Jeff Layher Takes Over Chelsea Parts Peddler

Chelsea resident Jeff Layher has purchased the Chelsea Parts Peddler store from Dick Kolander, who will continue to operate the Dexter store.

Layher has worked for the store for 13 years, including two years when it was located on E. Middle St. and was known as Boyer Automotive.

The store began as Boyer Automotive in 1980 and was located next to the village offices. In 1978 Kolander re-named the business Parts Peddler, Inc., and a year later purchased Chelsea Automotive Supply at 1414 S. Main St. He operated two stores in town until 1982, when he consolidated both stores at the S. Main location.

Kolander plans to pursue other business interests as time allows.

Layher, a life-long Chelsea resident, has been in the auto parts business since he graduated from Chelsea High School in 1974. He began at Hill Piston in Jackson before working at Boyer Automotive. As proprietor, he plans to continue to expand the store's lines of merchandise in the farm, fleet, and auto parts business.

Layher, a member of the Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors, and a member of the Chelsea Community Fair Board since 1978, farms and bowls in his spare time. He and his wife, Karen, who will be helping in the business, have twin five-year-old daughters, Erin and Sarah.

President Satterthwaite Changes His Mind, Will Face Steele in Election

Chelsea Village President Jerry Satterthwaite, who three weeks ago said he wouldn't seek a fourth term, changed his mind and filed a nominating petition by the Monday deadline.

Satterthwaite, who said he was pressured into running by two Chelsea businessmen who were concerned about the possibility of three or four new people on council, will face village trustee Richard Steele in the battle for president. The two squared off in the last presidential election in 1988, which Satterthwaite won, 219-180.

In mid-January, Satterthwaite informed The Standard that he wouldn't run and that he would support Steele. He also told council in public session that he wasn't going to run.

"It took a lot of persuasion," Satterthwaite said.

"It's not what I really wanted to do, and I'm not happy about Richard's (Steele) situation. I feel bad about that. But I thought if I announced I wasn't going to run that more people would come out and run for office. We've got to have more qualified candidates (for trustee) than what's there."

Steele said Monday he was surprised by Satterthwaite's change of heart because he thought Satterthwaite really was sincere about wanting time for himself.

"If he wants the time, he should be entitled to it," Steele said.

Satterthwaite also said that he might not have gotten involved if former president Charles Ritter had stayed on the sidelines. Ritter, president in 1980-81, is one of five people who has filed a petition for trustee. Ritter and Satterthwaite have long been political adversaries. The possibility that Ritter and Satterthwaite could be on council together might add some interest to village council meetings.

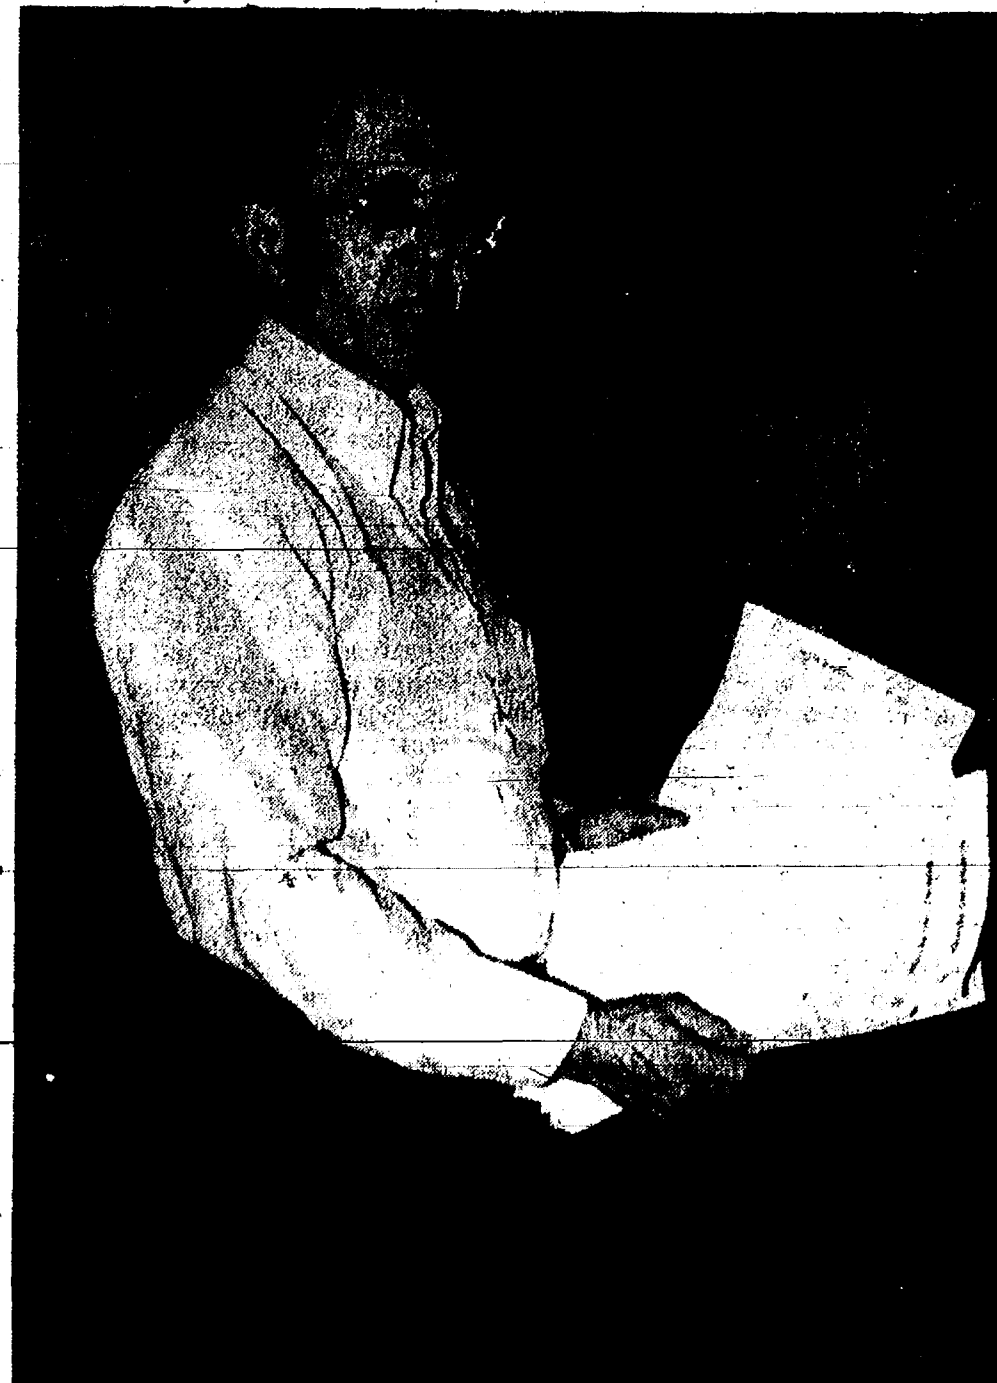

The other candidates for village trustee include incumbent Joe Merkel, the senior member of council, a Taylor St. resident; John F. McKenzie, 304 S. Main St.; Harry L. (Jack) Myers, 306 Wilkinson St.; and Frank Hammer, 521 S. East St. All but Merkel are newcomers to Chelsea politics. They will be running not only for Merkel's spot, but seats vacated by trustee Gary Bentley and former trustee Phil Boham.

Incumbent treasurer Kathleen Chapman is the only candidate for her position.

McKune Memorial Library Board incumbents Susan Walters and Anne Belser are the only two candidates for their expiring seats.

All village government posts are for two years. The library board seats are for three years.

The non-partisan village elections will be held Monday, March 12. Voting takes place at Sylvan Town Hall on W. Middle St.

VILLAGE CLERK Allen Anderson begins his job of certifying nominating petitions submitted by the Feb. 5 deadline. Richard Steele will face Jerry Satterthwaite for president and five candidates have filed for the three open seats on the village council.

Curriculum Both Praised, Criticized in School Survey

The curriculum of the Chelsea School District was the single item that drew both the most praise and most criticism among respondents in the Project Outreach survey conducted by the district in November.

In answer to the open-ended question, "In what ways are the Chelsea schools particularly good?" 31 percent of all respondents mentioned the curriculum while 40 percent of parents with children in the schools answered the same way.

However, when asked "What don't you like about the local public schools?" 13 percent of all voters said weakness in curriculum, while the rate among parents was 18 percent.

Teachers were also second on both lists. 24 percent of all respondents, and 38 percent of parents, praised the teachers, while 10 percent of all respondents and 16 percent of parents criticized "some teachers."

Nothing else on the list of criticisms was mentioned by more than 6 percent of respondents, although 38 percent of all respondents answered "can't say" while 24 percent of parents gave the same response.

Respondents found many more things to praise than criticize. 20 percent of all voters, and 32 percent of parents mentioned individual attention given to students; 15 and 23 percent mentioned school-home communication; 12 and 14 percent mentioned extra-curricular activities; 12 and 14 percent mentioned sports, and 11 and 14 percent said special services and programs provided to students. 17 percent of all respondents, and 2 percent of parents, didn't praise anything.

In terms of adequacy of the school curriculum, 54 percent of parents said the curriculum was adequate, while 40 percent of all respondents said some changes should be made. 14 percent suggested more emphasis should be placed on basic skills, while 9 percent listed more vocational/technical classes, 8 percent said more computer instruction, and 8 percent said more practical, survival skills.

There was no consensus as to how the schools could be improved. 39 percent of all voters, and 29 percent of parents, answered "can't say" when asked to name one thing that could be done to improve the schools. Better teachers drew 11 percent of parental responses, while more variety in the curriculum and more communication with parents/community each drew 10 percent of responses.

School finances was chosen as the district's major problem in the past year by 38 percent of all respondents and 49 percent of parents. Other major problems were selecting administrators (14 percent), employee turnover (13, 18 percent), and student deaths and suicides (10, 15 percent). 35 percent of all respondents, and 20 percent of parents did not name a major problem.

District residents give high marks for the district's preparation of students for college. 41 percent of parents gave a "strong" rating and 40 percent said "adequate." Only 6 percent of parents answered "weak."

The ratings were similar when asked how well the schools prepare students for being responsible citizens at 43 percent of parents answered "strong" and 38 percent said adequate. "Weak" was mentioned by 12 percent.

The worst ratings were given for the district's ability to prepare students for jobs when they graduate, although the numbers indicate most are still satisfied. 18 percent of parents answered "strong," 42 percent said "adequate," and 15 percent said "weak."

Voters also apparently believe the district does a good job teaching the work ethic, such qualities as regular attendance, promptness, and dependability. 55 percent of parents answered "very well," while 33 percent answered "somewhat."

78 percent of elementary school parents and 78 percent of middle school parents said school discipline was "about right." The number fell to 57 percent for high school parents. At

Methodist Home Reaches Goal in Building Fund

United Methodist Retirement Home in Chelsea has successfully completed a multi-million dollar campaign to raise capital for the renovation and expansion of their facilities.

Seven million dollars was raised to help finance a three-phase $20 million building project that will be completed by summer 1991. A new 110-bed nursing center was opened in 1985, and renovation of the Home for the Aged was completed in 1989. The final phase, the construction of a 76-unit apartment building for independent living is now underway.

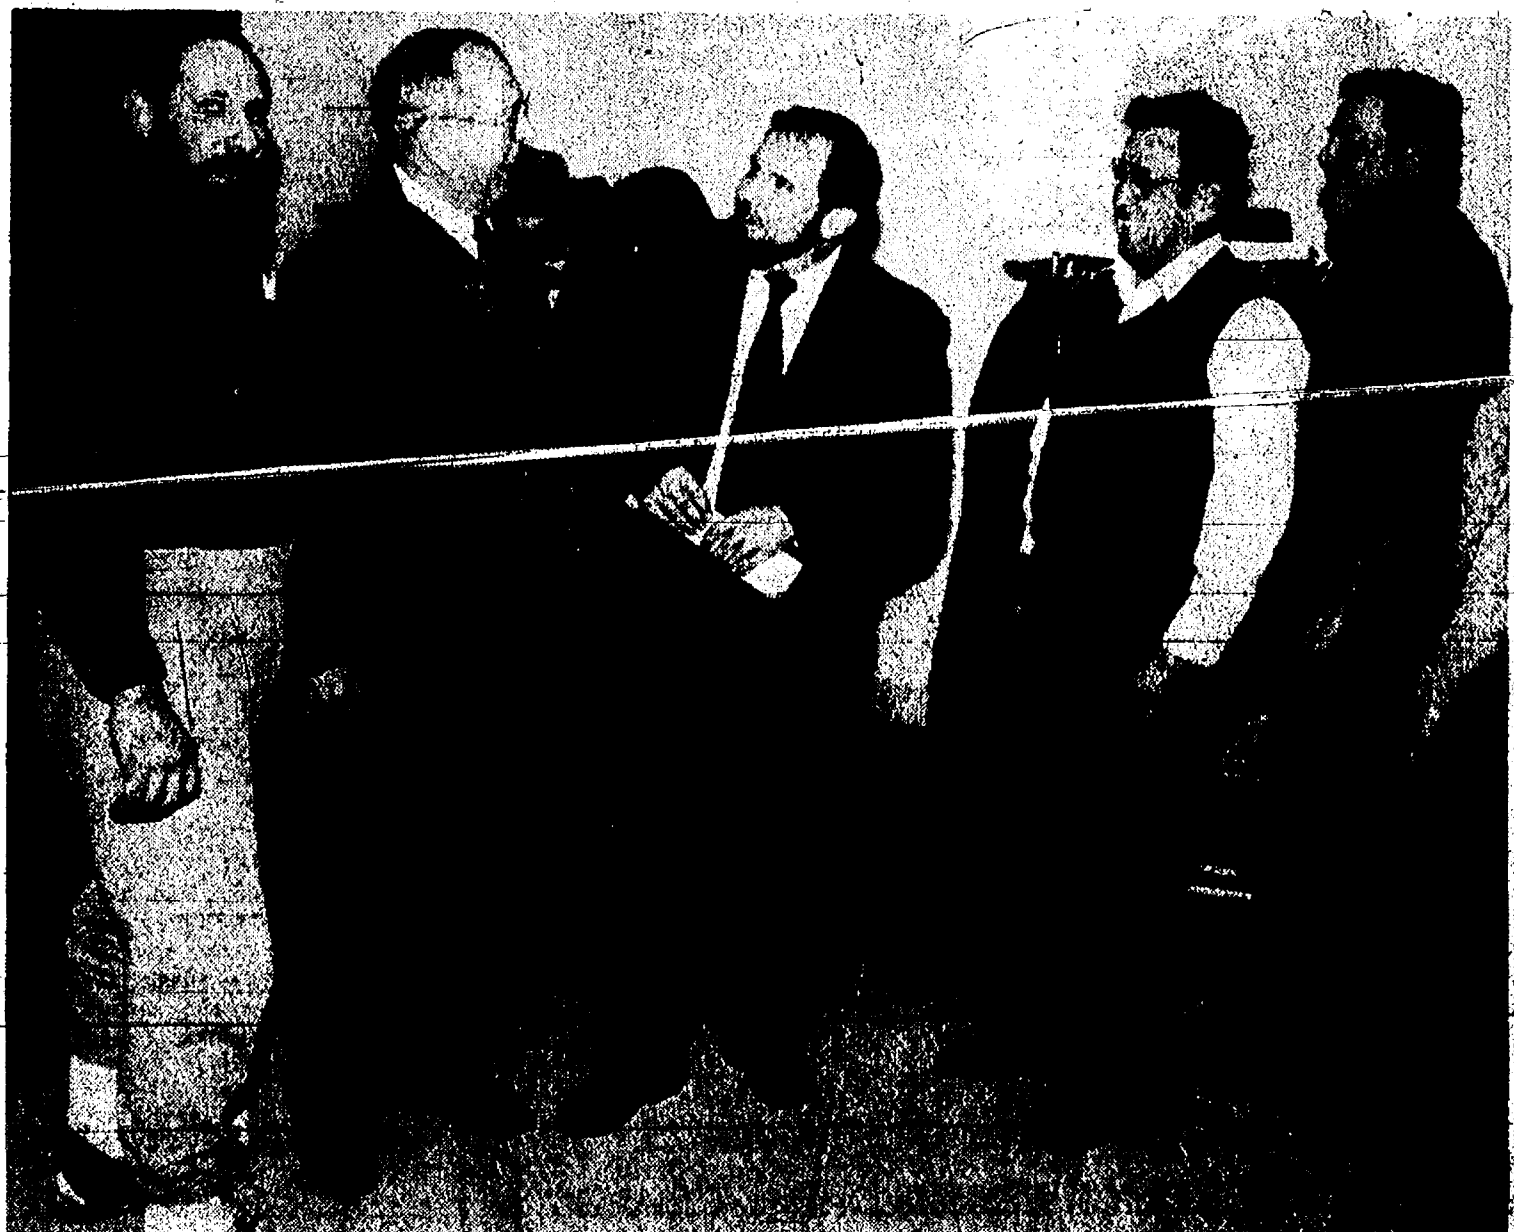

Howdy Holmes, vice-president of Chelsea Milling Co., chaired the Village of Chelsea fund-raising effort, which was part of a state-wide drive. Holmes would like to credit the local campaign committee for all of their hard work in putting the campaign over the top. Committee members who played a major role in the success of the campaign include Dr. Jim Botsford, Larry Diele, Ann Feeney, Arlene Howe, John Mitchell, Dan Murphy, the Rev. Gerald Parker, and Robert Thornton.

United Methodist Retirement Home is grateful for those who contributed to the campaign, and in the words of Howdy Holmes, "It's gratifying to see a worthy project gain the support of the community. The Retirement Home has been faithfully serving Methodists and non-Methodists alike since 1907, and our local drive gave the villagers an opportunity to show their appreciation in a meaningful manner."

Chelsea had the chance to add a $400,000 softball/parking complex to Veterans Park for a fraction of the cost. Dana Corp. offered to donate 10-12 acres of land adjacent to the softball fields off Sibley Rd. and M-42. The land would tentatively be used for two more fields and additional parking for the complex. The whole deal hinged on whether or not the village could secure a 50 percent Land and Water Conservation Fund grant from the Department of Natural Resources.

Gung Hay Fat Choy! Kong Shee! These and other greetings were shared by third, fourth and fifth graders in the North School Media Center, as they celebrated The Chinese New Year, Feb. 10. After they viewed a filmstrip showing how the occasion is celebrated, they sampled a 1,000-year egg, tried to eat rice with chopsticks, and figured out which Chinese Zodiac sign they were born under. 1986 was the Year of the Tiger. Each child received a placemat showing and describing the 12 different animals, with descriptions of personalities born under each sign.

The Chelsea school district was to modernize its rotary-dial phone system during the summer, and save several thousand dollars a year in the process. The district narrowed the list of vendors down to "two or three," according to Assistant Superintendent Fred Mills, and was to make its selection soon. All 80 telephones in the system were to be replaced by modern, electronic telephones with touch-tone capabilities.

Residents of the Flanders St.-Book St. area filled the council chambers in support of traffic signs that were scheduled to be put in the area. In December, the village council voted to install signs that said "No parking or standing between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. on school days." That was done to alleviate a loitering problem on the streets when high school students gathered to smoke before and after school. Residents complained they were a nuisance. Stop signs have also since been placed at Flanders St. and Wendley St.

Fire loss in Chelsea during 1965 showed a $122,114 increase in 1965 over 1964. That was the report of Chelsea Fire Chief James Gaken, who summarized the total fire loss for 1965 at $241,280, as compared to $119,176 in 1964. The boosted 1965 fire loss came from several big fires. The biggest fires of the year involved the Klumpp Brothers Gravel Co. in January, and Hankard's service station in February.

Grants Help Michigan Offset Low Federal Funds, SFA Report Says
Michigan ranked last among the 50 states in total federal expenditures per capita in 1988, but the state was 25th in the amount of direct state and local aid per capita received, according to a report released by the Senate Fiscal Agency.

But the report suggested a brighter future for federal aid to Michigan and to states generally by 1991, due to reduced pressures for defense spending and attendant reductions in the federal deficit.

Michigan received $23.65 billion in federal funds in 1988 for a per capita spending level of $2,543, 28 percent below the national average of $3,546, the report noted. But SFA Deputy Director Gary Olson, who prepared the report, said Michigan's outlook "appears bright" for 1991.

Because of the recent changes in Eastern Europe, there may be reduced pressure to increase defense spending, thus lessening the size or the need for a tax increase to meet the federally-mandated deficit target, he said in the report.

The report projects a federal deficit of $116.1 billion for fiscal year 1990, down $32 billion from last year's total.

Between those factors and the fact there appears to be strong Congressional support for state and local government programs, it "should bode well for the states in the year ahead," Olson said. "My belief is if there are cuts in the federal budget, (grants) should stay pretty much intact."

The report also noted that federal spending on Michigan grant programs designed to control drug abuse will increase by 66 percent in 1990, with the state in line to receive $13.6 million in federal funds.

The Blanchard administration earlier this month submitted its proposal for distributing the funds, but the Legislature, which has 30 days to accept or reject the proposal, has not yet viewed the plan.

In the SFA report, Olson said that once the proposal is approved, the state will have three years to distribute the funds. No matching state funds will be required this fiscal year, and future matching funds will be determined on the proportion of the funds split between state and local agencies.

The $13.6 million represents a $9.7 million or 247.4 percent increase for Michigan over 1989 federal allocations, well above the national average increase of 197.5 percent, the report says.

Olson also downplayed Michigan's last-place ranking in per capita federal expenditures because of its ranking of 25th in state and local aid per capita. "From a budget perspective, that's the relevant number."

Michigan, along with several other Midwestern states, has historically ranked at or near the bottom in per capita federal spending because of a small number of federal employees per capita and a "very small" defense contracting business, Olson said.

Blues Considering Children's Health Care Program
Representatives of Blue Cross Blue Shield of Michigan said recently they are developing a program which would provide health care for children whose parents make too much money to be eligible for Medicaid but are still below or near the federal poverty level.

Officials said the program could be ready late this year.

Marianne Udow, vice-president of policy and planning for BCBS, said the company is currently developing a plan patterned after a successful partnership between the Blue Cross/Blue Shield system in western Pennsylvania and sponsors who fund the health care.

The cost in that state is $13 per month per child and covers basic health care, including detection and prevention measures and outpatient surgery.

While the Pennsylvania program is apparently in part subsidized by paying subscribers, Udow said the Michigan program could include a foundation to pay for the health care.

Private sponsors, such as businesses, industries, churches or individuals, could contribute to it, and children would be eligible to participate as funding becomes available.

Specific guidelines have not yet been established, nor has the program been analyzed in terms of cost, Udow said.

Udow, who explained the proposal before the House Democratic Commission on Families, stressed that it would be designed to work with, not duplicate, current state programs.

Governor Blanchard's "Healthy Start" program, which was introduced in this year's State of the State address, was also outlined for the committee.

The program, like the BCBS proposal, said state Medicaid director Kevin Seltz, is designed to provide health care for the children of the working poor who are not eligible for other insurance coverage.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Clem Webster came to the season at the country store Saturday night with a clipping where the U. S. Environment Protection Agency is spending $76,355 to find out if gas put off by manure is helping the world heat up. Clem told the fellers when he first saw the item he wished the EPA had put that research out for birds where he could come out of retirement and took the job.

They don't call the piles of stuff politicians put off hot air for nothing, Clem said, and for sure it is as close to pure manure as you'll find this side of the barnyard. One of them fellers running hard for office can heat up a hall someone fierce, Clem allowed, and when he can bring enough campaign workers to block the doors it works out the same as if the heat of the sun is trapped by what scientists call the greenhouse effect.

But then Clem said he saw the barnyard is where the EPA is paying this professor at N. C. State University to look. He is going to study how much methane gas is let loose in manure from chickens, hogs and cows, and whether it mixes with fumes from engines, spray cans and what all to whittle away at the ozone that let heat from the sun escape back into space.

The way he sees it, declared Clem, the EPA is going in for learning for learning's sake. As for changing the situation, he said, this research project is ever bit as good as measuring the height of mountains. Say the good professor finds out that manure methane will bring the Earth to a boil in a few million more years, then what, he wanted to know. You can shut off a engine, wimmen can throw away their hair sprays and men can go back to shaving with soap and brush. But if you keep putting the raw material in one end of a cow, the finished product will keep going out the other.

The fellers took unusual interest in Clem's report. Zeke Grubb said right off that technology probable already exists to produce a gas free hog. We got all white meat chickens and low cholesterol beef now and there's no telling how far genetics and gene splitting can take us, was Zeke's words. Besides, he said, we might do away with food animals altogether and do with three pills a day. If you believe the ads, Zeke said, we're already where a little bowl of dry cereal is all we need.

Practical speaking, broke in Ed Doolittle, the research is apt to be aimed at how best to contain and dispose of manure to hold down the release of the gas. Ed recalled a item he had read where this chicken farmer run his truck on gas let off by a tank full of manure, so this new research could show better ways to use the gas instead of letting it loose. In politics, Ed noted, that's called damage control, but it ought to work for farmers and ranchers.

Actual, Ed went on, he wanted to follow up on Clem's point about learning for learning's sake. The trouble is, we keep reinventing the wheel. For instant, Ed had saw where research a continent apart discovered at the same time that people need pets. From New York come word that children bond to pets and deal better with people of all ages. At the same time in California a new study found that old people need pets to give em the purpose and responsibility they need to stay mentally healthy.

How many times, Ed ask, has man learned that since he stood up and walked.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Lioness Members Enjoy Demonstration On Basket Making

Chelsea Lioness learned about basket making at their monthly meeting on Jan. 8. Earlene Kennitz displayed some of the many she has made including market baskets, jelly jar baskets, Amish cheese baskets, wall baskets and lunch pails. Some of the materials she uses include round and flat reeds of different woods and widths, caning, sea grass, different dyes and stains. She took some of the mystery out the process with her demonstration. Not only is the proverbial basket weaving very relaxing for many people, it is useful and can save money. They carry and store things, decorate spaces and make great gifts. Many kinds have quite a history, but each is unique and made by hand. Earlene Kennitz gives lessons in her home.

Guests at the monthly meeting included Pat Tabaka, Lorrie Chiebek, Nancy Montange and Jinx Bailey. Refreshments were provided.

Current Lions president Bill Wescott paid a special visit. He had to retrieve his gavel which some Lioness had stolen and baked in a cake.

The next meeting will be Monday, Feb. 12, 7:30 p.m. at the Trustcorp Bank. Speaker will be Linn Stovch, R.N., dietician in the Nutri Care Department at Catherine McCauley Health Center. She will talk about nutrition and exercise.

'Incredible Edibles' Discussion Slated On Food Sources

As a result of advances in technology and agriculture, and because of an increasingly cosmopolitan world, many exotic food products are now appearing on the supermarket shelves. Many people may be familiar with the food they are served. Yet, they may never have seen the plants that are the source of their meals.

There is no need to travel the world to see some of these plants. Common and exotic food plants are grown at the Matthaei Botanical Gardens. "Incredible Edibles" is the topic of a Conservatory tour for the public which will be held on Feb. 11, at 2 p.m. The sources of chocolate, vanilla, guava juice, passion fruit, lemon grass, and many other foods and flavorings will be pointed out and discussed.

The tours will last approximately one hour. Because of space limitations of the Conservatory, the tour is restricted to 30 persons. Reservations are highly recommended, although interested persons may sign up on a space available basis on the day of the tour. For reservations, please call 998-7061.

Conservatory admissions apply: $1 per person. Friends' members and children under six years are free.

Matthaei Botanical Gardens is located at 1800 N. Dixboro Rd., Ann Arbor; 1/4 mile south of the Plymouth Rd. intersection.

McCauley Cancer Care has formed the Mastectomy Support Group as a self-help group for women who have undergone mastectomy surgery for breast cancer.

The sessions will focus on common concerns, and will offer an exchange of information about cancer and its treatment. Patients will also be able to share feelings related to the impact of the illness and explore ways of coping with it.

Group leaders are an oncology social worker and an oncology nurse who have worked extensively with cancer patients and are available to answer questions concerning all aspects of the disease.

Pre-registration is required. Call 572-3519 to register.

The Deceptive Killer — Painless Heart Disease

The heart is an incredibly faithful pump which beats an average of 100,000 times a day as it circulates close to 2,000 gallons of blood. Yet it is the final beat of this magnificent pump—often from neglect or abuse—that brings death to almost a million Americans a year. This is nearly equal to the number of all deaths from cancer, accidents, pneumonia, influenza and suicide combined.

One job of the heart, as you well know, is to take oxygen fresh from the lungs and distribute it through the circulatory system to all parts of the body. Oxygen supply to the brain is critical because if this command post is denied oxygen for just four minutes, the brain dies and its owner along with it.

A heart attack occurs when a coronary artery has become totally clogged with plaque (consisting of cholesterol, calcium and other materials). This shuts off the blood supply to a muscle of the heart. Deprived of oxygen the muscle dies. With such dire events taking place inside a human chest, it is no wonder that the heart's owner may be experiencing discomfort and strange sensations in the upper body.

The heart will also signal its distress when partially obstructed arteries carry an insufficient supply of blood to the heart. When this condition becomes chronic it is known as angina. Overexertion or tense emotions will bring on such pains; and immediate rest will make the pains disappear. Angina can be treated by physicians and their prescriptions.

Plaque begins to form on artery walls before age 20. As the decades slip by, the plaque grows thicker and the narrower arteries convey less blood. Signals of heart disease, especially among smokers, appear with increasing frequency in men in their 40's and women following menopause.

Action in A Heart Emergency

If you are the one who is present when a companion collapses from a heart attack you are in charge of the rescue. Your immediate concerns are the victim's heartbeat and breathing. In the absence of these vital signs, you know that you have only four minutes to get the heart beating and the lungs breathing again. And in such a non-medical setting, the only hope is CPR—cardiopulmonary resuscitation. Every adult would do well to become certified in CPR at Chelsea Community Hospital where CPR classes are always open to the public followed by Red Cross certification.

Heart Emergency Phone — 971-4111

If you are not trained in CPR, and you are faced with a heart arrest, you had better invest one of those priceless four minutes calling the Huron Valley Ambulance (HVA) at 971-4111. You describe the situation and they will respond by asking brief, sequential questions about the victim's condition, plus name, address, nearest cross street or road and phone number. If CPR is needed and you are not trained in the procedure, the HVA dispatchers will do their best to instruct you. Since you can't perform CPR while hanging onto the telephone, it is a godsend to have a second person present to relay the dispatcher's instructions.

As soon as the resuscitation effort has begun, HVA will have an ambulance on the way. They will simultaneously alert the Chelsea Fire Department to dispatch a trained rescue team. Chelsea Hospital emergency will also be alerted by HVA and be prepared to receive the heart patient.

One call to 971-4111 does it all! Chelsea Community Hospital does not operate a general ambulance service and they will tell you to call HVA at 971-4111.

This number should be written with the emergency numbers kept near telephones and should be entered into the programs of all programmable phones.

Fortunately, in most heart attacks the heart does not stop and breathing does not cease. Cardiac arrest may be imminent but there are warning signals. If the victim or companion pays attention and recognizes these symptoms for what they are, calling HVA will take care of the rest of the situation.

The troubled heart is likely to give its first signals of distress at home and frequently during the night. It can and does occur at work, in the garden, at play or on the street. The most instantly recognized signal is a sudden, severe pain in the chest and arms, spreading to the shoulders and neck. One Chelsea heart victim last year had an agonizing pain in the jaw.

With such a telltale pain, whether you are the victim or a bystander, call HVA on 971-4111.

Warnings Without Pain

Non-painful symptoms of heart attack are just as real and dangerous as the painful ones. People describe these non-painful signals in the upper torso as discomfort or a feeling of pressure or fullness in the chest. Others have described chest discomfort as a sensation of squeezing. Some heart attack victims have felt that they were having a stomach ache or indigestion. They have also had aches in the arms or shoulders. Other common symptoms are sweating, shortness of breath, nausea and fainting. Such discomforts in the upper body could be insignificant or benign BUT IF THE SYMPTOMS PERSIST FOR TWO MINUTES OR MORE, YOUR HEART IS TELLING YOU TO GO TO THE HOSPITAL AND LET THE DOCTORS DECIDE.

In January it was my privilege to interview 10 Chelsea people who had experienced heart attacks last year. Eight of them had painless symptoms and it took most of them 12 to 72 hours before deciding to get medical attention. Spouses played a positive role in persuading their mates to go to the hospital.

Most of these painless symptoms listed above have been mentioned in heart literature for the past decade but people in charge of publication have simply included them as "running changes" in the copy. Leading heart health institutions have failed to call sufficient attention to these critical, often-fatal symptoms without pain.

Negligent editors have been aided and abetted by the victims themselves. Heart disease is a most unwanted affliction and countless thousands of victims have reached their graves by means of denial. "Oh gosh, I'm hurting with health. A heart attack can't happen to ME!" OR "Those little aches in my chest can't be SERIOUS."

In other instances, it is fear of embarrassment if the trip to the emergency room should turn out to be for a non-urgent reason. But doctors themselves are the first to urge playing it safe when heart symptoms are manifest.

A great many who were DOA at the hospital didn't make it because they died alone. But of the 45,000 who did make it to the hospital, and died there, we can only wonder how many suffered irreparable heart damage during hours of indecision and denial at home.

We in the Chelsea area are immensely lucky to have a first class medical center right here in the community. We are doubly fortunate that Chelsea Community Hospital is also a member of the Cardiac Emergency Network. This is a life-saving support system sponsored by the Michigan Heart Institute and the Catherine McAuley Health Center. Through this emergency network the Chelsea hospital can render expert cardiology services that go beyond the capabilities of its own staff and facilities.

The physicians of the Michigan Heart Institute are on call by our emergency room 24 hours a day. Medical tests can be telecopied (FAXed) whenever the need arises for additional consultation.

This means that in Chelsea the best hospital is the nearest hospital.

DONALD A. COLE, Director

"Pray for patience to develop the best God has put in you..."
—Collier

In these uncertain times, patience has become a nearly-extinct virtue. We become so absorbed in seeking the short cuts to success that we may overlook dormant abilities within ourselves, waiting to be developed.

With a little time, a little effort and just a little patience to cultivate the very best that is within us, we can open the door to a more abundant life. Let us not be so pre-occupied with saving time that we lack the patience to develop our full, God-given potential.

Our record of sympathetic service and consideration for people under great personal stress is unexcelled.

Almost Overlooked Early Civil Rights Leader Remembered

The birthday of Frederick Douglass, one of America's most eminent civil rights leaders of the 19th century, is celebrated on Feb. 7. Born Frederick Augustus Washington Bailey in 1817 in Tuckahoe, Md., Douglass escaped the bonds of slavery in 1838, changed his name and began a new life in the Northeast. Having learned to read secretly as a boy, Douglass developed a literary brilliance and oratorical style that catapulted him into the forefront of the abolition movement. His speeches on the dehumanizing effects of slavery led to his new career in 1841 as an agent for the Massachusetts Anti-Slavery Society. Later, Douglass compiled his memories in his autobiography, "Life and Times of Frederick Douglass," completed in 1882. Douglass was the first black citizen to hold high rank in the U. S. government. During the Civil War, he was a consultant to President Abraham Lincoln, and later fought for full civil rights for freedmen. He also held various other government positions, including U. S. minister and consul general to Haiti in 1889-91. He died Feb. 20, 1895, in Washington, D. C.

According to figures released by Sylvester Leonard, Washtenaw County treasurer, the quarterly return of sales tax monies to cities, villages and townships on a per capita basis set a new record. The per capita rate for the final quarter of 1985 was $2.35 for each man, woman and child, based on the 1980 census figures.

A break-in at Chelsea Implement Co. on Chelsea-Manchester Rd. netted the thieves only a small amount of cash from the cash register but damage suffered by the company included the ruin of two safes which were ruined by attempts to force them open. Entrance to the building was gained by breaking a rear window.

Fifty-five Safety Patrol boys arrived early for Saturday night's show at Sylvan Theatre as guests of the Chelsea Chamber of Commerce. Officer Doe was in charge of supervision at school crossings, and Chief Carman and Boyer represented the Jaycees. Dillon Wolverton, owner of the theatre, treated the boys to popcorn. Chelsea Jaycees sponsored the theatre party in appreciation for the "fine work the boys are doing" at school crossings.

Chelsea schools were closed Monday afternoon because of an ice storm. Buses took the pupils home at noon because it was feared roads would be so icy by night that the runs could not be made.

Crop Insurance Spring Deadline Date Is Nearing

Increasing numbers of Michigan farmers are insuring their crops for the first time to guard against the disastrous effects of drought, flood, hail and similar hazards, according to Jim Gallagher, director of the Farm Bureau Insurance subsidiary that writes federal crop insurance. Gallagher said his company wrote over 4,500 crop insurance policies in Michigan in 1989 compared to 542 the year before.

"Keeping a crop insurance policy continuously in force is a necessity in the high-risk business of farming," he said. "It makes sure that one bad year won't take back all the profits a farmer made in the good years."

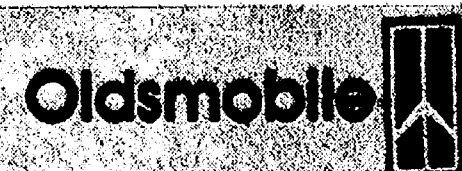

Gallagher reminded farmers that the deadline for spring crop sign-up is April 15. The cost of crop insurance, which protects most crops against almost any kind of unavoidable loss, including drought, hail, too much rain, deer damage, freezes and disease, is based on each farmer's individual yield experience and the level of coverage selected.

Poster Dog Contest Offers Valuable Prizes

The dog days of August may well be over, but for the Humane Society of Huron Valley (and more than 900 shelters nationwide), they never end. On behalf of these shelters and the more than 13 million dogs that end up homeless each year, Meaty Bones Dog Biscuits and Jerky Treats Dog Snacks are sponsoring a search for the 1990 poster dog to promote Adopt-A-Dog Month held in October each year.

This month-long effort draws attention to the large number of perfectly healthy puppies and dogs that end up at shelters each year—4,554 at HSHV alone last year. The contest winner will appear on posters across the country to publicize this special month.

HSHV would like to encourage anyone in the area who has adopted a dog from the Humane Society of Huron Valley to pick up an entry form at the shelter located at 3100 Cherry Hill Rd., Ann Arbor, as the owner of the winning dog will receive a $5,000 cash prize and a year's supply of Meaty Bones and Jerky Treats.

Also of great importance is the fact that a matching cash grant of $5,000 will be awarded to the shelter from which the dog was adopted.

All poster dogs must have been adopted from an animal shelter to be eligible. The deadline for all entries is Feb. 15, so, there is plenty of time to apply.

Remember, the winner will not only serve as an example of the types of wonderful pets available in shelters throughout the states, but will also be doing a great deal of help the shelter from which he/she came.

To obtain a contest entry form for your pet, visit the Humane Society of Huron Valley—open 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily—or contact Jan Wahl, adoption co-ordinator, at (313) 962-5585.

School District To Remove Leaking Underground Gas Tank

An underground gasoline storage tank at the Chelsea School District's bus garage is apparently leaking and will be removed.

According to superintendent Joe Piasecki, an annual test conducted on the metal storage tank for unleaded gasoline recently detected a leak.

"We don't know if it's a big problem or a little one, but we've notified all the agencies involved of the problem," Piasecki said.

The Board of Education voted to spend up to $5,000 with a company called Envirotherm, Inc., in Brighton. The company will assist with all the paperwork, as well as act as a liaison with the Department of Natural Resources and other agencies. "They have a lot more information and experience with these problems than we do," Piasecki said.

"Frankly, all the new regulations regarding underground storage tanks scare all of us a great deal."

Piasecki said the amount actually spent on the consultation will probably be less than the amount authorized. The company's low bid was $1,100, which didn't include materials and other expenses.

The leaking tank is one of the smaller 1,000 gallon tanks, Piasecki said. The other larger tanks, holding 10,000-12,000 gallons, have not shown a leakage problem, he said.

"The question is now, do we want to do something to protect the other tanks," Piasecki said.

"We are exploring all those options," Piasecki said. The leaky tank would probably not be replaced immediately, at least not with an underground tank.

The actual removal of the tank, and any clean-up work, will be handled by another firm.

In other board business Monday night, the resignation of new vocal teacher Patrice Pedersen was accepted. Her letter cited personal reasons.

The district has begun the search for an interim teacher.

In the meantime, area resident Ann Lee is teaching the classes, elementary music teacher June Warren will handle the high school musical play, and Donna Palmer is working with the Silhouettes.

Two other teachers submitted their resignations, effective at the end of the year. They are high school social studies teacher June Winans and elementary school teacher Alberta Stein.

There was much discussion about changing the starting and ending times of the school day.

"If they had to vote last night, I really don't know how they would have voted," Piasecki said.

Two alternatives have been suggested. One would adjust the day to 20 minutes earlier and the other would adjust it 30 minutes.

The board has asked for a variety of additional information for the next meeting. They want to know when other county schools begin and end their days, as well as the potential effect on vocational education students.

In an unusual communication, a group called Clean Up Radio Broadcasting (CURB) has urged the district to boycott an FM radio station due to what the group perceives as objectionable jokes and comments by disc jockeys. The group wants district drivers to play another station, especially while kids are on the bus. The station is FM-95.

DIVISION II and III ratings went to these Chelsea High school musicians at last Saturday's Solo and Ensemble Festival at Franklin High school in Livonia. Students are graded on a lengthy list of criteria by professional judges. Students from Wayne, Washtenaw, and Monroe counties participate. From left are Megan Stielstra (II), Patrice Welfaert (II), Julie Koch (III), Michelle Smith (II), Jim Alford (II) and Jeremy Guenther (II). Not pictured are Linda Schaeffer, Mark Kemner, and Julia Boyle, who all received II rating, and Sara Tracy, who received a III rating.

Bulldogs!

Bulldog Offense Guns Down Milan, Hartland

Chelsea Bulldogs pulled away from the Milan Big Reds in the third quarter to take an 85-73 victory at Milan last Friday and maintain their Southeastern Conference lead.

In a non-conference game at home on Tuesday, Chelsea had their easiest game of the season as they pounded Hartland 82-47 in a game that was even more lopsided than the score.

The Milan game was tied at 40 at half-time as the Big Reds had their perimeter game in high gear and their quickness was causing the Bulldogs problems.

"Milan was ready to play," said Chelsea coach Robin Raymond. "They're playing a lot better than they were early in the season."

Raymond decided to change his man-to-man press from full-court to half-court to take away some of Milan's quickness. As it turned out, Milan began missing their outside shots, although they did hit three, three-point shots in the second half and narrowed the Chelsea lead to six points in the fourth quarter.

"One of the differences in the game was Milan didn't shoot as well the second half and we were consistent offensively throughout the game," Raymond said. Chelsea scored the first few points of the second half to take the lead. When the Bulldogs began to lengthen their lead, Milan tried to press, which resulted in some easy Chelsea baskets. Chelsea scored 25 points in the quarter and held a 65-54 lead going into the final period.

Chelsea ended up winning the game at the free throw line. They hit 12-13 in the final period and for the night made 27-31, their best performance of the season. Kerry Plank was 9-9, Kyle Plank was 6-6, and Brian Burg was 8-8.

Meanwhile, Milan went to the line for 18 shots and made 11.

Chelsea ran its offense well against Milan's man-to-man defense. The Bulldogs used their picks effectively and were able to get the ball inside to Burg and Kerry Plank, who finished with 26 and 23 points, respectively. Plank's total was his high for the season.

In addition, Burg and Kerry Plank dominated the boards. Burg had 13 rebounds, Plank had 11, and Chelsea had a 44-34 advantage.

Each team had 28 field goals as Chelsea was 28-60 for 47 percent and Milan made 28-63 for 44 percent.

Other scorers for Chelsea included Kyle Plank 16, Chad Starkey 7, Chris Wilson, 6, on two three-pointers, Jon Royce 4, Jude Quilter 2, and Tucker Steele 1. Wilson, Starkey, and Kyle Plank each had four assists.

Chelsea was 8-0 in the Southeastern Conference going into last night's game at home against Lincoln. They play at South Lyon this Friday.

Tecumseh kept its hold on second place with a close win over Saline. The Indians are 7-1 in league play.

Tuesday's game against Hartland was almost a 32-minute lay-up drill for the Bulldogs. They had numerous wide-open, uncontested shots as Hartland seemed to have no idea how to break the Chelsea press and threw or dribbled the ball away repeatedly. Hartland ended with 29 turnovers for the game.

CHAD STARKEY gets his hand in on defense to knock the ball away from a Hartland player last Tuesday. The Bulldogs won the game in a runaway.

"Hartland seemed to be a little frustrated," Raymond said.

"They have a new coach who is trying to put in his system. I don't think they scouted us, either."

Chelsea led 50-21 at half-time and stretched their lead to nearly 40 points in the third quarter.

Hartland had the biggest center the Bulldogs have seen this season, but the 6'7" senior was almost no factor in the game as his teammates couldn't get him the ball.

Every Bulldog played in the game and a couple scored their first points of the season.

"We played hard the whole game which is sometimes not easy to do in that situation," Raymond said.

"Everybody did a good job."

Chelsea shot 66 percent from the field, 31-56, and 19-28 from the line.

"We've been on a scoring binge lately," Raymond said. The Bulldogs have scored more than 80 points in three of their last five games and over that stretch averaged 81 points.

"We're forcing a lot of turnovers and getting a lot of good shots."

Burg had 33 points, his high for the season. Other scorers included Starkey 23, Kyle Plank 10, Kerry Plank 6, Sinisa Janicevic 4, Erich Hammer 2, Jon Royce 2, and Wilson 2. Chelsea is 13-1 on the season.

Dog Netters Whip Big Reds

Chelsea-Bulldog volleyball team lost in three games to the Saline Hornets at home last Monday, Jan. 29, 6-15, 15-13, 5-15.

"Even though we lost this game, our statistics are impressive," said Chelsea coach Sue Steeves.

"Saline tipped a lot of balls short that we weren't quite quick enough to get."

Barb Scriven led Chelsea with 13 assists and five kills. Lisa Park had seven digs and four kills and "was all over the floor," Steeves said. Scharme Petty had four kills and six blocks, while Jennifer Petty had five kills.

On Thursday, Feb. 1, Chelsea took two games from the Milan Big Reds, 15-4, 15-4.

Jill Nowatzke had her best night of the season with six kills, two blocks, two digs, and a perfect serving record.

Scriven had 11 assists and Jane Pacheco served four aces.

"The team is finally playing well consistently," Steeves said.

"Consistency is something we have been lacking since last season."

Chelsea Wrestlers Take SEC Championship With Tournament Title

Key victories by Pat Hassett and Tim VanSchoick in the finals gave Chelsea the championship of the Southeastern Conference Wrestling Tournament last Saturday and their second straight SEC title.

Chelsea narrowly defeated the Saline Hornets, 210 to 201. Had Saline won the tournament, the teams would have tied for the title as the Hornets were second to the Bulldogs with a 5-1 dual meet record.

Pat Hassett, at 171 pounds, defeated Saline's Dan Wooley, 5-3. And VanSchoick, in the final match of the day, pinned Saline's Jason Dettler in 3:16.

"We had to win those two matches or we would have tied for the title," said Chelsea coach Kerry Kargel.

"Saline was ahead of us all day long until the end. The other schools, except Pinckney, were unable to give us much help as Chelsea and Saline had all of the power. Our kids were enthusiastic and were up and screaming and giving Pat and Timmy a lot of support."

Despite the victory, Kargel said the Bulldogs didn't get a break all day.

"We gave Saline every means of scoring points on us," Kargel said.

"We lost three matches by one or two points that we were winning late."

Saline, in fact, placed all 13 wrestlers, while Chelsea placed 12.

One of the keys was a fourth-place finish by Chelsea freshman Andrew Parker at 112 pounds. Kargel said he didn't expect to get any points at the weight, but with his fourth-place finish Parker scored seven team points, a huge boost.

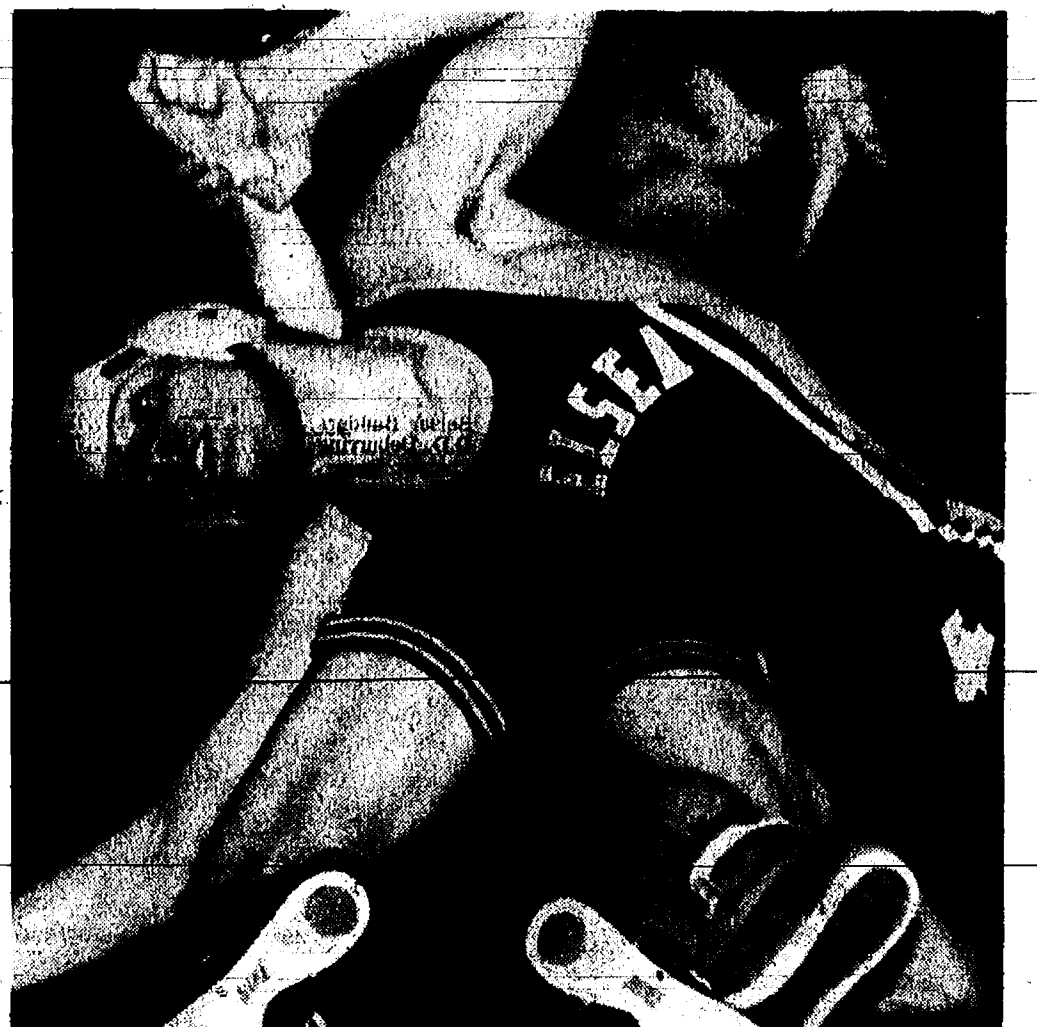

Chelsea had first-place finishes by Karl Wikman at 103 pounds, Pat Taylor at 119 pounds, Alan Hanna at 126 pounds, Doug Wingrove at 145 pounds, and Hassett and VanSchoick. Taylor pinned Dexter's Matt Dolecky in 1:32 in the finals.

Hanna earned an 8-6 decision over Kevin Day of Lincoln in the finals.

And Wingrove decisioned Dexter's Matt McRoberts in the finals, 8-2.

Eric Hanna, at 130 pounds, finished second as he was pinned by Saline's Chris Voightman in the finals in 3:23. Hanna was leading the match 7-2 before making a mistake.

KARL WIKMAN got Chelsea off to a good start in the finals of the SEC wrestling tournament last Saturday as he won a technical fall over Saline's Mark Gray to take the title at 103 pounds.

Leila Bauer Resigns Position As Lima Township Supervisor

Leila C. Bauer, supervisor of Lima township, has resigned to accept appointment of chief deputy treasurer for Washtenaw county. The resignation is to be effective May 1.

Mrs. Bauer ends a 25-year reign as a public servant, first being elected clerk in 1964 and supervisor in 1979. She said she first decided to run for clerk when her neighbor and then Lima township trustee Walter Wolfgang, asked her if she would be interested as the present clerk was not going to run again.

Michael A. Stimpson, Washtenaw county treasurer, appointed Mrs. Bauer as his chief deputy effective Feb. 6. She has been employed by Washtenaw county since 1971, working in accounting for Community Mental Health and the Health Department, before transferring to the treasurer's office in November 1982, as the accounting co-ordinator and assistant to the county treasurer.

Regarding her reign as a public official, she said it has been a real challenge and yet most rewarding. She spoke highly of her township board and the fact that they have been able to keep Lima township rural, although pressures for growth are becoming greater each year.

She said increasing taxes has been her biggest struggle. Properties classed as residential increase yearly, due to market values. However, until this year she has not had to increase properties classed agriculture for four years.

The township hires an outside assessor that does the actual assessing; however, the supervisor is still responsible for working out the annual sales ratios, which determine the percent of increase on the assessments.

Mrs. Bauer feels there is a definite need for new legislation to change the taxing structure and school financing from property taxation, but she does not want to see just a tax switch from one form of taxation to another. That is not the answer. She feels that when one buys a home or parcel of property that establishes the true cash value, so the tax should be at 50% of that value with only annual increases to meet the rate of inflation, until the property is sold again and a new true cash value is set. People are being taxed out of their homes, and/or being subsidized, which again are tax dollars.

Mrs. Bauer said she will miss a lot of the people she has been working closely with and has enjoyed helping the senior residents with tax assistance and information, in addition to helping with their state and federal tax returns.

She said she has never been able to accept the fact that there are those that expect preferential treatment.

LIMA TOWNSHIP SUPERVISOR LEILA BAUER is resigning her post due to the demands of a job promotion. The large gavel in the photo was made from wood originally in the Lima Township Hall and was given to her when she first took office. An election will be held in the fall to name a successor.

"When I took my oath of office, I said I would treat everyone equally and to the best of my ability I have," she added.

In addition to being supervisor, she serves on the Dexter Area-Wide Fire Board, she is a member of the Washtenaw County Assessors Association. She is a certified assessor with the State of Michigan. She serves on the Community Mental Health Board, is president of Community Residence Corp., and president of St. Johns Church, Rogers Corners.

Mrs. Bauer lives with her husband at 13000 Scio Church Rd. They have two children, a daughter, Jeanette Spencer of Plymouth, a son, Donald who lives in Ann Arbor. Mrs. Bauer states that without the support of her family and the help of her husband she could not have been a public servant and worked full-time all these years.

What will she do with all her extra time? After not being on skates for some 35 years, she has taken up roller skating and if she really gets time she would like to learn to play her organ, that she put on hold after being elected supervisor.

The first state law limiting employment for children under the age of 12 to 10 hours a day was passed by Massachusetts in 1842, according to "Labor Firsts in America," a U.S. Labor Department publication.

Curriculum Both Praised, Criticized in School Survey

the elementary and middle school levels, 13 percent answered "not strict enough." 34 percent of all high school parents answered "not strict enough." No more than 3 percent of parents at any level answered "too strict."

While the vast majority of respondents, 88 percent, and parents, 96 percent, believe class size makes at least a little difference in education, most believe class size is not a problem locally. 68 percent of parents said class size is not a problem, compared to 51 percent of all voters. However, 46 percent of voters with no children in school didn't have an opinion, compared to just 9 percent of parents.

Voters give high marks for the district's ability to deal with children with special needs, both gifted students and below average students. Among all voters, 44 percent gave a "very well" rating, while another 25 percent said "fairly well." Only 7 percent said "not very well." The percentages stayed fairly steady from one school level to another.

The majority of public school parents, 55 percent, said they would be willing to pay more local property taxes to improve the standard of education, while 31 percent said they wouldn't. Among all voters, however, the gap narrows as 46 percent said yes, 38 percent said no, and another 10 percent said it "depends how much."

"They're telling us they won't give us a blank check," said Chelsea superintendent Joe Plasecki.

State-wide, 51 percent said they would pay more while 41 percent said they wouldn't.

Chelsea voters break from national trends when asked, in fill-in-the-blank form, why they want their children to get an education. Nationally, the highest response rate, 33 percent, is "job opportunities, get a better job." In Chelsea, however, 52 percent said "preparation for life." That is more than double the 25 percent national response rate.

"This is telling us the Chelsea community values education beyond the basic skills," Plasecki said.

Job opportunities was mentioned by 42 percent of respondents. 21 percent mentioned both "education is a necessity of life," and "to become better citizens."

The survey also asked opinions about a variety of services the district provides that are outside the realm of simple classes and extra-curricular activities.

There is overwhelming support for a before and after-school day care service, provided parents who use the service pay a fee.

72 percent of parents supported such a service and 88 percent of voters between 18-25 supported a service.

Last year the district tried to provide such a service, at Chelsea Free Methodist church, but it was cancelled due to low participation.

Community Education Director Jackie Rogers interprets the survey results to mean that parents want the service in the school buildings themselves.

Plasecki agrees. "We need some dedicated space, which we don't have right now," Plasecki said.

"We're not going to run a haphazard program so we'll wait until we have the space."

The majority of voters are both aware of, and support, activities offered for senior citizens in the community. 76 percent rate the services at least "somewhat" important.

The largest percent of parents, 34 percent, had no suggestions for any additions to the senior program, saying it is fine as it is. However, 24 percent suggested a volunteer program which would utilize the knowledge and experience of seniors in the classroom.

The largest percent of both respondents (41 percent), and parents (39 percent), also had no suggestions for improving the adult enrichment services offered by the schools, saying the program is fine as it is. Of those who did make suggestions, 10 percent of parents want hobby and craft classes.

The majority of respondents, 59 percent, had no apparent interest in taking college-level classes at a center in Chelsea.

However, of those who would, computer instruction was listed by 16 percent of respondents and 20 percent of parents. Liberal arts courses, and business courses, were mentioned by 15 and 10 percent, respectively, of all respondents.

District voters believe it is very important that school facilities be made available to groups or organizations.

CHS Class of '80 Continues Plans for 10th-Year Reunion

Chelsea High School Class of 1980 will hold another meeting regarding their 10th-year reunion. The meeting will be held Monday, Feb. 12, at 7:30 p.m. at the Wolverine in Chelsea.

Most of the arrangements for the reunion have been finalized. Organizers hope to have information in the mail to all classmates sometime in March.

All classmates interested in helping should plan to attend this meeting.

90 percent of all respondents said it was at least somewhat important, while 93 percent of parents gave it the same rating.

District voters believe the schools do a good job of keeping people informed. 25 percent rated such efforts as excellent while 48 percent rated them as good. Among parents, 38 percent said "excellent" and 43 percent said "good."

43 percent of parents rated information from the school board as "very credible" and 44 percent rated it as "somewhat credible." All respondents gave the same "somewhat" rating but 38 percent gave a "very" rating.

Finally, when voters were asked, in an open-ended question, where they get most of their information about the schools, 69 percent mentioned The Chelsea Standard. That number was the same for both parents and all voters.

The school district's newsletter, Chelsea Challenge, was mentioned by 39 percent of all voters and 46 percent of parents.

Word of mouth was mentioned by 30 percent of all respondents and 24 percent of parents. 37 percent of parents mentioned their own children.

The Renaissance painter Raphael painted more than 300 pictures of the Madonna.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

A few weeks ago, before the Michigan-Illinois basketball game, the network that carried the contest ran a promotional spot. I wonder whether anyone saw it the way I did.

The camera, out in the middle of midwestern farmlands, shows a barn off in the distance. A couple of kids are running around outside. When the camera zooms closer, you realize they're playing basketball at an average home basketball court. The boys stop and the camera moves in close on one of the boys. He looks about nine or 10 years old, sandy hair, blue eyes, freckles. The kid is looking skyward, dreaming.

The voice-over says something like, "every kid in the midwest dreams about playing basketball in the Big-10."

Then, quick, the scene shifts to a Michigan-Illinois basketball game. The action is fast and furious and the crowd is cheering.

And there's not a white player on the court.

So much for the white kid's dream.

Why not show a couple of black children on a school playground somewhere, or maybe a white kid and black kid playing one-on-one, with a tight shot of the black kid with the stars in his eyes?

Because in the eyes of advertising wizards, a cute black kid won't sell basketball as effectively as a cute white kid. They'll say it's all demographics. They'll say there are more cute white kids in the general population. And where there are more kids, there are more TV sets and more money. So they'll put an average cute white kid up on the screen, even if the odds against that kid playing Big 10 basketball are probably 100 times worse than for an average cute black kid.

It's almost advertising as modern mythology.

How about this one.

"Sports Illustrated" magazine has been running an advertisement lately for a Michael Jordan video that comes free with the purchase of a subscription. Jordan, as you probably know, is the all-star guard with the Chicago Bulls basketball team who is capable of some pretty amazing feats.

Sandwiched between shots of Jordan in action are little one-line comments by average guys who have seen the video. "It's like he's from another planet," one man says. Others make similar awe-struck statements.

But none of the guys is black, or even non-Anglo. And they're all between about 34 and 34 1/2 years old, give or take a few days. They're probably right in the middle of what the magazine's marketing studies show is their primary buying group.

Certainly, both promotions are smart advertising in the sense that they are talking directly to their target audiences.

But the troubling part is the residual message left by both ads—blacks don't exist in basketball, or at least don't count, unless they're on the court for the amusement of whites. The other human aspects of sports, from dreaming about basketball, to watching the sport on television, to reading about it in a magazine, are for white folks only.

Kudos to the Chelsea High School Athletic Department for all the post-season activity here this year.

We started with the girls district basketball tournament. This winter we're getting both boys basketball and wrestling (team and individual) tournaments. This spring it's possible we'll have both softball and baseball here as well. Apparently the region track meet is already a go for Chelsea.

Schools don't get these tournaments unless they apply for them. So the credit has to go to the guy in charge, Wayne Welton, who is apparently not afraid of a little extra work and is not afraid to ask a bunch of people for help.

Coch Kerry Kargel and the wrestling team, fresh off an SEC title on Saturday, would like nothing better than to have a big crowd for tonight's team district tournament at Chelsea.

The Bulldogs are one of the best teams in the state this season. However, in order to get to the regional meet, they have to win tonight. Kargel says a big crowd will make a big difference, especially around 8 p.m. when they have to face their main competition, the Saline Hornets.

This could be the second season in a row that a sibling combination plays a major role on a Chelsea championship team.

Vicki and Val Bullock did it this fall when their cross country team won the SEC and state titles.

This winter, Kyle and Kerry Plank could well play on a championship basketball team. They're both starters and key players. The Bulldogs are undefeated in league play.

And wrestlers Alan and Eric Hanna, and Jim and Pat Hassett are competing on a team that has already won the SEC title and is shooting for more. They're all starters and are all wrestling well.

What could be more fun than sharing a title with your brother or sister? It would be a topic in family conversations for years.

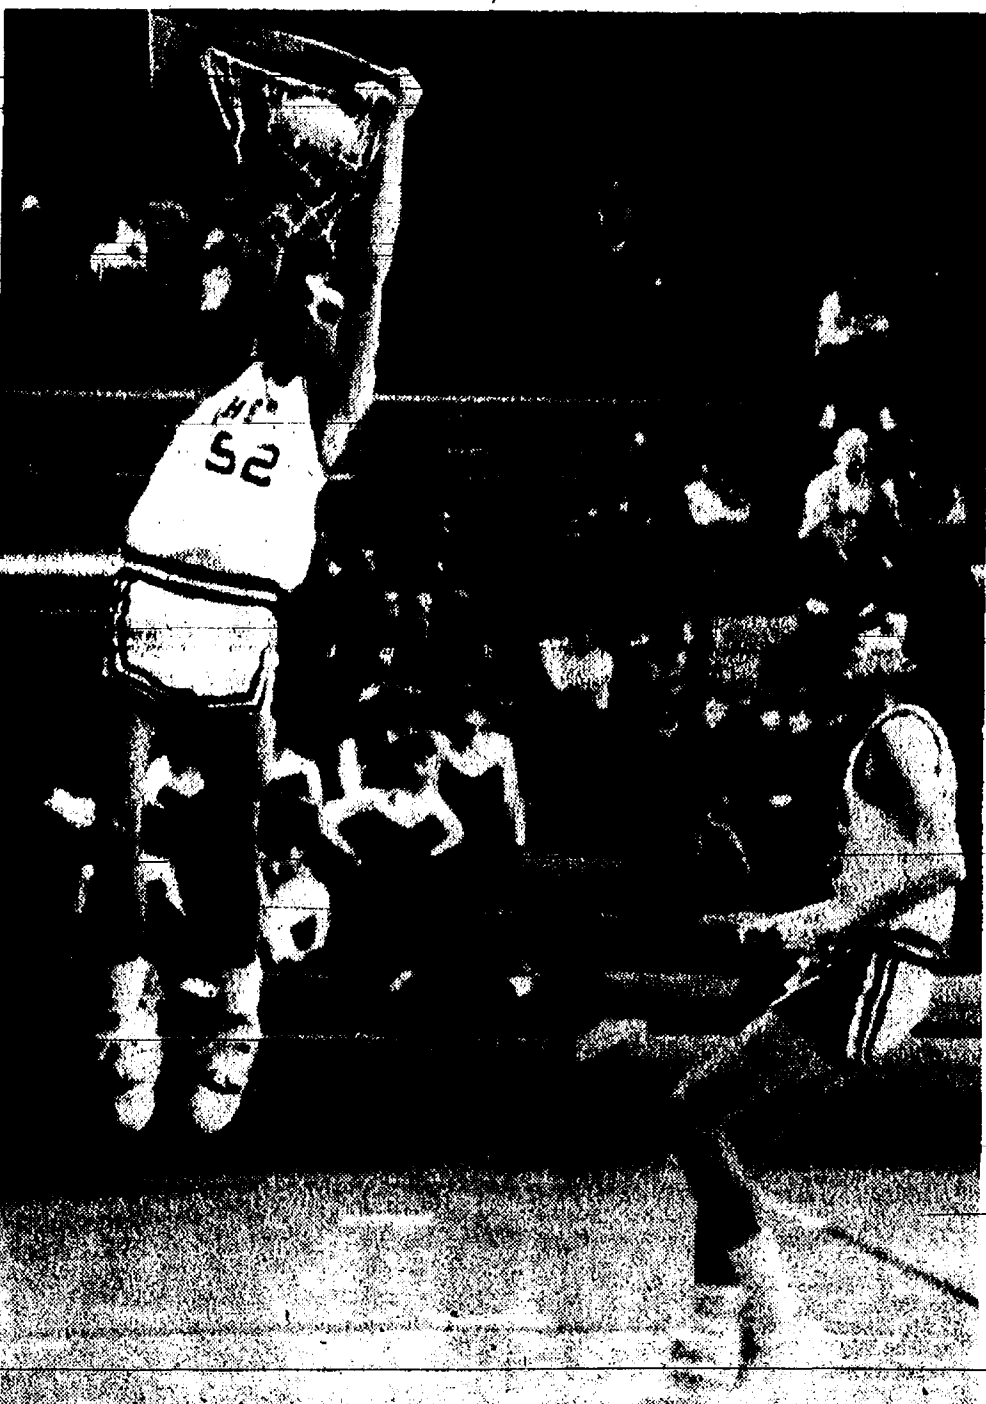

High school teacher June Winans has decided to retire. That normally wouldn't be a subject for this column except, EXCEPT, it leaves a spot open in the social studies group. And that means the door could be open for girls basketball coach Rahn Rosentreter to reappear in the classroom next fall.

At least I hope it does. The school district has various ways of deciding how to fill vacancies that aren't always the obvious solution. Numbers of students in classes, transfers, and a variety of other matters all seem to play a part.

We'll know shortly.

KYLE PLANK has his feet go out from under him during a lay-up attempt last Tuesday in a non-conference game with Hartland. It was only one of the Bulldogs' many easy buckets on the night.

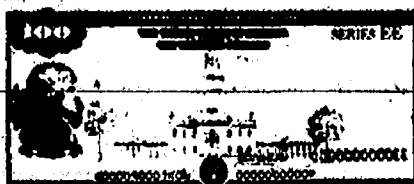

CHELSEA'S BRIAN BURG left no doubt about this two points last Tuesday as he slammed one home in the first half of action against Hartland. Burg and his teammates beat Hartland that night, then knocked off Milan on Friday.

Freshman Cagers Top Saline, Milan With Team Basketball

Chelsea Bulldog freshman basketball team extended its over-all record to 9-3 last week with victories over the Saline Hornets and Milan Big Reds.

On Monday, Jan. 29 at Saline, Chelsea took a 64-55 victory behind 18 points by Nick McCalla and 15 each by Chris Dunham and Colt White.

"You have to give our team credit," said Chelsea coach Dave Quilter.

"They played great team ball and beat Saline on their court. The kids refused to crack under pressure and really passed the ball well for some easy baskets."

Chelsea dominated the boards, 34-22, as Dunham had seven rebounds and Dana Schmunk grabbed six.

Quilter said a key to the contest was Chelsea's ability to beat Saline's half-court trapping press in the second half. The passing game resulted in some easy baskets.

Chelsea shot 44 percent from the field and 48 percent from the line. Saline had the same number of field goals as Chelsea, 22, but took 68 shots. They also hit just 11-24 foul shots.

Other Chelsea scorers included Eric Brown 9, Schmunk 6, and Jeremy Beauchamp 1.

Chelsea won the Milan game, 66-52, last Thursday, Feb. 1 at home as four Bulldogs scored in double figures in a solid team effort.

"We ran our plays well and the result was a lot of easy baskets," Quilter said.

"We lost our composure a little in the second quarter but really picked it up in the second half."

Brown led Chelsea with 13 points, White scored 12, McCalla had 11, and Dunham scored 10.

The Bulldogs shot 49 percent from the field, one of their best efforts of the season, while Milan shot 29 percent. Chelsea beat Milan on the boards, 43-38.

Other Chelsea scorers included

Beauchamp 6, J.D. Alford 4, Hans Kemnitz 2, Mark Eder 2, Tom Poulter 2, Scott Larson 2, and Ed Waller 2.

Schmunk and Dunham each had six rebounds, and Brown, Kemnitz, Poulter, Beauchamp, and Waller each had four.

Chelsea's record improved to 6-2 in the Southeastern Conference.

8th Grade Netters Defeat Saline

Beach Middle school eighth grade volleyball team defeated Saline but lost at Dexter in action last week.

Chelsea beat Saline 11-7, 11-2, and 11-5 as the team improved their serving, said Chelsea coach Ann Schaffner.

Maya Holleman served for nine points, and Traci Patric and Gretchen Stahl added five and four service points, respectively.

Leslie Berg and Becca Flintoft played steady defense, Schaffner said.

Chelsea lost in five games to Dexter, 11-9, 4-11, 11-8, 9-11, and 4-11 as Dexter served well and Chelsea struggled with the returns.

Beth Bell served for 15 points for Chelsea, with nine straight in the first game. Theresa Royce had five service points and Tracy Haas had four.

Schaffner credited the defensive play of Jenny Holzhausen, Bell, Patrick, Royce, and Jamie Collinsworth.

The first black vice-president of the AFL-CIO was A. Philip Randolph, elected president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters in 1867, according to "Labor Firsts in America," a U. S. Labor Department publication.

the finals at 136. He was leading 10-2, escaped briefly, and the one-point for the escape was not awarded, which would have given Nye a technical fall. Shortly thereafter, Nye was pinned by Lincoln's Chris Sakall at the 2:39 mark.

At 140 pounds, Chelsea's Jim Hassett was a victim in a third close match in a row. Hassett lost 8-6 to Saline's Lance Bebe in the finals.

Third place finishes went to Matt Herter at 160 pounds and Mike Terpstra at heavyweight.

Herter pinned Milan's Ray Shirley in the consolation finals in 2:18.

Parker lost in the consolation finals as he was pinned by Tecumseh's Paul Jaimes in 1:30.

Lincoln finished third with 99 points, Tecumseh finished fourth with 80 points, Pinckney was fifth with 63, Milan was sixth with 56, and Dexter was seventh with 51.

In the final dual meet of the season, Chelsea whipped the Pinckney Pirates, 52-15.

The surprise of the day was at 112 pounds, where Chelsea's Karl Wikman suffered his first loss of the season. Pinckney's Eric Boving took an 11-4 decision.

"Boving gave Pat Taylor all he could handle last year, so I knew it was going to be a tough match," Kargel said.

Jason Boving got Pinckney started with a 12-11 decision over Chelsea freshman Todd Watson at 103 pounds. Chelsea lost its third consecutive match when Adam Hieber was pinned by Dan Prichard in 2:58 at 119 pounds.

From there on it was virtually all Chelsea. The Bulldogs won by pin in eight of the final 10 matches.

At 125 pounds, Alan Hanna pinned Brian Bethke in :58.

At 130 pounds, Eric Hanna pinned Jason Reck in 2:44.

At 135 pounds, Kevin McCalla pinned Darren Gillespie in 4:56.

Jim Hassett won a major decision over Ty Keener at 140 pounds, 15-4.

At 145 pounds, Wingrove pinned Ken Bourassa in :32.

At 152 pounds, Adam Taylor pinned Jeff Young in 2:37.

Herter was defeated by John Spiliak, 9-4, at 160 pounds.

At 171 pounds, Pat Hassett pinned John Black in 1:35.

At 189 pounds, VanSchoick pinned Jim VanGorder in 3:00.

At heavyweight, Mike Terpstra pinned Jim Lakins in :39.

CHELSEA'S STATE CHAMPION girls cross country team was honored at half-time of last Tuesday's home basketball game. Bo Skelton, not pictured, president of the Chelsea Athletic Boosters, presented a Certificate of Appreciation from Gov. James Blanchard recognizing the team's ac-

President Bush Addresses Farmers

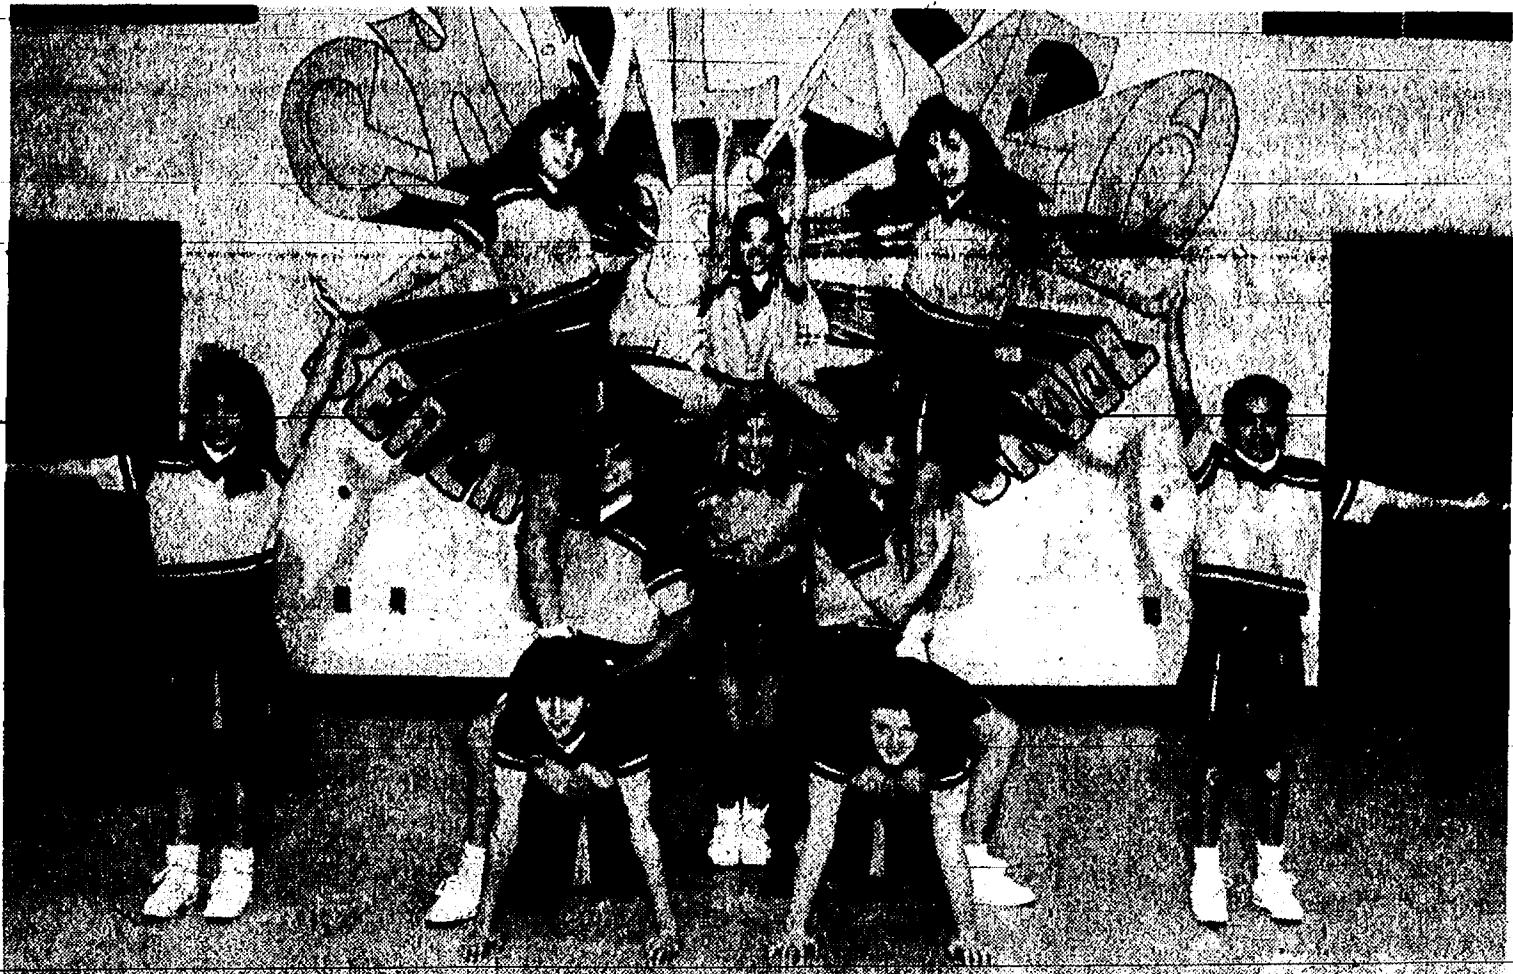

President George Bush told more than 7,000 farmers attending the American Farm Bureau Federation annual meeting in Orlando, Fla., Jan. 8, that through "sound fiscal practices, wise management of our resources, common sense attitudes and, God willing, good weather, we can succeed in keeping rural America strong and American agriculture thriving in the 1990s." About 200 Michigan farmers attended the week-long convention.

Bush praised the efforts of Farm Bureau in the fight for fiscal responsibility and a reduction in capital gains taxes—two priorities of the organization. "Your support has been instrumental in the fight for the capital gains tax cut and the fight isn't over yet," he said. "Passage of our capital gains proposal, which would apply to the sale of farmland, will be one of my top priorities in this legislative year."

Chiropractic Health Care

"Research and Statistics"

Dr. J. Nicholas Koffeman

The last couple weeks we have been talking about research. Research is a very broad category. One method used in research is statistical analysis of various data. This data can be on different aspects of health, economics, permanent disability, etc. In the study on infantile colic, reported on in last week's column, statistically 96% of the infants in the study improved.

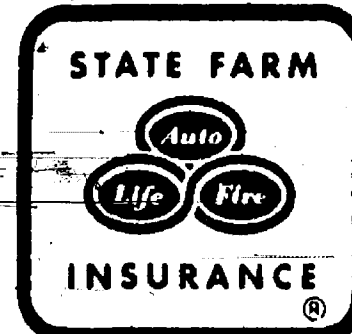

A prominent orthopedist on staff at two Chicago hospitals found that the hospital with chiropractic physicians also on staff had decreased the time spent in the hospital by more than 50% over the hospital that did not have doctors of chiropractic. This was at an average cost of one thousand dollars per day in the hospital. It was also a comparative analysis with the same or similar problems.

AV-MED, the largest H.M.O. in the Southeastern United States, referred 10 low back cases to Dr. Mark Silverman for chiropractic care. This was done on a trial basis (at first) and all 10 cases had already been diagnosed as needing surgery. Dr. Silverman corrected the problem in ALL 10 CASES. AV-MED has since applied statistics to show an estimated savings of one quarter of a million dollars to their H.M.O. Needless to say, they continue to refer.

Numerous workers compensation studies show chiropractic care to decrease loss time on the job, decrease permanent and partial disability and to be very cost effective in doing so.

These and many other exciting things are going on in the health care world today. Look for big changes as more and more people find out about these statistics. Please address questions or comments to Dr. J. Nicholas Koffeman, 138 East Middle Street, Chelsea, MI 48118 or call (313) 475-2088.

RYAN FISHER knew a lot about Saudi Arabia at last Tuesday's "Ask an Expert Day" for Beach Middle school seventh graders. Each student picked a country to study then created a display with props. Many students even dressed up. Some students will repeat their displays next Tuesday, Feb. 14 at McKune Memorial Library from 7-9:30 p.m.

BEHIND THAT MUSTACHE is Beach school seventh grader Ryan Ludwig, who became an expert on Lebanon as part of a study unit on the Middle East last Tuesday, Jan. 23. His display was one of many set up at Beach in "Ask an Expert Day."

Bassemier Named Rec. Director

Rainey Bassemier has been named the new director of the Chelsea Recreation Department, effective in January.

Bassemier, a Harrison St. resident, replaced Keith Bloomensaat, who is taking classes at Western Michigan University.

Bassemier, a five-year Chelsea resident, has accepted a one-year contract. "This is a very community-minded area and with local involvement our youth and adult programs should rival any in the state," Bassemier said.

The recreation department is located in the Community Education Office at Chelsea High school. It is open from 9 a.m. to noon, Monday through Friday, and 7-9 p.m. on Wednesday. The telephone number is 475-9830.

Letters to the Editor

Editor, Chelsea Standard:

Twice the night before the ice storm and all through the Village Garage not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse.

The Village employees were all snuggled safe in their beds while visions of weather reports and hazardous drivers' warnings danced through their heads.

The keys to the dump trucks were hung by the chimney with care in hopes that the ice would soon disappear into thin air.

While I in my nightshirt and Ma in her cap had just settled our brains for a long winter's nap, secure in our knowledge that sand trucks and drivers were on stand-by alert.

When out on the lawn there arose such a clatter that I sprang from my bed to see what was the matter.

I threw open the door in a flash and fell on the steps with a crash.

What to my wondering eyes should appear but a miniature car which no one could steer.

And a little old driver no longer so lively and quick. I knew in a moment that he must be quite sick.

He was dressed in white bandages from his head to his feet. And stretched out on the ground of ice and sleet. His eyes—how they rolled, his color—how ashen, and when he groaned he shook like an aspen.

A right pitiful sight and in spite of myself I cried out in fright.

He spoke not a word as the Rescue Squad went straight to their work.

And putting the stretcher inside, started up the ambulance with a jerk.

The team rang their whistle and they all seemed to bristle.

As I heard them exclaim ere they drove out of sight, "Happy motoring to all and we all pray for this poor man's plight."

Written, with apologies to Clement Moore and any who suffered personal injury or damage on the icy streets of Chelsea on the morning of Dec. 31.

Where were the sand trucks? This is getting to be the normal—adding through intersections and along our streets.

If you do nothing else you help us draw closer to God. Everytime I pull out on a Chelsea street I know I pray "God don't forget me now."

Caroline Knight.

Dear Sirs:

I highly object to your allowance of a glossy advertising flyer to accompany your newspaper. We are just becoming aware of the need to recycle here in Chelsea, and the glossy inserts are environmentally harmful and just plain trash!

I am writing my objections to Chelsea Office Supply as well. I see no reason why they can't publish their sales on recyclable newspapers.

The other newspapers are filled with these disgusting, wasteful inserts that are an insult to an intelligent, conscious person who must sort and dispose of them. Let's not have our newspaper, our community pride, be defamed by this practice! Thank you, Mrs. Robert Spink.

To the Editor,

This letter is addressed to the do-good ignorant citizen who put a "Warning" coupon on my car to inform me that I was illegally parked in a handicap parking spot at Polly's market.

You really should have taken down my license plate number and reported it to the police immediately. At that time you would have discovered (if your able body and mind had been functioning) that I have a permanently affixed license plate with a wheelchair symbol on it. Give me a break!

A Chelsea Shopper.

COYOTE WILLS

THE GREAT SPIRIT

By Crystal Salyer - Fourth Grade

Many moons ago, there was an Indian by the name of Big Chief Bear. He had a beautiful daughter named Tiger Lili. One day Big Chief and his daughter were walking in the woods. They were looking for the Great Spirit. Tiger Lili was very sick. The Great Spirit was the only one who could heal her from her sickness. They came to a mountain. It was called Death Mountain. Big Chief and Tiger Lili climbed up Death Mountain. They were almost at the top when Tiger Lili slipped. Big Chief grabbed her just in time. So they kept climbing and climbing and when they got to the top they went in a cave, the cave of the Great Spirit. The cave was dark, so thank goodness Tiger Lili had candles. She lit one. When she lit it, there was a creature looking at them. It was the Great Spirit. They found him. Big Chief said, "My daughter is sick. Can you help her?" "Yes," said the Great Spirit. "Come here, Tiger Lili." Tiger Lili went to him. He touched a paw on her head. Then the Great Spirit said, "How do you feel?" "I feel very good," said Tiger Lili. She was okay! "Let's go home now. Great Spirit, can we ride home on your back?" "Yes," said the Great Spirit. So they went home on the Spirit's back, and lived a joyful life.

The Joshua tree is the plant that most people think of when they speak of the Mojave Desert.

GET READY, GET SET, AND READ

By Aaron Atlas - Fifth Grade

Suppose you're walking around, bored as can be looking for something to do. What can you do? Why, read, of course! Reading can be fun and entertaining, and you can learn from it. If you're somewhat lazy, it doesn't take lots of energy. There are many types of books, such as mystery, science fiction, poetry, adventure, short tales, fantasy, biographies, reference books, and more. If your parents bug you about watching too much T.V. reading can be just as fun, and you can make up your own pictures in your mind. Plus there's no commercials just when you get to an exciting part. Some books you might like to read are: "Cave Beyond Time," "Bronze Arrow Mystery," and the "Danny Dunn books." "Cave Beyond Time" is about a boy who goes back in time and learns different ways of living. "Bronze Arrow Mystery" is about a boy who tries to find out why a man from his Dad's bus company disappeared. "The Danny Dunn Books" are about a boy and his friends, who get into different adventures with Professor Bullfinch, a scientist.

So, grab a book, get ready, get set, and READ!

GREEDY

By Kasie Ruhlrig - Fifth Grade

Once there was a young man. He had a pretty wife and two adorable kids. They were very rich. Then the young man heard of Mexico (they lived in Spain) and the Seven Cities of gold. He then decided to move to Mexico. First he built a ship. Then he hired a captain and a crew. Next he stocked the ship with provisions. Then he sold their house and slaves. Last they moved onto the ship. On their way to Mexico the ship sank. Nobody drowned. Luckily they made it to Mexico in the wooden lifeboats. When they got there, they found no great cities. They found Indians and that was all. The two children died of starvation. Then the wife was captured by the Aztec for his wife. Finally, the young man died penniless. He who wants more, often loses all.

A POEM

By Don Black - Fifth Grade

There once was a man named Dan
Who lived in a big tin can
He had a nice lid
And fit in it he did
That wonderful can of Dan's.

Family Career Education Day Set By Consortium

Come take a trek, a journey to the future. What lies ahead for the class of 2001? The answer can be found at Saline High School on Sunday, Feb. 11, from 1 to 3 p.m. as the South and West Washtenaw Consortium present "Trek to the Future," a Family Career Education Day.

High-tech demonstrations, college representatives, area employers, free t-shirts, and activities for all ages and family members, are just some of the highlights of the day, as well as a tour of the 15 programs offered by the Consortium.

"Trek to the Future" also kicks off National Vocational Education Week, Feb. 11-19. Diane Skinner, vocational director for the Consortium feels vocational education should be a part of everyone's high school experience.

"The skills learned in vocational education are useful whether a person goes right to work out of high school or enters college."

Using machine tool program as an example, Skinner noted that learning to read a blueprint is just as critical for future engineers as it is for a future lathe operator.

And what about a student who has yet to decide on a career? "Vocational education classes are a great way for students to explore occupations, to find out if they are really interested in that career area," added Skinner.

The administration and staff of the South and West Consortium would like to invite the residents of Chelsea, Dexter, Manchester, Milan and Saline, to take a "Trek to the Future" and join them on Feb. 11.

Fossil Program For Children Slated Saturday

Children in grades 1-2 are invited to "dig into the past," in a program sponsored by the Waterloo Natural History Association this Saturday, Feb. 10.

Fun activities will help children explore the world of dinosaurs and other pre-historic animals. Children can dig in the dirt in search of fossils with instructor Helena Robinovitz.

The program will be held from 10 a.m. to noon at the Eddy Geology Center. There is a $5 registration fee, $4 for members of the association. Class size will be limited to 10 children. The class will emphasize hands-on activities.

For more information call 475-3170 or program co-ordinator Carol Strahler at 475-9444.

Consumer Agency Wins State Grant

Washtenaw County Consumer Services in Ann Arbor was one of a dozen dispute resolution centers to win a grant from the State Court Administrative Office.

The agency was given $28,500, which will be used to fund community dispute resolution services this calendar year.

The grant program is funded by a $2 increase in court filing fees for civil cases that went into effect in 1988. The idea is to provide an alternative to the judicial process.

The first state law restricting child labor was passed by Massachusetts in 1836, according to "Labor Firsts in America," a U.S. Labor Department publication. It stated that no child under the age of 15 shall work in "manufacturing establishments" unless the child attended school for at least three of the 12 months preceding any year of employment.

Marriage Encounter Week-End Offered For Wedded Couples

How many times do couples say to each other, "We need to take some time for just the two of us"? Couples can clearly love each other, yearn for an intimate and more fulfilling relationship, but time is scarce in our society. In time, most couples sense the "romance" of earlier years has diminished. Often the effort to rekindle that joy seems too difficult.

Informative sessions, led by a United Methodist clergy couple and three lay couples, will offer ideas, topics and time for couples to share privately at a Marriage Encounter Week-end Feb. 16-18 in Romulus. One session explores how we prepare to listen and be listened to. Listening is life-giving to both husband and wife. The week-end is for any couple who loves each other and desires a richer, fuller marriage. It is open to couples of all faiths.

For more information on the special week-end for couples, contact David and Darlene Schaffer, 475-9466.

CHARLES STAPISH of Chelsea gave an educational and entertaining presentation at the January meeting of Critters & Crafts 4-H Club. Shown with Stapish are Heather Canter of Grass Lake holding a "fancy" pigeon and Eric LeFurge of Chelsea with a "flying" pigeon. The "fancy" pigeons are shown and bred for their beautiful plumage. Flying pigeons race and do air-borne tricks. Not shown is one of Mr. Stapish's "utility" pigeons. They are large wonderfully colored birds which do not fly well but do tricks on the ground.

What Happens At Death? (Part One)

For many, the thought of the "here-after" is quite a disturbing thought. We read and hear of after life experiences; theories of reincarnation; and many other gnosticism that view death as some type of gateway to life, making death even more confusing as well as unsettling. This is not the picture the Word of God would have us inclined to believe, not at all. The Lord God himself supplies us with one of the best definitions that we could contribute to the word death, as he says, in Isaiah 38:1, "... for thou shalt die and not live." Death is the direct opposite of life in character and design. As we speak in life, we are silenced in death, as we think in life, we are thoughtless in death, as we awaken in life, we slumber in death. At no point in the scriptures is it indicated that there is any type of post-mortem activity until the Second Coming of Jesus Christ. At that time, according to John 5:28, 29 "... all that are in the graves shall hear his voice, and shall come forth." The great reformer Martin Luther best illustrated this thought when he once said, "There is no conscious thought between death, and the Coming of Jesus Christ. Job asked the question in Job 14:14 "If a man die will he live again?" and then he answers in the same verse, "All the days of my appointed time will I wait, till my change come." The "change" Job is referring to is the one we find in 1 Cor. 15:51-58, where we will be changed from mortal to immortal, corruptible to incorruptible, from death into life; all in the time of the Second Coming of Jesus Christ.

President Bush Would Eliminate Crop Insurance

In his recent federal budget message, President Bush called for elimination of the Federal Crop Insurance Corp. in 1991.

"The idea probably won't get with the nation's farmers who are just becoming conditioned to the need for a revamped crop insurance program to replace the costly disaster assistance programs passed by Congress in 1983, 1986, 1988 and 1989," said Bob Craig, Michigan Farm Bureau economist.

"Many lawmakers feel farmers should make use of crop insurance instead of relying on disaster relief programs, but less than half the planted acreage was protected by crop insurance in 1989. The program pays out 2.5 times more than it collects in premiums," he said.

A Commission for the Improvement of the Federal Crop Insurance Program, on which Michigan Farm Bureau President Jack Laurie served, has made recommendations to Congress. Craig said that perhaps President Bush's proposal was designed to force Congress to start making improvements on the loss-plagued program.

Chelsea Together Holds First Quarterly Meeting

Chelsea Together, held its first quarterly meeting on Jan. 22 at Chelsea High School Cafeteria.

The organization began last spring as the community's response to a number of tragedies which occurred in Chelsea during the previous year.

After several large meetings it was decided to divide into several groups in the hopes that the many concerns expressed by people who attended those early meetings could be addressed simultaneously.

This most recent meeting was a celebration of the progress made since last spring. Representatives from the groups and from the Chelsea Schools briefed the audience on the progress of each group.

From the efforts of these individuals have come programs in the schools designed to increase student's sense of worth or self-esteem; the restarting of a New Beginnings Grief Support Group, which meets at Chelsea Hospital the first and third Thursdays; the Chelsea Area Teens, an organization run by the teens for their enjoyment; the Chelsea Help Line, a 24-hour telephone line manned by people trained to help those in crisis; a series of articles in The Chelsea Standard written by professionals to specifically answer concerns raised at the first meetings; the distribution of a "Dry List," which is a pledge to be made by Middle and High school parents not to supply alcohol to teens or to support teen parties where alcohol is served.

Efforts were also described designed to help strengthen the family as a functioning unit.

The series of talks was followed by refreshments, supplied by the Chelsea Area Teens, at which the audience could ask questions and speak with any of the groups' representatives.

The next meeting of Chelsea Together will be in early April. For those who cannot wait until April, the Steering Committee meets the first Wednesday of each month at the high school. Individuals who have concerns in which Chelsea Together can help are welcome to attend and express their needs at these monthly meetings.

Environmental Concerns Will Affect Farm Bill

In policy discussion at the American Farm Bureau annual meeting in Orlando, Fla., Jan. 10-11, delegates focused on the environmental influences likely to affect debate over the 1990 farm bill.

"There will be a lot of folks outside the livestock industry and the environmentalists, and how we make the livestock industry grow and be a successful part of our economy."

Laurie said discussion also zeroed in on maintaining the free-market orientation of federal farm legislation.

"We do hear from time to time suggestions that a total free market orientation is perhaps a bit too extreme, and that we'd like to have

Piasecki Will Address Beach Parent Group

In response to an invitation from Beach Parent Group, Chelsea school superintendent Joseph Piasecki will discuss and answer questions about the results of Project Outreach. The meeting will begin at 9:30 a.m. on Thursday, Feb. 15 in Beach Middle school. Several group members had participated in the telephone survey of nearly 600 local registered voters, but due to concurrent scheduling with a Beach musical presentation, were unable to attend a recent school board meeting that offered the results. The Parent Group meeting is open to all middle school parents.

During the January meeting, Parent Group meetings were scheduled for the remainder of the school year as well as decisions made on guest speakers. Three speakers also met with the group. James Hoffmeyer, Beach teacher, addressed the extensive and increasing flooding of the Palmer-Baldwin drain which runs through the nature center adjacent to the school. The water has not only seriously damaged the integrity of the center, it has also caused several expensive attempted repairs of Mayer Dr. which carries traffic to the middle school. A small pond has been dug by the school in an effort to help reduce the winter ice, pavement damage, and spring flooding that now threatens to cover entire parts of the road. Students from the village who must walk past these areas are often left wet and muddy by passing traffic. Key questions that arose about the situation included concern about where the tax money set aside by the County Board for maintenance of the drain is; why the board indicated that land owners along this lengthy drain must be assessed for repairs; and why the drain has not been maintained for 28 years since it was last dredged.

Teacher Consultant for the school system, Barbara Fisher, introduced the upcoming Parent Awareness Night to group members. On Thursday, March 15, from 7 to 9 p.m., teachers of the school district will offer talks on 10 different topics for area parents to choose from. These talks are directed toward parents of all age groups from elementary through high school and address issues of concern on many topics. The talks are free and information about attending may be received by calling any Chelsea school office. Members of the Beach Parent Group have joined parent groups from both elementary schools and the high school in supporting this program by acting as hospitality, bringing refreshments, publicizing the event, and scheduling those attending.

Beach school principal, Darcy Stelstra, spoke about the need for help with the Feb. 10 Quiz Bowl Regional Finals to be hosted at the school. The Quiz Bowl is a series of academic games between 6th, 7th, and 8th graders of area schools. Volunteer teams of students with interests and ability in various academic areas challenge each other through a series of qualifying rounds. Winners emerging from each school will meet for a final series of competitions on Feb. 10.

Meetings for the remainder of the school year are scheduled for Thursday, March 15 beginning at 9:30 a.m., Thursday, April 19 beginning at 9:30 a.m. and Thursday, May 10 beginning at 7 p.m.
