ONE HUNDRED-SIXTEENTH YEAR—No. 28

CHELSEA, MICHIGAN, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 10, 1986

24 Pages This Week

A SECTION OF STORM SEWER near Grant and W. Middle St. is being replaced by village crews this week to alleviate some of the problems caused by heavy rains. Above, village workers, guided by Assistant Village Manager Lee Fahrner, one of the men in the hole, work on lining up a section of pipe.

Water System Study To Determine Future, Current Requirements

A computer analysis of the village's water distribution system will be undertaken by an Ann Arbor engineering firm beginning in the next few weeks. Ayres, Lewis, Norris and May, Inc., has been retained by the village for a maximum of $5,200 for the study. Chelsea Village Council authorized the study at its regular meeting Tuesday, Dec. 2.

The study is designed to determine how well the village is handling its current water needs as well as those anticipated for the near and longer-term future. It will also tell the village how the distribution system can be improved both in the short-term and long-term.

Anticipated development along M-52 was one of the main factors in deciding to go ahead with the study. As many as two small shopping malls, as well as a motel, are seen as likely projects by the village administration. There is also likely to be an increased need for water in the village's industrial park on Sibley Rd. It's also possible additional apartment complexes could be built.

Increased development not only means more water will be used directly by the businesses, but it also means water at an adequate pressure has to be available for firefighters in case of an accident. If the water distribution system is expanded, the water pressure will drop unless corrective measures are taken. "This really goes back to the fire at Merkel's warehouse (on Old US-12) last year," said assistant village manager Lee Fahrner. "That's near the end of the system and it brought up questions about our capabilities."

At the meeting, Fahrner also brought up the subject of liability. He said it is important that the village know precisely what its capabilities are so that it doesn't misrepresent itself to developers, opening itself up to a possible lawsuit.

Fahrner said the information will also help businesses keep (Continued on page four)

Referral Process Is Developed for School Drug Abuse Program

The first pieces of a comprehensive substance abuse program have been put in place by the Chelsea School District under the guidance of part-time counselor Christine Dillon.

Dillon, who was hired this fall in a joint program with Chelsea Community Hospital, has implemented a student referral process. She presented her ideas to the school board on Monday, Dec. 1.

The process relies generally on referrals from parents, teachers and counselors, and students. Dillon hopes to get the Chelsea Police Department and other governmental agencies involved as well.

So far, 17 Chelsea High school students from all grades have been referred, most of them by concerned teachers, Dillon said.

"The teachers are steadily referring students who are either known to be using chemicals or are exhibiting behaviors that are related to that. I've also had calls from some parents. Having that kind of support makes my job so much easier."

Official referral forms are available in the Administrative Building, the counseling office and staff lounges.

Once a student has been referred, Dillon begins to accumulate information about the student. That information might include attendance records, how a student is performing academically, whether a student has changed his circle of friends, or whether a student falls asleep in class.

The information is collected using a form that is sent to every staff member who is involved with the student. The form asks about grades, class attendance, performance in extra-curricular activities, physical symptoms, legal problems the student may have had, disruptive behavior and atypical behavior.

"Once I get the information back, I'll start meeting with the students themselves to assess whether or not I think they would be appropriate for (the Chemical Awareness Group)," Dillon said.

The Chemical Awareness

Group will be available to all students after the Christmas vacation, Dillon said. It will be a 10-week class, meeting once a week, "to provide students with current and correct information; to help them examine their decision-making process and value systems as they relate to drug/alcohol use; to help them examine the signs and symptoms of chemical dependency; and to help them understand the consequences of drug/alcohol involvement," according to the two-page description of the group.

"I've gotten a couple of referrals that were really mental health issues and weren't drug related," Dillon said.

"In those cases I suggest the parents look into counseling."

The Chemical Awareness Group will feature a different topic related to substance abuse every week. After an initial orientation, subsequent weeks will deal with the progressive nature of chemical use; signs and symptoms of chemical dependency; examples of commonly-used defenses; self evaluation; decision-making; outside resources; confrontation; and a final evaluation.

The awareness group will also include students who would have taken part in what was originally called an Alternative To Suspension program. Students who are caught using drugs will now be referred to this program.

Once a student has completed the course, Dillon will make another evaluation of the student and perhaps recommend a more structured treatment program, depending on the individual case.

Dillon said that the awareness group will serve to educate students about drugs, because "they are not as sophisticated about them as they think."

She said that several students she has talked to, some who are among the leaders in their class academically, do not know basic information about drugs. She used the example that a can of beer is equal to a shot of whiskey in terms of alcoholic content.

"It's amazing how much the students don't know and we probably need to be educating them at an earlier age," Dillon said.

"For instance, some think marijuana is safer than alcohol. Others think hallucinogens are safe but they don't know a thing about PCP, which is what most hallucinogens are made of. It's surprising because they think they're so sophisticated."

Dillon said that she has become aware of a caffeine-pill abuse problem at the high school, although she has not had a (Continued on page five)

"LET'S PULL TOGETHER" was the theme of Our Savior Lutheran church's addition project. At ground-breaking ceremonies this summer, Jerry Dresselhouse, project co-ordinator, shoveled dirt while Art Dils, building committee chair, and Pastor Franklin Giebel looked on. All the members of the building committee took turns shoveling, after which the whole congregation pulled an old-fashioned walking plow across the site to symbolize the theme of pulling together.

Our Savior Lutheran Church Will Dedicate New Addition

Dedication of the new addition to Our Savior Lutheran church, 1515 S. Main, has been planned for 3 p.m., Sunday, Dec. 14. The program will include performances by both the children's choir and the adult choir and a guest speaker, the Rev. John Heins, president of the Michigan district of Lutheran churches, Missouri Synod. After the service, an open house and spaghetti dinner will be held.

Work on the 5,800 square foot addition began in the beginning of August. Because volunteer labor was used as much as possible, Pastor Franklin H. Giebel estimates that "the final cost was half of the normally anticipated construction cost." A consultant from the synod, Larry Thomas of Columbus, Ind., managed the project, while congregation member, Jerry Dresselhouse, served as project co-ordinator. The building committee consisted of Art Dils, Ken Alter, Bill Nuffer, of Chelsea; Dave Ruhlig and Martin Ruhlig, Sr., of Dexter; and Caroline Sauter, Heidi Timms, and Al Martini, of Grass Lake.

The new addition contains classrooms, a fellowship area, new offices, a large kitchen, bathrooms, and storage areas. All but the last three are carpeted. At the same time, the congregation refurbished the original section of the church, laying new carpet in the sanctuary and putting in newly upholstered pews. They also repaved the parking lot.

The public is invited to attend the dedication. To make reservations for the spaghetti dinner, call Violet Ruhlig, 426-4168.

After 41 years, retired four-star Gen. Dwight E. Beach remembered Pearl Harbor vividly, in an interview from his farm home on Jackson Rd. He revealed detailed accounts of World War II. He answered questions about Vietnam, rearmament, the U. S. Army, Japan, Germany, Russia, military tradition in his family, and his 1853 Centennial Farm named "Wild Gobo Farm."

The Civic Foundation of Chelsea has made their first grant, an $8,000 grant to the Chelsea Senior Citizens to establish a telephone Lifeline System in the Chelsea School District connected to the hospital.

According to Standard sports-writer Bill Mullendore, "Chelsea has been installed as a slight favorite in SEC basketball competition, because it has three starters and three other letter-winners coming back from a team that finished strong last year to win a share of second place. The Bulldogs are led by all-league guard and captain Dave Wojcik, who is as versatile on the basketball floor as he is on the football field. He very likely will be the outstanding individual player in the conference this season."

Last week's balmy weather broke all kinds of records for the first week of December, as temperatures soared into the low 70's on several days.

Grass Lake residents were shocked by the tragic shooting of 17-year-old Howard Stoker, Jr. by a Southern Michigan Prison parolee, James Jones after he attempted to assist Jones with his car stuck in a ditch outside Stoker's home. Howard Stoker received an early warning from Jones' companion that Jones was coming to the house with a gun, and heroically ushered his family and Jones' friend safely into the basement before he was shot.

Constitutionality of Ad Rules Committee Challenged

As promised, depending upon the outcome of voter decision on placing the authority of the Joint Administrative Rule Committee in the constitution, the Michigan United Conservation Clubs has filed suit challenging the constitutionality of the committee.

Filed in Ingham County Circuit Court, the suit challenges the constitutionality of the joint committee on the separation of powers doctrine, in general, and the joint committee's rejection of Liquor Control Commission rules placing deposits on wine cooler containers, in particular.

Defendants named in the suit were the Liquor Control Commission for not implementing their recommended rule to include the wine cooler containers and the State Treasurer Robert Bowman on the grounds the expenditure of state funds for the operation of the committee is illegal.

MUCC executive director Thomas Washington said he welcomes legislative oversight of implementation of laws but opposes the concept of the joint committee being able to "thwart the will of the entire Legislature and the governor."

He said his organization, representing more than 100,000 conservationists and sportspeople, had considered the suit for a long time and it has been determined that if the process were allowed to continue, there would be further clashes.

Besides the wine cooler rules, he noted that it took more than 10 years to get final implementation of new water quality standards.

Kenneth Frankland, attorney representing the MUCC, said the suit is following a 1983 U.S. Supreme Court decision (I.N.S. vs. Chadha) which held that the "congressional veto" of federal agency rules was unconstitutional.

He noted that all other states except Michigan and Connecticut have either before or since Chadha changed their procedure by statute to court decisions. He added the suit would "draw inferences" that the people do not want such power to rest with the committee by their rejection of the proposal constitutional amendments in 1984 and 1986.

Washington said he had board approval to file the suit prior to the November general election, but it was decided to wait until the voters spoke on Proposal B which would have placed the concept of the joint committee within the constitution.

Voters, however, for the second time in as many elections, soundly rejected the proposed Constitutional amendment, most recently by a margin of nearly 2-1. Both proposals had been placed on the ballots by acts of the Legislature.

The suit charges that the committee's rejection of the wine cooler rule forced an unnecessary delay in the adoption of mandatory wine cooler deposits, thus depriving Michigan citizens of an environment free of refuse and litter.

Specifically, it asks for a declaratory judgment that Sec. 45 of the Administrative Procedures Act is unconstitutional as it related to the joint committee's review and consideration of rules; a declaratory judgment that the portion of the budget act appropriating $186,400 for administration of the committee is an illegal expenditure of state funds; order the state treasurer to show cause why he should not be restrained from issuing any further state warrants to fund the committee; and issue a writ of mandamus directed against the Liquor Control Commission requiring them to adopt rules for deposits on wine coolers that will take effect immediately.

The Legislature has since approved separate legislation to include wine cooler containers under the 1976 initiated deposit act. Washington, however, noted that the LCC rules could have been implemented six months after approval while the separate act does not take effect until 1989.

He also challenged the legislative wisdom of another bill, tied to the deposit bill, which gave wine cooler distributors exclusive territories.

Hospice Volunteers Training Scheduled

I'm sure you've all read or heard the phrase: "Give the gift that keeps on giving." What better way to give throughout the year, than give the gift of yourself to another human being, a person who is terminally ill and needs emotional support, care and an extra friend or two?

Working with the terminally ill is representative of a lifetime of service at the opposite end of life's spectrum.

If you would like to join Hospice of Washtenaw volunteer training program please call Nancy T. Herd at 995-1996. Training sessions start Jan. 20.

their insurance costs at reasonable levels.

Fahrner said that if one or two shopping malls were to be built in the next year that domestic water supply shouldn't be a problem. However, he said he couldn't make a judgment about fire protection until the study is complete.

According to a proposal letter submitted by the engineering firm, the study will update demands based on proposed commercial and residential development and develop alternatives for water supply for the proposed commercial developments along M-52.

"We propose to investigate both short and long-term options for meeting present and future water demands. We will also review the suitability of the system for meeting existing and potential fire demands."

The company said it would consider the effects of extending water mains, adding another water tower, and adding an in-line booster.

The study will consider peak demand for proposed developments, including "maximum fire conditions." It will also consider maximum water needs for the year 2000.

The company said it would also investigate the possibilities of obtaining grants and low interest loans for the improvements.

Les has been a member of the Masonic Lodge for 44 years and is very proud of his accomplishments.

Santa Claus sure knew what he was doing when he chose reindeer to pull his sleigh. While reindeer are quite small—usually around three-and-a-half feet tall—they have great strength and endurance. Ranger Rick magazine reports that a healthy reindeer usually weighs about 150-250 pounds and can pull its own weight in cargo on sleds across the tundra—or the rooftops!

Outreach Program To Help Senior Citizens

Many people in the Chelsea area will soon be asked to help a senior citizen who may be a neighbor, friend, or relative. Faith in Action, a service agency centered in Chelsea, and the Washtenaw County Council on Aging are getting in touch with a variety of Chelsea area people in an effort to find isolated elderly who need help.

Ministers, personnel at the Chelsea Community Hospital, and business people will soon receive notices about this new effort. All of these people are in contact with a wide variety of Chelsea area residents, and especially senior citizens. The organizers of this new outreach effort believe that community people can reach out when they know an older person who needs special help and contact Faith in Action.

Examples of the things an older person may need help with include outdoor chores, a home delivered meal, or transportation to the doctor. The message to everyone in the community is that help for a senior citizen who is alone or having a problem may be reached by calling Faith in Action.

This new outreach effort is supported by a grant from the Civic Foundation of Chelsea and is being carried out co-operatively by Faith in Action, the Washtenaw County Council on Aging, and Catholic Social Services.

"We know that there are senior citizens who are alone and not in touch with many people," says Chris Brail, director of the Council on Aging. "We are asking the people of Chelsea to help us find these seniors." Ms. Brail explained that anyone may call Faith in Action and leave the older person's name and telephone number. Faith in Action will then work with Barbara Paison, the outreach worker for Catholic Social Services. Mrs. Paison will visit the older person and help find the needed services.

Faith in Action currently provides a variety of services in Chelsea that include a Parent to Parent Program, emergency assistance, free health clinic and information and referral. The Washtenaw County Council on Aging is a county-wide agency working on behalf of older adults and their needs.

The results are in and the "eyes" have it! According to International Wildlife magazine, an experiment conducted by Japan's All-Nippon Airlines found that painting large eyes on the engines frightened birds away from the plane, reducing the number of "strikes." In the past year, the airline recorded only one bird strike per engine on the painted 747s while the unpainted 767s were struck 22 times per engine. The airline is preparing to paint eyes on all of their commercial jets.

A VIEW from the CLOCK TOWER

By Will Connelly

When Cary Grant died late in November there were many reminiscences about the roles he had played and the beauties he had loved on the screen. Since he was 82 and had succumbed to natural causes, little attention was paid to what actually did kill him. Two words said it all: massive stroke. The fatal malfunction of the blood system of the brain has had other names such as apoplexy but in medical circles it has long been known as a CVA—cardiovascular accident.

Why is it called an accident?

Because the occurrence of the event is unpredictable and happens in a closed, unseen place at random. No one can ever be sure when or where the CVA will attack the brain.

A very readable folder from the American Heart Association explains that a stroke occurs when the blood supply to a part of the brain is reduced or cut off. As a result, the nerve cells in that part of the brain cannot function. When this happens, the part of the body controlled by these nerve cells cannot function either. The consequences of a stroke may be weakness, loss of feeling or paralysis of one side of the body, difficulty with vision, inability to walk, or difficulty in speaking or understanding. These effects may be very slight or very severe, and may be temporary or permanent.

Although strokes are usually associated with the later years of life, they sometimes occur in other people. A member of my family was paralyzed by a stroke at 44 and killed by a recurrence at 47. That was 60 years ago and medical science, aided by marvelous research, has greatly lowered the frequency of strokes by preventing them. Damage done by strokes has also been reduced by the development of rehabilitative treatments which enable stroke victims to lead productive lives.

Although this news is welcome, we are still faced with the fact that stroke is the third largest cause of death behind heart attack and cancer. Your best protection against stroke is to have regular medical checkups. Further protection comes from heeding these warning signals whose first letters spell DANGER:

Dizziness or unsteadiness

A temporary loss of memory or mental ability

Numbness or weakness in face, arm or leg

Garbled speech or difficulty understanding speech

Eye problems—dimness, loss of sight, double vision

Recent sudden, severe headaches

One of the specific benefits of periodic checkups by your physician is that the doctor maintains a continuous history of your health and general health habits. When this information is combined with the appearance of stroke symptoms, the family physician is in a much better position to analyze the problem and prescribe a course of treatment. Best of all, the decision can come at an early stage of the disease when help is most effective.

Among the conditions triggering stroke are high blood pressure, diabetes, disease of the coronary arteries, and various heart and blood vessel diseases.

Physicians can often detect signs and symptoms which may mean that a stroke is about to occur. These include numbness or weakness in a hand or leg, and temporary difficulty with speech.

For persons with a high risk of stroke, doctors may advise a diet to reduce weight or to lower blood cholesterol levels; moderate exercise; and rest or relief from tension caused by stress. They usually advise against smoking because it is a risk factor in all of the three leading causes of death.

On July 4 of this year I had a stroke. It happened in the night and there was no pain nor awareness of any sort. I awoke in the morning to discover there was something wrong with my vision. The right side of the field was blocked so that a whole column and a half of the Wall Street Journal was missing. My memory was affected, too. I couldn't find individual letters on the keyboard of my typewriter without a one-by-one search. In the driver's seat of my car part of the traffic scene was dangerously missing through the windshield so that I couldn't drive. And all this occurred just two days after my annual eye examination by an M.D. who said my vision with glasses was 20-20 and no disorders of the optic nerve. On July 7 the ophthalmologist wrote to my family doctor saying, "Will has had a sudden onset of right hemianopia (blindness in the right eye) three days ago. The ocular exam is normal. I have explained that he has probably had a stroke."

My doctor sent me to a neurologist who had me undergo tests in two hospitals. The brain scan showed nothing wrong but the EKG picture of brainwaves revealed hemorrhage of an artery on the left side of the brain, causing loss of vision in the right field.

Also, plain drinking water had turned bitter to my taste and this was echoed by tasting some bitter distilled water. There was further degeneration of my balance while standing which has plagued me for several years when doing news photography.

Mine was a mild stroke and the problems with vision cleared in two weeks. Worsened balance and odd tasting liquids remain. Otherwise, I feel fine, thanks to three excellent physicians and two hospitals with high tech testing. The neurologist has me on a regimen of pills and regulated diet to head off another stroke, especially the Cary Grant kind.

About 500,000 American men and women have strokes every year. One third of the CVA's are fatal while another third are disabling and require treatment. This puts us all at double risk because an individual can either suffer from a stroke or have the task of caring for a victim of one.

"I understand why my wife has difficulty using her arm and leg following her stroke, but why does she cry so much?" "My father has learned to walk since he had his stroke, but why does he keep bumping into things?" "Mom used to be such a good housekeeper before her stroke and now she's awfully sloppy." "My husband had a stroke and now nothing seems to please him."

These quotes in another American Heart Association booklet reflect the puzzlement felt by many friends and relatives of stroke patients when they see behavior changes following stroke.

Persons who have had a disabling stroke now have access to splendid professional help and encouragement in their rehabilitation. In the program is the training of spouses or other family members to share in the recovery. Here in Chelsea we are fortunate to have a Stroke Support Group in our own community hospital. This group includes specialists in internal medicine, neurology, physical medicine and rehabilitation. Also included are speech therapy, occupational therapy, physical therapy and recreational therapy. In addition, the group provides social work services, psychological counseling and testing plus adjunct home nursing care.

I doubt that Cary Grant missed the joy of rehabilitation, even in a place as nice as Chelsea Community Hospital. Cary hadn't worked in a film for 20 years and he just ended it all by going to sleep.

SPAULDING FOR CHILDREN. Chelsea's adoption center for children with special needs, received its annual donation from the salaried employees at the Ford Motor Co. plant in Saline last week. The workers gave $2,711 and their 16-year total is now more than $23,000. They decided in 1970 to give the money to Spaulding rather than exchange Christmas cards and gifts.

specific referral about the problem.

"It's not so much that caffeine may or may not be bad for you," Dillon said.

"It's the pattern of behavior. Some students are relying on artificial stimulants to get them

Dillon plans to develop other programs for parents and other interested people later on in the school year.

A Friend Is There

Death is one of those certainties in life which, at one time or another, touches us all.

When someone we love dies, just knowing our friends are there sharing our grief and offering their support and friendship can be very meaningful.

We now have a special brochure entitled, "A Friend Is There—Suggestions for Friends of the Bereaved." It contains a number of helpful ideas on how to help and support a bereaved friend. Please feel free to call or drop by if you would like a personal copy.

LOREN HELLER AND HIS WIFE LUANN attended the Monday, Dec. 1, meeting of the Dexter Jaycees at the Dexter Area Museum. Heller was presented a plaque recognizing him as the Outstanding Young Farmer selected by Dexter Jaycees to enter the Michigan Outstanding Young Farmer competition. P. J. Carney, at right in the photo, chairs the Outstanding Young Farmer project for the Dexter Jaycees. The Hellers live on Manchester-Chelsea Rd.

Loren Heller Chosen As JC Outstanding Young Farmer

Loren Heller of Chelsea was chosen Outstanding Young Farmer for this area by the Dexter Jaycees.

Loren and his wife Luann live on Chelsea-Manchester Rd. They are parents of two daughters, Sarah, 8, and Laura, 6.

Heller was awarded a plaque, Monday, Dec. 1, by Dexter Jaycee P. J. Carney, chairman of the Outstanding Young Farmer project for his club.

Goal of the Outstanding Young Farmer (OYF) program is to better urban-rural relations, while recognizing superior accomplishments in agriculture.

Dexter Jaycees will sponsor Heller and his wife to the Michigan Jaycees Outstanding Young Farmer awards program, to be held during February.

If Heller is selected as the state winner, he will receive a free trip to the National Outstanding Young Farmer Awards Congress, courtesy of the United States Jaycees and John Deere.

On the Heller farm, the couple has 250 beef cattle and 100 head of sheep with 23 ewes.

Heller has lived on the 300-acre farm throughout his lifetime. He owns 117 acres, the remaining acres are owned by other family members.

Interested persons are invited to call 971-1122 at their convenience and receive timely, up-to-date gardening information.

Topics for the next week are as follows:

- Wednesday, Dec. 10—"Choosing a Christmas Tree."
- Thursday, Dec. 11—"De-icing Alternatives."
- Friday, Dec. 12—"Buying a New Houseplant."
- Monday, Dec. 15—"Firewood Colors."
- Tuesday, Dec. 16—"Poinsettia."
- Wednesday, Dec. 17—"Backyard Greenery."

Why not make wildlife a part of your holiday season? National Wildlife magazine describes how to decorate a tree in your yard especially for wildlife. Adorning a tree with pinecones dipped in suet or peanut butter makes a sumptuous Christmas feast for both birds and animals. Popcorn, raisins and cranberries strung on the branches are also treats for wildlife and give the tree a festive look. The best decorations, however, are those that come to life—birds and nature's other living ornaments.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Although late, this letter is in support of Brian Hamilton. In a conversation with him last month, I mentioned how boring, among other things, it is to buy The Standard during hunting season and see picture after picture of dead deer, however proudly held up. Obviously, I could care less who shot what, and what they plan to do with it.

Realizing it is my choice to buy the paper or not, anyone offended by Brian's humor could opt for the same decision. His articles are well written and entertaining. Too bad certain groups are too touchy to recognize the fact. Hopefully Brian is not too discouraged and will continue his fine work.

Linda Roberts.

Dear Mr. Editor,

As the holiday season approaches, we need to be reminded that drinking and driving doesn't mix, even with more experienced drivers. The holidays are a time to relax and enjoy your friends, not have the gruesome task of identifying them at the morgue and attend their funeral on Christmas Eve. Remember: "Friends Don't Let Friends Drive Drunk."

There are many community service groups, organizations, and businesses that are trying to prevent this awful tragedy. They include the Chelsea Community Hospital and the community awareness programs they sponsor, SADD (Students Against Driving Drunk) and their numerous projects that try to teach teens not to drink and drive, the different bars that participate in the "I'm the Driver" campaign to keep drivers sober, and the Chelsea Police Dept. for their helpfulness in enforcing the drinking and driving laws. These and many others are steadily helping to decrease the drinking and driving rate.

The last thing we must remember is that drinking and driving is everyone's problem, and not just a select few because we are all affected by a drunk driver. Also, parents, if your child calls you to come and pick them up from a party. DO IT! Remember, what would you rather do, identify your child at a party or a morgue? Let's make this holiday season a safe one and DON'T DRINK AND DRIVE.

CHS SADD

Dr. Raymond Howe Teaches Orthodontics Course in Brazil

Dr. Raymond P. Howe recently returned from a trip to Brazil where he taught a course on recent advances in orthodontic treatment, including the use of a jaw growth modifying appliance which he developed.

The course, which was held in Sao Jose do Rio Preto near S. Paulo, was the largest ever of its kind with 300 orthodontists in attendance from every region of Brazil.

At the close of the course a ceremony was held naming Dr. Howe as an honorary citizen of Sao Jose do Rio Preto.

Following the course, Dr. Howe and his traveling companion, Dr. Monica Green, were the guests of Dr. Howe's former students staying in Boysu Conga, a remote fishing village and Fortaleza, an arid seacoast city. The trip culminated in an Amazon River canoe trip 60 miles above Manaus to a primitive jungle area. Dr. Howe's party fished for piranha, hunted alligator after dark, and slept in hammocks in the home of a native family who lived along the river bank.

THE NIEDERMEYER SISTERS, Neale, left, and Tara, were two of the first youngsters to tell Santa what they want for Christmas. Santa made his first appearance of the season at Sylvan Town Hall last Saturday afternoon to the delight of many area children. The girls are the daughters of Celeste and Jon Niedermeyer of Chelsea.

Community Christmas Dinner Being Planned

A non-denominational Christmas Dinner will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. at St. Mary's school on Congdon St. on Thursday, Dec. 25.

Sponsored by Faith in Action, this dinner is open to anyone in the Chelsea Community who would like to come and enjoy a holiday meal with other members of the community. There will be no charge for this meal—the purpose of the dinner is to provide fellowship, sing carols and enjoy the day.

Volunteers will be working in two-hour shifts that day in order to give everyone a chance to be home for most of the day. Entire families are planning to volunteer. It is the hope that the volunteers will get as much from the experience as they are giving. A few volunteers are still needed. Those interested may call Nadine Shaneyfelt at 475-8193.

If you are interested in attending, please call Faith in Action before Dec. 18 for reservations. The office is open Mondays through Fridays from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and the phone number to call is 475-3306.

Dinner will include ham, scalloped potatoes, salad, Jell-O mold, rolls, dessert and coffee, tea, or milk. This is a community Christmas Dinner and any Chelsea School District resident who would like to attend is welcome.

Watch out America's Cup hopefuls—the Australians may have a secret weapon—kangaroos! While kangaroos have long been regarded as "natural athletes" for their leaping and boxing abilities, they are also great swimmers. According to Ranger Rick magazine, kangaroos have been spotted swimming across rivers and even in the ocean! A "roo" swims with its head and back above water, pumping its strong hind legs one at a time. So that's what those Aussies have under their yacht this year!

Manchester Youth Completes Army One Station Training

Army Private Joey J. Deacons, son of Kerry G. and Laura J. Deacons of 13920 Sheridan Rd., Manchester, has completed one station unit training (OSUT) at the U. S. Army Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

OSUT is a 12-week period which combines basic combat training and advanced individual training.

The training included weapons qualifications, squad tactics, patrolling, landmine warfare, field communications and combat operations. Completion of this course qualifies the soldier as a light-weapons infantryman and as an indirect-fire crewman.

He is a 1986 graduate of Manchester High School.

★ Thanks to the Volunteers . . .

The Chelsea School District is very fortunate to have the support of the community of Chelsea—the financial support that is so necessary, and the psychological and volunteer support that we see daily. As we pause at this time of the year to generally give thanks, it is in this spirit that I speak for all staff members in the Chelsea School District in extending our thanks for the many volunteers who give us so much.

"Reverence for life demands from all that they should sacrifice a portion of their life for others."

—Dr. Albert Schweitzer

Reviewing our elementary school programs, we see volunteers working with the Fun Fair, Night of Knights, ice cream socials, media centers, Enrichment TRIAD Program, math labs, newsletters, and providing musicians from nearby universities.

The Beach Middle school staff indicate how thankful they are for the many volunteers who participate in our 6th grade camp experience, field trips, tutoring students, and for the warm reception that we have already received in planning for our upcoming performing arts program.

At the high school we have had volunteers who help with chaperoning dances, preparing newsletters, Music Boosters (Band, Orchestra, Choir), field trips, Athletic Boosters. In addition, parents and volunteers help with the post-prom party sponsored by SADD (Students Against Drunk Driving). Athletic Boosters, in particular, man the gates at the Fair and all athletic contests; they conduct state and regional cross-country and track meets, where as many as 200 people have volunteered. The Music Boosters help with newsletters and provide chaperones, and provide music camp scholarships for students.

The senior citizens program is built on a volunteer force. We are thankful for the many people who contribute to that program and also with the recreation program through the Recreation Council and the many volunteer directors and coaches.

Last year, in the United States, 52% of youth ages 14-17 were volunteers. Forty-eight percent of the adult population serve as volunteers. On the average, Americans volunteer 3.5 hours per week.

I have purposely avoided naming individuals, because the list would be exhaustive. I would also thank the people who volunteer their time to be involved in Dialogue with the Superintendent and the See for Yourself programs. It has been said that America is unique in the spirit of volunteerism, and we think one of the strengths of the Chelsea schools is that we are fortunate to have so many people give so much of their time and talents to making a better learning environment for our clients. We appreciate those efforts.

Today's Investor

By Thomas E. O'Hara
Chairman, Board of Trustees

Q. I don't have a lot of money, but I can save a little every month and would like to own stocks. Can you suggest a way that I could invest just a few dollars every month and hopefully some day own enough stock so that my retirement income will be bigger than my pension? I know I won't get rich, but I do want to increase my savings.

A. Before I answer your question let me tell you a story I heard two weeks ago. It will encourage you to carry out the savings program you are thinking about. The story comes from South Carolina, and was told at a meeting being held by a group of NAIC members. The individual was a retiree to South Carolina from the midwest.

This individual said he had heard about NAIC and the importance of investing regularly over 30 years ago. He decided he would invest regularly in the stock of Toledo Edison and reinvest all of his dividends. The person did not say how much he invested regularly but he implied it was not a large amount. He emphasized that he had not had a large amount to invest by saying that the highest annual salary he had ever earned was $30,000 a year.

The important thing is what he said next. After his lifetime of investing, along with reinvesting his dividends in the stock of just the one company, he said that for the last five years he had been the biggest individual shareholder in Toledo Edison and that he now had shares worth $1,400,000. I hope you will start the regular investing program you are contemplating and that you enjoy a similar success.

To help you get started, I am enclosing a folder on NAIC's Low Cost Investment Plan. In that plan you start by buying just one share of stock in your choice of 27 different companies. You can reinvest your dividends and add additional money regularly. The nice thing is that the companies will pay the costs and all of your money will be used to buy stock.

I'd suggest you start with one company and along with your dividends invest $10 to $50 a month additionally until you have 100 shares of the company you start with. Then start investing in another company. You'll be amazed to see how your holdings grow. In a few years you'll own a hundred shares of three to five companies.

Mr. O'Hara welcomes your questions and comments, but will answer them only through this column. Readers who send in questions on a general investment subject or on a corporation with broad investors' interest and whose questions are used, will receive a complimentary one year's subscription to the investment magazine Better Investing.

VA Home Loan Rate Drops to Eight-Year Low

For the seventh time in 18 months, the Veterans Administration has lowered its maximum home loan interest rate. Effective Nov. 24, VA-guaranteed fixed rate mortgages dropped to 9 percent—the lowest since June 28, 1978.

The decrease continues a pattern that began in September 1981 when VA rates peaked at an all-time high of 17½ percent. The last change, from 10½ percent to 9½ percent, occurred March 3, 1986.

The cut brings the VA rate closer to the market rate nationally. Besides benefiting new veteran-buyers, VA officials said the cut in the rate can help many veterans who already have home loans with high interest rates. By refinancing, veterans may be able to cut monthly payments by $200 a month or more and save thousands of dollars over the life of the loan.

The VA will also decrease by one-half percent the maximum rates for Graduated Payment Mortgages (GPMs) to 9½ percent and home improvement loans to 10½ percent.

The rates for manufactured home loans will also be decreased to 11½ percent for unit-only and 11 percent for loans to purchase either a unit with a lot or a lot for a unit already purchased.

VA home loans may be used to purchase, construct, alter, improve, repair, or refinance a home. This includes the purchase of condominiums and manufactured homes, with or without a lot.

★ Thanks to the Volunteers . . .

The Chelsea School District is very fortunate to have the support of the community of Chelsea—the financial support that is so necessary, and the psychological and volunteer support that we see daily. As we pause at this time of the year to generally give thanks, it is in this spirit that I speak for all staff members in the Chelsea School District in extending our thanks for the many volunteers who give us so much.

"Reverence for life demands from all that they should sacrifice a portion of their life for others."

—Dr. Albert Schweitzer

Reviewing our elementary school programs, we see volunteers working with the Fun Fair, Night of Knights, ice cream socials, media centers, Enrichment TRIAD Program, math labs, newsletters, and providing musicians from nearby universities.

The Beach Middle School staff indicate how thankful they are for the many volunteers who participate in our 6th grade camp experience, field trips, tutoring students, and for the warm reception that we have already received in planning for our upcoming performing arts program.

At the high school we have had volunteers who help with chaperoning dances, preparing newsletters, Music Boosters (Band, Orchestra, Choir), field trips, Athletic Boosters. In addition, parents and volunteers help with the post-prom party sponsored by SADD (Students Against Drunk Driving). Athletic Boosters, in particular, man the gates at the Fair and all athletic contests; they conduct state and regional cross-country and track meets, where as many as 200 people have volunteered. The Music Boosters help with newsletters and provide chaperones, and provide music camp scholarships for students.

The senior citizens program is built on a volunteer force. We are thankful for the many people who contribute to that program and also with the recreation program through the Recreation Council and the

VA Home Loan Rate Drops to Eight-Year Low

For the seventh time in 18 months, the Veterans Administration has lowered its maximum home loan interest rate. Effective Nov. 24, VA-guaranteed fixed rate mortgages dropped to 9 percent—the lowest since June 28, 1978.

The decrease continues a pattern that began in September 1981 when VA rates peaked at an all-time high of 17½ percent. The last change, from 10½ percent to 9½ percent, occurred March 3, 1986.

The cut brings the VA rate closer to the market rate nationally. Besides benefiting new veteran-buyers, VA officials said the cut in the rate can help many veterans who already have home loans with high interest rates. By refinancing, veterans may be able to cut monthly payments by $200 a month or more and save thousands of dollars over the life of the loan.

The VA will also decrease by one-half percent the maximum rates for Graduated Payment Mortgages (GPMs) to 9½ percent and home improvement loans to 10½ percent.

The rates for manufactured home loans will also be decreased to 11½ percent for unit-only and 11 percent for loans to purchase either a unit with a lot or a lot for a unit already purchased.

The cut brings the VA rate closer to the market rate nationally. Besides benefiting new veteran-buyers, VA officials said the cut in the rate can help many veterans who already have home loans with high interest rates. By refinancing, veterans may be able to cut monthly payments by $200 a month or more and save thousands of dollars over the life of the loan.

The VA will also decrease by one-half percent the maximum rates for Graduated Payment Mortgages (GPMs) to 9 1/2 percent and home improvement loans to 10 1/2 percent.

The rates for manufactured home loans will also be decreased to 11 1/2 percent for unit-only and 11 percent for loans to purchase either a unit with a lot or a lot for a unit already purchased.

★ Thanks to the Volunteers . . .

The Chelsea School District is very fortunate to have the support of the community of Chelsea—the financial support that is so necessary, and the psychological and volunteer support that we see daily. As we pause at this time of the year to generally give thanks, it is in this spirit that I speak for all staff members in the Chelsea School District in extending our thanks for the many volunteers who give us so much.

"Reverence for life demands from all that they should sacrifice a portion of their life for others."

—Dr. Albert Schweitzer

Reviewing our elementary school programs, we see volunteers working with the Fun Fair, Night of Knights, ice cream socials, media centers, Enrichment TRIAD Program, math labs, newsletters, and providing musicians from nearby universities.

The Beach Middle school staff indicate how thankful they are for the many volunteers who participate in our 6th grade camp experience, field trips, tutoring students, and for the warm reception that we have already received in planning for our upcoming performing arts program.

At the high school we have had volunteers who help with chaperoning dances, preparing newsletters, Music Boosters (Band, Orchestra, Choir), field trips, Athletic Boosters. In addition, parents and volunteers help with the post-prom party sponsored by SADD (Students Against Drunk Driving). Athletic Boosters, in particular, man the gates at the Fair and all athletic contests; they conduct state and regional cross-country and track meets, where as many as 200 people have volunteered. The Music Boosters help with newsletters and provide chaperones, and provide music camp scholarships for students.

The senior citizens program is built on a volunteer force. We are thankful for the many people who contribute to that program and also with the recreation program through the Recreation Council and the

VA Home Loan Rate Drops to Eight-Year Low

For the seventh time in 18 months, the Veterans Administration has lowered its maximum home loan interest rate. Effective Nov. 24, VA-guaranteed fixed rate mortgages dropped to 9 percent—the lowest since June 28, 1978.

The decrease continues a pattern that began in September 1981 when VA rates peaked at an all-time high of 17 1/2 percent. The last change, from 10 1/2 percent to 9 1/2 percent, occurred March 3, 1986.

The cut brings the VA rate closer to the market rate nationally.

Besides benefiting new veteran-buyers, VA officials said the cut in the rate can help many veterans who already have home loans with high interest rates. By refinancing, veterans may be able to cut monthly payments by $200 a month or more and save thousands of dollars over the life of the loan.

The VA will also decrease by one-half percent the maximum rates for Graduated Payment Mortgages (GPMs) to 9 1/4 percent and home improvement loans to 10 1/2 percent.

The rates for manufactured home loans will also be decreased to 11 1/4 percent for unit-only and 11 percent for loans to purchase either a unit with a lot or a lot for a unit already purchased.

VA home loans may be used to purchase, construct, alter, improve, repair, or refinance a home. This includes the purchase of condominiums and manufactured homes, with or without a lot.

★ Thanks to the Volunteers . . .

The Chelsea School District is very fortunate to have the support of the community of Chelsea—the financial support that is so necessary, and the psychological and volunteer support that we see daily. As we pause at this time of the year to generally give thanks, it is in this spirit that I speak for all staff members in the Chelsea School District in extending our thanks for the many volunteers who give us so much.

"Reverence for life demands from all that they should sacrifice a portion of their life for others."

—Dr. Albert Schweitzer

Reviewing our elementary school programs, we see volunteers working with the Fun Fair, Night of Knights, ice cream socials, media centers, Enrichment TRIAD Program, math labs, newsletters, and providing musicians from nearby universities.

The Beach Middle School staff indicate how thankful they are for the many volunteers who participate in our 6th grade camp experience, field trips, tutoring students, and for the warm reception that we have already received in planning for our upcoming performing arts program.

At the high school we have had volunteers who help with chaperoning dances, preparing newsletters, Music Boosters (Band, Orchestra, Choir), field trips, Athletic Boosters. In addition, parents and volunteers help with the post-prom party sponsored by SADD (Students Against Drunk Driving). Athletic Boosters, in particular, man the gates at the Fair and all athletic contests; they conduct state and regional cross-country and track meets, where as many as 200 people have volunteered. The Music Boosters help with newsletters and provide chaperones, and provide music camp scholarships for students.

The senior citizens program is built on a volunteer force. We are thankful for the many people who contribute to that program and also with the recreation program through the Recreation Council and the

VA Home Loan Rate Drops to Eight-Year Low

For the seventh time in 18 months, the Veterans Administration has lowered its maximum home loan interest rate. Effective Nov. 24, VA-guaranteed fixed rate mortgages dropped to 9 percent—the lowest since June 28, 1978.

The decrease continues a pattern that began in September 1981 when VA rates peaked at an all-time high of 17½ percent. The last change, from 10½ percent to 9½ percent, occurred March 3, 1986.

The cut brings the VA rate closer to the market rate nationally.

Besides benefiting new veteran-buyers, VA officials said the cut in the rate can help many veterans who already have home loans with high interest rates. By refinancing, veterans may be able to cut monthly payments by $200 a month or more and save thousands of dollars over the life of the loan.

The VA will also decrease by one-half percent the maximum rates for Graduated Payment Mortgages (GPMs) to 9½ percent and home improvement loans to 10½ percent.

The rates for manufactured home loans will also be decreased to 11½ percent for unit-only and 11 percent for loans to purchase either a unit with a lot or a lot for a unit already purchased.

VA home loans may be used to purchase, construct, alter, improve, repair, or refinance a home. This includes the purchase of condominiums and manufactured homes, with or without a lot.

★ Thanks to the Volunteers . . .

The Chelsea School District is very fortunate to have the support of the community of Chelsea—the financial support that is so necessary, and the psychological and volunteer support that we see daily. As we pause at this time of the year to generally give thanks, it is in this spirit that I speak for all staff members in the Chelsea School District in extending our thanks for the many volunteers who give us so much.

"Reverence for life demands from all that they should sacrifice a portion of their life for others."

—Dr. Albert Schweitzer

Reviewing our elementary school programs, we see volunteers working with the Fun Fair, Night of Knights, ice cream socials, media centers, Enrichment TRIAD Program, math labs, newsletters, and providing musicians from nearby universities.

The Beach Middle school staff indicate how thankful they are for the many volunteers who participate in our 6th grade camp experience, field trips, tutoring students, and for the warm reception that we have already received in planning for our upcoming performing arts program.

At the high school we have had volunteers who help with chaperoning dances, preparing newsletters, Music Boosters (Band, Orchestra, Choir), field trips, Athletic Boosters. In addition, parents and volunteers help with the post-prom party sponsored by SADD (Students Against Drunk Driving). Athletic Boosters, in particular, man the gates at the Fair and all athletic contests; they conduct state and regional cross-country and track meets, where as many as 200 people have volunteered. The Music Boosters help with newsletters and provide chaperones, and provide music camp scholarships for students.

The senior citizens program is built on a volunteer force. We are thankful for the many people who contribute to that program and also with the recreation program through the Recreation Council and the

VA Home Loan Rate Drops to Eight-Year Low

For the seventh time in 18 months, the Veterans Administration has lowered its maximum home loan interest rate. Effective Nov. 24, VA-guaranteed fixed rate mortgages dropped to 9 percent—the lowest since June 28, 1978.

The decrease continues a pattern that began in September 1981 when VA rates peaked at an all-time high of 17 1/4 percent. The last change, from 10 1/4 percent to 9 1/4 percent, occurred March 3, 1986.

The cut brings the VA rate closer to the market rate nationally.

Besides benefiting new veteran-buyers, VA officials said the cut in the rate can help many veterans who already have home loans with high interest rates. By refinancing, veterans may be able to cut monthly payments by $200 a month or more and save thousands of dollars over the life of the loan.

The VA will also decrease by one-half percent the maximum rates for Graduated Payment Mortgages (GPMs) to 9 1/4 percent and home improvement loans to 10 1/4 percent.

The rates for manufactured home loans will also be decreased to 11 1/4 percent for unit-only and 11 percent for loans to purchase either a unit with a lot or a lot for a unit already purchased.

★ Thanks to the Volunteers . . .

The Chelsea School District is very fortunate to have the support of the community of Chelsea—the financial support that is so necessary, and the psychological and volunteer support that we see daily. As we pause at this time of the year to generally give thanks, it is in this spirit that I speak for all staff members in the Chelsea School District in extending our thanks for the many volunteers who give us so much.

"Reverence for life demands from all that they should sacrifice a portion of their life for others."

—Dr. Albert Schweitzer

Reviewing our elementary school programs, we see volunteers working with the Fun Fair, Night of Knights, ice cream socials, media centers, Enrichment TRIAD Program, math labs, newsletters, and providing musicians from nearby universities.

The Beach Middle school staff indicate how thankful they are for the many volunteers who participate in our 6th grade camp experience, field trips, tutoring students, and for the warm reception that we have already received in planning for our upcoming performing arts program.

At the high school we have had volunteers who help with chaperoning dances, preparing newsletters, Music Boosters (Band, Orchestra, Choir), field trips, Athletic Boosters. In addition, parents and volunteers help with the post-prom party sponsored by SADD (Students Against Drunk Driving). Athletic Boosters, in particular, man the gates at the Fair and all athletic contests; they conduct state and regional cross-country and track meets, where as many as 200 people have volunteered. The Music Boosters help with newsletters and provide chaperones, and provide music camp scholarships for students.

The senior citizens program is built on a volunteer force. We are thankful for the many people who contribute to that program and also with the recreation program through the Recreation Council and the

VA Home Loan Rate Drops to Eight-Year Low

For the seventh time in 18 months, the Veterans Administration has lowered its maximum home loan interest rate. Effective Nov. 24, VA-guaranteed fixed rate mortgages dropped to 9 percent—the lowest since June 28, 1978.

The decrease continues a pattern that began in September 1981 when VA rates peaked at an all-time high of 17½ percent. The last change, from 10½ percent to 9½ percent, occurred March 3, 1986.

The cut brings the VA rate closer to the market rate nationally.

Besides benefiting new veteran-buyers, VA officials said the cut in the rate can help many veterans who already have home loans with high interest rates. By refinancing, veterans may be able to cut monthly payments by $200 a month or more and save thousands of dollars over the life of the loan.

The VA will also decrease by one-half percent the maximum rates for Graduated Payment Mortgages (GPMs) to 9¼ percent and home improvement loans to 10¼ percent.

The rates for manufactured home loans will also be decreased to 11½ percent for unit-only and 11 percent for loans to purchase either a unit with a lot or a lot for a unit already purchased.

VA home loans may be used to purchase, construct, alter, improve, repair, or refinance a home. This includes the purchase of condominiums and manufactured homes, with or without a lot.

Natural Resources Art Competition Set

Michigan artists are invited to enter an art competition to pay tribute to the state's "living legends"—its rich heritage of natural resources—Department of Natural Resources Director Gordon E. Guyer has announced. "We are asking artists to submit work which best depicts Michigan's marvelous natural resources," Guyer said.

The winning entry will be produced as a limited edition print to be awarded to leaders in environmental and natural resources' fields (in early June) as part of the Sesquicentennial celebration in early June.

In addition, the limited edition prints are likely to become valuable collectors items just as the art from the duck and trout stamp competitions, Guyer said. "The Sesquicentennial offers us a unique opportunity to pay tribute to the many outstanding leaders who are 'living legends' in the wise use and management of our natural resources," Guyer added.

"The competition is an excellent opportunity for Michigan artists to show their work and for Michigan citizens to become aware of the great artistic talent in the state," said Barbara Goldman, executive director of the Michigan Council for the Arts.

Entrants must be at least 18 years old at the date of submission. No previously published works will be accepted. Entries must be postmarked no later than March 25, 1987, or received by 5 p.m., March 31, 1987. Judging will take place on April 9.

Grapplers Lose Opener, Take 4th in Own Invitational

Chelsea varsity wrestling team lost a tough opening match of the season to the Brooklyn Columbia Central Eagles, 36-33.

"It was a heartbreaker," said Chelsea coach Kerry Kargel. "But there were a lot of good signs. We had a couple of freshmen beat seniors, which says a lot for how they are wrestling."

In other action last week, the Bulldogs finished in fourth place in the 15-team Chelsea Invitational on Saturday.

In the match with BCC, eight of 13 matches were decided by pins. 98 pounds: Freshman Eric Hanna of Chelsea pinned J.R. Hayes, 5-22.

105 pounds: Pat Taylor of Chelsea was pinned by Dale Holt, 3-41.

112 pounds: Chelsea's Bryan Kidd lost a 12-10 decision to Dan Dubois.

119 pounds: Bulldog freshman Doug Wingrove won by disqualification.

126 pounds: Chelsea's Ron Bogdanski pinned Don Berstein, 1-00.

132 pounds: Robert Kornel of Chelsea pinned Mike Shovels, 2-49.

138 pounds: Chelsea's Dean Sutherland lost a 17-9 decision to Bob Gilbert.

145 pounds: Jerry Reinhardt of Chelsea was pinned by Brian Aldrich, 4-6.

155 pounds: Bill Dixon of Chelsea was pinned by Tom Petito, 4-29.

167 pounds: Chelsea's Pat Cheng was pinned by Kevin Cheasney, 16.

185 pounds: Tim VanSchoick of Chelsea won a 7-3 decision over Don Linton.

Tankers Take 28th, Swim Well at State

Chelsea varsity swimmers finished in 28th place over-all at the state meet at Grand Rapids Junior College Dec. 5-6.

"We were looking to swim a little better but we held our times and over-all were pleased with the results," said Chelsea coach Mike Keeler.

"The times over-all were faster than last year and there was a lot more depth."

Sharon Colombo swam her best time of the year in the 100 backstroke, finishing 10th over-all in 1:06.02.

Susan Schmunk placed 12th in two events. She had a time of :26 in the 50 freestyle and :56.80 in the 100 freestyle.

The medley relay team of Colombo, Schmunk, Karen Grau and Helen Cooper placed 18th with a time of 2:04.2.

Diver Deanna Zangara finished 21st with 122 points.

Bulldogs Rip Eagles With Tough Defense In Season Opener

Relying on quickness and defense to offset a severe height disadvantage, the Chelsea Bulldogs raced to a 58-42 victory over the Brooklyn Columbia Central Eagles at home last Friday night.

It was the first game of the season for both teams.

"We played better than I thought we might," Rosentreter said.

"Brooklyn is a young team with a lot of bulky kids. We knew that if we continued to put pressure on the guards and force them to make mistakes, we'd be all right."

The Bulldogs had 19 steals in the game, 15 in the second and third quarters, which allowed Chelsea to stretch a 12-10 first quarter lead into a 40-30 bulge at the end of the third quarter. During those two quarters, Chelsea had just four turnovers.

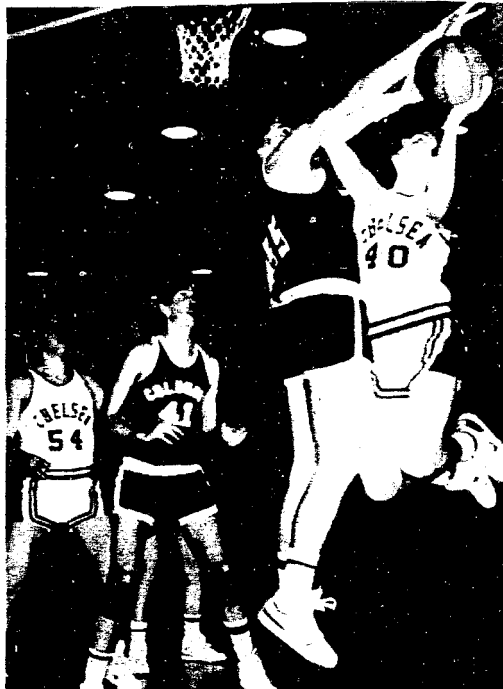

"Those turnovers were probably the key to it all," Rosentreter said.

Rosentreter used a steady stream of seniors until the closing minutes of the game to force the Eagles into their mistakes. The steals gave Chelsea several baskets off the quick transition game in the second half.

Senior guard Jon Lane got into the game early after Todd Starkey picked up two quick fouls early in the first quarter.

Lane didn't score a lot of points (7), but he guided the team and was aggressive on defense.

MARK BAREIS drives hard to the basket during last Friday's game against Brooklyn Columbia Central. Bareis scored on this maneuver and led the Bulldogs in scoring with 20 points after starting off slowly in the first quarter.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

One of history's greatest inventors has to be the person who came up with toilet paper. There's hardly a person among us who wouldn't agree that the stuff makes our lives a lot more pleasant on a daily basis.

However, this inventor probably never guessed how creatively people would use it. It comes in real handy after football games and on Halloween night, for example, when it can be used like pastel crepe paper to spruce up the old oak tree in someone's front yard.

I have known both boys and girls who used it to pad parts of their anatomies that they felt were somehow less than adequate.

Every kid knows the empty tube can make neat sounds if he hums into it like a kazoo.

College kids have also been known to use those tubes creatively, too, for illicit activities.

But some people don't realize just how dangerous toilet paper can be if used with the wrong intent.

Friday night, after Greg Haist sank a 15-foot jump shot for Chelsea's first two points of the basketball season, "a year's supply of toilet paper," in the words of coach Rahn Rosentreter, rained down on the court like perfumed ticker tape. The Chelsea student section had gotten a little over enthusiastic. Perhaps they were trying to send some sort of subtle message about what Chelsea should do to the other team.

I should have warned Athletic Director Larry Reed this was coming, although I didn't make the connection until after it happened.

Around 5 p.m. I was waiting in line at a local store and some short guy with tall hair in a letter jacket was in front of me, fidgeting and kind of looking over his shoulder. The kid was buying about 10 rolls of toilet paper, and nothing else, no Clearasil, no Twinkies, nothing but 10 (maybe 12) rolls of cheap, white toilet paper, the kind that breaks too easily and runs out too quickly. That should have been the tip off, although I suppose he could have been going on an extended camping trip.

I saw a different kid doing the same thing last Halloween, but I just figured it was part of the spirit of the season.

Anyway, as I was saying, toilet paper can become a dangerous weapon in the hands of the unsuspecting.

When the TP hit the court, of course, the game had to be stopped since no one wants to dribble around an obstacle course. It also stopped the Bulldogs' momentum the way a injury can take the energy out of a football drive.

A flying roll of toilet paper isn't likely to cause much damage to one of our great big burly athletes. But if he steps on one while back-pedaling defense, that's another matter.

I covered a basketball game once when the same sort of thing happened, only nerf balls were thrown onto the court. And, believe it or not, it was during a girls' basketball game.

One tall girl, who was growing faster than her co-ordination, stepped on one of those balls and fell into a heap on the floor, writhing in pain. The gym became as silent as a prayer session, with the exception of one screaming teen-ager. To add insult to injury, she ripped her shorts in the process, although I'm sure she didn't realize it at the time. She had to be carried off the court on a stretcher. Afterward, students in the stands began to cry.

The girl, a promising athlete, never played basketball competitively again. Every ligament in her knee was torn. It took almost a year for her to walk normally.

I know this sounds like one of those scare stories that kids hear all the time from parents who want to stop some uncivilized behavior. I remember my uncle telling me that if I kept picking my nose eventually I'd grab a string and pull one of my eyeballs out. Nevertheless, unlike my uncle's story, this one is true. (Then again, maybe I was just lucky.)

Nobody wants the student section involved in the game, more than Rosentreter does. Nothing pumps adrenaline into a high school player and team more than a screaming home crowd. And believe me, the players do appreciate the shouting.

But school spirit doesn't have to depend on how cleverly toilet paper, nerf balls or anything else is tossed onto the court.

And restraint sure beats search and seizure at the door, a policy I've known some schools to resort to.

As far as the game went, Chelsea can't hope to shoot 33 percent, get out-rebounded, and win many games as easily as they did Friday.

In that regard, this year's varsity team looks a lot like last year's squad. So far they shoot poorly but for the most part play pretty good defense.

Somehow, though, this team seems a lot different. Maybe it's their general attitude, or spirit, or self-confidence, or one of the other great intangibles of athletics. Maybe they just seem like they're having more fun.

No matter how they played, it was great to see the season get off to a good start. A win at Soline this Friday would go a long way toward building a little momentum for the rest of the season.

Bulldogs Whip BCC

If we can count on Jon to play that way every game, it'll be a big boost for us," Rosenreiter said.

Senior Greg Haist kept the Bulldogs in the game early, hitting four of five shots in the first quarter, mostly long jumpers from the corner. His final shot put the Bulldogs ahead for good. He finished with 17 points, scored in the team.

"If he hadn't hit those early shots, we might have been in big trouble," Rosenreiter said.

Senior forward Mark Bareis didn't make a field goal until the second quarter, but still led the team in scoring with 20 points.

The Bulldogs scored the first three field goals of the second quarter on shots by Bareis, Starkey and Lane. From then on Chelsea was never seriously threatened.

Despite the lopsided score, the Bulldogs did not shoot the ball well, hitting just 22-56 shots. They missed 14 shots underneath the basket, including several layups.

"That's the one thing that disturbs me," Rosenreiter said. "We missed way too many shots. Fortunately, we played pretty good defense."

Chelsea was also out-rebounded, 37-23. BCC had 11 offensive rebounds and turned eight of them into field goals, another area of dismay for Rosenreiter.

Brooklyn relied heavily on 5-6 sophomore Troy Plank, who led the team in scoring with 20 points. He proved to be difficult to stop underneath the basket although the Bulldogs tried to sandwich him between Poljan and Bareis.

However, he was the only significant threat the Eagles produced all night long.

Rosenreiter also singled out the play of senior Jeff Harvey, who had five rebounds and three points, playing virtually the entire game.

"His presence was felt underneath," Rosenreiter said.

Junior Greg Boughton, who appeared near the end of the game, pulled down a big rebound and turned it into an assist.

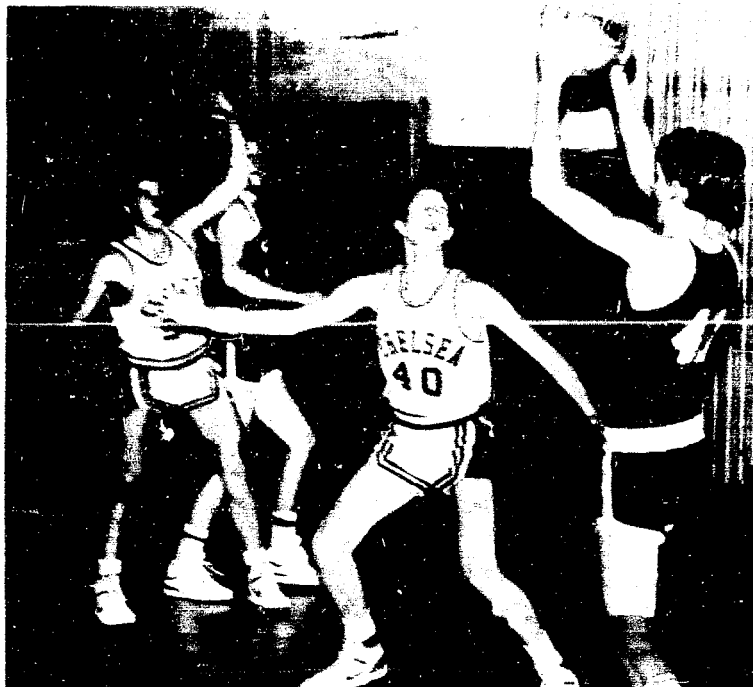

Other Chelsea scorers included Starkey with six, Poljan with three and Matt Bobbender, two.

The Bulldogs travel to Saline this Friday for their first Southeastern Conference match-up.

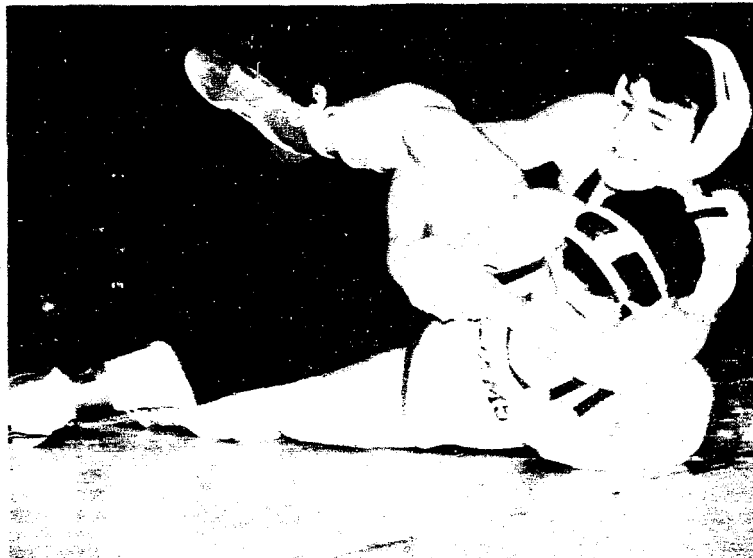

"It will be a world of difference in talent between Brooklyn and Saline," Rosenreiter said.

TOUGH DEFENSE was in large part responsible for Chelsea's opening season win against the Brooklyn Columbia Central Eagles in the Chelsea gym last Friday night. Above, Mark Bareis, center, and Marty Poljan, plug up the middle.

JV Cagers Drop First Game

Poor shooting combined with a tough defense added up to a close loss for the Chelsea High school junior varsity basketball team last Thursday against Brooklyn Columbia Central, 44-40.

The game was close all the way, and the Bulldogs were ahead by three points at half-time, 16-13.

"I was impressed with the way the boys hustled," said first-year JV coach Jeff Dils.

"We played good defense but we didn't put the ball in the basket. We shot in the low 30 percent range and missed so many easy inside shots. We just couldn't get them to fall."

BCC handled the Bulldogs on the boards although the teams matched up fairly evenly, Dils said. The Eagles had one 5-6 boy in the middle but he scored just seven points.

BCC put together a strong third quarter to take the lead 28-25 going into the final period.

Junior Morseau led Chelsea with 11 points, followed by Larry Nix with eight, and Tim Anderson with seven. Other scorers included Loren Keezer and Phil Thomson with four each, John Collins with three, David White with two, and Bryant Beard with one.

The Bulldogs take on the Saline Hornets in Saline this Friday night.

Bullpup Cagers Top Dexter In Opening 8th Grade Game

Beach Middle school's eighth grade Bullpups split their first two basketball games of the season last week with a 39-33 win over Dexter on Tuesday and a 24-21 loss to the Tecumseh Indians.

In Tuesday's win over Dexter, Jude Quilter's 14 points led the Pups.

Chelsea fought back from a 22-15 half-time deficit to tie the game at 28 at the end of the third quarter.

"It was a real good game, one of the best opening games I've ever seen," said Bullpup coach Jim Tallman.

The boys passed the ball around real well and played good defense. I was real proud of them."

Center Kerry Plank, who scored 11 points, also had an outstanding game, along with Quilter and Tucker Steele, who had seven points, Tallman said. "These kids have been well-drilled in the fundamentals," Tallman said.

Other scorers for Chelsea included Jeremy Stephens, Alex Hammerschmidt and Brian Bell, guards who each had two points.

When Chelsea met Tecumseh on Thursday, neither team could seem to get untracked, Tallman said.

Neither team held more than a two-point lead until the very end of the game.

The Pups held a 2-0 lead at the end of the first quarter and a 5-4 lead at half-time. The game was tied at 13 at the end of the third quarter.

Plank led the offense with 14 points. Steele, Quilter, and Hammerschmidt each scored two, and Bell scored one.

LEO DURHAM has his opponent in a mess during this match in the 138 pound class of the Chelsea Invitational meet. Durham won the division with three straight victories. He's a tri-captain on this year's Bulldog team.

PBLOA Attorney's Letter Expresses Concerns to DNR

Portage and Base Lake Owners Association (PBLOA) instructed its attorney, Dana A. Dever of Dever Professional Corporation, attorneys-at-law, to send a written communication to the newly selected director of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR), Gordon E. Guyer, expressing the group's grave concern about a "wetlands fill application to the DNR" and the manner in which the DNR has dealt with the situation to date.

Attorney Dever explained to the new DNR chief his letter extended beyond the "wetlands fill application" and actions related directly to the application, and encompassed a generalized complaint and expression of concern regarding enforcement of the Wetland Protection Act.

"The laxity may stem from several reasons, but it apparently relates in part to a repeated unwillingness of the DNR-Attorney General's legal division to enforce the Wetland Protection Act in an effective fashion," Dever noted, speaking for his clients.

The attorney explained, "We have been told your offices are aware of such a large number of violations that the legal division has pleaded overburdened and uninterested in mundane enforcement matters and situations where the filling of a wetland has preceded any application for a permit to do so."

As a consequence, if someone violates the Wetland Protection Act, but then applies for a permit after being "caught in the act," neither enforcement nor sanctions result, Dever related in the letter.

"Because of the purported involvement of your law division, I am sending a copy of this correspondence to the Office of the Attorney General, together with a copy to the Office of the Governor," the PBLOA attorney continued.

He further told DNR director Guyer, "I enclose a copy of an application, and notice of public hearing, which were processed by your department with regard to one Lawrence Baughn."

Dever also noted he enclosed a copy of the article which appeared in The Ann Arbor News subsequent to the public hearing concerning the matter.

The article reflected Baughn's application was an application to approve a filling which he had already completed. Dever explained, noting the after-the-fact nature of the application was never communicated to the public.

Dever explained to Guyer, "My clients, as well as several other individuals and organizations, attended the public hearing in good faith, believing they could take effective action to bring out issues concerning the protection of wetlands and prevention of the destruction of a wetland area on a lake already overburdened, overdeveloped and environmentally at risk."

Adding, "An officer of the DNR, in fact, stated to me, in advance of the hearing, that this fill was being considered, and might be prevented, with the clear implication that it had not then occurred." Dever further instructed Guyer, "Yet this was a case where the fill applied for had been completed, the damage had already been done, and the Act and the wetland area had already been violated."

Speaking for PBLOA, the attorney wrote, "Unfortunately, what is even more upsetting than the failure of either the applicant or the DNR to advise the public that this was an after-the-fact hearing, is the cavalier attitude of your department expressed in the quotations set forth in The Ann Arbor News, as well as the apparent frustration expressed by certain DNR workers with your own enforcement mechanisms and legal division."

"It is here we are told of the policy that the legal division will not enforce the Wetlands Act in circumstances where fill has been done without a permit, but there is an indication that a permit may have been granted had the application been made," Dever continued.

Asking Guyer to review portions of the article printed by The Ann Arbor News, Dever indicated, "I draw your attention to the last several paragraphs of The Ann Arbor News article. The DNR makes a statement that a wetland can be fully restored after having been filled, a statement which I find incredulous. Another representative of the DNR then states that no violation would be issued nor enforcement action taken against this developer should the DNR decide that the fill was improper, on the theory that you do not get fined if you drive 62-mph on the highway"—by analogy, will the DNR now say that there is harm if only a small amount of toxic chemicals are dumped, or only a few members of an endangered species killed?"

Dever noted: "In an area where developers do not wish to go before governmental bodies or public hearings, this environmental act was passed to prohibit the filling of wetlands by developers unless they went through the proper procedures and safeguards."

"Contrary to the apparent position of the DNR, I contend that the filling of a wetland does irreparably injure the ecological system."

"For that reason, it would be more appropriate to compare the filling of a wetland without proper approvals to an accident in which a pedestrian is killed by a speeding car, than an instance where a driver of a car merely drives 62-mph in a 55-mph zone."

Dever asked Guyer in the letter, "If the DNR does not enforce its Wetland Protection Act, can one expect developers to observe it, or simply to do their filling on a calculation that if they are caught, they will be merely slapped upon the wrist or politely asked to slow down to a legal speed?"

"If the DNR will not enforce the Wetland Protection Act, how can it expect that same developer, or some manufacturer, to have the DNR enforce regulations concerning the disposal of toxic substances?"

"I would recall to you that the DNR's commitment to the protection of the environment has itself been brought into question by a matter of improperly stored wastes, and assume that I need not cite with detail the DNR's own violation of the Federal Environmental Protection Standards."

"Where the DNR itself sets a poor example of protecting the environment, perhaps we should not be surprised that it continues its tradition with the policy of lackadaisical non-enforcement of the statutes which it is charged to oversee."

"Yet, we expect more from you," Dever told Guyer.

He continued, "Should one assume that the environment is worth protecting only in so far as it allows the governor's office to promote Michigan as a scenic location for a tourist's drive through the farm country and forest, but the residents of the state who live in areas subject to overdevelopment are not entitled to the protection of their environment?"

Dever explained before ending his letter to Guyer, "While budgetary constraints and personnel limitations may be seen as affecting the ability of the DNR to enforce various legislative acts, those budgetary constraints and personnel limitations are no excuse for the DNR being co-opted into the practice of following backhoes and bulldozers with a rubber stamp of approval where developers have preceded applications for wetlands fill with the filling of the wetlands."

"We would urge the DNR, and the state's Office of the Attorney General (which shares the responsibility for lackadaisical enforcement), to re-assess priorities and push for stringent en-

School Board Notes

Present at a regular meeting of the Chelsea Board of Education Monday, Dec. 1 were Dils, Redding, Comeau, Satterthwaite, Wales, Superintendent Van Meer, assistant superintendent Mills, principals Stielstra, Benedict, assistant principal Larson, community education director Rogers, athletic director Reed, curriculum director Bissell, guests.

Meeting called to order at 8 p.m. by President Dils.

The board received the following communications: (1) a letter from Father Enzo Addari, residential program director at St. Louis school, expressing appreciation for the See for Yourself tour of November 17th; (2) information letter from MASE (Michigan Association of School Boards) on the property and casualty pool; (3) a letter from a MEA attorney, advising that an unfair labor practice complaint has been filed, on behalf of the Chelsea Education Association, with the Michigan Employment Relations Commission (regarding the hiring of the substance abuse counselor).

The board presented a certificate of appreciation to Police Chief Lenard McDougall in recognition of his outstanding cooperation with the Chelsea schools and for the policing of activities during athletic events. Phil Boham, who is in charge of the Auxiliary Police, was also recognized; because of his inability to be present, McDougall accepted his certificate.

Substance abuse counselor Christine Dillon, was present to give an update on the program. She discussed the referral process and procedure, referral sources, and the confidentiality document, and the establishment of a chemical awareness group. She indicated that she has received good support from parents, teachers and students.

Bob Benedict and Henry DeYoung presented an update on the Young Fives program, indicating they had surveyed kindergarten teachers to seek information on the 15 Young Fives students in the program last year. Academically, 11 of the 15 are average or above average; socially, 13 are average or above average; and in physical/motor development, 10 are average or above average. The results of the survey show clearly that the Young Fives program has had a positive impact. This program is in the second year of a two-year pilot program and will be evaluated twice more before the end of the school year.

President Dils, on behalf of the Board of Education, introduced an exemplary attendance incentive program. Excellent attendance will be defined as two or less sick or business days, combined, in a given year. The program will be for all regular contracted employees of the school district, certified and non-certified. The board will recognize employees with excellent attendance by awarding plaques and savings bonds. The program will become effective during the second semester of 1987. This will be an action item on the Jan. 19 board agenda.

Superintendent Van Meer discussed each of the board goals and presented a progress report. He also discussed the latest legislation pertaining to home schools which will require certified teachers, and discussed congressional drug abuse funding for anti-drug methods. Van Meer also discussed the very complex "right to know" law and indicated that the district is currently conducting an audit of toxic materials.

Superintendent Van Meer also indicated that MASA (Michigan Association of School Administrators) is opposed to mandatory expansion of the MEAP test based on comparison of schools by scores, and the pressure to teach to the test.

The board was apprised that seven Chelsea High school students who took part in the state math competition ranked in the top 5%; 106 Chelsea students participated in the recent competition, along with 23,000 high school students nationwide. The seven students will be eligible for further competition.

The board accepted a donation of video recording, editing and lighting equipment from the Strat Rademacher Memorial Fund; value of the donation is approximately $5,000.

The board approved a tour for the High School String Orchestra to the Cleveland area and to the Bowling Green State University String Clinic, Jan. 16-18.

Principals and directors were present to update the board on programs and activities in their buildings and departments.

The board convened in executive session to discuss a personnel matter and subsequently adjourned at 10:45 p.m.

HAIL TO THE VICTORS! Another Big Ten Championship for the University of Michigan football team and another lesson successfully taught by Senator Lana Pollack (D-Ann Arbor) to Ohio State Senator Eugene Watts (R-Columbus) on the foolishness of wagering against the Wolverines. Winning their second annual wager on the game, Senator Pollack received a 25-pound bag of COMTIL, a soil conditioner produced by the City of Columbus from wastewater solids and wood chips. "Although I think there may be a double meaning in sending up their waste products, I do have to give Columbus credit for having a very environmentally advanced recycling program," Senator Pollack commented. "Besides, I can use this product on my Rose Bowl roses." Senator Watts also had to make a return singing engagement on the 50-yard line of the Ohio Stadium. On Nov. 25, at high noon, he presented his rendition of "Hail to the Victors" to complete his commitment to Senator Pollack after the OSU loss to Michigan.

On the average, the human body has twenty square feet of skin, nine thousand taste buds, five million hairs, and 13 billion nerve cells.

Farm Bureau Disputes USDA Report on Embargoes

American Farm Bureau Federation has taken issue with the recent U.S. Department of Agriculture report that embargoes have not hurt farmers.

In a letter to USDA Secretary Richard Lyng, American Farm Bureau President Dean Kleckner said that trade embargoes cause major disruptions in commodity markets and result in the U.S. being viewed as a less reliable supplier of agricultural commodities.

Kleckner told Lyng that a "restatement by the administration of its opposition to export embargoes as ineffective, disruptive and damaging to the U.S. farmer and national economic interests" would be helpful in clarifying the administration's position on the report.

Lyng, himself, disputed the report's findings after it was released last week. The report, which was co-ordinated by USDA's Economic Research Service, said farmers were not hurt by the Soviet embargo because the government compensated them with farm program payments.

Kleckner said the report is damaging because it leaves the impression that the U.S. views embargoes as "relatively harmless" and thus might be used again.

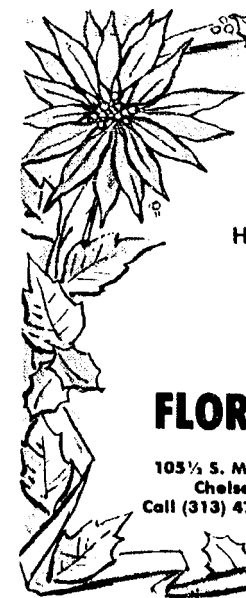

"Trade embargoes are wrong in principle and ineffective foreign policy tools. Farm Bureau will continue to fight any future attempts to implement export embargoes and any other market disruptive actions against agricultural products," he said.

"Where voluntary compliance is resisted, however, a policy of vigorous enforcement has often led to compliance by individuals who are educated through the mistakes of others or brought to know that their violation of the law will be met with a firm response, rather than with silence and neglect."

"While we do not ask your intercession in the matter of Mr. Baughn, hoping that normal channels will do their job and investigate matters fully, we do implore your involvement with, and your re-ordering of, the DNR priorities, guidelines, enforcement policies and philosophy concerning enforcement of Michigan's environmental protection laws."

The attorney charged, "The DNR has a tarnished reputation in Michigan, and incidents such as the current one do not add to the credibility of the state, nor the reputation of the DNR among the state's citizenry."

He concluded, "We would hope that with this matter being brought to your attention, redress may be had, and would ask your response and your action in this matter."

A child standing at the window waving good-bye to his dad—for many fathers, this is just a daily occurrence, but for Harry Valentine, a Washtenaw county sheriff's deputy, "the sun shown all day" when his four-year-old son James joined his brothers, ages seven and two in this activity. James is autistic and this was the first time he had joined the family in this daily ritual.

Autism is a developmental disability that affects a person's ability to communicate and socialize. It prevents proper understanding of what a person sees, hears or otherwise senses and causes severe problems in learning, communication and behavior. It usually manifests itself in the first 30 months of life and is four times more prevalent in males than females.

Debbie and Harry Valentine began to notice something was different about James when he was 18 months old. He was slow in learning to walk, would stay in his crib for long periods just staring at things, avoided eye contact, and became obsessed with certain objects. At the advice of their family doctor, the Valentines took James to be tested at the University of Michigan Medical Center, where his problem was diagnosed as autism.

The Valentines' first reaction to this diagnosis was fear. They read books, which they have since learned were out-dated, which said the only treatments were heavy dosages of drugs or institutionalization. One book went so far as to say that having an autistic child was like experiencing a death—that the personality was dead.

But thanks to the helpful advice and information the Valentines got from the Washtenaw Intermediate School System's District Five Special Education Program and from the Washtenaw Area Society for Autistic Citizens they have learned that the picture is considerably brighter. Autism is a life-long condition, but with early intervention, much of its behavior can be modified and the person has a much better chance of being able to function in the community.

After learning of James' autism, the Valentines enrolled him in the special education program at Chelsea's North Elementary school. The next year a program specially for autistic children was started in Manchester to serve children from Chelsea, Dexter, Manchester, and Whitmore Lake, so James transferred there. He is now in his second year.

Classes in the Manchester program are small with only five children per classroom. James' parents go once a week, as do all the parents, to help and to learn.

The Valentines cannot say enough good things about the teachers in both the Chelsea and Manchester programs, stating how much they have helped James and how informative and supportive they are to the parents.

Another great help has been the newly formed Washtenaw Area Society for Autistic Citizens as the local chapter of the Michigan Society for Autistic Citizens, which in turn is the state unit of the National Society for Children and Adults with Autism. The Washtenaw chapter was formed eight months ago by Alice Hartman who also has an autistic child. The group meets four times a year to hear speakers and to share concerns. It is a good opportunity to talk to other parents about problems such as the stress and worry of having an autistic child or the difficulty of finding babysitters. Speakers talk on subjects such as responding to the needs of siblings of autistic children. The next meeting is scheduled for Feb. 5. The topic will be guardianship, wills, and trusts.

Through association with the Washtenaw autistic group, the Valentines have learned of seminars they can go to and that they can borrow toys from the library at High Point.

Harry Valentine says that with all this help, James is definitely changing. He is interacting more, is not so lost in his own little world, and is mixing more with other children. However, they still have no idea how far these changes will go. Some autistic children become gifted musicians or mathematicians. Because of their obsession with objects and order, some autistic people find employment doing repetitive tasks that other people find boring, such as sorting mail. Says Harry Valentine, "We just have to trust in God."

Harry Valentine tells of his minister saying to him "handicapped children are like messengers from God." He pondered this for some time and then realized what the minister meant, saying "that little four-year-old has taught me more about patience, love, and understanding than I ever could have learned in a lifetime."

Dec. 7-13 is National Autism Week. Members of the Washtenaw group are trying to use the opportunity to tell people about autism.

For more information about the local group, call Alice Hartman at 426-2433. For general information on autism, there is a state hot line, 1-800-223-MSAC, which people are urged to call.

CHS Symphony Performs at U. of M. Conductor Clinic

Chelsea High School Symphony Band performed at the Michigan School Band and Orchestra's Association's conducting symposium at the University of Michigan on Saturday, Dec. 6.

The U. of M. and the Chelsea bands were clinic groups.

Band directors from throughout the state were given the opportunity to improve their rehearsal and conducting skills under the supervision of outstanding clinicians.

Clinicians include N. Robert Reynolds, Donald Shlick, and Elizabeth Green of the University of Michigan, Eugene Corporon of MSU, John Williamson of CMU and Richard Suddendorf of WMU.

Each conductor rehearsed the Chelsea Band and received suggestions on how to be more effective in rehearsals.

The Chelsea Band received high praise for their musicianship and co-operation.

This is only the third time a high school band has participated as a clinic group for the symposium in its 12-year history.

Farm Bureau Annuals Set For Dec. 9-12

More than 1,000 farmers from throughout the state will gather in Grand Rapids Dec. 9-12 for the annual meetings of the Michigan Farm Bureau and two of its affiliates.

Activities start Tuesday morning with the Farmers Petroleum Co-operative annual meeting. The Michigan Agricultural Co-operative Marketing Association (MACMA) will celebrate its 25th anniversary during the co-op's annual meeting which begins at noon. The opening session of the Michigan Farm Bureau annual meeting is scheduled for 3 p.m. Tuesday and will continue through Friday.

A highlight of the four-day session will be on Thursday evening when members of the agricultural community, state and national legislators, and government officials pay tribute to Elton R. Smith, Caledonia dairy farmer who has served as president of the Michigan Farm Bureau for 22 years.

CHELSEA RESIDENT MIKE SMITH, a senior at Albion College, played the role of Bob Cratchet in the recent production of "A Christmas Carol." The play, a joint venture by the Albion College Theatre and the Albion Community Theatre, ran for five days at the college theatre and featured a number of Albion residents as well as students and faculty members of Albion College. Smith, shown here with Albionite Matt Horstman as Tiny Tim, is a 1/83 graduate of Chelsea High school and is majoring in psychology at Albion. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Denham Smith of 133 Orchard, Chelsea.

Pair Uses Ruse To Rob Station

Two customers who asked to have the transmission oil in their car checked, used the ploy to steal $38 in change from the Village Mobil station early Monday morning, according to police.

Police said the couple, a black man and woman, pulled into the station at approximately 3:30 and asked the attendant to check the transmission oil. When the attendant complied with the request, the man apparently went into the store and took several rolls of quarters and nickles.

Farm Values Still Declining in Midwest States

A survey of 520 agricultural banks in the Federal Reserve District that covers Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin and Michigan showed declines in land values ranging from 4% to 6% for the third quarter. This represents an accelerated rate of decline in the period compared to the first half, during which the drop in land value appeared to be moderating.

The greater drop in land values this summer may be attributable to several factors including a smaller number of farmland sales, dim prospects for improvement in farm income and the serious floods in Michigan and some other areas of the Midwest.

"Despite the third quarter drop, many bankers surveyed expect the land market in their area to stabilize during the final months of 1986," said Peter Hefernan of the Federal Reserve District. An encouraging factor for the land market is the continued decline in interest rates on farm real estate loans, he said.

About 202,000 individuals were advised of their reemployment rights at time of separation from active duty by the Office of Veterans' Reemployment Rights, according to the Labor Department's Annual Report for Fiscal Year 1985.

Holiday Fowl Far Cry from Wild

The turkeys served on many holiday tables have lived lives of luxury compared to those of their wild cousins.

"The lives of a domestic butterball and a wild turkey are like night and day," says Harold Prince, a Michigan State University professor of fisheries and wildlife. "Domestic turkeys are bred to convert food into flesh and are fed just the right amount of food to produce a high-quality product. Wild turkeys breed themselves to survive and can't always depend on finding enough food when the winter gets harsh."

In fact, wild turkeys that roam the Gaylord and Grayling area of Michigan have starved and frozen in some years.

The state's wild turkey population was reintroduced in the 1950s, after it died out in 1880s following extensive logging operations. The Michigan Department of Natural Resources and private hunting groups would like to expand the population for the spring turkey hunting season, which has grown in popularity since it began in the 1970s.

With funding from the DNR and the MSU Agricultural Experiment Station, Prince and graduate assistant Brian Gray have gained a better understanding of how cold weather patterns in northern Michigan affect wild turkeys. The researchers placed wild turkeys in refrigerated metabolic chambers as part of what Prince calls a "passive stress test."

The turkeys underwent a two-day fast, during which the scientists measured changes in the amount of oxygen in the chambers. These changes indicated how much energy the birds used when under stress from cold and hunger.

From these results, they developed an "energy budget" that predicts when birds will experience life-threatening stress from harsh environmental conditions. The model predicts how many days juvenile and adult males and females will live, given specific low temperatures and amounts of food.

"Based on this model we know, for example, that if a juvenile female consumes 75 percent of the food she needs, it will take 27 days at minus 30 degrees Celsius before death would occur," Prince explains.

The DNR can use this information to predict when turkeys' lives might be in danger, and to decide whether to initiate life-saving measures.

"At this point, we want Michigan flocks to be wild but, at the same time, they can survive only by being fed at critical times," Prince says. "That is always the paradox we face when we manage wild species."

If you work in an office, chances are you'll spend at least 20 years of your life sitting down.

Beaumont Management Merges With The Professional Group

Irene M. J. Madej, president of The Professional Group, Ltd. (TPG), today announced the acquisition of Beaumont Management Associates, Ltd. (BMA), an international management consulting firm.

The Professional Group, Ltd., a business services firm offering full scale secretarial and word processing support to small and large firms. The merger with BMA now adds management consulting services, training programs and seminars to the service base provided by TPG.

Jerrold F. Beaumont, former president of BMA, was very enthusiastic with the merger. "Ms. Madej and I have been working on developing a firm which speaks to all the service needs of the business community for some time," stated Beaumont. "We are now well on our way with this merger."

BMA provided consulting and training services to Canada's Ontario Ministry of Industry and Tourism, as well as the Canadian private sector, for over 10 years. BMA offered small business owner/manager training programs to entrepreneurs, as well as management consulting services to older, more established businesses. The company was formed in 1975 with branches in Canada and the United States. Beaumont's 30 years of experience in the automobile industry and 10 years experience in management consulting will greatly enhance the services provided by TPG.

"BMA's merger with The Professional Group, Ltd., will expand our service base to include top notch business consulting. "This merger is the second phase in our efforts to establish a complete business support center," added Ms. Madej. "The first phase involved the acquisition of Project III, Ltd., d/b/a the Typing Pool, a full service secretarial support firm."

TPG is also negotiating with an area accounting firm to incorporate that firm's expertise into TPG for the benefit of the clients. For more information, please call Linda Shelton at (313) 665-9845.

Horse Owners Urged To Test Animals for EIA

Reported cases of Equine Infectious Anemia (EIA) increased 76 percent this year from 1985 totals and Michigan Department of Agriculture officials are urging owners to test their horses for the disease and observe quarantine of infected animals.

Acting State Veterinarian Dr. Robert Muir reports there is no known cure for horses afflicted with the often-fatal viral infection. EIA symptoms include high fever and severe anemia. In 1985, 20 horses were infected with EIA. In the first 10 months of 1986, 35 horses have contracted the disease. The majority of the infected horses were located in southeastern Michigan, Muir added.

Despite a healthy appearance, horses which recover from the disease continue to harbor the virus and may suffer stress-related relapses and infect other horses.

"Successful reduction and elimination of the disease requires identifying and isolating the carrier," Muir said. "MDA recommends destroying all EIA-positive animals to eliminate any chance of spreading the disease."

The virus is spread through infected blood and the most common carriers are horses or mosquitoes. MDA officials indicate syringes, surgical instruments, dental floats and stomach tubes can also transmit the disease if not properly cleaned and disinfected between uses. A mare can also transmit the disease to its foal.

Presence of the virus is most common at horse shows, boarding stables, public sales, race tracks and swampy pastures. Prospective buyers should conduct tests for the disease before

State Park Motor Vehicle Permits Now on Sale

A great Christmas gift idea that's delighted many a family with year-round recreation is the annual State Park Motor Vehicle permit. The 1987 permit, which goes on sale Dec. 1, will cost $10 and is good from Jan. 1-Dec. 31, 1987.

"An exciting year lies ahead for these vehicle permit holders as our 17 State Parks and Recreation Areas host a number of seasonal activities in 1987, highlighting Michigan's natural and historic heritage," said Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Director Gordon E. Guyer.

"At the same time," added Guyer, "revenue from the sale of these permits allows us (DNR) to manage the many natural historic and scenic areas within our State Parks and Recreation Areas, while also providing visitors with choice winter skiing, snowmobiling, ice fishing, sledding and camping facilities, as well as unlimited spring, summer and fall recreation activities each year."

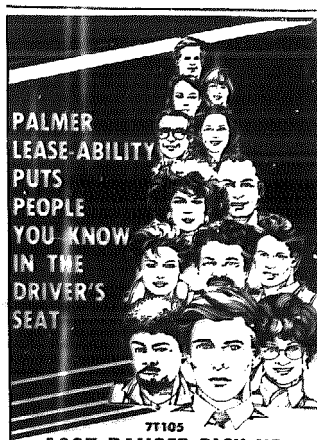

Permits may be obtained at all State Park and Recreation Areas and at the DNR Office of Information Services, 7th floor, Mason Building in downtown Lansing/517-372-1228. Written requests for a permit, plus a $10 check/money order payable to "State of Michigan" should be sent to DNR's Office of Information Services, Box 30026, Lansing 48903.

Messiah Sing Seeks Singers, Orchestra Players

The 22nd Ann Arbor Community "Messiah Sing," an unrehearsed reading of Handel's famous oratorio, will be held on Sunday, Dec. 14, at St. Clare's Episcopal Church/Temple Beth Emeth, 2309 Packard Rd., Ann Arbor, beginning at 2 p.m. However, orchestra players should arrive by 1:30 and singers by 1:45, noted Emerson Hoyt, the free event's organizer.

Hoyt is recruiting a small orchestra of 35 to 45 players. Since positions are limited in all orchestra sections, Hoyt requests players to pre-register by phoning him at 761-6099 as soon as possible. All orchestra players should bring a music stand. Orchestra and vocal parts will be furnished by the organizer.

The conductor of the sing will again be Dr. Martin Werner, choir director at the First United Methodist church, Ann Arbor, this being his fourth engagement for this post.

Hoyt stressed that anyone capable of reading the vocal score is welcome at the sing. "We've had professionals, amateur singers, families, church groups, young and old, and everyone finds that it's lots of fun. There's no rehearsal; we just warm up a bit and then go. It's everyone's chance to be the oratorio singer of his dreams, as the arias are sung by the chorus sections."

The Community Messiah Sing originated many years ago in Bob and Margaret Blood's basement, and was moved to the Friends' Meeting house in 1965. Since then, as the singer numbers and orchestra size grew, the sing moved to various churches, and to St. Clare's for this year—the 22nd season.

One enjoyable feature of these sings is the midpoint break, when everyone can enjoy free cider provided by the organizer, and various goodies donated by the performers, and make and renew acquaintances.

The sing is financed by the organizer, Emerson Hoyt, with the help of free-will offerings to the "kitties."

Further information may be obtained by calling Hoyt at 761-6099.
