DANCEY HOUSE at the Chelsea United Methodist Retirement Home, built on the site of the original home, now has tenants. The $12 million building was designed for senior citizens who want to enter a retirement community, but can still take care of themselves.

COMMON AREA of the new Dancey House at the Chelsea United Methodist Retirement Home greets visitors as they enter the front door of the new facility. The new apartments for independent living got their first tenants last week, although most of the specialty rooms and stores were not yet completed.

New Methodist Home Building Gets Tenants

Chelsea United Methodist Retirement Home's new Dancey House, a building of new independent living apartments, got its first tenants on Tuesday, Sept. 3.

Dancey House, a $12 million facility built on the site of the original retirement home, is designed as the first step in the retirement community's "continuum of care." Tenants are guaranteed the first open spot if, for example, they suddenly need full-time nursing care.

The apartments, designed for senior citizens who want to maintain an independent standard of living but who want access to care when they need it, range from 560 to 1,150 square feet. According to marketing director Grace McCalla, average age of tenants in Dancey House is 77, but they range from age 68 to 93. Average age elsewhere in the community is 86. About 55 percent of the residents are from Washtenaw county, and about the same number count themselves as Methodists.

Dancey House is designed as a community where most basic items and needs can be obtained on the campus. When completed, there will be a variety of stores, exercise center, and a local bank will bring a teller to the complex once a week. Groceries and clothes are about the only items that need to be purchased elsewhere, but arrangements are being made to have groceries delivered.

The building, designed in the basic configuration of the original home, uses some bricks from the original building on the inside.

Methodist home officials believe Dancey House will help make it one of the premier facilities of its kind in Michigan. Few facilities offer all levels of care.

Dancey House represents the major portion of an over-all $20 million building plan here by the non-profit Detroit Annual Conference, Inc. The over-all facility is partially supported by private contributions as well as the Methodist church.

The building will be consecrated on Oct. 20.

Open House Planned at Beach School

Beach Middle school will hold its annual Open House on Thursday, Sept. 19 at 7 p.m. beginning in the cafeteria.

Parents, relatives, and adult friends are invited to attend.

Parents will participate in a shortened version of their child's daily schedule with short visits to each classroom. Teachers will be on hand to explain their curricular programs and classroom expectations.

Parents are encouraged to arrive at 6:45 to obtain a copy of their child's schedule and receive directions for class visits. However, students are asked to remain at home.

If both parking lots are full, parents may park on the circle drive.

At the completion of the simulated school day, there will be a social gathering in the cafeteria. The sixth grade camp program will be introduced through a video/slide presentation in the library at 9:05.

High School Renovations, Building, To Handle Current, Future Needs

Editor's note: This is the second installment in a three-part series about the Chelsea School District's proposed $23.75 million bond issue for district-wide renovations and building. A special election is scheduled for Monday, Sept. 23. The purpose of the series is to help voters make a more informed choice by presenting as much factual material as possible. This week focuses on improvements at Chelsea High school, the largest single portion of the proposed project.

When Chelsea's facilities committee first met in 1988, the focus of discussions was on improvements at the elementary schools, as well as the possibility of building another elementary school. The space squeeze had started. There was a portable classroom at North school, pressure was on the senior citizens to find another place for their activities other than North school. The immediate needs were obvious.

However, as the committee continued to meet, it became increasingly apparent to the group that dealing with only the elementary needs would be short-sighted. Classes were moving up. A 660-student high school would become an 895-student school by 1995, a growth of about 30 percent. Most of that growth will happen regardless of whether a home-building boom continues simply because the children are already here. Consequently, the scope of the project widened. With the improvements, totaling $14,100,000, the school would be equipped to handle about 960 students.

"The committee looked at all kinds of alternatives," said assistant superintendent Fred Mills.

"They looked at renting space, but that became prohibitive when you consider upgrades for handicap access. They looked at building a new high school, but that would cost about $28 million."

A primary goal of the high school project is to prepare students more fully for college or the job market by exposing them more extensively to computer and video technology.

"Businesses keep telling us that students aren't prepared for the job force," said superintendent Joe Piasecki.

"It's kind of difficult to teach them about technology when you don't have the right tools."

With 62 new computers, the high school would more than double its number. The idea, too, is to have a computer and a television in every classroom, hooked up to a central system, which would allow increased communication with other classrooms within the district, as well as classrooms in other districts. For example, a small group of students who want to take an exotic foreign language might be able to hook into a class at another school. Social studies classes would be able to monitor events like the Persian Gulf War as they happen with use of cable television in their classrooms. The possibilities are enormous.

Piasecki said the only other school in the area he's aware of with a similar facility is South Lyon, which has served as sort of a model for Chelsea.

"They really have a fine facility and it's the kind of thing that would give us so many possibilities," Piasecki said.

The technology improvements are estimated at $574,000, not counting the central system software (for all schools) at $428,000.

The current open campus atmosphere at the high school made installation of such a system a problem. Conduit would have to be run outside and underground, rather than through easily accessible ceilings. That, as well as the fact that the open campus causes a number of other problems (such as maintenance to sidewalks and overhead skylights, heating and cooling problems, and the fact that during the winter students have to carry their coats everywhere, said assistant superintendent Fred Mills) led to the decision to close in the walkways and create a more normal high school.

With the decision to close in the high school came the decision to add a number of classrooms, centralize all students support services (such as counselors, social workers, nurse, and administrators, who are scattered all over the school) and create a central locker and meeting area, kind of a hub to the school that now doesn't exist.

"A student who has a problem would be able to go to one central area to get it solved," Piasecki said of the student support services area.

The hub area would be located where the student locker building is now and extend behind the current administration building. All the smaller buildings north of the cafeteria building would be connected with the new building.

New classrooms would be constructed for math (1), science (1), computer sciences (2), business (1), and special education (4) for $727,800. The district, which had one special education classroom in 1974, now has 12, all required by state law. None of the rooms are built with the special

School Board Chooses Construction Company

Chelsea Board of Education has selected O'Neal Construction Co. of Ann Arbor as the construction management firm for district-wide building and renovation work.

The company will sign a contract with the district on Sept. 24 if the school district's proposed $23.75 million bond issue passes in a special election Sept. 23.

O'Neal construction is completing additions at the Washtenaw Intermediate School District and has worked on school projects in Saline and Ann Arbor.

The company would supervise the construction as well as help with preparation of bid documents.

In other business, the board hired Jean Du-Russel Weston as health occupations instructor for this year.

In anticipation of a high voter turnout Sept. 23, the district approved 17 Board of Election inspectors. They are Kathleen Arnett, Charlotte Bentley, Vera Briston, Mary Ann Col-tre, Antoinette Hawker, Miriam Klemmer, Dorothy Koenigster, Winona Landwehr, Frances Manzel, Marjorie Plumb, Maryanna Robertson, Val Scriven, Pat Stoll, Virginia Visel, Memarie Walter, Lorena Wenk, and Veretta Whitaker.

The board accepted a low bid for group term life insurance from MESSA/Equitable Life Assurance Society at 15 cents per $1,000 per month.

Next board meeting will be Monday, Sept. 23 at Beach Middle school.

Elementaries Plan Open Houses

North Elementary school will hold its annual open house next Monday, Sept. 16 from 6:30 to 8 p.m.

South Elementary school's open house will be held Thursday, Sept. 19 at the same times.

Parents and friends are invited to see the schools and meet the staff.

CHELSEA POLICE DEPARTMENT was given a special 20 Year Award from the National Child Safety Council in recognition of the department's service to the safety of children. The department is involved in a number of activities in the schools and other areas. Above, chief Lenard McDougall receives the plaque from Sandy Benes of the council.

AMY MITCHELL presented a program Monday evening for the Kiwanis Club of Chelsea telling her recent experiences on a People to People Tour to the Soviet Union during July. With a video and some interesting souvenirs, she gave a vivid description of what life is really like in the depressed country. Very little food available, dirty hotels, usually no hot water, and very high prices were reported everywhere. Shown with Amy and some of her souvenirs is her father, John Mitchell.

Sylvan Hotel was purchased by John and Anne Daniels of Chelsea. They planned to put three one-bedroom apartments upstairs, and a mix of retail and office space on the main basement floors. The building was destroyed by fire two years ago and had been in horrible condition ever since.

Chelsea has a new service club. The Chelsea Rotary club became a chartered club on Aug. 25. To become chartered, a club must recruit a minimum of 20 members. The first president of the Chelsea Rotary was Bob Thornton.

The names of the National Merit Scholarship Semifinalists included students from four area high schools, Chelsea High, Dexter High, Manchester High, and Pinckney Community High. The two winners from Chelsea were Jordan K. Gray and Robyn E. Hafner. Gray planned to major in engineering and become an aeronautical engineer, while Hafner planned to become an architect.

Three scholarships were given by Chelsea Community Hospital Auxiliary for study in the medical field. Jeanene Riemenschneider, a member of the scholarship committee, presented the awards to Marybeth Wolfe, of Grass Lake, and Kimberly Guyor Klink, of Chelsea.

Cadet Matthew Schnaidt, son of Joan and Dan Schnaidt of Chelsea, was awarded his stars at a ceremony at West Point Military Academy. He earned his stars by being in the top 5 percent of his class and also has the title of "Distinguished Cadet."

Chelsea High's girls varsity basketball team were prepared to demolish the opposition. They debuted with a home game against Manchester, and returned to host Grass Lake.

Members of the United Auto Workers Local 437 unit at Fortune Industries voted to continue their strike against the local abrasives manufacturing firm. The three-week-old strike began Aug. 22 when 43 union workers walked out of their jobs when their three-year contract expired.

A new Chelsea patrolman, Dennis Hall, was hired by the Chelsea Police Department. Hall worked the 8 p.m. to 4 a.m. shift, and stated his major job as "being visible" to discourage a potential criminal from breaking the law.

In their season opener, Chelsea High's varsity football team lost to Tecumseh, 32-6. "We played a hard game, but were plagued by penalties and mistakes," Chelsea Coach Phil Bareis said. Tecumseh scored twice in the first and third quarters, then added a lone touchdown in the fourth quarter to cement their victory.

Creda Winkle received her master's degree from Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti. Mrs. Winkle taught fifth grade at North Elementary school, Chelsea. She also held a BS in education from EMU.

Coach Phil Bareis was to lead his Chelsea High varsity gridders on to the home field for the opening game of the 1967 season against Stockbridge. Bareis said the team was in better condition than last year but that what the team badly needed was game experience. The team had gained some experience in a four team scrimmage the previous week.

The new Moller pipe organ was in use for the first time at the Sunday, Sept. 17 worship service of the Congregational church. Preaching at the service was the Rev. Daniel Klein who had been recommended to the congregation by the Pastoral Committee to fill the post of minister.

Faced with objections from about 20 concerned citizens, the Chelsea Public Schools Board of Education voted 4-2 to rescind a controversial $5 towel fee charge for physical education.

Engler Opens Property Tax Drive

Saying he is doing the job he was elected to do, Governor John Engler has begun a petition drive for a school property tax cut of 30 percent over five years and limit on assessment growth to three percent. The cut is premised on assigning part of growth in state revenues to reimburse schools for lost funds and further reductions in state services, although that is not specified in the plan.

The proposed constitutional amendment is the governor's response to the Democrats' petition for an initiated law targeted to homeowners and shifting the tax burden to businesses.

If both are successful, voters could pass neither, either or both the plans. If both are approved, property taxes would be slashed by roughly $3 billion after five years.

When fully implemented in 1997, the Engler plan would mean a net tax cut of $2.3 billion, after beginning with savings of $499 million in 1993. The Democratic plan provides a net savings to homeowners of $732 million in 1993, after accounting for lost income tax credits, and rising thereafter to reflect inflation.

Engler had campaigned on his support for the Headlee 20-percent cut on all property, but said he now believes that is not deep enough. His new plan, cutting just school operating taxes, amounts to a 15-percent reduction over two years, but continues additional cuts for three more years until the full 30-percent cut is in place. "If we're going to make Michigan competitive, we must bring our high taxes under control," Engler said. "Our tax cut is a job creation tax cut and there's nothing Michigan needs more today than new jobs with good wages."

Democratic Party Chair Gary Corbin called the Engler announcement

an "act of desperation. While the petition drive he is launching today might make good political theater, it does not constitute sound policymaking."

Speaker Lewis Dodak (D-Montrose) called the proposal a "callous attempt to appease Michigan's wealthiest property owners at the expense of middle income homeowners and our state's most vulnerable residents."

The Engler plan, by applying the same percentage cut to all property, means the most valuable property will get higher dollar savings.

The Democratic plan, exempting 50 percent of the value of a home from school taxes, up to a maximum of $30,000, results in a proportionately larger benefit to persons whose homes are worth no more than $60,000.

Engler administration officials and business leaders have attacked the Democratic plan for shifting taxes to business: a total of $615-$725 million the first year by repeal of the Capital Acquisition Deduction for new investments and the tax abatements provided by local government for new construction.

But Democrats say that for a typical Michigan family, the Engler plan does not approach the benefit of their plan until the fifth year, when the annual savings under Engler is $644 compared to $679 for the Democratic plan.

In the first year, the Democratic plan provides almost five times as large a cut for that family ($35,000 income, $70,000 home) than the Engler plan ($510 compared to $119).

On the other hand, an upper-income family ($150,000 income, $600,000 home) under the Engler plan gets twice as much relief in the first year ($1,020 compared to $510); that rises to almost five times as much by the fifth year ($5,518 compared to $1,128). The Engler plan requires the state to reimburse school districts for their lost revenue based on current operating millages. The three-percent limit would apply to all property taxed by local governments, which would be reimbursed only to insure payment of bonds or other contractual obligations.

Jerry Keidel, executive director of the Michigan Association of School Administrators, said he has not yet had a chance to review and compare both plans. However, the organization has "a long standing position of supporting property tax relief." Keidel said in order to be acceptable to the MASA, a plan must ensure that replacement revenue for all millages, current and future, will be provided by the state.

The Engler proposal does not specify how the tax cut will be paid, but Engler said he would propose the Legislature earmark half of the growth in state revenues for that purpose, leaving the remaining growth to be split among other education, safety, health and social services programs. Administration officials count on an average growth of about five percent in revenues.

But House Taxation Chair Rep. Lynn Jondahl (D-Okemos) criticized the plan for making no allowance for years such as the current one when state revenues actually fell. And, he said it would mean the state will be providing larger reimbursements to wealthier school districts where higher-priced homes are located. "What is the over-all impact on the ability of the state to provide services and a fair tax system?" Jondahl questioned.

The constitutional proposal by Engler requires 256,457 valid signatures; the initiated law pushed by Democrats requires 205,166 valid signatures. Both must collect the names in a 180-day period.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Clem Webster told the fellers at the country store Saturday night that he had thought the situation up one side and down the other, and he was of a mind that doctoring education is like doctoring burns. Doctors switch from covering burns to leaving em open to the air. Schools run hot and cold between back to basics and basics so bad any change will help.

Now that school has took in, Clem said, we read how many ways are being tried to fix education. When high schools kick out geography and put in table manners, he allowed, they have took off to far in some direction. Some schools in Miami say they have to teach children simple social graces before they can teach em anything else. If they can't git students that won't pay attention to leave the rest alone so they can, their thinking goes, education ain't got a chance to take hold.

At first reading this sounds reasonable, declared Clem, which can be said of ever education idee that comes down the pike. But, practical speaking, if the family fails the child the schools ain't got a prayer of passing him. When a child won't behave hisself and respect the rights of others when he comes to school the horse is out of the barn and gone, was Clem's words.

Actual, he allowed, we have got to the place where colleges spend their time doing the job high schools didn't do because the students didn't learn enough in the lower grades to do the work. The education buck has been passed so far until a bachelor degree in this country is about equal to a birth certificate, was Clem's words.

All the schooling all the fellers ever got lumped together wouldn't amount to one high school diploma, but they never let ignorance stand in the way of opinion. They were full agreed with Clem, and Ed Doolittle was quick to allow that education has been hit with the same stick that has beat ever other public service to death, and that is administrators. They all follow the example set by Congress, where the number of congressional staff has tripled in the last 15 year, was Ed's words.

Furthermore, Ed said, books must be extinct in classrooms nowadays, because we don't hear modern educators using the B word. They want money to buy a computer fer ever child, and they have book to falling libraries media centers so as not to give students the idee they ought to read instead of watch television.

Bug Hookum broke in to say he is worried about what recent outbreaks of plagiarism is doing to education. He noted that everything the fellers discuss comes from what they read, and he thought education was the process of sharing ideas and maybe improving on some of em. If we got to start giving all credit where it's due, Bug said, we'll git so bogged down we won't learn anything. It'll be like the papers that fall on their faces bending over backward not to say somebody charged with a crime might actual have done it.

Fer instant, Bug read recent where two men were on trial fer an "alleged beating," and the victim took the stand with "the entire right side of her face still black and blue from the bruises she suffered." Maybe the paper should of said "alleged bruises."

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Baton Corps Members Collect 23 Medals in National Meet

Eleven 1990-91 Chelsea Baton Corps twirlers who competed at this year's National Baton Twirling Association's (NBTA) world and national championships came home from the week-long twirling event at Notre Dame with over 23 medals and trophies for placing in the top 10 in their divisions.

The twirlers earned their entry fees into the competition by participating in the spring garage sale held at member Edna Hatch's home.

Of the 11 twirlers attending the American Youth on Parade (AYOP) festivities, two came home with national championship titles. Katie Sullivan of Dexter, a fifth-year student, placed first in novice flag baton twirling. Stacey Leatherberry of Stockbridge, a third-year student, placed first in intermediate solo twirling for 7- to 9-year-olds.

Stacey Leatherberry represented Michigan as a Miss Majorette of Michigan, age 7-9, the title which she won in May at the state pageant in East Detroit. As a Miss Majorette contestant, Stacey competed in a three-part pageant consisting of modeling, solo twirling, and fancy strutting, a dance, gymnastic, march and twirl routine. This was Stacey's second year in a row to represent Michigan as Miss Majorette for her age division, and she placed seventh over-all at the national competition this year against competitors from every state as well as regional contest winners.

The other medal and trophy winners at AYOP from the Chelsea Baton Corps were as follows:

Erica Bloomsaat—Solo Twirl 10th, Flag Twirl 4th.
Michelle Eldred—Fancy Strut 4th.
Amie Hatch—Modeling 9th.
Kristie Hatch—Solo Twirl 6th, Modeling 8th, Fancy Strut 9th.
Stacey Leatherberry—Fancy Strut 4th, 2-Baton Twirl 2nd.
Megan Morgan—Solo Twirl 6th, Fancy Strut 7th.
Melony Owens—Solo Twirl 3rd, 2-Baton Twirl 4th, Flag Twirl 6th.
Tiffany Scott—Flag Twirl 3rd, 2-Baton Twirl 10th.
Katie Sullivan—Solo Twirl 7th, 2-Baton Twirl 8th.
Hillary Wiedmayer—2-Baton Twirl 10th, Flag Twirl 10th.
Kori White—2-Baton Twirl 2nd.

Tentative Layout of Renovated Chelsea High School

High School Largest Part of Proposal

needs of handicapped students in mind.

Another $425,000 would be spent on the new student services support center. Current administrative offices would get a $79,500 upgrade.

There would also be extensive renovations, led by a re-working of the science labs for $354,900 to make science classes more hands-on. Every other classroom would also be renovated to accommodate the technology upgrades, and changes to heating, cooling, and electrical systems. Support areas such as the media center, auditorium and side rooms, and the kitchen are also included on the renovation list.

Total of renovations to classrooms (not counting the music department or athletics) is estimated at $283,970. Renovations of instructional support areas such as the library and kitchen and other areas is estimated at $184,500.

The plan also includes $2,514,340 for improvements to what might be called the school's infrastructure. Every window in the school will be replaced with high efficiency windows ($570,400), the roof-top heating unit, which is more than 30 years old and is not made anymore, will be replaced ($855,600), toilets, plumbing, and air circulation will be improved ($600,000), and a fire sprinkler system will be installed ($427,800).

The electrical system is so old that assistant superintendent Fred Mills said "we don't have a single blank circuit breaker. We can't add anything." That means service will have to be upgraded.

Mills said the change to a higher efficiency heating system, as well as the change of windows, should result in substantial energy savings.

While most of the improvements are designed with the student population of 1994-95 in mind, certain groups within the high school are already having space problems.

In three of four areas, the music program has at least doubled in enrollment in the last four years. Wind ensemble has grown from 43 to 81 students (and will be split into two bands this year), orchestra has grown from 23 to 66 students, and choir has increased from 19 to 38. Symphony band has remained steady at 50 students. Based on enrollments at Beach Middle school, pressure on the music program shows no signs of abating.

The programs have had to use makeshift areas for practicing the last year or so.

A total of $442,000 is budgeted for 5,000 square feet of new space for the music program. Another $39,000 of renovations are planned.

The athletics program has grown more slowly, although nearly 35 percent of students take part in one or more sports during the year, according to athletic director Wayne Welton. Eight sports have been added since 1974, most of them girls sports, for a total of 27. There is pressure to add soccer, but there is no place to play.

However, space has been a problem for years, especially during the winter months when some basketball practices don't begin until 8 p.m. and others take place before school begins. It's also virtually impossible for other members of the community to use a basketball court at a reasonable hour. On most days in the winter, the gym stays open from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Other examples of crowded athletics facilities include the following. The Chelsea High school baseball field is the only regulation-size baseball field in the area, yet there are three high school baseball teams, as well as numerous summer recreation teams who cannot play here due to lack of facilities. There is one high school softball field, but there are two teams. As many as half the fans who attend home football games are forced to stand or sit on the ground because there are not enough bleachers. The only outdoor bathroom facilities are portable toilets.

High school locker room facilities are in bad shape. Athletic director Wayne Welton calls them "an embarassment." Lockers that have been added since the school was built were either moved up from Beach Middle school or were purchased used from another school.

Many of the sports facilities, especially the gym, are used extensively by physical education classes as well as recreation programs.

Planned building includes a new gym for $1,900,000, along with $352,000 worth of lockers and storage area, $862,000 worth of renovations to the old gym (part of which will become a weight room), $3,500 for another health classroom, and $1,250,000 for two baseball fields, two softball fields, a soccer field, press box with concession stand and bathrooms, bleachers, utility extensions, lighting, storm-water control, and roads and walks throughout the school. The new gym would be built on the site of the current softball field.

A new gym would allow the high school to be closed off during athletic events. That is not possible with the current arrangement.

"Athletics is part of the over-all school program that we've committed to," Piasecki said.

"Kids need a place to play and practice. When people buy a ticket, they should have a reasonable chance of finding a place to sit. I don't think that's asking too much."

Projected athletic expenditures are about $4 million, or about 17 percent of the over-all project.

Prompt attention can save injured teeth!

Q: If an injury results in a tooth being knocked out is there any way to save it?

A: In many cases the answer is yes but prompt attention is the key to success. A tooth which has been "avulsed," or knocked out completely, needs to be replanted as soon as possible. Such injuries occur most commonly when playing contact sports but nearly any blow to the mouth for whatever reason may dislodge a tooth.

Studies have shown that time is the most critical factor in the success of a replanted tooth. If the tooth is allowed to stay out of the mouth longer than one hour then the prognosis is very poor indeed. If you, or someone you know, should have a permanent adult tooth knocked out the following steps should be taken:

1) Recover the tooth. If the tooth has gotten dirty then it should be gently rinsed under plain tap water or sterile saline. NEVER scrub the tooth or use soap or detergent since this will harm the delicate cells which are still alive and attached to the root surface of the tooth.

2) Gently tease the tooth back into the socket. This may be very uncomfortable and in the case of severe facial injury or a child who is very upset and uncooperative this may not be possible without anesthesia. The tooth should be held in the socket while the patient is being transported to the dental office.

3) If unable to replant the tooth into the socket the next best thing is to hold the tooth in the patient's mouth (be sure not to swallow it) while being transported to the dental office. If there is a danger of swallowing the tooth such as in a young child or someone who is medically impaired from the injury then the tooth should be placed in a glass of milk or water or held in a damp towel until dental care can be accomplished. It is very important not to let the tooth dehydrate.

Once a tooth is replanted it usually needs to be splinted in place for 7-10 days while the patient is placed on a soft diet. In most cases the nerve within the tooth will have become devital so a root canal procedure will need to be done later on to prevent infection. Also if the tooth had gotten dirty the patient may require a tetanus shot.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor,

This is an open letter to the Chelsea voters.

There has been a great deal of discussion in our community about the new gym space which is proposed as part of the School Bond scheduled for vote on Sept. 23. We are involved in coaching and organizing roles, but most importantly, we are residents and parents of children with athletic interests. We would like to share some facts about this particular issue.

1. The cost of the new gym and related space (locker rooms, public areas, etc.) is 8% of the total bond package. It is unlikely to ever be built unless it is "attached to" a larger bond such as this one. The cost of new buildings effectively prevents their being budgeted from operating millage. The only other way to build them is specific voter approval in a bond issue.

2. The current gym space in Beach and the high school is being used from early morning (6 a.m. during winter months) until late evening (after 11 p.m.) nearly every day. The elementary "gyms" (actually large play spaces) are used almost as much. While some of this is non-school use (e.g., recreation groups or "open gym" scheduled by individuals), there is not enough available gym time to allow for the development of intramural athletics, or even to meet the current level of other requests. The new gym would alleviate this space crunch, and allow greater access to athletics by all members of the community, but especially the students who are enthusiastic, but less-than- varsity caliber athletes.

3. The following chart shows the growth in high school athletic programs in Chelsea since 1974.

Boys athletic teams	14	15
Girls athletic teams	5	12
TOTAL	19	27

1974 is used as a comparison year for two reasons. First, it is when the pool was built as a result of the last bond issue requested in Chelsea, accounting for 2 of the additional teams in the totals. Secondly, it was at the end of the era of "boys only" athletics. Title IX, the federal legislation which took effect about that time, requires public schools to give equal access to athletics for boys and girls. This had opened many opportunities for female athletes, but each girl's team requires its own practice schedule, competition schedule, and space for supplies and player's equipment. In practice, this has nearly doubled the need for gym time/space in the last two decades, aside from the growth in student population.

4. The class of '91, with 135 students, was the smallest class Chelsea will graduate for many years—perhaps forever. The incoming freshmen (the class of '95 has 40 more students and another 60 students will be added to the building count when the class of '98 becomes freshmen in the fall of 1992. These are currently enrolled middle school students—any additional students moving into the district will increase these numbers. (This year, 20 new students registered at the high school in the last month before school, plus an additional 20 in the 8th grade.) The gym space is currently barely adequate for the regular phys. ed. classes.

The increasing numbers of students in the regular program will mean even more classes running the fish-bowl (creating disruption to other school activities) because other classes are in the gym, or students "sitting out" their gym class on bad weather days because other groups are using the space. Perhaps 20 years ago this didn't seem like such a bad thing, as phys. ed. was often seen as a sort of "filler" class. However, what we know today about fitness shows the necessity of regular aerobic activity for all students. This is an impossible goal with the currently available gym space.

We will all benefit—the "non-athletic" student as well as the rest of the community—by having this facility. Though the current level of involvement in sports by the top athletes can be maintained without a new gym, everyone else—that includes you—will gain if the bond issue passes. Please do not be misled by those who claim that the proposed gym is a "gift" to the "good athletes." Consider the facts we have presented above, and vote for the bond issue on Sept. 23.

Dear Editor,

I am looking forward to listening to John Axe speak on Wednesday night at 7:30 p.m. in the Sylvan Township Hall. His credentials indicate he knows and understands public financing. As a practicing bond attorney and finance advisor I'm sure he will be able to explain, to even the least knowledgeable of us, how schools and municipalities get money by "selling bonds." This is to be an educational opportunity for adults that have been confused about bonds (including the differences between conventional bonding and zero interest bonds), millages, assessments, and taxes. It also will be an opportunity to ask questions about how bonding laws work from a man who has helped develop some of our existing laws.

It is an important evening to gain information to formulate important future decisions. Please join me.

Alice Stimpson
Chelsea

Dear Editor:

The bonds that the Chelsea Board of Education are proposing to build new, and renovate old schools, must be carefully considered by every taxpayer in this district.

There are really two major "building" projects:

1. There will be a new elementary school, which will house kindergarten, first grade and pre-school classes. Chelsea citizens need to decide whether they want to tax themselves for a building to house a few children who must pay tuition to attend. Taxpayers will pay to erect the building, but those same taxpayers might not be able to have their children be part of the pre-school program because of limited constructed space and/or affordability. If we believe in "birth to death" school offerings it must include all. The Senior Citizens were moved from North school because there was no longer room to house them in the facilities they were using because of increased enrollment. The schools did not build a new structure for them. If rooms are built to accommodate small children in the new facility, it would become necessary to "renovate" those classrooms for older children to use when that space is needed.

2. The high school is 30 years old. Obviously there is need to upgrade science rooms, computer labs, and provide technology that wasn't available 30 years ago, and expand for growing needs. (These updates should be ongoing.) According to the most recent proposal by Greiner, Inc., received May 3, 1991, they propose to spend $862,370 to renovate space we now have in existing structures. Physical Education needs $885,000 to update their existing facilities. Then $2,514,340 needs to be spent for circulation, toilets, windows, roof tops, etc. So $4,241,710 would renovate and update our existing buildings. Even if we were to add additional academic classroom space we could add $1,189,800 to the total bill making it under $5,000,000.

Although renovations are unquestionably needed, one wonders what is happening to the over $290,000 a year (1 mill) that is earmarked for continual maintenance of our school buildings.

Adding Administration and Guidance facilities for $425,000 (which I believe includes enclosure hallway space), new lockers in the hallway space, and other equipment for $1,883,934, new athletic facilities for $2,252,800, and destroying two buildings adds an additional $4,542,000. None of these figures include site development costs and professional fees.

Spending well over $10 million on an old structure that Mr. Piasecki admits will probably have to be replaced with the next 15-17 years is questionable planning.

This proposal shows all the physical education and sports facilities lumped into a single sum of $2,252,800. About one-third of the monies projected to be spent at the high school, will go into our "sports program." I have children very active in the sports programs in this community. I would like to have the very best for them. I cannot justify this amount of money spent on non-academic, extra-curricular activities. Physical education (as a class) is only required two semesters out of eight on the senior high level. Spending approximately $80,000 on a new press box that would be used 12-14 times a year would buy a lot of disposable workbooks (biology, chemistry, language) that students can no longer write in, because of the expense of yearly supplies. (Workbooks are now reusable and students answers go on separate papers instead of how the books were designed to be used. This is the result of parents objecting to the practice of students who wanted to pay for the books could write in them as they were designed to be used. This put some students at a disadvantage. It's a shame that now all students are equally disadvantaged in our school district.)

New sports facilities although very important to some students, will not help students be successful on a college campus for very long, without the academic background necessary to be successful. How many full ride scholarships have been offered to Chelsea graduates for their college participation in sports? How many professional players can we count (in any sport) on the list of Chelsea alumni?

The taxpayers have a very difficult decision to make. The COMPLETE proposal with specific, detailed information about all the individual projected costs, has not been forthcoming to all of the taxpayers as of 9/8. The School Board has had the Greiner, Inc. proposal since May 3. (It is almost two weeks prior to voting.) Each person must attend meetings to receive the information. "Overheads" are moved along so quickly that information for many is not able to be absorbed and questioned. With minimal information disseminated, who knows what questions to ask?

The taxpayers have been told that if they vote for this bond issue they are supporting the progress and future education of our children. I don't believe "future education" has much to do with supporting THIS bond proposal. By voting NO on Sept. 23 the taxpayers are simply saying THIS PROPOSAL is not acceptable, another proposal must be offered. All of us want better education for our children now and in the future. This bond proposal will not insure better educational opportunities for our children.

All taxpayers have to think about the impact on their taxes. Don't be fooled into thinking that this project will only cost each household a set amount. The tax that will be paid by each taxpayer will change if property assessments go down (which Governor Engler is trying to do). Our MILLAGE will also increase running five buildings instead of four (which will be in addition to teaching staff to meet student population increases).

Our school taxes are very high right now and our children are not being educated any better than some of our neighbors. Taxpayers must be conscious of what they can afford now AND 30 years from now. The CITIZENS must ask for their schools to be responsive to what is in the best interest of their children within the restrictions of what can be afforded.

Nancy T. Dymond
Chelsea

To the Editor:

I want to address one phase of the bond issue, the music program. Have you enjoyed the Halloween Parade or the Memorial Day Parade or the Fair Parade? Imagine the events that you have attended where you have been entertained by a singing group, a string quartet or quintet of band members. Don't we owe our children a decent facility in which to practice?

It is easy for us to take life for granted. The schools will always manage to get by some way. My family and I moved here in 1973. All four of our children plus 12 exchange students and a niece have graduated from the Chelsea schools. Most of them benefited from the excellent music program we have here. Their education was greatly enhanced because they had to learn how to budget their time so that they could participate in all the activities and still maintain good grades.

Now that our children are grown, we can really appreciate the well-rounded education a child receives from the Chelsea School System. We certainly don't deserve the high quality we have if we are unwilling to support a bond issue that will make it possible to continue the programs with updated facilities. How can we refuse to support a bond issue that will address an area in which over one-third of the high school students are now participating? They certainly deserve a decent facility.

We are very fortunate to have managed so well with our present facilities. It is amazing that it has been so long since needed updates have happened. Yes, this bond issue does not address all the problems facing our schools today. It is only a start. Good education will continue to cost us in some way; nothing in life is free. The amount we are asked to pay is very inexpensive compared to the alternative: a place where the quality of life is no longer acceptable. Vote yes on the 23rd. Chelsea will continue to have its excellent reputation; EXCELLENT SCHOOLS, EXCELLENT COMMUNITY.

Ann Lee.

To the Editor,

Attention All Chelsea School District voters and non-voters. Under the Right to Information laws I do write the following:

1. Is the Chelsea School system physical plant (all buildings, property and equipment) worth $23 million 750 thousand plus all the other present debt under a distress sale?

2. All school systems and corporate entities pledge all taxable property within their corporate borders for the payment of millage and bonds obtained in the name of the school system.

3. Did you knowingly give the Chelsea School system the power to pledge your property and life accumulations for the payment of millage and bonds?

4. Under the law of corporate limited liability all corporations can and do declare bankruptcy.

5. The following are just two of many corporate entities that have declared bankruptcy because the property owners are no longer able to pay the property tax load: Bridgeport, Conn., and Chelsea, Mass. Think on this.

Do you really want to do this to your children, grandchildren and great grandchildren? I think not.

Ray Coulter
Grass Lake.

Don't be a heartbreaker

Dear Editor,

In reading the comments in this column the last couple of weeks about the proposed bond issue on Sept. 23, I am hearing some individuals complaining that they aren't getting the information they are going to need about the proposal. This confuses me.

The school board has made it very clear as to what the proposal is. They have given us exact dollar amounts, told us exactly what is proposed to be built, improved, etc. I don't know what else they can do! If you feel you don't have the information, just read about it, everywhere, in The Standard, School Board reports, in the Chelsea Challenge (which was a wonderful explanation of all aspects, sent to everyone in the district), and best of all visit our schools. See the needs for yourself.

My son's classes have increased 3-4 students each year. It has been almost 20 years since a bond issue has been introduced in Chelsea—that's a long time, especially considering the rapid growth Chelsea has experienced in that time.

The information given to us over the last two years about the alternatives that have been considered has also been excellent. This proposal will fill our needs for some time to come. I don't want to vote on another bond issue in a couple of years because we did band-aid repair now. Yes, of course, we will need expanded staff to operate new facilities, that's all a part of the excellence in our schools.

We want Chelsea schools to continue to be the best for our children, that's why we chose to live in this fine community. I know taxes are high, there aren't too many places where they aren't high, and in some of these areas the schools are grossly inferior. You can't get away from taxes no matter where you live. Here in Chelsea I can see where my tax dollars are going and I can think of no better place than the future education of our children.

If anyone thinks Chelsea's growth is temporary they are kidding themselves. Whether we like it or not, it's here to stay and we need to plan for it. In our former school district they are suffering with 38 children in a classroom because they didn't believe the growth was permanent. We can't let that happen. Be glad our administration and school board are planning for our schools' future now, when it is needed.

Vote yes for our children on Sept. 23. We are at our house!

Sue Gillikin.

Fosdick suggests that we would soon be bored with a world that was so small, so simple, that we could understand it. Much of the fascination of life is found in the surprises and mystery of this world, so enjoy it.

Quarterly Tax Payments Due Sept. 16

A change of jobs may mean a change in the way you pay your taxes. "When you are an employee, taxes are withheld from your pay and sent directly to the IRS by the employer," said John Hummel, IRS district director. "If an individual becomes self-employed during the year, they may be required to make estimated tax payments to the IRS on their own."

Generally, estimated tax payments are made by individuals who receive income not subject to federal income tax withholding. Some examples are: self-employment income, interest, dividends, unemployment compensation, capital gains and alimony.

Payments are made quarterly. The next payment is due Sept. 16, and the final payment for 1991 is due on Jan. 15, 1992. A payment voucher from the 1040-ES package should accompany each payment and both should be mailed to the appropriate address listed in the 1040-ES package.

For further information, the free Publication 505, "Tax Withholding and Estimated Tax," may be ordered by calling toll-free 1-800-829-3876; or if you have questions about estimated tax, call the toll-free information line on 1-800-829-1040.

tion students that it had approved for the first time last June. The effect of the board's action was to reinstate what had always been the practice: having each student bring from home his own towel to use after physical education classes.

34 Years Ago . . .

Thursday, Jan. 1, 1955—

Top soil stripping was being completed on the new high school site this week. Grading for the buildings and the roads had also begun. Trenching for the foundations of the building would begin this week and when the reinforcing steel arrives footings will be poured.

Employees of Chelsea Products, Inc., who are members of United Auto Workers Union, Local 437, went on strike because of a dispute regarding the company's discharge of a worker July 10. Pickets, stationed at the plant 24 hours a day, permitted only office personnel to pass through the lines.

Karen McAllister was crowned "Queen of the 1957 Chelsea Community Fair" at the Saturday evening program at the fairgrounds with Village President Donald Alber doing the honors. Her crown was a sparkling tiara which she was allowed to keep as a gift from the Chelsea Jaycees Auxiliary.

The Chelsea marching band was accepted to play for the annual Band Day at Ann Arbor, Oct. 5, in connection with the University of Michigan-University of Georgia football game. On this date the "world's largest band," 12,000 musicians from some 190 Michigan high school bands, would combine to present the biggest half-time show ever produced for this annual affair.

National Safety Week Targets Farm Accidents

Sept. 15-21 is National Farm Safety Week, a time when farmers across the country are urged to acknowledge and address a bloody epidemic sweeping America's farms. The statistics are grim; studies conducted by Purdue University and the Mayo Clinic show that each year 1,500 people, farmers and members of their families, die in farm related accidents and another 140,000 are injured.

Based on these figures, farming has now surpassed mining and construction work to become the nation's deadliest industry.

A particular concern is the disproportionately high percentage of deaths and injuries to children. Twenty percent of the deaths and 15 percent of farm related injuries occur to children. Marilyn Adams, who founded Farm Safety 4 Just Kids after her own son was suffocated in a gravity feed grain wagon, states "It's an issue where kids are dying and getting their limbs torn off. Many people in agriculture think accidents are the price you pay for being in farming." But, Marilyn says, "don't tell me it's the cost of doing business." The Mayo Clinic study also urges greater attention to safeguarding farming equipment by manufacturers, concluding: "since children are likely to remain an important part of the farm labor force, the need for mandatory protective equipment is of utmost importance."

Efforts to improve the safety of agricultural equipment and products have taken two fronts. Consumer advocate groups such as Farm Safety 4 Just Kids, the Ontario Farm Safety Association and the National Safe Workplace Institute are actively promoting stricter industry and governmental safety standards for agricultural products. Lawsuits brought by injured farmers and their families against the manufacturers of defective farm products also provide incentive for improving outdated and unsafe products.

David Priehs, a partner in the law firm of Priehs & Harsha, P.C., which specializes in product litigation, emphasizes the importance of keeping pressure on manufacturers of agricultural products. "As an attorney who represents persons injured by farm products, I object to terminating many of these incidents 'farm accidents.' Many of the deaths and serious injuries I encounter are not accidental at all; they are a direct result of an equipment or chemical manufacturer intentionally putting an unnecessarily dangerous product on the market. Only by holding these manufacturers responsible for injuries caused by their products can we make these products safer." Priehs notes that farm equipment manufacturers have lagged far behind producers of industrial and mining equipment in incorporating safety guards, warnings and other safety innovations into their products.

Wheel Covers Taken from Auto

Four chrome wheel covers were stolen from a car in the village on Friday, Sept. 6.

Owner of the vehicle had been at the Chelsea High school football game but noticed the covers were missing after the car was parked at a local restaurant.

This Week in Lansing

By Margaret O'Connor
State Representative, 52nd District

A legislative package aimed at aggressively combating drunken driving in Michigan through tougher penalties and streamlined court procedures has been signed into law.

The milestone, bipartisan measures culminate several years of effort and negotiation by implementing non-sense penalties for offenders, speeding prosecution and closing legal loopholes.

Under the new laws:
—drivers who refuse to take or fail a Breathalyzer test would have to surrender their licenses immediately. They would receive a temporary 77-day license until the charge is dismissed or they are found guilty.

—restoration of suspended and revoked licenses for "hardship" are eliminated —people caught with open intoxicants on the highway will be guilty of a misdemeanor and receive two points on their license —a person convicted of operating a vehicle under the influence of liquor will receive a 30-day mandatory license suspension without the possibility of obtaining a restricted license

—all drunken-driving cases must be resolved by the district court within 77 days of the arrest. This means that for the first time in Michigan, cases would have to be resolved within a fixed time period

—Michigan's drunken-driving law would be extended to include trailer parks and other restricted-access areas

—punishment for repeat offenders would be increased to a jail term of at least 48 hours and not less than 10 days of community service work

—a 15-year felony of causing death while driving drunk is created. Upon conviction, six points will be added to the defendant's license and the license will be revoked

—a five-year felony of causing long-term incapacitating injury while driving drunk is created. Upon conviction, six points will be added to the license and the license will be revoked.

In addition, commercial drivers with blood alcohol levels exceeding .04 percent would temporarily lose their commercial certifications for a first offense. Subsequent violations would result in a 10-year license revocation.

Commercial operators also would be prohibited from driving for 24 hours if they are found to have any measurable level of alcohol in their blood.

These reforms, many of which are advocated by the 1989 House Republican Task Force on Drunk Driving, are significant strides in our effort to curtail the drunken-driving menace. They will better protect innocent Michigan motorists and pedestrians, while cracking down on those who abuse their driving privilege.

Republican Task Force Urges Tighter Campaign Financing Rules
A legislative Republican panel has issued a report that urges comprehensive reforms in campaign financing.

I am a strong advocate of the House Republican Task Force on Campaign Finance Reform report that proposes eliminating officeholder expense funds (OEFs), prohibiting cash honoraria for elected officials and stiffening controls over political action committees (PACs).

Money is both the curse and lifeblood of campaigns because even candidates in modest races are forced to raise increasingly large amounts of dollars in today's political races.

However, the need to reform Michigan's campaign finance laws becomes increasingly obvious with each election. Public disgust at the cost, tone and manner of modern elections has eroded confidence in the political system and elected officials. The task force report offers substantial proposals for restoring that trust.

One of the recommendations is the elimination of officeholder expense funds. Task force members believe the public has lost all confidence in the concept of OEFs. Abolishing them but allowing candidate committees to pay for reasonable, narrowly defined office-related expenses should help restore public trust.

Another proposal calls for banning cash honoraria, although this is not a common practice among state legislators. However, legally prohibiting the offer or acceptance of a fee for speaking will eliminate the appearance of impropriety.

The task force also wants to change the relationship between special interest groups and office seekers. It recommends prohibiting PAC donations to gubernatorial candidates who receive public funding.

In addition, candidates for legislative and state-wide office could not spend more than double the amount raised from individual contributors.

The Republican report stresses the importance of public disclosure and the need for voters to have easy access to campaign finance information. To accomplish this, the task force advises stronger enforcement and auditing authority to the Secretary of State, and more money to computerize campaign finance records.

Other recommendations include:

—prohibiting the delivery of contributions to House and Senate candidates within the Capitol and legislative office buildings

—prohibiting registered lobbyists or agents from directly distributing contributions —extending campaign finance laws to candidates in cities, villages, townships, counties and school districts.

An effective and credible political system requires accountability by state and local candidates and special interest groups. My Republican colleagues and I believe these long overdue proposals offer a sensible and substantial start worthy of bipartisan support.

CHELSEA EDUCATION ASSOCIATION, the Chelsea teachers union, presented a $250 check to the VOTE YES Committee, the group working for passage of the district's $23.75 million bond issue. Ann Feeney, center, accepted the check from CEA vice-president Alice Leith, left, and president Joe Beard. The donation will help pay for the costs of printing and distribution of information regarding the scope of building projects, rationale for the plan, and other data. A special election on the proposal is set for Monday, Sept. 23.

VOTE YES COMMITTEE took its message to the streets in the Chelsea fair parade Saturday. The committee is pushing for passage of the school district's proposed $23.75 million bond issue.

Health Center Offers Free Prostate Cancer Exams

Sept. 22-28 is National Prostate Cancer Awareness Week and Catherine McAuley Health System (CMHS) is offering free prostate exams on Sept. 26 for men age 40 and over.

Prostate cancer is a silent killer that will strike 122,000 American men this year and will kill 32,000. Prostate cancer is the most common cancer in men and their second leading cancer killer. Because early prostate cancer usually has no symptoms, the American Cancer Society recommends that all men over age 50 have an annual prostate exam.

Last year more than 150,000 men nationwide received free exams. Among a sample of men for whom follow-up was completed, 20 percent were found to have cancer. Prostate cancer can develop and spread with no warning signs.

"Despite the high incidence of prostate cancer, last year's program revealed that only 25 percent of men screened nationwide had had a previous rectal exam within the past 12 months," reported E. David Crawford, M.D., chairman of the Prostate Cancer Education Council, sponsor of the program.

The good news is that prostate cancer can be cured if caught early. On Sept. 26 St. Joseph Mercy Hospital is joining 1,000 hospitals nation-wide in offering free prostate exams for men age 40 and over. Participants will receive at no charge a digital rectal exam and a prostate specific antigen test, conducted by physicians on staff at SJMH.

The examinations will be offered the afternoon of Sept. 26 from 1:30 to 6:30 p.m. in the Radiation Oncology Facility and space is limited.

For more information or to schedule an exam, please call Ask-A-Nurse at (313) 572-5555.

Canoe Liveries Begin Fall Schedules

DEXTER TOWNSHIP ORDINANCE NO. 23

ORDINANCE FOR ADOPTING MUNICIPAL EMPLOYEES' RETIREMENT PLAN

WHEREAS, the Board of Trustees of Dexter Township desires to make available to all, or a portion of its eligible employees as defined below, a pension plan as provided by the Michigan Municipal Employees' Retirement Act established by Act No. 427 of the Public Acts of 1984, as amended. Employee divisions are defined as: (1) General.

BE IT RESOLVED, that the Board of Trustees, the governing body of Dexter Township, a municipality within the meaning of that term as defined in said Act No. 427 of the Public Acts of 1984, as amended, does hereby, on behalf of the municipality as permitted in Section 41 of said Act, elect to come under the provisions of said Act, and elects Benefit Program B2 with an Employee Contribution Program of 9.2%. Prior service credit established with said municipality by each employee shall be credited equally to all or a portion of eligible employees as defined above, as stipulated below:

All prior service from date of hire as full time employee as determined by the Township.

The effective date of this Ordinance with respect to making deductions from the salaries of the eligible employees of the municipality, and the making payments required by said Act on behalf of said municipality shall be July 1, 1991.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, the Township Board is hereby authorized and directed to make all wage and salary deductions on behalf of the eligible employees of the municipality required by law and to pay the same to the Retirement Board established by the Municipal Employees' Retirement Act, together with such amounts as the municipality is required to make on behalf of the same employees under the provisions of said Act.

(Adoption of this Ordinance requires an affirmative vote by a majority of the governing body.)

CERTIFICATION

I hereby certify that the foregoing constitutes a true and complete copy of an ordinance adopted by the Board of Trustees of Dexter Township, at a meeting held on September 3, 1991, and that said meeting was conducted and public notice of said meetings was given pursuant to and in full compliance with the Open Meetings Act, being Act 287, P.A. of Michigan, 1967, and that the minutes of said meeting were kept and will be or have been made available as required by said Act.

Chelsea's Jeff Stacey Finishes Successful Career at Michigan

Jeff Stacey, a 1986 Chelsea High school graduate, recently completed a successful academic career at the University of Michigan, where, among other honors was named the school's Outstanding Student Leader his senior year.

Stacey, a political science major, finished with a 3.7 grade point average and was on the Dean's List every semester. He graduated from the College of Literature, Science, and Arts with high honors. In his senior year, he was a finalist for the William Jennings Bryan Prize for the outstanding graduate of the political science department. During his career he won several scholarships to help finance his education.

He spent three months studying literature, drama, and poetry in England and Ireland last year.

Stacey was also heavily involved in campus life. He was active in the South Quad Residence Hall Council, Undergraduate Law Club, and College Democrats. He also chaired the 1988 Sylvan Township Get-Out-The-Vote campaign.

Community activities included Elderly Outreach Program and Greek Week Community Service Project, and work as the SOS Crisis Center in Ypsilanti. He also volunteered at Mott Children's Hospital, the Veterans Administration Hospital, and Washtenaw County Juvenile Detention Center.

The Greek System also commanded much of Stacey's time. He was a member of Tau Gamma Nu fraternity, later went on to be elected to the executive board of the Interfraternity Council as rush chairman, and eventually became IFC president. He helped turn around the fraternity system and was named 1991 Greek Man of the Year.

Stacey was a member of four honor societies including the Mortar Board Senior Honor Society, the Pi Sigma Alpha political science honor society, Sigma Iota Rho international relations honor society, and the Order of Omega, a Greek honorary.

In other activities, Stacey has served as a counselor at the National Leadership Training Centers in Colorado and South Dakota the past four summers. He has appeared on national television three times in the last year. He offered student perspectives on the Persian Gulf war for the McNeil-Lehrer Report on PBS twice, and appeared on the ABC show Into The Night as part of the show's salute to outstanding college graduates.

Stacey plans to spend next year in London as an assistant to former British Prime Minister Edward Heath in the House of Commons in Parliament. Among other activities, he will assist Heath in writing his autobiography. He later plans to return to Britain to earn a master's degree in international affairs, and afterward attend law school or graduate school.

TIP & TOP

Talk About the School Bond . . .

WITH EDITORIAL COMMENT BY - HTP & HOP

We Should Do This In Stages - The Plan is just too big!

WHAT DOES THAT GAIN??
We know what the needs are, they won't go away.

AND IT WILL ONLY COST MORE if we wait!

MY TAXES ARE UP, TOO. But the schools don't control assessments!! Besides, this bond will only cost about $150 a year.

Geez! Everybody's Got a Gripe! Busses - Preschool - Teachers - Principals - Coaches . . .

WELL-I DON'T LIKE WHAT I HEAR ABOUT WHAT THEY TEACH TODAY, ANYHOW!

VOTING AGAINST FACILITIES & SPACE WON'T CHANGE THAT!!

IF you don't like it - work to change it! Get involved!

Wonder what this real gripe is . . .

Isn't he old enough to get the HOMESTEAD TAX CREDIT?

NOPE! He's a CHS class of '62 - The school of was brand new!

Who does he think built his school?

YOU & YOUR PET

★ The Digging Dog...

All dogs dig to some extent, but digging becomes a problem behavior when it interferes with the pet owner's lifestyle. Frustrations mount as the owner returns home day after day to a demolished garden or a "mined" yard. Unfortunately, the owner's common response is to be angry with the dog, who understands only the human is upset, not that the human is upset because of his digging.

To understand and deal effectively with digging, it is important to identify when and why the dog digs. Most dogs dig when their owners are gone, and the most common reasons for excessive digging are insecurity and boredom. Is the dog left alone outdoors for hours at a time? Dogs are naturally pack animals. They feel secure and comfortable when they are with their social group. The social group for a pet dog is his human family and any other pets in the household. If the dog is separated from his pack and his pack's den (the house), he feels insecure and vulnerable.

The dog is also isolated from the stimulation of the pack. It makes little difference whether the dog is left alone in a fenced yard, on a pulley rope or chain in an unfenced area, or in a dog run. The point is that the dog sees and smells the exciting and interesting world passing right in front of his nose, and he has no way to reach it. The dog is bored. All of these feelings add up to a solution in the dog's brain. DIG. Dig out of the kennel or yard to reach the interesting world. If you can't dig out, at least enjoy digging giant cool holes that feel a little like safe secure dens.

Therefore the solution to problem digging is pretty obvious. The dog should live basically indoors, where he can feel safe in his den with his pack. His owner can provide plenty of excitement in his life, what with regular walks, playtime, and other pet "buddies." What if he is not house-trained or is destructive in the house? These behavior problems are much easier to solve than digging for the outdoor pet, and will be covered in future columns. Obedience training is always a good first step in helping any dog with behavior problems, and I highly recommend the Ann Arbor Dog Training Club, phone (313) 995-2801.

Occasional digging by dogs who are not left outside too much can be approached in one of two ways. My preference is to acknowledge that digging is fun for the dog, and to provide him with a pile of soft dirt that is his to enjoy. Discipline him only when he digs elsewhere, using a firm voice when you catch him in the act, physically moving him back to his dirt pile, and praising him for digging there. The second solution for occasional diggers I learned from local obedience trainer Sue Fischer. It is a pop can filled with small rocks. When you see the dog digging, throw the can near (not at) the dog. It's loud unexpected noise will frighten him. Immediately call the dog to you for comfort and take him inside. Do not allow him to inspect the can or see you retrieve it. Next time, do the same thing. Usually two sessions will cure occasional digging. The Humane Society of Huron Valley's upcoming Puppy and Dog Training and Care class on Sunday Sept. 8, from 2 to 4:30 p.m. at the Ann Arbor Dog Training Club in Ann Arbor addressed digging and other common behavior problems of dogs. Call (313) 662-5845 for more information.

Farm Bureau Urges Several Tax Reforms

In a recent letter to all members of the House Ways and Means Committee, Farm Bureau urged enactment of several tax measures affecting the agricultural economy.

"We urged Committee members to renew the Health Insurance Tax Deduction for the self-employed, enact unrestricted Individual Retirement Accounts, return to pre-1986 treatment of capital gains and repeal the mandatory income tax withholding on agricultural employees," said Al Almy, director of Public Affairs for Michigan Farm Bureau.

Wild Edibles Subject of Program At Geology Center

"Wild Edibles" will be the subject of a program at the Eddy Geology Center in the Waterloo Recreation Area on Sunday, Sept. 15 at 1:30 p.m. Tom Jameson, a wild edibles specialist, will lead a walk indicating the various species that are available locally. The walk will be followed by an indoor sampling of Jameson's culinary abilities with various recipes.

The program is free and is being sponsored by the Waterloo Natural History Association.

Chelsea Players Plan Auditions for Musical

Chelsea Area Players have scheduled a fall production of "A Chorus Line" as part of a fall membership drive. The show will be directed and choreographed by Michael D. Pilen with orchestration by Peter Rosheger and vocal direction by Steven P. Hinz.

Performances are scheduled for Nov. 15, 16, 17, 22 and 23 at the Chelsea High school auditorium at 8 p.m.

There will be no matinee, as this is the original Broadway version originally produced by arrangement with Tams-Whitmark Music Library, Inc., New York.

Auditions are scheduled for 2 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 15 and 7 p.m. Monday, Sept. 16 at Beach Middle school, 445 Mayer Dr. If interested, you are asked to bring a prepared song and come ready to dance. There will be parts for wing singers and opening dancers for this production. Rehearsals will begin Tuesday, Sept. 17.

Additional questions or inquiries may be directed to Cindy Gaken at 475-2888 or the producer, Shelley Wheaton, 475-7412.

Bond Counsel Will Speak Here Tonight

John R. Aze will be speaking at a community meeting which all taxpayers are invited to attend, in the Sylvan Township Hall, Wednesday, Sept. 11 (tonight) at 7:30.

Aze was invited here to speak for the purpose of educating taxpayers about the process of bonding, differences of bonds, short-term effects and long-term effects of school debts.

Aze, a graduate of the University of Michigan and Harvard Law School, is a practicing bond attorney and financial consultant on municipal issues, as well as co-author of "Michigan Municipal Law." He has served as a bond counsel for more than 100 Michigan municipalities since the mid 1960's. He has helped to develop many of the existing Michigan bond laws and is well versed on how these laws are used. He serves on the board of directors of the National Association of Bond Lawyers, the only Michigan lawyer ever to serve in this capacity.

The meeting will begin promptly at 7:30 p.m. and will end with questions from the audience.

Woman Caught Stealing Cigarettes

A Glazier Rd. woman was arrested for stealing two packs of cigarettes from Polly's Market on Thursday, Aug. 29.

According to Chelsea police, the woman was confronted by store security in the parking lot after she put the cigarettes in her purse and walked out without paying for them.

The woman told police she didn't know why she stole the cigarettes because she doesn't smoke.

New Cable TV 22 Will Debut Monday

Chelsea's new cable TV Channel 22 announces its very first regular program slated to premier Monday, Sept. 23 at 7 p.m.

The show entitled "The Lary Hafner Showcase" will be an hour long variety show hosted by local Chelsea resident Lary Hafner.

"We aim to give Chelsea area residents a chance to have some fun and to show what interesting and talented people there are in our community and to promote and present public awareness to the many local community organizations that abound in the Chelsea area. This will be a way to help inform the community of what is happening in and around town."

The weekly program will be taped before a live audience every Sunday night starting at 8:30 p.m. in the Chelsea Community Hospital main dining room. The show is free and open to the public.

Each week there will be new and interesting guests and each program will be announced in The Chelsea Standard.

Hafner's guests this week will be Miss Teen Michigan Laurie Honbaum, Blue Grass Band "The Backroom Boys," Eagle Scout Kevin Hafner, 1991 Chelsea Community Fair Queen Rebecca Dehring, five-year-old pianist/singer Dana Featherly, and Chelsea Newcomers Organization chairperson, Sally Heil.

If you have any special or not so special talents you would like to show off, or if you have a worthy organization you would like to come on TV and tell about, please let us know by writing: "Showcase" c/o Lary Hafner, 20700 Waterloo Rd., Chelsea 48118.

Boys Cross County Team Takes Second at Invitational

Chelsea Bulldogs boys cross country team surprised a field of 13 teams by taking second place at the Bath Invitational last Saturday.
 Linden won the meet with 81 points, while Chelsea was second with 104, and Eaton Rapids placed third at 106.
 Ryan Schultz, who finished eighth over-all and second for Chelsea, set a freshman record with a time of 17:12. It beat Paul Hedding's time of 17:24 set in 1985.
 In addition, every other runner set a personal record.
 "We are a young, inexperienced team, but this will increase our confidence," said Chelsea coach Pat Clarke.
 Senior Mike Reese set a personal record by 35 seconds at 17:35. Junior Tobin Strong ran under 18 minutes for the first time ever. Junior Dan Zatkovich set a personal record by over 40 seconds as he finished first for

Tennis Team Beats Central In Busy Week on Courts

Chelsea Bulldogs tennis team lost to Howell last week, 2-5, but beat Brooklyn-Columbia Central by the same score.
 In the Howell match, first and second singles were the only winners in a match played in 90-degree heat.
 "It was the hottest match we have ever played in the 13 years I have coached tennis," said Chelsea coach Terri Curtis.
 At first singles, Amy Mitchell defeated Leslie Kot, 4-6, 6-1, 6-1; Kate Neal at second singles beat Sally Billups, 7-6, 2-6, 6-1; at third singles, Heather Wynn lost to Anna Sparrow, 1-6, 4-6; and at fourth singles, Erin Boyle lost to Missy Moore, 1-6, 0-6.
 In doubles, Theresa Hurst and Monica Royce lost to N. Morgan and S. Ford, 4-6, 1-6; Becky Veto and Christine McLaughlin lost to C. Buchner and K. Bowers, 6-4, 3-6, 1-6; and Tina Haas and Becca Flintoft lost to J. Pinalja and K. Donigan, 2-6, 1-6.
 Chelsea's junior varsity won its match, 4-3.
 In the Columbia Central match, Mitchell won 6-1, 6-3; Neal lost 2-6, 5-7; Wynn won 6-1, 4-6, 6-4; and Erin Boyle won 6-3, 6-1.
 In doubles play, Hansen and Hurst won 6-0, 6-2; Flintoft and Haas won 6-1, 6-2; and Sara Smith and Myra Musoll lost 5-7, 6-1, 3-6.
 The Chelsea junior varsity won 5-1.
 At the Pinckney Invitational, Chelsea could not defend its title, losing to more experienced Howell and Pinckney, who each scored 18 points. Chelsea scored 12.
 "We played our hardest and took them to three sets in seven flights but just didn't have the experience and mental toughness to pull it off," Curtis said.
 Chelsea had the two best players in the tournament as Mitchell won the top flight, 6-1, 6-3 over Laurie Maciag of Pinckney and 6-1, 7-5 over Leslie Kot of Howell. Neal also beat both of her opponents, Andrea Powers of Pinckney 2-6, 4-6, and Sally Billups of Howell, 7-6, 6-0. Mitchell and Neal each won a gold medal and accounted for all 12 Chelsea points.

Golfers Lose Two Matches

Chelsea Bulldogs golf team lost to the Tecumseh Indians last week, 186-181.
 "Tecumseh's course is one of the toughest we play on all year and unless you're very knowledgeable of where to play each shot you're very likely to shoot well up into the 40's or low 50's," said Chelsea coach Jim Tallman.
 Chris White shot a 40 and took medalist honors. Other Chelsea scorers included Matt McVittie 49, Nick McCalla 51, and Sean Grafund 51.
 "The difference of five strokes is definitely something to encourage us for the future," Tallman said.
 Junior varsity scorers were Cory Brown 47, Jason McVittie 47, Adam Beauchamp 52, and Andy Wetzel 53. JV team score was Chelsea 189, Tecumseh 190.
 Chelsea hosted Tecumseh and Saline last Thursday at Inverness Golf Course. Saline won with a 160, Tecumseh scored 189, and Chelsea shot a 180.
 Kyle Dobbs of Saline led all players with a 37.
 Chelsea scores included White 44, Matt McVittie 44, McCalla 45, and Nathan Oake 47.
 JV results were Chelsea 205, Tecumseh 208, and Saline 181.
 Chelsea scores were Jason McVittie 48, Justin Navin 47, Beauchamp 54, and Jim Tallman 56.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

If ever a team had a split personality, it was the Chelsea Bulldogs last Friday night at Niehaus Field.

Chelsea was flat out terrible in the first quarter, and didn't look much better the rest of the half, at least on offense. They fell behind 14-0 early, and Mason helped out with some key penalties or the score would have been worse. The defense looked like it was stuck back at the first day of practice. Most Mason runs were going for 10 yards or more. It was a sad sight.

Something happened at half-time though. "Coach chewed us out," is the way one player put it.

Chelsea took the kick-off and had one of its finest sustained drives in recent years. Running back Ben Hurst turned into an animal and tore through the Mason line, breaking tackles every which way, including a 13-yard run on fourth-and-two at midfield. Quarterback Pat Steele and receiver Colby Skelton, both sophomores, started connecting, and Adam Taylor scored the first touchdown of the season.

The Bulldogs offense kept on chugging the rest of the night, but what made the difference in the end was defense.

Play of the game may have been right defensive end Tom Poulter's interception in the Mason backfield at the Mason one-yard line with 3:35 left in the third quarter. Poulter broke through the line and the quarterback threw to his left. Perfect and horrible execution, all on the same play. Two other big moments were a sack by Eric Beeman, followed two plays later by an interception by Skelton to end the third quarter.

Steele and Skelton gave us just a hint of the excitement we may be in for down the road. Skelton caught seven passes and could have grabbed a couple more but the throws were a little off target. Steele, who understandably looked a little nervous, especially when his first pass to the sidelines almost sailed into the stands, showed an abundance of talent and poise for a kid in his first varsity game, particularly for a sophomore. He got nailed good and hard but didn't drop the ball, he didn't force many passes, and he surprised me with his running. Those two should have some career here.

I can't get over how much Skelton reminds me of a young Todd Starkey. He's a little taller, maybe not quite as fast, but he has all the moves and timing and those nice, soft hands that grab a ball like Velcro. Few defensive backs will be able to cover him one-on-one. Another similarity—if Steele should be unable to play, Skelton will step in as quarterback.

I have a feeling about this team. If the Bulldogs stop Saline Friday in Saline, they'll be the team to beat for the SEC title. The last time Chelsea bested the Hornets was 1986, the last season they won the league.

Girls cross country team members, stop reading now. Your coach doesn't want you to see this.

The young ladies took four out of the top five places last Saturday at a 13-team invitational. The other 12 teams could have designated an all-star team and they still would have lost to the Bulldogs. Amazing.

This team is so good, a couple of junior varsity runners could be the number one runner on other varsity teams. This team is so good, top runner Lisa Monti ran injured and still placed second over-all. This team is so good, coach Pat Clarke would really like everyone to forget about it until the end of the season, when the running really counts.

All athletic projects in the proposed $23.75 million bond issue will cost about .45 mills to finance. 230 high school kids will use athletic facilities this fall alone.

JV Gridders Win Big Over Mason

Chelsea Bulldogs junior varsity football team took its biggest win in years last Thursday with a 33-0 victory over the Mason Bulldogs at Mason.

Chelsea defense had five interceptions, including two by freshman Pat Lynch.

Chelsea opened the scoring in the first quarter with a 45-yard jaunt by sophomore Jay Westcott. Tim Westcott kicked the extra point.

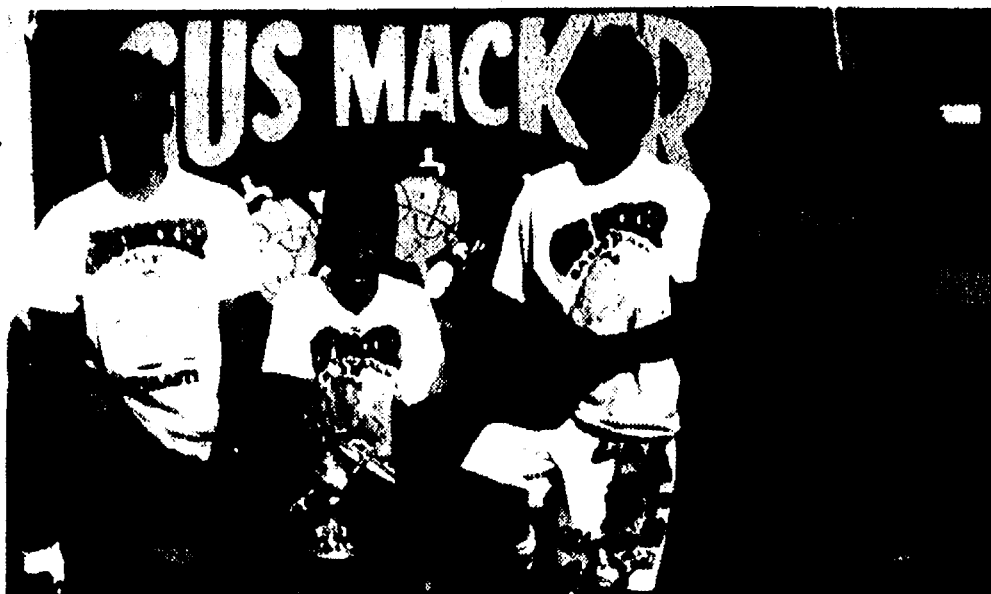

In the third quarter, sophomore Matt Montange broke a 30-yard scoring run, and Westcott followed with the kick.

Chelsea scored three times in the fourth quarter. Westcott scored his second touchdown on a 90 yard run, one play after Chelsea stopped Mason on downs.

Sophomore Aric Dougherty scored on a five-yard run, and Don Popper returned an interception 75 yards for the final score.

Chelsea coach Lonnie Mitchell said Montange had an outstanding game at linebacker.

"I was glad we had the opportunity to play freshmen in a junior varsity game," Mitchell said.

Today's Investor

Q. I know a stock's price-earnings ratio is a way to judge the value of a stock. I have no problem making the calculation. My question is what is the meaning of the figure and how do I use it to judge value?

A. The price-earnings ratio (P/E) of a stock is calculated by dividing the current price by the earnings per share (EPS). The P/E ratio published in newspapers uses the trailing 12 month's EPS. The trailing 12 months earnings are the earnings for 12 months back from the present rather than for the last calendar or fiscal year. Wall Street Analysts and investment advisory services tend to use

By Ralph L. Seger, Jr.

NAIC Investor
Advisory Service

EPS forecasted for about a year in the future on the basis that the stock market tends to discount the future, not the past.

The P/E ratio for a stock is a function of the many different characteristics stocks have plus investors' attitudes toward the stock. Among the factors that affect the P/E ratio are the following:

- Growth rate of Earnings per Share and sales
- Consistency or predictability of growth of Earnings per Share, freedom from unpleasant surprises
- Quality or safety of the stock
- Management's ability
- Leverage of the balance sheet
- Prospects for the company's products/services.

A P/E ratio is useful for valuing a growth company. It tends to have much less application for slow growing stocks, such as utilities, or cyclical stocks.

Think of a P/E ratio as a measure of how much investors are willing to pay for a dollar of earnings.

To use a P/E ratio as a measure of value, go through some simple calculations. For each of the past five years, divide the annual high and low prices by the EPS. Add up the high P/E ratios and determine the average. Do the same for the low P/E ratios. Add the five high and five low P/E ratios together. Divide by 10 to determine the average P/E ratio for the past five years. In calculating average P/E ratios, discard abnormally high or low values as non-representative.

If a stock is selling at a P/E ratio equal to or less than the five-year average, based on forecasted EPS about 12 months in the future, it is probably fairly valued. By the same token, a stock selling at a P/E ratio equal to or greater than the average high P/E ratio, may be overvalued. The concept is to buy at a P/E ratio that holds forth the potential for a P/E ratio increase. When the odds of a P/E ratio expansion evaporate, the stock may be grossly overpriced.

Investment Idea for Today's Investor
Dun & Bradstreet (DNB), listed on the NYSE, is a high quality stock that has fallen from the grace of investors. Up through 1989, EPS grew at a predictable 12% annual rate. Then the company faced accusations of overcharging customers for its credit reporting services. The corrective measures taken by management have taken longer to implement than originally estimated, probably affected by the recession.

Earnings fell from $3.14 in 1989 to $2.72 for the 12 months ended June 1991.

Dun & Bradstreet dominates its market of credit information to businesses, telephone "yellow pages" publication, and market research.

Wall Street analysts expect earnings growth to eventually resume at 11% per year pace. The 1991 estimated earnings per share is $2.88 and $3.16 for 1992. At the recent price of 45, the P/E ratio is 14.2 times 1992 estimated earnings. This is well below the historic average P/E ratio of 19.2, suggesting the price is favorable.

Dogs Qualify for State in Four Events Against Willow Run

Chelsea Bulldogs swimming and diving team turned in four state qualifying performances as the Bulldogs whipped visiting Willow Run in the first meet of the season, 139-41.

The qualifying performances began with the first event as the medley relay team of Betsy Schmunk, Melissa Thiel, Sara Nicola, and Carey Schiller swam a 2:04.77 to make the state cut.

Erika Boughton qualified in the 500 freestyle with a time of 5:45.75, then anchored a state qualifying 200 freestyle relay with Thiel, Schiller and Nicola in 1:50.35.

Then it was Thiel's turn as she qualified in the 100 breaststroke with a time of 1:15.15.

"I was pleasantly surprised," said Chelsea coach Dave Brinklow.

"I knew we were capable of some state cuts, but I thought they might be too tired from the hard training they've been doing. It's great to get some early qualifications instead of sweating it out until the end of the season."

Brinklow said other swimmers were equally impressive as the Bulldogs won every race and had several best times.

"Many of the younger swimmers had their personal best times, so that's a great place to start," Brinklow said.

Other meet results are as follows.

200 medley relay: 2. Christie Lonskey, Nona Giebel, Jennifer Koch, and Kristi Smith; 4. Kristi Ostling, Carrie Smith, Amy Hinshaw, and Angie Wilson.

200 freestyle: 3. Schmunk, 5. Ninete Vermeylen.

200 individual medley: 1. Thiel; 2. Nicola; 3. Maya Holleman.

50 freestyle: 1. Schiller; 2. K. Smith; 3. Sandy Schmid.

Diving: 1. Lonskey; 2. Jennifer Schulz.

100 butterfly: 1. Nicola; 2. Koch; 3. Schmid.

100 freestyle: 1. Schiller; 2. Holleman; 4. Maya Ponte.

500 freestyle: 3. K. Smith; 4. Vermeylen.

200 freestyle relay: 2. Lonskey, Holleman, Koch, and Schmid; 5. Ponte, Wilson, Hinshaw, and Giebel.

100 backstroke: 1. Schmunk; 2. Lonskey; 4. Ostling.

100 breaststroke: 3. Koch; 4. Giebel.

400 freestyle relay: 1. Schmunk, Holleman, Schmid, and Boughton; 3. K. Smith, Vermeylen, Ponte, and C. Smith.

Chelsea placed three teams at the Battle Creek Lakeview Relays last Saturday.

The 200 butterfly team of Boughton, Koch, Sandy Schmid, and Vermeylen placed ninth in 2:13.41.

Thiel, Lonskey, Schmunk, and Schiller were sixth in the 200 backstroke relay in 2:05.64.

The 200 medley relay team of Schmunk, Thiel, Boughton, and Schiller placed sixth in 2:02, a state qualifying time.

"The competition was stiff," Brinklow said.

"There were class A powers like Ann Arbor Pioneer and class B powers like East Grand Rapids. So I was pleased to score three relays. It was also a good experience for our girls to see some of the best swimmers in the state."

Heydlauff, and Martha Lucchetti, all members of the auxiliary, sell chances on a quilt and other items at a Holiday Bazaar Raffle.

Guest Speaker at Immanuel Church

Loren Jacobs, director of Shema Yisrael, will be presenting "Jesus in the Jewish Holidays" at the 11 a.m. worship service of Immanuel Bible church this Sunday, Sept. 15. Shema Yisrael, located in Southfield, is dedicated to reaching out to the Jewish community with the Good News about the Messiah.

The presentation this Sunday takes a look at the Seven Annual Feasts that God commanded the Jewish people to observe.

The message not only looks back to what God has done in Israel's history, but also points to the person and work of Messiah Jesus. This fascinating message includes a visual demonstration from a table set with the symbolic elements for each holiday. The Christian significance of the Jewish feasts are explained as they foreshadow the death of Christ, His resurrection, the birth of the Church, and Christ's return at the culmination of history.

Money for Ag Research Well Spent

Money spent on agricultural research yields several times as much in term of benefits as is returned from conventional investments in manufacturing, according to a study reported by the American Farm Bureau Federation.

"The average U.S. family received $46 worth of benefits from each $17 of taxes used to support agricultural research," said Ken Nye, director of Commodity Activities and Research for Michigan Farm Bureau. "That's an average cost-benefit ratio of 2.7 to one."

Nye said the larger benefit ratios went to the lowest income category of families.

Farm Tour '91 Visiting Webster Township Farms

The Don and Wana Baldus family will be hosts for the morning tour, Saturday, Sept. 14, when the Interfaith Council for Peace and Justice conducts "Farm Tour-1991."

The event will begin at 10 a.m. on the 1,000-acre Sesquicentennial Farm, which dates back to 1830, and which is where corn, wheat and hay are grown, and a few beef cattle are raised.

During the lunchtime program, Don Zeib, Webster township supervisor and a farmer in his own right, will discuss "Farms and Transition in Webster Township."

The Webster Township Historical Society will display documents and artifacts at Webster church from bygone farming days.

At 1:30 p.m., the afternoon tour will begin at Bluebird Farm on Walsh Rd.

This farm is in its fourth year of operation, and organic tomatoes, melons, broccoli and peppers are grown there, using minimal amounts of naturally-derived herbicides and pesticides.

The four-acre farm boasts an owner-constructed house and barn in a very attractive setting.

Washtenaw County Co-Operative Extension agent Bill Ames will moderate the Farm Tour program, and there will be special on-farm and after-lunch activities for the youngsters.

YOUNGSTERS WENT "ELEPHANT HUNTING"
during the annual Washtenaw County Republican Party Picnic, Sunday, Sept. 8, an event traditionally held at the home of Margaret and Jerry O'Connor. The kids had a whole lot of fun as they scampered across the wide grassy area enclosed by split-rail fence in search of small wrapped candies and five miniature elephants. Game leader Tom Richardson, Washtenaw County Republican Party chairman, was busy tossing handfuls of treats for the kids to hunt.

BEHIND THE HEADLINES:

Why Most School Reforms Don't Work

Hardly a month goes by without our hearing of some new and innovative plan to "reform" or otherwise save America's faltering public education system. But the question is, do they help or hurt the all-important learning process?

By Philip C. Clarke
President Bush, who'd like to be known as the "Education President," this July launched his proposal for a privately-financed corporation to help create a "new generation" of schools to serve as models of excellence. An 18-member board of prominent business, education and political leaders hopes to raise $200 million in corporate donations for research and development to create 535 new schools by 1996—at least one in each Congressional district in the U.S. This will nearly match what the federal government already invests yearly in education and development.

As another part of his so-called "America 2000" plan, the President has called for periodic national testing to show how students and schools rank across the country and abroad. And, he also has backed a school "choice" system of vouchers allowing federal money to follow children to whatever school they choose—public, parochial or private. Whether such well-meaning but highly controversial innovations will work—or even get off the ground—remains to be seen. In any case, we're beginning to hear at last from those who should know best: the teachers themselves.

In a new book titled Shut Up and Let the Lady Teach (Poseidon, New York, N.Y., 331 pp., $21.95), Emily Sachar tells the depressing story of her first year of teaching in a Brooklyn intermediate school. As National Review puts it, she arrived hopeful and well-prepared, "but inevitably her enthusiasm collided with bureaucratic nonsense and appalling administrative and educational ineptitude. Halls were defaced by graffiti, floors were strewn with litter. Desks were in short supply, and often lacked legs and tops. Class schedules were ill conceived, necessary school supplies non-existent." Worst of all, the account continued, "learning hardly ever occurs" at the school. On graduation day, Mrs. Sachar admired all the finery of caps and gowns, but felt no sense of pride "for too many of the pupils moving on to high school could not read, write or do simple mathematics."

It's a sad story, but typical of many inner-city schools today. According to recent crime reports, over-all some 3 million violent incidents a year now plague the nation's 110,000 public schools. But breakdown by student discipline are not the only problem. In a book titled The Classroom Crucible: What Really Works, What Doesn't and

Why (Basic Books, New York, N.Y., 235 pp., $22.95), Edward Pauly calls a lot of today's expert recommendations for changes in administrative policy ill-conceived nonsense. He cites studies by the Rand Corp. and others to the effect that much of the innovation has hurt rather than helped the education process because it fails to translate into practical classroom behavior.

Another well-known critic, Jacques Barzun, in a book titled Begin Here: The Forgotten Conditions of Teaching and Learning (University of Chicago Press, Chicago, Ill., 222 pp., $24.95) traces the beginnings of "academic folly" to the early 1950's when educationists pushed trendy "progressive" and "egalitarian" methods of teaching. As summarized in National Review, "The forgotten condition of learning from the beginning and progressing to more complex tasks has been replaced by pressure to appear to obtain quickly what can only be the fruit of some effort."

The results are self-evident. Says National Review: "Ten years ago, it was estimated that just 18 percent of the school year was devoted to educational work (the remainder to athletics, administrative tasks, etc.). And things have only gotten worse. Much valuable teaching time is now devoted to secondary and elective courses which have been added to the curriculum. Of course, when something goes in, something must come out." Or, to quote a common computer-age saying: "Garbage in, garbage out."

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

What does happen to a "politically correct" family group (PC range, 1 to 4) after it attends the performance of KURU by Josh C. Manheimer, The Purple Rose Theatre's 1991-92 season's opener?

They run from the theatre screaming THREEPEAT!?, because Connie McGrall, by way of Chicago, as Mary Lou Anderson, has more than a hand in the play's devolutional success. Mary Lou may be corn-bred and fed but, as the microwave of human events and emotions eats up a cast of metaphorical hundreds, she shows us an Iowan character poignantly able to vision both a wall and a garden. She literally goes beyond both and, most heroically, beyond herself.

They stay in the theatre and berate the author about PATRIARCHAL PISTONERY!? Sure. Aye. Yes. That's the nub, Stub, as Dr. Roman, disarmingly portrayed, by Arthur Pearson and, who weighs slightly and superbly less after fulfilling the destiny of his Nobel career, subjecting himself and the Fore tribe to a fate worse than Ethiopia. I could almost hear Mr. Manheimer thinking a new line whilst in the "hot seat" after the play; something like, "Mr. Conrad, hello, this is Dr. Schweitzer calling. Now about this horror of yours."

They trash the theatre and graffiti it with the white man's burden and manifest destiny sucks!?! Nah! Why would anyone want to miss Mokina, "schemed and mantr'd" by Maria Csoka, Dr. Roman's nubile, 13-year-old bride, who goes right to the heart-pot of the anti-matter and survives, with a lot of help from her liberated sister-in-limbo, Mary Lou.

They start World War III!? Manheimer's Arm of Lightness is bound to P.O. the P.C.-ers as a sinewless piece of tasteless gruel and, I have to admit to long struggling with the idea that the only sacred idea is style. But as long as I write, I will defend anywhere the writer's right to content. Thank you Oscar.

Anyway, later that night, sitting alone in the Common Grill, swirling an agonizing Cognac (World War Three had already started, and I'm a High-Life, Low-Range P.C. Ranger) the Big Fella' comes over and asks me what I think. I said I think KURU an essentially funny, feminist comedy, with an absolutely gorgeous set, a THREEPEAT if you will, and the Helms with all the nay-sayers.

Our new 3-Month Options CD lets you put your money in and take your money out anytime. You can make as many additions to a 3-Month Options CD as you like. And if you run into unforeseen expenses or want to transfer money to another investment, you can make one withdrawal of any amount. You can even close your CD altogether—without penalty. Our impressive interest rate and low minimum deposit of $100 are something to dance about, too.

With an Options CD, you can waltz right in and change it anytime. And that's what it's all about.

3 Month CD
5.56% effective annual yield on 5.45%

Rates are fixed for the 3-month term but are subject to change. Effective annual yield assumes funds remain on deposit for one year at the same interest rate. Interest paid at maturity. Member FDIC.

Card of Thanks 19

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Alma Eisele wishes to thank all of you who were so supportive during her illness and at the time of her death. Your concerns, cards, flowers, visits, food, meals and memorial gifts are greatly appreciated. We also thank the ladies of St. Paul church who so graciously provided the food and those who served the luncheon, the caregivers at the Methodist Home, Dr. Peggs, Don, Linda and Allen Cole, Norman O'Connor for his solo, the pallbearers and the Rev. Koch for his untiring visits, prayers and comforting words at the service.

Katherine & Eidean Eisele.

Marian & John Pierson.

THANK YOU—

I would like to thank the following people whose help and encouragement made my running for fair queen possible: The Fair Queen Committee, The Fair Queen, Chelsea Greenhouse, Kiwanis Club, CAP, the Williams family, Louise Barner, Tonya Munding, Dianna Bell, Steven Hinz. An extra special thank you to Sam Vogel for all his time and help with the float as well as the use of his garage. Also to my family for their love, patience and encouragement throughout the last few weeks. But most of all to Sue Thompson for her support and encouragement and much, much more. Thank you again.

Wendy Bell.

+ AREA DEATHS +

Edward Otto Karjala

Ann Arbor
Edward Otto Karjala, Ann Arbor, age 73, died Thursday, Sept. 5, 1991, at his home.

He was born Feb. 6, 1918, in Paynesville, the son of Gust and Emma Tyvela Karjala.

He had been an Ann Arbor resident for the past 40 years.

On June 17, 1950, he was married to Clara Eleanore Niska.

She preceded him in death, April 13, 1968.

He was married to Betty Quigg, Jan. 18, 1964. She survives.

Mr. Karjala was a member of Darlington Lutheran church, and of the Moose Lodge No. 1253, Ann Arbor.

He had been a local painter for many years, and was a member of the Painter's Union.

Survivors, in addition to his wife, include two sons, Carl and Gary Karjala; one daughter, Anne Bastin; one sister, Ellen Kuehn; step-children, Sandra Meister, Kaye Taylor, Beverly Ledwidge, Earl Gebott and Neil Quigg; five grandchildren and seven step-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at 2:30 p.m. Friday, Sept. 6, at the Muehlhig Chapel, Ann Arbor, with the Rev. Edward G. Zell officiating.

Burial followed in Bethlehem Cemetery, Ann Arbor.

Memorial tributes may be made to the American Cancer Society.

Fallfest Slated Oct. 5 To Celebrate Chelsea '95

The Historic Village of Chelsea will host a Fallfest on Saturday, Oct. 5 spearheaded by Chelsea 1995 to celebrate the harvest season and the exciting changes taking place in this picturesque western Washtenaw county village.

A $1.7 million downtown beautification project is scheduled to be completed in early October, and many activities are planned to commemorate this undertaking and to complement the Senior Citizens seventh annual Country Craft & Folk Art Fair which is held every year at Chelsea High school.

Featured event of this inaugural Chelsea '91 Fallfest is a unique 200 meter match sprint bicycle race which will take place down Main St., Chelsea. The race is designed to be fun for the riders and exciting for spectators, and will include United States Cycling Federation licensed participants as well as citizens in all age brackets. Prizes are being offered and will be awarded at an Awards Ceremony scheduled for 3 p.m.

Below is a schedule of events being planned, with free shuttle bus service between the main event sites throughout most of the day:

- Antique Car Display—10 a.m. to 4 p.m.
- Antique Show at Chelsea Fairgrounds, all day.
- Baking Contest sponsored by Chelsea Milling Co., Oct. 4, awards Oct. 5.
- 7th annual Country Craft & Folk Art Fair, Chelsea High school, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.
- Children's Events through the day.
- Farmer's Market at Chelsea Depot, 8 a.m. to noon.
- Food by Knights of Columbus,

The windiest city in the US is Great Falls, Montana, where the average wind speed is 13.1 mph. Chicago, the notorious "windy city," actually ranks only 16th among the windiest cities in the US.

Kiwanis, Cottage Inn and others.

• Horse and Buggy Rides departing from the Depot, all day.

• Motorcycle Sidecar Rides departing from Chelsea Motorcycle Supply, all day.

• Open House at Historic Depot, all day.

• Pierce Park Concert featuring the "Sea Cruisers," 4 to 6 p.m.

• Purple Rose Theatre Company

production of "Kuru," 8 p.m.

• St. Mary's Dance at St. Mary's school featuring "Crossroads," 8 p.m. to midnight.

For further information on Chelsea '91 Fallfest or bicyclist entry forms, write to Chelsea Fallfest, 104 N. Main St., Chelsea 48118-1284, or phone 475-6933. Bicyclists wishing more detailed information may call (313) 761-1603.

Enrichment Triad Program Subject of Information Meeting

Anyone interested in finding out more about the Chelsea School District's Enrichment Triad Program at North and South schools is invited to attend an explanatory meeting on Thursday, Sept. 19 at 7 p.m. in the triad room (portable classroom) at South school.

Program director Ruth Stielstra will explain and answer questions about the three levels of enrichment called Type I, Type II, and Type III.

Type I can involve the whole school as outside speakers visit to discuss their areas of interest or expertise. Students sign up for the programs they are interested in hearing.

Type II activities are designed to allow students to escalate their thinking processes. During the year, each classroom will visit the triad room for four 25-minute sessions to work on critical thinking and problem-solving.

Advanced Type II allows third and fourth grade students to choose a favorite interest area and explore it thoroughly in independent research. Each "talent pool class" meets for 75 minutes each week.

Type III enrichment enables interested third and fourth grade students to apply skills learned in advanced Type II to study a problem and develop an original product as a result of the study, which is presented at the end of the year.

There is also a Type III community problem solving group for fifth graders who want to work as a team on a community problem. Ten to 15 students from each school participate.
