NEWS BRIEFS

Daniels films foreword in Chelsea house

Jeff Daniels rolled into town on Nov. 1 to film an explanatory foreword for the film "The Crossing." Daniels will star as George Washington in his days as a general in the Revolutionary War. The film will center on Washington's crossing of the Delaware, for which it is named.

The movie will premier on Jan. 8 at a private screening at Celebrations Cellars in Ann Arbor, which will benefit the Purple Rose Theater. The film will air Jan. 9 on the cable channel A&E (channel 10 on MediaOne).

Daniels will also be starring in a movie set to start filming soon in Stockbridge.

Conferences scheduled for Chelsea schools

Parent teacher conferences are being held Wednesday, Nov. 10, from 4 to 8 p.m. In the past, conferences were held on two days, but this year it was decided to limit them to one day.

Elementary school teachers will be scheduling one-on-one conferences, but middle and high school teachers will have arena-style conferences in the respective school gymnasiums.

Parents at the middle and high school levels will be able to move from teacher to teacher when they go for the conferences, but will not be able to schedule ahead of time.

Block forum moved to Washington Street

There will be a Parents Forum on Block-scheduling at 7 p.m. on Thursday, Nov. 4. The forum was originally scheduled for the Chelsea High School auditorium, but due to a conflict, it is now being held at the Washington Street Education Center cafeteria.

Veterans Day delivery delayed one day

Due to Veterans Day observances, there will be no mail delivery of The Chelsea Standard. All mail subscribers should receive their newspapers on Friday.

Committee resignations pose challenges

Local committees may face deadlocked votes.

By Jim Silver

Staff Writer

At the Oct. 19 planning commission meeting, Commissioner Mark Wesley announced his resignation due to ongoing scheduling conflicts.

The move added to a growing number of vacancies on village committees. Following the public hearing on a proposed historic district, three historic district committee members announced their resignation as well.

Dexter Township Trustee Libby

Brushaber resigned from the township Planning Commission on Oct. 19.

The resignations pose some problems. Many local committees have seven members, which, in the event of a resignation, can result in failed motions due to tie votes.

In addition, local commissions are required by law to contain representation from their jurisdiction. In the case of Brushaber, the board will have a narrowed pool of replacement candidates, as it must find township representation.

In many cases, committee or board members serve on several different bodies of local government at once. The situation creates very busy schedules for council members. And scheduling problems have been the reason cited for the resignations of Brushaber and Wesley, among others.

Other officials resign due to a change in residence. On the local civil defense committee, former director Vicki Stowe resigned because she is in the process of moving out of Chelsea.

Stowe was immediately succeeded in the post by Matt Tuttle, a member of the Chelsea Fire Department, and the manager of Tuttle's Spring Design.

The Chelsea District Library Board will soon lower its members from eight to seven, eliminating possible deadlocks.

The Board was structured initially to include two members from signatory municipalities, initially Sylvan and Lyndon townships, and the Village of Chelsea, as well as an at-large member.

With the addition of more member municipalities, each began to be represented by only one board member. However, until December, two members will still represent the village.

The resignation bug has not spread to other townships though. Lima, Sylvan, Lyndon and Scio township boards and commissions can still boast full complements of members.

Ohio group drops lawsuit

Farmer Jack connection fees moved to back burner.

By Jim Silver

Staff Writer

Peter Flintoff, attorney for the village, announced at the Oct. 26 Village Council meeting that the lawsuit brought against the village by Chelsea Investors has been dropped.

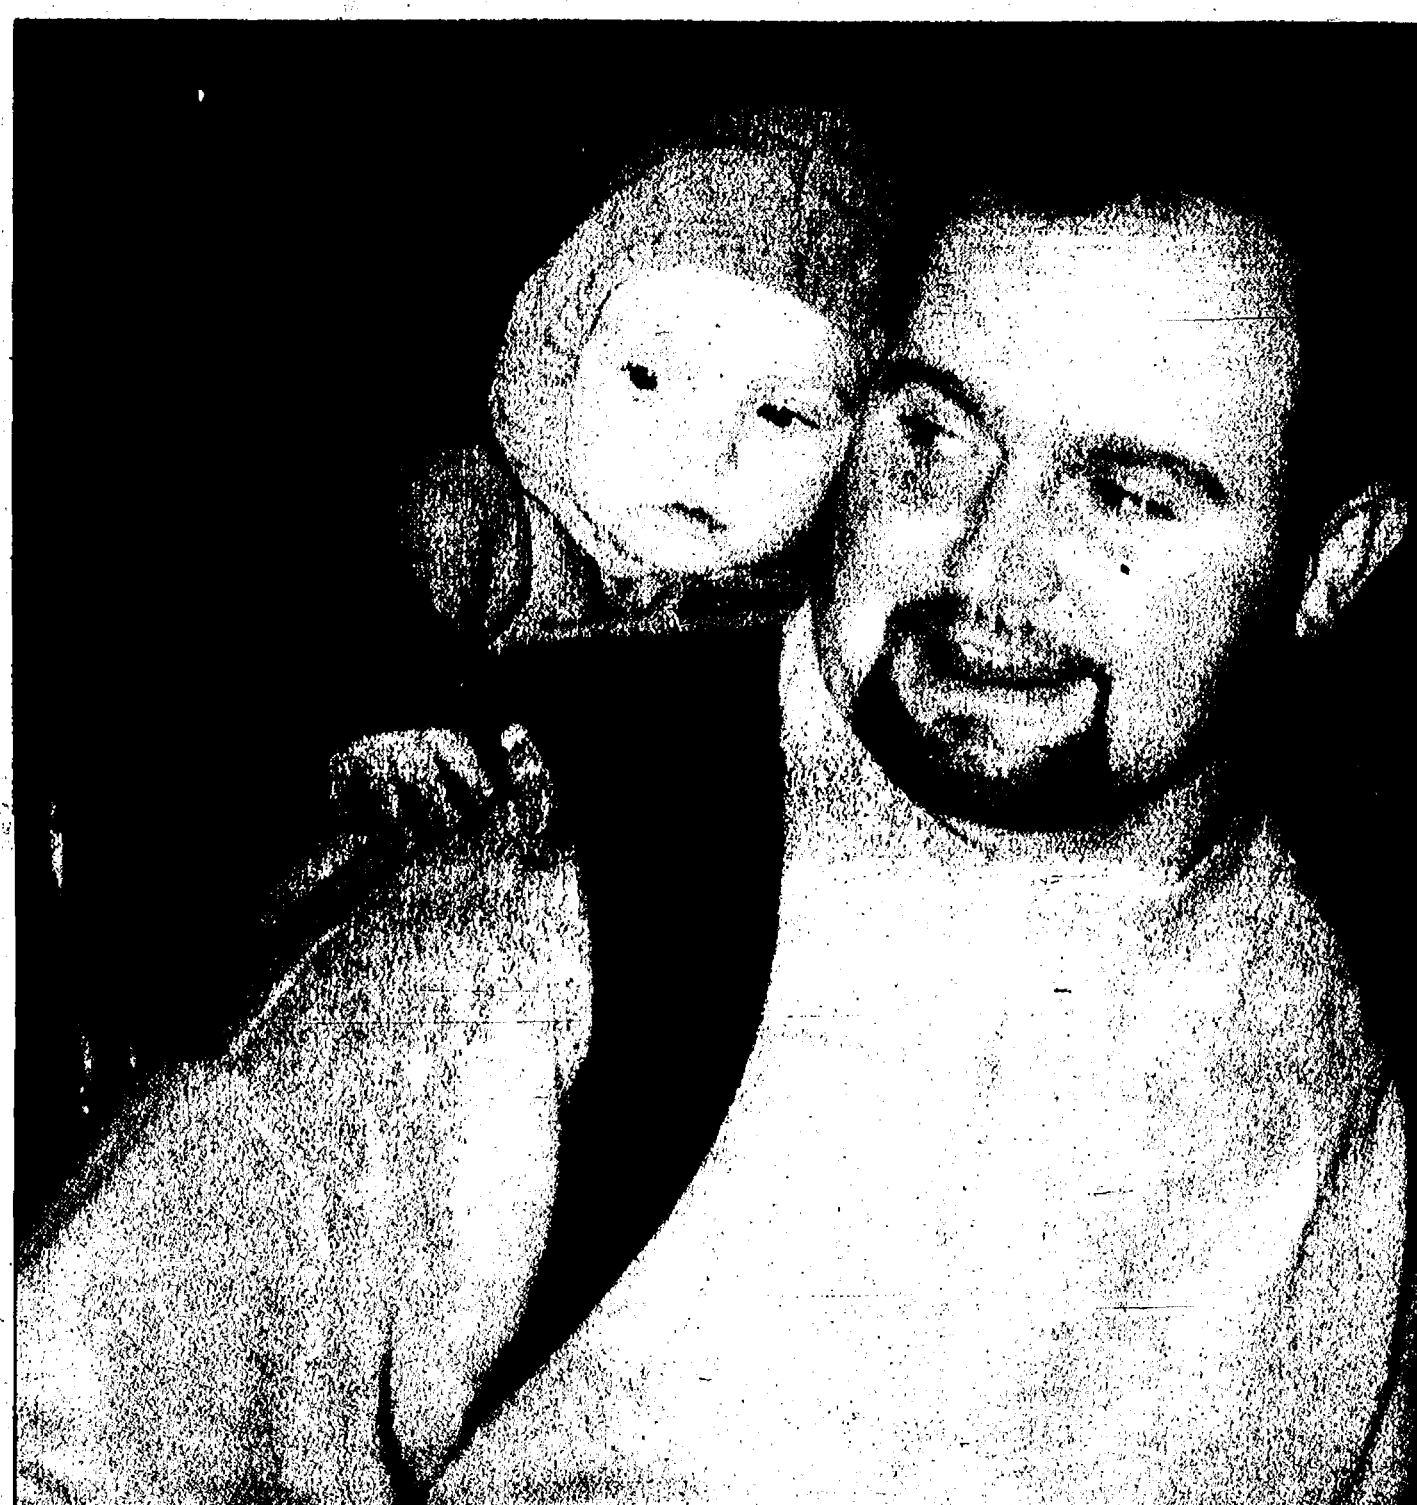

The lawsuit arose from what the investment group believed were excessive water and sewer connection charges for the soon-to-open Farmer Jack store, for which Chelsea Investors was acting as the developer.

While the suit is now legally moot, the investment group has the chance to bring it again within a year from the date the documents are signed.

Peter DeLoof, an attorney representing Chelsea Investors, said that, by dropping the lawsuit, the group hoped to deal with the Village and the council without the threat of litigation hanging over the proceedings.

Monkey on His Back

Sylvan Township resident Steve Whitesall doesn't need to kick his habit with his son Nicholas. The two marched in the Halloween Parade run by the Chelsea Kiwanis Club on Oct. 31. Nicholas' mother, Amy Whitesall, made the costume. Costume contest winners from the Kiwanis party, which followed the parade, can be found on page 6D.

Fire board talks over funding

Return to old system in store, until next special election.

By Jim Silver

Staff Writer

Since the failure of an operating millage proposal in the Oct. 5 special election, the Chelsea Area Fire Authority has been in a kind of limbo.

Some matters were cleared up in the last two weeks, though, both at the Oct. 26 Village Council meeting, and at the Oct. 27 fire authority board meeting.

The Chelsea council, after discussing the matter at several meetings, passed an authority operating agreement that provides a fee structure for repayment of village expenses.

The version adopted by council included several provisions different from or not included in earlier drafts. These include the elimination of authority payment for a fire-training officer.

The adopted agreement also

Local nurse offers helpful advice in face of health care changes

By Carolyn Glade Dvorak

Special Writer

"What are my rights within the health care system?"

"Is this health concern a real problem, or do I just need more information?"

"How do I help my aging parent with health issues?"

In a time of rapidly growing health care options, and recent debate at the national level on patient rights and health care, these are some frequently asked questions. Individuals and businesses are requiring more from their providers and inquiring more about their choices. However, getting answers is not always easy.

That's where health care consultants come in — groups or individuals who can help wade through the system.

One area health care professional has decided to put her years of experience as a registered nurse into use for these individuals and businesses.

Karla Zarley, who lives in Dexter Township, has been an R.N. for 18 years, but recently has begun to offer classes on managing health care through Chelsea and Dexter Community Education programs and through her volunteer work at the People's Food Coop in Ann Arbor. She also works with clients one-on-one.

"A big part of my life is service to other people. I think you can respectfully educate people so all can get good health care, regardless of socio-economic background," Zarley said.

Zarley gives individuals assistance in finding the proper type of physician for medical needs, understanding a health care provider's recommendations and advocating patient needs when necessary.

"I see my ultimate role as educating the public," she said. "I can triage; help them sort out and prioritize their questions and problems within the system."

She draws on her experiences of having worked in different medical environments over the years: private physician offices, public clinics, private duty nursing and teaching hospital care. In those areas, she has dealt with numerous insurance plans, health care plans and physicians, as well as traditional and alternative health care procedures.

Traditional health care includes use of hospitals, doctors, nurses and prescription drugs. Alternative methods include such means as herbal remedies, hypnosis, acupuncture, chiropractic medicine and therapeutic touch.

Although Zarley does not endorse all methods, one of her goals is to help individuals correctly utilize medications and suggest alternatives as well.

Many times what people need most is a sympathetic ear and good, reliable information, she said.

A study from the Journal of Case Management seems to bear that out.

In the summer 1994 issue of the journal it was found that after use of a nurse to manage and coordinate patient care for a group of elderly patients, there was a 71 percent decrease in admissions to medical centers, a 21 percent decrease in length of stay at the medical centers and a 64 percent decrease in emergency room usage.

The conclusion in the study was that managing the patients' health care effectively required fewer, less costly resources while improving patient out-

CROP raises money for hunger relief

On Sunday, Oct. 3, nearly 180 area residents came together in an ecumenical statement of support for the needy in Chelsea and abroad.

Utilizing the assistance of local business, volunteers and the church community, the 12th annual Chelsea CROP Walk for Hunger Relief raised more than $12,000 for Church World Service, a non-profit global agency that coordinates efforts in more than 70 countries to provide food and development assistance to those in need.

The aid also helps here at home, with 25 percent of the funds earmarked for local distribution through Faith In Action.

This year's funded causes include recovery efforts after Hurricane Floyd, the earthquake in Taiwan, those affected by the East Timor conflict and the Kosovo resettlement.

The numbers for this year's walk were bolstered by two new groups, Interact Youth, a subsidiary of Rotary Club, and Dexter United Methodist Church.

The CROP committee was comprised of Florence Barber, from the Chelsea Retirement Community, the Rev. Dr.

Jerrold Beaumont, of Faith In Action and St. Barnabas Episcopal Church, John Maynard of First United Methodist Church, the Rev. Lynn Spitz-Nagel of St. Paul United Church of Christ, Larry Wiedmayer of Covenant Church and Steve Worden of North Lake United Methodist Church.

The walk also benefited from a number of recruiters and volunteers, according to coordinator Jan Roberts.

"So many people deserve recognition and thanks," Roberts said. "We had tremendous support from Gina's Café, Lesser Farms and McDonald's restaurant."

She also thanked recruiters Florence Barber, Myra Colvin, Phoebe Booth, Susan Wiley, Janet Rosentreter, Kathie Gourlay, Claire Foley, Tom Gerstenlauer, Larry Wiedmayer, Sarah Maynard, Bill Wade, Chris Livengood, Steve Worden Diane Killelea and Marta Learnmann, as well as volunteers, the Rev. Wayne Hawley, Dick Shanyfelt, Nadine Shanyfelt, Margaret Wiedmayer, Lynn and Dave Booth, Rob Honke, Joel Honke and the Rosentreter family.

Seniors Sew for Children

LIMA TOWNSHIP NOTICE OF MISPRINT

The Public Hearing Notice for the Lima Township Planning Commission that ran in last week's paper was in error. The correct date for the Hearing is Tuesday November 16th not Tuesday November 15th as stated. The meeting will be held at 7:30 at The Lima Township Hall, 11452 Jackson Road, Chelsea, MI.

simplified payment for a dispatcher, from a 50 percent payment of all expenses by the authority. The fire authority will now pay $25 per hour to a dispatcher.

According to village manager Jack Myers, and Trustee Frank Hammer, the village representative to the fire authority, the $25 fee would pay for a dispatcher eight hours a day, all year, which would work out to $73,000.

Hammer said that, under the payment structure before the creation of the fire authority, the townships paid the village $48,000 a year towards dispatcher wages, and the newly adopted measure continues the arrangement.

The adopted agreement also includes water usage charges, providing for water from fire hydrants and for station use.

At the Oct. 27 authority board meeting, board members addressed several operating issues as well, and discussed the adopted village agreement.

The board agreed to all provisions but the fee structure for the dispatcher, and will make a decision on that pending a reconsideration of the agreement by the Village

Until the next special election, the authority will continue to fund operations as it has in the past. Under the existing system, the number of calls to each township is tallied, and each township pays fees based on the number of calls run there as a percentage of the total per year.

"When this issue first arose, we felt that our concerns were being dismissed by the council," DeLoof said, "and we felt there was no alternative but to file a lawsuit to have our concerns addressed."

"So we feel (now) it is more appropriate to drop the lawsuit, and try to discuss the matter with the Village Council."

Two Offices of Kitchen & Stringer, J.D.

Understanding The Law

with Leonard K. Kitchen, J.D. and Thomas L. Stringer, J.D.

COMING UP WITH THE PROOF

Plaintiffs in civil cases must prove that the defendant was responsible for the accident and that the resultant was a direct result of the defendant's actions "by a fair preponderance of the credible evidence." In some cases, proving negligence, boils down to a matter of neglecting a duty imposed by statute. For instance, those who fail to obey traffic laws are presumed to be negligent, in which case the plaintiff will likely recover. Then, there is the rare instance in which the simple fact that an accident occurred, and that the victim did nothing to contribute to it, is proof enough that someone was negligent. This is called the doctrine of "res ipsa loquitur" ("the thing speaks for itself").

It is an unfortunate fact that many individuals who have been injured or suffered material loss simply assume that law will have nothing to say in their favor, and thus relinquish their right to compensation. You owe it to yourself and your family to learn your rights and legal options. To discuss the specifics of your case, call the LAW OFFICES OF KITCHEN & STRINGER, J.D. at 426-4695 to schedule a free, initial consultation. Our offices are conveniently located in Dexter, at 3249 Broad St. We also accept cases involving real estate, family law, and equine litigation.

In front of the Chelsea Rod & Gun Club's new trap-shooting building, Friends of the National Rifle Association presented a check for $5000 to the club. The new facility was financed by Friends of the NRA and a grant from the Department of Natural Resources. The club will use the building for its Hunter Safety Program. Pictured here, from left, are Neal Young, Chelsea Rod & Gun Club's trap chairman, Ronni Hilligoss, Sydney Young, club president Noal Brown, Sharon Young, and Steve Russell, Friends of NRA state chairman. "Everyone deserves someone genuinely caring for them, listening to their concerns," Zarley said.

On the business side, having someone to help with health care options could result in employees requiring fewer sick days, and less stress over health care concerns for themselves and family members, all of which could lead to increased productivity, she said. Health care consultants can aid in a firm's decision on health care plans and also help employees understand the plan and how to be advocates for themselves and their families.

Zarley has a class scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 6 through Chelsea Community Education at the Washington Street Education Center and at the People's Food Co-op in Ann Arbor Wednesday, Dec. 15.

Gingerbread houses will decorate downtown

Gingerbread houses will once again be adorning display windows in downtown Chelsea during the Festival of Lights.

And, you just might want to get the blueprints out and start planning your own creation. All houses submitted will be accepted for display. The organizers welcome professional, homemade, kid made, family, neighborhood and community projects.

Please mark your calendars and plan to drop houses off at the First Congregational Church, 121 E. Middle St., on Wednesday, Dec. 1 between 5 and 7 p.m. For more information call Candace Pappas at 475-6059.

Corrections

In the October 21 issue of The Chelsea Standard, an incorrect location was given in a wedding notice. Jamelle Pierson and Jeff Kelly will be married in the Temple of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints in Phoenix, Ariz.

In the Oct. 28 issue of The Chelsea Standard, the last line of the story titled "Chelsea woman gives Y2K advice" was omitted. It should read, "She can be reached at 475-9921 and (734) 953-9252."

Rod, gun club gives vets dinner

Continuing what is quickly becoming a hallmark local tradition, the Chelsea Rod and Gun Club once again will open its doors to U.S. veterans and servicemen for a special celebration on Veterans Day, Nov. 11.

The event runs from 5 - 9 p.m., with dinner at 6 o'clock. There is no cost to veterans who present a discharge card, an American Legion or VFW membership card or other approved identification.

Veterans are encouraged to bring stories to share during this evening of celebration and remembrance.

The event is made possible by the Rod and Gun Club in concert with local businesses and volunteers.

Stewards offer township assistance

By Shawn Lawrence
Associate Editor, Manchester

The Stewards of Sharon met last week to discuss a host of issues impacting Sharon Township, including the impending lawsuit over the proposed mobile home park in the township's northwest corner.

Charlotte Anderson, Sharon Township zoning chair and Stewards of Sharon representative, said that the group is trying to find ways to assist the township in its lawsuit by gathering information, garnering the support of other governmental units, and, possibly, raising funds in the future.

Anderson said that the group's foremost goal at this point is to find ways to uphold the township's land-use plan. She said she envisions the citizens' group evolving into a vehicle that township residents can use to help direct and guide the township as it experiences growth.

"We are keenly aware that growth is going to occur with or without planning and proactive measures," she said. "We want to facilitate citizen involvement in land-use planning for the future."

Anderson said that the first order of business is organizing the members, and finding a way to disseminate information quickly.

She said that the group is currently creating a 'calling chart' so that people can reach each other when important information becomes available, such as court dates in the upcoming litigation between the township and the Landon Companies, the group suing for the right to build a mobile home park in the township.

Anderson said that the Stewards of Sharon have other ideas for assisting the township in its legal struggle. She said that garnering support among other townships and governmental units will give Sharon's side of the argument more clout when their day in court comes.

"Townships need to stand together so that the mobile home industry can't just target one little old township at a time and knock them off individually, which is their strategy right now," she said. "We believe that if several townships in Washtenaw County raise their voices together, then Washtenaw County very likely could take a stronger stand in terms of backing township (land-use) plans."

Anderson said that many townships have faced similar problems when mobile home parks or even toxic waste dumps have attempted to locate within a township. She said that citizen groups like Stewards of Sharon pop up in each of those cases, but because of their relative lack of strength, they are usually not very effective.

This is why she said that this issue should be important to people, even if they don't live in Sharon Township.

"We've talked about meeting with state, township and county officials to further sensitize them to the larger issue here of local control and specifically of abuses by the mobile home industry," she said. "We believe that some of those government people we speak to will be interested in joining us even in our presence in this court case."

Anderson said that the group's focus has been on information gathering. She said that members of the Stewards of Sharon have contacted water-use and land-use experts in an effort to provide the township with more ammunition about the impact of the mobile home park development in the court case.

"We have been (gathering), and continue to gather information that can be used in the defense of the township," she said. "We continue to uncover hard facts about water, environment, drainage and the impact on the Huron (River and watershed)."

Anderson said that obviously, the most pressing issue in Sharon right now in terms of land-use planning is the mobile home park lawsuit. But Anderson said that the Stewards of Sharon eventually wants to assist the township in maintaining local control wherever possible.

"We are interested in functioning as a group that represents the total township in long-term land-use matters, not just the mobile home park question," she said. "We have a good core group of people interested in the long haul."

Anderson said that there is a need for people in Sharon to become involved in the process.

"One of the nicest things that's happened here is that the mobile home issue has been a catalyst for township residents to be interested in what's happening at the board and planning commission meetings," she said. "The people on those boards are very happy to see people come to their meetings and be concerned with what's happening there."

We would like nothing better than for people to be interested in what's going on there. Even if this issue gets resolved, it's urgent we get some plans together for what's going to happen in the township."

POLICE BLOTTER

Chelsea Village

Warrant Arrest

Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputies arrested Laura E. Fonseca, a 30-year-old Jackson woman, on Oct. 26, on M-52 at I-94, on a bench warrant.

Motor Vehicle Theft

Chelsea Police received a report of a vehicle stolen from Faist-Morrow car dealership, at 1500 South Main St., on Oct. 29. Officers spoke with Bill Morrow, owner of the business. He told them that during the previous night, an unknown perpetrator had entered the building through locked doors, which showed no signs of forced entry. The perpetrator then opened the unlocked vehicle with keys inside, and drove it off the premises.

Larceny
Police dispatch received a call from Charles Bridges, owner of Lloyd Bridges Travel, at 1603 South Main St. The officers responding spoke with Bridges, who told them an employee of his had seen a man hooking a car-trailer up to a red pickup truck.

Bridges got in his own truck and drove to the front of the lot, only to find that the suspect had driven onto M-52 and was attempting to enter traffic on I-94. Bridges forced the man to pull over to the side of the I-94 entrance ramp.

The suspect then got out of his truck, ran across I-94 east-bound lanes, and got into a waiting sport-utility vehicle on the entrance ramp for west-bound I-94.

Bridges got a good look at the suspect. He described him as a white male, 30 to 35 years old, six feet tall, with shoulder-length brown hair and a closely cropped beard and mustache. The man was wearing a green camouflage jacket and blue jeans.

Police found that the pickup truck that the suspect was driving had been stolen from a Midland car dealership on Oct. 6. The truck had a license plate stolen from a truck at a dealership in Roseville, and two other stolen plates were found under the truck seat.

Suspicious Incident

On the evening of Oct. 30, police were approached by three people on foot, on Chelsea-Manchester Road. The three told police that they had been assaulted with eggs, and described the car in which their attackers were riding. Police found a vehicle matching the description in the parking lot of a shopping center nearby.

They asked the driver of the vehicle, a 16-year-old boy, if he had eggs in his car. The boy answered that there were eggs in the trunk. Officers removed 10 dozen eggs from the car. They asked the boy if he had thrown eggs at the pedestrians. He said yes.

Also in the car were two 16-year-old girls, a 17-year-old boy and an 18-year-old man.

Open Intoxicants
An officer stopped two teenagers in a car for a routine traffic matter on Oct. 29. The pair was released, but the officer was soon stopped by another motorist. The woman told the officer that the teens had entered Wendy's, 1640 Commerce Park Drive, where she had heard them discuss how happy they were the officer had not seen the beer in their car.

The officer found the teens in the car, and as he walked toward them, he saw an open, half-full bottle of beer in the car. He asked the driver, a 17-year-old Tecumseh girl, if she had beer. She said no. He then asked her if she would lie to the police. She said no.

The officer asked the two to leave the vehicle, and confiscated the open beer bottle, as well as two full, unopened bottles of beer. Preliminary breath tests returned results of .01 for the girl, and .03 for the passenger, an 18-year-old boy. Neither result is considered drunk. The driver was given a citation for having an open container of alcohol.

An officer stopped a 28-year-old Whitmore Lake man for speeding on N. Main Street near Dewey Street. He noticed that there was a 12-pack of beer in the back seat of the car, and asked the driver if there were any open bottles in the car. The driver said yes, and the passenger, a 29-year-old man, produced a mostly empty bottle from between his legs. The officer gave the passenger a citation.

Dexter Village

Found Property

A 54-year-old man brought a bike to deputies on Oct. 25, which he said a tenant of his had found in the 3100 block of Broad Street. The bicycle was found locked to a fence. After determining that it did not belong to any of his tenants, the man cut the lock and brought it to police.

Webster Township

Runaway

Deputies responded to a call of a runaway on Oct. 25 in the 6600 block of Joy Road. They spoke with a 41-year-old woman there who said that her 15-year-old son had run away earlier.

The woman said that afternoon she and the boy's grandfather were trying to talk to the boy about his problems at school. She said that, as they talked to him, he became very angry and left the house.

He walked out of the house, and his mother and grandfather were unable to find him. The woman said the boy had friends in the area, and that it was the first time he had run away.

Lyndon Township

Larceny

On Sept. 18, deputies responded to a report of larceny. At the scene they met a 28-year-old woman, who said that someone had broken into her house, and taken $1,500 in rent money, a pager, and keys to her car, totaling $1,570. A window on the front porch was also broken. The damage totaled $40.

The woman said she suspected her 28-year-old husband had robbed her, because some of her clothing was also missing. She believed he had used his house key to get in the house. She also said she believed he waited until she and her sister left the house.

What's New At Dan's River Grill?

Well now that the dust has settled, and we have been open for two months Carol and I would like to say a few things. First, thank you to all the people in town who helped get Dan's open; Jeff Proctor and his crew for their great craftsmanship, John Shaible and his guys for all the mason work, everyone at the city for allowing me to open even though they thought I was applying for a topless dance permit, and Howard Parr for his knowledge of the history of Manchester, and for helping me locate the 850 local bricks that John needed to finish. Also Don Limpert and R & J Painting.

Now that Carol and I have two restaurants we divide our time between both. Our reason for opening Dan's was we wanted a fun casual eatery where good food could be had at a fair price, accompanied with warm friendly service, and the opportunity to hold social events (in Dan's Downunder) such as beer and wine tasting (we can sell to-go), theme dinners, comedy club nights, magic shows, live musicians, to name a few. All of this and more will come to be as we grow and prepare for it. We value your comments, if you don't run into Carol or myself you can talk to Lisa Hebert, the manager or her assistants Carol Wild and Stacy Smithkey.

The woman said she had been out of the house to go to the hospital, where she was being treated for an assault by her husband.

Scio Township Domestic Assault

Deputies responded to a call of domestic assault on Oct. 27. They found the caller, a 26-year-old woman who is a neighbor to the parties involved, who took them to the scene.

There they found two victims, a 40-year-old woman and her ex-husband, a 44-year-old man, and one suspect, a 39-year-old man, all residents of the address. The woman and the suspect are brother and sister.

A 33-year-old woman, a witness, told police earlier in the day that the woman had come to her house crying, and said that her brother had punched her in the eye, and "smashblasted" her. When the witness later spoke with the suspect, he repeatedly said he did not punch his sister in the eye.

The victims told police they were lying together on the couch when the suspect became upset and threw many glasses against the wall. He then walked behind them, leaned over, and began choking the woman. The male victim tried to sit up and tell the man to stop when the suspect grabbed him by the throat, too.

The male victim grabbed a white coffee mug and hit the suspect in the head with it, breaking the mug and cutting the suspect's head in numerous places. The man gave the suspect his sweatshirt to staunch the bleeding, and asked the neighbor to call the police.

All three people smelled strongly of intoxicants, and the woman and the suspect confirmed that all parties had been drinking.

The sheriff's department received a call on Oct. 26 from a 41-year-old woman who said that her boyfriend, a 43-year-old man, had scratched himself in the face and would claim that she had done so.

Deputies arriving on the scene found the man in front of his residence. He said the woman had scratched him. He also said he had drunk a half-bottle of whiskey.

The woman said the two had been arguing before she left for work, and when she returned, she found the house locked. She crawled into the house through a window, at which point the two began arguing again. The woman claimed to have been choked, and repeated her denial of scratching the man. She was taken into custody.

Larceny

A clerk at TA Truck Stop, at 200 Baker Road, said that a man in a semi truck had pumped 161 gallons of diesel fuel, worth $200.45, and drove off.

The clerk, a 51-year-old Carlton woman, saw a trucking company name and a three-digit identification number on the truck. When she called the company, located in Illinois, she was told it only used two-digit identification numbers. A company representative told her that he had had similar complaints from Indiana and Kentucky.

Breaking and Entering

On Oct. 28, a sheriff's deputy responded to a report of breaking and entering at Hazel and Buehler, of 5864 Interface Drive. He met there a 44-year-old man who owned the business. The man told the deputy he had left the business the previous afternoon, making sure the front door was locked.

That night, someone entered the locked front door, but there were no signs of forced entry. The perpetrator then used a snow shovel to break the glass door to the business, snatched a desk, and stole $400 from a cash box. Damage to the front door was estimated at $200.

Deputies were dispatched to Uptown Coney Island Restaurant, at 395 Jackson Road, on Oct. 28. An alarm in the restaurant had been activated when a perpetrator smashed the front window of the business. Nothing was taken, but damage to the window was estimated at $900. The case was turned over to the detective bureau of the Ann Arbor Police Department.

"Why So Many Denominations?"

Dear Friends and Neighbors,
Many people are offended that the Christian Church is splintered into so many branches. They ask, "Why can't Christians just ignore their differences and get along?"

The question arises because we live in an age where compromise is preferred to absolute truth. Most people accept the idea of absolute truth in the world of mathematics, but when contradictory views occur in the religious world, people say, "Maybe they're both right!"

We Christians know there is only one source of spiritual truth: The Bible. We admit there are issues the Bible doesn't spell out for us.

But many issues are very clear, and when a religious teacher or a church deviates from them, the Bible calls on true believers to avoid that church or teacher. "Beware of false prophets," Jesus said. This is not just a matter of different religious "traditions," as we are often told; this is the difference between truth and falsehood.

Any attempts to ignore this, and to encourage "unity" and being "ecumenical" at the expense of truth, are disastrous. The vast majority of attempts to break down denominational barriers is not only contrary to the Bible; it's also an insult to our forefathers, when we overthrow and ignore the principles they fought and died for.

In a sense, it would make it easier if we dissolved all denominations and blended them into one. But instead, what each of us must do is seek the denomination which adheres most closely to God's Word. Although unity exists between all Christians on earth in a spiritual sense, we will have to wait until eternity to express that unity fully and visibly.

I love to share the beliefs of my denomination, Faith Lutheran church and the Wisconsin Evangelical Lutheran Synod. Please call me, and we'll talk over the phone or in person.

CARING FOR YOUR OLDER CAT
By Julie Staton, LVT

Researchers estimate that a cat's golden years begin sometime around her 10th birthday. But not all cats show the signs of aging then, nor do all age the same way. How your kitty grows old depends on her genetic background, diet, disease, and lifestyle.

Although not a lot of research has been done on the physiology of aging in cats, changes observed in other species also may occur in felines. In elderly animals the skin is thinner, has decreased blood flow, and is less elastic. Normal immune function and defense mechanisms decline, and anemia is of increased concern. As a result of decreased activity or physiological or pathological age-related changes, senior cats often have overgrown, thick and brittle claws.

Hearing loss is common in geriatric cats, as in normal age-related visual changes. In addition, kidney size and renal blood flow decline as part of the normal aging process. Despite these changes, there are many things you can do to make your kitty's senior years comfortable.

- Pay attention to her diet and her weight. Your veterinarian should examine a kitty that gains or loses weight too quickly.
- Make sure she is getting enough exercise to help her maintain good muscle tone and suppleness.
- Groom her regularly and check for unusual lumps, skin lesions, or parasites.
- Give her a warm place where she can sleep or observe the family activities.
- Not all behavioral problems are due to old age but may be due to a physical problem (litter box accidents may be a result of arthritis, not senility). Schedule veterinary examinations every six months and quickly notify your veterinarian if you suspect any problems.

Above all, treat your kitty like the revered senior family member she is -- with respect and love.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Taxpayers need input from library board

A group of over 20 concerned citizens from Chelsea and the townships held a community meeting on the evening of Oct. 28 at the Washington Street Educational Center. The objective of the meeting was to gather input on the strategic direction the library should take since the construction bond failed. The proposed outcome was to present the board with thoughtful and constructive suggestions.

These suggestions include:

- Based on community research, the McKune House remains the location of choice for the library. All future planning should revolve around the renovation and ADA accessibility of the McKune House Library. Extensive book purchases, expanded computer access, new furnishings, etc. are all efforts that are better phased in over time.

- ADA accessibility is not a reason to relocate the library. The board needs to find and implement immediate solutions to meet ADA requirements in the current location using operating funds. We suggest rear access with an exterior elevator at ground level. We understand some of major expenses would include $50,000 for an elevator, a $15,000 elevator shaft, $20,000 new and upgraded toilets. All tangibles for ADA access should be designed to retrofit a new addition.

- Any temporary relocation of the library from the McKune House without renovation plans in effect and a specific date and plan of return is not an option and a waste of taxpayer money. Such a move, if not well thought-out, could be fraught with unexpected costs and would diffuse the momentum toward the completion of a library at the McKune House.

- It is the board's responsibility to minimize the taxpayer burden, and use any tax monies as efficiently and effectively as possible. The community should be presented with a detailed strategic plan that includes line item details of how the taxpayer money is to be spent before the board accepts an operating millage. All outside funding resources should be researched and utilized.

- If another construction bond is brought to the public, a detailed architectural and financial plan should be presented to the community. A more modest library expansion would serve the public desires and needs at this time. It was felt that a 12,000 square foot addition at about a $2,000,000 cost would be a practical and adequate first step. Future expansion could be anticipated in this plan and voted on in the future if more space is needed.

- There was a general feeling expressed throughout the meeting about the accountability of the library board to the people. It was suggested that since the library board can levy millages, they should be responsible to the taxpayers through the electoral process. This can be achieved by having the library board members elected, not appointed.

The library board, community partners and taxpayers need to continue "out-of-the-box" thinking to meet the community needs. The McKune Family and the Chelsea DDA have generously provided the Chelsea area with a library and parking solutions.

There are many innovative options for keeping our historic library central to our community — use of the Serendipity House for administrative offices, use of the corner lot (Orchard & Main) for parking, use of matching funds or grants to solve some of the more immediate needs.

These suggestions were presented to the library board at its Nov. 2 meeting. On Nov. 16 the board may be voting on a $844,000 budget in which none of these options may have been considered. The Nov. 16 meeting is open to the public, as are all of the library meetings, and if these spending issues concern you, please attend.

Band program was great

On Thursday, October 28, I attended the Chelsea school orchestra Halloween concert. It was an extremely entertaining evening. The orchestra director Mr. Jed Fritzemeier (dressed as Rhett Butler of "Gone with the Wind") and his staff did a wonderful job organizing and preparing the students for a humorous musical performance.

I would like to thank Mr. Fritzemeier for his creative and fun approach to music instruction. I was impressed with the increase in the number of students participating in the orchestra program. The sixth-grade performance, under the instruction of Mr. Peters, was impressive for such young musicians.

My daughter is a member of Chelsea House Orchestra (CHO) and has had the opportunity to learn about folk music and the music business thanks to Mr. Fritzemeier. CHO has performed in many diverse settings and has been extremely well received by the audiences (they have been invited to open for an internationally acclaimed Celtic fiddler). CHO members are a great group of kids building self-confidence through hard work, great performances and having fun all at the same time.

I would like to thank Mr. Fritzemeier for his dedication and commitment to the students and the music they play.

LIBRARY NOTES

The Chelsea District Library is now the official library service provider for the Village of Chelsea and the four surrounding townships. The voters in the greater than 12,000 population area voted "yes" to a district library with a maximum library operating levy of 1.75 mills per year.

The bond issue, to construct an expansion, and to furnish and equip an expanded library, was rejected by the voters.

The Library Board is focused on the immediate budget requirements for operating the library during the year 2000, and providing:

- Full, expanded services for all age groups — but particularly for our senior and physically impaired citizens — with a barrier-free, fully accessible facility — possibly a temporarily leased facility, since the McKune House does not meet these requirements.

- Expanded service hours.
- Expanded services for seniors and the homebound.
- An expanded book, video and audio tape collection.
- Upgraded technology.
- Long range facilities planning.
- Development of another bond proposal.

The Chelsea District Library Board approved a millage levy of 1.63 mills for the year 2000 only. The anticipated income is intended to cover expanded services, additions to the current collections, upgrading current technology, additional staffing and maintaining multiple facilities.

The Library Board appreciates the support of the entire area. We look forward to plans in conjunction with the DDA for a future "Library Complex" encompassing the Fenn (the old Pump and Pantry lot), McKune and Staffen-Mitchell properties.

In future articles, we will provide specific information about our expanded services and additions to the collection, as well as plans for short-term library facilities.

Our next newsletter will arrive in your mailbox soon, and extras are always available at the checkout desk in the McKune House. If you have suggestions for us, or questions you'd like to see answered in this column, please drop a note in the suggestion box at the library.

Maximum Overdrive

Chelsea resident kicks racing career into high gear

By Shawn Lawrence

Heritage Newspapers

When Chelsea resident Bill Eversole turned 18, he was the kind of guy who had to drive everywhere.

He'd drive his car, your car, anyone's car. If he was going somewhere, Eversole wanted to be behind the wheel. That spirit's never left him.

Now, however, Eversole has taken his love of driving to the competition level, racing against other people who were kids that loved to drive too.

Eversole races in the Late Model Division at the race track in Quincy, and after 16 years in the sport, is coming off one of his most successful seasons yet, winning the championship race and finishing third in the point totals.

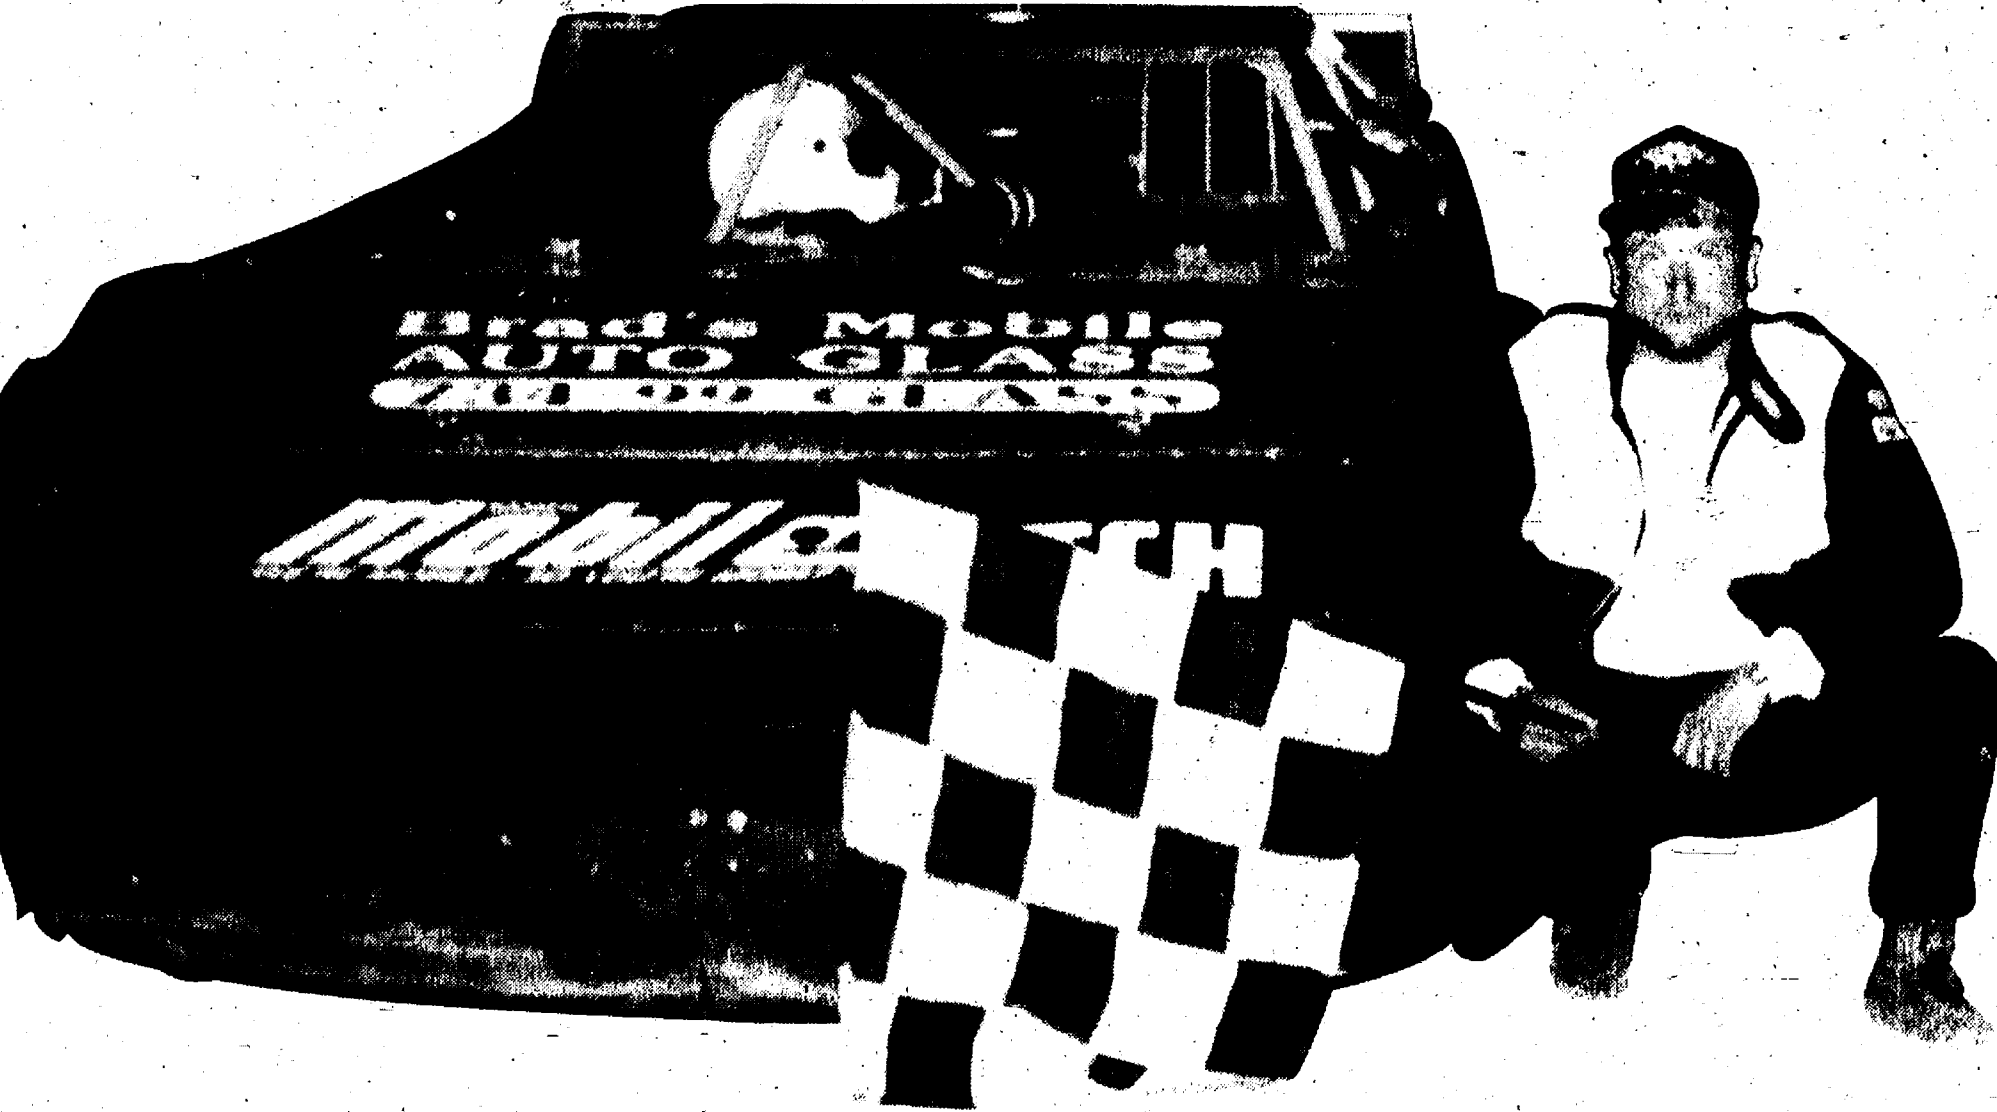

Eversole, 36, grew up in Manchester, and moved to Chelsea seven years ago. He graduated from Manchester High School in 1982. He has been racing since 1983.

Eversole said that while he has always loved driving, it was his brother who actually got him interested in competitive racing.

He said that entering his first race was a spur-of-the-moment decision. He had gone to his brother's house and found him knocking the window out of his car. His brother said he was taking the car to the track to race in an amateur competition.

Eversole said he couldn't resist, and he knocked the windshield out of his own 1976 Malibu and joined him.

"My brother called me a crazy nut because (the Malibu) was my only car at the time," he said.

Chelsea resident Bill Eversole is enjoying a racing career.

Eversole got knocked out of that race, but the desire to compete never left him.

"That's how I got started," he said. "After one time, I wanted to do it every weekend."

Eversole ran in the amateur enduro races for three years, then jumped to the Detroit Iron Division and started racing the dirt track at Quincy. After a few years of competing there, he moved up to the Late Model Division where the competition can be fierce.

Fourteen years later, he has claimed more than 70 wins and always finishes near the top in the season point count.

He said that while he has won his share of individual races, the division championship points have been an elusive goal for him over the years.

"I've had tons of seconds, but never had a championship. I've won championship nights, but never for the whole year. It always seems like that's around the corner, but these guys are dedicated, 100 percent. I'm dedicated 99 percent, and that 1 percent usually throws you."

"You can't miss a weekend if you want to win. We have a family, sometimes we go camping."

Eversole said that the support of his family is one of the reasons he has been able to continue racing over the years.

He said his wife, Trenda, and his two daughters, Sabrina, 13, and Sheresa, 15, have been his inspiration.

"They love it," he said. "My wife is into it big time. She gets a big thrill when I get out there. When that car fires up, she gets pretty excited. Without the support of your family, you really can't race."

Eversole said that in addition to being his biggest fan, his wife also helps take care of many of the details of racing, making sure his gear is ready, checking his belts and helmet, cleaning his helmet shield.

Racing, Eversole said, can be a pretty expensive pastime. For most of the years he has raced, he has supported his racing with his own money and through sponsorship.

"Racing doesn't pay that well," he said. "If you finished in the top three every weekend and didn't have any breakdowns, you could make money. But that's not going to happen."

At the end of this racing season, he sold his car and is looking to buy a new GRT which he said runs about $16,000 without an engine. An engine will be an additional $10,000.

Eversole said that the prize money he wins is not his motivation for racing. He did have one year, however, when he did turn a profit through driving.

"One season, about 10 years ago, we were racing, living on a small budget, and I had this old, junk car we put together," he said. "I spent $300 on this car, and it turned out to be one of the best cars we ever had. I actually made money that year. I won seven straight features and heats back-to-back and we took a vacation."

But aside from that season, Eversole said he supports his racing with his day job as an employee at MediaOne. His sponsors also pay to keep him on the race track, and Eversole said he wouldn't be able to do it if it wasn't for their help.

The sponsors, all local businesses, are Bamco Mobile Hitch Shop of Ann Arbor, Village Mobil in Chelsea, Brad's Mobile Glass in Ann Arbor, Creative Countertops in Manchester, E-Z Care Hardwood Floors in Tecumseh, Ron's Garage in Ann Arbor, J B's Party Center in

Jones revitalizes teaching career in Chelsea

By Michelle Rogers

Associate Editor

Phil Jones didn't grow up with an overwhelming desire to teach.

And when he started his career in 1971, he wasn't so sure he would make a lifetime of it.

But 29 years later, Jones says there is nothing he would rather be doing.

"I just really enjoy what I do. I enjoy this year more than last year, and each year I seem to enjoy it more than the last," says Jones, an English and journalism teacher at Chelsea High School.

Jones grew up in Flushing, on the outskirts of Flint, with the dream of becoming a commercial artist.

"I never had an inclination to be a teacher," Jones says. "I didn't think teachers were very exciting people."

"I was going to be a commercial artist but found out I wasn't what I thought I was in art."

So, Jones reflected on his time in high school and remembered a history teacher who made a lasting impression on his life.

"I just really admired his attitude with the kids," Jones says about teacher Mike Yeagley. "He actually was the inspiration for thinking teachers were OK people."

Jones says he started his studies with the initial intention of teaching history—the same subject his role model taught. But he says he wasn't very good at the subject. He did all right with English in high school, so Jones decided to become an English teacher.

Jones earned a bachelor's degree in education from Central Michigan University in 1971. He started his career that same year at Houghton Lake High School and stayed there for six years, teaching English, journalism and advising the yearbook staff.

During the summer of 1977, Jones worked as a reporter at The Houghton Lake Reporter, a weekly newspaper serving the community. It was at that time that he decided teaching may not be the right career for him.

He had been taking graduate classes in film production at Michigan State University during his summers and thought a career in filmmaking would be fun. Jones had proven his talent, capturing second and third places in student film competitions at the Cranbrook Institute.

"I guess I was disillusioned with teaching and ready to take a plunge in cinematography," he says.

"I was really looking at a career change, but marriage and kids stood in the way of giving up everything and moving to California, where all those dreams are."

At the same time, Jones had applied to school districts in this area, looking for a better opportunity in the career he had known for a half dozen years.

"I wanted a district where my kids would have all of the opportunities they wanted," he says.

Houghton Lake schools offered art and music but the community didn't seem very supportive of education in general, he says.

"The community was not an education-oriented community."

"If the community doesn't value the arts, the programs aren't going to be that strong," Jones says. "That was the thing about Chelsea—the community supported the arts and education. Education is so important to this community."

After he was hired to teach in Chelsea, Jones says his drive to teach was renewed. He was among 11 new teachers to start at Chelsea High in the fall of 1977. Of them, seven have celebrated lifelong careers in the district.

"After coming to Chelsea, I had no other desires (to change careers)," Jones says.

He came to the district excited to be starting over. With experience marching with his hometown drum and bugle corps as a youth, Jones volunteered to be the adviser to the Color Guard, which is similar to a flag corps. More than two decades later, he

the same hundreds of years later.

Jones is also known at Chelsea High School for a poetry lesson where he has students examine the poetic value in the music they listen to today.

It was former band director Steve Bergman who inspired Jones to change his teaching style.

"I went into teaching almost like a drill sergeant," Jones says. "It was very important to me to have students quiet at all times."

Jones says it was Bergman who showed him it was OK to show his emotions to students.

TEACHER FEATURE

continues in that position.

As the journalism teacher, he also serves as adviser to the school newspaper, The Bleu Print, as well as the yearbook.

"My role is more of guidance," he says.

Jones comes to the classroom with an unusual perspective. In high school, he says he attempted to be the class clown and wasn't the perfect student. He says he didn't have a lot of respect for his teachers and thought he could do a better job.

"I was not a model student in high school. I was occasionally disruptive in classes. So, I was able to see in retrospect what worked for me (as a student) and use that as a tool to get the kids connected with what I wanted to teach."

Jones uses humor in class and tries to make studies relevant to his students' lives. For example, when students read Shakespeare, Jones emphasizes how relationships are pretty much

This, in turn, helped him gain the respect of students, who saw he was very much like them.

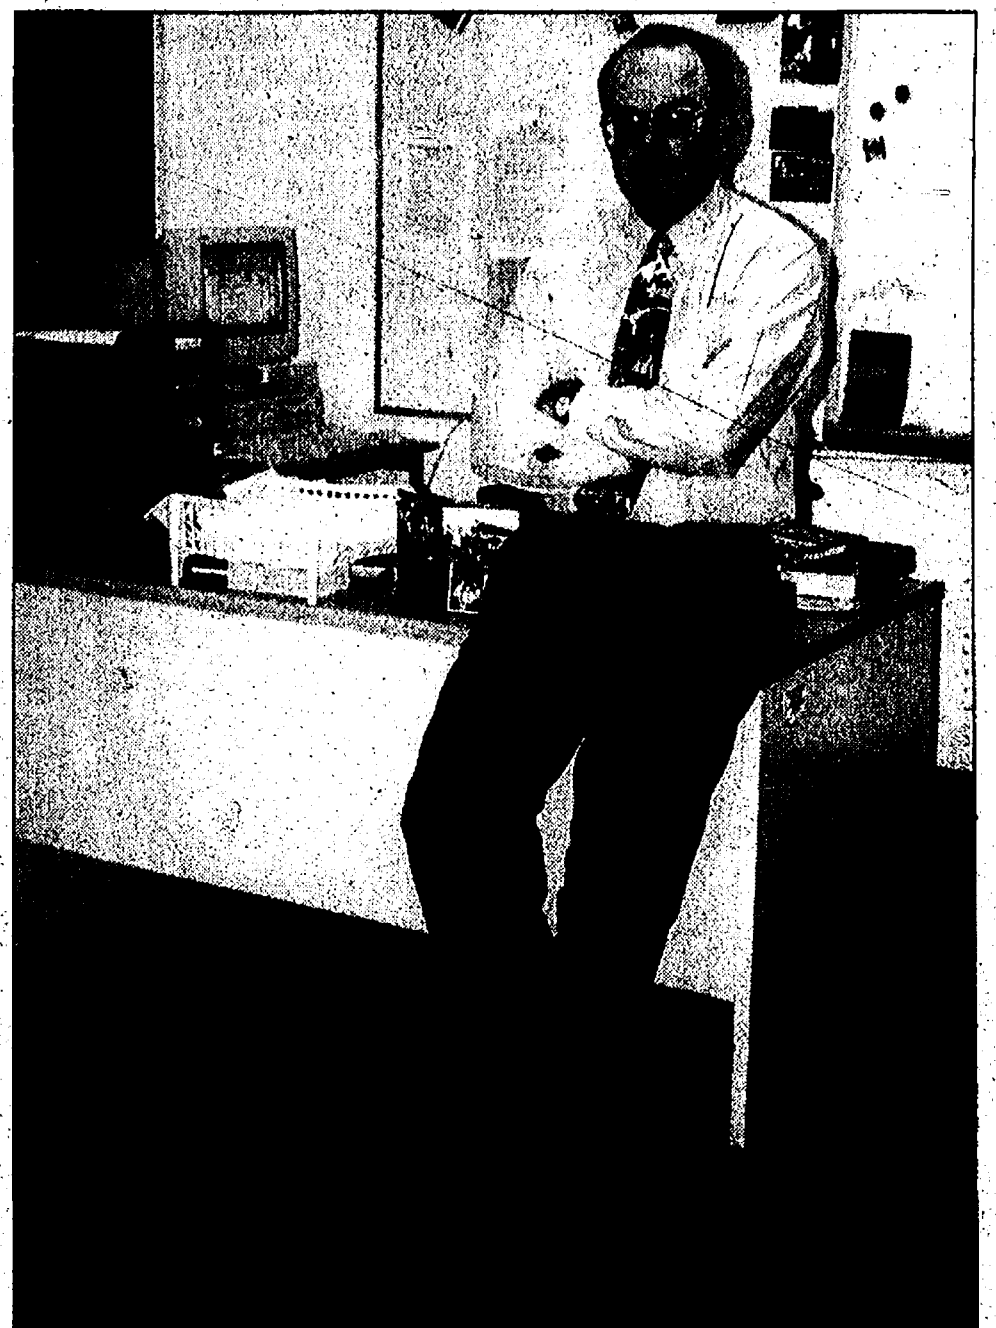

"I think this (change) motivated me to do more extra curricular things with kids," Jones says.

He helped raise funds to purchase computers for the school newspaper staff. For a long time, they were borrowing typewriters and a classroom to work in. Now they have state-of-the-art equipment and a computer lab, with help, in part, from a school bond issue.

The newspaper has won awards for its design and writing. The Columbia Press Association has given The Bleu Print a No. 1 overall rating consistently throughout the 1990s.

Over the years, Jones has grown as a teacher. He says an incident in 1993, when he was shot by another teacher involved in a grievance, changed his outlook on life.

"I guess the biggest realization was sitting in the hospital

Phil Jones thought he might give up his career after teaching for six years in Houghton Lake. He considered a switch to filmmaking but his passion for teaching was revitalized when he came to Chelsea High School. Jones teaches English and journalism.

after the shooting thinking someone is dead over a grievance.

"I used to sweat a lot of the small stuff and get quite worked up," says the former union grievance chairman. "Internally, I don't anymore."

"I am a much happier person now. It has caused me to see things in a different light."

Jones says when he talks to students about good and evil, for instance, he can tell them that in real life good and evil are not so

ESTATE TAX FACTS

Estate Tax rates at your death are expensive. Starting at 37%, the rates quickly reach 55% of your taxable estate.

Assets Taxable at Death	Exemptions by year
• Life Insurance	1999 $650,000
• TIAA-CREF, IRA'S, 401k	2000-2001 675,000
• Qualified Retirement Plans	2002-2003 700,000
• Investments	2004 850,000
• Bank Accounts	2005 950,000
• Business Interests	2006 1,000,000
• Real Estate
• Personal Property

The total of all assets exceeding the exemption are taxable. Using the marital deduction a spouse pays no estate tax but at the spouse's death all the assets are taxed.

Fortunately there are numerous ways to minimize or even eliminate the estate tax with proper planning. Using the proper type of estate plan, including the appropriate type of trust can not only take care of the estate tax problem, but avoid the time and expense of probate.

Call for a confidential free appointment and personal estate planning recommendation today.

Robertson will oversee the production of sweepers and brushes in Sweepster's Dexter plant. He was instrumental in obtaining a state-of-the-art powder-coating paint system earlier this year.

Massey enlists

Army private Odis R. Massey Jr. has arrived at Fort Knox, Ky, to complete basic combat training.

Massey is a 1999 graduate of Whitmore Lake High School.

He is the son of Tina M. Bourland of Whitmore Lake and Odis R. Massey Sr. of Ypsilanti.

WHAT DOES THE BIBLE SAY ON... ..RESURRECTION?

The authenticity of the Resurrection of Jesus is probably one of the most discussed issues in the religious world. Christians base most of their belief on the fact that Jesus rose from the dead, and other religions greatest opposition is the fact that He rose. Because Hebrews 11:6 speaks of having faith in God in order to please him, it is imperative to trust what He says. The Bible says:

- 1) Was prophesied (Ps 16:10-11; Acts 13:34-35)
- 2) Was preached by the Apostles (Acts 2:32, 1 Cor 15)
- 3) Was declaration of Jesus' sonship (Rom 1:4)
- 4) Was prophesied by Jesus (Mark 9:9-10; John 19:22)

The fact that Jesus died gives us as Christians the hope that we have, but the ideas that Jesus rose gives our belief all its power. Believing that we serve a risen Savior, and not a dead prophet is a reason to continue pursuing the will of God.

WEDDING

Wentzel, LaRoe marry

Lisa Diane Wentzel, of Dexter, daughter of Jack and Jackie Wentzel of Lake Somerset, and Edward A. LaRoe Jr., of Dexter, son of Lenora LaRoe of Ann Arbor, and Edward LaRoe Sr., of Dexter, were married Oct. 4 at the Harbor View Inn on Mackinac Island. The Rev. Charles Hastie of Mackinaw City officiated.

Maid of honor was Laura LaRoe of Cross Plains, Tenn., sister of the groom and friend of the bride. The best man was Mark LaRoe of Ann Arbor, brother of the groom.

A reception was held at the Yankee Rebel, on Mackinac Island. The couple honeymooned in the Upper Peninsula and in northern lower Michigan.

The bride and groom are graduates of Dexter High School, and will reside in Dexter. The bride is employed at SIKO Products in Dexter, and the groom is employed at Apple Electric in Chelsea.

Chelsea Woman's Club holds meeting

The Woman's Club of Chelsea held its October meeting at the Crippen Building on the Chelsea Retirement Community campus with 18 members and one guest present.

Myra Colvin introduced our guest speakers from Ameritech: Marilyn Broda, Barbara Douglas and Mary Rohr. They explained monthly Ameritech bills step by step and answered questions from members. They discussed the special services and discounts available, as well as the problem of "cramming" and "slamming," and how to correct it.

Margaret Boehm opened the business meeting with the reading of the Collect in unison. Committee reports were read and approved.

October birthdays for Ruth Barton, Marjorie Hepburn and Kay Hull were recognized. Program Committee Chairwoman Myra Colvin stated that the Holiday Pantry Sale will be held in the Crippen Building Nov. 23 and members are encouraged to bring a guest.

Hostesses for the October meeting were Janet Fulks and Marilyn Haug.

JONES

clear cut. There are gray areas in life, and Jones says he tries to help students understand this and not pass judgment.

Jones has had many highlights in his career. Among them is his involvement on a committee that helped design the new high school.

"It was enjoyable to be part of that experience of planning this huge complex," he says, "and visiting other schools, taking some things from other schools and putting it into a package that would suit our needs and desires."

Other highlights come when former students get in touch with him. He has been invited to college graduations and weddings over the years.

"I have a lot of highlights. Every time I run into a former student and they mention something they learned from me, that's a highlight," Jones says. "That just validates what I do."

What he looks forward to is exploring ways of getting students involved more with technology.

"It's exciting for me. It's a shot of adrenaline for me to deal with the technology we have and how we can use it differently to motivate students," Jones says.

The school newspaper staff, for instance, uses technology to produce the newspaper electronically. When they take it to Tecumseh to be printed, it's camera-ready.

Thanks to students in the high school's Web design class, the newspaper can be seen on the World Wide Web. Plans call for the entire high school to be online, with individual classes and extra curricular activities having their own Web sites.

When Jones is not in the classroom he can be found enjoying family life or outside interests. He has lived in the village for the past 22 years with his wife, Sherry, a teacher at St. Thomas school in Ann Arbor. They have two daughters, Rianne, 20, and Richelle, 24.

As a youth, Jones played lead guitar in a rock 'n' roll band. Today he shares his talent during the high school's annual "Putting on the Hits" fund-raiser. The first year he participated, Jones remembers students chanted "Jones is God. Jones is God."

"It was such a neat sensation," he says, although he knew they were teasing him.

In his spare time, Jones collects Coca-Cola memorabilia. He has converted his basement into a 1950s-style diner, where he displays his collection of Coke cans, glasses, serving trays, pictures, playing cards and toys. Jones estimates he has 800 pieces in all. He has enhanced his collection by picking up items at garage sales and antique sales. Some are gifts from students.

During his winters, Jones is often on the road as part of the Michigan Color Guard Circuit. He runs the sound system for the groups at competitions across the state.

EVERSOLE

Chelsea, the Construction Connection Company. Withrow Building, Versatile Graphics in Manchester, Boc Gasses in Ann Arbor and Complete Design Automation.

Eversole said that the sponsors usually participate in assisting his racing career because they are personal friends.

"For them, it's a tax write off," he laughs. "They do it purely because I'm a friend with every one of them. They do it out of their kindness."

Eversole said he intends to race as long as he can afford it, although he has begun to branch out a bit by instructing at a driving school at the Michigan Speedway in Brooklyn.

He also has aspirations of continuing to move up in the racing divisions and eventually race on the NASCAR circuit with "the big boys."

"The Winston Cup, now that's racing," he said. "They go about 190 (mph) compared to 110 or 120, what we're doing, down the straightaways."

Next season, in an effort to expand his racing scope, Eversole said he is going to participate in the Toledo "Iceman Series," which is a traveling circuit.

Eversole said that racing is much safer than most people perceive it to be. In his nearly 20 years of racing, he said he has never been seriously injured, and in fact has never seen anyone seriously injured in a racing accident.

"I've been in some bad ones, but I've never really been hurt," he said. "I've been knocked out, though. I hit a guy in Ohio, head-on at about 80 mph when he was at a standstill. I took a big shot, got knocked out for about half an hour."

"It's not really dangerous, though. You're so well protected, the bars protect you, there's a five-point harness that protects you."

"It's not impossible to get hurt, but the odds of getting hurt are slimmer racing than driving to work every day."

Eversole said that the possibility of injury won't keep him out of the sport - the desire to compete and to go fast is too strong in him.

"On the racetrack, your stomach is in knots until that green flag goes down," he said. "Once that flag goes down, you go. You don't think of anything but getting to the front. I've never been scared after the green flag drops. It's exciting as heck."

For him, racing is more than a hobby, it's a passion. He has his favorite memories in the sport, and some disappointments along the way, too.

But Eversole said that it's the desire to win, the need to be the fastest person on the course that drives him each time he gets on the track.

"Everytime I set foot on the track, we've got a shot at winning," he said. "We've got a car good enough for first. That's the way we think."

SEATBELTS FIRST!
By: Dianne Johnson (owner)
Automobile drivers and passengers who refuse to buckle their seatbelts in the belief that their airbags will adequately protect them in a crash may be sadly mistaken. The fact is that the seatbelt remains the most effective safety device for protection against serious injury on the road. In reality, airbags were never intended to be a primary safety device. When first installed in cars in 1984, they were designed as "supplemental" safety devices to accompany seatbelts. And, they have met their design goals admirably. According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, airbags improve chances of surviving a frontal crash for belted front-seat passengers by 45%. However, non-belted passenger odds drop to 10%.
How easy it is to forget this simple safety precaution! At BERT'S AUTO SERVICE, we put your safety first. We find solutions that work for whatever ails your car. All of our work is guaranteed. You want to have confidence in the shop you deal with - we work hard to earn your trust by giving you reliable service. Our mechanics constantly upgrade their skills. Visit us at 5984 Jackson Road in Ann Arbor, or call 734-769-3232.
HINT: It is noteworthy that the only person to survive the infamous Princess Diana crash was also the only person found to be wearing a seatbelt.

Thank You To All Veterans.

In recognition of a most important and historic date, Chelsea State Bank will be closed for the observance of Veterans Day on Thursday, November 11th. In previous years, CSB has honored and featured in an ad local soldiers who have fought to defend our country. This year we've gone back in time 135 years to recognize Chelsea residents who fought here in America during the Civil War, fighting for democracy and freedom. History has revealed that Michigan played a significant role in the war. A large contingent of local soldiers fought for the Union army across the country.

In many cases, brothers enlisted together in the all-volunteer service. Some states such as New York could not field enough soldiers to complete the mandated requirements and came to Michigan to recruit men eager to defend the Union.

This photo, of the Grand Army of the Republic taken some 30 years after the war in front of the Depot, illustrates Civil War veterans who hailed from Chelsea and the surrounding areas. Unfortunately, there weren't any names recorded to coincide with the photo. We do know that Company K known as the 20th Michigan Infantry was led by Captain Elija Hammond of Chelsea. One of the more notable names on the list of Infantry Men was Elisha Congdon, the son of the man who founded Chelsea.

To all the men and women who have served in the military service, we at Chelsea State Bank say THANK YOU. Chelsea State Bank has been your independent bank serving the Chelsea area since 1897, (about the time this photo was taken!).

20th Michigan Infantry - Company K
Here is a list of local soldiers who were part of the Michigan delegation that fought during the Civil War. At the time of their enlistment, the age range of these men was from 18 to 44.

DEATHS

JESSIE M. FYFE
Formerly of Dexter
Age, 102, died Oct. 26, 1999, at Arbor Hospice. She was born Aug.
14, 1897 in Brooklyn, N.Y. She moved to Ann Arbor in 1924, on her marriage to John B. Fyfe and lived there until 1957 when they moved to Dexter.
In Ann Arbor, she was involved in organizing the Girl Scouts, and was active in the PTA, West Side
Woman's Club and Chorus, and St.
Andrew's Episcopal Church.
After moving to Dexter, she became a member of the Dexter Women's Club, St. James Episcopal Church and the Altar Guild.
Her husband John B. Fyfe Sr. preceded her in death in 1983. She is survived by her son John B.
(Martha) Fyfe Jr.; two daughters,
Marjorie Wells and Jessie Reissig; seven grandchildren; and 14 great-grandchildren.
A graveside service was held
Oct. 30 at Forest Lawn Cemetery in Dexter, with the Rev. David Horning officiating. Remarials may be made to the St. James Episcopal Altar Guild, or the Dexter District Library, or Arbor Hospice.

AGNES GREVE DENTON
Formerly of Chelsea
Age, 109, died Oct. 29, 1999, in Pembroke Pines, Fla. She was born Nov. 15, 1889 to Oscar and Flora Lane in Orleans.
On Feb. 21, 1910 she married Robert G. Greve in Ann Arbor. He preceded her in death in 1960.
They had two children, Elizabeth Caroline (John) Kauffman, both deceased; and Barbara Jane
(Dr. Gordon, deceased) Carver, of Hollywood, Fla., who survives her.
Also surviving her are four grandchildren; four great grandchildren, of Huntsville, Ala. and Hollywood, Fla.; and a niece,
Roberta Barstow, of Dexter.
She will be remembered fondly by her many friends and relatives.
Agnes was an avid golfer and excellent bridge player. After the death of her first husband, she married Dan Denton, who developed the golf course at North Lake. He died in 1980.
When she was unable to play golf any longer, she would close her eyes, select the club to play, envision the shot, playing the entire course this way.
On her 109th birthday, she was asked what she wanted most. "To play golf once more," was her reply.
Taken to a nearby golf course,
the mayor of Pembroke Pines placed a ball on the green about 15 feet from the hole and handed Agnes a putter. She promptly sank the putt.
A memorial service will be held in Chelsea at a later date.

FRANK A. LECHOWITZ
Chelsea
Age, 90, died Oct. 31, 1999, at the Fenton Extended Care Facility.
He was born March 22, 1909 in North Braddock, Penn., one of nine children born to John and Anna (Waslauwa) Lechowicz. He was the last surviving sibling in his family.
Frank had been a resident of Chelsea since 1944. He was married to Ruby May Wilson on Sept.
11, 1927, in Toledo, Ohio. She preceded him in death on Oct. 14, 1988.
He and his wife operated the Sylvan Flower Shop in Chelsea, and Frank retired from the New Central Railroad.
He is survived by several nieces and nephews.
Graveside services were held
Nov. 4 at Oak Grove Cemetery.
Arrangements by John W. Mitchell
Family, Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home.

PATRICK JAMES WADE
Age, 76, died Oct. 30, 1999, peacefully at his home with his family present.
He was born in Detroit, March 17, 1923, the son of Patrick James and Catherine Wade. He graduated from Melvindale High School in 1941, and received a football scholarship to North Carolina State that year. He graduated from Michigan State University in 1949 with a bachelor's degree of science in education.
During World War II, he served in the US Coast Guard from January 1943 to March 9, 1946, serving in the South Pacific, manning landing craft to the islands.
He was a teacher and coach for 34 years in Union City and Chelsea. He was a lifetime member of Michigan High School Coaches Association. He became a member of the Michigan High School Coaches Hall of Fame in 1997. He was also a member of the Michigan Education Association and the Lincoln Hills Golf Club.

In addition to his parents, he was preceded in death by his sister, Kathleen, and brother, Thomas.
He was married in 1949 to Lila
E. Hutchens. She survives. He is also survived by a son, Michael F.
(Kim) Wade of Chelsea; a daughter Catherine (Kirk) Lambdin, of Chelsea; a sister, Agnes (Ellard) Boyntari of Cheboygan; seven grandchildren, Alexa, Blake, Alicia, Brandy, Brandon, Brian and Allen; and many nieces and nephews. He will be greatly missed by his family, friends, and golfing buddies.
A memorial service will be conducted at 11 a.m., Nov. 13, 1999 at Emanuel Lutheran Church in Ludington with the Rev. Wayne
Buskirk officiating.
Memorial contributions may be made to Emanuel Lutheran Church, or Hospice of Michigan for Mason County, with envelopes available at the Dorrell Funeral Home.

LOTIE E. ADAIR
Dexter
Age 98, died Oct. 31, 1999. Lotie was an avid gardener, and member of both the American and Michigan Orchid Societies. She was also a past member of the Dexter Antiquarians and Huron Valley Humane Society, along with the Audubon Society.
She was preceded in death by her husband, Robert W. Adair, and daughter, Lorraine Govaere.
She is survived by two sons,
Robert F. (Florence), and John W.
(Kathleen); nine grandchildren; 17 great-grandchildren, two great-great-grandchildren; two sisters;
and a brother.
Funeral services were held
Nov. 3 in the Hosmer-Muehlgr
Funeral Chapel. Memorial contributions may be made to Individualized Hospice.

Craft show set for Saline High

The 13th annual Saline High school Craft Show has been scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 13, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Saline High School.

Sponsored by the Saline Future Leaders (formerly the High School FHA club) and Community Education, the show features more than 225 crafters from Michigan, Minnesota, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Wisconsin, with a variety of wares and demonstrations.

The show is juried, guaranteeing a large variety of quality items, including clothing, holiday items, dried and silk floral arrangements, quilts, chalk ware, jewelry, folk art, and more. Emilie Polens of Chelsea will be among the crafters at the show.

Free shuttle buses will be available, and patrons are urged to take advantage of the service. Larger crowds tend to attend the show before lunch, and due to crowds, no strollers are allowed.

The show will be set up in the gym, cafeteria and hallways at Saline High School. Refreshments will be available, including homemade German pretzels. Admission is $2.

Garden club examines swag

The Chelsea Evening Primrose Garden Club will be hosting an autumn swag workshop Nov. 10 at 7 p.m. Marlas Greiger, a master gardener from Marlas' Gardens located in Howell will be the presenter. The cost is $10, and members should bring glue guns and scissors. Guests are welcome.

The meeting will be held at the Chelsea Depot, 125 Jackson St., by the train tracks.

There will be a collection taken up to purchase poinsettias for Silver Maples, to be delivered Dec. 8, during the caroling with the Scouts.

Bulldogs beat Saxons at battle of Hastings

By Dirk Fischbach

Editor

It's often said that offense wins games, and defense wins championships. Either way, the Chelsea football team is in pretty good shape.

Relentless offense and timely defense were a potent combination Friday as the Bulldogs defeated an outstanding Hastings team 41-23. Ryan Barwick threw three touchdown passes and plunged over on a QB sneak for a fourth to lead the Chelsea charge.

"Ryan Barwick played as well as any quarterback I've had," said a beaming coach Brad Bush. "Hastings was a very physical team and a quality team. But we did enough to get the job done."

On an evening with weather as perfect as one could hope for in late October, the Bulldog offense was equally flawless. Chelsea punted just two times all night and turned the ball over once on downs as they kept their guests at arm's length for most of the contest.

On the first possession of the game, the 'Dogs used the running and pass catching of Chris Cooper as they took yardage in big hunks. Barwick turned in a gutsy run on a critical fourth and two play, foreshadowing the determined effort that Phil Fishburn would use moments later to bull his way into the end zone. Mike Radka's PAT capped the score and the fans could sense that all cylinders were firing.

The Saxons weren't about to let things slip that easily, though. Riding the athletic talent and poised decision making of QB Tony Bowne, they trimmed the edge to 7-3 late in the period.

The 'Dogs felt the challenge and responded quickly. Using just over a minute, they scored when Barwick found Radka over the middle and the junior running back dodged several defenders and utilized some strong downfield blocking to go 61 yards for the score. Catching his breath, he then nailed the PAT to make it 14-3.

Again, the Hastings bunch rallied, getting a 21-yard TD from Eric Shantz to make it 14-10.

Barwick answered that score with a magnificent drive, fighting off would-be tacklers time and again to complete passes and standing in the pocket to take punishment after delivering his strikes. From the Hastings 31-yard line, the senior signal caller put it between the 3's of Ethan Rendell's jersey, and the wideout scampered across to make it 21-10 at the half.

It was more of the same after the intermission.

Hastings opened with an impressive drive to narrow the gap to 21-17. Chelsea bounced right back, marching the length of the field on the strength of runs by Cory Picklesimer and Cooper, and the aerial show of Barwick to Tony Scheffler. Cooper busted over from short range and Radka's kick re-established the margin at 11, 28-17.

Then, the sequence of punch-counterpunch was broken, as David Stieber stepped in front of a Bowne pass and turned the game solidly to the Bulldogs' favor.

Capitalizing on the first play after the interception, Barwick threw deep to Scheffler who outduelled the defender to come down with the ball, six points, and tournament advancement securely in his grasp. Radka's kick provided the exclamation point, 35-17.

The Saxons gamely fought back to trim the margin to 35-23 midway through the fourth, but the threat was short lived.

Chelsea again used the slash and burn running of Cooper to set up the score, and this time Barwick followed center Andrew McGuire across the stripe to close the scoring at 41-23.

And while some might think that the defense was less than stellar, given Hastings' 308 yards of offense and 23 points, but that is not the case. The Saxons were a veritable juggernaut, with Bowne, Shantz and running back Sean Tefft leading the way.

Several good plays were turned in by Derek Klink, Joe Tripodi, Alan Bairley and Rob Mida — to name a few, and the secondary hit so hard that even the guys on the chain gang were sore.

JV football wraps up season

Mike Sayers, Adam Montero, Zack Miller and Tom Reifel paced the offense and Jeff Walters, Mike Milliken, Joe Koenigter and Chad Hyllested dominated on the defensive side as the JV Bulldogs closed but a 9-0 season with a 34-0 shutout over Jackson Northwest.

The squad posted touchdowns in each quarter, tallying twice in the third stanza, en route to the lopsided victory.

Sayers opened the scoring with a six-yard run, and Montero also hit paydirt in the first half, scoring from 12 yards out. Milliken nailed both PATs to put the team up 14-0 at the intermission.

After the half, Sayers again found a seam, this time scampering 44 yards. Milliken added the kick and the momentum was squarely on the Bulldog side. Miller plunged over from one yard out minutes later to add to the cushion.

When Reifel recorded his TD, any hope the Mounties had disappeared. Milliken's kick put the final tally at 34-0.

Koenigter recorded a pair of fumble recoveries and Derek Horvath and Chad Hyllested grabbed interceptions to provide defensive highlight footage.

"We had a great year going 9-0," coach Mark Scheese said. "I am proud of this team because we never cared about the score, but instead we focused on playing our best game. We knew that if we did that, we would come out on top."

Boy harriers win at regionals

Jeff Kolodica finished third overall highlighting a phenomenal day of running, as the varsity cross country team captured the regional title Saturday at Hudson.

The team victory marks Chelsea's first regional win since 1981, and the school's first regional title in any sport in five years.

"This was our goal all year long," a proud coach Eric

Swager said. "When the pressure was on, they performed like champions."

Along with Kolodica, Nathan Zeigler, 12th at 17:19, and Mike Kattula, 14th at 17:23 earned all-region honors. Kyle Brown at 17:45 and Chad Fortner at 17:59 also cracked the top 25 to round out the Bulldog scoring.

Chelsea finished with 74 points, easily outdistancing

Coldwater (100) and Tecumseh (113).

"We plan on enjoying this week and performing as well as possible at the state championships next week," Swager said. "The Lord's blessing has been with us all year, and his face shone upon us today."

The state meet will be held at Michigan Speedway in Brooklyn Saturday. Competition gets underway at 10:30 a.m.

Varsity girl hoopsters keep eye on league championship

By Colleen O'Neill

Special Writer

The varsity Bulldogs hold a precarious conference lead.

While they boosted their league record with a 54-30 win over Lincoln on Tuesday, they could not hold the momentum on Saturday when they lost to Jackson Northwest by two points.

Head coach Charles Waller had hoped to use that non-conference game as a springboard into the last two weeks of the regular season.

The last two weeks of the season will be tough. The Bulldogs will finish with four conference games, two at home and two away.

Against Lincoln the Bulldogs just progressively went ahead.

Waller noted that Lincoln couldn't knock down enough shots to stay with his squad, despite a spirited effort.

The Railsplitters handled the press really well, but Waller said the main difference was shooting.

Lindsey Brink had an excellent game. She scored 11 points, had five steals, five assists and seven rebounds.

Michelle Dettling scored five baskets, including a three-pointer, and was one-for-one from the free throw line for 12 points. She also grabbed six rebounds. Jenny Diesling also raked in six rebounds and scored 8 points.

Jessie Cole had five baskets for 10 points, while Caitlin Deis and Josie Wells scored four points each and Lindsay Baker scored two. Traci Kern scored one point, and Stacie Boyle hit a pair of shots from the charity stripe.

While the Bulldogs held a half-time lead of 17-13 against Jackson Northwest Saturday they lost 42-40.

"In the third quarter the world caved in," Waller said. "They scored 19 points to our eight. They got hot from the outside and made three three-pointers in that quarter."

They also had success at the foul line.

"We started to reach and grab," Waller said. "They killed us at the foul line."

The Bulldogs only made seven of their 20 free throws while Northwest put in 15 of their 28 from the line. That eight point bulge from the foul line made the difference.

"We did not shoot the ball well from the foul line,"

Waller said. "They did; we lost."

Waller wanted that win on Saturday so his team could go into the final run on a high note.

Tuesday the team hosts Dexter but Thursday must travel to Tecumseh where, Waller said, his team has a hard time winning.

"They are probably the weakest of the contenders but

Football tickets available through H.S. athletic office

Bulldog fans wishing to cheer the team on this Friday can purchase tickets at the Chelsea Athletic Office through 3 p.m. Friday. Kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m.

Traveling to Haslett is done by taking M-52 north to I-96 west. Proceed to the Okemos

HASTINGS

It was just a game where of-fenses were going to rule.

Fortunately, when it came to a gunfight of this magnitude, Chelsea was carrying the .44 magnum.

The "Dogs will need that firepower this week when they travel to Haslett, another potentate that throws up good numbers and plays well on the defensive side of the ball. At 10-0 they will enjoy the home field advantage.

But that's of little consequence to Bush — who will happily travel to keep on playing.

"At this point in the season you just do what you're told and show up," he smiled.

And storm the field when you get there. Good luck, Bulldogs!

VARSITY

we don't play that well there," Waller said. "We're concerned about that game. We'll have to play one of our best road games to win down there.

"Something about that gym," Waller said with a laugh.

But Waller knows that this final run is no laughing matter.

"They are all conference games and all with contenders," Waller said of the last four games of the season.

Chelsea's record is 7-1 in the SEC and 11-4 overall.

Next week will not be any easier when they play Pinckney at home on Tuesday and then travel to Saline on Thursday.

Then post-season begins. If Chelsea can hold its lead and win the conference, they'll have a huge springboard into the state championship series.

Canine blood drive comes to Chelsea site

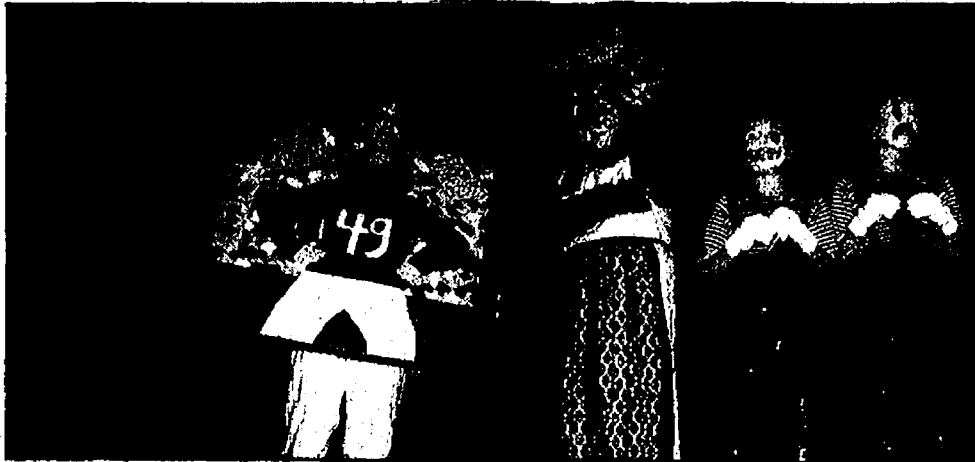

When humans need blood, they call the Red Cross. But where do pets turn when they need a transfusion?

In southeastern Michigan, the group Midwest Animal Blood Services is trying to create a support system of blood products for use in animal emergencies.

Midwest Animal Blood Services will be holding a blood drive in Chelsea on Saturday, Nov. 13, from 1 to 4 p.m. at Chelsea Animal Hospital. To be eligible to have blood drawn, dogs must meet a few simple criteria: they need to be generally healthy, between one- and seven-years-old, up to date on vaccinations and weigh 50 pounds or more.

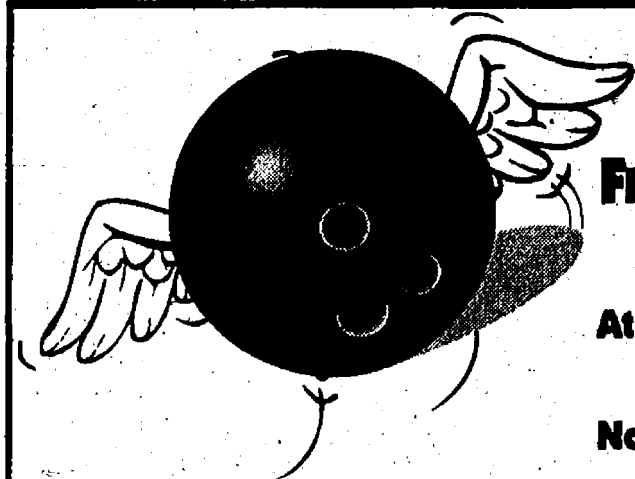

The group takes three vials of blood from each animal, and examines the blood to determine type. If a dog is a "universal" donor, its owner will be asked to allow it to donate blood four times a year. Since only one dog in 15 is a universal donor, many dogs must be screened to create a safe and adequate blood supply.

JV girls back on a roll

By Colleen O'Neill
Special Writer

The Chelsea junior varsity girls' basketball team is back in full form. After ending their losing skid last week, the Bulldogs posted two more wins this week to raise their overall record to 10-5 and their SEC record to 4-4.

"We raised our record with a convincing 42-16 win over Lincoln," Head Coach Paul Terpstra said. "Sally Compton led the team with 13 points and nine rebounds."

The Bulldogs jumped out to a 9-2 first quarter lead and never looked back.

Allison Mann scored 12 points and pulled down 12 rebounds while Audrey Richardson added four points and four steals. Tiffany Dickerson also scored four points while Allison Williams and Tracy Carter both scored three points. Katie Beard rang up two points and Susan Frederick scored one. Connie Kolokithas had a strong defensive game with three steals.

The Bulldogs followed that win with a very physical game against Jackson Northwest on Saturday.

Chelsea overcame 23 turnovers to break open a close game, outscoring the Mounties 12-2 in the fourth quarter to win 45-27.

Mann had an outstanding game with 25 points, seven rebounds and six steals.

Kolokithas continued with great defense by bringing in four rebounds but also added eight points to the scoreboard. Audrey Richardson and Compton both scored four points. Frederick added three and Sheresa Roberson scored one point.

It is hard to imagine that it was a close game when you see a final score, but that is what a strong run late in the game will do for a team.

The team hopes to maintain its winning ways heading into the last two weeks of the season.

All four remaining games are against conference opponents. Chelsea will host Dexter on Tuesday before traveling to Tecumseh on Thursday. Next week is more of the same; as Pinckney comes to town on Tuesday and the Bulldogs will end their season at Saline next Thursday.

A 14-5 season record would be wonderful, but an 8-4 conference mark would be even better.

Local man named distinguished scientist

Two patients with an advanced stage of head and neck cancer receive the same therapy. One patient lives; the other dies.

One of Thomas E. Carey's goals as a research scientist at the University of Michigan is to find ways to help physicians select the best treatments for patients based on the genetic characteristics of their tumor — to allow for organ-sparing therapies whenever possible and to save lives by giving the most effective treatment.

In cases of squamous cell cancer of the head and neck, Carey and his colleagues in the Department of Otorhinolaryngology (ear, nose and throat) and the Laboratory of Cytogenetics at Henry Ford Hospital have discovered a region of genetic loss on chromosome 18 in tumors that are more biologically aggressive and more likely to cause the death of the patient.

His current research on this problem will map the most commonly lost region and identify the gene responsible for rapid tumor progression. The researchers also have identified other genetic changes in tumors that predict who will respond to chemotherapy and radiation and who will require surgery.

For this, for earlier work in the area of cancer immunology, and for his research on autoimmune hearing loss with his colleagues in the Kresge Hearing Research Institute, Carey recently received the highest honor the U-M bestows upon a senior research scientist, the Distinguished Research Scientist Award.

The award recognizes Carey, founder and director of the U-M's Laboratory of Head and Neck Cancer Biology, for "outstanding research; his generosity as a colleague, teacher, and mentor; and his distinguished service to the University and to the fields of otorhinolaryngology and oncology."

Only eight other research scientists have received this award since it was inaugurated in 1989. The award carries with it the prestigious title of Distinguished Research Scientist for the remainder of Carey's U-M career and a $3,000 grant per year for four years. As the Distinguished Research Scientist, he also is invited to give a public lecture.

Carey has studied head and neck cancer for more than 20 years. He is recognized internationally for proving that cultured cells consistently express the characteristic of the tumor from which they are established. Today, the more than 150 cell lines established at the U-M from squamous cell cancers of the head and neck are a valued resource used by scientists around the world.

"Working closely with clinicians and physicians in the Department of Otorhinolaryngology, who often treat patients with advanced stages of head and neck carcinoma, is a constant reminder that more than academic questions are at stake," Carey says.

Early in his career, Carey identified the first human melanoma antigen known to trigger an immune response, which led to the development of cancer vaccines being used today.

Carey, who has been studying hearing loss at the molecular level since 1990, also has made important discoveries regarding hearing losses caused by the body's immune system attacking the hair cells in the inner ear.

Working first with mice and then guinea pigs, Carey created inner ear specific monoclonal antibodies that could cause deafness. He hypothesized that antibodies produced to a similar inner ear protein by an autoimmune disorder similar to lupus or thyroiditis also could cause rapidly progressive deafness in humans. If so, then early detection of such antibodies would allow physicians to objectively employ immunosuppressive drugs before auditory hair cells are damaged and should help preserve hearing in those patients.

His research conducted in collaboration with otolaryngology physicians and other scientists in the Kresge Hearing Research Institute is progressing toward the identification of the protein that is the target of autoimmune damage in humans and should lead to a rapid test for diagnosis and management of autoimmune hearing loss.

Identification of the target protein also is expected to lead to a better understanding of its role in hearing and to new strategies for preventing and treating this type of rapidly progressive deafness.

"Dr. Carey's ability to communicate complex research findings to mixed audiences of scientists and clinicians is one of his special strengths," notes Gregory T. Wolf, professor and chair of the Department of Otolaryngology. "He has been invited to speak all over the world, and he has research collaborations with scientists in multiple countries, including Canada, Sweden, Finland, Germany, The Netherlands, Korea, Japan and Australia."

Born and raised in Utica, N.Y., Carey earned a bachelor's degree in biology from Saint Lawrence University in 1967. Relying solely on an admissions catalog description, he enrolled in a graduate program in medicinal chemistry at the State University of New York at Buffalo. A class about drugs and how they work piqued his interest in biochemical pharmacology, and eventually a course in cancer chemotherapy led him to the field of cancer immunology.

For his Ph.D. thesis, Carey studied the immune response to leukemia in mice. He showed that intermittent therapy schedules were crucial for producing cures since this treatment strategy reduces the tumor burden by first killing tumor cells and then allows the body's natural immune system to respond to the tumor cells and assist with the destruction of the remaining tumor cells. The research showed that without the immune system participation even a doubling or tripling of the therapeutic drug would result in fewer survivors.

While working as a postdoctoral fellow at Sloan-Kettering Institute's Cancer Serology Laboratory, a chance conversation between a Sloan-Kettering colleague and Charles Krause, the then-new chair of otolaryngology at the U-M, led to Carey being hired as a cancer immunologist at Michigan.

"We were living in New York City and couldn't afford to live there any longer on a research associate's salary. We decided it was time to get a job in the real world," Carey recalls.

Carey and his wife, Colleen, a preschool teacher and the director of child care services at Generations Together, an intergenerational daycare center in Dexter, moved to Superior Township, northeast of Ann Arbor, in 1978. There he plunged into township and school district politics and organized a new Jaycee chapter, which under his leadership won honors for being the best first-year chapter in the state in 1979-80.

The Careys have three children: Mike, who works for an Internet company; Roberta, who recently graduated from the U-M in film and video studies; and Peter, a junior at Michigan State University.

Today, 60-hour work weeks directing research funded by four National Institutes of Health (NIH) grants, a technology grant from the Medical School and private funds that support autoimmune hearing loss research leave little time for community organizations or politics.

In addition to his own research, Carey supervises the research of eight to 10 undergraduate and medical students and postdoctoral fellows, lectures to clinicians and other researchers, writes and reviews journal articles, and reviews NIH grant proposals.

Carey says his greatest satisfaction comes from seeing students succeed. Overall, he has trained more than 50 undergraduate students, 35 postdoctoral scholars, 36 medical students and residents, 17 graduate students, as well as high school students and teachers. Many of his trainees are teaching in medical schools or have become independent researchers.

Carey champions the U-M's award-winning Undergraduate Research Opportunity Program (UROP), in which undergraduate students work one-on-one with faculty mentors. Each year two or three UROP students work in his laboratory.

"UROP is one of the best programs ever developed for undergraduates. It is an opportunity for students to gain real life research experiences, which help them tremendously in finding what they want to do. This is critically important."

Being a UROP mentor, as well as a mentor in the medical school's Student Biomedical Research Program, gives Carey "an opportunity to work with some incredibly bright students who are enthusiastic and want to learn," he says.

Katherine Tang, a junior majoring in biomicrobiology, has been working 10-15 hours a week in Carey's laboratory since her first year at the U-M. She describes her work purifying antibodies as "challenging but also very educational."

Dr. Carey definitely stimulates you to work really hard, to try your best. He wants you to do well for your own educational benefit," says Tang, who comes from East Brunswick, N.J., and who wants to be a physician.

Kristen Yeom, a third-year student at the medical school, also has worked with Carey on projects related to autoimmune hearing loss.

"When I began, I knew nothing. It is the best possible experience I could have, with a lot of hands-on learning. Dr. Carey is really supportive. One of the best teachers I've had," says Yeom, who would like to be a clinical physician and researcher.

In addition to training students in research techniques, Carey welcomes them into the scientific community. Convinced that one good idea leads to a hundred new ideas, Carey says, "It really is important to be open. Every time you give, you get more than you gave. Colleagues and students want to work with you. You build a basis for mutual trust."

"Some people tend to hold back ideas, waiting until all the data is in and published. They worry that others will get credit for their ideas. I personally believe it would be a sin of pride to think you could really solve something all on your own. The best successes come from sharing ideas. The goal of the scientific community is to understand mechanisms and what is happening," Carey says.

He is especially excited about the University's Life Sciences Initiative and its potential to increase opportunities for scientists with common goals and interests to work together.

Looking back on his career, the U-M's newest Distinguished Research Scientist says, "Michigan has been a good place to work. I've had a supportive department, colleagues and departmental chair. People here have helped me tremendously."

Pain not Osgood-Schlatter's disease

FAMILY MEDICINE

Question: I was diagnosed with Osgood-Schlatter's disease when I was 15. The doctor told me that it would be "O.K." if I stayed inactive for a while. Of course I went to school, mowed the grass, and did other things I had to do, but I stopped playing sports and doing other vigorous physical activity. I am 18 now, and I have been able to resume playing sports, including practicing the martial arts. But the Osgood-Schlatter's disease left a bump on my leg, and the other day I hit the bump very solidly. It has been unbelievably painful for the last three days. Is there a cure or a surgery for Osgood-Schlatter's disease? Will I be able to play sports after any surgery?

Answer: As your personal story illustrates, adolescent athletes are prone to develop Osgood-Schlatter's disease. It affects male and female athletes about equally, and 20 to 30 percent of afflicted individuals develop it in both knees.

Before looking at the specifics of your situation, I think a little background information would enhance your understanding of this disorder.

I'm sure that you remember from high school health class that muscles only pull — they do not push. Therefore, the knee is straightened by the powerful pull from muscles on the top of the leg.

There are actually four of these that are actually four of these that are collectively called the quadriceps femoris muscles, or "quads" for short. The tendons of these muscles join together and attach into the upper surface of the kneecap (patella). Another tendon extends from the lower portion of the kneecap and attaches to the lower leg bone called the tibia.

This complex arrangement allows the muscles to repeatedly straighten out the knee joint without wearing out the knee or tendons associated with it.

Osgood-Schlatter's disease is the direct result of repeated small injuries (micro-trauma) to the place where the tendon from the kneecap attaches to the lower leg bone.

In an active young person, this spot (the tibial tuberosity) is subjected to a great deal of microtrauma from many forceful extensions of the leg. The growing bone reacts to the trauma by increasing in size. This produces a swollen and tender "bump" at the tibial tuberosity. The area is made more painful by running, going downstairs, or by any direct pressure on it.

Treatment usually only requires reducing the stress on the area — no sports, no bicycles, no running. This sounds like what you did. Occasionally, individuals with a very sore knee (or knees) may need to wear a knee brace for a few weeks to start the healing process. Physical therapy to stretch and tone the leg muscles is started after the acute pain has subsided. Most are back to full activities, including sports, in six months.

Some individuals have persistent pain despite rest and physical therapy. In these situations surgery can be of some benefit, but it can't be done until the individual — and his or her leg bone — has stopped growing.

Having an enlarged tibial tubercle that forms a conspicuous bump when the knee is bent is not a reason for surgery. This bump is the consequence of the tibia responding to the repeated micro-trauma. By adulthood it becomes solid bone and will be there forever.

Your recent episode of pain may be due to bruising that new "extra bump" of bone caused by the Osgood-Schlatter's disease. You could also have damaged one of the tendons, bursae or even put a crack in the bone. Your current pain is not directly due to Osgood-Schlatter's disease. You need to see your doctor.

Michigan Streams and Lakes

Stream MAP of Michigan

Why every fisherman needs this map

It is estimated that 10% of all the fishermen catch 90% of the fish. Regardless of which group you fall into... there's a sure way to up your odds... simply try new fishing waters. Fish where few fishermen ever fish.

Michigan is loaded with great fishing waters...many of them overlooked. From the AuSable River to all of the Great Lakes tributaries to the Pere Marquette River...thousands of miles of streams, lakes and rivers are now easy-to-locate on one map.

Professor Higbee's Stream Map of Michigan is the first and only highly detailed map of its kind. This new 4 foot by 4 foot color map shows virtually all of the 35,000 miles of Michigan streams & lakes on both peninsulas. That's almost two times the earth's circumference!

RAVE REVIEWS

"It is amazingly detailed and names some creeks in the Mohawk Valley that can't even be found on topographic maps."

John Pitarres
OBSERVER-DISPATCH-Utica

"If you're looking for the most definitive maps ever created depicting every single creek, river, stream, pond and lake... then 'Professor Higbee's Stream Maps' are without question the finest."

Howard Brant
THE NEWARK STAR-LEDGER

"It is in showing where to find out-of-the-way trout streams that makes the map such a treasure to the fisherman."

Joe Gordon
TRIBUNE-DEMOCRAT-Johnstown

FREE LOCATION GUIDEBOOK INCLUDED

Pinpoint the best fishing in Michigan with this valuable 40 page guide. Easily locate over 5,000 streams and lakes shown on the "Stream Map." Your map and guidebook will take you to the top 443 fishing waters - select waters for 14 species of gamefish.

He said he had drafted a letter to the DEQ requesting explanations for the identified changes from the Village's last permit. He stated that these changes would have a significant impact on the Village.

He requested that the DEQ remove the 7.5 maximum limit for loading. He said he suspected that that had been put in because of the request from the Village to increase the flow. He also said that "time has caught up" with Chelsea since our last permit expired in 1988.

In response to a question from Trustee Ortring, he said that there was not a time limit on signing the permit. He explained that he would send the letter to the DEQ tomorrow and that they would respond in two to four weeks.

He also explained the right to contest the requirements of the permit. He said that what had to be taken into consideration was whether the changes are reasonable considering the length of time which has elapsed since the last permit expired 12 years ago. He also said that the cost of contesting the requirements of the permit would be considerable.

Discussion followed regarding selling shares of the flow capacity to other municipalities to help cover the cost of a new Water Treatment Plant which will be needed to meet the requirements of the permit.

President Steele asked B. Roberts to provide M. Zimmerman with the information we had received from the DEQ and McNamee, Porter & Sealey.

A request had been received from the Huron River Watershed Council for $2,000 from each point source partner to meet its financial obligations.

Motion by Trustee Hammer, seconded by Trustee Myles, to notify the Huron River Watershed Council that there are no monies in the current budget year, but that the request will be considered for the next budget year. 5 Ayes, 0 Nays, 2 Absent. Motion carried.

A letter of resignation for the post of delegate to the Chelsea Area Fire Authority was received from Trustee Myles.

Motion by Trustee Ortring, seconded by Trustee Cashman to appoint Trustee Hammer as delegate to the Chelsea Area Fire Authority and C. Ritter as alternate to the Chelsea Area Fire Authority. 4 Ayes (Trustees Cashman, Myles, Ortring and President Steele), 1 Nays, 1 Abstention (Trustee Hammer), 2 Absent. Motion carried.

Discussion of sewer and water connections (Sylvan Township) followed. It was decided that more information was required and that a formalized letter to Sylvan Township would be added to the agenda for the October 26, 1999, regular meeting of the Council.

Motion by Trustee Cashman, seconded by Trustee Ortring to adjourn the meeting. 5 Ayes, 0 Nays, 2 Absent. Motion carried.

The meeting was adjourned at 6:27 p.m.

Frances E. Zatorski, Clerk

VILLAGE OF CHELSEA

REGULAR COUNCIL MEETING — TUES., OCTOBER 12, 1999

Present: President Steele, Clerk Zatorski, Village Manager Myers

Trustees Present: Cashman, Hammer, Myles, Ortring and Rauschenberger

Trustees Absent: MacLeod

Others Present: C. Ritter, D. Kaminsky, B. Roberts, P. Higgins, W. Bolt, M. Heydlauf, M. Oesterle, L. Duling, C. Ritter, P. Merkel, G. Adams, A. Valle, V. Murdock, A. McGuire, D. Snell, B. Weber, J. Silver, G. Palmer, A. Malvedis, W. McCracken

President Steele called the meeting to order at 7:32 p.m.

Motion by Trustee Hammer, seconded by Trustee Ortring to approve the Consent Agenda. 6 Ayes, 0 Nays, 1 Absent. Motion carried.

Motion by Trustee Hammer, seconded by Trustee Myles that the Regular Agenda be approved with the following changes:

Audience Participation: Reserved time: D. Kaminsky, C. Ritter

Communications to Council:

1. Uniform Traffic Code (Action to be taken at next Council Meeting),

National Red Ribbon

2. Campaign Week Proclamation.

3. Monday & Tuesday Freer Road Shutdown

Unfinished Business: 1. DEQ Huron River Watershed Agreement.

Other Unfinished Business: 5. A. Meeting for Priorities

Other New Business: 3. A. Alternate to Chelsea Area Fire Authority.

Motion by Trustee Hammer, seconded by Trustee Myles to approve the Regular Agenda as amended. 6 Ayes, 0 Nays, 1 Absent. Motion carried.

President Steele opened the Audience Participation portion of the meeting.

C. Ritter said that the election results showed that the Village of Chelsea was overwhelmingly against the Fire Authority. He said that during a telephone conversation with Trustee Myles it had been stated that he had removed some papers from the fire station. Mr. Ritter said that he had not taken anything out of the fire station.

Trustee Myles had also told him that he would request that he be removed ad alternate to the Fire Authority because he had requested at three regular meetings that Chelsea remove itself from the Fire Authority. Mr. Ritter said that tonight would be the fourth time. He said if the Council wished to remove him it was up to them, but he would still be vocal on the fact that he thought the Village should not be a part of the Fire Authority.

D. Kaminsky, the Village representative to the Library Board, presented a letter requesting that he be appointed as Village Trustee to the Library Board when the terms of office for the two present representatives expire on December 31, 1999. He read a letter presented to the Council stating his qualifications.

As his second point, Mr. Kaminsky said he wanted to report to the Council as a Trustee of the Library Board regarding the recent election. He said the passage of the 1.7 mil for the operating funds for the library established the District Library as an entity. He said because the bond issue did not pass it left them with a building that is not handicapped accessible nor is it convenient for the senior citizen. He said that the Library Board had met last Saturday and will meet again on Saturday, October 16, 1999 to assess what needs to be done.

He said that as things progress communication with the Village Council will be increased. He said that he felt this was one of the reasons that at least three members of the Council did not support the bond issue.

In response to a question from Trustee Cashman regarding the 1.7 mil. issue that passed, Mr. Kaminsky said that the Library Board is setting up a budget and that once that is done only the portion of the millage needed to support that budget would be collected.

Trustee Cashman asked J. Myers what the process would be in collecting the millage from the citizens. Mr. Myers said that he had spoken with the Village accountant, as well as the librarian and there will be a sum of money, probably six months because it is overlapping. What needs to be worked out are the logistics on how to take care of those dollars to get them back to the residents or possibly reduce the millage in the next budget year to refund those monies.

Trustee Rauschenberger said that she agreed that there needed to be more communication between the Library Board and the Village Council. She also asked why the Village representation on the Library Board was going from two to one. Mr. Kaminsky said that the Board was going from eight members to seven members. One member from each municipality and 2 at-large members. He said originally Lima and Lyndon Townships were not a part of the District Library and so there were two members from each municipality and 2 at-large members.

Trustee Ortring asked how the vacancies for the Library Board would be advertised. President Steele said that an advertisement would be placed in the Chelsea Standard and Mr. Kaminsky said that a notice would also appear on the Library bulletin board, because people who are interested in the Library are people who use the Library.

In response to a question, D. Kaminsky said that the Library Board meets the second and fourth Tuesdays of the month at 7:00 p.m. at White Oaks.

Trustee Myles said that he would like to respond to Mr. Ritter's statement regarding Trustee Myles actions last week. He said that he was a liaison to the officers of the Fire Department and he said that an issue came up at the last meeting where some of the officers believed that Mr. Ritter received some information in reports from the Fire Department without authorization. Trustee Myles called Mr. Ritter regarding this to get his side and Mr. Ritter said that he did not receive any information from the Fire Department nor was he given any information in the way of written reports. So in no way was he ever accused of doing that by Trustee Myles.

President Steele closed the audience participation portion of the meeting.

V. Murdock of Knepp Advisory Services, gave a short presentation on Y2K preparedness. She said that the Village was doing very well in that area. She also said there would be a presentation on November 6, 1999, at the fire station.

G. Adams, Lima Township Supervisor, asked that the Village Council support the Twelfth Annual National Red Ribbon Campaign. He said it will be held this year during the week of October 23-31. The campaign uses red ribbons in the community to symbolize a united and visible commitment to a drug free community and support of drug free youth.

Motion by Trustee Hammer, seconded by Trustee Ortring to adopt the Proclamation for National Red Ribbon Week. 6 Ayes, 0 Nays, 1 Absent. Motion carried.

Trustee Rauschenberger said that the Library Board would be meeting on Saturday, October 16, 1999.

President Steele reported that more than 100 people attended the Traffic Committee Open House at Sylvan Township Hall on Monday, October 11, 1999. He said the meeting comments from those present would be used by the committee in their considerations regarding the by-pass.

President Steele said that another open house was tentatively scheduled for November 11, 1999 and that a notice would go out when the schedule was set.

B. Roberts reported on the Freer Road closing for installation of a new culvert under Freer Road north of Washington Street.

W. McCracken, A. Malvedis, L. Duling and D. Snell were present from DEQ to present the requirements for the Middle Huron Agreement for voluntary Reduction of Phosphorus Loading to the Middle Huron Watershed. The Agreement is an experiment in voluntary pollution control. W. McCracken, Chief of the Permit Section of the DEQ explained the difference between point source and non-point source pollution. The agreement would be for a period of five years and would require monitoring and a semi-annual meeting to review the progress of the voluntary pollution control. No action was required.

Motion by Trustee Hammer, seconded by Trustee Cashman to remove from the table the Report from Midwest Environmental Consultants, Inc. of Michigan. 6 Ayes, 0 Nays, 1 Absent. Motion carried.

W. Bolt gave an update on the Midwest Consulting Report.

Motion by Trustee Hammer, seconded by Trustee Cashman to proceed with additional testing at a cost not to exceed $500.00. 5 Ayes, 0 Nays, 2 Absent (Trustee Ortring had stepped out of the room). Motion carried.

Motion by Trustee Hammer, seconded by Trustee Cashman to remove from the table the Fire Authority Agreement. 5 Ayes, 0 Nays, 2 Absent (Trustee Ortring was out of the room). Motion carried.

State rep. receives award

State Rep. John Hansen (D-Dexter) extended an educational tour of the State Capitol to leaders of the Michigan Chiropractic Society's (MCS) 2nd District Oct. 21. Hansen was presented with the MCS's "Amicus Award" in recognition of his friendship, support and courtesy to the MCS through his service as a public official.

The event capped a major legislative victory during the day for the MCS with the state Senate's passage of HB 4354, a measure to increase the felony penalty to 15 years in prison and/or $10,000 fine against an unlicensed individual found guilty of practicing as a licensed health professional.

Hansen was one of the many legislators who supported the bill. The measure now goes to the governor, who is expected to sign it into law.

"With the passage of major health consumer protection legislation supported by the MCS taking place the same day as our event honoring Rep. Hansen, it was even more significant for our leadership," said Dexter resident Dr. T.J. Spencer, president of District 2, MCS, who was joined by 12 other chiropractic leaders.

Dr. Kirk Lee, chairman of MCS Governmental Relations, said, "Health professionals undergo extensive training and must meet rigorous standards to be allowed to treat health consumers in Michigan. For anyone to purposefully mislead the public about their credentials and training and, then to practice, hurts everyone — health consumers and health professionals alike. That is why the MCS fought to make the bill better for everyone."

"The MCS worked with Rep. Jennifer Faunce (R-Warren), chairwoman of the House Committee on Criminal Law and Corrections, to amend the bill to include protections against those who would impersonate and practice in any licensed or registered health profession. We're pleased that the senate maintained that language and passed the bill overwhelmingly," Lee said.

HB 4354 amends the Penal Code (MCL 750.217d) to make it a felony for an individual to falsely claim to be and practice as a licensed health professional. Any individual who intentionally and falsely claimed to be a licensed or registered health professional and provided any treatment, procedure, or service that was regulated under the Public Health Code would be guilty of a felony. The felony would be punishable by imprisonment for up to 15 years, a fine of $10,000, or both.

The bill was originally introduced by Rep. Robert Gosselin (R-Troy) to protect the public from those who would impersonate an allopathic or osteopathic physician. It was based on a case in Oakland County where someone had falsified his medical and education credentials and was practicing medical surgery. The individual had never even completed an undergraduate degree.

New laws affect repeat offenders

Secretary of State Candice S. Miller reported that as of Oct. 27, 1,361 license plates have been confiscated since Michigan's tough new repeat offender laws went into effect Oct. 1.

"It's staggering to think that in the routine course of patrolling our roadways, law enforcement officers are confiscating, on average, 52 license plates every day," Miller said. "In each instance the driver was either arrested for a second alcohol offense or for driving while license suspended at least a third time.

"This substantiates our concern that repeat offenders pose a clear and present danger and that these tough new laws were needed to keep repeat offenders off our roadways," Miller added.

Miller noted that just 1 to 2 percent of Michigan's nearly 7 million licensed drivers have a driving history that could make them subject to these new laws, should they be arrested again of drunken driving or driving while license suspended.

While the drivers were given paper license plates so vehicles can be driven by sober, valid licensed drivers while cases are pending, courts will order the vehicles immobilized for three months to three years, depending on the conviction the driver ultimately receives and the history on the driver's record.

Miller noted that under the repeat offender laws, her department has ordered ignition interlock devices for 135 revoked drivers who have been approved for re-licensing. Ignition interlock requires a driver to be alcohol free to start a vehicle and requires continued monitoring while the vehicle is in use.

Repeat offenders are drivers with two or more alcohol-related convictions within seven years; three or more convictions for driving while suspended or revoked in seven years; or, drivers with three or more alcohol-related convictions within 10 years.
