20th Annual Sidewalk Sale Promises Plenty of Bargains, Entertainment

The 20th Annual Sidewalk Sale should be the biggest ever, organizers say.

Scheduled for this Friday and Saturday in downtown Chelsea, the annual event is far more than a sale. There will be music, entertainment, food, a community-wide garage sale, and more than 50 booths of arts and crafts to go along with the many sales by downtown merchants.

Merchants are planning plenty of bargains. Much of the merchandise will be discontinued but several stores plan store-wide sales.

Crafts booths feature artists from the area and all over Michigan. In addition to the many returning crafters, there will be Japanese origami by Colleen Brooks, hand-woven hammocks by Sally Autin, and a variety of jewelry. In addition to their usual location on South St., crafters can be found throughout the business district.

E. Middle St. will hold an assortment of foods from local organizations and restaurants, and the entertainment tent.

The event runs from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Friday and 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturday.

Friday's entertainment schedule includes: 1 p.m., Earth Angels (dancing and lip-synching); 2:30 p.m., Barney; 4:30 p.m., The Spriggins (Celtic Band); 5:45 p.m., Cottonwood Cloggers; 7 p.m. to 10 p.m., Gaslighters (easy listening music).

Saturday's entertainment schedule includes: 10 a.m., karate demonstration; noon, Colors the Clown; 1:45 p.m., Red Rug Puppet Theater; 2:30 p.m., Sweet Adelines; 3:30 p.m., Gorton Family Singers (Chelsea band).

Numerous special events are planned as well.

McKune Memorial Library will have a book sale on both days during regular library hours. In addition, at 11 a.m. Saturday the library will sponsor a "Love Your Library" puppet show by the Red Rug Puppet Theater. Children age 10 and under must be accompanied by an adult.

On Saturday at 10 a.m. will be the annual Antique Car Show. Cars will be displayed in the Jiffy Mix parking lot until 2 p.m., and the parade will follow at 2:30 through the downtown.

Chelsea Area Historical Society will hold a craft and bake sale at the Chelsea Depot. Also on display will be the tribute to Mabel Holmes celebrating her induction into the Women of Michigan Hall of Fame.

Chelsea Motorcycle Supply will sell motorcycle sidcar rides, with the proceeds going to the Sidewalk Sale.

Yields, Test Weight Down in Wheat Crop

This year's wheat crop has not been good for western Washtenaw farmers or the area's largest grain elevator.

Yields are ranging from about 20 to 50 bushels per acre, said Klaus Bachmann of Provoco-Big H elevator in Chelsea. A normal harvest yields 60 bushels.

That comes on top of a wet fall last year in which plantings were down about 20 percent.

"We're only going to handle 60 percent of normal," Bachmann said.

"This year we'll handle about 100,000 bushels. Last year we handled about 180,000 bushels and our goal is 200,000. We're geared to volume and our margin is the same no matter how much we take in. It doesn't make it easy for us."

This year's crop has suffered a lot of winter kill, Bachmann said, caused mostly by repeated freezing and thawing.

Test weights are averaging about 54 pounds per bushel when the normal is 56-60 pounds.

Farmers are receiving about $2.85 to $3 per bushel, which Bachmann said would be a reasonable price with a normal size harvest.

"I don't think anyone has made any money this year," Bachmann said.

One bright spot for farmers, Bachmann said, is corn and soybean crops appear to be in fine shape. Those crops are generally more important for area farmers than wheat.

Village Supports New Golf Course

Village of Chelsea has written a letter to the county that formally supports the construction of a golf course behind Polly's Market at Pierce Lake.

The letter follows a vote of village council.

The parcel of land for the course is in Sylvan and Lima townships outside of the village limits. Although the county has not officially asked for the parcel to be annexed, Fred Barkley, director of the county parks and recreation department, told council that he would prefer annexation, partly because he'd only have to deal with one unit of government. He'd also prefer access to village utilities.

According to the letter written by village president Richard Steele, the project is appropriate because it will give residents of the western part of the county access to a county golf course without driving all the way to

Schools Stunned By Scrapping of Property Tax As Funding Mechanism

Where will the money come from?

That was the number one question on Chelsea superintendent Joe Piasecki's mind last week after the state legislature shocked the school community by eliminating property taxes as a method of funding school operations.

Both the state house and senate overwhelmingly approved the measure proposed by Sen. Debbie Stabenow, D-Lansing, who has announced her candidacy for governor.

The tax repeal would affect 1994 property taxes, beginning with next summer's collections, and go into effect Dec. 31.

Estimates of the over-all state-wide cut are $5.6 to $6.4 billion.

The problem for the school community is no one knows how the money will be made up, or even if it can be made up. There was no proposal for any tax increase, only the promise to overhaul the school financing system.

"I think what they did is totally irresponsible," Piasecki said last week.

"I found it real hard to believe they would do that without a way to replace the lost revenue. I don't think it's fair to do one without the other."

The prospects are ominous in many ways for out-of-formula districts like Chelsea which have depended almost exclusively on property taxes for financing. Gov. John Engler has said he wants the action to result in an over-all tax cut for state residents, which means there will have to be cuts in other areas of government if schools are to receive their same level of funding.

Engler has vowed, at least publicly, to oppose an increase in the income tax. That leaves only the sales tax, single business tax, and some other yet-to-be-devised tax to fund schools. A constitutional amendment to increase the sales tax from four cents to six cents, Proposal A, was voted down this spring, leaving that method in doubt. All kinds of possibilities have been discussed, including a state-wide property tax, a cigarette tax, and a tax on services.

"The reality is, we're probably not going to do business any cheaper than we are now," Piasecki said.

State Sen. Lana Pollack, who voted with the majority, said an increase in income taxes, "at least three percent," has to be a part of the solution. She also said the state will either have to restore part of the property tax or raise the single business tax.

"The fear, of course, is we'll replace 80 percent of the money and not the last 20 percent," Pollack said. "I'd be less than honest if I said, 'trust us, things will work out fine.'"

Beyond the funding question, however, is how the change in financing might fundamentally change the way schools operate. Without local property taxes or some other source, schools will have to depend entirely on the state.

"Is this the beginning of a state-wide salary structure?" Piasecki asked.

"Is this the beginning of a state-wide curriculum? If the state takes care of all the funding, they're going to have more say in the way schools are run. I think we are in for some very interesting times."

Chelsea's teacher contract runs out in 1994, which means under normal circumstances the Chelsea Education Association (teachers union) and school board would begin negotiating a new contract next spring. No one knows whether any local bargaining will take place anymore since there won't be any locally-controlled funds. If all bargaining takes place at the state level, there's the possibility of state-wide strikes.

Sen. Pollack Explains Why She Supported Tax Elimination

Democratic State Sen. Lana Pollack said she now regrets voting for the elimination of property taxes to fund schools because there were no provisions to make up the lost revenue.

Although Pollack voted against the initial amendment to eliminate property taxes submitted by Democratic Sen. Debbie Stabenow of Lansing, after a few changes were made to it she changed her vote.

She had earlier offered her own amendment to reduce property taxes by 24 percent and increase the income tax from 4.6 to 6 percent, a proposal she has made before. However, there was no support and she withdrew it.

"I cast my vote with the majority when I saw it was a done deal," Pollack said.

"I'm sorry I didn't vote a straight 'no.' Frankly, it was a case of giving up. I can't explain it any other way. I'm sorry I didn't fight to the end."

Pollack likened the legislature's action to a train out of control.

"Maybe I should have laid down on the tracks," she said.

Pollack's vote would have made little difference as the Senate passed the measure 33-4. The House passed it 69-35.

Democratic State Rep. Mary Schroer voted no.

THE AMBASSADORS will perform this Saturday for the third time in Chelsea's Concert in the Park series in Pierce Park. Above, vocalist Doug Kerr belts out a tune from the Big Band era. Also on the bill for the 6 p.m. show are the Brass Potatoes and the Amazing Jimmie Lee, a blind magician.

Ambassadors To Headline Next Concert in The Park on Saturday

One of the most popular and requested acts ever to perform at the annual Concert in the Park series in Chelsea is set to make a return engagement this Saturday.

The Ambassadors will make their third appearance from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m., a longer-than-usual show for the series.

The Ambassadors are a 19-piece Big Band ensemble specializing in the sounds of Glenn Miller, Tommy Dorsey, Les Brown, and Count Basie, among many others from the Big Band era. They also play other popular tunes from the 40's through the 80's.

Chelsea-area resident Doug Kerr is the lead vocalist and he's backed by the vocal quartet "The Diplomats."

Also scheduled to perform are two other acts.

The Brass Potatoes Dixieland Band

is scheduled to open the show. The band has been together in various incarnations since 1977.

The band is often asked about their name, and so far they've declined to explain. However, the band never plays without an actual brass potato close at hand.

The members of the band play professionally in other ensembles, including The Ambassadors. They share a love of well-played, traditional jazz.

The Amazing Jimmie Lee is also on the bill and will perform during the break. Jimmie Lee is a blind magician. He and his wife, Phyllis (who doubles as his assistant) are visiting the area from Florida.

Lee is also skilled in balloon art and is a stand-up comic, singer, and square dance caller. He has appeared at the Monroe County Fair, Toledo Festival, the Repertoire Theatre in Toledo, and at venues in Las Vegas, Los Angeles, and other areas. He will perform a portion of his 35 stage illusions and will create a few of his 53 different balloon sculptures.

As usual, the Rotary Club Ice Cream Wagon and the Cottage Inn Pizza Trailer will be on hand to sell food, refreshments, and snacks. Proceeds from Rotary sales go to Rotary projects while a portion of proceeds from Cottage Inn sales go to fund the concert series.

Concertgoers are urged to bring their own food, blankets, lawn chairs, or other creature comforts.

The free concert is sponsored by the Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce and the Chelsea Recreation Council.

Parking is available on the grounds of Chelsea Community Hospital.

Area Man Electrocuted In Accident Thursday

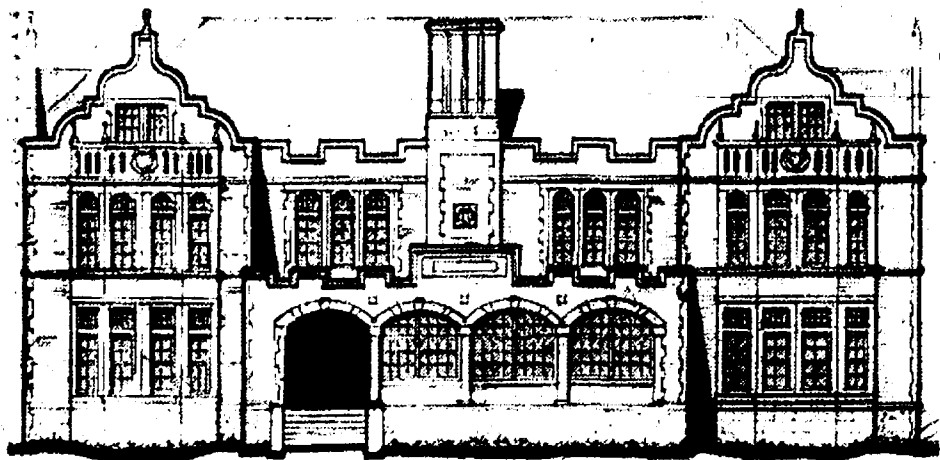

A 37-year-old Chelsea man died last Thursday when the bed of his dump truck snagged high-voltage power lines in Waterloo township.

Mark Baize, an employee of Klink Excavating Co., was standing outside the truck and using hand controls to raise the bed of his dump truck in preparation to clean it out at about 1:30 p.m. when the bed hit the overhead power line, snapping it in two. A surge of 14,400 volts of electricity hit Baize, who essentially served as a ground. Baize died at Chelsea Community Hospital at about 3 p.m. The surge also exploded at least one tire on the truck.

The accident also caused about 150 customers of Consumers Power to lose their power temporarily.

Contrary to rumors, no one else was hurt in the accident.

Wednesday, Aug. 9, 1989—

"On Monday, Aug. 14, the Chelsea Board of Education will seek approval of 2-1 additional operating mills. The millage is crucial for the school district if they wish to continue the existing programs. "The passage of the millage will ensure that the Chelsea School District has adequate financial resources for the next three years," said School Superintendent Joe Piasecki. The school district is not alone in its request for more operating money. Virtually every school district in the surrounding area has requested more millage from their communities because of increased costs.

"Chelsea High school principal John Williams has accepted a position with the Ingham County Intermediate School District and will leave his position here before the end of the month. Williams' last day will be Tuesday, Aug. 22. He has been principal of CHS since 1977. A search has started for an interim principal, according to superintendent Joe Piasecki. The interim principal would take over until a permanent replacement can be named, probably in early November. Mary Gauthier, daughter of Patty and Richard Gauthier, will be competing as a state finalist in the "Miss Michigan Princess Pageant," ages 4 to 7 years, to be held at the Plymouth Hilton on Aug. 11-12.

championship, a test of navigational skills, last week at Indianola, Ia., in his 75-foot green and yellow balloon named Uncle Wiggly. He was world champion in 1975.

Chelsea Community Fair will open Tuesday. Ten girls are vying for the fair queen title.

Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland is scheduled to speak at Lima Town Hall Tuesday on land use problems and other agricultural issues.

Voters will decide the fate of a 1.7 mill tax increase at the school election Monday. A millage proposal failed at the June election.

Thursday, Aug. 14, 1969—Negotiations between the school board and Chelsea Education Association, the teachers' union, are moving slowly, according to representatives of the CEA team. A state negotiator, who was called in after little progress was made between March and July, met with both teams Aug. 7. School administrators are on vacation now, so negotiations will resume Aug. 19. School is scheduled to start Sept. 3, and negotiations haven't moved beyond the non-economic issues yet.

"The vacation ended for a couple who passed bad checks at several local stores. They were arrested by the sheriff's department yesterday. The woman was wearing a two-piece swim suit and floating on a raft in the middle of Clear Lake, and her husband was sitting on a boat by the shore when sheriff's deputies arrived. They had bought fishing equipment, food, swim suits, an iron and sweat shirts at eight village businesses with checks from a closed account.

BEHIND THE HEADLINES:

Our Immigration Policies Are A Mess!

Across much of the world each year, millions of refugees and would-be immigrants join a swelling tide of humanity seeking desperately to escape oppression and poverty for a better life. For the United States and other favored destinations, it's an agonizing problem that defies solution.

By Philip C. Clarke

Few Americans had been aware of the growing Chinese immigration problem until the night of June 8th. That's when a tramp freighter named the Golden Venture ran aground off New York City, spilling nearly 300 illegal Chinese immigrants onto a beach not far from the Statue of Liberty. Six drowned but the others survived in a dramatic rescue operation. The incident laid bare the details of a sordid but flourishing immigrant-smuggling business worth some $3 billion a year.

Convinced by movies and TV that America is the land of gold-paved streets and limitless opportunities, thousands of Chinese, most of them from rural provinces, have signed up for the long and arduous journey. Typically, each traveler agrees to pay the "snakeheads," as the smuggler bosses are called, about $30,000 with 10 percent down and the rest of the debt to be worked off after the immigrant finds a job in America. Many of the victims end up in a form of indentured servitude, or slave labor, in Chinatown sweatshops, their installment payments to the "snakeheads" often enforced at gunpoint.

Nonetheless, the flow of humanity continues. By one estimate, as many as 100,000 illegal Chinese immigrants arrive in the U.S. each year. The vast majority enter undetected, never encountering an immigration officer. But of those who do claim asylum—including survivors of the Golden Venture—an astonishing 80 to 85 percent are approved for permanent domicile.

The reason is simple. Four years ago, then President Bush, in an act of compassion after the Tiananmen Square massacre, ordered that asylum be granted to all Chinese who left their country to escape Beijing's harsh population controls, including forced abortions and sterilization. When word of this reached China's provinces, the rush to America was on. In the past two years alone, the volume of Chinese immigration, legal and illegal, has multiplied tenfold.

U.S. authorities, undermanned and hamstrung by outmoded rules and regulations, have been literally overwhelmed. Although some two dozen shiploads of illegal immigrants have been seized in the past two years, the smugglers have outfitted at least 50 more "rust buckets" to keep the human sealift going. And most of the 1,800 or so "illegals" who are apprehended had been coached in advance on how to apply for asylum, informing officials they had arrived "at the invitation" of the President and the U.S. Congress!

Statistics point up the need for reforms. Asylum claims now require about 18 months just to "evaluate." And it would take our overworked Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) some 10 years to dispose of its current backlog of 250,000 asylum applications. During such unrealistic waiting periods, most "illegals" simply disappear into the general population.

This happens not only among Chinese immigrants but for many thousands of asylum-seekers from other countries. The INS' New York office alone now has 62,000 deportation proceedings underway. At the current rate, it would take 80 years to clear the system out.

The U.S. now admits about 1 million legal immigrants a year. There are no reliable figures on "illegals," but one INS spokesperson puts the number anywhere from 3 million to 6 million—not including the some 2 million or more jobless Mexicans who cross and re-cross our porous Southern border each year.

As critics see it, U.S. immigration policies are in shambles, opening the floodgates to countless aliens who are displacing American workers, aggravating crime and race relations and lowering over-all U.S. living standards. Defenders of American's traditional "open door" policy, on the other hand, argue that as a nation built by immigrants, our strength depends on the diversity and the skills and labors of newcomers.

This summer, other domestic concerns permitting, Congress will debate proposals to revamp our haphazard and often conflicting immigration laws. Common sense dictates that America maintain compassion for the truly oppressed "boat people" of the world while, at the same time, regaining control over our borders. Our future depends on it.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The fellows viewed with alarm through most of the session at the country store Saturday night. Ed Doolittle noted that the papers have been full of budgets lately, and he's wondering who's pulling what wool over whose eyes. As Federal, State and local Governments go through their annual shell games, he said, they are calling peas all kind of names and hiding em in all kind of places.

Basic, Ed allowed, it is the same old peck order otherwise known as mandating. Washington mandates to states that mandate to locals that get headaches pecking on their wage earners and taxpayers. The trouble is, the bucks don't pass with the pecks. The Federal Government funds the program through the states. Federal funds dry up, but Federal law says the service can't. States pass more of the burden to local Governments and look for ways, like gambling, to pay the rest.

Meanwhile, Ed went on, local Governments want to keep their tax rates down even while they're required by State and Federal law to keep up programs they can't afford, so they try to ease the pain by setting up fees for services the public can't do without.

State and local elected officials want Washington to send the money with the mandates. The locals take the most political heat. They hold budget hearings and explain how they're saving 10 cents on the property tax rate by charging for ambulance, police and fire calls, and by doubling the landfill dumping fee they set up last year so they could claim they were operating the sanitation department at no-cost to taxpayers. Ed had saw where there's even talk of charging admission to public parks and libraries, and renting books instead of lending em.

General, the fellows shared Ed's concern. Zeke Grubb said desperate situations may call for desperate measures, but we got to have limits. Call state run lotteries a voluntary tax, Zeke said, and promise to give all the money you make off them to public schools, but when a state will raid a Moose Lodge poker game while running its own gambling operation you got a heavy problem with public confidence.

Furthermore, Zeke said, you got to know that the U.S. Postal Service will start talking poor mouth well ahead of the October start of the fiscal year, so brace for higher rates. If there's anything the Federal Government ought to do besides provide for the common defense it's deliver mail. Congress needs to forget this farce of running the post office like a private business and put mail service on the same foot as a standing army, was Zeke's words.

Clem Webster seconded Zeke's motion. A public library is everybody's school, Clem said, and the way public education is moving it soon may be the only school left. Nowhere are layers of bureaucratic greed thicker and tighter than in public education. All the educators and administrators unions know is more pay for less work, Clem said, and the loss is felt high and low, especial high.

Clem read where colleges hire actors and other artists as professors that do nothing. He said the rule, not the exception, is the Wake Forest University professor that read her poem for President Clinton, but never holds a class or even sets foot on the campus. Half of all professors do more outside consulting than teaching.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew

The wedding ceremony included a

Communion Service with the bride and bridegroom serving half the guests and Tracy and Joe serving the other half.

After the ceremony, the bridal couple were driven around by the bride's father in a white convertible loaned by John Klink and decorated by the bride's cousins, Jennifer, Joanne, and Jamie Reed, daughters of James and Joline Reed of Berwyn Heights, Md. They were driven through Chelsea and back to the reception, held at the Chelsea Rod and Gun Club.

The reception had a western theme. The cake was made by Donita Olson of Parma, the bride's aunt. It had hearts and cacti with the bridegroom on top wearing a black cowboy hat with a lasso around both the bride and bridegroom. Table decorations were cups filled with blue sand and cacti made by the bridegroom's step-mother, Shirley Howard.

After returning from their honeymoon, Christina, a 1989 Chelsea High school graduate, now employed at University Microfilms, and Michael, employed at Jetco, and their son, Christopher, will live in Ypsilanti.

DIET ROLLER COASTER

"All this talk about fiber. I've read what the American Cancer Society says about diets high in fiber helping reduce the risk of cancer and that diet plays a significant causal role in 10 types of cancer. I know my Doctor wants me to have between 25-35 gms of fiber a day, both soluble and insoluble. But, what does that mean? How do I get this much fiber? I'm worried. My grandfather died of colon cancer and my aunt had breast cancer. I know that I'm at higher risk, but I'm busy, I need safety and convenience. I need help." If you're serious about improving your health and increasing your energy levels. If you want to learn why the American Cancer Society feels that a healthful diet low in fat and high in fiber represents a front line of defense against cancer, let's sit down and talk.

Call Susan Bryan, R.N. "the diet lady" for an appointment today. (313) 475-2794.

Contamination Problem at Village Facility Not Solved

The village's soil and groundwater contamination problem at the former electric and water building on North St. may not be solved yet.

The village has been told that the contamination may have spread even further east under the section of the building that was spared demolition under a recent clean-up conducted at the site.

The village was forced to tear down a section of the building and excavate the site to remove gasoline contamination caused by leaky underground storage tanks at a cost of more than $200,000. The project cost is supposed to be paid by the Michigan Underground Storage Tank Financial Assurance (MUSTFA) fund.

The part of the building that was recently demolished was an add-on to the original complex, according to village manager Jack Myers. Myers speculates that there used to be underground tanks just outside the original building, and the second section was built over them. Contamination from those tanks is showing up in soil samples taken from under the remainder of the building.

YOU & YOUR PET

By Linda Reider

★ Your Pet's Teeth ★

Snickers and smiles invariably appear when I mention that I brush my pets' teeth. But as my dogs and cats are all geriatrics, and some of them have mighty few teeth left, keeping them clean is no laughing matter!

Kittens and puppies get their first set of teeth at about four to six weeks of age. Shiny white and razor sharp, these "baby" teeth will gradually give way to the larger permanent teeth when animals are between three and nine months old. Tartar builds up quickly along the gum line of pets' teeth, even with a strictly dry-food diet. While hard biscuits and nylon chew bones help to remove soft food debris, neither is effective enough to prevent tartar formation.

Tartar build-up on pets' teeth leads to cavities along the gum line, premature tooth loss, bad breath, and painfully ulcerated gums. Abscesses can develop beneath the gums, and the constant ingestion of bacteria from heavily tartared teeth can lead to internal infections that damage the heart and other organs, potentially shortening a pet's lifespan.

Cats, it seems, are more prone to periodontal problems than dogs, but both species require good tooth care. When pets are young, familiarize them with having their teeth cleaned by wrapping your finger in a strip of moistened gauze and gently cleaning a few teeth each day. Gradually work up to cleaning the whole mouth at least three times a week. A small toothbrush with toothpaste made specifically for pets (never use human toothpaste) is an alternative available at veterinarians and pet supply stores.

Tartar may build up slowly in spite of your efforts. It will appear as a tan to yellow-white chalky substance along the gum line, most likely on the back molars first. Your veterinarian can anesthetize your pet to remove the tartar as necessary.

Our pets enjoy longer healthier lives as we learn to care for them better. You can help yours keep his or her teeth for many years to come.

Summer is often associated with traveling and family vacations. It is a time to venture out and see new sights. Perhaps it is no coincidence that summer also provides extra time for reading. Books, like travel, can take us to new places, on adventures that we would never experience in any other way. They can take us to other locations, other times, even to fantasy lands that never truly existed. During sidewalk sales (July 30, 31), we encourage you to stop by the McKune Library book sale, and pick up some good summer reading.

Our funeral home also offers a number of books with topics relating to death. Our library covers death and grief, special needs (suicide, loss of a child), explaining death to children, and planning a funeral in advance. If you would like to borrow one of these books, just call or stop by.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

Concerning your July 21 article "Chelsea School Board To Review Bid Process," I was pleased to learn that Chelsea School Administrators are considering changes in the district's procurement process. The article cited a recent vote by the school board to accept a bid on two bus chassis. The board voted to purchase the buses from an out-of-town dealer even though a local dealer's bid was within 1.6%.

Chelsea is not an inexpensive community to do business in. Merchants operating in areas with less taxes and overhead will sometimes offer slightly lower prices than a Chelsea merchant can. As a local taxpayer, I am all for the school district saving money, but in this instance the choice of the lowest price may mean an overall higher cost.

Local businesses pay taxes, a great deal of which currently go to the schools. These businesses employ local people who also pay taxes, donate money, volunteer help and participate in school projects. Chelsea merchants donate money, land facilities, share resources and allow employees on the time clock to help in a multitude of school, student and community activities. All of which helps hold the cost of education down.

Local purchases provide a community of support that reduces overall school expenses and improves the quality of education for our students. Provided the quotes are relatively close, it is simply the best business decision the board can make to conserve our tax dollars.

To the Editor,

Recently I found a copy of the Satanic Bible in our home. It was given to my daughter by a presumed follower of satan for her to read so that she could become "enlightened" to the ways of the devil. The "bible" is very specific about how to perform satanic rites and ceremonies, devil worship, human sacrifice, group masturbation, the way to think, act, and dress. The only "love" it recommends is love of self; do exactly what you want, regardless of how it may hurt or affect anyone else. They are not your responsibility.

The older girl (18 or 19) who gave my daughter the bible now wants it back. She is attempting to take my husband and myself to court to get it back. Needless to say it will not be returned as then it would be given to other youth in our community so that she could attempt to get more converts to satanism. I am doing my own form of censorship.

I really wanted to let you parents know that satanism is being practiced in Chelsea and to please watch your youth closely and let them know that you care about and love them.

Barbara Phelps.

To the Editor,

Due to health reasons I have retired this month after five years on the job as Chelsea's first Special Education Bus Monitor.

I would like to respectfully ask the school board to consider purchasing air-conditioning for Chelsea Bus 9. Perhaps many people are not aware that some Special Ed buses run all summer long, transporting mentally and physically impaired students into Ann Arbor programs. We have 30-plus students on our bus, some of whom can be prone to seizures. Since they attend school in air-conditioned buildings it seems reasonable to ask that their bus also be air-conditioned for better medical and behavioral comfort.

If the school board does not feel it can afford this cost, perhaps there is some group or club in the community which would be interested in helping with this need.

Carol Gallas.

Dear Editor

I am a frequent visitor to Chelsea for shopping, dining and during the summer months, to watch my granddaughter play softball. I feel compelled to comment on a girls' Midget League game I watched on Tuesday, June 20. Having coached women's sports for 25 years, I have seen more than my share of games, coaches and egos.

I was dismayed at the loud and obnoxious behavior and general lack of good sportsmanship displayed by one of the coaches. His intimidation tactics and constant badgering set the worst possible example for those young girls. I felt the other coaches did their best to ignore his bad manners and encourage and praise their own players. I sympathized with them; they had a major distraction to work around.

This coach had a very evident game plan: win at all costs, whine when you disagree with an umpire's call and publicly reprimand your players for all errors. Haven't the studies and all the experts made it clear enough? Winning cannot be the ultimate focus at this level. How much pressure can a nine-year-old tolerate?

I hope someone from your Recreation Dept. will take this letter as more than an old coach's commentary. Wake up and see the effect this kind of "coaching" is having on your young people.

R.L. Thomas,
Jackson

Dear Editor

In response to Nancy Hughes' letter to the editor on July 21 regarding the fireworks traffic problem. First let me say that the Reserve Police Officers of the Chelsea Police Department are not "rent a cops"!

Now, let's get down to the traffic situation. I have been to Washington, D.C., and most of the major roadways are four lanes wide, whereas in Chelsea you have only two-lane traffic. Not to mention the fact that D.C. has many times the number of officers. Add to this the large volume of vehicles present, in so many different areas, all of them with exits, routing traffic the way it should go, and not the way the drivers went was difficult. People were not following the instructions of the officers thereby effectively blocking the roadways.

The officers did their best to alleviate the congestion in the shortest time possible.

Sometimes patience is a hard pill to take, but it needs to be swallowed.

Michael Pozson.

The first national labor organization of city federations was the National Trades' Union formed in New York City in 1834. Its 21,000 members sought "to advance the moral and intellectual condition and pecuniary interests of the laboring classes . . . and to unite and harmonize the efforts of all productive classes of country." The organization lasted until 1837, according to the U.S. Department of Labor's "Labor Firsts in America."

★ Catch-and-Release Fishing Trips . . .

A great means of sharing the once-in-a-lifetime thrill of landing that "big one" is what catch-and-release fishing's all about. Growing in popularity with each passing year, such "no-kill" angling seems here to stay.

Even Michigan's highly successful Master Angler Program has added a new catch-and-release category, started in 1992, requiring that entries be returned unharmed back to the water. (Note: the season MUST be open for a fish to be eligible under Master Angler catch-and-release rules.)

But, you ask, how does one proceed so as not to permanently harm one's catch? Although certain species may require special care, here are some generic do's and don'ts which, when followed, make catch-and-release an effective and enjoyable way to fish:

- (1) Land your catch as carefully and quickly as possible.
- (2) If possible, avoid removing your fish from the water (fish need the water's oxygen just as we humans need the air's oxygen).
- (3) Don't let your fish flop in shallow water, over rocks, onshore or in the boat (this could result in injury to the fish's skin, eyes or fins).
- (4) If you need a landing net, only use one made with soft or knotless mesh (or try a new rubber model) and always try to net your catch headfirst.
- (5) Try to keep the fish in the water and cradle it gently while carefully removing the hook.
- (6) When taking photos (a Master Angler must), leave your fish in the water 'til it's time to click (see tip No. 2).
- (7) Keep your fingers out of and away from the fish's gills (a torn gill may result in the fish bleeding to death).
- (8) Never squeeze your catch or handle it roughly and never grasp a fish by its eye sockets (doing so will not only injure its eyes, but could result in brain damage).
- (9) Always wet your hands or, better yet, use wet cloth gloves when touching your fish (try touching your catch as little as possible but, if need arises, by the lower jaw only).

(10) If a fish is deeply hooked, cut the line near the hook—steel hooks will rust away leaving the fish unharmed. Don't use stainless hooks. And, by the way, the jury's still out on barbless hooks—it's possible that they may cause unnecessary injury and death through their deep penetration.

(11) Point your fish into a slow current or gently move it back and forth 'til its gills are working properly and the fish maintains its balance. Once fully recovered, allow it to swim freely from your hands (remember, large fish may take considerable time to recover).

Lung Assoc. to Benefit from Leelanau Area Fall Bike Tour

Discover Michigan's beautiful Leelanau Peninsula, a treasure for those people interested in the simpler pleasures of life. On Sept. 11-13, the American Lung Association of Michigan will offer cyclists of all ages the opportunity to travel this attractive peninsula by bike.

On day one, you will travel the northern area of the Leelanau Peninsula, visiting the towns of Northport and Suttons Bay and the fishing community of Leland. On the second day, you will explore the western area of the peninsula, including Glen Arbor and Empire and you can even climb the Sleeping Bear Dunes. For those who seek adventure, consider a day of hiking on Manitou Island. On the last day of your cycling trip, you can visit the towns of Cedar and Maple City, where you may want to catch a quick bite at one of the local restaurants.

A pledge minimum of only $250 will send you on an excursion designed to leave you without all the usual planning hassles. First-class indoor accommodations, all-you-can-eat breakfasts and dinners will be provided, as well as sag wagon service, bike mechanics and experienced staff to help whenever needed.

Funds raised by this event will help support the many community service and educational programs provided by the American Lung Association of Michigan. Programs such as Breathers Clubs, support groups for lung disease patients and their families; summer camps that provide a camp experience for children with asthma and Freedom from Smoking Clinics are just a few of the programs available to lung disease sufferers state-wide.

National Training Program Returns To WCC Aug. 7-13

Approximately 1,200 United Association plumbing and pipefitting instructors representing 480 union locals from across the United States and Canada will return to the Ann Arbor/Ypsilanti area Aug. 7-13 for specialized training at Washtenaw Community College.

The 40th annual United Association Instructor Training Program sponsored by the United Association of Journeymen and Apprentices of the Plumbing and Pipe Fitting Industry of the United States and Canada will be housed at WCC's Ann Arbor campus for the fourth year in a row. The program is designed to teach UA instructors the latest product and industry technology as well as how to teach this information to the apprentices and journeymen back home at their local training schools.

Program elements include:
• Five-Year Program which involves 200 hours of instruction divided into two main elements (1) the principles and techniques of teaching and (2) the applied and technical element which involves scientific and technical subject matter related to the trade.

• Post Graduate Program which builds on the fundamentals learned in the Five-Year Program.

• Special Seminars which add to the above programs and may include instruction in special skills and technical subjects that require special attention at a particular time.

Last year 80 classes were taught in subject areas such as computer-aided drafting, downhill welding, applied hydraulics, safety hazards, plastic welding, steam technology and developing behavioral objectives.

Union instructors from as far away as Alaska, California, Texas, Florida, New York and Canada received instruction from educators regarding WCC, Michigan State University, University of Michigan and Eastern Michigan University and other educational institutions, government and industry experts, and professionals from the UA organization.

Scio Man Killed in Lima Township Crash

A 21-year-old Scio township man was killed early Monday morning in a one-car crash on Jackson Rd. just west of Parker Rd. in Lima township. According to Michigan State Police Trooper David Koetsler, Michael B. Connell of Scio township apparently left the home of his girlfriend in Chelsea at about 4 a.m. and was driving east "at a high rate of speed." Connell's 1993 Mustang skidded sideways across the road, clipped a mailbox, and hit a mound of dirt, which lofted the car into the air. It eventually hit a tree 14 feet off the ground and slid down into a 15' deep, weed-filled ditch.

Police found the car after 9 a.m. Initially they weren't even aware that a crash had occurred. The resident of the home with the broken mailbox had filed a complaint. Because the car went airborne, there was not much evidence of the crash.

Koetsler said Connell's blood alcohol level was .10 percent, which made him legally drunk.

Connell was dead at the scene when Dexter Fire Department arrived.

Mabel Holmes To Be Honored As Leader in Michigan History

Mabel White Holmes, the inventor of Jiffy Mix biscuit mix, will be recognized tomorrow, Thursday, July 29 at 7 p.m. at the Chelsea Depot.

The occasion is the opening of a new exhibit highlighting the achievements of Mabel Holmes (1890-1978) by the Chelsea Area Historical Society in the depot.

Michigan Women's Studies Association will present copies of the book, "Michigan Women: First and Founders" to Howard Holmes, chief executive officer of Chelsea Milling Co., maker of Jiffy Mix, and McKune Memorial Library.

Mabel Holmes was Howard's mother. She is recognized in "Michigan Women" as the inventor of the first biscuit mix, thereby launching the convenience food industry in 1930. The company later went on to expand into muffins, cake mixes, cornbread and other items. She was an officer in Chelsea Milling Co. for 43 years following her husband's death in 1936.

Michigan Women's Studies Association will be represented by president Gladys Beckwith and secretary

Geneva Wiskemann. Also scheduled are Elizabeth Giese, education director of the Michigan Women's Historical Center and Hall of Fame, Rachel B. Harley, co-author of "Michigan Women: First and Founders," Mary Esther Daddazio, vice-president of the Michigan Women's Studies Association, and past state president of the Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

The exhibit, which acknowledges Mabel Holmes' contribution to the expanding role of women in Michigan history, will be opened by the historical society following the program. It features the work of Robert Burg, Chelsea native and EMU history graduate who has volunteered many hours to the society. Refreshments will be served afterward.

Let's Go

Chelsea Summer Baseball Team Stays Hot with Two More Wins

Chelsea's Connie Mack summer baseball team beat first-place Brighton, 11-6, and Ann Arbor, 5-0, in games last week.

The victory over Brighton last Thursday, July 22 was Brighton's first loss of the season.

Brighton opened the game with a run in the first.

However, Chelsea scored two in the bottom of the inning. Tim Westcott doubled and went home on Steve Grau's single. Aric Dougherty's single knocked in Grau.

In the third, Chelsea sent 10 batters to the plate and scored four runs on three singles, four walks, and two Brighton errors.

A single by Ed Greenleaf scored

Nick Brink in the fifth to increase the lead to 7-2.

The final four Chelsea runs scored in the sixth. Again, Chelsea sent 10 batters to the plate.

Chelsea had 11 hits in the contest, including a double and single by Westcott, two singles each by Grau, Dougherty, and Greenleaf, and singles by Scott Colvin, Jeff Branch, and Dirk Wales.

Grau pitched a complete game. He allowed 11 hits, walked one, and struck out nine.

The Bulldogs continued their hot streak the next night. Chelsea scored all five runs in the second inning, combining three singles, three walks, and a Brighton error. Chelsea didn't threaten again until the seventh inning, but a runner was stranded at third.

Colvin, Wales, and Ryan Ludwig had the only Chelsea hits. A sacrifice fly by James Courdway was good for an RBI.

Branch tossed a one-hitter, allowing only an infield single in the third. Of the six Ann Arbor base runners, only two made it as far as second base. Branch walked three and struck out nine.

"He was in complete control of the game," coach Akel Marshall said of Branch.

"He did a good job." Chelsea is 10-5 heading into the final two games of the season.

In 1970, men made up 85 percent of all multiple jobholders, according to the U.S. Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics. Since then, women's share of the total has risen steadily, reaching 43 percent in 1989. Women who moonlight work fewer total hours than men, probably because this arrangement makes it easier to balance work and family responsibilities.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

In responding to the serious threat that global climate change poses to our nation and the other countries of the planet, President Clinton has pledged to reduce U.S. emissions of greenhouse gases to their 1990 levels by the year 2000, and to continue the downward trend thereafter. In accordance with the President's commitment and the Earth Summit Climate Treaty signed by President Bush last summer, the Clinton Administration is in the process of formulating a national action plan outlining how the United States will meet the greenhouse gas stabilization goal.

To be an effective framework, the plan must address automobile emissions, one of the largest sources of greenhouse gases in the U.S. Carbon dioxide appears to account for more than half of observed global climate change. Each gallon of gasoline burned pumps 19 pounds of carbon dioxide into the atmosphere, and the average car emits about 50 tons of carbon dioxide over its lifetime. Increasing Corporate Average Fuel Economy, or CAFE, standards will dramatically reduce fuel consumption, thereby reducing carbon dioxide emissions. Thus, the biggest single step we can take to curb global warming is to increase motor vehicle efficiency. Meaningful and attainable goals are 45 miles per gallon for cars and 34 mpg for light trucks.

Raising CAFE standards is also a proven mechanism for reducing oil consumption. Thanks to the CAFE law passed in 1975, Americans now save 3 million barrels of oil a day; a significant amount next to the 17 billion-barrels we consume on a daily basis. Increasing fuel economy saves consumers money, reduces our dependence on foreign oil, safeguards the environment, and protects public health.

Moreover, a recent study by the American Council for an Energy-Efficient Economy shows that increasing CAFE would result in a net gain of 244,000 jobs throughout the economy—with 47,000 more jobs in the auto industry alone. A 60 percent increase in CAFE is feasible using currently available technology, and will not compromise safety, vehicle size or performance.

The United States must position itself as a world leader in the fight against global warming. President Clinton's national action plan can place us firmly on the path toward reducing our country's contribution to global warming by including an increase in CAFE standards.

Concert Thursday at Retirement Community
Manchester Community Band will present a concert Thursday, July 29, at 7:30 p.m. on the front lawn of Chelsea Retirement Community. Everyone is invited.

PHILMONT OR BUST: Chelsea Boy Scout Troop 476 departed for Philmont Boy Scout Ranch in Cimmaron, N.M. last Friday. The troop had originally planned to take the train but flooding along the Mississippi River forced a change in plans and a bus was taken instead. Philmont is considered one of the finest scouting experiences. The expedition combines back-packing, panning for gold, burro racing, blacksmithing, lumbering, homesteading, and other experiences. Most boys have completed the back-packing merit badge and are able to endure the rigors of the expedition. In front, from left, are Jason Fog, Glenn Wright, Daniel Weir, Jacob Hurst, Eric Lefurge, Blase Lipiec, and Andrew Dunn. In back, from left, are Scoutmaster Ed Lipiec, Michael Steiner, Dan McMurray, Russell Lefurge, Karsten Lipiec, Scott Hawley, Glen Weir, Robert Steiner, and Robert D. Steiner.

Volunteers Needed To Help Protect the Local Environment

A Hands-On Workshop by the Adopt-A-Stream Program will train volunteers of all ages to map and evaluate the quality of local streams on Aug. 15 from 2 to 4 p.m. at the New Center, 1100 N. Main, Ann Arbor.

Volunteers are needed to protect the river system by spending five or more half-days a year measuring the biological quality of its creeks. No prior knowledge is necessary.

This is the last introductory workshop scheduled for 1993, and includes an opportunity to try the methods: Bring old shoes, boots or borrow ours.

The workshop is free, with refreshments provided by Zinger-man's. Please call 769-5971 with questions.

★ Time To Refinance Your Mortgage?

Homeowners everywhere are lining up to trade in their old mortgages for new ones with lower rates or better terms. While it's tempting to jump at the chance for a lower monthly payment, the Michigan Association of CPAs advises homeowners to take the time to determine whether refinancing makes good financial sense. For homeowners who don't plan to stay in their homes long enough to offset the closing costs, refinancing can be a costly mistake.

Why Refinance?

In the past, the rule of thumb was that you should consider refinancing when mortgage interest rates fall two percentage points below your current rate. Over the years, conventional wisdom about rates, timing and other refinancing factors has changed.

The majority of individuals who refinance do so to lower their monthly payments by taking advantage of a lower interest rate. But borrowing at a lower rate is no longer the only reason to refinance. For many homeowners who reluctantly agreed to an adjustable-rate mortgage (ARM) when rates were high, refinancing provides the opportunity to switch to a fixed-rate loan with predictable payments. These people won't necessarily save a lot of money, but they do get the peace of mind that comes with knowing that their payments won't change if interest rates rise.

You can also use refinancing to switch to a shorter-term mortgage. A lower interest rate can make it possible for you to swap your 30-year mortgage for a 15-year loan with only a small increase in your monthly payment. That means you can pay off the principal faster and save thousands of dollars in interest costs.

The Cost of Refinancing

Refinancing involves the same complex process and the same closing fees as obtaining a first mortgage. When you refinance, you may be faced with paying points. A point is equal to 1 percent of the loan amount. Points are usually the most expensive cost associated with refinancing. Other refinancing expenses include the cost of a new appraisal and new title search, title insurance, legal fees and application fees. Your total closing costs could be as high as 3 to 5 percent of the loan amount. You may be able to save on closing costs by checking with your current lender first. Banks that want to hold onto valuable customers may be willing to waive certain requirements.

Should You Refinance?

To determine whether or not it makes financial sense for you to refinance your mortgage, you'll need to find out how long it will take for your monthly savings to offset the cost of refinancing. First, determine what your monthly payment would be on your new loan. Compare this amount to your current payment to see how much you will save each month. If your current payment includes taxes, insurance, etc., be sure to exclude these costs for purposes of comparison. Next, total all the costs associated with refinancing. Finally, divide your total closing costs by the amount you would save monthly. This resulting figure represents the number of months it will take you to pay off your refinancing costs. If you don't plan to stay in your house long enough to reach this break-even point, refinancing probably doesn't make sense for you.

Tax Concerns

CPAs remind homeowners to consider the tax implications of refinancing. First, it's important to note that although points paid up front when you buy or construct a home are fully deductible in the year of the purchase, points paid in connection with refinancing must be deducted over the life of the loan, whether you pay them in cash or add them to the loan amount. There's one exception: If you plan to use part of the new loan for home improvements, the points that are attributable to that part of the loan are deductible immediately.

CPAs also point out that a reduction in your interest rate means a smaller interest deduction on your tax return. If you have claimed extra allowances on your W-4 form based on your mortgage interest deduction, and refinancing significantly reduces the amount of interest you pay, you may need to recalculate the number of allowances you have claimed.

WATERMELON SPITTING CHAMPION Barb Manney of Dexter won her title after spitting a seed 37-feet and 6-inches during a company picnic held at the Chrysler Proving Grounds in Chelsea, Sunday, July 18. Manney beat last year's champ John Rieff, who spit a seed 28-feet, 4-inches. "I think she had the wind on her side," Manney's daughter Rebecca commented. Manney said she took the advice of other participants and jumped as she spit the seed. Daughters Angela split about 9-feet, Rebecca spit 27-feet and Mary spit 5-feet. The reigning champ is pictured with her trophy which she keeps until next year when she must hand it over to the new champion.

State Inheritance

Tax Law Gets

Long Sought Reform

Governor John Engler has signed into law House Bill 4597, which repeals Michigan's costly inheritance tax. The Governor signed the bill, which was sponsored by Representative Willis Bullard, Jr. (R-Milford), in Lansing.

"This bill represents Michigan's fourth tax cut in two and a half years. It results in a net tax cut that will benefit Michigan citizens and save our taxpayers between $70 and $80 million a year," said Engler.

House Bill 4597 repeals the burdensome and unfair state inheritance tax and replaces it with an estate tax that will apply to the estates of decedents who die after Sept. 30, 1993. After that date, every estate in Michigan valued at under $600,000 will be exempt from any tax.

It also extends the filing deadline from 105 days to 9 months, provides for a centralized filing of tax returns and collection, establishes interest on refunds at a floating rate based on the Revenue Act of 1941, and allows exemptions for liens on jointly held property.

The governor also noted that, although legislators had tried to repeal the inheritance tax for a decade, a vote on the issue never reached the House floor. When this bill came up for a vote, it received an overwhelming 91 votes, yet another indication of the end of gridlock in Lansing.

Hot Humid Weather Brings Tornado Threat

The arrival of warm weather brings the threat of tornadoes to Michigan residents. However, twisters don't need to be killers.

Although there were 21 tornadoes reported here in 1992, no one was killed as a result. Those tornadoes, however, damaged property valued at approximately $6 million.

According to a spokesman from the National Weather Service, residents can minimize their chances of being injured or killed by being prepared. "Every household, school and business should have a plan just in case, a tornado strikes in the area," Bill Babcock, warning and preparedness meteorologist, said.

Tornadoes generally develop from severe thunderstorms. Although not all severe thunderstorms spawn tornadoes, twisters are more likely to occur when there is unseasonably warm and humid air at the earth's surface and cold air at middle atmospheric levels with strong upper-level jet stream winds. In Michigan, this clash of air masses is more likely to occur in the spring and in the southern lower part of the state, according to officials from the National Weather Service.

Annually, Michigan experiences an average of 18 tornadoes. Since 1950, 237 persons have been killed by twisters here. Tornadoes can hit anytime of the day or night in almost any month of the year. Most, however, occur in April, May, June and July during the late afternoon and evening hours, generally between 3 and 7 p.m.

Tornadoes develop and move rapidly, often with little notice or forewarning. When a tornado watch is announced, residents should gather a first aid kit, flashlight and portable radio. They should stay tuned to local radio and television stations. A watch means that conditions are right for development of a tornado.

A tornado warning means that a tornado has actually been sighted nearby and everyone in the area should take action. Go immediately to the basement, taking cover under something sturdy. If there isn't a basement, move to the lowest floor possible, in a small room or closet. Again, stay low and if possible, under a heavy object. Stay away from windows.

At work or school, if a basement is not available, move to an interior hallway on the lowest floor possible. Avoid rooms with a large, free-span roof, like gymnasiums. If caught in the open during a tornado warning, seek shelter in a ditch, ravine or other place below ground level and stay as low as possible.

Property owners can also be prepared by ensuring that they have adequate coverage for their homes and personal belongings under their homeowners insurance policies. Tornadoes are considered "windstorms" and covered by virtually all homeowners policies, according to the coalition's insurance industry representatives. However, certain limits and requirements may apply.

County Receives More Funding For Head Start

Washtenaw County Community Services Agency is scheduled to receive a $1.67 million grant from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services to fund the Head Start Program for the 1993-94 school year.

In making the announcement, U.S. Sen. Don Riegle of Michigan said the grant has been increased by nearly $400,000 over last year.

"I'm pleased that Washtenaw county is able to fund Head Start since this program provides valuable services for youngsters and their parents," Riegle said.

"It's important that we give our children at an early age the help they need to succeed."

The grant will fund Head Start for an additional 38 children, bringing the total to 511. The program consists of half day sessions, including two meals per day for three and four year olds. Resources for handicapped children and parent workshops—focusing on nutrition and child growth and development—will also be provided.

Michigan Unemployment System Finally Debt Free

The week of June 25, Governor Engler announced that Michigan's unemployment insurance system is debt free for the first time since 1978.

The good news means that Michigan businesses will save an average of $77 per employee in interest costs next year, making Michigan, and Michigan's job providers, more competitive.

Paying off the debt is just the latest in a series of firsts for Michigan:

- For the first time ever, the number of employed people in Michigan has passed the 4,350,000 mark. At last count, over 4,356,000 men and women were working in Michigan, the most in history.
- For the first time since 1978, Michigan this year had monthly unemployment rates below the national average.
- For the first time since 1966,

Michigan has had three consecutive months where unemployment levels have been lower than the national average.

Garage Sale Location Map To Be Printed

The Dexter Daze '93 committee, a subdivision of the Dexter Chamber of Commerce, urges all residents of the village who plan to hold a garage or yard sale during the two-day Dexter Daze celebration, Friday and Saturday, Aug. 13-14, to call 428-4991 to take advantage of the opportunity to list without charge the locations of these sales on a map to be published very soon.

Liberty Title Affiliated With World-Wide Firm

In 1893, Maco Stewart, a young attorney in Galveston, Tex., purchased his first abstract company, the start of a business dedicated to providing real estate information, and this was the origin of Stewart Title Guaranty Co., which was incorporated in 1908. Celebrating its centenary in 1993, the company now enters its second hundred years as the fourth largest title insurance company in the United States, and Stewart Information Services Corp., its publicly-held holding company, announced the highest earnings in its history. Stewart's affiliate in Ann Arbor, Liberty Title Co., has served the local market since March, 1974. Tom Richardson recently said, "It is rare for a company to celebrate its centennial, and we take great pride in being a part of the Stewart organization."

The United States, with its almost limitless space when it was a young nation, has developed a powerful real estate industry, in fact, the largest income generator in the economy of this country. From the carpenter to the furniture-maker; to representatives of vast industries supplying every need of the homebuilder and homeowner; to the real estate company and mortgage business; all of these, and a vast interlocking network of many other allied professions, combine to provide a tremendous economic engine to the U.S. economy.

Critical ingredients for this phenomenal catalyst for prosperity are reliable as records and real estate information, insured land titles, a safe and fast method of conveyance, manage capital to finance transactions, and a legal framework for all of this to occur.

In 1893, the method of reflecting record ownership for real property was by abstracts of title. Maco Stewart began issuing insured land titles in 1905, and the legislation to permit the incorporation of a title insurance company in Texas was enacted in 1907. Stewart Title Guaranty Co. was incorporated within a matter of months, in February 1908. Maco Stewart's goal was to have subsidiaries in every major Texas city and develop a network of abstract and title insurance agents throughout the state issuing Stewart Title Guaranty Co. policies. Education as to the availability of the new type of land title guarantee was protracted and it was only after the Second World War that title insurance came into its own, predominantly replacing uninsured abstracts, now considered less protective.

In 1956, Stewart Title entered its first non-Texas market, New Mexico. Growing conservatively and carefully, the company was doing more business outside of Texas than within its original state by 1966, and had grown to 280 locations in 11 states by 1970. In 1975, two brothers, Carlos and Stewart Morris, nephews of the founder, purchased a controlling interest of the company that they had worked to expand throughout their working lives.

By 1981, Stewart had 1,000 issuing offices in 38 states and D.C., and two years later, revenues passed $100 million for the first time. 1991 saw the election of Malcolm Morris and Stewart Morris, Jr., as CEO's of the Stewart Title Guaranty Company and Stewart Title Company, respectively.

In 1992, revenues reached a record $290 million and net income was $14,630,000 or $3.60 per share. Malcolm Morris, president of Stewart Title Guaranty Company commented: "Stewart Title's philosophy has always been one of steady, careful growth. Quality of service and the strength of the balance sheet is of utmost importance in our company, and that message is constantly reiterated to our owned offices and our independent agents. The merit of these tenets is demonstrated by the fact that STG's policyholder surplus increased for the 18th consecutive year, longer than any other major title insurer. We provide for statutory premium reserves on one of the most stringent reserving methods required by any of the states, and these reserves, like our surplus for policyholders, has continued to grow each of the last 18 years. Stewart has one of the most liquid balance sheets in the industry with over $1 in liquid assets for every $1 of liability and reserves."

Today, it is Stewart's expertise in real estate information technology that is commanding attention from groups such as the World Bank and from countries around the world devising land record and ownership systems that will enable those nations to privatize their real estate and encourage private ownership, land development and a free enterprise system to bring about prosperity to their homeland. Although only a fraction of its total revenue is derived from its international and real estate information business, the concepts of enhanced land records, conveyancing and title insurance combine to provide opportunities that the company is just beginning to explore and utilize to serve other countries.

The Stewart companies are relatively unique among major corporations because descendants of the same family have been managing the company for its entire 100-year history. Stewart Morris, Jr., president of Stewart Title, in remarks on the centenary stated, "My dad's Uncle Maco started the company, and my grandfather, W. C. Morris, was an original shareholder and worked at building the company his entire life just as my father and uncle have done. Today, we have over 2,900 offices throughout the United States, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, Canada, the Bahamas, Guam and the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands. In 1993, we will begin operations in England. Through our Stewart Information International, we are enhancing land records for Hungary, and we have completed several mapping and ownership contracts in the Caribbean and the Middle East. Through Landata, we have developed productive computer technology necessary to automate the very labor intensive title industry and the distribution of real estate information to our customers. By using these systems internally and marketing them outside, we augment the ability of our offices and agents to provide effective, quality service to their customers much more quickly and accurately."

In real estate, as in many other businesses, the personal touch is extremely important because purchasing a home is one of the single largest investments individuals ever make. Stewart Morris, Jr., stated, "We serve so many publics at the same time: the purchaser, the seller, the lender, the attorney, the various tax entities. It's up to the title company to provide a search and conveyance service, and to provide a title insurance policy so that the dollars invested are protected. Our company and its agents have been doing this for 100 years. We expect to continue building on this successful foundation into the next century. Our vision for Stewart for the year 2000, and beyond, is to be known as a financially sound title insurance and real estate information company that enhances real estate records and maintains a sterling reputation for integrity and quality."

WCC Training

Program Graduates First Class of 10

Ten unemployed or under-employed workers have a new skill to take into the work world thanks to a 12-week training program developed by the Washtenaw Community College Job Training School in partnership with two local companies.

Participants learned the basics of blueprint reading, statistical process control, machine setup, and metal properties in a specialized training program for screw machine operators. To successfully operate this equipment, which carves the spiral screw threads onto metal products of all shapes, sizes and materials, operators must interpret part specifications accurately, adjust machinery to fit specifications, and monitor the quality of each product.

In addition to 122 hours of classroom instruction, participants also stepped onto the factory floor for a two-week, hands-on segment that placed them at two local companies, W.A. Thomas (Chelsea) and A & H Machine and Tool (Ypsilanti).

"We are proud of our role in developing this program and providing on-the-job training for some of the participants," said Brent Thompson, primary manufacturing manager for W.A. Thomas, who served with other local company representatives on the advisory board to develop this training. In addition to its role in developing the program, W.A. Thomas also provided additional training in statistical process control.

"Since the program began, we've heard from several local companies interested in receiving resumes from students," said Laura Gerhardt, director of the Job Training School. When training ended July 9, two participants had started jobs and four more had been offered employment. Planning is now underway for another session in September.

The training was funded by a $15,000 Adult Education Alternative Training Grant provided by the State of Michigan in combination with local Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA) funds. It is part of a $25 million state-funded initiative to provide job training and retraining for 7,000 workers.

STEVE GAUNT of Chelsea works to build a bridge with help from Rebecca England of White Lake during the Summer Institute for the Arts and Sciences held recently at Michigan Technological University. The institute, sponsored by the Michigan State Board of Education, is designed to give highly talented high school sophomores and juniors the opportunity to explore several different career topics in the arts and sciences. The program consists of two-week intensive courses in chemistry, physics, engineering design, German language and culture, creative writing, and environmental journalism. Gaunt, son of Christine Gaunt of Chelsea, is a student at Chelsea High School where he participates in cross country and track and is a member of the student council and the National Honor Society.

VIRNELLE VOSS, a resident at the Chelsea Retirement Community, shows off her starfish flower, a kind of milk weed cactus, which bloomed last week. The bloom only lasts a couple of days so Virnelle put the plant in the lobby of the Dancey House so others could enjoy it. The flower traps flies and smells like it.

Petition Seeks Reversal of Zoning Change in Township

A petition was recently circulated in Lima township that is intended to void by referendum a recent decision by the township board to re-zone a 16-acre parcel on Trinkle Rd.

The dispute centers on a parcel owned by Pat and William Stierle at 12300 Trinkle Rd. The township board, in 1992, approved a change in zoning from agriculture to rural residential, which allowed the parcel to be split into three, three-acre lots and one seven-acre lot with a home.

Donald Hilligoss, who lives across the street at 12251 Trinkle Rd., apparently does not want additional homes built, according to township supervisor Bill Van Riper. Hilligoss took advantage of a state law that allows a petition to be circulated within 30 days of the advertisement of the zoning change. If eight percent of the township voters (outside the village) in the last election for governor sign the petition, the issue can be placed on the ballot in the next general election. Hilligoss needed about 80 signatures but wound up with 108, Van Riper said.

The issue is further complicated by two other factors. The township failed to advertise the zoning change within the prescribed time, instead advertising the change this year. Van Riper admits, "we just didn't get it done." However, he also said the failure to advertise the change on time might not have made any difference because "I think [Hilligoss] is going to do everything he can" to keep more homes from being built. Hilligoss attended the township meetings at the time of the re-zoning discussions and was fully aware of what was happening, Van Riper said.

Hilligoss filed a law suit against the township claiming the township didn't follow its own ordinance.

In addition, the Stierles are trying to sell the property so they can move permanently to a home they have already purchased on the other side of the state. They face the prospect of having their property tied up for another year and a half.

"There's no way we can sell it with this going on," Pat Stierle said.

Pat Stierle said even some of their friends signed the petition, not understanding what it was all about.

In its wording, the petition asks voters to approve the township board's action to rezone the parcel. However, if more voters say no than yes, then the parcel will revert to its original zoning, Van Riper said.

Van Riper said the parcel has always been designated for rural residential zoning in the township's long range plan.

IRS Tax Credit Will Increase Take-Home Pay Now

Every little bit helps when you're raising a family. Many low income workers can take home extra money in every paycheck, thanks to the federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC).

"This year, over 331,000 Michigan taxpayers received larger income tax refunds because of the earned income credit," said IRS district director John Hummel. "Eligible individuals can take that extra money home now, instead of waiting until next year, by electing the Advanced EITC at work."
