School district facing budget cuts

By Eric Bowen

Staff Writer

Chelsea school administrators will be looking for ways to cut costs next year after initial budget figures showed a projected shortfall of $928,258, according to Superintendent Ed Richardson, who detailed the information to the Chelsea Board of Education Monday night.

Richardson said he expects to cut the deficit in half before a final budget is proposed, but the district still will have to dip into savings to pay the difference. The drop in fund balance comes on top of a $767,856 reduction budgeted for this year.

Richardson said the budget figures are based on keeping the same level of salaries and programs currently available. He said reducing the fund balance by between $400,000 and $500,000 will leave the district approximately 10 percent of its annual budget in savings, which he thinks is adequate.

"We will go to the drawing board to figure out how not to drop the fund balance,"

Richardson said.

Richardson attributed much of the shortfall to a minimal increase in district revenue from the state. He said the state Legislature froze foundation grants — the fixed amount of money allotted for each student in the district — this year, giving only a supplemental payment of $51 per student, which amounted to a less than 1 percent increase.

Richardson said the state did promise to raise the foundation grants for the next fiscal year, but the combined increase would average approximately 1.5 percent over two years.

The sluggish increase in foundation grants comes at a time the district has increased staff as a result of building two new schools and renovation of four other school sites. Richardson said the district has increased costs tenfold in technology alone, plus the additional custodial, teaching and support staff necessary to teach students in the expanded buildings.

"We are asking the Legislature to give us more money," Richardson said. "It is my hope the Legislature will deal with that soon."

In light of the stiff budget cuts, the school board continued talking about how to charge residents to use school facilities. Board members have been working to ensure the district receives some payment for making classrooms, auditoriums and sports facilities available to the public.

Richardson said, however, that the district is not predict-

Planners deny rezoning request

Chelsea Planning Commission recommended the council deny a petition to rezone three quarters of an acre of land on Van Buren street for use as multiple-family housing.

The commission took the action May 18 after surrounding residents spoke out against the rezoning at a public hearing. Residents objected to possible increased traffic and noise if an apartment complex were built on the site.

Planning commission members cited the village's master plan as a reason the multiple-family zoning would not fit in that area.

Hotel receives site plan extension

Developers of Comfort Inn in Commerce Park received an extension of their site plan approval May 18 after the company realized the plans had expired.

Chelsea allows up to six months for a company with an approved site plan to receive a building permit.

Comfort Inn's approval expired March 15. The company received a six-month extension to Sept. 15.

Schools receive accreditation

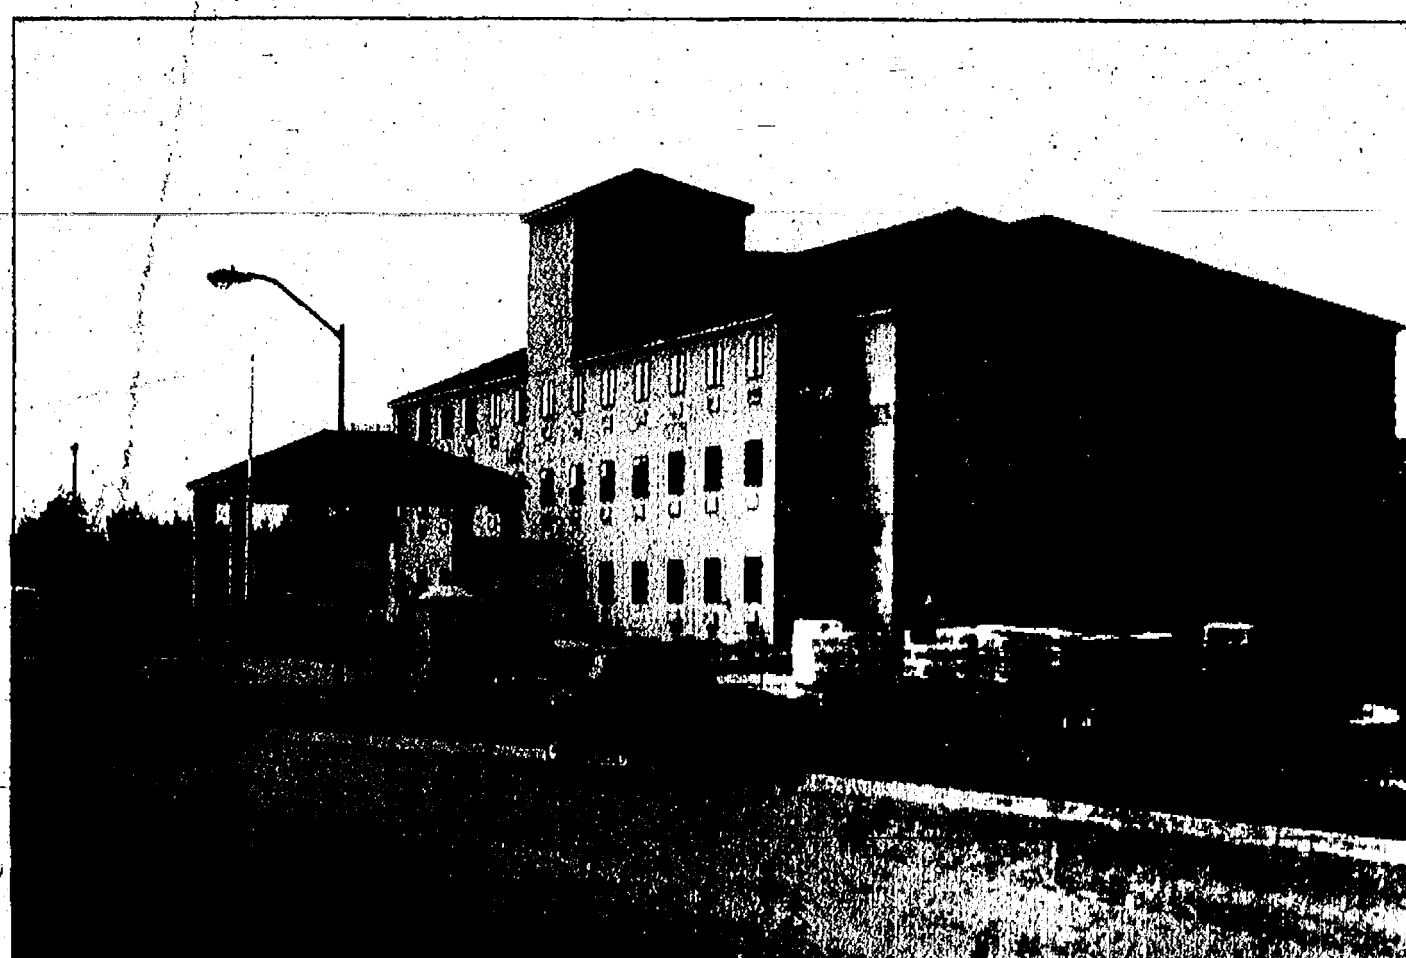

All five schools in the Chelsea School District received accreditation from the North Central Association (NCA) recently. The NCA sanctions school districts based on a variety of factors to determine if districts meet the NCA's high standards.

Board rejects non-resident students

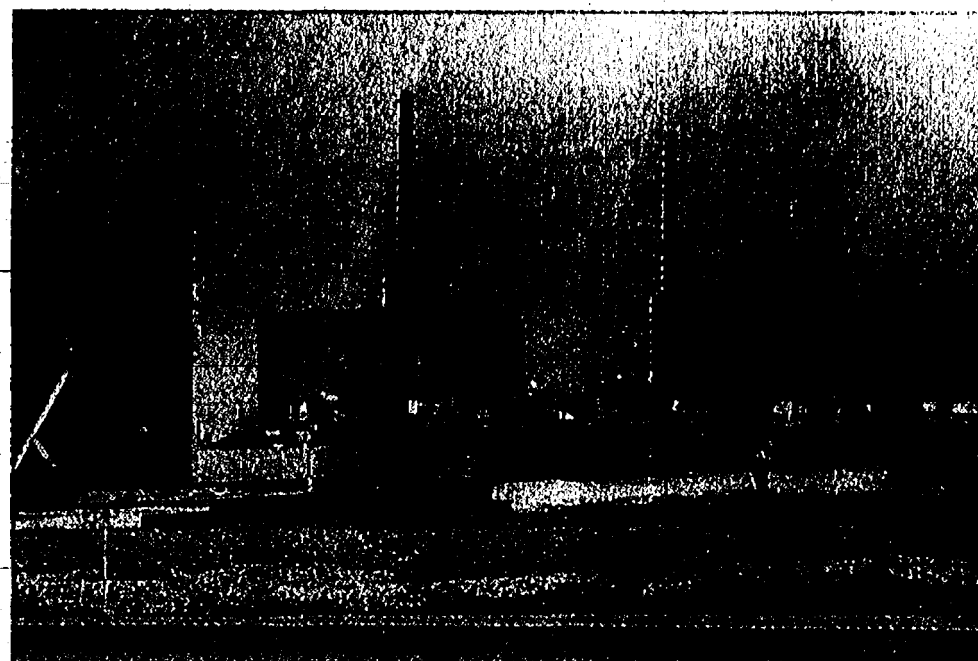

Chelsea Board of Education voted Monday night not to accept students who don't live in the school district boundaries.

The action is necessary because of a state law allowing students to choose districts unless a local district decides not to accept students. Chelsea has voted Monday not to allow students annually since the law went into effect.

Construction Season

Construction season has begun in Chelsea and several developments are continuing at a rapid pace. Holiday Inn Express (above) has its structure mostly built off Commerce Park Drive, and Farmer Jack (right) has begun construction on M-52. Other projects in the works are a Kentucky Fried Chicken, Comfort Inn and Little Professor Book Store.

Planners approve subdivision's landscape plan

By Eric Bowen

Staff Writer

Chelsea Village Planning Commission completed its review of the 124-unit Chelsea Fairways subdivision May 18 by voting unanimously to accept the developer's landscape plan. The vote puts one of Chelsea's largest residential developments one step closer to approval.

Planning commission Chair Doug Denison said the development was greeted well by commissioners. He said developer Richard Lewiston was willing to negotiate with the commission and design the development to fit with the village's wishes.

"Mr. Lewiston has been a willing participant in what we've tried to get accomplished," Denison said. "We've been able to negotiate with them to protect some of the more sensitive natural areas."

"I think it's going to be an excellent development out there."

Lewiston said the subdivision's landscape plan calls for comprehensive planning in all the common areas of the development. The site takes advantage of nearby trees to add natural open space, while giving a more man-made look closer to the buildings.

Representatives from Lewiston's development firm said the subdivision will have two entrances, one on Old US-12 and one on Freer. Each entrance will have a boulder wall and an island with the subdivision's name.

One main road will traverse the development, with another road and three cul-de-sacs branching off the main route. The center of the development will contain a large park with access from greenbelts between houses.

Much of the site will retain its natural look, keeping trees and grasses largely in place. A sidewalk will line the development on the sides abutting the major streets, with trees sprinkled throughout the development.

"This is a rather extensive landscape plan," Lewiston told the planning commission. "We had assured the planning commission in connection with the original processing that all of the common areas of the site would all be treated with landscaping in connection with development of the subdivision."

Planning commissioners were outwardly impressed by the development, with some wishing all of their site plans would be so easy to approve. Denison said Monday that Lewiston worked extensively with the village to come up with a plan that maintained the nat-

High school senior to speak at Memorial Day observance

By Eric Bowen

Staff Writer

With the pageantry of a color guard, the music of a marching band and the solemnity of 21-gun salute, Chelsea soldiers will commemorate the service of local veterans Monday, at the annual Memorial Day observance.

As in past years, Chelsea American Legion Post 31 and Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 4078 will honor war veterans in Oak Grove Cemetery. Jim Knott will be officer of the day, Pat Merkel will serve as parade master, and Don O'Dell will direct the color guard.

The annual Memorial Day Parade will begin at 10 a.m. at the municipal parking lot behind the police department. The parade will proceed south on Main Street to Park Street then east to East Street and back to Middle Street before finishing at the Oak Grove Cemetery.

All local veterans are invited to march in the parade. The veterans will be joined by Scouts, and the Chelsea High School and Beach Middle School marching bands, which will provide music.

Mary Lou Hahn-Setta, youth minister at St. Mary Catholic Church, will give the invocation at the ceremony. With her background ministering to youth, she said her prayer would recognize the youth who fought for our country and will emphasize the need for peace.

This year's keynote speaker will be Adam Knott, a senior at Chelsea High School. Last year, Knott attended Boys State, a statewide government conference hosted by the American Legion. Knott said he was chosen by the local post members, including his father, Jim, to give a speech because the veterans were impressed by his performance at Boys State.

"They had a lot of faith in me," Knott said. "When I reported back to the Legion, (Pat) Merkel and my dad were

New retirement home president feels welcome

By Eric Bowen

United Methodist Retirement Communities held an open house May 14 to welcome Bill Healy, who took over as president in mid-April. Healy, a Philadelphia native, has a long record of working in retirement and long-term care settings.

Healy said he was drawn to Chelsea because of its excellent reputation and its objective, which comes from its Methodist background, of serving people rather than looking for profit. Healy said the UMRC will be challenged by retirement businesses to maintain its high level of care.

"Our goal is to have a strong sense of mission and serving those who need it most in the face of growing competition from for-profit enterprise," Healy said.

Healy takes the helm of UMRC at a time of great growth. The retirement organization added Silver Maples in cooperation with Chelsea Community Hospital last year, and is building a new 120-room memory loss unit. Sylvan Pines, another independent living community broke ground this month.

Healy said the memory-loss center is particularly important because people are living longer and surviving the killers of the past, such as cancer and heart disease. But as people live longer, they often become debilitated by Alzheimer's Disease.

Healy said he is excited by the memory loss center because of its innovative surroundings. He said the common areas, open green space and sunlight will help memory-loss patients feel less disoriented.

"Traditional nursing homes do not provide the type of service they need," Healy said. "This facility will allow a tremendous sense of freedom of movement."

Healy grew up in Philadelphia, but moved around several times as a youth. He received a bachelor's degree in education from Mount St. Mary's College in Emmitsburg, Md., and a master's degree in health administration from George Washington University in Washington, D.C.

After graduating from George Washington, Healy went into the long-term care field because that's where the jobs were. He worked in upstate New York, Philadelphia and finally Oregon before coming to Chelsea.

At his most recent post, Healy served as president of a non-profit, faith-based retirement community that was in competition with for-profit enterprises. Healy said he could bring that experience to

United Methodist Retirement Communities recently hired Bill Healy as president. UMRC owns Chelsea Retirement Community and is in partnership with Chelsea Community Hospital to run Silver Maples.

Chelsea as corporate retirement communities move into this area.

Healy entered the field for the rapid job growth, but once in his first job, he found he liked doing the work. Healy said he enjoyed working in a field where he could make a positive difference in people's lives.

Healy also appreciates the Methodist mission of UMRC. He comes from a Christian background, and he said doing his best work means believing in the values of the retirement communities.

"Our mission is to provide for the dignity of the whole person," Healy said. "If I didn't believe in the values I couldn't believe in the mission."

"I'm glad to be able to make a difference by designing systems that provide a different kind of care that brings more dignity."

Healy said another bonus of his job has been the welcoming attitude of the UMRC staff, which he said has made Chelsea Retirement Community one of the most friendly places he has worked. He also likes Chelsea's beauty, which makes the village a good place to move his family: his wife, Pat, and four children.

But it is the residents of UMRC's retirement communities who add a special touch. He said he gets satisfaction from seeing the people he serves.

"One of the residents whom I met said to me, 'Is it OK, because I'm a hugger,'" Healy said. "I think that spells out the rewards of working in the senior population in an organization that provides for the quality of life."

"Now when I see her, it's an automatic hug, and that goes a long way toward the value of your job."

Planners still debating zoning changes

By Eric Bowen

Chelsea Planning Commission continued its debate over a draft zoning ordinance May 18 as the members dug into the design standards for commercial buildings.

The planners had a tough time agreeing on what should be in the standards, however, as some members of the commission said the text was overly regulatory and others stood by the tough stance as necessary to maintaining the village character.

Much of the debate centered on the draft design standards' intent, which says that building should be compatible and consistent with downtown architecture. The remainder of the ordinance went on to stipulate specific requirements, such as the minimum amount of brick on the front of a building to the size and shape of awnings in the village.

Some planners were unclear on whether prospective builders would be required to meet only the stipulations in the ordinance or whether they would have to be compatible with downtown everywhere.

Planning Commissioner Craig Common criticized the intent, saying he didn't think it should be the village's intent to require downtown architecture outside of downtown. He said he didn't want the village to require 19th Century buildings when moving into the 21st.

"My personal opinion here is the intent (of the ordinance) is not to take the architecture in the downtown and extend it any further out of the downtown area," said Commissioner Craig Common. "I think we're setting up a situation where it would be very difficult for anyone to want to come into the village and attempt to do something."

Common's remarks were echoed by planner Chris Rode, who wanted clarification of how a building would be approved. He said that some of the standards were vague, which may make it difficult for the commission if a building fits the letter of the ordinance, but may not be consistent with buildings in downtown.

Rode said the initial statement sets the tone for the requirements, and he believes it should be more precise.

"I can think of several buildings, even on the south of town, that are using materials of integrity, but those buildings have very little to do with the consistency of downtown," Rode said. "When you start saying things that they be compatible and consistent you really are saying you want buildings that look like downtown."

Commissioner Rick Haugen, however, said he wanted to keep in the strong wording. He said he thinks Chelsea wants to encourage architecture that adds to Chelsea's charm, which comes from its historic downtown.

impressed with me. They called me a natural politician."

Knott said he plans to talk about the beginnings of Memorial Day, which came from an order of John A. Logan three years after the Civil War. Logan wanted a day to remember those who had died in the war.

Knott said he would reflect on the orders and how relevant they are to today's memorial.

He also said he would read a poem by Lt. Colonel John McCray, who described what it's like to fall in battle.

Knott plans to tie the past into today's conflict in Kosovo. He said he wants to encourage people to support the troops regardless of their feelings about the war itself.

After he graduates, Knott said he intends to study finance at Western Michigan University in the fall. But he would like to continue in politics behind the scenes.

Knott said he is not entirely comfortable giving speeches, but is happy to give them when asked. The opportunity to speak at the Memorial Day service was a chance he couldn't give up.

"I think it's a great opportunity to give back to the American Legion and honoring them for nominating me for Boys State," Knott said.

ural features of the development.

Denison also said the development will incorporate street and building designs that the planning commission has been trying to put in place for some time. He said curving streets and additional islands give the development a nice character.

Commissioner Rick Haugen said he hoped this could be a model for other developers coming to Chelsea.

"If anybody wanted to see a good example of a subdivision plan we've gotten, this is it," Haugen said. "I think this is an excellent commitment for making a great living environment in this facility."

The next step for the development, which lies off the corner of Old US-12 and Freer Road, will be a preliminary plat for the land, according to Zoning Administrator Jim Drolett. Chelsea Village Council will consider the preliminary plat and then the final plat following an engineering review.

Chelsea student to travel abroad during summer

Chelsea Community Hospital has awarded Lisa Clement of Gregory a scholarship for a summer experience in Spain through Youth For Understanding (YFU) International Exchange, one of the oldest and largest programs for high school students.

Clement, who attends Chelsea High School, will spend most of the summer living with a host family in Spain, becoming immersed in that country's culture. Chelsea Community Hospital is one of over 50 corporations that offer scholarships through YFU to live abroad for a summer or an academic year.

YFU was established in 1951 as a private, nonprofit educational organization dedicated to preparing young people for their responsibilities and opportunities in a changing, interdependent world through exchange programs for high school students.

ANOTHER ROAD TO DISCOVERY

The process known as "discovery" is used to obtain evidence in civil cases that will strengthen each side's case, and also to prevent either side from being surprised by undisclosed facts or unknown witnesses. The best known forms of discovery are depositions and interrogations. In business disputes, a "request for production and inspection" is also widely used. This form of discovery makes the request that the party who receives it produce any and all books and documents in its possession that are pertinent to the lawsuit, as well as physical evidence that the side making the request cannot obtain through other means. This request for business documents and other evidence must be quite specific in what exactly is being sought. Otherwise, the party making the request could use this form of discovery to search the other side's files for evidence supporting its case.

Knowing how to find and retrieve information is one of the most important attributes of a successful attorney. At the LAW OFFICES OF KITCHEN & STRINGER, J.D., we've built our practice on knowing how to get the facts, and use them to protect your best interests. We accept cases involving personal injury, civil litigation, business and family law, real estate, and probate. To schedule a complimentary consultation, call 426-4695. Sharon denies rezoning request

By Michael Rybka
Staff Writer

A full house witnessed the Sharon Township Planning Commission deny a rezoning request and a special-use permit to Tom Ellis, who wanted to subdivide a portion of his Pleasant Lake Road acreage and erect four structures to house migrant workers.

Ellis is an attorney who resides in Napoleon and farms in Sharon Township.

Ellis said he wanted certain parcels of 300 acres of land that he owned to be rezoned from agricultural to residential (R-2).

Ellis said he needed to sell off land to pay for a $100,000 irrigation system, the workers' quarters and the cost of the red tape it would take to have them approved.

Ellis said he needed migrant workers because he intended to plant 100 acres of raspberries and there wasn't enough local help available.

After the first of two public hearings, the commission was in unanimous agreement that Ellis' rezoning request met none of the findings of fact that would warrant a change to the zoning ordinance.

The special-use permit was voted down 7-0 on the grounds that the submitted application was so inadequate that it did not deserve a public hearing.

Ellis' applications and site plans, both of which he drafted himself, were in such a state that Commissioner Shannon Fleck proposed that both issues be tabled until the documents were redone.

Planning Commission Chairman Roger Kappler and planning consultant Ralph Pasola of the firm Carlisle/Wortman Associates advised against this idea.

As far as the rezoning issue went, Kappler said new plans would not change the grounds for denial.

As for the special-use permit, Kappler said the inadequacy of the submittal was a reason in itself to deny the request and that Ellis should be forced to start from scratch and again pay the permit fees.

Ellis said that planting 300 acres of corn prevented him from doing a better job.

"You get done what you want to get done," Kappler said. "Just like I found the time to review your incomplete applications."

Kappler said Ellis should have viewed the required paperwork in the same way he did when applying to the University of Michigan.

"There was nothing more I wanted to do than attend U of M," Kappler said. "The application was complicated and intrusive but I filled it out completely."

"That is the attitude you should have adopted — not putting 'see attached' or threatening to sue every other line."

Pasola said Ellis' submittals were not the result of carelessness but a deliberate attempt to be dishonest.

Pasola listed a host of contradictions along with omissions in Ellis' submittals.

Pasola said the township believes that the parcels in question totaled 87 acres while Ellis based his site plans on 92 acres.

Ellis said the disparity was due to measuring flat land on a round planet.

Pasola said the scale used on the self-drafted site plan claimed to be 200:1 but was not accurate to that effect.

Pasola said water and sewage for the workers' quarters was not addressed and Ellis admitted he had not contacted the appropriate agency in that regard.

Pasola said that the site plan for the rezoning did not include the structures he was proposing in his special-use request and, therefore, adherence to building restrictions could not be assessed.

Ellis said the omission was due to his confusion over the wording in the site plan but was overcome by his stating his intentions in a letter.

Nearly two dozen township residents spoke in each of the two related public hearings.

The vast majority of the public, backed by 72 signatures on a petition, spoke against approving either of the Ellis' requests.

A handful of people, including Zoning Board of Appeals Chairman Charlotte Anderson, said the township ordinance was too restrictive but did not believe Ellis' petitions were the right context to induce any changes.

Only Larry Salyer was unequivocal in his support for Ellis, saying that the township ordinance was discriminatory.

Salyer said he would have the American Civil Liberties Union and the NAACP look into the matter.

Ellis said he would hire a professional draftsman in an effort to reapply for a special-use permit. He did say what his future plans concerning the rezoning would be.

Library patrons want new technology

The telephone survey of registered voters in the library district, conducted in 1998 by the planning task force and the library board, revealed that this community is asking for greater access to publicly available information technology resources:

- 84 percent of library patrons and 75 percent of non-patrons thought that computer labs were "very important" or "somewhat important."
- 71 percent of library patrons and 50 percent of non-patrons thought that Internet access was "very important" or "somewhat important."

The focus groups run by the task force and the board in 1998 addressed Internet and information technology in the library. Respondents placed high priority on trained and available staff to assist users with technology and Internet access, classes for potential users, access to the Internet in the library and the need for more computers.

Chelsea District Library proposes to bring information technology access all day, all year to this community in a way that is appropriate for the size of the community and which matches the expressed interest and the educational maturity of its citizens. Current building and operational plans call for:

- A computer lab with six workstations that can be expanded to 10 workstations for structured classes and for individual use.
- Computer workstations throughout the building will provide access to the catalog on both floors.
- Library professionals and volunteers who will serve as individual docents, teach classes and monitor equipment.
- An online catalog improved for ease of use and enhanced with Web-based aids to finding "what to read next."
- Online electronic business information resources for the entrepreneurs of the community starting up new or expanded businesses.

- An online obituary file for genealogists searching for their roots in the Chelsea area.
- Classes on the use of the Internet: how to evaluate Internet-based resources, help for parents guiding their children on the Internet, how to find information (health, business, genealogy, you-name-it) on the Web and introductory classes — getting past the "mouse."

The number of workstations will be dictated by the ultimate size of the building and this has not yet been determined.

METTA LANSDALE JR.

LIBRARY NOTES

Some workstations will be dedicated for use of the online catalog, others will be dedicated for use of the Internet, and still others will be dedicated as "stand-alone" for use of CD and/or DVD information products.

Mornings, Mochas and Melodies

Pierce's Pastries Plus in downtown Chelsea will have two hours of entertainment every Saturday morning from 10:30 to 12:30, beginning in June. There will be a different performer every week.

ing any increase in revenue from the new fees. He said the variability was too great to determine a fixed amount.

Several changes from the previous draft included fees for failing to cancel an event and damaging school equipment. Also the school will not guarantee reservations before May 1 of each year, which is the date the school events are decided for the next school year.

The board continued to wrangle over whether to charge non-profit groups composed of district residents. The policy committee has had disagreements over where to draw the line for charging groups that support educational goals.

Board Secretary Dayle Wright said she was uncomfortable charging groups such as the Scouts, Tech Unlimited or Chelsea House Orchestra, all of which would have to pay basic rates for school facilities under the current policy draft. She said she wanted the entire board to consider the ramifications of the policy.

"Certain groups are school-supporting groups, but those groups would pay a fee for those facilities," Wright said. "I think the school system is better off because of them."

"These are philosophical decisions we have to make," Wright's comments were supported by Treasurer Scott Broshar, who said he would rather allow non-profit groups to use the facilities for free except under unusual circumstances. He said he didn't want to force groups to pay if they were using minimal facilities. Trustee Jan Roberts said she preferred trying to offer free facilities to groups that help kids.

Board President Jane Diesing, however, said the district needs to make a clear cut-off point. She said the district is subsidizing local groups by paying for utilities, custodial services. She said all of the costs must be weighed when considering whether to charge non-profit groups.

"We need a clear definition on who qualifies," Diesing said. "I thought we had come back to the idea that everybody pays, but now we're going back on that."

"This issue has been a stumbling block from the get-go, and as a board we have to come to grips with it."

In other business Monday night the board took the following action:

• The board approved a field trip for the women's swim team.

• The board approved an election resolution stating that one board position is up for election this year. No other items will be on the ballot.

• The board also approved seven election inspectors for Community forum provides lesson in planning

By Brian Hamilton
Managing Editor

Saturday's community forum at old Chelsea High School on regional planning was a lot like sitting in on a college course — at least the first half of it. That's when I had to leave to shoot baseball and softball photos.

The 100 or so people in attendance heard an overview of the local effort to date by County Commissioner Joe Yekulis, an outline of the proposed bypass, now renamed the "reroute," and some instructions by the enthusiastic Joe Ohren of the Institute of Community and Regional Development at Eastern Michigan University.

It was Ohren's touch throughout the morning that kept the exercise more like a college class than a boring community seminar on planning.

There were plenty of reminders throughout the day of just how unusual this community planning effort is. It was also underscored by Yekulis, Ohren, Mark McFadden of the Washtenaw County Planning Commission and others that growth is inevitable here.

Judging by the comments, there were more than a few people who were uncomfortable with that assessment.

The highlight of the morning was the exercise we all participated in. We divided up into three groups: the developers, the planning commission and a citizens group. The idea was to simulate a public hearing on a proposed, and mythical, housing project outside the village off McKinley Road.

"How do you reconcile competing values?" is how Ohren described the process.

In our packet of materials was paperwork so authentic that at the outset of the seminar one woman, a McKinley Road resident, thought the project was for real, which drew a lot of sympathetic laughter.

I was in one of two developers groups. Our mission was to come up with an argument to convince the planning commission to rezone agricultural land to a planned unit development so that we could build a mixture of homes, condos and mobile homes. After our presentation, the concerned citizens would raise every argument they could think of. Then the planning commission would vote.

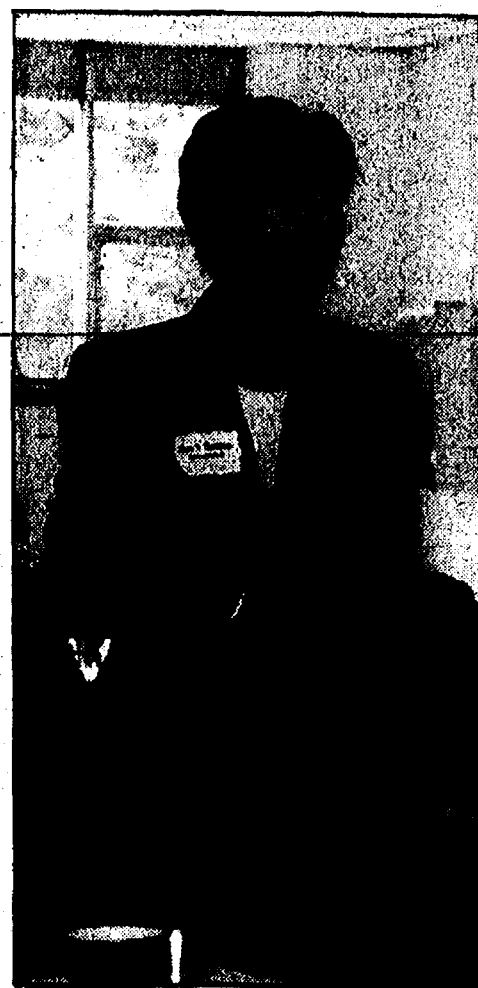

Our group seemed to struggle with our mission, probably because many in the group are, by nature, skeptical of development.

I didn't know everyone, but we did have one real developer, Bob Daniels. There was also Lima Township Supervisor Gary Adams, whose township we were messing with, Village Zoning Inspector Jim Drolett, Village President Richard Steele, Senior Center Director Pat Kaminsky, and Chamber of Commerce President Todd Orbring, among others. It seemed like we spent much of our 20-25 minutes of allotted time convincing ourselves that this was a worthwhile project. Clearly, we were pretty lousy developers as a whole.

Adams, however, seemed to like much of the proposal. It was predicated on getting village services (a longshot without annexation), it would deal with the township's mobile home problem, and it would make use of land that cannot be farmed economically.

The bulk of the developers' presentation was made by former village trustee Steve Daut, who was in the other developers group. He seemed at ease in front of the group although at times it didn't look like even he believed what he was saying, especially when the developers were challenged by the planning commission about the effect of increased traffic on McKinley Road.

The citizens group, which included people like Dexter

Township Supervisor Bob Tetens and Washtenaw County Drain Commissioner Janis Bobrin, was probably the most effective of all three groups. It raised environmental issues, questions about how many children would be added to the school district, concerns about sidewalks and roads, and the inability of taxes to fund necessary services like police and fire protection.

In the end, no one on the planning commission, chaired by Realtor Steve Easudes, voted in favor of the rezoning, even though at about 15-20 members it was probably the biggest planning commission ever invented.

The project did not conform to the township's master plan, as was indicated in the packet. Although that was a primary reason the commission could vote the rezoning down, the issue never came up.

And that prompted Daut to ask the commissioners if they would have approved the rezoning if it had conformed to the master plan.

Saturday's community forum provided a glimpse at how a planning commission goes about making decisions about developments. Above, one of the developers groups goes over the plans for the mixed housing project. At left, Steve Daut makes the developers' case before the planning commission (left in photo). At far left, county Drain Commissioner Janis Bobrin plays the part of an aggrieved citizen during the mock public hearing.

Saylor novels to be topic of mystery book club meeting

Conspiracies, corruption and intrigue are on the agenda for the Monday, June 7 meeting of Chelsea District Library's Mystery Book Club when a mystery series written by Steven Saylor will be discussed.

Saylor uses ancient Rome as the setting for his private eye novels featuring detective Gordianus the Finder. Book club member Yvonne Herron selected this historical mystery series for the June meeting, and she will be the discussion leader.

The Mystery Book Club meets on the first Monday of each month at 7:30 p.m. upstairs at McKune House.

An alternate accessible site can be arranged if requested.

For more information call the Chelsea District Library at 475-8732.

POLICE BLOTTER

Chelsea Village Found Property

A bicycle was found at 7:28 a.m. May 23 in the 300 block of Railroad Street. A computer check did not show a stolen bike matching the description. Total value of the bicycle was estimated to be $25.

Missing Person

An 87-year-old Chelsea man was reported missing from his room in Chelsea Retirement Community, 805 W. Middle St., at 3:30 a.m. May 18. The man apparently walked out of his room. Police searched the grounds but could not find him. The man was later located in another resident's room, sleeping on the floor.

Suspicious Incident

A 38-year-old Chelsea man told police that his son and a friend were playing in a tree fort on his property on Taylor Street at 7:43 p.m. May 17. The man noticed a man, later identified as a 37-year-old Chelsea man, hiding in the weeds next to the fort. The property owner said he had recently put up a new "No Trespassing" sign. Police talked to the suspect and he said he had walked across the property and had seen the sign. But he said he was not stalking anyone. The property owner told police he was afraid for his child's welfare and he notified the school.

Larceny

An Ann Arbor woman reported that $100 in change was stolen from a locker at the Washington Street Education Center, 500 Washington St. The woman said she noticed the theft May 17 but did not report it until May 19, hoping the money would be returned. The money was the proceeds from pop sales to the special education students, and was to have been used for special purposes.

Hit and Run Accident

A hit-and-run accident was reported by a 53-year-old Chelsea man. The man said he had parked his car at Polly's Market, 1101 S. Main St., May 16, and when he returned there was damage to his car. The man didn't notice the damage until three days later.

Intimidation

A 45-year-old Chelsea man was contacted by police at 3:05 p.m. May 15 after he made threats to shoot a 46-year-old Chelsea woman's dog. The woman told police that the man had threatened to shoot the dog and suggested the dog wasn't the only one who might get hurt. He then went into his house and brought out a loaded shotgun, which he laid beside him. Police retrieved the shotgun and unloaded it, then asked him about the threats. The man said the woman's dog had been trying to get to his pot-bellied pig and he had asked her several times to move the dog to the other side of the lawn. He brought the shotgun out, but never pointed it at anyone or the dog. Police and the two neighbors worked out an arrangement where the woman would move the dog and they would put up a solid fence, so the dog could not see the pig.

Warrant Arrest

Dave Allen Foster, 21, of Chelsea was arrested at 4:56 p.m. May 13 at the Chelsea Police Department. Foster was wanted on four warrants: a felony warrant out of Chelsea Police Department in connection with a home invasion; a felony warrant out of Washtenaw County in connection with a parole violation; a warrant out of Washtenaw County in connection with a reckless driving charge; and a warrant out of Michigan State Police in connection with a charge of possession of marijuana. Chelsea Police turned Foster over to sheriff's deputies and he was taken to jail.

Dexter Village Assistance to Other Agencies

Police were contacted by school district administrators about a 13-year-old Whitmore Lake boy who had written a disturbing essay on his Michigan Educational Assessment Program test. The boy said that his older step-brother, 17, threatened to kill the boy's mother and step-father, and that the older boy told him the older brother had killed someone in the past.

The state testing program administrators contacted the school district about the essay, and the district set up a meeting with the police. The older brother has a history of assaults. He was moved out of his mother's house after assaulting her. The younger boy's mother said she believed the older brother had said the things to the younger brother.

Attempted Breaking and Entering

A 36-year-old Dexter man told police that he removed the paper money from a bill changer at 9 p.m. May 1 at Village Car Wash, 7944 Second St. He returned the next day and found the bill changer had been torn off the wall and the quarters were taken. Police suspected a 22-year-old Dexter man whose father said he was mentally disabled. The man declined to give a statement without a lawyer.

Warrant Arrest

Scott Michael Vichinsky, 19, of Chelsea was arrested May 16 at his place of employment in the 8100 block of Main Street. Vichinsky was wanted on four warrants, three out of Chelsea Police and one out of Michigan State Police Department.

Violation of Personal Protection Order

Police were called by a neighbor of a 38-year-old Dexter man when he saw a woman's car parked at the man's house in the 7600 block Second Street at 7:31 p.m. May 19. The man was contacted and responded to the house. The woman, a 34-year-old Ypsilanti woman, was apparently there to remove items from the house. However, she has a personal protection order against her that stipulates she is not to be in the house.

Assault and Battery

A 19-year-old Dexter man told police that he was at the Clark Gas Station, 8135 Main St., filling up his car at 8:30 p.m. May 14 when he saw the suspect, a 19-year-old Chelsea man. The suspect had recently broken up with his girlfriend, whom the victim is now dating. The man said when he returned from the store the suspect shoved him, then grabbed him around the neck. The suspect was pulled off the man by a witness. When police talked to the suspect, he admitted to grabbing the man around the neck.

Drunken Driving

A 78-year-old Chelsea man was arrested May 18 in the parking lot of Dexter High School, 2615 Baker Road. The man was walking around in the high school's parking lot. Police responded to the high school and observed the man enter his Participation sought for summer festival

The Chelsea Summer Festival will be held July 30-31 and service organizations should start thinking about their participation. The festival is sponsored by the Chelsea Merchants Association.

"By participating in the Chelsea Summer Festival, service organizations have an excellent opportunity to reach several thousand people over two days," said Penny Sauer, this year's service organization booth coordinator.

This year's festival will feature extended hours for entertainment, juried arts and crafts and a fine arts division.

"With some of the changes the Merchants Association has made this year, it will be easier for service organizations to participate and distribute their literature," Sauer said.

Service organizations can obtain a free booth at this year's festival for distribution of literature. Other booths are available for merchandise at a small fee.

If you are interested in obtaining a booth, call Sauer at (734) 475-5916, write to P.O. Box 580, Chelsea, 48118 or send her an e-mail at info@ypsilanti.org.

The festival is supported by several businesses in the greater Chelsea area but would not be possible without the support of the village of Chelsea and the Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce.

For more information about this year's festival call (800) 265-9045.

To the Village of Chelsea, members of the school system, members and friends of the First United Methodist Church, members of the Chelsea District Library Board, The Friends of the Chelsea District Library and library staff, the Chelsea Women's Club, neighbors and friends, both near and far, my family and I cannot thank you enough for seeing us through the sickness and passing of my wife of 51 years, Mary Lou. The shock will eventually wear off but hopefully her influence and philosophy of life will be around for many years to help children in their lives and through their problems.

Sincerely, Benjamin R. Bower

car and attempt to drive off. The man stopped and was given sobriety tests. The man was then arrested.

Dexter Township

Lost Property

A 35-year-old township woman told police that she noticed her checkbook was missing March 26. The woman said she doesn't know how the checks could have been taken. She closed her bank account April 2 and later her bank informed her that someone had attempted to pass some of her checks and she needed to report the missing checks to the police.

Property Damage

A 50-year-old township man told police that someone drove on his lawn at 12:20 a.m. May 21 on Hay Rake Hollow Road. A 17-year-old township boy saw a truck drive across the lawn and recognized the car as belonging to an 18-year-old Chelsea man.

A 64-year-old township man told police that his son, 26, who is legally an occupant of his father's residence, but does not live there currently, damaged a portable phone. The father said his son came over to his house and they got into an argument. The son took the phone and threw it on the ground, then stepped on it until it was smashed. The two had been in a dispute over the ownership of the house.

Sylvan Township

Personal Protection Order Violation

A 24-year-old Howell man violated a personal protection order against him at 9:57 a.m. May 13. A 20-year-old Chelsea woman told police that she received a call at her home on McKinley Road from the man, who told her he had some files relating to their child that she may want. The phone call was in violation of the PPO against him. Police arrested the man.

Webster Township

Larceny from Building

A 46-year-old Ann Arbor woman called police to report the theft of three pieces of jewelry from her home in the 4300 block of Sunderland Way. The woman said she put the jewelry in her dresser drawer April 29 and noticed them missing May 20. The woman said she has a housekeeper, but doesn't suspect her, because the woman has hired her for some time without incident. Total taken was $4,200.

Property Damage

A 49-year-old Dexter man told police that someone damaged a partially-built wall at his home under construction in the 8000 block of Applecreek Lane. The man said he does work on the home over the weekend in-between when the contractor works on it. He noticed the damage at 1 p.m. May 22. The man said he doesn't suspect the construction crew. Total damage was $300.

Scio Township

Possession of Marijuana

A 19-year-old Ann Arbor man and a 20-year-old Whitmore Lake man, were charged with possession of marijuana and possession of alcohol by a minor May 15. The two men were in a parking lot behind Bel-Mark Lanes, 3530 Jackson Road, at 11:38 p.m. when police stopped them. Police found a case of beer and a bottle of alcohol in the men's car, and two bags of suspected marijuana, one in the car, and another in a man's pocket. The men were released with a ticket for alcohol possession pending testing of the possible marijuana.

Property Damage

A double-paned window and a screen were damaged between 7 p.m. May 16 and 9 a.m. May 17 at the PoloFields Country Club, 5200 PoloFields. An Ann Arbor woman told police that nothing was missing from the country club. Total damage was estimated at $200.

A 55-year-old township man told police that he was away from his home in the 4000 block of Rondo Drive May 18. When he returned at 7:30 p.m., he found tire tracks across his lawn. The man told police he has been having a dispute with his neighbor, a 41-year-old township woman, over parking cars in the street in front of their residences.

When police investigated

they found the tire tracks led to the woman's house. The woman's car had mud and grass on the tires, and the tracks in the man's yard matched her car's treads. The man's son, 19, said he heard the woman's son tell a friend that his mother had done the damage. The woman told police that she was the only driver of the car, but she didn't know how the damage occurred.

A 55-year-old Ann Arbor woman told police that she parked her car at Reddeman Farms Golf Course, 555 S. Dancer Road, between 8 p.m. and 9:45 p.m. May 19. When she returned to her car, she found the passenger-side window was broken. The woman could find nothing that would have broken the window and nothing was missing from the car. Total damage is $200.

Assault and Battery

A 16-year-old Ann Arbor boy told police he was bowling at 11:30 p.m. May 19 at Bel-Mark Lanes, 3530 Jackson Road, when a man, later identified as a 21-year-old Milan man, gave him dirty looks. As the boy was leaving he made a comment, and was confronted by the man. The boy said the man punched him, giving him a black eye. The man said the boy started the fight.

Arson

Wooden figurines were damaged at 1:42 a.m. May 16 at the Country French Estates, 5611 Versailles Ave. A 30-year-old township man told police that he saw several teen-agers get out of a minivan near the figurines then do something and leave. After they left, he approached the signs and found they were on fire. After investigating, police determined that the signs had been lit with lighter fluid.

Larceny

A 57-year-old township woman told police some men delivered a new mattress to her home in the 5000 block of John Holmes Road at 10 a.m. May 10. She said the men, a 34-year-old Hamtramk man and a 23-year-old Detroit man, leaned the old mattress against her dresser where she had laid a diamond-studded ring. After the men left, the ring was gone. Police contacted the manager, a 55-year-old Hamtramk man, and he agreed to ask the men if they had taken the ring. They said they did not take the ring and that they were willing to take polygraph tests to prove their innocence. The manager suggested that the ring may have gotten caught on the old mattress while it was against the dresser. The old mattress was taken to the curb to be hauled away for trash.

Computer components were stolen from the Polo Fields Country Club, 5200 Polo Fields. An Ann Arbor woman told police the computers were in storage and hadn't been checked for approximately a month. She noticed the theft May 17. Total stolen was $3,000.

Warrant Arrest

Robert Lee Boggs, 29, of Scio Township was arrested at 9 a.m. May 21 at his home in the 3600 block of West Road. Boggs was wanted on a felony warrant in connection with possession of a controlled substance and a bench warrant in connection with a driving while license suspended charge. He was taken to jail without incident.

Auto Theft

An Ann Arbor man called police to report that a pickup truck was in the parking lot of BOC Gauges, 173 Parkland Plaza. The license plate on the truck came back as stolen from Bradley Pontiac, 3500 Jackson Road, between May 18 and May 19. A 21-year-old man told police he didn't know if the car had been unlocked, or if the keys had been taken from the car. The car was towed back to the car lot.

A 36-year-old Ypsilanti man told police that he parked a pickup truck at the Uptown Coney Island Restaurant, 3917 Jackson Road, at 9:40 a.m. May 21. The man said he left the keys in the ignition of the truck because he expected to see the car at all times. While the man was eating, he saw the truck drive past and out onto Jackson Road. A cellular phone was also taken. The truck belonged to Enterprise Leasing Co. of Farmington Hills.

Embezzlement

A 40-year-old township woman told police that a former employee, a 37-year-old Belleville woman, had stolen several thousand dollars from her business, Freedom Concrete, 4145 Michael Road, over the course of 10 months. The woman had been responsible for bookkeeping, but had cashed several checks.

Planning can affect racial diversity

BRIAN HAMILTON

OPENING REMARKS

I went to Saturday's community planning forum at old Chelsea High School expecting to be ... well, wishing I was out playing golf instead.

Boy was I ever surprised. Not only was it informative, but it was really downright fun.

Somebody told me there were about 100 people there, but it looked like maybe half again as many. The cafeteria was fairly full of the usual suspects — village and township officials, local rabble rousers, county and school officials, a few business owners, and perhaps a couple dozen or so interested citizens.

Elsewhere in this issue, I've described what happened in the morning session, so I won't repeat that process here.

One part that I didn't detail involved a discussion that was led about the qualities we love about the Chelsea community and those that we'd like to see go away.

The good qualities were easy to predict: schools, open spaces, community pride, beautiful downtown and so on.

One man stood up and said he moved to Chelsea so his kids could get a sense of living in a community. But he went on to note that — to put it in polite terms — that we have a very homogenous community and he'd like to see a little more diversity.

In other words, we're as white as a new snowfall.

In all the discussion about community planning, the makeup of our population rarely comes up.

We seem to be far more concerned about the "things" of our community — the buildings, disappearing open space, traffic congestion and services.

Yet our planning for these things (affordable housing, for example) will have a direct bearing on our demographics in the years ahead. Do you value more diversity, or would you prefer our community remain as homogenous as a bottle of milk?

This question really forces people to evaluate their closely-held beliefs about people.

During one of the breaks in the forum, I brought this subject up to County Commissioner Joe Yekulis and Joe Ohren of the Institute for Community and Regional Development (ICARD), which was hosting the forum.

Yekulis, quite correctly, said that if people want that quality in our community now, they're better off moving to Ann Arbor because diversity is not going to happen overnight.

Ohren, also quite correctly, said that if diversity is a community goal, the policies we put in place as we develop our regional plan can have an impact. The question we haven't answered as a community is, "Is diversity worth striving for?" Or is this whole exercise more about our physical appearance and less to do with our community soul?

I obviously can't answer this question for the community at large. On a personal level, though, I believe diversity is worth pursuing.

I believe we'd all be better off if we could have more friends and neighbors who are not like us. I believe it's better for kids. I know it was quite a shock for me when I moved away from my all-WASP community and was exposed to blacks and Jews for the first time. There was so much I didn't understand. I came to realize, in basic phrases and words I grew up with, how ingrained racism is in society.

So, now I ask myself, if I value these things, why did I move to a 99-percent-white community? And why do I continue to live here?

I'm not sure I'll ever be able to answer these questions. But I believe the general issue is worthy of community-wide consideration as we look at long-range plans.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Fitting that son breaks record

In reference to your May 20 article regarding Darl Bauer's accomplishments and his next challenge to break the 800 x 800-relay record, I would like to pass along my support and best wishes to him and his team mates.

As one individual that participated in setting the record, it is only appropriate that one of our sons (or daughters) raise the bar to the next level.

I know your Dad is extremely proud and I am certain that Coach Clarke has provided the same guidance, encouragement and knowledge afforded your father, myself and the rest of our team.

I wish I could be there when you set the record, but good luck to you and your relay team!

People signed petition enthusiastically

I am one of the people who circulated the petition asking Rite Aid to reconsider its intention to build on the M-52, Old US-12 corner.

I must take exception to your editorial that most people don't care. The vast majority of my neighbors thanked me or doing this, signed as fast as they found out what it was for, and with enthusiasm. One woman offered to wake her husband from a nap.

One concern for this corner is that Rite Aid could very well be the one that goes under, leaving us with an eyesore. This is just one problem that could result from this project. Progress cannot be stopped, but should be controlled.

Katherine Donovan

(Editor's note: The editorial did not say that most people don't care. The point was that petitions, by nature, don't measure the opinions on the other side of the issue. No one really knows how the majority feels about the project.)

Letters Policy

The Chelsea Standard welcomes letters to the editor. Our policy is as follows.

All letters must be signed and include an address and telephone number for verification purposes. Letters can be sent via e-mail to standard@globalbiz.net, although your address and telephone number should be included as well.

- Names will be withheld only under extraordinary circumstances.
- We ask that letters be limited to 500 words.
- All letters are subject to editing for clarity, style and removal of redundant, extraneous or libelous information.
- We do not run letters of thanks, letters that attack private citizens or letters that deal with customer-service issues. We will, however, run letters that acknowledge the efforts of people or organizations.
- We favor letters that address issues of local interest, although letters about any topic of general interest are welcome.
- Letters are run entirely at the discretion of this newspaper.
- All letters must be received by noon on Monday to be considered for publication in the next issue.

Imaginary people could solve problem

Dear Uncle Apollo,

Because you are wise, I ask you this question. How can an event, usually sporting, be sold-out, capacity crowd, etc., and have different numbers of people in the crowd? U of M football, for example, can have a capacity crowd of 107,650 or 107,731. The Tigers (not now of course) can vary their sold-out status by several thousand.

Are these imaginary people? Where do they put them if all the seats are taken? And could we use something like this in Chelsea to say we are sold out and will only take imaginary people from now on?

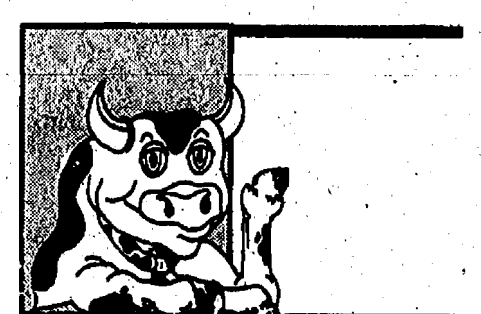

Inquiringly, Future Planning Commissioner Dear FPC,

First of all, you raise two questions, not one. I realize you didn't know that because it's very technical but I'll explain it so even I understand it.

You ask about imaginary people in stadiums and this is not really the applicable term when discussing capacity. People who go to sports events around here tend to be highly imaginary.

In stadiums, the proper term is theoretical people, with certain set measurement ratios. You see, stadium capacity is measured by the butt-foot, and all people are not created equal, if you catch my meaning. So depending on the average footage per butt for that particular day, the capacity number may vary somewhat.

There also are imaginary people. I know a lot about this kind of people, because I am one. And as you correctly assumed, we don't take up a lot of space, which would make us ideal for increasing capacity crowds at sporting events except, as a group, we're not all that interested in sports. Besides which, we don't have any money so the term "sold out" is really meaningless to us.

And the problem with only allowing imaginary people from now on is that you have to have real people to have any imagination at all, so if you don't exist, we don't exist either.

As to this Future Planning Commissioner thing, I assume this means you are not a present planning commissioner. Of course, not all of the current planning commissioners are actually present either, but I'm not all that fond of cur-rants, anyway.

But if you aren't present or current, I assume that means you are planning to become either a theoretical or imaginary planning commissioner, and you should think very carefully about which of those two types you plan to become.

If you're still confused about the difference, I suggest you read this letter over and over again until it makes sense to you, at which point you can probably be about anything you want to be. I hope this helps to clear up your confusion.

Farewell, friend

Longtime curriculum director leaves Chelsea schools

By Eric Bowen
Staff Writer

In the 14 years Laurice Kotchenruther has been curriculum director at Chelsea School District, she has altered — some would say revolutionized — the district's approach to teaching children.

Kotchenruther started her work by creating a new process for curriculum review. By the time she was done she had increased input from staff and the community, aligned the district with state criteria and increased opportunities for staff advancement.

So it was with some remorse that the district learned last month that Kotchenruther would retire at the end of this school year.

"She is our torch for curriculum alignment," says Superintendent Ed Richardson. "The phrase I always use is that her task is to align the written, taught and tested curriculum."

"I think it's a crucial position for any school district," he added. "In my opinion, if you're spending 21 million a year, and you don't value your curriculum, then you're wasting your money."

Kotchenruther was hired in 1985 on what was intended to be a two-year position as curriculum director, the first such post in Chelsea.

Her mission was to create a new way to evaluate curriculum that would enhance student learning across grade levels. Her intent was to examine how learning in kindergarten would lead to outcomes in high school, as each grade built on knowledge a child learned in the grade before.

Kotchenruther began by consolidating the district's curriculum review and implementing a six-year process. Each curricular area would undergo a three-year revision, followed by three years of evaluation.

Kotchenruther built a committee from each subject area that included teachers from all grade levels, school board members and parents in the community. The committees were designed to allow the most input from staff, who Kotchenruther says know the most about the day-to-day teaching of students.

Kotchenruther also promoted a focus on continuing education for staff members. She implemented a weeklong orientation for new teachers and she made sure teachers went to workshops or seminars so they would know how to teach any new areas in the curriculum.

Ensuring students met the requirements of the Michigan Educational Assessment Program and the California Achievement Test figured highly in Kotchenruther's work. Researching student guidelines and making specified outcomes for each grade level became benchmarks of the new system.

"It's not just a product, but a process that we go through to determine curriculum," Kotchenruther says. "Each teacher in each grade level has student outcomes and teacher input is critical to decide whether that outcome has been met."

Kotchenruther began her interest in education early. She says by the time she was six years old, she knew she wanted to be a teacher.

Kotchenruther pursued her interest in college, graduating in 1958 from Western Michigan University with a bachelor's degree in English and a teaching certificate. She taught high school Laurice Kotchenruther will retire from Chelsea schools at the end of the school year. Kotchenruther has served as the district's curriculum director for 14 years.

English for five years while working on a master's in English literature, which she earned in 1963 from the University of Michigan.

After finishing her master's degree, Kotchenruther spent a year in Europe, then quit working to stay home with her two children. She returned to U-M in 1975, receiving an education specialist degree in psychology in education.

Kotchenruther worked briefly as a school social worker then began working on her doctorate. She taught education classes as a graduate student and finished her doctorate in education curriculum and instruction in 1982.

Though Kotchenruther enjoyed educating would-be teachers, she says she wanted to work in a school district to ensure she knew what teachers needed. When the Chelsea job became available, she applied with the intention of going back into academia after the two-year stint, having garnered hands-on knowledge of teachers' needs.

Once Kotchenruther got to Chelsea school district, however, she realized the curriculum director's job allowed her to continue educating teachers in a more direct way. She says she enjoys working with a talented staff and help them throughout their careers.

"I wanted to improve the education of students," Kotchenruther says. "One way to do that is to educate teachers, and another is to work with them in the schools. It's two sides of the same coin, which is to improve the methods so kids learn."

Kotchenruther's educator-focus has been lauded by teachers in the district. Dave Polley, president of the teachers' Union Chelsea Education Association, says he appreciates that Kotchenruther has made the curriculum review much more codified, which gives teachers clear direction on what needs to be learned.

One conflict, Polley says, has been how to align Chelsea curriculum with the state tests. Polley says that pressing too much for teaching to the MEAP test can stifle creativity.

But Polley says he also understands Kotchenruther's attention is on the entire district and she has to ensure all students learn the same concepts. Polley also says he appreciates Kotchenruther's diligence in watching national trends and bringing the latest educational methods to Chelsea.

"I like the focus on the global — What are the national expectations? What are the hot topics in the universities? — then bringing that down to Chelsea," Polley says. "I think she's had a key role in bringing in community input, laying down objectives and helping teachers get the learning to follow the objectives."

Richardson says he does not know whether the district will replace Kotchenruther with another curriculum director. He says her duties could be wrapped into another administrator's job.

Kotchenruther, however, knows what she will do after she retires — travel. She and her husband are planning a driving tour of the western United States and a trip to Europe, where she will practice her Italian language skills.

But Kotchenruther will not entirely leave education. The veteran administrator plans to do educational consulting once she gets back from vacation, so she can continue to teach students "the next thing beyond which they already know."

4-H experience paves way for Linda Turok's career

By Michelle Rogers
Associate Editor

While growing up in a small town in Illinois, Linda Turok's interests in baking and sewing were encouraged. A member of a 4-H club, Turok won blue ribbons, and some of her projects were entered in state competitions.

So it's only fitting that years later Turok would end up as a teacher in grades 9-12. She became involved in after-school activities, serving as an adviser to the Future Homemakers of America, as well as the cheerleading and pompon squads.

Turok left the position after a year to participate in an exchange program overseas. She spent six months as a goodwill ambassador in the Netherlands as part of the home economics teacher.

Turok marked 15 years at Beach Middle School this past fall. She started her career at Lowpoint-Washburn High School in Washburn, Ill., in 1976.

Turok was in seventh grade when she decided on the career at the suggestion of her older sister, who was a teacher. As part of a writing assignment, Turok was asked what she wanted to be when she grew up.

"I had no clue," she recalls.

Her family already had a secretary, nurse and teacher. It was her older sister who suggested Turok blend her skills honed in 4-H into a future career.

"Then it was set," Turok says. "From then on everything I did revolved around being a home economics teacher."

Turok's high school home economics teacher, Noretta Hodges, provided additional encouragement.

"She was fresh out of college and inspired me," Turok recalls. "I further decided, 'That's what I like and want to do.'"

It was 1976 when Turok earned a bachelor's degree in home economics education from Southern Illinois University. Eleven years later, she added a master's degree in consumer home economics education from Eastern Michigan University.

Turok started her teaching career in 1976 at a small high school with a little over 100 students in grades 9-12. She became involved in after-school activities, serving as an adviser to the Future Homemakers of America, as well as the cheerleading and pompon squads.

Turok called it an eye-opening experience that changed her life.

"To go to another part of the world and see people not that different from you, that experience was amazing," she says.

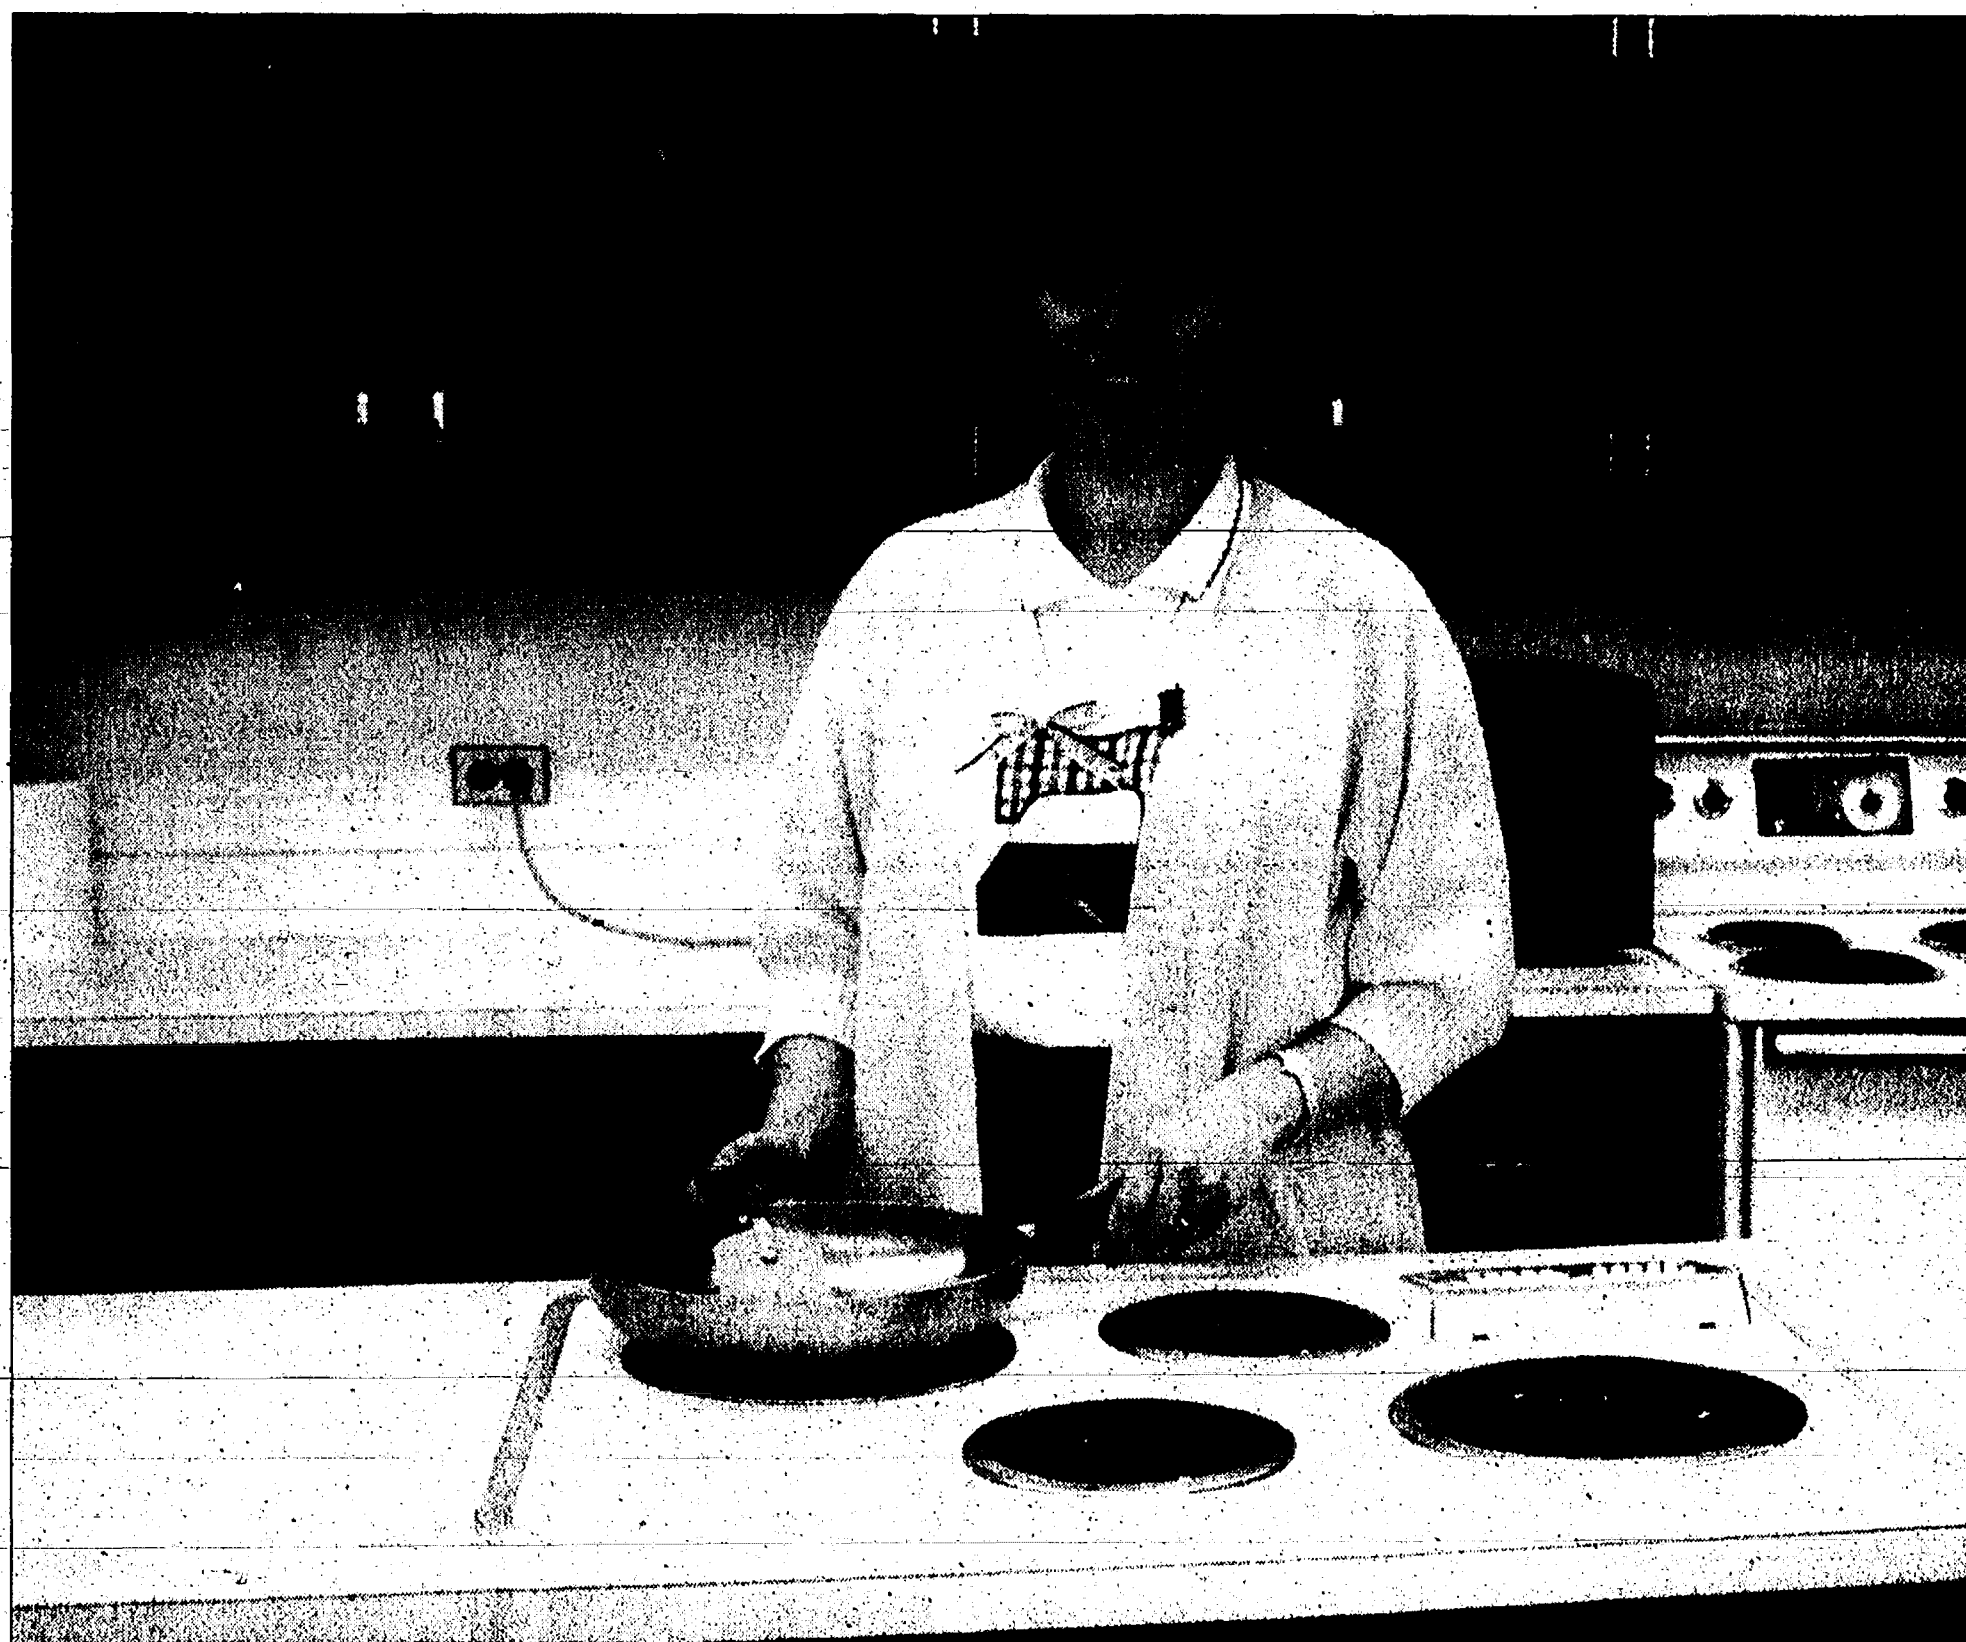

As part of the arrangement when she returned, Turok gave presentations on the country, culture and her experience to local groups.

The school district offered Turok another position and she continued teaching until 1982 when she married a man from Chelsea.

Turok settled in Chelsea with her husband, Charles, and began working as a substitute teacher in Chelsea, Dexter and Manchester school districts. Although her expertise was in home economics, Turok taught all subjects, from middle school to high school. When the long-time home economics teacher retired from Beach, Turok was offered the job.

"Because I taught at the high school (in Illinois), I wasn't sure about middle school," Turok says. "I wasn't sure I would like that age (group). But subbing helped me decide. When the job came open, I decided to take it."

Today her classes are called life management, not home economics. She offers life management I and II as electives to seventh- and eighth-graders. Life management I is a semester long class that teaches students basic sewing, cooking and interior decorating. In the other class, students are taught parenting skills, proper food-handling procedures and a consumer-education unit, among other things.

"I teach life skills," Turok says. "I teach things my students will use the rest of their lives."

"I think my classes are fun because they're hands-on. I believe in learning by doing."

Turok describes her teaching style as firm, fair and friendly.

"Those are the things I've learned and I try to follow them with a sense of humor thrown in, particularly with middle-schoolers," she says.

Although she taught at the high school the first few years of her career, Turok has found her

Margaret Schick reacts after scoring the go-ahead run against Dexter last Saturday in the SEC tournament.

Softball team takes SEC title with wins over Dexter, Saline

By Frank Dimich
Special Writer

It's not often that whole programs are considered dynasties, that's usually reserved just for certain teams that are successful.

But after winning its fifth straight Southeastern Conference title Saturday with two wins in the SEC tournament, the Chelsea varsity softball program could be considered a dynasty.

It is in the mind of assistant coach Kathy Sprawka, who has been with the team for nine years and has seen the Bulldogs win eight titles in the last 10 years.

Since it is a program as opposed to one team, this dynasty has encompassed many different players and seven coaches.

"This is bigger than any one team or coach," said Sprawka, who has been an assistant for two of those coaches, former coach Joe Beard (who is still an assistant) and current coach Rony O'Brien. "It says a lot about how strong (the program) has been over time as opposed to how strong it has been at any one time."

The Bulldogs, who finished 13-1 in the SEC, clinched on two of McKenna Houle's best outings of the year. She struck out 15 in a 1-0 win over Dexter, and pitched a no-hitter in a 2-0 win over Saline.

Chelsea, which had just two hits in the game against Dexter, scored the winning run in the sixth inning as Jessica Herman sacrificed home Margaret Schick from third base, who reached first base on a walk and stole second and third.

Herman also drove in the runs against Saline on two hits. Houle also had two hits and Schick had a double.

Lindsay Powers and McKenna Houle celebrate their SEC title.

Chelsea tennis team takes fifth at region

The Chelsea boys' tennis team ended its much-improved season with what coach John Capper said was a strong showing in the Division II regional tournament Friday and Saturday at Grosse Ile.

The Bulldogs finished fifth with nine points, but lost many of its matches to No. 1 seeds, including all three doubles matches.

"They all performed well against what were regarded as the best players of the tournament," Capper said.

Grosse Ile won the regional, but Capper was happy to come out on top of Dexter, which the Bulldogs had seen four times in various events, and tied in their dual meet in the regular season.

At No. 1 singles, Ryan McDonald lost 6-0, 6-0 to Carleton Airport in the semifinal, but won the second round 6-0, 6-0 over Detroit Southwestern. He had a bye in the first round.

At No. 2, Joe Arend was eliminated in the second round with a 6-3, 6-0 loss to Airport, but won his first-round match 6-0, 6-0 over Detroit Southwestern.

Jon Spooner had a bye at No. 3 singles, but lost to the No. 2 seed from Crestwood 6-4, 6-0 in the semifinal. He won his second-round match 6-0, 6-0 over Dearborn Divine Child.

Ian Ballard was eliminated in the first round 6-1, 6-3 at No. 4 singles.

Shawn Hayes and Ryan Braidwood advanced to the semifinal at No. 1 doubles, but were eliminated by the No. 1 seed from Grosse Ile 6-1, 6-3. They won their second-round match 6-1, 6-0 over Willow Run.

Matt Hand and Robert Gray were eliminated by Grosse Ile, the top seed at No. 2 doubles, 6-2, 6-1. They won their first-round match 6-2, 6-1 over Airport.

At No. 3 doubles, Mike Ofenbacher and Andy Smith also lost to the No. 1 seed from Grosse Ile 6-0, 6-0 in the second round. They beat Dexter 7-5, 6-3 in the first round.

Joel Gentz and Dan Mueller lost 6-2, 0-6, 7-6 (7-1) in a consolation match at No. 4 doubles, which did not count toward the final placing.

Chelsea finished 5-3-2 in dual meets, a big improvement over last season. And Capper hopes to see even more progress next season with Spooner and Arend as fourth-year seniors and Hayes and Braidwood as third-year seniors. This year, the Bulldogs had just one four-year letter winner in McDonald.

"When you have a stronger team its usually from more experience," Capper said. "Next year the team is going to be much stronger."

Baseball team third in SEC

By Frank Dimich
Special Writer

After starting out the season in a bit of a slump, the Chelsea baseball team has slowly progressed as its record, especially in the Southeastern Conference, would indicate.

But maybe the best, most encouraging sign that the Bulldogs might be primed for a run in the state tournament that starts next week is the strength of the pitching, which is starting to mold into top form.

The Bulldogs (16-14-1) got three solid performances at the SEC tournament Saturday as they went 2-1 for a third-place finish in the conference at 9-6. That record demonstrates another sign of their continued progress, considering they started 1-5.

Perhaps the best performance came from Chris Cooper in the 2-1, nine-inning loss to second-place Ypsilanti Lincoln.

This game was dominated by the great pitching of Cooper and Lincoln's Mike Ingrao, who allowed one run to Chelsea earlier this year.

Cooper took the loss, but pitched his best game of the year, allowing five hits, striking out 12 and walking two.

"You don't see a lot of these type of games anymore in high school, but this was one of them," Chelsea coach Wayne Walton said. "It was a great game, well played by both teams."

Lincoln won on a run-scoring single in the bottom of the ninth. Chelsea scored its only run on a run-scoring single by Jerry Milliken that scored Vince Scheffler, who also singled.

Phil Fishburn had two hits, including a double and Drew Henson also hit a double.

The Bulldogs got two more solid pitching performances in the other two games, beating Pinckney 4-1 and Milan 6-5 to clinch a third-place finish.

Scott Johnson had his best outing of the year in the win over Pinckney, allowing three hits, striking out six and walking one.

"That's the best game of his career," Walton said.

Chelsea scored a run in the second on a two-out single by Milliken that scored Henson. The Bulldogs got two in the third with run-scoring singles by Cooper and Nick McVay and Scheffler drove in Sayers with a single in the sixth for the final run.

Sayers led the offense with two hits.

Walton said the score against Milan was not indicative of the strong performance of Chris Bringham, as all five runs Milan scored were unearned. He struck out four, walked two and allowed seven hits in seven innings.

"We should have supported him better," Walton said.

The Bulldogs scored three in the first on run-scoring singles by Cooper and Sayers. Cooper scored on a wild pitch. They scored two more in the third on two errors on an run-scoring single by Tony Scheffler.

Ethan Rendell drove in the winning run in the sixth to break a 5-5 tie with a single that scored Chad Scharzenberger, who had doubled.

Chelsea also went to Brighton May 18 to face a team that came in 24-4. Chelsea lost the first game 13-6 and the second 4-3.

Both losses were tough to take, especially the first one where Brighton scored 10 times with two outs and nobody on base thanks to Chelsea errors, some untimely walks and a little clutch hitting.

"That was hard to watch," Walton said.

Fishburn led the offense with three hits, Cooper hit two doubles and Henson and Sayers each hit doubles.

In the second game, Brighton scored on a two-out error in the top of the seventh. The Bulldogs had only one hit, a double by Cooper, and scored all of their runs on walks and wild pitches.

The Bulldogs' game against Jackson Northwest May 17 turned out to be a preview of Chelsea's pre-district game June 2, and if it was anything like this game it should be interesting.

The Bulldogs led 14-3 after four innings. Then, Northwest came back with five runs in the fifth and four in the sixth, but Chelsea hung on for a 15-12 win.

Ken Weiner started and got the win, and Johnson came on in relief.

Bulldogs take third in boys' track regional

Tony Fetzer hands off to Adam Montero during a meet earlier this year.

By Frank Dimich
Special Writer

The Chelsea boys' track had some strong performances on its way to a third-place finish in the Class B regional meet at Stockbridge Friday and Saturday, but Jackson Lumen Christi was too strong and ran away with the win.

"Lumen Christi performed and ran exceptionally well," Chelsea coach Eric Swager said. "We couldn't have beat them even at full strength."

Lumen Christi scored 104 points, Haslett was second with 68 and Chelsea had 64.

But Chelsea did qualify three individuals and a relay team for the state meet.

The individual qualifiers were Joe Tripodi in the shot put, who finished second with a throw of 47 feet, 2 inches; Rourke Skelton in the 300-meter hurdles, who finished first in 40.2 seconds and Josh Hack in the discus with a throw of 129-0 that was also good for first place.

The real surprise for Swager was the qualification of the 3,200-meter relay team of Nathan Zeigler, Chad Fortner, Steve Erskine and Aaron Ruhlig, who finished seventh, but ran a time good enough to get in (8:21.7).

Swager expected some of the other relay teams to have a shot, but this was the one that performed the best. "That's a good accomplishment for them," he said.

Others individuals who earned medals were Matt Underwood, who finished fourth in the shot put (45-11), Aaron Montero, who was third in the 200 dash (23.3) and Mike Holloway, who was fourth in the 400 (52.0).

Despite not qualifying, the other three relay teams also took home medals. The 400 team of Aaron Montero, Skelton, John Carter and Holloway was also third (1:34.2) and the 1,600 team of Aaron Montero, Skelton, Carter and Holloway was fourth (3:36.9).

Fetzer turned in a solid performance with an eighth-place finish in the 200 (23.9).

Chelsea finished in third place in the Southeastern Conference at 4-2 after an 83-54 loss at Pinckney May 18.

"We had some mental lapses today, which hurt us," Swager said. "We needed to be nearly perfect to beat Pinckney and we weren't."

Golfers 11th at regional

The Chelsea girls' golf team shot 493 on its way to an 11th place finish in the 15-team Division II regional May 20 at Concord Hills in Concord.

Chelsea also lost its final dual meet to Dexter, 223-225, May 17 to finish 3-8 and 3-7 in the Southeastern Conference.

Kara Bunton led the Bulldogs against Dexter with a 51. Candice Hall shot 56 and Megan Morgan and Liz Menge, 59 each.

At the regional, Morgan led the Bulldogs with a low score of 117. Liz Menge shot 122, Bunton, 127, and Chloe Chamberlin, 131.

Jackson Lumen Christi won the regional with a 343, Concord was second with 384 and Linden third with 406. These three teams and the seven individual players with the lowest scores qualified for the Division II state finals.

Chelsea has one more meet remaining — the SEC tournament today at Saline. Dexter comes in with three points for each dual meet win and can earn more points for every team it finishes ahead of in the tournament. The points are then added up to determine the league champion.

JV soccer team shows improvement at end

The Chelsea junior varsity soccer team ended its season with a 6-0 loss to Tecumseh May 18 at Pierce Lake Elementary and a 7-0 loss May 20 at Tecumseh.

The Bulldogs finished 1-12-1, but Chelsea coach Jim Hicks is happy with the way his team progressed throughout the season.

"I never looked at the record as a measure of this team's improvement," he said. "I looked at the girls' desire to learn and the results of that desire on the field."

Pinckney led 2-0 at halftime, scoring in the 14th and 29th minutes, and outshooting Chelsea 10-1. But in the second half the Pirates turned it on for five goals in the fifth, seventh, 19th, 21st and 29th minutes of the second half.

Bryn Warren led Chelsea with 11 saves in the first and part of the second half. Molly McTaggart finished out the game in goal, getting four saves.

Until this game, Chelsea had held SEC opponents to fewer goals in their second game than they did in the first.

"The team was very disappointed with the result of this game," Hicks said. "We gave up more goals in this game than the one (with Pinckney) three weeks ago. That bucked our trend and the team knew that."

Against Tecumseh, Chelsea was down 4-0 at halftime, with the Indians scoring in the ninth, 13th, 15th and 18th minutes. They outshot the Bulldogs 13-0.

Tecumseh scored in the 23rd and 33rd minutes of the second half on 11 shots to the Bulldogs' two.

Warren had 15 saves for the game.

The Bulldogs' defensive unit (Emaly Noyce, Jessica Smith, Nikki Palluzzi and Alicia Edgeworth and Warren) held off Tecumseh's first team offense, which was reinserted at the end to try to score what the Indians had in their last game against Chelsea. Tecumseh was unsuccessful.

Chelsea girls run hard at track regional Chelsea High School's girl track team lost to a very good Pinckney team, 109-24, Tuesday. Mora Arnold had two firsts for the Bulldogs as she won the 400 in school-record time of 57.9, and the 200 in a fast 25.9.

Chelsea's throwers continued to shine. Amy McCalla won the discus with a throw of 112-7 with Tabbitha Gale third with a season-best of 103-8. Tara Koch, although not scoring, contributed her best throw of the season, 79-11. Kari Taylor won the shot with a 34-11 toss with McCalla second at 34-7.

"Pinckney is a very good class A team (as evidenced in their regional win Friday) and we didn't run very well," said Chelsea coach Bill Bainton. "Put those things together and the results are predictable."

With the loss, Chelsea finished the dual-meet season with a 1-5 record and in sixth place in the SEC going into Wednesday's SEC meet at Pinckney.

Chelsea finished third in the 18-team regional Saturday at Stockbridge with 48 points.

Battle Creek Lakeview won the meet with 100.25, with Haslett second with 64 points. Lansing Catholic and Marshall put 32-3).

Other second-place finishers were Arnold in the 70 dash, Ashley Houle in the 3,200, Morcom in the 55 hurdles, Gourlay in the 200 hurdles and Julia Mida in the pole vault.

Finishing third were Nicole Gerstler in the 70 dash, Danielle Hughes in the 3,200, Kaminsky in the 800, Gerstler in the 100, Kramer in the 400, Rachel Kline in the pole vault, Lindsey Parker in the high jump, Alison Sayers in the long jump and Ali Mann in the shot put with a personal best 30-11.

In the rain-shortened 94-32 win over Lincoln, the following girls were individual winners: Gourlay in the 55 hurdles (9.46), Space in the 1,600, Gourlay in the 200 hurdles, working for this all season," Bainton said.

"It's great for her to qualify

Taylor qualified by winning the shot put, bettering her school record with a throw of 37-5 in the process.

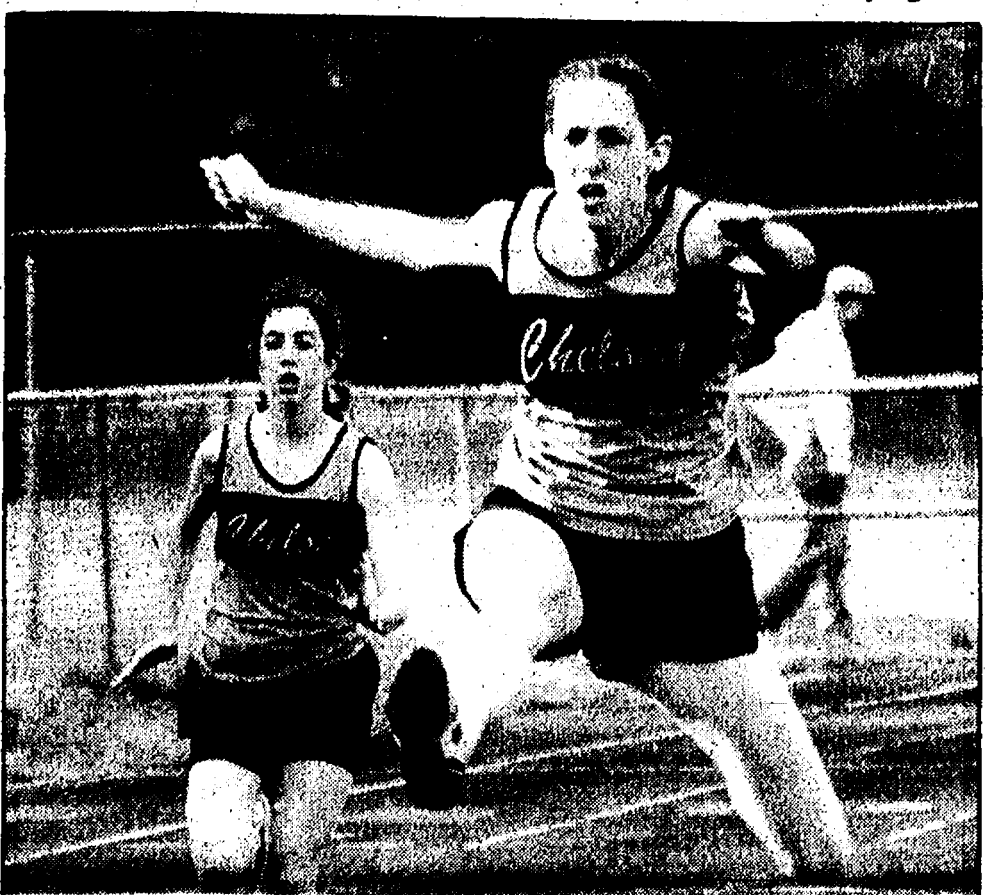

"That was an outstanding performance for Kari. This leaves little doubt that we have some of the best throwers in the area. Credit for that goes to their hard work and the coaching of volunteer assistant coach Bert Kruse."

Arnold was one of two athletes to win two individual events in the meet, and she won both in record time. She won the 400 in 57.4 and pulled away from the field in the 200 to win in 24.8.

"The quality of races Mora ran shows when you see that the top four in the 400 and top five in the 200 all qualified by time. She was very focused for those races," Bainton said.

No other Bulldogs scored, but several turned in strong performances. Karla Dettling in the high jump and Amanda Taylor in the pole vault both equaled season bests. Amy Dault returned from an injury and ran a solid 1,600. Season-best times were turned in by Sara Brennan in the 100 and 200, Diane Richardson in the 800 and Erica Miller in the 3,200.

Katie Taylor runs the hurdles during a meet earlier this year.

Final game results disappoint Bulldogs

The Chelsea varsity soccer team struggled in its final week of the regular season, posting a tie and a loss in two contests.

On Tuesday, May 18, Chelsea hosted Tecumseh on the team's annual Soccer Night. The game was an intense, physical battle in which the Bulldogs dominated. Chelsea was unable to pull out a victory, however. The final score was 1-1.

"This was a frustrating evening because we played so well, but we didn't get the result we deserved," said head coach Chris Orlandi.

Chelsea took over the game early, and had a shot glance off the crossbar in the game's fifth minute.

In the 20th minute, a Tecumseh attacker was ejected from the game after throwing an elbow at a Bulldog defender. This allowed Chelsea to maintain a one-player advantage for the duration of the game. The hosts continued to dominate the first half, outshooting the Indians 12-3, but the teams went into the halftime break still tied at 0.

Bad luck immediately struck the Bulldogs in the second half. In the second minute, a Tecumseh attacker crossed a ball into the penalty area, which a Bulldog defender inadvertently knocked behind goalkeeper Laura Baird (four saves) for a Tecumseh score.

"My heart just bleeds for a defender when something like this happens," said Orlandi. "I've done it before. Three other Chelsea varsity players have done it before."

The Bulldogs were down, but not out, as Caitlin Biedron sent a pass to Kate Huehl down the left sideline in the 49th minute. Huehl made a fine individual effort to chop a ball from a bad angle over a sprawling Tecumseh goalkeeper to tie the game.

Chelsea maintained significant pressure for the duration of the game, but was unable to score the go-ahead goal.

"When you outshoot a team 22-8, you expect to get a victory," Orlandi said.

"We played with emotion tonight, and I'm proud of the effort. Our offensive execution was poor though, and it cost us. The goofy play on defense shouldn't have been enough to cost us the win."

Two days later, Chelsea closed its regular season with a bitter 1-0 defeat at the hands of the Pinckney Pirates. The loss dropped Chelsea to 8-5-3 overall and 6-4-2 in the SEC. In spite of the loss, the Bulldogs maintained their standing at third place in the conference.

Pinckney scored in the game's first minute, as the Pirates took a throw in deep in the Chelsea defensive zone. The ball got loose in front of the goal, and a Pirate attacker got there first to beat a surprised Chelsea defense.

"The goal we allowed was just terrible. I guess we weren't ready to play, and that can only be my fault. We defended well for the next 79 minutes, but obviously that wasn't good enough tonight," Orlandi remarked.

"Offensively, we've lost all the confidence we built through the first half of the season. Our passing is gone. We're not hustling anymore. We're in a big slump. The kids know they are a solid team, but right now we seem to be finding ways to lose. The tournament starts Monday, and hopefully we'll find something to get us out of this tailspin. I still believe in these girls, and I still think we'll make a good run into the tournament if we can regain some of our confidence."

The District Tournament began Monday, and Chelsea drew Ypsilanti Lincoln as its first round opponent. The winner moved on to play Ypsilanti High School at Tecumseh's Orbital Field yesterday. The championship game is tomorrow in Tecumseh at 5 p.m.

Beach girls earn share of SEC track title

Beach Middle School girls' track team completed its season at 8-1 with dual-meet wins over previously unbeaten Dexter May 19 and Ypsilanti Lincoln May 17, both at Chelsea.

The 87-50 win over Dexter gave the Bulldogs a share of the SEC championship with Dexter and Pinckney.

Four school records were established in the win over Dexter, making five for the season. One was the 3,200-meter relay team of Sarah Kaminsky, Krystal Space, Alise Augustine and Alison Sacks, who lowered their own record to 10:59.44. The 1,600 relay team of Augustine, Ashley Gaddbury, Nina Kramer and Kari Moyle, broke the record set in 1987 by running in 4:32.53.

Both school records in the hurdles were also surpassed again with Genny Gourlay lowering her own 55 low hurdles time to 9.0, and Missy Morcom lowering her time in the 200 hurdles to 31.70.

Chelsea completed the sweep in the relay events with season-best times in the 400 and 800 relays. The 400 team of Morcom, Lucy Abernathy, Jenny Wright, and Sarah Brigham won in 56.08.1. The 800 team of Wright, Abernathy, Jessica Percha and Julia Arnold finished in 1:57.84.

Other winners were Gourlay in the 70 dash (9.67), Moyle in the 400 (64.62) and Percha in the long jump (13 feet).

Finishing second, but recording season-best times and distances were Brigham in the 100 dash (12.94) and in the high jump (6-4), Sacks in the 800 (2:40.73), Space in the 1,600 (6:03), Arnold in the 200 (28.9) and Jenny Gallas in the shot put (32-3).

Other second-place finishers were Arnold in the 70 dash, Ashley Houle in the 3,200, Morcom in the 55 hurdles, Gourlay in the 200 hurdles and Julia Mida in the pole vault.

Finishing third were Nicole Gerstler in the 70 dash, Danielle Hughes in the 3,200, Kaminsky in the 800, Gerstler in the 100, Kramer in the 400, Rachel Kline in the pole vault, Lindsey Parker in the high jump, Alison Sayers in the long jump and Ali Mann in the shot put with a personal best 30-11.

In the rain-shortened 94-32 win over Lincoln, the following girls were individual winners: Gourlay in the 55 hurdles (9.46), Space in the 1,600, Gourlay in the 200 hurdles,

Someone to watch over mom

I told my mom she didn't need to look any further than The Meadows at Silver Maples—I could live here! Several months ago, I got a call from my mom's neighbor, saying an ambulance had taken her to the hospital, when she woke up one day on the floor. That's when my brothers and I decided that mom needed more attention and better nutrition. "My first impression of The Meadows was first class. But I told my mom that if it wasn't a match, she didn't need to stay here. Well, it is a match! She's made lots of new friends, and the well-balanced meals and special care helped her health improve. Most of all, she is relieved that her sons know there is someone else to watch over her."

JV softball squad throttles Northwest

In both of its games last week, the Chelsea junior varsity softball team was involved with comebacks. One time the Bulldogs were on the right end and one time they weren't.

They were on the right end at Jackson Northwest May 17, coming back from an early 4-0 deficit with three runs in the top of the fourth and six more in the top of the seventh to give them a 9-5 lead and an eventual 9-7 win.

But the next day at home against Brighton, Chelsea (17-10) came out of a rain delay flat, and blew a 3-1 lead to lose 14-4 in six innings.

Both of these games were scheduled doubleheaders, but each second game was rained out.

Against Northwest, Lindsey Baker came in to pitch the last six innings and got the win, as well as hitting a double and single. Jenelle Vleck had three hits, and Tia Schiller hit a key two-run single with two out in the seventh.

Against Brighton, Baker led with three hits and Betsy Ruhlig and Vleck had two each.

niche at the middle school.

"They're enthusiastic," she says about the students. "It makes your job easier when they're excited to come to your class."

"They're fairly easily motivated, at least in my class," she adds. "Sometimes the kids who struggle in other classes do well in mine because it's such a different type of class, a hands-on class."

Turok says she feels good about her job when students return to class with cooking or sewing projects they've done on their own.

"They will bring something in that they made and show (it to) me. That makes me feel good because I know they're using the skills I've taught them," she says.

Turok has a few rules in her classroom that she expects students to follow. Among them, students must respect each other and listen.

From her experience as a substitute teacher in other districts, Turok says she has found Chelsea students to be better behaved. She also has found parents to be very supportive of their children's interests.

The highlights of her career come often, she says. From the two nominations she received for the Who's Who Among America's Teachers to students returning to chat with her.

"A lot of times it's the everyday things, like a smile or a thank-you," she says. "Those little things mean a lot."

What she looks forward to in her career is seeing the students ever day.

"That's the highlight of the job," she says. "I like kids. They're fun."

When she is not in the classroom Turok can be found spending time with her husband, playing golf or doing cross stitch. She also plays volleyball for Chelsea Recreation and has coached the seventh-grade volleyball team at Beach for the past 11 years.

Beach boys set six school track records

Beach Middle School boys' track team ended its season by not only clinching the Southeastern Conference championship with a 120-17 win over Dexter at home May 19, but setting six school records in the process.

The Bulldogs also beat Ypsilanti Lincoln 99-28 in a rain-shortened home meet May 17. They finished 8-1 and 6-0 in the SEC.

The six school records against Dexter were set by David Fedele in the 3,200-meter run in 10:58.13 (last set in 1979), Jake Freeman in the 800 in 2:12.36 (last set in 1973), Darl Bauer in the 100 dash in 11.89 seconds, Tim Schubring in the 200 low hurdles in 28.58 seconds, Freeman, Andre Bravo, Jeff Deikis and Joel Rosentreter in the 1,600 relay in 3:56.29 and Ryan Houle, Schubring, Rosentreter and Bauer in the 800 relay in 1:42.57 (last set in 1974).

Including these six, this year's team broke 11 school records in 17 events this season, which coaches Pat Clarke and Dave Jolly said was "phenomenal."

"This group of young men have come a long way and we are extremely proud of their accomplishments," Clarke said.

Chelsea took first in every event against Dexter. Other individual winners were Schubring in the 55 low hurdles (8.66), Andrew Brott in the 1,600 run (5:14.65), Bravo in the 400 run (59.13), Karl Wint in the 70 dash (9.17), Houle in the 200 (25.63), Joey Myers in the pole vault (9 feet), James Ballas in the high jump (5-0), Bauer in the long jump (17-3 3/4) and Houle in the shot put (40-0).

Chelsea completed the sweep of the relay events with wins in the 3,200 (Kyle Brown, Fedele, Brott and Ballas; 9:51.68) and the 400 (Wint, Matt Holmes, Adam Ellis and Mike Birgy; 52.32).

Taking second was Andrew Baibak in the 55 low hurdles (9.15), Earl Hillaker in the 100 dash (13.10) and the 70 dash (9.21). Deikis in the 400 (1:00.02), Hillaker in the 70 dash (9.21), Baibak in the 200 hurdles (28.82), David Dault in the pole vault (8-6), Bravo in the high jump (5-0) and Evan Wildey in the shot put (36-10 1/2).

Finishing third was Brown in the 3,200 (11:08.29), Ballas in the 800 (2:30.24), Lance Baird in the 1,600 (5:20.1), Adam Ellis in the 100 dash (13.31) and the 70 dash (9.37), Brott in the 200 hurdles (30.74), Aaron Connell in the 200 dash (26.9), Wint in the pole vault (7-6), Freeman in the high jump (5-0), Andy Hurst in the long jump (14-3 1/2) and Charles Harris in the shot put (33-11).

Brown led in the win over Lincoln with a personal-best 11:21 in the 3,200.

Other first-place finishers were Bauer in the 100 (12.10) and the long jump (17-3), Schubring in the 55 (8.83) and the 200 hurdles (29.86), Fedele in the 1,600 (5:20.34), Rosentreter in the 400 (58.80), Houle in the 70 dash (9.38) and the shot put (4-10), Dault in the pole vault (9-0), Ballas in the high jump (5-2), the 800 relay team of Houle, Hurst, Bravo and Schubring (1:47.76) and Ballas, Brott, Fedele and Ty Christensen in the 3,200 relay (10:41.90).

Taking second was James McKenzie in the 3,200 (12:33.24), Mike Groesser in the 55 hurdles (10.02), Ballas in the 800 (2:24.05), Brott in the 1,600 (5:21.40), Wint in the 70 dash (9.47), Baibak in the 200 hurdles (30.33), Hurst in the 200 (27.6) and Myers in the pole vault (7-6).

Also scoring points in third place were David Knox in the 3,200 (12:53.18), Mark Tapping in the 800 (2:31.96), Freeman in the 400 (1:00.11), Ellis and Birgy in the 70 dash (tie-9.71), Brott in the 200 hurdles (31.04), Hillaker in the 200 dash (28.5) and the pole vault (7-0), Bravo in the high jump (5-2) and Wildey in the shot put (37-4).

Frosh softball team splits doubleheader

The Chelsea freshman softball team split its only doubleheader last week, winning the first game Friday at Monroe Jefferson 4-3, and losing the second 16-5.

Chelsea coach Bill Beard described the first game as "classic game," right down to the way the winning run scored. Tracy Carter hit a sacrifice fly that scored Katie Beard, who had gotten to third base on a single, a stolen base, and a sacrifice bunt.

"It was a well-played defensive ball game by both sides," Beard said. "They really played well ... I was really proud of them."

Jennifer Hafner had two hits and an RBI. Carter was 1-for-2 with an RBI and Kasey Whitley drove in a run.

Chelsea is 10-5 with six more games to be played this week.

The 16-5 loss was completed in five innings, with Sheresa Roberson and Jessica Irish each going 2-for-3 and Carter getting a triple in the bottom of the fifth.

"The girls didn't play badly," Beard said. "It was timely hits for them, untimely for us."

101-In Gratitude/Memory

The family of Marilyn Knickerbocker would like to thank all friends and relatives for the kindness shown to Marilyn and our family during her illness and passing. We received so much support from so many people and wish we could list everyone who helped us keep her home. The cards, letters, donations, meals, prayers, phone calls and visits from her friends were very much appreciated.

Thank you to all the area churches for keeping her in their prayers. To Rev. Hardy for a beautiful service. To Martin and Stephanie Braun for all your help. To Sophia, Steve, Crystal, Cheryl, and Ginny your support was overwhelming. To all of Marilyn's friends and our too, who became such wonderful caregivers - we can't thank you enough. Please keep her spirit alive by helping the children of the wonderful village succeed.

Sincerely,
Jeff, Julie, Justin, Josh, and Helen Knickerbocker
Liz and Pat, Adrienne and Aaron, Linda, Jeff, Cori, Dorci, Rick, Anita, Bob, Lindsay, Kevin.

Popular tea is potential source of health problems

Question: I recently heard that sassafras causes cancer. Is this true? My parents, grandparents and I have all enjoyed sassafras tea. What type of cancer should we watch out for?

Answer: Sassafras (Sassafras albidum) is a tree common in the forests of Ohio and other northern regions. Its lumber has a brown color and distinct grain pattern similar to oak, but it is more familiar to most people as the source of sassafras tea.

All parts of the tree contain some safrole, the chemical ingredient responsible for the sassafras flavor, but its concentration is highest in the roots of the plant.

FAMILY MEDICINE

When I was a child, my grandfather would take me to the woods to dig up sassafras roots, so I have also had a long history of association with sassafras tea.

Animals given high doses of safrole developed difficulty walking, signs of nervousness and confusion, and difficulty with body temperature regulation. Long-term exposure produced liver tumors, including liver cancer.

Because of these health risks, the Food and Drug Administration has banned safrole-containing food additives. Sassafras tea, because of its so-called "natural" status, is still available.

Scientific studies done on animals are generally a very good indicator of what will happen to humans in a similar situation. When safrole was studied in animals, the amount of liver injury was directly proportional to the amount of safrole that was consumed. That is, the more you use, the higher the degree of liver irritation.

The real risk of drinking sassafras tea is difficult to measure. It has been in use since before European immigrants came to this continent. Despite this, the medical literature isn't filled with cases of those with liver cancer due to the use of sassafras. This tends to reduce my sense of urgency about this topic.

There are, however, many reported cases of profuse sweating caused by the consumption of sassafras tea. The human body is amazingly adaptable. We survive threats to our existence from things we consume as well as from attacks from plants, animals and other substances in our environment.

The health threat associated with one cup of sassafras tea is quite small. On the other hand, daily consumption of it is more of a concern. While drinking 10 cups daily should certainly be avoided. Nervousness and sweating are the signs of overuse, while liver cancer is the long-term risk.

I suggest that you treat your cultured taste buds to sassafras tea on rare occasions only. Drink other things instead, but do this in moderation, too. Large amounts of green tea, black tea, soft drinks or other products can also be detrimental to your health.

Surgery considered to treat emphysema

In a dramatic change in how they treat emphysema, doctors are looking to surgery as a way of helping thousands of patients regain their ability to breathe easily.

Physicians at the University of Michigan Health System are determining the effectiveness of surgically reducing lungs damaged by emphysema, a disease typically combated with medication, exercise and oxygen.

People with advanced emphysema struggle to take simple breaths. The chronic disease, typically brought on by smoking tobacco, damages air sacs and causes lungs to lose their elastic-like quality. The lungs become overstretched, trapping air and causing sufferers to feel the need to constantly draw in more oxygen.

"That's a very uncomfortable sensation. The worse it is, the greater your brain says, 'Boy, something's up, that's not normal — why am I having to breathe at such a high volume?'" says Dr. Fernando Martinez, medical director of the Lung Volume Reduction Surgery Program at UMHS.

Doctors typically treat emphysema by prescribing exercise and medications that lessen shortness of breath. Patients also are told to stop smoking.

The U-M is one of 17 sites across the country participating in a clinical trial to determine if surgery is a viable option for helping emphysema patients, who can't find relief with medication. Known as the National Emphysema Treatment Trial, the study focuses on combined treatments; rigorous exercise and surgery.

In reducing the size of a patient's lungs, doctors believe the smaller lung opens airways and returns some of the elasticity to the organ.

"What we try to do is remove those areas of the lung that aren't functioning and may be compressing good lung," says Dr. Mark Iannetoni, surgical director of the Lung Volume Reduction Surgery Program.

"You take out the upper portion of the lung or the areas that aren't functioning well, and that allows the residual lung to then fill the chest and become functional again."

Iannetoni and Martinez are co-investigators on the project.

"The damage they've done to their lungs from smoking has put most of these people on oxygen, some in wheelchairs, some to the point where they can get from their bedroom to their kitchen and that's about it," says Iannetoni.

All patients undergo an aggressive exercise and breathing program. After 10 weeks of aggressive exercise, patients are randomly assigned to surgery or continued medical management. Furthermore, initial results of the exercise and breathing programs are uniformly successful.

Initial results of the combined medical surgical therapies have been promising, says Iannetoni.

The study will take five years to complete. Doctors will use the time to determine which patients benefit best from the surgery, and how long these improvements last.

REPAIRING FRACTURED TOOTH

If you have a fractured front tooth, whether chipped or broken, this not only detracts from your appearance, it also can make the tooth more vulnerable to decay. It should be repaired as soon as possible.

In one repair method, the dentist may use a composite resin in an acid etch process. The chipped or broken tooth will first be cleaned with pumice and a revolving rubber wheel. Then he'll apply a dilute acid to the surface of the tooth so the composite resin will adhere to it. After the correct shade has been selected, he will shape the resin directly onto the fractured area. In a few minutes it will harden, and then the dentist will give the repaired area its final shaping and polish.

Other repair methods may be used, depending on the condition of the tooth, but often composite resin will be selected because it has a superior bonding quality and is relatively inexpensive. It also has a "time" advantage, because the repair can often be completed in one visit.

Do-It-Yourself with Brick Pavers and Keystone Retaining Walls

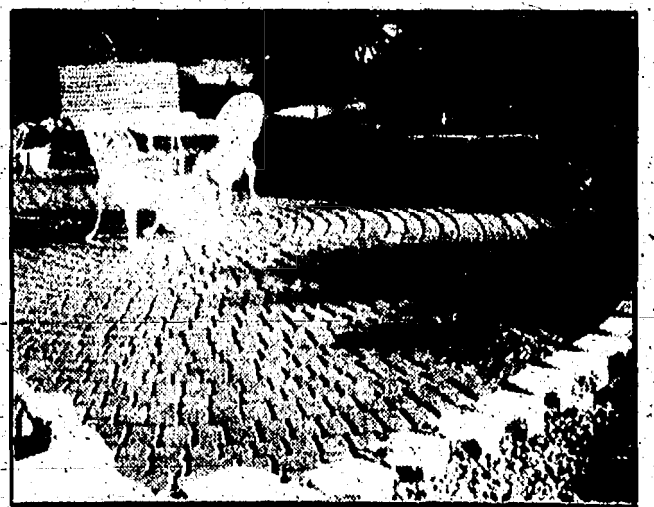

For a Beautiful Yard!
Get a perfect paving effect with pavers!
Installation requires no mortar, so they're easily removed for underground repairs. Properly installed, pavers won't shift or sink, even under heavy traffic. They're also just as easily replaced without leaving unsightly marks. And they come in a wide selection of great colors and shapes.

- Practical
- Do-It-Yourself
- Economical
- Easily Installed
- Variety of Colors
- Interlocking
- Long Lasting
- Maintenance-free

The Do-It-Yourself Dream Come True.

- Retaining Walls
- Flowerbed Borders • Tree Rings
- Patio & Sidewalk Edging

Developed specifically for residential use, GARDEN WALL BY KEYSTONE affords the opportunity to build straight, curved or terraced walls to meet your landscaping needs. The natural look of quarried stone and earth tone colors enhance any setting. Garden wall units are lightweight and easy to handle. Installation is fast and requires no special tools. Each Garden Wall unit is made of concrete to provide permanent, environmentally safe walls up to three feet in height that are virtually maintenance free.

SYLVAN TOWNSHIP

68.000 AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND THE SYLVAN TOWNSHIP ZONING ORDINANCE, ORDINANCE NO. 54, AND TO ESTABLISH AND PROVIDE FOR SUPPLEMENTAL REGULATIONS FOR WIRELESS COMMUNICATION FACILITIES IN ALL DISTRICTS.

THE TOWNSHIP OF SYLVAN ORDAINS:

68.001 SECTION 1: The Sylvan Township Zoning Ordinance is amended by the addition thereto of the following:

Section 2.02 Definitions

Co-location - The location of two or more providers of wireless communications facilities on a common structure, with the intent of reducing the total number of structures needed for wireless communication services in Sylvan Township.

Wireless Communications Antenna - Any antenna used for transmission or reception of wireless communication signals excluding those used exclusively for dispatch by public emergency agencies, ham radio antenna, satellite antenna, those which receive video programming services via multi-point distribution services which are one meter (39) or less in diameter and those which receive television broadcast signals.

Provider - An entity which is properly licensed by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) and other appropriate governmental authorities to provide services through wireless communications facilities.

Wireless Communications Facilities - Towers and related structures and equipment used in the provision of communication services including, but not limited to cellular telephone, paging, and personal communication services. The word tower includes a monopole, lattice structure, or other structure used to support antennae.

Section 10.03 (RC District) - Special Uses:

1. Wireless communications facilities, subject to Section 56.18 herein.

Section 11.03 (AG District) - Special Uses:

M. Wireless communications facilities, subject to Section 56.18 herein, except such facilities shall not be permitted on any parcel of land that is located in an area that is designated in the Townships adopted General Development Plan for urban residential use.

Section 31.03 (GC District) - Special Uses:

K. Wireless communications facilities, subject to Section 56.18 herein.

Section 40.03 (I District) - Special Uses:

K. Wireless communications facilities, subject to Section 56.18 herein.

Section 56.18 WIRELESS COMMUNICATIONS FACILITIES

A. This section is intended to ensure that wireless communications facilities are located, constructed, and maintained in a manner that will maintain the integrity, character, property values, and esthetic character of the area in which located and Sylvan Township at large.

B. Facilities shall comply with all applicable regulations of Federal and State agencies including, but not limited to, emission standards, and such compliance shall be demonstrated by the applicant in the special use permit application.

C. The facility shall be constructed in accordance with all applicable building codes. The applicant shall submit a soils report prepared by a geotechnical engineer, licensed in the State of Michigan, confirming the suitability of soil conditions for the proposed facility.

D. The applicant shall demonstrate the need for the proposed facility considering factors such as, but not limited to, proximity to an interstate freeway or other major road; areas of population concentration; concentration of commercial, industrial, or other business centers; signal interference; and topography. The applicant shall include a map showing existing, known proposed, and projected potential facilities in the Township for the next five years, and existing and known proposed facilities within areas surrounding Sylvan Township in order to determine potential co-location of facilities and to demonstrate the need for the proposed facility.

E. The applicant shall demonstrate a justification of the proposed height of the tower and antenna, and an evaluation of alternative designs which might result in lower heights, based on an independent evaluation of a licensed engineer. The maximum height of the tower and antenna shall be the minimum height necessary for reasonable communication. The storage building or equipment enclosure shall have the minimum height needed to enclose the equipment.

F. The applicant shall provide evidence that the applicant is properly licensed as a provider.

G. Co-location shall be required if determined to be feasible. Co-location shall be deemed feasible if a provider will pay market rent or other market compensation for co-location; the tower can provide structural support for additional antennae, taking into account reasonable modification or replacement of a facility; co-location is technologically feasible; and the height of the tower necessary for co-location will not be increased beyond a point acceptable to the Township.

A special use permit for a wireless communications facility shall not be approved unless the applicant demonstrates that a feasible co-location is not available for the coverage area and capacity needs. A licensed engineers opinion must accompany any argument by the applicant.

All new and modified wireless communication facilities shall be designed and constructed so as to accommodate the maximum number of feasible providers for co-location.

H. The division of property for the purpose of locating a wireless communication facility is prohibited unless the minimum requirements of the zoning district in which located are met. Minimum setbacks from all property lines shall be the height of the tower, except that the setback of a tower from a residential zoning district shall be at least one and one-half times the height of the tower. Equipment or control buildings or structures shall meet the minimum setback requirements of the district in which located.

I. Unobstructed vehicle access shall be provided to the facility. Access may be provided by an easement. The access alignment shall minimize disturbance to natural features. The access road shall be at least 12 feet wide, and shall have a gravel surface and adequate drainage.

J. The facility shall be located and designed to be harmonious with the surrounding area. Colors of the structures and buildings shall be selected to ensure compatibility with the surroundings. The facility shall be maintained in a safe, neat, and orderly condition.

K. No part of the facility may be used for signs or any other form of advertising. Lights shall be prohibited, except lights that are needed for security purposes and lights that are required by the FAA.

L. Construction and operation of a wireless communication facility should have minimal impact on existing trees, wetlands (whether or not regulated), and existing topography.

M. A wireless communication facility, including all accessory equipment, shall be enclosed by a fence with a secure gate sufficient in type and height to prevent unauthorized entry.

N. The applicant shall provide a written analysis of the projected fall zone for the tower proposed. The analysis shall be prepared and sealed by a professional engineer registered in the State of Michigan and shall be submitted with the special use permit application.

O. A preliminary site plan shall be submitted with the special use permit application. A final site plan shall be approved by the Sylvan Township Planning Commission before any construction may begin on the site. The preliminary and final site plans shall meet all requirements of Article 55, herein.

P. The tower shall be a monopole design unless the applicant can demonstrate that such a design is not feasible.

Q. The applicant shall provide the name, address, and telephone number of the person to contact for engineering and maintenance of the facility. This information shall be kept current while the facility is in operation and shall be conspicuously posted on the site.

R. A wireless communications facility shall be removed when it has not been used for three consecutive months or more. The period of non-use shall begin immediately upon the cessation of operations (transmission or reception of radio signals) or the removal of antennas or other equipment essential to operations. Prior to issuance of a certificate of zoning compliance, the provider shall record an agreement to remove the facility with the Washtenaw County Register of Deeds. The agreement shall be in a form and content acceptable to Sylvan Township and shall establish a covenant by both the provider and property owner to remove the facility in a timely manner and restore the property to its prior condition or better. The agreement shall also provide that the provider and property owner shall be responsible for payment of any and all removal costs, site restoration costs, and legal and administrative fees incurred by Sylvan Township in securing removal of the facility. The agreement shall include a financial guarantee sufficient to cover all costs of removal.

68.002 SECTION 2: The remaining provisions of Ordinance No. 55, and all amendments thereto, are hereby ratified and reaffirmed to the extent not inconsistent herewith.

68.003 SECTION 3: In the event that any provision of the within amending Ordinance for any reason is held to be unconstitutional or void, that provision shall be struck from the amendment and severed, and the remaining provisions shall be enforced according to their terms.

68.004 SECTION 4: The within amending Ordinance shall be effective 20 days after adoption and publication as provided by law.
(Ord. No. 54, Effective 6-18-99)

SYLVAN TOWNSHIP REGULAR BOARD MEETING — MAY 4, 1999

The regular meeting of the Sylvan Township Board was held May 4, 1999 at 7 P.M. in the Sylvan Township Hall, 112 W. Middle Street, Chelsea.

The following board members were present: Supervisor Dresselhouse, Clerk Koch, Treasurer Grau, Trustee Heller and Trustee Lesser.

Also present Ray Steinbach, Richard Steele, Kurt Koseck, Mike Rybka and Charlie Burgess.

Minutes were approved as presented.

Motion by Heller, supported by Grau to pay bills as presented. Carried.

Richard Steele, President of Village Council congratulated the Board on the New Township Hall and informed the Board that Village Council will be meeting in the Old High School. Steele was present regarding the annexation of Chelsea Lumber Company into the Village. This annexation request has been referred to the Village Planning Commission for review and comments and is on the next meeting agenda. Steele would like to solve this request before sending to the Washtenaw County Commissioners. The Township Board will discuss and report back to Steele this week.

Zoning Inspector Burgess reported 7 permits in April.

Supervisor Dresselhouse reported on the 425, Fire Authority and the Bypass.

Treasurer Grau reported on the MTA Chapter meeting regarding road patrol, proposed onsite water and sewage regulations.

Motion by Lesser, seconded by Heller to ratify telephone poll regarding the phone system for the New Township Hall. Carried.

Motion by Heller, supported by Grau to sign Engagement letter with Plante & Moran for audit. Carried.

Chelsea man charged in pollution incident

Felony criminal charges have been filed against a Chelsea man for violating Michigan's Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Act. Charges were filed in the 22nd Circuit Court in Ann Arbor.

The complaint alleges that Jack Davidson, 50, of Chelsea, dumped as much as 2,500 gallons of hazardous waste into the Wilkinson Drain in Chelsea. The drain eventually leads to the Huron River in Washtenaw County. The hazardous wastes included toluene, xylene, ethylbenzene, benzene, and petroleum.

Davidson faces three felony counts of releasing a hazardous substance, discharging a hazardous substance without a permit, and directly or indirectly discharging a substance which could be a threat to public health. Each count carries penalties of two years in jail and $2,500 to $25,000 per day for each day of violation.

Davidson also faces three misdemeanor charges for operating a treatment and disposal facility without a permit and failing to notify the state of a discharge or a violation. Each misdemeanor count carries a penalty of one year in jail and a $25,000 per day per violation.

According to the complaint, Davidson is the president and sole officer of Davidson Sales and Maintenance (DSM) Co. in Chelsea. A portion of DSM's business included cleaning underground storage tanks typically found at gas stations. The complaint alleges that DSM dumped waste from both the gas storage tanks and the DSM facility directly into the county's drain system.

Following up on an odor complaint registered with the Chelsea Department of Public Works, a DEQ investigator observed a substance that looked and smelled like gasoline in the Wilkinson Drain. A subsequent investigation concluded that Davidson allegedly either directly disposed of the waste into the county drain or ordered his employees to do so. Eventually, a cleanup effort yielded more than 15,000 yards of contaminated soil and debris.

"This isn't just a case of a company being a bad corporate citizen; this is a case of a company putting the public health in direct and serious risk," said Attorney General Jennifer Granholm.

"This kind of flagrant violation of our natural resources laws is absolutely unacceptable in this state. I applaud the DEQ for their diligence and tenacity in this investigation."

Memorial Day Tragedy

Dear Friends and Neighbors, Along with hundreds of others in our community, I take pride in the annual Memorial Day parades, and in the patriotic spirit that flows on that day, as conveyed in the speeches and activities following the parades.

I have to confess, however, that the day's purpose is often lost on me. According to my dictionary the day is "set aside...for observances in memory of dead servicemen of all wars." My generation never experienced a world war, and many of us were too young or preoccupied to pay much attention to the Vietnam War. We tend to take our freedom and prosperity for granted, forgetting what it cost in human lives. And we often look at Memorial Day as only a family day in which we don't have to go to work. That's a tragedy. Unless we remember our servicemen's and women's sacrifices, we're in danger of losing what so many have died for.

A far greater tragedy occurs every weekend, as the vast majority of America's citizens treat each Saturday as well as Sunday as nothing more than personal time, family time, recreation and housework time. Our God has blessed us with far more free time than any other nation on earth. If we don't devote a small portion of that to Him in public worship each week, we're in danger of losing what He accomplished for us with His death, and of losing His Word and the freedom to worship Him.

Hopefully this year we'll take Memorial Day seriously. But more importantly - please resolve immediately to worship your Savior each week, to set aside one hour each week as a public memorial to Jesus Christ and the eternal life He died to give you, and a memorial to the millions who have died so this Gospel message could reach you. We invite you to join us in worship this Sunday morning, 10:00 a.m.

Local attorney honored by bar

Chelsea attorney William J. Rademacher, former State Sen. Lana Pollack and attorney Lore A. Rogers will be honored by the Washtenaw County Bar Association at its annual award dinner tonight (May 27).

Rademacher, who practices law in Chelsea, will receive the association's Professionalism and Civility in the Practice of Law award. His former law partner, Randy Musbach, describes Rademacher as "an old-fashioned, true gentleman in his dealings with clients, witnesses, attorneys, support staff, and judges. He could write the book on courtesy."

Pollack, who is president of the Michigan Environmental Council, will receive the Liberty Bell Award. According to Patrick J. Conlin, Jr., chairman of the awards committee, Pollack is being honored "for her efforts to increase public awareness of how environmental issues impact our lives and the freedoms guaranteed us by the Constitution. Her efforts in educating, promulgating and legislating toward a cleaner environment demonstrate her commitment to insuring a better community, both locally and statewide."

Rogers, legal advocacy director of the Domestic Violence Project, Inc./Safehouse, will receive the Patriot Award. According to Conlin, Rogers is being recognized "for her unflagging efforts on behalf of those often victimized in our community. Through her efforts as a private attorney and as director of the Domestic Violence Project, Ms. Rogers has safeguarded constitutional liberties for those unable to speak on their own behalf."

DEXTER TOWNSHIP WASHTENAW COUNTY PUBLIC NOTICE OF ADOPTION OF NEW ZONING ORDINANCE

A zoning ordinance regulating the development and use of land has been adopted by the Township Board of the Township of Dexter, Washtenaw County, Michigan. On May 18, 1999, the Dexter Township Board adopted a new zoning ordinance pursuant to the Township Zoning Act, Public Act 184 of 1943, as amended, to replace the previous zoning ordinance adopted on March 27, 1973, as amended. The new zoning ordinance establishes zoning districts and identifies the land uses permitted in each district and applicable site development requirements including minimum lot sizes and widths. The Zoning ordinance establishes procedures for applying for zoning permits and actions on such applications. A zoning permit is required prior to the initiation of construction activities. The zoning ordinance shall become effective 20 days after this publication. A copy of the new zoning ordinance may be inspected or purchased at the Dexter Township Hall during the hours of 8:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m., Monday through Friday. A summary of the proposed Zoning Ordinance is as follows:

Article 1: Title, Intent and Purpose

This Article identifies the purpose of the Dexter Township Zoning Ordinance, as referenced in the Township Zoning Act.

Article 2: Definitions

This Article includes the definitions of important terms used in the Zoning Ordinance.

Article 3: Administration, Enforcement, and Penalties

This Article provides for the administrative mechanism for Dexter ownership to administer and enforce the provisions of the zoning ordinance and delineates the respective responsibilities of those persons or bodies involved in the administration and enforcement of the ordinance. Components include, in part, provisions regarding duties of the zoning administrator, permit applications and procedures, violations and remedies, and performance guarantees.

Article 4: Zoning Board of Appeals

This Article provides for the continuation of the current Dexter Township Zoning Board of Appeals, and also addresses, in part, membership, responsibilities, areas of authorized appeals, appeal procedures, and the basis for issuing variances.

Article 5: Procedures for Amendments

This Article sets forth provisions for amending the zoning ordinance, according to the Township Zoning Act, including procedures, application information, Planning Commission recommendations, and Township Board action.

Article 6: Procedures for Plot Plan and Site Plan Review

This Article establishes the process followed in the review and approval of plot plans and site plans submitted as part of a zoning permit application.

Article 7: Procedures for Special Land Uses

This Article establishes the provisions for the review and approval of special land uses. "Special land uses" are uses and structures which are generally accepted as reasonably compatible with the primary uses and structures within a particular zoning district, but may not be appropriate on every parcel or may present potential injurious effects upon the primary uses and structures within the zoning district and therefore require special consideration in relation to the welfare of adjacent properties and to the community as a whole.

Article 8: Reserved for Future Use

Articles 9-13: Zoning Districts and Map

These Articles identify the zoning districts established in the Township, provide for the establishment of an official zoning map, and present the regulations specific to each zoning district including the intent of each district, permitted uses, and site development requirements such as minimum lot sizes and setbacks. The zoning districts and some of their site development requirements for "permitted principal uses" are summarized below:

Zoning District	Minimum Lot Area	Minimum Lot Width & Frontage (in feet)	Maximum Building Height		Minimum Yard Setback (Feet)			Maximum Lot Coverage (%)
			Stories	Feet	Front Yard	Side Yard	Rear Yard
PL: Public Lands	Not Applicable	Not Applicable	2 1/2	35'	See Section 18.23	15	30	10
AG: Agriculture	1 acre*	300'	2 1/2	35'	See Section 18.23	15	30	10
RC: Recreation Conservation	5 acres	330'	2 1/2	35'	See Section 18.23	15	30	5
RR: Rural Residential	2 acres*	150'	2 1/2	35'	See Section 18.23	15	30	10
LR: Lake Residential	1 acre*	150'	2 1/2	35'	See Section 18.23	15	30	25
CU: Common Use Residential	2 acres*	150'	1	18'	See Section 18.23	15	30	5
R-3: Mobile Home Park Residential	10 acres*	330'	2 1/2	25'	Conformance to rules and Regulations of the Michigan Mobile Home Commission
C-1: Convenience Commercial	1 acre	200'	Not Applicable	25'	See Section 18.23	15	30	25
C-2: General Commercial	2 acres	200'	Not Applicable	25'	See Section 18.23	15	30	25

FOOTNOTES For Schedule of Regulations

a. This schedule summarizes basic site development standards. The specific district regulations and other regulations should be consulted to identify additional standards and regulations, and clarifications of the above standards, and all other applicable site development provisions. Where this Schedule contradicts the text of the Ordinance, the Ordinance text shall rule. See Article 17 for site development standards regarding planned unit developments.

b. Maximum height for farm buildings is 100 feet. If the building exceeds 35 feet, it shall be set back from a lot line a distance equal to the building's height, except in the Rural Residential District, in which case the building shall be set back from a lot line a distance equal to twice the height of the building.

c. Minimum one acre lot size required, provided the maximum density of lots that may be created from a lot which constitutes the lot of record shall be equal to the area of such lot of record divided by ten (10).

d. 300' for lots of 5 acres or more in size, otherwise 150'.

e. 2 acres if lot gains direct access from either a public road other than a major or minor thoroughfare; as in the case of a platted subdivision, or gains access from a private road, such as in the case of a condominium subdivision; otherwise 5 acres. Lots may be as small as 2/4 of an acre when part of a planned unit development (see Article 17).

f. 200 feet if lot gains direct access to a public or private road in a platted or condominium subdivision, otherwise 400 feet.

g. Minimum lot area of 2 acres for two family dwellings.

h. Minimum 200' frontage required for two-family dwelling lots.

i. Minimum five (5) feet; plus an additional setback of one (1) foot for each two (2) feet that the dwelling exceeds eighteen (18) feet in height, but not to exceed a maximum setback of fifteen (15) feet.

j. Maximum lot coverage of 10% for lots greater than 1 acre in size.

k. The minimum lot frontage and width for lots which abut, and gain direct access to, a major or minor thoroughfare shall be 400 feet. All other lots, including lots which gain access by a private road or public road in a platted or condominium subdivision, shall have a minimum lot frontage and width of 150 feet. A riparian lot in a CU District shall have an additional thirty (30) feet of frontage for each residential lot which is granted use of such CU District lot, including condominium units.

l. Minimum 10 acres required for mobile home park project parcel.

m. Minimum lot frontage of 400 feet is required in the case of a lot which gains direct access to a major or minor thoroughfare.

Articles 14-15: Reserved for Future Use

Article 16: Standards for Special Land Uses

This Article specifies approval standards pertaining to site development requirements for specific special land uses, such as junkyards, kennels, mini-storage facilities, and communication towers.

Article 17: Standards for Planned Unit Developments

Article 17 identifies the standards which planned unit developments must meet in order for such land use requests to be approved. A planned unit development is a type of residential development where the landowner is granted increased development flexibility provided the development activity encourages the preservation of natural resources and the Township's rural character, including the setting aside of permanent open space and the avoidance of lots stripped along the principal country road network.

Article 18: General Provisions

This Article presents a wide scope of provisions which are generally applicable to all land uses and structures, irrespective of the zoning district in which such uses or structures are located, such as the keeping of animals, swimming pools, accessory uses, home occupations, height requirement exceptions, temporary land use permits, and temporary dwellings.

Article 19: Non-Conforming Uses

This Article provides for the regulation of lots, land uses, and structures which will be existing at the time the new Dexter Township Zoning Ordinance is adopted but do not meet the lot, land use, or structure requirements of the new ordinance.

Article 20: Access Controls

This Article addresses minimum requirements regarding access to a lot.

Article 21: Off-Street Parking and Loading

This Article establishes minimum standards intended to assure public safety regarding parking design, circulation, quantity of spaces, and loading areas. This Article applies primarily to commercial and industrial land uses.

Article 22: Signs

This Article provides for regulation of signage to control distracting influences upon motorists, minimize visual clutter, protect abutting land uses, and maintain the aesthetic visual character of the Township.

Article 23: Landscaping and Screening

This Article provides for minimum landscaping standards to assure that neighboring land uses will be adequately screened from one another where such buffering is considered desirable. This Article applies primarily to commercial and industrial land uses.

Article 24: Environmental Protection

This Article establishes general standards for the protection of sensitive natural features of the Township, such as wetlands, streams, assurances for adequate sewage disposal and potable water, as well as addressing other environmental concerns.

Article 25: Reserved for Future Use

Article 26: Interpretation, Severability, Vested Rights, And Effective Date

This Article addresses several issues regarding legal aspects of the new Zoning Ordinance.

Truck Stop

Children at the Chelsea Children's Cooperative Preschool got a chance to sit in a big rig recently at a truck stop on Baker Road. The 3-year-olds and their parents saw the living quarters and truck stop showers. Pictured are Janie Brooks, Kaylin Acub, Kennedy Aldrich, Sarah Carrara, Connor Carry, Sam Christie, Nicholas Felton, Jenny Gabbard, Carl Glynn, Zachary Harmann, Gwen Hubbard, Molly Merkel, Emily Peterson and Olivia Raye-Leonard.

JOHN "JACK" QUIGLEY

Formerly of Dexter

Age 62, died Friday, May 14, 1999, at his home. He was born June 29, 1936, in Detroit, the son of William and S. Katherine (McIntyre) Quigley. John was united in marriage to Judith Dar- row Sept. 6, 1997, in Lakeland. He was a member of the Ann Arbor Area Personnel Association, Jackson Area Manufacturers Association, American Management Association, and he was a United Way Coordinator. John is survived by his wife, Judith; children John J. II (Pamela) Quigley of Albuquerque, N.M., Kathy (Dirk) Buttkie of Jenison, Jim II (Alison) Quigley of Craig, Alaska, and Ken Quigley of Craig; brothers William G. Quigley of Chestertown Md. and Raymond Quigley of Dexter; sisters Mary C. Doherty of Flint, and Sr. Carol Quigley IHM of Detroit; six grandchildren, Brandon and Adam Quigley of Albuquerque, Kristen and Kara Buttkie of Jen- ison, and Corbin and Patrick Quig- ley of Craig.

The Funeral Mass was held Monday, May 17, 1999, at 11 a.m. at St. Joseph Catholic Church, Dexter with Fr. Brendan Walsh pre- siding. In lieu of flowers memo- rial donations may be made to the McCauley Cancer Center. Ar- rangements by Hosmer-Muehlig Funeral Chapel.

ROBERT GILBERT

Dexter

Age 79, a quiet man but quite a man, was loved by many as a hus- band, father, grandfather, brother, uncle, and friend died on May 22, 1999. The memories of him will be treasured by his wife, Margaret; his children, William of Dexter and Kathryn Warner of Ann Arbor; his granddaughter, Robyn; his sister Audrey (Robert) Eisele; and several nieces and nephews. His parents, Henry and Pearl, and sister, Virginia Ferris, preceded in death. Robert was born in Gregory on Sept. 1, 1919. He attended North Lake Method- ist Church. In 1937 he graduated from Chelsea High School, where he served as president of the Southeastern District PFA. In 1939 Robert graduated from the Michigan State University Agri- culture Short course and in 1943 he married Margaret Scherdt. Robert helped organize the Wash- tenaw County Junior Farm Bu- reau and the first Soil Conserva- tion District in Washtenaw Coun- ty. He was a farmer and livestock trucker for many years as well as a milk tester for DHIA. He went on to work for Washtenaw Farm- ers Oil Company for 23 years, earning several top state awards for salesmanship. Robert was a member of St. Andrews United Church of Christ, where he was in- volved as a Sunday school teach- er, a member of the consistory board, and chairman of the build- ing committee for the present church. He was also an associate member of Good Shepherd Lu- theran Church in Sarasota, Fla., for 10 years. Robert was an avid dahlia grower for over 30 years winning many state, Midwest, and international awards. He was a member of the Michigan Dahlia Society, the Southeastern Dahlia Society, and the Toledo Dahlia Society.

Memorial contributions may be directed to Cemetery Fund at St. Andrews UCC, Good Shepherd Lutheran Church of Sarasota, or IHNC/Individualized Hospice Pa- tient Care Fund.

Visitation was held on Sunday, May 23, from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. and 6 p.m. until 9 p.m. and on Monday, May 24, from 11 a.m. until 1 p.m. Services were held at the Hosmer-Muehlig Funeral Chapel at 1 p.m., with the Rev. Gary Kwiatek and Rev. Kevin Koenig offici- ating. Burial took place at St. An- drew's Cemetery, Dexter.

WILLIAM J. COLLINS

Chelsea

Age 91, died Monday morning May 24, 1999, at Chelsea Commu- nity Hospital. He was born Oct. 13, 1907, in Clifton, Ariz., the son of William Jacob and Mabel (Jacobson) Collins. Mr. Collins had been a resident of Chelsea since 1946, having moved from Stock- bridge, where he had served as principal of Stockbridge High School. Bill had stated that he had taught almost everything except home economics. He had also taught in Iron Mountain, Cooks, and Almont, Mich. Upon moving to Chelsea he was employed at Dana Corp. as production manager. He retired from Dana and began em- ployment with his son-in-law at Merkel Home Furnishings. Bill retired from Merkel's in 1995. He was a former member of the Chel- sea Kiwanis Club, and the McKune Library Board. Mr. Col- lins was a member of St. Mary Catholic Church.

He is survived by his wife of 64 years, Rita H. Versailles. They would have celebrated their 65 wedding anniversary on Aug. 15. Also surviving are their three children, David W. Collins of Youngstown, Ohio, Barbara J. (Robert) Merkel of Ann Arbor and James A. (Florence A.) Collins of Chelsea; nine grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren; two sisters, Catherine Wojciehowski of Chelsea and Ruth Behr of Texas; and several nieces and nephews. He was preceded in death by a sister, Dorothy Rowe, and a brother, Edward Collins. The fu- neral mass will be held Thursday, May 27, at 11 a.m. at St. Mary Catholic Church. The family re- ceived friends Wednesday from 2 p.m.-5 p.m. and 7 p.m.-9 p.m. at the Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery, Chelsea. Expressions of sympathy may be made to St. Mary Church Building Fund or McKune Memorial Library.

JEANETTE PEARL

(JAN) DUNAVIN

Dexter

Age 80, died Tuesday, May 18, 1999, at her residence. She was born May 27, 1918, in Lakeland, Ohio, the daughter of Chelster and Orressa (Hutchins) Watkins. Jan attended and graduated from Pin- conning High School and attended Cleary College. She joined the Eastern Stars at age 18 and she was a life member. Jan was very instrumental in the Methodist Church in Savannah, Ga., and an active member there. In 1983, she returned to Michigan and resided in Dexter, where she became a member of the Dexter United Methodist Church. There she was involved in numerous committees and functions with her husband William.

She is survived by her chil- dren, Kenneth (Marlene) Etchison, James (Mary) Etchison, George (Terri) Etchison, Barbara (Ches- ter) Wilson, Jerry (Judy) Wheeler, Richard (Nellann) Grannis, Mar- jorie (Chuck) Wyllie, Robert (Nancy) Garner and Samuel Smith, Jr.; 27 grandchildren; 13 great-grandchildren and one sis- ter, Ethel Zeilinger. She was pre- ceded in death by two husbands, Samuel Smith and William Dun- avin, and one son, John Dunavin.

Funeral service was held Fri- day, May 21, 1999, at 10 a.m. at the Dexter United Methodist Church, 7643 West Huron River Drive, with Rev. William Donahue officiating. Interment followed at Forest Lawn Cemetery, Dexter. For those who wish, contribution may be made to the church in memory of Mrs. Dunavin. Arrangements are by Hosmer-Muehlig Funeral Chap- el, Dexter, Michigan.

KATHRYN M. NEILER

Grass Lake

Age 83, died Sunday, May 23, 1999, at Grass Lake. She was born on Aug. 31, 1915, in Indiana, Pa., the daughter of Wilbert and Gladys (Harmon) McAfoose. Prior to moving to Grass Lake, Kathryn had resided in Indiana, Pa., Un- iontown, Pa., Kettering, Ohio, Ad- dison, Ill., and Geneva, Ill. She was a member of St. Peter's Catho- lic Church in Geneva, Ill.

She married Vincent G. Neiler on Aug. 14, 1937, in Bradford, Pa., and he preceded her in death on Sept. 17, 1988. Survivors include her daughter and son-in-law, Mar- jorie K. and John M. Lazarz of Grass Lake; her daughter-in-law, Donna M. Neiler of LaFox, Ill.; two sisters, Ruth J. Kneebone of Swissvale, Pa., and Peggy L. Mar- tinsen of Cleveland, Ohio; four grandchildren, Michelle (Jeffery) Weber, Michael (Julie) Lazarz, Melissa (James) Radabaugh and Mary Kay (Jeffrey) Doering; 10 great-grandchildren; seven nieces and nephews. She also was pre- ceded in death by her son Daniel V. Neiler and one brother, Wil- bert H. McAfoose.

A Funeral Mass was celebrated Wednesday, May 26, at 11 a.m. at St. Mary Catholic Church, Chelsea with the Rev. Fr. William Turner officiating. Burial was at Oak Hill Cemetery, Geneva, Ill. The family received friends at Cole Funeral Chapel Tuesday 7 p.m.-9 p.m. with a Vigil Service at 7:30 p.m.

We would like to thank everyone for the compassion shown to us during the time of loss of our loved one, Jack Quigley. The prayers, cards, food, flowers and memorials were very much appreciated. A special thanks to Father Brendan Walsh for his spir- itual guidance at this time and the wonderful services he led. A spe- cial thanks to everyone, especially to the Thetford employees, where Jack was employed for 27 years, for their many acts of kindness. We are overwhelmed by the many lives he had touched. Many memories will always be cherished.

Sincerely,
The Jack Quigley Family

Heritage buys Manchester Enterprise

The Manchester Enterprise was purchased by Heritage Newspapers of Southgate last Wednesday.

The Enterprise joins the Heritage Western Region of newspapers, which includes The Chelsea Standard, The Dexter Leader, The Saline Reporter, The Milan News-Leader and The Washtenaw Scene.

The Enterprise was previously owned by Teresa Benedict. She still owns and operates the Calamity Jane's gift shop in downtown Manchester.

The newspaper's downtown office will continue to operate at its current location.

Tom Kirvan of Saline is the publisher, Brian Hamilton of Chelsea is the general manager and editor, and Michelle Micklewright of Saline is the advertising manager.

Heritage Newspapers is owned by Heinz Prechter. It also includes The News-Herald, The Dearborn Press & Guide, The Grösse Ile Camera, The Monroe Guardian and the Flint Advance newspapers.

Land Trust merges with conservancy group

The Potawatomi Land Trust has merged with the other Washtenaw County wide land preservation group, the Washtenaw Land Conservancy, to become the Washtenaw-Potawatomi Land Trust.

The merger has been in the works for two years, with many details yet to be worked out, according to Executive Director Barry Lonik. He said the completion of the merger brings added expertise, experience and members to the new organization and provides a substantial boost to the work of preserving the beautiful and diverse lands of Washtenaw County.

The Washtenaw Land Conservancy was founded over 25 years ago and is reportedly the second oldest land preservation group in Michigan. WLC's efforts have focused on serving as a conduit for public acquisition of important properties.

Public parklands such as Bird Hills, Bandemer and Black Pond in Ann Arbor, and the county's Osborne Mill Preserve on the Huron River in Seio Township, were all acquired by WLC from private owners and then transferred to public entities for ownership and management.

The Potawatomi Land Trust has focused its efforts on acquiring properties to serve as nature preserves and negotiating permanent deed restrictions called conservation easements. PLT currently owns two preserves and holds easements on another three properties. A total of some 230 acres of land are protected through these methods.

"We are very pleased to join forces with Potawatomi and bolster its great work in land preservation," said former WLC Board President Bill Martin.

"It was time for Washtenaw to pass the reins on to a group that is capable and dedicated to the same goals. I look forward to working with the WPLT Board and staff to protect more land in our area."

Martin, an Ann Arbor-based developer, and attorney Karl Frankena will join the board of the new organization.

"The people of Washtenaw County have many wonderful parks and natural areas thanks to the efforts of the Washtenaw Land Conservancy," said WPLT Board President Tom Bloomer, a livestock producer from Webster Township.

"Washtenaw County is a unique and beautiful place, and there is a growing community awareness that we need to take steps to keep it that way. The exciting thing is that this merger of land trusts unquestionably enhances our ability to do land protection projects."

WPLT is currently working on a number of land preservation projects, including purchase of a property for a nature preserve, purchasing development rights on a small farm property and a conservation easement on a large property with lakes, streams, prairies, wetlands and woods, Lonik said.

For more information call Lonik at (734) 426-3669, send e-mail to Blonik13@aol.com, or write to P.O. Box 186, Dexter, 48130.
