DOWNTOWN CONSTRUCTION CONTINUES down Main St. this week as sidewalk and curb are replaced as part of the Downtown Development Authority project.

The project is about two weeks behind schedule, and it's under budget, according to DDA consultant Franz Mogdis.

Curtis Apprehended in Virginia After Warrant Issued for Nine Counts

Detective Craig Swenson of the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department explained, early Tuesday morning, Sept. 3, that his department had received confirmation from the Roanoke Police Department in Roanoke, Va., that William H. Curtis, former Dexter township resident, had been apprehended in Roanoke.

At the urging of the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department detectives, a nine-count warrant for Curtis' arrest was requested by Jerry Farmer of the prosecuting attorney's office and signed by magistrate George Parker for Curtis.

Farmer explained, Tuesday morning, the nine counts included: 1) murder—first degree, pre-meditated; 2) murder—first degree, felony; 3) murder—first degree, conspiracy; 4) robbery, armed, Sue Ellen Curtis; 5) robbery, armed, Joyce Ancypa; in addition, conspiracy and felony fire-arms charges are alleged.

Todd Plamondon, who previously was the sole defendant charged with the Curtis murder, but who now alleges Curtis offered to pay him $5,000 to murder Sue Ellen Curtis, has been administered three polygraph examinations, one of these by a Michigan State Police officer, others by Det. Coombs of the WCSO.

Witnesses reported observing Curtis as he traveled through parts of the state of Georgia, approximately three weeks ago.

Apparently, there was insufficient information about Curtis' implication in the April 1 murder of his wife Sue Ellen at that time to justify issuance of a warrant.

However, Tuesday morning, assistant prosecutor Jerry Farmer explained the investigation has been an ongoing process, which led to the eventual warrant authorization, Thursday, Aug. 29.

WILLIAM HALL CURTIS WAS APPREHENDED in Virginia, early Tuesday morning, Sept. 3, by officers from the Roanoke Police Department, after they were contacted by Curtis' traveling companion, who apparently advised authorities of the fugitive's whereabouts—a motel in Roanoke. A nine-count warrant was issued on Thursday, Aug. 29, for Curtis, a former Dexter township resident and husband of Sue Ellen Curtis, whose homicide occurred at the Curtis residence, April 1. Assistant prosecuting attorney Jerry Farmer explained early Tuesday afternoon, Washtenaw county authorities had not yet been advised whether Curtis would waive extradition to Michigan.

STEVE JASKOT shows off the Chelsea Fire Department's new defibrillator that was purchased with private donations from area residents and businesses. The unit is used for heart attack victims and can make a significant difference in survival and recovery rates if it is used early enough in a heart attack. "This won't work miracles," Jaskot said. "But it's the only technology available for us in those situations." The unit, which administers a shock to stimulate the heart, cost about $5,000 and is becoming standard equipment for rescue workers.

School Bond Proposal Arises from Studies On Enrollments, Needs

Editor's note: This is the first of a three-part series about the Chelsea School District's proposed $23.75 million bond issue for district-wide renovations and new construction. A special election is scheduled for Monday, Sept. 23. This series is designed to help voters make a more informed choice by presenting as much factual information as possible. This week focuses on the scope of the project, the district's justification for it, and financial implications. Future stories will detail what is proposed for each school and why.

Chelsea School District's proposed $23.75 million school improvements project would be by far the largest public project ever undertaken in the Chelsea area, surpassing the village's wastewater treatment plant project by about $14 million.

The project involves substantial renovations at North and South Elementary schools for $2,925,000, site improvements at Beach Middle school for $810,000 (primarily bringing Mayer Dr. up to village specifications so the village will take over maintenance of the road, renovations and building at Chelsea High school for $14,100,00, technology updating in all schools for $2,180,000, and a new early education elementary school for $6 million.

The district wants to sell a combination of capital appreciation bonds, known commonly as zero coupon bonds, and more traditional serial bonds to finance the project, thereby keeping millage needs at a level 2.35 mills for 30 years. Through traditional financing methods, the project would require about six mills at the outset but would gradually decrease to about one mill at the end of 30 years.

The method of financing has two advantages, says assistant superintendent Fred Mills. First, it makes the project financially feasible. And second, people moving into the district in five, 10, or 15 years from now will pay for more of the improvements. With a declining millage rate, current residents would pay a higher proportion of the overall bill. With a combination of bonds, over-all interest costs will be slightly higher over the long run, Mills said.

"I'm pretty conservative financially and as much as I hate paying interest, there is a lot of merit to the argument [for leveling out the millage so future residents will pay more]," Mills said.

The millage projection is based on what Mills believes will be the most likely, as well as most conservative, estimate regarding income from property taxes. It assumes three percent growth in SEV next year and five percent every year after that.

The owner of a $100,000 home would pay $117.50 per year to finance the project.

The project would take about three years to complete. It is designed to handle space needs for the next 15 or 20 years.

If it is not approved, no construction will take place unless the plan, or a scaled-down version, is approved later. The district, however, will likely have to take measures to handle the students, such as more "portable" classrooms at North and South schools.

If the project is completed, Mills says he sees it as making Chelsea "a solid, middle-of-the-road school district" as far as facilities are concerned.

"I think we'd be comparable to other progressive districts that want to offer the best education they can afford. I don't see us as being a lighthouse school district that tries a lot of programs on a pilot basis. We're not a district that continually experiments."

The plan for improvements was adopted by a 5-2 vote of the Chelsea Board of Education after a three-year study by a facilities committee composed of a cross-section of interested community members. The committee first met in March of 1988 as former superintendent Ray Van Meer was winding up his tenure.

The "no" votes cast by trustees John Eisenbeiser and Joe Redding reflected their concerns over the scope of the project, not the need for it.

The Chelsea board decided to go for the whole project at once rather than take a piecemeal approach as Dexter Community School did. Dexter has managed to pass bond issues totaling $10.7 million for renovations and a new swimming pool, but voters turned down a new $8 million elementary school this spring, 1,029 to 792.

"We could have gone that route, but it would be at least 1997 before the project would be completed," Mills said.

"All the facilities proposed in this project will be needed by 1994, which is about the earliest we will be able to move in. Also, interest rates in today's bond market are the lowest they've been in years plus today's bid market is the best it's been in years. The project will never be cheaper."

The need for the project, says the district, lies in current and projected enrollments, which consultant Stanford & Associates bases on birth rates and real estate records in the county, among other factors. This year's enrollment will be about 2,530 students, almost exactly what Stanford predicted. They also predict enrollment will jump to 2,936 by 1995. Growth is projected to level out but continue in the lower grades but increase dramatically at the high school level as large classes at Beach Middle school push out smaller classes at Chelsea High school. For example, last year's senior class of 135 is being replaced by a ninth grade class of 200. This year's senior class of 160 students will be replaced next year by a freshman class of 234 students. By 1995, high school enrollment will increase about 30 percent.

Elementary school enrollment is estimated to rise from 1,206 today to 1,309 in 1995 and Beach enrollment is predicted to rise from 620 this year to 731 in 1995. Those increases would comprise about eight sections of students.

State and federal laws have also helped create the space squeeze. In 1974 the district had one special education teacher. This year there are 13, as well as two social workers, two speech teachers, and three psychologists.

The growth is a direct reflection of the amount of home-building activity in the area, particularly in Lyndon, Sylvan, and Dexter townships. And that, Mills said, is at least partly due to the reputation of the school district, as well as the quality of life the Chelsea area offers.

Village Still Considering Changes To Delinquency Billing Procedures

Village of Chelsea is still considering how it will handle delinquent utility accounts.

Village manager Jack Myers said recently that roughly 10 days after the first story appeared in The Chelsea Standard concerning the accounts, the total of delinquent bills dropped from about $85,000 to $41,000.

Village council last adopted a formal policy on Jan. 4, 1977. The new policy would basically amount to enforcement of the 1977 policy, with a couple of changes. First, a two-percent penalty would be added to overdue bills. If service is discontinued, a $25 re-connection fee would be assessed. Bad checks would incur a $15 charge, as well as the initiation of the delinquent billing process.

A bill received, for example, in early September is due on the last business day of September. The first discontinuation notice, plus two-percent penalty, would not be mailed until Oct. 15. If the bill is not paid within five days and there has been no attempt to contact the village, the electric and water department would go to the residence and deliver a notice that service will be shut off in two days. If no attempt is made to clear the delinquency, the electric and water superintendent will go to the residence and shut off the power, even if no one is home, and leave another notice with pertinent information. Power will not be shut off on a day before the village offices are closed.

Book Bag, Purse Stolen from Car

A book bag containing a purse and miscellaneous items was stolen from a car parked at Chelsea Big Boy on Thursday, Aug. 29.

Police said the incident took place between 9:15 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. Some of the items were later recovered in a dumpster.

The bag was in the back seat of an unlocked car.

Electrical service may also be discontinued if the $75 deposit for residential service or $125 deposit for commercial service is not paid.

Village trustee Joe Merkel told council the village routinely sends delinquency notices two days after the bills are due rather than on the 15th day of the following month as the policy prescribes. He said senior citizens, in particular, are disburbed by such notices.

CHELSEA SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT Joe Piasecki tries to shore up the schools' budget by scrounging for pennies and nickels with the kids in a mound of saw dust at Kids Day events on Tuesday, Aug. 20 at the fairgrounds. Actually, Piasecki was trying to help keep a little order to the annual event.

Laurie Honbaum, 14-year-old freshman at Chelsea High school and national baton champion, was 1987's Chelsea Community Fair Queen. Honbaum was also honored with the Miss Congeniality award. She demonstrated her talent with a two-baton twirl routine to the song "Wipe Out" by the Safaris. Her routine even survived a couple of baton tosses into rafters of the covered arena and one time the baton nearly lodged in a cross beam. When asked during the interview portion of the program, "Are the baton and queen competitions important?" she replied, "Yes, they've given me a lot of self-confidence." Honbaum is the daughter of Arlene and Morritt Honbaum. Luaurie may have become the first freshman ever to win the fair queen pageant.

Village of Chelsea was fined $5,000 by the Department of Natural Resources for wastewater treatment plant permit violations. "This is one of the most distasteful things we've ever had to do," said Village President Jerry Satterthwaite.

Near perfect weather blessed the 50th Chelsea Community Fair and may have provided a record crowd of more than 37,000 people. "Even though school was in session and we were competing with school activities, we seemed to have a pretty good crowd," said fair board secretary Maryann Guenther.

First place in the Adult Division of the Chelsea Fair Parade went to the United Methodist Retirement Home. The float was elaborately decorated and several residents rode on park benches in the middle of the float. First place winner in the Youth Division of the Chelsea Fair Parade went to the Junior Class float, "Yesterday" featuring junior class fair queen candidate Meredith Hall.

After a 16-hour, all-night bargaining session, teachers in the Chelsea School District and the Chelsea Board of Education reached tentative agreement early Tuesday on the economic package to be delivered in a new teacher contract. However, both sides failed to achieve a settlement on several remaining issues which would have paved the way toward a swift contract ratification vote. Among the unresolved issues are language changes in certain contract clauses, class size guarantees, and extra-curricular requirements.

In the Eastern Regional Drag Boat Championship Races held at Columbiaville, Ed Wade set a course record and bested all competitors to receive the trophy in the Stock Ski Boat Drag Race Class. Ed, driving his Switzer Shooting Star, powered by a stock Johnson 200 h.p. engine, set and broke the course record three times, ending with a best speed of 78.88 m.p.h. Ed was sponsored by Chelsea Automotive of Chelsea, and Nate's Boat Shop of Ann Arbor.

Six new Beach Middle school teachers — Tamara Barbret, Tracy Cassard, Karey Haas, David Longe, Deborah Seravolatz, and Maria Sebu — were hired by the Chelsea School District for the 1977-78 year. Three of the six were serving as replacements for teachers currently on leaves of absence, two others were hired in response to increased enrollment, and the last filled the special education gap at the local junior high.

James Haller, former chairman of the Sharon Township Planning Commission and the Zoning Board of Appeals, was appointed township supervisor by township trustees during a regular meeting of the Sharon Township Board. In accepting the appointment, Supervisor Haller stated he planned to generally continue township business as usual.

New Director Calls for Multi-Faceted Drug War
Michigan's new drug czar Robert Peterson told members of the Senate Family Law, Criminal Law and Corrections Committee the only way to adequately address Michigan's drug problem is through a multi-faceted approach with strong private sector and volunteer involvement.

Peterson said he sees his recent appointment by Governor John Engler as the Office of Drug Control Policy director as an opportunity to "revitalize, re-energize and refocus" the state's efforts to combat illegal drug use and trafficking. "When there are budget constraints this should not be placed on the back burner," Peterson said, adding planning should include objectives for at least 10 years.

By replacing the Office of Drug Agencies that had served within Management and Budget since 1989 with an independent office accountable to the governor, Peterson said Engler provided a central source of information on the drug war and the administration's position on specific policy issues. "We need a multi-faceted approach," Peterson said, referring to drug prevention, diversified education programs, treatment, mass media publicity, rewarding drug-free children and encouraging volunteer efforts.

After determining how to make the drug control efforts more accountable, Peterson said he would present policy recommendations to the governor for review and approval. He stressed that the drug fight would not be won by government efforts alone—communities, children, schools, churches all have to contribute ideas and time. "We need to recognize the kids who are drug-free," Peterson said. He cited a Pennsylvania program in which drug-free high school students counsel children in the lower grades against drug-use as an effective program.

While Peterson said he will evaluate the impact of the Michigan Model for Comprehensive Health Education in helping children stay away from drugs through development of decision-making, peer pressure and self-esteem, he said there is no "magical curriculum."

Since most of the funding for anti-drug efforts comes from the federal government, Peterson said he wants to prepare Michigan for when federal dollars dry up or when the federal government makes sure the states spend the anti-drug money for intended purposes.

Both Peterson and Karen Shrock, Office of Substance Abuse Services (OSAS) acting director, agreed that pregnant women, adolescents and prisoners should be targeted in drug prevention and treatment efforts.

But Shrock said a waiting list of about 5,000 persons, with delays of up to four months for residential treatment, discourages those trying to end their addiction.

The transfer of OSAS into Department of Public Health will result in more dollars for drug prevention and a shift from some expensive treatment programs, she said. "With pregnant women the need (to address their drug-abuse) is fairly obvious but the state has not addressed it significantly," Shrock said, noting that those who cannot get treatment often lose custody of their children. "We pay on the health care side and through escalating foster care costs."

Peterson and law enforcement officials told the committee a consistent punishment is needed to deter drug use, but Peterson said mandatory drug sentences are not always the answer.

He said sometimes a definite fine or other penalty may suffice. Michigan has the nation's strongest mandatory penalties, but they are under increasing attack.

FUNDING WAR: The Department of Education has raised objections over control of $12 million in federal funds to fight drug use. The governor's executive order tried to transfer administration of the drug funds to the new Office of Drug Control Policy.

Leslie Touma, drug and crime policy advisor to the governor, said funding for law enforcement in the drug war is being transferred to the new office and no grants have been frozen for drug education efforts.

Peterson said he plans to work with individual departments such as Education and Public Health in coordinating drug war efforts. "The point is the money will go to education," Peterson said, adding he wants to make sure federal funds are spent as they were set out to be.

Education officials said transferring the money to Peterson's office violates specific provisions in federal law that set up the drug-free schools program. The law requires 70 percent of each state's share be controlled by the state education agency and 30 percent by the governor.

The $12 million is allocated to local and intermediate school districts by a formula to pay for drug education.

If conflicts cannot be resolved between the departments and his office, Peterson said he will leave that up to the governor to address.

Contempt Fines Returned to State
A U.S. District Court judge returned $480,000 in contempt fines to the state, which were imposed for failing to build a psychiatric prison.

Governor Engler said the money would be used for improved mental health services to prisoners.

Judge Richard Enslen ended the fines when the Engler administration agreed in May to convert a prison at Huron Valley for in-patient psychiatric care.

Enslen said he was "impressed by the spirit of co-operation evidenced by the state defendants in recent months."

The fines, which last year had escalated to $10,000 a day, were assessed from 1984 when the court ordered construction of a treatment facility for mentally ill inmates.

The first state to pass a minimum wage law for women and children was Massachusetts in 1912, according to "Labor Firsts in America," a U.S. Labor Department publication. Eight other states passed similar laws in 1913, but the Supreme Court then declared all such laws unconstitutional.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

At the country store Saturday night there were leftovers from the session before when the fellers talked about how life gets harder as you get older. All the fellers are well past their three score and 10, but on the age matter they agree present company is excepted. The only gripe about age I ever heard from them was when Clem Webster noted that there don't seem to be any old people around any more.

Ed Doolittle took note that fer good or ill folks either break up in groups for all kind of reasons, and age is one of em. Furthermore, Ed went on, Governments at all levels encourage setting old folks off to themselves by working up all kind of programs, special them that can come under the Federal Older Americans Act.

Practical speaking, Ed said, we got womb to tomb organized age groups. As soon as a new ma can go back to selling real estate she puts the baby in day care, and there's talk of public school pre-kindergarten fer four-year-olds. With two meals a day and before and after school babysitting, a child can go through high school thinking that home is where you go to sleep and watch more television, was Ed's words.

Ed said this country has got nurseries, youth centers, senior centers, classes in church fer each age group and then we git so worried about the ages not mixing we organize high school students to go spend time with folks in nursing homes. He had saw where one town reported it needed a senior center because it had 20,000 people over the age of 65. No mention was made, he said, of how many had made their way through that much life without any kind of center fer the particular age group they passed through.

General, the fellers were agreed with Ed. Bug Hookum noted that big companies are saying one of their biggest and costliest worker benefits outside of family health care is day care. He had saw where a hospital in Houston is spending $8 million to build a day care center fer children of employees. The hospital says this will give it a edge in recruiting nurses and other key people. Employees would rather have the day care that is a company expense instead of more salary they would be taxed on, so it is a win-win situation.

This move is seen all over, Bug said, most of all because smart managers know a happy worker is a better worker. Like other worker benefits, day care will come to be expected because it is the only way employers can compete. The more the benefits the better the people a company can hire, so it gits a big return on the investment from quality of work and employee loyalty.

Zeke Grubb flipped this coin over. He said as big companies are able to fine tune the skills of their workers more folks that need jobs are falling through the cracks. Only so many people can flip burgers and sack groceries, Zeke allowed, so we got a festering sore of them that are giving up. Some of these are in the pictures of folks sleeping in cardboard boxes and some are the ones holding up 7-Elevens, was Zeke's words.

I'm with Zeke. I figger this is why I saw this piece about burnout among social service case workers. One county in Oklahoma has set up a adopt-a-social-worker program to ease the stress. I reckon this counts as a benefit.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

The couple lives in Indian River on Mullett Lake.

Back-to-School Clothes Battle

By Terry Jones
Extension Home Economist

The battle lines are being drawn—with parents on one side, teen-agers on the other—as the start of school and clothes shopping time arrives.

Teen clothing preferences often are a mystery to parents. But parents might want to keep in mind that experimenting with clothes and hairstyles is a relatively safe way to try out boundaries, says Terry Jones, Washtenaw County Extension home economist.

Shopping for clothing can be an opportunity for teen-agers to learn about fit, value, and durability. The greatest colors and the best fit in the world are worthless if the garment will not stand up to the care process, Jones says.

Help teens to do the following things when clothes shopping:

- Read care labels so that they will know how to take care of the garment. If a garment has to be dry-cleaned or hand washed, will the teen-ager be willing to do that? Machine washable garments end up costing less over the life of the garment because of the less expensive or less time intensive cleaning process.
- Read fiber content labels. Cotton is absorbent, so heavy cotton knits may be slow to dry unless they are dried in the dryer—where they may shrink. Wool may be warmer but usually requires dry-cleaning. Rayons drape beautifully, but need to be pressed and usually must be dry-cleaned.

Most silks need to be dry-cleaned. Polyester blends will usually retain their wrinkle-free appearance and usually don't change shape or shrink.

• Notice if finishes are mentioned on the label. Some clothes have wrinkle-resistant finishes. Others are treated to prevent shrinkage and to keep their shape.

You and your teen-ager may not agree on the style of each garment purchased, but you should be able to agree on whether its care requirements make it a good buy.

Fiction books, non-fiction books, guides to birds, insects, stars, hard covers and soft covers will all be displayed, and special orders will be taken for you if it is not on display.

Dive into the school year with a good book. Do your holiday shopping early. Come see the selection at North school. You won't be disappointed.

Profits will be used to buy books for the Media Center.

BookCrafters Names Employee of Month

Mitch Zink stands out as Employee of the Month for August. Currently the Pressroom Group Leader on second shift, Mitch prides himself on "doing the best job possible for BookCrafters." In November, Mitch will have served Michigan's pressroom for 12 years.

Mitch's fellow employees praised his dedication.

Mitch lives at North Lake, where he and his family enjoy the outdoors. His wife, Rhoda; and sons, Eric, 22, and Trevor, 19, enjoy hunting, fishing, and camping.

Professional Secretaries Will Meet Thursday

Huron Valley Chapter of Professional Secretaries International will hold its regular meeting on Thursday, Sept. 5.

Guest speakers will be Sandy Boettcher, Cleary College, Marti Ruedger, CAM, and Delores Haw, CPS—"Attaining Professional Certification—All You Ever Wanted To Know About CPS/CAM."

The program will start with dinner at 6 p.m. at Ann Arbor Regent, 3800 Plymouth Rd., Ann Arbor, followed by the speakers at 7 p.m. Business meeting is scheduled after the speakers' presentation.

Parent-Child Communication Is Topic at Brighton Hospital

On Tuesday evening, Sept. 10 Brighton Hospital will host a Community Education Program focusing on improving parent-child communication. A second session on Tuesday, Sept. 17 will concentrate on helping adult children of alcoholics.

The title of the Sept. 10 program is "Communicating With Our Children." Jean Dykhouse, admissions co-ordinator at the hospital's Adolescent Center, will lead the discussion, field questions from the audience, and point out some strategies that parents can use in communicating with teen-agers and pre-teens about a variety of issues, including self-esteem.

A free copy of the helpful booklet About Self-Esteem will be available at this session. The publication is also available directly from the hospital's Community Relations Department.

On Tuesday evening, Sept. 17, the hospital will host "Adult Children of Alcoholics & Recovery: Breaking the Cycle," a program of special interest to adults who are in relationships with chemically dependent people or who were raised in chemically dependent homes.

The Sept. 17 session is a joint effort of Livingston Counseling and Assessment Services and the Women's Resource Center.

Both programs begin at 7 p.m. in the hospital's chapel. The meetings are open to the public, and reservations are not needed.

Brighton Hospital is located just off exit 151 of the I-96 freeway. For additional information or a copy of the free booklet, contact the Community Relations Department at (313) 227-1211, ext. 276 on weekdays between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

They were married Aug. 30, 1941 in Jackson after which John served in the United States Navy during WWII. Mrs. Langowski worked as a school crossing guard and babysat in their home while her husband was employed by Chelsea Lumber-Grain Co. 10 yrs. and Central Fibre Products in Chelsea. He retired from Central Fibre after 35 years in 1980. The couple has two children, Patricia Ann Emmons and Nancy May Joseph, and three grandchildren.

Dayspring Associates Complete Training Course

Dale Cole, Mary Hutting, and Michelle Middleton of Dayspring Gifts recently completed a comprehensive Hallmark retail training program, earning the title "Certified Sales Consultant."

Hallmark sales associates assist customers in a variety of ways—as salespeople, wedding and party planners, merchandisers, product experts, problem solvers and customer service agents, according to Laurel Gravelyn, owner.

The retail training program prepares sales associates to fulfill these roles. Sales associates at Dayspring Gifts are required to successfully complete a 90-day training program in order to be designated "Certified Sales Consultant" by Hallmark Cards, Inc.

Dale Cole is a long-time resident of Chelsea. He has been with the store for five years and will graduate from Michigan State University in June of 1992. Mary Hutting has been with Dayspring for one year and, being a collector herself, has a vast amount of knowledge for the customers. Michelle Middleton has four years of employment at Dayspring and was given the title "Hallmark Coordinator" three years ago.

This training will help to serve Dayspring customers' needs more efficiently. They have service techniques, product knowledge, and a wide range of information on how to help with any situation or need that may arise.

July Unemployment Drop Due to Giving Up Job Search

Michigan's seasonally adjusted unemployment rate fell by almost one percentage point in July to 8.3 percent, but the drop is attributed to jobseekers giving up the search rather than an improved job picture. Federal statistics show that the state's unemployed workers declined by 43,000 in July to 371,000. The seasonally adjusted unemployment rate was the lowest since January's 7.2 percent.

However, Michigan Employment Security Commission Director F. Robert Edwards said the reduction was attributed to many young people who were unsuccessful finding summer jobs and stopped looking.

The national unemployment rate improved to 6.8 percent in July from June's five-year high of 7 percent. That increase also was dismissed as a fluke caused by discouraged Americans abandoning the job hunt.

While many economists and government officials maintain the country's recession is over, retailers, business executives and individuals say otherwise. A national survey of business payrolls found a decline for the second consecutive month, not the kind of trend that signifies an economy emerging from recession.

Retail sales still are down, home sales are sluggish, layoffs continue in both the public and private sectors, and there has been a steady increase in the number of people using financial guidance centers.

In addition, states like Michigan that are dependent on specific industries such as banking, tourism, construction, auto and aircraft manufacturing, and the defense industry are facing additional financial burdens.

In the last two recessions in the 1980s, economic growth was strong shortly after each downturn ended. This time the growing federal deficit, and severe budget problems facing so many of the nation's states and cities have delayed a true economic recovery.

David Ruhlign Represent District As Outstanding Young Dairy Couple

David and Lori Ruhlign of Dexter recently represented District 1 of the Michigan Milk Producers Association (MMPA) in the annual Outstanding Young Dairy Couple (OYDC) contest, conducted Aug. 8-10.

The Ruhligns were selected earlier in the year to participate in the annual contest by fellow dairy farmers.

Each year, one couple is selected from the 11 district winners to represent MMPA at various industry activities.

Representing District 8, Greg and Kathy Dorman of Snover were selected as the 1991 state-winning Outstanding Young Dairy Couple.

The runners-up were Scott and Julie Quick from Bay Port in District 9.

Selection of the OYDC is based on the couple's farming operations, farm-related and community activities, and demonstrated leadership abilities.

The state OYDC conference, held at MMPA headquarters in Novi, is designed to provide information about milk marketing activities, co-operatives, milk-testing procedures, and other current events within the dairy industry.

The contest has been held annually for the past 41 years.

MMPA president Elwood Kirkpatrick explained, "The OYDC program provides an excellent opportunity for identifying and exposing outstanding young leaders in the MMPA organization, and also provides the opportunity to help them become better informed about the organization."

All 11 of the MMPA's district Outstanding Young Dairy Couples will be officially recognized at the 1992 annual state delegate meeting scheduled next March.

The Ruhligns represented District 1, which included Jackson, Washtenaw, Wayne, Hillsdale, Lenawee and Monroe counties.

Michigan Milk Producers Association is Michigan's largest dairy co-operative.

It is owned and controlled by approximately 3,900 dairy farmers.

DAVID, LORI RUHLIGN of Dexter represented District 1, which included Jackson, Washtenaw, Wayne, Hillsdale, Lenawee and Monroe counties, in the Michigan Milk Producers Association's Outstanding Young Dairy Couple contest, Aug. 8-10.

JUNIOR HOMEMAKER OF THE YEAR at the Chelsea Community Fair was Bridget Reinhardt. She had more points than anyone else in the home economics department.

Curtis Apprehended By Roanoke Police

A news release dated Sept. 3 from the Roanoke Police Department advised, "In the early morning hours of Sept. 3, Roanoke City police officers developed information that a motor home containing a fugitive from Michigan had entered the city."

"Investigation concluded that the fugitive, William H. Curtis, had checked into a Franklin Rd. motel under an alias, and that he was wanted in Ann Arbor, Michigan, for murder and robbery."

"After evacuating some motel guests, police searched Curtis' room without success."

"A subsequent check of the motor home outside disclosed that the culprit was hiding inside."

"When Curtis refused to surrender, after repeated requests, tear gas was used to force him to leave the motor home."

"He was taken into custody without incident outside the vehicle."

"The police investigation is continuing."

Attorney Leonard K. Kitchen, who represented Curtis during the preliminary exam for Todd Plamondon in District Court 14-3, Chelsea, and during a subsequent "operating under the influence of liquor" charge in the same court, explained he had not yet been retained as counsel for Curtis on the recent charges, and wouldn't know until he talked with Curtis whether he would be representing him further.

As this newspaper edition went to press, neither the WCSO detectives nor the prosecuting attorney's office had received word on whether or not Curtis would fight extradition to

DONALD A. COLE, Director

"Boredom is a vital problem for the moralist, since at least half the sins of mankind are caused by fear of it..."
—Bertrand Russell

Many of us have an unreasonable fear of boredom... of being left alone with ourselves and with nothing to do. We seem to be losing the ability to entertain ourselves, to use moments of solitude to reflect, to think, to create... any of which would banish boredom.

Perhaps we could reduce crime and other social problems of the day by learning to utilize those "boring" times for reflection, for stimulating thought and creativity.

Our counsel and advice to the bereaved we serve is available throughout the period of adjustment, which only starts with a beautiful funeral service.

Expert To Talk On School Bond Issue

Anyone with questions concerning the financial implications of the Chelsea School District's proposed $23.75 million bond issue is invited to attend an open meeting at Sylvan Town Hall next Wednesday, Sept. 11.

Featured speaker will be John R. Axe of Axe & Associates, a firm which serves as bond counsel to many counties, cities, villages, townships, and public authorities in Michigan.

A prime item for discussion is how a zero coupon bond works. The school district plans to use those bonds as a key method of financing the project.

Dennis Petsch Showing Slides of Trip to Russia

Dennis Petsch will be sharing a slide presentation of his recent three-week trip to the Soviet Union at the evening service of Immanuel Bible church, 145 E. Summit St., on Sunday, Sept. 8. The service begins at 6 p.m. and the public is welcome.

Petsch led a group of 28 area students as part of the "People to People" program, a cultural exchange program for high school students. Two Chelsea students accompanied him on the trip, Jason Adams and Amy Mitchell. The students left for the Soviet Union on July 5 and returned July 27.

Village Passes Resolution on Drain Districts

Village council passed a formal resolution last week to consolidate parts of two drainage districts as suggested by the Washtenaw County Drain Commissioner.

Land from the Pierce Lake drain district is being incorporated into the Wilkinson St. drain district so that a drain will not have to be constructed under M-52. The land in question runs south along M-52 on the west side from approximately Chelsea Lanes.

The change is being made because it will decrease the cost per acre, and thereby the assessments for property owners, in the Wilkinson St. drain. Costs for the proposed Pierce Lake drain will remain about the same because work under M-52 will be avoided.

Work on the Wilkinson St. drain district may begin later this year. Another round of public hearings will have to be held before the work can begin.

State Air Travel Down After Record Pace in 1990

Despite a decline stemming from the recession and the Persian Gulf crisis, passenger volumes on commercial airlines set a record in Michigan for the eighth consecutive year in 1990, the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) reports.

The number of boarding and disembarking passengers at the 24 airports with scheduled airline service totaled 25,916,816, an increase of 4.2 percent over the 24,866,244 who flew in 1989.

Travel rose sharply early in 1990 but declined in mid-year with the onset of the recession and fell 20 percent in September from the same month in 1989 with the start of Operation Desert Shield.

Travel was below last year's levels in the early months of 1991.

"With the war at an end and the economy apparently beginning to improve, we expect that air travel will be expanding again in the final half of 1991," said State Transportation Director Patrick M. Nozak.

Activity at Detroit Metropolitan Airport accounted for the great bulk of travel—82 percent—with a total of 21,338,594 passengers in 1990. That was an increase of 4.4 percent.

Cherry Capital Airport at Traverse City recorded the biggest increase among the state's 10 busiest airports—23.9 percent. Passenger volumes went up from 185,116 in 1989 to 229,361 last year.

Passenger totals also continued to climb at Detroit City Airport, jumping from 719,496 to 781,705, an increase of 8.6 percent.

Some Michigan communities suffered air service cutbacks last year. The purchase of Drummond Island Air by an out-of-state firm resulted in discontinuation of service to Drummond and Mackinac islands and to Diane Stoffer was chosen Queen of the Chelsea Community Fair at the Saturday night program at the fairgrounds and Kathy Powers was named runner-up. This was the first year a runner-up was named in the annual event.

Top prize of 78 cents per pound was paid by Stop & Shop for the Grand Champion Steer at the Chelsea Community Fair. The steer was fattened by Nancy Young. The steer weighed in at 960 lbs.

The Chelsea Community Fair was officially opened. The Chelsea High School and Community band gave a half-hour band concert under the direction of school band directors Bruce Galbraith and Henry Tinkham. Games provided entertainment for children three to 12 years old, and the program concluded with a fireworks display.

Thursday, Sept. 5, 1957—Olive Ann Reddeman of Chelsea was one of eight 4-H club boys and girls who were chosen as runners-up in the state-wide achievement competition. The runners-up won an all-expense-paid trip to the Canadian National Exposition in Toronto.

Chelsea High Marching Band rehearsals were in full swing this week. A heavy schedule of fall activities was anticipated beginning with the Chelsea Community Fair. Five half-time shows plus one away game show were planned.

Concurrent with the opening of school was the opening of the Chelsea Co-operative Nursery. The nursery teacher, Mrs. Raymond Schairer, was at the door to greet the 3- to 5-year-olds as they climbed the flight of stairs to their first day of school in the Municipal Building.

Durability and versatility—they are qualities that were looked for in the girls' coat department. Expected to be popular this fall and winter were multicolored tweed coats, trimmed in colors or velveteen.

The Economic Research Service says that Americans spent $447 billion on food in 1990. That was 11.8 percent of their total disposable income. In 1968, food spending was 14 percent of disposable income.

In 1891 the first prevailing wage law was passed in Kansas; according to "Labor Firsts in America," a U.S. Labor Department publication.

THANK YOU

The Chelsea Fire Department would like to take this opportunity to thank you and the people of Chelsea for their generosity. Once again a special need has been met by our community. We have managed to raise enough money to purchase an Automatic External Defibrillator (AED) for our rescue squad. Now that our members are trained and the machine is in service, our community will join a small group of communities in Michigan to have this unique and valuable piece of equipment available. This will allow us to give victims of cardiac arrest the best chance for survival. Some people and organizations that deserve special recognition are:

Flo-Ann Longworth	Chelsea Internal Medicine Group
Elizabeth Longworth	Barbara Stepp
VFW Auxiliary Post 4076	Chelsea Rod & Gun Club
Chelsea Rotary Club	Leora Conley
Chelsea Recreation Council	John Winans
Chelsea Community Hospital	Mr. & Mrs. Frederick Stinnett
Chelsea Jaycees	"The Wilkinson Street Yard Sale"

Again, thanks Chelsea for your support.

Grass Lake Depot Plans Open House

An open house is planned Saturday at the Grass Lake Depot, which has undergone extensive renovation over the last couple of years.

Scores of donors and volunteers have had a hand in the restoration of the building, which burned to the ground a number of years ago. Whistletop Park Association was formed to handle the renovations. Eventually the building will serve as a Grass Lake gathering place for all kinds of events and activities, as well as a community center available for meetings, arts and crafts exhibits, musical events, parties, receptions and other group events.

The open house, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., is being planned in conjunction with Heritage Day activities down the street at the Coe House Museum. At the museum there will be crafts demonstrations, displays, horse-drawn rides, a flea market, and a variety of refreshments.

Michigan Historical Museum Will Host Salute to Veterans

Mark your calendars now for the second week-end in November when the Michigan Historical Museum will host A Michigan Salute to Veterans Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 9 and 10, at the Michigan Library and Historical Center.

The tribute honoring men and women who served in our nation's armed forces will include musical presentations, military displays and discussions by veterans of military conflicts, including the Persian Gulf War and World War I.

"Our 1991 salute to military veterans will highlight the history of men and women who served our nation during both war and peace," said Secretary of State Richard H. Austin, Michigan's official historian. "We will showcase uniforms, as well as patriotic songs, especially music our soldiers were listening to while serving their country at home and abroad."

"Most importantly, we will listen to men and women talk about their experiences while serving our country," Secretary Austin said. "The stories of these conflicts, as told by those who lived them, provide a remarkable living history lesson. This is particularly fitting as we observe the 50th anniversary of the bombing of Pearl Harbor, and honor those who have dedicated their lives to defending our country."

In addition to hosting the Michigan Salute to Veterans, Michigan History Magazine is devoting its November/December issue to the 50th anniversary of the bombing of Pearl Harbor. Reflections submitted by men and women recalling the event which signaled U.S. entry into World War II will be featured.

Among those groups and organizations working with the Michigan Department of State in planning the two-day Michigan Salute to Veterans are the Michigan Department of Military Affairs, the Commanders' Group of the State of Michigan, Lansing Mayor Terry McKane's Office, the Library of Michigan, and the Legislative Council.

Veterans Day, officially observed on Nov. 11, was established to mark the armistice ending World War I, signed at the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month in 1918.

The Michigan Historical Museum and Michigan History Magazine are under the auspices of the Michigan Department of State's Bureau of History, the official state agency responsible for preserving and protecting Michigan history.

In addition to operating the Michigan Historical Museum, its nine field sites, and publishing Michigan History Magazine, the bureau operates the State Archives of Michigan, the Historic Preservation Program, the Michigan Historical Marker Program, and the Archaeology and Publications Sections. It also provides staff support to and seeks advice from the Michigan Historical Commission, an advisory body to the Bureau.

Area Beekeepers To Give Program At Eddy Center

Three Chelsea-area beekeepers will give a program this Sunday, Sept. 8 on "Beekeeping for the Hobbyist" at 2 p.m. at the Eddy Geology Center.

Former South Elementary school principal Bob Benedict, former South school teacher Bob Bullock, and Beach Middle school principal Darcy Stielstra, will demonstrate some of their equipment and extract some honey, which participants will be able to try.

Stielstra's demonstration hive (a hive with see-through sides) at the center, which he built and installed, will be the focus of attention. Topics will include the lifecycle of the common European honeybee, how it reproduces and maintains the hive. The program is free to the public.

New Wetlands Manual Subject to Comment

The public comment period on the new federal wetlands delineation manual will be open until mid-October, after which a review will take place and the manual will become final.

Al Almy, director of public affairs for the Michigan Farm Bureau, said the proposed changes in the manual will help satisfy farmer-objections to the wetland regulations, but there is still a need for legislation to remove farmers from the "quagmire of over-regulation."

"Farmers and ranchers are dedicated to production through responsible stewardship, but are often frustrated by heavy-handed unfair regulations that impair their production and property right," Almy said.

The first wage payment law was passed in 1879 in Massachusetts, according to "Labor Firsts in America," a U.S. Labor Department publication. The law required that "cities shall, at intervals not exceeding seven days, pay all laborers who are employed by them... if such payment is demanded."

To Get Comfortable, You Gotta Get Ruud®

If you want to get comfortable this winter, you could start a fire. But it's so messy without a fireplace.

Better yet, get Ruud. A Ruud High-Efficiency furnace can warm your home with the greatest of ease. And since high efficiency means cost-cutting performance, it'll lower your energy bills, too.

Call your Ruud dealer today and get a Ruud High-Efficiency furnace. Get comfortable. Get Ruud.

Blood Drives Planned for Chelsea, Dexter

Blood drives are planned in the Chelsea and Dexter areas later this month.

On Thursday, Sept. 19 a drive sponsored by the American Red Cross will be held at St. Mary's school gym, 400 Congdon St., Chelsea, from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

On Monday, Sept. 30 a drive will be held at St. Andrew's Church of Christ, 7610 Ann Arbor St., Dexter, from 1 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Blood donations are also accepted at the Red Cross Donor Center, 2725 Packard Rd., Ann Arbor on Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday from 2 p.m. to 8 p.m., Tuesday and Friday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Dairy Products Safe in Michigan

Dairy products produced in Michigan are safe and wholesome, according to Bill Schuette, director of the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

Schuette's comments came following news reports of unsanitary conditions in some dairy processing plants in other states.

"Michigan's dairy inspection program is strong and enforces very strict inspection procedures," said

Schuette. "If we find a problem, it is either immediately corrected or we seize the food and prevent its distribution."

Nothing like the situation described in the news articles has been discovered in Michigan in recent memory, said Schuette. "Our dairy industry has been very co-operative in complying with Michigan's dairy standards."

Lutherans Improve Grounds At Faith in Action House

Faith in Action House has been the site of many services to the community for slightly more than a year and, during that year, landscaping was a low priority item.

That has been changing thanks to the efforts of groups and individuals who have donated talent, time and money.

One such organization is the Lutheran Brotherhood Life Insurance and Financial Service Company. A fraternal organization, the Lutheran Brotherhood, has allocated millions of dollars yearly to do benevolent work in churches, schools and communities across the country through organized branches of volunteers.

The Lutheran Brotherhood "Friends in Fellowship" Branch No. 8081 which covers Washtenaw county is one of over 800 branches. Funds are allotted to each branch based on the size of its membership. Branch 8081 has been responsible for delivering over $30,000 into our area for each of the past four years.

The shrubbery-planted-at-Faith-in-Action House is the result of a "Friends in Deed" project in which

Girl Scout Round-Up Slated Friday, Sept. 9 At South School

All Chelsea girls who are interested in joining Girl Scouts for the first time, are invited to a "round-up" on Friday, Sept. 9, from 7 to 8 p.m. at South school cafeteria.

Girls and their parents will learn about the Girl Scout program. Kindergartners can become part of the "Daisies." "Brownies" are for girls in first through third grades. Girls in fourth through sixth grade are members of "Juniors," and older girls may become Cadettes or Seniors.

Troops will be organized for both North and South schools. Parents and other interested adults are urgently needed to become leaders, assistant leaders, and troop committee parents.

If you are unable to attend or would like more information, you may call one of the local Troop Service Directors: North school, Kathy Buss 475-8944; South school, Jan Dohner 475-9633; Beach school, Cathy Kimball 475-3482.

A used uniform exchange will also be held before the round-up, from 6 until 6:45 p.m.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Washtenaw-Ann Arbor-Livingston Training and Employment Center (WALTEC) formerly served as the Administrative Entity for the Washtenaw/Livingston Service Delivery Area (SDA) as mandated under the Jobs Training Partnership Act (JTPA) of 1983. On April 19, 1991, the U.S. Secretary of Labor eliminated the Washtenaw/Livingston SDA and designated Washtenaw County and Livingston County as separate service delivery areas.

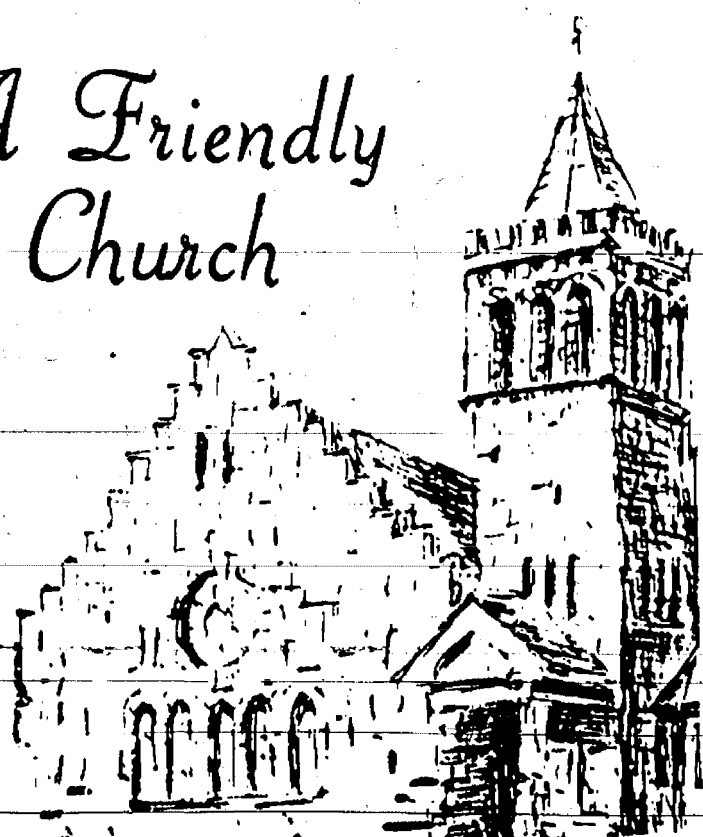

Therefore, effective July 1, 1991, the Washtenaw County JTPA program services will be administered by the Washtenaw County Job Training and Placement Division for Washtenaw County residents only.

Further information may be obtained by contacting the Job Training and Placement Division at the following address:

Weight Loss Surprises Researchers

WASHINGTON—A nutrition organization was hopeful that a nutritionally complete "hi-tech" food tablet would help erase world hunger problems, until a study revealed that one of the ingredients could cause significant weight loss.

Although other studies and scientists may not agree, researchers in Europe found that the ingredient, a natural plant colloid, actually caused people to lose weight, even though specifically instructed not to alter normal eating patterns, according to one study published in the prestigious British Journal of Nutrition. Researchers in an earlier study had speculated that the weight loss was due to decrease in the intestinal absorption of calories.

While the project of National Dietary Research, aptly named Food Source One, would not be used to successfully fulfill its original goal, the formula which has since been improved with other natural colloids has been a windfall for some overweight people. A Daytona Beach, Florida woman fighting a weight battle for 12 years used the product on the recommendation of her physician and lost 30 pounds. She stated, "Not only have I lost 30 pounds but my cholesterol has dropped from 232 to 143. I have two closets full of clothes which have not fit me in two years that I can now wear." In a separate report, a telephone interview revealed that a Wilmington, North Carolina pharmacist lost 14 pounds in 3 weeks on the product and was never hungry.

Food Source One tablets are part of National Dietary Research's comprehensive plan to bring a rapid end to obesity in this country. A variety of nutritionally sound diet plans, specially prepared by NDR, accompany each bottle and provide a natural, drug free alternative for confronting the problem of obesity.

Bed & Breakfast Operation Explained in Extension Publication

By Nancy D. Thelen
County Extension Director
Although Bed and Breakfasts have been firmly established in Europe for years, they were not introduced in the United States until the late 1960's. In the last 10 years the number of Bed and Breakfast establishments has increased dramatically.

If you have considered operating a Bed and Breakfast as a full-time business for profit, the Washtenaw County Co-operative Extension Service has available a new publication on bed and breakfast business development. This North Central Regional Extension publication is titled, Developing a Bed & Breakfast Business Plan (NCR 273) and is available for $3. Topics covered range from determining and researching your market to developing a financial plan.

The publication is available at the Co-operative Extension Service Office, located in the County Service Center, 4133 Washtenaw Ave., Ann Arbor. Hours are 8:30 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. For more information on this and other Co-operative Extension Service programs call 971-0079.

Nature Events Slated At Area Metroparks

Several nature events will be held at the Huron-Clinton Metroparks during the period of Friday, Sept. 6 thru Sunday, Sept. 15.

"Autumn Wildflowers" will be featured during this naturalist-led walk at the Nature Center of Kensington Metropark near Milford/Brighton on Sunday, Sept. 15 at 2 p.m. Two nature events will be held at the Activity Center of Hudson Mills Metropark near Dexter.

"An Evening Under the Stars," a slide presentation on stars, galaxies and the universe, followed by a "naked eye" tour of the constellations visible in the sky now, will be held Friday, Sept. 6 at 8:30 p.m. Participants should bring a flashlight and, if possible, a red filter.

"A September Stroll" to observe and discuss the many changes taking place in nature as autumn approaches, will be held Sunday, Sept. 15 at 1 p.m.

Most programs are "free," some may have a nominal charge. Advance registration and a vehicle entry permit are required. For information/registration, contact the Huron-Clinton Metroparks, phone 1-800-47-PARKS (toll-free).

ANTIQUE TRACTOR PULLING was a family affair for Jeanne Trinkle, above, and her daughter, Amy, at the Chelsea Community Fair on Thursday, Aug. 22.

Next to Last Interstate Segment Opens in Michigan

Opening of a 4.5-mile section of I-69 east of Lansing leaves only one 14-mile gap in Michigan's 1,177-mile Interstate Freeway System.

The newly opened section of east-bound freeway near Perry allows uninterrupted travel on I-69 between Lansing, Flint and Port Huron.

The only uncompleted section of interstate in Michigan will connect Lansing and Charlotte. It is scheduled to open next year.

Purple Rose Theatre Begins Fall Season

Purple Rose Theatre Company begins its 1991-92 season of plays with the new comedy Kuru by Josh C. Manheimer on Thursday, Sept. 5 at 8 p.m. The show will play Thursday through Saturday evenings at 8 p.m. with Sunday performances at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. for eight weeks until Oct.

27. All performances will be held at the Garage Theatre, home of the Purple Rose Theatre Company, 137 Park St., Chelsea.

Written by Josh C. Manheimer, Kuru takes place inside a jungle hut in New Guinea where Dr. Arthur Roman is desperately searching for a cure to a fatal disease ravaging the native tribe. The disease, entitled Kuru, strikes the native women and children with uncontrollable twitching, smiling and laughing until death results. Dr. Roman's scientific research, which if successful may garner him the Nobel Prize, is interrupted by the unannounced arrival of his former fiancée, a midwestern cooking school instructor named Mary Lou Anderson. Miss Anderson, on her first trip outside the confines of her tiny hometown, is shocked and appalled at the cultural differences and beliefs of the natives. She attempts to bridge the cultural gap by teaching gourmet cooking lessons while Arthur continues his medical research. The ill-matched pair, along with a native girl named Mokina, finally stumble upon a possible cure for Kuru, which will save the tribe but permanently change all their lives outside the jungle.

Kuru is the first play from Vermont writer Josh C. Manheimer and has been successfully produced at regional theatres across the country, including Pennsylvania Stage Company, American Stage Festival and Tampa Players. Although Kuru is a real disease, Mr. Manheimer's comedy does not pretend to be a factual record of real events or real people. Names have been changed; characters and incidents have been created to allow an irreverent look at some of the world's serious topics including cultural differences and fatal diseases.

Arthur Pearson will be playing the role of Dr. Arthur Roman with Connie McGrail portraying the role of Mary Lou Anderson. Both Pearson and McGrail are members of Actors' Equity Association and have extensive credentials in the Chicago theatre scene. Maria Csoka, a first-year student at Wayne State University, completes the Kuru cast in the role of Mokina, the young native girl.

Kuru is directed by T. Newell Kring, artistic director of the Purple Rose Theatre Company. Scenic design is by Bartley H. Bauer with lighting design by Dana White. Amanda Mengden is stage manager for the production. Sundays at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. Five low-priced preview performances will run from Sept. 5 through Thursday, Sept. 12. The official opening night is Friday, Sept. 13.

Reservations and additional information may be obtained by calling the Box Office at (313) 475-7902. Reservations are recommended due to the limited seating. The Purple Rose Theatre Box Office is open Tuesdays through Fridays from noon to 6 p.m. and week-ends of performances beginning one hour prior to curtain.

The remainder of the 1991-92 Purple Rose Theatre schedule of events will be Ties That Bind an original drama/comedy by Michigan playwright Kitty S. Dublin, Nov. 14 through Dec. 22 and More Fun Than Bowling, a comedy by Steven Dietz, Jan. 23 through March 15.

Fire Department Again Asks Village To Consider New Northern Station

Chelsea Fire Department has asked the village to consider a plan to build a second fire station in the North Lake area in 1993, a third fire station in south of the village in 2001, and to renovate the current station in 1996.

Second assistant chief Tom Osborne suggested that costs for the stations be subsidized by the village and Sylvan, Lyndon, Lima, and Dexter townships in the same way costs for truck purchases are handled—a charge-back system based on the number of runs to each area.

He estimated total costs at $343,000, although trustee Frank Hammer urged Osborne to consider adding a contingency amount above that.

Osborne said the new stations would essentially be cinder block buildings that house trucks. There would be no meeting rooms, kitchens, or other facilities common to most fire stations.

Osborne told council that due to building in the northern part of the service area, response time is growing unacceptably long. That problem can be dealt with, he said, if a station is built and firefighters are recruited from the area. He said the department already has enough trucks to equip it.

"People don't want to wait 15 minutes for us to get there," Osborne said.

"It's just a matter of time." He said 20 percent of the department's runs are to the north.

The current station would be renovated to handle training sessions and monthly meetings adequately.

The third station is estimated to be about 10 years away. Additional equipment would also have to be purchased.

Osborne suggested that a total of $35,000 be collected every year for 10 years from the village and townships to cover the cost.

Village manager Jack Myers agreed to help Osborne secure bids for architectural drawings for the building. Osborne said both new fire stations would be identical.

Osborne suggested that land be purchased for the station by the township in which the station is located. It would then be leased back to the fire department for $1 annually on a long-term lease.

As of last week, township governments had not been formally contacted about the plan.

The department asked council about a year ago to consider a similar plan, and then-manager Robert Stalker pursued donation of land by the state. However, the state was not willing to donate land "even though they don't hesitate to call us for a grass fire," Osborne said.

Bulldogs Open Football Season Friday at Home

Chelsea Bulldogs varsity football team opens its season this Friday at home against the Mason Bulldogs. The non-conference game starts at 7:30 p.m.

For most Chelsea fans, it will be the first glimpse of the Jude Quilterless Bulldogs. Quilter, the three-year varsity running back, set a number of records and was as close to Mr. Excitement as anyone the program has ever had.

Despite the loss of Quilter, head coach Gene LaFave is confident he has a solid offensive team with perhaps its most diversified attack since the 1986 Southeastern Conference championship team.

"We should be have a very good offensive team," LaFave says.

"We think (sophomore) Pat Steele will be a very good quarterback. He has great confidence and good skills but needs a little proof under fire. We'll also have two rookie guards. How our guards play and how our quarterback develops will probably determine how good we are."

Senior all-conference tackle Mike Terpstra returns to anchor the left side of the line. He and junior tight end Tom Poulter will handle much of the blocking for senior running backs Adam Taylor and Ben Hurst. Terpstra, last year's state champion heavyweight wrestler, is one of the quickest and smartest linemen LaFave has ever coached. He's also relatively big at 260 pounds. Sophomore David Brock is the projected starting left guard. That side of the line will see much of the action.

Hurst and Taylor could turn out to be a formidable 1-2 punch, although not necessarily in that order. Hurst has the breakaway potential while Taylor can gain yardage by using his strength to run over tacklers. Hurst and Taylor have also been receivers during their careers, so Steele should have plenty of targets.

The receiving corps, in fact, could be the Bulldogs' best in many years. Sophomore wide receiver Colby Skelton started last season and has looked strong in scrimmages. Sophomore flanker Gabe Bernhard is also a solid receiver, as is Poulter, LaFave says. On any given play, Steele could throw to any one of five players.

LaFave says the defensive secondary will also be one of the strong points of his team. He has Taylor, an all-league player at strong safety, Hurst, an all-league second team free safety, and sophomore cornerbacks Skelton and Bernhard.

Linebackers will be Adams and senior Jeff Holzhausen.

Defensive line will have junior Dan Clippert at nose guard, junior Ken Slane and senior Jeff Moore at tackles, and senior Eric Beeman and Poulter at ends.

Over-all, there are six seniors and plenty of experience on defense.

Hurst will handle all the kicking chores.

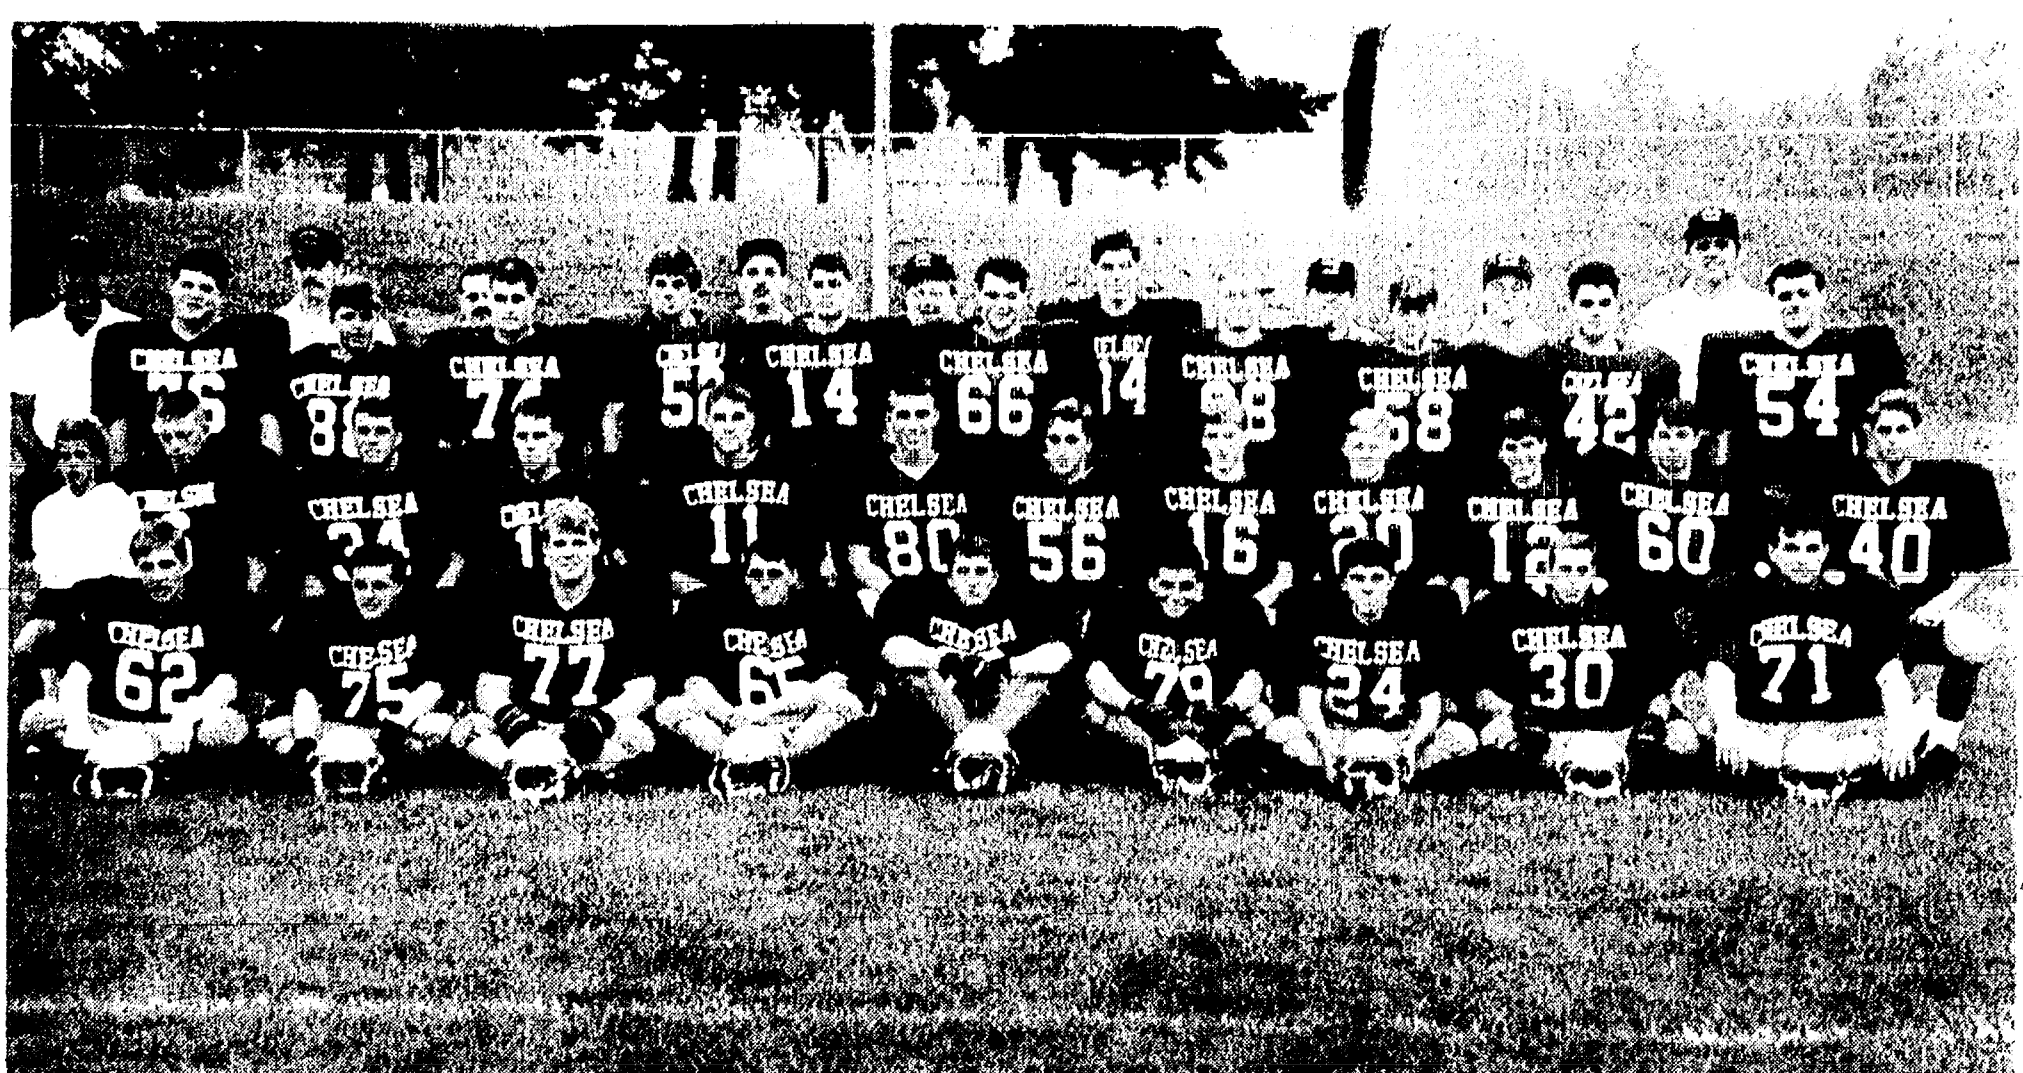

Other members of the team include Matt Gaken, Jason Johnson, Aric Dougherty, Ryan Gerardi, Erick Cornell, Rob Bergman, Scott Larson, Mark Kemner, Nick Schumann, Casey Schiller, Todd Watson, and Steve Riddle.

The SEC should continue to be a strong league, LaFave says.

"A team with a 3-3 record could be a heck of a team this year," LaFave says.

"Pinckney, Tecumseh, Saline, and Milan are all solid teams. Lincoln and Dexter had some good young players last season. I would think we'll be right there in the hunt, but I'd hesitate to categorize anyone as the favorite."

Youth, Inexperience Characterize Chelsea Girls Basketball Team

It'll be a "very challenging season," in the words of new Chelsea Bulldogs girls basketball coach Dave Wojcicki.

Wojcicki, who was named coach earlier this summer after former coach Rahn Rosentreter resigned, has only two seniors among the 10 players on his team, one of whom hasn't played basketball since eighth grade. The other members include two juniors, five sophomores, and one freshman.

The team is also the smallest in years in terms of height.

"Every scrimmage we've had, our opponent has been taller than us," Wojcicki said.

"Our first opponent, Fowlerville (game scheduled for last night), is two or three inches taller than us at every position. Plus we'll be playing against more experienced people."

Wojcicki said his team, especially in the early going, will have to rely on defensive quickness to carry it. The new coach has installed a new offense, which still has some bugs to work out. He's hoping defensive quickness will create easy scoring opportunities.

"Maybe we can get out and run," Wojcicki said.

Wojcicki wants to build a man-to-man trapping defense, not unlike the kind of defense Robin Raymond's boys teams play. He'd like to be able to use a zone press and a zone trap as well.

Outside of senior Kelly Cross (who's playing basketball after three years of swimming), the team is loaded with guards. Cross, an aggressive athlete, will help the team on the boards. Other likely starters are senior Christine Burg, juniors Ginny Flannery and Heather McConeghy, and sophomore Nicki Plasecki. There will be a lot of rotation of positions.

Other members of the team include junior Jackie Crawford, sophomores Jamie Collinsworth, Mara Smith, and Renae Skelly, and freshman Martha Merkel.

"We're still getting to know each other," Wojcicki said.

"So far I'm real happy about what's going on. The kids are trying real hard and are listening well. As I've told them, I think we can have some success. Right now my goal is just to make them better basketball players."

Tecumseh, Saline, Pinckney, and Dexter have the best chances at a Southeastern Conference title, Wojcicki said. The Bulldogs have won three straight Southeastern Conference titles.

Chelsea Golfers Lose to Dexter

Chelsea Bulldogs golf team opened its Southeastern Conference season last Thursday, Aug. 29 with a loss to the Dexter Dreadnaughts, 171-178.

Chelsea scorers included Chris White 42, Nathan Oake 44, Nick McCalla 45, and Aaron Tanner 47.

The Bulldogs won the junior varsity match, 191-199. Chelsea scorers were Cory Brown 44, Jeff Branch 48, Jim Tallman 49, and Dave Seitz and Jason McVittie 50 (only one score counted).

"I'm still seeing improvement this year over what we did against the same opponents last year, but not enough to turn the tide in our favor for a victory," said Chelsea coach Jim Tallman.

"The younger members are definitely showing good progress."

Soccer Sign-ups Continue Class Slated for Refs, Coaches

Sign-up is continuing for Chelsea Recreation Department's popular fall soccer program, which begins play Saturday, Sept. 14.

The program is second only to baseball and softball in the number of boys and girls who play. The program was expanded this year to include seventh and eighth graders. It emphasizes instruction and fun.

Games are played on Papo Fields next to St. Mary's Catholic church on Old US-12 on Saturday mornings. Kindergarten and first graders, and second and third graders will play from 10:30 a.m. to noon. Fourth and fifth, and sixth, seventh, and eighth graders will play from 9 a.m. to 10:30 a.m.

An instructional clinic for coaches, referees, and parents will be held this Saturday, Sept. 7 at the Chelsea High school cafeteria from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., and lunch will be provided. The clinic is necessary because soccer is a relatively new sport in this country and few adults have played it.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

Chelsea girls played basketball last night. The Bulldogs start their football season Friday. Cross country starts Saturday.

Sure was a short vacation. Just yesterday we were in Battle Creek watching the Bulldogs win their first state baseball championship. The years get shorter as my hair turns gray.

Last year was a great one for Chelsea sports fans. Bulldog girls ran the Southeastern Conference right into the ground in cross country and track. They also took league basketball and softball titles.

The boys had decent football and basketball seasons, over-achieved in wrestling and maybe swimming, got back on track in track. And then, of course, won that state baseball title.

So what's in store this year. Well, I'd predict at least one state title among all the possibilities. Junior Lisa Monti is probably still the best distance runner in the state, senior Jon Royce is probably still the best high jumper in the state, and senior Mike Terpsstra is probably still the best heavyweight wrestler in the state. Have to use the qualifying "probably" because there are so many factors. Remember two years ago when Monti won the team cross country race as a freshman? I'll bet that surprised a senior or two. There are the unknowns, the move-ins, the growers and gainers, and the academically ineligible who all make high school sports so unpredictable.

Then there's the girls cross country team. If everyone stays healthy, and runs to her ability (two big ifs), there may not be a team that can touch them.

What else may happen this fall? The Bulldogs may not end up much above 500, but I have the feeling we're in for some juiced-up football. I haven't seen a lot of this team, but I've seen enough to know that we've got a guy who can pass in Pat Steele, a few guys who can catch, led by Calby Skelton, a couple of guys who can run in Adam Taylor and Ben Hurst, and at least one huge guy who can block in Mike Terpsstra. When the Bulldogs lose, it may be 50-48.

Girls basketball team isn't likely to make it four straight Southeastern Conference titles. There are just two seniors, one with significant experience. The vast majority of high school championship teams are dominated by seniors.

At any rate, it ought to be another good year for sports in Chelsea. Let the games begin.

The proposed $23.75 million school bond issue is starting to cause a lot of stir on both sides. We haven't had so many letters about any issue since the infamous cheerleading flap of five or six years ago.

A couple of letters have wondered whether sports or music programs would be cut if the bond issue doesn't pass. The answer is simple—no. Nothing at all would be cut. The bond issue has nothing to do with the current school operating budget, which is what funds those programs, as well as everything else.

The proposed athletic facilities have also become one of the most controversial parts of the project. They amount to about 17 percent of the over-all cost.

Some of you may get the wrong idea when you see that $80,000 would be allocated for the construction of a new press box at the football field. Rest assured, THEY ARE NOT BUILDING IT FOR THE CHELSEA STANDARD. "Press box" is really a misnomer. It is more of an athletic events control center. The only press person who sits up there during football season is the Ann Arbor News reporter, and that's because reporters for daily newspapers tend to be wimps who need a few creature comforts, like a chair and table. I've been in the so-called press box about five times in seven years, mostly to thaw out. The press box is actually filled with coaches, timers, statisticians, spotters, announcers, band directors, an occasional superintendent, and film crews. In the spring, it's the command center for track meets.

For what it's worth, Chelsea's facility may be the worst and most cramped in the state. I've seen none more run down or uncomfortable at any other school. It's really not much more sophisticated than one of those tree house kits you can buy at do-it-yourself centers, except it doesn't have a rope ladder.

Don't throw away a good thing. Recycle!

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I am writing in support of the proposed school bond issue. The school board and administration have developed a plan to make several types of improvements to the educational facilities of Chelsea. These improvements will enhance the quality of the educational experience for our children, and they will thereby raise the quality of life in Chelsea.

As a parent and an educator, I have been very pleased with the operation of the Chelsea schools. The system is managed and staffed by people with talent, dedication, and integrity. These people and our children deserve our support. Our school tax money is in no sense being wasted. It is being spent carefully and efficiently on our most important people.

Jack Wheeler
Chelsea

To the Editor,

Attention all Chelsea School District voters and non-voters.

Please think of the children all you parents, grandparents and parents-to-be. In the year of our Lord 2022 A.D. your children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren will, with luck, have just paid off the $23,750,000 with interest. A graduate class of 1992 will be 47 years old in the year 2022 A.D. Think on this.

Do you really want to do this to your children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren? I think not.

Ray Coulter
Grass Lake.

To the Editor,

In the letter to the editor of Aug. 27, the Hammerschmidt and Welches have raised some questions I would like to address.

1. The school board's study of facilities, current and future needs, spans four years.

2. The student increase has been steady over recent years and there are development plans afoot which could add an additional 120 homes to the district in the immediate future.

3. The "architectural blunder" at the high school figures prominently in the plans, including enclosing the corridors between buildings.

4. The Chelsea Board of Education does NOT threaten, and will NOT threaten to eliminate sports in the event of a failure on our part to convince you of the need for improved facilities.

5. At the very least, a 12 months school year would require air conditioning in all buildings, a very costly matter.

6. Much of the cost of increased enrollment will have to be met whether a new school is built or not. Teachers must be hired, portable classrooms rented or purchased. It will put a lot of pressure on our present desirable class size of 25 or under, on cafeteria and media center facilities, to name only two.

7. A great deal of time was spent trying to figure a way of adding to the two existing elementary buildings. There are site limitations at both schools, too many problems to list here; and, North and South schools are both over planned enrollment of 500 to nearly 600 already for '91-92.

8. We have elementary and high school buildings, constructed for the most part in the 50's, trying to meet the educational challenges necessary to meet the demands of the next century.

Governor Engler's current tax reform package will give us some relief, freezing assessments for the next year and holding increases to cost of living. In the meantime, the Chelsea Board of Education, in pursuit of one of its '91-92 goals, is going to become a lobbying voice in Lansing to insure that another year does not pass before property owners in Michigan will get some relief while not having to compromise their commitment to educational success for our students who we rely on to become the leaders of tomorrow.

Ann-Feeney, Retired
Chelsea Board of Education.

To the Editor,

I would like to take this opportunity to address some of the concerns and criticisms regarding the Chelsea School System. I offer the following to other members of the community as a parent who is not an employee of the district.

For those who are having problems finding answers to their questions about how the system is run, where the money goes to, who makes the decisions and what these decisions are based on, please let me offer these sources.

The school district publishes and mails the "Chelsea Challenge" which has just been delivered to homes and offers the latest information on the system.

The Chelsea Standard has devoted hundreds of thousands of words, especially recently, in several forms. There are news articles regarding all aspects of functions and actions within the school system, a column specifically intended for the school superintendent to answer direct questions, regular reporting of the minutes of school board meetings, editorial letters, and interviews with school administration. I have yet to see one issue that does not cover actual facts and figures, along with their sources. The Ann Arbor News also freemly covers school district developments in this community section and through news articles. The school system makes a great effort to get accurate and current information out to the community in written form.

If questions persist in your mind, regular meetings are held by PTN (Parent-Teachers of North Elementary school), PTS (South Elementary), Beach Middle school's parent group, and the high school's parent group. There is always a school principal present at every meeting, you do not have to be a parent to attend, meetings are held days and evenings, and top school administrators are frequently present to offer updated information and answer questions. Specialty groups such as Music and Athletic Boosters regularly have administrators at their meetings as well. Again, you do not have to be a member or parent to attend and participate.

The superintendent of the school system also holds an informal monthly meeting for interested community members called "Dialog." This format is set up specifically to gather information and concerns from community members, answer questions, and give current information. My experience has been that if an answer to a question is not immediately available, the superintendent or host principal has made every effort to obtain the answer and get it to those who are concerned. Special meetings are held to discuss issues with members of the community when the need arises, both at the request of school administrators and of private groups and individuals.

Not to be overlooked are the open monthly school board meetings which give those in attendance the opportunity to express concerns and ask questions. There are also the "See for Yourself" tours of the schools, held regularly, which include lunch with administrators and open discussion. These are a real eye opener and very interesting. There are no costs to participants, even baby-sitting is sometimes available or can be arranged, and please let me again stress that those attending do not have to have children in the school system. These are public meetings.

A quick call to the school district administration office, or any of the school offices, will give you the times and dates of the previously described meetings, or will set you up with an individual meeting with an administrator. You can also get a listing of school administrators and the school board members who you voted for to represent you (and who are also available for you to contact with questions and concerns, or for informational needs).

There is also another good way to find out what is going on in the school system, and this is my personal favorite! I invite you to get off your chair and offer some time and energy to the schools. I have offered hundreds of hours over the past 7 plus years and I only do a tiny fraction of what I see others give.

There are countless things that need to be done and whether you have only a few minutes, or many hours to offer, you are badly needed. Do projects at home, or help inside the schools, whatever suits you best. You don't have to have a special ability, you don't have to have a child in school, and you don't have to commit to long-term projects. Since most of these past years I worked outside the home, as many others do, I fully understand how precious your time and energy are. I also understand how precious each and every child is.

Please come and see for yourself, as I have, how hard all the employees work to do the best they can with what is available to them. I assure you that most members of this pampered and successful community would not work under the same conditions, much less give extra and freely of themselves as I have seen happening daily.

So if you are among those who are so quick to feel that your negative and adversarial opinions are all that you need to give, please speak only for yourself. I feel it is my responsibility to get the answers I need. I have found out that there are many ways generously and graciously offered. Whether community citizen or school employee, we are all on the same team, wanting the best education and environment for our future adults. In the process, I have found a quiet and helpful way to let the children of this community know just how important they are by giving them my time, effort, and care. An I invite you to join me.

Thank you for reading this letter.
Rita M. Neustifter.

Dear Editor,

The Chelsea School District is faced with a decision, of passing or not passing a $23,750,000.00 bond. I have questions for Mr. Piasecki on each of the areas which need taxpayer dollars to accomplish.

1. Why are you requesting an Early Childhood Center, for pre-school, kindergarten and first grade? The parents of the children attending preschool will be paying for this service. Shouldn't the community have a chance to vote on a referendum providing this service at the taxpayers' expense for the entire community not just a few who will be subsidized?

Will this school be designed in a versatile manner to be used by different grade levels in the future or are the bathrooms, and counters designed for very small children only?

I don't see any request for additional buses for all the additional children your consultants have predicted will fill our schools. By the way what is our growth this year?

How much are you going to ask the voters to pay for an additional operating millage for the Early Childhood Center once it's built? This bond does not cover on-going operational expenses or additional staff.

2. North school, South school and the middle school need extensive repairs. Why hasn't on-going maintenance kept our schools in better shape?

3. Chelsea High school would get the majority share of the pending bond, $12,980,001.

How long will these repairs last? Will you ask the voters in five or 10 years for another bond to build a new high school? Would all necessary repairs be accomplished with the passage of this bond to make the high school in top shape?

4. $80,000 for a new press box seems a bit too much. The voters of Chelsea need and deserve a detailed explanation of the above costs, to make the right decision.

You may be able to afford the property taxes on your home with $71,000 a year salary. There are many in this community that can't.

I support education and sports, but I can't support this school bond for $23,750,000.00 which includes a lot of unnecessary expenses. I urge everyone to vote No!

Roger A. Dymond.

To the Editor,

I'm puzzled about our labor relations laws. My wife has been a school bus driver for 16 years for the Chelsea School District, without any driving citations or severe criticism. We left on vacation this year and she neglected her union dues of $16.50. Upon our return she was notified of her termination. She sent her payment into the union to correct the error and it was rejected.

I cannot understand in America how a conscience worker is rewarded for their efforts.

To the Editor,

We are a group of concerned business and professional people who want to express our support for the Chelsea School Board's Bond Proposal.

As business owners, we know you have to sometimes make long-term investments to meet market-place demands. Investing in the schools needed by the community will pay off down the road. It will also co-ordinate with the other efforts being made because of the Village growth, like the DDA's renovations and the expansion of commercial and office space. All of these will work together to maintain Chelsea as a good place to live and do business.

Our community is vital and growing; the school board's request is both a reasonable and important response to this growth.

All of us are also owners of private property in the district. We also pay taxes, but realize the increases we all had are due to re-assessments which are not controlled by the schools. In fact, even with the new bonds, the millage rate for the schools next year will be less than it was three years ago (88/89)!

In summation, we encourage voters to consider the facts, and vote for this bond proposal. The financing of the bonds is sound and fair. It's a good investment in Chelsea's future.

Dear Editor,

We would like to compliment the Welches and Hammerschmidt on their well-written Aug. 28 letter expressing opposition to the upcoming bond issue. If anyone in the Chelsea School District missed it, it would be well worth their while to find and read it.

No one should vote "yes" for anything without complete and specific information. In this case, we are entitled to know how every projected dollar has been allocated. What we keep getting is that same general list of proposed projects. Lack of information causes doubt. Do the school officials themselves truly understand where every dollar is to be used? And after those dollars are spent, they admit there will have to be additional millage for staffing and maintenance. The superintendent stated at a small interest group meeting last school year, that the school has only two more mills before we reach the permitted limit of 50 mills. What then? And how do other districts operate on lower millage and have such nice facilities?

It has been stated that after a four year study, the projects included in the $23,750,000 package were decided upon by the Board of Education. It is true that during the past four years, it appeared there would be a tremendous growth in families moving into the school district; however, for the past year or more, sale of lots in the new subdivisions has come to a screeching halt and now construction of homes is at a minimum. There are numerous homes for sale in the district that are not moving. People in the area have been laid off and it is the very fortunate individual who is hired. If taxes go any higher, we wonder how many families can afford to move into the district. And it sure doesn't make it more appealing to observe the school officials have been insensitive to these facts by deciding to go for a "total package" as the superintendent also stated, then if that doesn't pass, go back and decide which projects would hold priority— which by the way, would be an additional cost over and above what has already been spent for four years of consultation!

Those who are supporting the bond issue wish to support the schools in any way possible and of course we also want the best educational opportunities for Chelsea youth. We have always supported millage requests in the past, but this one, along with unanswered questions, leaves too many voids in some areas (one example: music) and seems extremely extravagant in others (example: sports). We are aware of some school issues affecting students/programs/academics that need to be addressed before we will feel confident enough in school leadership to blindly vote in favor of any bond issue.

We would also like to say to Mr. Heim, who's letter also opposed the bond issue, you are not dumb at all. We think you're right on... Down with "loose truth!"

Al and Carolyn White.

"SALUTE THOSE WHO SERVE" was the theme of Fair Parade. Smith, first runner-up, was sponsored by fair queen candidate Michelle Smith's float in the Chelsea Chelsea Community Hospital.

BEHIND THE HEADLINES:

The 'Luxury Tax' Backfires

For all its huffing and puffing, Congress does come up with some good appearing ideas from time to time. The trouble is, they often do more harm than good.

By Philip C. Clarke
Take for example the catastrophic health insurance program for senior citizens. You may remember that Congress passed this legislation in 1988, on the assumption that senior citizens needed extra health care protection. The problem was, nobody remembered to tell the senior citizens that they needed it. And when they found out how much the new program was going to cost them in higher Medicare premiums and fees, they rebelled and persuaded Congress to repeal the program before it took effect.

Well, it looks like Congress has done it again. Just last year, when Congress and the Bush administration made their controversial budget agreement, they included a provision which seemed like a surefire political winner. Known as the luxury tax, this provision jacked up excise taxes to 10 percent on a range of so-called luxury items, including cars costing more than $30,000, yachts, private airplanes, expensive jewelry and furs.

Official Washington's reasoning went something like this: Because only wealthy people can afford such items, this tax would effectively raise revenues from just the rich. Guess what? Somebody forgot to tell Congress that the well-to-do had other ideas, such as not buying so many luxury items. In fact, such sales have declined dramatically. For example, according to a study by FAIRTAX—Federation Against Inequitable and Regressive Taxation—a coalition of high-end auto dealers, sales dropped by 20 percent in the first part of this year. And this represents a loss, according to the FAIRTAX study, of about $1.3 billion. These sales losses have consequences as well.

The FAIRTAX study projects that 50 dealerships will close their doors as a result of the luxury tax, leading to the loss of about 2,100 jobs. In surviving dealerships, cutbacks will mean another 1,100 jobs eliminated. And you can be sure that most of the people losing those jobs could not have afforded these luxury cars in the first place.

The story is the same in the boat building industry. Senators John Chaffee, a Republican from Rhode Island, and John Breaux, a Democrat from Louisiana, both have told their colleagues of hundreds of their constituents being laid off because of the drop in boat sales. Again, these workers are not in the comfortably well-off category.

But the real irony in this "best laid plans" story is that far from raising additional revenue, this luxury tax is likely to cost the government money. In the auto industry alone, the FAIRTAX study estimates that state and federal governments will lose about $135 million in tax revenues this year. And that doesn't even take into account the money these governments will have to spend in increased unemployment compensation benefits. With these kinds of results, it's small wonder that Congress is now considering legislation to repeal the so-called luxury tax.

Antlerless Deer Hunting Licenses Now Available

Department of Natural Resources (DNR) application forms and guides for antlerless deer hunting licenses will be available after Aug. 15 at more than 2,000 hunting license dealers throughout Michigan.

The applications must be received by the DNR and postmarked by Sept. 24. The guide contains a map of areas open to antlerless deer hunting, lists the odds for getting antlerless deer hunting licenses by deer management unit, and has detailed instructions for filling out the application card correctly.

An antlerless deer hunting license allows a hunter to take a deer without antlers or with antlers less than 3 inches in length during the regular firearm deer hunting season, Nov. 15-30. Antlerless deer licenses not used during the regular firearm season will be valid for use in designated deer management units during the Dec. 6-15 muzzleloading season in the Upper Peninsula, the Dec. 13-22 muzzleloading season in the Lower Peninsula, or the Dec. 1, 1991-Jan. 1, 1992 bowhunting season.

In order to apply for an antlerless deer hunting license, hunters must first purchase a 1991 deer hunting license and a 1991 passbook, and also must buy an application card for a non-refundable $3 fee.

The DNR will hold a random drawing to determine which applicants will be issued antlerless deer hunting licenses and will mail a free killtag/backtag to successful applicants, allowing hunters to take an antlerless deer in a specific deer management unit.

A total of 288,959 antlerless deer hunting licenses will be available in about 100 deer management units where deer numbers need to be stabilized or reduced. This is a 25 percent reduction from last year, when 386,959 antlerless deer hunting licenses were available. This year, there will be more bucks-only units in the northern Lower Peninsula. In addition, the quota of available licenses has been reduced in many units because of a smaller deer herd. Units with serious crop damage or deer-vehicle accident risk will continue to have the same or even more antlerless deer hunting licenses available.

The odds of obtaining an antlerless deer hunting license this year will be highest on private land, where deer numbers are higher than on public land. About 82 percent of applicants for the private land antlerless licenses should be successful in the drawing this year. Landowners and their invited guests are eligible to apply for the private land antlerless deer hunting licenses.

The odds of obtaining a general antlerless deer license will be lower this year, since deer numbers are limited on most public lands.

LADIES DAY co-ordinator Kris Bergman has fun with one of Lary Hafner's gowns during the fashion show at the Chelsea Community Fair on Friday, Aug. 23.

all about..."

Our new 3-Month Options CD lets you put your money in and take your money out anytime. You can make as many additions to a 3-Month Options CD as you like. And if you run into unforeseen expenses or want to transfer money to another investment, you can make one withdrawal of any amount. You can even close your CD altogether—without penalty. Our impressive interest rate and low minimum deposit of $100 are something to dance about, too.

With an Options CD, you can waltz right in and change it anytime. And that's what it's all about.

3 Month CD

Card of Thanks 19

THANK YOU—

To the passengers of Chelsea School Bus No. 11: I want to "THANK" all of the children, over the 11 years of driving this route, for the pleasure of watching you grow and develop into first-class adults. I have, through a labor dispute, not been able to return to a job that meant the world to me. Thank-you again for our many years together.

Sue Van der Waard.

THANK YOU—

We would like to extend our sincere thanks to the Chelsea Fire Dept. and their volunteer staff for their prompt response during our recent fire loss. We truly appreciate their efforts and are thankful for their dedication. With great appreciation, Steve and Crystal Heydlauff.

THANK YOU—

We want to thank you for the lovely cards and best wishes we received for our 65th wedding anniversary.

Ernest and Anna Sell.

FRIENDS OF McKune Memorial Library are beginning a fund-raising drive to repair chimneys before the winter season arrives.

Library Friends Report Successful Fund Drive

Over 112 families have responded to the Library Friends' request for funds to upgrade equipment for the McKune Library this year. To date over $3,200 has been donated to the library. A display thanking donors (those who did not request anonymity) will be set up in the library.

President Mary Green expressed both enthusiasm and gratitude toward the library staff and the community members who were so generous with their support. "We are fortunate to have three excellent groups to work with, a very able and helpful library staff and an active and supportive Friends Group and community following. I think I can speak for all the Friends when I say that I am very pleased with the results of the fund drive and the book and geranium sales and the positive response we have had to them this summer. These three activities raised over $4,000 this year."

Buoyed by their success, the Library Friends group is currently working to raise additional funds to pay for some much needed repairs to the library chimneys. It is anticipated that this work will be costly and it is felt that it is important to have this task completed before winter. The Friends' plans to support this activity including fund-raising by mail in the village. "Everyone wants to help support the library," reports Mary Green, "and we will all be pleased to see it repaired so it can continue to serve the community."

Persons wishing to donate time to the Friends or funds to the library may contact Mary at 475-7035.

Fr. Enzo Addari Returns to St. Louis Center

Fr. Enzo Addari, S.C. returned as administrator of St. Louis Center as of Tuesday, Aug. 20.

The Fr. Addari was program director there from 1983 to 1988. He has more than 20 years of experience working with the developmentally disabled. He is a graduate of Villanova University in Pennsylvania.

St. Louis Center, 16195 Old US-12, is licensed by the Michigan Department of Social Services for children and adults. This year is the center's 30th.

Police Catch Man Urinating In Public

A 21-year-old Sugarloaf Lake resident was arrested for indecent exposure on Saturday, Aug. 31 after Chelsea police caught him urinating on the Tower Mart building.

According to police, an officer on routine patrol at 6:30 p.m. saw two men standing about 10 feet from the entrance of the store near a shrub. Police saw one of the men standing with his hands near his waist. After talking to the man, the officer saw an "unidentified liquid" dripping down the side of the building. A store employee was notified, who told police she had not poured anything on the building.

The man told police he had consumed a couple of beers at a local bar before the incident.

Village Plans To Participate In Mayor Exchange

Village of Chelsea plans to participate in the annual Mayors Exchange Day next May 18.

The program pairs up communities, and delegations from each community visit the other.

"I'd like to participate," village president Richard Steele told council last Tuesday, Aug. 28.

"We have a lot to show off." The village has not participated in the program in several years.

'Bike for Burns' Planned To Benefit Burn Institute

The sixth annual "Bike for Burns" fundraiser will take place on Saturday, Sept. 14.

The event is held to raise money for the National Institute for Burn Medicine in Ann Arbor. It is a non-profit, support organization dedicated to preventing burn injuries, saving burn victims, and improving chances for complete recovery and rehabilitation.

Three bike routes are available for people with all levels of bicycling experience. A 10-mile route will be through the village, while longer rides will go through the Waterloo-Hell areas.

Each registered bicyclist will receive a free Bike for Burns t-shirt. There will be trucks patrolling the route with plenty of fruit, subs, and pizza.

Some organizations, such as Chelsea Milling Co., Ames Department Store, Polly's Market, and Chelsea Big Boy are organizing teams of participants.

For more information, or to receive sponsor sheets, call Lisa Parker at the institute at 769-9000.

Home Mortgages?

Come to the leader!

We have made more home mortgages in the Chelsea area than anyone else. Probably more mortgages than the next two or three leading lenders combined. We're not bragging. Well, maybe a little. What we are saying is that we do make home mortgages. Lots of them. And the reasons are quite clear. Good service. Good terms. Good understanding. We hold on to our mortgages. We don't sell them. You will always be dealing with your locally owned and directed community bank when you select Chelsea State Bank for your mortgage. Stop in. Let's talk.

Farm Tour Will Visit Webster Township

The 1991 Farm Tour, sponsored by the Interfaith Council for Peace and Justice, will feature "a day on the farm in Webster township," Saturday, Sept. 14, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Morning Tour

The morning tour will be conducted at the Baldus Farm, a 1,000-acre sesquicentennial farm, dating back to 1830.

The Baldus family grows corn, wheat and hay, and raises a few beef cattle.

It's evident this farm is in transition, as a subdivision of condominiums is being developed across the road.

Lunchtime

During the lunchtime program at Webster church, Webster township supervisor Don Zeeb, a farmer in his own right, will speak about "Farms and Transition in Webster Township," and the Webster Township Historical Society will display documents and artifacts from bygone farming days.

Afternoon Tour

Bluebird Farm on Walsh Rd., now in its fourth year of operation, grows organic tomatoes, melons, broccoli and peppers, using minimal amounts of naturally-derived herbicides and pesticides.

This is a four-acre farm, as pretty as its name.

The house and barn are both owner-constructed, and the farm produce is sold at the local co-ops.

There will be special on-farm and after-lunch activities for children.

Washtenaw County Co-Operative Extension agent Bill Ames will serve as moderator for the 1991 Farm Tour program.

Gravel Pit Zoning Change Opposed

Residents on Luick Dr. in Lima township are apparently overwhelmingly opposed to a change in zoning for a parcel of land on the road which currently contains a gravel pit.

The township planning commission held a public hearing last week to consider a request by landowner John Klink. He has asked for the parcel, now zoned residential, to be changed to light industrial. The parcel was a gravel pit before zoning was instituted.

According to planning commission chair David Bacon, a straw poll after the hearing showed no support for the re-zoning, which Bacon said, "is not unusual for a public hearing."

Klink, an excavator, has not said specifically what he plans to do with the property if the zoning is changed.

One potential tenant, Northwest Propane, is also considering a parcel on Pielemeier Dr. in Sylvan township for a propane storage site. Klink has also mentioned a 17-home development, which would not require a zoning change, as well as continued use as a gravel pit.

Some residents fear the pit will also become a concrete plant, although many of the objectors indicated they are concerned about increased noise, Bacon said. That use, however, is not permitted in light industrial zoning and would require an amendment to the township zoning ordinance.

The township planning commission has taken no action on the request.

In other business, the commission re-affirmed its support for a zoning change for a 10-acre parcel between Harper Dr. and Upland Hills off Old US-12 that would be used for a small residential development.

Landowner Bud Janich wants to build about eight homes on the site. The re-zoning, from agriculture to residential, has to be approved by the township board.

DDA Project Behind Schedule, Under Budget

Chelsea's Downtown Development Authority streetscape project is about two weeks behind schedule, consultant Franz Mogdis told village council last week.

A few days of poor weather, unforeseen circumstances, and clean-up for the Chelsea Sidewalk Festival and Chelsea Community Fair have all contributed to the delay, he said.

Mogdis also reported the project is still slightly under budget.

Trustee Frank Hammer said he was bothered by the fact that so much of the downtown is torn up at once and none of it is totally completed.

Late last week, workers began laying paver blocks in front of the Chelsea Post Office. The pavers were supposed to start going in a couple of weeks ago but Flat Rock Contractors apparently had problems with its subcontractor and had to find a new one, Mogdis said.

Mogdis said the red metal shed behind the Mason Temple on W. Middle St. may be torn down by the end of the month. DDA wanted the space to help traffic flow in the new parking lot between South and W. Middle St.

The parking lot, Mogdis said, is designated for two-hour parking.

generating revenue for the village. Rent charge is $625 per month.

The memo indicates the village owes itself taxes totaling $715.37. In addition, Sylvan township taxes will be about $1,700.

The budget for the industrial development fund was amended so that $4,000 budgeted for repair and maintenance was reduced to $1,500. A line item for $2,500 in taxes was included.

According to a memorandum to village council from administrative assistant Barbara Fredette, taxes are owed because the property is
