New Study Projects Lower Student Growth In School District

Chelsea School District student population should continue to grow steadily over the next five years at all schools, but at a rate less than expected three years ago.

That's one conclusion from a new study by Stanfred Consultants, presented to the Chelsea Board of Education Monday night. The district commissioned the study from the firm as part of the process of planning for a new bond issue.

This year the district grew by just nine students, from 2,513 to 2,522 after growing by more than 100 students the year before. Part of the problem is that 37 high school students moved out of the district or switched into other programs.

"The big problem is we don't know if this is just a blip in the statistics or if this is the start of a trend," said superintendent Joe Piasecki.

"I suspect the area was hurt by the economy more than we thought."

If the economy picks up, the district might begin to grow by 100 students per year.

Stanfred completed a study several years ago as the district prepared for a bond issue proposal that was ultimately defeated by voters. Both studies break down projected growth into two categories—"most likely" and "high."

The previous Stanfred study estimated the total population for this year to be between 2,531 and 2,645 students.

Based on the new data, the new study substantially lowers the high estimates for the next three years. It also lowers the "most likely" categories, but by lesser numbers.

For example, the previous study indicated the population next year would be between 2,558 and 2,723 students. Estimates in the new study are 2,532 and 2,581.

For 1995-96 the new study drops its most likely forecast from 2,680 to 2,620 and its high forecast from 2,936 to 2,801.

It's not clear how the new figures will fit into the district's facilities planning.

What is clear, however, is the crowded situation at both North and South Elementary schools will continue to worsen, for at least another year. There are approximately 150 too many students at each school, district officials say, which puts a burden on the "core" facilities, such as the gym, cafeteria, and parking lots. The Stanfred figures predict the elementary population will level off over the next two years, then begin to decline slowly from 1995 to 1998.

Most of the growth from 1995-98 will take place at Beach Middle school, as the large current elementary population moves up.

The district plans to put together another facilities committee early next year to study what form a new bond issue should take. However, it's not likely a new proposal will be on the ballot until 1994.

In other board business Monday, Chelsea's Downtown Development Authority presented a check for $44,729.28 to the district.

When DDA implemented its Tax Increment Financing Authority to pay for improvements downtown, it signed an agreement with the district saying it would not take more than it actually needed to finance its bond payments. The check represents the excess amount it collected.

The district lost about $108,000 to the DDA project in 1991-92.

TIFA takes the additional tax revenue generated by increased SEV downtown. The largest portion of that revenue would normally go to the school district.

The board was also given an update, via letters, about various school finance reform proposals being considered.

State Sen. Lana Pollack said she plans to re-introduce her package early next year. Her plan calls for exempting 60 percent or $25,000 of a home's SEV from local school operating taxes. The difference would be made up by an increase in the state income tax from 4.8 to 6 percent.

There was also information about the Olmstead/Kearney Proposal, a more complicated plan which calls for a rollback of local school operating millage to 30 mills, with the difference in funding to be made up by the state.

Chelsea High school is deemed to be in compliance with accrediting standard established by the North Central Association, according to a letter from the association.

The board was informed that Washtenaw Intermediate School District will put another special education millage proposal on the ballot in a special election next March. The Chelsea board recently voted not to support another millage effort.

Several "What's Your Opinion" forms, devised by the district, were returned by area residents.

One man wrote "I believe you should emphasize comprehensive reading, math, and communications, both written and oral." He said, "I see athletics glorified while ignorance abounds in our community." He also suggested that the school district's Chelsea Challenge be printed on recycled paper.

A woman wrote that she is concerned about the well-being of her children while they are riding the bus, and suggested that each bus have an assistant to help the driver maintain good behavior.

Hardy Souls Brave Cold Weather for Festival of Lights

Hundreds of hardy souls braved freezing winds and icy streets to attend the Chelsea Festival of Lights last Friday. Seasonal temperatures did not deter the many who enjoyed the activities of the night.

The evening started at the Pierce Park Pavilion with the fifth annual Chelsea Rotary Club Tree of Lights. Chelsea Fair Queen Betsy Soroosh threw the switch to illuminate the Tree of Lights.

Member of the Chelsea High school band and choir, led by Bill Gourley and Steve Hinz, provided the holiday music.

The ceremony was brought to a dramatic end by Santa Claus' triumphal entry on a horse-drawn wagon.

The Festival continued downtown at Santa's workshop in the UAW Hall where Santa heard children's wishes and handed out candy canes. Spectators crowded the Living Creche, sponsored by the Chelsea Area Ministerial Society. Music was provided by the St. Mary's Church guitar choir. Choir members from St. Mary's, St. Paul's, North Lake United Methodist and Chelsea Free Methodist churches provided holiday music on downtown street corners.

The hay wagon rides down South St., courtesy of the Rod Powers family, had passengers all evening.

The Hospitality Suite at the VFW Hall, featuring free hot chocolate and cookies, was sponsored by the Chelsea Downtown Merchants Association. "We've had lots of people stop in," said Association president Daleen Harper. "The hot chocolate is just what everybody needed tonight."

The evening wrapped up with the Community Sing at the Depot, led by B.J. and Kris Hohnke. Donna Palmer directed the First United Methodist church Bell Choir. The Chelsea Lionesses awarded gift certificates donated by Winans Jewelry and the Downtown Merchants Association for best decorated homes and businesses.

Accused Church Officials Face Preliminary Exams

Two North Sharon Baptist church officials accused of molesting children in the church's Sunday school bus ministry are scheduled to face preliminary examinations in Washtenaw and Jackson counties this week.

Assistant Pastor Timothy Lee Leonard and Deacon Mark Foeller, both of Jackson county, each face preliminary exams in Jackson county on Thursday.

According to police investigators, the men lured children from low-income communities into the Sunday school ministry. The alleged assaults took place on the bus and on school grounds.

A preliminary examination in Washtenaw county is scheduled for Leonard today (Wednesday) before 14th District Court Judge Thomas Shea. Leonard is charged with four counts of first-degree criminal sexual conduct and three counts of second-degree criminal sexual conduct.

The hearing, which will determine whether there is enough evidence for Leonard to stand trial, will probably be closed to the public. Assistant prosecutor David Lady has indicated he will ask that the hearing be closed because he believes a packed courtroom might intimidate the three children involved, one age three and two age four.

In Jackson county, Foeller faces four counts of first-degree criminal sexual conduct, one count of second-degree criminal sexual conduct, and three counts of third-degree criminal sexual conduct. Leonard faces two counts of first-degree criminal sexual conduct. All alleged victims are under the age of 13.

Jackson County District Judge Carlene Walz ruled last week that Thursday's examination will also be closed to the public while the youngest children testify. It will open when two older alleged victims are questioned.

On Dec. 16 Foeller is scheduled for a preliminary examination in Washtenaw county. He faces two counts of first degree criminal sexual conduct and two counts of second-degree criminal sexual conduct.

First-degree criminal sexual conduct, which includes penetration, carries a maximum life sentence in jail. Second-degree criminal sexual conduct, which includes fondling, carries a maximum 15-year penalty.

Consultant Gets Manager Job in City of Stanton

Chelsea Downtown Development Authority consultant Franz Mogdis will become the first manager of the City of Stanton on Jan. 4.

Stanton, 35 miles west of Mt. Pleasant, has about 2,000 residents.

Mogdis will continue as a consultant here because the new job is part-time.

"I'll be here one day a week to administer and run the DDA promotion and marketing activities," Mogdis said.

Mogdis has a cottage in the Stanton area. He said he happened to be looking in the local newspaper last summer and noticed a news item that noted the city might be looking for a manager. He applied and didn't hear anything until November.

Mogdis will manage seven full-time employees, several part-time employees, and a department of public works. The city also has a small police department. He'll also be involved in budgeting and in trying to bring industry to the area.

Mogdis' position in Stanton may also be a plus for the village. Stanton became a home rule city last November, a process which Chelsea may embark upon soon.

"One of the things I want to get into quickly is how the home rule city process went, and how they dealt with their surrounding townships," Mogdis said.

Man Charges Ex-Wife with Assault

A Chelsea man filed assault charges against his ex-wife after an incident at the man's apartment on Harrison St. on Sunday, Dec. 6.

The Portage Lake woman was at the apartment to pick up her daughter at about 9:20 p.m. When she was told to wait outside, she became angry, forced the door open, struck the man on the chin with her forearm then landed a fist in his left eye, police said.

When she slammed the door, a shelf fell off the wall inside the apartment.

BOB WALKER of Gregory sold his ceramic sculptures last Saturday at the Holiday Craft Show at Chelsea High school. Walker, who works at the Chelsea landfill, began his hobby in 1982 while recovering from a motorcycle accident. His sister brought him some clay and during his 140 days at home he got hooked on the craft. He specializes in statues, death masks, and figurines.

NORTH SCHOOL fifth graders had two Revolutionary War characters as substitute teachers last week. Mrs. Barbara Winslow and Mr. James Adams, a 15-year-old soldier, discussed their lifestyles in 1781. They brought homebound candy, read from books of the period, and played the popular games Button-Button and Hide The Thimble. And, as punishment, one student had to write a sentence 500 times.

4 Years Ago . . .

Wednesday, Dec. 14, 1988—Chelsea Bulldog wrestlers took a big step in their quest for a Southeastern Conference championship as they knocked off the Tecumseh Indians last Thursday in the first meet of the season, 48-17.

The 1988 firearms deer hunting season set a new harvest record of 289,000 deer, exceeding last year's take of 257,360. Poor weather during much of the season held the harvest below the expected take of 321,000 deer.

Former Chelsea resident Nancy K. Heller has been appointed trust development officer for the Trust Division of Comerica Bank-Detroit.

Senior point guard Kelley Scott was named the Most Valuable player on the Chelsea Bulldog girls basketball team. Junior center Allison Brown was named Most Improved player. Most Productive player went to senior forward Heather Nelbauer. Senior forward Jenni Smith won the Coach's Award from Rahn Rosentrafer. The honors were announced at Monday's banquet.

14 Years Ago . . .

Thursday, Dec. 21, 1978—Church lights will dim and voices will rise this Sunday and Monday as local churches and their congregations gather to celebrate the religious meaning of Christmas with songs, words and meditations on the solemn but joyous birthday.

Ninety-one hurried Christmas shoppers put their feet up and rolled back their sleeves last Saturday in support of the annual Chelsea Jaycee Blood Drive.

A change in the Chelsea Community Fair by-laws was one of several items discussed during the board of directors regular meeting, Thursday, Thursday, Dec. 14. Board members agreed to increase the number of members on the 1979 year board from 21 to 25. The nominations of Jim Dault, Mark Stapish and Dick Kolander were accepted for board membership.

Hearing Participants Fear Liquor Control Privatization
Despite ongoing opposition, the Liquor Control Commission is continuing with plans to privatize the liquor distribution system and to reduce the number of state liquor stores.

The final list of 12 stores slated to close should be approved by the end of the month and the shutdowns of the facilities, which act as wholesalers for liquor in Michigan, should begin in February, LCC Chair Maxine Perry said.

And although the store closings will mean as many as 475 fewer employees in the Department of Commerce, Perry said Governor John Engler believes "it will save money for the people."

"Privatization is going to happen. We have a mandate to proceed," Perry said.

But opponents, many now in the liquor business, say carrying out the plan will cost them, and the state, millions of dollars in revenue.

"We're satisfied with the distribution system in place today," said Ernest Swanton, spokesperson for the Saginaw Valley Licensed Beverage Distributors Association. "It's fair to small business as well as large business."

Swanton and others at the hearing feared the privatization plan will mean fewer warehouses, which will lead to higher transportation costs and larger minimum orders.

Several said they expect to see liquor prices rise 20 percent to 25 percent when the distribution system is privatized.

But costs could increase that much or more if distribution is not privatized.

ed because the state will have to raise taxes or cut back on services to cover its costs, said Commerce Director Art Ellis.

"The system is basically inefficient and expensive to run," Ellis said. "There are too many stores and they're not necessarily in the right places."

Ellis said income is increasing, but profit per employee was down 1 percent over 1990. Store and warehouse costs increased about 40 percent, he said.

But arguing that the system is still profitable, Ted Berndt, LCC District 1 manager questioned Ellis' contention that the privatization will mean a $25 million windfall for the state.

"The $25 million gain from the liquidation cannot happen," he said. "The state owes more in costs than it has in inventory."

Perry also said the $25 million figure was questionable. Most of the inventory in the state stores is purchased on credit and the suppliers are not paid until the liquor is sold to a retail store, she said.

Berndt said 1992 will be the first year the state's inventory will be worth more than the cost of running the system.

But the profit margin is decreasing and will eventually disappear, said Sid Ross, president of the General Wine Company of Detroit. Liquor sales have been dropping 2 percent to 3 percent annually for several years.

"That's a trend," he said. "Eventually there's going to be a convergence. The bottom line is jobs and revenue."

And higher prices under the present system will mean lower sales, he said.

Under a private distribution system with more marketing flexibility, sales would increase even with a price increase, he said, adding that sales of high-proof wine increased 400 percent despite 20 percent price increases when distribution was privatized.

Many opponents of the plan said revenues and sales are of little relevance when the state does not have the right to privatize the system.

"The governor of the state knows that they (the LCC) have the exclusive authority to handle the distribution of alcoholic liquor," said Thomas Healey, an attorney specializing in liquor law. "It is a contradiction that he would want them to abdicate their authority. It is inconceivable that he would want them to barter away their responsibility."

Whether legal or not, the LCC will continue working toward a privatization plan, Perry said, and is negotiating with three consultants and plans to hire one of them before the end of the year, with funding for the work not yet determined.

There is no deadline for having a liquidation plan in place for the distribution system, but Perry said the LCC had hoped to have the liquidation plan in place by the end of the year, although now has been slowed by the size of the project.

"This has never been done before in this country," she said. Other states that have privatized liquor control services have not provided the extent of services the LCC provides, she said.

The LCC also is still looking for money to pay for the consulting services, she said.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The word at the top of the agender at the country store Saturday night was transition, which all the fellows have been seeing in all the headlines lately. Democrat Clem Webster took a page from Republican Ed Doolittle's book and came to the session with a jacket pocket full of clippings dealing with the Administration that's going, the one that's coming, and their dealing with one another.

For starters, Clem allowed that after a month of cleaning up their train wreck, Republicans must feel like that fellow in Princeton, W. Va., that recent shot himself in the same foot three times the same day while cleaning his guns. Not much went right for the Grand Old Party this time around, was Clem's words, and every cure it tried was worse than the disease.

Ed was agreed that Washington's transmission is doing some serious gear shifting. You got to know several layers of new heads already are lined up for places at the trough, was Ed's words.

However, Ed went on, when you look at Congress and state and local Governments you see many of the same faces. Of the 14 states that set term limits in the election, Ed reported, all sent most of their Congressmen back, and most of em have served longer than the new term law allows. For sure, Ed went on, that fellow that runs them vote all the rascals out ads in the big papers every national election didn't get much return on his money this time, either. General speaking, Ed said, being in office still is the best way to get in office.

With all the upheaval, Ed said, it's probable a good thing most in Congress kept their jobs. They won't be spend crazy right off the bat, Ed declared, and it'll take time for the new ones to learn enough ropes to get up to spending speed. If we've broke the gridlock between the White House and Congress, Ed said, maybe we have built in some locks on spending bills, at least for the short run until a new hopper full can be wrote up.

Actual, Zeke Grubb said, except for the few in photo opportunities with the next President, our high priced Government is proving again that the only time the country is reasonable safe is when Congress is not in session. With the old and the new in their home districts, Zeke went on, this lull between Thanksgiving and New Year's is the closest we ever get to economy in Washington. Not only are honorables not passing spending bills, they're not on overseas vacations, otherwise called inspections and fact finding missions to find new ways to spend borrowed money.

As for office term limits, Zeke was of a mind bad outweighs good. Basic, he said, it would encourage the rascals to get all they can as quick as they can, and to spend their time using their office to line up jobs when they leave office. You don't have to look far, Zeke noted, to see former Congressmen with titles like second assistant to some assistant under secretary, and with limit on terms you're bound to see more.

Personal, I think Robert Goodwin give a new meaning to "political patronage." In August, Bush named him ambassador to New Zealand and he wouldn't go. I figure he saw the writing on the way, he wants the Paris post, or both.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Police Say Drunk Woman Assaulted Officer

A 34-year-old Chelsea woman may be charged with assaulting a Chelsea police officer in connection with an incident in a S. Main St. home last Friday, Dec. 4.

Police were called to a fight in progress at about 10:30 p.m. When they arrived they found a woman sitting on top of the accused in the dining room. They also found a man standing between the fight and another man holding a club in a raised position.

When police stopped the fight between the women, the woman on the bottom began "swinging wildly," at the woman who had been on top of her. When the officer grabbed her arm, the woman began punching the officer in the chest.

Police said the woman appeared to be intoxicated.

The four had been drinking at two different area bars during the evening before they decided to return home. A disagreement prompted the fight, police said.

Lima Extension Group Sees Assortment of Christmas Gift Ideas

The smell of turkey, falling colorful leaves, and a forsythia bush in bloom? Yes! This was Nov. 18, as Laurie Gravelyn carried her boxes of cards and gift ideas into the home of Mary Ann Burgess to offer the Lima Extension group an inspiring morning of "At Home With Dayspring." Crawling baby dolls, crowing roosters, Christmas pillows, picture frames, jewelry—all this and much more.

While members got settled Janet McCalla opened this presentation with a humorous reading from Dear Abby to summarize for the group what was learned from the State Convention class titled "Humor Helps."

With the help of Alice Gardner as co-host, a delicious Thanksgiving luncheon was enjoyed before going on with a "busy" business meeting. Barb Wing, as program director, reminded members of lessons to be taken at the Extension office. Also a rewritten installation of officer ceremony was presented to be considered by the group. This ceremony was written to include the new National and State name for Extension (F.C.E.) Association for Family and Community Education.

With the help of Adeline Stone, Janet McCalla will provide a Christmas luncheon at her home Dec. 16 at 11:30 a.m. Members are to come with a $3-$4 Christmas gift exchange and canned vegetables or $3 for Christmas Food Baskets. With careful shopping such as the week of Nov. 18, 10 cans of Del Monte vegetables could be purchased for $3.

FREY-BUCKHANNON: Mr. and Mrs. Gary P. Frey of Grass Lake have announced the engagement of their daughter, Sonya, to Ryan L. Buckhannon, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Buckhannon of Michigan Center. A May 1 wedding is planned. The future bride is a student at Jackson Community College and is employed at Jackson Country Club. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Widmayer of Manchester. The future bridegroom is working toward his doctorate in chiropractic medicine. He is employed at ADCO Products in Michigan Center.

Winans Jewelry is introducing a new series of four gold finished collectible ornaments that celebrate historical landmarks of the Village of Chelsea and the State of Michigan.

Beautifully designed and executed, the 24K gold finished ornaments of solid brass are manufactured in New England. A product made in America to celebrate local American history.

The series of four ornaments that commemorate the restoration of historic Chelsea may be seen and purchased at Winans Jewelry. Each ornament is individually boxed and includes a card that notes its historical significance. Priced at $12.00 to $15.00, the ornaments may be purchased individually or as a complete set. The artifacts make ideal Christmas gifts or a wonderful remembrance for a loved one or a friend who has moved out of the Chelsea area, and are also a fine choice to mark other gift-giving occasions.

The ornaments will be cherished for years to come as each new generation moves into relationship with the past heritage of those who have lived and worked in an earlier time, building and adding to a rich inheritance.

★ Life's Simple Bounties . . .

It didn't take much to make the Pilgrims feel thankful that first Thanksgiving—a few ripe pumpkins, a bushel of corn, a wild turkey that somehow wandered within rifle range. Historical rumor has it that when the Native Americans next door brought squash to the feast, the Pilgrims were actually grateful to receive it.

And (shudder) eat it. We aren't so easily impressed these days. Most Americans (not all, unfortunately, but most) will have plenty to eat on Thanksgiving—and every other day of the year, for that matter. Life's necessities—food, shelter, clothing and chocolate (not necessarily in that order)—are often taken for granted, leaving us to yearn only for those comparatively few things that we'd really, really, really like to have. Even though we don't really, really, really need them.

But every once in a while something happens to shake us up a bit and help us realize how much we are blessed. Often that "something" is tragic or, at the very least, controversial—like so many of the experiences we've had this year. And while no one would ever say that we are glad such things happen, we can at least be thankful for lessons learned and for renewed appreciation of life's simple bounties.

Take water, for example. Aside from oxygen, there is nothing more critical to human survival. Nor is there anything so readily accessible to us—most of the time. But for a few days this year hurricanes in Florida and Hawaii made clean, safe water a precious commodity in storm-ravaged areas. While some of the rest of us were thoughtlessly overwatering our lawns and gardens, hurricane victims were learning the hard way that water is a resource to be savored, not squandered. And something tells me that on some holiday tables this Thanksgiving, generously filled water glasses will be regarded with as much grateful appreciation as the turkey, the dressing or the candied yams.

Of course, many of those same people will be similarly appreciative of a sturdy, secure roof over their heads. And windows with glass in them. And uncluttered roadways. And privacy. And the delicious privilege of running down to the store to pick up a can of cranberry sauce at the last minute without having to worry about dealing with endless lines and incredible prices.

There's nothing quite like surviving a hurricane for making you truly thankful for simple, everyday stuff like that.

Peace should also be high on the list of things we have learned to cherish through difficult experience. Just two Thanksgivings ago, hundreds of thousands of our compatriots were encamped on the Saudi Arabian desert preparing for battle. During the past year we have watched, horrified, as hostile factions in what used to be Yugoslavia have terrorized and tortured each other in a brutal civil war. While it's true that we have experienced our share of hostility (the Los Angeles riots), terror (the recent wave of violent car-jackings) and brutality (the 1992 election campaign), our crises have been short-lived and our confrontations—outside of the political arena, that is—relatively few. Please don't misunderstand—I'm not saying we don't need to continue to pray for peace at home and abroad. Those prayers should continue as long as there is cruelty, inhumanity and intolerance between people. But at least this year we don't have to pray for a world poised on the brink of war. For that we can all be thankful.

More than anything else, however, I hope this Thanksgiving finds you a little more inclined to give thanks for, if not with, your family—wherever and whatever your family may be. We've heard a lot of discussion this year about families and "family values"—some of it hurtful and divisive, if not downright destructive. Nothing could be more inappropriate, because nothing should be more unifying than a family. While we may well disagree as to exactly what "family values" are, none of us can doubt the significance of our own families in our lives. Regardless of our family situation—whether we're old or young, single or married, childless or proudly parental—we are part of a family. And we belong.

And if that sounds like a line straight out of "Murphy Brown" . . . well, I'm sorry. It's been a long year, and you can't help but pick up an extra thought here and there.

Not to mention something else to be thankful for.

Leadership Training Offered

Chelsea area residents interested in improving their knowledge of community structures, the external factors shaping their development, and how they can influence change, will benefit from a NEW 10-week leadership training program co-sponsored by Washtenaw Community College and the Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce.

"Leadership Chelsea" will examine community structures, i.e. volunteer organizations and governmental units; educational and economic challenges; community action planning, and leadership styles.

The sessions begin Jan. 21 with Community Structure. This session provides a review of existing volunteer organizations, governmental units, health care and educational institutions, churches and community events. In subsequent weeks, on Thursdays from 4-6 p.m., participants will explore:

Quality of Life—Debate is one method participants in this session will use to identify major areas which directly impact the quality of life in the community.

Business and Industry—An overview of Chelsea's retail and industrial businesses will be provided.

Community Challenges—Participants will explore and debate community needs, challenges, priorities and opportunities.

Governmental Challenges—Economic development, village/township services, public safety, and intergovernmental co-operation will be discussed.

Coalition Building—Areas where working as a coalition is vital to community success, will be identified.

Leadership Skills, Part I—This session explores leadership styles, goal-setting, quality vs. quantity, volunteer recruitment, motivation and the "balance of commitment."

Leadership Skills, Part II—Participants will examine coalition building, purposeful abandonment, how to conduct meetings, fund-raising and life-long learning opportunities.

Community Action Plan—This session summarizes the major program points and accomplishments. Participants will also debate and develop the first drafts of a Community Action Plan to be presented to the Chelsea Village Council and other organizations.

Attendance at the orientation and at least eight of ten sessions is mandatory for graduation from the program. A graduation dinner will be held for all successful participants.

The cost for the 10-week series is $125. Eight scholarships sponsored by local businesses are also available for Chelsea area residents requiring financial assistance. The scholarships are made possible by generous donations from Chelsea Lumber Co., Great Lakes Bancorp, Society Bank and Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce. Each of these sponsors will be able to choose a scholarship recipient from their employees or members.

For more information, call the Chamber of Commerce at 475-1145 or Washtenaw Community College Western Regional Center at 475-5935.

*I heard the bells on Christmas Day

And wild and sweet
The words repeat
Of peace on earth, good-will to men.*

DONALD A. COLE, Owner/Director

—Longfellow, "Christmas Bells"

At this time of the year, we all hear tidings of "peace on earth"—in our songs, in Christmas cards, and so on. In many ways, we have come closer to peace on our planet. We have seen the end of the Cold War, have seen a larger role for the United Nations in settling disputes, and we have come to realize that it is just one planet that we all share. Still, true peace begins not in multinational committees, but within the hearts of individuals. Each of us can contribute to peace on earth by the way we interact with each other.

At the Cole Funeral Chapel, we try to bring calm to upsetting situations, and treat everybody with the dignity and respect that all people deserve.

Everybody's Science

* Chicken's Future Image: Even Leaner Meat

By Vince Mazzola
A diagnostic instrument for doctors is giving animal researchers an actual picture of the lean meat in chickens.

Chicken meat is relatively lean. Yet, U.S. Department of Agriculture scientists believe it can be made leaner.

One way is to breed broiler chickens that have more white breast meat and less tissue and abdominal fat, says animal scientist Aiva D. Mitchell of USDA's Agricultural Research Service.

That's where the diagnostic technique called magnetic resonance imaging, or MRI, is coming into play. Mitchell says poultry researchers can use MRI much the same way doctors do to get images of, for example, a patient's internal organs for a diagnosis.

What poultry researchers want to see are how much meat and fat are in a newly-bred chicken. They start by anesthetizing the bird to keep it motionless in the MRI chamber.

An image is displayed on a computer screen and printed on x-ray film. On the screen, the image can be moved around for an examination from all angles. And, a series of images can be translated into three-dimensional form on a color monitor.

"In poultry, the muscle and fat development can be followed from hatching until it reaches market weight," Mitchell says. At the end of the test, the bird will be unharmed and ready for breeding.

"Such images of a live chicken give researchers an instantaneous report on whether a new breed of bird will have leaner meat," he says. That's in contrast to the time spent now in breeding a chicken and then waiting while it grows.

BEHIND THE HEADLINES:

Term Limits Haunt Congress

Before members of the new Congress settle down in their seats, they'd better look over their shoulders at a political steamroller bearing down on them. It's a voter initiative called term limits.

By Philip C. Clarke

Measures that would for the first time restrict the length of time anyone could serve in Congress swept to victory in all 14 states where they were on the ballot last month. In most cases, the limit would be 12 years for senators and 6 years for representatives. Supporters have called the movement a necessary reform to prevent incumbents from entrenching themselves in lifetime careers in Congress—a kind of throw-the-bums-out effort, to use the common vernacular.

Despite the decisiveness of the vote in 14 states, however, critics served notice they will challenge the constitutionality of the measures in federal court. Hours after Florida voters approved term limits by a 3 to 1 margin, a suit was filed in U.S. District Court in Tallahassee, seeking to block the new rules. Similar challenges are expected elsewhere.

Congressional incumbents and their allies have cause for concern. Term limits passed thus far would subject about one-third of Congress to mandatory turnover—or 28 senators and 150 representatives. In addition to Florida, voters approved the measure in California, Ohio, Arizona, Arkansas, Nebraska, Michigan, Missouri, Montana, Oregon, North Dakota, South Dakota, Wyoming and Washington.

Since they control both Houses of Congress, Democrats not surprisingly oppose term limits. So does President-elect Clinton. George Bush, on the other hand, liked the idea, saying that since presidents are limited to two terms, why not Congress? It's a good question. How the courts will rule is another matter.

The liberal New York Times argues that the allure of term limits is "deceptive," and would only make matters worse. "In truth," said the Times, "it's the sure way to throw the baby out with the bath water, ejecting valuable, experienced leaders along with the ordinary and the bad. Moreover, it denies voters their fundamental freedom to vote for anyone they choose."

Making the constitutional case for term limits are Neil Gorsuch, a Marshall scholar at Oxford, and Michael Guzman, a legal assistant at the Iran-U.S. Claims Tribunal in the Hague. Writing in the Wall Street Journal, Gorsuch and Guzman argue that term limits are similar to other election regulations that courts already have approved. "Rather than flatly forbidding an incumbent from running again," they point out, "most of the voter initiatives would simply deny him or her a spot on the printed ballot for a period of four years. During this period an incumbent may wage a write-in candidacy and retain his or her seat if they win."

Furthermore, say Gorsuch and Guzman, the Constitution itself gives states clear authority to impose ballot-access rules. "Article I, Section IV specifically empowers states to regulate the 'manner' of congressional elections... term limits are thus motivated by the same ideals that motivated the Framers of the Constitution—a desire to secure broad political participation and promote a representative legislature."

The idea of term limits actually is older than the Republic itself. But it lay dormant until 1990 when Colorado voted 12-year limits on its senators and representatives. It gained momentum the same year in Oklahoma, where a referendum set limits for state legislators.

Nonetheless, Democratic House Speaker Tom Foley of Washington, who won re-election in November, has vowed to carry the case to the Supreme Court. Term limits, he insists, are unconstitutional, arguing:

"No, none, no legal case can be made for them." Maintaining the opposite view is Jim Coyne, a former Republican congressman from Pennsylvania who organized Americans To Limit Congressional Terms, one of many such grass-roots groups. Said Coyne: "We view this as an unstoppable tidal wave."

Farm Bureau Leader Notes Keys to Meeting World's Food Needs

America must unchain its agricultural productivity to meet the significant food demands facing the world in the next century, according to Jack Laurie, president of the Michigan Farm Bureau. In his annual address to members at the organization's 73rd annual meeting, the Tuscola county farmer told the nearly 700 farmers in attendance that "the agricultural industry can't afford to be a bound giant" that is limited by environmental constraints and lack of profits.

"There is a tremendous challenge ahead of us in agriculture," Laurie said. "Demand for food is going to continue to rise in tandem with world population increases and greater affluence in the formerly impoverished nations of Eastern Europe. By the year 2020, I believe farmers will have to more than double the production of food in order to feed more people demanding better nutrition than ever before."

But the Farm Bureau president said there are significant "chains" that have to be overcome if farmers are to successfully meet the challenge of boosting output. Those "chains" include environmental and land use limitations and the challenge of farming profitably.

"Environmental and land use constraints will make it more difficult to improve productivity in the future simply by adding inputs or putting more land into production. We are going to have to work smarter, not just harder, in order to be productive and 'environmentally correct' in a complex world. One of the ways we can do this is by applying the fruits of biotechnology and expanding our knowledge instead of cultivated land. The successful, profitable and environmentally-friendly farm operation of the 21st century is going to be knowledge and management intensive," Laurie said.

He noted that a knowledge-intensive agriculture needs a strong extension and research system, and he called upon the Michigan State University Board of Trustees to hire a new president who vigorously supports the land grant philosophy. "MSU needs to continue to be a land grant leader in the future so that farmers, and all Michigan citizens, will be able to cope with an increasingly interrelated and competitive world economy," he said.

A factor vital to permitting farmers to boost the profit potential of agriculture, said Laurie, is having the proper fiscal and monetary policy from the federal government, to enhance economic growth. Crucial to that policy is gaining control of government expenditures. "I'm concerned that there was a lot of talk during Gov. Clinton's campaign about increasing taxes and expanding regulations. That's not the way to produce a growing economy. Likewise, despite Gov. Clinton's campaign image as a 'new' Democrat, he will come into office owing a lot of favors to traditional Democratic constituencies. His goal of controlling expenditures and the deficit undoubtedly will collide with the liberal social programs devised by Congress. Does he have the backbone to stand up to the demands of big-spending congressmen?" asked Laurie.

Local Teachers Named To 'Who's Who Among America's Teachers'

Several teachers in Dexter, Chelsea, Grass Lake, Manchester and Pinckney high schools were named to the second edition of "Who's Who Among America's Teachers."

Students listed in "Who's Who Among America High School Students" and "The National Dean's List" selected the honored teachers.

In Dexter, Valorie Berryman, David Dirlam and James Hollister, all Wylie Middle school teachers were selected.

In Chelsea, Michael Bohlender, Paul Terpstra and Cathy Visek of Chelsea High school; Susan Craig of Beach Middle school; Suzanne DeVries of North Elementary school; and Theresa Curtis of Chelsea schools were selected.

In Grass Lake, Bradford Tompkins and Clifford Whitenburg of N. Sharon Christian school were selected.

In Manchester, Yvonne Henry of Klager Elementary school was selected.

In Pinckney, Jeffrey Brown of Pinckney High school; Donald Graham of Pinckney Elementary school, Kathlenn Haskins of Pinckney Middle School; and Eric Ray of Pinckney Community schools were selected.

Paul Krouse, publisher of the List, said "There is no greater honor teachers can receive than to be recognized by former students for their excellence and dedication. In this publication we clearly have the best teachers in America selected by the best students."

The students nominated teachers who made a difference in their lives by helping to shape values, inspire interests in a particular subject or challenged them to strive for excellence.

Where do adolescents get information about nutrition? A recent survey found that 95 percent of the young people get the information from their school. But only 58 percent say the information is very useful.

NON-EMERGENCY TRANSPORTATION SERVICES, a new company started by two former Chelsea Milling Co. employees, has opened in Jackson. Their custom van meets all specifications of the Americans With Disabilities Act, the owners say. From left are Jerry Pacholek, Scott Barnett, and Julie Barnett.

Business Addresses Transportation Needs of Handicapped, Disabled

A new transportation company aimed at handicapped people and others with special needs has opened in Jackson.

Scott and Julie Barnett, former long-time employees of the Chelsea Milling Co., and Julie's brother, Jerry Pacholek, have started Non-Emergency Transportation Services of Michigan, Inc. (NETS).

The trio has customized a Ford van to meet all requirements of the new Americans With Disabilities Act, which means it has an approved wheelchair lift and all required restraints.

In addition, the van is capable of carrying a stretcher as the service is described as a "low-cost alternative to an ambulance for non-emergency transportation."

"We've heard stories about people who needed to go to the hospital in Ann Arbor then got stuck with a huge bill because they didn't have any choice but to use an ambulance," Julie said.

"With an ambulance, you pay for two paramedics and a lot of specialized equipment you won't use."

The van is also equipped with a number of creature comforts, including television sets and a stereo system. It even has a hook-up for video games. The idea is also to provide a way for handicapped people to travel in comfort, whether to a hospital, doctor's appointment, or a movie theater.

Pacholek brought the idea for the business from his previous home in Ft. Myers, Fla., which has a large senior citizen population. Florida, in general, has many similar businesses, but Pacholek wanted to improve on them. That's why the van was modified to have plenty of head room, among other changes.

NETS charges $1.10 per mile plus a departure fee. They will travel any distance and will wait during appointments and other stops. A second van is on order. The owners eventually hope to have an entire fleet.

CAP Searching for Past Members

By Kathy Finger

A new theatre season is getting under way for the Chelsea Area Players, a local non-profit community theatre group. The first production of 1993 will be a 20th Anniversary "RE-CAP" of the 23 musical productions which CAP has brought to Chelsea and the surrounding communities over the years. This production is scheduled for March 11-12-13.

Efforts to reach and retrieve as many past members, cast and crew to return and work with us on this production is well under way, but help is still needed. If family or friends know the whereabouts of the following people, please drop us a note or get in touch with them and have them drop us a note. We really want to hear from them before January: Howard Salyer (Oklahoma, Hello Dolly, Good Man Charlie Brown), Mary Ann Nemeth (Hello Dolly, Mame), Doug Foreman (Bells are Ringing), Tom Schill (Fantastics), Keith Pfeifle (Fantastics, Music Man, Good Man Charlie Brown), David Andrews (Camelot), Susan Filipiak (42nd Street), Chris Alber (Music Man, Sound of Music, Hello Dolly, Fantastics), Kathy Schneider (The King & I), Lori VanRiper (Bells are Ringing), and Robert Mulvihill (Music Man).

We would also like to reach the members of the original quartet from "You're a Good Man Charlie Brown," but we have been unable to locate a program in order to identify all of these people. If you have a program we could borrow to copy please let us know!

In addition, we are still looking for a few people to volunteer their time to help choreograph one or more numbers from the show. If you have interest in working in this area and have a little bit (or a lot) of time you'd like to give, please contact one of our producers: Shelly Wheaton, 475-9767, or Cindy Gaken, 475-2898.

The songs which will comprise the retrospective through the many CAP musicals have been chosen and will be presented in a Broadway type review for your entertainment. You will hear such favorites as "With a Little Bit of Luck" from "My Fair Lady," "Getting To Know You" from "The King and I," "Tradition" from "Fiddler on the Roof," "If They Could See Me Now" from Sweet Charity, "Tomorrow" from "Annie," "Nothing Like a Dame" from "South Pacific," and "So Long, Farewell" from "The Sound of Music," just to name a few.

The show is being directed by Jan Koengeter, and the cast is expected to be very large, including an ensemble of many children. If you would like to try out for this event, auditions are scheduled for Jan. 23 and 24 at Beach Middle school. If you would prefer to donate your time to helping out behind the scenes, drop us a note and let us know where your interests are and how much time you'd like to share with us. Even an hour or part of a single day will help CAP build a wonderful community production we can all be proud of.

At this time of year we'd like to remind you that we are a small non-profit organization who functions primarily upon the generous donations from our community and annual membership fees. We hope you will remember us with a tax deductible gift in 1992, to support our upcoming season which consists of the RE-CAP Production in March, Theatre Workshop in June, a High School Scholarship in June, and Gypsy in July 1993.

Let's Go Bulldogs!

Deep Wrestling Team Could Challenge for League Championship

"It could be kind of a confusing year," is the way coach Kerry Kargel described the prospects for his Chelsea Bulldogs wrestling team this season.

Confusing because the coach may not have the same line-up twice this season. He has more than one experienced, quality wrestler in virtually all 13 weight classes, and no clear-cut favorite in several.

"The strength of our team should be our depth," Kargel said.

"Many of our matches are going to be close in the wrestle-offs and that's good. Everybody has someone to challenge him and they'll have to stay on their toes."

However, for the first time in many years, it's going to be tough for a freshman to crack the starting line-up. That's partly due to the quality of the returning wrestlers. But it's also due to the fact that more than one-third of the freshmen check in at more than 185 pounds. Usually, stronger, more experienced wrestlers dominate the upper weights.

Last year's Most Improved wrestler, senior Kevin McCalla, is the captain of this year's team and a likely starter at 152. He was a regional qualifier last year and Kargel will look to him to be one of the team's consistent scorers.

Junior Tim Wescott, at 119, and senior Ian Dyer at 145 should also provide plenty of scoring for the Bulldogs. Kargel said those two, along with McCalla, are the strongest and most skilled wrestlers on the team.

Kargel will also depend on senior Todd Watson at 125, the guy he calls "the sleeper on the team."

"I saw a lot of good things from him at the end of last season and he nearly beat a state qualifier," Kargel said.

Kargel has 48 kids out this season, an usually high number. By mid-season he expects 35 will still be wrestling. He generally considers 28 kids to be a big team.

The Southeastern Conference should be strong this year, Kargel said, with the Pinckney Pirates as the pre-season favorite.

"They have almost all seniors in their line-up," he said.

Kargel expects that Chelsea, Saline and Dexter will also push the Pirates. "I think everyone in the league is going to take a loss," Kargel said.

"The championship will probably come down to the league meet."

The Bulldogs open their season this Saturday at the Haslett Invitational.

ROGER COX, assistant football coach at Chelsea High school for the last three years, has been named one of four Assistant Coaches of the Year by the Michigan High School Football Coaches Association. Cox, a teacher at Beach Middle school, came to Chelsea from Lincoln High school, where he had been head coach for nearly a decade. Cox is the team's defensive co-ordinator. "A lot of the time assistant coaches do a tremendous amount of work and get little recognition for it," said Chelsea athletic director Wayne Welton. "This is a nice honor for Roger."

If it seemed like you ate a lot of holiday turkey, you probably did. Per capita consumption of turkey is 18 pounds a person, compared to only eight pounds a person in 1970.

8th Grade Cagers Lose to Lincoln

Beach Middle school eighth grade basketball team lost to the Lincoln Railsplitters last week, 40-31.

Chelsea was down 17-16 at half-time but was outscored 14-8 in the third quarter.

"We're starting to score more points but are still not getting enough shots at the basket," said Chelsea coach Jim Tallman.

"With the height advantage most teams hold over us, we usually get out-rebounded. However, great hustle and aggressiveness on defense kept us in this ballgame until the fourth quarter when Lincoln's height advantage allowed them to keep us from getting a second or third shot at the basket."

Tallman said that Jason Sprawka turned in another fine performance both offensively and on the boards and Tim Lawrence, Justin Strong, and Casey Wescott played well defensively.

"Brian Bloomensaat, Jake Walker, Casey Wescott, and Lance Ching have all showed improvement in their defensive skills," Tallman said.

Chelsea scorers included Sprawka 8, Jake Walker 4, Justin Strong 4, Lawrence 4, Paul Bragalone 4, Jeff Hughes 2, Dusty White 2, Wescott 2, Jeremy Peace 2, and Josh Fraker 1.

7th Grade Cagers Lose to 'Splitters

Beach Middle school seventh grade basketball team lost to the Lincoln Railsplitters last week, 45-35.

"We finally played a decent first half but then got out-played the second half, especially defensively," said Chelsea coach Jon Schaffner.

Chelsea statistics are as follows. Points: Don Reilly 13, Justin Kivi 12, Tom Holdsworth 4, Adam Morse 2, Matt Adams 2, Nathan Menge 2.

Rebounds: Adams 8, Reilly 6, Joe Barkman 6, Kivi 3. Assists: Kivi 5.

Thiel, Schmid Are Swim Team MVPs

Senior co-captains Melissa Thiel and Sandy Schmid were named Most Valuable on the Chelsea Bulldogs girls swimming and diving team. The announcement was made at the team's banquet last week at the Chelsea Depot.

Senior Kristi Ostling was named the recipient of the Deanna Zangara Memorial Award.

Most Improved honors went to freshman diver Hilary Kress.

Junior Nona Giebel received the Coach's Award.

Four-year letter awards went to Schmid and Thiel.

Juniors Erica Street and Jennifer Schulz received three-year varsity awards.

Two-year awards went to sophomores Betsy Schunck, Carey

Schiller, and Christie Lonskey.

Ostling, Giebel, and sophomore Angie Wilson received their first-year awards, as did freshmen Erin Baird, Kelly Bowers, Stephanie Wesolowski, Cooper Deerwester, Michelle Dymond, and Erin Armstrong.

Junior varsity letters were given to junior Amy Hinshaw, sophomore Carrie Smith, and freshmen Hilary Smith and Kress.

While most cuts and scrapes can be remedied at home, all puncture wounds should receive medical attention.

★ Treating Childhood Injuries—Part 2 . . .

Here are more tips from the University of Michigan Medical Center for treating some common childhood injuries.

• Eye injury. The largest number of eye injuries occur in children between ages 11 and 15, with the most common accidents involving balls, sticks and fists. If an eye injury occurs, do not press on the injured eye or apply any medication. If something gets blown into the eye, keep the child from rubbing the eye to prevent scratching the cornea. Try to flush the eye with tap water—not eye drops or medications. If the condition doesn't improve within a few hours and redness, tearing or pain persists, seek medical help.

• Tooth injury. If a baby tooth gets knocked out, apply gauze to the bleeding socket with firm pressure until the bleeding stops. The child should then rinse his mouth. If a permanent tooth is knocked out, fast action may save the tooth. A tooth must be replanted within 30 minutes for the best prognosis. If the child is able, have him hold the tooth in place. Otherwise, transport the tooth in a glass of milk.

• Severe burns. Any severe burn requires immediate attention. Remove any constricting clothing from the burned area—especially clothing that has been soaked in hot oil or boiling water. However, do not remove any clothing that appears to be stuck to the burn. If possible, immerse the burned area in cold water for at least 10 minutes. If a large area is involved, cover with a sheet or towel that has been soaked in cold water. Lightly bandage the burned area with a clean, dry dressing. Do not dress the burn with anything fluffy, such as cotton, and do not apply any lotions or ointments.

• Cuts, abrasions and puncture wounds. If a child is cut, stop the bleeding by applying direct pressure and elevating the area. But if you suspect a fracture, don't elevate the injured area; just clean it with soap and water, bandage it and seek medical help.

When does a child need stitches? A good rule of thumb is if the wound stays closed with movement after bandaging, it may not need stitches. But if it is a facial cut, a stitch or two may be preferred to prevent future scarring.

As with cuts, abrasions must be cleaned thoroughly with soap and water to prevent infection. After cleaning, cover the area and observe for any redness, swelling or drainage that may indicate infection. To remove a bandage, moistening it first with hydrogen peroxide or water may lessen sticking.

While most cuts and scrapes can be remedied at home, all puncture wounds should receive medical attention.

County Deputies Report Variety of Local Incidents

Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputies investigated a number of incidents, Nov. 26-Dec. 2, in Dexter, Scio township and Chelsea.

On Nov. 26, an assault and battery was reported in the 19000 block of Waterloo Rd., Lyndon township. A 26-year-old man was attacked by a woman's soon-to-be ex-husband. The man and the woman were in the basement of her home when they heard a vehicle pull in the driveway. A loud bang echoed from the door and the woman's 36-year-old husband entered after kicking the door in. He was yelling obscenities and attacked the younger man, kicking and punching him in the face and ribs. The woman called 911 and informed her husband the police were on their way. The suspect left before deputies arrived.

On Nov. 27, a Varsity Ford employee was arrested after attempting to flee and elude county deputies on Scio Church Rd. The 19-year-old Manchester man was picked-up on radar traveling at 74 mph in his vehicle. A deputy turned on emergency equipment to pull him over, but the man in the Mustang accelerated. After a short pursuit, the deputy felt it was too dangerous to chase him. He also recognized the car and driver from Varsity Ford. The man was later arrested at the dealership.

Damage to property was reported on Joy Rd. near Mast Rd., Dexter. A 35-year-old Dexter woman witnessed a vehicle lose control on a curve, striking two mailboxes and a tree. The driver continued driving away.

On Nov. 28, open intoxication in a motor vehicle was found in a 1985 Ford Mustang driven by an Ypsilanti man on eastbound I-94 near Zeeb Rd., Scio township. Initially the man said he was not the driver of the car. He changed his story three more times before admitting he was the driver. He was arrested and taken to Washtenaw county jail.

A 58-year-old Dexter man reported damage to his mailbox in the 3400 block of Woodlea Rd. near Wagner Rd., Scio township. His mailbox was knocked off its post and stomped on, causing $150 in damages. A deputy noted it was one among six mailboxes destroyed in the area.

On Nov. 29, a malicious destruction of property was reported in Scio Farms Estates. A Chevy Nova sustained damage to its windshield, totaling $200. Deputies reported it appeared to be hit with a fist. The incident happened overnight when the victim parked his vehicle in the overflow section of parking in the mobile home park.

A threats complaint was investigated in the 6900 block of Jackson Rd., Scio township. A pop bottle with a cloth type wick device and a paper note taped to it threatened a local distributor. It was found at a party store and confiscated as evidence. Deputies suspect it is related to a labor dispute.

On Nov. 30, a citizen assist was reported in the 8600 block of Jackson Rd., Dexter. A 36-year-old Dexter woman helped deputies discard suspected marijuana down a toilet after she found it in her home. She called the sheriff's department after she found the suspected substance in an empty beer stein. The substance was in a plastic bag. A deputy told the woman that charges could not be pressed because the drugs couldn't be linked to her husband.

A stolen vehicle was recovered in the Bush Rd. area near McClure Rd., Chelsea. A 1991 black Ford Ranger was found after a citizen called in to report a suspicious vehicle on the side of the road. The vehicle was reported stolen from the Novi area. When Washtenaw county deputies found it the radio was missing and the dash board was damaged.

On Dec. 1, a 26-year-old Ypsilanti man was arrested for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor. Deputies were dispatched to a personal injury accident on Island Lake Rd. near Dexter-Pinckney Rd., Dexter. Witnesses reported the Ypsilanti man swerved his car into a passing lane and ran a stop sign at the intersection of both roads. He continued to enter the intersection, colliding with a vehicle heading east-bound on Island Lake Rd. The suspect claimed he had a problem with his brakes and he swerved to avoid hitting the vehicle at the stop sign. The suspect and four others were transported to the hospital for injuries. Beer cans were found in the suspect's vehicle and he agreed to a blood/alcohol test at the hospital.

On Dec. 2, a larceny from an automobile occurred in Scio Farms Estates. A 26-year-old woman reported $100 in damages to her vehicle and a radio worth $300 stolen.

An unlikely alliance is blossoming between Colorado farmers and ranchers and New York City, where a firm ships 100 tons of sludge a day from New York's sewage treatment system to be applied to wheat fields and rangeland in southeastern Colorado. The nutrient-rich organic material, which is treated and disinfected for harmful bacteria, is provided free to farmers who use special trucks to haul it from railcars and apply it to their fields.

THE FELDKAMP SISTERS, Sarah Jo, left, and Jodi, right, competed in the 1992 Michigan Make It Yourself With Wool Contest Nov. 14 in Lansing. Sarah Jo constructed a blue tweed jacket and slacks of 100 percent Pendleton wool and placed fourth in the junior division. She is 15 and a sophomore at Manchester High school. Jodi, 12, a seventh grader at Manchester Middle school, made a fully lined Pendleton wool plaid parka and solid, fully lined green split skirt and placed third in the junior division. They are the daughters of Art and Elaine Feldkamp.

Cischke Named Chair Of Hospital Board

Susan M. Cischke, executive engineer of the Chrysler Proving Grounds Operations, was elected to a one-year term as chairman of the Board of Trustees of Chelsea Community Hospital at its November meeting.

Cischke was named executive engineer in February of 1989. In this role with Chrysler, she is responsible for testing, evaluation and assisting in the development of prototype and production vehicles. Her responsibilities also include planning, designing and constructing proving grounds roads and maintaining Chrysler's three test facilities in Arizona and Minnesota, in addition to the main Proving Grounds in Chelsea.

A graduate of Oakland University, Cischke has Master's degrees in both mechanical engineering and professional development in management from the University of Michigan. She joined the Chrysler Corp. in 1976 and prior to her current position was chief engineer of environmental services.

Also elected as officers of the Board of Trustees were C. Wendell Dunbar, senior vice-president, McKinley Associates, vice-president; and Rosanne C. Bloomer, branch manager, Farm Credit Services of Southeastern Michigan, secretary. Re-elected treasurer of the board was John P. Hansen, Ph.D., superintendent of the Dexter Community Schools.

Learn To Make Ornaments Using Recycled Materials

"Have a Recycled Christmas!" will be the topic of a program at the Eddy Geology Center this Saturday, Dec. 12 at 1 p.m.

Teacher Mary Lou Bower and staff interpreter Michelle Moffatt will help participants make Christmas ornaments from recycled materials.

Participants should register for the program by tomorrow (Thursday, Dec. 10) by calling the center at 475-3170.

The program is free of charge. However, a state motor vehicle permit is required to enter the park.

Christian D. Smith Promoted in Air Force

Christian D. Smith has been promoted in the U.S. Air Force to the rank of airman.

Smith, an apprentice imagery production specialist, is the son of Hank and Linda Smith of 13484 North Territorial Rd., Gregory.

His wife, Kimberly, is the daughter of Richard R. Wheeler of 5430 Pineview Dr., Ypsilanti, and Velma Markins of 3836 North Territorial Rd., Whitmore Lake.

The airman is a 1986 graduate of Chelsea High school.

Michigan State University has received a green light to begin building the National Food Safety and Toxicology Center in East Lansing. The center, expected to be finished in 1996, will focus on research and teaching to help the food industry insure the safety of all food products.

We don't care if you paint your hair blue, rip the sleeves off your shirt or pierce your ear.
 But don't smoke just to be like your friends. Or to be different from your friends. Or to be anything at all. Because with everything we know about cigarettes today, there's only one thing you'll be if you start smoking now. And that's sorry. Sorry you can't get up in the morning without coughing your lungs out. Sorry you can't climb a single flight of stairs without getting winded. Sorry that every time you light one up, your risk of heart disease goes up. If you're already a smoker, take some time to stop and think it all the way through. Right now, it's your decision. In the long run, it's your life.

Q. Would you comment on Telefonos de Mexico, S.A. (Telmex). I bought some awhile back at the suggestion of a friend. It has gone up and then backed off from its high. How do you get reliable information on a stock from another country?

A. Telefonos de Mexico provides all domestic and international fixed link and cellular mobile telephone services in Mexico. It is this fast growing country's third largest company and the largest that is publicly traded. The company's American Depository Receipts (ADRs) are listed and traded on the New York Stock Exchange. Many ADRs of foreign companies are listed on U.S. stock exchanges or traded in the over-the-counter market. Reliable information is readily available from a number of sources, usually in your public library or at a full service broker. Look for Value Line which provides reports on 44 foreign companies in addition to a number of Canadian ones. Also, look for Standard & Poor's which produces reports on many foreign companies whose ADRs are traded in the U.S. Also, in the library ask for Moody's Investment Manual. It provides basic information on many companies, including foreign ADRs. Some foreign companies translate their reports to share holders into English and the U.S. accounting system. Many have U.S.-based shareholder information offices. Be aware there is always a currency risk. Since the companies keep their books in their home country currency, any variation in value between the U.S. dollar and the foreign currency can have a favorable or unfavorable effect on reported profits. Of course, a number of U.S. companies have 50% or more of their business overseas, so they also have a currency risk.

Chinese American Hotel Tries To Make Thanksgiving Like Home

By Mary Ellen Myning

Dear Friends,
Well another couple of weeks have passed since I wrote you and as usual, it has not been business as usual.

For Thanksgiving the foreign teachers stormed a local western hotel eager for turkey and the trimmings. The price was high—70 yuan (Chinese word for dollar) each, but we knew it would be worth every penny if we could just smell pumpkin pie, gorge on turkey and dressing, feast on salads.

I began to suspect things might not be perfect when I trotted over to the salad bar. Sweet pickles and dill were lumped into the same container, olives jauntily sat atop a pineapple and tuna mixture, the dressing was bright pink—oh well, we loaded up on tomatoes, rolls, pear halves. After all, we reasoned at the table, you have to be flexible, they ARE trying to get it right. And nobody can screw up turkey, right?

One of the teachers, David, perhaps the smartest of our group, ordered a very large glass of alcohol—just in case, he murmured. In case of what, I wondered. Meanwhile, another teacher, Joyce, was busily stuffing her pockets with sugars, matches, and butter packets. She, no fool, knew how hard it is to get these things here. And when they are available, they are expensive. Let me explain. The Chinese matches are so slim as to be almost non-existent (we DO have a tree shortage over here), thus striking one of these little babies is difficult. In addition, the "FDA" and what they stand for "does" not have a Chinese equivalent; therefore, when you buy a bag of sugar you will often find many impurities in it. So Joyce's hunting and gather skills are admired by us all.

But to return to the Thanksgiving dinner, when I approached the main course tables I was greeted with bloody turkey, oily corn fritters (minus the corn), and, what we thought were hamburger patties, but which in fact turned out to be patties of dressing where the main ingredient was liver. Cheerfully, the short, plump, positively bubbling with good humor chef sliced off some red turkey from one of the six turkey legs on his platter and piled it on my plate. Hurriedly I returned to the table where I ordered still more rolls and made the decision that sweet-pickles DO go with dill. It was either that or turn into Ramboette and attack the chef with my chopsticks.

Later, so that the evening would not be a total loss, we marched into the bar where we listened to a young Philippine couple sing old Karen Carpenter tunes, while a group of young Frenchmen hooted and tried to sing "modern" songs from France.

By 11:00 we were exhausted from so much "thrilling fun" and headed home, only to find we were locked out of the building. After much yelling and banging on the doors, the old man, our stalwart night clerk, roused himself from his slumber and scolded us for being unthoughtful and wild. Thus ended my second Thanksgiving in China.

Lest you feel sorry for me, it must be added that Joyce went to her room and returned to my room with 5 Snickers, David went to his room and came back with a loaf of bread and a can of Pringles his mom had sent and I contributed a jar of Cheese Whiz. We ate, laughed, then went to our respective rooms to call home and wish our families a wonderful holiday.

One last note, modern fiction (paperbacks), up-to-date cassette tapes, American stamps are all much sought after over here by the students (and teachers). If any of you would like to send them to me I would be glad to pass them around to eager and anxious students—heck, I am so desperate I even wrote my Congressmen asking them for postcards of the capitol.

The students here are gallant, hard-working, in love with America and all it stands for, and they keep the dream alive. But we have so little to work with here, most of our textbooks are from the 60's and 70's. The students can read Twain and Poe, but have never heard of Faulkner, Frost, Steinbeck. Mysteries, mild romances, science fiction, fantasy, all are alien to them. I have students who have never ridden in a car, never dialed a phone—why, they don't even know the Rolling Stones! Therefore, if possible, we all would be grateful for even the smallest thing you could do. Thank you.

CHS Student Council To Sponsor Dance Dec. 18

Chelsea High School Student Council will sponsor a dance in the cafeteria following the Friday, Dec. 18 varsity home basketball game against the Lincoln Rallsplitters.

Cost is $3 per person and $5 per couple. The dance will end at 11:30 p.m.

Other student council activities this winter include a Fun Night at Chelsea Lanes for high school students, t-shirt sales at basketball games, and projects to improve the school's appearance.

The council also plans to purchase a large sign for the front of the high school.

There's a better place for you.

ED SUROVELL ED SUROVELL, President

At Surovell, we've seen people from many backgrounds—from home-makers to engineers—become highly successful Realtors. These people have three things in common: motivation, integrity and a solid work ethic.

Many of our top performers began their real estate careers with us. Some joined us from other agencies.

Why did they choose the Edward Surovell Company? Because we give our associates what they need most: training, management support, and an unparalleled reputation for professionalism and honesty.

If you're thinking about a career change, think about real estate. If you want to make it a change for the better, think Surovell.

Card of Thanks 19

THANK YOU
 Faith in Action/Chelsea Social Services would like to thank the Ann Arbor Magic Club and their talented magicians for the wonderful and successful Magic of Giving VII Show. We also would like to thank the many people who donated their time and gave donations to create a family type activity for the holiday season: Thompson Pizka, Harper Shoe Co., Cottage Inn, Chelsea Schools, FIA/CSS Board Members and FIA/CSS Volunteers, Federal Screw Works, H & R Block, Faist-Morrow, Jeff Daniels, Chelsea State Bank, Foxy Lady, Palmer Motors, Roberts Paint & Body.

GERALDINE (JERI) SIEGRIST

We wish to thank all of our kind friends and neighbors for their many acts of kindness and expressions of sympathy and condolences and for their beautiful floral offerings. We especially want to thank Rosie Young and Chelsea Community Hospital staff at the time of the loss of our dearly beloved Mother.

Her daughters and families
 Barbara Smith
 Bernita Neeley
 Pat Robards.

THANK YOU

Chelsea Cub Scout Packs 436 and 456 would like to gratefully acknowledge the ongoing support of Polly's Market, Great Lakes Bancorp, and Arent Tree Farms during their annual Christmas Tree Sale. The money raised directly supports Chelsea Cub Scout activities. The scouts are also very thankful for the support of many members of the community who purchase these trees.

Memoriam 20

BOB FITZSIMMONS

In loving memory of Bob Fitzsimmons who passed away one year ago, Dec. 14, 1991. Sadly missed by his wife Pearl and daughters, Jan and family, and Debbie and family.

ANNA F. OESTERLE

Who left this world on December 18th, 5 years ago. She was a very devoted and caring wife and mother. She had a mild manner, a consideration for others, and she lived a very true Christian life. With all these good qualities I know that she is where she yearned to be when she passed on, beside her Beloved Savior.

Her devoted and faithful husband, Roy.

IN THE DORMITORY this past weekend during their trip to the Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum are Chelsea's fourth grade Junior Girl Scouts and their leaders.

Girl Scouts Stay Over At Greenfield Village

Chelsea's fourth grade Junior Girl Scouts went to the "Great American Museum Experience" overnight program at Greenfield Village/Henry Ford Museum Dec. 5-6.

Saturday featured touring Greenfield Village on a troop-by-troop basis. The girls began by enjoying sack lunches from home in the Swanee Park restaurant. While it was cold and blustery outside, relief was easy to find in the Town Hall listening to Christmas Carolers, the Tinsmith Shop to watch ornaments being made, McDonald's Son's Machine Shop doing crafts, pottery shop watching candlesticks being made, a printing demonstration, and Glassblowing, among many other things.

After a complete spaghetti dinner, the girls moved into an activity program. It featured an opportunity to make an audio tape recording of a story using sound effects, a dance class where they learned the Virginia Reel, the Charleston and the Hand Jive, and a chance to swim in the Village's pool.

The dormitory featured bunk beds for the group which were enthusiastically received by the girls.

Sunday morning's breakfast included cinnamon doughnuts home-made in the Village. The troops broke up into smaller groups to tour the Henry Ford Museum. They were able to view the newly opened "Made in America" exhibit, in addition to having special Christmas time crafts to make here as well.

The group was made up of Troop 47's Nicole Blair, Stefani Gaul, Mary Gauthier, Anne-Marie Isaaz, Molly McTaggart, Tara Neidermeier, Teya Schoening, Erica Sprinkle, Laura

+ AREA DEATHS +

Patricia Anne Baldwin John Desmond, Jr.

Chelsea
Patricia Anne Baldwin of Chelsea, age 62, died unexpectedly at her home Nov. 28, 1992. She was born July 24, 1930 in Detroit, the daughter of Walter and Evangeline (Vanoth) Mohrlock.

Mrs. Baldwin had been a resident of Chelsea since 1935 and was a former school teacher in Chelsea. She was a member of the Chelsea-Manchester Order of the Eastern Star and the First United Methodist church.

Surviving is her son, David R. Baldwin of Orlando, Fla., and her mother, Evangeline T. (Bobby) Mohrlock of Leesburg, Fla.

She was preceded in death by her father, Walter Mohrlock, on Jan. 13, 1986.

Private family services were held. Burial was in Oak Grove Cemetery, Chelsea.

Expressions of sympathy may be made to the McKune Memorial Library.

Arrangements were by the Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home.

More and more farmers are looking at using shredded newsprint as bedding for livestock instead of straw or sawdust. The newsprint is much cheaper and does a better job soaking up moisture.

Menominee (Formerly of Ann Arbor)
John Desmond, Jr., 78, of Menominee, formerly of Ann Arbor, died Friday, Dec. 4 at BaySide Medical Center in Marinette, Wis.

He was born Aug. 26, 1918 in Ann Arbor, the son of John and Elma (Eschelbach) Desmond.

Survivors include his sister, Elma Gage of Chelsea, and two nephews.

Mr. Desmond lived for a short time at Blind Lake.

Funeral services and burial were held Tuesday in Menominee.

A daughter, Jordan Michelle, Nov. 4, at Northwest Medical Hospital, Houston, Tex., to Michael and Tracy McCulloch of Conroe, Tex. She has a five-year-old brother, Jory. Grandparents are Alan and Ann LeVan and Leroy and Joy McCulloch, all of Willis, Tex. Great-grandparents are Erma Worden of Napoleon and the late Zella LeVan. Great-great-grandmother is Claudia Green of Spring Arbor Manor.

ROD POWERS FAMILY of Chelsea provided free horse-drawn wagon rides downtown last Friday night during the annual Festival of Lights. It was one of the many popular attractions that brought many people downtown to enjoy the spirit of the season.

HAPPY HOLIDAYS!!!!

PALMER FORD-MERCURY NEEDS YOUR HELP - AGAIN!!!! Once again we are sponsoring a "TOYS FOR TOTS AND TEENS" in co-operation with the Chelsea Social Services.

We need enough toys for - every needy child in Chelsea a hospitalized child in need during the year and to make a brighter birthday for some boy or girl less fortunate.

For the last two years some of the North School second and third graders opted to buy toys for our toy drive in place of a gift exchange. This year we have been contacted by an Eagle Scout who is making wooden blocks for the toy drive to earn his badge. Are you as prepared to share your Christmas Season with someone less fortunate as these wonderful and thoughtful children have? By contributing to the toy drive, you are helping to free-up moneys that can be used for other needs, i.e. food and clothing for senior citizens and single parents.

With the merging of Chelsea Social Services and Faith-In-Action, we have three times as many needy families and persons then ever before.

Dates for the toy drive are November 25th through December 17th. Please bring NEW, UNWRAPPED, toys to the Palmer Ford-Mercury showroom, 222 S. Main Street, Chelsea. Palmer's is open daily until 6 p.m. and until 8 p.m. on Mondays and Thursdays and until 3 p.m. on Saturdays.

Your donation entitles you to register for a 13" COLOR TELEVISION donated by Palmer Ford-Mercury. Area business have also donated gift certificates. Get a smile and a feeling of joy for having helped someone less fortunate have a merry Christmas.

We'd like to thank those persons that thought of this program last year after the toy drive was completed. They took advantage of special after Christmas savings, and have given us some great toys to start the 1992 toy drive with.

We hope to see you and a toy soon.

GUITARISTS AND SINGERS provided the appropriate Christmas music at the living creche last Friday downtown during the Festival of Lights. Winter-like weather didn't seem to dampen their enthusiasm.

IT WAS A CHILLY NIGHT for those who took part in the living creche downtown last Friday as part of the annual Festival of Lights. The creche, which also included two real sheep, was set up on the vacant lot next to McKune Memorial Library.

Education Foundation Gives Gift to Schools

Chelsea Education Foundation is donating an 8mm camcorder and microphone to the Chelsea School District. It is expected the equipment will be under the jurisdiction of the Community Education Office where a borrowing procedure will be developed. It will probably involve a written request and deposit as the equipment is of good quality and requires some care and training to use.

Different community organizations and school groups will be able to apply to use the equipment. Permission for use will be granted to projects of an educational nature. The possibilities for its use are endless and two programs already have major plans for it.

The Enrichment Triad Program's fifth grade Community Problem Solving Teams at North and South Elementary schools will be the first users from December through June '93. The North School Notifiers and the South School Solvers, as they have called themselves, are taping grade level shows at their schools. These two groups are using research techniques and problem solving skills to take care of a problem they have identified. The video tapings are part of their solutions.

The North Notifiers' problem is: "In what ways might we create new opportunities for students in grades K through 5 so they may share their classroom news, interests and talents so that everyone can see our special, spirited school?" They will produce a video called "North Exposures."

The South Solvers will produce the "South School Special." Their identified problem is: "In what ways might we create a new, fun and interesting tradition for K-5 students to share their classroom news, learning and talents so that everyone can come together and celebrate the joy of learning?"

Alex Weddon of Chelsea Cable, Mrs. Melody Reifel, former producer at Detroit's Channel 2 and William Coelius, Chelsea High school communications instructor have all helped.

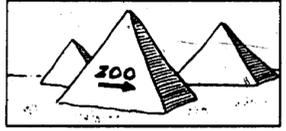

Mrs. Ruth Stielstra, Triad teacher, and both her Problem Solving Teams want all the students, teachers, parents and community members to be able to see these videos and see their friends and relatives in them sharing what they've learned. The videos will be made available and shown on Cable Channel 22.

The next project to use the equipment will be the Waterloo Recreation Area Project (WRAP) which takes place in the summer. Sponsored by the Education Foundation, this environmental education program serves kindergarten through eighth grade students for a week at the George Eddy Geology Center. They will videotape program activities for educational and promotional purposes.

A group of parents, fifth grade Triad students, school district personnel and Education Foundation members organized a special gathering Tuesday, Dec. 8 at the Chelsea Depot to celebrate the gift of equipment. The fifth graders had a chance to thank the Foundation members and explain their project in greater detail. Refreshments were provided by the parents.

For more information about Foundation activities call 475-8155. For more information about Triad activities call Mrs. Stielstra at 475-3715 or 475-3713. Both programs provide opportunities for members of the community to be involved in education in meaningful ways.
