real $5 buys $1 million in play money. The event is held annually to benefit the American Legion. Among those at the table are Charles Smith, Wetmore, Karl Grant, Mark Lelder, Dennis McDonald, John Popovich, Lynn Pontz, Dan Williams, and Al and Pat Zangara.

Secretary of State Branch Office Will Move But Stay in Village

The state has notified village president Richard Steele that it will not close down the village's Secretary of State branch office.

Steele said that Liz Boyd in the Secretary of State's office notified him of the decision.

"She said it would definitely be within the village limits," Steele said. "More than likely it will be at Village Plaza."

Steele said that as far as he knows, the state has ruled out any downtown location.

The state's lease for their current location at Main and W. Middle Sts. expires at the end of February. A quick printing business is scheduled to move into the building.

"We had a tremendous effort on the part of a lot of people to keep the office here," Steele said.

The state has changed its mind about the office on several occasions over the past year. It's first decision was to move to Village Plaza, then it appeared to back down after Chelsea's Downtown Development Authority worked to secure a suitable location further west on W. Middle St.

Then the state announced late last year that the office, along with 21 others, would probably be axed due to the state's budget deficit.

Since then, the state has had second thoughts about closing most of the offices due to the public outcry.

A community-wide effort over a period of just a few days collected about 3,500 signatures from Chelsea, Manchester, Dexter, Grass Lake, and other areas. The petitions were taken to Lansing by state Rep. Margaret O'Connor.

"I'm certainly glad the office will still be in the community," said Downtown Development Authority chairman Mark Heydlauff.

"I'd still like to see it downtown but the state regulations apparently won't allow that."

Stalker Leaving Friday, Jobs Juggled for Interim

Village manager Robert Stalker will leave his position at the end of the week, village president Richard Steele confirmed Monday afternoon.

Village council asked for Stalker's resignation in November. Since then Stalker and the village have been working out the specifics of his departure.

Steele said the terms of the severance are spelled out in Stalker's contract. He would not be more specific.

Stalker said his contract calls for six months severance pay and health insurance. He will also be able to continue to live in the village-owned home on Sibley Rd. on a month-to-month basis.

Council has never spelled out the reasons it requested Stalker's resignation.

"It's just something that had to be done," Steele said.

"I don't know if we can get into the specifics or if it's really necessary. We didn't want to get into a situation we'd be sorry for later. I don't honestly know how to get around that."

Steele said village staff had been informed that Stalker is leaving Friday. He said there will be temporary changes in "reporting relationships" to get by during the interim period between managers.

As of press time, the position had not been advertised.

"I have to meet with council to discuss all those details," Steele said.

Stalker said he has a couple of job prospects in city or village administration that look promising.

'Tough Decision' Faces Council as It Reviews Liquor License Request

Village council "will have a tough decision to make," next Tuesday when it considers whether to allow the transfer of a resort liquor license into the village, according to village president Richard Steele.

Council, at its Jan. 15 meeting, tabled a request by a Livonia restaurateur to transfer a license from a Westland establishment. Craig Common, a long-time chef for Charley's Crab chain in the Detroit area, wants to convert the vacant Dancer's building into a 110-seat restaurant.

The issue is proving to be a volatile one with, apparently, no simple solution. On one side is a businessman, who has the support of many merchants, who wants to fill a major vacant space downtown with what is hoped will be a viable business. On the other side are long-established bar and restaurant owners who are trying to protect their livelihoods as well as help maintain the integrity of the village.

Steele refused to say last week which way he is leaning.

Council tabled Common's request, asking him to see whether he can purchase a license already within the village.

At the meeting, several current liquor license owners expressed a variety of reasons why they are opposed to the transfer. The primary reason, according to Woodshed Eatery owner Dave Kaercher, is that bringing another license to town would dilute the value of the licenses already here. The licenses are not only money-makers for the current businesses, but they are something of an investment as well.

Kaercher said at the meeting that he is not opposed to having another restaurant, but he is opposed to the license.

In addition, he said, once one resort license is allowed into the village, how many other requests will be made to further dilute their value.

Common said last week that he has approached every owner individually and has found that one license is for sale. However, the asking price is several times the price of the license he is pursuing and would add substantially to the cost of his project.

Common said he would not open a restaurant without a liquor license.

Part of the problem appears to be how the state has handled the issuance of liquor licenses over the years.

The six licenses in town are class C licenses. They can only be transferred within the village, and only with the approval of village council. When they were issued, there were strict requirements about parking, among other issues.

The license Common wants to purchase is the early version of a resort license. Those licenses can be transferred virtually anywhere in the state, with the approval of the local governing body. The basic requirements are that the restaurant must serve full meals and seat at least 100 people. The "resort" name is also apparently a mis-label since licenses have been transferred to areas, such as the City of Ypsilanti, that are not typically what would be considered a resort area. New resort licenses issued by the state can be transferred from owner to owner but have to remain at the location they are issued for.

Current village license owners have pointed to the fact that the village already has three more licenses than it should have according to its population. Supposedly, one license is to be issued for every 1,500 people.

However, as attorney Terry Conlin said at the council meeting, the courts have taken away all authority the state has to enforce the population requirement.

Other objections have also been raised. One license owner questioned what would happen to the license if Common's restaurant fails.

A further complicating factor is what the value of the various licenses are. The value, it appears, is whatever the owners can get for them. If council forces new business owners to purchase a local license, essentially upholding a monopoly, the price stands to be much higher than if a prospective owner can purchase one at garage sale prices from out of town. The price Common wants to pay for his license, is, in fact, substantially less than what many current license owners paid for their licenses many years ago.

Local Support Effort Continues For Persian Gulf Troops, Families

War in the Persian Gulf has spurred local support of troops as well as family and friends left behind.

A support group, led by the Rev. Mearl Bradley of Chelsea Free Methodist church, is now meeting weekly. Before the war started, meetings were every other week.

Rev. Bradley said attendance has increased dramatically at the Saturday morning sessions in the Faith in Action building. Last week about 30 people attended.

"There is growing concern and uncertainty about what will happen," Bradley said.

"I don't think the question people are dealing with is whether the war is justified. It's whether there now, let's do what has to be done and get everyone home. I also think the whole area of prayer has become a focus point for a lot of people, although we haven't made this a religious group."

News coverage of the war may also be compounding the problem because there are so many mixed messages about what is really happening overseas, he said. News correspondents say one thing, military people another.

Bradley also said many participants have not heard from their loved ones in the Middle East since hostilities started, and that is adding to the anxiety.

Some members of the group have begun making buttons with the inscription "Support Our Troops."

A representative of the American Red Cross recently spoke to the group about the services it provides during wartime. Another talk discussed how the Veterans Administration Hospital in Ann Arbor is forming a county-wide umbrella support group.

"I think what we'd like to do is try to establish more contact within our group," Bradley said.

"Some members of the group are already meeting with each other outside the group and that is good."

Bradley, whose son, Jared, is in the Middle East, says he has his bad days and good days. He also said he personally appreciates the support shown for the troops locally through the display of flags downtown and other efforts.

Chelsea VFW is also continuing to encourage people to send certain items to soldiers, even though recently packages have not been delivered due to troop movements.

VFW recommends that small packages be sent.

High on the priority list of items to send are raisins, dried fruit, nuts, chewing gum, condiments in individual packages, instant drink mixes in individual packages, beef jerky, hunter's sausage, small cans of tuna (packed in water), sausages (not pork), juices, pop top soups, puddings, or other single serving items that do not need refrigeration.

Non-food items include eye drops, chapstick, foot powder, hotel-size soap, shampoo and other items, duct tape for securing items to boots, magazines on all subjects, sport, comics, and news articles from newspapers, string, rubber bands, sweat suits, writing materials, and cassette tapes.

For more information about shipments call Ginny Boyer at 475-7143 or Eulalie Packard at 475-2008.

BEACH MIDDLE SCHOOL ART SHOW was held Tuesday, Jan. 15 and as usual a full house turned out for the event. Above is the plaster-craft sculpture "Baloo"

BUBBLY ENCUENTRO was presented at South Elementary school last Tuesday by the Washtenaw Area Council for Children. The play is designed to teach elementary-age children about the sense of touch and specifically sexual assault. The play is about "Bub," a visitor from another planet whose inhabitants are deprived of the sense of touch. With the aid of two earthling friends, Archie and Betty, Bub breaks out of her invisible bubble and begins to discover the wonders and worries of touching. Actors, from left, are Julie Vorus as Betty, John Cox as Archie, and Judith Peabees as Bub.

A prisoner who walked away from Cassidy Lake Technical School on Christmas day was implicated in a double murder that took place in a Tampa, Fla. motel in January. Gregory Clark, 19, and Daniel Herick, 18, a man reported to be either a friend or relative of Clark, were arrested by Owasco police on Jan. 27 on car and gun theft charges, according to Sgt. Keith Kewish. Kewish said that traveler's checks in their possession eventually linked them to the Florida homicides.

In separate incidents, two men rented a videocassette recorder and movies from a local outlet and failed to return the equipment, leading police to suspect the merchandise may have been stolen. Video Choice reported that a man identifying himself as George F. Baronscheer, of Amarillo, Tex., rented a VCR and movies using a Texas driver's license. The equipment and movies were worth $1,180, according to Chelsea Police.

Portage and Base Lake Property Owners Association was not pleased with the Department of Natural Resources. The DNR ordered Lawrence Baughn of Pinckney to take out 700 cubic yards of fill which he illegally placed in wetlands adjacent to Portage Lake. The Property Owner's Association had reason to believe that Baughn had been filling in his wetland area for the past four years and even built four houses on illegally filled land.

Chelsea High school seniors Marcus Pletcher and Melanie Flanagan were selected as candidates to receive $1,000 scholarships from the National Honor Society/L.G. Balfour Foundation. The seniors were selected by members in Chelsea's chapter of the National Honor Society based on their leadership, scholarship, character and service. Every candidate nationwide must be recommended by his or her school's principal and a counselor. Each student must send in a completed questionnaire, which was also judged. A total of 450 seniors from all over the country would receive $1,000 scholarships.

A raging blizzard crippled most of Washtenaw county, including Chelsea, forcing many area businesses to shut down early and send their employees home. With local winds gusting to more than 50 miles per hour, the area chill factor plummeted to 55 degrees below zero. It was the first time in 40 years a blizzard warning had been issued by the Weather Bureau in Michigan.

Some time between the hours of 3 p.m. Jan. 24 and 6:45 a.m. Jan. 25, thieves entered the vehicle lot of Lloyd Bridges Chevrolet and removed four tires and wheels from the body of a 1976 Chevy Blazer. Investigating officers found the energetic robbers had left the Blazer perched on four milk cases. No suspects had been named.

Chelsea's Spaulding for Children was the sole beneficiary of a fund-raising party sponsored by Stroh Brewery of Detroit, with radio station WJR's disc jockey J. P. McCarthy, and radio station WDEE, represented by disc jockey Deano Day. Proceeds from the event totaled $5,500.

The annual meeting of the Chelsea United Way was held at the Village Hall. New directors elected at the meeting for three-year terms were Louise Ponte, Will Connelly, John Weibel, Elsie Heller, Karen Galbraith and Pat Chriswell.

The roof of the livestock building at the Chelsea Community Fairgrounds began to collapse under the weight of excessively heavy snow. Beams splintered and sheets of metal buckled as the structure fell onto several house trailers and pieces of machinery stored in the building. The structure was considered a total loss. Several of the vehicles and trailers stored in it were also damaged.

Engler Presses Budget, Tax Plans; House Rejection of E.O. Expected.
Governor John Engler pressed his case for budget cuts and a 20 percent property tax reduction in presentations to House and Senate committees and to reporters. But his executive order embodying the most drastic policy changes—including the elimination of the general assistance welfare program—appears doomed in the Democratic House.

Democratic lawmakers also predict rejection in the House of the Engler proposals to implement the 9.2 percent budget cut ordered in December for the Departments of Social Services, Mental Health, Commerce/Labor/Licensing and Regulation and Corrections.

Progress was reported toward approving the cuts for many of the other departments.

The Legislature has 10 days to accept or reject the executive order, officially presented to them, which contains $475.3 million in cuts. But only $257.4 million of that represents cuts beyond the $536 million required under the initial 9.2 percent reduction.

Most of the rest included because of legal requirements to implement things like the GA elimination.

The budget plan also includes a $280.8 million supplemental proposal, which has not yet been introduced.

"It's necessary to bring the state budget into balance," Engler said in presenting the order to House and Senate Appropriations Committee members. "The budget problem we

MICHIGAN MIRROR

By Warren M. Hoyt, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

face is very serious. It requires us to move quickly and deeply to avoid even more cuts and layoffs."

He said the cuts are part of his overall agenda to improve Michigan's financial health, with his tax cuts and restructuring state government the other components.

Democrats are expected to try to avoid some of the cuts by asking for a larger withdrawal from the Budget Stabilization Fund—Engler proposed taking $103 million of over $400 million available—and may seek larger cuts in education which has been largely protected from reductions.

And some are pushing for increased tax revenue, starting with elimination of special tax breaks.

Senate Democratic leaders opposed both the budget cut and property tax cut proposals.

"Republicans should not expect this package to sail through the Senate," said Minority Leader Art Miller (D-Warren). "We will be intensely questioning and negotiating from the Democratic side of the aisle. There are alternatives and options we should explore and we should not just take a meat-axe approach to fixing our budget problems."

House Appropriations vice-chair Richard A. Young (D-Dearborn Heights) said he expects the executive order to be rejected, at least by the House Appropriations Committee, and then negotiated to implement acceptable proposals.

"The governor is keeping his word," Young said. "He said he would cut property taxes and if you cut property taxes you have to cut something."

Engler said "the options become quite grim" if his plans, which he said minimize layoffs—are not adopted. His proposals would mean over 3,300 employee layoffs while a 9.2 percent cut across the board would mean over 8,000 layoffs.

Management and Budget Director Patti Woodworth also said such a cut "has some fairly Draconian implications" by requiring such things as a 9.2 percent reduction in grants for AFDC recipients.

She said the administration is open to negotiations, but said Democrats must come up with something more specific than simple opposition to the plans now on the table.

While Senate Appropriations Chair Harry Gast (R-St. Joseph) said he expects the executive recommendations for the 9.2 percent cut to be approved in the Senate with only minor amendments, the executive order may create much more controversy because so many popular programs are drastically reduced, such as 911 emergency assistance in Genesee county.

"It will be difficult," Gast said. "Everyone will have to go back to his constituents and decide what can be cut."

Rep. Ralph Ostling (R-Roscommon) said GOP members of the appropriations committee are "solid behind the administration to get something moving."

"Still," he said "some of the cuts trouble us. I'm troubled by the social services thing. Anybody would be foolish to not admit that that is a very very severe thing we're doing."

Those cuts will be the most troublesome to resolve, Ostling said, but said, "Eventually, it will work out."

Engler defended the GA cut, saying most of those getting welfare on the state-funded program are employable and his plan protects education and job training programs.

He denied suggestions that his proposal will lead to an increase in homelessness, although he said some may have to move in with other family members.

"This is a class of persons that can easily look at other options," he said.

In their objections, Miller and minority floor leader John Cherry (D-Clio) "found especially deplorable" reductions in job training programs, cuts in environmental programs, particularly well-testing, and elimination of the Michigan Occupational Safety and Health Administration.

"We are heading into a recession and the governor has proposed that we reduce job training, which makes absolutely no sense," Cherry said.

Some House Democrats are backing a five-year budget balancing plan that would close tax loopholes to raise revenue and soften cuts in various programs. Schwarz said anyone could come up with a five-year plan but the budget needs to be balanced now.

"This is not a fiscal strategy, it's a political strategy," said House Appropriations member David Hollister (D-Lansing), referring to the executive recommendations. "The real fight will be in the House Democratic Caucus."

Hollister said the governor plans to cut property taxes and have the poor pay cover the drop in revenue. He also criticized the proposals for eliminating assistance to the unemployed while cutting programs that would make them employable, such as Job Start.

But Engler said he is unwilling to discuss elimination of some tax exemptions as an alternative to acting now on the budget cut plan. But he added the justification for industrial property tax abatements, which he said is already weak, becomes even weaker under his plan to cut the general property tax burden.

And he defended his tax cut proposal, noting a $123 million windfall it provides this fiscal year would help the budget situation and expressing his belief that normal revenue growth and budget "discipline" will leave the state in good shape.

Senate Appropriations Committee member Joe Conroy (D-Flint), who represents one of the areas most hit by cuts in the Department of Social Services budget, criticized Social Services and Mental Health subcommittees chair R. Robert Geake (R-Northville) for not holding meetings on those budgets prior to the full Appropriations Committee meeting.

"Cities are going to be crucified by the cuts in DSS. I think the public should have input," he said.

Geake defended the move, saying he saw no point in duplicating House subcommittee action.

Though he did not mention specific amendments, Conroy said he planned to meet with other Democrats on the Senate committee to discuss revisions, particularly to cuts in General Assistance.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Zeke Grubb takes things as they come, and his general outlook depends on the price of groceries and whether his pickup will start. He looks at himself as down the middle on just about everything. He figures the Good Lord must take a special liking to us ordinary folks because he sure makes a lot of us.

So the fellers at the country store were surprised Saturday night when Zeke brought up a piece by one of the national column writers about America being biased agin brains. Zeke said he reads about discrimination based on everthing folks can imagine, but smarts has not been on his list. He had heard of laid off college professors lying about their doctor degrees so they could get work stockpiling shelves at Wal-Mart, but he took that to be the choice of the professors that didn't want to be seen as overqualified.

Furthermore, Zeke said men take pride in thinking they're smarter than wimmen, and he knows most dumb blondes ain't. They're smart enough to know that playing dumb works in their favor when they want to turn men to their way of thinking in such a way men think it was their idee all along.

But this column writer says Americans make heroes or people they like to feel smarter than, and since most of us ain't all that smart this works to put brains in a bad light. Fer instant, he said, rich folks that come out of fancy schools and go into politics say they got to deal with somepun called the cult of the common man. They hire image makers and go to great pains and expense to be turned into plain folks.

General speaking, the fellers weren't buying any. Bug Hookum said a case can be made fer electing people to dumb to be crooks or at least dumb enough to git caught, but the country's got a better chance in the long run with Government leaders smart enough to make the system work for em while they cover their tracks.

Practical speaking, Clem Webster allowed, you got to worry about folks that go in debt to buy VCRs they can't operate turning up their noses at brains. He had saw where really smart people are gitting $40 a pop fer a gadget to run VCRs. They call it foolproof, Clem said, which smart and dumb folks can take to mean whatever they want.

Fer sure, Clem went on, if there is prejudice agin brains in this country it ought to be rooted out and plowed under. He had saw where 21 million jobs that need high math will open up by the end of the century.

The sad truth is, he said, Johnny can't count any better than he can read, and business and industry are right when they say this country has got to many math illiterates. On top of that, we got to much bloat in our public education bureaucracy, and we can't work on one problem-til we fix the other.

Clem said he sees some light at the end of this tunnel. It's in Kentucky where 66 of 170 school systems sued the state in 1985 fer education reform and fairer funding. Come July 1 they'll git more than they bargained fer.

The hole Kentucky Department of Education will be took apart and local schools will be run by principals, teachers and parents. A case of destroying it in order to save it, was Clem's words.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Candlelight Vigil Urges Peaceful Solution to War

A group of citizens concerned about the war in the Middle East have been holding candlelight vigils on the northwest corner of South and Main Sts. in Chelsea on Monday evenings from 7 to 7:30. These citizens are asking our leaders to create a peaceful solution to this crisis now. They support American troops in the Gulf and want them to come home safely.

Their first vigil was Jan. 14, two days before the war started. Approximately 40 people were there. That so many people attended is remarkable considering the vigil was organized the night before.

Anyone interested in joining this group for a candlelight vigil is welcome. They will continue to meet on Monday evenings from 7 to 7:30 on the northwest corner of South and Main Sts.

Senate Unanimously Rejects Proposed Pay Hikes for Legislators

State Rep. Margaret O'Connor, R-Lodi Township, expressed pleasure at the unanimous Senate rejection on Jan. 24 of the proposed legislative pay hikes for lawmakers and top government officials.

"With Michigan in the midst of a devastating budget crisis, it would have been unthinkable for the Senate to do anything else," O'Connor said. "When nearly 8,000 state employees are facing layoffs, many state services are in jeopardy, and Michigan's credit rating will be downgraded without a balanced budget, pay hikes for government officials would be outrageous."

O'Connor, a long-time advocate of cutting government expenditures, said the House should follow the Senate's lead.

"Public opinion is adamantly against pay increases for legislators, as well it should be," O'Connor said. "By rejecting this pay raise proposal as overwhelmingly as the Senate did, maybe the House can regain some of the public trust lost because a few legislators displayed insensitivity and greed. The people of Michigan will be watching."

The State Officers Compensation Commission (SOCC) recommended on Dec. 11 that legislators' pay be increased to $47,287 in 1991 and $52,800 in 1992. Lawmakers currently are paid $45,450.

The House is scheduled to reconvene on Jan. 31, just one day before the deadline for rejecting the SOCC recommendations. The House and Senate must agree on an identical resolution for the raises to be turned down. If the House fails to concur, the original SOCC proposal will take effect.

Laws providing fines and imprisonment for strikers preventing other persons from working were passed in 1863 in Illinois and Minnesota, according to "Important Events in American Labor History," a U.S. Labor Department publication.

Cheese Production Continues Climbing

One silver lining in the current dairy situation is the steady and, in some cases, increasing demand for cheese products, according to Michigan Farm Bureau dairy specialist Kevin Kirk. He said the consumers are using cheese for more than just topping on pizzas. "One of the nice trends we're seeing is that cheese is being used more throughout the over-all diet rather than just as a specialty or luxury food item," he said.

"This increased use of all types of cheese by consumers will help support and stabilize the prices received by dairy farmers."

Kirk said that in October of 1990, the latest reporting period, cheese production was up 9 percent from October of 1989 and up 6 percent from September of 1990.

Consumer Expert Offers Tips for Handling Debt

Ypsilanti—The holiday decorations are gone. The novelty of the new toys has faded, and for many, all that remains of the past holiday season are pleasant memories.

For others, however, the effects of whimsical pre-holiday spending and overindulgences may just be sinking in—in their bill-filled mailboxes, in their overdrawn checking accounts, and in their inability to stretch those paychecks far enough.

For consumers, credit can be a useful tool, but it can, unwittingly, become a trap, according to Rosella Bannister, director of the Michigan Consumer Education Center at EMU.

"We all use credit. Very few of us have the cash to go out and buy a home. And, certainly we use credit every month as we use the telephone and pay for it later," she said. "Credit's a great convenience and it's just part of our financial management. But the negative side is that some people don't understand that they have to pay for this at some point. Just because it's convenient and easy to use a credit card, they sometimes let it get out of hand."

Bannister said what's critical to avoiding the debt trap, is for individuals to have a clear picture of their personal financial affairs. "At least once a year, every household needs to look at 'What is our income?' and 'What are our expenses?'. 'Do we have enough income to meet our expenses?' and 'What are our major big expenses throughout the year?' The insurance payments, the taxes and other expenditures that happen only periodically sometimes throw budgets out," she said. "So we use our credit cards. Then when it's time to pay for them and we have another major expense, we're in trouble."

Another aspect of credit that's sometimes overlooked, is that it's costly, Bannister said. "Credit costs money. It isn't just a free convenience. If we don't pay the credit card up at the end of the month, there is going to be an, on-average, 18 percent per year expense. And, wouldn't it be better to save for the non-essential goals?" she asked.

Noting that two of every three American families spend from $500 to $1,000 per year on finance charges, Bannister added, "If people realized that it's a much smarter thing to do to save money for those goals—have that money be earning money while we're saving it, then pay cash and avoid that 18 percent per year—they'd have $500 to $1,000 extra to spend."

Although some people look to consolidation loans to pay off their credit card bills, Bannister said that kind of loan shopping should be done carefully. "The debt consolidation loan may or may not be a good idea," she said. "What it does is allow you to stretch out the period of your loan further, but that means you're going to be paying even more for the use of somebody else's money. And it's not the answer or the cure, but it can relieve an emergency situation."

Bannister also cautioned consumers to beware of fraudulent debt consolidation loans, saying sometimes a "very, very high rate of interest" is charged. "If you're going to look at debt consolidation loans, be very sure that it is to your advantage," she said.

When an individual can't pay his/her bills, Bannister recommends calling the creditors themselves, or in the case of many debts, talking with a non-profit credit counseling center professional who can intercede with creditors for you.

"If I owe you money and I can't pay it, wouldn't you rather have me call you and say, 'I'm sorry. I have this crisis and I can't pay you all I owe now, but I will pay you part of it now; and I promise to pay you the rest of it at a later time.'? You would feel better about that than if I ignored the situation and wouldn't communicate with you. And I think the same is true for business," she said.

"A lot of people don't understand that it's better to communicate with your creditors than to avoid them; and it's better to do it early, than after it's become a problem," Bannister added. "And when it's just impossible to pay, that's when you need help from a non-profit credit counseling center who can often be your advocate with (the creditors). That's partly why companies like Sears, Hudson's and National Bank of Detroit pay credit counselors to exist. It's a service to both the consumer and the creditor, and they (the centers) probably have more clout with the creditor than you."

Bannister said enlisting the help of non-profit credit counselors to face up to money problems, may also save consumers from having to face up to a bad credit rating. And although, in most instances, a bad credit rating is no longer reported by credit bureaus after seven years (or 10 years, in the case of bankruptcy), she said it can be a mark that lasts forever.

"By law, if a prospective employer is considering you for a position paying $20,000 or more per year, and wants to check your credit rating, he/she can go back to day one of your first credit problem," she said.

In addition, she said there is no time limit when applying for $50,000 or more of credit, as in the case of most home mortgages, or when applying for a life insurance policy of $50,000 or more.

"Many people don't realize that a bad credit rating, even on a simple, you didn't pay your telephone bill when you were in college, can follow you for a lifetime," Bannister said.

For more information or the telephone number of the nearest non-profit credit counseling center, call the Michigan Consumer Education Center at EMU, at (313) 487-2292.

Barrier Blocks Deduction Effort

Several measures have been introduced in Congress to enact and make permanent a 100 percent tax deduction for the health insurance premiums paid by farmers and other self-employed people. But the Budget Reconciliation bill passed by Congress last year is an obstacle to enactment of the deduction, according to Michigan Farm Bureau Public Affairs Director Al Almy.

"The Budget Reconciliation law is a pay-as-you-go piece of legislation," he said, "and would mean that if self-employed people are allowed a 100 percent deduction, then somewhere else in the federal government a cut in spending or a tax increase would have to be imposed to offset the cost of the deduction."

Almy said that on the bright side, Farm Bureau will also be asking Congress to extend the existing 25 percent tax deduction that is set to expire on Sept. 30 and chances are good that the extension will be approved.

Today's Investor

By Thomas E. O'Hara
Chairman, Board of Trustees
National Assoc. of Investors Corp.
& Consulting Editor, Better Investing

Q. There is one question that bothers me as an investor and that is, when is it a good time to sell a stock?

A. The answer to that question depends upon what kind of investor you are and what type of stocks you hold. From the list of stocks you sent me that you hold and with your statement that you are generally a long-term investor, I would say you don't have to be too concerned about selling. As I look at your holdings, each one appears to have the ability to be worth substantially more five years in the future. I would review each stock once a year, and as long as each appears to look good for the next five years, I would hold them.

In a recent article in Better Investing, securities analyst Ralph Seger, Jr., lists five reasons why he sells a stock. He will sell if a stock is grossly overvalued, if sales, profit margins and earnings per share are declining, if the outlook for the company is unfavorable, if the stock no longer matches his investment objectives, or if he needs cash to pay a bill.

Seger goes on to describe how he reaches a hold or sell decision when he is looking at a particular stock. For example, he looked at Bristol-Myers Squibb when the price was recently 83%. He first put a number of figures together which many securities analysts use. These are figures most of us as individuals can find or calculate. The first figure is earnings per share. One of the investment services estimates Bristol-Myers Squibb will earn $3.61 this year. Next he makes a simple division, dividing the price, $83%, by the earnings per share, $3.61, and getting 17.5. That figure is called the price-earnings ratio or P/E. Most investment services you find in your library or broker's office will list the high P/E the stock has sold at each year for the past 10 years' and also the average low P/E. The average high P/E for Squibb was 18.9. The average low was 13.2. Comparing the current 17.5 to those figures we see the stock is selling well above the average low, but down a bit from the high. This tells us the stock may not be overpriced, but we could say it is nearly "fully priced." Many long-term investors wouldn't sell it at this price, but they wouldn't buy shares at that level either.

Another step Seger takes to decide to sell or hold the stock is to calculate the possible five-year high price and five-year low price. He uses the NAIC Stock Selection Guide to do that. You can find similar estimates in the Value Line Investment Service. For Bristol-Myers Squibb, the estimated five-year high is $114 and the estimated five-year low is $40. If we buy at the current 83%, then we seem to have a chance to gain 51 at the high and be down 23 at the low. Again our conclusion is we still have a good chance to make money on this investment and probably wouldn't sell at this point. Yet at the same time the price could fall considerably, perhaps presenting a better opportunity in the future.

Mr. O'Hara welcomes your questions and comments, but will answer them only through this column. ### Farmers Hail Fertilizer Labeling Victory

In what Farm Bureau is calling a "significant victory" for farmers, who transport and use anhydrous ammonia, the U.S. Department of Transportation's Research and Special Programs Administration this week decided to classify the fertilizer as a non-poisonous, non-flammable gas. Al Almy, director of public affairs for Michigan Farm Bureau, said the decision will benefit agriculture. "This classification of anhydrous ammonia as a non-flammable gas, linked along with the requirement of an inhalation hazard label, will provide very complete and adequate hazard communication at substantially less cost and disruption to agricultural users," he said.

Almy said Department of Transportation ruling is based on United Nations recommendations on the transportation of dangerous goods, and will go into effect on Oct. 1, 1993.

Eighth Graders Plan Fundraiser To Visit Washington, D.C.

About 70 Beach Middle school eighth graders are planning to go on a school-sponsored field trip to Washington, D.C. in late May.

The trip, May 29 through June 2, will co-ordinate with the American history program.

Students are planning a fundraiser in conjunction with Chelsea-area merchants. Students plan to issue a coupon booklet entitled "Meet me in Chelsea so we can see D.C." The booklet, tentatively priced at $10, would offer shoppers discounts at area stores.

The booklets will be printed locally. Students plan to collate and staple the booklets themselves. Sales are tentatively scheduled from Feb. 15-18, during the Patriots Week-End school holiday.

Cost of the trip is $300 per student. Each student who wants to participate is being required to submit a paper on "Why I want to go to Washington, D.C." In addition, students must maintain passing grades in all eighth grade classes, have no behavioral problems at school, and write an explanation on the strengths and weaknesses of the trip upon returning to school June 3.

Parents plan to fund part of the trip. Anyone interested in participating in the fundraiser is asked to call Carolyn Chase at 475-9193 or 475-3048.

"Ability is of little account without opportunity."

—Napoleon

Ability can be a natural gift or come as the result of hard, practical study and experience. Opportunity to capitalize on this ability is largely of the individual's making and can, in most cases, be prepared for in advance.

People may find themselves placed in areas where their abilities are seldom utilized and often unrecognized. This lack of opportunity must be resolved by the individual who, recognizing the scope of his ability, will make a determined effort to change location or circumstances so that opportunity in his field will exist.

Prudent people select their funeral director in advance of any emergency. Come in and get acquainted with our staff. No obligation, of course.

Extension 4-H Agent Named for Washtenaw County

Matthew C. Calvert of Ann Arbor, has been appointed as a Michigan State University Co-operative Extension Service 4-H youth agent for Washtenaw county, effective Jan. 21. Calvert has primary responsibility for planning, organizing, implementing and evaluating youth at risk development programs. He will be working with the Washtenaw County Juvenile Court Prevention Program.

Calvert will work specifically with programs designed to develop leadership potential, self-image and self-confidence, citizenship and responsibility among adult and older youth volunteers who are trained to work with targeted youth populations.

Using a curriculum developed for the Michigan 4-H Youth programs initiative, "Spaces: Preparing Kids for a High-Tech and Global Future," Calvert will implement programs designed to help young people develop personal coping and creating skills, explore science and technology achievements affecting contemporary society, and address global and cultural issues that influence how we live.

Calvert will also work with community leaders in identifying problem areas and opportunities for strengthening youth development programs in Washtenaw county. Calvert received his bachelor's degree in international relations at Stanford University.

Lectures at Hospital Recount AA History

Week one opens the early history previous to Dr. Bob and Bill W's meeting through the story of how the Big Book was written and published in 1939.

Week two emphasizes the infancy and adolescence of the growing program including how the 12 traditions were formed and written.

Budget Cuts the Unkindest of All

With state government headed for across the board 9.2 percent budget cuts, a Farm Bureau lobbyist is still hoping to preserve funding for crucial programs in the Michigan Department of Agriculture. Ron Nelson, Legislative counsel for Michigan Farm Bureau, says top priority should be given to saving animal health programs, weights and measures, marketing and bargaining and food safety.

"Sure, we've got to take a tough look at the state budget and get the budget in line," he said. "But there are certain programs that need to be preserved because of their impact on people."

Nelson said compared to funding for state departments, the financial situation for Michigan State University programs is somewhat brighter. But he warns that a lingering soft economy is going to continue to affect future budget decisions.

YOU & YOUR PET

By Linda Reider
Director of Education
Humane Society of Huron Valley

* Pets and Poisons

Cats and dogs are much like toddlers when it comes to curiosity about their environment. Like children, pets must be protected from possibly dangerous substances.

The first step is to become aware of some of the most common household items poisonous to dogs and cats. Then secure containers with the products out of pets' reach. Never give your pet any medications for humans except under a veterinarian's directions.

Common Household Poisons

Acetaminophen (Tylenol, etc.)
Antifreeze
Aspirin
Deodorants
Fungicides
Furniture Polish
Hair Colorings
Laxatives
Lye

Mothballs
Nail Polish
& Remover
Paint & Remover
Rat Poison
Shoe Polish
Sleeping Pills
Snail or Slug Bait
Soaps & Detergents
Suntan Lotion

Poisonous Plants
Amaryllis Bulb
Avocado
Bittersweet
Boxwood
Caladium
Dieffenbachia
Jasmine Berries
Marigold
Mushrooms
Narcissus Bulb
Philodendron
Poinsettia

No matter how careful you are, your pet may one day be the victim of poisoning. If this happens, note all of the symptoms your pet is showing and call a veterinarian immediately. You should take a sample of the poison along to the veterinarian.

Clues to poisoning include spilled or open containers or plants with missing leaves or branches. Abnormal breath or body odors, burns on the skin or mouth, shortness of breath, vomiting, and diarrhea also may point to poisoning.

Your knowledge of pet poisons and what to do in case of accidental poisoning may someday save your pet's life.

For a complete list of household poisons and poisonous plants, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: Poisons, c/o Linda Reider, HSHV, 3100 Cherry Hill Rd., Ann Arbor 48105. Questions about pet care may be addressed to me at the above address also.

Next Week: Pet Abuse.

Everybody's Science

* New Lure May Protect Fruits, Vegetables from Medfly

By Marcia Wood

Mediterranean fruit flies—insect enemy to 250 kinds of fresh fruits and vegetables—may find in the future that a dab of a new gel on trees and phone poles is deadly.

Within the gel would be a powerful new medfly lure, "Ceralure," plus small amounts of insecticide and a thickener. Medfly males, attracted to the lure, would be killed by contacting the insecticide.

Lacking males, medfly populations would die out, says Roy T. Cunningham of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Medfly-infested areas typically are sprayed from helicopters with a corn-derived bait plus an insecticide, malathion. If an attractant is applied to poles and trees in a gel, it would have to attract flies for at least two weeks to be practical and economical—something the current lure can't do. But, the new gel might be able to last that long.

"Ceralure still needs more study," Cunningham says. "But in a few years, Ceralure gel might replace today's aerial spraying."

An entomologist with USDA's Agricultural Research Service in Hilo, Hawaii, Cunningham helped invent the new chemical attractant to detect and combat medflies invading sunbelt states such as California, Texas, Arizona and Florida. They have a climate medflies like, so these states are under year-round threat of invasion.

Stowaway medflies travel in contraband fruit that's mailed from overseas to the mainland or smuggled inside luggage of airplane or ship passengers. The pesky flies pose a threat to growers and consumers alike.

Once the female fruit flies get loose in a favorable climate, they mate and then deposit eggs inside fresh fruits and vegetables. Slender white maggots that develop from those eggs can quickly turn foods into a soggy mess.

Ceralure "won't be a quick fix for the outbreaks in California," says Cunningham. He estimates it will take two or three years of experiments in Hawaii—where medflies already live—to find a good formulation for the gel. And the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency would need proof of Ceralure's safety before approving the compound for widespread use.

A combined lure and insecticide placed on poles and posts is an idea that's worked in California. For almost 20 years, agricultural officials have used this strategy to kill invading males of a medfly cousin, the Oriental fruit fly.

"This has been an ideal approach," Cunningham notes. "It uses very little insecticide, doesn't inconvenience people—like aerial spraying sometimes can—and kills male flies fast, before their population gets a chance to build into an outbreak."

24 Years Ago...

Sheriff's deputies said that a search for the body of a Detroit woman was resumed in the Half Moon and Pickering Lake area. The search had been called off due to the heavy snowfall. The Sheriff's Department was using dogs in the search, but no trace of the woman had been found by nightfall. River Rouge police believe the woman was raped and shot to death in a cottage in the Half Moon Lake area.

Chelsea Boy Scout Troop 425 earned the uncontested distinction of being the only troop in the Portage Trails Council, which covers both Livingston and Washtenaw counties, to camp out in Kensington Metropolitan Park, near Milford. The group hauled supplies more than one-half mile through the snow to the campsite.

34 Years Ago...

Thursday, Jan. 31, 1957—

The four-room home of William Smith was completely destroyed by fire while the family was away. Firemen poured a total of 3,600 gallons of water on the blaze. The Smith family lost all of their possessions in the fire.

The Chelsea Standard won third place honors in competition with similar size newspapers from all over Michigan in the annual General Excellence Contest sponsored by Michigan Press Association. The award presented to The Standard was based on over-all excellence in news coverage, photography, and make-up. This was the third such award won by The Standard.

L. Dean Sodi was selected to receive the Jaycees "Outstanding Farmer" award for 1957. Sodi specialized in dairy and beef cattle on his 202-acre farm. The local award made him eligible to participate in the state competition and the winner there would compete for national honors.

Dwight E. Beach was promoted from the rank of brigadier general to major general, United States Army. He was a 1926 graduate of Chelsea High School, and attended the University of Michigan for two years before entering the United States Military Academy.

Promotional License Plate Available to Organizations

The Lions Club of Michigan is the first non-profit organization to apply for a customized Michigan license plate for its membership. Secretary of State Richard H. Austin has announced.

The special Lions Club plate, available to approximately 20,000 Lion and Lioness members state-wide beginning Jan. 14, bears a colorful decal of the club's circular emblem.

The Lions plate is the first organization license plate to be issued under the new program authorized by the Legislature and made available Oct. 1, 1990. Also available for issue is a special plate for the Michigan State Fire Fighters Union, soon to be followed by a Masonic plate.

Each organization license plate features a 2½-by-3-inch decal of the group's emblem or symbol to the left of the numbers, and is available to non-profit fraternal or public service groups which have 500 or more members willing to purchase them. Plates are Lake Superior blue with white lettering.

"The new organization license plate offers a special identity to many fraternal and public service organizations, that have expressed an interest in their 'own' license plates," Secretary Austin said. "We estimate there are at least 100 non-profit groups in the state, with membership lists of 500 or more people, who would be interested in buying the plates."

Members of college alumni organizations may be particularly interested in buying license plates featuring a decal of their school's mascot or logo to demonstrate school spirit," Secretary Austin concluded.

To receive a custom license plate, the organization must pay a $500 start-up fee. After the decal design is approved by the Secretary of State's office, plates will be available from the Secretary of State to a group member for $25 during the first year of issue, plus the annual vehicle registration fee. The $25 service fee is the same amount as for personalized license plates, but is required only in the year the plate itself is issued. Members receive a pair of license plates, on which year and month tabs will be affixed. The plates may be used on passenger vehicles, pickup trucks, vans and motor homes.

To apply for an organization plate, the group's president should obtain an Application for Special Organization Plates, available from the Program Development Section, Bureau of Driver and Vehicle Records, by calling (517) 322-1591. The completed application, $500 check (payable to the State of Michigan), suggested emblem and the group's by-laws should be mailed to: Special Registration Unit, Michigan Department of State, 7064 Crowder Dr., Lansing 48918.

The Department of State requires at least six weeks to approve the design and print the decals, before plates are available for sale to individual members. Once a special plate is made available, group members may apply immediately by filling out an application and paying the fee in any Secretary of State branch office. The plate will be mailed from Lansing in about a week. In most cases credit for the remaining time on a person's current license plate may be applied to the new plate.

Red Cross Provides Services for Families of Service Members

Washtenaw County Chapter of the American Red Cross is working to help U.S. forces in the Persian Gulf and service families at home as part of the Red Cross's most extensive military-support operation since the Vietnam War.

"We are trying to ease the pressure of knowing a loved one is in the Persian Gulf by supporting service families every way we can," said Laura Burkey, director of the chapter's Service to Military Families (SMF) department.

Services being provided include emergency communications, information and referral and emergency financial assistance. In addition, SMF staff members are assisting local support groups and working with the social work department of the VA Hospital co-ordinating possible case-work services in preparation for an influx of patients.

Since August, Red Cross chapters have been working under an operating condition known as "Minimize" that is imposed by the Joint Chiefs of Staff. This condition prohibits the transmittal of non-emergency messages between troops and their families.

Emergency messages are considered those regarding the birth of a service member's child; the serious illness, injury or death of a member of a service person's immediate family; a breakdown in child care plans for a service member's child; and severe financial hardship.

Since August 1990, the American Red Cross has relayed more than 64,000 emergency messages to and from U.S. military personnel in the Persian Gulf. A message is relayed every 26 seconds.

According to Burkey, the Washtenaw county chapter has seen a large increase in the number of cases and emergency messages handled. The crisis has almost doubled the SMF department's daily casework load.

Southeastern Michigan Red Cross Blood Services is currently sending 100 to 200 units of blood per day to the Persian Gulf from its normal inventory. Special collections for the Gulf are not planned, unless there is not enough blood to supply local needs and support the military at the same time.

At least 50% of the blood shipped by the Red Cross to the Persian Gulf will be group-O blood. Under emergency circumstances, group-O blood can be given to patients of all blood types.

Local residents who are 17 and older and in good health are encouraged to make an appointment to donate blood by calling the Washtenaw Donor Center at 971-1500.

Bill Would Up Penalties For 'Ecoterrorism'

An American Farm-Bureau Federation lobbyist in Washington D.C. said that farmers may have to learn a new word: ecoterrorism.

"Ecoterrorism is basically acts of sabotage against resource uses of our federal lands and in some cases of our private lands," said Dennis Stolte. He's closely following a bill introduced by Rep. James Hansen (R-UT) that would make it a felony to destroy fences, corrals, buildings, machinery or watering facilities and harass or kill livestock. He said the measure is basically aimed at activities designed to obstruct legally permitted grazing activities on federal lands.

Stolte noted that there's not a lot of federal land grazing in Michigan, but believes farmers in all parts of the country should be alert to the potential of ecoterrorist activities. "One of the radical environmental groups has actually encouraged its members in a written bulletin to kill livestock as a way to make the world a better place to live, and they give detailed instructions on how to kill livestock without getting caught," he said.

Stolte says Farm Bureau would like to expand the Hansen legislation to penalize ecoterrorism against any kind of natural resources development.

Economic Club Hears Hospital Expansion Plans

The January meeting of the Chelsea Economic Club was held Jan. 16 at Chelsea Community Hospital. Featured speakers were Willard H. Johnson, president, and Kathleen S. Griffiths, vice-president and chief operating officer of Chelsea Community Hospital. "Chelsea Community Hospital is unlike any other hospital I've ever known. It is so much more than just a hospital. It is the focal point of many community activities from civic and social events to meetings such as this," stated Mark Baily of Chelsea's Society Bank by way of introduction for Johnson and Griffiths.

Johnson provided an overview of the hospital's major roles as a health care provider, an employer, an educator, and a community servant. The hospital will provide an estimated $38 million in medical care in 1991. It is among the largest employers in Washtenaw county with over 500 full- and part-time employees, having 215 members on its medical staff, and nearly 200 volunteers. The hospital has educational affiliations with more than 20 institutions for physicians, nurses, and other health professionals. The hospital opens its doors to community groups for meetings, meals, and special functions. In 1990, 93,000 patient meals and 150,000 visitor meals were served at the hospital.

Chelsea Community Hospital is an independent, private, not-for-profit hospital. In the current health care environment this is becoming an exception for smaller and moderate sized hospitals.

Johnson offered some insight into the reasons for the hospital's ability to remain independent. Chelsea Community Hospital has spent at least the past 14 years developing interdependent relationships with the University of Michigan Hospitals and Catherine McAuley Health Center.

One of the earliest affiliations was the University of Michigan establishing its Family Practice residency training program on the hospital's campus in 1977. Today, other important affiliations with the University of Michigan Hospitals exist, including a joint venture in inpatient rehabilitation, participation in M-Care, and the newest joint venture in substance abuse, Chelsea Arbor Treatment Center.

Affiliations with Catherine McAuley Health Center are numerous from clinical laboratory and mobile CT Scanner service agreements, to diagnostic imaging and emergency room physician services, and participation in Care Choices HMO.

These efforts to establish interdependent relationships have been fundamental in expanding and providing access to services necessary for the hospital's physicians and patients. They have also offered Chelsea Community Hospital the opportunity to best serve the community by only performing those services the hospital does often enough to do well.

The hospital has a medical staff matched in quality with some of the finest facilities in the country; almost all are board certified in their specialty. Likewise the quality of the nursing staff and workforce is superior.

Soon after being established, the hospital began to diversify its programs and services to increase its viability as a health care resource. There are now programs in medicine, inpatient and ambulatory surgery, rehabilitation, psychiatry, substance abuse and head pain.

As the hospital enters its third decade of operation, plans are being developed to expand and modernize the capital facility as part of the overall mission to remain independent.

Kathleen Griffiths gave an overview of preliminary expansion plans for the campus. Additional information about expansion will be provided as plans are completed.

Community Seminar Slated on Children and Substance Abuse

Sis Wenger, manager of Henry Ford Hospital's Maple Grove Community Education Program, will hold a community-wide seminar on alcohol and substance abuse issues as they relate to children, tomorrow, Jan. 31 from 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. in the Beach Middle school cafeteria.

The presentation will touch on several related subjects regarding young people, including self-esteem, personal safety, realistic expectations, family communication, decision-making, and peer pressure.

The program is in conjunction with Chelsea School District staff training Monday. It is an effort by the district to help parents or anyone else who works with young people to deal effectively with alcohol and substance abuse issues.

The seminar is free and open to the public.

The first state labor bureau was established in 1888 in Massachusetts; according to "Important Events in American Labor History," a U.S. Labor Department publication.

Parents Criticize Sex Ed. Programs As Lacking in Moral Guidance

A small but vocal group of parents is challenging the Chelsea School District's sex education curriculum, especially as it is taught at Beach Middle school.

About 50 people attended a meeting of the Sex Education Advisory Committee Monday night. Forty-one of them ended up signing a proposal read by Kathy Ziegler, who has a child at Beach Middle school. The signed proposal, however, was not presented to the committee.

No action was taken by the committee. Another meeting is planned for Monday, Feb. 25.

Ziegler's contention is the curriculum does not give children moral guidance in its teaching of sex education, which "absolutely undermines the values being taught in the community, and that's not fair." Her proposal asks that the district give parents a choice between what is currently offered and an "abstinence-based" program and that the dual system be put in place by next school year.

Ziegler said parents who object to the current curriculum have been allowed to keep their children from listening to or seeing objectionable material. But that has often led to ostracism of children by their peers. That is why, she said, a choice should be offered.

"The current curriculum emphasizes values clarification and moral relativism, which is a sliding scale depending on the times," Ziegler said.

"I don't see any way to blend the two programs."

Two films, part of the sex education curriculum at Beach, were shown to parents after the meeting. One film, "Seasons of Sexuality," has been one of the focus points of parents' objections. They say it is too sexually explicit and sends children a mixed message.

Another parent, Beckie Riecks, said she believes the committee is not balanced enough in its representation. Pastor Mark Weirauch of Zion Lutheran church is the only member.

Let's Go Bulldogs!

Plank Leads Bulldogs To Big SEC Victory Over Saline, 66-61

Chelsea senior captain Kerry Plank scored 29 points, including 13 in the third quarter, to lead the Bulldogs to a hard-fought 66-61 victory over the Saline Hornets at home last Friday.

The victory gave the Bulldogs a 4-3 mark in the Southeastern Conference, good for a third-place tie with the Pinckney Pirates.

Chelsea led throughout most of the game but rarely by more than four points until the middle of the third period when Plank went to work. He scored 13 of Chelsea's last 15 points and the Bulldogs were able to increase the lead to eight points until the closing minutes of the quarter.

Saline cut Chelsea's lead to 55-53 at the 5:56 mark of the fourth quarter. The Bulldogs increased their lead to six on baskets by Plank and Dan Stahl. However, the Hornets went on to miss three straight one-and-one opportunities, which could have tied the game. Chelsea led by at least four points the rest of the way.

"Everytime Saline started a run, we were able to respond," said Chelsea coach Robin Raymond.

"Ben (Hurst) and Dan Stahl hit some shots from the wing, which really helped our inside-outside game. We had better balance and if we get distribution like we had Friday, we'll be all right."

Jon Royce and Hurst each scored 10 points, and Stahl scored six.

Both teams played physical, high-pressure defense. Saline applied a lot of pressure outside, but Chelsea was able to work for the open shot to Plank inside. Also, the Bulldogs had 16 turnovers, a relatively low number considering the pace of the game.

Even though Saline had their problems from the line in the fourth quarter, the Hornets' free throw shooting kept the game close. They went to the line 33 times and made 24 shots. Chelsea, which has improved its free throw shooting considerably over the last few games, made 15 of 19 tries.

Field goal shooting made the difference for Chelsea as they hit 25 of 59 shots, while Saline made 18 of 58.

"We had good shot selection and were able to make them," Raymond said.

KERRY PLANK is surrounded by Hornets during last Friday's home game with Saline. Plank scored 29 points, including 13 in the third quarter, to pace the 66-61 win.

Junior Jake Rindle returned to action after spraining his ankle two weeks ago. He scored two points, but his big contribution was two key rebounds down the stretch.

Sophomore Chris Dunham, up from the junior varsity for his first home varsity contest, didn't score but did "a decent job," Raymond said.

"He was nervous but handled the pressure well."

Senior Jeremy Stephens, coming off a 13-point performance the previous game, started and provided a major emotional spark for the Bulldogs, Raymond said.

Royce grabbed a season-high 16 rebounds to lead the Bulldogs. Plank had 10.

In non-conference action on Tuesday, Chelsea lost at Fowlerville, 60-56.

"It was a game where we could get no breaks," Raymond said.

"Either the ball bounced the wrong way or someone was called for a foul. We didn't adjust to the tight officiating, and we also let Fowlerville dictate the game."

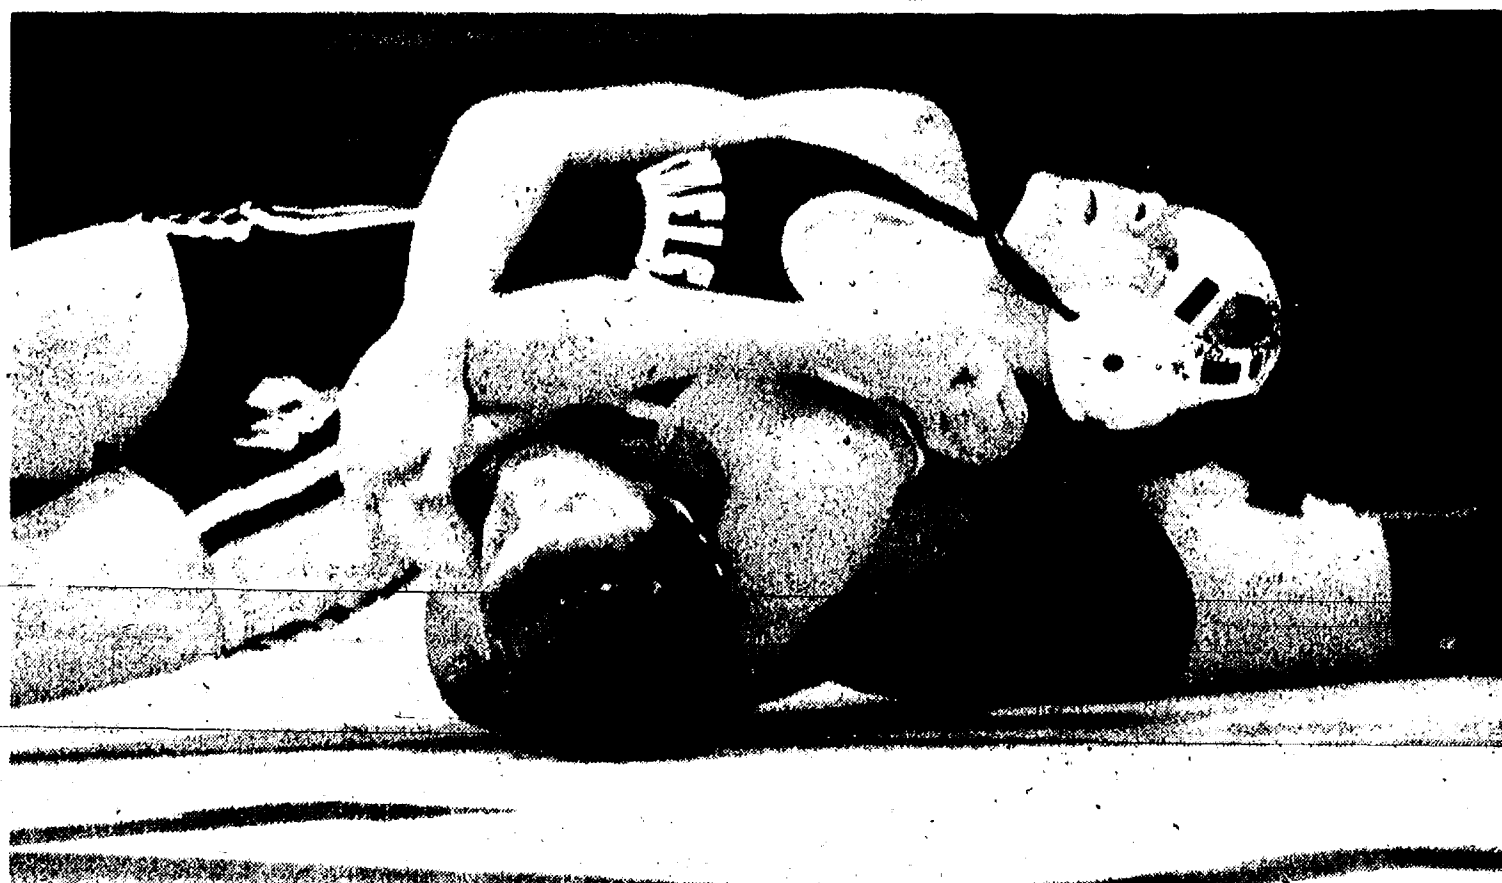

Plank fouled out for the first time all year, and Royce sat down much of the game due to foul problems. Less than two minutes into the game, Royce had two fouls. He sat out the rest of the half, and on his first trip down the court in the second half he picked up his third.

Despite the foul problems, Chelsea managed to stay within a few points the entire game, and pulled to within one point in the fourth quarter.

Stephens scored 12 of his 13 points in the second half and "inspired the rest of the kids," Raymond said.

Plank scored a team-high 23 points. Other scorers included Stahl 6, Dunham 4, Tucker Steele 4, Hurst 3, Royce 2, and Jude Quilter 1.

Chelsea is 5-6 on the season. They host the much-improved Milan Big Reds this Friday.

TODD WATSON wrestled at 112 pounds for Chelsea this season. Chelsea made short work of the Indians and during the Bulldogs' victory over the Tecumseh Indians should be one of the favorites to win the SEC title this last Thursday. This is the sophomore in a match earlier Saturday at home in the SEC tournament.

Chelsea Wrestlers in Three-Way Tie for Lead

Chelsea wrestlers continued their drive toward a Southeastern Conference championship last Thursday with a 54-22 victory over Tecumseh.

The win, combined with a Dexter victory over Saline, created at least a temporary three-way tie for the SEC lead. Chelsea, Saline, and Dexter each had one loss heading into their final dual meets this week. It's likely the teams will be tied for this Saturday's deciding SEC Tournament in Chelsea.

"We will have to perform above our level this week-end in order to win the meet," said Chelsea coach Kerry Kargel.

"We'll need a few breaks and we'll need to win some of the close matches."

Chelsea beat Dexter but lost to Saline during the regular season.

In Thursday's Tecumseh meet, Chelsea's young underclassmen again pulled through to make the difference. The Indians also forfeited at 103 pounds and heavyweight.

"We did an excellent job," Kargel said.

"We won a lot of the close matches."

One of the early keys was (sophomore) John Heller's match at 130 pounds. He was down by a couple of points but came back to pin his opponent.

Heller's pin of Jason Coy in 3:53 started a string of four straight Chelsea pins, which essentially put the match away. Kargel bumped the line-up up, so that the next six Chelsea boys were wrestling a weight class higher than they normally do.

Senior captain Kelly Beard followed with a pin of Dan Crawford in 1:53 at 135 pounds; sophomore Ian Dyer, at 140 pounds, pinned Steve Herman in 2:46; and sophomore Kevin McCalla recorded a pin of Matt Wilson in 3:35 at 145 pounds.

Senior captain Jim Hassett at 152 pounds pinned Tecumseh's Tino Jimenez in 3:32, a state qualifier last year.

Sophomore Jason Szostak, at 160 pounds, pinned Scott Green in :33.

Chelsea freshman Paul Taylor was pinned by Buddy Allen in 1:23 at 170 pounds.

Adan Gomez of Tecumseh pinned Jeff Holzhausen at 180 pounds in 1:42. In earlier weights, Chelsea sophomore Todd Watson lost a 12-0 decision to Chad Dnins at 112 pounds, and senior captain Karl Wikman pinned Justin Wolfe in :30 for his 100th career victory.

JV Spikers Reach Quarterfinals At Clinton Tourney

Chelsea Bulldogs junior varsity volleyball team reached the quarterfinals of the Clinton Invitational last Saturday before being eliminated by Brooklyn Columbia Central, 16-14.

The Bulldogs split with Manchester then went on to defeat Vandercook Lake and Britton.

"Our freshmen looked very good against mostly sophomore teams," said Chelsea coach Rainey Bassemir.

"We played with good intensity. Our 10 freshman are getting a lot of playing time which will be invaluable next season."

Chelsea was led by Beth Bell's 28 service points, Katie Harr 19 points, Melissa Colvin 14 points, and Casey White 11 points.

Theresa Royce and Lesley Berg each had 14 kills.

"Beth and Casey had a fine day setting," Bassemir said.

"They gave our hitters good lanes to attack."

TUCKER STEELE made this uncontested lay-up on a pass from Kerry Plank during the first half of last Friday's Saline game. Chelsea won the game to go 4-3 in the Southeastern Conference.

JV Cagers Take Two More Easy Wins

Chelsea's junior varsity Bulldogs continued to dominate the competition last week with a 74-46 victory over Saline and a 72-58 defeat of Fowlerville.

In Friday's game at home against Saline, the Bulldogs held a slim 29-25 lead at half-time. However, they outscored the Hornets 45-21 in the second half.

"We played our best half of the year in the second half," said Chelsea coach Lonnie Mitchell.

Nick McCalla paced the Bulldogs with 20 points and six rebounds. Pat Steele scored 16 and Dana Schumuk scored 12 in the balanced Chelsea attack. Other scorers included Ed Waller, 8; Colt White, 8; Tom Poulter, 6; Colby Skelton, 5; and Jeremy Beauchamp, 2.

Schumuk led Chelsea with eight rebounds and what Mitchell called a strong inside game over-all.

In last Tuesday's game at Fowlerville, Chelsea started strong and didn't let up. They led 23-16 at the end of the first quarter and 40-25 at half-time.

McCalla again led the Bulldogs with 22 points.

"Nick played a good offensive game," Mitchell said.

"His shot has improved the past several weeks."

Other scorers were Skelton 16, Steele 10, Schumuk 7, White 4, Waller 3, Poulter 3, Erik Brown 2, J.D. Alford 2, and Scott Larson 1.

Bulldogs Host SEC Wrestling Meet Saturday

Chelsea hosts the Southeastern Conference wrestling tournament this Saturday beginning at 10 a.m.

Chelsea, Saline, and Dexter each had one league loss heading into this week's action and figure to have a tough battle in this Saturday's tournament. The winner will win the league title.

Weigh-in begins at 8 a.m. Afterward, league coaches will get together to determine the seeding, based on head-to-head competition.

Refreshments will be available throughout the day.

8th Grade Spikers Win First Match

Beach Middle school eighth grade volleyball team opened its season last week with a four-game victory over the Lincoln Railsplitters.

Coach Ann Schaffner's girls won 7-11, 11-7, 11-2, and 11-5.

Highlights of the match included the serving of Amy Petty for nine points, Michelle Craig for eight points, Kori White for seven points, and Melissa Schultz for six points.

Schaffner praised the defensive play of Carey Schiller, Cindy Tripp, Lauren Zuehlke, Petty, White, and Schultz.

White had two kills and Schiller one. "This team is eager to master attacking the ball," Schaffner said.

"I'm looking forward to an interesting and successful season with them."

Other team members include Jayma Spears, Audrey Brede, Corrie Schoenberg, Aubree Gerardi, Tammy Shaw, Nancy Pidd, Shannon Shemansky, and Krissy Pugsley.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

I never thought I'd live to see the Chelsea basketball student section stand the entire game without coercion at gunpoint, but that's what happened last Friday night during the home game with Saline.

A sizeable number of kids stood, and even cheered, most of the night. They made all the typical basketball chants ("airball") and gestures (just ask the referees). It was a lively night in the old gym and I'm sure the enthusiasm didn't go unappreciated by the victorious Bulldogs. (Where were you guys last year?)

I'm not sure exactly who was behind the rather miraculous turn of events Friday. I mean, someone was behind it. There had to be an organized effort. Things like that don't happen spontaneously here.

The only thing missing was a couple hundred more kids to share in the fun. But I guess we can't have everything.

Actually, I do know one person who deserves a hand and that is junior wrestler Jeff Holzhausen, who handles the giant megaphone duties. He paces the sidelines with enough energy and emotion for a dozen kids. It's clear he loves what he's doing and loves his school. In the end, that's probably what school spirit is all about.

Now the trick is to turn last Friday into a habit.

Of course, school spirit is a lot easier to come by when the school has a good team.

And that certainly shouldn't be a problem over the next few years.

Chelsea's junior varsity team is loaded, and then some. They are 9-1 and are generally winning by more than a few points.

There are dead-eye shooters, excellent passers (less one in Chris Dunham who has joined the varsity), good penetrators, and aggressive defenders. The team also has about as much height as you'll ever see in a JV squad in this area. There are two or three kids who can dominate a game or take over in the clutch.

Eight or nine kids are legitimate varsity candidates. That could cause varsity coach Robin Raymond some problems next year when he has to decide who stays and who goes.

Although their record doesn't show it, the freshman team has several players who will eventually do Chelsea proud on Friday nights.

The varsity team also has several kids who will make major contributions next season. Junior Jon Royce, who seems like a senior, heads the list. But Jake Rindle, Ben Hurst, and Dan Stahl are all getting the chance to play a lot this year and should gain by the experience.

So, the bleachers should be booming for the next several years if decent basketball has anything to do with school spirit.

What a season Kerry Kargel's varsity wrestling team has had.

At the outset Kargel spoke candidly of rebuilding and just teaching youngsters how to wrestle.

How could he have ever guessed his team would have a legitimate shot to win the Southeastern Conference again?

The freshmen and sophomores have made their coach so proud. Freshman Tim Wescott at 103 pounds took his lumps early in the season but has been exceptional in the second half. Sophomores like Todd Watson, Jason Knisely, John Heller, Ian Dyer, Jason Szostak, and Kevin McCalla have all come through at key times.

Then there are the contributions of the guys Kargel depends on.

State champion Karl Wikman, at 112 or 119 pounds, picked up his 100th career victory last week and should be a contender for another state title.

Senior Jim Hassett at 145 pounds has gone three weeks without even giving up a single point. That is astounding. No take-downs, no reversals, nothing.

Senior Kelly Beard has also come on strong at 135 pounds in recent weeks.

Junior heavyweight Mike Terpstra has pinned at least 90 percent of his opponents this season. He may also lead the team in voids, which means the opposing team enters doesn't have a heavyweight, or, more likely, has one who doesn't want to wrestle him.

Kargel has also done a lot of line-up juggling this season. He often moves kids up a weight class when he thinks he can gain an advantage. The strategy has been effective, if not somewhat daring.

It's been a team effort, one that has to be extremely satisfying for Kargel. A couple of people have commented that it might be his best coaching job ever. I won't argue with that.

KELLY BEARD pinned Tecumseh's Dan Crawford during last Thursday's match-up against the Tecumseh Indians. The Chelsea victory earned Chelsea a three-way tie for the SEC lead with Saline and Dexter.

Frosh Cagers Beat Manchester But Drop Game to Pinckney

Chelsea Bulldogs freshman basketball team picked up its second victory of the season last Thursday with a 63-43 win over Manchester at home.

The Bulldogs took a 29-21 lead at half-time but broke the game open in the third quarter when they outscored the Dutchmen 19-5.

"We played the type of team game that we need to play to be successful," said Chelsea coach Dave Quilter.

"We played very good pressure defense and everybody contributed in one way or another."

Eleven players scored for the Bulldogs, led by Matt Powell with 18 points and Nathan Mackinder with 16. Other scorers included Cory Brown 9, Gabe Bernhard 6, Jason McVittie 4, David Beerman 2, David Seitz 2, David Stimpson 2, Matt Seitz 2, Brian Cook 1, and Paul Lopez 1.

Chelsea shot 43 percent from the floor and out-rebounded Manchester 49-36.

Quilter said Mackinder had the best overall game for the Bulldogs as he was 5-5 from the field, 6-7 from the line, and grabbed 11 rebounds. He also credited the play of Powell at both ends of the court.

Chelsea had less success earlier in the week at Pinckney as the Pirates handed the Bulldogs a 61-46 defeat.

Pinckney held a 7-6 lead early in the game before scoring 15 unanswered points. It was a frustrating night for the Bulldogs, who had no problem beating the Pinckney press but had numerous unforced turnovers and a total of 20 turnovers in the first half.

Brown and Powell led the Chelsea scoring with 18 and 12 points, respectively. Quilter said Brown beat the Pinckney press almost single-handedly and led the Bulldogs in assists as well.

Other scorers included Mackinder 7, Bernhard 3, McVittie 2, Stimpson 2, Ed Greenleaf 1, and Matt Seitz 1.

"Our good shooting from the field was offset by the very low number of shots taken and our 20 first-half turnovers," Quilter said.

"However, we need some people to step up and play better defense. We can't keep giving up 55 to 60 points a game and be successful."

Chelsea hit 13-26 from the field and 17-33 from the line.

The Bulldogs were 2-8 on the season after last week.

SHARING THE ROAD SAFELY

Q: What does this sign mean? (check for answer at end of article)
a. Only snowmobiles may operate on this roadway.
b. An official snowmobile trail crosses the highway ahead.
c. Snowmobiles are not permitted on this roadway.

Snowmobiling is fun, especially in Michigan's winter wonderland. But, as with any sport, safety is a key ingredient. Since 1986, snowmobile registrations filed with the Michigan Department of State have increased annually, proving the continued popularity of the sport.

During the 1988-89 snowmobiling season, lasting from approximately December to early April (depending on availability of snow) more than 204,000 vehicles were registered with the Secretary of State. Currently, there are over 210,000 snowmobiles registered and the season is only beginning. With all of these snowmobilers riding on nearly 5,000 miles of scenic trails throughout the state, it is important to remember "safety first."

Operators must know their own abilities, as well as those of the snowmobile. Staying warm, alert and knowing what is ahead on the trail are equally important. According to Michigan State Police, there were 394 snowmobile accidents, including 304 injuries and 11 deaths in 1989. Total accidents were up by nearly 20 percent over the previous year.

As with operating any motor vehicle, drinking and driving is illegal. Both alcohol and other drugs can seriously affect judgment, often times without even realizing it. In the winter months especially, people who develop colds and flu-like symptoms take medication to alleviate discomfort. Unfortunately, some of these medications may also impair safe driving ability.

Snowmobiles are low-profile vehicles, meaning riders are more difficult to see and less protected than in a car or truck. For more protection and increased visibility, snowmobilers should always wear a helmet, goggles and other cold weather, bright-colored gear with reflectorized stripes.

Additionally, when riding at night it is important to be visible. A lighted headlight and taillight are required from half an hour after sunset to half an hour before sunrise. Testing the depth of ice and riding in groups also increases the safety of snowmobilers.

Youths age 12 to 16 may only operate a snowmobile in Michigan if they have a valid safety certificate showing they completed an eight-hour safety course, or are directly supervised by a person 18 years of age or older, or are operating the snowmobile only on land owned or under the control of a parent or guardian. Children under age 12 may not operate a snowmobile without the direct supervision of an adult except on land owned or under the control of a parent or guardian.

WE'RE FIGHTING FOR YOUR LIFE

American Heart Association of Michigan

Operators must know their own abilities, as well as those of the snowmobile. Staying warm, alert and knowing what is ahead on the trail are equally important. According to Michigan State Police, there were 394 snowmobile accidents, including 304 injuries and 11 deaths in 1989. Total accidents were up by nearly 20 percent over the previous year.

As with operating any motor vehicle, drinking and driving is illegal. Both alcohol and other drugs can seriously affect judgment, often times without even realizing it. In the winter months especially, people who develop colds and flu-like symptoms take medication to alleviate discomfort. Unfortunately, some of these medications may also impair safe driving ability.

Snowmobiles are low-profile vehicles, meaning riders are more difficult to see and less protected than in a car or truck. For more protection and increased visibility, snowmobilers should always wear a helmet, goggles and other cold weather, bright-colored gear with reflectorized stripes.

Additionally, when riding at night it is important to be visible. A lighted headlight and taillight are required from half an hour after sunset to half an hour before sunrise. Testing the depth of ice and riding in groups also increases the safety of snowmobilers.

Youths age 12 to 16 may only operate a snowmobile in Michigan if they have a valid safety certificate showing they completed an eight-hour safety course, or are directly supervised by a person 18 years of age or older, or are operating the snowmobile only on land owned or under the control of a parent or guardian. Children under age 12 may not operate a snowmobile without the direct supervision of an adult except on land owned or under the control of a parent or guardian.

Teen Challenge Set at Emmanuel Praise Center

Emmanuel Praise Center will be presenting Western Michigan Teen Challenge on Feb. 3 and 9, beginning at 10 a.m. This special meeting will be held at 3250 Broad St., Dexter, in the Senior Citizens Center which is the church's temporary location.

Teen Challenge is a christian growth and development program that works primarily with drug abusers, alcoholics and others with life controlling problems. The students will be sharing their life stories and how they experienced a total life change by acceptance of Jesus Christ as their personal lord and savior.

A health education and welfare department study, under the direction of Dr. Catherine Hess, indicated that Teen Challenge has an amazing 88% cure rate compared to secular programs with only a 2%-15% cure rate. The average age of the students in the program is 23.

If you either know or suspect someone in your family is dependent on drugs or alcohol, come and meet with and talk to these folks.

For further information please call Pastors Erik or Mary Hansen at 478-1147.

Internists Receive Geriatric Certification

Steven A. Yarows, M.D., FACP, and Martin P. Gleespen, M.D., of Chelsea Internal Medicine, PC, have recently obtained special certification in Geriatric Medicine.

Certification for the added qualification of Geriatric Medicine is a program for board certified internists and family practice physicians designed to recognize excellence among those practitioners who provide care to the elderly. The certification is offered by the Joint Board of Internal Medicine and the American Academy of Family Practice.

Chelsea Internal Medicine Consultants, PC was begun in 1987 by Dr. Yarows, and Dr. Gleespen. Dr. Thomas K. O'Brien joined the practice in 1989. From the beginning, Dr. Yarows and his associates have provided primary care to the elderly. As the practice has grown, the physicians have developed their specialty in the care and treatment of the elderly. Receipt of certification is recognition of their expertise as a special health resource to the elderly of the community.

Their practice offers co-ordinated, multi-disciplinary geriatric care with a personalized, one-on-one approach. The ability to take care of all ages of adults enables patients to receive their primary medical care with a single physician who they can get to know and trust through the years.

Washtenaw County Soil Conservation District has announced its annual tree and shrub seedling sale for 1991. Orders for planting stock will be accepted until March 29, on a first-come, first-served basis. Some species have limited supplies, so order early.

Seedlings will be distributed on Saturday, April 13, 8 a.m. to 12 noon at the Washtenaw County Road Commission Garage.

Planting stock available this spring includes: Austrian Pine, Red Pine, White Pine, Blue Spruce, Norway Spruce, White Spruce, Douglas Fir, White Cedar, White Ash, Butternut, Sugar Maple, Red Oak, White Oak, Black Walnut, Imperial Carolina Hybrid Poplar and American Chestnut trees; Silky Dogwood, Honeysuckle and Russian Olive shrubs. A Hardwood Packet containing 20 trees of four different species is also being offered.

Wildlife Packets, an assortment of 20 evergreen and 30 deciduous trees and shrubs; Crownvetch ground cover seed, Wildflower Seed Packets, and Tree Planting Bars, a sturdy tool for planting seedlings, will also be available. Prices are reasonable for all tree and shrub seedlings which are two years old and range in size from 2 to 10 inches tall.

The purpose of the District's tree program is to assist landowners in obtaining planting stock at low cost for reforestation, windbreaks, erosion control and wildlife habitat improvement.

Order forms containing information on trees available, site preference, uses and prices may be obtained by contacting the Soil Conservation District at 6101 Jackson Rd., Ann Arbor 48106; telephone: (313) 761-6721.

Impact of Substance Abuse On Family To Be Focus

During February Brighton Hospital will host two Community Education Programs focusing on the impact of substance abuse on the family.

"Substance Abuse: It's All in the Family," the first session on Tuesday evening, Feb. 5, will focus on how the entire family is affected by the drinking or drug use of a loved one.

Nan Hudler, co-ordinator of the hospital's Family and Friends Program, will lead the discussion, field questions from the audience, and point out some of the treatment and self-help options that are available to family members.

Three helpful booklets will be available at this session: "Alcoholism in the Family," "Cocaine and the Family," and "When Cocaine Affects Someone You Love." The free publications are also available directly from the hospital's Community Relations Department.

On Tuesday evening, Feb. 19, the hospital will host "The Characteristics of Adult Children of Alcoholics," a program of special interest to adults who are in relationships with chemically dependent people or who were raised in chemically dependent homes.

The Feb. 19 session is a joint effort of Livingston Counseling and Assessment Services and the Women's Resource Center.

Both programs begin at 7 p.m. in the hospital's chapel. The meetings are open to the public, and reservations are not needed.

For additional information, contact the Community Relations Department at (313) 227-1211, ext. 276 on weekdays

Chelsea Village Council Proceedings

Regular Meeting.

Tuesday, Dec. 18, 1991

The meeting was called to order at 7:30 p.m. by President Steele.
Present: President Steele, Clerk Anderson, Village Manager Stalker, Assistant Village Manager Kuehn and Administrative Assistant Fredette.
Trustees Present: Kanten, Hall, Hammer, Dorer, Myers, Merkel (7:44 p.m.)

Others Present: Ron Walter, Memarie Walter, Bud Hafner, Cecil Clouse, Michael Wonderly, Joe Yekulis, Drew Lindstrom, Michael Scholtz, Tim Merkel, S. Springer.

Sheridan Springer, on behalf of the Downtown Development Authority asked that a public hearing date of January 15, 1991 be set to consider removal of parking meters and relocation of handicap parking spaces in the downtown district.

Motion by Kanten, supported by Hammer, to set a public hearing date of January 15, 1991 on the aforementioned DDA request. Motion carried.

Motion by Hammer, supported by Hall, to approve the Consent Agenda. Motion carried.

Regular meeting recessed to the Zoning Board of Appeals at 7:35 p.m. Trustee Merkel arrived at 7:44 p.m.

Regular meeting reconvened at 8:08 p.m.

Village Manager Stalker updated Council on the progress of the new Electric and Water garage construction plans. Trustee Merkel stated that he had received numerous complaints and concerns from residents regarding the proposed McKinley Street site and suggested that Council consider building the structure at the Industrial Park. He also suggested that new Administrative offices be incorporated into the new building. The Manager was instructed to investigate the matter and report back at a later date with his findings.

Chief of Police requested that a bid from Mike Savoie Chevrolet of Troy, Michigan be accepted for the sum of $14,967.22 for a 1991 Chevrolet Caprice patrol car. No action was necessary since it was already a budget item and the only bid submitted.

The TRIAD Enrichment Community Problem Solving Team made a presentation to the Village Council on constructing a bike path within the village limits. Masters Kyle Christensen and Adam Morse did an excellent job of explaining how the proposed bike path would be beneficial to the community. They asked the Council for financial support for the project as well as assistance in applying for a grant from the State of Michigan. The group of young people are made up of 10- and 11-year-old fifth graders from North and South elementary schools. No official action was taken at this time.

Motion by Hammer, supported by Myers, to enter into an Agreement with Michael C. Scholtz, Inc., for a period of one year from the date of the contract to market the Industrial Park. Motion carried.

RESOLUTION

BE IT RESOLVED, AND IT IS HEREBY RESOLVED, that the Village Council of the Village of Chelsea does hereby adopt, approve and promulgate Ordinance No. 107 an ORDINANCE REGULATING STREETS, THE USE THEREOF, THE CONSTRUCTION AND MAINTENANCE OF STREETS, WITHIN THE VILLAGE OF CHELSEA, THE APPROVAL OF CONSTRUCTION, AND TO PROVIDE FOR THE ADMINISTRATION, ENFORCEMENT, AGREEMENTS FOR USE, SECURITY FOR CONSTRUCTION, AND FEES TO DEFRAY ADMINISTRATIVE AND ENFORCEMENT COSTS INCIDENT THERETO, and the Clerk of said Village be and is hereby directed to cause the same to be published in the Village of Chelsea, in The Chelsea Standard, or any other paper of general circulation, and otherwise record said instrument within the book of ordinances.

Motion by Myers, supported by Dorer, to adopt the above Resolution. Motion carried. Resolution adopted. (Ordinance No. 107 attached to these minutes as Appendix A)

The current Standard Software Maintenance Agreement with New World Systems is due to expire on January 16, 1991. Considering that the annual maintenance fee in the proposed Agreement nearly doubled, Council took no formal action on the matter, pending obtaining an explanation of the large increase.

There was no action on the request for funds to support "Chelsea's Children, Write On!" for the year 1991.

Motion by Hammer, supported by Myers, to approve the three year Fire Protection contracts with the Townships. Motion carried.

Motion by Hall, supported by Kanten, to approve the following appointments to the Downtown Development Authority Board:

Ann Fenney (1991-1994) to succeed herself
Bob Merkel (1991-1994) to succeed himself
Sam Johnson (1991-1994) to succeed Mike Fouty
Paul Frisinger (1991-1993) to fill the unexpired term of Biff Weber.

Motion carried.
Motion by Dorer, supported by Myers, to authorize the Village Manager to write a letter to Michigan Public Power Agency indicating the Village's willingness to allow MPPA to schedule up to 1000 KW of excess Chelsea off-peak Campbell project energy for use by the City of Bay City in return for fuel costs. Motion carried.

Motion by Myers, supported by Hammer, to recess to Executive Session for the purpose of discussing potential purchase of property. Motion carried. Time 9:10 p.m.

Allen L. Anderson, Clerk.

Soviets May Be More of Threat to Markets Than Iraq

Commodity analysts say it's too soon to assess the impact of the Persian Gulf war, but most expect that a short conflict would not have a severe impact on agricultural markets, according to Michigan Farm Bureau economist Bob Craig. But he warns that farmers should be keeping an eye on political unrest in the Soviet Union. He said there's some suspicion that Soviet President Gorbachev may be using food credits as a weapon against rebellious Soviet republics.

"If in fact food is going to be used as blackmail against those republics or people in certain areas, then Congress and the Bush administration will probably cut off this assistance," Craig said. "And most likely there will not be any extension whatsoever of any additional food aid credits or guarantees."

Amid growing congressional pressure to withdraw what remains of $900 million in credits approved Jan. 8 by President Bush, the Soviets are rushing to complete U.S. grain purchases. Included in that is 500,000 metric tons of wheat purchased this week. Paul Drazek, trade specialist with the American Farm Bureau Federation, said the credits have helped the Soviets buy U.S. grains, but they are not prevented from buying without credits.

"The Soviets are not making things easy," he said. "All Americans deplore the crackdown in the Baltics. However, the bottom line is that the use of agriculture as a weapon serves to hurt U.S. farmers, not the Soviets. The Soviets can turn to other suppliers."

Sen. Jesse Helms (R-N.C.) said he plans to introduce legislation that would suspend the estimated $280 million that remains in the export credit package to the Soviets.

The first federal eight-hour-day law was passed by Congress in 1868, according to "Important Events in American Labor History," a U.S. Labor Department publication. The law applied only to laborers, workmen and mechanics employed by or on behalf of the U.S. government.

JACK RICHMOND of Gregory, center, retired from Federal Screw Works last week after nearly 41 years of service to the company. He began on the steel gang, then operated a machine for 39 years. Jack, and his wife, Doris, plan to take it easy for a while. At the celebration

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor,

We invite the citizens of Chelsea to join us in launching a nation-wide campaign to protest war in the Mideast through a series of night-time vigils utilizing the theme "A Thousand Points of Light for Peace."

Since George Bush campaigned using a similar slogan, it would help both to capture the attention of our leaders and the imagination of the public.

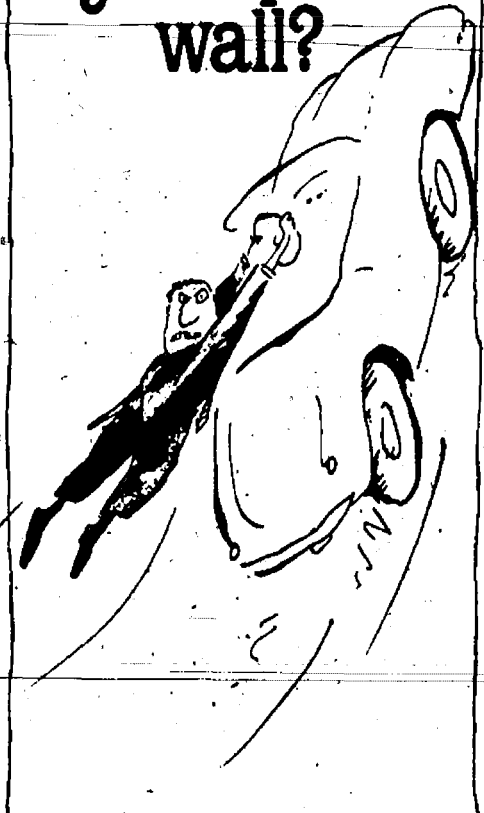

We suggest Americans hold vigils once a week to gather momentum and to give others time to join. Participants would hold candles or other lights, gathering in a visible place. We hold our vigils on the Village Green in front of the Public Library. Some Manchester residents participate by placing a light in the window of a dark room facing the street.

This theme can be incorporated into any protest action already underway or being planned. Across the nation small community groups will show the degree to which grass roots Americans are unified in opposition to the war.

If a group does incorporate this theme into activities, we would appreciate a postcard sent to us.

STUDENTS in Bill Coelius' speech and drama classes at Chelsea High School went to New York City over the holiday break for a whirlwind tour. Among their many stops, the students visited Lincoln Center, the Empire State Building, Radio City Music Hall (backstage), and the Statue of Liberty. They also had a chance to see the plays "The Fantastika" and "Grand Hotel." Former Chelsea High school student Phil Powers, a struggling New York actor, helped with some of the tour. Above, the group takes a breather in Battery Park. Students who made the trip included Rob Coelius, Rob Jaques, Eric Beeman, Brett Salamin, Matt Peckham, Matt Carlson,

Sex Education Courses Questioned

ber of the local clergy on the committee.

"That was a glaring problem for such a moral issue," Riecks said.

Committee member and Beach Middle school principal Darcy Stielstra said Tuesday morning that the current curriculum has been in place for many years, although the materials change periodically.

"Historically we've had problems getting parents to attend the (sex education curriculum committee) meetings," Stielstra said.

"Why parents are upset about this now versus five or 10 years ago, I don't know. I guess the pendulum keeps swinging."

Stielstra said any changes in the curriculum would first have to be considered by the central curriculum committee. He noted that to implement Ziegler's solution it would take either twice the amount of time or twice the number of teachers. He couldn't say whether any changes could be made in time for next school year because it depends entirely on the scope of any changes.

BEN VERMEYLEN of Chelsea had the thrill of locating the name of his grandfather, Charles Vermeylen, stamped in copper at Ellis Island. The names are of children who were born on the island. Ben was the first in his family to see it. He was part of a Chelsea High school contingent that went on a three-day tour of the city recently.

Food Safety Programs Need Continued Funding

A Michigan Farm Bureau legislative counsel hopes that several program areas survive the latest round of state budget cuts. In particular, Ron Nelson wants to save food safety efforts in the Department of Agriculture.

"That's an issue that really affects each and every one of us," he said. "It's not an agricultural issue, it's a people and consumer issue."

Nelson said he's also concerned about preserving agricultural research funding at Michigan State University. "The research effort there is not something you can turn on and off," he said. "There needs to be protection for the dollars going to Michigan State University for those types of activities."

The Engler administration said that over $1 billion needs to be cut from state spending.
