Windstorm Damage Everywhere!

THIS LINCOLN ST. HOME was hit hard by last Wednesday night's storm as the huge tree in the front yard was toppled by high winds and driving rain. The storm, which hit shortly after 8 p.m., knocked over many old trees in the area and left many homes without electrical power overnight and into the next day.

Six large pine trees uprooted or snapped off on Robert Schroen home on Waltrous Rd.

Tree uprooted at corner of East and Orchard Sts.

Violent Wind Storm Roars Through Area, Causing Wide Damage

Wednesday evening, about 8:45, one of the worst wind storms in recent memory blasted its way across southeastern Michigan leaving a path of destruction in its wake.

"Probably the fourth worst storm in our history," a Detroit Edison Co. spokesman stated. Gusts of up to 70 mph were reported.

About 240,000 residential customers were without power in the area served by Detroit Edison and more than 200,000 were reported by Consumers Power Co.

Chelsea Village was less inconvenienced than most, with only individual homes being without power because of downed utility lines.

Rural areas everywhere in the area were reporting power losses from Wednesday evening until Thursday afternoon at the earliest.

Some rural areas were still without power until Saturday. And for anyone who has experienced this, three days and nights without heat, water or cooking facilities, it has proved to be more than a little "inconvenient."

Huge trees were either snapped off or uprooted, roofs were torn apart and scattered and high voltage electric lines proved hazardous for everyone.

Village Public Works Dept. personnel swung into action immediately, as did Washtenaw County Road Commission crews, restoring power as quickly as they could but they were hopelessly outnumbered for quick results by the sheer number of outages.

At the Earl Heller farm on Sager Rd., the roof was blown off a barn and in its flight, clipped the top off a silo some 50 feet away, continued until it landed in a pen housing 200 sheep and young lambs. Being night-time the sheep were all retired to a sheltered area and hence escaped being a part of the disaster.

Highway billboards were shattered and in Dexter a large construction office trailer was overturned at a building site. Dexter schools were closed Thursday because of blocked roads.

Property damage in the areas served by the two major utilities has been estimated to be $50-$60 million.

The violent part of the storm lasted only 15-20 minutes although windy conditions prevailed through the following day. Heavy hail accompanied the storm with snowflakes following.

No serious personal injuries were reported.

DDA Project Planning Reaches Final Stages, Set To Begin in May

Chelsea Downtown Development Authority renovation project is targeted to begin in mid-May.

DDA plans to present final bid documents for the project to village council at council's April 9 meeting, according to DDA chair Mark Heydlauff. Bids would be due back by May 7 and the contract would be awarded May 14. The majority of the street work would be completed by Oct. 1.

Bid documents will cover all streetscape work as well as construction of the parking lot behind businesses on the west side of Main St.

A separate contract will be awarded for moving and relocating the house immediately behind the Chelsea 14th District Courthouse.

Streetscape work will take most of the summer and will probably prove to be an inconvenience for shoppers. Annual Sidewalk Festival will have some disruption, Heydlauff said, and merchants have been warned. However, bid documents specify that only one side of the street will be worked on at a time and shoppers will have access to every store throughout the project. Parking lanes on the side of the street under construction will become temporary sidewalks.

"The attitude should be that the intruder here is the contractor and his employees and equipment, and every caution and courtesy must be extended to others," the documents say.

Heydlauff said the question he is asked most frequently is which part of the project will come first.

"That will really be up to the contractors," Heydlauff said.

Before any of the construction begins, however, new downtown directional and informational signs will be installed by the end of April.

Streetscape work will include the burial of virtually all overhead wires (stoplight wires the one exception), replacement of streetlights with old-style lighting, "bumping out" or widening of corners, complete with brick-colored paver blocks, installation of pedestrian lights at Middle and Park Sts., planting of trees in containers at the corners, removal of parking meters, replacement of sidewalks and curbs, and a reworking of the southwest corner of South St. in front of the library.

Electrical work also includes the removal of what was originally described as a "temporary" electrical pole just north of the Sylvan building.

Pedestrian railings at the corners have been vetoed by the Michigan Department of Transportation as a liability to turning traffic, Heydlauff said.

Once the project is complete, the old-style street lights will run from Pierce Park to Veteran's Park. Initially the lights were only supposed to run as far north as the DDA district but Heydlauff said DDA felt the job would be incomplete by stopping the lights there. The lights will also run down Park St. as far as the Garage Theater.

The project will provide an additional 45 downtown parking spaces. A few street spaces are being eliminated in the streetscape design. Most of the spaces will be created in the new lot. However, three spaces will also be created on Main St. in front of the former Pump 'N Pantry lot, which will provide primary library parking.

Visitors downtown during excavation may well be able to see one or more of the many "vaults" that extend under the sidewalks. Many of the buildings had the extra rooms, called vaults, that were used for a variety of purposes. Some still are used.

Dexter Township Woman Murdered Monday, Suspect Apprehended

Authorities theorize the homicide which occurred in Dexter township shortly after 8 p.m. Monday, April 1, may have been a robbery-turned-sour in a home on Cottonwood Lane.

Detectives explained all possibilities are being fully investigated by the criminal investigations unit of the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department.

Many citizens in the western portion of the county may have seen WBSD Lt. Brenda Sutton during a television appearance on the 11 p.m. Channel 7 newscast, Monday, in which she confirmed there had been a murder in Dexter township.

Detectives credited the alert eye of deputy Gary Severinson, an eight-year WBSD veteran, with initiating an action which resulted in the apprehension of a 24-year-old suspect in the homicide that occurred at the Dexter township location.

Deputy George McAllister and Sgt. Minzy were among the first to arrive on the scene of the homicide.

The Chelsea fire-rescue team was also summoned to assist.

Detective Craig Swenson explained, Tuesday morning, the victim of the fatal stabbing was Sue Ellen Curtis, 54.

When deputies responded, they found the victim had suffered stab wounds, and requested Survival Flight, which arrived within minutes to transport Mrs. Curtis to University of Michigan Hospital, where she was pronounced dead at 9:24 p.m.

An autopsy was conducted at the hospital, Tuesday.

Several items were reportedly missing from the home.

The suspect apparently fled the scene in a 1988 burgundy Cadillac Coupe deVille owned by the occupants of the Dexter township home.

Deputy Severinson spotted the vehicle on eastbound I-94, and radioed for back-up.

Units from both the WBSD and the Michigan State Police arrived, and with Severinson, attempted to stop the vehicle, whose driver tried to outrun the pursuing units, exiting at Rawson-ville Rd., doubling back, and eventually crashing into a home near Patrick and Smith.

The driver departed the vehicle and took off on foot, detectives reported.

His pursuers initiated a successful chase and apprehended the man.

Detective Kennon, who heads the homicide investigation, confirmed Tuesday afternoon the suspect had been arraigned about 2:15 p.m. Tuesday before District Judge Kenneth Bronson in Saline, and charged with five felonies: open murder, armed robbery, breaking and entering, and unlawfully driving away an automobile, in addition to a firearms felony charge.

He is scheduled to appear at the 14th District Court in Chelsea, Wednesday, April 17, at 9:45 a.m.

The suspect was identified as an Ypsilanti township resident, detectives explained.

Investigators said no connection has been established between the victim and the suspect, and that the motive for the crime is uncertain.

School Board Considers Options for Project Financing

Chelsea Board of Education has begun to consider the details of various financing options for the school district's proposed building and renovation plan.

Kemper Capital Markets prepared a study for the board concerning two methods of bond sales for projects ranging from $10 million to $25 million.

"At this point, everything is still pure speculation," said superintendent Joe Piasecki, who met with the board in a special session last Wednesday.

Piasecki said the two methods include the traditional sale of current interest bonds and the sale of a combination of current interest and capital appreciation bonds. In the former method, millage rates tend to start out relatively high and gradually decrease over the 20-year life of the bonds. In the second method, millage rates start out lower but remain relatively constant.

In the traditional method, a $10 million bond sale would translate to 3.05 mills and gradually decrease to 1.21 mills. In the second method, millage would stay constant at 1.9 mills. Those examples, contained in the report, make what Piasecki called "conservative assumptions" about SEV growth in the district, interest rates, and other factors.

Piasecki said the board is also beginning to consider the possibility of completing the project in phases.

The board plans to meet with its architect, Greiner, Inc., next Wednesday, April 10. Piasecki said it could well be a long meeting as it's likely many decisions will be made about the scope of the project and financing. The board wants to have its final plans by May 1.

School Board Petitions Due Monday, April 8

The seat on the Chelsea Board of Education held by Ann Feeney expires this year.

Petitions are available at the school district administrative offices at Chelsea High school.

School offices will be open from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. this week. Monday, April 8, offices will be open 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. filing time.

Wednesday, April 8, 1987—
Susan Overdorf, a 1986 Chelsea High school graduate, was named a recipient of the William J. Branstrom Freshman Prize at the University of Michigan. The award is given annually to students in the top five percent of their class after their first semester.

A radar detector and a stereo equalizing unit were stolen from an automobile parked at BookCrafters Inc. Police said entry was made to the car by prying glass on the passenger side of the car and unlocking the doors.

Two balloons from the Weekly Reader Writing Pals Balloon Contest were found in the Chelsea area. A balloon from Sunbury, O. landed on a farm on Sylvan Rd. Three days later a balloon from Joliet, Ill. was spotted in Chelsea. The first balloon was found in a field on Mrs. Floyd Brand's farm. The balloon was sent by Amy Turcott, a fifth grader at Big Walnut Elementary school. The second balloon was found by Wayne Oliver in his driveway and was sent by Michelle Stocker of Grand Prairie school. It had a picture of a crayon on the outside. Inside was a message, "We have been reading this year in the program called Time to Read. I have read 50 hours so far this year. If you find this please write. Thank you."

"Mr. and Mrs. Leonard are a capable young couple with the energy that is required to continue the business where we leave off, and to direct the expansion which will be required to keep abreast with the progress which is destined to become a part of Chelsea's future. Our best wishes go to them for a happy and prosperous business career in their new endeavor." So went the introduction of Walter P. and Helen May Leonard to the Chelsea community 40 years and one week ago in the March 25, 1947 edition of The Chelsea Standard. It was part of a letter written by Mr. and Mrs. M.W. McClure in their last edition as publishers, positions they had held for 28 years. The Leonards became official publishers of the paper on April 1. The Leonards, with a lot of help from the Chelsea community, celebrated their 40th business anniversary exactly when and where you might expect—on Thursday, the day after publication day, in the office as they were planning the next edition of The Standard.

Chelsea High forensics team members dominated the competition at the District Forensics Tournament. In addition to Chelsea, five other teams were entered in the event, including Saline, Jackson Northwest, Jackson Parkside, Jackson High school and Napoleon. "Chelsea swept the field, taking nine out of 17 possible positions," said Coach William Coelius. "We captured more honors than any other team there."

Mitch Zink, a member of the Chelsea Jaycees for the past eight years, was elected 1977-78 Director of Jaycee District N-2. As the district's new director, Zink will act as overseer and liaison for the exchange of information between the state Jaycee organization and local Jaycee chapters in Ann Arbor, Chelsea, Dexter, Cassidy Lake, Saline and Ypsilanti.

Cecil E. Lauderbaugh returned to his three-story home to find fire had totally consumed the former structure. While property damage remained extensive, no injuries resulted from the blaze. According to the Dexter Fire Department, the fire was first reported by a United Parcel Service delivery man who noticed smoke coming from the house when he attempted to deliver a package. "The house was completely engulfed in flames when we arrived," one Dexter fireman reported. "We had a hard time getting close because the heat was so intense."

Two Chelsea High school seniors, Kim Brown and Dennis Petsch, graduated from Washtenaw Community College.

Democrats Vow To Sanction Universities If Tuition Is Too High
Democrats on the House Appropriations higher education subcommittee, citing belt-tightening in other areas of state government because of a budget crunch, said they will support sanctioning universities which set tuition rates at levels higher than they deem appropriate.

But they said after several years of tuition battles, they hope such measures will be unnecessary because the universities are "getting the message."

While the chair of the subcommittee said tuition increases should be kept below double-digits, several university presidents testified rates would be increased as much as 14.8 percent if they get the 4 percent increase proposed by the governor and cannot make other offsetting internal cuts.

The presidents said they hope to make other adjustments to reduce the possible high tuition increases but noted faculty salary levels are scheduled to increase as much as 7.8 percent.

Subcommittee Chair Morris Hood (D-Detroit) said he hopes presidents were only describing a worse case scenario and said he will recommend language in the budget establishing sanctions for excessive tuitions.

"I as one member of the subcommittee will not be supportive of any institution that raises tuition to any level that we think is unacceptable. I think they're getting the message now," he said.

By Warren M. Hoyt, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

While not specifying the acceptable limit, he said, "I would think unofficially they're going to be less than double digits." And he said the 4 percent increase recommended by the administration for all universities should not be taken for granted, saying "It all depends on how they have fared over the years" what each university's 1992 appropriation will be.

Rep. Thomas Mathieu (D-Grand Rapids), however, said he may advocate an amendment to both the higher education and community college budgets that the rate of tuition and faculty salary increases cannot exceed the increase in state appropriations without a possible reduction in that appropriation.

"I take offense to this proposal for a 7 percent (faculty salary) increase," he said following a presentation by Western Michigan University President Dieter Haenicke.

"What we're dealing with here is a very constricted budget. It is very clear that these appropriations are going to underwrite salary increases."

Haenicke said Western is anticipating a 7.5 percent tuition increase, which takes into account internal reductions of 2 percent, and a 7 percent increase in salaries.

Wayne State University President David Adamany said without any internal cuts, his faculty would have to raise tuition 12.41 percent, a level he said would be unacceptable.

And while Northern Michigan University President James Appleberry said the NMU hike could be as high as 14.8 percent, he does not anticipate one that large but would not estimate a more likely range.

Adamany said WSU would take other steps to keep the likely increase to 6-6.5 percent. "We will prefer to take budget cuts . . . rather than raise tuition at that level," he said.

In order to not have to raise rates, Adamany said, WSU would have to receive an increase of 8.45 percent in its state funding.

On the salary side, WSU is in the second year of a two-year contract which will give faculty a 6 percent pay hike. NMU is in the first year of a contract which will give a 6 percent increase as well.

For the second year of that agreement, Appleberry said, the increase will be 7.5 percent; for the final year, 7.25 percent.

Mathieu further suggested all university and community college presidents should attempt to re-open union negotiations. And facilities should consider a freeze on both salaries and tuition levels, he said. "I'm going to be hard-pressed to support substantial appropriations . . . to increase the living standards (of the faculty)," he said.

But all three presidents told subcommittee members that they are competing in a tight job market and that good college instructors are at a minimum. "They will take the jobs that offer the best economic situation to them," Haenicke said.

"It is a very difficult situation in which to operate," Adamany added, saying in the next several years it is expected the national decrease in college educators will be 40,000 due to attrition and retirement. "Once we fall behind it would be very difficult . . . to catch up."

And Adamany said it would most likely be a "futile exercise" to go back to the negotiation table, adding if the state does decrease appropriations, according to increases in salaries, "the impact would fall not on the employees but more likely the students."

Appleberry said Northern must offer "something extra" to entice educators to come to a remote university in a rural area and he does not know what the response would be if he were to suggest renegotiating faculty contracts.

Rep. Dominic Jacobetti (D-Negaunee), chair of the Appropriations Committee, agreed with Appleberry and said he will fight to bring the salaries of the faculty at Northern Michigan up to the level of those at other universities.

"Let's take every institution and compare the salaries," he said. "It won't be a 7 percent increase, it will probably have to be a 20 percent increase. You seem to forget that we're an isolated little school in the Upper Peninsula."

Judge Dismisses Suit Against Officials' Pay

A suit attempting to erase the special body that determines pay for top elected officials was dismissed in Ingham County Circuit Court.

In a case filed before the Legislature rejected for the first time the pay levels for itself and other officials, Judge Lawrence Glazer ruled that the 1988 constitutional amendment establishing the State Officers Compensation Commission is not in conflict with other constitutional principles.

He said it is an expressed exception, allowed under the constitution, to the general rule of separation of powers between the legislative, executive and judiciary.

East Lansing attorney Zolton Ferency, who brought the suit on behalf of Sen. John Welborn (R-Kalamazoo) and former House Speaker Bob Waldron, said an appeal is possible but no decision has been made.

He had contended the provision providing for automatic implementation of the pay increases unless rejected by two-thirds majority of the Legislature violates other requirements that no money be spent unless it is appropriated.

He said the provision in effect made SOCC a "mini-Legislature" that every two years mandates the expenditure of millions of taxpayer dollars.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

It says here that starting next year, products of New York City high schools will come with 12-month guarantees. Employers will get written warranties that products they hire will perform as advertised or they can turn em back in.

I put this factory offer to recall all parts to the fellers at the country store Saturday night, and it got mixed reviews. Bug Hookum said it only means that the big ad agents that have the beer, car and hamburger accounts have got full control of the American mind. The race don't go to the swift, and the world don't beat a path to the best mousetrap, Bug allowed, the winner is him that can come up with the best marketing gimmick.

Zeke Grubb was halfway agreed with Bug. Zeke said high school graduates checked out by Underwriters Laboratory and complete with Good Housekeeping Seal of Approval is taking us down a brave new road. But he was of a mind that this kind of jolt might be needed to remind schools and students of the jobs they're supposed to be doing as a team.

Practical speaking, Zeke went on, we all need to read the fine print. New York City's marketing idea probable is more of the same. If a employer finds that the new worker can't read, write or do numbers he will complain to the school and it will fall back on what is called remedial work. The good news is that high schools say they'll do it instead of passing it on to colleges like they have done for two generations.

Clem Webster stood foursquare with Zeke on looking close at the fine print. Clem had saw where food prices in the Soviet Union have gone up 60 percent as part of the free market plan to produce more food. The clipping said the Government says wages will go up 60 percent so folks can afford to eat. The fine print, Zeke said, says that if farmers and food factories have to pay their help 60 percent more to grow and process food that sells for 60 percent more, where is the reason to grow and produce more.

The questions change, Clem said, but the answers don't. Recent, he saw where for the first time the United States has sold wheat to the Soviet Union with credit guarantees. In regular words, Clem said, the good news is, we have quit giving the Russians wheat the U.S. Government bought from U.S. farmers at subsidized prices. The bad news is, the U.S. Government has extended its wheat buying subsidy program to include the Soviet Union.

The USDA said private American exporters have sold 500,000 tons of wheat to the Soviet Union for two thirds of the world price. This shakes down to a U.S. Government subsidy of $1.08 per bushel, Clem said, and it means still another way we're trying to prop up Soviet agriculture while sinking our Government deeper in debt.

Actual, there's no limit to ways we justify our means. I read where girls now get paid not to get pregnant. Some county welfares are paying single girls $1 a day not to have more. The welfare people say the money is the means to a bigger end. To get it, girls have to come in ever week, talk to nurses and other teenage mothers and get encouraged to stay in school and look after themselves.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Replacing Platitudes With New Attitudes Helps With Menopause.

Menopause creeps up on women. Even some of the best-known symptoms can be misunderstood. But if you know what to expect, and keep a close watch on your health, the post-childbearing years can be especially gratifying.

At its next Health Night Out, the University of Michigan Medical Center presents "Menopause and Beyond: A Healthy Outlook on Aging." Conducting the program and slide presentation will be Karen Bartsch, M.D., M.P.H., assistant professor of obstetrics and gynecology and director of the Clinic for Older Women.

The Health Night Out will be held from 7:30-9:30 p.m. Tuesday, April 9 in the Kellogg Eye Center auditorium on the Medical Center campus. Ample free parking is available, and refreshments will be served.

Growing older isn't what it used to be. And aren't you glad.

Grass Fires Big Problem For Firemen

Chelsea Fire Department has spent many hours battling grass fires in the area over the last few weeks.

On March 21 alone, the department was dispatched to fires on Chestnut Ln., Bush Rd., Seymour Rd., Sylvan Rd., and Conway Rd. Firefighter hours totaled 67.

The fire department reminds residents that most grass fires are caused by careless burning of trash or brush. Dead grass from the previous year is tinder-dry and can be ignited with the smallest spark. And a grass fire can quickly spread to engulf trees, outbuildings, or homes.

The law requires that burn barrels have a screen cover with holes no larger than 1/4 inch. Only yard debris, brush, and household trash can be burned.

Open burning is illegal without a burning permit whenever the ground is not snow-covered. Permits are free and may be obtained by calling 475-9122.

Brush fires must be attended at all times and attendants are urged to have a garden hose or shovel with them at all times.

Grass fires are most likely to occur on windy days.

Even though the ground may be damp, the grass is not and can easily burn out of control.

Extinguish all outdoor fires properly. Drown fires with plenty of water, then stir. Continue adding water until everything is cold to the touch. Do not throw live charcoal on the ground.

Never throw a match or cigarette from a car, use an ashtray instead.

Abandoned Property Found in Area Woods

A Chelsea area citizen brought articles he found in a field, Wednesday, March 27, approximately 100 yards into the woods, near the intersection of Lingane and Waterloo Rds. in Lyndon township to Chelsea Police Department headquarters.

The articles were later turned over to Cpl. Tom Spiess of the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department.

The finder told Chelsea officers he discovered the items in a field.

Later listed to include a man's silver-colored Timex watch, three rock-n-roll tapes, 18 rounds of 22-cal. ammunition, and seven packages of firecrackers, the items also contained assorted United States coins, totaling $29.45.

Officers indicated the items may have been taken in one or more local break-ins, and advise anyone who's recently missing some or all of the above to contact either the Chelsea Police Department or the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department.

A heart-shaped necklace, valued at $30, was taken by a suspect who entered a home in Manchester village, entering by a rear door.

The incident was reported to deputy Charles Cornell at 11:18 a.m. Wednesday, March 27.

Construction Trailers Canvassed
Three construction trailers were evidently canvassed, then entered, at a Scio township site on Jackson Rd., sometime between 4:30 p.m. Friday, March 22, and 8 a.m. Monday, March 25.

Cpl. Dave Miley and deputy Trester were assigned to investigate the report, received at 1:06 p.m., after the foreman at the construction site had had a chance to check the inventory to confirm exactly which items were missing.

Approximately $80 in scrap wire, located outside the trailers, was taken, along with a partial spool of uninsulated, grounding wire, valued at $200.

An additional $15 damage to Master padlocks was listed, after they were cut by bolt cutters.

Investigation into the incident continues.

Any assistance which citizens are able to provide will be greatly appreciated.

A 1,700-pound spool of wire was moved, inside one of the three trailers, and officers feel the suspects planned to return to retrieve that spool.

In their haste to depart the scene, the suspects dumped a load of trash which included a toolbox and some power tools, apparently from the truck into which they loaded the spool of grounding wire.

The first wage payment law was passed in 1879 in Massachusetts, according to "Labor Firsts in America," a U.S. Labor Department publication. The law required that "cities shall, at intervals not exceeding seven days, pay all laborers who are employed by them... if such payment is demanded."

A group of men from the Dexter-Chelsea area spent a good part of the winter hunting down 70 foxes. They hunted with hounds, but no horses, primarily in the woods and fields southeast of Chelsea. Those hunters were Art Barth, Guy Freysinger, Ted Ewald, Dan Ewald, Reuben Lesser, Ted Nixon, Ken Haisst, Reuben Lesser, Jr., Ron Eberts, Grover Colby, James Shadoan and Ted Cheever.

A truck tractor valued at $16,000 was stolen from the used car lot of Triangle Auto Sales. The vehicle was recovered the same evening in Sharon township. The diesel truck was apparently driven out of the lot about 3 a.m. When found the vehicle had been wrecked against a tree, although damage was not extensive.

Several members of the Busy Bluebellies 4-H club posed beside a "tree" flowering with spring blooms after they entertained mothers of club members at a Mother's Tea in the high school cafeteria. All of the clothes modeled were made by the girls and would be shown at the District Dress Revue.

Dr. Clare Warren, president of the Chelsea School District Board of Education, said that he would not be a candidate for re-election. Warren served one four-year term on the board.

A delivery truck owned by Kuster's Food Market was stolen from the parking lot behind the store and was found one day later abandoned and out of gas in a lane off McClure road, near Mill Lake. It's headlights, windshield and all window glass had been deliberately smashed.

John Hepburn, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Hepburn, suffered a skull fracture when he ran into the path of a car as he was on his way to Sunday school at the Congregational church. The boy had just gotten out of the family car and started across the street when the accident occurred. He was taken by ambulance to University hospital, Ann Arbor.

A check for $95,078.78 sent to the Detroit Bank and Trust Company of Detroit, retired all the outstanding bonded indebtedness on the South Elementary school. The total bond issue was retired in a period of six years, effecting a savings in interest payments amounting to $17,000.

Inexperienced Driver Cited in Fatal Crash

Sergeant Harley Rider, director of the traffic services unit for the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department, explained Monday morning, April 1, that inexperience often plays a major factor when a driver is faced with a sudden change in the road, or how differently a vehicle handles when its carrying five, rather than two, occupants.

Sgt. Rider explained, "We'd really like to stress, not only to our newest drivers, but also to their parents and other mature motorists, that a change in conditions provides a major challenge for the person behind the wheel."

Rider and his staff conducted an extensive check on conditions at the scene of a fatal crash, reported at 8:10 p.m. Thursday, March 28, on Napier Rd., north of Warren Rd., in Superior township.

Napier Rd. is the border road between Wayne and Washtenaw counties.

Deputy Gerald Haensler was the official investigator at the crash scene, from which two young people were transported by helicopter, Canton township resident Christopher Demey, taken to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Ann Arbor, in serious condition, and 17-year-old Raymond Carlson of Plymouth, reported in critical condition, to University of Michigan Hospital, Ann Arbor.

Two victims suffered fatal injuries in the crash, Ray Carlson's sister Tamara, 18, and Michael Fullerton, both of Plymouth.

In his report, deputy Haensler explained Walter Guenther, III, of Canton, was the driver of the vehicle, a 1984 Mercury Cougar.

Traveling north on Napier Rd., the Guenther automobile properly moved to the right of the roadway as it crested a hill, before the driver apparently lost control, after which the vehicle went off the left side of Napier Rd. and struck a large tree, broadside.

Only the driver and Raymond Carlson, the passenger seated in the right front, had their safety belts properly engaged.

The crash was definitely NOT related to alcohol, nor to other drugs.

"We even drove that stretch of road, ourselves, before confirming the road was properly signed and graded," Sgt. Rider explained.

Investigators suggest the cause of the crash could be traced to the inexperience of the driver in the situation he faced.

Sgt. Rider emphasized that had the passengers seated in both the left and center rear of the auto been properly secured by seat belts, their injuries

DeWitt Company Gets Village Sludge Contract

EnviroLand, Inc. of DeWitt has been awarded a two-year sludge-hauling contract by the village.

The company's bid of 2.15 cents per gallon of land-applied sludge was not the lowest bid. However, the company with the lowest bid did not submit the required alternate bid for sludge that might be required to go in a landfill.

The company will charge the village 39.4 cents per gallon for sludge that goes to a landfill. That would only happen if the sludge is contaminated.

Last year the village wastewater treatment plant generated 1,107,600 gallons of sludge. At that rate the annual value of the new contract would be $23,813, according to a report by acting village manager Deborah Kuehn.

EnviroLand also told council it would not increase its charge for disposing of wastewater from the village landfill lagoons.

"A human being feels able and competent only so long as he is permitted to contribute as much as or more than has been contributed by him."

—L. Ron Hubbard.

The Bible tells us that it is more blessed to give than receive. Hubbard furthers this thought by adding that it is by this concept that humans gain a feeling of ability and competence. We are all given ample opportunities to contribute our time, talent and money throughout our lifetimes.

Should anyone complain about the inequity of contributing more than he receives, consider the alternative... being required to live on the contributions of others.

Breakfast Club Hears Chelsea Retirement Community Staff

Grace M. McCalla, co-ordinator of Church and Community Relations and V. Gregory Hughes, administrator of the Chelsea Retirement Community, updated their audience on the Community's progress during breakfast on March 20, at Chelsea Community Hospital.

Hughes stated, "We have come a long way from our 1905 incorporation date when Frank Glazier donated land and $10,000 here in Chelsea. Our first building went up for $27,500 in 1907 when we charged only $150 per year and 25 cents per meal for residents."

Completion of the community's new Dancy House in August 1991, will finalize the third phase expansion, costing $12 million. It will house 76 new apartments with 110 new residents, bringing the total in the Chelsea facility to almost 400 on the 26-acre campus.

In addition, the Boulevard Temple facility, which was bequeathed to the corporation in 1967, operates a 120-bed facility on five floors in Detroit. The corporation has an annual budget of $10 million. Forty-five percent of residents take advantage of the corporations charitable care benefits.

"Many have the misconception that you must be Methodist to be a part of the community," said McCalla, "but that is not the case. Only 50 percent of the new residents are Methodists and 65 percent come from Washtenaw county. Another misconception is that residents come here to die, which couldn't be further from the truth. Through our programs we slow the aging process by reducing stress, improving nutrition and intellectual and social stimulation. Our rehab programs include speech, hearing, occupational and physical therapies. These programs have been proven to add between three to six years to a retiree's life."

Hughes indicated that with a progressive attitude toward care, residents feel they have more control over their own lives and thus have the greater desire to live. Activities and programs which offer residents many opportunities for social interaction involve up to 110 local volunteers.

The Chelsea Retirement Community is close to obtaining accreditation from the American Retirement Association and EAGLE, an accreditation offered by the Methodist Church. Programming is to be expanded by establishing a seniors day care program and specialized rehab program as outreach to the local community. In the future, additional independent resident housing will be considered.

"We want to express our sincere appreciation to the community for all of its support over the years," said McCalla.

The program was hosted by the Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce and Society Bank.

Mark Bailly of Society Bank reminded the audience of next month's Saturday program to be held on April 20. Chelsea's own William Rosenberg, who is involved in Washington, D.C., at the national level, will speak, regarding the Clean Air Act.

ORV Licensing Must Be Done Through DNR

Beginning April 1, off-road vehicles (ORVs) will be licensed through the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and must display ORV decals to operate in Michigan.

The license decals must be purchased annually from the DNR for a 12-month period, beginning April 1 and ending March 31 of the following year. Only owners of unexpired ORV registrations previously obtained through the Department of State for a three-year period do not need to renew licenses April 1.

A new ORV law transferred the ORV licensing process to the DNR from the Department of State of Michigan last year. Titling of ORVs will continue to be handled through Secretary of State offices, beginning April 1.

Cost of the new ORV license decals is $7 this year to both residents and non-residents. They are available at ORV dealerships, the DNR regional and district offices, at the DNR License Control Section office (517-335-3272) and the DNR Information Services Center (517-373-1220) in Lansing. They are available by mail by contacting the DNR License Control—ORV, Box 30181, Lansing 48909.

DNR regional and district offices can provide a list of ORV dealers where the licenses may be purchased. Their office hours are Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

HURON VALLEY FRIENDS OF WILDLIFE will be beneficiaries of a fund-raiser at the Michigan Theatre Saturday, April 6. Walter Crawford, a professional bird rehabilitator from the St. Louis area, will present the program featuring his live birds which will fly loose in the theatre. Among his birds are a golden eagle, a great horned owl, red-tailed hawk, peregrine falcon, Harris hawk, screech owl and barn owl. Crawford's golden eagle is the same one that appeared with Lee Iacocca in Chrysler TV commercials. Crawford will present a children's program at 1 p.m. and a general program at 8 p.m. Tickets are available at Huron Pet Supply in Ann Arbor, the Humane Society of Huron Valley, or at the Michigan Theatre box office. According to Mrs. Patricia DeLong of Scio township, a long-time supporter of the Huron Valley Friends of Wildlife, they have cared for nearly 800 mammals and at least that many birds between April and September last year.

The abilities to taste sweet foods and hear high-pitched sounds diminish with age.

Manchester Students Win U-M German Competition

The student contingent from Manchester High won first prize in the "Musik" competition for juniors and seniors with their version of "Gebt Frieden eine Chance (Give Peace a Chance)" on German Day at the University of Michigan campus, last week.

More than 800 junior and senior high school students from 18 schools around the state joined in a chorus of the song.

Students from Dexter and Manchester High schools participated in the annual competitions, which included poetry recitation, sight reading from German texts, original skits, extemporaneous speaking, and enactments of television commercials, in addition to the music competition.

U. of M. lecturer in German, Janet K. VanValkenberg, explained, "German Day is one way the University of Michigan can support elementary language instruction in Michigan schools. It also helps the university recruit students. A lot of teachers bring large groups, and they have a look at the campus while they're here."

One of the high school teachers added, "The program is a real booster for students' self confidence. It makes them more aware of the University of Michigan."

Crashes Reported By Sheriff's Dept.

Deputies reported several crashes in the western portion of Washtenaw county within the past couple of weeks.

A citizen informed deputies that two men and a woman walked from the scene of a truck-tree crash about 4:50 p.m. Thursday, March 28, on Fahrner Rd., north of Old US-12.

Cpl. Marshall and deputy Pickett were dispatched to investigate the incident.

The vehicle, a 1978 GMC pick-up was traveling east on Fahrner Rd., and apparently approached a sharp curve at a high rate of speed.

The crash report explained the driver subsequently lost control of the truck, following which the vehicle exited the roadway and struck a tree.

Apparently, the truck occupants removed the vehicle's license plate before departing the crash scene.

According to the report, the vehicle was removed to Smith's Service, and Kendrick Vernon-Blair Lussenden of Ann Arbor was later cited for excessive speed, and failing to use due care and caution.

Young Motorist Cited

Beth Ann Moser of Pinckney was cited for failure to yield the right of way to a second motorist, William Edward Muncy of Dexter, about 1:10 p.m. Tuesday, March 26, after she attempted a left turn onto Dan Hoey Rd., but apparently turned in front of, and struck, the Muncy vehicle.

She was driving west on Dexter-Ann Arbor Rd., while Muncy was headed east.

Cpl. Dave Miley and deputy Trester investigated the incident.

Ms. Mosher, 14, had never acquired a driver's license, according to the report.

Two-Car Crash, M-52

Cpl. Marshall and deputy Pickett were summoned to M-52, southeast of North Territorial Rd. to a crash reported at 5:40 p.m. Thursday, March 28.

According to the crash report, Linda Sue Drake of Stockbridge and Grass Lake motorist Betty Lou Craft were both traveling north on M-52 when Ms. Drake made a sudden, unannounced right turn onto Territorial Rd. and the other motorist was unable to avoid a collision.

Ms. Drake was cited for an improper turn (no signal), the report indicated.

Car-Deer Crash

Car-deer crashes continue to occur in rural western Washtenaw county, as well as elsewhere in Michigan.

Jerry D. Kotts, Clinton motorist, was headed south on Schneider Rd., north of Koebbe, at 7:30 p.m. Friday, March 29.

A deer ran suddenly out in front of her vehicle, and she was unable to avoid striking the animal, Cpl. J. J. Marshall and deputy George McAllister explained in their report of the incident.

Crash at M-14, I-94

A two-car crash was reported at 8:44 a.m., Monday, March 25, which Cpl. Miley and deputy Trester were assigned to investigate.

Their report indicated that Kenneth E. Goetsch of Merrill was traveling west on M-14, merging onto Interstate-94, and Jackson motorist David Porter Cooper was in the right-hand lane, headed west.

As Goetsch merged into the right-hand lane of I-94, his vehicle collided with the Cooper auto.

Two-Car Crash, Jackson Rd.

Cpl. Tom Spiess was sent to investigate a two-car crash reported at 12:26 p.m. Thursday, March 28, on Jackson Rd., west of Dancer Rd.

In his report, Spiess explained two motorists, Perry Michael Stein and Thomas Aaron Zilke, were traveling west on Jackson Rd.

Zilke was making a left turn to a private driveway, and Stein, who was in the process of passing the Zilke auto, struck it in the left rear.

Cpl. Spiess said it appeared both drivers failed to use due care and caution.

The first written expression on general strike theory was by William Benbow in 1834, according to "Labor Firsts in America," a U.S. Labor Department publication. Benbow, a Socialist, wrote "Grand National Holiday and Congress of the Productive Classes."

THE KRUGERS ARE RETURNING to present their story of the Grand River Expedition, 1990, complete with an exciting slide show. Their appearance is sponsored by St. Barnabas church, Chelsea, and the program will begin at 7 p.m. Saturday, April 6, at Chelsea High. Bring the whole family to see and hear the adventures of Verlen and Valerie Kruger, who travel in their hand-crafted canoes.

Krugers Returning to Chelsea

The Rev. Jerrold Beaumont of St. Barnabas church, Chelsea, announced the return of the Krugers to Chelsea.

Verlen and Valerie Kruger, renowned explorers, will present their exploration of Michigan's Grand River, along with other canoe expeditions, at Chelsea High school, Saturday, April 6.

Doris Case, chairperson for the event, explained this week, "We've had so much interest from last year's program, we decided to arrange for another Kruger presentation. Their adventure program appeals to young and old, is not only very educational, but is also a lot of fun."

The Krugers are listed in "The Guinness Book of World Records," and have appeared on the "Today Show," ESPN, CNN, ABC, CBS and NBC affiliate stations, both during newscasts and in feature broadcasts.

They have received coverage in periodicals such as "Canoe," "Sea Kayak" and "River Runner."

Verlen Kruger is an explorer, author, photographer, boat designer and builder, who has paddled and portaged more than 80,000 miles, a distance greater than any other canoe voyager in history.

His canoeing career began when he was 40 years old.

Currently, Verlen is 68 years young. He continues to believe "the best is yet to come."

Valerie Fons Kruger is an author, speaker, photographer and long-distance canoe explorer and racing participant, who has paddled and portaged more than 30,000 miles in North and South America.

With Verlen, she holds the world record, listed in "The Guinness Book of World Records" for racing the Mississippi River in the record time of 23 days, 10 hours and 20 minutes.

Currently, Valerie's photo exhibit, "Faces of Strength," is being shown at the Michigan Women's Historical Museum and Hall of Fame.

She believes sharing is the blessing of her adventures.

During 1989, both the Krugers completed the 21,000-mile Two-Continent Canoe Expedition from the Arctic Ocean to Cape Horn.

The following year, the Krugers successfully initiated, organized and led "Grand River Expedition, 1990," a structured river study and journey of discovery on Michigan's longest river.

The Krugers are planning a cultural exchange and scientific expedition to Lake Baikal in Russia, and remain involved in writing books and magazine articles.

The Krugers will share the story of their adventures and motivational topics at the Chelsea High Auditorium, at 7 p.m. Saturday, April 6.

Tickets are available at Heydlauff's and Chelsea Pharmacy, or at the door.

Advance ticket purchase is recommended, as this show has proved extremely popular in past years.

"These trees were selected to provide shade and beauty, and a variety of forms, leaf shapes, and fall colors," John Rosenow, the Foundation's executive director, said.

The trees will be shipped postpaid at the right time for planting in April or May with enclosed planting instructions. The six- to 12-inch trees are guaranteed to grow or they will be replaced free of charge.

To become a member of the Foundation and to receive the free trees, send a $10 membership contribution to Shade Trees, National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Ave., Nebraska City, Neb. 68410, by April 30.

New Gym Wouldn't Come Cheap But Would Be Heavily Used

Chelsea School District has yet to decide whether to include a new $900,000 auxiliary gym and other athletic facilities on a bond issue it will try to seek voter approval for this fall.

However, there is little doubt a new gym would be heavily used by more than one segment of the community.

During the winter sports season, it's often like a human traffic jam inside Chelsea High school after school lets out. While the volleyball teams practice on the gym floor, wrestlers sprint up and down the hallways around the fish bowl. In gathering areas in between, cheerleaders work on their moves. And workers in the community education office strain to hear telephone conversations over the rumbling outside their doors.

After volleyball finishes up, junior varsity basketball hits the floor.

Meanwhile, at Beach Middle school, the seventh and eighth grade volleyball teams get their practices in, and they're followed by the freshman basketball team.

And at all schools, practices have to be juggled around depending on which teams might have home games that night.

To keep away from all the confusion, varsity basketball coach Robin Raymond schedules practices for 6 a.m.

"A new gym would get the athletes and coaches home for the dinner hour because there would be no need to practice after 7 p.m.," said athletic director Wayne Welton.

When Welton's baseball team starts pre-season drills, he also practices at 6 a.m., partly to avoid competing with softball teams for gym time after school.

From 2:30 to 8:30 p.m. the gyms are booked solid for school activities. That means any outside organizations or informal groups are going to have a tough time finding an open gym at a reasonable hour. Still, the gyms can often be found in use until after 10 p.m.

According to statistics supplied by the community education office, since August the gyms at all four schools, including North and South Elementary schools, have been used 6,231 hours. That number includes 2,500 hours of practices and games, which means they've also been used 3,731 hours for activities other than school sports.

A new gym would also come with improved locker facilities and an easier-to-manage central lobby. In addition, it would have a new floor. The high school floor has never been replaced, although it is refinished fairly regularly. And a more minor point, the gym would be the right length. The current gym is 10 feet short of the new standard.

Chelsea's current situation, however, is not all that different from most schools around the Southeastern Conference. Its facilities are comparable to Lincoln, Milan, and Dexter, better than Tecumseh (now the largest class B school in the state), but pale next to Saline's field house and Pinckney's recently-built facility. Pinckney is class A and Saline is the third largest school in the league. Chelsea's enrollment, on the other hand, is larger only than Dexter's.

One problem with building a gym is it creates a kind of athletic domino effect. If a new gym is built next to the current one, it would require the relocation of, at least, the varsity softball field, and perhaps the high school tennis courts and even the baseball field. Welton likes the idea of turning the tennis courts into a parking lot and building new courts, partly because of their deteriorating condition. There's really no place to put any of those facilities except on unimproved ground, such as the cornfield behind the baseball diamond. Welton has talked for years about the construction of a new baseball field, which he characterizes as an infield "that we turn into a baseball field every year." It is, incidentally, the only true baseball field in town, although there are no fields dedicated exclusively for baseball. Suddenly the project becomes much more expensive than a $900,000 gym.

If the school board decides to seek a new gym and related facilities, undoubtedly many voters will see it as an unnecessary and expensive luxury. Certainly Chelsea sports programs won't collapse without it.

Nevertheless, it will make life easier on athletes, their parents and coaches, and will provide a modern facility for the community-at-large to use.

The first use of federal troops during a strike was in 1834 when President Andrew Jackson dispatched troops to end a violent labor disturbance among Chesapeake and Ohio Canal workers, according to "Labor Firsts in America," a U.S. Labor Department publication.

Let's Go Bulldogs!

Girls Track Team Looks Strong in Several Areas

A young Chelsea Bulldogs girls track team features four seniors, five juniors, and 16 returning letterwinners among its 32 members.

Among the top returnees are co-captains Jeanene Rossi and Leisa Schiller. Rossi is a three-year letterwinner who placed fourth in the state in the high jump last year. She also runs in the sprints. Schiller is an All-Southeastern Conference performer in the long jump, runs the 200 and 400, and is a key on the relay teams.

Senior Deanna Richardson also returns, in the long jump and longer sprints and relays.

The fourth senior is Christine Mignano, a sprinter and relay runner and another three-year letterwinner.

Senior foreign exchange student Dena Herrera, from Spain, is involved in her first athletic endeavor and is working out in the shot put and discus.

Three returning juniors are hurdlers Charity Allen and Becky Erskine and distance runner Lauren Sparaco.

Allen was a state qualifier last year and is a key member of the relay teams.

New to the team this season are juniors Leah Hadley and Amanda Nimke. Hadley is a sprinter who should have immediate impact and Nimke should be able to help in several areas, according to coach Bill Bainton. Nimke is working in the throwing events, the long jump, and the hurdles.

Lisa Monti, an all-state distance runner, heads a strong group of sophomores. Val Bullock, Sarah Brosnan, Tracey Wales, and Beth Williams each played an important part in the Bulldogs' success last season. They are joined by Richelle Jones, a sprinter last year, and Marie Kramer and Linda Schaffer, in their first seasons.

Sophomores Jessica Holton and Brooke Pitts lettered last year and primarily run the 400. Monica Hansen, bothered early this spring by a hamstring pull, is one of the best young hurdlers in the league. Laura Paton, a letterwinning sprinter, should make a major contribution in the 200, 400, and relays, Bainton said.

Wendy Bristle is the top returning thrower and will be joined in the shot put and discus by newcomer Sarah Tracy. Tracy may also run in the sprint or mid-distance races.

Freshman Theresa Royce is an outstanding sprinter and long jumper and will help to make those areas one of Chelsea strengths this spring, Bainton said.

Gretchen Erskine and Renae Skelly are other freshman sprinters. Joanna Richison and Erin Schiller are high jumpers, both of whom, Bainton said, have shown natural jumping ability. They are also working as sprinters.

Beth Bell, Sarah Henry, and Emily Anderson are distance runners who could be important in the middle distance races and the 3200 relay.

The best freshman thrower is Mara Smith.

Bainton and assistant coach Bert Kruse are optimistic but guarded about the team's chances this season.

"We could be a pretty good team with the main strengths looking like the sprints, distances, and long jumps," Bainton said.

"We hope to be one of the top teams in the league."

Season's First Ace Recorded on Hudson Mills Golf Course

Ryan Fisher of Chelsea scored a hole-in-one Saturday, March 30 at Hudson Mills Metropark Golf Course. Ryan, who is 13 years old, shot his first hole-in-one on No. 8, a 127-yard, par 3 hole. The event was witnessed by his father.

This is the first hole-in-one recorded for the young 1991 season. Three aces were scored on the course last season.

LAURA UNTERBRINK of Chelsea is pitching for Bowling Green State University this spring. The sophomore has pitched in three games and has an 0-1 record and a 4.20 earned run average. She recently lost to Notre Dame as the Fighting Irish scored all four of their runs in the sixth inning without the benefit of a hit. She has not had an appearance at the plate.

Field Sanitation Law Exempts Small Farmers

Legislation that includes the suspension of Michigan's controversial field sanitation law has passed the Legislature and is awaiting the governor's signature, announced sponsor state Rep. Margaret O'Connor, R-Lodi township.

O'Connor's provision to the state health and safety legislation will reduce excessive field sanitation standards for Michigan's small family farms. The Senate restored her amendment to the legislation after it was narrowly defeated in the House.

"Michigan farmers have been unjustly saddled with state field sanitation laws that far exceed federal requirements," O'Connor said. "Unlike federal provisions, they do not exempt small family operations that employ only a few seasonal workers. These stringent standards are costly and unnecessary when seasonal workers usually are neighbors who use the farm's personal bathroom facilities."

O'Connor said the law is appropriate for large farms that require migrant workers.

"Big agricultural operations need well-defined sanitation guidelines, but Michigan's small farmers are protected by federal regulations," the lawmaker said. "I'm pleased these restrictions now will be lifted from an industry that already is over-regulated and economically hard-pressed."

Metro College Fair Slated April 21 at Pontiac Silverdome

The transition from high school to college is both an exciting and a challenging time for students and parents. With so many questions to be asked, and with so many colleges and universities from which to choose, very often the problem is knowing where to begin the process.

The place to get started is Metro Detroit College Fair, to be held at the Pontiac Silverdome, on Sunday, April 21 from noon to 5 p.m. and Monday, April 22, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Sponsored by the National Association of College Admission Counselors (NACAC), the Metro Detroit College Fair will feature more than 140 colleges, universities, and other educational services. Students and parents will be able to talk directly with admissions representatives, pick up catalogs and other helpful literature, and find answers to their questions. Admission to the Fair is free.

At the National College Fair, special learning sessions for students and parents will explain college selection, application procedures, admission deadlines, and financial aid options. One-to-one counseling will be available for students and parents, to provide assistance, and answer any specific questions about the college selection process.

Representatives from the College Board (SAT) and the American College Testing (ACT) program will provide information about standardized testing and how to register for college entrance examinations.

WISD Seeks 1.5 Mills for Employment Preparation

The Washtenaw Intermediate School District (WISD) Board of Education will ask Washtenaw county voters to approve 1.5 mills on June 10, to support a county-wide education for employment program.

The board made the decision at its regular meeting on March 26 after studying a report presented by the Washtenaw Education for Employment Task Force on March 12. "We will use the recommendations in the report as the basis for our request to the voters," noted board president Anne Comeau. "It is a well-formulated document that recommends critical changes in Washtenaw county's educational system. Without the funds to implement these changes, we will be sentencing Washtenaw county's workforce to a future of low skills and low wages."

The report, written by nearly 70 local representatives from business, labor, government and education, calls for the millage to be used in conjunction with the current revenues for all school districts to implement more than 50 changes in the way Washtenaw county schools prepare students for their future employment. Changes include:

- instituting school-to-work connection programs (e.g. internships, co-op placements and mentorships) for all students,
- instituting technology education programs in all middle schools, providing applied academics courses, which teach math and science using real life situations found in business and industry, for all high school students, and
- providing education and career plans for all students.

Since the report was presented on March 12, several business and community leaders have volunteered to form a Friends of Washtenaw Education for Employment Committee to develop an information campaign for the June 10 election. Philip H. Power, chairman of Suburban Communications Corp. and former chair of the Michigan Job Training Co-ordinating Council, has volunteered to be the group's honorary chair.

Recently Power told the authors of the Washtenaw Education for Employment Task Force Report, "... if we don't seize this opportunity in this country and do it now... and unless we fundamentally change the way we think about investing in human capacity, we are sunk in international economic competition."

"We are encouraged by the level interest in this effort," noted WISD Superintendent Michael Enlwa. "A coalition of business, government, education and labor leaders worked together to change and now a similar coalition is stepping forward to implement them."

In addition to Power, others who have volunteered to provide leadership for the Friends of Washtenaw Education for Employment include: Mary Boonius, vice-president of Arbor Technologies, Inc., Ann Arbor; Bill Davis, president of Arbor Springs Water Co., Ann Arbor; Chet Henry a special education teacher from Saline and president of the Washtenaw-Livingston Education Association; Fred Herbert, senior vice-president of Society Bank in Ann Arbor; Ira Kerns, sales manager of Precision Devices, Inc., in Milan; Raymond Mullins, an Ypsilanti attorney; Richard N. Sarns, president of the SI Company, Ann Arbor; and David Schaar, United Auto Workers training liaison for the Ford Rawsonville Plant.

Metro College Fair Slated April 21 at Pontiac Silverdome

The transition from high school to college is both an exciting and a challenging time for students and parents. With so many questions to be asked, and with so many colleges and universities from which to choose, very often the problem is knowing where to begin the process.

The place to get started is Metro Detroit College Fair, to be held at the Pontiac Silverdome, on Sunday, April 21 from noon to 5 p.m. and Monday, April 22, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Sponsored by the National Association of College Admission Counselors (NACAC), the Metro Detroit College Fair will feature more than 140 colleges, universities, and other educational services. Students and parents will be able to talk directly with admissions representatives, pick up catalogs and other helpful literature, and find answers to their questions. Admission to the Fair is free.

At the National College Fair, special learning sessions for students and parents will explain college selection, application procedures, admission deadlines, and financial aid options. One-to-one counseling will be available for students and parents, to provide assistance, and answer any specific questions about the college selection process.

Representatives from the College Board (SAT) and the American College Testing (ACT) program will provide information about standardized testing and how to register for college entrance examinations.

The first national general strike and the first designated "May Day" strike occurred in 1886 when approximately 340,000 workers demonstrated for an eight-hour day in several cities, according to "Labor Firsts in America," a U.S. Labor Department publication.

★ April Is Month for Heartworm Testing ...

If you own a dog in the lower peninsula of Michigan, then now is the time to make an appointment with your veterinarian for your pet's annual heartworm test. Our region has a very high incidence of heartworm disease in dogs, according to Dr. Tjaart Schillhorn, DVM, parasitologist at Michigan State University's veterinary school. Their annual survey of dogs from the Lansing area regularly finds 20 to 25 percent infected with heartworms, although the number can vary widely by specific location in the state. Luckily, yearly testing and preventive medication can keep your pet safe from this terrible disease.

Heartworm has been gradually spreading northwards from the southern states for several years. The disease is spread by mosquitoes, which carry an immature form of heartworms called microfilaria. When an infected mosquito bites a dog, the microfilaria are injected into the animal's bloodstream. After about six months, they mature into 10- to 12-inch white threadlike worms.

Heartworms live in the pulmonary arteries and the right side of a dog's heart, where they interfere with the normal blood flow, causing the heart to enlarge and eventually fail. The first signs of the illness include shortness of breath, chronic coughing, and exercise intolerance. Unfortunately, a dog can have heartworm disease but show no symptoms for up to three years. Once detected, treatment by a veterinarian can save the animal's life if the disease has not progressed too far.

Today we are fortunate to have preventive medication against heartworm disease which is very effective if given regularly. Daily and monthly pills are available. Both types protect the dog from the disease during mosquito season, from April first through December first each year. Even dogs who live indoors should be on the preventive medication, as they will go outdoors to eliminate and for exercise. Dogs with heavy thick coats are not safe from mosquitoes either, as they can be bitten on their ears, nose, and belly.

Testing before starting your dog on the preventive every year is crucial. A heartworm positive dog can have a severe and even fatal reaction if given the preventive medication. Heartworms are rarely found in cats in our area.

For a free brochure on heartworm, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to Heartworm c/o L. Reider, HSHV, 3100 Cherry Hill Rd., Ann Arbor 48105.

BLEACHING: THE CONSERVATIVE WAY TO LIGHTEN TOOTH SHADE

Q: Is bleaching teeth effective in removing all types of stain? My teeth have always been yellow and I wonder if they could be made whiter.

A: Bleaching is a method used by your dentist to lighten stained or discolored teeth. It is a safe, non-invasive procedure. Bleaching is not done to remove surface staining caused by coffee or tea but rather for stains which are actually part of the tooth enamel. These types of stains may be caused from tetracycline medications taken while the teeth were forming, or after root canal therapy when the tooth may slightly discolor or darken.

The tooth (or teeth) to be bleached is first isolated from the rest of the mouth with a rubber dam. Then the tooth is cleaned and the enamel is slightly roughened using a mild acid. This allows the bleaching solution to better penetrate the hard enamel. A chemical oxidizing agent such as 35% hydrogen peroxide is applied to the tooth and then activated using heat and, sometimes, light.

No anesthetic is required but several treatments may be necessary to achieve the desired effect. Although bleaching will reduce staining it may be impossible to match the shade of the surrounding teeth exactly. Also, the dentist must be very careful not to use too much heat on alive (vital) teeth for fear of damaging the delicate nerve inside the tooth.

There are many new "home bleaching" products on the market. All of them use basically the same active ingredient, carbamide peroxide, but there are important differences between products. Your dentist may have specific recommendations if you wish to pursue home bleaching. Best results are obtained by using a professionally made home bleaching tray which is similar to a soft mouthguard used for sports. The bleaching solution is held in close contact with the teeth for about an hour per day. It is also important to use a product which is pH neutral or non-acidic to protect against damage to tooth enamel. Finally, professional consultation and follow-up examinations with your dentist will insure the best and safest results.

Bleaching is often the treatment of choice to try before more extensive restorations like bonding or porcelain veneers. Unfortunately, some teeth are very resistant to this type of therapy and will require more extensive work.

David Klemer Honored By University of Texas

David Klemer, Chelsea High school class of 1974, was recently awarded the 1991 Halliburton (Education Foundation) Award for Outstanding Young Faculty Member at the University of Texas-Arlington. How Much Do You Know About Food, Medications?

By Julie Say, R.D.
University of Michigan
Family Practice Center at Chelsea
Geriatric Health Care Team

If you are like most older adults, you are probably taking at least one prescription medication, and possibly more than one. You may also be using over-the-counter medicines such as aspirin, antacids, or laxatives. What many people (and not just seniors!) may not know is that both prescription and over-the-counter medicines can interact with the foods you eat and cause adverse effects on your health.

Many other medications can react with foods. There are several kinds of food-drug interactions which can be harmful. Some, such as nutrient deficiencies, you may not notice right away. Others, such as loss of appetite, nausea, or vomiting, may be felt soon after taking the medicine or eating the food. The foods you eat may also cause the drug not to work as well as it should.

Many medicines should be taken with food, others should be taken on an empty stomach. You may also need to avoid or eat more of certain foods while taking a medication. Your doctor, pharmacist, or registered dietitian is your best source of information about possible food-drug interactions. The following suggestions may be helpful:

—Make certain that your doctor knows about all the medicines you are taking, including over-the-counter or non-prescription medicines, as well as prescriptions you receive from other doctors.

—Ask your doctor, pharmacist, or dietitian to write down what foods you should eat more of or avoid while taking your medications, as well as which medicines should be taken with food and which should be taken on an empty stomach.

This is one of a series of articles prepared by the Geriatric Health Care Team at the University of Michigan Family Practice Center at Chelsea. If you would like more information about today's topic or about the Geriatric Health Care Team, please call 475-1321 ext. 430.

"DRIVING MISS DAISY"

Marshall—My professional hat must be doffed in the direction of David Pritchard who has the uncommon knack, or so it seems these days, to match actors with the proper stage vehicle for them, coming out with many more successes than failures.

This is particularly true with the current Cornwell's Turkeyville, USA and David M. Pritchard production of the softly emotional treatise "Driving Miss Daisy" by Alfred Uhry.

My hand goes into the second box of Kleenex when Miss Daisy (Rebecca Moore Jernigan) says to Hoke Colburn (Mark Lawrence) in the next to final play scene:

Daisy: Hoke?

Hoke: Yassum.

Daisy: You're my best friend.

Hoke: Come on, Miz Daisy. You jest!

Daisy: No. Really. You are. You are. (She takes his hand.)

Hoke: Yassum.

Uhry in this 1988 Pulitzer Prize production has woven golden words together using Miss Daisy Werthan and Hoke Colburn as natural antagonists, reflecting the world of old age for two entirely different cultures. The enmeshing of these two distinct personalities in their last years, combined with Boolie Werthan (David Poirier), the 40-year-old son of Miss Daisy who faces the eventual decision of "what to do with his inept mother in her 80's and 90's" faces a mutual problem of children and society today.

Daisy's son, Boolie, is an Atlanta businessman, in fact, the "businessman of the year." Daisy's ability to drive an automobile has reached an unsurable zero, and Boolie tells her she must have a chauffeur for driving. Daisy says "no," both to the idea of a chauffeur and to the fact that he is black.

Boolie, however, hires Hoke to drive. Playwright Uhry's intense understanding of his characters comes into play when he sets scenes depicting the movement of the two prejudicials to a central point of endeavor. Miss Daisy's first attempt to dethrone Hoke comes through as a tirade to Boolie, accusing Hoke of stealing a can of salmon.

Hoke, attired in an outercolliat, enters:

"Oh, Miz Daisy. Yestiddy when you out with yo' sister I ate a can of salmon. I know you say eat left over pork chops, but they stiff. Here, I done buy you another can. You want me to put it in the pantry for you?"

Daisy, knowing she has unintentionally lost this round, huffily leaves the room with a belated, "Thanks."

Daisy, a former schoolteacher, visits her husband's grave. A bouquet, in her hand, is to be placed on another grave and asks Hoke to place the flowers there. She becomes aware (in this scene) that Hoke has never learned to read... he merely looks at pictures in the newspaper. Her friendship starts with the teaching of the alphabet to him, enabling him to locate the tombstone for the placement of flowers.

Daisy is invited to hear Dr. Luther King speak at a local church. Rather than approach Hoke personally, she—on the day of the speech—confesses to Hoke that she has an extra ticket and would he like to go. He refuses, knowing full well she has been aware of the extra ticket for over two weeks.

Isolated by an unusual snow and sleet storm, Miss Daisy is in her house without electricity or help. Lo and behold, Hoke shows up to assist her in her needs in the crisis.

And toward the end of the play as Daisy is approaching 97 years of age, her mind goes berserk while Hoke is there and he talks her back to reality. The quote at the beginning cites her feelings in a nursing home on a visit from Hoke.

In the last scene, Daisy's Thanksgiving meal is in front of her uneaten while Hoke, again-visiting, observes her. He encourages her to eat, but her hand trembles too much to reach her mouth. He, in turn, takes the fork and starts feeding her as the lights dim.

In the Pritchard production, three magnificent actors: Rebecca Moore Jernigan, Mark Lawrence, and David Poirier become Daisy, Hoke, and Boolie. Their interaction with one another on stage must be witnessed to be believed. Jernigan starts her character as a rather loud shouting individual, rather strong physically for her age. The passing of years is shown by her in a weaker voice, and paced body movements. What a great actress Ms. Jernigan is.

Mark Lawrence as the black chauffeur shows a pride and passion for the world, never backing down to Miss Daisy but tactfully expressing his brief viewpoints. In his few moments of anger with her... "when he needs to let some water" on a trip they are making; his admittance of illiteracy; his strength when Miss Daisy momentarily loses her mind... all of these situations are superbly handled by this most capable actor.

In a necessary role, and one that many of you may face someday, is David Poirier who loves his mother dearly but also must face society and its prejudices, cater to his wife's needs and desires, and be happy with himself. David Poirier does this role, to me a very important one, with tender audaciousness and understanding. Poirier's acting lends to the brilliance of the ensemble production.

Perhaps this is Paul Gregory Nelson's best effort at directing a drama/comedy, one which he handled with love and caring if the actors are a reflection of his directional efforts.

Cornwell's not only furnish this new theatre for our benefit. Dinners are now served with China and non-plastic eating utensils, decorations both on the tables and around the room give more ambience as does the friendly serving staff complementing the buffet. VAI Pace is a terrific house manager and seems to see to every detail along with her most competent staff. Dinners have moved from a C to an A if this last meal was a prediction of meals to come. Thanks!

CHELSEA HIGH SCHOOL WIND ENSEMBLE recently performed in the Toronto area at O'Neill Collegiate. The performance was part of a trip the entire band took to Canada March 19-20. The entire band gave two shows at R.H. King Academy before more than 1,000 students and faculty members.

High School Bands Given Standing Ovations

The month of March has been busy and rewarding for the Chelsea Bands.

The musical "Once Upon A Mattress" with five of the six leads being band members and many other members in support roles, technical crew and performing in the pit, the band found itself very busy in a splendid show.

The following week found the bands performing a pre-festival concert and band festival. Both performances were greeted with standing ovations. The festival adjudicators raved about the high level of musicianship, technical facility and finesse of the bands. The difficulty of the wind ensemble's music and their mastery of it prompted adjudicator William Sutherland to proclaim the band as outstanding at any level.

The third week-end, those members of the band who perform with the orchestra participated in the orchestra festival. Again they received high praise for their quality contributions to complement the strings.

March 19 found the high school bands on tour in Toronto. After attending a performance of "Phantom of the Opera" on Wednesday, March 20, the bands presented six concerts on Thursday and Friday. Over 1,000 high school faculty and students attended two concerts at R. H. King Academy in Scarborough, east of Toronto. That afternoon over 450 seventh and eighth grade students attended a performance by the Freshman Band at McFarlane Academy in Whitley, Ontario. That evening the Wind Ensemble performed at O'Neill Collegiate in Oshawa, Ontario.

Friday the bands presented a clinic at the University of Toronto. Band director Bill Gourley demonstrated rehearsal techniques and lectured university students. The students and faculty were amazed at the performance level of the ensembles and were eager to ask Gourley questions.

The final performance was held at Silverthorne Collegiate in Etobicoke, Ontario. This was a concert sponsored by the Toronto Department for the Aged and Silverthorne Collegiate. Over 500 senior citizens were bussed to the school and over 400 ninth and tenth grade students attended. Three television crews competed for camera angles and interviews at the performance. City officials, school board members and administrators spoke briefly and presented souvenirs to the band members. That evening the concert was a news story on the local stations.

Throughout the month, the bands were acclaimed for their great talents and Gourley won praise as an exceptional conductor and educator.

WELCOME HOME and thank you. At a welcome home greeting party arranged for Saturday morning, S/Sgt. Deral Freysinger was presented a beautiful plaque by Ginny Boyer, right, on behalf of the Chelsea Desert Storm Support Group, thanking him for service in the Persian Gulf War. Deral spent 218 days in the Gulf area and was stationed at Abu Dhabi in the United Arab Emirates. His basic job was testing the quality of drinking water for the troops. Although he is a career Air Force man, he said, "It's sure nice to be home again." Deral is the son of Joyce and Robert Freysinger of Grass Lake. In the photo are brother Craig Freysinger of Ionia and his mother, Joyce. He left Tuesday for duty in Maryland.

Chelsea Farmers Market Plans Second Season Starting May 4

The second season of the Chelsea Farmers Market is set to begin on Saturday, May 4 and end in mid-October.

The market, run on a non-profit basis through the Chelsea Downtown Development Authority, will be held from 8 a.m. until 2 p.m. every Saturday, rain or shine, in the Chelsea Depot parking lot opposite Farmer's Supply.

Organizers Greg Raye and H.K. Leonard, owners of Farmer's Supply, said several changes have been made for this year to help vendors and provide more variety for shoppers.

This year vendors will be allowed to sell produce they haven't grown themselves as long as it is out of season in the area. Last year vendors could only sell what they grew.

Vendors will also be able to sign up on a weekly basis for $10 each week or a long-term basis for $8 per week (pre-paid) for a minimum of eight weeks. Long-term sellers will be guaranteed the same stall each week. Preference will be given to last year's vendors. Others will be taken on a first-come, first-served basis.

Fees are used to pay for promotion and other operational costs.

Vendors may sell produce, baked goods, or crafts.

Raye said he and Leonard want to form a Farmer's Market Steering Committee, which would set policy and operational requirements.

To sign up for the committee or reserve a space for the market, drop by Farmer's Supply and ask for Keith. He will also have the necessary sales tax forms.

"We're looking forward to another good season," Raye said.

"We had tremendous support from the community and the vendors last year."

Raye said that anyone who wants to sell food should contact both the Washtenaw County Health Department and the Michigan Department of Agriculture to find out about licensing procedures.
