★ NAFTA and the Benefits of Free Trade

By Lawrence W. Reed
The North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) has fostered a raging battle for the hearts and minds of the American people. Do they favor closer commercial ties with friendly nations, or do they believe that prosperity stems from economic isolation?

To all but a few economists, the battle was decided long ago by a basic principle of economics: it pays to trade. Keeping artificial trade barriers high to penalize people for trading across borders makes no economic sense.

No one argues that the people of Michigan would be better off if we passed laws to keep Louisiana sugar out of this state. And fortunately, our Founding Fathers made sure that sort of thing would be unconstitutional. They knew that America would prosper if it were one giant free trade zone, the bigger the better.

Being able to buy from Louisiana (or any other state that produces it, for that matter) does mean that the Michigan sugar industry is smaller than it might be if we did have tariffs on other states. That doesn't make us poorer as a whole. In fact, it releases labor and capital for the production of other things in Michigan, some of which we can trade for the things we want from other states and countries.

We could stimulate employment in the candle and light bulb businesses by passing a law requiring everyone to paint their windows black. As it is, we accept all the sunlight we can get, feel all the wealthier for it, and devote the savings to the production of other things. We don't lament any "loss of jobs" in making candles and light bulbs.

These common sense observations seem lost on protectionists who oppose NAFTA in general and free trade with Mexico in particular. In a supposedly free country, they want to punish American citizens for engaging in free and voluntary commerce with our neighbor to the south. Their reasoning is seductive, superficial, and dead wrong.

Mexico's tariffs are still higher on average than those in the U.S. By bringing them down, NAFTA will open up many new markets for goods made here. Since Mexico began unilaterally cutting its tariffs in 1986,

U.S. exports to that country have tripled—making Mexico our Number 3 trading partner already.

Virtually every U.S. industry has benefited directly or indirectly from this expansion of trade. When we let Mexico sell us goods so they can earn dollars in the process, we benefit: no less than 70 cents of every dollar Mexicans spend on imports goes for goods made in America. Since 1987, Michigan's exports to Mexico have grown more than 50 percent and, as Professor Raymond Tarter of the University of Michigan points out, export-related jobs generally pay 17 percent more per hour than the average U.S. wage.

Jeffrey P. Gannon, CEO of General Electric de Mexico, wrote in The Wall Street Journal recently that lower Mexican tariffs have made it possible for General Electric sales in Mexico to rise five-fold in the past five years. Using U.S. Commerce Department numbers showing that every $1 billion in U.S. exports supports 20,000 domestic jobs, he says that GE's $750 million in exports to Mexico last year supported 15,000 U.S. jobs.

Wage comparisons between the U.S. and Mexico—a bone of contention in the NAFTA debate—only tell part of the story when they are expressed in dollars per hour. The fact is, Mexican workers do earn less in hourly wages, but they also produce far less. Mexican workers on average are one-fifth as productive as U.S. workers, meaning that to yield the same output as in the U.S., a company must hire more workers. The competitive advantage Mexico is supposed to have in wages doesn't appear nearly as substantial when this critical factor is taken into account.

Why in any event, we should ask, are protectionists afraid of a prosperous Mexico? We have nothing to fear and everything to gain from a richer neighbor because it means the creation of new jobs and income here to serve a larger market, as well as political stability in Mexico and fewer problems associated with illegal immigration to the U.S.

Some environmentalists express concern that NAFTA would promote pollution, as American companies would scramble south to enjoy lax environmental standards in Mexico. In reality, all new investments in Mexico must comply with a tough 1988 law that has some environmental standards even tougher than ours. This anti-NAFTA argument is sometimes a smokescreen to cover the fact that many U.S. regulations are themselves counterproductive, needlessly expensive, and in need of change.

There are indeed problems with NAFTA, but they relate not to its freer trade provisions, but to its lesser-known protectionist features. The agreement, for instance, foolishly requires Mexico to raise its tariffs on non-North American sugar imports to the much higher U.S. level. So-called "domestic content" requirements included to satisfy automobile, textile and computer interests are blatantly anti-consumer and anti-free trade. Mackinac Center analyst James Sheehan argues persuasively that President Clinton could change NAFTA for the better if he would "remove such regulations and make trade with our neighbors truly free."

The benefits of genuinely free trade are enshrined in the lessons of history and economics: broadened consumer choice, increased investment opportunities, expanded trade and job creation, and more goods available to everyone at lower cost.

Free and voluntary commerce shouldn't be a punishable offense. It should be a route to mutual prosperity. Michiganians ought to be wary of the Chicken Littles who think the sky will fall if Americans are allowed to trade freely with the people of Mexico and Canada.

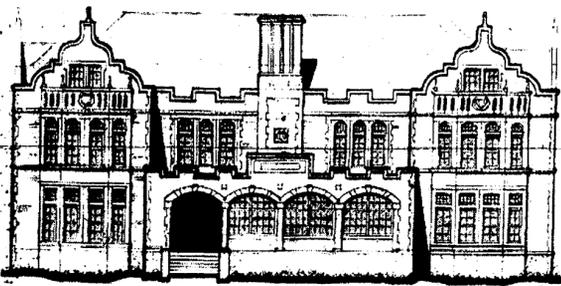

REBECCA PRYOR gave one of two student speeches last Sunday at Chelsea High school commencement exercises. John Heller also addressed his class.

Wednesday, June 14, 1989—
Local voters told the Chelsea School District it will have to tighten its belt next year as a proposal to waive the provisions of the Headlee Amendment was defeated. The Headlee Amendment was designed to protect property owners from rapid rising assessments by adjusting the millage rates downward when the increase in assessment is higher than inflation. By passing the Headlee waiver, voters would have allowed the district to collect its full authorized millage. It was a rare defeat for a millage issue in the district.

Chelsea Downtown Development Authority should see its first project get off the ground late this week or early next week as the village begins its summer paving program. DDA's new long-term parking lot behind the fire department on W. Middle St., as well as improved parking facilities next to the Chelsea Depot are scheduled to be started along with village paving projects on W. Middle St., Dewey St. and Jackson St.

Village of Chelsea plans to hire an assistant manager this summer. Tuesday, June 6, Village Council authorized manager Robert Stalker to begin advertising the position in various trade magazines such as the Michigan Municipal Review and the Michigan Society of Professional Engineers. Stalker said last week he'd like to begin interviewing by August.

Chelsea Village Council voted Tuesday, June 6 to stick to its development agreement with Belser Estates developer Charles Belser despite a plea by Belser that a modification to his plans could save him at least $30,000 and wouldn't greatly affect service to the development.

Thursday, June 21, 1979—
Lavey's Hardware Store and two of its storage buildings on M-36, Pinckney, were gutted by fire yesterday morning. Firefighters, who responded from Chelsea, Dexter, Pinckney, Gregory, Brighton, Howell and Unadilla battled the blaze for about six hours. They still didn't know how it started as of yesterday afternoon.

Chelsea Painters donated a $500 check, proceeds from their recent benefit sale for Chelsea Community Hospital, to the A.A. Palmer Medical Scholarship fund.

The vote to have the Fraternal Order of Police represent Chelsea police officers as the union has been delayed because of problems with the original request for the election. The vote was scheduled for June 19.

The Bicentennial map of Lima township which was embroidered and assembled by more than 40 township women in 1976 has been permanently displayed in the newly decorated township hall.

Thursday, June 19, 1969—
Chelsea High school class of 1969 gave a trophy case as a class gift—a good choice since class members helped fill up the other one this year by winning the league all-sport trophy. The tennis and track teams took regional championships, and the league titles went to football, wrestling, golf and baseball.

All five bids on the renovation and conversion of the former Chelsea State Bank building into a district court exceeded the ceiling set by the property committee of the county board of supervisors. The committee and architect will meet to try and cut costs in the plans.

Chelsea school board overturned its recent decision to eliminate summer programs at its Monday meeting. This is in anticipation of passage of a 10.98 millage request to be voted on Aug. 4, a 2.83 mill increase and 7.65 millage renewal. Voters have turned down a 11.98 mill request twice this spring and summer.

A total of 51 young women and girls have signed up as contestants for the 125th anniversary queen contest. They will tally votes by how many coupons they sell for anniversary festivities. Eleven finalists will be announced before the Centennial Ball and the queen will be announced at the Ball.

Phil Bareis, a local southpaw who pitched for Western Michigan University, signed a major league contract with the Washington Senators last Thursday.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The fellows at the country store Saturday night got to talking about families going through changes this time of year. Bug Hookum allowed if high school and college graduations ain't enough they got all the June weddings. Both mean big turns in the road for the parents as well as the young people, Bug said, and for the older set they are reminders that real freedom is when the last kid leaves home and the dog dies.

Bug said we have survived another round of commencement speeches, and we have new hope that we can survive anything. Not to hurt freedom of speech, Bug went on, but a law limiting graduation speeches to 10 minutes would cut back more than somewhat on air and noise pollution. Bug said he was glad to see the papers don't quote these talks as full as they use to, part because colleges try to outdo one another in getting big names to give them. Nowdays, Bug said, the messengers are bigger than the message, so it's easy to overlook the wisdom they put out about righting all the wrongs of the world.

Zeke Grubb broke in to say he sees more hope in the weddings than the graduations. For all the talk about breakdown of the family, Zeke declared, a heap of young folks still figure the state of matrimony is a wonderful fix to be in.

General, Zeke said, it's good news that folks plan their weddings and are proud to tell everybody about them. The family is the bedrock of the community and the country, he went on, and for all the talk about lifestyles, the arrangement we started with still is the best one going. Living alone is still like the sound of one hand clapping, was his words. There is a natural order to complex keeping house, raising kids, going to work and church and doing the things their folks did, Zeke declared, and when we see the cycle repeat it resets our values and cuts-down on our worry about little things like some country fussing with another over trade policy.

Actual, Ed Doolittle said, he sees some trouble along with the hope in the seasonal run on graduating and marrying. From what he reads, landing a job to go with the degree and the license is a tall order. He was of a mind we ought to call one of them moratoriums on graduates and brides like we do convicts, to give time to work out the backlog in the system. Ed read recent where companies are paying more overtime than at any time in the past 40 year, and they're coming out way ahead over paying all the benefits to new hires.

Since the new Democrat Administration thinks that with Government all things are possible, Republican Ed said, it could give grants to them that agree to stay single and in school until jobs open up, like some states do for single women that don't have babies. This way, he said, it can make the job statistics look better and claim some kind of economic change in spite of the Democratic Congress.

Democrat Clem Webster rose to the bait. He said the Clinton crew has to go some to top the Bush bunch for pulling good statics out of thin air. Clem recalled how Bush helped schools meet Federal nutrition standards by saying catchup is a vegetable, and got TV stations by FCC rules by saying Saturday morning cartoons are education programs.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

New Pacemaker Adjusts to Activity Level of Patient

It's about the size of a 50-cent piece and it's smarter than it used to be. One of the newest types of cardiac pacemakers, now undergoing clinical trials at the University of Michigan Medical Center, combines an activity sensor and a clock to allow programming for the sleep/wake cycle. This device more closely mimics healthy heart action, working harder when the body needs it and resting when it doesn't.

"The activity sensor can detect exertion and pace changes in the heart," explains Gerald Serwer, M.D., an associate professor of pediatrics specializing in pediatric cardiology. "The clock can be set to reduce the heart rate during sleep, minimizing the battery use and extending the life of the pacemaker."

DNR OKs Property Owners Killing Destructive Coons

Department of Natural Resources Director Roland Harmes has issued an interim order, now in effect, to permit a resident to dispatch of a raccoon at any time of year if it is doing damage or about to do damage to the resident's property.

The order was issued on May 13 under the authority of the Wildlife Conservation Act, 1988 PA 258, for managing wild birds and mammals in Michigan. It states, "This order permits a resident, the resident's spouse, and the resident's children to take raccoons all year on property owned by the resident when raccoons are doing damage or are about to do damage to their property."

DNR wildlife biologists said wild populations of raccoons are at high levels this year and that private landowners' dispatching of raccoons when the animals are damaging their properties will not adversely affect raccoon populations.

Born amid the first flames of America's fight for freedom, I am the symbol of a country that has grown from a little group of thirteen colonies to a united nation of fifty sovereign states. ### WHERE DO THEY STAND ON THE ISSUES?

I pledge to advocate for the resources we need to educate each and every student to the extent of his or her capacity. This means:

- A broad range of athletic experiences for students of all abilities;
- Academic programs providing sufficient challenge that no child turns away from education because it is boring or irrelevant;
- Community learning for all ages that enhances the fabric of life in Chelsea;
- Keeping pressure on law makers for truly equitable tax reform that represents more than taking money from your left pocket instead of your right.

Dexter Washables

Shoes don't have an easy time of it. They spend all day in close proximity to feet, for example. They are pounded into the ground with some regularity, and are intimately acquainted with the various sorts of pavement modern society has to offer, as well as more primitive surfaces like dirt and clay. They are assaulted with a daily barrage of water, mud, slush and caustic chemicals. If ever anything begged to be washed regularly, in fact, it is shoes. Which is where Dexter comes in. Dexter Washables are a new line of shoes made of a special leather that retains its soft, supple character through repeated trips through the washing machine, without shrinking. The eyelets won't rust, and the shoe's construction can hold up to years of use. And the great thing is that, like a pair of blue jeans, Dexter Washables soften with each washing, so that over time, they achieve a feel that makes them seem as if they've been on your feet forever. See the Dexter Washables at HARPER SHOE CO. Dexter Washables. Finally, shoes that can go from all washed up, to all washed up.

Early research results show that composting offers a safe and acceptable alternative to landfill disposal used by many communities. The compost of municipal waste is a stable form of organic matter that could be used on farms to improve soil quality, reduce potential pollution problems and enhance the productivity of cropland.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor,
What is SAVE all about?
SAVE stands for Sex Abuse Victims Everywhere.

In February, 1993, a group of frustrated parents sat in a living room discussing all of the sex abuse that had gone on. We talked about how to protect our children from sex abuse and how to make the community aware of these problems. We decided that a Community Awareness Meeting would be a good idea. On March 8 a Community Awareness Meeting was held at the American Legion Hall in Manchester. There was a turn-out of 160-170 guests. It was decided that we needed to work as a community if we wanted to help protect the children. We then introduced a new organization, SAVE.

SAVE has held two meetings so far. Our meetings are being held the second Monday of every month, 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. We meet at the Faith in Action Building located on the Chelsea Hospital grounds by the north entrance.

SAVE has been working in the following areas:

- 1) Letter writing campaign to try and get laws changed.
- 2) Help educate parents, children, community about sex abuse.
- 3) Working with Washtenaw Area Council on Children to get the Babylonian available to more age groups.
- 4) Co-ordinate court room watching for the families of sex abuse victims.
- 5) Be a resource of information for families of victims.
- 6) We plan to hold community awareness meetings in local towns about sex abuse.

Our meetings are open to everyone. We have a $5 per year membership dues and we are accepting donations. We plan to do fund-raisers. So you will be seeing us around.

For more information contact: Jayne Long, SAVE, P.O. Box 558, Manchester, MI 48158.

Malpractice Reform Should Help Access To Rural Health Care

The medical malpractice reform bill approved by the Michigan House should improve rural health care by encouraging doctors to practice in rural areas, according to the Michigan Farm Bureau.

"Michigan currently has the third highest cost of medical malpractice insurance in the nation," said Howard Kelly, legislative counsel for Michigan Farm Bureau. "Doctors must have a very large number of patients to afford medical malpractice insurance. Even if they want to come out to the rural areas they cannot attract enough patients to pay for the high malpractice insurance premiums. They are more likely to set up practice in higher-density urban and suburban areas to be able to afford some of the tremendous costs associated with our current malpractice system," he said.

Kelly said malpractice insurance rates should come down because the legislation caps court awards for non-economic damages for pain and suffering. "Michigan Farm Bureau policy calls for no cap on economic damages, so that if someone is injured as a result of malpractice they can receive all of the economic benefits that they are entitled to," he said. "Our policy also calls for elimination of non-economic damages, and this bill goes a long way toward reducing the so-called 'lottery' awards for pain and suffering."

Arbor Hospice Plans Living Will Workshop

On Tuesday, June 15, Arbor Hospice will present a free community workshop to discuss Living Wills and Designation of Patient Advocate documents. These advance directives enable doctors and other health care providers to know what types of medical treatments and life support, if any, a person may want to sustain his or her life.

The one-hour workshop will begin at 3 p.m. and be held in Arbor Hospice's Bridge of Hope Community Resource Center, located at 3810 Packard Rd., Suite 200, Ann Arbor. Free forms will be available. For more information, please call 677-0500.

Farm Museum Volunteers Preparing for Log Cabin Day

Waterloo Farm Museum volunteers have planned a full week-end of activities for June 26 and 27.

A barn sale is planned for Saturday from 10 to 4. Donations of clean, useable items (no clothing, please) are welcome and may be dropped off Tuesday through Sunday from 1 to 4 at the Farm Museum. The proceeds from this sale will go toward payment of labor costs for the recently completed addition to the barn. Lunch will be available on the museum grounds.

Sunday, June 27, is Log Cabin Day in Michigan. The Farm Museum will take this opportunity to showcase the log house on the museum grounds from 1 to 4. Visitors are invited to explore the log houses (free admission), watch a fireplace cooking demonstration, and see pioneer craft demonstrations.

A brochure listing the log structures of Michigan featured on Log Cabin Day may be obtained by calling the museum at (517) 596-2856 and leaving your name and address. An added attraction on Log Cabin Day is an ice cream social from 2 to 4.

Tours of the Victorian farmhouse and outbuildings are available both days. The last tour begins no later than 3:30. Adults $2.50, seniors $2.00, and children (5-11) 75¢. Historical Society members are admitted free of charge.

Boaters Plan National Safe Boating Week

Members of the Ann Arbor Power Squadron met along the shores of the Huron River Monday evening to complete plans for National Safe Boating Week, which began June 8.

Squadron Commander Robert Moenart announced that Ann Arbor Mayor Ingrid Sheldon had proclaimed the week of June 8-12 "Safe Boating Week," urging that "all those who use our many waterways acquire skills and knowledge to maintain their own safety and the safety of others around them."

Prior to and during Safe Boating Week, Squadron members will be distributing informational materials on its sail and power boating courses which are presented free of charge each spring and fall. Additional information regarding the Ann Arbor Power Squadron's activities and boating courses may be obtained by calling (313) 761-1494.

Following a brief business meeting and picnic supper, members were instructed in marine fire safety and management by Spears Fire and Safety Services of Ann Arbor.

MSU Alumni Club Scholarship Available

The Michigan State University Alumni Club of Washtenaw County will be awarding its first annual scholarship on July 10 at the club's golf outing for scholarships.

To be eligible for the scholarship, applicants must be full-time students from Washtenaw County who will be entering their freshman year at MSU in the fall of 1993. The completed application form needs to be returned to a school principal or counselor for their recommendation and then received by the Alumni Club by June 15.

The criteria for awarding the scholarship includes leadership experience, active involvement in community and school affairs and the potential for success at MSU. Application forms are available at the Washtenaw County Michigan State University Extension Office in Ann Arbor, phone 971-0079, and have also been sent to high school counselors throughout the county.

Protecting Spotted Owl Costs Billions

If you are wondering why the price of most lumber suddenly has gone through the roof, try the Northern Spotted Owl. As consumers are discovering, the cost of protecting such endangered species and meeting other burgeoning environmental regulations is hitting where it hurts—at home.

By Philip C. Clarke

According to industry sources, lumber prices started taking off last October. By late February, the National Association of Home Builders estimated the price increase had jumped by about 90%, going from an average of $249 per 1,000 board feet in early October to a whopping $474 on Feb. 24. And if lumber costs keep rising at that rate, housing prices overall could soar by as much as 25% during the current building season. With the median price of a new single-family home in the U. S. now estimated at just under $104,000, such an increase would represent a staggering burden on many would-be home buyers. All but gone would be the benefits of the recent precipitate decline in mortgage interest rates.

All this would have a ripple effect on the U. S. economy. Or, as a survey by the Washington Inquirer determined, the reaction would be more like a giant wave. "Since houses all increase in value in relation to their 'replacement cost' and to the price of new homes," said the conservative weekly, "all Americans can expect to pay nearly as much more for existing housing. . . . The total inflationary cost would therefore be somewhere in the vicinity of $831 billion."

And what is the reason for this incredible cost increase to provide housing for the American people? "It is largely to pay for giving a home to the spotted owl," said the Inquirer, citing such authoritative sources as the National Association of Home Builders as well as spokesmen for the logging industry. "Timber supplies," it added, "are tighter than they have been in decades as environmental regulation has shut down millions of acres of timber land."

In past years, three states—Washington, Oregon and California—have supplied more than 44% of the nation's softwood lumber. But according to Alston Chase, an environmental specialist and author of Playing God in Yellowstone, a study critical of government over-regulation, last year only 23% of the timber normally allowed to be cut actually was harvested from public lands in the Pacific Northwest. This was a direct result of newly-enacted Environmental Protection Agency requirements on behalf of the spotted owl.

As the Inquirer noted, "the direct cost of protecting the owl are obvious. Last year, 19 sawmills closed in Washington and Oregon, costing a total of 2,947 jobs. These direct costs may not be of great concern to members of the environmental cult throughout the rest of the country. And they likely will find it difficult to believe that the cost of the house they might want to buy is inflated because of the spotted owl."

Indirect costs are, of course, more difficult to compute, much less understand. But Alston Chase makes a studious try with some available statistics. When the Northern Spotted Owl was entered on the endangered species list in 1990, one government study, based on empirical evidence, figured that the bird's survival would require an undisturbed habitat for 1,750 nesting pairs. Based on studies by the National Wildlife Federation, among others, it is estimated that today there are as many as 5,000 pairs of the owls, or 10,000 individual birds. Dividing the increased cost of lumber by the estimated total population of the spotted owl, the Washington Inquirer figures that each of the endangered birds is adding nearly $1 million a year to the nation's home construction costs. At these inflated prices, suggests the Inquirer, the Northern Spotted Owl is fast overcoming the fabled Maltese falcon as the most famous—and expensive—bird in history.

Concrete Plant Planned in Sylvan Township Near I-94

A transit mix concrete plant has been proposed for land in Sylvan township on Pielameier Dr., just north of Chelsea Self Storage.

Doan Construction Co. wants to build the plant using the newest technology. The plant would be completely enclosed and concrete materials would be stored underground. Unlike many plants, there would be no piles of materials on the grounds.

The building would be 54' high. The township planning commission has scheduled a public hearing for June 24 about the project. The company has applied for a special use permit. The area is zoned for light industrial use.

One of the major impacts of the plant will be on traffic. Concrete trucks are relatively slow and heavy. In addition, heavy trucks naturally cause more road wear. Those will be some of the issues for the planning commission to consider in making their decision about the permit.

Township supervisor Gerald Dresselhouse said he has no comment about the proposal until he has more information.

By the year 2000, labor markets for younger workers could tighten. Companies accustomed to hiring young workers at cheap wages may find that they must raise wages, reach further down the labor queue, invest in labor-saving technology, or all three, in order to prosper, according to "Workforce 2000," a U.S. Labor Department publication.

Let's Go Bulldogs!

THE RUNNER IS OUT! Or was she? The Dexter runner was called safe on this tag by Chelsea catcher Liz Sager last Saturday. It didn't matter, however, as the Bulldogs went on to win easily and take the district title.

Dogs Whip Milan, Dexter To Take Third Straight District Softball Title

It was no contest twice last Saturday as the Chelsea Bulldogs walked, hit, and danced their way to their third consecutive district softball title.

Chelsea whipped the Milan Big Reds in the finals, 12-3, and the Dexter Dreadnaughts in the semi-finals, 23-8, to qualify for the region semi-final game this Saturday against Riverview at Monroe Jefferson at noon.

Sophomore Carey Schiller improved her pitching record to 13-4 in the finals as she struck out five, walked two, and allowed one earned run.

"Carey did a nice job," said Chelsea coach Joe Beard.

"She handled herself well and had good control. But if all came down to our seniors playing well. They're the ones who did it. They drove in the runs and had a great game for us."

Chelsea held a 1-0 lead in the championship game after four innings as Liz Sager's first-inning triple drove in Theresa Hurst, who had singled.

In the fifth inning, Chelsea broke the game open with four runs as Sager and Erin Knott each walked with the bases loaded, and Milan helped out with two errors.

Chelsea scored six more runs in the sixth paced by RBI-singles by Hurst and Gretchen Knutsen and a two-run triple by Sager.

Milan's three runs came in the bottom of the sixth, helped by two Chelsea errors.

Sager and Heather McConeghy each had two hits and Hurst added three.

The semi-final game against Dexter proved to be one of the strangest contests of the year.

In the early innings, the Dreadnaughts elected to lob the ball to the plate similar to recreation slow-pitch softball. By the end of the third inning, Dexter was down 16-7. They later went back to a typical fast-pitch game, then slowed their delivery down again for the end of the game.

"I don't know why they did that," Beard said of the Dexter strategy.

"They threw us off a little bit at first and I was happy to see us win a game like that. But we weren't going to let up. Even when we had a substantial lead, we continued to move the girls up on the bases. If they're going to play that kind of ball, they'll get what they deserve."

Chelsea took a 6-0 lead in the first as Schiller, Hurst, Sager, and Knott each singled, Knutsen sacrificed, and Nancy Pidd walked.

The Bulldogs gave up four runs in the bottom of the inning. But that was as close as the game would get.

CHELSEA senior catcher Liz Sager and sophomore pitcher Carey Schiller celebrate after the Bulldogs took their third consecutive district softball title with a win over the Milan Big Reds.

Chelsea broke the game open with nine runs in the third inning as Lisa Beard, Schiller, Hurst, Pidd, and Nicki Piasecki each had run-scoring hits.

In the fourth inning, when the Dreadnaughts reverted to their fast-pitch game, Chelsea scored seven more runs as five Chelsea batters were hit by pitches. McConeghy also doubled in the inning.

Chelsea ended the game with 14 hits, including two each by Schiller, Hurst, Knutsen, Pidd, and Piasecki.

Lisa Beard was the winning pitcher. She gave up two earned runs and seven hits in the five innings. Chelsea had an uncharacteristic seven errors.

Earlier in the week, the Bulldogs whipped the Lincoln Railsplitters in the district qualifying game, 10-2.

Beard was the winning pitcher as she struck out four and allowed two hits.

McConeghy's double highlighted a three-run second inning, and her fourth-inning triple drove in two runs. Hurst and Sager each drove in a run in a three-run sixth inning.

Seven Lincoln errors helped ease the path for the Bulldogs.

In non-conference action on Thursday, Chelsea lost twice to Ann Arbor Huron, 4-3 and 5-0.

Several starters didn't make the trip due to a music honors program that evening.

Two errors in the seventh inning allowed Huron to score two runs to win the first game.

Schiller gave up three hits. Anne Frederick, Charlotte Ziegler, and Schiller each had a hit.

Lauren Zuehlke pitched the second game. Schiller's double was the only hit for Chelsea.

"I was real happy with how the younger girls played," Beard said.

Beeman Takes State Title As Bulldogs Place Sixth

Junior David Beeman was a state champion in the shot put and a runner-up in the discus, and the 3200 relay team took third place as the Bulldogs placed sixth at the class B state meet last Saturday. It was the highest finish in the history of the program.

Beeman won the shot put easily at 55' 1".

"He was outstanding," said Chelsea coach Pat Clarke.

"He hurt his hand on the second throw but still won."

Beeman also led the discus field most of the competition but finished second at 163' 4", one of his best efforts of the season.

The relay team and their individual split times were Cory Brown (1:56.9), Scott Hawley (2:02.7), Dan Wehrwein (2:02.7), and Dan Zatkovich (2:00.8). Their time of 8:03.1 broke their own school record by seven seconds. The team led during the first half of the race and nearly finished second.

All four runners, except Zatkovich, return next year. All five Chelsea athletes made all-state honors.

"These young men have worked extremely long and hard this year to reach this height," Clarke said.

University of Detroit Jesuit won the meet with 59 points. Flint Beecher was second with 53, Comstock was third with 38, Fremont was fourth with 31, and Grand Rapids Northview was fifth with 30. Chelsea had 24 points.

At the Selby Invitational last Tuesday in Jackson, Chelsea again had several good performances.

Beeman was first in the shot put at 53' 7" and second in the discus at 152'

3"; the 3200 relay team of Wehrwein, Hawley, Aleksander Selmanovic, and Zatkovich was first in 8:18.7; Brown won the 1600 with a season-best 4:31.2; and in the 800, Brown was second in 2:03.1, Hawley was fourth in 2:03.5, and Zatkovich was sixth in 2:06.1. No team scores are kept.

Matt Jachalke Named Chelsea Tennis MVP

Chelsea senior Matt Jachalke was named the Bulldogs' Most Valuable Player on the boys tennis team this spring.

The award was announced at a team ice cream social last Tuesday.

Most Improved honors went to freshman Dan Johnson.

The only two seniors receiving awards were Jachalke, a second-year award, and Scott Dale, a first-year award. Each boy received a senior plaque.

Second-year awards went to sophomores Mike Bainton, Dan Koengeter, and Chris Giebel.

Sophomores Kevin Myers and James Dunahoo received first-year letters, as did freshman Johnson.

James Diesing and Ben O'Connor were also members of the team but received their letters in another sport.

Next year's team will be almost all juniors.

Chelsea Girls Sixth at State Class B Track Meet

Chelsea Bulldogs girls track team scored 24 points to finish sixth in the state class B meet in Grand Rapids last Saturday.

Inkster won the meet with 40 points, followed by River Rouge with 34, and Fremont, Flint Beecher, and Grand Rapids South Christian tied with 28.

Chelsea started the day with a third-place finish in the 3200 relay as the team of Beth Bell, Sarah Henry, Melissa Hand, and Lisa Monti ran a 9:41.56 to break an eight-year-old school record and earn all-state honors.

Monti, a senior, closed out her outstanding Chelsea career by earning all-state honors in three events. She placed third in the 1600 in 5:06.90 and second in the 3200 in 11:06.0, both season-best times. Monti has been all-state four years in the 3200, three years in the 1600, and once in the 3200 relay.

The Bulldogs' final points came in the last event as the 1600 relay team of Laura Paton, Henry, Hand, and Bell placed fifth with a season-best time of 4:08.65.

"We are pleased with our results," said Chelsea coach Bill Bainton.

"I had hoped we could score around 25 points and be in the top 10."

This is the third consecutive top 10 finish for the Bulldogs.

Inkster won on the strength of sophomore sprinter Charnell Lynn, who won the 100, 200, 400, and anchored the winning 400 relay.

In other competition last week, Chelsea competed in seven events in the Selby Classic Honor Roll meet at Jackson High school on Tuesday.

The meet brings together the top nine performers in each event from schools in the Jackson area. No team scores are kept.

In the field events, Mara Smith was ninth in the discus with a toss of 86' 8". Erin Schiller was fifth in the high jump a 5' 1".

The team of Paton, Hand, Henry, and Val Bullock won the 3200 relay in 10:02.8.

Paton, Henry, Hand, and Bell tuned up for the state meet with a second place to Hillsdale in the 1600 relay in 4:13.1.

Bell ran a 2:25.4 in the 800 to place second.

Molly Griebe ran her best 3200 ever to place seventh in 12:18.6.

Monti set a meet record in the 1600 with a 5:07.0. She also won the 3200 by more than 30 seconds in 11:16.2. She was named the female athlete of the meet.

STEVE GRAU of Chelsea tagged out the Dexter runner on a throw to third base during Saturday's district semi-final game. Chelsea lost to Milan in the finals, 7-0, to make their earliest exit from the post-season in four years.

Big Reds Eliminate Dogs From Baseball Play-offs

Chelsea Bulldogs fell a game short of their fourth consecutive district baseball title last Saturday as they were shut out in the finals by the Milan Big Reds, 7-0.

To reach the finals, the Bulldogs scored three runs in the top of the seventh inning to edge the Dexter

Dreadnaughts, 5-4, in the semi-finals.

"Milan surely deserved to win the title," said Chelsea coach Wayne Welton.

"They managed to do a lot of the little things that we couldn't do to get over the edge. They made the plays and have outstanding pitching. I think they have a very good chance to get out of the region tournament."

Milan senior Adam Allen scattered seven hits, including two by senior Chris Dunham, and one each by Tim Wescott, Nick McCalla, Pat Steele, Ken Slane, and Steve Grau. Allen also homered in the sixth for Milan's final run.

Chelsea fell behind 3-0 in the first inning. A missed put-out on a steal attempt that could have put the Bulldogs in a two-out, nobody-on situation resulted in three runs after a walk, double, and sacrifice.

Grau and Slane, the Bulldogs' pitchers, gave up five hits.

The semi-final game against Dexter turned into one of the most exciting games of the season. Down 4-2 after six innings, Chelsea started the seventh with singles by Wescott and Matt Powell, and a sacrifice bunt by Colt White. McCalla fouled off several pitches to stay alive and walked to load the bases with one out. Steele singled to right to tie the game as Powell barely beat the throw to the plate.

With runners at first and third, Dexter brought in the infield and Slane blooped a single for what turned out to be the winning run. White struck out three straight batters in the bottom of the inning to preserve the win.

"I think they were worried about us squeezing," Welton said of the Dexter strategy in the top of the seventh.

"We've done that a number of times over the years, and we would have this time."

White improved his record to 10-3. He allowed five hits, struck out four and walked two.

In the pre-district game last Tuesday, Chelsea shut out the Lincoln Railsplitters, 2-0.

Steele had the big hit in the top of the seventh. After a double by Wescott and walks to Powell and White, Steele doubled up the alley.

White dominated the game on the mound. He struck out 10 and allowed two hits and no walks. The Bulldogs also had an errorless day in the field.

Casey Schiller added a hit for Chelsea.

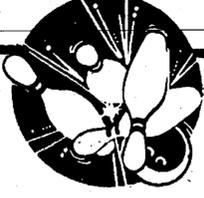

In a tournament at St. Joseph last week-end, Chelsea lost the first game, 3-2, to St. Joseph, but came back for a 6-2 victory over Traverse City and a 7-4 win over Stevensville-Lakeshore.

In the first game, Slane suffered his fourth one-run loss of the season.

Chelsea out hit St. Joseph, 7-5, as Dunham had a pair of hits and McCalla, Steele, Wescott and White each added a hit.

The Bulldogs had the bases loaded.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

It was quite a week-end once again for Chelsea High school sports teams, which provided a fitting cap to the sports school year.

Think back to last fall and there have been some amazing sports stories here. Football and basketball teams that performed way beyond what most people expected in reaching the state play-offs, two cross country teams in the state finals, a wrestling league co-championship. And maybe the ultimate measure: how many times did arch-rivals Dexter and Saline beat the Bulldogs in anything when it really counted?

It's been another outstanding spring, which has almost become a tradition in the last few years.

Coach Bill Bainton's girls track team placed sixth in the state, the third year in a row they've been in the top 10. Senior Lisa Monti ended her career by placing second in the 3200, third in the 1600, and helping her 3200 relay team to a third place. You'd have to use your hands and feet to count all the times Monti has been an all-star in track and cross country.

That 3200 team, which included Sarah Henry, Melissa Hand, and Bath Bell, also earned all-state honors. The 1600 relay team of Laura Paten, Henry, Hand, and Bell placed fifth in another good effort.

Maybe THE story of the spring was the performance of coach Pat Clarke's boys track team. Not only did they get out of the cellar in the Southeastern Conference, they wound up sixth in the state. This is a program that three years ago was almost lifeless, almost a throwaway program for guys who didn't want to hit a ball with either a racquet or a bat.

David Beeman became a state champion in the shot put with what for him was a good, but not great, throw. The junior hurt his hand early in the competition yet still managed to win by six feet. That is about as dominating as a field events competitor can be. Beeman also took second in the discus and I'm sure he'll set his sights on a double state championship next year.

The 3200 relay team earned all-state honors by placing third. Cory Brown, Dan Werhwein, Scott Hawley, and Dan Zatkovich were leading for much of the race. They shattered their own school record by seven seconds. Brown, Werhwein, and Hawley will all be back next year on what should be an even better team overall.

The baseball team had another season of 20 wins but couldn't quite make it over the hump to dispose of the Milan Big Reds in the finals of the district tournament. A victory over Milan would have given the Bulldogs their fourth district title in a row. Few sports teams anywhere have had that kind of consistent success.

The Bulldogs went out with a bang, however. Down 4-2 in the top of the seventh of the semi-finals, they loaded the bases against the Dexter Dreadnaughts. Pat Steele sent a single to right to tie the game. Ken Slane followed with a soft single to provide the winning run.

Then senior pitcher Colt White, who took the mound and looked about ready to jump out of his skin because he was so pumped up, promptly struck out three out of three to end the game. My 5 1/2-year-old son, who recounted the final pitches afterward, exclaimed, "just like Smoltz!" referring, of course, to John, the Atlanta Braves right-hander.

The only bright spot, from my perspective, to the loss to Milan in the finals is I won't have to split time covering two teams at the region tournament this Saturday. The last two years I've had to haul all kinds of equipment back and forth between the baseball and softball games and have not been able to get into the flow of either game, frequently missing key points.

The softball team will make their third consecutive appearance in the region tournament this Saturday. They woman-handled the Dexter Dreadnaughts and Milan Big Reds in convincing fashion Saturday to take the district title.

The Bulldogs had a lot of help from the Dreadnaughts in the semi-finals in the strangest softball game I've ever seen.

Without the uniforms, you never would have guessed it was a high school tournament game. The Dreadnaughts started out lobbing the ball to the plate in what looked like recreation slow-pitch softball. When that strategy—if you can call it that—didn't work, they went to fast pitch and proceeded to hit almost the entire starting line-up. Girls were popped on the foot, arm, behind, almost everywhere possible. It got so bad that the Chelsea rooting section, who had put half a dozen "K's" on the fence to mark Chelsea pitcher Carey Schiller's strikeouts, began turning them sideways, on their backs, so they'd look kind of like roadkill.

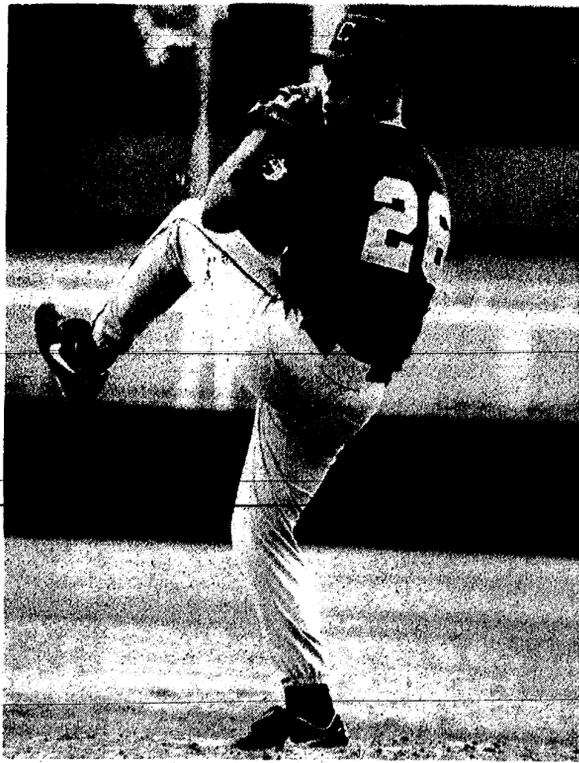

Chelsea coach Joe Beard, who never has a bad word for anyone, didn't want to talk much about the Dexter strategy—again, if you can call it that.

"When I was coaching third base, without giving anything away, I tried to warn the Dexter third baseman when she should be on her toes because I didn't want her to get her teeth knocked out," Beard said.

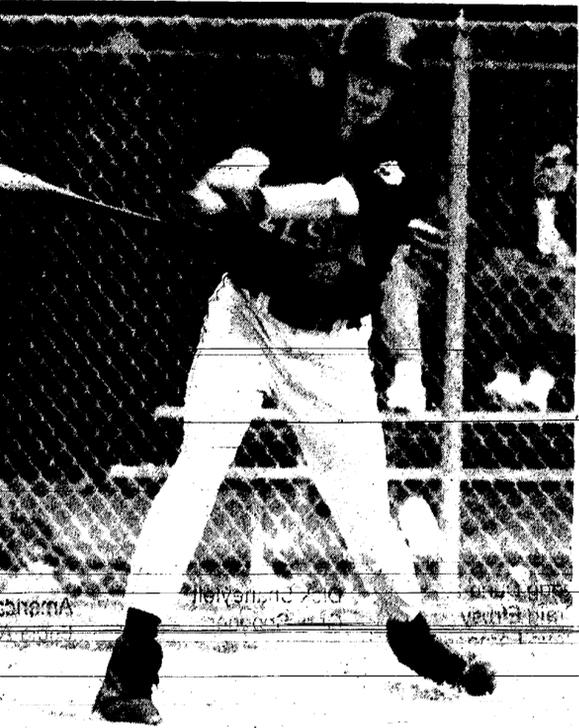

I was sitting next to the Dexter dugout for an inning or so, and it was not a play-off atmosphere. It was more like a backyard barbecue without the grills.

Oh well. The Bulldogs have a good chance to win Saturday's regional. There are, reportedly, no teams in it capable of complete domination.

I like Chelsea's chances because they have outstanding defense and young pitchers Schiller and Lisa Beard have progressed tremendously this season. If the youngsters can handle the inevitable butterflies, it could be a great day.

COLT WHITE pitched two masterful games for the Chelsea Bulldogs in the district tournament last week. He shut out Lincoln on Tuesday. On Saturday he struck out the side in the bottom of the seventh to preserve the victory against the Dexter Dreadnaughts in the semi-finals.

CHRIS DUNHAM fouls off a pitch for the Chelsea Bulldogs during Saturday's district semi-final contest against the Dexter Dreadnaughts. Dunham had four hits on the day as the Bulldogs were eliminated from the play-offs.

Baseball Season Ends

In the seventh but couldn't score. White tossed a three-hitter against Traverse City as Dunham again had a pair of hits.
Grau pitched his best game of the season against Lakeshore as he allowed seven hits, struck out six, and walked three.
McCalla had a bases-loaded double, and Gabe Bernhard and Wescott each singled home a run.
Chelsea finished the season with a 20-15-2 record.

Medical School Grads Leaving State To Practice

Less than half (48 percent) of the specialist physicians trained in Michigan hospitals and universities remained in the state to practice following completion of their residency programs in 1992, according to a new survey by the Michigan Council on Graduate Medical Education.

Of the 1,542 physicians who completed their internship or residency, 44.8 percent graduated in primary care (family practice, general practice, internal medicine, pediatrics, and osteopathic interns). Non-primary care or specialties are defined as all other programs.

"It's disheartening to see more than half of our specialists—obstetricians, orthopedic surgeons, emergency room physicians, neurosurgeons, etc.—leave to practice in other states," said Spencer Johnson, Michigan Hospital Association president. "Directors of graduate medical education programs contend that this state's harsh medical liability climate is a key factor, often the primary reason, why new physicians choose to leave Michigan."

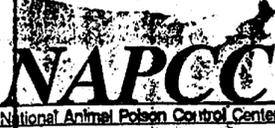

Some rates of specialists leaving the state following graduate in 1992 were particularly alarming: 100 percent of neurosurgeons (six of six), 74 percent of orthopedic surgeons (28 of 38), 80 percent of thoracic surgeons (four of five), 55 percent of cardiologists (16 of 29), 58 percent of general surgeons (48 of 82), 53 percent of obstetricians/gynecologists (37 of 70), and 48 percent of emergency room physicians (30 of 63).

Previous surveys by the Michigan Hospital Association showed that 93 percent of Michigan's smaller hospitals, and 92 percent of Detroit area hospitals were having trouble recruiting health care professionals, in particular, physicians such as obstetricians and orthopedic surgeons. The state's medical liability climate and high medical liability premiums were the most often cited reason for shortages.

"When 74 percent of graduating orthopedic surgeons, and 53 percent of graduating obstetricians leave Michigan to practice, while many small rural and even some large urban hospitals are desperate for these physicians, something is terribly wrong," said Johnson. "We're spending taxpayer dollars to help educate these physicians, but our medical liability climate is forcing them to leave the state."

Fifty-five percent of all graduating physicians stayed in Michigan to practice or continue their education while 41 percent left the state. In 4.5 percent of the cases, the plans were unknown. Sixty-three percent of the primary care physicians and 48 percent of the specialty physicians remained in the state.

The survey showed that osteopathic physicians (DOs) were more likely to remain in the state following graduation (72 percent) than were allopathic (MDs) physicians (48.4 percent).

Purple Rose Theatre To Offer 6-Week Acting Course

Purple Rose Theatre Company will offer an Acting Course focusing on Scene Study and Monologue techniques. The six-week course will be held Saturday afternoons from 2 to 4 p.m. beginning June 28. All sessions will be held at the Garage Theatre, home of the Purple Rose Theatre Company, 137 Park St., in downtown Chelsea.

Ms. Terry Heck, an assistant professor with the Eastern Michigan University Communication and Theatre Arts Department, will be teaching the PRTC Acting Course. In addition to her responsibilities at Eastern Michigan University, she has also taught previous PRTC Acting Courses since their inception in February 1992. Ms. Heck has appeared in leading roles in two earlier Purple Rose Theatre Company productions, as Vivie Holden in Blush at Nothing and as Lois in More Fun Than Bowling.

The Acting Course will be limited to the first 18 participants and will meet for six weekly sessions from Saturday, June 28 through Saturday, July 31. The limited enrollment will allow Ms. Heck to closely work with each individual to further develop their performing skills in respect to Scene Study and Monologue work. A non-refundable fee for the course is required before Wednesday, June 18.

Due to the limited enrollment, participants must register in advance by calling the Purple Rose Theatre Company Administration Office at (313) 475-5817. Regular office hours are Tuesday through Friday between the hours of 10 a.m. and 5 p.m.

By the time they are seniors in high school, over 95 percent of American adolescents will have experimented with alcohol. (Forum on Youth Traffic Safety Initiatives, 1989).

Farm Bureau Head Hits Clinton's Energy Tax, Deficit Plan

President Clinton's proposed energy tax will place an "unfair, substantial burden" on agriculture and Michigan consumers, both in direct and indirect costs, according to Jack Laurie, president of the Michigan Farm Bureau.

"Farm Bureau estimates that once the energy tax is fully phased-in by fiscal 1996, 7.5 cents would be added to the cost of each gallon of gasoline, 8.3 cents to diesel and 2.3 cents to propane (LP)," Laurie said. "Michigan farmers are heavy users of fuel for transportation and field work. And they depend on propane for driving corn, especially in a year like this when the crop was extremely wet. An added energy tax will simply make it that much tougher for farmers to make a profit, especially when you factor in the additional cost the tax will add to farm inputs like fertilizers and agricultural chemicals," he said.

Laurie said farmers are also skeptical about Clinton's plan to attack the deficit with higher personal and corporate taxes. "Clinton's plan shows a deficit of common sense. Even though these higher taxes would not directly impact many Michigan farmers, it's clear from the results of the 1990 budget agreement that increased taxes depress economic activity. A poorly-performing economy means decreased demand for agricultural products and economic hardship for rural people," Laurie said.

Farm Bureau believes that the federal deficit should be attacked through spending restraints and cut-backs, not through tax increases, according to Laurie.

Prof. Says Health Care Reform Is Mostly Need of Fewer Forms

Ypsilanti—Dr. Richard Douglass, director of Eastern Michigan University's health administration program, thinks the country will see health care reform under the Clinton Administration, but he doesn't necessarily believe new taxes are needed to pay for it.

Currently, Douglass said, the nation loses about 30 percent of its total health care dollar in the processing of claims to multiple payers. Under a single payer system, that money would be recouped and could ultimately fund reform efforts.

"Taxation is not the issue because the money is in the system already, it's just going to places that aren't benefiting the consumer," he said.

"We have over 1,500 private insurance carriers and more than 200 Blue Cross/Blue Shield plans and that's too many."

Douglass proposes a national health care system with a single payer, probably done through a partnership between the federal government and a private insurer, like Blue Cross.

While Douglass' plan might ultimately put many private health insurers out of business, he argues that they aren't doing the job they're collecting premiums to do anyway. "Private insurance tends to support people who don't need private insurance. As soon as they get expensive, they're priced out of the plan," he said. "Besides, those insurance carriers will just sell insurance for something else, life insurance or insuring your assets, and you'll always be able to buy supplemental (health) insurance."

The idea of the federal government running the nation's health care system strikes a nerve in many people, but Douglass argues that the feds are calling the shots already, through Medicare (serving the elderly) and Medicaid (serving the poor) programs that essentially determine the reimbursement rates private insurers use. Furthermore, he says, with health care at least, the federal government has proven to be a more efficient manager than private insurers.

"Medicare is running about a 37 percent administrative overhead with literally the sickest and heaviest utilization population in the country—90 percent of our health care costs come in the last year of our life," he said. "On the other hand, the private insurance industry runs about 45 percent in administrative costs for a much healthier population. There's something wrong there. Medicare cannot exclude people because they get expensive, and they're more cost effective than private insurers who can and do."

Douglass traces the so-called health care crisis back to the 1960s when the federal government was "flush" and would reimburse hospitals under its Medicare and Medicaid program with virtually no questions asked.

"Hospitals were cottage industries before Medicare. Nobody was making a lot of money," he said. "When you suddenly enfranchise the poor and the elderly—undoubtedly the largest utilizers of health care—and then you tell the hospitals, 'You decide what the patient needs and we'll pay for it,' the system essentially decided that what everyone needed was a Lamborghini station wagon."

And every time the federal government took steps to control those costs, Douglass added, hospitals found a way to work around it. "The system's attorneys are a lot smarter than the government's attorneys," he said.

For example, a change in Medicare reimbursement dictated that hospitals get a flat rate for elderly, in-hospital patients based on the diagnosis and patient's age. "If they died the next day, the hospital made out very well, but if they didn't die, the hospital would lose money. The theory was that it would even out," Douglass explained.

To get around it, however, hospitals admit patients and submit for payment of the flat rate, then discharge the patient and order extensive out-patient treatment, which is fully reimbursable under Medicare.

"They essentially bill the government a second time and get reimbursed," Douglass said. "If the same restrictions were put on out-patient care, you'd see all these out-patient (ambulatory) facilities close and all of a sudden the hospital would be the place to get care. If there were no cash incentive, that out-patient sprawl, as we call it, would not have developed."

And, to make up for losses in federal reimbursement, hospitals targeted well-insured patients. "The key to understanding what is done for a health episode in a health care facility in this country is predictable based on the person's insurance," Douglass said. "Their level of coverage will determine what happens to them, how long they'll be in, and everything else. Medical people will tell you that's not true, but it is. If you have an opportunity to bill a patient who's well insured, you're going to get a full menu of lab tests, a full menu of everything."

The reimbursement quagmire is so time consuming and frustrating, however, Douglass predicts that doctors and hospitals will eventually welcome its reform. "If you told doctors that all this reimbursement crap doesn't matter anymore, that they should just make a clinical decision on their patients to the best of their medical ability, regardless of (the patient's income status), I think physicians would be delirious," he said. "And I would tell hospital administrators that with a single payer they will receive a more predictable reimbursement at less cost of retrieving it. If their administrative costs... are reduced significantly, then they can turn that into new revenue for the institution.

"The only big profit makers in the last 30 years," Douglass added, "have been insurance companies and pharmaceutical companies."

Indeed, pharmaceutical companies are among the loudest protesters when talk turns to health care reform. "The federal government already subsidizes the pharmaceutical industry to a great extent because most of the basic research (on drugs) is done at universities on federal grants," Douglass said. "Then, the pharmaceutical house gets access to that open document—a biochemical breakthrough—and they want a patent on it as a product so they can charge the patient 1,000 times what it costs them. That's ridiculous."

Douglass suggests the federal government directly fund pharmaceutical research and negotiate rights to developed drugs and how much patients will be charged for them.

"They'll still make money because instead of charging 1,000 times what the drug costs to produce, maybe they'll only be able to charge 500 times its cost," he said.

Finally, Douglass answers the argument that a national health plan will preclude patients' rights to choose their own physicians by noting that few of us do that now.

"We may choose our primary care physicians, but most of us certainly don't pick our specialists. We go into the hospital and they just show up at the door," he said. "This idea that we all have some God-given right to choose our own doctors is (public relations) of the American Medical Association. We don't pick our own doctors."

A national system of access to health care for all citizens makes sense, Douglass concluded, because the sooner people are treated, the less expensive their medical needs are later on.

"If we don't give access early on to people who need it, by the time they do get into the system, they're very expensive," he said. "The insurance companies will fight all of this, but they'll lose. To win, they have to be able to say that the way we're doing it now is working and the fact is it isn't.

Five Candidates Seek Two School Board Seats

JOHN DEIKIS

John Deikis, 45, 780 N. Freer Rd., and his wife, Carol Blotter, and their sons, Jeffery, age 8, and Luke, age 13, moved to Chelsea in 1991.

Deikis, a first time candidate for any elected office, was born in Hanover, Germany. His parents, refugees during World War II, eventually settled in Stamford, Conn., where Deikis attended school.

He attended Iona College for a year, then worked on a ship for the National Maritime Union. He later earned a bachelor's degree in sociology at Rutgers University and a master's degree in education at Indiana University. After working and managing various substance abuse prevention programs, he earned a doctorate in psychology at Temple University in 1982.

Today he works for an outpatient substance abuse program at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Battle Creek. Blotter works for Comshare in Ann Arbor.

"We decided to live in Chelsea because of the schools and because of what the community felt like," Deikis says.

Why did you decide to run for office?

Because we have kids in school and I felt as though the school system is small enough that parental involvement can make a substantial difference. It's not like a larger school system. I read there would be two openings and I'd like to have some level of input into the way schools are operated.

What do you see as the major issues facing the district?

How we're going to maintain programs with funding that is shrinking. Another more global issue is what the schools ought to be teaching kids. I've seen situations where children are taught fact after fact but they're not able to do much with those facts. Kids need to be able to think critically and to solve problems. It comes down to a philosophy of education.

Why do you think you would make a good board member?

I think I'm a fairly creative thinker in the face of problems. I don't get pessimistic. I sort through issues and work toward solutions. In my work I end up doing a lot of compromising and consensus building. I'm also used to working in programs that are plagued by a lack of resources. But I've seen tremendous things done by concerned parents, volunteers in the community, and businesses that have an interest in some aspect of what you're doing.

What would you like to see the board accomplish during your term?

We need to provide an educational experience for kids who are bright so they don't get bored in school. A lot of times that's the first stuff that gets cut when money is tight. If we sacrifice in this country, and the Germans and Japanese don't, we'll become very average.

Has there been a recent board decision with which you've disagreed?

One I'm not sure about was the decision not to put Channel One into the classrooms. I was kind of on the fence. I'm not sure that one more commercial would make that much difference to a student. Exposure to that kind of program and technology could have been exciting.

If you could wave your magic wand and change one thing about the district, what would it be?

I think kids should start getting school work to do at home from the beginning. Not necessarily difficult work. It could be something as simple as coloring a picture. Just things they have to hand back in. Kids come into sixth grade with no study skills whatsoever.

SANDRA MERKEL

Sandra Merkel, 49, 252 Shoreview Dr., has been a resident of the area for 21 years. She and her husband, Pat, have a daughter, Martha, a sophomore at Chelsea High school.

Merkel was born in Marcus, Ia., and attended the University of Iowa, where she earned a bachelor's degree in nursing. In 1971 she became head nurse at Mott Children's Hospital in Ann Arbor. After a short time as department head of surgical nursing at Chelsea Community Hospital, she returned to Mott for what she calls "my dream job," working as a clinical nurse specialist in pediatric pain.

She has participated in Chelsea schools since 1982 in the classroom and with athletic programs. She served as vice-president of the South school parent-teacher organization from 1983-86.

Why did you decide to run for office?

I've always been interested in the schools and I thought I had the skills. With my career and my family I need to spend more time with them before. I've made the decision not to be involved as much in nursing as I have in the past to give me time to do this.

Why do you believe you would be a good board member?

Because of my ability to listen and analyze data and make and communicate decisions. I believe I have the leadership to stimulate thinking and encourage people to make changes. In my job, I have been a mentor to a group of nurses to get them to stretch their abilities.

What do you believe are the major issues facing the Chelsea district?

Funding is one of the biggest issues. The district is growing and we need to have a facility to house kids that is appropriate for learning. We also need to explore technology. At work, even the people who do the housekeeping need to be able to use a computer. We need a curriculum for learning in a rapidly changing society.

We also need to come back to quality and commitment and create an enthusiasm and excitement about education. Children need to be taught to be self-learners.

Has there been a recent board decision with which you've disagreed?

The bond issue. I really supported the board's vision but the way they went about identifying areas and communicating them didn't work. It was not thought out as well as it should have been. At that time, voters were saying no to just about everything.

Why do you believe the bond issue failed and what advice would you give to the board about a new bond issue for school improvements?

It failed because of the size of the project. It was very large and there was no coalition of support. It had a new school, renovations, pre-school space, and athletic fields. We sort of need some of all of that and we need to start communicating early so we can do a better job. Our sense of community comes through things like athletics, music, arts and drama. Voters need to know that Chelsea schools have always opened their doors to all their citizens.

If you could wave your magic wand and change one thing about the Chelsea district, what would it be?

I would give the students technology. It would change the way they learn and teachers could teach a little differently.

JANET ROBERTS

Janet Roberts, 37, 11506 Jackson Rd., is a lifelong resident of the Chelsea area. She and her husband, Dan, have four children, Jesse 13, Christopher 11, Sonja 9, and Daniel 8.

Roberts is a member of the Chelsea High school class of 1973. She earned a bachelor's degree in psychology from Michigan State University in 1977. However, she was since worked mostly in business. She owns Roberts Consulting, which employs her part-time providing bookkeeping, budgeting, and secretarial services for small companies.

Dan Roberts owns Ingenuity Woodwork of Chelsea.

Roberts, who has run unsuccessfully for school board twice (losing by four votes in 1990 and 20 votes in 1991), is active in numerous Chelsea educational groups. She is active in the Chelsea Education Foundation and helped start the Waterloo Recreation Area Program summer environmental program for students. She also helped start the Girls in Science program in conjunction with the University of Michigan Aerospace Engineering Department.

She has also worked on the district's facilities committee, served as a classroom volunteer, worked for the Chelsea Children's Co-operative, and worked for the Chelsea Early Childhood Education Coalition.

Why are you running again for the board?

Mainly because Anne Comeau and Ron Satterthwaite are going off and I feel we are losing some real leadership on the board. I've had a lot of requests from people asking me to run again.

Why do you think you would be a good board member?

Nobody I know is more concerned or interested in what's going on. I think I reflect a lot of parents' views about the district.

What do you believe are the major issues facing the district?

Looking at long-term budgeting concerns. We're going to see the shrinking of the school budget and we need to make the most efficient use of our money. Also, students need to have access to technology—not just computers but video, audio, and network access. We need to think about establishing that in the schools.

What would you like to see the board accomplish during your term?

Some informal board policies need to be more formalized. For example, if there's a grievance with a teacher, it's unclear what the process is. A lot of people don't understand the hiring policies.

If you could wave your magic wand and change one thing about the Chelsea district, what would it be?

We need some better method of evaluating teachers and providing accountability when there are concerns about teachers. I don't know if the board has any control over that, but it's something I've heard again and again. When teachers make mistakes or do something questionable, there are real concerns.

As a board member, you will be faced with creating a new bond issue for school improvements. Why do you believe the last bond issue failed and what advice would you have for the board?

The majority felt it was asking for too much all at once. When the facilities committee was discussing the project we were talking about a new elementary school and renovations at the elementary schools. It was not until the end that we started talking about the other buildings. Even though there are pressing needs everywhere, we need to ask for just part of (what was in the last bond issue).

ANNE WILLIAMS

Anne Williams, 35, 13354 Oakridge Ln., has lived in the Chelsea area for the last 25 years. She is a member of the Chelsea High school class of 1976.

Williams earned a bachelor's degree in biochemistry and a master's degree in industrial technology from Eastern Michigan University. She works as an engineering and technical consultant for a number of area companies. For example, she might help a company decide on new production methods or how to integrate new computers into the business.

She has been involved in a number of area programs including Christmas in April, which she will coordinate next year, Crop Walk, which she co-ordinated, Meals on Wheels, the Chelsea Education Foundation, Faith in Action, and the Chelsea Substance Abuse Task Force.

You are an unusual candidate in that you have no children in Chelsea schools. Why did you decide to run for office?

My motivation is that I want to give something back to the Chelsea community. I grew up here and the community has been very good to me. Also, I've seen young people not being able to do jobs and they have no direction. I want to assist the educational process in the early stages so they don't run into the problems I've seen on my job. I don't want children to be unprepared when they get out of school. I also see having no children in school as a positive. I come in with a different perspective and I'm not biased toward any one area.

What do you see as the major issue facing the Chelsea School District?

Making sure that all children get a quality education, whether it's in remedial reading or for the gifted. We need to meet as many needs of the diverse group as we can. Also, basic communications and problem-solving skills need to be taught.

Why do you think you would be a good board member?

I have a financial planning and strategic planning background. I also have a positive attitude. In my work I go into a variety of different situations and I have to pull many groups together and come to a solution that everyone can be happy with. I'm a team player.

What would you like to see the board accomplish during your term?

I'd like to see them put the technology plan together. But I wouldn't be there for any personal project. I'd be there to serve the public. There are a lot of small areas that need to be addressed.

Has there been a recent board decision with which you've disagreed?

Off hand, I can't think of any particular issue. It seems as though they've been pretty attentive.

As a new board member, you will be faced with putting together a new bond issue for the Chelsea School District for school improvements. Why do you think the last bond issue failed and what advice would you have for the board?

People were not made aware of exactly what it was in detail. Too much was lumped together and the overall plan was not laid out as thoroughly as it could have been.

If you could wave your magic wand and change one thing about the Chelsea School District, what would it be?

That when a decision is being made, there is plenty of input from the community and once a decision is made, everyone sticks together to make it work.

DAYLE WRIGHT

Dayle Wright, 43, 126 South St., has been a Chelsea resident for 14 years. She and her husband, Steven, a civil engineer at the University of Michigan, have two children; Daniel is a fourth grader and Glenn is an eighth grader.

Wright earned a bachelor's degree in foods and nutrition from Washington State University in 1972 and a master's degree in public health nutrition. She has held various jobs in the field but has been a homemaker since her first child was born.

She has been president of the South school parent-teacher organization and president of the Chelsea Children's Co-operative. She has also worked on the school district's report card and central curriculum committees.

Why did you decide to run for office?

The main thing is that no incumbents are running and my children are old enough that I can be involved and I have the time to be involved. I went to the candidate orientation and I thought I was as qualified as anyone there.

What do you think is the most pressing issue facing the school district?

Making sure that we're educating students so they can perform on the job. I think some kids are getting ignored.

What would you like to see the board accomplish during your term?

The maintenance of the buildings and grounds needs more attention. I'm most familiar with South school. I just feel they need to be kept up. I would support another bond issue.

Has there been a recent board decision with which you've disagreed?

I did not agree with the last bond proposal. I did not feel the taxpayers were fully prepared to fund classrooms for pre-school, which is not mandated by the state.

As a new board member, you will be faced with forming another bond issue for school improvements. Why do you believe the last proposal failed and what advice would you have for the board?

There were too many different things that people disagreed with. It was too big. The board should not try to deal with so many different things at once.

If you could wave your magic wand and change one thing about the school district, what would it be?

I think teacher tenure needs to be looked at, whether it's needed to protect academic freedom. I'm hearing this over and over again from people in the community. They are very frustrated in dealing with teachers who have a history of performing poorly.

It's Showcase Time!

The Home Builders Association of Washtenaw County, the local affiliate of the National Association of Home Builders, has announced the dates for the upcoming 1993 Showcase of Homes. This year's Showcase will be running from June 12 through June 20. The hours will be: Saturday, Sunday, and Wednesday from 11 a.m. through 8 p.m.; Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday from 6 p.m. through 10 p.m.; and Friday from 6 p.m. through 11 p.m.

The first Showcase of Homes was in 1985. Seven builders participated, with a total of nine homes on tour. 3,000 people attended that year. Each year this event has grown both in number of houses and attendance. The 1993 Showcase of Homes will represent the best of 35 builders in 39 homes.

Indeed, this is a showcase for many of the latest fashions, colors, and styles of home decor. But this will be equally represented in homes valued over $500,000 to some valued under $100,000. With this wide variation in styles represented by the 39 homes on the tour this year, it is certainly best to allow enough time to enjoy all of the homes. Whether you are planning to build in the near future, planning to

Nature Events Set At Hudson Mills

Three nature programs will be held at the Activity Center of Hudson Mills Metropark near Dexter.

"Tot Lot Nature Fun," an informal and fun nature study of birds for children of all ages, will be held Friday, June 11 at 11 a.m. Registration is required.

"Fishing Fun for Kids," an introduction to the fish and fishing the Huron River, for kids 8 years and older, accompanied by an adult, will be held at the River Grove Picnic Area on Saturday, June 12 at 10 a.m. Registration is required and there is a fee ($5 or less) to cover the costs of rod, reel and bait that will be provided each child. No fishing license is required. June 12 and 13 is Free Fishing Week-end in Michigan.

"All About Trees," a walk focusing on trees—their identification, how they grow, and their value to humans and wildlife, will begin at the Activity Center on Saturday, June 12 at 2 p.m. Registration is required.

Advance registration and a vehicle entry permit are required: (Annual - $15 regular / $8 Senior Citizen or Daily - $3 week-ends and holidays, $2 week-days except Tuesdays, which are free entry days).

buy a home, or just looking to see the latest in building styles or home decor, the 1993 Showcase of Homes will certainly be an enjoyable event. Admission to the Showcase is $5 for adults, children 18 and under are free when accompanied by an adult. A portion of the proceeds will be donated to "Christmas in April" Washtenaw. This program is a community service project which focuses on repairing and remodeling homes for the elderly and disabled.

This year, the hub site for the Showcase tour will be at "Hearthstone," on the corner of Packard and Gladstone in Arbor. Tickets may be purchased here during the show or at any of the other houses. You do not need to tour all of the homes in one day. Advance tickets may be purchased at the Home Builders Association, 1919 W. Stadium, Ann Arbor.

Clean Water Program Must Be Sensible To Be Successful

Any rewrite of the nation's Clean Water Act must be science-based and incentive-oriented to be successful, according to the Michigan Farm Bureau. Congress is expected to reauthorize the Clean Water Act this year.

"It is important for everyone to know that whatever water quality problems exist in rural America, they are manageable problems and not a crisis," said Michigan Farm Bureau public affairs director Al Almy. "Sensible non-point source pollution programs should include locally designed solutions, reasonable wetlands regulations and pollution permit trading."

Almy said a non-point source pollution program is needed that retains the basic tenets of the current Clean Water Act Section 319 program. That program preserves "the right of the states as the unit of government responsible for water quality standards" and emphasizes locally designed solutions and emphasizes locally designed solutions and voluntary programs, according to Almy.

He urged Congress to avoid the temptation to adopt federally prescribed "one-size-fits-all" solutions. "The more local people take control of the effort, the better the results will be. In addition, a sound and trusted delivery system of information, technology, and assistance to the farm-gate is needed," he said.

*Mosquitoes Silenced By Own Hormone...

A female mosquito can lay as many as 100 to 300 eggs at one time, so it's easy to see why so many of them buzz around on a hot summer night.

But U.S. Department of Agriculture scientists have discovered a hormone produced by the mosquito itself—that prevents those eggs from hatching. That could mean a whole lot less itching—and a new tool against malaria and other diseases transmitted by mosquitoes in foreign countries.

David A. Carlson of USDA's Agricultural Research Service said that in lab tests the hormone also sterilized biting midges, flies and fleas. These insect pests, like mosquitoes, need blood for their eggs to develop.

Carlson, a chemist at the Medical and Veterinary Entomology Research Lab in Gainesville, Fla., said a synthetic chemical mimic of the oostatic hormone was injected into female mosquitoes. That hormone inhibited up to 98 percent of the eggs from forming. He said the hormone can also be fed to mosquitoes.

Within mosquitoes, he said, the hormone is present only during certain times in the insect's life cycle. If the hormone is put into the mosquito at the right time, it blocks the production of enzymes that female mosquitoes need to develop their eggs, "essentially sterilizing the females."

Carlson said the discovery of the hormone opens the way to inserting the hormone-producing gene in a mosquito parasite called a spiroplasma. These tiny parasites inhabit more than 100 insect and tick species, as well as some plants. Carlson said three species of spiroplasmas live on mosquitoes, but only one causes disease.

If the gene for oostatic hormone can be inserted into living spiroplasma, the spiroplasma could then be sprayed or applied in some other way on mosquitoes in the field, he said.

Carlson and Dov Borovsky, a chemist at the University of Florida, received a pair of patents in 1991 and 1992 on their discovery of the oostatic hormone and its specific chemical structure.

Carlson said the oostatic hormone works by shutting down the insect's production of a key digestive enzyme called trypsin, produced in the mosquito's gut. Researchers found that the hormone reduced trypsin production by up to 80 percent. "Without enough trypsin, the female cannot digest the blood that she takes in for food," he said.

The Job Training Partnership Act provides job training services for economically disadvantaged adults and youth, dislocated workers and others who face significant employment barriers. The Act, which began operation in 1983, aims to move the jobless into permanent self-sustaining employment. It is administered by the U.S. Labor Department.

Transfer Students Receive Scholarships

When 12 Washtenaw Community College students, including two from Dexter and Chelsea, transfer to the University of Michigan this fall, they will have help with their school financing thanks to a special scholarship provided by the university.

The University of Michigan Community College Scholarship was designed to provide two $500 scholarships for transferring students from each of Michigan's 29 community colleges. Students are required to maintain a 3.5 or higher grade point average and have spent the better part of their two-year studies at one Michigan community college, according to Eleanor Hendershot, assistant director of undergraduate admissions. If the university doesn't receive qualified applicants from each eligible school, the scholarships are distributed among those who satisfy the requirements.

Stacey M. Gallagher of Chelsea, who is interested in general studies, and Andrea Panfil of Dexter, who is interested in accounting, are among those receiving the scholarships.

The National Industrial Recovery Act of 1933 guaranteed employees the right to organize and bargain collectively. In 1935 the Supreme Court held that the law was unconstitutional, but in July, 1935, Congress passed the National Labor Relations Act, which established a board to supervise and enforce labor's right to organize and bargain collectively, according to the Department of Labor's "Labor Firsts In America."

At the eye camp, 15 ophthalmologists and 250 volunteers from 28 countries participated in the largest high-tech eye camp ever held. Over 18,000 villagers were evaluated and 8,000 pairs of eyeglasses were given out. Over a ten day period, 1,323 cataract patients received high-tech surgery which included the insertion of intraocular lens implants. Dr. Hawks has returned with a renewed commitment to the area communities.

1993 CHELSEA HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATE Megan Stielstra was recently selected one of the state's Outstanding High School graduates by the Detroit News. Megan, nominated by high school teacher Bill Coelius, was selected in language arts. Two students were selected in each subject category. She has been involved extensively in debate, forensics, the Madrigal Choir, Washington Street Show Choir, Marching Band, Wind Ensemble, and numerous high school musicals. She was invited to tour England as a vocalist with the National Academy of Music. Last year she attended both the Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp on an eight-week theatrical scholarship and attended the World Affairs Seminar in Wisconsin. This fall she will attend Boston University to major in communications. She says she'd like to practice law for the American Civil Liberties Union and join the Peace Corps. She credits her parents, Ruth and Darcy Stielstra, with giving her "my love of literature and art, a free mind, and the knowledge that everything is a new opportunity."

Farmers Concerned About New Federal Tax Hike Efforts

Farm Bureau is urging the House Ways and Means Committee to reject federal tax increases of any kind.

Increases in the top income tax rate for individuals and corporations to 38 percent, and the increase in the maximum estate tax rate to 55 percent, may not directly affect most Americans, said Jack Laurie, president of the Michigan Farm Bureau, "but it will decrease capital investment and lower the number of new jobs created."

Of special concern to agriculture is the proposed energy tax, according to Laurie. "Farm income will suffer because farmers are unable to pass on production cost increases that will result from the energy tax," he said. Farm Bureau supports the reinstatement of the investment tax credit, Laurie said, "However, Congress should enact a favorable capital gains tax treatment, especially indexing of capital gains, rather than a temporary investment tax credit that would have little long-term effect on the economy," he said.

Laurie also noted that Farm Bureau supports the administration's provisions to permanently extend the favorable tax treatment of agricultural development bonds because they would encourage individuals to enter farming.
