Pierce Lake Property Annexation Plans Started By Council

In a resolution passed Tuesday, April 26, by the Village Council, the village boundaries will be expanded to annex the area between M-52 and Freer Rd., south of Old US-12 to I-94, including the Pierce Lake Golf Course.

According to required procedures, the petition will be considered by the Washtenaw County Board of Commissioners, including a public hearing following publication for three weeks.

This action will make sewer and water available to the golf course clubhouse as well as proposed single family homes projected for the area by Rene Papo in preliminary drawings showing 83 single family homes and 42 single family-site condominiums along Old US-12.

"I think this is good," said Jack Myers, Village manager. "I feel the village is going to grow."

"Although we won't get tax dollars on the golf course, we will on the housing."

"This is good for the area because we will have year-around recreation."

holds. Schenk built the building which now houses the Common Grill and also the building housing the Purple Rose Theatre. Schenk's photo will hang in the Common Grill.

Early Chelsea Entrepreneur Honored at Economic Club Meet

At a recent Chamber of Commerce sponsored Economic Club Breakfast meeting, John Keusch, a local attorney who was born and raised in Chelsea, was the featured speaker. He was asked to discuss matters relevant to Chelsea's business history and he chose William P. Schenk as his subject.

A downtown businessman for more than 60 years, Schenk was born Jan. 6, 1858 and died June 10, 1943. He was the oldest of 12 children who lived in the elegant Victorian home just west of St. Louis School. The family credited bountiful wheat harvests for its financial prosperity.

William Schenk's first business was a general store at Sylvan Center. In 1877 he worked at Holmes Store (Vogel's & Foster's) and in 1885 went into partnership with George Kemp. By 1889 he was a sole proprietor and in 1893 built the building which now houses the Common Grill. He was in business there for 50 years, until shortly before his death, having sold the building to Martin Merkel, Jack and Bob Merkel's grandfather. Schenk's merchandise ranged from groceries to carpets.

At this time, Chelsea had a population of 1,600. It had two weekly newspapers, five churches, a water system and electric lights and bragged of having the best produce in Washtenaw county. The phone directory described the community as "having God-fearing, liberty-loving people. Chelsea is a place that citizens love and strangers admire."

Schenk was an outstanding citizen who served his time on the Village Council, two years as president; the Board of Education and Chelsea State Bank board. He was also the first automobile dealer in the Village, selling from what is now the Purple Rose Theatre.

During Keusch's presentation, he mentioned several other people who displayed the same entrepreneurial spirit as Schenk. In the early part of the 1900's, residents were dependent on local industry and business to provide employment, so men like Schenk and Frank Glazier who created job opportunities contributed substantially to the vitality of the community.

Council Ratifies Police, Teamsters Labor Contract

Chelsea Village council ratified three-year contracts with the Police Officers Labor Council and the teamsters during a regular meeting Tuesday, April 26.

Some of the economic changes are described by Jack Myers, village manager: The Teamsters got an annual increase of 4 percent, $40,000 in life insurance, prescription drug coverage added to Care Choices, and an increase in pension benefits; 19 people are covered by the contract—employees in the solid waste facility, the DPW, electric, waste water, water departments and some administrators.

Village Expects To Clean Up DPW Site

Site investigation of the DPW garage is pending authorization by the Chelsea Village Council in an effort to take care of any contamination that may have occurred from underground storage tanks inside the old building, not in the mechanical area.

Council action has been delayed until information is obtained on what the Department of Natural Resources is doing.

"More soil borings and sampling will be done," said Jack Myers, village manager. "It could mean more of the building will come down."

The Council is considering that the work will be done by the Traverse Group, Ann Arbor. The $12,000 cost could be eligible for reimbursement from the Michigan Underground Storage Tank Fund administrator.

Village To Protect Chelsea Water Supply

The Chelsea Village Council is working to develop a well-head protection plan to check the flow of the aquifer and recharge areas of those wells.

A strategy is needed to make sure future industrial construction does not contaminate the water supply and to avoid potential spills.

"There will be no charge for the study," said Jack Myers, village manager. "The study is being done by Walter J. Bolt as the subject of his thesis."

Bolt is employed with G. R. Kenkle and Associates, Inc., construction hydrogeologists and scientists, located in Brighton.

NANCY COOPER, special education teacher from Chelsea High school, attended the Kiwanis Club meeting Monday evening with three members of her class. Cooper explained a Run/Walk event to be held at Hudson Mills Metro Park near Dexter on Friday, May 13, requesting

May 13 Run/Walk Organized for Disabled from 10 School Districts

On Friday, May 13, 481 developmentally disabled students will take part in a 3.5-8-mile Fun Run/Walk which is partially sponsored by Chelsea Kiwanis Club. Over 150 volunteers will help with the race. They are from Kiwanis, Dexter High School National Honor Society, Boyville of Clinton, and Squire High Schools-Vocational Child Care class.

The students come from all over Washtenaw county and from 10 different school districts. Over 100 of them will be running or fitness walking the 8-mile course. The rest will do 3 or 5 miles. The students range in age from 4 to 28.

Grant Authorized By Council To Study Building Feasibility

Chelsea Village Council authorized an $8,000 award to Ann Arbor Architects Collaborative for a feasibility study of Municipal Building design.

Future plans to relocate village offices will be based upon findings in this study.

 After many years of talking and planning, Chelsea's Downtown Development Authority appears poised to begin its beautification program for downtown. Last night DDA was scheduled to ask village council, in essence, to approve the concept of tax increment bonding. DDA wants to hire three consultants who would work as a team to design a comprehensive plan for the improvements. And without bonding, DDA doesn't have enough money to pay them.

John E. Donnellon received his Eagle Scout Award on April 17, which happened to be his 17th birthday. John is the first Scout to earn this award in Chelsea Troop 454, since its inception on June 1, 1968. He is the son of Matt and Kathy Donnellon of Manchester.

More than 150 acres of farmland will become Chelsea's next major subdivision if the landowners have their way. Martin and Henry Merkel have asked the village to annex 156 acres they own east of the village's wastewater treatment plant. Some of the land fronts on Dexter-Chelsea Rd. The village agreed years ago to annex the property in exchange for easements. Now the owners have decided the time is right to have it annexed, while there is adequate sewer capacity.

 The historic pipe organ donated to Cassidy Lake Technical School by St. Mary's Catholic church in 1961 has fallen into a state of neglect and disrepair, and has not been played in more than 10 years. State officials decided the "gift" was too expensive to maintain, and instead bought a small Hammond organ to use in worship services at the school.

Special Memorial Day services are scheduled next Monday. War veterans, school bands, village officials and residents will gather for a parade, and Col. Kenneth T. Macek, retired U.S. Army artillery officer, will give an address.

Tickets are available for the seventh annual "Old Fashioned Barn Dance" at the Charles Trinkle farm on Trinkle Rd.

★ Biotechnology: From the Blackboard to the Barnyard

By David Rothbard
 Michigan dairy farmers who put cutting-edge research to good use on the farm should beware: some people don't think cows and science make a good combination.

The latest biotechnology controversy involves Bovine Somatotropin, or BST as it is commonly known. It's a protein hormone produced naturally by a cow's pituitary gland to stimulate milk production for newborn calves. For more than a half-century, scientists have known that cows can boost their milk production by as much as 40 percent when given BST supplements, which can mean an increase in milk of up to nine pounds per cow per day.

The best scientific evidence available tells us that the extra BST does no harm to either the cows or the milk. In fact, the extra BST does not even show up in the milk, which is indistinguishable from the milk given by cows that do not get the supplement. "No matter how much extra is injected," says Michigan State University animal science specialist H. Allen Tucker, "tests show there is no chemical change in the milk." That's why neither farmers nor federal authorities feel it is necessary to label milk from treated cows as BST-induced.

Approval to test BST in the nation's milk supply came from the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) in 1985, and it has been used in several experimental herds since. Last fall, the FDA gave approval for full-scale marketing to begin in February 1994 and already, several Michigan dairy farmers are using it. The Michigan Farm Bureau is on record as endorsing its use as a "management tool" for the dairy industry.

Meanwhile, a major national campaign is underway to stop the use of BST. It is being led by a noted crusader against biotechnology, Jeremy Rifkin. His main congressional sponsor is Wisconsin's Senator Russ Feingold. They and their allies have frightened some food stores into rejecting any milk made with the help of BST injections. It's becoming a classic case of science, reason, and economics running head-on into emotional, unthinking, pseudo-environmentalism.

In Clinton county just north of Lansing, farmer Ken Nobis first began using BST on his herd in December 1987 as part of the FDA testing process. He reports no problems with his cows' health. Nobis sees the attack on BST as "an assault on science as a whole" and says that most farmers in Clinton county—one of the most progressive dairy counties in the state—believe the application of biotechnology to agriculture can be the key to better health for both animals and humans.

It isn't, by the way, just Ken Nobis, the FDA, and most dairy farmers who say that BST is harmless and efficient. Among those who have reached the same conclusion are the American Medical Association, the American Dietetic Association, the Congressional Office of Technology Assessment, the National Institutes of Health, the World Health Organization, the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization, and the regulatory agencies of some 30 countries. In the view of syndicated columnist Charles Krauthammer, the anti-BST scare "does not rest on argument. It is just the latest in a long line of technological panics . . . easily triggered by scary-sounding code words."

The minority of farmers who oppose BST are concerned that the hormone will flood the market with higher milk production and create public fears about a "contaminated" product, hurting the dairy industry's bottom line. Senator Feingold echoed those sentiments when he recently said, "It (BST) increases production and reduces demand, and that's exactly the worst case scenario."

By boosting production, BST is no different from any invention or technological advance in any other industry. It means that fewer cows will be needed to produce the same amount of milk, requiring better herd management that efficient farmers will be quick to employ. As for consumers, they won't be scared off unless the anti-BST campaign succeeds in drowning out good science with bad information.

While the ability to siphon some extra jugs of milk from dairy cows may be important, the acceptance of BST in the marketplace has more far-reaching, global significance. BST is the first major product of agricultural biotechnology and if it proves successful, it could open the door to a whole new generation of technologies capable of providing vast quantities of safe and more affordable food.

The BST controversy is really a test of mind over muscle. Will Americans embrace science and economics or emotion and scare-talk masquerading as "environmentalism?" If they choose the latter, we'll have good reason to cry over the milk that's spilled.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Not that nature needs help, Bug Hookum told the fellows at the country store Saturday night, but he has took note how folks are keeping some color in her cheeks. He said his old lady sent him to town for some flower bulbs she had read about, and he got so caught up looking at yards along the way he would of forgot why he went if he hadn't wrote it down.

On country and town highways and byways, Bug said, decorating flags in every color and design wave from porch, gate post, garage door, wherever they can catch the breeze. He said he saw some eggs and rabbit flags before Easter, and now he is full convinced we are having an epidemic. If one porch has a bird flag, he said, the next waves birds and flowers.

Bug said he mentioned the flags to his old lady when he got home, and she told him he ought to get out more. At first, she said, flags were limited to holidays and other special days. Recent, her garden club got a catalog from a national company that gives discounts for selling porch flags as fund-raising projects. If not only has the state bird, flower and tree of every state, it offers a line of mood flags so wimmen can get up mornings and fly whatever they feel like.

The fellows took Bug's report as just more proof that if you make it and market it right they will buy it, and they had no quarrel with flags. But Zeke Grubb worried that the mood flag idea can get out of hand, especial if it infects politics. He said we could get yards that read like car bumpers and personal tags, and see more fur than flags flying.

What got Zeke concerned was a news item where neighbors indicted a urologist in California because his "CME2P" car tag broke rules in the high class section that outlaws ads. They said he had to change tags or leave his car at the office. They'll have a serious freedom of speech case if the doctor starts flying a personal porch flag, was Zeke's words.

Personal, Clem Webster said, he sees decorating flags as a relief from other ways our society is changing, and if the fad is took as pride in homes and communities, so much the better. The papers already have to much of the other kind of change, was Clem's words. For instant, he went on, we have got so sue crazy a man in Davis, Calif. recent sued the woman next door for snoring to loud. The police actual charged the woman with audible snoring and she paid a $50 fine.

It's a crying shame, Clem declared, that folks can't work out more of their problems among themselves. He saw where an old couple wound up in court in Milwaukee after she ask him what he was thinking. He said nothing, she said something, he left the house in a huff, she locked him out, he kicked the door in and a neighbor called the law. Clem said the wire service must of picked up the item because the judge said at the old man's age he probable couldn't think of anything, and for the two of them to go home and behave themselves.

The fellows were agreed that domestic violence can be the worse kind. Ed Doolittle said he saw where a community college offered a class on "The Science of Matrimony." Ed said Solomon couldn't teach the course because it's more like taking a swaller of scalding coffee than it is a science. You got to do it to know it, and when you do it you're stuck with it.

Yours truly,
 Uncle Lew.

Lima Extension Members Sample Hawaiian Foods

Aloha, a lei, and Hawaiian melodies in the background was the greeting 12 Lima Extension members and two guests received April 20 by hostess Mary Ann Burgess clad in her mu mu! Sitting among the ferns and palms, a video tour of the Hawaiian Islands was viewed with James Farentino, the host.

A refreshing beverage of fruit juices and Canada Dry was served by co-host, Norma Seyfried. The cups used had the hibiscus flower painted on them which signifies the Hawaiian state flower. This video is a good outline of the islands if a trip there is in your plans.

While Janet McCalla and the members tried the hula dance movements, Fran Coy cooked her Polynesian chicken stirfry in her wok.

The Hawaiian menu of Maui sweet & sour pork, chicken Hawaiian, Waldorf salad with pineapple, Maui onion bread, pumpkin-mango muffins, and sweet potato casserole, had influenced many of the members to do more Hawaiian cooking before beginning to enjoy the macadamia cream pie and coconut mousse. "Distert's choices!" Delicious food, fresh flower centerpiece, and the sun beating in through the sun roof all together completed the Hawaiian feeling.

Sunshine in April and good food was hard to leave as chairperson Barb Wing called the business meeting to order. After general business council Rep. Adaline Stone presented materials on Tri-Country Day, May 10, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in Adrian. The tour includes a Vo-Tech Center tour, a Christian Family Center (with lunch), Sweet Annie's Granary, and the Michigan International Speedway! Five from Lima Extension voted to attend.

Adaline also reminded members that May 19 is Spring Rally in Dexter, $7 to be paid to Barb Edict by May 9. Cultural Arts to be judged should register at 5 p.m. Regular registration is at 5:30, dinner at 6. Bring plants to sell, indoor or out! "Crafts through the Years" can also be put on display. Lima Center voted to substitute Spring Rally for regular meeting. June 15 lesson meeting will continue at Olive Wiseman's at 10:30 a.m.

Local Magician Wins Honors at Magic Day

An Arbor Magician's Club hosted Michigan Magic Day on April 23. The event was held at Washtenaw Community College. Magicians from all around the state attended this annual event.

The day consisted of lectures, dealer demonstrations of new magic effects, contests in stage and close-up for seniors (18 years and up), and closing out the day with an evening performance open to the public.

Jim Fitzsimmons, local professional, entered both the stage and close-up competition. Contest acts had to be a maximum of eight minutes. Each contest had three judges consisting of senior officials. Contestants were judged on showmanship, originality, skill/technique, audience response, and over-all impact. The contests were held first thing Saturday morning.

In the stage competition out of six contestants Jim received third place and in the close-up competition out of four contestants Jim received first place. Each award consisted of a cash prize and credit towards magic equipment.

"A man who is always satisfied with himself is seldom satisfied with others..."
 —La Rochefoucauld

You might suppose that anyone very tolerant of himself would be equally tolerant of the faults of others. Our source, the 17th Century French Duke who authored many witty observations, had concluded otherwise.

When an extremely conceited and self-satisfied person accepts his own characteristics as the standard of perfection, it can be assumed that no one else can measure up to those standards... or even want to!

We are proud of our record of considerate, sympathetic service to this community. The counsel and advice we provide to the bereaved we serve is available throughout the period of adjustment, which only starts with a beautiful funeral service.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:
 Once again, it is time for "Buddy" Popples to be sold to benefit our disabled and needy veterans, and the widows and orphans of deceased veterans. Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) have been selling poppies since 1922.

Did you know that nearly 500,000 men, women and children donate considerable time and effort annually conducting the VFW "Buddy" Poppy sale.
 Because of this Poppy, more than 1,300 children of veterans have been or are being cared for in the VFW National Home in Eaton Rapids, Michigan.
 The Poppies are assembled by disabled veterans in hospitals throughout the United States and has been the symbolic flower of Memorial Day since its first sale by VFW in 1922.
 The "Buddy" Popples which will be offered to you on the streets 13th and 14th of May, are sold by volunteers. A good way to personally show your gratitude for the sacrifices of our disabled and deceased veterans is to buy and wear this poppy.
 Lena Behnke,
 VFW Auxiliary.

To the Editor,
 The Village of Chelsea is about to lose a very valuable asset. Police officer Paul Whelan has decided to become a U.S. Marine, and will leave for training on May 9th.

Paul will be greatly missed. In addition to his many other duties, Paul has served this community well by building a bridge of trust between our youth and our police department. He has worked closely with school personnel and the families of our young people. He has shown a sincere interest in developing positive relationships with students and has been a great role model.
 Paul has earned the trust of our young people by making it obvious that he really cares about them. He has also shown a maturity beyond his years by giving good advice to troubled youth.
 Paul has volunteered much of his time to attend many school sponsored activities. He will be a chaperone at the Junior-Senior Prom on May 7th.
 So please, take time this week to let Paul know how much he has meant to this community and to each of you in particular, and to wish him well as he takes on a new challenge, which unfortunately takes him away from us.
 Our family will personally miss this fine young man who has given much of his time to help and support us during the past few months.
 The Piasecki Family.

 Combating TV Violence And Its Impact on Youth

Many people today are critical of the amount of violence in television programming. They cite the frequent portrayals of crime and vulgarity as personally offensive and hostile to the nation's social and psychological well-being.

"Virtually everyone is exposed to the excesses of TV violence, but our youth are most susceptible to the dangers of such programming," believes Dr. Thomas F. Koerner, deputy executive director, National Association of Secondary School Principals. "We know from repeated studies that our teen-agers watch more television than any other age group. Each year, the average youngster witnesses more than 1,000 rapes, homicides, and other brutal assaults on TV.

"Adolescents are at the most impressionable age of human development, and research has found some correlation between watching fictitious violence and aggressive behavior."

Although historically most efforts to regulate television in the interests of youngsters have failed, there are new efforts on Capitol Hill to mandate a decrease in TV violence. For example, the Citizens Task Force on TV

Violence, led by Senator Kent Conrad (D-ND), has recommended a ban on violent network and cable TV shows 16 hours a day—from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m.—to protect children.

The task force is also asking for the adoption of a tough, voluntary entertainment anti-violence code by the media, public interest groups, and government; a violence rating system; and mechanical and electrical devices parents can install in their TVs to block violent programming.

Koerner believes that parents, community and business leaders, and educators also can play a visible role in combating TV violence. Following are effective ways you can make a difference:

- Conduct a survey on how your community feels about violent programs.
- Develop support groups to work on assessing television violence. Prepare a resolution.
- Write letters to producers of television programs telling them how you feel.
- Write letters to the sponsors of violent TV programs.
- Contact the local news media for support for your positions.
- Prepare a presentation on this subject and speak to local civic and community groups.
- Write or call your local, state, and federal legislators. Tell them you believe TV violence is detrimental to our youth and nation.
- Let kids know they don't have to sit, absorb, and believe everything they hear on TV. Teach them to question everything—including the frequency of violent portrayals.
- Support a school curricula that teaches students' critical-viewing skills and media literacy.
- Be a good role model. Turn off violent television and pick up a book.

Our youth tend to learn what they are taught.

Eclipse of Sun Visible Here May 10

Tuesday, May 10, area residents will witness a spectacular celestial event, an annular eclipse of the sun. Detroit is very nearly in the center of the path of the eclipse shadow. Locally we will see roughly 96% of the sun disappear, resulting in a thin fiery ring surrounding the moon, suspended eerily in the darkened sky. The next such eclipse visible in the USA won't occur until the year 2017! The sun will be eclipsed for over five minutes, with the maximum occurring at 1:12 p.m.

Eighth Graders Tour Gettysburg, Washington, D.C.

Beach Middle school eighth graders went to Washington, D.C. April 13-17. 143 students and 18 chaperones were accompanied by Dave Snyder of Travel Adventures in three new, video-equipped, 56-passenger motor coaches, departing at 5:45 a.m. Wednesday and returning 7:50 a.m. Sunday.

Enroute they visited Gettysburg and had a guide explain the battle sites, the terrible losses suffered on both sides, and the significance of this battle in the Civil War. They saw state memorial monuments, including Michigan's, and saw Little Round Top among other battle sites.

They arrived at the Holiday Inn in Calverton, Md., for a brief night's rest and got up early the next morning to get in the White House tour line. Unfortunately, tours had been cancelled for that day! Instead, they went in groups to the top of the Washington Monument and got a great view.

After a brief stop at an open fish market, they went on to the Bureau of Printing and Engraving to see how money and stamps are printed, went to lunch at shops at National Place, and had a group photo taken in front of the Capitol.

They visited the Navy Museum and the Air and Space and/or the National Gallery of Art before having dinner at Pentagon City. They departed for the hotel and went to a pool party at the Aquatic Center—a center with three large Olympic-sized pools, a smaller pool, and a hot tub.

On Friday after breakfast at the hotel, they visited Mt. Vernon, George Washington's home, and had lunch at the Hard Rock Cafe. After driving by Embassy Row and the Vice-Presidential Home, they had an in-depth tour of the National Cathedral, including six of its chapels, a description of the significance of many of the stained glass windows and tapestries. After a brief stop at the Smithsonian, they returned to the hotel to dress for the theater, had dinner, and went to Ford's Theater to see a performance of "The Foreigner," a comedy that also had a serious message including an irrational Ku Klux Klan reaction and the distrust of foreigners.

On Saturday, after having breakfast and checking out of the hotel, they visited Ford's Theater and Peterson House briefly, saw "The Earth" movie at the Air and Space Museum Cinemax, and went on to the Holocaust Memorial Museum, where, after a brief description of the museum and of the circumstances surrounding the Holocaust, students were given a card including a biography of a real Jewish person near their age who had lived at that time in or around Germany. They were to follow that person's life through each floor/year of the museum, top to bottom.

Then they had lunch at Union Station, toured the rotunda of the Capitol, saw the statues representing the states, and went on to Arlington National Cemetery to see the changing of the guard and participate in a wreath laying ceremony at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

They had dinner at the Old Post Office and went on to a tour of the Viet-

Teacher Appreciation Week Slated at Beach

Appreciate: To think well of, to recognize gratefully, to estimate the quality or worth of.

Parents of Beach Middle school will be expressing their appreciation to the staff in honor of Teacher Appreciation Week, May 9-13. Teacher Appreciation Week is celebrated throughout the entire school district in various ways. With the school year winding to a close Teacher Appreciation Week is a wonderful opportunity to share the gratefulness for the teachers' time and efforts in educating Chelsea's students.

Starting on Monday, May 9, at Beach Middle school, the teachers will be greeted at the door by students with a special thank-you and an invitation to a special week in their honor. Wednesday, before school starts, breakfast will be found in the staff lounge, and Friday, a grand finale luncheon will be served. On Tuesday and Thursday the Student Council will be gracing the teachers with special treats. Small tokens of appreciation will also appear throughout the week. A special surprise is being driven in to Beach Middle school on Friday. A limo ride to and from the school will be provided to one teacher through a random drawing.

The greatest appreciation that will be expressed to our teachers will be notes of thanks from parents. It's been said that through the whole week, this simple sign of appreciation is the teachers' favorite part. Parents are encouraged to send a note of appreciation to our teachers for educating our future.

18 MILLS NOT ON HOMESTEADS

The 18 mills that will be voted on June 13, 1994, will result in no increase in the school operating taxes on homestead property. These 18 mills will be paid only on industrial, business, and rental property and on second homes. Since the millage does not apply to homestead property, it will not increase the average homeowner's tax bill. Proposal A that was approved in March, 1994, requires that local voters must approve all local millages.

The one mill for renewal of the maintenance millage will be levied on all property and will make the total on homestead property 7 mills. This compares to 35.6285 mills for 1993-94.

The chart below indicates the impact of both proposals on homestead and non-homestead property.

JUNE 13TH SCHOOL MILLAGE PROPOSALS

Proposal A, the school finance legislation the voters from Michigan passed in March, will dramatically change the way education is financed. However, Proposal A has not taken schools out of the millage business. On Monday, April 18th, the Board of Education approved two millage requests for the June 13th Annual School Election:

Proposal 1 - This 18-mill levy is a requirement by the new State school legislation. In order for schools to receive the student foundation grant, they are required to levy these 18 mills. This levy will last for 20 years. (The foundation grant is the amount of money each school district receives for each student if a district levies the 18 mills.) The only property that will be assessed these 18 mills will be non-homestead property. These 18 mills will not be levied on taxpayers' homes in which they live and for which they filed a homestead exemption certificate by May 1, 1994, with their township assessor.

Proposal 2 - The second proposal will be for one mill for building maintenance. This is a renewal of the one mill for maintenance the district has had for 16 years. This one mill will be assessed on all property. This levy will last for three (3) years.

In the one mile event, Matt Kolodica placed fourth at 6:21.18 and Jason Zatkovich placed fifth with a time of 6:22.22.

Chris Frayer was top finisher for the Bulldogs in the 400 meter dash, placing fifth at 1:09.56. Roarke Skelton placed third in the 200 meter hurdles with a time of :29.68. Dan Seward was fourth at :31.96.

Isaac Rabinovitz placed second in the 200-meter dash with :30.51 time and Rob Frayer was fifth at :31.15.

Chelsea placed third in the one-mile relay as Zatkovich, Kolodica, Vasas and Groesser paced their way to a 5:07.11 finish time.

"Over-all the Bulldogs looked good, but relays will be the focus for upcoming practices," said coach Jolly.

In doubles play Chelsea's Mike Bainton and Dan Koenigster defeated Nichols and Andrews 6-1, 6-4. Andreas and Tackett defeated Adam Beauchamp and Scott Boughton in a long three-setter 3-6, 6-1, 6-4; Jason Dunahoo and Ryan Chase defeated Culver and Lamerans 6-3, 7-5.

The Bulldogs' next matches are against Lumen Christi, Monroe Jefferson, and Brooklyn Columbia Central this week. The Lumen Christi and BCC matches are at home at 4 p.m.

About one third of the 97,000 jobs listed each year through the national Interstate Job Bank are managerial and professional occupations, with about 12 percent in structural and 19 percent in clerical and sales occupations. The median salary for all jobs listed in the Interstate Job Bank, sponsored by the U.S. Department of Labor and used by all state employment service offices, is $20,000 a year.

Girls 5th at Mason

The girls track team finished fifth with 56 points in the eight-team Mason Invitational Friday, April 29. Okemos won the meet with 88 points with Pinckney second with 64. Chelsea coach Bill Bainton said that may be reversed because of a scoring error.

"I thought they recorded a Pinckney thrower as being from Okemos when I saw the final results," he said. "That would change the points and make Pinckney the official champion. The rules allow for that to happen, but Chelsea's score and position would not be affected."

The only meet champions the Bulldogs had were the 2-mile relay of Sarah Henry, Katie Spink, Jenni Space, and Melissa Hand in 10:22.1; and Hand won in the 680 with 2:31.5. Bainton called those good performances for the cold, windy evening. The same foursome finished fourth in the mile relay at 4:28, and Space added a fifth in the 680.

Chelsea had some fine performances in the throwing events. Mara Smith finished second in the discus at 110'-8", her best throw ever. Jessica Flintoft made it to the finals of the discus but was a non-scoring seventh with her best ever 94'-33". In the shot put, Heidi Wehrwein continued her improvement, throwing 32'-11", her best ever, to take third. Smith was sixth with a season best of 30'-8 1/4".

"The throwers are really doing well now. We are pleased with the improvement and depth we have there," said coach Bainton.

Erin Schiller had Chelsea's only other points in the field events tying for second in the high jump at 5'-0". "Erin jumped well in the conditions. She is one of our steadiest performers," Bainton said.

Judge Bronson Seeks Court of Appeals Post

Kenneth Bronson, chief judge of the 14-A District Court in Washtenaw county, has announced his candidacy for the newly revised District III of the Michigan Court of Appeals.

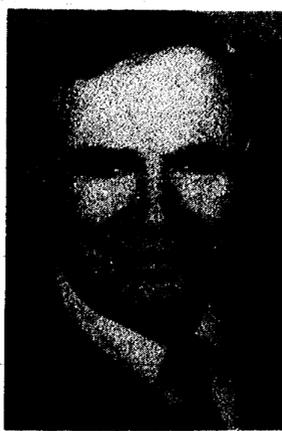

Judge Bronson has been a State District Court Judge for 18½ years. Prior to that he served as Ypsilanti City Attorney for 15 years and Saline Justice of the Peace for 3½ years.

Judge Bronson founded his own law firm in Ypsilanti, and was a practicing attorney for 17 years prior to becoming a judge.

He stated the reason for his candidacy was, "Because of my background academically, as a judge and trial attorney, I feel that I could add to the Michigan Court of Appeals a level of judicial and trial experience, which is not as usual as it should be. Real world extensive judicial experience is very helpful in a court which reviews errors of trial courts. As a practical matter, the final appeal in most cases is to the Michigan Court of Appeals, and not to the Michigan Supreme Court."

"My background includes teaching at the University of Michigan, in English Constitutional History, editor of my law school's Law Review, author of articles for judicial and legal journals, post-graduate judicial training at Cambridge University and the University of Michigan Law School, and serving as head of the editorial board for many years on the State Bar Journal. I believe this will be useful in assisting in the review of the many important matters which come before the Michigan Court of Appeals."

In 1979, Judge Bronson was rated as "highest in legal ability of all county judges" in an anonymous poll conducted by the Ann Arbor News. Each time he has run for election he has been rated highest in legal qualifications by a poll of the Washtenaw County Bar Association. In 1982 the first Blair Moody Award for Judicial Excellence was given to Judge Bronson. He is the author of numerous innovations, saving expense to the public within his trial court, such as the one day jury pick system, alternative sentencings, Unified Court, and other reforms which have made courts more accessible and efficient.

JUDGE KENNETH BRONSON

Judge Bronson notes that while there are four new positions in the newly revised district, his candidacy is not in conflict with the one other from this area.

May Proclaimed As Correct Posture Month

May has been designated as "Correct Posture Month," by village president Richard Steele.

In signing an official proclamation, Village President Steele joined members of the Michigan Chiropractic Society, the American Chiropractic Association, and the nation's doctors of chiropractic in observing the event.

The proclamation points to correct posture and spinal integrity as key elements in attaining and maintaining health. It stresses posture's role in child growth and development, and underlines its effect on physical and mental accomplishment.

The proclamation also directs public attention to the benefits of good posture and the need for periodic spinal examinations.

In issuing the resolution, Village President Steele also commended the doctors of chiropractic for their dedication and efforts in the public's behalf. He especially commended them for undertaking a public education program which brings attention to the values of spinal health care.

Methodist Choir Planning Annual Spring Concert

Friday, May 6, at 7:30 p.m., the Chancel Choir of Chelsea First United Methodist church will present its "every-so-often" tradition of a spring concert.

This year's concert, entitled "Springfest" continues a tradition of allowing individual members or small groups from the choir to do some light selections. In this style there will be Bob Benedict playing the bones, Jack Bittle and Sue Westcott as a duo, and many, many more.

Also featured this year will be a special guest ensemble from the Lansing area, the Namerlof Recorder Quartette. This group of musicians, playing four recorders, will be dressed in Elizabethan costumes.

In addition, the Men of the Choir, the Women of the Choir, Women's Quartettes, and an organ duet will combine to present an evening of enjoyable and light hearted music.

The full Chancel Choir will also sing several numbers.

A free-will offering will be received, proceeds to benefit the building fund. Light refreshments will be served following the program.

June Warren is director of music at the church. Rick Dake and Rebecca Foote, are pastors of the church.

CHRISTMAS IN APRIL volunteers had a hard time Saturday with outside work because of the cold, rainy weather. Seven crews did complete work on their designated sites. Workers will return Saturday, May 7 to complete some unfinished tasks. A total of 110 enthusiastic volunteers did "a tremendous lot of work," according to chairman Dick Shaneyfelt. Congregational Church Plans New Cookbook

Members of First Congregational Church of Chelsea, United Church of Christ, have begun preparations for their 150th year celebration with the publication of a cookbook. It consists of more than 400 favorite recipes and is called "Our Daily Bread."

First Congregational church was established in the 1800's and was one of the first churches of Chelsea. After out-growing the original building, a new one was built on land located on E. Middle St. and donated by Elisha Congdon. The building was the second building in town with heat. This made it the ideal place for plays, lectures and community activities. Because of its constant use, the village council erected the first street lamp in front of the church. Many improvements over the years have led to the present building.

Cookbook proceeds will go towards more renovations in the building. A new furnace has been installed and the members are planning repair to the bell tower, remodeling of the downstairs fellowship room and more accessible restrooms.

Cookbooks may be purchased from any member of the First Congregational church or by calling Charlotte Bentley, 475-8762 or Barbara Wolfgang, 475-7941.

National Day of Prayer Will Be Observed May 5

Thursday, May 5, 1994, is the Annual National Day of Prayer—a date set aside by law for Americans to come together, pause from their daily activities and pray for their nation and its leaders.

There will be a solemn observance on this day, the first Thursday in May, in front of the District Court Building on Main St., from 12 to 12:20 p.m.

This short public observance will be dedicated to praying for our local, state and national leadership, as well as for the entire community.

May 5, 1994, marks the 43rd consecutive observance of our National Day of Prayer.

Days of prayer are common to American heritage and are found throughout our nation's history. The first day of prayer was called by the Continental Congress in 1776. In 1952, Congress passed a joint resolution (signed by President Harry Truman) establishing an annual National Day of Prayer. The law was amended in 1988 and signed by President Ronald Reagan, permanently setting the day as the first Thursday in May.

The National Day of Prayer Task Force, a non-sectarian group with no political affiliation, says it is the right, privilege and responsibility of citizens to pray for America, its leaders, churches, business, schools and families. The public is urged to participate.

NATIVE AMERICANS visited South school fifth graders with a program of information and dancing last week. Celeste Balogh, mother of fifth grader Tara, showed and explained many items used by Native Americans. After her talk the youngsters had a chance to question Ms. Balogh and handle drums, weapons, tools, and things of religious significance. Four Native Americans then demonstrated traditional ceremonial dancing. Each dancer wore regalia, or native dress. Later fifth graders were invited to join in and try the dance step. A question and answer session closed the program. There were many questions. The afternoon was entertaining as well as educational for students of American history.

SOUTH SCHOOL fifth grade class, taught by Mrs. Stevens, has completed a study unit on Native Americans. As part of the project, they constructed totem poles which they are displaying in the above photograph.

nam Memorial, Lincoln and Jefferson Memorials, the Kennedy Center, and the Iwo Jima Memorial.
They departed Washington, D.C. at 9:30 p.m. and made stops every 2-3 hours, and at Breezewood, Pa., switched bus drivers. At 7:50 a.m. they arrived at Beach Middle school. The trip was safe, educational, and memorable! It added to the study of U.S. History and the Civil War studies begun in history and English classes in the eighth grade.
To be eligible for the trip, students submitted an essay entitled "Why I Want to Go to Washington, D.C.," an enrollment form, and maintained eligibility for behavior and grades. The cost of the trip was $375 per person, much of which was raised in three excellent fund-raisers; some students earned enough to receive spending money for the trip. Financial co-ordinator is Lu Kramer, and trip co-ordinators are Sandy Parker and Sue Craig.

Training Starts May 9 For Phone Survey Crew

Do the Chelsea School District voters know that South Elementary and North Elementary schools were built for 450 students and that each school has about 600 students? What type of building projects or renovations do the voters in the district think are needed? The school board needs the answers to these types of questions in order to make an informed decision on how to best meet their facility needs. In order to find the answer to these questions, the school district will be conducting a telephone survey May 9-12. This survey has been developed utilizing input from the staff and the community. The survey will be conducted and the results will be analyzed under the direction of a consultant hired by the school district. Telephone calls will be made by community volunteers. More volunteers are still needed to help make phone calls. Callers will be asked to attend a training program on Monday, May 9. Time of the training workshops will be 9-10:30 a.m., 1-2:30 p.m., and 7-8:30 p.m. Calls will be made from 5 to 9 each evening. To volunteer to be a phone survey caller for one or more evenings, or to ask questions, contact the Community Education Office at 475-9830 or 475-9131. Office hours are Monday through Thursday 9 to 5 and 6 to 8:30 p.m. Results of the survey will be presented by the consultant near the end of the year.
