

Eleven Seeking Two Vacant School Board Positions

Eleven candidates are in the running for two school board positions in the June 10 election. Most of the candidates have never run for a school board position, although several have teaching experience, and nearly all of them have children in the school system.

The current seats are held by board president Dale Schumann and Ann Feeney, and neither is running again.

There will be a Meet the Candidates Night next Monday in the media center of South school, beginning at 7:30 p.m. It is open to the public.

As kind of a preview to that event, The Standard has compiled basic biographical information about each candidate, and it is presented below.

The Standard does not officially endorse any of the candidates. Barb F. Cherm, 1825 Cavanaugh Lake Rd., has been a district resident since 1977. She is an educational administrator and assistant professor at Spring Arbor College with more than 20 years of experience in the educational field. She has been a high school teacher, a curriculum developer, a Chelsea Adult Education/GED teacher, and researcher.

She and her husband, Gabriel, have two children, Max and Mariah, in Chelsea schools. Raymond Gorton Coulter, 15727 Gorton Rd., Grass Lake, is semi-retired, and is employed as a bus driver for Chelsea schools.

Coulter has lived in the Chelsea area nearly his entire life. He is a former engineer, involved in research and development for the automobile, aircraft, and atomic power industries. He also worked in the agricultural chemicals industry.

Coulter has held positions in the Lions Club and the Disabled American Veterans group.

Tom Flynn, 138 Cavanaugh Lake Rd., has been a district resident for 10 years.

Tentative Agreement Reached With Teachers

A tentative agreement was reached between the Chelsea School District and teachers and staff after 10 hours of bargaining on April 29.

No details of the agreement were available although negotiators said it was thought the agreement was good for both sides.

The agreement is scheduled to be voted upon before the school board's regular May 19 meeting.

According to Jim Bechtelmeier, spokesman for the teacher/staff negotiating team, teachers and staff will initially meet at their individual buildings to have the details of the contract explained. The vote would take place later as a group, he said.

Mr. Bechtelmeier said there were changes in a number of areas of the current contract.

Three from Chelsea Earn Degrees at Central Michigan

Three former Chelsea students received bachelor's degrees from Central Michigan University last Saturday.

Michael Bareis, 740 N. Main St., received his degree in education.

Beth J. Heller, 1610 Guenther Rd., and Jeffrey C. Osentoski, 2210 Fletcher Rd., received degrees in accounting.

YOUNG KYLE KENTALA isn't taking any chances with the real live skunk as she uses a thick pair of gloves to pet the animal, being held by mother, Kathy. The small animals exhibit was one of the many "interest stations," at Young Authors Celebration Day at North school last week.

Young Authors Celebration Day Held at North School

Call it a masterpiece of planning, or maybe an afternoon of more fun than any child has a right to. Young Authors Celebration Day at North school last Wednesday was all of that and more.

The celebration, which is being repeated today at South school on an even larger scale, had the atmosphere of the midway at Chelsea Community Fair.

But there was one big difference. The "interest stations," which could be likened to carnival booths, were just as informative as they were entertaining. That was the whole idea of the event to show the youngsters just how much fun it can be to explore new ideas. But there weren't any canes or goldfish to take home to the parents. And it was all free of charge to the participants.

The day potentially could have been a disaster. Most of the interest stations were supposed to be outside, but the weather didn't co-operate. Even the sheer number of exhibitors involved in the event seemed to be asking for trouble. At every turn somebody was giving lessons, telling stories, singing songs, or giving demonstrations.

But it all came off smoothly. Ruth Stielstra, who runs the Enrichment Triad Program, had been organizing the event, with help from the North school staff, since early last fall, according to principal Bill Wescott. The planning was evident, and the events were timed to the minute.

It's likely the event would have come off even if Wescott hadn't survived the re-enactment of a story about him, written by young North school student Jason McVittie. Dave Brinklow played the lead character, a frog named Bill, who discovers the true meaning of life and power at North school.

The play, it was said by one teacher, showed tremendous insight considering the boy doesn't spend much time in the North school offices.

35 exhibitors lined the halls and the gym, and they'll all be at South school today, along with an extensive transportation exhibit featuring vehicles of all kinds. North school had a transportation day last fall, so it wasn't included in their celebration day.

You would hardly have recognized South school Principal Bob Benedict in his net-covered pith helmet explaining the difference between drones and workers while children examined the see-through bee hive.

Symphony orchestra leader Jed Fentemeyer gave impromptu lessons on the violin, and the screeching would have been worthy of Jack Benny.

Teacher Eric Smith, who was helping children learn to fly kites, as times was reminiscent of a vaudeville performer who tries to keep 20 plates spinning on top of long poles.

Dave Roehm gave a couple of sheep cleaner crew cuts than a Marine barber gives a new recruit.

Children stood in line to stick their index fingers into a plastic sleeve that gave them a read-out of their pulse and oxygen saturation of their blood, while a doctor answered questions.

Professional storyteller Sheila Dailey gave two performances, spinning stories about "Rumpelstiltskin," among others.

There was much more. Parents who attend South school's version today are likely to learn a thing or two about their children and the school.

If nothing else, they'll see a part of the Enrichment Triad Program at its best, what is called Type I enrichment.

A five-year-old blowing into a trombone nearly as big as he is, a three-footer standing on her toes to look through a microscope, a red-faced third grader tracing the movements of bees with his finger, they'll all tell you more about the program than all the literature from the schools combined.

School Board Studies Drastic Budget Cuts If Millage Request Fails

Chelsea school district faces more than $530,000 in additional budget cuts in areas ranging from sports to special education should voters turn down the proposed 2.9 mill increase in operating millage in the June 10 elections.

On Monday, the Chelsea school board approved a long list of cuts to be made in the event the additional millage is voted down. They touch virtually every area of the schools and would involve lay-offs at all schools. There would be no capital outlays at any of the schools, and there would be substantial cuts in texts and supplies.

Voters will either have to approve or turn down both the 2.9 mill renewal and the 2.9 mill increase as they will appear on the ballot as a single proposal.

However, the approved cuts only cover the 2.9 mill increase. In the event the 5.8 mill package is turned down, the board will either have to decide on additional cuts, or take another proposal to the voters.

"These cuts don't even count the $310,000 we had to cut to get down to the 2.9 mills," said Assistant Superintendent Fred Mills.

"Additional cuts would have a drastic effect on opportunities for students. The philosophy of the school board has been not to chop out whole programs but to share the burden among all areas."

The largest staff reductions would come at the high school, where $85,500 would be saved. That includes three staff members, one secretary and one media center aide.

The second biggest chunk, $72,000, would be lopped off in art, music and physical education in all grades, where three staff positions would be eliminated.

Extra-curricular programs would be reduced by $44,500, including all sports in grades 7-9, where they would be replaced by intramural programs ($22,000); freshman and JV cheerleading ($1,000); high school newspaper ($1,000); high school musical play ($2,000); middle school yearbook and newspaper ($1,000); and the athletic subsidy ($16,000).

Transportation reductions would amount to $16,100, in-

Try-Outs Slated for Musical 'Camelot'

Tryouts for this summer's musical "Camelot," presented by the Chelsea Area Players will be May 8-11 at Chelsea High school auditorium.

"Camelot" tells the story of King Arthur, Guenevere, Lancelot and the Knights of the Round Table. There are many memorable songs and characters. This year's production promises to be even better than before. Numerous parts are available for both men and women in singing or non-singing roles, besides the chorus.

On May 8, there will be a general information meeting at 8 p.m.

in the high school auditorium for all those interested in trying out. Try-outs will take place at the high school auditorium on Friday at 7:30 p.m. and Saturday at 3 p.m. with call-backs on Sunday.

"Camelot" will be presented at the Chelsea High school auditorium on July 17-18-19.

Besides actors and actresses, there are a great many behind the scenes needs such as set builders, stage crew, publicity and many more. Come and be a part of the magic of "Camelot" this summer.

For more information call Pat Paulsell at 475-0818.

THE SHEEP DIDN'T LIKE IT, but the children loved it, as Dave Roehm shows just how you go about getting the wool off one of the animals. Roehm sheared at least two sheep as part of Young Authors Celebration Day at North school last week. The popular attraction is scheduled to be repeated at South school today.

Urge Use of Private Contractors For Maintenance

The Michigan Road Builders Association recently urged the Legislature and the Department of Transportation to introduce competitive bidding into maintenance projects to reduce those costs.

In releasing a report comparing private versus public employees on maintenance projects, the group suggested that the expansion of government use of private contractors from construction projects to include maintenance projects would improve efficiency and lower costs.

Lawrence Martin, executive director of the Road Builders Association, said the thrust of the study was to determine the feasibility of striking a better balance between the use of public employees and contracted private employees in performing maintenance responsibilities.

He said the concept of construction by contract, or private delivery, rests on the basis of competition and the free enterprise economy.

Although specific cost savings figures were unavailable, the Michigan Road Builders Association is urging a Department of Transportation pilot plan to let contractors on maintenance projects to allow for a comparison of the cost of delivering the services by the public and private sectors.

Some maintenance projects which could be contracted include winter ice and snow removal, guard rail repair, pavement patching, sealing and joint repair, shoulder grading and replacement, roadside mowing, drainage and culvert maintenance, roadside rest area maintenance, signing and pavement marking.

Cheryl Kunk, director of communications and education for the road builder group and author of the report entitled "A Look at Using Contractors and Government Employees on Public Works Projects," said contracting out maintenance projects would also provide additional tax dollars paid by contractors hired to do the maintenance work.

The report said taxes return between 7.5 and 19 percent of the contract cost to the governments.

Ronk said that while small businesses comprise more than 95 percent of the enterprises in the country, they secured only one-fifth of the federal government's procurement dollars in 1980.

Business, in general, is estimated to receive only one-third of the possible $30 billion market annually, she said.

State Reports 22 Percent Rise In New Incorporations

Business incorporations in the first quarter of 1986 were 22 percent higher than in the comparable period of 1985, when the number of incorporations set a record at 23,500, state officials said Tuesday.

"We have made enormous strides in identifying and easing many problems when we have restrained small businesses over the years," Governor James J. Blanchard said in announcing the figures to the Small Business Day 86 conference.

"Our goal is to make Michigan the best state in the world for small business and entrepreneurs," the governor said, noting he still has 11 items of a 40-item small business agenda yet to be implemented.

Corporations and Securities Bureau officials said they have no way of knowing how many of the incorporations involved existing businesses deciding to incorporate, or if the number of those kinds of transactions has been rising.

Commerce Director Doug Ross

said Michigan's business failure rates, compiled by federal officials, "were proportionately among the lowest in the nation. It left us with a net situation which is very strong."

Deputy Commerce Director Lou Glazer said failures from January through September last year were about 3,000.

Bus Transportation Survey Being Conducted By Mail

The Ann Arbor Transportation Authority is considering the possibility of a daily bus service between Chelsea and Ann Arbor in conjunction with the Village of Chelsea, Faith in Action, Chelsea Hospital, and Chelsea United Methodist Retirement Home.

In order to determine the need for this service, all Chelsea residents in the 48118 zip code area will be receiving a transportation survey asking the approximate number of times and trips that might be made per month.

It is very important that the surveys be returned as soon as possible. Without proven interest on the part of the Chelsea community, this bus service will not be approved.

If anyone outside of the 48118 zip code area would use the service and would be interested in filling out the survey, extra copies will be available at the Village Offices, Faith in Action, the main desk at Chelsea Hospital, or the Chelsea Methodist Home.

All surveys need to be returned by May 16.

Nominations Sought for Your Favorite Senior

May is the month designated to seniors. The Ann Arbor Senior Citizens Guild is sponsoring a Washtenaw county contest to identify and honor outstanding seniors. From all nominations submitted three men and three women will be chosen by a nominating selection board to be honored at a Public Awards Banquet on June 19 known as the "Winners."

There are so many of these deserving seniors in Washtenaw county who have given so unselfishly of their time for those less fortunate, and those who have contributed in education, health, single parenthood, or many other services which have made Washtenaw county a better place to live in.

Nominees should be 65 or older, lived in Washtenaw county at least 10 years. Senior Citizens Guild board members are not eligible. Nominations are open to all seniors regardless of race, color or creed.

Local residents who wish to nominate a man or woman for the contest are asked to send a one-page letter outlining the candidate's qualifications to the Ann Arbor Senior Citizens Guild, 502 W. Huron St., Ann Arbor 48103. The letter should include the name, address and telephone number of the nominee as well as the name, address and phone number of the person nominating.

The Guild will accept nominations through May 31 and the six successful candidates will be honored at a banquet to be held June 19 at the Michigan League.

Additional information on the contest may be obtained by calling the Guild at 665-3357.

Nurse Week Observed

Registered nurses in the Dexter area practice in a wide variety of settings, but their common goal is quality care for all people. This is the message behind the Michigan Nurse-Week activities planned by the Washtenaw/Livingston/Macroe District Nurses Association which is joining the Michigan Nurses Association and over 60,000 registered nurses state-wide in celebrating Michigan Nurse Week, May 4-10.

"The one week celebration has been declared in communities across the state to bring to public attention nursing's common goals," states Susan Carr. "Although nurses practice in varied settings, they share commitments to health promotion and quality health care for all people."

Michigan Nurse Week is sponsored by the Michigan Nurses Association, the professional association for registered nurses in Michigan.

A VIEW from the CLOCK TOWER

By Will Connelly

By now we have become so dependent on aviation for travel, mail and the urgent transport of freight, it is alarming to realize that our national reserves of oil will be exhausted in just 35 years, and planes, as we now know them, cannot fly without petroleum.

Soon we will reach the year 2000 and by 2300 the world's largest supply of coal, America's, will have gone up in purified smoke.

We have the time and technological genius to anticipate the long range depletion of coal and other useful minerals, but oil is something else. There is the added element of anxiety because of our dependence on fossil fuels from the Persian Gulf. One-third of our needs, five million barrels a day, comes from that area.

The Arab holdup in 1973-74 quadrupled the price of a barrel of oil and doubled again following the Iranian revolution in 1979. If that seemed bad, look at your world atlas and you will see the 25-mile wide Strait of Hormuz through which one-fifth of the world's oil supply is shipped. Block this artery, and the oil crisis will be two to three times as severe as in the 70's. Cars on Main St., Chelsea would be lined up between gas pumps from Orchard St. to Old US-12 and back.

Someday we may generate and store huge amounts of electricity from wind and sun, with helpful support from biomass materials (garbage and burnable waste). Someday we may be able to use the enormous strength of the rise and fall of ocean tides as a boundless source of energy.

At the present time, however, the best, safest and most reliable source of electrical energy, even while coal supplies continue to be available, is nuclear power fueled by uranium.

Before the meltdown of the Soviet (Chernobyl) reactor, public opinion against the peaceful use of nuclear power in America was in a ratio of two to one. Public opinion surveys show that the negative ratio of two to one still prevails after the Chernobyl disaster. I believe that part of this ongoing public antipathy is the dark memory of Hiroshima and Nagasaki. Added to this is the universal revulsion against nuclear war and the totally erroneous belief that nuclear power plant failure in the United States might kill millions of people.

There have also been suggestions that uranium stolen from nuclear power plants might be used by terrorists to construct suitcase nuke bombs.

All of these feelings and myths have been skillfully exploited by activists who seek to weaken the economic and military strength of free democratic nations. The activists will follow in lock step with the Communist Party line, treating the Chernobyl disaster as a mere incident while calling for the shutdown and dismantling of all nuclear power plants in the United States. In the meantime, the Soviet Union will quietly continue building more and more nuclear power plants knowing that their oil reserves are running out too. Most of their ideas for the design of nuclear power plants come from American concepts and for Chernobyl the Soviets chose to imitate one of our poorest examples. They will now turn to deuterium enriched "heavy water" designs of nuclear power plants or boiling water reactor designs instead of the inflammable graphite used in the plants at Chernobyl. And they will sheath their reactors, as we do, with concrete containment structures.

A major concern in nuclear power technology is waste disposal. There are low level wastes from mills that process uranium ore. Other materials that emit very low levels of radiation include filters, rags, protective clothing and tools used in nuclear plants as well as radioactive wastes from hospitals, laboratories and pharmaceutical companies. These are disposed in accordance with federal regulations. Spent fuel in nuclear power plants consists of large amounts of still usable uranium and plutonium fuel, plus small amounts of highly radioactive material which is called high level waste.

Morbid scenarios of disasters in radioactive waste disposal have been at the heart of activist protests, posters, publicity and news releases for years.

The fact is that all the spent fuel produced since the beginning of the nuclear industry could fit within a single football field and be only about three feet deep. Actual burial of radioactive waste takes place in government approved locations and under government supervision. The highly radioactive material is sealed in cylindrical containers so strong they can remain intact after test collisions with concrete barricades at 80 miles per hour.

The American nuclear power industry has this record: It leads the world in nuclear power output and no one employed in any American nuclear plant has ever suffered accidental death or injury from nuclear radiation. This includes Three Mile Island.

To the best of my knowledge the same safety record applied to the nuclear power industry in France which now produces 60 percent of that country's electricity. Belgium, Finland, Sweden, Switzerland and Japan also have fast growing nuclear power industries. This makes sense because they have little or no national reserves of oil.

Thanks to the scare tactics of the activists, plus increasing stumbling blocks imposed by government agencies, it takes 10 or more years for approval, oversight and clearance inspections before a new reactor can go into production. The cost of the plants now runs into the billions. Nevertheless, once the reactors start operating, they produce the cheapest power of all.

There are about 200 anti-nuclear activists who form a group known as the Union of Concerned Scientists and there are almost 130,000 scientists listed in American Men and Women of Science who choose not to be identified with the Union.

A majority of 741 scientists chosen at random in a survey by the U. S. Committee for Energy Awareness is strongly in favor of nuclear power. Ninety-five percent approve of nuclear power as a source of public energy and 67 percent of the surveyed scientists feel that industry growth should proceed rapidly.

There's no getting around it: The sudden disappearance of natural gas and oil will certainly alter our lives. We sure don't want coal fired automobiles or, much as we love them, horses used for horse power.

For two or three centuries to come we can heat our homes with coal, wood or electricity from any source whatever. The central problem is mobile power for aircraft, automobiles, trucks, tractors, farm and construction equipment, plus on-the-job power tools. Our brightest hopes for energizing these machines lie in the development of smaller, more efficient, rechargeable batteries and the production of affordable synthetic fuels.

Writing in Scientific American back in 1977, Bernard L. Cohen, professor of physics at the University of Pittsburgh, offered this thought provoking statement:

"Within a few generations we shall have used up all the world's economically recoverable copper, tin, zinc, mercury, lead and dozens of other elements, leaving fewer options for our descendants to exploit for materials. Moreover, we are burning hydrocarbons—coal, oil and gas—at the rate of millions of tons each day, depriving our descendants not only of fuels but also feedstocks for making plastics, organic chemicals, pharmaceuticals and other useful products. These burdens are surely far heavier than any conceivable burden resulting from the appropriate burial of nuclear wastes."

"What makes this comparison particularly pertinent is that the only way we can compensate our descendants for the materials we are denying them is to leave them with a technology that will enable them to live in reasonable comfort without these materials. The key to such a technology must be a cheap and abundant energy. With a cheap and abundant energy and a reasonable degree of inventiveness man can find substitutes for nearly anything. The only source we can now guarantee is nuclear fission."

This Week's Thought

DONALD A. COLE

Archaeologists proved people have honored mothers and motherhood for 20,000 years. Statues of mother goddesses were among the cave men's earliest artistry. Egyptian tombs feature many pictures of mothers with their families.

Ever since Ann Jarvis conducted an intensive letter writing campaign, Mother's Day has been recognized in every state in the union. President Wilson proclaimed it a national holiday in 1914.

We in America celebrate the holiday with memories of mothers who gave us life and provided us with sweetness and gentleness. The memories include how they guided our early steps, how they stood by in sickness and times of sorrow and sadness, and how they comforted us.

Mother's Day is a beautiful holiday of memories. Whether mother is with us or not. Her guiding hand, love of beauty, devotion and faithfulness deserves prayers of thankfulness that God gave us a Mother. To all mothers and children, like we hope Mother's Day is truly a happy day of memories for all of you.

Auditions Slated for 'Annie Get Your Gun'

Dexter Players are sorry to announce that they will not be able to do "South Pacific" this year because of conflicts with Rodgers and Hammerstein in obtaining a contract. The reason for the conflict is that there is going to be a professional road show of "South Pacific" coming to Detroit and Flint during the summer, and Dexter falls in those areas.

So the Dexter Community Players will proudly present "Annie Get Your Gun!" This show is said to be Irving Berlin's most successful show with old fashion entertainment at its best. The plot is a rags-to-riches story with a little romance to boot. There is lots of singing, dancing and just a lot of good old fashioned fun in this summer's show for everyone. The setting for the show is Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show, and the major idea Buffalo Bill gives his audiences is of the glamor of show business. There are many favorite songs for the show but one of the all-time favorites is "There's No Business Like Show Business!"

The Dexter Players are also excited to announce that Mary Ann Stevenson will be their summer musical director. Mary Ann has been a long-time friend of the players, directing many musicals with the group such as "Oklahoma," "Guys & Dolls," "The Pajama Game," and "Brigadoon."

Audition dates for "Annie Get Your Gun" have been set for May 19-20-21-24, at Copeland Gym. Auditions start at 7:30 p.m. on the 19 and 20th for all adults who are interested in being in the show. On May 21, children between the ages of 6-12 are encouraged to audition at 7:30 p.m. There are several children's parts in the show that include singing and maybe some dancing. On May 21 there will be adult call-backs, too. May 24 has been set aside for auditions by appointment, especially for college students who want to participate in the show and can only be home on the week-end for auditions. If you are interested in an audition by appointment call Maryann Stevenson at 425-4749 and set up a time!

All interested people in the Dexter Community are invited to come and join the group on these dates of auditions for "Annie Get Your Gun." The requirements are: an interest in having fun with others; any and all different types, shapes, and sizes of people; and all kinds and varieties of talents.

The cast of "Annie Get Your Gun" is quite large, totaling more than 30 people, so there should be a part just meant for you! Some of the parts are Annie Oakley, Frank Butler, Charlie Davenport, Chief Sitting Bull, Buffalo Bill, Dolly Tate, to name just a few!

Please make a note of these dates, get out your cowboy hats and six shooters, start growing a mustache (men only!), and join the group on May 19-20-21-24 for auditions of "Annie Get Your Gun!"

Arbor Days Observed at Schools With Tree Plantings

Arbor Days in Chelsea, April 25 and 26, were extended into a week as students and adults planted 210 evergreens given by members of the Chelsea Rod and Gun Club.

Five blue spruces averaging three to five feet in height were given to St. Mary's church and a similar number of well grown spruces were planted on the south lawn of the Cameron Pool, replacing trees planted in 1985 which had failed to thrive.

Friday was the intended Arbor Day for the four Chelsea schools but delayed delivery advanced the planting until the following week. Two hundred blue spruce seedlings, obtained by the club from the Washtenaw County Soil Conservation District, were delivered to Don Young, science teacher at the Dwight E. Beach middle school. It was agreed that in 1986 all of the seedlings—50 for each of the four Chelsea schools—would be planted this year in the Beach School Nature Center, and that the planting would be done by Beach students under the direction of Young.

Some of the Arbor Day seedlings planted on school grounds last year did not survive, a situation experienced by tree nursery experts and more commonly by non-professionals. Some of the 1985 seedlings were accidentally destroyed by lawn mowers.

The 1986 tree plantings should be more successful. For the Arbor Days of 1987, plans will be made well in advance for additional site selections involving more students.

"The Arbor Day plantings are important lessons in conservation. Learning how to plant and care for trees is an experience and a memory, that lasts a lifetime," Rick Monier, president and chief conservation officer of the Chelsea Rod and Gun Club, said.

A DOZEN LOCUST TREES have been planted on N. Main St. in front of Chelsea Industries in an effort to beautify that part of town. Chelsea Industries itself was behind the effort, as Dr. Jim Bos-ford, Bill Hafner and Bob Gladstone did the actual planting, and "Jack Deen cracked the whip," Bosford said. He indicated that in the next year or so trees will be planted all the way up to the clock tower building. The locust is a narrow-leaf tree that should minimize leaf problems in the fall.

Budget Cuts Needed If Millage Request Fails

...$150,000 in salaries, $11,500 in utilities, $10,000 in transportation, $5,000 in elementary swimming, transportation, and $5,000 in other supplies. Also, the purchase of two additional buses would have to be eliminated amounting to another $100,000.

South school would lose one teacher and one media aide, for a savings of $30,000.

The gifted/talented program at the elementary schools would be chopped $20,000.

Administrative services, from legal fees to postage, would be cut $21,500.

Special education would lose two teacher aides, saving $16,000.

Another $13,000 would be cut from community education in the form of secretarial services, teachers' supplies, program brochures and senior citizen services.

The Cameron pool would be closed for summer activities and the elementary swimming program would be cut, saving $10,000.

Field trips for students would be cut entirely, for savings of $8,000.

Middle school and high school band and orchestra summer programs would be dropped, saving $3,000.

Money for supplies and textbooks would remain at this year's levels.

"Many of the proposed cuts are in programs that have been part of the district for many years," Mills said.

"But people in Chelsea support their schools, and given the facts I believe they'll continue to support them."

The school operating millage stands at 35.62 mills. Voters will be asked to approve both a 2.9 mill increase, and a 2.9 renewal of millage first approved in 1983.

An additional 2.9 mills will bring the district $54,940, or just enough to cover the cuts of $53,964.

Additional taxes on a $60,000 home would amount to $87 per year. That exact amount is figured by multiplying the assessed value of the property, which is supposed to be half of actual value, and multiplying that by .0029.

Voters approved the 1983 millage by 76 votes, with slightly more than 2,000 votes cast.

Although the nation's 50 million working women represent 44 percent of the total labor force, in 1984 they accounted for 16 percent of all physicians and lawyers and 6 percent of engineers, 5 percent of machinists, 3 percent of mechanics and repairers, and 1 percent of plumbers, according to "Meeting the Challenges of the 80s," a publication of the Women's Bureau of the U. S. Department of Labor.

Civic Foundation Grant Made to Aging Council

A "seed money" grant of $500 has been awarded by the Civic Foundation of Chelsea to the Washtenaw County Council on Aging. The announcement was made by John Mitchell, president, following board approval of a recommendation of its distribution committee headed by Bill Nuffer.

"Many older adults in our county are unaware of support services that are available to them," said Christine Brail, director of the Washtenaw Council on Aging. "The most isolated elderly residents were found during our 1983-84 survey to be in rural areas."

The Council on Aging turned to Chelsea as a launch site for rural outreach, not only because of the prospect for financial assistance from the Foundation, but because of assurances of help from the Chelsea Senior Citizens Center and Catholic Social Services.

The central aim of the project is to locate at-risk elderly and guide them to the many resources of assistance which are available in the Chelsea community. Those who work as volunteers in the project are known as "gatekeepers" because they open gates for elderly to companionship, better health care, improved nutrition and assistance with problems that are often unsolvable in a state of loneliness.

Chelsea Senior Citizens phone number is 475-9112 and the Washtenaw County Council on Aging may be reached by dialing 665-0825.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

I am writing in regards to the Village (that is Fritz Weber's) policy towards public use of the softball diamonds at Vet's Park.

Two Sundays ago my softball team was playing ball at Vet's Park after a seemingly never-ending winter hiatus from our beloved sport. A short while before we were finished, a Chelsea Police Officer approached and informed us that he had had a complaint about us playing softball on the field. Surprised, I asked him what in the world the complaint was about. "Playing ball," he sheepishly said. "There is no softball playing allowed on the softball fields." And yes, it sounded as stupid to the ear as it looks in print.

Now, to the officer's credit, he said that he could see no sense to it either and did not enforce the rule unless he had a complaint to act on. I told him that the only other fields in town had other teams playing on them. He mercifully gave us 20 minutes to finish our practice and leave, which we did. The officer also thought maybe we could sign up for playing time permission at the Village Office. That sounded peculiar, but reasonable. At this point, we still had hope that reason would prevail.

Well, it didn't and now I'm very angry. The woman up at the office told us no, we could not sign up for playing time because Fritz Weber had made a rule that public use of the field was not allowed. The only time we could legally use the diamonds at this public park was during league games of the men's softball league or by signing up for a game and paying $25. And why? You guessed it: because playing softball on the fields was bad for them.

Absolutely outraged, we applied for a permit anyway just to see if we could get permission to use the fields for $25. Did we receive permission?—No! Did we even receive a reply?—No!

Let's review where we stand. First of all, we are not allowed to use the facilities of a public park without paying an extra fee. This is in spite of the fact that I have a team of 14 players who, except for one, either presently reside and pay taxes here in Chelsea or who grew up and went to school here their whole lives and now live in surrounding communities.

Now, I assume that Dana Corp. relinquished control of the land when they donated it to the Village to make public ball diamonds with. But, I think the spirit of the gift has been smothered. Surely it was not intended for the ball diamonds to be built only to be admired from afar. They are there to be used. Any other community would encourage this type of group activity, not hinder it. Good, clean fun, I think is what it is called.

Second, I'm told that playing softball on a softball diamond is somehow detrimental to it. This is so ludicrous as to be mind boggling. My team even carries a rake and shovel to do a little of our own maintenance. Now don't get me wrong; I understand wear and tear. Maintenance is a part of any public facility, but, is it reason enough to deny access to the park?

Worst of all, they are overlooking some of the worst offenders. That very same day I sat by in horror while children used the swingset, played on the park play ship and even ran around on the grass. Wear and tear everywhere you look—Disgusting!

Third, we were told that there were other fields to play ball at and if these were filled, it was suggested that we use "someone's backyard." I find it hard to understand this type of callous attitude. There are three other diamonds in town suitable for men's softball. There are close to 20 men's softball teams in Chelsea, not to mention all the children's and women's teams. They want all of us to fight over these three fields while two perfectly good diamonds lie empty because of some ridiculous rule. Anybody that has ever tried to find a place to practice regularly in town can attest to this over-crowding problem. I was so happy years ago when I heard that two new ball fields were being built in town for softball, never suspecting I would be denied access to them.

In conclusion, I would just like to say that any obstacles in the way towards an open-door park policy certainly should not be insurmountable, if they exist at all. Let's bear what these alleged problems are and address them. It's certainly a healthier attitude than—"It's my softball field and you can't use it."

Tom Lizzy
Manager of Smoke Softball Team.

Dear Mr. Editor:

Once more calander and wise-men set aside a day to honor mother.

As one opinion, it's a beautiful tradition, and one special day that spreads itself over 364 more

LAST THURSDAY'S WINDSTORM uprooted this large tree on Jefferson St., and sent it crashing into another tree across the street. No one was hurt in the incident, and village crews had the tree cut up within hours. The wind brought down branches all over town, and blew trash everywhere as the spring pick-up was also in progress.

days, till the next-year rolls around! Super great indeed! The following words speak so much as a message to my Mother—May we share?

Dear Mother, you are among the dearest treasures I can have in life. You put a gleam in my eyes, a joy in my heart.

I know you try your best to weave the loom of life that I can live by. Many times the threads do not seem to fall into place. They seem to be tangled. But my heart is assured that you are trying to work out the best design that you can.

Not all designers in life are great and famous, some are weak, some meek, some bold, and some are strong. But I know in my heart, Mother, if you could weave the loom of life perfectly and take all of the tangles out and be the greatest designer of all, that this you would do.

Forget it Mom, I love you!
Millie Warner
P.S. May all mothers called home by God, from their place in Heaven, somehow know this writing is for them as well.

Dear Chelsea Standard:

The death toll now stands at four.

In all the recent excitement surrounding Khadafi's Soviet-inspired terrorism and our President's courageous stand against it, how quickly we have forgotten the four college students who have lost their lives this year in slauges from Florida hotel balconies—each the victim of drunken Spring Break "festivities." Imagine the suffering of their parents. To lose a child before he has even finished medical school and set up a practice! (Two of the dead, I'm told, were Jewish.)

I wonder if today's college students appreciate what a privilege Spring Break is. The average working stiff is lucky enough to get out of the plant a half-hour early for softball practice. Do you think a college kid would be wasting his time "chug-a-lugging" and judging wet T-shirt contests if he had a mortgage and a Buick station wagon to pay off?

Television and movies such as "Where the Boys Are" and "Hardbodies" see no help. They show people getting up without even a scratch after plunges from hotel balconies, as if they were characters in a Saturday morning cartoon show (e.g., Road Runner, Wile E. Coyote, etc.).

I also read that a group of black students from Huron High school in Ann Arbor spent their Spring Break visiting colleges they might like to attend after graduation. While young people of this nature are undoubtedly less concerned with improving their sun-tans, I was nevertheless impressed. Our white children should be so industrious. And I would bet there is no such thing as Spring Break in Japan!

When I was a senior in high school, the popular (i.e., rich) kids flew to the Bahamas for Spring Break. My buddy and I stayed home to work at the car wash. We were thankful for the rainy weather since it kept the number of cars down.

Dwayne Purdy,
Manchester.

Auto Vandalized In Parking Lot

Someone vandalized an automobile while it was parked in the Chelsea High school parking lot during the night of April 24. Chelsea police said the passenger door window was broken out, the windshield broken and headlights smashed on a 1973 Chevelle. Nearby was a "flat-sized rock." The incident was reported by Tim Bowditch.

North School Celebration Enriches Young Lives

HOW A MICROSCOPE WORKS was the subject of the day for medical technician Sue Rutledge as she had her display set up in the North school library. Her table was normally surrounded by inquisitive youngsters during North school's Young Authors Celebration Day.

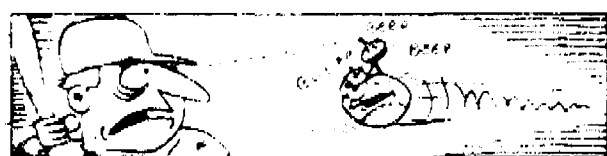

TOM HODGSON entertained the youngsters and elders alike with his folk songs and ballads during Young Authors Celebration Day at North school last week. He's scheduled to be on hand today at South school as well. In the back, Joe Franklin, Josh Bernhard, Erin Baird and Genny Hummer all take a listen.

GINGER WATSON shows how it used to be done as she demonstrated one of her talents to North school youngsters last Wednesday. Her spinning and carding exhibit was one of more than 30 interest centers at North school last Wednesday afternoon.

TRYING OUT THE TRUMPET is Elizabeth Holdsworth, as Mike Dunlap, a music student at the University of Michigan, gives her an introductory lesson in the cumbersome instrument. Andy Patterson looks on. It was a part of Young Authors Celebration Day at North school.

Ron Hunt, an infielder who played with various National League teams, holds the record for getting hit by pitched balls. 243.

IT WAS MEETING ON THE PLAYGROUND for fourth grade teacher Eric Smith as he taught youngsters about the fine art of kite flying last week during Young Authors Celebration Day. Gummy grounds celebrated the lesson a bit, too, while getting the kids off the ground with a kite. Holding the kite is Peter Smith, while Jay Franklin looks on, and Ryan Lafferty runs away.

TOM FRANKLIN, one of the many parents who turned out for Young Authors Celebration Day at North school last week, consults with an x-ray technician from the American Lung Association, about the devices on the table, while son Tom, right, looks on. The display featured a device that allowed a human guinea pig to stick an index finger in a plastic sleeve, and within seconds, receive a printout of pulse rate and blood oxygen saturation. Curious parents can likely see it all on display at South school today.

MATT McVITTIE learns how to hold a trumpet as he and other North school students were introduced to the instruments by University of Michigan music students last week. Ray Yarnall waits his turn. Young Authors Celebration Day was an event for the entire school. South school has its fun today.

Maynard Ferguson To Perform in Saline and $5 for students. Tickets will be $10 and $8 at the door the evening of the performance," Walter stated.

"We are charging a very reasonable rate for a performer of the international stature of Maynard Ferguson, but we hope to attract many students and families that would not be drawn to the more expensive performances in some of the larger communities. Advance tickets may be purchased from our community school office for $8 for adults, Inquiries about tickets should be directed to the Saline Community School office, 429-4931, or to any Saline Big Band member.

Jed Fritzsche, Chelsea school orchestra director, will be performing with the Saline Big Band in the Maynard Ferguson concert. "Jed is really one of two superstars that we have in the Saline Big Band," said director David Walter. "We plan to have him play a solo on the acoustic bass, which is very unusual for a bass player."

John Kirkendall Seeks Appointment To Probate Court

A group of prominent Washtenaw county citizens have announced it is circulating petitions to nominate Ypsilanti attorney John N. Kirkendall to the vacancy in the Washtenaw County Probate Court. Committee members are Ray Bushup, Gene Bulman, John Kausch, Richard N. Kobb, Beatrice Thomas, Pam Byrnes, John Burton, Jeffrey Brookshire, Ann J. Stepp, Ruth Ann Jamnick, and Henry Kitchie. Kirkendall, 48, a graduate of the University of Michigan law school has been in the general practice of law since 1983.

He has served in the State Bar of Michigan as a member of the Representative Assembly and is a past president of the Washtenaw County Bar Association. A former member of the Ypsilanti City Council, he has also served on the city's building authority and Civil Service Commission.

The group explained that Kirkendall would bring to this office a unique combination of extensive legal experience and long standing commitment to public service.

The vacancy was created by the retirement of Rodney E. Hutchinson, who also was a former member of the Ypsilanti City Council.

Kirkendall is being interviewed on May 6, by the State Bar of Michigan. The Bar will forward its report to the Governor who will then have the opportunity to fill the opening in Washtenaw county.

Although progress is being made in moving women into jobs once virtually closed to them, the term "women's work" is not yet outdated. The top 10 jobs for women are secretary, cashier, bookkeeper, registered nurse, waitress, elementary school teacher, nursing aide, sales worker, sales supervisor/proprietor and typist, almost all relatively low paying jobs, according to "Meeting the Challenges of the 80s," a publication of the Women's Bureau of the U. S. Department of Labor.

WORK IS ON SCHEDULE for completion of the main storm sewer line on W. Middle St., according to assistant village administrator Lee Fahrner, who (back turned) is guiding the installation of the pipe in the photo. He said most of the main line should be completed by the end of this week. However, that part of W. Middle St. will be closed to through traffic until July as the street work still has to be completed.

WALT BROWN SHOWN WITH MORGANNE decorative carving donated by artist Tom Serwell (standing with Brown) as one of the items to be auctioned at the 1986 Ducks Unlimited banquet.

SUCCESSFUL MURDER HUNTERS SHOWN with a trayful of the tasty sandwiches are Tony Huber, Commonwealth Lake and Jim Spaulding of East St. The young men gathered 180 muskrats in an hour's time, Saturday, May 3, in the Chelsea area. Spaulding explained the pair and their wives were preparing a sumptuous meal to feature pan-fried muskrats and catfish he took on a Michigan fishing outing earlier in the week. Muskrat hunters traditionally never reveal the location from which they pick the tender muskrats, but both hunters indicated they intend not to put the route. A good rule, they advised, will result in replacements as the muskrat rots from which they collected the "near two hundred."

Ducks Unlimited Chapter Hosts Annual Banquet Friday

"When you set out to save ducks, you save a lot of living things along the way," read those who gathered for the sixth annual banquet hosted by members of the Western Washenaw chapter of Ducks Unlimited, Friday, May 2, at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Dexter.

Tom Serwell and Bill Clark, who co-chaired the event for 1986, explained on behalf of the WW chapter, welcomed both members and guests to the banquet.

Further explaining the committee members had been hard at work improving this year's drawings and auctions while maintaining the quality for the evening's enjoyment, they recognized "in print" committee members Ralph Blasey, Bruce Bradley, Walt Brown, Jim Burns, Mark Hettig, Gary Gould and Gary Josefczyk.

Continuing the list of active committee workers, Ted Klappeneich, Jim Koch, Richard Melhorn, Mark Payeur, Parker Pennington, John Russell, Fred Schmid, Bob Smith, Tim Sommers, Dave Spielman, Craig Wales and Chester Wilson were cited for their assistance.

Bill Pierce served as the evening's master of ceremonies, in addition to being the 1986 dinner ticket chairman.

Auctioneers Lloyd Braun and Jerry Helmer donated their services during the evening.

Donation chairman this year was Tom Geo, and the WW chapter's treasurer, Fred Swope, and secretary, Chuck Shipman, assisted with the activities.

Many are aware of the alarming decrease of waterfowl throughout our Mississippi flyway," Serwell and Clark advised those attending the event.

One of the major causes for this rapid decline is the loss of natural habitat. The purpose of the Ducks Unlimited organization is to restore and rehabilitate prime waterfowl breeding grounds.

In addition to the Canadian wetland restoration projects, a new program has just begun.

With the arrival of MARSH (Marshland Aid to Restore States' Habitat), funds are available for projects that include the development and management of waterfowl breeding, migrating or wintering habitat in Michigan and elsewhere in the United States.

"Each member of Ducks Unlimited can take pride in knowing that in helping DU, he or she is helping ducks all over North America, including those in our own back yard," commented the event's co-chairmen.

Noting the members' contribution to Ducks Unlimited is a vital link in the chain of dollars reaching the habitat areas of North America's waterfowl resource, Serwell and Clark thanked the group at the banquet for their help.

Special guests at the event included Dexter area wildlife artists Cathy McClune and Marti Naudi.

Ms. McClune was very recently chosen 1985 Feature Artist for the Michigan Habitat Foundation Show and was also selected recently for the Robert Bateman Master Class. She indicated at the gathering Friday evening she was both pleased and honored at the recognition.

The Dexter artists' other honors include being named 1986 Ohio Ducks Unlimited Artist, finalist status during 1979, '81, '82, '84 and '85 Michigan duck stamp competitions, second place in the 1983 and 1984 Michigan Wildlife Artist of the Year competition, third place in 1983 DU artist of the year, 1982 best of show at Midwest Art Show.

Her work was selected for the prestigious Leight Yawkey Woodson Museum's Birds in Art exhibition for the years 1982, 1983 and 1985.

As a pioneer in the acrylic watercolor technique, her style is easily recognized. Layer upon layer of glazes are used to create the transition between the precise shapes of the foreground to the soft blur of distant leaves. Her work is frequently honored in both bird and waterfowl art competitions, and is displayed at numerous shows and galleries.

She has illustrated for the Michigan Natural Resources magazine.

Her home is in a wooded area of rural Webster township where she finds the proper atmosphere for her artistic endeavors.

Newer to the wildlife artistic world, Marti Naudi is self-taught, and moved to Michigan from her native Texas in 1976.

She explains her love of creatures goes back as far as she can remember. Squirrels and birds thrive in her yard.

Her love for art is a long-time addiction. Surrounded by the natural beauty of Michigan, she hopes to mature as an artist.

Her works may be found throughout Michigan and Texas, and several of her paintings hang in collections in Australia, England, Turkey and France.

Both the special guests donated artistic pieces to the auctions conducted at this year's banquet event. Other artist donors included Harry Antis, Kathy Blasey, Tim Sommers, Lou Betka, Tom Serwell, John Wurster, Jim Foote, Jean Victor, Charles Mueber and Harry Willscher.

In addition to the artist donors, there were a great number of added donors who contributed to the success of the 1986 DU event. Without the support from those individuals and companies, the banquet would not have been such a resounding success and the work of Ducks Unlimited might not progress as it now will, explained the 1986 co-chairmen.

The many useful contributions as well as the impressive artistic works would turn the head of today's citizens and stagger the imagination of their ancestors.

Winding up the festivities of the evening, Serwell and Clark thanked everyone at the gathering and invited them to return again for the 1987 event.

Cassidy Lake Escapee Returns Voluntarily

A Cassidy Lake Technical School inmate who walked away from the institution last Saturday morning turned himself in later that day, Chelsea police reported.

Jeffrey Gonzales, 21, apparently got lost and scared and decided to turn himself in, Cassidy Lake officials said.

Gonzales was immediately transferred to Southern Michigan Prison in Jackson for reclassification.

NEW DIRECTOR of the Waterloo Recreation Area is Gordon Archer, a 28-year veteran of the Department of Natural Resources. He most recently worked at Indian Lake State Park in the upper peninsula near Marquette.

Gordon Archer Now Heads Waterloo Recreation Area

Gordon Archer, a 21-year veteran of the Department of Natural Resources, has been appointed the new director of the Waterloo Recreation Area.

Archer, 44, a Coldwater native, replaces George Rob, who was promoted to a position in Roscommon last November.

Archer most recently served for 11 years at Indian Lake State Park near Marquette in the Upper Peninsula. He has also served at Lapeer, Tahquamenon Falls, and Holland. He received his degree in park management from Michigan State University in 1966.

His new position will provide a completely different change of pace.

"Indian Lake is a scenic, natural, non-developed area that is not intensively used except during June, July and August," Archer said.

"Waterloo is intensively used all year and there are many diversified activities. It is also spread out over 20,000 acres whereas Indian Lake is about 8,000 acres. Waterloo is the largest recreation area in lower Michigan and one of the largest in the state. The only ones larger are in the UP."

Part of Archer's most recent job was managing the area of Big Spring, Michigan's largest open water spring. He was also involved directly in the day-to-day management of the Indian Lake campgrounds. He sees his new position as more administrative, and less on-the-road work.

Archer, who took over in the middle of April, says several Waterloo projects are in the works.

He said the access sites at both Cedar and Crooked Lakes will be improved. Road work will be done and the launching pad will be upgraded.

Mill Lake Outdoor Center will get two new log cabins to replace two of the buildings that burned down.

Hiking trails between the Waterloo area and the Pincney Recreation Area will be joined this summer. This will provide more than 40 miles of continuous trails.

Work will be done on Sylvan Pond this summer with the goal of re-planting rainbow trout in it by next summer. Silt will be removed and the water level raised, Archer said.

Archer's family will be moving here after the school year. His wife, Mary Lou, has worked as a typewriter for the Marquette Pioneer-Tribune, the local Marquette newspaper.

The Archers have four children. Michael, 21, a student at Spring Arbor College; David, 19, a student at Ferris State College; Tom, 18, a senior in high school; and Amy, 12, who will be a freshman at Chelsea High school next fall.

Archer is an avid outdoorsman, and has been active in his local community. He has been a Little League director, a member of the Kiwanis Club, and has been active in the United Methodist Church.

Aquatic Life To Be Topic for Nature Center Walk

"Spring at Baldwin Ponding" will be the topic of an outing at the Waterloo Nature Center on Saturday, May 10 beginning at 1:30 p.m.

Molly Hartman will lead the walk to study birds, aquatic plants and fish and insects in the marsh.

The program is free, but be prepared to get your feet wet. A vehicle permit is required in the center.

CHICKEN SHEER KEDDERS was one of the specialties Janice Martin prepared during last week's event at North school. Adults appreciate the samples more than the children. Sara Martin looks on, along with North school custodian Sarah Joseph.

Forensics Team 4th in State Meet

Shawn Quilter and Susan Overdorf took a fourth place trophy for their performance of "Sybil" at the State Forensics Tournament at Eastern Michigan University last week-end.

As a team, Chelsea finished in sixth place, competing against schools of all sizes.

Laura Goderis finished in sixth place with her subject, "Abuse to the Elderly."

Jeff Mason finished 10th place in the humorous category with his version of the radio news.

The multiple group of John Catell, Chris Acree, Kevin Flanigan and Jay Hurd, performing "The Spirit of Imagination," placed 12th. Maurer finished 14th with a sales pitch on "Visit Wymond."

Softball Pitchers Hurl Two No-Hit Games In Last Week's Action

Any contest for the Chelsea team might be the one that's played.

The Bulldogs last half a game in the Eastern Conference by not playing the Lincoln Red Sox in one game of the scheduled double header.

The weather, however, permitted the game to be played.

In the first game that was played, Chelsea defeated the Big Reds in a 10-0 victory, behind the pitching of Jennifer Cantell.

In the second action last week, the Bulldogs shut out Lincoln, 10-0, and split with class C powerhouse Maroon, winning 1-0, and losing 0-2.

"It hasn't been playing Milan because they are a very weak team," Walker said. "We probably would have won the game."

Defiant pitched the Big Reds to just two hits, and struck out five and didn't walk anyone.

The Bulldogs' pitchers run in each of the first two innings as they were the beneficiaries of numerous Milan walks. The only inning they didn't score in was the fourth, but they made up for it with eight runs in the fifth.

Trisha Mitchell provided the offensive punch, going 3-4 with two home runs, a double, and a single, and five runs. Cheryl Ford also had a home run, and a single in the sixth inning, good for another three runs.

Kelly Stump hit safely twice.

Junior Pam Brown continued her torrid pace on the mound with a 10-0, two-hit shut out in the first game against the Red Sox. She struck out six and gave up just two hits and one walk in five innings of work.

Chelsea scored two in the first, and five more in the third inning on the strength of Jenny Cantell's three-run home run to left field that went all the way to the fence.

The Bulldogs came back with seven more runs in the fourth inning. Again, Lincoln pitching yielded a lot of walks, which kept the number of Chelsea hits to a minimum.

In the second Lincoln game, Defiant tossed her first no-hitter in an eight strike-out performance. Only three Chelsea errors kept her from recording a perfect game. She also helped herself with a two-run homer in the first inning.

After the third inning, Chelsea held an 8-0 lead. Again, there wasn't an abundance of hitting as Lincoln issued a lot of free passes.

Michelle Easton picked up the only other extra-base hit with a triple.

Cantell and Stump each had two hits.

Chelsea looked like last year's championship team in the first game with Morency, Walker said, as Brown threw a no-hitter, facing only one batter more than the minimum. One Bulldog error kept her from a perfect game. It was her third no-hitter of the season.

Chelsea scored both runs in the top of the seventh inning. Cantell singled and stole second base. Defiant followed with a fly ball that was not long enough to advance Cantell. Easton followed with a walk, and Stump rapped an RBI single. Easton later scored on a passed ball.

"They are very similar to us," Walker said. "They have good pitching and good defense."

The second game was an entirely different story.

"We played terrible ball," Walker said. "They brought in a freshman left-hander and we just couldn't adjust to the slower pitching. We were all geared up for their ace, who we faced in the first game."

Defiant pitched and took the loss. She gave up seven hits, didn't walk a batter, but didn't have the usual solid defense behind her as the Bulldogs had five errors.

"They hit the ball hard, but we had too many errors, mostly on ground balls that we didn't play well," Walker said.

Chelsea hosts the Dexter Drednoughts in a key double-header tomorrow afternoon. It could very well determine the league championship.

"We're winning at about the same pace we did last year, but we don't have the consistency we had last year," Walker said, whose Bulldogs were 10-4 after last week's action.

"We played nearly perfect ball the first game (with Maroon), the kind of ball you have to play to do well in the state tournament. And we are playing better every week."

GROWL, GROWL, GONE. Chelsea second last Thursday. Chelsea had an easy time of it as Jennifer Cantell connects for a three-run home run in the Bulldogs' first shutout of Lincoln.

Girls Track Team Dumps Milan, 79-49, Now 3-0 for Season

Chelsea High school girls track team upped its record to 3-0 Thursday by defeating defending conference champion Milan 79-49 at Milan.

Cris Zerkel was the Bulldogs' only winner in the field events as Milan outscored them 26-16. Zerkel won the decathlon with a throw of 98'3", and added a second in the shot. Edie Harok in the long jump and Ann Becker in the high jump added thirds.

Chelsea came on strong in the running, winning three relays and getting at least two places in every race but the 800.

The 3,200 relay of Amy Wolfgang, Debi Kocin, Sallie Wilson and Kasey Anderson had a surprisingly easy win over a Milan team that had pushed them hard in Chelsea Relays a week earlier.

The Bulldogs went on to win eight of the remaining 11 races, led by Tami Harris' double wins in the 100 and 200. Harris also ran with Susan Jaques, Laura Damm and Danica Disbro on the winning 800 relay.

Damm was also a winner three times, combining with Jaques, Wolfgang, and Chris Newman in the 1,600 relay and winning the 400 dash.

Disbro had seconds in the 100 and 200.

Jennifer Rossi added a victory in the 1,600 with a fine 5:42.5. Amy Wolfgang won the 300 hurdles in 47.9 and Kasey Anderson won the 3,200 in 12:30.1.

Other places for Chelsea were second and third in the 100 hurdles from Wolfgang, and Debi by Tiff, second in the 300 hurdles from Tiff; second in the 800 from Kasey Anderson, second in the 1,600 from Sallie Wilson, and third in the 400 from Newman and the 3,200 from Rossi.

Several other Bulldogs won second heats but weren't fast enough to score. These runners were Jennifer Schweiger and Robyn Krichbaum in the 100, Schweiger and Heidi Knickerbocker in the 200, and Calise Tucker in the 400.

JV Softball Team Outscores Opponents 87-7 in Three Games

Chelsea JV softball team outscored their opponents 87-7 in three games last week in improving their record to 10-1 overall, and 5-0 in SEC action.

The Bulldogs shut out Milan, 27-0, on Monday, then routed Lincoln in a double header at Lincoln, 38-3, and 22-4, on Thursday at home.

In Monday's contest with Milan, Jenny Pichlik pitched all five innings and recorded her second straight no-hitter. One Chelsea error, and one walk kept her from recording her first perfect game.

Meanwhile, the Bulldogs scored their runs on 26 hits in just four innings, as six Bulldogs crossed the plate in each of the first two innings, 10 more in the third and five in the fourth.

Angie Miller was perfect on the afternoon, going 4-1 with two doubles and six RBI. Leah Enderle homered in the first inning and tripled in the third to drive in four runs. Laura Unterbrink was 3-3 with a double.

Others contributing to the wipe-out included Alisha Dorow, Peggy Hammerschmidt and Jenny Smith with two hits each, including a home run by Smith. Shannon Losey with a double, and Linda Lauer with a triple.

The second Milan contest was rained out.

In the first Lincoln game, Pichlik and Laura Walton combined to pitch a no-hitter in the 38-3 victory.

The Bulldogs scored 26 runs in the first two innings alone and pounded out 25 hits for the game. Lincoln helped out by committing 10 errors.

Dorow collected six hits for the game including a two-run triple. Kim Easton hit safely five times, Miller had four hits, including a two-run home run, and Enderle, Pichlik, and Chris Basso each had three hits. Laura Torres and Walton had two hits each, one of Walton's a three-run home run.

"We hit the ball real well," coach Pat Clarke said.

The second game was a little more subdued, as Hammerschmidt and freshman Smith, tossed a two-hitter.

The score was just 11-4 after three innings, but Chelsea scored 11 times in the fourth inning on the strength of a grand slam by freshman Heather Neibauer. Walton, who went 3-3 for the game, clouted a three-run homer earlier in the game.

Enderle and Dorow had three hits each.

JV Nine Wins DH Over Lincoln

Chelsea JV baseball team swept a double-header from the Lincoln Red Sox last week, 6-3, and 8-4, under some of the worst conditions imaginable.

The games were played during last Thursday's minor winter storm. The Lincoln field, unlike the Chelsea field, has no wind-breaks at all.

In the first game, Greg Beighton went the distance in the mound for the win, striking out 12 Red Sox. He got out of a bases-loaded jam in the sixth inning by striking out the side.

Rob Finch got the game-winning hit in the second inning with an RBI single.

Junior Morency was the only Bulldog with more than one hit, as the Bulldogs picked up eight for the game.

Morency's play was also the main ingredient of the second game, as his home-run triple in the fourth inning was the key hit of the game, putting Chelsea in the lead for good. Randy Perry also knocked in Morency that inning.

Morency pitched the entire game.

Finch was 3-3 in the contest and Matt Knap scored three runs.

The JV's have an 8-4 record on the season.

Beach Girls Win Jackson NW Relays

Todd Sprague 3rd In Hammer Throw At Penn Relays

Western Michigan University junior Todd Sprague placed third in the hammer throw at the Penn Relays April 26 in Philadelphia.

Sprague's throw was 177' 6", the team's best for the current outdoor season.

Girls Track Team 3rd in Hillsdale Invitational Meet

Chelsea girls track team topped in some fine performances at the Ken Herrick Invitational Saturday at Hillsdale College to finish third behind Ann Arbor Pioneer and Detroit Country Day. Pioneer led the 12-team field with 181 points, class C power Country Day had 72 and Chelsea had 57.

The Bulldogs had no firsts as Pioneer dominated the meet, establishing six meet records, but Chelsea did have some excellent second-place performances. The 3,200 relay of Amy Wolfgang, Laura Damm, Sallie Wilson and Kasey Anderson turned in an excellent 9:58.9, over seven seconds better than the old meet record and second to Ann Arbor's 9:44.9.

Damm ran her career-best 400, finishing second with a 1:00.8.

Wolfgang was second to defending state champion Alana Davis of Lumen Christi in the 300 hurdles with a 48.19.

Cris Zerkel was second in the shot with a 35'3" and bettered the old meet record with a discus throw of 191'2" to finish third.

Dona Stevens added a sixth in the discus with a 93'4".

In the 800, Anderson ran a strong race, finishing third with her season-best time 2:26.0.

Tami Harris was fifth in a strong 200 field with a :27.33 and ran on two placing relay teams. The 800 relay of Susan Jaques, Wolfgang, Danica Disbro and Harris was fifth with a 1:57.73 despite being bumped and interfered with on their final exchange. Edie Harok, Stephanie Bulldog Varsity Baseball Team Jumps Back into Conference Title Race

When a team loses its best pitcher, and one of its top hitters, things aren't necessarily supposed to get better.

But that's what happened to the Chelsea Bulldog varsity baseball team last week after senior Dan Bellus dislocated his finger sliding into second base. Chelsea won their next five games in a row, averaging more than 13 runs per game, in what could turn out to be the pivotal week of the season.

Before the week started, Chelsea had a 6-4 over-all record, but an 0-3 mark in the Southeastern Conference. By the end of the week, The Bulldogs had evened their league record and put their over-all record at 11-5.

Chelsea split with Milan early in the week, with a 9-6 loss and an 18-7 win.

Lincoln came to town on Thursday, in cold, ultra-windy weather, and lost 7-3, and 12-10.

And last week-end, Chelsea emerged as one of the favorites to win the Ann Arbor News/Dumino's Tournament by winning their first two games, 15-6, and 15-9, over Lincoln, and Ann Arbor Huron, respectively.

The loss to Milan, a game started on Monday and finished on Tuesday due to rain, "could kill us at the end of the season," Chelsea coach Wayne Welton said.

In the sixth inning of that game, Chelsea pitching yielded a grand slam, canceling out a good pitching performance by junior Todd Starkey, who was leading after Monday's suspension, 4-3. Walks and errors set up the game-winning hit.

Welton changed the line-up around for the second game, a move that proved so effective he left it that way the rest of the week.

In that Milan ramp, senior Mark Mull had his finest offensive show, cracking two home runs and a pair of doubles, good for six runs.

Chelsea batters pounded out 21 hits, three each by Rob Murrell, Chuck Downer and Mark Barais, and two each by Kevin Maynard, Ray Spencer, Starkey and Matt Bohlender.

Barais had three RBI, Murrell had a couple of doubles and Maynard clubbed a homer.

Downer, although hit fairly hard, pitched well enough to win the game. He worked all seven innings.

Chelsea scored six runs in the first two innings, and, for the rest of the game, had trouble not scoring.

Maynard, in his second start of the year, pitched five-hit ball for seven innings to pick up a 7-3 win.

"He was pretty much in command the whole way," Welton said.

Chelsea fell behind early, but took the lead for good with a four-run, third inning. It featured hits by Downer, who was 4-4 on the day, Murrell, Maynard, and a bases-loaded walk to Bohlender.

Maynard picked up three RBI for the game, and Barais had two of Chelsea's nine hits.

Spencer's two-run triple in the bottom of the seventh inning gave the Bulldogs a come-from-behind win in the second contest.

Bellus 10-8 with two out and nobody on, Downer, Mull and Maynard each singled. Maynard's scored one run. The next batter was Spencer, who's blast went over the left fielder's head. That was an amazing feat in itself considering there was a wind so strong from left field to right that it occasionally caused a pitcher to lose his balance.

"That was the sweetest sound I've heard in a long time," Welton said. "It was a big win for us. Our kids got excited because they've been there before, but often on the other end of the stick."

Mull was 4-5, and Downer and Murrell each had three hits. Murrell connected for two triples, and Walz added a triple.

The rally nullified some clumsy early play by the Dogs as Lincoln sent 12 batters to the plate in the third inning before an out was registered. They finished the inning with 10 runs.

Mull pitched 4 2/3 innings in relief for the win in a performance Welton called, "outstanding."

Chelsea mercied Lincoln in the first game of the Ann Arbor News/Dumino's Tournament, 15-6, as Starkey pitched all five innings and struck out eight.

"It was amazing we scored as many runs as we did since neither Mull or Downer was hitting," Welton said.

Maynard, Greg Haist and Starkey all hit two-run homers. Haist was 3-3 on the day, also with a double.

Spencer, Maynard, Starkey and Murrell each had two hits as Chelsea had 14 total.

Junior Morneau made his varsity debut in the game, giving Spencer a break behind the plate. He also picked up a hit in the game.

In the Huron contest Chelsea "played probably the most pathetic inning of baseball I've ever seen," Welton said, surrendering eight runs, on five errors, three walks and a grand slam home run in the second inning. It was all good for eight runs and an 8-2 lead.

"We had every reason to be demoralized after that, but the way we've been hitting the ball, we think we're never out of it," Welton said.

The Bulldogs scored 13 runs in the last three innings in a "good, solid, team effort, after the second inning," Welton said.

Chelsea had 14 hits for the game, including three each by Mull and Maynard, and two by Murrell. Mull and Maynard each tripled, and Murrell homered.

Downer pitched all seven innings for the win.

Chelsea continues in the tournament this week-end and is scheduled to play Gabriel Richard and Pinckney. The Richard game begins at 9 a.m. at Eastern Michigan University. The Pinckney contest follows at Washington Community College.

After the three SEC wins last week, Chelsea finds itself in the thick of the race. Pinckney leads the conference with a 4-1-1 record. Chelsea and Saline have identical 3-3 marks.

"It's wide open now," Welton said.

Tomorrow afternoon the Bulldogs host Dexter in a key SEC double-header.

APPLYING THE TAG to the Lincoln runner is Chelsea pitcher Kevin Maynard during last week's action against the Bulldogs. The play was made after catcher Ray Spencer recovered an errant pitch behind the plate and made the tag to Maynard. Chelsea won the game, 7-3, and swept the double-header.

PITCHING A FREE GAME against the Lincoln Bulldogs, in his second start of the year, was senior Kevin Maynard. He pitched all seven innings, and yielded only five hits.

Chelsea Swim Club Spring Session Starts

The spring session of the Chelsea Swim Club has started at the Cameron pool. Registration can be done at poolside during any practice the first few weeks. After that period arrangements can be made, as the swim club always welcomes additions to the program.

Each swimmer will be placed in a group that matches his or her ability and age. The club's major emphasis is on developing the child's ability in each of the major strokes while presenting it in a fun and enjoyable way.

The coaches of the swim club are Jon Oesterle and David Brinklow and together these coaches represent eight years of experience as Jon has coached at the swim club, junior high, and high school levels. Recently Jon coached this year's edition of the junior high swim team to an undefeated season and a first-place finish at the prestigious Eric-Mason Invitational. Dave has coached at the club level and also was the assistant boy's swim coach during the 1985-86 season.

The swim club also offers, for the more advanced swimmer, a schedule of meets against swimmers from around the state.

These meets are usually held during the week-end at various locations. If there are any questions about the swim club, contact the pool at 475-1425 anytime during school hours.

Boys Track Team Nipped By Milan

Chelsea boys track team made a strong showing against Milan in a losing effort, 77-60, despite strong winds which diminished times and distances considerably.

Milan won the meet in the field events, as the Bulldogs were shut out in the shot put, and placed only one boy in the other four events.

In other action last week, the Bulldogs finished in 11th place in the Hillsdale Invitational.

In the Milan meet, Joe Kosezgi won the long jump at 18' 3 3/4".

Mike Westhoven went 11' 6" in the pole vault, only his fourth jump over in competition.

At Hillsdale, the 3,200 relay team of Bowdish, Brown, Riemenschneider and Hedding took sixth place in 8:43.

Webb was sixth in the discus with his best ever of 129'.

Westhoven also went 11' 6" in the pole vault.

Dr. Truran Leaving Methodist Church

"Smiling through the tears," is the way the Rev. Dr. David Truran says he and his family are anticipating their move to Fenton next month.

Dr. Truran, who for three years has guided Chelsea's First United Methodist church, the second largest congregation in Chelsea, was recently asked to take his ministry to the Fenton United Methodist church, just south of Flint. It will be his fifth assignment since entering the ministry. His last Sunday service here will be June 15.

He'll be replaced by the Rev. Jerry Parker, of Ann Arbor First United Methodist church.

"The move did come as a surprise to us," Dr. Truran said.

"It's difficult to move, and we're feeling a lot of grief about leaving because Chelsea is a place we love and we've developed many fond, loving relationships. But it should be a good, pleasant change."

Dr. Truran said that "when the calling from the Bishop comes to make a change, you can't say 'no' very often."

The Fenton congregation has about 800 members, he said, 300 more than the Chelsea congregation. He said Fenton, itself, resembles Chelsea but on a larger scale.

Dr. Truran, who was reared in the Detroit area, has been a member of the Detroit conference of the church for 16 years. He came here from United Methodist church in Bloomfield Hills.

"The Chelsea congregation is not lethargic, is not laid back and is not indifferent—it is a very assertive, active, caring congregation," Dr. Truran said.

"It's an alive church, and you certainly can't say that about all churches."

He said the congregation's attitude was the main reason for the church's "phenomenal growth" over the last several years.

Dr. Truran will be making the move with his wife, Donna, and their children Kristen, 14, Jeremy, 11, and Tiffany, 8.

"Moving is difficult for any family," Dr. Truran said. "People who have lived in Chelsea all their lives are really blessed and might not know it. When you move a lot, you don't have the deep friends, you don't have the roots, and you don't have the sense of community. People who move a lot are often like lonely little islands wherever they go. Fortunately, for us it will be a little easier because we'll be able to plug into a loving church family."

Toxic Waste Disposal Explosions Rock Area

Neither Waterloo township residents or officials were notified prior to controlled explosions that shook homes and businesses in the area April 29.

The explosives, termed more powerful than dynamite, were used to dispose of 18, five-pound cylinders of a toxic waste used in aerospace research at the University of Michigan.

A professional detonation crew from Chicago managed the explosions in a private gravel pit at Clear Lake and Trist Rds. owned by Whitaker & Gooding Agg. of Ypsilanti.

UM reportedly had a disposal permit from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

According to published reports, township supervisor Muriel Pluck said the detonations were a violation of township ordinances because neither township officials or nearby residents were warned.

David Alkama, chief chemist for the Drug and Laboratory Disposal, Inc., Plainfield, was quoted as saying the blasts left no residues and there was no danger to the atmosphere or ground-water.

Trees were reportedly uprooted by the blasts. Homes more than a mile away were rattled.

Waterloo Recreation Area Director Gordon Archer said the blasts could be heard from his office.

Small businesses employ about half of the private work force, contribute 42 percent of all sales in the country and are responsible for 38 percent of the gross national product.

Although progress is being made in moving women into jobs once virtually closed to them, the term "women's work" is not yet outdated. The top 10 jobs for women are secretary, cashier, bookkeeper, registered nurse, waitress, elementary school teacher, nursing aide, sales worker, sales supervisor/proprietor and typist, almost all relatively low paying jobs, according to "Meeting the Challenges of the 80s," a publication of the Women's Bureau of the U. S. Department of Labor.
