Council addresses construction woes

■ Main Street paving complete except for some intersections.

By Kent Walton
Special Writer

Chelsea drivers and downtown businesses are starting to see light at the end of the construction tunnel.

Paving on Main Street was completed Saturday with the final phase up to Sibley Road ending several months of construction work, delays and detours.

A project that was originally supposed to end in August dragged on into the fall to the dismay of local motorists and merchants.

Village Manager Jack Myers said

Tuesday that Main Street is complete except for a few intersections that require a final driving surface of asphalt, such as South and Main, and Pierce and Main streets. They were to be completed this week, he said.

Myers also said that the west end of Lincoln Street near Grant is to be completed. Although a base coat of gravel was laid, paving work was rained out earlier.

Workers moved into side streets such as Madison, Dewey and Van Buren earlier this week.

Michael Harvey, vice president of Tetra Tech, was on the hot seat last week at the Village Council meeting as local officials grilled him about the slow progress on the water main construction project. Trustees complained about the length of the project and lack of information.

Harvey, who has been a consultant to the council, said there have been problems, but some were not the fault of the contractor, TCI. He said many resulted from delays with subcontractors and poor weather conditions.

Trustees Jim Myles, Janice Orbring and Charles Ritter questioned the state of the lawn extensions on Main and other streets, where work was performed. Harvey said the lawn extensions could be landscaped and re-seeded through mid-October.

Responding to questions related to the slow progress on the replacement of brickwork on sidewalks and road conditions, Harvey said that he would put pressure on the contractor to complete sidewalk construction. He also said he would ask that holes get filled in roads that were torn up during the project.

Trustee Cheri Albertson complained that the entire contract has been handled poorly and there are issues of accountability that needed to be addressed.

Orbring also stressed that the council needs to be accountable for the money being spent on the project. She said she sees major problems in the relationship between the village and Tetra Tech.

Harvey agreed to bring the council's complaints up with the contractor at their weekly meetings.

School board OKs 2002 millage rates

The Chelsea school board Sept. 23 approved the 2002 millage rates, set at 18 mills for non-homesite operating millage, 7 mills for debt mills and 9701 mills for the sinking-fund levy, which was approved in June 1997.

The school district collects 100 percent of the school levy on the winter tax bill. These are sent out by the townships Dec. 1 and are due by Feb. 28.

Commission to write city charter

■ Voters will elect 9 residents Jan. 21.

By Sheila Pursglove
Associate Editor

Wanted: Nine men or women to serve on Chelsea's Charter Commission. Their job, open to any registered voter within the incorporated area, would be to write a charter for the new city.

Voters will have their say on the makeup of the charter commission in an election tentatively set for Jan. 21. Village Clerk Jill Branson said Monday that she's waiting for filing requirements and deadlines from Washtenaw County.

The commission will have 90 days to write a proposed city charter and send it to the governor for approval before voters get their turn in a referendum.

If voters give it the thumbs up, Chelsea would become the fifth city in Washtenaw County, joining the ranks of Milan, Saline, Ypsilanti and Ann Arbor.

Village President Richard Steele said Monday that this is "a very exciting time for the village and for the people within this community."

"Pretty soon we'll be electing our charter commission, and their charge will be to write a charter with which we'll operate for many, many years," Steele said.

"I think it's a fantastic time to be involved, or want to be involved, in village and city government because of the changes that will be happening."

The long and sometimes rocky road to cityhood began in 1992. At the urging of Village Manager Jack Myers, the Village Council appointed the Chelsea City Study Committee headed by Jack

Fire authority bills student, widow

■ Clerk questions costs to township for fire response.

By Michael Rybka
Special Writer

A college student from China and a widow in Lima Township say bills that they received from the Chelsea Area Fire Authority are breaking their bank accounts.

Appeals by Haitian Gao and Joanne Waller were both denied by the Chelsea Area Fire Authority Board Sept. 25.

Gao, a student at the University of Illinois in Chicago, was involved in a car crash on Interstate 94 near the M-52 interchange June 1. He wrote the board that he was returning to Chicago in his 1991 Honda Accord after a three-day visit with friends in Detroit when the crash occurred.

Gao said "a homeless guy" appeared out of nowhere and started crossing the highway. A report from the fire authority said that in trying to avoid the pedestrian, Gao's front end hit a moving semi-trailer.

The report said a pedestrian was grazed and Gao and his two passengers declined medical treatment.

There was no mention in the report as to the pedestrian's identity.

With 16 firefighters arriving at the scene, the cost of the response totaled $900. There was also a $100 administration fee.

Gao was asked to cover one-twelfth of the costs for general clean up and one-half of the administrative fee for a total of $132.50.

In writing, Gao threw himself at the mercy of the board pleading hardship. He said he came to the United States on borrowed money and his only possession of value was his car, which was destroyed in the crash.

The student said his minimal insurance probably would not cover the car repairs and he said he can't recoup his losses from the person who caused the accident.

Moreover, Gao said he had to pay $80 to Smith's Towing to remove his damaged car from the roadway.

Tobacco giant to set up tent in Chelsea

■ Appraisal offer is a marketing attempt to attract brand loyalty.

By Sheila Pursglove
and Allison Marable
Heritage Newspapers

A tent isn't the only thing being raised in Chelsea this week.

Several eyebrows are being raised at the sight of a Philip Morris Co. sponsored tobacco tent being put up for this weekend's Chelsea Antiques Fair.

Ken McCalla, president of the Chelsea Community Fair Board, said Tuesday that the antiques show is a family event and the Fair Board does not endorse the tobacco company's promotional event.

"We're not very happy," he said. The company is offering "Basic's Antique and Appraisal Fest," a free antiques appraisal of two items for cigarette smokers ages 21 and older. Participants may also bring guests, who must also meet age requirements but can be nonsmokers.

A large ad published in the Ann Arbor and Detroit-area newspapers invites interested people to call and register for the company's appraisals.

McCalla said Mike Ottgen, organizer of the antiques show, asked permission for a tent offering appraisals. The specifics of the tent were never disclosed, McCalla said.

The Fair Board, alerted by a concerned resident Tuesday, planned to discuss the issue yesterday and go over rules for the event. McCalla said such rules may address no cigarette advertising banners, no handing out of free cigarettes and removing the restriction the company has imposed for nonsmokers as related to the promotional tent.

McCalla said he is concerned that there is a potential for local vendors who sell food and beverages at the antiques show to lose money while in competition with offerings at the premotional tent.

Billy Abshaw, spokesperson for the Philip Morris Co., said the Basic's Antique and Appraisal Fest is designed to build brand awareness of the company's Basic cigarettes with adult smokers. Participants must be 21 years old or older, produce government-issued ID and certify that they are smokers on a survey.

The antiques appraisal event is new this year, Abshaw said, and has hit markets across the country. The event kicked off six months ago in Nashville.

Participants will find refreshments, games of chance, appraisals and a gazebo in the tent, he said. The tent also will include a smoking area where cigarettes can be purchased, but will not be given out for free.

The tent will be decorated to look like a village, with a mayor who sings and plays the banjo and violin.

Otgen said he thinks including the tobacco company at the antiques show is a savvy promotional strategy. He said he has received calls from new customers who never knew about the Chelsea Antique Show before seeing the newspaper ads paid for by the Philip Morris Co.

"There is no reason in the world for anyone to have a negative response," he said.

"The reason I did it was to promote the show and help the dealers. We can get an extra 2,000 people and free advertising. That doesn't happen too often," he said.

Otgen said the Philip Morris Co. will bring a great deal of money into the community.

"Their employees are eating meals in Chelsea restaurants, buying gas at local stations and staying in the new hotels," he said.

Pierce Lake Elementary School Principal Lucy Stieber has a different take on it. She said Tuesday that she finds the idea "appalling."

"I would hope our community cares more for its children than a profit and sets a positive example for children by not allowing Philip Morris to use an antique fair as a setting for adults to be a poor role model for children," she said.

Stieber said the school district works cooperatively with the Chelsea Police Department to alert students to the dangers of addictive substances, including tobacco.

Dawn Dault, a member of the Chelsea Community

Family Network, said the idea is "completely absurd." She said she is shocked that no one told the organization about the event in advance of the newspaper calling her for comment.

Dault said the smoking requirement to enter the tent sends a message to kids that smokers are part of the "in crowd."

"My kids' health is more important than bringing their money into the community," she said.

Chelsea Community Hospital Marketing Director Becky Pazkowski said Tuesday that Philip Morris' participation sends the wrong message to the community.

"There are so many reasons that having them there is wrong," Pazkowski said of the Basic's Antiques Fest.

"What kind of parents or grandparents are we if we promote cigarette smoking at public events?"

Pazkowski said statistics from the Michigan Hospitals Association show that 34 percent of Michigan high school students smoke cigarettes and more than 220,000 Michigan children are smoking. This year, some 15,000 Michigan adults will die as a result of tobacco, she said.

Fire authority may have to comply

■ New substation doesn't meet ADA requirement.

By Michael Rybka
Special Writer

As the Chelsea Area Fire Authority settles into its leased mobile substation in Waterloo Township, unexpected expenses may be an unwelcome housewarming gift.

Waterloo Township Board Trustee Ron Beyer said at the Sept. 25 meeting of the Chelsea Area Fire Authority that a handicapped ramp may be needed to comply with the Americans With Disabilities Act at a cost of some $2,200.

Officials think a ramp might have to be installed for the bathroom, as well.

Lyndon Township Supervisor Maryann Noah, a member of the Fire Board, asked why a mobile office on wheels would fall under the law. Beyer said the office could be used for the next two years.

Noah said the Fire Board should consult with an attorney before moving forward with the expense.

Fire Inspector Matt Tuttle said on Monday that mobile ramps could be leased for $30 a month.

The Chelsea Area Fire Authority was asked by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources to vacate its Maute Road substation by Aug. 5. A mobile office was chosen for its new location across the road.

The Fire Board also addressed other issues.

Fire Board member Charles Ritter said Chelsea Village Council wants a rental agreement worked out between the village and the Fire Board for the use of the fire station on Middle Street.

Ritter, who also sits on the council, said that until action is taken, he would not vote to approve any more spending by the fire authority.

Noah reacted with surprise at his comments. "That was never thought about (and) never conceived," she said.

Fire Board Chairman Andy Adrian said that consideration should be given to the fact that the fire authority has maintained the station and made improvements.

"That's what you do when you lease," Ritter said.

No action was taken on the matter.

The board also discussed the special meeting it had with participating municipalities Sept. 18.

At that meeting, Kalamazoo Township Fire Marshall Ron Farr explained why an inspection form and an inspection ordinance are needed for businesses.

Sylvan Township Clerk LuAnn Koch, as a public participant, said that she has sought a legal opinion on the matter. She was told that the definition of a business should be written into the ordinance rather than in the standards of operation document so it couldn't be legally challenged.

Adrian said the Fire Board will consider her point.

Ritter said he was instructed by the village to vote against the ordinance when it comes up. He said the Village Council is not interested in any more ordinances.

Ritter also said that he and the council felt "hood-winked" when it was discovered that a resolution that they thought pertained only to fire billing also allows for the fire authority to charge for inspections whether an ordinance is accepted by a municipality or not.

Adrian said Ritter had attended the meetings where the matter was discussed plainly.

A vote on the issue was postponed.

Developer proposes condominiums

■ Sylvan planners looking at 198 units.

By Michael Rybka
Special Writer

Developer Rene Papo of Magellan Properties has announced his plans for a 25-acre, 198-unit condominium project west of the Arctic Coliseum on Coliseum Drive.

The development, to be called Sylvan Heights, will consist of 112 two-story townhouse units and 86 single-story ranch units. It was unveiled last week at the Sylvan Township Planning Commission meeting.

Every unit will consist of two bedrooms and two baths. Second-story units will have terraces, while ground-level units will have patios. None of the units will have basements.

Each home will be allotted a reserved carport parking space. There will be no garages.

Peilemeyer Drive and the proposed M-52 bypass, which would extend Commerce Drive westward, will access it to the south.

Papo estimated that the eight-unit, 1,075-square-foot townhouses would be priced in the range of $125,000 to $145,000, while the single ranch units would sell between $145,000 and $165,000.

Papo said the homes would require five percent down and would cost approximately $1,000 a month.

A condominium association will be formed that Papo said would require $85 a month in membership dues.

Commissioner Pat Merkel asked Papo if people would be willing to pay that much for homes without basement storage space or garages.

Papo said that to add two-car garages would have cut the density in half and, together with basements, would push the price of the units over $200,000.

Papo said that he and his associates looked at condominium developments across the state before finding suitable architectural models to emulate at Fieldstone Village in Bellevue.

"After looking at demographics, I decided to go for the middle of the market," Papo said.

Papo said the new units would be much more affordable than his Pierce Lake condominiums, which sell for $225,000.

Papo's project will be scrutinized at a public hearing Oct. 24 at Sylvan Township Hall.

If all goes well, he said construction would begin March 1, with the entire project being built in the next three years.

In another matter, the commission voted to recommend the Township Board end a moratorium on allowing cellular towers.

The commission plans to write an ordinance and define acceptable locations, as well as other criteria.

Fire station open house set for Oct. 13

The Chelsea Area Fire Authority will hold its open house from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Oct. 13 at the station on West Middle Street. The event is slated to feature a National Fire Protection Association tour of the facility and vehicles, equipment demonstrations, a demonstration on how to extinguish a stove fire, and a demonstration by the vehicle extrication team.

Understanding The Law

with Leonard K. Kitchen, J.D. and Thomas L. Stringer, J.D.

CROSSING THE LINE

It sometimes happens that a driver will be involved in a vehicular accident after having crossed state lines. While state laws pertaining to accidents may differ, the basic rule of thumb is that the law of the state in which the accident occurs applies. While the location of the accident may change some of the rules to be followed, it will not affect the insurance coverage. Regardless of where the accident happened, an insurance company must honor valid claims against its insured. With this in mind, a state with mandatory no-fault vehicle insurance cannot force a no-fault settlement onto a visitor. Since visitors do not have the state's insurance protection, they are free to present a claim for full compensation.

It's bad enough to get a ticket while traveling out of state. Being involved in an accident while not on your "home turf" can be very stressful situation. Thus, it's not a bad idea to keep the number of your attorney on your person or in your car with the registration to ensure that you have access to legal advice and assistance. If you don't have an attorney that you can contact in an emergency, why not call the LAW OFFICES OF KITCHEN & STRINGER, J.D., at 426-4695 to schedule a free consultation. We are a full service law firm located in Dexter, at 3249 Broad St.

HINT: Most liability claims are settled without the opposing parties ever having to step into a courtroom.

Candidates for the 18th District Senate, Republican Gordon Darr of Scio Township, Democrat Liz Brater of Ann Arbor Township and Green Party nominee Elliott

Smith of Ypsilanti will follow.

Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce President Ric Sauer will moderate. A committee composed of board members from both chambers will create questions.

Candidates will each have the same amount of time to answer each question. They will also be given time for opening and closing statements.

Written questions will be solicited from the audience and screened by chamber representatives.

The event is free and open to the public.

"I see this as a good opportunity for the public to learn more about the candidates in

Improvements to software have been made, including classroom management utilities and security software.

Wooster said his team is researching various types of software that have the potential to enhance teaching and learning. He also said his team is working with teachers to help them get started using technology in the classroom.

A feasibility study of a pilot laptop program for sixth-grade students continues. Wooster said the results should be released in the coming months.

Wooster said the school district is applying for a competitive grant from the state to be used for one-to-one access to wireless computing in schools. Recipients will be notified by Oct. 31.

As part of the program, called "Learning Without Limits," individual schools, school districts and consortiums may apply to be one of five demonstration sites to implement one-to-one learning with wireless technology.

Each award winner will receive up to $2 million to implement the program. The program also includes up to 10 grants for as much as $100,000 for program application sites to expand the wireless technology and assist schools that have already started wireless programs.

The First
The Best
The #1 Gutter
Protection System
In the World.

HOW IT WORKS

Gutter Helmet is a multi-patented, closed system that keeps your gutters free-flowing.

1. The patented flow-limiting, ribbed design slows and spreads water as it nears the gutter.
2. Rainwater is directed around the nose and into the gutter by the simple physical law of surface tension, the same principle that causes water to cling to the outside of a glass as it spills.
3. The patented nose-forward design eliminates all vertical openings, forcing leaves and other debris over the edge and to the ground.
4. Rainwater enters the gutter through the factory pre-set, 3/8" horizontal water gap, perfectly designed to channel the heaviest rainfall into the gutter, but engineered to keep birds, animals and debris out... permanently. The continuous water gap means there are no slots or screens to clog or clean.

5. Gutter Helmet panels are installed with patented 50-gauge brackets that reinforce your existing, full-size gutters, supporting even the heaviest snow loads.

Driving with a Suspended License

A 25-year-old Inkster man was arrested Sept. 27 for driving with a suspended license.

Deputies stopped the man because he didn't come to a complete stop near the intersection of Zeeb and Dexter-Ann Arbor roads.

Deputies checked the man's identification with the Law Enforcement Information Network and noticed that his driver's license was suspended. The man was taken to the Washtenaw County Jail.

Police arrested a 26-year-old Ypsilanti man for drunken driving Sept. 23 near Jackson and Zeeb roads.

Deputies stopped the man after noticing that he was speeding and his vehicle was swerving off the road.

When deputies stopped the man, they could smell a strong odor of alcohol on his breath.

The man was given a Breathalyzer test. He had a blood-alcohol level of .17 percent. A blood-alcohol level of .10 percent or higher is legally drunk under Michigan law. The man was taken to the Washtenaw County Jail.

Domestic Assault
A 20-year-old Ann Arbor woman called 911 Sept. 25 after her boyfriend punched her in the face with a closed fist.

The woman was working at Pilot Travel Center, 750 Baker Road, when the incident occurred.

The two were arguing over the parental rights of their 1-year-old daughter.

The boyfriend came into the store and wanted to talk to the woman. She told him to leave when he started yelling and pushing her.

The victim walked outside to her car and the man followed her. They continued to argue while the woman was getting in her vehicle. As the two continued, the man punched the woman in the eye. She tried getting out of her vehicle but then collapsed on the pavement.

Deputies could not find the suspect when they arrived. The woman's family took her to Chelsea hospital.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Bush should think twice about war

Let's stop this war before it starts and oppose any pre-emptive attack by the United States on Iraq.

The Bush administration has not succeeded in producing any credible evidence that Saddam Hussein and the Iraqi regime have any connections with Al Qaeda. Containment seems to be holding firm and Iraq's armed forces are one-third their pre-Gulf War strength.

Since Saddam Hussein has repeatedly shown that he cares most about his own survival, a U.S. invasion would increase the chances that he would use whatever weapons of mass destruction he may or may not possess if faced with the certainty of being overthrown.

There is not sufficient urgency for such an invasion by the United States to be within the parameters of international law, and such a unilateral interpretation and action would set a dangerous precedent, inviting other countries to follow the irrational line of reasoning. It could open the door to international anarchy and chaos.

Despite the confidence that the United States would be the eventual victor in such a military attack, the costs would be so enormous, involving unbearable numbers of casualties of American soldiers, as well as massive civilian Iraqi deaths.

There is little genuine support for such an attack, from our allies, as well as among the Arab nations, and U.S. forces would have to basically go it alone when attacking the city of Baghdad, a city of 5 million people.

It would detract from our ability to fight terrorism, as well as addressing pressing domestic needs.

What is to replace the existing regime is a big question mark, and the proposed solution of placing former Iraqi military officers to build the new government is unacceptable since many of these people have been previously involved with war crimes themselves.

The citizens of America really need some courage and strong leadership from all of our elected representatives to scrutinize very closely and ferret out the real source of the Bush administration's arguments for this invasion.

There seems to be an incredible amount of information pointing to the fact that Iraq is, as an oil executive described it, "the Klondike of the 21st century." Those who stand to gain the most from this potential windfall of hundreds of billions of dollars, if control is seized, are U.S. oil producers of which many are linked to senior officials in the Bush administration.

What is at stake here is not "merely" the lives of those people who must fight this war or be in the way of this war, but the legitimacy of a carefully crafted international system built over the last century, and any meaningful or relevant idea of what democracy truly is for our country and for all those who aspire to it.

The most compelling issue we ask our elected officials to address is whether they will vote to put our sons and daughters at great risk to their lives and in harm's way.

Ask that they do not underestimate the ramifications of a unilateral U.S.

invasion of Iraq, based on such flimsy, transparent and ever-changing arguments that have been so far put forth by the Bush administration.

Demand that they take part in an honest debate on the merits of such an invasion.

Encourage them to consider first a strategy that would include the creation of an enhanced inspection system through strengthened border monitoring, an increase in international pressure on the Iraqi government, continuing revenue controls, and intensive diplomatic efforts to resume weapons inspections.

These are components of a viable strategy for containing Iraq's military ambitions, which offer a realistic alternative to a seemingly imminent and potentially disastrous military invasion, and one that offers expanded possibilities for greater regional cooperation and stability.

Construction project taking too long

The painted signs visible on M-52 as one approaches the village of Chelsea state that the water system construction is to be from April to August (at worst, inclusive).

Nearing the last week of September, it is still creating difficulties in traffic and extending the duration of losses by local businesses. Why?

In my experience with construction, the organization desiring work to be done provides a set of plans and specifications describing the project based on which potential bidders prepare and offer bids.

For best results, plans and specifications, the final contract should include these related items:

- Required list of major pieces of equipment available to the contractor and which will be used.

- Provision for inspection of the work as it progresses.

- A schedule of completion of parts of the work.

- Payment for work done in installments as parts are completed and accepted.

- Penalties for late completion and bonuses for early completion.

Are any of these items (especially No. 5) included in the contracts for the work on the water system? Were they ever considered by the village managers and their lawyers?

And if there is a penalty clause in the contracts, why hasn't that been publicized so that drivers, business people and the general citizenry could find the disturbance of our lives more acceptable?

Considering the generally good weather for construction this summer, I would have expected all the work to have been done in good time.

Our representatives aren't serving us

Are the politicians listening?

Last week, new spending in the form of a Chelsea School District millage was soundly defeated by overburdened taxpayers.

Desperate downtown merchants and fed up residents have recently threatened recall if the bungling of the water main installations on our streets continues.

Chelsea residents may face yet another millage request this time from the Chelsea Area Fire Authority to subsidize service in the surrounding townships and pay for new buildings and equipment that they already paid for once.

Sylvan Township "empire builders" are bringing in a huge, new trailer park to begin paying for the new water and sewer system debt that they have saddled their taxpayers with in a vain attempt to increase tax base.

In the face of overwhelming community opposition voiced over and over again at numerous public hearings, Chelsea Village Council is poised to approve an additional 350 houses on the Merkel farm, further straining already overloaded streets and crowded schools.

When will our elected representatives open their ears and hear that their constituencies have had enough with big spending and runaway growth?

Last spring, village voters elected two new council members, Cheri Albertson and Howard Holmes, who have been trying to articulate the frustrations and concerns of their neighbors. Unfortunately, they are a minority on council.

The majority on council is either firmly mired in a big spending mind set, or cowed by threats of developers to sue if they don't get their way.

We need representatives with backbone willing to say "no" to out-of-town interests seeking to hijack our community by riding the backs of taxpayers who will be paying for the infrastructure the developers exploit to make their millions.

We need to hold the politician's feet to the fire. Either they listen and vote the will of the people who elected them, or expect to be thrown out and be replaced by those that will.

Remember this terrible summer of discontent when village election time comes again next spring.

Council trustees too critical of fire dept.

This is in reply to "Fire Chief answers critics". If Mr. (Charles) Ritter has that much free time on his hands that he has to travel to the fires in order to count heads, I would suggest to him that he pick up a hose and help out.

As a lifelong resident, I am proud that we have dedicated men and women who are willing to do this job, because I for one would not want it.

Dan Ellenwood and his crew should keep up the great job. I for one would rather have too many firefighters battling a blaze at my house, place of business or God help us, a school than not enough.

To Mr. Ritter and Mr. (Howard) Holmes, I would suggest we don't fix what ain't broke.

I am proud to be an American

While I agree with some of what a previous letter writer (Scott McElrath, Sept. 19) had to say regarding our patriotism and "kinder, gentler America" after the days following Sept. 11, 2001, to reason that Americans were "selfless for a brief moment in time on Sept. 12, 13 and 14" is nothing short of nonsensical.

I must point out that relief efforts at Ground Zero went on for more than eight months. There were numerous local charities in Everytown, USA, gathering whatever resources they had available to donate to these ongoing efforts. It went on longer than the three days following the tragedies in New York, Washington, D.C., and Pennsylvania.

While some may have reverted to their imperfect behaviors, I believe that I see renewed patriotism and humanity that I have never known before. Flags are proudly flying, children recite the Pledge of Allegiance with enthusiasm and we all sing along with "God Bless America."

Americans are not perfect by any stretch of the imagination, but there is no other place I would rather be in this uncertain period. And I have never been more proud to say that I am an American.

My father will make a good public servant

Gene DeRossett, my father, friend and our state representative in the 55th District, will be running for re-election in the 52nd District because of re-districting. His name and face may be unfamiliar to you, but his goal to serve his constituents is not.

Gene DeRossett has dedicated the last four years to voicing the concerns and issues of his district in Lansing. With your help, he would like the opportunity to continue serving you as state representative.

We have a lot at stake in this race. Like you, I live in the district, pay property taxes, educate my children in our public schools, and I serve people in the district as a CPA with a public accounting firm in Ann Arbor, while my husband works to build his business in the district.

We need someone in Lansing who will continue hearing our concerns and act upon them. Gene DeRossett has done this. He has a proven voting record in Lansing that supports the education system, child protection laws, unions, small businesses, quality of life for senior citizens, protection of our natural resources, and lower taxes.

He has also been successful in obtaining funds to assist the arts and the parks in our area.

I am proud of my father — for the difference he has made, but mostly for who he is and the values for which he stands.

Gene DeRossett sought the position of state representative to see what he could do for the people in the district, not to see what Lansing could do for him. He works hard and is honest in his approach, showing a genuine concern for people.

His strong values and common-sense approach are the basis for his reputation in Lansing as a people-person — one who listens and makes things happen. His greatest satisfaction from this position comes from meeting with people and helping them to solve their problems.

I am asking you to exercise your right to vote Nov. 5 and to remember that Gene DeRossett is working for us as our voice in Lansing.

Allowance a lesson for child, parent

LISA CAROLIN

MARCHING TO A DIFFERENT BEAT

There is no right answer to whether a child should receive an allowance. It's subjective and personal.

My son, Laurence, who has just turned 8 years old, has been receiving an allowance for several years. The first method involved four individual piggy banks — one for long-term savings, one for short-term savings, another for charity donations and another for spending.

The purpose was to teach him how and why to save, and the importance of sharing what he has with others. He obligatorily "divided" up the allowance money appropriately.

Earlier this year, we decided to give Laurence an allowance. After I decided he should earn his money, we just say that we would start fiscal year for Laurence for the first two quarters of 2002.

In August, during a visit to Ludington State Park, Laurence desperately wanted to buy something from a gift shop. A friend we were with suggested putting him on the allowance. The $10 per month allowance that her children were receiving. Laurence was thrilled, and within 30 minutes shot the wad on a much-needed stuffed animal, and some nutritious Lemonheads.

Then came September and his birthday for which he received a generous amount of money that he felt that he had the right to spend. The same friend suggested business consultant Andrew Tobias' idea for teaching children about interest by putting their money into a savings account.

The concept of making money on money just sitting in an account seemed Laurence, but he was willing to give it a try. He's still had a "chunk" of change to spend.

So we agreed that he could spend $100 of his birthday money. Granted it's a lot of money, but I felt that it would be a great learning experience for him to see just what $100 can buy.

He learned immediately that he couldn't afford the big-ticket items like a personal computer or a PlayStation. The spirited kid was not discouraged and successfully spent the money in just a few hours.

I do give him credit for being decisive. He knew that he wanted a $40 video game and a $20 orange beanbag chair and a $30 memo board. The $30 tarp for his clubhouse was more of a necessity than a desire, but he acquiesced. He also learned the painful lesson about taxes, which I told him with $22.50 to go to the bank.

Family Ties

Lima Township family teams up to help son with MS

By Rita Fischer
Special Writer

Three years ago, Tim Wesner was an active, healthy college junior at Suomi College in Hancock, planning a career as a physical therapist.

Then the 1998 Chelsea High School graduate, who had enjoyed four years on the high school track team and three years on the cross country team, began having difficulty walking down stairs. His handwriting was also deteriorating.

After seeing a series of doctors and undergoing numerous tests, the 22-year-old got the devastating diagnosis of multiple sclerosis, a disease in which a person's immune system mistakenly attacks normal tissue.

The disease interrupts normal communications by selectively destroying myelin, the protective sheath that surrounds and insulates the nerve fibers of the brain and spinal cord. The myelin becomes inflamed, and is replaced by hardened scar tissue or "sclerosed" patches. The term multiple sclerosis means "many patches of scar tissue."

These rough spots can slow down electrical messages or even stop them altogether. As a result, the brain picks up altered signals — including visual disturbances and "pins-and-needles" sensations on the skin — or no signals at all, causing muscles to become weak and difficult to control.

Wesner's father, Terry, says that like many families, theirs found it hard to carve out time for physical fitness and workouts. When his son was diagnosed with MS, the family's focus changed.

"We decided that we needed to start investing in our bodies as if we were investing in a 401(k) retirement plan — spending time exercising now, with pay dividends in the future," Terry says.

As a former director of research for the National Diabetes Association, Terry was no stranger to medical journals.

"There's strong evidence to support the theory that through rigorous physical activity, new pathways can be formed around the damaged areas in the brain, thereby restoring lost function," he says.

Wesner says constraint-induced movement therapy has been shown to restore lost abilities in stroke patients, even years after the stroke. Through rigorous physical therapy, actor Christopher Reeves, paralyzed following a horseback riding accident, is beginning to regain limited feeling and movement.

With Tim as their motivation, three generations of the Lima Township family — Tim, his parents, Terry and Mary Ann, and his 83-year-old grandmother, Nina Wesner — began a program at the Chelsea Wellness Center.

To make sure any existing medical problems were addressed, everyone spent time with physical therapist Pam Bennett and trainer Jeff Skrzypek before moving on to a custom plan of fitness training.

"It's good to see a family work out together," trainer Shannon Harris says. "I feel that it gives you more incentive, kind of a buddy system. Working out together helps each to achieve goals, to push and encourage each other."

"I've seen this family in here day in and day out. They've made many improve-

Trainers Tara Allshouse (left) and Shannon Harris help Tim Wesner as he balances on a large ball and exercises with hand weights. This activity is done in front of a mirror so that the eyes help the brain in maintaining balance while doing exercises.

Jenni Driskill aspires to be a role model

By Rita Fischer
Special Writer

Teacher Jenni Driskill has had some great role models in her life — and hopes to be one herself.

Driskill, who has taught health and physical education at Beach Middle School for the past year, must have inherited her passion for education, sports and athletics. Her father taught physical education and American government for 31 years.

"I've seen how much a teacher can do and that's great," Driskill says. "I ran into a girl who told me she would have never graduated if it weren't for my dad."

"That made me feel good about the profession I chose. I get to help kids, teach them and be their friend."

Driskill's former math teacher, Kevin Ohrman, also encouraged her to follow this career path.

"Mr. Ohrman cared about his students and put a lot of time and effort into his job," Driskill says. "He's a great teacher, person and role model."

Driskill graduated from Adrian College in December 2000. She studied health, physical education, recreation and elementary education and was active in her college years coaching basketball, volleyball and softball at local schools.

After substitute teaching in Onsted and Michigan Center, she started in Chelsea last fall.

Driskill says she enjoys teaching children how to play sports and stay healthy.

"I love sports and athletics. They've always been important to me," she says.

"Women don't have many athletic role models, so hopefully I will help out in that area. I'm a firm believer in being a strong woman and a strong athlete. If a sport isn't offered for girls and they want to try, let them."

Despite having a father in education, Driskill says her family didn't pressure her to enter the teaching profession. She says it was her own choice and that she has always wanted to be a teacher.

"I love the students, getting to know and help them," she says. "I love teaching, and there are many events or students that make you want to keep teaching."

"I've really bonded with a lot of my students and that's wonderful to me."

After teaching in the classroom for six hours, Driskill then coaches sports after school. Even during the summer, she taught swimming lessons, basketball and softball at Chelsea Recreation camps.

In her spare time, the Tecumseh resident enjoys attending sporting events in the community.

An avid football fan, Driskill has been attending Wolverine football games since she was young.

She also enjoys watching sports-related movies such as "Rudy," "Hoosiers" and "Remember the Titans."

"Things like that inspire me," she says.

Council proclaims Red Ribbon Week

■ Chelsea Family Network working toward drug-free community.

By Kent Ashton Walton
Special Writer

Former Lima Township Supervisor Gary Adams is looking for support from the Village Council.

Last week, Adams, who serves as organizing committee member of the Chelsea Community Family Network, asked the Village Council to join the Chelsea School District in adopting a resolution proclaiming Oct. 23 through 31 National Red Ribbon Week in Chelsea.

Adams urged all Chelsea residents to join in the celebration by wearing a red ribbon throughout the week and to participate in the year-round efforts to create a drug-free community.

Adams presented the council with a proclamation outlining the goals of the committee, which are to reduce alcohol, tobacco and drug abuse problems and to create a drug-free environment.

The committee also wants to develop local support groups and resources, and provide Chelsea's youth with alternatives to drug use and other risky behaviors.

Adams said the organization is a volunteer group organized to encourage young people not to use illegal drugs. The committee works with the Chelsea School District, local families, churches and community groups to achieve the committee's goals, Adams said.

The Chelsea Community Family Network has participated throughout the summer in school open houses to distribute information. It will be organizing meetings to develop awareness in the community.

The same proclamation that Adams presented to officials in Chelsea will be given to boards in Lyndon, Lima, Sylvan and Dexter townships, as well as the Chelsea Board of Education.

The council adopted the resolution.

The next meeting of the Chelsea Community Family Network will be held 7 p.m. Oct. 23 at the Chelsea High School media center.

For more information, call Adams at 475-1891.

spend.

No sense letting that money burn a hole in his pocket. At a stop at an office supply store, Laurence found a must-have plastic cart for $18.

If you've been doing the math, then you know that Laurence still had $3 plus change left. He had to spend it.

His eyes were filled with wonder when he entered the Dollar Store. He spent $1 for a faulty popgun, $1 for yet another stuffed animal and $1 for a plastic receptacle in which to protect that stuffed animal from the elements.

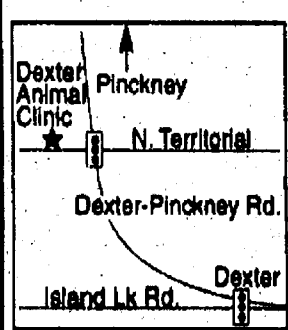

I don't know how much Laurence learned about interest, allowance or what $100 can buy, but he's sure had a good time with this economics lesson while marching to a different beat.

ments in strength and training."

For the past four years, Tim, a part-time student at Washtenaw Community College, has worked at the Quality 16 Theater in Scio Township. He starts work at 6 a.m. on weekdays and 5 a.m. on weekends to make sure that the place is clean before opening for business.

"Quality 16 has been extremely accommodating to our son," Terry says. "When we found out that he had MS, we asked that Tim not do cleaning involving stairs, and the theater accommodated by having him vacuum the floors."

"When Tim's doctor wanted him to cut back to three days a week, again they accommodated him by adjusting the schedule to fit his needs. It's really great that Quality 16 is willing to make adjustments that allow Tim to continue working."

Before joining her grandson in working out at the Wellness Center, Nina felt she was declining. Now, after exercising on weight-machines, walking a few laps around the track and spending some time on a step machine, she's a new woman.

"Some mornings I feel a little foggy, but once we get here, and I do a few things, I'm always glad I came," Nina says.

Tim is working with personal trainer Tara Aldrich, who is shifting him from some of the weight machines to using dumbbells in front of the mirrors.

"Seeing what you're doing helps the brain control the function," Aldrich says.

Tim feels he's seen some improvement in his muscle action and hopes that an experimental vaccine program that he is enrolled in will arrest the disease and allow him to continue rebuilding pathways without having other ones damaged.

"When 10:30 comes, I know my grandmother is sitting next door waiting to go (to the Wellness Center), so no matter how I feel, I'm going," he says.

"But it's a little ironic that after nine months of exercising, we still circle the parking lot looking for the closest parking space."

Ruin and Recovery

Meeting on peace slated for Oct. 10

Family members of victims in the Sept. 11, 2001, terrorist attacks have united to turn their grief into action for peace. They have formed the advocacy group Peaceful Tomorrows.

Chelsea residents are invited to attend a talk by member Rita Lasar 7 p.m. Oct. 10 in the boardroom at the Washington Street Education Center, 500 Washington St., in Chelsea.

Lasar, who was among a group that traveled to Afghanistan in January, will share her experiences. There also will be a question-and-answer period.

The talk is part of the "No More Victims" tour co-sponsored by September 11 Families for Peaceful Tomorrows and the American Friends Service Committee.

The tour is an attempt to reach out to people across the country in an effort to help them understand a more personal view of the victims of terrorism and war.

It will place the human dimension and experience of the terrorist attacks and of war at the center of the national debate in the "war against terrorism," organizers said.

Participants hope to raise public consciousness about the meaning and consequences of war by providing a thought-provoking dialogue in counterpoint to other, more ceremonial, remembrances of the tragedy.

"By putting a human face on the casualties of terrorism and war, we hope to demonstrate the price of responding to violence with violence," said David Potorti, co-director and eastern U.S. coordinator of Peaceful Tomorrows.

"The true cost of the U.S. war on terror, in human terms, is reflected in the experiences of these people, which have led them to seek alternatives," he said.

Potorti's brother, James, died during the collapse of the World Trade Center after two hijacked airplanes struck the Twin Towers.

"In joining the 9/11 families with the voices and stories of others who have suffered around the world since Sept. 11, we hope to shatter some of the illusions maintaining that war will solve our problems," said Joseph Gerson, tour organizer of the group.

"We firmly believe that the real lesson of Sept. 11 is that war and violence are the problems, not the solutions."

The mission of September 11 Families for Peaceful Tomorrows is to seek effective, nonviolent responses to terrorism, and identify a commonality with all people similarly affected by violence throughout the world.

The group is urging the American government to create a fund that would compensate Afghan people who lost members of their family to the war.

On Sept. 11, the group, along with U.N. General Assembly President Jan Kavan and U.N. Secretary-

General Kofi Annan, were honored at "A Celebration of Remembrance and Hope, Dedicated to Victims of Violence Everywhere."

The service marked the opening of the 57th session of the United Nations General Assembly.

Founded in 1917 to provide conscientious objectors with an opportunity to help civilian victims during World War I, American Friends Service Committee is grounded in Quaker beliefs respecting the dignity and worth of every person.

Council hears update on creek

■ Residents asked to participate in study.

By Kent Ashton Walton
Special Writer

Elizabeth Riggs of the Huron River Watershed Council talked to Chelsea's Village Council Sept. 10 about the Mill Creek Watershed Management Plan.

The two-year project to study the watershed was launched last year and is about at the midpoint, Riggs said.

Mill Creek is of importance to Chelsea residents because, she said, it's Huron Valley's largest watershed, covering about 92,000 acres.

Mill Creek is a sub-watershed of the Huron Valley Watershed, which embraces 11 different communities. It covers most of Sylvan and Lima townships, extending into Lyndon and Dexter townships, Sharon, Freedom and Lodi townships to the south, as well as Scio Township and a portion of Webster Township.

Riggs outlined some benefits of healthy watersheds, including the provision of safe drinking water, storm-water control, supplying habitats for a variety of wildlife, enhancing recreation and increasing property values.

Mill Creek shows diminished water quality standards, Riggs said. It contains excessive nutrients, such as phosphorus, which cause algal mats to build up.

According to the Federal Clean Water Act, the creek requires attention and The Huron River Council can help, Riggs said. The council can also identify local needs and look for state and federal funding.

Riggs said that the management plan requires the involvement of local and county officials, state government, the business sector, residential property owners, and those with recreation interests.

In the first year of any management plan, she said there is a need to define and inventory critical areas, prioritize pollutants, their sources and causes.

In the second year, she said it's necessary to identify and address pollution practices, review policies that influence water resources, and develop an evaluation process to gain local and state approval. The study of Letts Creek is now into its second year.

Riggs provided a list of known and suspected pollutants in Letts Creek, including agricultural pollutants resulting from poor conservation treatments, as well as stream bank erosion, resulting in part from wetlands being filled and lack of natural vegetation.

The creek contains pollutants related to development, such as loss of pervious surfaces, dredging, engineered drains, and residential lawns and septic systems. Even pets cause pollution to creeks, she said.

There are also oil, grease and metal pollutants resulting from oil spills and stormwater run-off.

Further pollutants stem from soil erosion, lack of tree cover, and pesticides from agricultural fields and residential lawns.

Riggs said the goals for Letts Creek are to correct impaired and threatened uses. One goal is the restoration of the natural fishery by reducing sediment, excess nutrients and stream temperatures. Another goal focuses on restoration of natural animal and plant communities by similar methods.

Goals based on a public survey of desired uses include protection of water quality, protection of threatened and endangered species and habitats, protection of open and agricultural lands and groundwater, and the development of recreation trails along Mill Creek and its tributaries.

Riggs invited Chelsea residents to join the discussions in October and volunteer to participate in field surveys during the fall.

For more information e-mail Riggs at eriggs@hrwc.org or call 789-5123.

School team plans strategy

■ District-wide team will meet monthly.

By Sheila Pursglove
Associate Editor

Chelsea School District's district-wide school improvement team will continue meeting monthly to share information and strategies to attain goals.

This is the word from Assistant Superintendent Iva Corbett and teacher Andrea Bareis. They updated the Chelsea school board Sept. 23 after the first meeting of the school district's school improvement team.

At a retreat held in August, administrators reviewed eight pieces of legislation and focus areas in the school improvement plans, Corbett said. Examples include Education, Yes!, No Child Left Behind, and The Washtenaw Intermediate School District Teaching and Learning Initiative.

Corbett said the school improvement requirements will be met by using the North Central Accreditation process.

Staff members in each school building are currently developing their teams, reviewing their data, creating their goals and beginning to develop instructional strategies, she said.

Each school will develop three goals with a district-wide goal of reaching the highest level of accreditation by the year 2007.

Chelsea football gets defensive with Lincoln

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

Chelsea's defense rose to the occasion last Friday night as the Bulldogs defeated Ypsilanti Lincoln 27-7 at Jerry Niehaus Field.

The challenge for Chelsea (4-1, 2-0) was stopping, or at least containing, the Railsplitters' senior quarterback Chris Lee. One of the state's best signal callers, Lee is being recruited by Big Ten and Mid-American Conference schools.

Chelsea coach Brad Bush said his squad focused on pestering Lee all game.

"We tried to get pressure on him," he said. "We rushed a lot of people."

With its pressure and tenacity, the Bulldog defense forced Lee into throwing two interceptions.

"The defense did a good job," Bush said. "They played well."

Intercepting both of Lee's passes was Chelsea senior safety Joe Myers. Myers was coming off a three-interception game against Saline in the previous week's contest. With his two picks, Myers has nine interceptions on the season.

"That's the most a player has ever had since I've been here," Bush said.

Early on both defenses dominated.

After a scoreless first quarter, the Bulldogs hit pay dirt in the second stanza.

Junior quarterback George Royce found fellow classmate receiver Mark Borders for a 20-yard touchdown reception.

Senior Joel Rosentreter's extra point kick was successful and Chelsea led 7-0.

A key play in the scoring drive was a Bulldog fake punt that gained 40 yards.

At halftime, the score remained 7-0.

In the second half, Chelsea scored early in the third quarter as Royce connected with Borders on a 55-yard touchdown toss.

With Rosentreter's extra point, the Dawgs led 14-0.

After a Myers interception, Chelsea scored on a Royce to senior tight end David Grabarkiewicz 10-yard touchdown pass.

Rosentreter's kick was good, and the Bulldogs upped their lead to 21-0.

With momentum going Chelsea's way, Lincoln (0-5) stemmed the tide, finally getting on the board.

A 30-yard interception return by Railsplitter Eddie

Ford closed the gap for Lincoln to 21-7.

The Bulldogs, however, responded with a Royce 3-yard touchdown run late in the third quarter for the final margin.

Royce, the less heralded of the two quarterbacks coming into the game, outshined Lee, throwing for a 280 yards on 17-of-35 passing.

Lee, on the other hand, finished 12-of-27 for 145 yards.

Chelsea receiver Borders had his second straight 100-yard game, snaring five passes for 141 yards. Grabarkiewicz added five catches for 50 yards, while Matt Cunningham had five receptions for 41 yards.

Senior running back Darl Bauer led the Bulldog ground attack, rushing for 55 yards on eight attempts.

Bush said the Bulldogs' pass-happy offense doesn't mean Chelsea will forget about the run.

"We want balance in our offense," he said. "Some nights the defense might take away the run. But George (Royce) has done a good job for us."

The Bulldogs next host Saginaw Heritage 7 p.m. tomorrow for Homecoming.

Tankers fall to No 1-ranked Pioneer

Chelsea's girls' swimming and diving team suffered its first loss of the season last Thursday, failing to defend Division I state champion and No. 1-ranked Ann Arbor Pioneer 119-87.

Chelsea, ranked No. 4 in Division II, knew it would have its hands full said Bulldog coach Dave Jolly.

"The team's goal was to keep the meet respectable and to allow as many athletes a chance to improve," he said.

And improve they did as the Bulldogs posted 37 season best performances.

After its strong showing against arguably the Midwest's top high school team, Chelsea prepared to defend its title at the DeWitt Invitational last Saturday. The Bulldogs had captured two consecutive invite championships.

Make it three.

Chelsea bested the field scoring 338 points.

Rounding out the top eight were Milan in second place with 287 points, followed by Plainwell in third place, St. Johns in fourth place, East Lansing in fifth, host DeWitt in sixth, Lansing Waverly in seventh and Lansing Everett in eighth place.

To say the Bulldogs were dominant would be an understatement. Chelsea finished first or second in every event and set three pool records in the process.

The Bulldogs' 200 medley A relay got things cooking to begin the meet, placing first and setting a new pool record. Dani Sawyer, Alise Augustine, Julie Mida and Becca Armstrong were phenomenal as they set a season best standard of 1:53.00.

Chelsea's 200 medley B relay of Kelsey Benton, Tara Jennings, Katrina Moffett, and Jessica Bassett finished third, swimming a season best time of 2:01.84.

Kayla Hack was next up for the Bulldogs, winning the B heat of the 200 freestyle in a solid time of 2:02.84.

"The funny part was that her time would have won the whole event if she would have been in the A heat," Jolly said.

Sawyer, competing in the A heat, placed second overall with a time of 2:05.48.

Armstrong was up again in the 200 individual medley, winning the B heat in a season best time of 2:20.44. Freshman Jessica Lodewyk was second in the A heat with another season best performance of 2:19.68.

the 50 freestyle with a respectable 26.67. Kara Stiles swam a season best in the event, stopping the clock in 25.65.

Alli Sayers, despite beginning with two off dives, finished second in the event with a 197.60-point performance. Christine Rosentreter finished sixth with her best performance of the year scoring 150.70 points.

Mida touched first in the 100 butterfly, stopping the clock at 1:02.23. Jessica Lodewyk was tops in the B heat with a time of 1:05.59.

Stiles was unstoppable again in the 100 freestyle, earning her second win of the meet with a time of 55.92. Hack was superior in the event, winning the B heat. Her time of 56.59 was second only to Stiles.

Jesse Rohrer had to fill in for a teammate at the last minute. She swam to a season best time in the 500 freestyle, earning second place in the B heat. Moffett was very solid in the event, placing second overall with a time of 5:33.12.

In the freshman-sophomore race, Chelsea finished third with 19 points.

Capturing the nine-team event was Dexter with 12 points. Lakewood ended up second with 18 points, while Onsted was fourth with 50 points.

"This is a fun meet that allows kids to compete against their own grade level," said Chelsea coach Eric Swager. "We enjoyed the opportunity to run on a beautiful fall day."

Leading the Bulldogs individually in the junior-senior meet was James McKensie, who finished fifth with a personal best time of 17:12.

Placing 11th for Chelsea was David Fedele with a clocking of 17:26, while

Chelsea soccer unbeaten in 10 games

Chelsea keeper Andrew Balbak has been a key cog in the Bulldogs' current 10-game unbeaten streak.

Chelsea's boys' soccer team defeated Tecumseh 3-1 and Adrian 3-0 last week.

With their victories, the state-ranked Bulldogs (9-1-2) have gone 10 consecutive games without a loss.

Last Thursday, against the Indians, Chelsea received goals from Ken Davis, Jason Medeiros and Mark Tapping.

Recording assists on the day were Bryan Hayes, Quinn Branson, David Knox and Davis.

Picking up the win in net for host Chelsea was keeper Andrew Balbak.

"We had a slow first half," said Chelsea coach Chad Scaling. "But we picked it up and dominated in the second half. We started moving the ball better."

On Sept. 24, the Bulldogs blanked Adrian.

Chalking up the shutout in net for Chelsea was keeper Ben Sporer.

"He did a nice job for us in net," Scaling said.

Hayes scored two goals for the Bulldogs, while Knox recorded one.

Picking up assists for Chelsea were Branson with two and Cage Cowan with one.

"That was a good all-around game for us," Scaling said.

The Bulldogs next travel to county rival Dexter 5:30 p.m. today.

On Tuesday, Chelsea visits Ann Arbor Pioneer for a contest at 5:30 p.m.

On Oct. 10, the Dawgs host Ypsilanti Lincoln at 5:30 p.m.

Chelsea cagers dominate Lincoln

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

Chelsea's girls' basketball team defeated Ypsilanti Lincoln 49-19 last Thursday. Leading the Bulldogs offensively was senior point guard Julia Arnold, who finished with 14 points and five assists.

Senior forward Anna Arend added 12 points, while freshman forward Emily Woodruff chipped in eight points.

On the glass, junior guard Ashley Gadbury hauled down a team-high 12 rebounds, while senior forward Courtney Bentley grabbed nine boards.

Chelsea jumped out to a 28-11 halftime lead.

The Bulldogs put the game away with a 13-0 run in the third quarter.

On Sept. 24, Chelsea lost to Ann Arbor Huron 44-30.

The Bulldogs committed 14 turnovers in the first half and trailed at the half 20-15.

Early in the third quarter, Chelsea's All-State forward, Alison Mann, sprained her ankle and was lost for the game.

"(She) should be back in a couple weeks," said Chelsea coach Todd Blomquist.

Besides losing their top player to injury, the Bulldogs also were in foul trouble against the River Rats.

Arnold fouled out early in the third quarter, and both starting forwards played with four fouls most of the second half.

At the free-throw line, Chelsea struggled, as well, shooting 7-of-17.

"After a game (victory over Dexter, Sept. 19), where it seemed like a lot of things went well, we experienced a game where everything that could go wrong did," Blomquist said.

Chelsea next hosts Ann Arbor Pioneer 7 p.m. today.

On Tuesday, the Bulldogs travel to Tecumseh for a contest at 7 p.m.

On Oct. 17, Chelsea visits Adrian for a game at 7 p.m.

Chelsea ended the meet with 21 points.

In the sophomore-freshman event, the Bulldogs also placed second, recording 18 points.

The 13-team invitational was held at Hudson Mills Metropark.

Facing the Bulldogs in the junior-senior run was Allison Sacks, who finished fifth with a time of 20:38.

Placing seventh was Ashley Brainerd, with a time of 20:54, while Karl Moyle ended up ninth in 21:05 and Kim Gasieski 10th in 21:17.

Placing sixth was teammate Laura Oberholtzer with a time of 21:48, while Rachel Stone was 10th in 21:59 and Erika Palmer 12th in 22:11.

Clarke said he was impressed with the performances of Stone and Palmer. "Erika and Rachel had their best races ever to earn varsity medals for the first time," he said.

As a team, Clarke said his squad continues to improve. "We still have a long way to go to reach our season goals, but we're definitely on the right track," he said. "We had 13 out of 17 girls earn medals. And (we had) 12 of 17 girls set PR's (personal records) for the Hudson Mills course." Last Thursday, the Bulldogs captured the 12-team Mason Invitational.

Chelsea bested the field with 61 points.

Rounding out the top five were Holt with 74 points, Okemos with 94 points, Jackson Lumen Christi with 115 points and Eaton Rapids with 125 points.

"Our pack running is getting very refined and our depth has increased greatly."

— Pat Clarke
Chelsea coach

"This was our finest effort of the season," Clarke said. "This was the best team effort that we have had in the last five years."

"We lost to Holt by over 100 points at Bath to start the season. We are really coming together as a team and it is a pure pleasure to watch."

Leading the Bulldogs on the day was Severin, who placed second with a time of 19:38.

Sacks finished 12th with a clocking of 20:37, while

Cooley captures national and world titles in arm wrestling

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

Standing approximately 5-foot-4 inches tall and weighing 110 pounds, Karen Cooley doesn't exactly strike an imposing form.

In fact, the Chelsea married mother of two looks more like your typical soccer mom than a world-class athlete.

At 37 years old, Cooley is one of the world's top female arm wrestlers.

A month and a half ago, Cooley, originally from Ithaca, captured the U.S. Arm-sports national arm wrestling championship in a competition near Chicago. Cooley won titles in both the right and left arm divisions in the 110-pound bracket.

One of the most successful athletes in the sport, Cooley has been competing in tournaments since 1991 and has 12 national championships and one world title to her credit during that time.

Cooley won her world championship in 1999 at a competition in Tokyo, Japan. As one would expect, most people are flabbergasted when told of her accomplishments.

"They're always surprised that I arm wrestle," said Cooley, who won a state title her first year in the sport and followed that with a national championship one year later. "When my husband tells people about me, I think they expect a bigger woman. I guess because I'm smaller, they don't believe it."

The public may find it hard to believe, but Cooley's opponents definitely don't. The sound of their arms hitting the table makes it all too real.

An avid athlete, Cooley, who works out religiously and played basketball and volleyball in high school, began arm wrestling after her husband, Jerry, encouraged her.

"He thought I was strong," said Cooley, who works out 1 1/2 hours a day, five days a week. "I beat his sister-in-law (in arm wrestling) and he thought she was tough. So he talked me into entering a tournament with him. I ended up winning it. From then on, it just sort of caught on and became my hobby."

Jerry, who won the 1997 Yukon Jack National Arm Wrestling tournament, said when he began dating his future wife, they used to arm wrestle for fun.

"I could tell right then that she was pretty strong," he said. "She has definitely lasted longer than I would have imagined she would. I believe she is the best pound-for-pound female arm wrestler there is. Of course, I'm a little biased."

Jerry said he thinks the secret to his wife's success is her dedication to the sport.

"(She's) been able to do it so long because she works out more consistently than anyone I have ever known," he said. "I don't know if there's ever been a week where she didn't work out at least three days, except when she was pregnant the second time. She was told to stay in bed during that pregnancy, which was hard for her to do."

Married for 17 years, with two kids, Dakota, 10, and Taylor, 7, Cooley said being successful in arm wrestling is more than just working out.

"The keys are having a fast start and strong wrists, forearms and hands," she said.

Cooley, whose quickest victory was one second, also said winning the mental game is important.

"I definitely think the mental part has helped me a lot," she said. "It's sometimes hard to handle the pressure."

"I try to keep myself under control. I've learned not to be so nervous so far ahead of time. It does me no good. It just tires me out."

Despite being a 12-time national champion and a world title holder, Cooley said she still gets butterflies before competing.

"I always have the sickest stomach," she said. "I don't take anything for granted. You'd think I'd be over that by now. But once I get my first match over, I'm fine."

Cooley, though never beating her husband, has defeated numerous men throughout her career.

"I've done pretty well against men," she said. "I think I take a lot of them by surprise."

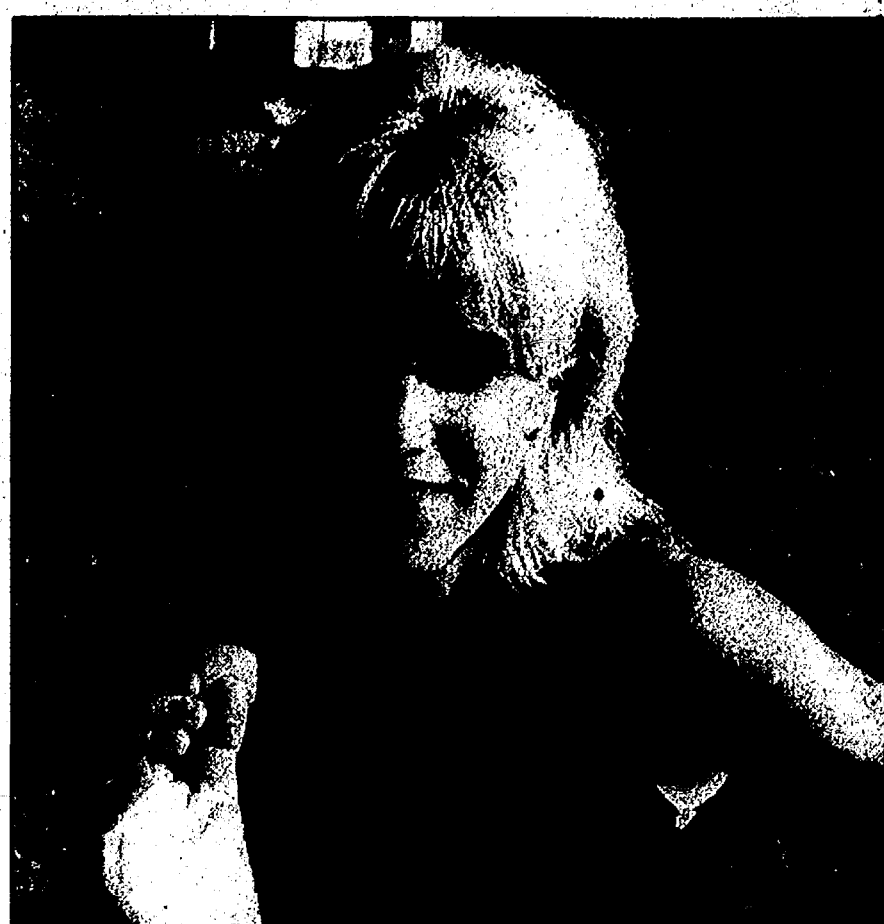

Cooley, whose success in arm wrestling has brought about appearances on "Regis & Kathie Lee," "The Maury Povich Show," as well as the game shows "To Tell the Truth" and "I've Got a Secret," said there's one goal she hasn't achieve yet in arm wrestling.

"They're trying to make it an Olympic sport," she said. "I would love to represent my country."

For a sport that she never thought she would get into while growing up, Cooley said she doesn't know when she'll stop.

"I'm not sure," she said. "I'd really like to win another world title."

"(Arm wrestling) is not one of those sports where you can say you're too old. They start having the Master Classes and the Grand Master Classes. I might be a grand-ma arm wrestling someday."

Chelsea resident Karen Cooley is one of the nation's top female arm wrestlers. Cooley has won 12 national titles and one world championship.

Megan Korc paced the host Bulldogs (3-6, 1-1) with 14 points.

Courtney Alli added 11 points, while Beckah Sauers had six points and seven rebounds.

Chelsea broke out to an early 20-6 first quarter lead against the Railsplitters and never looked back.

At halftime, the Bulldogs held a commanding 37-10 advantage.

In the second half, Lincoln outscored Chelsea 18-17 for the final margin.

The Dawgs shot 44 percent from the floor and 51 percent from the free-throw line.

Chelsea's boys' golf team finished second at the Southeastern Conference White Division quad hosted by Dexter last Monday.

The match was held at the Ann Arbor Country Club.

The Bulldogs ended the day with a final score of 168.

Placing first was the host Dreadnaughts with a final tally of 160.

Rounding out the field were Tecumseh with a 176 and Ypsilanti Lincoln with a 184.

Individually for Chelsea,

Nate Chamberlin paced the Dawgs with a 40.

Other top performers for Chelsea included Chris Johnson with a 41, Paul Newhouse with a 42 and Kevin Todd with a 45.

On Sept. 23, the Bulldogs captured the SEC White Division quad at Tecumseh.

Chelsea ended the competition with a score of 162.

Placing second was Dexter with a score of 167, followed by Tecumseh with a 171 and Ypsilanti Lincoln with a 183.

Leading the Bulldogs were Johnson and Newhouse, who tied with Tecumseh's Jeff Brune for individual medalist honors. The trio each shot a 39.

Other top performers for Chelsea included Chamberlin, who carded a 41, and David Hardcastle, who recorded a 43.

"This is a crucial portion of our season schedule where we visit each of the four schools within our division," said Chelsea coach Jim Tallman. "We accumulated six points toward the division championship (two points for each team beaten) last night with the first place finish."

The Bulldogs will participate in four SEC quads throughout the season.

"The points earned in these four quads, plus points earned in our crossover matches (dual matches against teams in the SEC Red Division) go together to determine the division champion."

Chelsea next hosts its SEC quad Monday at Reddeman Farms Golf Course at 3 p.m.

On Wednesday, the final league quad will be held at Ypsilanti Lincoln at 3 p.m. impressive events of the meet. Each swam to a 25 second split as they broke the pool record in the 200 freestyle relay with a time of 1:42.57.

Proving the Bulldogs' overall dominance was their B relay foursome of Augustine, Bassett, Benton and Mida, whose time of 1:49.49 was bested only by Chelsea's A relay.

Armstrong came right back two minutes later and swam a solid 100 backstroke, winning the B heat in 1:08.18.

"It was one of the gutsy swims of the day," Jolly said.

Sawyer won the event convincingly, pulling away from the rest of the pack with a clocking of 1:02.82.

Sarah Manville was excellent in the 100 breaststroke, winning the B heat in 1:16.81.

Augustine won the A heat with a time of 1:11.09 in one of the closest races of the day.

"Alise is a tough competitor," Jolly said. "She doesn't like to lose."

The last event proved to be one of the most memorable of the day.

Everyone was tired. Everyone had performed very well.

All that was left was the 400 freestyle relay.

The B relay of Bassett, Benton, Moffett and Hughes was great, once again, winning their heat by over 50 yards with a time of 4:00.29.

The A relay ended the competition. With the meet already in the bag, the Chelsea foursome of Jessica Lodewyk, Stiles, Hack and Sawyer could have folded their tent, Jolly said.

we had five lifetime bests," Swager said. "We need to keep focusing on improvement as we enter the second half of the season."

Last Thursday, the Bulldogs finished second at the 11-team Mason Invitational. Chelsea ended the meet with 76 points.

Winning the event was Lansing Eastern with 51 points.

Rounding out the top five were Jackson Lumen Christi with 104 points, Hartland with 122 points and Holt with 127 points.

Individually for the Bulldogs, Brown led the way while finishing fifth overall with a lifetime best clocking of 16:56.

Lewis placed 15th with a time of 17:13, while McKenzie was 16th in 17:14 and Bach 19th in a lifetime best 17:18.

Fede finished 21st in 17:21, while Bravo was 25th in a lifetime best 17:34 and Wineland 35th in a personal best 17:52.

"This was the first time we have taken home a trophy from this meet," Swager said.

"This is a solid mix of Class A and B schools."

LOVING HOMES NEEDED

MONTE

Monte will make you smile. He is a great dog. Monte is a 1 1/2 year old, 53 pound male German Shepherd and Chow mix. He is alert and happy, and has a wonderful personality and warm fuzzy coat. Monte was found near Meijers on Ann Arbor Saline Rd. He quickly showed off to staff and volunteers how he can sit, come when called, and even shake hands. When he sees a friendly face, his wag starts at the tail and quickly spreads through his whole body. Monte is playful and smart, and walks well on a leash. He is eager to learn more, and is looking for a person who will give him the love and care he deserves for the rest of his life.

JERRY

Jerry is quite a cat. He's seven years old, and a whole twenty pounds! He's here at the shelter because his owner could no longer keep him, so he's looking for a new owner who will love him enough to put him on a diet. Jerry's got lots of personality, though, and if you even start to extend your hand in his direction, he'll bring his head up to meet it for a scratch behind the ears. If you're looking for love and affection, Jerry is ready to give it!

BINX

Binx earned the nickname, "Mr. Cuddles" as soon as he came into the Humane Society. He is a warm, affectionate, topnotch cuddler! He loves to be held and to have his chin and ears rubbed. Binx is a very handsome, 2 year old, medium-haired, tan Tabby with beautiful big green eyes. Binx is perfectly litter-trained, and he puts in response to talk addressed to him. He likes to watch the activities around him, always displaying a quiet confidence. Binx is a great, handsome cat who needs a home with someone who will love him for the rest of his life.

VILLAGE OF CHELSEA

REGULAR COUNCIL MEETING
WASHINGTON STREET EDUCATION CENTER
SEPTEMBER 10, 2002

Present: President Steele, Village Manager Myers, Village Clerk Branson
Trustees Present: Trustees Albertson, Holmes, Ortring, Ritter and Schumann

Absent: Trustee Myles
Others Present: Jim Drolett, Chris Rode, Ann Feeney, Dave Buleon, Walter Bolt, Amy Bolt, Edith Behringer, Nancy Schumann, Mark Heydrauff
President Steele called the meeting to order at 7:30 p.m.

Motion by Ritter seconded by Ortring to approve the Consent Agenda with the following corrections to the minutes of the August 27, 2002 Council meeting: page 6, 5th paragraph, 3rd sentence change would to could, 5th sentence insert the following italics, "... approve this by motion to allow OpAve to install an antenna and he would....". All Ayes. Motion carried.

Motion by Holmes seconded by Ritter to approve the Regular Agenda with the addition of Meadow Lane Sanitary Sewer under New Business and review of notes from Jim Machnik under Old Business. All Ayes. Motion carried.

Audience Participation:
Amy Bolt addressed Council as she is concerned with the traffic on Madison Street and presented a petition to install a stop sign at the corner of Madison and Jefferson. Village Manager Myers will address this with the Police Chief and bring his recommendation back to Council.

Communications to Council:
President Steele brought to the attention of Council the following correspondence: Trustee Holmes report on the August 29th CAFPA meeting, CAFPA minutes for August 29, 2002 meeting, notice of September 18th special meeting of CAFPA, petition to Michigan Tax Tribunal from Arctic Coliseum, memo regarding budget questions, notice of work session with DDA following September 10th regular Council meeting, information on Meadow Lane sanitary sewer, Recreation Ordinance, CACA August 2002 permit statement, letters between Village Manager Myers and resident on S. Main Street, memo regarding attorney qualifications, August 2002 zoning report, complaint filed in Circuit Court by Nelson Johnson and Tonette Carson.

Report from Council Committees:
Trustee Holmes and Trustee Ritter reported on the CAFPA August 29, 2002 meeting.

Village Manager Myers reported on the watermain project. The contractor is trying to finish N. Main Street from Middle Street to the railroad tracks as well as Lincoln and other streets that are ready for paving. The are chlorinating Madison Street and will fill and chlorinate Dewey. In response to Trustee Ortring's question, he said the brick-pavers should be back in place shortly and the holes on Main Street should be filled by the end of the week.

Staff visited the County regarding the election for the Charter Commission. The County had a few questions that they are looking into. A date for the election should be set shortly.

Village Manager Myers met with MDOT regarding the M-52 project scheduled for next year. It will start in April; storm sewer pipe will be replaced in several places and the road will be milled and repaved.

Reports from Village Officers:
Planning & Zoning Administrator Jim Drolett advised Council that Steven Fisher called him last week. A reviewed and revised PUD Agreement for Heritage Pointe will be sent to Village Attorney Flintoft. The delay was due to summer vacations.

Planning Commission Chair Chris Rode advised Council that the Planning Commission will hold a public meeting on October 1, 2002 in the Washington Street Education Boardroom regarding the Park and Recreation plan they are working on. A second public meeting will be held on November 19th for representatives of different groups that have a stake in parks and rec. The Planning Commission will then work on a draft that will be discussed at the 1st meeting in February. There will be postings put up around the Village to get the word out.

Nancy Schumann, Library Delegate, said that on August 27th the Breton group provided findings on support for a library location downtown and an expanded facility. The main concern was size and scope. The Board will discuss the findings at their next meeting. The petition for transfer of McKune House was approved in court. Friends of the Library held "Music at McKune" last Sunday and plan more events like this.

Fire Chief Dan Ellenwood would like permission from Council to sell the old 1967 ladder truck for $2500. This will be taken up under Unfinished Business. Council also had questions on the number of responders to calls. For fire calls, they take all the fire fighters they can get. With paid on call fire fighters Chief Ellenwood never knows how many will respond. 12-15 people is standard for a house fire.

New Business:
President Steele asked that Elizabeth Riggs of the Huron River Watershed Council be allowed to speak at this time since she also had to attend a Lima Township Board meeting. Ms. Riggs gave Council an update on the Mill Creek Watershed Management Plan.

Unfinished Business:
The discussion of Jim Machnik's notes will take place at the next work session.

Motion by Ritter seconded by Ortring to allow Fire Chief Ellenwood to sell the old ladder truck for $2500.00 on the condition that the money received go into the Village Fund, not CAFPA's. All Ayes. Motion carried.

New Business:
As the memo distributed to Council indicates, the developer of Fieldstone Village found that the sanitary sewer on Meadow Lane was only one foot below grade of the street. It is necessary to lower the elevation of the sewer and route it to the 27" sanitary sewer to the west. Three bids were received, and Village Manager Myers recommends that Council select Bailey Excavating, Inc. to do the work with money coming from the connection fees paid to the sanitary sewer budget. Bailey's Excavating is low bidder and the Village has worked with them in the past. This is an unbudgeted item so a roll call vote is necessary.

Motion by Holmes seconded by Schumann to select Bailey Excavating, Inc. for the Meadow Lane Sanitary Sewer work with funds to come from the sanitary sewer budget in the amount of $67,300.00. Roll Call: Ayes: Ritter, Schumann, Steele, Albertson, Holmes, Ortring. No: None. Absent: Myles. Motion carried.

Motion by Ortring seconded by Holmes to adjourn Regular Session. All Ayes. Meeting adjourned at 8:55 p.m.

Approved: September 24, 2002

Richard Steele, Village President
Jacelyn J. Branson, Village Clerk

Chelsea equestrians qualify for state finals

For Chelsea's equestrian team, the season came down to the final event. The situation was simple: Make a mistake in the two-man relay and hang up the saddle or come through with the ride of one's life and advance to the state finals. "We knew we needed a fifth-place finish to qualify for states," said Chelsea captain Halley Sissom. Welcome to the Division B state finals. The Bulldogs may have needed just a fifth-place finish to qualify for the state meet, but they wanted more. And they got it. Chelsea came up big when it counted, finishing first and second in the two-man relay heading to the state finals on a roll. Julie Ottoman, Kelly Kennedy, Clara Worden and Tori Overpeck were the riders competing in the two-man event for the Bulldogs. Sissom said the squad is now gearing up for the state meet Oct. 24 through 27 at the state fairgrounds in Detroit. "Chelsea has such a good reputation for going to state, I just hope we can maintain it," she said. "Next week, we'll be back to work training for state." Last Sunday at the district final at the Wayne County Fairgrounds in Belleville, every girl contributed to the Bulldogs' win. "It was a team victory," Sissom said. Highlights of the state meet-clinching competition included Sam Ortiz, who led Chelsea with 20 points, including a second-place finish in saddle seat pattern; Sissom, who finished first in equitation over fences; Kennedy, who placed first in barrels and second in flags, and Jessica Jarvis, who finished second in western equitation. Chelsea coach Jill Ross was confident her squad would make the finals. "I knew the team could do it," she said.

Beach 8th grade beats Drager

Chelsea's Beach Middle School eighth-grade girls' basketball team defeated Drager 30-14 on Wednesday. The visiting Bulldogs (4-0) jumped out to an early lead before Adrian regrouped, closing the gap to 12-10 at halftime. In the third quarter, Chelsea turned up the defensive heat, outscoring Drager 9-0 for a 21-10 advantage heading into the final frame. In the last quarter, the Bulldogs sewed up the win by outscoring Drager 10-0.

Bridget Lynn and Paige Denison, with eight points each, paced Chelsea. Maggie Manville added four points, while Katie Lynn, Liz Gunden and Kate Shroobee each chipped in three points for the Dawgs. On Sept. 23, Chelsea defeated Ypsilanti Lincoln 34-21. Once again, the Bulldogs ran out to an early lead. By halftime, Chelsea had increased its advantage to 22-11. In the third quarter, the Bulldogs outscored the Dawgs 10-0, extending their lead to 32-11. Chelsea's next game is at home against Saline on Wednesday.

a suffocating defense to build a commanding 33-13 lead going into the final stanza. Denison led the way offensively for Beach, scoring 10 points. Jillian Drow added nine points, while Bridget Lynn recorded eight points. Maggie Manville chipped in five points, while Katie Lynn netted two points for the Dawgs. Chelsea next travels to Temperance, Bedford for a game 4 p.m. Monday. On Wednesday, Beach hosts Saline Blue and

Beach 7th grade tops Adrian

Chelsea's Beach Middle School seventh-grade girls' blue basketball team defeated Adrian Springbrook 37-2 last Monday. "The girls played the best defensive game of the season," said Beach coach Mike Bareis. "They forced turnovers, created fast break opportunities on steals and controlled the rebounding. The girls had fun cheering on teammates that had not scored before today's game." Leading the way for the Bulldogs were Anna Foley and Annie Hollandsworth, who each scored eight points. Jenna Jarvis added five points, while Ballie Simpson and Rachel Voicchevski each chipped in four points for Beach. Rounding out the scoring for Chelsea were Brogan Darwin, Kara Kremer, Emily Rabbitt and Jessica Simpson, who each netted two points. Beach next hosts Tecumseh 4 p.m. Monday. DEFENSE

The Hawks compete in the Saginaw Valley Conference, one of the state's toughest leagues.

Heritage has been to the Division II playoffs the past three years. Current Purdue All-American safety Stuart Schwiegert is a former Hawk.

"They're a very physical team," Bush said. "They run the ball better than anybody we've seen. Their two losses have come to state-ranked teams. Our defense has to play well."

Bush said Heritage is similar to Novi, Chelsea's season opening opponent.

"Like Novi, they're a running and option team," he said. "They've won three straight games."

DAY-TRIP DESTINATION

Eyes on the sky

UT's Ritter Planetarium
brings heavens toBy Dennis Oblander
Heritage Newspapers

TOLEDO — A trip down I-75 can become a pathway to understanding everything from the origins of the universe to how Santa found his way to the North Pole.

For those with more topical interests, the Ritter Planetarium and Brooks Observatory on the campus of the University of Toledo serve up insights into ancient mythology, the African-American flight to freedom, the search for alien civilizations and more.

The heavens, it seems, hold the key to everything under the sun.

"Science literacy is a very important thing these days," notes Jeffery Potter, education specialist at the planetarium and observatory complex.

With the bulk of his duties dedicated to community outreach, it is Potter's role to spark the interest of young and old — especially the K-12 set — to the wonders of scientific inquiry and discovery.

"Space and dinosaurs. It's real easy to get them started on that," he said.

Those who have already been hooked on the experience — the university's astronomy students — actually make limited use of the observatory and planetarium. Academically, observing is only one aspect of astronomy.

Most of the nearly 30,000 people who visited the complex last year were students on field trips from schools from as far away as South Bend, Ind., or communities north of Detroit. The balance were the diverse mix of people who attend public programs held Friday evenings and Saturday afternoons year-round.

The field trip programs last one to two hours and feature age-appropriate content for various grade levels.

The weekend shows attract everyone from the 65-year-old who wants to brush up on the celestial navigation techniques he learned in the Navy to the youngster seeking answers to unfathomable questions about theoretical astrophysics.

"The Friday programs are more in depth and more for grown ups," Potter said, "and the Saturday afternoon programs are more aimed at kids and their parents."

Over the summer, Friday offerings included "Is There Anybody Out There?" a program about the search for extra-terrestrial intelligence;

IF YOU GO...

Ritter Planetarium and Brooks Observatory, 600 W. Bancroft St., Toledo, Ohio 44106

Programs and observing sessions for the student field trip program, monthly scouting program, parent-child activities and other special events and workshops.

Public programs at 7 p.m. on Fridays and at 1 p.m. on Saturdays.

Admission: Public programs and programming is free for general public, $2 for students and children ages 4-12. Children age 4 admitted free.

Information: Call the planetarium at 419-487-0337 or visit the website at www.ritterplanetarium.org. The planetarium is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturdays and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Fridays.

"Summer Skies Over Toledo," which detailed astronomical happenings throughout the region — including a summer meteor shower; and "Skywatchers of Ancient Mexico," which explored astronomical discoveries of ancient Americans.

Saturday programs focus on identifying the basics of the night sky and equipment for the backyard astronomer, typically centered around a fun theme such as a family camping trip.

At the core of the programs presented inside the Ritter Planetarium theater is a star field projector that "can recreate all the motions of the sky and can show it from any location on Earth for any time of year," Potter said.

Photos can also be projected onto the domed, hemispheric ceiling to complement the program's informative, live narration.

For many, the highlight of a evening visit to the facility is the observing sessions which, weather permitting, follow the planetarium show.

"Most of the people who go to the presentations will go on to the observing," Potter said.

"They certainly look forward to it. We try to break the news gently if the weather is clouding up."

The observing sessions are conducted with the Ritter 1-meter research telescope or a 6-inch refractor telescope at Brooks Observatory, which is located atop nearby McMaster Hall.

Attendance at the planetarium shows averages about 50 people. Depending on the size of the observatory turnout, people queue up and can view from one to three objects, which are pre-focused in the telescope.

"They usually take a quick gander," Potter said. "I encourage them to take their time."

"Saturn is breathtaking in a telescope."

More than one person has remarked "you just put a picture of Saturn inside the telescope, right?"

Some people return time and again in hopes of capturing a clear sky view.

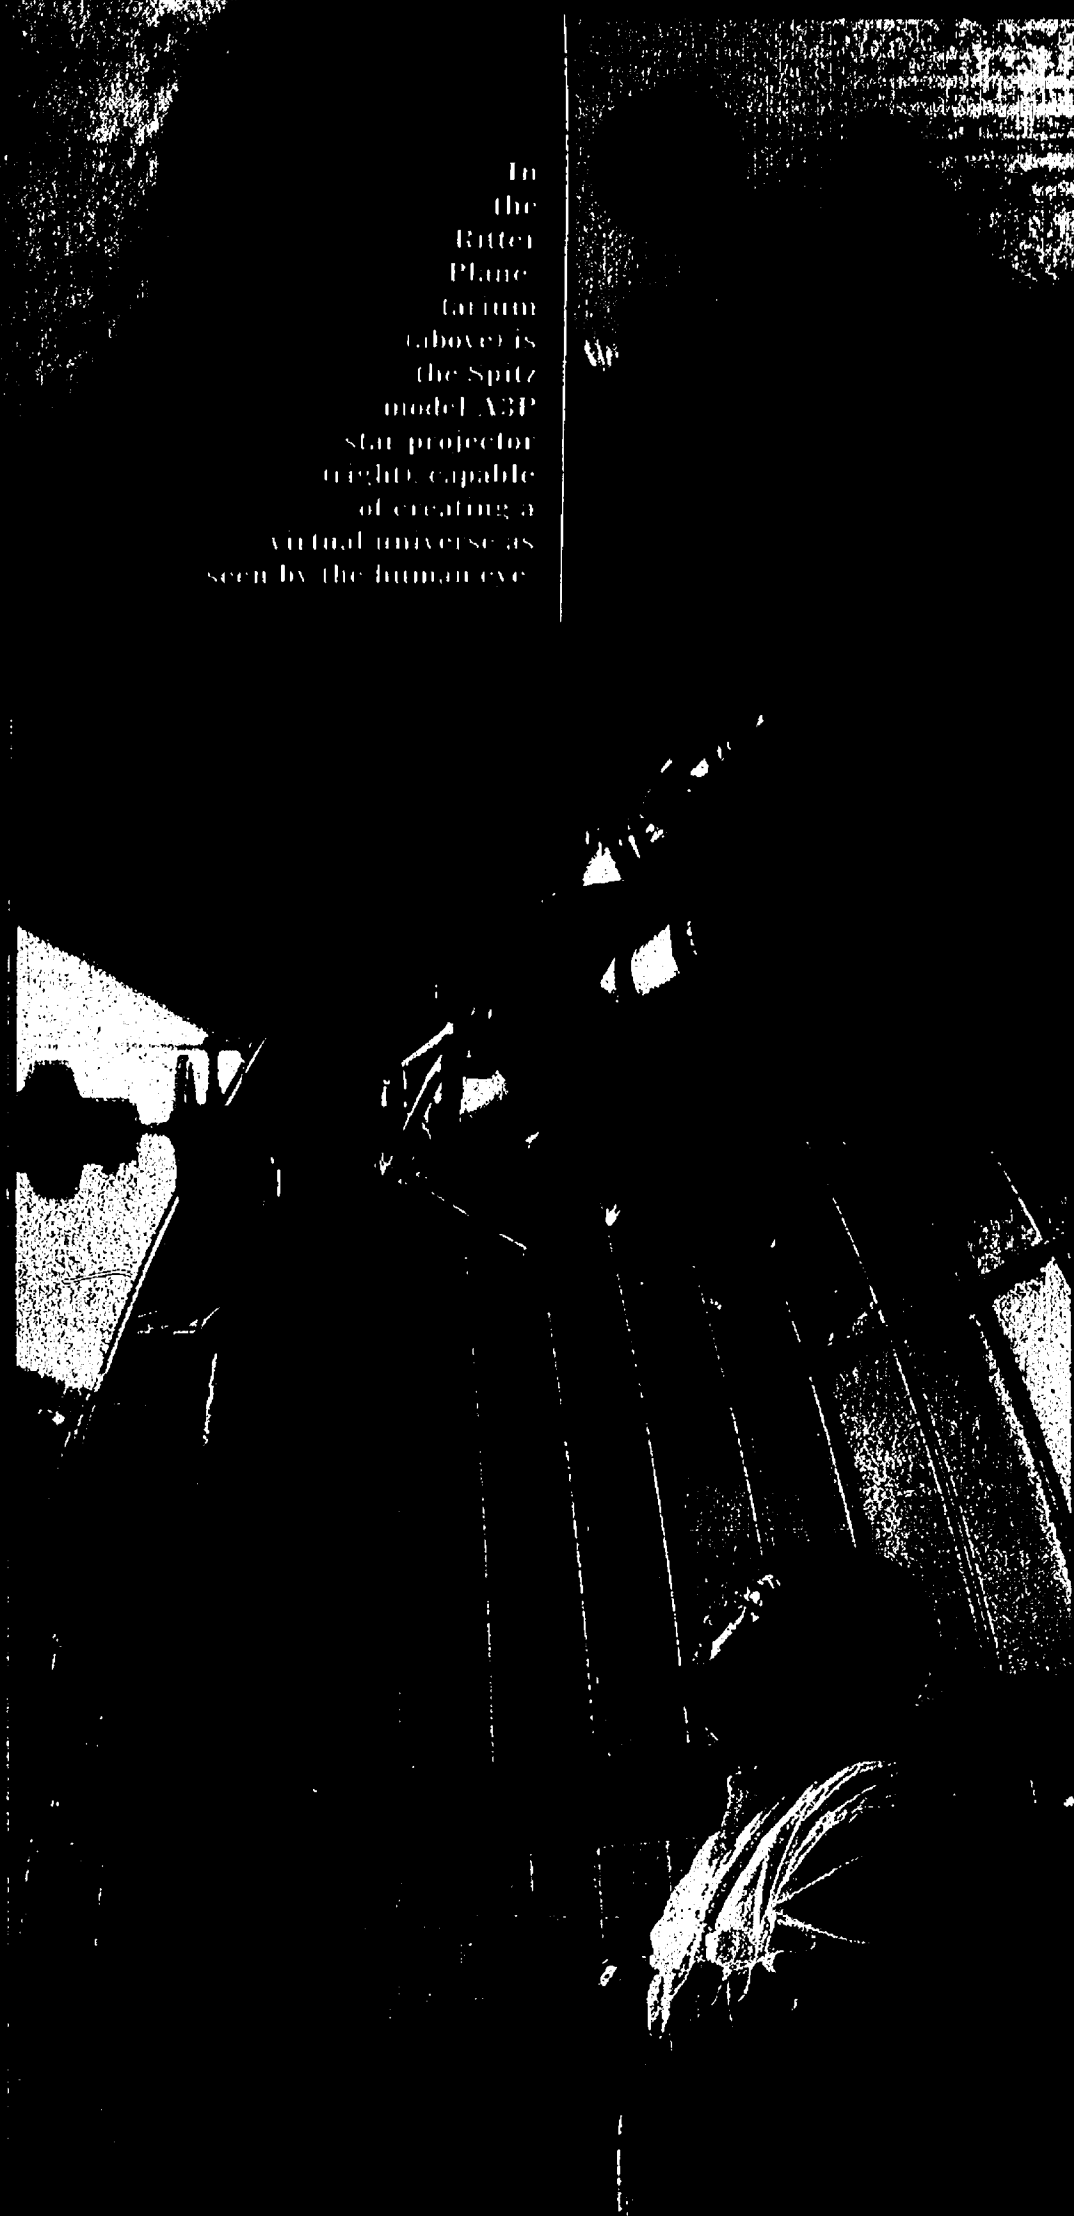

"They run the entire gamut," Potter said of reactions to what people see in they eyepiece.

"You just never know."

"But they're not going to be disappointed."

In the Ritter Planetarium theater is the Spitz model A3P star projector which is capable of creating a virtual universe as seen by the human eye.

Jeffery Potter works the controls of the observatory's refractor telescope in the Brooks Observatory atop McMaster Hall.

DEATHS

HILDA M. DAVIS
Grass Lake
Formerly of Chelsea

Hilda M. Davis, 77, of Grass Lake, formerly of Chelsea, died Sept. 27, 2002, at her son's home in Grass Lake. She was born Oct. 8, 1924, in Dexter, the daughter of George and Adeline May (Fisk) Weber.

Mrs. Davis had resided in Chelsea since 1956 after moving from Ypsilanti. She was a member of Chelsea Assembly of God.

Mrs. Davis retired from the Chrysler plant in Scio Township. She married Prentiss (Yorkie) Davis Aug. 11, 1947, and he preceded her in death April 16, 1991.

Survivors include her daughter, Sharon E. Davis of Jackson; a son, William E. Davis of Grass Lake; and three brothers, Albert, Duane and Ernest.

Mrs. Davis was preceded in death by her stepson, Clyde, and two brothers, Don and Norbert.

A funeral was held Monday at Cole Funeral Chapel. The Revs. Steve Kincer and Harold Elliott officiated. Burial followed at Maple Grove Cemetery in Chelsea.

Memorial contributions may be made to Chelsea Assembly of God or the Highland Home of Jackson.

MARY ELIZABETH (DAVIDSON) HINE
Dexter

Mary Elizabeth (Davidson) Hine, 91, died peacefully Sept. 26, 2002, at her home on Huron River Drive in Ann Arbor, where she had lived for the past 23 years with the family of Terry and Diane Davidson.

Mrs. Hine was born June 20, 1911, to James N. and Mary E. Davidson in Elk Rapids. Following her graduation from Mancelona High School, she earned a bachelor's degree in education from the University of Michigan.

Mrs. Hine spent several decades as a second-grade teacher in the Battle Creek Public Schools from which she was retired. She was a member of the Calhoun County chapter and the Michigan Association of Retired School Personnel.

During her years in Battle Creek, Mrs. Hine was an active and associate member of the Lela Hospital Auxiliary. She was a member of St. Joseph Catholic Church in Dexter for the past two decades.

In 1987, Mrs. Hine married Lewis F. Hine, who died Nov. 18, 1988. Also preceding her in death were her parents, James and Mary Davidson; two brothers, Francis and Gustave; and one sister, Sr. M. Constantia, O.P.

Surviving are her brother, John R.

Davidson of Crystal Falls; one niece, Connie (Peter) Albarello of Crystal Falls; and four nephews, Terry (Diane) Davidson of Scio Township, William (Kay) Davidson of Granger, Ind., William Bartels of Grosse Ile and Gustave Bartels Jr. of Land O'Lakes, Fla.

She is also survived by countless grandnieces, great-grandnieces, grandnephews and great-grandnephews. This kind and gentle lady will be sadly missed by her entire family and by all who knew her.

A funeral Mass was held Saturday at St. Joseph Catholic Church in Dexter. The Rev. Brendan Walsh officiated. Interment followed at Memorial Park Cemetery in Battle Creek.

The family received friends at Hosmer-Muehlberg Funeral Chapel in Dexter and at the church.
