Chelsea Man Receives Patent for Fire Logs

A Chelsea man has been awarded a patent for his synthetic fire logs constructed from recycled newspaper and milk jugs.

Paul Chalmer, president of Prime Resource Corp., a chemist with a commitment to recycling, developed the process through 10 years of experimentation. The logs are made of pulped newspaper, which is pressed and dried into a special shape designed specifically to create a smooth-burning fire. Imbedded in the logs is ground polyethylene plastic, the kind of plastic used in milk jugs and plastic bags. It is chemically similar to wax, which makes it a clean product to burn.

The heat of the fire melts the plastic into the surrounding paper, which acts like a wick. The shape of the logs lets air circulate through the stack while the logs are burning. The result is a fire with a strong, clean flame without soot and molten puddles that would result from burning plastic alone, Chalmer says.

According to the patent, each log contains a little more than five ounces of polyethylene, which is the equivalent of about two gallon-size milk jugs. Initially Chalmer used five narrow rods of extruded plastic but has since modified the design to use ground plastic alone. Most of the plastic comes from milk jugs collected during the first year of the milk jug recycling project at North and South Elementary schools. He purchased about 9,000 pounds.

Chalmer's first product containing wax and newspaper was developed several years ago. His "Cheerier Fire Kindling Sticks" used paraffin wax, which made the product more expensive, partly because the wax had to be melted and soaked into newspaper.

The breakthrough came, Chalmer says, when he realized that polyethylene was chemically similar to wax and didn't need to be melted and soaked into the newspaper. His process requires less costly equipment. It also allows the logs to be assembled fairly quickly.

Chalmer began his business in his garage using equipment he built from available hardware. His logs have begun to appear in several Ann Arbor stores, as well as Johnson's How-To Store in Chelsea.

"The test marketing has been very encouraging," Chalmer says. Chalmer said he does not plan to seek venture capital to move the business along on a larger scale. Instead he plans "bootstrap it along to the extent I can."

Council Holds Special Meeting On Labor Problem

Chelsea Village Council met in executive session last Wednesday to discuss a matter with the village's labor attorney.

Village manager Jack Myers said "no one is getting fired," but would not be more specific other than to say "it was extremely important the matter get resolved." He said the matter could not wait for last night's regular session.

There are no pending labor negotiations. Trustees Jim Finch and Allen Anderson were not present.

Completion of Downtown Streetscape Project Being Halted Until Spring

Chelsea's downtown streetscape project is scheduled to stop for the winter, beginning Thursday.

Downtown Development Authority consultant Franz Mogdis said any remaining holes would be filled in temporarily with limestone and gravel.

Mogdis said the project can be finished with about two months of good weather, starting next spring.

Most of Main St. has been finished. Workers were planning to remove the remaining cobra street lights early this week and Mogdis said electrical work will continue until the remaining new street lights have power. The power pole in front of Longworth Plating on Main St., installed several years ago, may not be removed until spring.

Most of the streetscape work to be completed is on Park St. and W. Middle St., where paver blocks and street lights have to be installed. Other work includes the paving of The Chelsea Standard parking lot, and associated landscaping. The row of burning bushes that was planted on the depot side of the tracks will be repeated on the north side.

Three directional signs outside the downtown area were scheduled to be replaced this week. They include signs at Washington and Madison Sts., Madison St. and Mayer Dr., and Freer Rd. and Mayer Dr. They were a source of controversy, because of their size, soon after they were installed last spring.

The house that was moved from South St., behind the courthouse, to a lot on W. Middle St. will probably remain on its flatbed until spring, Mogdis said. A special foundation has to be constructed due to soil conditions, and weather conditions won't allow completion of the project.

Soil borings have been taken from the former Hop In lot at Main and Orchard Sts., as well as at Chelsea State Bank and McKune Memorial Library. The tests are being conducted to determine the extent of pollution caused by leaky underground gasoline storage tanks. Once the clean-up is finished, DDA will take possession of the former Hop In lot, where an addition to the library is scheduled to be constructed. Test borings could not be taken at Palmer Ford-Mercury across the street as planned due to the location of natural gas lines, Mogdis said. He said Michigan Department of Transportation has yet to allow borings to be taken from the road.

Mogdis said the project is within budget and DDA hasn't been forced to cut any corners. If the project was over-budget, it's likely the trees would not have been planted, Mogdis said.

So far the project has resulted in the replacement of about one-third of the downtown infrastructure in terms of storm sewers and water lines, Mogdis said.

Township Boards Plan Meeting About Landfill

Four township boards are expected to meet jointly with their attorney within the next few weeks to discuss the village's latest landfill cost-sharing proposal.

The village and Sylvan, Lyndon, Lima, and Dexter townships are trying to agree on how to share more than $700,000 in expenses associated with the closing of the old landfill. The expenses include materials and continued monitoring for groundwater contamination.

The village and townships have met once face-to-face. Most of the negotiations has involved correspondence between attorneys.

"It's gotten to the point that we need to include all the boards," said Sylvan Township Supervisor Don Schoenberg.

"Finding a date that we can all get together is the main problem."

No detail of any offer has ever been made public. The initial proposal by the village more than a year ago called for the village to absorb 40 percent of the costs and the townships 60 percent, based on historical usage of the facility. The negotiations also involve other landfill issues not related to cost-sharing.

Schoenberg said only that the two sides are "closer than when we started. We've still got some differences of opinion."

Schoenberg also speculated that another face-to-face meeting would depend on what happens with the joint meeting of the township boards. He would not say whether he believes an agreement is imminent.

School District Voters Polled on Bond Issue

Twenty volunteers conducted a telephone poll of 186 Chelsea School District voters Monday night in an effort to gather information regarding the recent failure of a $23.75 million proposed bond issue for school improvements.

The bond issue would have provided money to build a new early elementary school, to complete extensive renovations at North and South Elementary schools as well as at Chelsea High school, build new athletic facilities, build new communications networks at the schools, and prepare Mayer Dr. to be turned over to the village. Much of the project was designed to relieve crowded conditions at the elementary schools, as well as prepare for an increased population at the high school.

The volunteers, many of them members of the district's Facilities Committee or the Vote Yes Committee, asked three basic questions. One question asked where voters obtained most of their information about the recent proposal. Another asked why voters believed the proposal failed. And a third asked what kind of proposal voters would support.

Surveyors also asked follow-up questions depending on answers given.

According to Community Education Director Jackie Tracy, one of the architects of the survey, the survey has several objectives. The school board hopes most answers will fall into categories. For example, they might find out the recent proposal failed primarily because voters can't afford more taxes. Or they might discover most voters simply thought the proposal was too large.

If voters are overwhelmingly in favor of an elementary school project, the next proposal might focus on that alone. On the other hand, if voters don't want any kind of project at all, the board might decide to continue to use stop-gap measures, such as more portable classrooms.

The information may also help the board decide on timing for a new proposal. If people voted against the proposal primarily because they can't stand the thought of more taxes, a new proposal might be a year or more away. It's highly unlikely the board would jeopardize its operating millage, which will be on next June's ballot. It's also likely the district will require some increased operational millage due, in large part, to circumstances beyond its control. The recent "Robin Hood" tax-base sharing legislation and the property tax freeze, along with a new teacher contract, will almost certainly require the Chelsea district to seek additional funds.

Because the survey was open-ended, results will take longer to compile into useful form. Dr. Henry DeYoung is in charge of the analysis.

The survey was designed to have a margin of error of plus or minus three percent.

Results will not be presented to the board until early next year.

Chelsea novice debate team placed fourth among 71 teams last Saturday at a qualifying tournament for the state meet at Central Michigan University. The team of Bill Coelius, Jason Overdorf, Mindy Ryan and Sheila Tillman finished with a 7-1 record to qualify for the state meet.

Chelsea Village Planning Commission gave final approval to site plans for the Sylvan Hotel submitted by John and Anne Daniels. The former hotel would be converted into a three-level retail and office complex with 12 total retail spaces available. In addition, an elevator was to be installed on the outside of the north wall, which would make it the only downtown multi-floor building accessible to the handicapped.

Chelsea School District students again exceeded the state's goals in math and reading on the Michigan Educational Assessment Program tests given to fourth, seventh and 10th grade students in the fall. The tests are given annually to test basic skills in math, reading, and science.

L. Stanton Walker was elected assistant vice-president at Citizens Trust. Walker had served at Northern Michigan University as assistant vice-president of business and finance since 1979. than 20 men, seven fire trucks and a rescue squad from two area fire departments rushing to the scene of the blaze on Waters Rd. It took the firefighters close to two hours to put out the flames, but when they were done, only moderate damages had been sustained by the burning building and no injuries resulted from the blaze.

Years of public debate came to an end when the state Liquor Control Commission revoked the liquor license of Livingston county's Anchor Inn. The move might not have been permanent, however, as the state indicated that it might reconsider the revocation if the inn was sold within 90 days to a person who measured up to the Commission's standards.

Donald E. Strobel of Belleville was elected commander of the Ann Arbor Power Squadron. Elected along with Strobel were Richard J. Sullivan of Ann Arbor, executive officer, and David L. Cager of the Week was Jerald Benjamin, center forward for Chelsea High's varsity basketball squad, who had returned to the varsity ranks for his third year this season. "I'm hoping for all-league this year," the 6'3", 180-lb. senior revealed.

Federal Aid Package Renews Attention to Gas Tax Increase

Approval by Congress of a new transportation package has regenerated efforts to raise Michigan's gasoline tax, but supporters still say nothing will move unless and until Governor John Engler offers clear support for an increase.

The governor, whose gubernatorial campaign featured general opposition to increased taxes, has not closed the door to a higher gasoline tax and has said the state should not lose available federal funds.

The federal legislation that received final approval Wednesday by the U.S. House and Senate increases the matching requirements for states, that would send about $1.2 billion more over the next six years to Michigan if the matching funds are provided.

The package would mean about a 50 percent increase a year over what the state has been getting.

Michigan's total allocation of $3.2 billion over six years is the 11th largest amount among all states. It will be guaranteed at least 90 percent return on taxes paid by Michigan motorists, compared to 85 percent now, and may be as high as 95 percent.

A coalition of highway interest groups who have been pushing for several months for a gas tax increase said a permanent increase of 6 cents per gallon is needed to match the available funds. They said it would be "embarrassing" if the state had to forfeit the money.

James Little, executive director of the County Road Association of Michigan, said it is unclear how much of the new funds would have to be returned without a tax increase, since situations differ in localities across the state.

"Counties and cities are suffering already for a lack of funds. They are operating at 1989 levels and it will be difficult if not impossible to match the federal funds," Little said.

Deryl Holmes, department legislative executive for governmental affairs, said current state revenues do not generate enough money to match federal dollars. "There is little doubt that we will have to identify additional funds to match federal dollars," he said.

Holmes said the state would have to generate another $200-$300 million over the next six years to get the federal funds, and officials are reviewing options on how to raise that money.

The state has to provide 10 percent of the cost of projects on interstate freeways, but that rises to 20 percent for nearly all other projects under the federal bill.

Engler spokesman John Truscott acknowledged the governor has not precluded a tax increase, but added, "We haven't discussed it either. We don't know if a gas tax is the only way to access federal money. There may be other ways to explore before we make commitments."

Speaker Lewis Dodak (D-Montrose) stressed that no action will be taken on a tax unless the governor provides clear public support. "I think it's pretty crucial that the governor will have to indicate that he is for or against it," he said. "Economically if we're going to be competitive in the 1990s we have to maintain a road system. We're having an awful time maintaining it at this level," he said.

The tax has not been changed since 1983 when an existing formula raised the levy to 15 cents per gallon (diesel-burning trucks pay 9-cents if owners buy a special sticker). Because of improving vehicle efficiency, state revenues have not kept pace with inflation despite increasing numbers of miles driven by motorists.

All other states in the Midwest have higher gasoline taxes than Michigan, except for Indiana, where the rate is also 15 cents per gallon.

"We would like to do more in transportation. The question is 'what can we afford?' " Truscott said. He said the governor will make a decision "in the next couple of months."

Although the interest groups are pushing a permanent 6-cent increase, House Transportation Committee Chair Curtis Hertel (D-Detroit) said most proposals floated in the Legislature are in the range of 2-5 cents, and carry an expiration date.

Removing the cap on the current formula would raise the tax to 4 cents per gallon, but the federal government is also eliminating the cost index on which the formula is based.

House Minority Leader Paul Hillegonds (R-Holland) said the federal action has set the stage for discussion to begin at the state level and agreed with Dodak that Engler's support is essential.

"I'm open to looking at a gas tax hike if it appears we need it to match federal revenue. He (Engler) would have to give us a signal that he wants a gas tax hike and is willing to support it. If we're going to go ahead on a gas tax, we need to make sure that some of the issues that have been unresolved also be part of the agreement."

Specifically Hillegonds, who said the issue must be identified as a top 1992 priority if it is to have a chance to be approved before the election, said the Legislature should review diesel fuel taxes and the role of developers in financing the state's roadways.

If Engler leads support for a tax, Hertel does not expect a problem in getting significant numbers of votes from both parties in both houses. "It's an idea whose time has come. We have significant transportation problems. We have not had a gas tax increase in eight years. Our bridges and roads are in terrible condition, and public transit is in shambles. Every legislator has transportation problems."

In a statement, Transportation Director Pat Nowak said, "We'll be working to do whatever is necessary to meet federal matching requirements so that Michigan can capture all of the federal aid that will be available to use."

He and others touted the transportation package for the potential to create thousands of jobs and provide "a vital spark to help jump start our economy."

Nowak earlier this year announced several management cutbacks which he said were designed to make the department as efficient as possible before a tax would even be considered.

Larry Martin, director of the Michigan Road Builders Association, said, "Clearly the state needs an increase; 80 percent of the roads are in bad shape. If we don't do it, the alternative is unacceptable." He said failing to address the road needs would affect highway safety.

The Michigan Public Transit Association and the Michigan Municipal League also joined the road builders and county road groups in backing a gas tax increase. They said snow removal as well as road and bridge repairs have been cut back and workers laid off in order to meet current matching fund requirements.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Bug Hookum come to the session at the country store Saturday night wearing his old felt hat with the greasy brim, sweat streaked band and air holes in the sides. He said he never knew he was doing the healthy thing all the summers he wore it till he read of the safe hat survey.

Bug reminded the fellers that back in the summer the National Farm Medicine Center done field trials in actual fields on 11 kinds of hats farmers and ranchers could wear to guard agin the sun. Tested was such as Tarzan movie pith helmets, wide brim straw hats, and a new, improved Sherlock Holmes model with flaps on the sides to go with them in back and front.

The center in Marshfield, Wis. run the test after it had done a survey of 600 farmers and found that eight percent of em had skin cancer and 46 percent had pre-cancer signs. Researchers figured the numbers were high partly because wide brim hats are out of favor except at rodeos and dude ranches, and ball caps are in. This is so, Bug said, partly because they had to buy the hats and caps are give to em by feed and tractor salesmen.

The news Bug had was that the voting is done and results are in. The winner is a ball cap with side and back flaps that can be stuck on and took off, as the season allows. What it boils down to, Bug allowed, is that careful farmers are going to look like a Foreign Legion movie in summer and their reglar selfs in winter. Bug took note that the straw hat finished dead last, and the Sunday felt hat that wears down to everyday use never even got nominated.

The fellers were unanimous in their vote for Bug to bury his felt hat to protect the environment, and they were just as solid fer having no truck with the hat vote. Fer one thing, Zeke Grubb said, the National Farm Medicine Center sounds like a Federal agency, and you got to know what a farmer thinks when folks come to his place wearing coats and ties and say we're from the Government and we're here to help you.

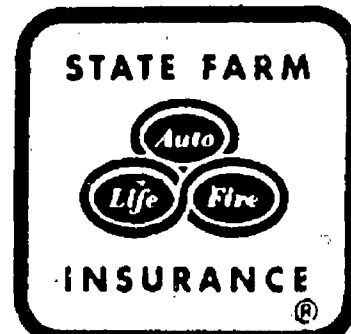

Farthermore, Zeke said, it ain't likely that a farmer that eats all he can of whatever his old lady puts in front of him while he's reading about everthing clogging his arteries is going to be made fun of by all his feller farmers fer wearing a healthy hat he had to buy that makes him look like Sherlock Holmes in overalls. Farmers are going to keep broiling their necks and ears til they git a better reason to change their ways, was Zeke's words.

Actual, Clem Webster was of a mind that the safe hat study could be put in the same box with selling Lenin's corps to the highest bidder starting at $15 million, and North Carolina being fuller of manure than the rest of the states. Before you take this kind of news serious, Clem said, you decide how big a grain of salt to take with it. Practical speaking, Clem allowed, there is no more reason to believe scientists at N.C. State University have weighed 21 million ton of animal waste that's a danger to the air in that state than to think anybody would pay that kind of money fer Lenin to build up Russia's cash base.

First there was the move to cloth naked animals, Clem said, and now we got to put Port-a-Jons in the milk barns.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

ABWA Members Enjoy Annual Christmas Party

Members of the American Business Women's Association (ABWA), Chelsea Charter Chapter, attended a Christmas party Friday, Dec. 6 at the American Legion Home in Dexter.

Each member brought new pairs of socks for the Faith in Action sock tree. The socks will be given to adopted families and others sponsored by the program.

The ABWA also made a donation to Dexter Family Services.

A white elephant gift exchange and party games were played at the Christmas party.

Shirley Enderle of Dexter made dinner arrangements of filet mignon, with a cheesecake dessert. The dinner was served at 7:30 p.m. and was prepared by the American Legion Auxiliary.

ABWA is a national organization of employed women. The Chelsea chapter president is Cindy Bear of Chelsea. Meetings are held on the fourth Tuesday of each month, in the Chelsea Community Hospital.

Each year a fashion show is held to raise funds for scholarships. In 1991, $1,825 was given to local women for college costs.

The fashion show will be held on March 28, at the UAW-CIO Hall on South M-52, Chelsea.

Lifeline Emergency Service Available Through Hospital

Calling for help should be as simple as dialing the phone or knocking on a neighbor's door. But for many elderly or disabled persons living alone it can be a frightening experience—especially if a fall or medical emergency makes it impossible to reach the phone.

The LIFELINE program of Chelsea Hospital's Social Work Department provides the help these people need.
LIFELINE is the emergency response system which enables those who are elderly, handicapped, or who have significant health problems to call for assistance. The system is designed to provide fast response to emergency situations by sending a signal to the Chelsea Community Hospital emergency room.

The LIFELINE subscriber simply presses the portable "help button" worn on a pendant or wrist strap. The CCH emergency room is alerted through the phone system and sends help immediately.

LIFELINE allows people who live alone the independence and security

Purple Rose Theatre Extends 'Ties That Bind' Through Jan. 5

Purple Rose Theatre Company is extending the performance run of its current production, Ties That Bind, through Jan. 5. Ten additional performances will be held during the week-ends after Christmas and New Year's holidays to accommodate the demand for tickets. All performances will be held at the Purple Rose Theatre Company's Garage Theatre, 137 Park St., Chelsea.

Written by Michigan playwright
Kitty S. Dubin, Ties That Bind examines the strengths and weaknesses of intimate relationships in today's complex world. The play revolves around Dr. Karen Bloom, a psychologist whose best-selling book about personal relationships thrusts her into the celebrity spotlight. Her sudden success on the lecture and talk-show circuit interferes with her personal clients and threatens her own successful 10-year marriage.

The original cast of Ties That Bind will continue with the production through the additional performance weeks. Jan Radcliff plays Dr. Karen Bloom with Arthur Pearson as her husband. Phyllis Lewis is one of Dr.
Bloom's clients with Carl Knisely as her husband. Annemarie Stoll and Gerard L.A. Smith are another pair of lovers who become involved with Dr.
Bloom's professional and personal life. William C. Coelius, IV, completes the cast as a talk show host who helps promote Dr. Bloom's book. All seven members have performed at various theatres throughout the Southeastern Michigan area.

This production of Ties That Bind is the third original script by a Michigan playwright to be produced by the Purple Rose Theatre Company since February, 1991. Playwright Kitty S.
Dubin, a licensed counselor/therapist whose practice is in downtown Birmingham, has had other plays produced at the Jewish Ensemble Theatre,
State Fair Theatre, Wayne State University. Ms. Dubin was also a recipient of an Individual Artist Grant from the Michigan Council of the Arts in 1989 which began the development of the script for Ties That Bind. The Purple Rose Theatre Company held workshops and readings of Ties That Bind during the summer and fall of 1991. Performances began at the Purple Rose on Thursday, Nov. 14 and has played to capacity audiences since that date.

Ties That Bind is directed by Julie Nessen, the first visiting director at the Purple Rose Theatre Company.
Ms. Nessen is also a lecturer in the Musical Theatre Program at the University of Michigan and has worked on Ties That Bind through the initial stage readings and workshop process. Gaetane Bertol is the set and costume designer for the show and Victor En Yu Tan is light designer.
Danna Dowsett Segrest is production stage manager.

Ties That Bind will play through Jan. 5 with performances Thursdays through Saturdays at 8 p.m. with Sunday performances at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m.
A special Saturday matinee at 3 p.m. is being added to the schedule to replace a performance from Thursday, Dec. 26.

Reservations may be obtained by calling the Purple Rose Theatre Box
Office at (313) 475-7902.

Q. My bank is talking to me about CD annuities. They pay about 1.75 percent more than regular CDs. What is the difference between an annuity and a regular CD? How can they afford to pay more? Do you recommend annuities?

Q. An annuity is a tax-deferred savings plan. Money is invested in an annuity with the promise of the issuing financial institution to repay at some time in the future. There are many variations of an annuity. Some repay in a lump sum, some make a series of defined periodic payments. There is usually a severe penalty for early withdrawal. Annuities are frequently sold by insurance companies and have as a main feature the promise of paying tax deferred money for retirement.

The difference between a CD and an annuity is rather basic. A Certificate of Deposit or CD, like a bond, makes regular interest payments and then returns your principal to you.

An annuity makes payments of interest and principal. Look at the terms very carefully. If the payments seem to offer a "yield" 1.75 percent greater than a regular CD, chances are the repayment of principal is included in the so-called "yield" calculation. There is a rule in investing that "when it looks too good to be true, it is too good to be true."

We do not recommend annuities for several reasons:

1. The safety is no better than the issuing financial institution. Some insurance companies promised high yields on annuities by investing in junk bonds. Later, the owners of the annuities found out that when the insurance company went bankrupt, their yield was reduced to what sound insurance companies could afford to pay and they risked the loss of part of their principal.

2. An annuity, like a CD or a bond, is a fixed-income security. The purchasing power of the interest and principal will most assuredly depreciate with inflation. At five percent inflation, which is the average inflation rate over the last five years. It will take $127.63 in five years to buy what $100 buys now. In 10 years it will take $162.89. The only way to protect yourself against inflation is to invest in situations where the income and principal increase faster than inflation. That is why many individuals who are investing for long-term goals like college educations or retirement look to high quality common stocks whose earnings and dividends rise at a rate of five percent per year or more.

State Budget Bill Has Recycling Money For Local Authority

The state appropriations bill containing the $330,000 grant for the Western Washtenaw Recycling Authority has been passed by the legislature and is awaiting Gov. John Engler's signature.

Money for the grant will not be released to the Department of Natural Resources until the bill is signed. And before the money can be released by DNR, a contract must be signed between DNR and the authority.

The two-month delay in the budget bill means the authority will have to act quickly once the funds are released. Bonds will have to be sold to provide the necessary start-up money. It will also have to complete design of the processing center, order equipment, and hire a manager.

Any changes to the proposed grant application must be approved by the DNR. One major change will be in the type of trucking system and drop-off containers. The authority has determined that a larger truck and containers will allow the authority to market materials more economically because larger loads of materials command higher prices.

Members of the authority include the villages of Chelsea and Manchester, and the townships of Sylvan, Lyndon, Lima, Dexter, Freedom, Manchester, Sharon, and Bridgewater.

Next meeting of the authority will be held next Wednesday, Dec. 18 at 7 p.m. at Sylvan Town Hall, 112 W. Middle St.

AN ORIGINAL SONG written and sung by Chris and B.J. Honke honored the 40 years of service in the priesthood of the Rev. Fr. Philip Dupuis, pastor of St. Mary's church since 1972. As each letter in his name was displayed the song recited a special trait or event in the life of their favorite priest. Appropriately the song was entitled "The Priest, the Man, Dupuis, Dear Friend Always."

TREE-LIGHTING CEREMONY at St. Louis school Friday evening found the boys dancing with joy while they sang Christmas carols. Fr. Fortunato (center background) led the singing while Fr. Enzo (left) was busy snapping photos of the excited group.

Approximately 400 people attended a reception held in St. Paul's church hall honoring the Rev. P. H. Grabowski in observance of his 35 years as pastor of the church. Among those present were members of the other churches of the community as well as area residents who had become acquainted with the pastor during his years at St. Paul's.

New officers of the Chelsea Camera club were Mrs. Kathleen Hatt, president; John Ford, vice-president; Mrs. Victor Kohsman, secretary; Robert Ray, treasurer; Ted Matthews, Amanda Koch and Joe Stanley, directors.

Twenty dolls were dressed by women at the Methodist Home for distribution to Chelsea area children through the Chelsea Social Service program. The women at the home co-operated with a Woman's club committee, headed by Mrs. Leigh Palmer, in preparing the dolls for Christmas giving.

The Rev. and Mrs. Philip E. Rusten and their children were now living in the parsonage of the Congregational church, having moved from Lansing where the Rev. Rusten had served as minister of education at Pilgrim Congregational church. The Rev. Rusten had already taken over his duties as pastor of the Congregational church here.

Cut Drunk Driving Campaign Officially Launched State-Wide

Sheriff Ron Schebil explained, early this week, the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department will join law enforcement agencies across the state to launch a "Cut Drunk Driving in Michigan" campaign.

The campaign officially opened Tuesday, Dec. 10, and Sheriff Schebil advised, "We're pleased to be part of the effort which will help make Washtenaw county roads safer for all travelers."

"Alcohol is involved in almost half of all fatal traffic crashes in this area, and we're determined to reduce this deadly toll."

Members of the Michigan State Safety Commission, including commission chairman Secretary of State Richard H. Austin and Colonel Michael D. Robinson, director of the Michigan Department of State Police, will join Chief John McAuliffe, vice-president of the Michigan Association of Chiefs of Police, and Sheriff John Grabowski, president of the Michigan Sheriff's Association, to symbolically cut the first driver license under tough, new drunk driving laws, which take effect Wednesday, Jan. 1.

A news conference was held in Lansing, Tuesday, Dec. 10, to begin the campaign to spread the word on the terms of the new drunk driving laws and their effect on motorists in Michigan.

According to Secretary of State Austin, "One of the key elements of the new law is that, at the time of arrest or refusal to take a breath test, a drunk driver's license will be physically destroyed by the law enforcement officer."

The Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) calls drinking and driving the most frequently committed crime in the nation, today.

According to Col. Robinson, "This year, people are being asked not only to be aware of the problem, but to do something constructive about helping to resolve it."

"We're asking friends and family to intervene before a tragedy happens by designating a driver, or passing the keys, or calling a cab to bring party-goers safely home."

Last year in Washtenaw county, there were lots of drunk driving incidents, many of which occurred during the holiday season.

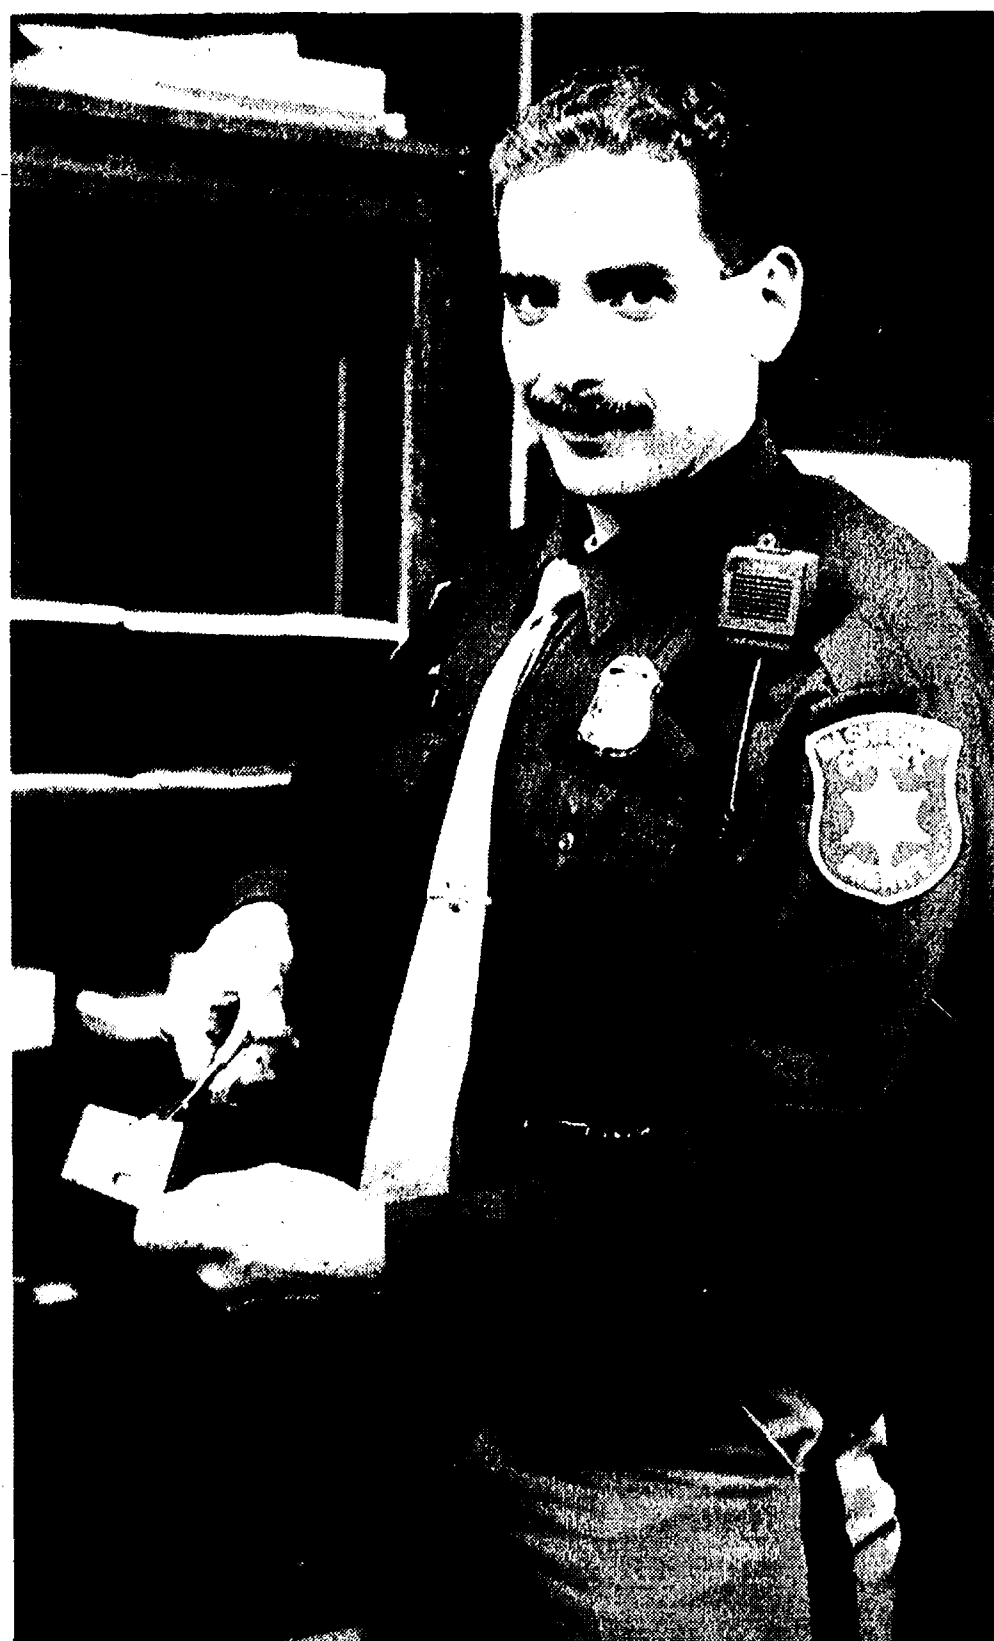

With everyone's help and involvement, this number may be reduced significantly.

Hopefully, the newly-enacted laws will help people in the county move the drunk drivers off the roads.

Drunk driving fees and fines have increased rather dramatically, including a $125 driver-license reinstatement fee, which went into effect on Oct. 1.

Traffic crashes are the number one killer of Michigan citizens below the age of 35, according to the Michigan Department of Public Health.

Michigan State Police report 69,300 people were arrested for drunk driving in Michigan during 1990.

DEPUTY BRUCE CALMES TESTS special scissors engraved "cut drunk driving" as the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department joins other law enforcement agencies across Michigan to begin intensive enforcement of the new drunk driving laws.

WCC Will Grant December Degrees To Area Students

Candidates for associate degrees and certificates earned at Washtenaw Community College by Dexter and Chelsea area students for December 1991 have been announced.

Candidates from Dexter include Christopher Bilakos, Maryann Doletsky, Heidi Herrmann, Sara McCrea, Joyce Rowe, and Cindy Shauan.

Candidates from Chelsea include John Kiptmiller and Denise Smyth.

Commencement exercises will be held Saturday, Dec. 14, at 9:30 a.m. in the Job Skills and Campus Events Building.

No True Wetlands Will Be Lost Under New Regulations

No true wetlands will be lost with the new federal wetlands delineation manual, according to the public affairs director for the Michigan Farm Bureau.

"The losses cited by environmentalists are largely nothing more than 'paper' wetlands created by a stroke of a pen when the 1989 manual was developed," said Al Almy. "Many of those acres claimed as wetlands are productive fields which have been farmed for generations."

Almy said that wetland experts believe that the proposed changes in the wetlands delineation manual will not reduce the acreage of valuable wetlands in the United States. He said the manual will return to private landowners areas which do not function as "true" wetlands and should never have been regulated.

"It's time for common sense regulations," Almy said. "Our country should take a long, hard look at the costs of unwarranted and excessive regulations. The public cannot and will not accept wetland regulations which place wetlands above all other ecosystems."

The Environmental Protection Agency is accepting public comments on the wetlands manual through Dec. 14.

★ Feline Urologic Syndrome

If you are a cat owner, then you should be aware of the signs of a very serious and common disease, feline urologic syndrome (FUS). FUS is an inflammation of the bladder and urethra that is responsible for 10% of cat owner's visits to veterinarians. Prompt treatment can result in recovery for a cat with FUS. Left untreated, the disease can be fatal within 12 to 48 hours.

You should know the early signs of FUS. Suspect this disease if your cat squats and strains (and possibly cries) when urinating, has blood in the urine, urinates small amounts more frequently than usual, stops using the litterbox, or has a hard painful bladder.

FUS is caused by the formation of crystals in the urine. These crystals irritate the bladder lining and may even plug the urethra, or bladder opening. Both male and female cats can suffer from FUS. But because a male's urethra is much thinner than a female's, blockages occur more often for males. During a blockage a cat is unable to urinate. Poisonous urine wastes build up quickly in the blood, causing the cat to become lethargic, lose his appetite, and/or vomit. Such a situation is an emergency!

A veterinarian will immediately empty the bladder of a cat with a urinary blockage, and then begin appropriate medical treatment to help the cat recover. The cat will usually be hospitalized until he can again urinate normally. Cats without blockages are usually treated with antibiotics. Follow-up care of cats with FUS often involves a dietary change to special type of food that helps return the urine to a normal acidic pH while dissolving the crystals.

You can help prevent your cat from developing this painful and life-threatening condition in the following ways.

- Provide plenty of fresh clean water.
- Provide a clean litterbox for each cat in the household.
- Prevent your cat from becoming obese.
- Encourage adequate exercise.
- Feed your cat a cat food that is low in magnesium. Your veterinarian will be able to recommend the cat food brands that are the best for FUS prevention.

Keeping pets healthy by providing information to pet owners is one of the primary goals of our local humane society, the Humane Society of Huron Valley. HSHV employs a full-time education director with an extensive background in pet health, training, and care. The education department has hundreds of free pamphlets addressing every conceivable pet concern, from FUS to specific pet behavior problems. Monthly pet care clinics, classroom visits to area schools, and referrals for local obedience trainers, behavior counselors, pet sitters, etc., are all available by calling the education director at (313) 682-5545, weekdays.

Yet HSHV's nationally-recognized education program could not exist without your help. If animal lovers are on your Christmas shopping list this year, then you can find them the perfect gifts while helping to support all of the humane society's programs at the same time. Simply visit Whiskers, HSHV's gift shop, located in Arborland mall in Ann Arbor. You'll find a vast array of fun and practical presents for humans and pets of all ages.

Magic Show Helps Faith in Action Fund Holiday Gifts

"Magic Matinee," held Nov. 24 and presented by Faith in Action and the Ann Arbor Magic Club, was a resounding success. This is the sixth year that the Magic Club has lent their talents to benefit the charitable activities of Faith in Action.

Children were seen leaving the auditorium with magic games and paraphernalia sold after the show to try their luck at duplicating the afternoon's illusions at home. Many happy faces and positive comments from the audience helped warm up a very chilly day.

Thanksgiving this year was an especially bountiful one as a result of the many donated cans of food and turkeys. Many families who would not otherwise have been able to afford food for the holiday were amply supplied. Additional proceeds and canned goods from the Magic Show will be used to make Christmas memorable.

Film Slated on Underground Church

"Beyond the Great Wall, The Underground Church in Communist China," will be presented at Immanuel Bible church on Sunday, Dec. 15 at 6 p.m. This film, shot entirely in communist China, shows the vibrant reality of the underground Home Church movement. The story of the Home Church unfolds through the testimonies of Chinese itinerant preachers who tell why the Home Church began, how it has grown despite the threat of persecution and of the spiritual victories that proclaim the glory of Christ.

Immanuel Bible church is located at 145 E. Summit St. in Chelsea. The public is invited to attend. A nursery is provided.

Annual Festival of Lights Is True Community-Wide Effort

Chelsea's Festival of Lights is truly a community-wide effort. The success of the event is built-in with the involvement of so many individuals, businesses, churches and organizations contributing.

The organizing committee had Lauryl Gravelyn as chair. Other committee members included Mary Barkley, Mary Ann Merkel, Erwin Koch, John Mitchell, Linda Pearsall, Joy Leitz, Pat Kubany, Gerri Cole, Ann Feeney, Daleen Harper and Veretta Whitaker.

Chelsea Shopping Center participated with an Open House and refreshments, along with a drawing for prizes by Chelsea Pharmacy.

The Rotary Club of Chelsea again sponsored the fourth annual Rotary Tree of Lights and Santa at Pierce Park to raise scholarship funds for Chelsea High school students. Speakers Robert Thornton, president of Chelsea 1990, Nicholas Koffman, president of Chelsea Rotary, and Tim Merkel, member of Chelsea 1990 gave their insights into Chelsea's past and future along with special guest Becky Dehring, Chelsea Fair Queen. Music was provided by the Chelsea High School Brass Band and the Madrigal Singers. Johnson How-To Store provided the lights for the Pierce Park pavilion and tree which were decorated by Mary Barkley and members of the Rotary Club of Chelsea. Heller Electric provided the electrical hook-up at Pierce Park and for the tree adjacent to Chelsea State Bank.

Santa's "sleigh" was donated by Classic Carriage owner Kathy Kental. Participants enjoyed a walk downtown along luminary lit Main St., with luminaries provided by the Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce, assisted by Sam Vogel of the Chelsea Kiwanis Club, the Chelsea High School Key Club, and the Recreation Council.

The Living Creche with live animals on Main St., in front of Merkel Furnishings was sponsored by the Ministerial Fellowship and organized by Festival of Lights committee member Erwin Koch. Churches participating included the Free Methodist church, the Chelsea Full Gospel church, St. Barnabas church, St. Paul United Church of Christ, North Lake Methodist church, First United Methodist church and Zion Lutheran church. Music and the Creche was provided by the Chelsea High School choral group and St.

Mary's church guitar and vocal group.

Downtown merchants participated with Open Houses for shopping, browsing, and sharing holiday treats. Shoppers were greeted by people in victorian costumes and carolers from the choirs of St. Paul United Church of Christ, Zion Lutheran church and St. Mary's church. Hayrides during the festivities were provided by Kathy and Rod Powers.

Santa was in his workshop at the Sylvan Township Hall. Santa's workshop was sponsored by the Rotary Club of Chelsea. Design of Santa's workshop was provided by Brian Myers, assisted by Mary Ann Merkel, and decorations were provided by area merchants including Merkel Furnishings, D & C Store, and Dayspring Gifts. Let's Go Bulldogs!

Dog Wrestlers Open Season At Tourney

Chelsea Bulldogs wrestling team opens its season this Saturday at the 15-team Haslett Invitational.

Coach Kerry Kargel has one of his youngest teams ever as 37 underclassmen are on the 40-member roster.

Team captains Mike Terpstra and Jeff Holzhausen are the only seniors with experience.

"I expect several freshmen will see varsity action this year, especially at the lower weights," Kargel said.

"We'll use more young kids in our Saturday invitationals this year to give them some exposure."

Kargel has 14 freshmen, 12 sophomores, and 11 juniors to go with three seniors. Newcomer Brian Schultz is the other senior.

Terpstra looks to defend his state title at heavyweight.

Last year Terpstra had 33 pins among his 39 wins, and had the team's quickest pin, nine seconds.

"Mike will certainly be one of the top wrestlers in the state, but we all know how hard it is to repeat," Kargel said.

The kid Mike wrestled in the finals is back, and so is the third-place finisher.

This year Terpstra will have someone close to his size to wrestle with in practice. Junior Rob Bergman is wrestling for the first time and Kargel anticipates Bergman will be an outstanding wrestler.

Holzhausen is the Bulldogs' leader and sparkplug, as well as a solid wrestler at 189 pounds.

"Jeff is a real motivator and every program needs that kind of person in the line-up," Kargel said.

"Last year Jeff was too light for 189 pounds, but this year he's legitimate. He shouldn't get thrown around like he did last year occasionally."

Terpstra and Holzhausen "will be good team leaders," Kargel said.

The strength of the Chelsea line-up, especially early in the season, will be in the middle weights, starting at 119 pounds with sophomore Tim Wescott. Wescott is out for a couple of weeks with a stress fracture but should be ready in plenty of time for the tough part of the season.

Other projected middle-lineup starters include juniors, Jason Knisely (125), Vince Stahl (130), John Heller (135), Ian Dyer (140), Kevin McCalla (145), and Jason Szostak (150). They all had significant varsity experience last year.

Three sophomores, Paul Taylor (160), John Bobo (171), and Dan Alber (103) and a freshman, Ryan Ludwig (112) are also projected starters. Kargel has high hopes for all four, especially Ludwig and Alber, who he said are especially competitive and don't back down.

Others who should also get varsity action include freshman Matt DeLong (103), junior Alex Roskowski (119), junior Casey Schiller (140), junior Eric Dougherty (160) and sophomore Chris Kargel (170).

Coach Kargel won't hesitate to move wrestlers around in the line-up to take advantage of better matchups.

Other freshmen who could help out this season are Eric Montagne and Mike Bainton, Kargel said.

Kargel expects his team to be competitive with any team in the Southeastern Conference. He picks the Dexter Dreadnaughts as the team to beat as they lost just three starters from last year.

"Dexter is solid from 140 pounds up to heavyweight," Kargel said.

"And they were tough last year. Fortunately, I think we'll match up pretty well with them. It will probably come down to who wins at the weaker weights. If our kids stay healthy and can hang right in there, I think we can give any team in the league a good run for their money."

Saline Hornets and Tecumseh Indians should also have a good shot, Kargel said.

"I hope this is the year the juniors start turning it on," Kargel said.

"A couple have the potential to be outstanding wrestlers."

The Bulldogs have just three home matches all season, all of them SEC clashes. The Chelsea Invitational, normally the first match of the season, has been cancelled because the state wrestling starting dates this year.

CHELSEA BULLDOGS VARSITY WRESTLING TEAM opens its season this Saturday at the Haslett Invitational. The team includes three seniors, headed by Mike Terpstra, last year's state heavyweight champion. The team is dominated by underclassmen, however, but could challenge for the Southeastern Conference title.

Christine Burg on SEC Second Team

Chelsea senior cager Christine Burg was named to the Southeastern Conference All-League second team.

"Burg averaged 13.5 points per game, five rebounds, and five steals."

Junior guard Ginny Flannery was named to the honorable mention team.

Members of the all-league first team are Liz Chriscinske of Saline, Julie Oxley and Stacey Dapprich of Tecumseh, Luciana Pope of Milan, and Jill Heider of Pinckney.

Other second-team members are Jessica Ping of Saline, Tricia Clark of Dexter, Erin Schick of Tecumseh, and Nicole Cushing of Pinckney.

Other members of the honorable mention team are Robin Jorden of Lincoln, Miriam Amick and Shelley Engle of Milan, Amy Korte and Jamie Van Riper of Tecumseh, Amy Wilson of Pinckney, Tara Kendall and Michelle Farrell of Dexter, and Rhonda Hallock of Saline.

Boughton Wins MVP Of Dog Swim Team

Chelsea High school senior Erika Boughton was named Most Valuable swimmer on the Chelsea Bulldogs girls varsity swimming team.

Boughton was a team captain. She broke her own varsity record in the 200 freestyle and was a member of both the record-setting all-state medley relay team and the 200 freestyle relay team.

Junior Melissa Thiel was given the Coach's Award by coach Dave Brinklow for her outstanding practice and meet performance. She was a member of both relay teams and set a varsity record in the 100 breaststroke, in which she also took all-state honors.

Freshman Betsy Schmunk won the Most Improved award. She dropped her time in the 500 freestyle from 8:15 to 5:51, dropped from 1:13 to 1:05 in the 100 backstroke (freshman record), and dropped from 2:16 to 2:08 in the 200 freestyle. She was a member of the 200 medley relay and freestyle relay at the state meet.

Sophomore Nona Giebel won the Deanna Zangara Memorial Award for her team spirit and support of her teammates.

Eighth Grade Cagers Whip Saline with Two Big Quarters

Beach Middle school eighth grade basketball team toppled Saline last Thursday, 31-17.

After the first quarter ended tied at six, Chelsea outscored the Hornets 19-5 over the second and third quarters to take the win.

"After a slow start our full-court pressure defense started taking its toll as Saline turned the ball over numerous times," said Chelsea coach Jim Tallman.

"I really felt this was one of our best defensive efforts of the season. We got excellent play from Dan Johnson, Rick Stahl, Jeff Sarna, Greg McKeighan, and David Paton."

Josh Bernard, Nick Brink, and Sam Morseau led Chelsea with eight, six, and five points, respectively.

Johnson, Stahl, Sarna, Shane Miller, and Scott Colvin each scored two points, and Scott Hurst and Damon McLaughlin each scored one. Chelsea was 5-2 on the season after last week's action.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

By the end of next week, we'll have a good idea of whether the Chelsea Bulldogs can compete for the Southeastern Conference basketball title this winter. Chelsea opens the SEC season this Friday at home against the Saline Hornets. Then Tuesday they host the Milan Big Reds, followed by a road trip Friday to Lincoln before the holiday break.

Chelsea coach Robin Raymond picks Milan as the pre-season favorites. He said the Big Reds were able to keep up with some of the area's class A schools in summer ball, not a good sign for Chelsea fans.

Nevertheless there is plenty of reason to be optimistic. The Bulldogs are typically in better physical condition than most of their early-season opponents due to Raymond's grueling practices.

Chelsea should also have one of the deepest benches in the league. Raymond can shuttle in 10 good, quick players to turn up the pressure in his frantic style of defense. A team that isn't sharp in its passing game or simply runs out of gas could be in trouble, especially early in the season. The Bulldogs could surprise the Big Reds next week.

Saline won't be a pushover by any stretch, but opening with them at home helps. Lincoln is down, but anything is possible in their gym.

It's not too hard to imagine the Bulldogs at 3-0 in the SEC heading into the holidays. And if that happens, Chelsea will become the favorites, primarily because they stand to be a much better team later in the season when the youngsters guys have felt the pace and intensity of a dozen varsity games.

Over-all, the SEC may be down in outstanding talent this season. Gone are Chelsea's Kerry Plank, Tecumseh's Andy Poppink, and Lincoln's Brian Laster. They were all capable of dominating a game and I'm not sure there's anyone around to take their places, although Chelsea's Jon Royce has shown signs of being that kind of player when he puts his mind to it.

There may, however, be far fewer easy wins for any team as the league should be fairly well balanced.

Dexter has finally gotten serious about its basketball and has hired an authentic varsity basketball coach, who Raymond believes can be one of the outstanding coaches around. His name is Randy Swoverland and he reportedly runs a highly-disciplined program, which is exactly what Dexter hasn't had in several years. The Dreadnaughts potentially have some of the best talent in the league, so the days of the Dreadnaughts as an easy, but brutal, "W" are probably gone.

Pinkney and Tecumseh, the two biggest schools in the league, always have plenty of talent, and at least in the case of Tecumseh, plenty of tradition. Pinkney also had the league's best junior varsity squad last year.

It's hard to know exactly what to expect this season. Milan could run away with the league or there could be three or four teams in it most of the way. But I do believe the key to Chelsea's season will be these first three games.

A 14-6 record or better is not out of the question. It will be a fun season.

In case he happens to be bragging about his accomplishment on the court Monday afternoon, I did watch head football coach Gene LaFave sink 23 straight free throws, and only about five hit the rim or backboard. And talk about an ear-to-ear grin. You would have thought he kicked a 50-yard field goal.

Seventh Grade Cagers Lose Close Contest to Saline

Beach Middle school seventh grade basketball team lost a 30-26 decision to the Saline Hornets to begin the second half of their Southeastern Conference season.

The Bullsups got off to a strong start behind the defensive play of John Beeman and Lance Ching in the full-court press and half-court trap. Beeman scored six points and Ching two as Chelsea trailed 9-8 at the end of the first quarter.

Casey Wescott's free throw was the only Chelsea point in the second quarter, while Saline scored 10 to take a 19-9 lead at half-time.

In the second half, Chelsea rallied behind Jason Sprawka's seven points before Sprawka fouled out in the fourth quarter. The Pups eventually closed to within three points in what

MOLLY HARRIS' research project for the Enrichment Triad Program at South school got a big boost recently as she was given a personal tour of Bissell, Inc. in Grand Rapids. Harris, a fifth grader, is studying vacuum cleaners. She wrote a letter to the company to ask how the cleaners work, and the company invited her to tour the facility. There she met Norman Lemieux, national sales director, (above) as well as president Mark Bissell. Not only did she get a first-rate tour of the company, but she was given flags for her home, classroom, and school, as well as a vacuum cleaner. She also visited a museum containing 1,700 models of sweepers and cleaners. Molly will share the results of her research during the Celebrate Live! program at the end of the school year.

Prevention-Wise

By Detective Dave Miley
Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department

During the holidays, people are busy, excited, and often a little careless.

Unfortunately, it's a time when people should be using a little extra caution, since it's a peak season for burglars, pickpockets, purse-snatchers, shoplifters and con artists.

Please let me provide you with some helpful "do's" and "don'ts" to keep the holidays a safe and happy time for you and yours.

At Home

Be extra cautious about locking doors and windows when you leave the house, even for a few minutes.

Don't display gifts where they may be seen from a window or doorway. Store gifts before you go away on a holiday trip.

If you go out in the evening, turn on lights and a radio, so the house appears occupied.

If you go away for a few days, get an automatic timer for your lights, and have a neighbor watch your home, shovel the snow, and pick up the mail and newspaper.

Check to make sure items like televisions, VCR's, stereos, cameras and microwave ovens are marked with your driver's license number, as that helps law enforcement officers recover the items if they are stolen.

Be wary of strangers coming to the door to ask for charitable donations. They may be taking advantage of people's generosity during the holidays to start a charity that only benefits them.

Ask for identification, how the funds are used, and if contributions are tax deductible.

If you aren't satisfied with the answers—don't give! Instead, help charitable organizations you know.

Stopping

Stay alert to your surroundings—people, activities, lights, etc. Co-ordinate shopping trips with a friend, if you plan to be out late.

Never park in an unlit lot. Check the interior of your car before getting inside.

Lock your car, and close the windows.

It's a very wise idea to lock your packages in the trunk, and make sure the trunk is closed securely.

Don't overburden yourself with packages. This will help discourage purse-snatching.

Don't carry excess credit cards.

Carry only those cards for the stores where you intend to shop.

Please, don't carry large amounts of cash—make purchases with credit cards and checks.

Be extra careful with purses and wallets.

Secure your purse under your arm, and keep the wallet in an inside jacket pocket, rather than a back trousers pocket.

The best prevention is to avoid potential crime situations.

Always be aware of your surroundings, people, landscape, buildings. Plan where you could run for help, if you need it.

Do remember, the first step to protect yourself is to realize that YOU COULD BE the victim of a crime.

Don't be a heartbreaker

Michigan History Magazine Traces Life During WW II

Michigan History Magazine is going to war in its November/December 1991 issue "Michigan Goes to War." The magazine commemorates the 50th anniversary of the bombing of Pearl Harbor and America's entry into World War II by looking at the war years from a Michigan Perspective.

"The current Michigan History Magazine will become a keepsake highlighting Michigan's involvement in World War II," said Secretary of State Richard H. Austin, Michigan's official historian. "It captures many aspects of the war-time effort, from fighting overseas and working in a war supplies factory, to coping with the rationing of essential items such as sugar."

"The reflections provided by some 60 current and former Michigan residents, including two former governors, provide a personal perspective to Michigan's important contribution to our nation's history," Secretary Austin added.

Hundreds of current and former Michiganders responded to Michigan History Magazine's open call for recollections of the war years. Many of their home-front and battle-front memories and personal photographs of the era are featured in this issue. Civilians and military personnel living in Pearl Harbor on the morning of Dec. 7, 1941 relate the horror of watching Japanese planes destroy U.S. battleships, planes and military installations. Other Michiganders recall their own mixed emotions upon hearing the news that the United States had been attacked by a foreign power.

The 64-page issue of Michigan History Magazine includes interviews with former Michigan governors John B. Swainson and William G. Milliken, both of whom served in the military during World War II. Swainson, who suffered the loss of his legs while fighting in France, speaks candidly of his wartime recovery at Percy Jones Hospital in Battle Creek. Milliken, who served as a gunner on a B-24 Liberator, describes several close calls in the 50 missions he flew over Italy, Romania, Austria and Germany.

Other featured articles examine life in Michigan in the months before the attack on Pearl Harbor and chronicle Detroit's transition from the automobile capital to the "arsenal of democracy."

"More than nine months of preparation and research went into this issue, which is the largest and one of the most comprehensive ever produced," Secretary Austin said. "The articles were written exclusively for Michigan History Magazine and will not be published anywhere else."

Michigan History Magazine is available by single issue ($3.95) at many bookstores across the state, and by annual subscription ($39.95). The magazine, which chronicles all facets of Michigan's past and reviews contemporary historical events and publications, is published six times a year by the Michigan Department of State's Bureau of History.

Send subscription request with check or money order, made payable to the "State of Michigan," to: Michigan History Magazine, Michigan Department of State, 717 W. Allegan St., Lansing 48918-1805. ## Showcase TV Program Has Christmas Theme Finishing its first season on a holiday note, the Lary Hafner Showcase will bring you 90 minutes of Christmas cheer.

Co-hosting the Showcase this week is seven-year-old Dana Featherly. She will play the piano and sing a duet with host Lary Hafner.

Lisa Featherly, Dana's talented four-year-old sister, will be making another appearance. She will perform "I Saw Mommy Kissing Santa Claus."

Also featured this week is the mystical duo of Boyer and Fitzsimmons. Giving a sample of their magic act, co-host Dana will disappear and be replaced by a jolly old man in a red suit.

A very special lady will be interviewed this week. Lee O'Doherty is known to children as the Cuddly Toy Lady. Every month she collects donations to purchase soft, cuddly toys for the 50 to 60 children in the University of Michigan Hospital. Filling a replica of an antique carriage, she delivers the toys to the children and spends time with them.

Singing a Christmas favorite will be soloist Jean Richardson of Chelsea. Accompanying her on piano will be her daughter, Latrisha Richardson. Jean will give us her rendition of "Silent Night."

Continuing with the holiday theme, Betsy Christiansen will display her creche collection. Creche is a model of the nativity, and Betsy has pieces from as far away as Egypt and Israel.

From the Ann Arbor chorus 20 people will be on hand to carol a few holiday tunes.

Vocalist Angie Meyer will perform yuletide songs "White Christmas" and "Rudolph."

Dianna Bell of Trendsetterz Hair Salon in downtown Chelsea, will do a Christmas make-over.

Attending all 15 shows this season is Showcase's biggest fan, Eleanor Buske of Chelsea. She will be presented with a Lary Hafner Showcase sweatshirt for showing her patronage.

The new season premier of Showcase is Jan. 5, 1992. That date will be a benefit for The Lary Hafner Showcase with a $10 admission as a donation. Many favorite acts will be featured such as Peter "Madcat" Ruth, a popular harmonica player.

The Lary Hafner Showcase is always looking for guests and pet tricks, or if you would like to volunteer to help with the Showcase call 475-9911 or write P.O. Box 571, Chelsea 48118.

The Lary Hafner Showcase is taped before a live audience every Sunday evening from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. Each show airs 8 days after taping and the

Waterloo Village Methodist Church Members Meet for Re-Dedication

A special service for the re-dedication of the Waterloo Village United Methodist church was held Sunday, Dec. 8, under the direction of Wayne B. Willer, pastor.

Following the call to worship, the lighting of the Advent Candle was performed by Linda Haas and her daughter, Tracy.

Special music was presented by a ladies group from the sister church of North Waterloo, a young children's group and by Peggy Beals who sang "Morning Has Broken," accompanied by Joanna Darwin.

During the service Wendy Walz presided at the organ and Leona Beeman at the piano.

Three former ministers were in attendance, the Rev. and Mrs. Harold Mann, the Rev. and Mrs. Wilber Silvernail and the Rev. Larry Nichols.

The church was beautifully decorated with red and white poinsettias. Each window of the church also was decorated with a single poinsettia, pine and pine cones.

Trustees taking part in the re-dedication service were Wilber Beeman, George Beeman, Bernard Prentice, Shirley Case and Faye Bailey.

Following the morning church service a delicious pot-luck dinner was served at the Waterloo Township Hall to approximately 100 guests under the supervision of the Women's Society.

The afternoon service began at 2 p.m. with Jan Kitley, of the Munith United Methodist church, as organist. The congregation then sang "For the Beauty of the Earth."

Highlights of the physical changes of the church, made over the years, were related by Annabelle Gochanour. The first dedication was held Nov. 15, 1874 with Bishop Edwards officiating.

A re-dedication of the church was held Sunday, April 12, 1959 following completion of the renovation of the inside of the church which was begun during the pastorate of the Rev. Harold Mann. Before its completion he was transferred to Monroe and the Rev. Dale Ferris was assigned to the church.

Today's rededication was celebrated following extensive decorating. Last June, during a storm, the church steeple was struck by lightning, causing damage.

Other highlights of the program were two humorous monologues by Beverly Caskey of Stockbridge and a solo, "Bless This House" by Jerry Steen of Waterloo, accompanied by Jan Kitley of Munith.

Special entertainment was presented by the Rose City Harmonica Club of Jackson.

General chairmen for the day's events were Leona Beeman and pastor, Wayne Willer and their many assistants.

Approximately 200 attended the morning and afternoon services.

NORMAN RANDALL of Ann Arbor admires a calf at Kensington Farm Center earlier this year. He and his late wife enjoyed and appreciated the park so much that, as she requested, he has made a bequest of part of his estate to benefit the park.

Metropark Patron Becomes Benefactor

A long-time user of the Metroparks has decided to leave part of his estate to the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority upon his death.

Norman Randall, a life-long resident of Ann Arbor, is one of a growing number of park patrons who wish to enhance the beauty and operation of the Metroparks by making a special contribution.

Randall is bequeathing part of his estate to the Metroparks in memory of his wife, Eva Mae, who died earlier this year after an extended fight with cancer and heart disease.

"Eva enjoyed the scenery and activities at Kensington Metropark and also liked that it was clean and safe," Randall says. "She especially enjoyed watching the deer and counting how many she saw each visit."

Randall, 72, and his wife, Eva, spent many happy hours over the past 14 years walking the trails at the Kensington Nature Center, petting the animals at the Farm Center, cruising Kent Lake in their small outboard motor boat or just relaxing under a shady willow tree at the Boat Rental.

Randall has stipulated that the bequest be used for the benefit of Kensington Metropark near Milford/Brighton, as his wife instructed prior to her death.

"We appreciate Randall's desire to make this gift to the Metroparks," says William P. Sherman, director of the HCMA. "It is a loving and enduring tribute to both his wife, Eva, and to the Kensington Metropark that she enjoyed so much."

As the budget tightens in these hard economic times, philanthropic gifts such as this are becoming more important to the continued health and vitality of this park system, Sherman says.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

There was a letter to the editor in the Dec. 4 paper that criticized and condemned Chelsea Area Players for presenting "A Chorus Line." The woman writing the letter said we should "Keep our small towns CLEAN." That line reminds me of another play presented by the Chelsea Area Players a few years back called "The Music Man." It was about a small town, River City, that was run by narrow-minded, opinionated people who thought a pool table would corrupt their children. I do not think Chelsea is River City nor do I think a play can corrupt our children.

This woman sat through part of the play and all she heard were words she calls vulgar and profane. I sat through the same play and heard the same words, but I listened differently. I listened past the surface to what the characters and music were trying to say.

This was about a group of people coming from various walks of life to get a job doing what they loved most—dancing. They knew that only a part of them would be successful in getting employment. Yet, during the course of the play, there was no backbiting, no maligning of character, no violence, no sexual harassment, no indecent exposure, no discrimination according to sex or sexual persuasion, and no prejudice concerning nationality or background.

As they talked about their individual lives, using "vulgar words and profanity," I listened and heard humor, sadness, pain, self-mockery, anguish and acceptance in the words and music they each used to express themselves. While each talked, the other characters of the play expressed the emotions of sympathy, understanding, friendship, compassion and camaraderie while allowing the audience to feel these emotions too. Emotions that are not vulgar or profane.

Cassie, one of the characters, states in her dialogue that each one of the dancers is special, they are all special. Every person should be accepted for who and what they are, no matter what is their background or experience or what language they use to express themselves. This is what I heard while I sat in the audience thoroughly enjoying the play and I don't think I was the only one.

The woman who wrote the letter certainly has a right to her opinion, but she was not forced to go to the play nor was she forced to remain. To my understanding, her money was even refunded. She does not have the right to censure the people involved in the production or in the audience.

To censure is, according to Webster, to find fault with and to condemn as wrong. Chelsea Area Players should not be condemned for presenting this play nor should the cast be ashamed for portraying the characters.

This play is full of emotions that make you feel and think. Any play that makes you feel some of the human emotions listed above is of value and should not be condemned or degraded. To censure it would be the same as censoring books from our libraries.

Keep our small towns CLEAN, don't allow censorship, allow us the opportunity to make a choice to see the same things in our own town that are offered in cities all over the country.

Carol Miller.

To the Editor,

On Friday evening, Dec. 6, my husband and I attended the Senior Citizens Christmas dinner at the high school. The food was delicious and we were entertained by the High School Brass Ensemble playing Christmas carols. Chelsea can be proud of their young musicians.

After we left the high school we drove the streets of Chelsea enjoying the beautifully decorated homes. We drove the length of Main St. The Pavilion in the Park and the Christmas tree was bright with colored lights. The street was lined with lights in the snow. As I admired the beauty of the store windows I was proud to be a part of Chelsea.

Thanks to the many organizations and caring people who work so well together, Chelsea is the best little town in Michigan!

It was truly a celebration of lights. A very pleasant evening.

Cecile Bernath.

To the Editor:

In regard to Carole Hansen's letter of 12-4-91:

One way Ms. Hansen might approach a presentation such as "A Chorus Line" is to decide whether she is willing to invest 2 hours to listen to the stories of the characters. Obviously she is not, but I can assure her that all seemingly clean and happy communities, such as ours, have residents that are as individual and "trashy and vulgar" as those represented in the CAP production. We must not kid ourselves into believing that life is always as corny as Kansas in August.

I applaud the cast and crew of "A Chorus Line" for an outstanding production.

Diane Bareis.

To the Editor,

My husband and I just returned to Dexter from having breakfast at Gina's in Chelsea and what a pleasant experience! The restaurant was decorated just beautifully. I do not think that I have ever seen a place decorated as pretty as that was. It made this icy and cold morning so much easier to tolerate. Thank you, Gina.

John and Mary Bouillon
Dexter.

Dear Editor,

I want to thank L. M. Tarantowski for the very informative letter. Although I would not like to see illegal means of animal activism, I'm grateful that they put their money where their mouth is. They promote education and change of what is acceptable in animal industry. They have done more than anyone in changing the conditions that Mr. Crawford complains about, but I'm sure hasn't done anything about.

If the fur industry is failing, then so be it, it's because today's consumer is more educated. In spite of what they do, the activists do care about the life of animals, unlike other self-serving groups.

Marvin P. Anderson.

Editor,

As a Christian, I am sorry to say, I also attended "Chorus Line." I should NOT have been there. Although some acting was very good, I'm sorry I went. I agree with Carol Hansen. CAP should keep their standards much higher. I hope and pray they, as well as I, will use better judgment in the future!

Jean Gerstler.

To the Editor:

Holiday greetings and thanks to everyone in Chelsea for the lovely evening my daughter, grandchildren and I enjoyed at the "Festival of Lights." The warmth of the people and the tree, luminarias, music, Santa and creche chased away the cold and gave me a night to remember.

We topped off the evening with a bowl of delicious "beef stew" soup in a local restaurant!

To the Editor,

On December 7, 1941, the Japanese forces staged a sneak attack on American installations at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, killing 2,403 American servicemen and women and wounding 1,178 others. This heinous attack launched America into World War II, where another 289,728 lives were lost.

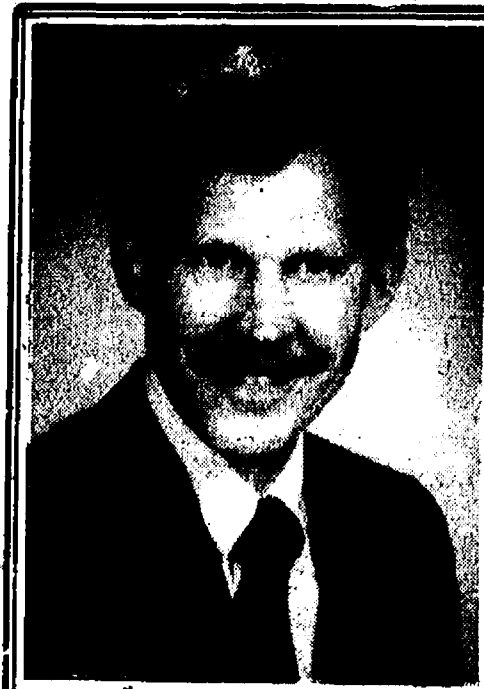

Last Saturday, Dec. 7, 1991 marked the 50th anniversary of the United States' entry into World War II with that vicious attack at Pearl Harbor.

The various veterans organizations of our nation have traditionally remembered the sacrifices of those lost on Dec. 7, 1941 with various services and events on this day.

Historic Pearl Harbor Day, "a day that will live in infamy," will always be a time for remembrance and gratitude for those who have served in America's armed forces.

CARPENTER TOM LANCASTER, a retired vocational arts teacher who lives in Chelsea, gave a special presentation at the Gerald Eddy Geology Center in the Waterloo Recreation Area, Saturday, Dec. 7. Lancaster discussed the various uses of "wood," and included photographs, videos and wood samples in his presentation.

Wood Construction Detailed in Lecture

The many uses of wood was the topic of a lecture held Saturday, Dec. 7, at the Gerald R. Eddy Geology Center in the Waterloo Recreation Area.

Tom Lancaster, a carpenter and retired vocational teacher who lives in Chelsea, led the discussion, using photographs, videos and wood samples. He discussed common woods used in staircases, cabinets and furniture, and brought videos showing the manufacture of plywood and construction of a home using an all wood foundation.

The manufacture of homes using an all wood foundation is a relatively new and controversial concept used today. Lancaster said tests prove it is a practical and durable construction method.

Many banks are not completely sold on the idea, but if done properly, the home will last as long as those with a traditional concrete foundation, he said.

Lancaster helped to build a home of this type in Chelsea for his son, Dan Lancaster. He brought photographs of the home showing the stages of construction.

A step-by-step video entitled "Permanent Wood Foundation" was shown.

In the video, a carpentry crew laid the foundation footings of a house on four inches of gravel. Gravel, coarse sand or crushed rock may be used. The gravel base receives and distributes loads from the foundation walls. It also provides positive drainage.

Below grade wood with a 60 percent saturation level is used in the construction to prevent rotting. Sheets of polyethylene are adhered to the outside of the foundation as a moisture barrier in the final stage of construction.

"The advantages of a wood foundation are that you don't have to wait for mixing trucks to pour concrete, the house can be built with one crew of carpenters, and there is no leaking or cracking as in many traditional concrete foundations.

"Construction and electrical wiring are easier and there are less fuel costs because energy saving materials are used."

Insulation may be added to the house in cold weather locations and brick can be added to the foundation.

Wood or tile floors may be laid just as in a house with concrete foundation.

Lancaster recommends using a step-by-step instructional book to follow, such as "Permanent Wood Foundation-Guide to Design and Construction," which may be obtained through the American Plywood Association, American Wood Council, or National Forest Products Association.

For the average, around the house do-it-yourselfer, Lancaster recommends a text by Willis H. Wagner, called "Modern Carpentry."

Lancaster displayed scraps of wood materials used in modern construction. Wood types used in construction of cabinets and furniture are popular, maple, walnut, cherry, red and white oak and beech.

Osage orange is used for decorative items such as lamps, and white pine may be used as trim pieces such as on home exteriors or interiors, shelving and casing.

A video on how plywood is made ended the session.

SCORE May Help Business With Special Problems

Over 90% of all business ventures fail within five years of inception. Yet many of the failures have the potential of success. Some common management errors repeatedly erase that potential. The help available from the Service Corps of Retired Executives (SCORE) can reduce those errors and make businesses successful.

SCORE operates as a non-profit organization sponsored by the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA). SBA launched SCORE nearly a quarter of a century ago, when it discovered that small businesses needed management help, something SBA was unable to provide.

Using retired business executives as counselors began as an experiment. Yet it succeeded remarkably well. Today, SCORE volunteers help more than 270,000 annually. Thousands more receive help in training seminars conducted by SCORE.

SCORE counselors observe the confidentiality independent business managers expect. So, you can let the counselor help your business without fear of revealing information that might help your competitors.

SCORE provides counseling for those seeking advice about going into business, those already in business that have problems which threaten to end their dreams, and successful operators who wish to take advantage of their growth potential.

The Washtenaw-Livingston Area office of SCORE is located in Ann Arbor at 912 N. Main St., 313-682-0550; in Ypsilanti at 125 N. Huron, 313-482-4920.

Who was taken from us four years ago on Dec. eighteenth. There were many furs in our lives that were meaningful, but the four years since your death have been empty, lonely and meaningless. You were taken on a cold day, but the warmth of your heart will be felt by us the rest of our lives. We miss the sight of your angelic face and the sound of your heavenly voice.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor,

Normalized relations with Vietnam? Sounds alright, the war has been over for 20 years, why not? But, what about the rumors of American prisoners of war still held in Southeast Asia? What would happen to them if we did normalize relations and lift the embargo that we leveled against Vietnam at the conclusion of the war?

Massachusetts Senator, John Kerry, said that, "If we normalize relations with Vietnam there would be more American tourists in the country, and therefore more of a possibility that we would find our people."

That sounds pretty logical to most people, but put yourself in the shoes of the leaders of Vietnam. You are in desperate need of U.S. diplomatic recognition since your Soviet sponsors can no longer afford to support you, and the U.S. finally grants you that recognition.

Would you want to take the chance of any live American prisoners of war being sighted or found by some American tourists? Of course not! If an American was found being held against his will by your country and the American public found out about it, your new-found U.S. recognition would be gone in the twinkling of an eye. What would you do with them then, if you were the leader of Vietnam?

Well, there are two possibilities. You could release them, but all these years you have denied that you have held them; or you could get rid of them quickly and quietly if you just... killed them.

Would they actually do that? What do you think? They were found guilty of torturing American prisoners to death during the war, so it is possible that they would do exactly that. We need to seriously consider this possibility, as an American citizen, it is our responsibility to consider it.

Oh, let's get on the lighter side of this issue, why would we want to trade with them anyway? The answer comes to us in a three-letter word, OIL.

According to the National American Legion Commander, Dominic DeFrancisco, Vietnam has 500 million barrels of oil in their reserve, and there is much more where that came from. Can you think of anyone that would be interested in getting their greedy little hands on all that oil? Of course you can, only every major U.S. oil company. And what are they doing? Only pestering the U.S. Government to normalize relations with Vietnam so that they can start drilling for oil off Vietnam's coast.

For 20 years Vietnam has been dirt poor because of the war fought with the United States, and now the major American oil companies are dying to drill off its coast. The POW's they've been holding in hopes that the U.S. Government would pay the $3.25 billion that President Nixon promised them at a secret meeting during the Paris Peace Accords, are no longer an asset to be used as a bargaining chip, but a liability. They are therefore expendable as far as the Vietnamese Government is concerned.

The POW's are simply pawns in a deadly game of cat and mouse between Vietnam and the United States, a game that they will no doubt lose if relations are normalized between the two countries. Their lives will be forfeited for oil. So much for the sanctity of life, I guess when it comes to oil and money they are more important.

If you would like to block the normalization process, call the President's Comment Line (202) 456-1111. Tell them that you don't want the economic sanctions against Vietnam lifted or relations of any kind resumed until the Senate Select Committee (working on getting a full accounting of the men missing in action from the Vietnam war) has had a chance to do its job.

Some Fungicide Uses May Soon Be Restored By EPA

The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) is likely to restore previously canceled uses for a group of fungicides known as EBDCs after more than two years of a special review, according to Ken Nye, director of commodity activities and research for Michigan Farm Bureau.

In 1989, the EPA initiated a special review of the widely used fungicide and in the process proposed cancellation of more than 40 of its uses. EPA allowed 11 uses to remain on the label at the time. Nye said that the fungicide manufacturers voluntarily canceled most uses until completion of the review. During the review, growers and grower groups, including the American Farm Bureau Federation and many state Farm Bureaus, provided extensive information to EPA about the real use patterns and benefits of the fungicide, according to Nye.

EPA officials have been able to develop a more accurate picture of EBDC fungicide use patterns, benefits and actual risk to consumers during the review period, Nye said. "The result is that the total worst-case theoretical risk from EBDCs has been revised downward drastically, thereby allowing restoration of additional uses while remaining well within the 'negligible-risk' rating."

LIBRARIAN JOANN WALTER shows off some of the recent fund-raising drive. The first phase of the drive, directed at township residents, raised about $5,000.

Friends of McKune Library Continue Development Fund Drive

"Santa Claus arrived early at McKune this year" said Ann Belser, president of the McKune Memorial Library Board of Trustees. "The board is very appreciative of the efforts made on behalf of the Library by the Friends group."

The first phase of the 1991 annual Development Fund Drive conducted this fall by the Friends, who solicited donations from library patrons who reside in the townships outside the village, raised approximately $5,000. This money is being used to purchase equipment and materials which will supplement the library's existing collections and services.

"The Library Staff was very pleased to be able to purchase much needed equipment for the Children's Room" said Jo Ann Walter, library director. "The Children's collection is one of the areas in which we are seeing a dramatic growth in circulation" Walter continued. "We were pleased to be able to purchase a new section for the card catalog and replace a paperback book rack. These new pieces of equipment will enable us to contain the growing children's collection more efficiently."

A portion of the donations also was used by the Friends of McKune Memorial Library to purchase a typewriter and typewriter table for use by library patrons. In addition, a television set, VCR player and TV/VCR cabinet were purchased. These items, along with an easel, which will hold a pad of newsprint or other items necessary when making public presentations, will be available to groups who arrange to use the Library meeting room. The VCR will be especially useful for groups who use video cassettes for training and development workshops.

The Friends will continue their 1991 annual Fund Drive effort on behalf of the Library during December when they will mail a request for donations to Library patrons who reside in the Village.

Why State, Local Taxes Are Going Up

The "trickle-down economics" of the 1980s may still be working in the private sector. But the flow of federal dollars to the States is running low. So state and local taxes are going up.

By Philip C. Clarke

What's happening is that Uncle Sam is ordering State governments to expand public programs, but he's not helping enough to pay for them. It's what the Wall Street Journal calls "hand-me-down federalism." As a result, three out of five states are reporting budget deficits, resulting in the largest over-all state tax increases in 20 years.

The shift in responsibility to local government for federally-mandated programs—particularly welfare, mental health and Medicaid programs—burdens tax structures already facing hard times! Prison construction, recycling programs, land-protection programs and water-supply protection are some of the latest outlays state and local governments have to grapple with. A recent New York Times report notes that many state tax structures date back to rough times of the 30's and 60's. For example, five states still have no sales tax, and nine states have no income tax. The latest state to impose an income tax is Connecticut. It did so this summer, but not before a bitter battle that included three vetoes by Republican Governor Lowell P. Weicker, Jr., and a temporary shut-down of some state government services.

In addition to finding new sources of taxation, many state and local governments are offsetting deficits by cutting services and staff. As an Associated Press survey found, "For the first time in a long time, it appears, government is not a growth industry." Some of the hardest hit states are the ones noted for free-wheeling budgets in the 80's, like Massachusetts and New York. Democratic Governor Mario Cuomo of New York bemoans the plight of laid-off state workers in oratorical terms. "The most difficult thing I have done," he says, "is to deny people the opportunity to earn their own bread." At the other end of the economic scale, Mississippi, traditionally one of the nation's poorest states, has cut 1,400 payroll positions in a year through attrition and without a single lay-off.

Some economists see the states' current problems as merely part of a welcome power shift away from the federal government. Once completed, they say, it will be back to the same old problem of finding how to get the taxpayers the most for their tax dollars.

Heritage Foundation analyst Dan Mitchell says state governments are "trimming here and trimming there," and of course they're howling in protest and acting like it's the end of Western civilization. In reality," says Mitchell, "taxpayers are worse off than they were two or three years ago." And some taxpayers who work for the state governments are getting a double whammy: lay-offs and higher taxes. Says Mark Fabula, a laid-off state mental health worker in North Carolina: "The dryer sounds like it's going to go, and we had put some money aside for it. But... I guess I'll be hanging clothes out on the line for awhile..."

State government also will have to continue streamlining their operations to avoid being left blowing in the wind. But the states would do well to learn from the federal government's bad example: If you dump expensive programs on somebody else down the line, you should hand over the power to run them—or not run them—as the case may be.
