School Board Hears MEAP Test Comparisons, Financial Implications

Scores of Chelsea students on the Michigan Education Assessment Program test were higher than state averages in all categories and at all grade levels, the Chelsea Board of Education was told Monday night.

The school district has been especially curious to learn how Chelsea students compare on the new math test given this year.

Statistics were not available to The Standard as of press time. They will be reported in another edition.

In other board business Monday night, two students who vandalized Beach Middle school earlier this month were suspended for the rest of the school year.

The students, one an eighth grader and the other a ninth grader, broke out windows at the school and used spray paint liberally inside and outside the building.

The suspension is consistent with punishment dealt three youngsters last year for extensive vandalism at the school.

Assistant superintendent Fred Mills said earlier this month that the incident may force the district to install some sort of alarm system, which could have an impact on the way the building is used by the community.

The board was updated on various proposed state legislation and how it might affect millage needs for next year.

The most recent proposal for the state to recapture all social security payments for school employees could balloon Chelsea's anticipated deficit next year to $1.2 million, Piasecki said. It amounts to the district picking up an additional 7.1 percent of salaries.

"The total deficit amounts to about 10 percent of our budget," Piasecki said.

Piasecki said he is not expecting the legislature to take concrete action until after the November elections, "based on past state history. The last state-aid package wasn't passed until Oct. 1 and it wasn't an election year."

"There's no question (the social security) ball is rolling," Piasecki said.

"It could cause some severe pain."

Piasecki said the board would probably have to decide by April 6 how much millage the district will seek for next year in order to plan and meet deadlines for the June elections. The figure may end up being just a best-guess, due to both state legislation and the fact that contract negotiations may not be completed.

"We're probably going to have some financial problems for the next couple of years, but I'm convinced the state is on the brink of a major change in the way schools are funded," Piasecki said.

"I really hope now that we have a new state superintendent the Department of Education will become a player in determining the future of education in the state rather than have all the shots called by the governor and the legislature."

In the meantime, Piasecki said the board will have to make some hard decisions about what programs stay and what are expendable should the worst occur on the state level. Those proposed cuts should also be ready by April 6.

"We think everything we do is important but obviously some things are more important than others," Piasecki said.

The board has also dropped discussion of any new bond issue proposal for school improvements until after the June elections.

The board approved providing adult education services for inmates at Cassidy Lake and Camp Waterloo, with the stipulation that the state reimburse the district for all costs.

The board approved the spring trip to South Carolina for the girls softball team and a trip to the state Special Olympics for Nancy Cooper's students.

The board's policy committee agreed to study a disciplinary policy dealing with problems on buses. In some instances, bus drivers return to the bus garage to handle discipline, rather than continue to the schools. That happens about four times each year, Piasecki said, but it is a source of concern for some parents.

Contract negotiations, Piasecki said, are still at the "philosophical level" and have not yet dealt with concrete numbers.

Meet Your Candidates

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a series of profiles of candidates for village office in the March 9 elections. This week focuses on four candidates for trustee, one of whom is not officially on the ballot. Each candidate was given an identical questionnaire. Virtually all of the information that follows comes from those questionnaires.

Frank Hammer

Frank Hammer, 48, 521 East St., was born in Gulfport, Miss., but has lived in the village for 12 years, where he and his wife, Elizabeth, have reared their children, Erich, 20, Mercedes, 18, Garth 13, and Katrina, 8.

Hammer holds an advanced degree in organic chemistry and is an analytical toxicologist for the National Sanitation Foundation. He works in the drinking water additives program.

He has served for two years on the village council, where he has spent much of his time working on solid waste and recycling issues.

Hammer said he believes citizens have an obligation to serve the public in some capacity, which is why he ran for office in 1990 and why he is running again.

His primary accomplishment on council, he said, is his work in the initiation of curbside recycling. He also helped devise ways to reduce the cost of rubbish disposal. Hammer is the village's representative in the Western Washtenaw Recycling Authority, serving as vice-chair.

"The authority gives its members a great deal of local control over solid waste issues as well as a powerful voice in the county," Hammer said.

For Hammer the most important issues facing the village are the resolution of landfill issues with the Department of Natural Resources

Rosemary Harook

Rosemary Harook, 53, 220 E. North St., is running a vigorous write-in campaign for trustee. Her nominating petition had a technical error and was disallowed, so her name will not appear on the ballot.

Harook was born in Ypsilanti but has lived in the village for 43 years. She attended Chelsea High school and Henry Ford Community College. Her husband, Ed, works at Chrysler Proving Grounds and her daughter, Edie, attends the University of Michigan.

Harook has been involved with village government for seven years as zoning inspector, an appointed position. She ran once previously for council.

During her tenure, she has helped create a separate zoning board of appeals and "raised community awareness of zoning issues and regulations," she said. She's also been an outspoken village employee and taxpayer about a variety of issues.

"I decided to run, most of all, to see women take part in local government," Harook said. Stephanie (Continued on page six)

Gary Bentley

Gary Bentley, 47, 223 Harrison St., was born in Pikeville, Ky., has lived in the village for 28 years, and is employed in the maintenance department at Chelsea Milling Co. His wife, Charlotte, is employed with the Chelsea School District. He has two sons, Jon and Mark, and a daughter, Sarah, and three grandchildren.

Bentley served on village council from 1986 to 1990, but decided not to seek re-election in 1990.

"I've been approached many times by different people from all areas," Bentley said of his reasons for running after for office.

"After attending some of the council meetings, and doing some research on my own, I felt a change was needed."

"I think my track record speaks for itself as a council member. My main concern is to act in the best interest for every resident in the village. I am basically a conservative person. I don't like to see money spent unwisely."

Bentley said he believes he's the (Continued on page three)

Early Retirements in Sheriff's Department May Affect Local Service

Early retirements within the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department this spring could have an impact on law enforcement activities in the western part of Washtenaw county.

Somewhere between 15-20 officers, including virtually the entire detective bureau, are planning to take advantage of an early retirement proposal hammered out in the last contract negotiations, according to Sheriff Ron Schebil. Some of those who plan to retire are Sgt. Harley Rider, who runs the traffic bureau and works crash investigations, Sgt. Joe Yekulis, a Chelsea resident who was instrumental in setting up the new 911 system and training its staff, Chelsea Assistant Det. Paul Wade, who has handled numerous crimes in the area and led a response team to track escapes from local prison camps, and Det. William Kennon, who worked on the Sue Ellen Curtis murder case.

The retirement offer was made to department employees with at least 15 years experience. Due to a large arbitration settlement, the retirees will have their pensions based on an inflated salary. One officer said he would only have to make about $100 per month in order to equal what he makes now on the job.

"It was too good to pass up," he said.

It's a cost-cutting measure for the county, designed in part to avoid layoffs. Higher-salaried employees will be replaced by younger officers with smaller salaries. Schebil said the department would have the same number of employees with a smaller payroll.

"If we had been forced lay-offs, it would have affected the western portion of the county," Schebil said.

"I just ask people to be patient, there will be a transition period." He added, "We're getting real good applicants."

Schebil said the changeover in personnel, which has begun and will be completed by April, "should be transparent" to the average citizen. He said the responsibilities of the retirees, which include "a significant number of command officers and first line supervisors," are going to officers with 11-12 years of experience, "who have been groomed all along."

However, some law enforcement and emergency personnel are skeptical about the changes. They say the department is losing its best people.

Blood Drives Start March 5

The first of four Chelsea Community Blood Drives this year will be held on Thursday, March 5 from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. at Our Savior Lutheran church at 1515 S. Main St.

The drives are spaced so donors can give four or five times a year in Chelsea.

Appointments are urged to help staffing and avoid congested times. To make an appointment contact the co-ordinator in your donor group or call 475-9549.

Anyone who would like to volunteer to help with a variety of needs is asked to call 475-7440.

Other drives this year are scheduled Thursday, May 14 at St. Paul United Church of Christ, 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.; Thursday, March 16 at Chelsea Community Hospital, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Thursday, Sept. 17 at St. Mary's Parish Hall, 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.; and Thursday, Dec. 10 at Our Savior Lutheran church, from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Others are more cynical than skeptical, saying there's almost no road patrol in the area as it is, so what is there to lose.

Chelsea police and fire personnel already openly advise Chelsea fire district residents, in case of a fire, to call the department directly rather than 911 because they say the service is faster. Fire officials have never been happy with the way 911 has operated. With Yekulis leaving, they're even more skeptical about the service.

Others question the department's ability to handle future major investigations since the detective bureau, as it exists now, will be eliminated.

Schebil said he is working toward making the department more "proactive." He said investigators will work in more of a team. Deputies who initially respond to a complaint will handle as much of the case follow-up as possible.

Two Petitions Are Invalid

There are two fewer official candidates for village office than originally thought.

Rosemary Harook's nominating petition for trustee was disallowed due to a technicality about the way it was filled out.

Also, Todd Thurkow's petition for village president was invalidated because it was not signed by at least 16 registered village voters.

"It was my own fault," Harook said of the petition error. However, she is running a write-in campaign.

Engler Supports Tax Sharing Repeal If $120 Million Shifted from Wealthy Schools

Governor John Engler said he would support immediate repeal of what had been described as a "revolutionary" tax base sharing program if legislators approve an equally controversial proposal to shift $120 million from wealthy schools to poorer districts next year.

Engler said he is sure the changes, included in his budget recommendations, "will touch off vigorous debate in the Legislature. But it dramatically improves equity now." If approved, he said it would mean the state would have done all it can short of amending the constitution to assure equitable funding.

The governor called it the biggest single step toward equity in the 19 years the state has operated under the current aid formula.

The intent of the proposed changes—to close the spending gap between schools—was supported by key legislators in both parties, but they also expect to encounter high obstacles. If approved, the funding changes would narrow the spending gap by about $200 per pupil. Spending now ranges from about $2,400 to $8,000 per pupil.

Affected by the proposal in 1992-93 is about $500 million in state aid to all districts regardless of local wealth for social security (about $450 million) and the rest from a few other categorical programs, with that money going instead to schools covered by the basic aid formula.

About $160 million of that goes to wealthier districts, but they would get to keep $40 million by elimination of the "recapture" provision under which the state has kept aid that would otherwise be distributed for categorical programs.

Districts would be protected against a dramatic cut in state funds by a provision limiting losses to no more than 5 percent.

As a second step in 1993-94, the state would eliminate some $400 million in teacher retirement costs and fold that money into the aid formula.

Tax base sharing—requiring schools to pool for state-wide distribution 50 percent of their growth in property values—was expected to share $400 million over 10 years. But it has been challenged in court as unconstitutional.

Engler defended the tax-base sharing provision as the "right thing," but said getting the goal of equity is more important. "We have listened to the people who said they do not want to share their tax base. But we will re-evaluate all the state money that goes in to schools," he said.

The governor and others said the new changes would make districts directly responsible for costs which are tied to teacher salaries and which are not controlled by the state.

Senate Majority Leader Richard Posthumus (R-Alio) called the proposal a "courageous step," and said he will urge Senate approval despite the difficulty it presents to him as a representative of both in-formula and out-of-formula schools.

"If the state is going to distribute money, it should go to those most in need," he said.

Rep. James O'Neill (D-Saginaw) said the House will not rubber-stamp the proposal, but strongly supported elimination of state aid to all districts for social security and retirement costs. He said he would not support repeal of tax base sharing without the simultaneous approval of those two items.

House Speaker Lewis Dodak (D-Montrose) had said he would carefully examine the proposal to insure it did not "take a meat axe" approach to the shift of funding from wealthier districts.

Sen. Dan DeGrow (R-Port Huron) hailed the proposal for the substantial step it takes to improve equity in one year, but added, "We still have a long way to go for a perfect world."

The governor also appointed a task force to investigate ways to settle the lawsuits contesting the tax-base sharing plan.

Members include DeGrow and O'Neill, Rep. William Keith (D-Garden City), Management and Budget Director Patricia Woodworth, State Superintendent of Public Instruction Robert Schiller and the governor's legal counsel Lucille Taylor.

Engler Would Privatize Part Of Liquor System

The governor's 1992-93 budget also calls for turning part of the state's liquor distribution system over to private contractors as he continues to look for ways to privatize some government operations.

would require closing 73 state liquor stores and would affect some 250 employees at those outlets.

It apparently would not affect the main state liquor warehouses in Lincoln Park, Lansing and Escanaba. Liquor Control Commission chairwoman Maxine Perry said details of a privatization plan must yet be worked out by the commission, which will remain the liquor wholesaler and continue to regulate licensees.

"We have to come up with a plan. We have to maintain a revenue neutral system and be fair to suppliers and retailers," Perry said.

She said it will not be clear whether prices of liquor would be affected until the system is established and bids are received from potential contractors.

Perry added the state could realize a one-time revenue boost from the sale of inventory at the stores, depending on when that takes place. She said as much as $2 million in supplies are in the stores at some times, but is turned over so rapidly that no inventory is available at other times.

The governor's budget includes $18 million in fees, although aides say $15-$16 million in those are required by federal law for such items as the Clean Air Act. The rest are in food and agriculture inspection fees.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The fellers that gather round the stove in the back of the country store are not what you would call on the cutting edge of electronic technology. They know a little about how news is wrote, turned into type and printed, and they get that mixed up. They know nothing at all about how sound and pictures get to radios and televisions, but total ignorance never has stopped them from setting themselves up as experts on any other subject either.

So it was that when Zeke Grubb got two-way TV and the Videophone on the agenda Saturday night he opened a can of opinion. Some of it was half baked, but most had never been near the fire. For his money, Zeke said he failed to see why a bust nearly 30 year ago will be a boom now. He recalled that AT&T invented Picturephone in 1964 and said it soon would be in ever home in America.

Actual, he went on, the phone where both parties could see one another never went on the market, and the reason was that the parties didn't want to. All that lesson cost AT&T was the reserch, Zeke said, but electronic junkyards of this country are full of proof that you invent the market for the product and then you invent the product.

Now the same outfit has come out with the same product, this time calling it the Videophone. Zeke admitted that AT&T didn't get where it is by being real dumb, but he wonders what it knows now that it didn't know then. There may be a time for a three speed automatic electric toenail clipper that adjusts instant to all sizes, Zeke said, but he's got no reason to believe it's now.

Farthermore, Zeke went on, he's not much more excited about the miracle you hook to your television so you can tap into a channel to do your banking and buy your groceries. He had saw where 80 percent of folks that own a VCR don't know how to make it stop blinking "12:00," and never mind fixing it so it will automatic come on, tape for two hours and shut itself off. The fact is, we already got more electronic marvels than we know what to do with, he said, and what we don't need is another more complicated generation of them.

General, the fellers weren't buying much of it. Clem Webster was first to note that Zeke was convinced that the pocket calculator would destroy public education in this country, and that he still spends more time adding up the tape than buying the groceries because he won't trust that light that reads the bar codes at the checkout register. Clem said the one time Zeke's total didn't square with the light's he took the tape back to the store and a high school bag boy added it up in his head and showed him he had carried a three instead of a eight.

The fact is, Clem said, every new idea is good for something to somebody. Big international companies save big money on travel by holding sales and board meetings on two-way TV hookups, and the fax machine has changed the way the country does business.

Personal, I agree with Clem that we have to keep opening the next door. We got to keep looking for that better mousetrap.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

"most qualified person" on the ballot for trustee. His approach, he says, is to take a problem, research it, and come to the quickest and best solution possible.

Bentley did not detail his council record, or exactly why a change on council is needed.

The most pressing issue facing the village, Bentley said, is the landfill. "I think if it is handled properly, the village will come out all right monetarily," Bentley said.

"If the governor succeeds in re-vamping the Department of Natural Resources, we might end up better than we originally thought."

Bentley said recent village personnel problems "to my way of thinking, have not been handled in the most efficient manner." In referring to the recent demotion of Paul Newhouse in the electric and water department, which is the subject of a lawsuit filed against the village, Bentley said that although he does not have all the details, "from my past knowledge, [Newhouse] had always been a reliable and dependable employee... during my first term on council he was voted Employee of the Year."

One of Bentley's primary projects would be further promotion of the industrial park on Sibley Rd.

"I still feel the council is not doing enough to promote it," Bentley said. "This should be a real asset to our village, instead of just sitting there with only a few industries using the facilities. We need to find out what is wrong with it, if anything."

Bentley supports Jerry Satterthwaite for village council.

"I think the village would be very lucky to get a person of his magnitude to fill this position."

Weight Loss Surprises Researchers

WASHINGTON—A nutrition organization was hopeful that a nutritionally complete "hi-tech" food tablet would help erase world hunger problems, until a study revealed that one of the ingredients could cause significant weight loss.

Although other studies and scientists may not agree, researchers in Europe found that the ingredient, a natural plant colloid, actually caused people to lose weight, even though specifically instructed not to alter normal eating patterns, according to one study published in the prestigious British Journal of Nutrition. Researchers in an earlier study had speculated that the weight loss was due to decrease in the intestinal absorption of calories.

While the project of National Dietary Research, aptly named Food Source One, would not be used to successfully fulfill its original goal, the formula which has since been improved with other natural colloids has been a windfall for some overweight people. A Daytona Beach, Florida woman fighting a weight battle for 12 years used the product on the recommendation of her physician and lost 30 pounds. She stated, "Not only have I lost 30 pounds but my cholesterol has dropped from 232 to 143. I have two closets full of clothes which have not fit me in two years that I can now wear." In a separate report, a telephone interview revealed that a Wilmington, North Carolina pharmacist lost 14 pounds in 3 weeks on the product and was never hungry.

Food Source One tablets are part of National Dietary Research's comprehensive plan to bring a rapid end to obesity in this country. A variety of nutritionally sound diet plans, specially prepared by NDR, accompany each bottle and provide a natural, drug free alternative for confronting the problem of obesity.

Woman's Club of Chelsea met in the meeting room of the McKune Memorial Library Tuesday, Feb. 11.

Cheryl Davis, substance abuse advisor for the Chelsea School District, was the program speaker.

Cheryl has a master of social work degree from Wayne State University and a bachelor of arts degree with distinction in psychology from the University of Michigan.

Before coming to the Chelsea School District she had experience with education and management of various clinics and substance abuse treatment centers, including Davis Associates in New Boston, the Knopf Co., Inc. in Plymouth, and Northwestern Guidance Clinic in Garden City where she administered the agency's four children's mental health units.

She was administrator of the Social Work Department at the Southfield Rehabilitation Hospital.

She was substance abuse counselor for the Downriver Guidance Clinic in Wyandotte. Here she served as assistant to the unit director in the day-to-day operation of the substance abuse program, providing service to families, groups and individual clients.

Information is available for anyone who desires to learn more about alcohol and drug abuse disease. Check your telephone directory for local numbers of organizations where information is available. MEMBERS OF REVERE'S RIDERS, Chelsea area 4-H club, with their leader Kathy Kentala, and parents, Nancy Zyburk and Fred Swope, assisted the Webster Township Recycling project on Saturday, Jan. 25. The members helped load several tons of newspapers to be recycled in Ann Arbor. Pictured are: Tara Zyburk, Melissa Beaulieu, Allison Knight, Kelly Kentala, Jennifer Swope and McKenna Houle.

THE VOLUNTEERS, as pictured, removed the newspapers from an old barn basement, and placed them into a recycle container parked 30 ft. away from the barn. The stack of newspaper is collected as a result of overflow from the weekly pick-up container, and is removed from the barn about twice a year. Revere's Riders 4-H club is participating in community service projects as part of their 4-H experience.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

I was surprised and saddened by a recent letter appearing in The Chelsea Standard. Nancy Dymond was expressing her dissatisfaction with the Chelsea school board's decision not to allow Christmas music at the school's Christmas concert. As a music teacher in another district, I was shocked that the school board of my alma mater would create and support such a decision.

I would urge the school board to check with the state board of education before making a permanent decision. The holding for the United States Court of Appeals for the Eighth Circuit in Florey v. Sioux Falls School District 49-5, (1980) states that "A school may observe traditional holidays which have both religious and secular bases without violating the First Amendment to the United States Constitution. The limits of any school program where such holidays are observed, however, must be carefully defined in purpose and effect so the program does not foster an excessive governmental entanglement with religion."

A previous decision in the United States Supreme Court, the case of Lemon v. Kurtzman (1971), set up guidelines for a school district to follow in order to perform "religious" music. As long as the activity has a secular purpose (perhaps a holiday rather than Christmas concert?), the principal does not advance or inhibit religion, and the activity does not foster an excessive governmental entanglement with religion, then the activity is constitutional.

I find it terribly sad that if this decision stands, that a child could grow up in the Chelsea School District without being able to play or sing Handel's Messiah, or 90% of the music of J.S. Bach. Most of the music written before 1900 had its roots in the Catholic Church. Does that mean that the beautiful timeless masterpieces of Beethoven, Mozart and Haydn are no longer performed because they show a "religious viewpoint?" I feel that it is a great disservice to a child's education to not allow the performance of what some deem "religious" music. In fact, the Florey decision states that "It would be literally impossible to develop a public school curriculum that did not in some way affect the religious or non-religious sensibilities of some of the students or their parents. School administrators should, of course, be sensitive to the religious beliefs or dis-beliefs of their constituents and should attempt to avoid conflicts, but they need not, and should not sacrifice the quality of the students' education. They need only insure that the primary effect of the school's policy is secular."

I truly hope that Ms. Dymond, parents of children in the Chelsea schools, music educators employed there, and most importantly the students do not let this issue die. I feel that some arrangement could be made to exclude students from activities that make them uncomfortable, and allow other students and parents the pleasure of experiencing wonderful music. Just as specific religious beliefs should not be promoted by a school system, the disparagement of such should also not be tolerated.

Paula J. Haist
Choral Music Teacher.

To the Editor:

As a resident and a candidate for the office of village president, I believe that the compensation of $200 per meeting, is a travesty on the citizens of Chelsea. When you take this along with the compensation of six members of council, bringing the cost to $500 per meeting a total of $3,000 per year, that is, if there are no special meetings. This for a position that should be a civic duty.

In the meeting of 1/14/92, Mr. Steele set up a ways and means committee to evaluate the Electric Rates, not withstanding what was published in The Standard. I was at that meeting.

What is really amazing is that Misters Steele, Satterthwaite, Merkel and Bentley sat on the council and enacted the Village Manager's ordinance No. 105.

This ordinance gives the Village Manager supervisory power over all departments, and control over all personnel; this includes the clerk and treasurer. The exception is the Police and Fire Departments.

Investigate all complaints against the village, but nowhere does it say that the Council has to be informed.

If you do not believe these to be facts, read ordinance No. 105.

I am sure that the before named gentlemen will say that this was not their intent. My suggestion is for them to read ordinance No. 105 before commenting.

I believe that the administration of the village should be put back into the hands of the elective officials.

You will note that Manchester did not enact this ordinance, they did not want to have one person government.

Charles S. Ritter, Jr.
Candidate for Village President

Dear Editor,

As usual, when Chelsea area folks perceive a need in the community, they rally around. They are doing it again. Inspired by a national program called "Christmas in April," Washtenaw County and specifically Chelsea has organized grass roots support of a project designed to help people who because of age or circumstance, are unable to maintain their homes.

Richard Shaneyfelt, who has been a "Habitat for Humanity" volunteer for several years, agreed to chair a local effort. The Chelsea Chamber of Commerce has pledged funds, as has Kiwanis, Lions and K. of C., in addition to the 50 volunteers who have already signed on to help.

Saturday, April 25 is the day! A one-day blitz where lots of people using paint brushes, scrapers, hammers, rakes and shovels, sanders and whatever it takes to return these homes to a state of good repair.

To receive a volunteer sign-up or donation form, leave a message at Chelsea Social Services, 475-1581 or Chamber of Commerce, 475-1145.

David Dising
Chelsea Lions Club.

"An error gracefully acknowledged is a victory won . . ."
—Gascogne

Errors come in all sizes and shapes. They can be minor, serious, or catastrophic. The making of errors is perhaps the only thing all people in the world have in common . . . we all make them from time to time. Most of us will probably admit that we make too many errors, often unnecessarily.

Errors are nothing of which to be proud, but, when we can gracefully admit our responsibility and go about rectifying them to the best of our ability, we have indeed won a victory. And if we can learn from our errors, the victory is further enhanced.

Our counsel and advice is available throughout the period of adjustment which starts with a beautiful funeral service.

Frank Hammer

and the four townships, establishing plans for the maintenance and rebuilding of the village's infrastructure, "which has suffered from benign neglect," and correcting deficiencies in the budgeting process and developing long-term economic goals.

"We need long-range planning, and I'm not talking about new streets or zoning changes or planning for growth," Hammer said.

"We will be forced by the state into developing a water treatment facility. The writing is already on the wall. In addition, the water tower will have to be replaced within the next 10 years. We need to plan for these needs and start setting aside money to cover them. Eight or 10 years from now the residents will be faced with these costs all at once, but they will not have to rush around coughing up millages and bond issues if contingency plans have been made and money has started to accumulate. One only need look as far as the landfill to see the benefits of long-term monetary planning. A very large portion of our debts for the landfill would have already been covered if we had only set aside 10 cents per yard for the last 30 years."

During his term in office, Hammer would like to see "an end to the firefighting approach to government" and an emphasis on planned "sensible village government."

"Council has had to react to a barrage of problems which we inherited," Hammer said.

"We've had little time for planning." Hammer supports Richard Steele for village president.

"(Steele) inherited several messes as well as a couple that had been laid before his term but were birthed during his term," Hammer said.

"He has not had sufficient time to demonstrate his worth or the quality of management he can provide. He deserves a chance to demonstrate those qualities."

Rosemary Harook

Kanten has been the only woman trustee for many years.

"I have a sincere interest in Chelsea. I also worked seven years with the village planning commission and feel there is a need for long-term planning on certain issues such as building funds set up for renovation of the municipal building or construction of a new one." She also said planning is needed for expansion of the fire and police departments "as the village and townships are rapidly growing." She's also concerned about local tax issues.

"I'm a committed and dedicated individual who thinks independently yet realizes the importance of team effort. And I'm very concerned about the pressures taxpayers are feeling in our community and very concerned for senior citizens."

The landfill situation, Harook said, is the most pressing issue facing the village. She said the village should "get 100 percent into recycling" because of environmental issues. She also said the village should have set a deadline for the townships to decide how they will pay their share of more than $700,000 in accumulated landfill expenses. Beyond that deadline, she said, the townships would not be able to use the facility.

Harook also believes the village did not plan adequately when it purchased two lots on Park St. several years ago for the construction of a new village administration building. "A building fund should have been put into place that year and funds set aside every budget year," she said.

Another village priority, she said, should be "to put a cap on the electric fund with no more borrowing until the loans have been paid back with interest." The village, over the years, has used the electric fund to finance a variety of projects. She'd also like to see the village pursue a senior citizens citizens housing complex.

DAR Good Citizen Awards To Be Presented Saturday

Two area high school seniors have been selected by their respective schools to receive DAR Good Citizen Awards from the Sarah Caswell Angell Chapter of the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution.

Awards will be presented at a ceremony at the Ann Arbor Women's City Club, 1830 Washtenaw Ave., Ann Arbor on Saturday, Feb. 22. John Kissinger, Washtenaw County Chapter No. 310 Vietnam Veterans of America, will be the speaker.

Students selected are Jeffrey Holzhausen of Chelsea High school and Matthew McRoberts of Dexter High school.

Jeffrey Holzhausen is the son of Donald and Sandra Holzhausen of Chelsea. He is a member of the National Honor Society and has served as both president and vice-president of the student council at Chelsea High school. He is a member of SADD and has attended Boy's State. He has played football and has been captain of the wrestling team. He plans to major in communications.

Matthew McRoberts is the son of Henry and Lorelei McRoberts of Dexter. He is currently vice-president of the National Honor Society and the student council for Dexter High school. He was tri-captain of the varsity football team and is currently captain of the wrestling team. He has attended Boy's State and has been a United States Senate Youth Representative. He plans to attend the Citadel Academy in South Carolina and major in business.

Because our youth hold the future in their hands, the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution established a Good Citizens Contest in high schools in 1934 to recognize and encourage outstanding young people in the pursuit of high ideals.

The DAR Good Citizens Contest is open to boys and girls in the senior classes of accredited public and private high schools in good standing with the State Board of Education.

The student selected as the school's "DAR Good Citizen" must have the qualities of LEADERSHIP—which includes personality, self-control, ability to assume responsibility; DEPENDABILITY—which includes truthfulness, loyalty, punctuality; SERVICE—which includes cooperation, courtesy, consideration of others; PATRIOTISM—which includes unselfish interest in family, school, community, and nation, to an outstanding degree.

The faculty selects three seniors having these qualifications and from the three, the senior class selects one to be the school's "DAR Good Citizen."

All award recipients may enter competition for the DAR of Michigan Good Citizen Award, to be presented in April in East Lansing. The Michigan Good Citizen Award is based on personal accomplishments and an essay submitted by the local Good Citizens.

★ Elderly Pets Need Special Care...

Older cats and dogs need special care to enable them to live out their natural lifespans as comfortably and enjoyably as possible. How old is old? Indoor cats live an average of 18 years, and are considered elderly after age nine. A dog's life expectancy is linked to his size. Very large dogs generally live only 10 to 12 years, and are considered old after age six. Very small dogs are old after age nine, and may live into their late teens. Purebreds are usually shorter-lived than mixed breeds.

As most pets age, they become quieter and calmer. They spend more time sleeping and less time eating and exercising. Some dogs and cats become increasingly dependent on their owners; others become more dominant in the family. Change often upsets an old pet who is dependent on familiar routines.

An elderly pet is changing physically as well. His or her metabolism slows, resulting in decreased caloric needs. Although the same nutrients are required, the amounts of some of them are different. An older pet is less resistant to disease, and experiences less keen senses.

What can you do to ease your older pet's life and maximize his longevity? Maintain a regular calm routine at home. Handle him or her gently, and protect your pet from overzealous visitors. Use a petlitter instead of a boarding facility during your vacations. Allow your pet to live indoors, where he will be protected from temperature extremes. Provide a soft warm bed for sleeping.

Feed an elderly pet a food with a restricted amount of high-quality protein. It should contain additional vitamins, and reduced amounts of certain minerals such as sodium chloride. Extra fiber can alleviate constipation. If your old dog or cat is overweight, consider limiting portion size and/or a reduced-calorie food. Pets with few teeth left may need to eat canned food or have their dry meals moistened with water. In all cases, consult your veterinarian about your elderly pet's diet.

Regular exercise is beneficial to your aging pet, as it increases circulation, strengthens muscles, trims fat, and improves heart and lung functions. Gradually introduce short daily walks into your dog's routine. Two walks of 20 to 30 minutes at his own pace every day are ideal. Avoid temperature extremes during exercise, and dry an old dog off after a wet outing. Old cats can benefit from hide-and-seek, toy chase, and other moderate activity games with their owners for 20 to 30 minutes a day. Remember that older pets tire more quickly, react more slowly, and tend to have a little arthritis in their joints.

Federal law requires that states maintain statewide labor exchanges that help job seekers find employment, help employers fill job vacancies and participate in interstate job exchanges.

American Teacher Finds Conflicting Images in China

By Mary Ellen Mynning

Dear Folks,
Well, I finally made it back to Beijing after spending 13 long, cold, snow-filled days in Nanjing where I lived with one of my students and his family.

Nanjing is in that area of China that the government has decreed is far enough south that it needs no heat. Yet Nanjing winters are often in the 20's and 30's. Therefore I spent my nights enveloped in a long thermal nightgown over the top of my sweats and clutching a hot water bottle to my bosom. And I spent my days waddling around the town with five layers of clothes on, plus my winter coat.

When I would return to my student's home after a shopping trip, Mrs. Liu would scurry up to me with a fresh hot water bottle for me to hug as I sat at the table eating and watching the breaths of my host family as they talked.

However, the flip side to this chilly picture is that I was able to see graceful sampans and ancient wooden houseboats gently drift down the Yangtze River. I was able to travel to the countryside and visit my student's 84-year-old grandmother and drink tea from a pot that had been her granny's grandmother's. I also helped her draw water from the well since they had no running water, and admired her lovely hand-carved bed while ignoring her straw mattress.

I was able to ride in an army Jeep for five hours next to a chain-smoking soldier, listen to Beethoven tapes, and sit patiently for 10 minutes while a frustrated peasant tried to get his stubborn black hog out of the center of the road.

I was able to go on a tour bus with a group of Hong Kong people and listen to them argue with our guide at one memorial where the guide insisted that the Kuomintang (Chiang Kai-shek's followers) had ruthlessly killed innocent Chinese and the Hong Kongers insisted that the ruthless Japanese had been the killers—I guess it depends on who writes the history books, doesn't it?!

I know that this all sounds a little mad, confusing—a total jumble of conflicting images, and it is. But that is China. I have been here for one year and I am still confused about her. I have seen young women in factories working at old Singer sewing machines (the treadle kind) from 7:00 a.m. till 11:00 p.m. and they were not allowed to listen to music or talk for fear that they would slow down production and then I grumble about human rights. Yet I see a country who is trying and succeeding to clothe and feed its over one billion people. China is struggling to grow, to change, to develop, but it seems to have its own timetable. And it is fascinating to watch and learn from her.

One last little aside, my student's family was eager to learn about American family life. They had heard that we did not love our family very much since we were too busy making money and getting rich (all Americans are rich). I tried to convince them how much I loved my whole tribe of relatives but they looked skeptical. To tell the truth, we just don't do families the way the Chinese do. Here is a typical conversation:

"So, Mary Ellen, you want to see the factory, my brother will arrange it."

"I didn't know you had a brother."

NO RUNNING WATER so Chinese student draws water from his grandmother's well.

MARY ELLEN MYNNING from Dexter is teaching in Beijing, China. Shown here with her is her student's 84-year-old grandmother.

"I don't, he is my uncle's oldest daughter's husband's sister's husband, and we are very close, he is like my brother."

"Oh."
"Say, perhaps you would like to meet my cousin, he is very handsome and would like an American wife. He is on my father's side and his great-grandfather and mine were first cousins and he owns a car."

"He owns a car! In China! I'd love to meet him." (I'm no fool!)

Folks, this conversation actually took place. Incidentally, this cousin turned out to be 26, now I explained that my son is 23, but he seemed to think we still were a match made in heaven. Note: If any readers are looking for husbands, please come to China.

Mary Ellen Mynning.

CAP Will Present Murder Mystery

Chelsea Area Players will present "While the Lights Were Out," by Jack Sharkey, at Beach Middle school March 5, 6, and 7. Tickets are on sale now at Chelsea Pharmacy or by calling 475-2898.

Put on your Sherlock Holmes cap and prepare to laugh all evening long as a wonderfully talented cast takes you for an evening in Bermuda to solve a murder mystery. A thunderstorm! The lights go out!

A pistol shot rings out! An agonizing voice cries out! The deed is done! The lights come up! A new face appears out of nowhere with a dagger. Lord Clive is dead on the floor alright, but without being shot or stabbed. Wow... Every clue will leave you with a different idea as to the culprit. The final solution involves an even more unusual twist with the most bizarre motive for murder ever imagined.

Performances will be at 8 p.m. on March 5, 6, and 7 with a 2 p.m. matinee on Saturday. Cheesecake and a beverage will be served prior to all performances except the matinee; therefore, the house opens at 7 p.m. Come see for yourself—Whodunnit?

New Store Specializes in Birds, Fish, Plants, and Pet Supplies

The only store in the Chelsea area dedicated to pets, pet supplies, and houseplants has opened in the former Mr. Rib between Washtenaw Carpets and Pierce Park.

Lyndon township resident Judi Geshel opened the store last month, with a lot of help from her family. She originally owned a pet store in Ft. Oglethorpe, Ga., where she lived for a brief time in the early 1980s.

When she and her husband, Tony, an engineer in Detroit, moved back to Michigan, she got into the wholesale pet products business, which eventually led her back into the retail business.

The new store does not sell dogs, cats, or other large animals. However it does carry an assortment of exotic birds (all bred domestically, Geshel says), from canaries to cockatoos, rats, mice, gerbils, hamsters, guinea pigs, lizards, hermit crabs and will eventually have about 60 tanks full of fresh and saltwater fish (installed where the kitchen used to be), turtles, and frogs. In addition, she carries pet foods and supplies for all kinds of animals, including dogs and cats.

The plant section takes up one front corner of the store, and has a fairly large selection for a small space.

This spring, Geshel says, the store will stock various items for outdoor ornamental ponds, such as fish, fountains, and aquatic plants.

"I think there's a big demand for this kind of store in the area," Geshel said.

"The closest pet store is 15 miles away, which is a long way to go if you need fish food."

Kathleen Kimberly, Geshel's right-hand woman, is the fish and rodent expert, while Judi specializes in plants and birds. Judi's daughter, Teresa Duncan, helps with the bookwork and ordering, and youngest daughter, Leah, is a general gofer.

BB GUN INJURIES

BB gun injuries to the eye are, unfortunately, quite common. All too often these weapons are bought for children as toys, and their dangerous potential is not realized, or is ignored. Most of the victims of ocular BB gun injuries are young boys, and up to half of them are innocent bystanders. The velocity of a BB pellet may be sufficient to penetrate the eye. Non-penetrating hits can be just as devastating, and BB gun injuries are among the most serious of ocular injuries. Blindness, and even surgical removal of the eye, may result.

Even though numerous reports of injury by BB guns have been published, most states don't regulate the use or sale of these weapons. They are often sold in toys stores, which promotes the idea that they are harmless. These guns are better dealt with in gun shops, and their sale and use should be restricted to those old enough to appreciate their dangerous potential. Young persons using these guns should pass a safety course, and parents should always directly supervise the use by children.

BB gun injuries can and do cause tragic visual loss and disfigurement, which is entirely preventable. Parents should take the initiative to ensure that this doesn't happen to their child.

Let's Go Bulldogs!

Bulldogs Whip Central After Loss to Railsplitters

After suffering their worst league defeat of the year on Tuesday, the Chelsea Bulldogs bounced back on Friday to win a non-conference game at Brooklyn Columbia-Central with their highest offensive output of the season.

Whether the Bulldogs have begun to turn around from their mid-season slump may be answered this Friday when they host the Dexter Dreadnaughts.

In Tuesday's contest against Lincoln, 38 turnovers (including 21 steals), poor shooting, and lackluster defense gave the Railsplitters a 70-50 victory at Chelsea. It was Chelsea's worst defeat of the season. The second worst was also to Lincoln in the fourth game of the season.

"Lincoln doesn't have great basketball players but they have many good, quick athletes," said Chelsea coach Robin Raymond.

"They are exactly the type of team that we have trouble with. They also have decent size and can hit the outside shot. They're also patient and pass the ball well."

For the first few minutes, it appeared the teams might play a close game. But Lincoln pulled away at the end of the first quarter to take a 17-11 lead. By half-time Chelsea was down 34-20, and the deficit grew the rest of the way.

"We started committing a lot of turnovers and became frustrated that we couldn't do what we planned."

Chelsea went to a little-used zone defense, which Raymond said made it tough to come back.

"One of the problems with a zone defense is you can't control the tempo of the game very easily," Raymond said.

"It's tough to turn the game around."

The Chelsea turnovers resulted in 28 more shots from the field for the Railsplitters as the Bulldogs were 19-39 while Lincoln was 32-47. Chelsea also hurt themselves at the free throw line, where they were 10-21, compared to 4-8 for Lincoln.

Reserve Ed Waller had the best game of the night for the Bulldogs, Raymond said. Waller scored six points and had four rebounds in about eight minutes of play.

No one scored in double figures for Chelsea. Scorers included Jake Rindie 8, Colby Skelton 7, Chris Dunham 7, Pat Steele 6, Nick McCalla 5, Jon Royce 4, Dana Schrumk 4, Ben Hurst 2, and Tom Poulter 1.

Chelsea is 3-6 in the Southeastern Conference. The Tecumseh Indians won the title last Friday as they remained undefeated with a victory over Saline.

Chelsea beat Central on the road Friday, 77-70, in a game that wasn't as close as the score.

The Bulldogs were up by 14 points with two minutes left when Raymond began substituting freely.

Chelsea used a full-court, man-to-man defense to put the pressure on the Central guards, the strength of the team. The pressure resulted in numerous steals and easy baskets for the Bulldogs from 28 Central turnovers.

"I thought we needed to get back to our pressure defense to see if we could tire out their guards and not let them concentrate on their outside shooting," Raymond said.

Although Central hit six three-point baskets, the bombs didn't hurt, partly because the Bulldogs hit four themselves.

Chelsea took a 14-8 lead in the first quarter and increased the advantage to 35-21 at half-time and 60-43 by the end of three periods.

Chelsea had one of their best shooting nights of the year, hitting 31-80 field goal tries, an unusually high number of shots for the Bulldogs. Central was 24-57.

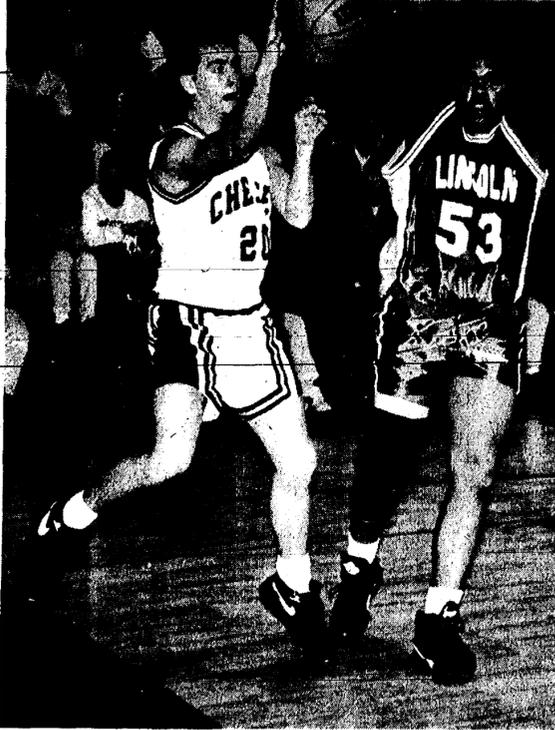

Again, bench play was the highlight of the game. Steele scored a season-high 19 points in "by far his best all-around game," Raymond said. Steele was 7-9 from the floor and had six rebounds, two steals and two assists.

It was also one of the most balanced attacks of the year as Rindie scored 15, Hurst had 11, Schrumk scored 10, Royce had nine, and Skelton had eight. Dunham and Poulter had three and two points, respectively.

As a team, the Bulldogs had 13 steals, 22 assists, and 28 turnovers.

Chelsea is 6-9 for the season. Four of their last five games are at home.

DAN STAHL makes the save on the baseline during last Tuesday's home contest against the Lincoln Railsplitters. Chelsea lost by 20 points, but rebounded for a win at Columbia Central on Friday.

Dog Tankers Sink Dexter

Chelsea Bulldogs swim team assured themselves of third place in the Southeastern Conference with a decisive 105-79 victory over Dexter Thursday evening.

The medley relay team of Steve Brock, Matt Montange, Matt Fischer, and Kevin Kolodica took second place in 1:52.43.

Dirk Colby and David Brock each had a season best time in the 200 freestyle at 1:56 and 1:58, respectively, good for first and second place.

Steve Brock easily out-distanced the field in the 200 individual medley, winning easily in 2:12.63.

Matt McVittie gave the Bulldogs another victory in the 50 freestyle with a :22.8.

Matt Fischer's time of :58 in the 100 butterfly was an easy winner.

The best swimmers of the night, according to Chelsea coach Dave Jolly, were by the breaststroke duo of Montange and Mike McEachern. Each had a season-best time of 1:09 and 1:11 in the 100 breaststroke, putting them within striking distance of the state cut-off time.

Jolly said the Bulldogs are in good position to challenge for second place in the SEC championships on Feb. 28-29.

7th Grade Spikers Win Two Matches

Beach Middle school seventh grade volleyball team remained undefeated last week with victories over Tecumseh and Lincoln.

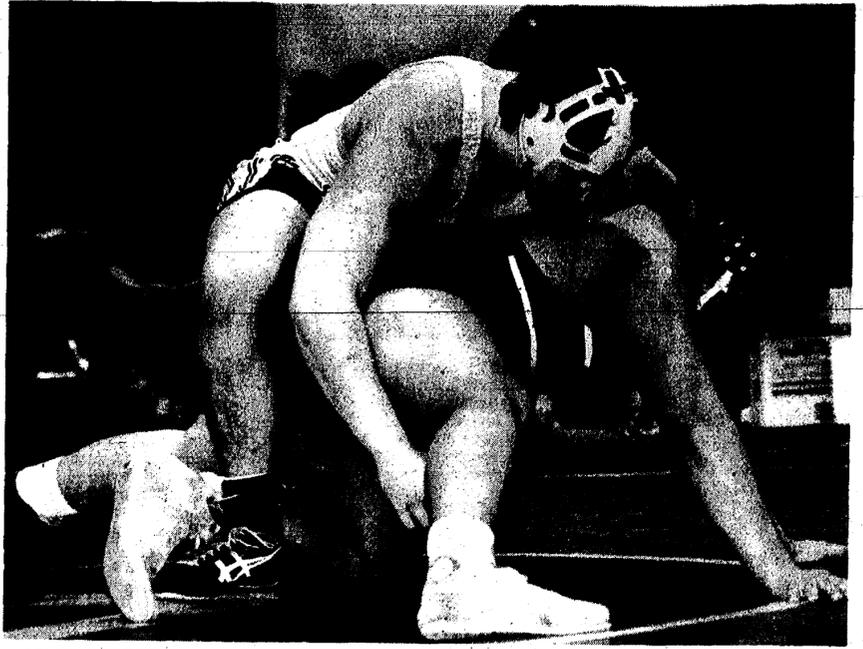

On Tuesday, Feb. 11, Chelsea beat Tecumseh at home in four games, 5-11, 11-3, 14-12, and 11-1.

Melissa Carty served 12 points. Kristy Cox, Jessi Forshee, and Erin Dougherty each served six points.

On Thursday, Feb. 13 the Bullpups won at Lincoln, 11-6, 11-3, 11-1.

Michelle Lucas served 10 points of the third game. Alicia Broughton served five points.

MIKE TERPSTRA won the championship at Tournament last Saturday in Dexter. Terpstra extended heavyweight for Chelsea in the Southeastern Conference his season record to 34-0.

Chelsea Wrestlers Take Second in SEC Tourney

Chelsea Bulldogs wrestlers tied for second place in the Southeastern Conference tournament last Saturday, to take second place for the season.

The favored Dexter Dreadnaughts, undefeated in the regular SEC season, won the tournament with 161 points. Chelsea and Pinckney each had 131 points.

"I was not disappointed at all," said Chelsea coach Kerry Kargel.

"Our goal was to win the league, and we had a chance to the very end. I thought we might get one or two more wrestlers into the finals, but we got a couple of bad draws and a couple of bad breaks."

Chelsea had four champions, including Tim Wescott at 112 pounds, Kevin McCalla at 140, Ian Dyer at 145, and Mike Terpstra at heavyweight. Terpstra finished the regular season with a 34-0 record.

Wescott, the top seed in his weight class, defeated Brian McCasey of Saline in the finals, 15-14, in one of the most exciting matches of the day.

"Tim got into a good rhythm," Kargel said.

"Everything was perfect. He had McCasey on his back a couple of times."

Wescott also pinned Joe Johnston of Tecumseh in his first match in 1:20, then beat Scott Lavey of Pinckney, 5-3.

McCalla returned from an arm injury to win at 140.

"It was iffy as to whether he would wrestle," Kargel said.

"It was all his and his parents' decision. He looked good and didn't seem to have any trouble at all."

McCalla had both arms taped so it wasn't apparent which elbow was sprained. It's an injury Kargel said he had never seen before.

After a first-round bye, top-seeded McCalla pinned Scott Caldie of Pinckney in 2:38 and Matt Johnson of Saline in 1:39.

Dyer, seeded second, whipped top seed Jordan Colby of Lincoln, 8-1, in the finals. Colby had pinned him earlier in the season.

"Ian has really become quite a technician," Kargel said.

"He has an awful lot of ability."

In his other matches, Dyer pinned Frank Samples of Pinckney in 3:05 and Corbett Knieper of Dexter in :39. Terpstra, again, went through another tournament without the benefit of wrestling an entire six minutes. The defending state champion had a bye, then disposed of Mike Ortell of Saline in 1:13 and Ramon Torres of Tecumseh in 1:56.

"I wasn't real thrilled that he got a bye because he needs to wrestle," Kargel said.

Four other Chelsea wrestlers placed in the tournament.

Vince Stahl took third at 130 pounds. He lost his first match to Rod Beaton of Milan, 4-3, then stopped Adam Hieber of Saline, 11-7, and Jay Jimenez of Tecumseh, 7-5.

Senior co-captain Jeff Holzhausen placed third at 189 pounds. He was pinned by John White of Pinckney in 1:34, but returned to pin Aaron Chatfield of Tecumseh in 1:25 and take a 15-5 decision over Tim James of Saline.

Paul Taylor placed fourth at 152 pounds. He pinned Steve Herman of Tecumseh in 1:43, then lost a 10-1 decision to Jason Balcom of Dexter. He pinned Chad Decore of Pinckney in 2:40, before losing his final match to Greg DeGrand of Saline, 10-2.

Freshman Ryan Ludwig placed fourth at 103 pounds. In his opener he pinned John Gregg of Milan in 1:41, then lost an 11-3 decision to Eric Stoll of Lincoln. He went on to pin Paul Raetzl of Tecumseh in 4:23, but was pinned by Cay Blake of Saline in 1:28 in the battle for third place.

In the final dual meet of the season, Chelsea beat Ann Arbor Huron, 37-27, last Tuesday in Ann Arbor.

"It was a very relaxed meet for us," Kargel said.

Chelsea fell way behind early, but rallied in the middle and upper weights.

Results follow.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

This is the week that Chelsea heavyweight Mike Terpstra begins his quest for a second straight state class B wrestling title.

The individual district tournament starts Saturday at Brooklyn Columbia Central. Nineteen teams will be there and the top four from each weight class advance to the region tournament the following week.

It will be different for Terpstra this year because he will undoubtedly be the top seed for as far as he goes. Last year he had lost a few times before the post-season, and he turned out to be a surprise, although certainly not a longshot, winner. Last year more attention was focused on Karl Wikman, who was pursuing a second straight title.

This year Terpstra is undefeated, somewhere around 34-0. I'm sure he leads the team in pins, and probably leads the Bulldogs in wins by forfeit. Despite what some may think, there are plenty of wrestlers who will think twice about taking on a state champ if they have as much as a hangnail, bruised pinky, whatever. They know they will lose and lose quickly.

Terpstra has wrestled only a few six-minute matches all season, which is probably the greatest concern for coach Kerry Kargel. Once he starts running into the heavy competition, it's far more likely he'll have to out-score his opponent rather than score the knockout.

With that in mind, Kargel, himself a two-time state champ, pushes Terpstra hard in practice.

"He gets a far better workout in practice than he ever does in a tournament," Kargel said.

Kargel, who is still in excellent condition despite his advancing age, (probably in better shape than 99.9 percent of the general population) can give Terpstra a better lesson on the mat than the vast majority of his opponents. What he can't do, unfortunately, is mimic the leverage and strength and sheer magnitude of a 275-pounder.

"Mike's got it made if he runs into a short, quick opponent," Kargel said. "Where he'll be tested is if he runs into someone bigger than he is. I'm just a little backpack to throw around compared to someone like that."

Terpstra has so much going for him that it's easy to wonder how he'll ever lose. Although he's not built like Hulk Hogan, he's extremely strong. He's quick, bright, and unbelievably intense. He understands exactly what commitment it takes to win the title.

But Kargel, a veteran of the state wars, understands just how hard it is for any wrestler to repeat as champion. He said there are so many factors, from possible injuries to the kid who peaks at the right time, just as Terpstra did last year. If Terpstra reaches the state tournament again, he'll probably end up competing against some of the same kids he barely beat last year, including possibly last year's number one seed.

It will take a lot of skill and dedication, and a little luck to reach the top again. No matter what happens, there will be a whole school behind him once that first whistle blows.

Chelsea's varsity basketball team may have finally bottomed out last Tuesday against Lincoln as they lost by 20 points and committed 36 turnovers. Ed Waller's smooth shots off the glass provided the evening's highlights, in what might have been a glimpse of next year's play.

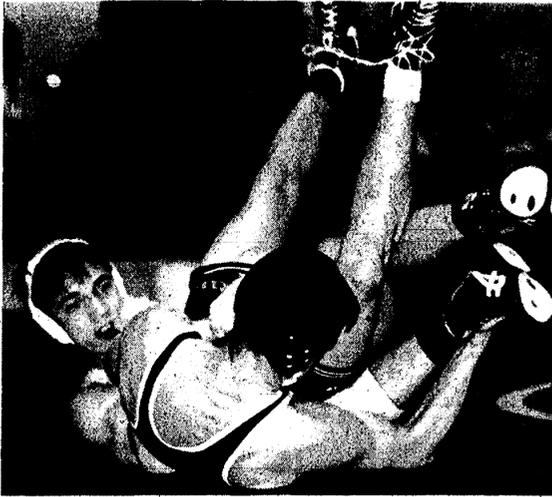

Are the Bulldogs on their way back? Although I didn't see last Friday's game against Brooklyn Columbia Central, reports from a variety of sources indicated Chelsea may have begun to turn the season around. They scored 77 points, a season-high, and reserve Pat Steele is beginning to look more and more like a sixth starter. He led the team with 19 points and is playing consistently at a higher level than he was early on.

If the Bulldogs can put it to the Dexter Dreadnaughts this Friday at home, they'll take a long step back. The Dreadnaughts have been playing pretty well this season and they knocked off Lincoln last Friday. They have good height, fine shooters, and there's no one they'd rather beat than Chelsea. It's hard to believe that Chelsea's last league victory came against Dexter.

If the Bulldogs can put together a little run to end the season, they could provide some formidable competition in the district tournament. With the exception of Tecumseh (so far), they will have beaten every team in the district which also includes Central, Saline, and Dexter. Unfortunately, history suggests that it doesn't matter how good the Bulldogs are come tournament time. It has been many, many years since Chelsea has won even one game in post-season play. Maybe that will change.

A couple other notes about the team at this stage of the season. No one can accuse coach Robin Raymond of completely disregarding the zone defense. The Bulldogs used it against both Milan and Lincoln.

The most amazing statistic of the season might be this. With the exception of both Lincoln games, the Bulldogs have had the lead in the fourth quarter of every SEC contest they've played. They've lost four games in which they were ahead late. If the Bulldogs had won those games, the team would be 10-5 over-all (before last night), with a shot at tying for the league championship.

IAN DYER of Chelsea, left, took the championship at 145 pounds at last Saturday's Southeastern Conference Tournament in Dexter.

Chelsea JV Cagers Beat Central on Road

Chelsea Bulldogs junior varsity basketball team beat Brooklyn Columbia Central but lost to Lincoln in games last week.

Chelsea beat Central last Friday on the road, 61-51, as the Bulldogs led from the start and everyone played.

"I was glad everyone had the opportunity to get a lot of playing time," said Chelsea coach Lonnie Mitchell. "We played excellent defense in the first half in giving up only 14 points. We also improved our free throw shooting."

Nathan Mackinder led the Bulldogs with 13 points. Chad Brown added 14 points on 10-11 shooting from the line. Other scorers included Cory Brown 8, David Stimpson 6, Matt Powell 5, Jason McVittie 5, Gabe Bernhard 4, Scott Larson 3, Matt Seitz 3, and David Seitz 2.

Chelsea lost the Lincoln game, 64-54, as the Railsplitters pulled ahead in the last quarter.

"Even though we lost the game, we showed how much we have improved during the season," Mitchell said. "The first time we played Lincoln we lost by 35 points."

Mackinder scored a team-high 16 points, and Cory Brown added 11. Other scorers were Larson 7, Powell 6, Stimpson 5, Matt Seitz 4, McVittie 3, and Chad Brown 2.

Chelsea was 5-10 on the season before last night's home game against Jackson Northwest.

Freshman Cagers Beat Pinckney, Lose to Lincoln, Central

Chelsea Bulldogs freshman basketball team lost two of three games played during a hectic week.

On Tuesday, Feb. 10 the Bulldogs were whipped by the Lincoln Railsplitters, 68-62.

Despite shooting 50 percent from the field, the Bulldogs could not offset 28 turnovers. The Bulldogs also shot just two free throws the entire game.

Chelsea led 12-11 after the first quarter but trailed 35-21 at half-time.

"In the second quarter Lincoln put a very physical full-court press on us and we lost our composure," said Chelsea coach Dave Quilter.

"First we didn't beat the press, then when we did we didn't run a play. We played them even for 28 minutes and didn't play at all for four minutes and that was the difference."

Adam Beachamp and Case McCalla led Chelsea with 23 and 16 points, respectively. Beachamp hit three three-pointers and shot 59 percent from the field. McCalla had five rebounds.

Other scorers included Pat Lynch 5, Jim Bergman 2, Scott Hawley 2, Bryndon Skelton 2, and Dirk Wales 2.

On Thursday, Feb. 13 the Bulldogs stopped the Pirates, 61-50. Chelsea trailed 14-7 after the first period but out-scored the Pirates 24-9 in the second quarter to take the lead for good.

"This was our best offensive game of the year," Quilter said.

Case McCalla and Kevin Coy had the flu and couldn't play. We challenged each player to step up a little and everyone responded."

Beauchamp led Chelsea with 20 points. Other scorers were Hawley 8, Lynch 8, Dan Wehrwein 8, Skelton 6, Wales 6, Jim Tallman 4, and Bergman 2.

Chelsea shot 40 percent from the floor, 61 percent from the line, and had 15 turnovers.

Beauchamp had eight rebounds, and Wehrwein had seven.

Brooklyn edged the Bulldogs Friday, 64-62.

The difference in the game was at the foul line. Chelsea was 14-23 while Central was 20-33.

"Brooklyn has lost only one game all year and they were the tallest team we've played," Quilter said.

Athletic Boosters To Present Banners Before Friday's Game

The high school gym will look a little different for this Friday's home basketball game with the Dexter Dreadnaughts.

Chelsea Athletic Boosters, Inc. will be officially presenting individual sports banners to the Chelsea athletic department. The banners, representing all boys and girls varsity sports programs, will be hung on the gym walls as a background for program medallions of a team's accomplishments, such as conference or post-season championships.

The banners were purchased by the boosters through their various fund-raising events. Some of those include parking cars at the Chelsea Community Fair, and the annual Booster Golf Tournament, which this year will be June 22.

The boosters plan to hold a memberships meeting tonight, Wednesday, Feb. 19 at 7:30 in the high school media center.

The boosters may be contacted at P.O. Box 428, Chelsea 48118.

8th Grade Spikers Win Two Contests

Beach Middle school eighth grade volleyball team won matches against Tecumseh and Lincoln last week. Their season record is 7-0.

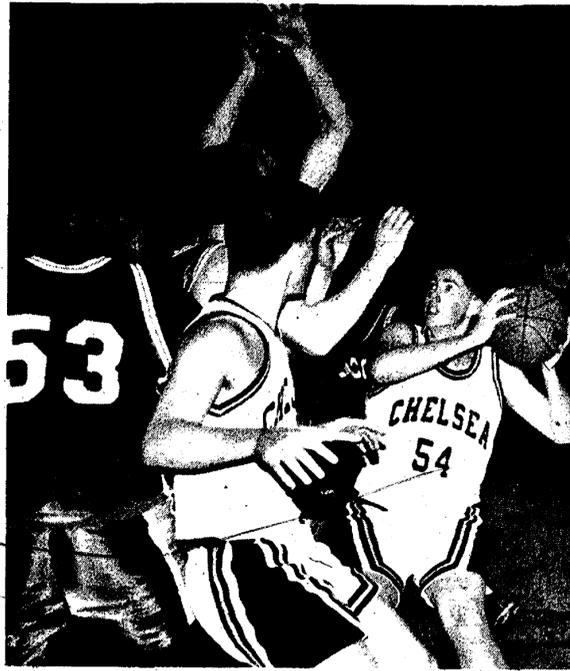

At home Tuesday against Tecumseh, the Bullpups won a three-game match, 11-3, 12-10, and 11-4.

Tecumseh took the first three points of game one, but Chelsea's Carrie Buss served out the entire first game with good overhand serving, said coach Ann Schaffner. Heidi Wehrwein served for eight points and Jessica Inwood had three in the remainder of the match.

In the Lincoln game, Schaffner said she was pleased with the Bullpups' attacking, which the team is trying to improve over the second half of the season.

Setters Buss, Liz Holdsworth, and Sarah Petty led in assists and Lisa Beard led in spikes. The team served for a season-high 93 percent as Petty went 12-12 and 12 points. Tracy Dufek and Heidi Kemnitz had four service points each, and Nikki Flite and Erin Baird had three each.

Tell Them You Read It In THE STANDARD

ED WALLER (54) scored six points off the bench for the Bulldogs in their loss last Tuesday to the Lincoln Rallsplitters.

Varsity Spikers Win Third Straight With Victory Over Pinckney Pirates

Chelsea Bulldogs varsity volleyball team made it three wins in a row last Thursday at home against the Pinckney Pirates as they won two straight games, 15-11 and 15-4.

In the first game, Leah Hadley started Chelsea out with a service ace, followed by strong serving by Melissa Thiel and an attack kill by Amanda Nimke to put Chelsea ahead 4-0.

Pinckney crept back to make it 4-3 before the Bulldogs gained a side-out on two saving plays by Gretchen Knutsen on balls out of the court.

A Jennifer Petty service ace followed by Amanda Nimke's stuff block put Chelsea ahead 6-3.

With the score 8-3, Chelsea committed several errors to lose the lead, 8-9. Theresa Royce's kill gained the serve back for Chelsea. A diving save by Nimke followed by Jennifer Petty's stuff put Chelsea up 10-9.

Attack kills by Jennifer Petty, Nimke, and Emily Carty, and a Nimke block sealed the win.

Chelsea took control of the second game from the start behind three blocks by Jennifer Petty, kills by Nimke, Jennifer Petty and Knutsen, and a service ace by Thiel to jump out to a 6-0 lead.

A Nimke ace and a Royce kill put Chelsea up 9-4. The Bulldogs went on to win, helped by two Jennifer Petty service aces and kills by Nimke.

"Our passing was excellent, very accurate, and controlled," said Chelsea coach Dan Montgomery.

"The team moved to kill the ball well. We were doing everything well—serving, attacking, blocking—but it's the way a team passes the ball that sets up everything else."

For the night Chelsea served 44-46 attempts with five aces. Thiel was 17-17 with one ace for 13 points. Jennifer Petty was 9-9 with three aces and seven points. Hadley was 9-9 for five points.

On offense the Bulldogs attacked successfully on 60-69 attempts with 18 kills. Amy Petty hit 10-10 with one kill to keep Pinckney off balance, Montgomery said.

Nimke had seven kills, Royce four, Carty three, Jennifer Petty two, and Knutsen one.

Tara Roehm and Jennifer Petty led in back row defense, and at the net Jennifer Petty had four solo blocks and Nimke had two.

Chelsea is 12-10-4 over-all and 4-3 in Southeastern Conference play. They host Dexter tomorrow (Thursday) for Parents Night.

at which time, upon request of any person, or his or her agent, who is assessed on this tax roll and if sufficient cause is shown, the Board of Review will correct the assessment on the property in question in a manner that will, in their judgment, make the valuation relatively just and equal. The assessment tax roll, after being reviewed and approved by the Board of Review, will be the assessment roll of LIMA TOWNSHIP for the year 1992.

Dear Property Owner(s) P.A. 135 of 1991 freezes the 1992 assessments for real property at the 1991 assessments as equalized for 1991 except for certain allowable adjustments such as for new additions and losses, etc. Any allowable adjustments or changes must be valued at the 1991 level. Personal property assessments are not affected by P.A. 135 except for buildings on leased land and leasehold improvements, which are to be valued as if they were real property.

Tentative Ratios for Lima Township for 1992 are: Agricultural .50, Factor 1; Commercial .50, Factor 1; Industrial .50, Factor 1; Residential .50, Factor 1; Developmental .50, Factor 1.

FOR 1992 ONLY the law allows the March Board of Review to increase or decrease the 1992 assessments only for the following reasons:

Assessments set by the assessing officer for those instances where the assessor has not already properly recognized additions and losses, splits or combinations, exemption issues or the import of 1991 Michigan Tax Tribunal decisions, 1991 July or December Board of Review decisions, or 1991 decisions by the State Tax Commission.

In addition the March Board of Review may adjust the value of a property protested by a taxpayer at the 1992 Board of Review meeting if the taxpayer acquired the property after January 1, 1991 by will, through foreclosure, or by a bona fide arms-length purchase and DID NOT APPEAL THE ASSESSMENT IN 1991. The Board of Review may also accept the protest and adjust the valuation of property owners protesting exemption issues. This includes "poverty" exemptions.

Tentative ratios are: Agricultural .50, factor 1.0; Commercial .50, factor 1.0; Industrial .50, factor 1.0; Residential .50, factor 1.0.

By John Evert, 4-H Youth Agent

 The course is part of Aquatic Resources Education Curriculum from U.S. Anglers. Program material is geared to both youth and adults with an interest in fishing, fish habitat and the water environment. Several topics will be covered such as where to fish, shore fishing, water safety, fishing from boats, types of fishing tackle and proper use, special knots, lines, hooks and types of baits.
