the representative, the paper work began—obtaining a passport, visa, dental exams, physical exams, and an orientation session in Pontiac with the other students from Michigan who were fortunate enough to get their "first choice" for study in Australia. Australia is now the most popular country for exchange students; however, only about 300 are chosen.

In addition to the paper work with YFU, Carol had to get the co-operation of her counselor, Chris Dimanin, and the faculty and administration of Chelsea High to make sure that her curriculum would continue as planned and that credits would be honored. She will be taking her final examinations a week early.

On Saturday afternoon, she will fly to San Francisco where she will join the other students on their chartered Qantas flight to Melbourne.

Two days will be spent being "indoctrinated" at the University of Melbourne, and then she will be picked up by Gary and Susan Clarke and head "home" to Numurkah, Victoria.

Numurkah is a small town of 3,800 located 100 miles north of Melbourne. The Clarke home, known as "The Farm," is located four miles outside Numurkah.

The high school where Carol will complete her junior year has 550 students, and she will wear a uniform to school.

There are no "extras" such as plays, Contemporaries and other extra-curricular activities in the Australian schools.

Some pets are waiting for her—two sheep, a baby lamb, and two cats.

Bulldogs Lose, 45-43, To Dexter Cagers in Poor Offensive Output

Dexter guard Tim Long sank three field goals in the last 3:25 as the Dreadnaughts scored a come-from-behind victory over the Chelsea Bulldogs on the Dexter home court last Friday night, 45-43.

Long tied the contest at 43 at the 2:20 mark on a jumper from the left side of the foul line. From then on, both teams had several opportunities to take the win. Chelsea missed a pair of medium range jumpers, and the Dreadnaughts had a terrible time at the foul line in the closing seconds, missing both a one-and-one and a two-shot foul situation. Long nailed his game-winner at the 1:19 mark after the Dreadnaughts got the ball when Ken Martin was called for an offensive foul.

The most dramatic moment came in the last two seconds. Chelsea forward Mark Bareis took a potential game-tying shot from the left wing, and Bulldog forward Jeff Harvey went up strong for the rebound and was fouled as he tried to put it back in. The free throws were no good.

What lost the contest for Chelsea was exceptionally poor shooting in the final period. The Bulldogs had one field goal in seven attempts. They also only made 6 of 11 shots from the free throw line.

"Our shooting is what's killing us," said Chelsea coach Rahm Rosentreter.

The Bulldogs made only 15 of 40 shots for the game for a cool 37 percent. What was particularly frustrating to Rosentreter was the fact that 24 of those shots were inside the lane.

"All our shots we thought were good shots," Rosentreter said. "We missed three lay-ups in the second half. Our offense just never seemed to get on track."

"If there's one bright spot, it's our defense. We played exceptional defense Friday, and have played well for the most part all year."

Dexter guard Eric Meistrup, who's normally the Dreadnaught scoring leader, was held to four points as he made just two of 11 shots. Over-all, the Dreadnaughts didn't shoot a whole lot better than the Bulldogs, making 19 of 47 shots for 40 percent.

"Chelsea did a nice job on Eric," said Dexter coach Jim McCormack. "They were keying on him a lot, and a lot of times they were in a combination zone and man-to-man defense. Anytime that happens, it's going to be tough to score because you'll be going against two men."

At the outset, it looked as though Dexter might blow the game open early. On the strength of some fine shooting by Kyle Menard, Dexter had a nine-point lead in the closing seconds of the first quarter, 18-9, before Martin put up a jump shot at the buzzer to cut the lead to 18-11. Menard had eight points in the period.

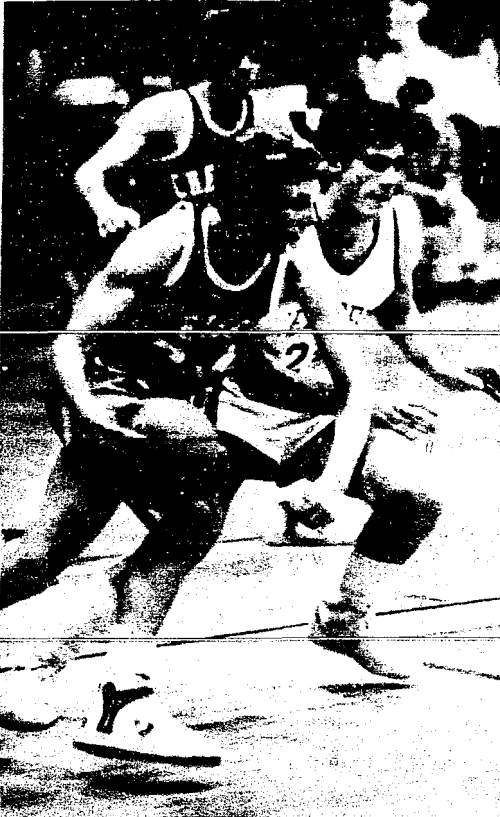

Chelsea came back in the second quarter to out-score the Dreadnaughts 10-6 and cut the deficit to 24-21 at half-time. The third quarter belonged to the Bulldogs as well as they made six of nine shots from the free throw line and Martin hit a pair of jumpers. The period ended with Chelsea on top, 35-32.

The Bulldogs, as they have several times this season, out-rebounded their opponents, this time 30-19. And that was without the presence, for the most part, of center John Jede, who broke his finger in practice earlier in the week and only played sparingly, and reserve forward Dan Bellus, who had a touch of the flu. Chelsea essentially started with a three guard offense of Todd Starkey, Martin and Ray Spencer, with Bareis and Harvey underneath.

"This is two games in a row that I think we should have won,"

BREAKING AWAY is Chelsea guard Todd Starkey as the Bulldogs handle the Dexter press during last Friday's loss to the Dreadnaughts, 45-43. Starkey had eight points on the night.

JV's Lose Two in Past Week

Chelsea junior varsity basketball team lost their sixth and seventh games of the season last week, 68-42 to Portage Northern, and 49-40 to the Dexter Dreadnaughts.

Once again the JV's were haunted by poor shooting in the Dexter game, hitting only 15 of 50 shots (30 percent) from the floor. Free throw shooting didn't help much either, making 10 of 20 from the line.

Despite all that, Chelsea coach Ted Hendricks said he thought his team, "should not have lost." He said he thought the boys, for the most part, took good shots. But they couldn't make them go in.

"We played good basketball for a quarter and a half," Hendricks said.

Dexter opened up a 14-11 first-quarter lead, and expanded it to 26-17 by half-time. From then on the teams played even basketball, although the Bulldogs cut the deficit to four mid-way through the fourth quarter. However, Chelsea was forced to foul to stay in the game in the fourth quarter, and the Dreadnaughts made enough shots to win.

The game was not particularly well-played by either team, as Chelsea had 32 turnovers to Dexter's 28.

Although Dexter had a slight height advantage, Chelsea out-rebounded the Dreadnaughts, 31-21, and converted nine offensive rebounds into four goals.

Matt Monroe led Chelsea scorers with 16 points, and was the only Bulldog in double figures. Clay Hurd contributed nine points and a team-high 11 rebounds. Rounding out the scoring were Greg Boughton and Junior Morseau with four points each, John Cattell with three points, Tim Anderson with two points and Kevan Flanagan with one.

At Portage Northern, a class A school in an extremely tough league, the Bulldogs were confronted by a JV team that was taller than its varsity team. The front line measured 6-6, 6-4 and 6-2, along with a 6-2 guard. Consequently, the Bulldogs were dominated on the boards, 38-26.

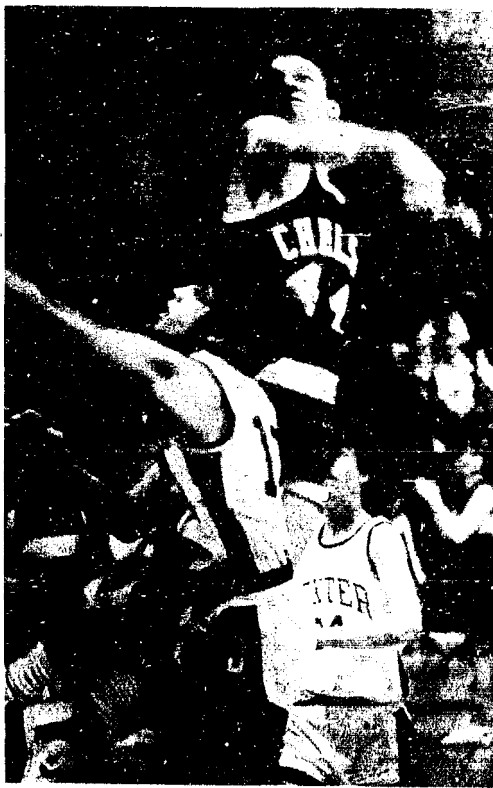

Chelsea was down 19-3 at the end of the first quarter, but cut the deficit to 27-21 just before half-time. Portage scored two quick lay-ups just before the half ended to take a 10-point lead into half-time. From there on Portage dominated the game.

Although it may not have made much difference, the Bulldogs had their shooting problems, again hitting only 30 percent, 14 of 47. Free throw shooting was, "not good, period," according to Hendricks, as Chelsea made only 16 of 34 tries. Turnovers were not so much of a problem as Chelsea gave the ball away only 18 times.

"If there was one bright spot to the game, it was the fact that after being down 15-2 the kids didn't let the game get completely out of hand," Hendricks said. "They fought back and I was proud of them for that."

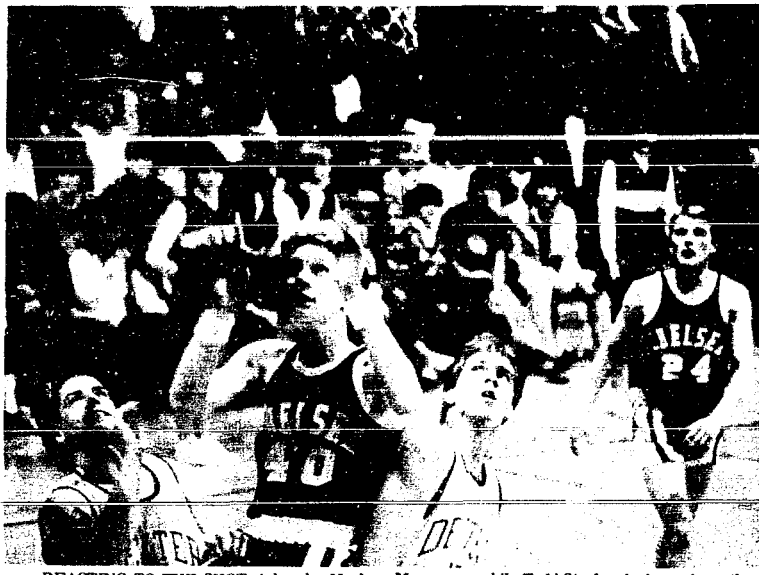

Cattell and Monroe were the only Bulldogs in double figures, with 11 and 10 points, respectively. Anderson had six points, Phil Thomson, five points, Flanagan and Morseau four each, and Hurd, two.

The JV's headed into this week's action with a 1-7 over-all mark.

CHELSEA'S JEFF HARVEY puts up a strong shot for two of his four points during last Friday night's action at Dexter. But Chelsea had problems shooting all night long and lost the contest, 45-43.

Tell Them You Read It In The Standard

REACTING TO THE SHOT, taken by Mark Bareis, 40, are Dexter's Tim Long, left, and Scott Magnuson, while Todd Starkey looks on from the back court. Dexter won the heated rivalry, 45-43.

Bulldog Tankers Sink Adrian, Edged by Lansing Waverly

Chelsea boys swim team competed against two class "A" teams last week and came away with a win and a loss.

On Tuesday the Bulldogs swam Adrian at Adrian and won, 91-81.

"We raced well and got to the wall first and that's the essence of swimming, beating the opponent to the wall," said coach Mike Keeler.

"Although our times in general weren't as fast as we have been in the past, I was real pleased with the attitude we had."

The places and results were as follows:

200-yard medley relay: 2. Chelsea 1:54.20; (Craig Miller, Matt Doan, Lloyd Brown, Mark Westhoven) 4. Chelsea 2:02.73; (Kevin Brock, Howard Merkel, Tyler Lewis, Terry Draper) 6. Chelsea 2:19.39; (Scott Sheffield, Mike Hollo, Charlie Hosner, Jeff McDougall).

200-yard freestyle: 2. Dan Degener, 2:09.97; 3. Chris Birtles, 2:08.56; 6. Darren Girard, 2:10.51.

200-yard individual medley: 1. Scott Pryor, 2:12.24; 4. Brock, 2:32.76; 5. Merkel, 2:35.31.

50-yard freestyle: 1. Jeff Nemeth, 23.1; 3. Doan, 25.1; 4. Miller, 25.5.

Diving: 1. Westhoven, 248.0; 3. Lewis, 184.4; 4. Mark Luick, 108.5.

100-yard butterfly: 2. Pryor, 59.26; 4. Brown, 1:07.82; 5. Brock, 1:09.45.

100-yard freestyle: 1. Nemeth, 51.32; 4. Terry Draper, 59.06; 5. Birtles, 59.6.

500-yard freestyle: 1. Degener, 5:28.1; 2. Girard, 5:44.9; 5. Hosner, 6:33.6.

100-yard backstroke: 1. Miller, 1:00.1; 2. Doan, 1:04.9; 5. Sheffield, 1:16.8.

100-yard breaststroke: 3. Merkel, 1:16.7; 4. Brown, 1:18.6; 6. Hollo, 1:28.2.

400-yard freestyle relay: 2. Chelsea 3:38.7 (Nemeth, Girard, Degener, Pryor); 3. Chelsea 3:58.0 (Lewis, Westhoven, Draper, Birtles); 5. Chelsea 4:32.8 (McDougall, Hosner, Luick, Sheffield).

Saturday the Bulldogs swam a tough Lansing Waverly team and were defeated in a close contest, 88-84.

The Waverly team was led by All-American Mark Kohmetzsch and just proved to be too much.

"Our guys swam with everything they had and just came up a bit short," Keeler said. "Our younger swimmers really swam well and got us valuable points. The success of this meet was shown by the fact that there were 22 career-best times recorded in the meet by Chelsea."

The results are as follows: 200-yard medley relay: 1. Chelsea (Miller, Brock, Brown, Nemeth); 3. Chelsea (Draper, Merkel, Lewis, Dent); 5. Chelsea (Sheffield, Hollo, Hosner, Walker).

200-yard freestyle: 2. Pryor, 1:52.99; 4. Girard, 2:05.20; 5. Birtles, 2:06.44.

Freshman Cagers Lose To Holt, 63-49

Chelsea freshman boys basketball team ended their long, holiday lay-off with a loss to a tall and talented Holt High school team, 63-49.

"Actually we played very well for most of the game," said coach Dave Quilter.

"The kids handled Holt's pressure defense pretty well. We scored our highest point total of the year despite the fact we shot only 25 percent from the field."

The freshmen trailed 18-11 at the end of the first quarter and 32-23 at half-time, but their persistence with a "gambling press," in the third quarter tied the game. Holt led 44-40 going into the final period.

"Their size and numbers eventually got to us in the fourth quarter," Quilter said. "I give the kids a lot of credit. Before the game I told them I wanted an honest effort and I didn't want them to be intimidated, and they came through on both counts."

Quilter said the two main areas of concern were Chelsea's poor field goal shooting and their habit of not running their plays. He said the team has worked on both areas in practice.

Positive notes to the game were a 66 percent performance from the free throw line, and the effort of all nine players.

Leading Chelsea scorers were John Collins with 16 points and Jeff Marshall with 15. Marshall also had a team-high 12 rebounds, and Loren Keezer added eight.

Volleyball Team Opens With Win

Chelsea varsity volleyball team won its first match of the season last Thursday in come-from-behind fashion over the Lincoln Railsplitters.

After losing the first game, 11-15, the Bulldogs shut out the Railsplitters in the second game, 15-0, and won the third game, 15-7.

"I think at first we were a little timid," said Chelsea coach Karen Tobin.

"We got behind, 8-0, but came back and were strong from then on."

In the second game, Mary Lazarz served and won 11 points in a row. In the last two games, Chelsea put all their serves in play, which has been a problem for the Bulldogs all year long.

Chelsea played with a couple of different setters, Trisha Mattoff, and Lazarz, who got stronger as the match went on, Tobin said.

Tobin said a key to the game was the team's improved net play, which "has been letting us down a little." She said the team showed the strongest net play of the season.

Tobin cited the play of Sladjana Janicevic, who had a strong, over-all game, and Angi DeFanti, who "hit the ball well," even though she hasn't had much playing time.

On Monday the Bulldogs lost to Jackson County Western, 8-15, and 6-15.

Tobin said the team was missing a lot of serves, but generally couldn't find the holes in the JCW defense.

"Everytime we hit a good shot, they seemed to have it covered," Tobin said.

Cherie Alexander was the team's top scorer. Tobin said Beth Paddock had a good day serving and Heidi Hosner was the team's best hitter.

The Bulldogs have a 1-5 over-all record.

Cager of the Week

PLAYER OF THE WEEK is junior point guard Todd Starkey, one of the best all-around athletes at Chelsea High School. Todd's averaging about eight points a game this year, his first full year on the varsity squad. Todd is one of the scrappiest players on the team and isn't afraid to dive for a loose ball. Although Todd says he doesn't have a number one sport, it's hard to ignore how much he's accomplished on the football field. He holds numerous single-season receiving records and was a unanimous choice for the all-SEC first team as a receiver. He's been mentioned as a prime candidate for quarterback next season, and will likely attend college on a football scholarship. He says he'd like to study business at an out-of-state college. This spring Todd plans to play baseball again, "living and dying by the curve ball," as a pitcher. He'll also play centerfield. He had a .301 average last season. Brother Chad, an eighth-grader, is also a budding athlete. They both follow in the footsteps of father, Stan, who was a college basketball player and still has one of the best jump shots around. They all live with mother, Sue, at 7375 Webb Shore.

Wrestler of the Week

WRESTLER OF THE WEEK is junior Ron Bogdanski, son of Ron and Carol Bogdanski of Lakes End Rd. Ron, who wrestles at 126, is having his best season thus far with a 16-5 record. He's wrestled for five years, going back to his years at Beach Middle school where he began at 105. Coach Kerry Kargel says Ron is "by far the fastest man on the team," which is one of his primary assets as a wrestler. After high school, he'd like to continue wrestling in college, where he'd eventually like to study business or medicine. During the summers Ron manages the family landscaping business, Green Hills Landscaping, and keeps busy installing sprinkler systems, planting shrubbery, and other chores. Although he has no siblings in the school system, a baby Bogdanski is expected in the next few weeks.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

It appears the Dexter student cheering gallery has been taking lessons from the Tiger Stadium bleacher section.

In case you missed it, the Decadent Dreadnought rosters yelled at least two indecent cheers during last Friday night's varsity basketball game with the Bulldogs. They weren't quite as vulgar as the variations on, "Taste's Great, Less Filling," that have reverberated through Tiger Stadium on occasion. But, nonetheless, they were embarrassing.

One cheer was directed at Chelsea and Chelsea fans, another at the officials. Neither was at all original, or even marginally witty (if they absolutely have to be indecent about it, they could at least try to be clever). I know Dexter Athletic Director Al Ritt, principal Dave Messner, and superintendent John Hansen were all at the game. Hansen must have choked on his Tootsie Roll Pop when he heard the cheers—he was sitting directly opposite the offenders.

Now, I have nothing against profanity, per se, as long as there's a certain amount of discretion to it. It's appropriate, for example, if you smash your finger in a car door. Anybody could understand that kind of swearing, even if your neighbor happens to be the pastor of your church.

However, it's not appropriate at a high school basketball game, when 200 kids get together and decide to yell like kicked dogs. Especially at a high school basketball game, where a cheer, with all those soprano voices, rumbles around the gym like a BB in a tin can.

I don't know if this kind of thing happens regularly at Dexter games, or if somehow the Chelsea blue and gold inspire it.

However, I have to commend the Chelsea students, of which there were quite a few, for not giving into the overwhelming temptation to strike back. Verbally, of course. I have to admit that if I were 17, I would probably have been one of the first to say, "Let's yell something back they'll never forget." Fortunately, most of my friends would have had more sense.

Chelsea coach Rahn Rosentreter issued the same praise for Chelsea fans when we had our weekly talk about the team's activities. The pride in his voice was obvious. I wish he sounded the same way when he talked about the recent performance of his team.

High school is a time when old children are rushing to become young adults. The Dexter cheering section showed they have a lot more rushing to do. Chelsea students have probably come farther than they think.

The next big test will be when Dexter visits Chelsea later in the season. I hope the home crowd doesn't let us down. For that matter, I hope the visiting crowd behaves, too.

Cheering aside, it was one heck of a game for pure excitement, the best since the Saline game when Chelsea won in the last second.

Both teams missed so many shots at the end, both free throws and field goals, and committed so many errors, that it was a shame to see either team win. They both should have lost. But we can't have everything, can we. That's what high school basketball is all about.

Rosentreter is frustrated, and has every right to be. He sees his kids shoot just fine in practice but fall apart during the games, especially the fourth quarter, when the team probably shoots about 20 percent. JV coach Ted Hendricks is having the same sort of problem, only a lot more of it.

My guess is that if Chelsea had shot respectably, say 45 percent, in every game, their record would be more like 6-2 or 7-1, rather than 3-5. A team, like Chelsea, without a dominant player or much height generally has to shoot at least that well to keep from being run off the court by half-time.

Defense has kept them in the games. Normally every high school team has one or two kids who can shoot and move and play one-on-one basketball. And, more often than not those kids can't play a lick of defense since they've spent all their time moving and shooting.

Almost without exception, everyone on the Chelsea team can play defense. They're smart kids, they're good athletes, they listen to their coach. But they don't have anyone with those inner-city-Detroit moves that put points on the board. There have been glimpses of offensive fire power from time to time from Ken Martin and Mark Bareis, but nothing consistent from anyone.

Chelsea has the kind of team that could bury an opponent if they ever got hot and shot 60-70 percent. Even a team like Lincoln or Milan.

Speaking of Lincoln and Milan, both Rosentreter, and Dexter coach Jim McCormack think they can be had this year. Saline upset Lincoln and Tecumseh upset Milan last Friday for starters.

For all but two minutes, Dexter stayed right in the game with the Railsplitters last week. At Lincoln, Chelsea could have beaten Milan earlier had they shot reasonably well. Sure, there are a lot of "could haves." They could have been blown out, too, as most people probably expected, but they weren't. That will give any coach cause for hope.

I have a hunch we'll see Lincoln and Milan lose a few more times this season.

The Wolverines look like they can be had, too. Oh, how I wish they played Georgia Tech this month.

Roger Banister, the English runner, was the first man to break the four minute mile. He did it in 1954.

RON BOGDANSKI puts his chin into the chest of Jon Strotkamp of Pioneer High school during the Ann Arbor News tournament last Saturday at Huron High school. Bogdanski went on to pin Strotkamp, and place in the tournament.

STEVE WINGROVE puts the pressure on Jeff Soncraft of Ypsilanti High school during last Saturday's Ann Arbor News tournament. Wingrove, top, won the match, 2-1, and went on to place in the tournament.

PETE HANNA had the highest finish of any Chelsea wrestler last Saturday in the Ann Arbor News tournament. Hanna finished second after losing to David Feldkamp of Dexter in the finals, 6-4. Above, he puts Tom Gilson of Pioneer on his back for an early-round pin.

MARK EDICK of Chelsea, top, works Ken Brown of Lincoln for an early-round, 5-4 decision in the Ann Arbor News tournament last Saturday. Edick also beat Brown earlier in the week when the Bulldogs met the Railsplitters in a dual meet. Chelsea won that meet, 35-27.

Wrestlers Earn Their First SEC Victory

Chelsea varsity wrestlers earned their first Southeastern Conference victory last week with a 35-27 win over Lincoln on Tuesday.

"I was glad to beat Lincoln this year, they're a respectable team," said Chelsea coach Kerry Kargel. "Now if we can pull ourselves together and beat Pinckney and Tecumseh, we'll have a chance at placing third in the league, which is what I hoped for at the beginning."

Chelsea had several freshman in the line-up for Lincoln for various reasons, which Kargel said he prefers not to do.

"It's just a good thing we've got some good freshmen," he said.

98 pounds: Bryan Kidd earned a 10-3 decision over Kurt O'Clair.

105 pounds: Randy Dale was pinned in 5:22 by Frank Palmer.

112 pounds: Reno Nye lost by technical fall to Adrian Wilding.

119 pounds: Pete Hanna won a decision over Chris Smith, 12-5.

126 pounds: Ron Bogdanski won a major decision over Scott Sakall.

132 pounds: Bob Torres lost a decision to Dave Johnson, 8-1.

138 pounds: Brant Snyder was pinned by Brad Boyle, in :38.

145 pounds: Mark Edick won a decision over Ken Brown, 6-2.

155 pounds: Bill Dixon pinned Jim Nuemann in 1:55.

167 pounds: Steve Wingrove won a major decision over Rodney Carr.

185 pounds: Leo Durham pinned Jeff Kasuba in :58.

198 pounds: Mike Taylor pinned Joel McCarthy, 1-41.

Heavyweight: Todd Thurkow was pinned by Tony Edmunds in 2:43.

In other action last week-end, at the Ann Arbor News tournament, Pete Hanna suffered his first loss of the season, in the finals to Dexter's Jim Feldkamp, 6-4. Hanna had beaten Feldkamp in the Chelsea Invitational earlier.

"I think you're going to see those two see-saw back and forth all year," said Kargel. "The one who gets the take down is going to win. Believe it or not, it's good for Pete to lose one. It'll take some pressure off, and make him work harder in practice."

Other Chelsea placers included Bogdanski, third, Wingrove, fourth, and Edick, fourth.

Beach School Swimmers Sink Dundee

The Beach Middle school swim team was victorious in its meet Thursday, Jan. 9 against Dundee, 50-26.

Brett Paddock, Jim Alford, Garth Girard and Wally Schmid won the medley relay. Taking third place were Holden Harris, David Oesterle, Joe Heutteman and Brian Brock.

Von Acker won the 200 freestyle and Greg Garen placed third.

Girard won the individual medley and Paddock was third.

Wally Schmid took first place in the 50 freestyle and Brock was third.

Debbie Webb won the diving.

Taking first and third in the 50 butterfly were Girard and Heutteman.

Paddock and Acker were second and third in the 100 freestyle.

Harris placed second in the 100 backstroke and Melissa Johnson was third.

Alford and Oesterle were first and second in the 100 breaststroke.

Acker, Harris, Brock and Schmid won the freestyle relay, while Todd Redding, Jill Nowatzke, Johnson and Garen were third.

Restoration of Wild Turkeys Set As Foundation Goal for '86

Restoring southern Michigan's wild turkey population has been selected by the Michigan Wildlife Habitat Foundation as their principal project for 1986. Foundation chairman Dan Robbins reports that trustees have voted to spend up to $64,000 to import the wild birds and educate the public about the species.

Once found in abundance in southern Michigan's deciduous forests, the birds were considered by early settlers to be of more value than the white-tailed deer. By the turn of the century, however, the species disappeared, prompting the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) to attempt a repopulation effort in 1983. In 1985, pre-nesting estimates of the birds stood at a conservative 362.

John Urban, DNR turkey specialist, believes assistance by the foundation will considerably speed the Department's efforts. "Getting these wild birds through the foundation will mean that we may have a 20-bird flock at the Maple River State Game Area and south of Homer yet this winter," Urban said.

According to foundation executive director Dennis Fialkowski, the birds will be trapped by a professional wildlife consultant in Vermont and brought to southern Michigan within 24 hours of their capture. "The foundation hopes to cut 10 years off restoration time," Fialkowski said.

"Our goal is to have 200 birds in southern Michigan within the next two winters."

To ensure the project's success, approximately $20,000 of the approved money will finance a public awareness campaign. The campaign will stress to all citizens the benefits of restoring this native bird, encourage them to confine their pets, discourage release of game-farm stock, and emphasize that people should report anyone killing or harassing the wild turkeys. Finally, to protect the project, $4,000 in reward payments has been designated for identifying poachers.

Partial funding for the turkey restoration project came from a $5,000 donation from the Michigan Wild Turkey Federation. "The foundation encourages other organizations, and individuals, to help fund this important restoration project," Fialkowski concluded.

The Michigan Wildlife Habitat Foundation is a state-wide private-sector organization dedicated solely to restoring wildlife habitat. Each year since its inception in 1982, the foundation has selected a restoration task of major ecological impact as its principal project. The foundation is headquartered in Lansing.

Turkey Hunt Application Deadline Set for Feb. 1

Feb. 1 is the deadline for turkey hunters to submit license application cards for the 1986 spring turkey hunting season.

This year 11 percent more turkey licenses will be available to hunters, 16,650 will be issued. Last year there were 15,010 successful applicants.

To secure a turkey license hunters must obtain applications which are available at all DNR offices and most license dealers, and from DNR Information Services in Lansing (517-373-1220). Non-resident applications will be available only from Information Services, P. O. Box 30026, Lansing 48909.

Completed application cards must be postmarked on or before Feb. 1 and license fees must accompany license applications. A random drawing will be conducted and successful applicants will be notified by March 15.

Unsuccessful applicants will not be notified, but will receive a refund of their fees.

Last year 22,680 hunters applied for the 15,010 licenses issued.

This year hunt periods have been lengthened and hunting areas expanded to meet the needs of turkey hunters.

"Michigan's 1985 spring produced a record harvest of turkeys," said DNR Wildlife Division Chief Edward Mikula, "and the nesting season produced a substantial increase in the population."

Mikula said as a result of the increase in turkey population, four hunt areas have been expanded and a new area added totalling 748 square miles.

Hunting hours are 5:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Lower Peninsula and 5 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Upper Peninsula.

A licensed turkey hunter may take one bearded turkey.

Along with a turkey license hunters must also have a 1986 small game stamp (unless hunting on land owned by the hunter) and, if hunting in the southern part of the Lower Peninsula, a public access stamp.

said Rosentreter, whose team has lost three of four games decided by two points or less.

Martin led all scorers in the game with 17 points. Bareis and Starkey had eight each, Harvey had four, and Ray Spencer, Bellus and Jedele each had two points.

In the other contest of the week, also decided by two points, the Bulldogs lost to class A Portage Northern, 48-46.

The Bulldog offense once again was muzzled late in the game, hitting only two of 12 shots in the fourth quarter. They missed three shots in the last 15 seconds alone.

Chelsea was 16 of 42 on the evening for 38 percent. Free throw shooting was off as well as only 14 of 28 dropped.

"On the high school level, you've got to do a little better than that if you want to be competitive," Rosentreter said.

The Bulldogs held a two-point lead at half-time, 26-24.

"Portage played a decent game," Rosentreter said. "They hadn't won a game all year, but they play in an extremely tough class A league. They saw this as an opportunity for a win, and they took it."

Starkey led the Bulldog scoring attack with 12 points, Bareis followed with 10 and Martin, nine. Harvey had five points, Bellus and Matt Bohlender had four each, and Spencer had two.

Chelsea's record drops to 3-5 over-all and 1-3 in the Southeastern Conference. Friday's home game brings the Tecumseh Indians to town.

Fatal Accidents Decline 29% in Washtenaw County

During the calendar year of 1985, 42 persons lost their lives on roadways in Washtenaw County. Comparing this figure to the 59 fatalities in 1984 shows a reduction of 29%.

The State of Michigan reports that a total of 1,510 persons died on Michigan roads in 1985 as compared to 1,552 in 1984. This is a 3% reduction of fatalities state-wide for 1985.

The Sheriff attributes this reduction to public awareness and participation in safer driving habits along with continuing strict enforcement of traffic laws including drunk driving and the sale of alcohol to minors.

Washtenaw county's "buckle-up" rate was a significant 74% when compared to the Michigan's over-all rate of 58% (Office of Highway Safety Survey 7/85). The Sheriff attributes this to an enlightened and concerned public supported by the successful efforts of our Health Department, MADD and SADD groups, Washtenaw County Drunk Driving Task Force, Washtenaw County Chapter of the American Red Cross, SAY Carseat Program, and the incentive plans of many local businesses and corporations. Washtenaw County Sheriff's Deputies made over 1,300 drunk driving arrests in 1985 and has undertaken enforcement of "off-premise" licensed establishments. This new program was implemented to decrease the availability of alcohol to minors.

1985 was a successful year for decreasing traffic deaths, yet there is a continuing need for improvement in injury accidents, especially where alcohol is involved.

Remember when your mother warned you not to eat chocolate before dinner because it would spoil your appetite? She was right—all the fat and sugar in chocolate DOES tend to kill hunger. If you are on a diet, it's OK to allow yourself an occasional chocolate goodie to help fill you up before dinner as long as it doesn't throw off your calorie count. (Of course, if you are a chocoholic who can't stop with one, forget it.)

TERRENCE J. O'HAGAN Washtenaw Trial Lawyers Re-Elect O'Hagan President

Washtenaw Trial Lawyers Association has re-elected Terrence J. O'Hagan as president. O'Hagan is an Ann Arbor lawyer and Chelsea resident, former judicial chair of the Washtenaw Trial Lawyers Association and member of the American and Michigan Trial Lawyers Association.

Other officers elected were Clyde Ritchie, vice-president; Andrew S. Muth, secretary; and Jean L. King, treasurer.

Symphony Program Slated for Children To Meet Orchestra

Ann Arbor Symphony Orchestra will present an innovative musical experience designed to dramatically introduce young students to the orchestra, culminating in an actual trip through the instrumental sections as they perform.

This very special concert will be performed on Sunday, Jan. 19, at 2 and again at 3:30 p.m. in the gymnasium at Pioneer High school, Ann Arbor.

Although there is no admission charge, tickets for participating children are required due to the intimate nature of the experience, and are available through the Michigan Theater Box Office, weekdays 11-5, and by phone there at 668-8397. Tickets will not be available at the door.

Professor Robert Culver, a member of the faculty of the University of Michigan School of Music, will be the guest conductor of the Symphony for this performance. Internationally known as a string educator with innovative ideas and expertise, Prof. Culver conceived the concept for a Symphonic Safari.

This special educational children's concert is made possible through the generosity of Hudson's, Briarwood, and through funding from the Musician's Performance Trust Fund of the Recording Industries. The orchestra also receives continuing support from the City of Ann Arbor and the Michigan Council for the Arts, as well as local benefactors.

Ask MESC

PUBLIC INFORMATION SERVICES DIVISION

7310 WOODWARD AVE. DETROIT, MICH. 48202 - (313) 876-5488

QUESTION: I filed a claim for unemployment benefits but was denied because I only had nine credit weeks but earnings of over $2,500. To qualify for benefits, you need 20 credit weeks which require minimum earnings of $2,010. How come I can't qualify with earnings of $2,500 even though I only had nine credit weeks?

ANSWER: Several years ago, the Michigan legislature did approve a means for individuals to qualify for unemployment benefits if they have less than the required 20 credit weeks.

A credit week, by the way, is a week in which you worked and had earnings of 30 times or more of the state's current minimum wage ($3.35 x 30 = $100.50).

According to state law, you can qualify with only 14 credit weeks during the 52-week base period preceding your application for benefits. However, you must also have earned wages in excess of 20 times the state average weekly wage.

Currently, the average weekly wage in Michigan is $397.48. Consequently, your earnings must amount to over $7,949.60 (20 x $397.48) in order to qualify for unemployment benefits under this alternative qualifying method.

Unfortunately, neither your earnings nor your number of credit weeks will allow you to qualify for jobless benefits under Michigan law.

If you have a question for MESC, send it to "Ask MESC," 7310 Woodward, Room 505, Detroit 48202. Unfortunately, it is not possible to answer or acknowledge each letter. We do, however read them all and print those of most general interest.

translate that into number of seed packets or plants to buy. For guidelines in this and other garden planning decisions, ask your county Co-operative Extension Service agent for a copy of extension bulletin E-1769, "Planning a Vegetable Garden." It includes a chart of the quantity of seeds of various crops needed for 100 feet of row, and another chart giving planting times, weeks from seed to transplanting, days to maturity, days between flowering and harvest, planting depth, appropriate spacing and estimated production for nearly 50 vegetable crops.

The bulletin also offers tips on planting warm- and cool-season vegetables, storing leftover seeds and space-saving strategies such as successive planting. It's available for 50 cents from your county Co-operative Extension Service office or from the MSU Bulletin Office, P.O. Box 6640, East Lansing 48823-6640. A number of other gardening bulletins are available, too, on topics ranging from variety recommendations and soil to pest control and organic gardening. Most are free.

★ A Value Added Tax

For now, Americans have escaped a tax that is a familiar form of revenue collection in Europe, the value added tax. The U. S. House of Representatives turned down the new tax as a means to fund toxic waste clean-up. A value added tax or VAT is similar to a sales tax on goods and services, but it's levied on the value added during each stage of production or distribution.

The VAT proposed for Superfund would have amounted to a tax of .08 percent on sales of all manufactured products, with some exceptions. Instead, the House decided to increase existing taxes on petrochemical companies to pay the costs of the $10 billion Superfund over five years.

The Senate bill for reauthorization of Superfund does contain a VAT, but the senate wisely instructed its conferees to ignore it when they go to conference with the House.

The VAT was opposed by the American Farm Bureau Federation as a hidden tax and one that would set a dangerous precedent. Indeed, some politicians' mouths water when they consider a VAT because it is hidden in the prices consumers pay and it has the potential to raise lots of money. A 10 percent VAT on goods and services would raise more than $150 billion.

DAVE SMITH OPTED FOR THE FLEX-SLED during his trip to the sliding hill near Chelsea. It's a lot lighter to carry, but he warns, "You really have to hold it or the wind whips it away—and you sure feel every bump as you go down the hill."

READY TO TRY THE SILVER STREAK, Clarence DeLong was glad he wore insulated boots to the big hill at the sledding area. The wind was sharp and the temperature low, but the snow was great for carrying him downhill. He even has a spare sled in case someone else happens on the hill.

Two Big Outdoor Shows Scheduled During February

If drifting snow and icy winds have you feeling down and "cabin fever" is starting to set in, it's time to enjoy the great outdoors—indoors—when Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC) presents two outdoor-related shows in February at the Michigan State Fair Coliseum, Detroit.
First up is the Southeast Michigan Camper and RV Show, which runs the first two week-ends in February. Second in the line-up is Outdoorama '86, Michigan's largest hunting and fishing show, Feb. 21 through March 2.
The Camper and RV Show will feature hundreds of state-of-the-art campers, recreational vehicles, travel trailers, and motor homes presented by the metropolitan Detroit area's leading RV dealers.
Dealers will be offering outstanding bargains on nearly every major brand and model of recreational vehicle—from inexpensive "pop-up" campers to $100,000 deluxe motor homes, according to MUCC executive director Thomas L. Washington.
"A camper, motor home, or travel trailer is a major investment, so it makes sense for people to shop around for the best buy," Washington noted. "We think the show is an ideal opportunity for families to check out acres and acres of RV's and travel trailers—all on display indoors—and make the best deal possible."
On-the-spot financing will be available from many of the dealers, and visitors can also browse through displays by campground owners, accessory suppliers and dozens of other recreation-related exhibitors.
The Southeast Michigan Camper and RV Show will run two consecutive week-ends, Feb. 7, 8, 9 and Feb. 14, 15, 16. The show is open 4 to 10 p.m. Fridays and noon to 10 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays, except Sunday, Feb. 16, when the show will run from noon to 6 p.m.
The daily cost of admission to the Camper and RV Show is $4 for adults and $2 for children 12 and under. Kids under five are admitted free.
Following the Camper and RV Show, Outdoorama '86 gets underway at 6 p.m. Friday, Feb. 21.

Grade School Pupils To Hear Teacher-Author

Karen Sommers, author of the children's book, "The New Kid, Spinner and Me," will be in Chelsea on Wednesday, Jan. 22 to talk to third, fourth and fifth graders about her work.
Students at both North and South schools will have a chance to hear the elementary school teacher from Owosso. They have been reading and discussing her book in preparation for the visit.
Sommers, a third grade teacher at Central school in Owosso, never intended to write a book when she began making up stories for her class. All she was doing, she says, was showing students how to structure a plot so they could try creative writing. When the students wanted to know what happened next, her book inevitably followed.

KAREN SOMMERS

The book tells the adventures and antic of a group of sixth graders who are members of a secret club. "Satch," "Spinner," and "Motor-Mouth Marcie," are a few of the characters.
Sommers will discuss how to structure plots, building characters, and the process of becoming a published author. She may also give a preview of the sequel, "Motor-Mouth Marcie, Spinner and Me." She will also distribute autographed copies of her book, previously ordered by the children.
The talk is part of the school-wide Enrichment Triad Program.

Athletic Boosters Dinner-Dance Tickets Available
Chelsea Athletic Boosters' annual Spirit Dinner Dance is approaching and plans are complete for a fun-filled evening and a delicious dinner.
Tickets are going fast and you may want to get one before they are sold out.
Tickets may be purchased from the Chelsea Pharmacy, the Chelsea High school athletic office, home athletic events, and the community education office.
The dance will be held on Saturday, Jan. 25 at the Chrysler UAW Hall. The doors will open at 7 p.m. and dinner will be served at 7:30 p.m.
Dancing by "Eclipse" begins at 9 p.m. and will continue until 1 a.m. There will be music for all ages, from rock and roll to square dancing.
The dinner will be roast beef served with mashed potatoes, vegetables, salad, and rolls. Setups, wine and beer will be available, and BYOB.
The boosters are looking forward to seeing you at the dance. Just bring your dancing shoes and a good appetite. The fun will be furnished!

New Books Available At McKune Library

New books available at McKune Memorial Library include the following volumes.

"Always Beautiful," by Kaylan Pickford. Kaylan Pickford, 55 years old and one of America's top models, has a simple message: "You can not turn back the clock, but if you care for yourself you can look and be the best at any age."

"Always Beautiful" is a must-have collection of down-to-earth advice on how to wake up tired eyes, have fresh healthy looking skin, develop an exercise program and find and keep the diet that suits the changing nutritional needs of the maturing woman.

More than just facts, tips and hints, Kaylan tells her inspirational story of mistakes and false starts along the road to success and the rediscovery and expression of her own beauty at an age when women are told they are no longer beautiful.

"Never Guilty, Never Free," by Ginny Foat. Ginny Foat born, Virginia Galluzzo, grew up in an old-fashioned Italian-American family and through most of her life she would swing between conforming to their idea of a "good girl," and following her own broader vision.

After her ill-fated conventional marriage, she met Jack Sidote, who she thought was the "man of her dreams." Instead he was a drunk, a wife abuser and a killer.

After reading the book one understands what draws a woman into and keeps her in a battering relationship. Eventually, Sidote was convicted and jailed for manslaughter and Ginny began to put her life back together. She became a successful businesswoman, a political activist and a national leader in the feminist movement.

Then, on Sidote's word alone, Ginny was arrested and jailed, accused of a murder. The charges were eventually dismissed, and then after she had picked up her life a second time she was jailed again for several months on evidence so flimsy that the jury deliberated less than two hours before acquitting her.

This inspiring story of a human being coming to terms with the past has resonances that speak to us all.

"World's Fair," by E. E. Doctorow. "World's Fair" is a wonderfully poignant creation of a certain New York City boyhood of the 1930's, seen simultaneously through the eyes of the child himself and those of the adult who recollects that childhood. It's a time of innocence and depression—football games at the Polo Grounds and rumors of war in the evening news.

In successively smaller Bronx apartments, their familiar furnishings packed ever closer, another ekes out a precarious budget from the tenuous profits of the father's Times Square music store. The family struggles to hold together and to move apart, braces against hardship and nurtures hope of better times. All this leads irresistibly to the glittering, futuristic promise of the New York World's Fair of 1939, where the young protagonist, at the age of nine, crosses over into a future of his own.

Doctorow's stunning achievement in "World's Fair" is to imagine the world of the 1930's, both the actual life the child led, only half comprehending, and the world the adult reconstructs, imperfectly remembering.

"Depths of Glory," by Irving Stone. "Depths of Glory" is the story of one of the most important and enduring figures in art history: Camille Pissarro, a brilliant prolific painter and the beloved father-brother figure of the renegade, radical group of artists who became known as the French Impressionists.

After leaving the West Indies to study painting in Paris, Pissarro fell under the influence of Corot and the Barbizon School. Soon he developed a style uniquely his own, but one that scandalized the art establishment. Yet Pissarro's indomitable spirit and creative force never altered.

We are moved as Pissarro, with his lovely Julie, fight against the crushing blows of poverty and rejection and paints on.

This is a monumental work about a genius and his times. It reveals how his compassionate generous heart helped keep alive one of the world's most inspired movements. This is the biographical novel at its best.

"Irish Folk Tales," edited by Henry Glasie. The 125 tales here represent all facets of the Irish identity, from the wild Gaelic western coast to the urban communities of Belfast and Dublin. Here are tales of the mythic world of Druids and the ancient Fenian warriors, of the coming of Saint Patrick, and of the exploits of such legendary figures as Finn MacCumhail, Daniel O'Connell and the arch-villain Cromwell.

Robust, funny, touching—as uncompromising and appealing as the Irish people—these are tales to savor again and again. They richly illuminate the faith and passions of the Irish people in their own incomparably beautiful words.

Glass, although it feels hard enough to be called a solid, is in one sense a liquid. If left standing in one position, the particles that make up glass will flow downward.

Conservation Tillage Expo Set in Ft. Wayne

Exhibits featuring conservation tillage equipment, seeds, fertilizer, herbicides, insecticides and other agricultural services will be one of the main attractions at the Great Lakes States Conservation Tillage Expo, Jan. 22-23, 1986 in Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Ft. Wayne's new convention center, the Grand Wayne, will house the 25,000 sq. ft. exhibit hall as well as provide space for educational displays and the seminars that will be held continuously during the two-day event.

This Expo, the culmination of a five-year conservation tillage demonstration project in a 31-county area of the Lake Erie Drainage Basin, will serve as a "two-way street" for information exchange about conservation tillage according to Expo organizers.

The theme of the Expo is Sharing Information to Conserve: Soil, Water, and Agriculture. Agri-business, government agencies, researchers, scientists, etc., can use this Expo as a vehicle to disseminate information about the latest products, studies, and research in conservation tillage.

In addition, farmers and conservation district directors/staff who attend, can relay their experiences and concerns to those individuals who could utilize that kind of input.

Conservation tillage farmers, district directors, university researchers and Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) personnel are among the uniquely diversified group who will take part in panel discussions such as, "A Profitable Agriculture in a Quality Environment"; "Carrying Out a Successful Conservation Tillage Project"; and "Conservation Tillage: Keeping Benefits and Risks in Proper Perspective."

Sponsoring organizations are: Environmental Protection Agency, Great Lakes National Program Office; Thirty-one County Lake Erie Demonstration Project; and the National Association of Conservation Districts.

Organizations co-operating with the sponsors are: Conservation Tillage Information Center; Soil Conservation Service; Cooperative Extension Service; Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service; Indiana Conservation Tillage Association; and Agri-business Expo Exhibitors.

For more information about the Expo, contact the Washtenaw County Soil Conservation District, 6101 Jackson Rd., Ann Arbor. Telephone: (313) 761-6721.

Thieves Enter Residential Area Garages

A Craftsman chain saw equipped with 20-inch bar and described as red with black lettering was taken along with other tools identified with the initials "RJC" from a garage in Lyndon township, sometime last weekend, Richard James Collin told deputies from the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department. Collin placed the breaking and entering action at some time either Saturday night or Sunday morning. The garage from which the items were taken is attached to the Collin residence. No estimate was immediately available for the missing items, but deputies are continuing their investigation.

A garage on Stinchfield Woods Rd. was the site of a breaking and entering by vandals who boldly cut a section from the garden hose, went outside and siphoned gasoline from a pick-up truck in the driveway.

The intruders also carried off a handheld spotlight, a three-gallon red gasoline can bearing the words "3-wheeler" and a snowmobile helmet.

Owner Mike Bezzeg told deputies from the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department he thought the incident occurred between 8:30 a.m. and 11 p.m. Tracks leading from the road to the garage and back to the roadway indicate two people were involved in the theft.

Outdoor . . .

Outdoorama '86 will also feature the premier Detroit appearance of Chris James, who will thrill showgoers with his comedy fishing act.

Outdoorama '86 will be open 6 to 10 p.m. Friday, Feb. 21; 4 to 10 p.m. weekdays; noon to 10 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays, except Sunday, March 2, when the show will run from noon to 8 p.m.

Tickets for Outdoorama '86 are $4.50 for adults, $2 for citizens 65 and older (weekdays only). Children under five are admitted free.

Proceeds from the Southeast Michigan Camper and RV Show and Outdoorama '86 help support MUCC's wide-ranging conservation and environmental education programs and the group's efforts to protect the rights of outdoor sports enthusiasts.

MUCC is the largest non-profit state federation of sportsmen's and conservation organizations in the nation. It is dedicated to furthering the cause of the environment and conservation and to promoting programs designed to educate citizens in natural resource conservation, environmental protection and enhancement.

Three Named to Dexter Township Zoning Board

"It's been a busy season recently for Dexter township, but things are beginning to stretch into a calm time as mid-January arrives," explained Dexter township supervisor Jim Drolett.

Three new members, Ralph Runsey, Kenneth Brooks and Ed Boullion, were appointed to the zoning board at the Dec. 3 township board meeting," said Drolett. Terms of the three extend through Dec. 1, 1989.

Three men who have served on the zoning board and whose terms expired were Tom Ehman, Charles Thomas and Albert Ruhlig.

David Miller and Jerry Straub continue on the zoning board. The five-member board held an organizational meeting, Dec. 19, at which they selected Straub to act as chairman, with the secretary's duties given to Miller.

Boullion was named to serve on the zoning board of appeals. Additional members of the appeals board are supervisor Drolett, Walter Bone, Bill Robertson and Don Hackney.

The township supervisor also appointed Robert Burns to the position of blight inspector after Merritt Honbaum found himself bogged down with the duties of zoning inspector with little time remaining to consider blight problems in the township.

Drolett was on the receiving end of a new position, Dec. 19—he will pick up the reins held by Scio township's Ken Collica, first chairman of the Dexter Area Fire Department's administrative board.

Heading the fire administrative board, Drolett takes over the post at a busy time. The department which it administers had already ordered a new fire truck, due to arrive from Ocala, Fla., within weeks. In addition, bids have been sought for a new fire station to be constructed in the very near future on a parcel adjacent to the Scio township offices on Zeeb Rd.
